Prentiss County 4-H Junior Council Plans Year's Work At Meeting January 11th

The monthly meeting of the Prentiss County 4-H Junior Council was held January 11th in the basement of the Prentiss County Electric Power Building. The meeting was called to order by Patsy Smith, president. Jimmy Olive gave the devotional, reading from Ecclesiastes 9:10. Sara Farrar read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. The minutes were approved as read. Mary Ann Geno, Edith Wimberley and Steve Greenhaw led the group in the song, "This Old Hammer," and "Mississippi 4-H'ers."

The various clubs were assigned months to be responsible for refreshments and demonstrations. They are as follows: February, demonstrations and refreshments, Thrasher; March, refreshments, Marietta; April, refreshments, New Site; May, demonstration and refreshments, Booneville; July, refreshments, Wheeler; August, refreshments, Hill's Chapel. Because of other activities on some months the demonstrations have been omitted.

The score card for the coming year was presented to the club and accepted.

Ocean Springs, Miss., and Rock Eagle, Ga., were discussed as places to go on the Junior Council trip during the first half of August.

A formal banquet was planned for the first half of April.

It was decided the council would have a car wash as a money-making project.

Slides were shown of previous council trips.

The meeting was adjourned by Peggy Moore leading the pledge. Refreshments were served.

The executive council met preceding the 4-H Council meeting.

O.E.S. To Meet Thursday Night

The Prentiss Chapter No. 12 OES will have a practice meeting Thursday, January 23 at 7:30 p.m. All officers are urged to attend.

Northeast Mississippi Junior College Offers Many Advantages, Keeps Academic Rating High, And Continues To Increase The Physical Plant

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College is not an inanimate institution. It is a group of devoted faculty members working with a representative student body, supported by a Board of Trustees, citizens of the five counties, and a host of devoted friends. The college has continued to grow and to expand its reputation as one of the better junior colleges in the state. The mission of the institution is academic excellence and many improvements have been brought about to increase the efficiency of the instruction program.

The college is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and the Mississippi State Accrediting Committee, and is a member of the State Association of Colleges and the American Association of Junior Colleges. It offers the Associate of Arts Degree and Associate of Science Degree. Credits earned are transferable to other member colleges.

Several distinct advantages are offered by Northeast. One is the low cost of attendance. The Board of Trustees has just recently reduced out-of-state tuition to $125.00 per semester, a reduction of $48.50. The total cost for an out-of-state student who commutes is $155.00 plus books. Other advantages are smaller classes which provide more individual attention; a closely knit student body; a better opportunity for academic growth, spiritual growth, and social growth; and the available transportation for students who live in the area which the college serves.

Courses are offered in the following fields of study: Agriculture, Art, Business Education, Education and Psychology, English, Health and Physical Education, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Liberal Arts, Mathematics, Modern Languages, Music, Natural Science, Nursing, Pre-Engineering, and Social Science. The faculty is fully qualified to instruct in these fields having one instructor with a doctor's degree; thirty with a master's degree and eleven with a bachelor's degree.

The physical plant of the college has continued to grow to meet the increasing needs. The new Eula Dees Memorial Library has made a tremendous contribution to all phases of the college program and has been selected to be featured in a new book on junior college libraries entitled, "Library Centered Junior Colleges." The college owns fifteen major buildings. A very colorful asphalt tennis court was added in 1962 and it is hoped that at least one other court will be added soon. With the available general classrooms, it is estimated that the college can accommodate a total full-time student population in excess of 1,000. A new building to house the Home Economics and Agriculture Department is presently being planned.

For students who wish to attend college at night, Northeast promises evening classes which makes it possible for a student to complete two years of college work. Also, with the Mississippi State University Extension Center on campus, a night student may complete 3 years of college work.

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College is a fully participating institution in the American College Testing Program. Guidance services assist the student to gain self-understanding as a basis for meeting his needs, solving his problems, and aiding his development as a mature responsible member of society. All those in contact with the student are responsible for the guidance services, since one of their primary objectives is the development of a social being who is able to adjust to the various environmental conditions to which he may be subjected.

Eddie Caveness Is New Member Of Hospital Board

The Mayor and Board of Aldermen, in the recessed January meeting, Thursday, January 16th, appointed Eddie Caveness, Jr., to fill the expired term of W. C. Milner as trustee of the Northeast Mississippi Hospital.

Dr. Nelson said he expected the building to be completed by March 1st.

Fire Chief W. K. Wallace reported the Fire Department answered only 15 calls during the month of December. Due to the snow, fires were at a low ebb.

There were three fires — one in a dryer at Goodwin's Cleaners, one in a dryer at Lindsey's Cleaners, and one at Timbes Fish Market — and the rest were grass and auto fires.

W. W. Stacy, Police Chief, said, "All regular appointed members of the Fire Department are given the necessary special police power for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this ordinance."

Any person violating these laws shall upon conviction in police court of this city, or before a justice of the peace, pay a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100 for each offense.

The club also carries flowers to the hospital and sponsors the Christmas Door Decoration Contest. So, help the Town and Country Garden Club and help yourself by buying a new spring hat.

Loans Available For Needy Farm Families

The Farmers Home Administration program is designed to assist farm families who are confronted with problems of low income resulting from limited agricultural land and other resources and cannot get credit from conventional sources.

Mr. Charles E. Young, Prentiss County Supervisor of FHA, stated today that Farmers Home Administration, through its lending program, is anxious to help families with a farming background and experience and live on small farms to develop a better farming program, that is, one that will produce better and greater amounts of agricultural commodities for home use, as well as for sale to increase their total income. The purpose of these loans is to provide credit for the family to make improvements in their living conditions and economic situations.

Farmers interested in this assistance should make application at the Farmers Home Administration office which is located in the North Mississippi Savings & Loan Building, Booneville, Mississippi.

