Sabin Oral Sundays Provide Polio Immunity For This Area

March 8 Will Be First Of 3 Sundays Here

Sunday, March 8th, will be the first of three Sabin Oral Sundays which is a plan to wipe out polio in the area.

Sabin Oral Vaccine, given on three Sundays about a month apart to everybody from the age of two months to the oldest residents, whether they have had the shots or not, gives permanent protection against the three types of polio.

The program is being sponsored, planned and carried out by the Medical Society, with your help.

Prentiss and surrounding counties will participate. Clinics will be set up at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College and the Wick Anderson Colored School.

Three drops of tasteless, odorless Sabin vaccine are placed on a sugar cube, which is given to each person to eat. There is no pain, no more shots, ever. For those who cannot eat a sugar cube, the drops are placed directly in the mouth or given in water.

The three Sundays are March 8,

April 12 and May 17. For protection against the three types of polio, it is necessary to take the vaccine all three Sundays. The clinics will be open from 12:00, noon, to 5:00 p.m.

The Sabin Oral Vaccine has great advantage over the older type. It is permanent, no booster needed except possibly for babies, and it not only keeps you from getting polio, but also from carrying polio. It takes effect in only a few days. Given to everybody at the same time, it could completely stamp out polio in this area. Newcomers and babies should be given the vaccine as they arrive, to keep our area polio-free.

Contributions are voluntary—25c or more is suggested to help defray the cost of vaccine and supplies. The vaccine will be given free to anyone who can't afford to contribute.

Registration forms are to be filled out before you get the vaccine. They will be given out to school children before each S. O. S. Sunday and will be printed in your newspapers. To save time, you should fill out the form before you come to the clinic if you can. All members of the same household can be listed on the same form. Registration forms will be available at each clinic for those who have not completed them before arriving.

Sheriff Green Ends Rug Racket In Area; Makes Arrests In Cheese Theft

Sheriff Gerald Green said Wednesday that he had arrested James Gorman for peddling rugs without a license and fined him $316 and kept the rugs.

This arrest gave him a lead on a racket... Fifty dollars had been taken from Robert Smith of New Hope and linoleum rugs left without his consent at his house. Sheriff Green carried Mr. Smith to Savannah, Tenn., where Mr. Smith identified Jim Sherlock and wife as the ones who took his money. They were at a motel and had 7 truck loads of rugs. Sheriff Green was accompanied by the Deputy Sheriff of Savannah. The Sherlock "shelled out the money."

Sheriff Green then called Sheriff Bishop of Tishomingo to tell him of the gang and to see if the group had anything to do with the robbery of an elderly woman in that

Government Never Regulates Itself

Investigate activities of government have become almost as much a part of our daily lives as the great American pastime of baseball. Many investigations and studies by administrative agencies have a legitimate purpose. Some are mere sideshows carried on at the taxpayers expense for publicity purposes and vote getting. Others are of a more sinister nature and destroy confidence in essential enterprises and industries. The shadow of a big brother concept of government lurks in the background, the comical and the sinister side.

Both industry and properly designated regulatory authorities are constantly working to raise the performance of our free economic system to the highest possible standard of excellence with freedom and opportunity for the individual. A good example has been a recent study of the securities industry and the stock exchanges. No industry is as rigidly self-regulated as the securities business. The New York Stock Exchange in particular imposes the most stringent requirements on companies listing securities on the "Big Board." The common sense investor in private industry today lives under an umbrella of rules and regulations that protect him as far as possible from chicanery.

It is time that the public demanded the same standards of performance from government itself that are now demanded of private industry. If there were, for example, an independent regulatory authority scrutinizing the fiscal affairs of government, some of the reports would make lamentable reading. What protection is there in peace time against the steady erosion of the value of our money? What about safeguarding the millions of people who live on fixed incomes, and those who have put their faith in social security and government bonds, from the easy promises of candidates and office holders?

Only an informed and aroused citizenry can demand such protection through the polls. Government never regulates itself.

100 Years Ago— Kilpatrick's Raid Fails In Richmond Suburbs

By LON K. SAVAGE

Brigadier General Judson Kilpatrick was not yet 30 years old, but he already had made a reputation as a great cavalry officer of the Union army. One hundred years ago this week, Kilpatrick set out on one of his most famous — and most unsuccessful — exploits.

