VOLUME SIXTY-SIX

BOONEVILLE, MISSISSIPPI, THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1964

NUMBER 51

Services Tues. For Raymond Jarvis

Services for former First Judicial District Circuit Judge Raymond T. Jarvis were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at McMillan Funeral Home with Bro. J. C. Christian, formerly of Booneville, and Rev. Sam Mason of Jackson, Miss. officiating. Burial was in the Booneville Cemetery.

Judge Jarvis, who was 61 years old, died Sunday, March 15th at his home in Jackson after being in ill health for two years.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Booneville and a retired member of the county, state and national Bar Associations. He retired from office in January, 1963, after serving for 16 years.

He had previously served as Prentiss County prosecuting attorney and district attorney for the circuit which is composed of Prentiss, Alcorn, Tishomingo, Itawamba, Pontotoc, Lee and Monroe counties.

Before returning to the University of Mississippi to gain his law degree, Judge Jarvis taught in Prentiss County Schools and served as superintendent of the New Site School in Prentiss County. He also served as a member of the Prentiss County School Board and had been Prentiss County representative to the Mississippi Legislature.

His death occasioned many expressions of regret and sorrow from the people and leaders in various professional fields and hundreds in their own way paid tribute to a beloved man, all emphasizing the constructive value of his achievements and accomplishments.

Honored to election to important offices, he amply proved the wisdom of the choice and his name was identified with valuable legislation and strong administration.

As a judge, he was proverbial for his democratic spirit and his administration was dramatized by its efficiency, courage and impartiality. He had a refined and delicate regard for the feeling of others. In meeting the manifold and difficult problems presented, he displayed a valued judgment and handled his cases with rare human in sight.

Despite the magnitude and essential duties of his office, his enlightened conception of the responsibilities of citizenship did not allow him to neglect the more direct and arduous duties of civic leadership. He was always a vital, far-sighted citizen whose leadership and influence made for the up-building of the movement and organization with which he was connected.

He was a host and scholar, connoisseur of good reading and conversation. His home library was filled with good books and his mind with noble ideas. He had a rare combination of great personal charm, of good nature and tolerance with unusual force of character and sound judgment and his winning human qualities will long be remembered by the host of those who loved and admired him.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Edna Hardy Jarvis; two sons, Dee Jarvis of Laurel; three sisters, Mrs. Nimble Gregory of Tucson, Ariz., Mrs. Aaron Hughes of Planada, California, and Mrs. Irene Cooley of Tupelo.

Pres. Knight Visits High Schools In Area

E. A. Knight, president of Northeast Miss. Junior College, states that there will be 229 more high school seniors who will graduate this spring from the five supporting counties than last year. Mr. Knight says that the senior classes will continue to grow for the next few years, creating a need for additional classroom facilities. According to a survey of the high schools in Tiptah, Prentiss, Tishomingo, Union, and Alcorn Counties, this increase will continue for the next three years before it begins to level off.

Mr. Knight has been on the "visitation circuit" the past few weeks visiting and speaking with seniors at the high schools in his district. He found much more interest in going to college among the high school seniors than has been in the past. "Of the schools I have visited so far, more than 50 per cent of the seniors have indicated a desire to further their education," said President Knight.

Baldwyn Captures Third State Basketball Crown

The Baldwyn Bearcats, Mississippi's B-BB champions, defeated West Lauderdale 58-44 for the overall state basketball championship Saturday night at Jackson. West Lauderdale defeated Booneville in the first round of state A-AA play a week earlier and went on to claim the A-AA state crown.

West Lauderdale held a slim lead through most of the first half and had a 15-14 lead at the end of the first quarter. In the second period they built up a five-point lead 21-16, but the scrapping Bearcats cut it and with four seconds of play left in the half Gary Harp hit a jumper to put the 'Cats ahead to stay 26-25.

Baldwyn built its lead up to 20 points during the final period as they took advantage of West Lauderdale's floor mistakes while the Knights were trying to stage a comeback.

Although West Lauderdale had a slight height advantage, Baldwyn's Gary Cooper repeatedly swept the backboards as he did a yeoman job of rebounding for the Bearcats.