Historic Home Burns Sunday

The home of Mrs. Eunice Price, located on Highway 45 and College Street, burned almost beyond salvage, Sunday night.

The fire, evidently caused by lightning, started between 9 o'clock and 9:30. It occurred during a heavy rainstorm which probably prevented sparks from endangering nearby buildings.

The fire started in the attic and the huge flames could be seen long distances away. Regular and volunteer firemen, assisted by the Baldwin truck, were successful in extinguishing the flames before the house burned to the ground, but damage was most severe.

Mrs. Price was in Jackson, Miss., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Hinton and there was no one in the house at the time.

The following is a history of the house:

The Peeler Home, with its original antique furnishings, consisting of art objects including crystal, china, silver and paintings, in which the appealing sentiment and (Continued on back page)

Mr. Holley farms approximately 450 acres of cropland in cotton, corn, and soybeans. In addition to his farming interests, Mr. Holley is active in civic organizations and other organizations for the betterment of farmers' interest. He is a member of the Marietta Lions Club and RCD, a State Director of the Mississippi Farm Bureau, a Deputy Commissioner of the Prentiss County SCS, and a 32nd Degree Mason.

W. T. Smith, County Agent, was the guest speaker at this meeting. Mr. Smith recognized Mr. Holley as an outstanding and efficient young farmer and as a 4-H Club member in years past. Mr. Smith discussed the efficiency in agriculture and compared agricultural production in this country with that of other nations of the world.

CONFISCATED—Prentiss County Sheriff Gerald Green, Deputy J. B. Whitehead and Chester Cole, first district constable, are shown with 25 pints of whiskey which they confiscated Saturday afternoon. Sheriff Green said it was located in a pine thicket just outside the city limits, and scattered about and hidden one pint at a place. The county officers have also arrested Utha Christian, Negro, on a charge of possession of corn whiskey.

A Public Responsibility

Sometimes a situation which comes about over a period of years does not seem as alarming to us as more sudden developments. But a cause for real concern in Mississippi is the fact that many of our community hospitals are having to absorb such losses that some are actually in danger of bankruptcy.

We tend to take our hospitals so much for granted that we can't conceive of not having them. But if something is not done soon, some of our hospitals may not be able to survive.

The reason is this: The charity patient load Mississippi's community hospitals are carrying is draining away more and more of their funds every year. The state pays the hospitals about one-third of the cost of caring for its charity patients, but the remaining two-thirds amounted to about $1,140,000 last year in Mississippi.

During the fiscal year ending September 30, 1963, the Northeast Mississippi Hospital in Booneville rendered services valuing $33,290.88 for which the hospital received no pay.

This kind of burden on our hospitals is of course intolerable. They make up part of the deficit in various ways—by adding some of it onto the paying patient's bill, by paying hospital employees less, and by doing without needed repairs, equipment and personnel.

Let's look again at our local situation. During fiscal 1963 the number of in-patients cared for here was 3,067. To make up the deficit by adding it to their bills would have meant adding an average of almost $11.00 per patient.

One good solution to the problem would be for the State of Mississippi to reimburse the community hospitals in full for all its charity patients' care. While we are generally against almost any form of welfareism, there are some cases which become a public responsibility. If the burden is shared by everybody, then the hospitals can continue to serve us all better.

100 Years Ago— Confederacy Suffers While North Prospers

By LON K. SAVAGE

A Union general, in a letter written ten years ago this week, commented on the great prosperity being enjoyed by the Northern states. And on the same day, an office worker in Richmond wrote of famine, high prices and shortages in the South.

Such was the effect of the Civil War on the economies of North and South as the great conflict neared the end of its third year. The Confederacy had been reduced to near destitution; the Union was enjoying unparalleled prosperity.

The difference had come about largely because the war was being fought in Southern states and along Southern coasts.

In the South, huge armies had moved and fought across thousands of miles, consuming food and forage, destroying mills and crops and capturing large stores of commodities. Along the Southern coasts, lines of Federal gunboats cruised in blockade, keeping off merchant ships from foreign nations. Although many Southern vessels successfully ran the blockade, commerce for the South was severely restricted at a time when her need was greatest.

In The North

But in the North, there had been no such fighting, no blockade, and no restrictions on commerce. Although Southern ships sank or captured many Federal ships, trade between Europe and the United States showed no decline.

The wartime economy boomed in the North, and unemployment vanished. Factories produced needed machines and tools, and this helped the war effort, but the prosperity did not stop there. Ships from all over the world sailed into Northern ports carrying fine silks, satins, and jewelry. The opera had seldom seen such splendor in attire as during the latter part of the Civil War in the North.

But prices rose, too, and robbed many — especially laborers — of their prosperity. A 10-hour day by an unskilled laborer brought $1.25 in pay, but bread was going at 10 cents a loaf, milk at 10 cents a quart, and meat at 25 to 35 cents a pound.

In The South

But at least Northerners could have bread and meat, while Southerners often could not. In Richmond in early January, the commissary reported the entire stock of breadstuffs in the city was gone.

servation Program for this year.

Three ACP practices which would be particularly appropriate for widespread use on farms with formerly "retired" acreage. One practice provides assistance for the establishment of trees for protection against wind or water erosion.

A second available practice provides assistance for the treatment of mineral deficiencies of farmland so as to permit the use of legumes or perennial grasses for soil improvement and protection.

And the third especially appropriate practice provides assistance for improving the already established stands of grasses and legumes in order to provide adequate soil or watershed protection.

Some of these areas might be converted to new tree plantings or to wildlife conservation areas. If it is necessary to use some of that acreage for cropland production, ACP may help establish a soil-saving strip-cropping or terrace system on it.

In Prentiss County, acreage on which conservation reserve contracts expired at the end of 1963 totaled about 144 acres. In addition, 32.3 acres were covered by 1963 one-year renewal agreements which also expired at the end of the year.