Kilpatrick led a cavalry raid on Richmond, the capital of the Confederacy, while the city was guarded by the whole of General Robert E. Lee's veteran army. He made it all the way to the city's outskirts, and there the raid collapsed, a spectacular flop.

The idea of Kilpatrick's raid originated in Washington, and it went like this: Kilpatrick was to set out from the Union lines along the Rapidan River in east-central Virginia, cross the river and head straight south for Richmond, skirting the east side of Lee's army. Simultaneously, General George A. Custer (the man who would become famous for his "last stand" in the West after the war) was to move southwest, on the other side of Lee's army, to divert Lee.

Once in Richmond, Kilpatrick was to wreak havoc on supplies and communications and attempt to free Union prisoners on Belle Island in the James River.

Good Start
All started well. On the night of February 27th, Custer, with 2,000 cavalrymen, moved out of the Federal encampment. Next night, Kilpatrick crossed the river with another 4,000 men and started south at full speed.

Near Fredericksburg, Kilpatrick divided his force. Col. Ulric Dahlgren, with 500 men, turned westward, to loop around Richmond and come at the city from the south, closer to Belle Island. Kilpatrick moved straight south, burning railroad bridges, ripping up tracks and cutting telegraph wires.

On the morning of March 1, Kilpatrick's men rode into the Richmond suburbs, five miles from the central city, and ran headlong into a line of Confederate troops, hastily assembled to resist his advance. Skirmishing broke out, and Kilpatrick's men stopped.

Dahlgren's Problems
Dahlgren, meanwhile, was having trouble, too. He had looped around west of Richmond as planned, but his hope to cross the James River was frustrated when he could find no ford. Therefore, he turned left and moved in on the city from the west, along the river bank, burning grist mills, barns and boats as he moved. He arrived in the western outskirts of the city on the afternoon of March 1 where he, too, ran into a line of resistance.

Both Kilpatrick and Dahlgren fought until nightfall and then gave up. Kilpatrick headed east toward the coast and federally-held Fort Monroe; Dahlgren started north-westward, but his men became separated. Three hundred of his men caught up with Kilpatrick and made their escape. Dahlgren and the other 200 made their way 25 miles to Aylett, where Confederates attacked them and Dahlgren was killed. The rest fled.

Confederates later reported finding on Dahlgren's body a paper stating that his men were to burn

Richmond and kill President Davis and his cabinet. The paper, published in Richmond's newspapers, caused a sensation and brought prompt disclaimers from Federal officials in Washington. The whole truth of the paper has never been established.

Fiscal Responsibility Thrown To Trash Can By Big-Time Politics

By Thomas G. Abernethy
Member of Congress

Taxpayers now have their tax reduction; the children have their debt, more debt that is. This is the shameful result of big-time politics, which could emanate from no place other than Washington, D. C.

There just isn't any doubt that tax reduction, without reduced spending, was spawned by the "Ins" with the idea of keeping the "Ins" in and the "Outs" out. Fiscal responsibility, of which we hear so much but see so little, was thrown to the trash can.

Washington bears the dubious distinction of being a City whose streets are filled with dangerous criminals. But there is one who is perfectly safe here, old Santa Claus. This, indeed, is his town! In his Washington give-away headquarters he will soon open another department from which he will dispense tax reductions for us adults. For the kiddies, who are supposed to be the object of his affection, he will give each a larger share of a larger national debt. You know, the kiddies can't vote. The adults can.

This kind of politics isn't new to Washington. We had another example of it early in the Eisenhower Administration. Just when our federal government was moving into

Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

Publicity is the biggest single phase of public relations no matter how you look at it. As a matter of fact, public relations as we know it today had its beginnings as publicity. And publicity remains as the number one tool of any public relations effort.

Mr. Woodruff

If you broke down all of the news content of newspapers, you would find that about half of the news in the paper is concerned with things that just happen — the unforeseen and unpredictable. You would find that about one-fourth is incidental news — you know something will happen but not the exact result — such as opposing football teams. One will win the game, but you won't know which until the game has been played.