In an earlier game Forrest, A-AA girls champ, defeated Hickory, state B-BB winner, 60-54.

Cotton Farmers Urged To Release Unwanted Acres

March 31 Is Deadline For Decision

Agricultural leaders, businessmen, and everyone interested in the economy of Prentiss County are urging landowners to plant or release their cotton allotments, no matter how small they may be. March 31 is the deadline for releasing cotton acres to the County ASCS Committee, and also for asking for additional acreage.

Taylor Smith, county agent, said that 1,207 acres of the county's allotment were not planted last year and as a result the county lost 200 acres of history that cannot be regained. This loss will also affect future allotments. This loss amounted to approximately $250,000 to farmers alone.

The county's allotment this year is 17,245 acres and Mr. Smith said, "I urge everybody who is not going to plant his allotment to release it so that it can be reapportioned in the county. This means anyone, whether the allotment is only one-tenth of an acre or more."

Charles E. Calvert, manager of the local ASCS office, said approximately 300 acres have been released so far this year, but went on to state that his office has had requests for 5,000 additional acres. "I strongly urge any person who is not going to plant his entire allotment to release the acreage so it can be distributed to other county farmers and be planted in order not to lose it," Mr. Calvert said.

Cotton production is still the largest single item in the economy of Prentiss County, bringing in close to four million dollars last year. While the county's total 1963 agricultural income was approximately $8,375,000, cotton and cottonseed accounted for $3,850,000 of the total. Dairying was next in importance with about one and a quarter million.

The agricultural workers further urged that, if you request additional cotton acres, be sure that you plant your total allotment, including any additional acreage that may be assigned to your farm.

If a farmer did not release or plant in 1962 and 1963 he must plant some cotton in 1964 to be eligible for an allotment in 1965 and if he fails to plant or release this year he not only loses his 1965 allotment, but the loss will also reduce the county's history acreage.

And if a person released in 1962 and 1963 and does not intend to plant in 1964, he should still release on or before March 31, to save the acreage from loss by the county and state.

Parcel Post Rate Increases April 1

Postmaster J. K. Lindsey reminded residents of Booneville that an effective date of April 1 has been set for new domestic parcel post rate increases.

The parcel post increase — approved recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission and averaging about 13.1% — is expected to yield about $75.4 million annually.

Catalog rates will be increased approximately 13% and will produce added revenue of about $2.4 million if 1962 volume is maintained.

The higher rates do not affect air parcel post or international parcel post.

Postmaster J. K. Lindsey said he has been advised by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski that the decision of the ICC will assist the Post Office Department in carrying out its objective of reducing the drain on the Federal treasury by $100 million.

The last parcel post increase was on February 1, 1960, the postmaster pointed out.

To illustrate the effect of the new rates here, Mr. Lindsey noted that a six-pound parcel — which is the average weight — for local area delivery will cost 37c instead of 32c.

Plant It Or Release It

Don't take cotton for granted. It's still by far Mississippi's greatest crop. And it can have a bright future.

True, some communities and counties grow far less cotton than they did a few years ago. This is one of the results of a desirable development in Mississippi—greater opportunities in off-farm employment for those who live on farms, especially the smaller ones. Still there are many full-time farmers, even outside the Delta and the Northeast cotton-growing areas, who can grow cotton efficiently and who want to do so.

Valued to farmers alone at over $300 million per year, cotton has been largely responsible for the beginning and the growth of a number of major businesses and industries. It affects the financial well-being of almost everyone in Mississippi.

Mississippians have between now and March 31 to do one of the important things to strengthen their great cotton industry.

We failed to plant 1207 acres of our cotton allotment last year. While this represents a loss of approximately a quarter of a million dollars to farmers alone, it also resulted in the loss of 200 acres of history which cannot be regained and will affect our future allotments.

The challenge right now is the PLANTING. Farmers or farm owners who do not expect to plant any or all of their allotments are urged to release unwanted acres to their county ASCS committees. This acreage will then be used in the county that released it or, if none there want it, will be turned over to the state ASCS committee which will see that it is used in some other county.

As more available cotton acres are put to work in Mississippi, more dollars will be in circulation. Also, the position of cotton in the future in Mississippi will be stronger.