Nationally, the acreage on which conservation reserve contracts expired at the end of 1963 totaled approximately 6.7 million acres, and an additional 700,000 acres were covered under 1963 one-year renewal agreements which expired at the same time.

tising each year. In 1940, the figure was approximately $16 per person. Advertising expenditures then, have increased three times faster than the population growth. Paradoxically, the increase actually represents a saving for the individual consumer and increased profit for merchants who have consistently increased their advertising.

Advertising is an investment in automation. Advertising reduces selling costs, storage costs, and waste. It speeds demand for new and better things, and increases the volume of sales, which leads to lower prices.

Probably, there is no objective method to compute the return which the $60 per person investment in advertising brings to the average American annually. Various writers have estimated the gain per individual from $500 to $3000.

It could be more than even the higher estimates, since advertising is at least a major factor in the differential between the American standard of living and sub-existence economy in countries which have not employed advertising as a tool to stimulate production and distribution of goods.

To a printer, an automatic press may more than pay for itself in a year. To a manufacturer, automatic assembly machines, however expensive the investment, may pay for themselves ten times over.

To the retailer, newspaper advertising is the same kind of investment. To the consumer, advertising is a vehicle which greatly reduces final costs and provides a constantly more enriched life.

There are a lot of good ways to become a failure, but never taking a chance is the most successful.

SIGN-UP NEARS FOR 1964 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

Farmers will have an opportunity to sign up in the 1964 feed grain program early in February. The sign-up will be for seven weeks—from February 10 through March 27. As in previous years, the feed grain program will be voluntary and each individual producer on farms growing one of the three feed grains covered by the program will make his own decision about whether to take part. The program is available for corn, grain sorghum and barley.

To take part in the feed grain program, the farmer will agree to take out of production and devote to an approved conservation use at least 20 per cent of the total feed grain base (for all of the three grains grown on the farm). The farmer may divert the acreage of one or more of the feed grains, but his payment will be figured according to the rate applicable to the crop diverted.

Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for div-sion and price support payments, and for price support loans on their 1964 production of the three grains. The price support payments will be made to participants whether the feed grain produced in 1964 is fed on the farm, sold, or placed under a price support loan.

Two major improvements have been made in the 1964-crop-feed grain program as compared with programs of previous years: (1) As much as 50 per cent of the total feed grain base may be diverted on any farm (this is up from the 1963 maximum of 40 per cent of the feed grain base); and (2) the average payment rate per acre for diverting 40 per cent or more of the base will be substantially higher than last year.

Farmers are encouraged to look into the advantages of taking part in the 1964 feed grain program so that their production plans for this year may be clearcut by the time the program sign-up opens.

Natchez Trace Chapter Of D. A. R. Holds January Meeting At Town Motel

The Natchez Trace Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution held their January meeting Thursday evening in the banquet room of the Town Motel. Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Milton, Mrs. W. W. Cunningham and Miss Helen McMillan.

After a delicious dessert course with coffee, Mrs. Lewis Perry, Chapter Regent, presided over the meeting. The Ritual was given by the members at the close of which Mrs. W. W. Cunningham led the group in prayer. Mrs. J. E. Scott directed the members in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

In a short business session, Mrs. Perry and Mrs. S. S. Sargent were elected delegates with Miss Bess Bartlett and Mrs. W. C. Milner chosen alternates to the National Congress. Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Joseph Curlee, Miss Bartlett and Mrs. Milner were elected delegates to the state convention. Mrs. A. B. Schultz, Mrs. Marvin Smithman and Mrs. John Lork were elected to serve as alternates.

Mrs. R. B. Cunningham, National Defense Chairman, in a very forceful manner, called the group's attention to the impending danger that is facing America. She compared the attitude of the early patriots who felt a consuming loyalty to their country to the indifference of the average citizen feeling of responsibility today. She clearly pointed out the danger of a false sense of well being instead of an awareness to the danger of Communist infiltration. Mrs. Cunningham said that the idea of one worldness was eliminating the pride Americans once felt in their country and its achievements. She said the democratic way of thinking along with the American way of life was being undermined.

She pointed out that the American teacher had the responsibility of perpetrating sound American thinking involving a love for one's country and pride in its achievements in the minds of the American children.

In conclusion, Mrs. Cunningham warned the members that as descendants of the American patriots we should assume an antagonistic attitude toward any force that would destroy those principles and practices our ancestors fought and died for in many cases, to preserve.

Mrs. Clarence Chase in discussing America's musical background paid tribute to local musicians who had gained national recognition for their notable contribution to America's musical heritage. She pointed out that this area of the state had been fortunate in that its settlers were not only folk of courage but people with cultural taste which is clearly reflected in the educational and religious institutions they established along with their homes.

She gave a biographical sketch of the life and musical works of a few outstanding musicians of this section mentioning Mrs. Florence Rugg Ellis, composer of secular music, Mrs. W. L. Stroup and Mr. Henry Dalton, as well as Cecil Bolton, all very outstanding musicians of Corinth.

Mrs. Nona Wayne Ewing, a successful teacher, currently organist and chancel choir director at the First Presbyterian Church in Tupelo, was mentioned. Mrs. Ewing who studied at the American Conservatory in Chicago with Silvio Scionti and with Carlton Haskett, a noted singer, is the composer of twelve selections for piano, violin and voice. "In the Shadow of Thy Wing" and "Prayer Penitent" are published by Lorenz Publishing Company, Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Chase pointed out that in 1937 Mrs. Ewing won first place presenting the winning number, a song, "Singing River" in a music contest sponsored by Mississippi Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Chase spoke with pride of another young musician Julian Patrick, Jr., son of a native Boonevillian Julian Patrick, Sr., brother of Mrs. W. W. Cunningham and Mrs. Frank Milton.