The remaining one-fourth of the news found in newspapers is planned news — or publicity. This is news that people create, because they have a cause to promote. It matters not if it is a local furniture store, a woman's club, a garden club, or a manufacturing firm that desires publicity. The principle is the same — get your message into print in the best and most attractive way.

Newspapers depend considerably upon publicity materials. If publicity releases are good, newspapers will recognize it and will use it. And the surest way for any store, company or organization to realize the best results from publicity is to make sure that publicity releases have some real news value and that it is not just an attempt to get names into the paper and take up newspaper space. Editors just won't buy this.

Many clubs and organizations, especially the smaller ones, generally have had results with their publicity efforts. And in most cases it is the approach. With a little thought and planning, any group can have good, live publicity. The main thing is to make an effort. The worst thing is for a publicity chairman to throw up his hands and say, "But I don't know how to write."

A good start for clubs and organizations to get publicity is for the publicity chairman to sit down and pretend that his or her best friend was unable to attend a meeting or whatever event or cause, and to write the friend complete details of the event. With this approach, the writer likely will cover all of the highlights and details of the meeting.

The old standard of the newspaper business still holds true — tell who, when, what, why and how in the first paragraph. Follow this with the most important facts down to the least important facts. And with practice, an acceptable style can be developed by almost anyone which can mean the difference in a publicity release being welcomed by a newspaper and one that is designed for the wastebasket even before it reaches the editor's desk.

Your friend,
JOHN M. MORROW

If those who pressed for tax reduction had not been so greedy we could have had both a tax reduction AND a balanced budget. President Johnson's budget anticipated a tax reduction of more than $11-billion and a federal deficit of $4.9-billion. If the tax reduction had been held to around $6-billion, then his budget would have been in balance. Why, oh why, must we have a deficit?

A concluding size-up of the situation is both simple and shameful. We adults will now be the recipients of fatter take-home checks. But we create more federal debt and bequeath it to our children. We should hang our heads in utter shame.

MORE ON CIVIL RIGHTS:

The Civil Rights Bill is allegedly designed to eliminate discrimination because of "race or religion." During debate sponsors frankly spoke of discriminating against the negro race. But they tiptoed around and make a secret of just who was being discriminated against because of religion, as well as the identity of those doing the discriminating. Called on to name names, they either sat silently or sulked in their seats. The beneficiaries of this political sop, whoever they are, were never identified for the record.

Local Business

By S. S. TALBOT

Chairman, Dept. of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Broadcast networks and national publications of various kinds have, for years, been flashing figures to prove the power of their advertising.

The local newspaper has no elaborate research to prove its effectiveness, yet it does not need to enter an argument on its comparative value as an advertising outlet.

The cash register remains the best gauge of the value of retail advertising.

When the major department stores such as Sears, Macy's, Fields and Gimbel's find a better advertising medium than newspapers there may be some reason for surveys.

When the leading retailer in the typical small city does not concentrate his advertising in local newspapers, then other retailers may wonder about the value of newspaper advertising.

When the modern super-drug store finds a substitute for the local newspaper, then newspaper advertisers should begin to worry.

When the boy with a bicycle for sale can find a better medium than the classified advertising section of his newspaper, then thousands of small advertisers may begin to wonder about newspapers.

Those taking part in the discussion were Mrs. Winsett, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Theota Barnett, and Miss Hortense Morgan.

After the program the hostess, Mrs. Cole, served pecan pie with coffee and cokes.

'Community Planning' Is Subject Of Program At Woman's Club Meeting In Mahaffy Home

The February meeting of the Booneville Woman's Club was held in the lovely home of Mrs. John Mahaffy with Mrs. John H. Price, Mrs. Taylor Smith and Mrs. Vance Dixon as co-hostesses.

The meeting opened with the club collect. Mrs. Marvin Smitherman, director, gave this quote by Souvestre, "We must sow the seed and tend the ground if we would enjoy the flower," to introduce the program on "Community Planning" by Mrs. Ed Johnson.