Local committees representing farmers' organizations, the cotton industry and government agricultural agencies are working hard in the current educational and promotional effort to get all possible cotton acres planted. They deserve the active support of all who can help them in making this practical investment in Mississippi's future.

100 Years Ago— Command In West Given To Sherman

By LON K. SAVAGE

Ulysses S. Grant, promoted a week earlier to the command of all Federal armies in the Civil War, made his first important decision in that job 100 years ago this week: he gave his old job—commanding the armies in the West—to William Tecumseh Sherman.

Grant traveled all the way from Washington back to Nashville, Tenn., to see that this change of command went smoothly, and he ordered Sherman to come from Memphis to Nashville to meet him.

The two soldiers, fast friends now, met each other with a deep understanding that had grown up between them in their service during the war. Then they went into a huddle to plan some of the grand strategy of the last year of the Civil War.

Grant's Plan

Grant explained his plan to his friend, Sherman. Sherman would take over the army at Chattanooga, facing the Confederate army of Joseph E. Johnston, then quartered in northern Georgia around Dalton.

Grant, himself, would keep his headquarters near, or with the Army of the Potomac in Virginia. Gen. George Gordon Meade commanded that army, but since Grant was his superior and would stay close to Meade, it was obvious that most of that army's movements would be under Grant's commands. And along the Virginia coast east of Richmond, Gen. Benjamin F. Butler commanded a smaller army.

Grant's plan, as usual, was quite simple and fitted perfectly into his philosophy that you "find out where your enemy is, get at him as soon as you can and strike him as hard as you can, and keep moving on."

Grant's enemy was Robert E. Lee in Virginia, and Grant would "get at him" as soon as he could by moving on Richmond. He would use Meade's and Butler's armies. Sherman's enemy was Joseph E. Johnston, and he, Sherman, would "get at him" by moving into Georgia.

As Sherman put it later, Grant "was to go for Lee, and I was to go for Joe Johnston."

Central Command

But Grant was to call the signals for the whole operation, and it was this central command, that was new in the policies shaping up for the Federal military machine.

In addition, the whole Federal military machine was to follow Grant's tactics of all-out war—of hammering, hammering, hammering, relentlessly and perpetually until victory came.

When it came time for the two men to part, they still had not resolved all matters, and Sherman rode Grant's train northward as they continued talking. Finally, he debarked and headed south again, as Grant rode on to Washington.

Grant now had a half million men under his command, and all were being aimed in a single direction: at the enemy.

MISSISSIPPI PILGRIMAGES

The hospitality of a hundred homes is to be enjoyed in Mississippi this Spring during the annual Pilgrimage season, an event different from any other in the country today. The visitor is welcome to wander at will through stately antebellum homes in Natchez, Vicksburg, and Port Gibson on the Mississippi River; in eight towns along the Gulf Coast; and in the inland cities of Jackson, Holly Springs and Columbus. Inside these Pilgrimage homes, time stands still and history is brought to life amidst treasured items of yesteryear.

Public Relations Notebook

By Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

Practically every business establishment and for that matter nearly every person is continuously concerned with their image as reflected to the various publics with which they deal. Law enforcement agencies and the people who make them function have perhaps more than any other type business, just such a continuous public relations image to maintain. There is hardly a time during the day or night when officers and officials of law enforcement agencies are not under the scrutinizing eye of the public.

Police departments and other law enforcement agencies of cities, counties, and states, sometimes have a very difficult task in maintaining "good public relations" throughout the area over which they have jurisdiction. Many factors are involved in law enforcement agencies maintaining good relations with the public.

The main factor in this area concerns selection of proper personnel to do the job. In cases where the official is elected, such as mayor, sheriff, police chief, or some other official, voters should examine the candidate carefully prior to election and try to elect the best candidate for the position. This, of course, is an age-old cry. In any case, average city and small city police departments generally are well aware and quite conscious of their image within a particular community.

Police are a great stabilizer in our society. Even when there is little or no crime in communities, we all feel safer just to know that someone is on the job just in case they are needed.

Police and other law enforcement ment agencies are really public service agencies and many have significant and very useful public service programs. They help in times of disaster or during community stress. They direct traffic and help tourists and lead parades and search for lost children and perhaps a lost puppy or kitten. And they perform many, many other functions and services within particular communities.