Julian, a native of Meridian, Mississippi, now makes his home in New York where he is becoming a familiar figure on the Broadway musical stage.

A graduate of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Mr. Patrick has appeared in concert, opera and oratorio throughout the Mid-West and South. He was presented in Carnegie Recital Hall in 1962 and for 14 years has been soloist for the Trinity Episcopal Church which is the oldest one in America.

A tenor with wonderful quality he sang the role of Achilles in "The Golden Apple," winning the Drama Critics Award of 1954. He appeared in such shows as "Bells Are Ringing," "Once Upon A Mattress," "June," and most recently the Pulitzer prize winner, "Fiorello."

Mrs. Chase says he is now singing "Lulu" in Connecticut. In February and March he will be on tour again doing the role of "Figaro," in the Barber of Seville. In conclusion the speaker says this section of the state as well as the nation may be expecting new and lovely and talented musical contributions to add to our nation's rich musical heritage.

Mississippi Launches Statewide Planning For Mental Health

Mississippi has launched a comprehensive, statewide planning program to determine community needs in mental health and how to meet them most effectively.

This was announced today by Dr. A. L. Gray, chairman of the executive committee of the recently-created State Mental Health Planning Council.

The 15-member council is an inter-agency group charged with the job of drawing up a statewide blueprint for future, long-range programs in mental health.

The study will be known officially as the Mississippi Mental Health Planning Program.

The council will set up task groups to study community needs and recommend programs in six special areas — mental illness in adults, emotional disturbances in children, alcoholism, mental retardation, crime and delinquency, and multi-problem families.

Dr. Gray said the task groups will work through 1964. The council will then summarize all findings and put together a comprehensive mental health plan for the state, with recommendations for its implementation by key local, state, federal and private agencies.

"This is the first time in state history," said Dr. Gray, "that such a concerted effort has been made to coordinate the planning of all interested agencies to develop a comprehensive program to satisfy all phases of our varied mental health needs. The goal will be to pool our community and state resources with maximum efficiency and a minimum of duplication."

The Booneville Post Office will be represented at one of a series of Regional conferences arranged to give impetus to the national postal ZIP Code program to be held in Tupelo, Miss., on January 23.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Mr. I. C. Will Take Time To Measure Actual Direction Of Johnson Administration

By Thomas G. Abernethy
Member of Congress

Capitol Hill is aglow again. The lights hardly had time to cool after the longest peace-time session ever. Members were back before the ladies of their homes could convert those old turkey carcasses into the usual bountiful and d abominable after-Christmas supply of hash and soup.

While we were away the liberal segment of Washington's columnists worked overtime cussing Congress and demanding that it be changed "to meet the problems of the jet age." It's just too bad the intelligent people of this great country are so lacking in judgment they do not change their entire system of government to meet the views of these admittedly wise liberal columnists. It always amazes that they don't offer to run for public office.

Others who sit in the Senate and House press galleries thought last year's record was pretty good. The budget was cut quite substantially. New bureaus got no tickets of admission. Bills designed to create these bureaus were not bottled up as the liberals complain. The leadership just never, in the face of inevitable defeat, gave them a place on the agenda.

Our new President is currently making a hit around the country with his economy moves. His State of the Union message, like all others, people. Old-timers will also tell you that he is politically astute. A good example of his political savvy was wrapped up in his State of the Union message — a thesis well prepared, effectively delivered and designed to pull the rug from under Goldwater, Rockefeller, Romney, Nixon, Lodge and Scranton, Republicans of all ilk, whether liberal or conservative. He offered something for everyone from the Indians to the Immigrants. He even asked for (but surely knows he will not get and no doubt does not want) the creation of all those new agencies which the previous Administration had plugged for and failed to get, such as the Domestic Peace Corps, Urban Mass Transportation, etc. Many believe these requests were made only out of respect for his predecessor. When he got to civil rights, as the old saying goes, "he laid it on." On this, one got the distinct impression he was sort of overdoing himself.

Right now Johnson is out ahead, popular and acceptable to most of the country. But in the early tenure of every President the barometer always reads "fair weather." Storms will blow in and they will be soon coming. It will be a few months yet before the actual direction and popularity of the Johnson Administration can be accurately measured. There are issues and problems which can, and will, make trouble. So, in the weeks and months ahead in this election year if you see some big six-footer tip-toeing like a cat on a pile of eggs, chances are it will be none other than your President, Lyndon Baines Johnson. He has a lot at stake in 1964.

The Guild Corner

Fourteen Guild members enjoyed the fellowship together and hospitality of Mrs. Harrell Barnett and Mrs. Maxine Yates in the Barnett home Monday night. A program led by Miss Vessie Ferrell and assisted by Mrs. Dora Moore, on the life of Fannie Crosby, blind composer of over eight thousand great hymns, was most interesting and inspirational.

Mrs. Thelma Rogers presided at the business session and dismissed the group with prayer.

SHORT NOTES:

Some Southerners in and out of Congress are showing a strange willingness to swallow civil rights as a means of helping Johnson simply because they say he is a Southerner. Well, what if he is? The jail house locks will be the same. Last week Bobby Kennedy set a precedent in announcing he will serve as Attorney General at least until after election and maybe longer. Heretofore, the President has always made the decisions as to who will serve in his Cabinet and FOR HOW LONG.

MISSISSIPPI SOYBEAN ASS'N.

This association is primarily educational and has these general purposes: To assist with soybean production, marketing, distribution and use. To provide the best available information on increasing yields and lowering production costs. To encourage continued research on soybean weed control, insect and pest control, development of new varieties and development of additional uses of soybeans.

FARM INCOME TAX

February 17 is the deadline for farmers to file income tax returns unless they have already filed an estimate by January 15 indicating an intention to make a final return by April 15. A limited number of copies of the "Farmer's Tax Guide" are available at this office.