Her talk told of the work of the City Planning Commission, headed by Mrs. W. H. Anderson, chairman, and members, Kenneth Pounds, D. L. Prichard, Joe Walden and Mrs. Johnson, with J. L. West, supervisor, and Nolan Wheeler, city building inspector. The Commissioner was appointed by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen. Three books were prepared as guides—"A Comprehensive City Plan," "Zoning Ordinances," and "Subdivision Regulations."

So far, the commission has been successful in renaming the streets and having certain codes—plumbing, electrical, building—adopted. Mr. Prichard is in the process of numbering the houses.

For quite some time, the commission has asked for zoning ordinances, but these have not been adopted.

From the "Comprehensive City Plan" the speaker told that Booneville's Planning Area included the population with the city plus those within one mile radius of the city limits, a total of 4,500 in 1960. It is estimated that by 1985 there will be 9,570 people, more than double.

Statistics revealed that in the last 10 years the agriculture workers have decreased from 3,328 to 2,271 while manufacturing workers have increased from 825 to 1,640.

According to the survey, Booneville needs immediately to consider the establishment of an industrial park. It was pointed out that we in fact have three industrial areas now and that money could have been saved in sewer lines, electrical lines, water lines and roads if the city had had an industrial park years ago.

The survey showed the areas surrounding the Central Business District is beginning to suffer from the very common form of blight which plagues such areas of transition within cities; single-family homes are being converted into apartments, offices and various other commercial uses. Such mixed development can lead to a severe depreciation of property values and eventually will foster most unfavorable social conditions, if left unattended. Fortunately, the problem is not yet critical and proper enforcement of the Zoning Ordinance and Building Code could keep the difficulties of this transition at a minimum, the survey revealed.

The City Plan has five stages of five years each. For the five years—1962-1968, the survey recommended work on major thoroughfares with another route to Highway 30 East, possibly another overhead bridge, and widening of Washington Street, Church Street, King Street, Smith Street and Court Street. This five-year period should see the construction of a parking lot to accommodate 75 automobiles adjacent to the intersection of College and Front Street. The survey revealed there would be a need for more classrooms at the Wick Anderson Attendance Center, as well as land for a park there and in the southeast section of the city.

Some of the main needs of the city for the next 20 years were presented by the speaker.

Mrs. Johnson ended the talk by asking the Woman's Club to urge the City Fathers to adopt zoning ordinances. The ordinances would preserve and promote the public health, safety and general welfare of the inhabitants and encourage and facilitate the orderly growth and expansion of Booneville. An ordinance would lessen congestion in the streets, provide adequate light and air, prevent overcrowding of land and avoid undue concentration of population.

Mrs. Sam Galloway, president, presided over the business session. Mrs. Emmons Turner Jr. discussed the qualifications for members. A nominating committee was elected—Mrs. Hill Hodges, Mrs. Emmons Turner, Jr., and Mrs. John Mahaffy.

Delegates to the District Convention to be held March 5th at Holly Springs were also elected and are: Mrs. J. S. Bishop and Miss Irene Bane with alternates, Mrs. B. G. Horton and Mrs. Kimble Bolen.

Mrs. Galloway announced that the club scrapbook had been prepared and complimented those who worked on it. Mrs. Billy Barnett announced there was a cotton utility day at the library.

Mrs. J. S. Bishop announced all club reports had been sent to headquarters.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Royce Culpepper entertained the guests with a solo, "You Asked Me Why."

A delicious dessert course was served.

As Long As You Pay Them, Deduct Them

When you start adding up the deductions on Page 2 of your 1040 federal income tax form, don't forget state gasoline taxes. Do a little adding up and you'll be surprised at how much you paid during the past year.

State gasoline taxes range from 5 cents a gallon in Texas, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois and Hawaii up to 8 cents in Alaska. These, of course, are added on to the 4-cents-a-gallon federal tax which is not deductible.

A motorist who drives 10,000 miles in a year and who gets 15 miles to the gallon on his car, pays between $80 to $90 in gasoline taxes. More than half of this is paid in state taxes which are deductible. As long as you pay them, you might as well deduct them.

Other state taxes, cents per gallon are: Alabama, 7; Arkansas, 6½; Florida, 7; Georgia, 6½; Kentucky, 7; Louisiana, 7; Mississippi, 6; N. Carolina, 7; S. Carolina, 7; Tennessee, 7.

Red Hester

Red is gone, we will miss him so, It was so hard to see him go.

He left us a life so kind and true, That in his presence you could never be blue.

The cheerful moments with others he would share, Made the burdens of life so much easier to bear.

On some still day happy laughter you hear, It will make you think that Red is near.

We remember so often Red would smile and say, I bet those fish would bite to-day.

In that far-away land on the other shore, Where troubles end and suffering is no more,

And there are deep streams and shady woods, We hope Red finds that the fishing is good.

Stennis Ready For Busy Week On Civil Rights, Taxes, Cotton

WASHINGTON—This week will be an extremely busy one for legislation in the United States Senate, Senator John Stennis said in his weekly report to the Mississippi press.

"We expect to take up the cotton bill early in the week, unless the bill becomes ensnarled in the civil rights parliamentary tangle. I do not believe there will be any provision in the cotton bill for payment to farmers for cotton acreage which is not planted.

"Secondly, we will dispose of the House-Senate Conference Report on the tax reduction bill. A tax reduction bill passed by the House and a different one by the Senate, but action this week on taxes in both Houses will be to agree on a single bill that salvages the best parts of both bills.

"The third item facing the Senate this week will be a military authorization bill calling for $16.9 billion which has already passed the House. The United States is the most powerful nation in the world today, and our continued military superiority is our best assurance of peace and freedom.

"Finally, debate on the vicious and unconstitutional civil rights bill will start this week.

"Our Southern group is meeting regularly, mapping our strategy against this bill. We will use every parliamentary weapon and maneuver available to fight the bill and alert the entire nation to the real danger it represents. It is a selfish grab for raw political power of the rank kind, and will destroy far more constitutional rights than it can possibly protect."

Heart and blood vessel diseases cause one out of every two deaths in the 45 to 64 year age group. Heart Fund financed research seeks to conquer this killer.

Research Provides Recommendations On Weed Control

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Chemicals do much of the weeding on Mississippi farms today and the task of keeping informed on new herbicides and what they can do is a gigantic one. New recommendations are needed for guidance each year.

The Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station has just published 1964 weed control recommendations for cotton and soybeans. Based on cooperative research between the Experiment Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the recommendations also take into account the experience of the Extension Service in the field.

"Control of weeds in cotton is becoming more efficient, and also more complex, each year. It requires thorough advance planning and supervision," authors of the recommendations say. "While recommendations are supported by research data, this does not mean that a chemical practice will be satisfactory under all weather conditions or other adverse circumstances but these limitations are generally known and published."

In soybeans the weed problem may develop in early season, late season or progressively throughout the season. Goosegrass, crabgrass, Brachiaria, pigweed, and other small-seeded weeds usually constitute the early-season problem. Cocklebur and morningglory often develop in late season and greatly lower combine efficiency. Johnsongrass competes with soybeans throughout the growing season. Since soybeans are planted in late spring or early summer, preplanting control measures may be used for Johnsongrass control that would not be suitable for use in certain other crops.

Current recommendations are published in Mississippi Farm Research, available from the Experiment Station, State College, Mississippi.

Each of us has a highly personal stake in the conquest of heart diseases, the No. 1 killer. Help your Heart Fund and help your heart.

One Arrested, 3 Vehicles Damaged In High Speed Chase Sunday

A high speed chase which began in Booneville about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon continued through winding dirt and gravel roads to finally end near Kirkville, and resulted in damage to two law officials' cars and a pickup truck and the arrest of Roy B. Maxey, about 22, of Itawamba County.

Booneville Police Officer Eldon Barron first noticed Maxey on Front Street near the American Legion building traveling at high speed. Maxey turned east on Highway 30 and the police car collided with a pickup truck driven by William Rice at the intersection near Liberty Cash Grocery. There were no injuries, but the police car was unable to continue the chase.

Sheriff Gerald Green was called and radioed Highway Patrolmen Hubert McDaniel of Booneville, John McCauley of Baldwin, John Price of Tupelo, and Harkness of Fulton, who were all closing in from different directions.