Several changes in income tax provisions that apply to farmers include a new optional 20 per cent depreciation allowance in the year of purchase and regular depreciation is allowed. It is based on the cost price of personal property usable for at least six years.

Beginning with 1958 a net operating loss can be carried back three years instead of two years. Land clearing expenses can be counted as ordinary expense. Casualty losses on property not covered by insurance can be treated as an ordinary loss deduction. Self-employed persons may deduct limited amounts paid to a retirement plan for his own benefit in taxable years after Dec. 31, 1962.

In addition a credit against computed tax is allowed in an amount equal to seven per cent of the "qualified investment" in depreciable tangible personal property (except livestock) and other tangible real property (except buildings) used in the farm operation.

These and other changes can save tax money. Consult the tax guide for more information before making out tax forms this year.

In giving the report, he also called attention to two things: (1) All Series E Bonds have been given an extension beyond maturity — Bonds bought May 1, 1941 through May, 1949, can be held 30 years. Bonds bought since June 1, 1949 have been given a 10-year extension. (2) All people who will be entitled to an income tax refund of $18.75 or more can ask the Internal Revenue Department to make the refund in U. S. Savings Bonds.

MRS. ED JOHNSON

Mrs. Bruce Burns came by the office last week and told us an interesting story. When her twins, Elvis Lee and Elvie Marie were small, if one was ill, the other was ill. They had whooping cough at the same time, measles at the same time, etc. Of course that's not unusual, but now the twins are grown and she, Mrs. Elvie Marie Miller, lives at Baldwin and works at Brown Shoe Company.

Elvis Lee Burns, employed at Walden Motor Company, called the factory to leave word with his sister to go by their parents' home in Baldwin and tell them he had mumps.

But Mrs. Burns wasn't at the factory . . . she'd gone home . . . with mumps.

Mackie Don Smith was interviewed on Channel 5, television, on Monday night during the halftime of the game between Memphis State and Loyola of Chicago, along with two other outstanding basketball players.

Mackie Don told the announcer he'd averaged 22 points per game, was 6' 8", and that Booneville had won 23 out of 26 games.

It was a compliment to Booneville to have Mackie Don on the program.

William H. Anderson, Chancery Judge, who with his capable wife, Lois, publishes the Southern Sentinel at Ripley, writes a column in the paper called "News and Comment."

Last week, he wrote: "Down at Meridian a few days ago the Juvenile Court Judge ordered three teen-age boys, who had done a lot of damage to a Meridian Elementary School, to work out the damages which they did by reporting each afternoon after school to the custodian of the Meridian schools, who will credit them with 75c an hour for satisfactory work, ordered them to attend school regularly, and to be at home each night by nine o'clock. Such sentences will cut out a lot of foolishness by youths."

Bob Cook, editor of the Pontotoc Progress, wrote the following item in his column. He worded the article so well that I'm going to copy it exactly . . . except to substitute Banner-Independent where he had "Progress."

We call your attention to the continued need of your help and cooperation in assuring that your Banner-Independent reaches you as quickly and as surely as possible. Particular reference is made to change of address when you move. We ask that you inform us of the change as early as possible—before you move, if possible. If we are not notified in time, your paper is thrown out, with the address label sent back to us (at a cost of 10 cents) notifying us that our subscriber is no longer at that address.

Naturally, we hate to pay out good dimes to get useless labels back, but more than that we regret to have anyone miss the Banner-Independent. Therefore, please let us know of any change in your address. One of the best ways is to clip the address label from your paper and send it back to us with the new address. Too, we ask that you always tell us your old address along with the new address.

It would be a good idea to check your address label now to see if it is correct. If it is not as it should be, let us know about this, indicating the proper way of addressing it . . . we'll be happy to make any necessary changes. Your regular mailman probably knows that you live in a house across the street from the address on your paper, but his substitute may not . . . the result will be that you've missed your paper, and we've paid another dime to get a label. And we still won't know where to send your paper for subsequent issues. And many thanks for your consideration and cooperation.

Rhoda Jean Hughes of Memphis, who has relatives in Booneville, including her grandfather Mr. Oscar Hughes, will appear on the Ted Mack Show, Sunday, January 26th at 4:30 o'clock over Channel 3.

I'm sure she'd appreciate your votes, so make a note to remember. Her grandfather is at Aletha Lodge.

Joining our growing family at Aletha Lodge is Mrs. Birdie B. Kimmons of Kossuth. She's 81 years old, but surely doesn't look it. One of our guests there got special attention this week. Mrs.

MISS KAREN WALLIS

Miss Karen Wallis' Engagement To James Eugene Moffitt Is Announced

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Karen Wallis and James Eugene Moffitt is announced today by her mother, Mrs. Leonard Columbus Wallis of Booneville. Mr. Moffitt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Oliver Moffitt of the Wenasoga Community, Corinth.

Lillie Hale has her own television set, brought by Mrs. Webster Cleveland, and she especially enjoys the sermons on TV.

In the introduction of Bennett Cerf's new book on riddles, which he says are from children from 65 to 100 as well as 5 to 12, he tells of Abraham Lincoln resorting to riddling when a political argument threatened to get out of hand. He suddenly asked, "How many legs will a sheep have if you call the tail a leg?" The surprised gentleman answered, "Five." But President Lincoln contradicted him and said, "Only 4, for calling a tail a leg does not make it one."

Here are some other riddles from his book:
Q. What's the longest word in the dictionary?
A. Smiles. (There's a mile between the first and the last letter.)
Q. What word is always pronounced wrong?
A. Wrong.
Q. Why did the tramp demand ten dollars for one cup of coffee?
A. He was putting all his eggs in one ask-it.
Q. What one letter in the alphabet will spell the word potato?
A. The letter O. Put them down one at a time until you have put eight o's.