Mr. Green located Maxey near Hopewell Church and continued pursuit until he ran his car into a ditch to avoid a collision with a truck. He said he lost about four minutes getting out of the ditch and pulling a bent fender away from the wheel, and found the car which Maxey had been driving further on where it had been stuck and abandoned near a vacant farmhouse. The sheriff had the car towed in to the court house Sunday afternoon, and Maxey was arrested Monday.

He was charged by both the city and county on five counts—speeding, reckless driving, no tag, running stop signs, and resisting arrest. He will be tried in city court Monday.

Damage to the city police car amounted to $135.00, with about the same to the pickup and damage to the sheriff's car was estimated at slightly over $200.00.

Pilot Club Discusses "Socialized Medicine" And Hears Tape

Mrs. Ruth Galloway was in charge of the program at the Pilot Club meeting Thursday night, February 20. She introduced the topic, "Socialized Medicine" and remarked that although she was a doctor's wife, she was against socialized medicine because its disadvantages far outweigh its merits.

After pointing out that socialized medicine is opposed to our American way of life, the club listened to an address on tape given by Mr. Ronald Reagan. Mr. Reagan stated that not only does the patient lose his freedom of choice, but that the physician also loses his choice. "Isn't this situation the next step to socialism?" Mr. Reagan asked. He urged that everyone oppose this apparent encroachment in the liberties of Americans. "If we don't," Mr. Reagan continued, "we're going to wake up one day to find our government is Socialist."

President Mabel Nelson added that the program of medical care now used is the worst thing that has happened to elderly people and explained how that was true. She remarked that she thought elderly people had been used for political football too long.

Jumpertown Beta News

Friday morning, February 7, dawned bright and early for the Jumpertown Betas. At 7 o'clock we began our trip to Jackson, Miss. for the 1964 Beta Convention.

We arrived at the Heidelberg Hotel about 2 o'clock. We were greeted by the Booneville Beta Club. Once inside the hotel we were greeted by shouts of campaign slogans, voices lifted in campaign song, cap pistols, and the traditional handshakes of candidates.

That night we attended the First General Session and the Talent Show. Everyone really enjoyed the entire program. We heard each candidate speak.

After several hours of running up and down the halls and slamming doors, the second floor of the hotel was quiet.

Morning dawned early once more. After breakfast we attended the second session. We once again had the opportunity to meet the candidates. The clubs all over the state told of their various projects during the year.

That evening some of the members of our club attended the Beta Banquet. Other members ate out and went to a movie. At the banquet the new state officers were installed. The president of the University of Southern Miss. gave a very inspiring speech.

After the banquet all of the members attended the Beta Ball. This was a wonderful climax to a wonderful weekend.

Sunday morning we began our trip home and arrived about 3:30. We would like to express our congratulations to Liz Box of the BHS Beta Club upon her election to the office of Beta Secretary.

We would like also to express our thanks to Mr. Smith, our principal, Mr. English, our bus driver, the student body for their cooperation, and Mrs. Green, our sponsor for everything they have done.

Time To Fertilize Your Lawn

Use a complete fertilizer 12-12-12 Golden River or a similar analysis of N-P-K for your spring application. An application of 25 pounds of a mixed fertilizer per 1000 sq. ft. of lawn will supply enough P2O5 and K2O for Bermuda Grass, St. Augustine, and Zoysia grass. Later on in spring use a nitrogen to keep the grass green and growing.

Surplus Seedlings Are Available

Orders for these trees should be submitted direct to The Nurseryman, Ashe Nursery, Brooklyn, Mississippi. The price of these pine seedlings will be $4.50 per thousand, FOB Ashe Nursery.

Orders for less than a thousand trees will not be accepted. Orders must be accompanied by a certified check or money order for the total amount of the order, drawn payable to the "Forest Service, USDA."

Seedlings may be picked up at the Nursery by the purchaser or they can be shipped collect by common carrier. Forest Supervisor Franson stated that those submitting orders should specify as to how shipment is to be made.

No orders will be accepted after March 1, 1964, for longleaf seedlings or after March 15 for loblolly seedlings.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

COUNTY-WIDE FARM MEETING

All farmers are invited and urged to attend the county-wide farmer's meeting Wednesday, March 4 at the Prentiss County Electric Power Association building beginning at 9:30 a.m.

All phases of crop production, pasture production, chemical weed control, and insect control will be discussed by Extension specialists from Mississippi State University.

Mr. Smith

At 9:30, W. R. Thompson, leader, Extension agronomy, will discuss pastures; corn and grain sorghum production will be discussed by Kelton Anderson, associate Extension agronomist; J. W. McKie, assistant Extension agronomist will discuss soybean production; Charles Moore, assistant Extension agronomist, will discuss cotton production, and weed control; John McVey and staff, agricultural Extension engineers, will discuss weed control equipment, pre-emergence, post-emergence, flame cultivation—and insect control equipment. L. C. Murphree, entomologist, Coahoma Chemical Co., will also discuss insect control—at 2:30 insect equipment display—and pre-emergence equipment.

DAIRY NOTES

The outlook for profitable dairying is good for the farmer who will carry out the basic fundamentals of a successful dairy farming.

These fundamentals are: good breeding—meaning the use of the best sires available. Usually this calls for artificial breeding; adequate feeding, based on high quality home-grown roughage. Production testing or record keeping and good management.

For good feeding, balance your number of cows with the available feed supplies. Remember, you cannot long starve a profit out of dairy cows.

Several systems of production testing or record keeping are available to Mississippi farmers. We will be glad to assist you in selecting the type of records suited to your operation.

FERTILIZER PLACEMENT

Unless your soil already has a good supply of potash and phosphate, or you are willing to increase the rate of phosphate use by at least 50 per cent, broadcast application of mixed fertilizer for row crops is not recommended.

Band application is most generally recommended for row crops. In this way the fertilizer is concentrated where it will do the most good and less comes in contact with the soil, so less is fixed in an unavailable form.

With the use of high analysis fertilizers, it is even more important that the fertilizer be placed properly. Recommendations call for banding the fertilizer three to four inches below the seed and three to four inches to the side of the drill. This helps prevent seedling damage from contact with fertilizer.

S/SGT. KENNETH G. RICHARDSON, Supply Specialist, who operates an IBM Accounting machine and prepares requests for issue and turning in of various types of equipment used in the Air Force, will leave March 15 for overseas duty in Germany. He is the son of Mrs. Ollie Richardson of Route 4, Booneville. S/SGT. Richardson has been stationed at Plattsburg A.F.B., N. Y., since taking his basic training in Texas.

FISH POND FERTILIZATION

Fertilizing your farm pond will pay off in more pounds of fish. Begin fertilizing in late February and continue through mid-March with three applications of fertilizer two weeks apart.

For each acre of pond water, use 50 pounds of 16-16-4 or 100 pounds of 8-8-2. You can fertilize small ponds by throwing fertilizer from the bank. For larger ponds, use a boat. When using boat, apply the fertilizer in water six feet deep or less.

Do not fertilize a pond that stays muddy all the time; one that is infested with undesirable fish; one that is infested with weeds; one that you do not plan to fish heavily; or when most of the bream caught are small. This is a sign that the fish population is out of balance and fertilizing will do no good. In this case, the pond should be poisoned and re-stocked.

Yellow Creek Watershed Area "Graduate Hog Farmers" Complete Extension Service Hog Production Course

IUKA, Miss. — There are over 38 "graduate hog farmers" in the Yellow Creek Watershed Area of Tishomingo, Prentiss, and Alcorn Counties, according to James M. Rogers, special watershed agent of the Cooperative Extension Service.

They have completed a practical course in hog production taught by specialists and county agents of the Cooperative Extension Service, members of the research and teaching staff of Mississippi State University, successful hog farmers, an Alabama Experiment Station superintendent, and meat packers.

Six meetings with an average attendance of 50 were held with instruction during the day at the community center at Holcut and that night at the school in Burnsville. Certificates of completion were awarded to those who attended at least four of the meetings.

The course was conducted because research and survey information indicates that hog production would be a profitable enterprise for the large number of small farmers in the watershed. The area has an excellent market for pigs through its feeder pig sale held quarterly in Booneville.

This course on hog production has been very successful, said W. C. Hamilton, executive director of the Yellow Creek Watershed Authority. He explained that courses in other subjects had been taught in the watershed and that others are planned.