Till next week,
Helen

ard Columbus Wallis. Her grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Columbus La Fayette Wallis, Ripley, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Berry Tyson Moore, Booneville.

The bridegroom-elect was graduated from Kossuth High School, Northeast Mississippi Junior College, and received a B.S. degree in civil engineering from Mississippi State University, where he was president of Acacia Social fraternity. Mr. Moffitt is now attending the Memphis State University School of Law. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Eugene Moffitt, Ripley, and his maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. James (Bud) Sutor, Corinth.

The marriage will be solemnized on Saturday, February 8 at 4:00 p.m. in the Jumpertown Methodist Church. A reception will be held in the fellowship hall of the church. No invitations are being mailed, but all friends and relatives are cordially invited.

HOME AGENT NOTES

By CLAIRE T. ROSS

Mothers and Weight-Watchers are in constant battle against the 4th (sometimes fifth and sixth) meal in the American diet — the between-meal snack. I know. I speak as a front-line participant in this running battle.

Both groups might as well concede defeat and realize that snack-time is here to stay! The philosophy I now adopt on this particular score, therefore, is: "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em!" — and ultimately do the best you can.

Accordingly: Snacks are extras that should be related to the overall daily food needs. Choose them wisely!

SNACKTIME DO'S AND DON'T'S
Snacks should be considered part of the whole day's food plan. They should supply some of the needed foods and dovetail with regular meal schedules.

Plan snacks for eating long before mealtime, so they do not dull appetite for regular meals. Remember it is important for children to learn to eat and like the foods served at regular meals — cooked meats and vegetables, salads, etc. Snacks should not be so appealing that they interfere with this.

As a rule, serve simple good-for-you foods for snacks, like milk or milk products, cereal and milk, fresh or dried fruits, crisp vegetable sticks, juices, sandwiches, simple cookies or crackers, ice cream. Highly seasoned foods, rich pastries, and over-sweet concoctions should not be regular fare. They do not help to establish good food habits, especially with children.

Overweight persons should: 1) avoid snacks entirely, or 2) save out a food or dessert from a regular meal to eat as a snack, or 3) have only low-calorie snacks like celery or carrot sticks, unsweetened juices, broth, cottage cheese, unsweetened black coffee, tea, low-calorie gelatin, etc.

At the last meeting of Young Moderns HD Club, Mrs. Dexter Cadle served Cinnamon Sticks (along with other delectables). These would be a "winner" for an occasional, extra-special snack, with a tall glass of milk or a favorite fruit juice.

Mrs. Cadle graciously passes this recipe on:

Cinnamon Sticks
Cream well together:
2 sticks oleo
1 cup sugar
Add:
1 egg yolk
1 t. vanilla and mix well
Add:
2 cups plain flour
2 t. cinnamon, sifted together
(Dough will be very stiff). Press this on cookie sheet to thickness of 1/4 inch. Sprinkle with 1 cup chopped pecans and press into dough. Glaze with slightly beaten egg white. Bake at 300° F. 30 to 40 minutes. Cut while warm into finger-sized strips.

Another snack candidate could very well support our 4-H Beekeepers program. These are fine

Mrs. Les McCullar's Memory Is Honored

Mrs. Martha McCullar was a living symbol of the old South, famed for the nobility and culture of its womanhood and manhood, which is embodied in our records, our customs, our institutions, and in our monuments.

Mrs. McCullar died at the Northeast Mississippi Hospital January 5th after an illness of two months in which was shown the unfailing courage which had distinguished her in life. Her youthful beauty did not fade, nor will from memory the clear vision of her loveliness grow dim.

Her absence overshadowed the season of goodwill, for she had, with a true interpretation of its significance, contributed much to its joys within her family circle and among those who shared the contacts of her life. A reverent silence descended over the people when her passing was announced, for her name will go down in the annals of her city as one of the best-loved women of her generation. She was the descendant of a pioneer family, and in a sense, her life is a part of its history. The elements of her substance, both material and spiritual merit far more than a brief chapter. The breadth of her interest in the history of her county rose primarily from her devotion to tradition and to her vivid appreciation for the human elements that were involved.

Mrs. McCullar was the daughter of the late John T. Price and Mrs. Orion Jane Johnson Price. Mr. Price's parents, Colonel Richard Price and Mrs. Sarah Epps Price, were natives of Knox County, Tennessee and Sussex County, Virginia. They came to our county, then known as Old Tishomingo, in 1838. A gallant officer in the Confederate Army, he is recalled for his stately bearing and the excellency of his mental capacities.

Before the organization of our county, John Carraway, a large slave owner, and his wife, Mrs. Chelle Best Carraway, came to his native Blackland from their native state, Tennessee. Their daughters attended Marshall Institute and sons attended Bellbuckle. They were the grandparents of Mrs. McCullar's mother, who was the daughter of Henry Johnson and Mrs. Sarah Carroway Johnson. John T. Price was a forthright and successful business man. He established Booneville's first furniture store. Mr. Price was honored by his contemporaries for his strict adherence to his life-rule of integrity and for the incentives which prompted his leadership.

Mrs. McCullar had an inspiring family background. The Price, Carroway and Johnson families were able and dedicated leaders. They were among the foundation stones of our present civilization. Their material and altruistic contributions have continued to upbuild in the succeeding years of its development. Many of them have gained signal recognition in the wider fields of their professional and civic endeavor. Several have become distinguished figures in our national life. John T. Price acquired the home which was established by the Johnson family. Through his architectural skill, he gave to it the classic lines of the windows and its eaves—a work of art. An unusual occurrence was that during its more than a century of existence, only three related families have owned and lived in this home—The Johnsons, Price and McCullar families; with equal dignity three lovely ladies have presided over this home where they revealed their cultured tastes and tranquil spirit which came from that "sweet peace, the gift of God's love."