With these facts in mind, a meeting was called to discuss the possibility of having a formal course in hog production for farmers in the watershed area. Attending the meeting, besides Mr. Rogers and Mr. Hamilton, were C. B. Duke, Jr., State College, district Extension agent; county agents of the three counties concerned, W. Taylor Smith, Booneville, P. B. Strickland, Iuka, and Percy L. Hodges, Corinth; and several officials of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The course was promoted through personal contacts with farmers, radio, newspaper articles, letters and announcements in meetings.

"It was a three county joint meeting," added Mr. Rogers.

Subjects included in the course were hog production systems, feeding and breeding of hogs, hog buildings and equipment, hog health programs, and hog grading. Also included was a trip to the Mid-South Packing Company in Tupelo where the students saw the value of producing quality hogs. Two class meetings were held on the farms of successful hog producers in the area.

"These meetings have been real outstanding. They are bringing us points of importance that only Extension will do, such as how to save money in mixing our own feed," said L. O. Bishop, a hog farmer from nearby Cherokee, Ala. "There's a good future in the hog business if we go along with the recommendations given in these classes," added pork producer Jake Wigginton, Glen.

"This is a good opportunity for farmers to learn about the hog business," said Sid Bugg, purebred Duroc breeder, Iuka.

"This course is very good. All of us have received information that we can utilize very beneficially whether we raise a few hogs or a lot," added M. L. Hatcher, purebred Yorkshire breeder, Burnsville.

MISSISSIPPI LEGISLATURE Regular Session — 1964

GENERAL

This bulletin will be of greatest value to you if you follow up by discussing with your Senator and Representatives, items in which you are interested.

We try to pick out those items of interest to business and industry and elaborate on the ones which are of general and urgent interest. It only takes you five minutes to read the MMA Legislative Bulletin. The follow-up will take longer but is most important.

Remember, Senators and Representatives have many bills to study and consider during the course of a week. It is impossible for any one legislator to be an authority on all legislation. He will appreciate your views.

TAXATION

Senator John Clark Love, Kosciusko, was elected on Tuesday as chairman of the 20-member joint fiscal committee whose responsibility it is to seek a way to finance the 1964-66 state budget. Representative Thomas McClellan, Clay County, was elected Vice-Chairman with Representative Horace Harned, Oktibbeha County, Secretary; and Senator W. B. Alexander, Jr., Cleveland, Assistant Secretary.

Two money bills were given final Senate approval on Thursday. House Bill 59 will provide for the Veteran's Farm and Home Board to transfer $300,000 per year to the General Fund. House bill 60 makes permanent the 8c per pack excise or privilege tax on cigarettes which was passed as a temporary measure in 1962.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Senate Bill No. 1590 was reported favorably by the Senate Judiciary Committee this week and will be on the Senate calendar next week.

What this bill does is to charge, against the recovery of the employer, part of the cost which the employee had to pay in attorney's fees, etc., in securing recovery from a third party.

To put it another way, if the employer's workmen's compensation liability is $6,000 and the recovery from a third party amounts to $80,000 and the attorney's fees and cost $20,000, the recovery by the employer of his workmen's compensation liability will be reduced from $6,000 to $4,000.

Our primary objective in this type of a bill is that the employer (or his insurer) is being made to pay for an attorney's fee and yet has no control over the percentage retained, no control over the contract between the attorney and the employee, no control over the selection of an attorney and, finally, no control over whether an attorney should have been retained in the first place.

volving fund for instituting and developing trade preparatory or industrial plant training passed the House this week.

Under this bill the plan is to establish a revolving fund of $200,000 to be administered by the Agricultural and Industrial Board. The Board could lend up to $20,000 to a city, beat, or county to be used to train workers for a new or expanded industry. The money would be repaid over a period of time by the industry.

House Bill 112 to broaden the responsibility of the Director of the Division of Vocational Education to include Industrial Arts and related training areas also passed the House.

Unemployment Compensation

The four area meetings listed in our February 7 Legislative Bulletin to discuss the Charge-Back System of Unemployment Compensation tax were completed this week.

This is an issue which is likely to come before the Legislature in the near future. If you haven't already discussed it with your Legislators you should do so.