She had the refining influence of a saintly mother whose fidelity to her Christian ideals constituted a daily ritual. All of her life, Mrs. McCullar was true to her finer instincts and she set for herself lofty standards. She lived the meaning of her spiritual name and all that it implies—a lady.

She blended an aristocracy of thought with modesty of manner with an amiable reserve that evidenced an individual of chaste feeling—a humanitarian, she was merciful to every living thing. She did not wound, for there was humanity in every fiber of her being. She sought to encourage through a smile of approval, to comfort with the grasp of her gentle hand, a sweet gesture of sympathy which sprang from the depths of her warm heart. Her first devotion was to her family where the tenor of her ways were most endearing.

After the death of her sister, Mrs. Mary Price Mahaffy, she helped to sustain her children during the trying period of their adjustment following their loss of a tender and adoring mother.

Mrs. McCullar was devout in her belief as a life-long member of the Booneville First Methodist Church. Through the zeal of her more abundant life, her services as a Sunday School teacher and as an active member of the WSCS, were blessed.

After completing high school, she did special summer work at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, which she discontinued to remain near her mother and her invalid sister, Ruth, to whom she gave her attentive and loving care. She taught for several years in the primary department of the D. A. Hill School, gaining the affection and trust of the children; they eagerly absorbed the things on which she placed emphasis, as the eternal value of good conduct which is the science of Christianity.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullar were a devoted couple, and their entire home, which they loved so dearly, glowed with contentment and pleasant association. She brought to bear on their joint efforts, a fresh enthusiasm to their intellectual congeniality and to their spiritual harmony, which formed an idealized companionship which had existed throughout the thirty-nine years of their happy marriage.

She was a patron of the fine arts and as a member of The Woman's Club, her active participation in its department, touched with a rare idealism, firmly established the quality of her talents and her leadership. Her grace of manner, her quiet sense of humor gave distinct charm to the social and cultural groups. Her presence was as welcome and as refreshing as the first day of an early Spring. There was a vibrant ring of sincerity in her greeting and her outlook was a fine way to keep the attractiveness that age did not wither.

She was versed in the knowledge of those things upon which the greatest measure of her happiness depended as well as in the understanding of the vital technique of living with others—the source of the impact of her special qualities, which were felt in her self-forgetfulness.

The honest concern and regard she felt for her neighbors gave to her a mellow and satisfying life. She knew the joys of friendships. Her friendships consisted of many things which were woven into a beautiful Mosaic pattern. To her it was something real and meaningful and she cultivated its precious returns. The fragrance of their daily gifts gave to her loving thoughts of their concern, amid a veritable fairland of flowers—her final environment. The wondrous beauty in nature's coloring found the individuality and the innate expression of an artist in her flower arrangements.

She was the perfect giver. Generosity is not measured merely by values, but in the spirit in which it is given. She gave something of herself.

In the daily cycle of her friendships there will always be reminders of her, in those things which were combined sacredness and an appealing sentiment, as the delicacy of the gardenia which she often wore, the soul stirring sound of the chimes, which has evolved from our village church bells, which in other days called to worship, or in the singing of hymns of praise.

The force of Mrs. McCullar's character, her inner strength, something we feel but cannot define, will continue to guide others through the years of the future.

The Reverend Mr. W. L. Wallace Jr., her pastor, who officiated in the services held Tuesday afternoon, January 17, at the McMillan Funeral Home, gave a beautiful eulogy to her by including a poem which is expressive of her and in its concluding lines, she lives anew in our thoughts:

"For us who knew you, dread of age has passed.

You took life, tip-toe to the very last.

It never lost for you it's lovely look,

You kept your interest in its thrilling book.

To you, death came no conqueror, In the end you merely smiled to greet another friend."

She leaves her husband, Leslie McCullar; a brother, Dr. J. E. Price, and a number of nieces and nephews and countless friends.

—Christine Betterworth Robison

Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

When you stop and think of all the means of communication we have today to learn and have knowledge of our fellow beings, one stands out above all others. This ages-old mode of gaining information is called gossip.

Perhaps, ever since there were as many as three persons on earth, gossip has been practiced. Gossip, of course, can be good or it can be bad. Generally, the word itself has a bad ring. The dictionary defines gossip as "idle talk, not always true, about other people and their affairs."

In the run-of-the-mill day, all of us usually come to several points in our many conversations where it is necessary to advance comments about other persons. It is at these points where gossip originates. And in many cases, a meaningless or unfounded remark about a person can snowball into proportions which may endanger and harm his reputation.

It is quite likely that gossip, which is so common and is such an integral part of our human nature, is taken too lightly, too often.

In many instances, one person will make comments about another person when they really aren't qualified to make such statements. In such instances, gossip may be based on prejudice, jealousy, bias or just idle talk based only on a vague knowledge of the person talked about.

A common characteristic of gossip is that the more a rumor is repeated, the more "spice" it gathers. Gossip is one of the very few things over which we have little or no control. Of course we have laws of libel and slander, but it is only in rare situations where cases are instituted. And when they are, witnesses generally back down because they don't want to get involved.

It was interesting and, frankly, somewhat surprising to see a leading Mississippi weekly editor recently devote an editorial column appealing to his readers to throttle a series of gossip rumors which were endangering the reputation of several upright citizens within his community.

Gossip, of course, "is bigger than all of us" and there's not much we can do about it. The most that each of us can do is to think twice before advancing opinions about our fellow beings and develop a personal moral code which should include among other things, respect and fair comment of other persons.

Heard about Dart's new V8? It's getting around fast!

Hot is the term that describes engines with more than adequate performance. It describes Dart's 225 cu. in. Six exactly. This Six has been more than a match of other compacts' extra cost engines. So why a new V8? We wanted to do something special for the guy who never quite got sports cars out of his system. And here it is! 273 cubic inches of bold V8 vigor.

Cat-quick from a stop. Plenty of reserve for highway passing. This responsive power plant turns regular gas into premium gusto. Prove it? Just nudge the pedal toward the carpet, and you've got the answer—real quick! And isn't it just like Dart to give you more action. Dart already gives you more room, comfort, luxury and luggage space than more-than-a-few other compacts. And with Dart you also get a long, strong 5-year/50,000-mile warranty.* (There goes Dart... giving you more again!)

*THE DEPENDABLES GIVE YOU 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE PROTECTION — Chrysler Corporation warrants, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business, the engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings of its 1964 automobiles, provided the owner has the engine oil changed every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, the oil filter replaced every second oil change and the carburetor air filter cleaned every 6 months and replaced every 2 years, and every 6 months furnishes to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service, and requests the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the car's then current mileage.

He died, Yet within our hearts he lives
He made the voyage unafraid
To join the throng in his new home
That God for him had surely made
His dauntless spirit sleeps at last.
Soft winds still murmur low his name.
Amid a host of fragrant flowers
Music sounds a sweet refrain
He gave us gentle laughter, mirth
And gifts that time cannot destroy
His valiant spirit knew no fear;
His life was filled with song and joy.
He shall be part of these to come.
Springtime, magic, beauty, grace.
His memory will dwell within our hearts.
His image cannot be erased.

personalities of other days are associated, was originally a quaint 5-room cottage. Its lines conformed to the architecture of the early Victorian period. Sometime after the turn of the century, it was remodeled with wide halls and large proportions not including its bath, sleeping room, summer dining area and the sun porch.

The plans were drawn by a Memphis architect who at the same time drew those for the remodeling of the S. M. Barnett residence on State Street. It was owned by Mrs. Eunice Peeler Price, a daughter of the original owner.

During the lifetime of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Graig Peeler, who established this home, it was marked by the generosity of their hospitality which was distinctly Southern. It is remembered that during the summer, dances were held on its broad porch in the era when the waltz and the two-step were in vogue.

At the time of our Centennial Celebration, the treasured yield of the large attic provided mementos which depicted the life of the cultured Peeler, Kendrick, Roland and Walton families as well as the many personalities in their associations, forming a colorful panorama of pioneer people. Open House was held there during the Centennial and was a social highlight of the celebration. Its destruction has brought a note of sadness to our townspeople as well as regret of the loss of material and historical valuables and authentic contents.

The large leather trunks were mostly brought to the Peeler home by the Peeler children's great grandmother, Mrs. Joe M. Rowland and the grandmother, Mrs. Lavinia Peeler. These were placed in the attic, a repository of their ancient relics and also including art work, linen and needlecraft. The belongings remained practically intact for years; they gave forth the typical fashion trends of the past which represent a skill in design (even their pincushions, scissors and patterns were kept) a complete collection of apparel of men and women beginning with footwear and baby caps, and ranging from infant christening dresses, graduation, wedding, infair dresses, hoop-

First Annual Memorial Day -- Death Of The Late B. Tice Moore

The family and friends of the late B. Tice Moore are now engaged in a memorial service on the first annual memorial day after his death, January 25, 1963, past.

He was born in the Second Supervisor's District of Prentiss County, Mississippi, July 15, 1878 and died January 25, 1963. He was educated in the common schools and was married to Miss Ida Knight on the 20th day of August, 1900. Tice and Ida reared a large family in this community and the family and friends are very proud of his long and untiring loyalty to education and other phases of progress in his community and county.

He served as supervisor of the Second District for 20 years. He paid little heed to opposition to progress. He went right along with the activities he deemed best for the building of the community which did not only make friends but made opposition but Tice was not a man to hate his opposition, he was rather liberal in such matters and was in that mood when he skirts, pantaloons, slumber wear, even to the mourning attire and the bonnets of the elderly women which were donned then by women at the age of 40 to 50—now the age life really begins. These were no doubt created in Mrs. Lovinia Kendrick Peeler's millinery shop for the elite. In minutest detail even the accessories were preserved as the fans and kerchiefs, whose artful use accented the demureness of the ladies. Walking canes and the various types of spectacles of the elderly were kept also.

The scholar or historian would have revealed a long time in the contents of yellowed leaves of the old books, manuscripts, scrapbooks, all containing events of importance, certificates of graduation, of achievements and marriages, as well as events in the county, particularly in the records contained in a number of old Bibles.

passed from this life of which we are proud.

We have been proud of Tice's work on the Commission to locate the Hill-Burton Hospital. There was a great fight as to whether it should be located where it now is on a lot costing $13,500.00 or on a $5,000.00 lot on the hillside on Walker Avenue because it was cheaper. When the hospital was erected and the viewpoint made obvious the opposition gave great praise at the decision of the Commission in putting it where it is and Tice was one of the leaders in saving this issue.

Tice was very fond of his family and his family was very fond of Tice. He was strongly in favor of education. While his education was limited he had the facilities to keep up with all the complicated entanglements of the affairs of the county when he was supervisor and was looked upon as a thinking member of which we are proud.

Their father carried with him an atmosphere of progress that lent its aid to many movements forward. In his youth and in the early days he was one of the early road contractors and constructed the first draft of Highway 4, just a mere dirt road but put in shape to drain and substitute for the old defile that had been so impractical.

His public spirit and his leadership had much to do with the early bringing forth of the consolidated school of the county and afterwards the special consolidated schools and his strong support and activities in the bringing forth and projecting the building of a junior college was one of the fruits of his activity and earnest leadership for public progress.

Tice was a Democrat and a strong Methodist—very loyal to his party and his church.

He lingered in his illness for a good many months and appreciated the many visits of his old friends who always brought reminiscences of the earlier days and he was always happy at these visits.

We have this first annual memorial of his passing to put our affection and remembrances together and renew the fine regard and the inestimable love we had for him and are brightening our hopes that we shall see him again.