Police departments are agencies of government. They are a monopoly. But thanks to our system of government which is vested in the people, it can never become a dictatorial agency. Most monopolies in the United States feel that because of their monopoly position, they should do everything in their power and use every means at their command to win and maintain the good will of the people for whom they serve. Most law enforcement agencies follow this pattern.

In maintaining a proper image within a community, law enforcement agencies are highly dependent upon the press, including newspapers, radio and television. The relationship existing between law officers and the press should always remain at the very highest level. Each is dependent on the other. The press has a social responsibility to report to the people and law enforcement agencies have the responsibility to keep the public informed. Normally the two work together very well.

Of course, a free press is the great equalizer in our society. And perhaps in no area does the press have a greater responsibility than to evaluate law enforcement agencies and to keep the public informed and to report shortcomings and inconsistencies in their operation.

When it comes to convertibles, Dodge has 'em... in spades. These are just two of them. The differences? Dart, the Dodge on top, is a compact. And if you think it doesn't look compact, here are a few other surprises: It doesn't sit, ride or take off like most compacts! Dart's the large economy size compact. Roomy. Powerful. Nifty. Yet thrifty.

How about the Polara, below it? Yeah, how about that. Full vinyl upholstery. A snap down center armrest in front. A selection of power plants few cars at the price can come close to. Price? That's the kicker! This full-size Dodge is priced model for model with Ford and Chevy. Go see 'em. Full-size Dodge. Compact Dart. We'll bet dollars to doughnuts, you'll buy one.

Safety Council President Says Inspections Have Reduced Deaths

Complying with the state's Motor Vehicle Inspection Law is very important, according to Donald J. Gray, president of the Mississippi Safety Council.

The Safety Council President said the purpose of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Act is to have all vehicles meet a minimum safety standard in order to reduce the number of traffic fatalities.

"In spite of some criticism," Gray said, "the Motor Vehicle Inspection law has reduced the traffic death rate in our state."

Gray stated further that during the three years the inspection law has been in operation several thousand "traps" had been removed from the highways, permanently.

The safety official said that the Motor Vehicle Inspection Department was now in the process of writing strengthening amendments to the regulations governing the law and these amendments will include stronger requirements to qualify as official motor vehicle inspection stations.

Gray said the Mississippi Highway Patrol was doing a good job in enforcing the existing regulations and that 1965 should see a much more effective inspection than heretofore experienced.

"However," Gray said, "if a person insists on receiving the inspection called for by law he will be assured of driving a safe vehicle." Gray said a person should make certain his vehicle is inspected for the following:

1. Headlights. There must be two on each four wheel vehicle. Each light must meet minimum candle power requirements and must be aligned and focused properly. If a vehicle has four headlights each light must meet the same requirements as above.
2. Tail lights. The tail lights must be red and visible for at least 500 feet at night. The brake lights must work.
3. Brakes. A vehicle must have good brakes and the inspector must either give your car a road test or test it with a decelerometer or another brake machine.

4. Alignment. The front wheels must be aligned to within 30 feet of zero.

5. Tires. Tires must not be worn through to the fabric.

6. Steering mechanism must be in good working order.

7. Windshield wiper on driver's side must work and the horn must be in good working order.

The Council President said no state can have a good traffic accident prevention program without first developing an effective compulsory motor vehicle inspection system. In order to do this each vehicle owner must demand the inspection requirements be made by those stations qualified as official inspection stations.

Prentiss ASCS County News

By CHARLES E. CALVERT, Office Manager

DEADLINE NEARS FOR '64 FEED GRAIN SIGNUP

Friday, March 27, is the last day for filing an application to take part in the 1964 feed grain program. Growers who are interested in the program are urged to call at the Prentiss ASCS County Office as soon as possible.

Time has a way of slipping up on us even though we think we have plenty. Actually there are only 8 working days left in which to sign up for this year's program. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. from Monday through Friday; however, we are keeping the office open from 8 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, March 21 to accept feed grain contracts and open until 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, March 28 to accept cotton releases. We don't want anybody to be disappointed because he waited too long.

As last year, the feed grain program covers corn, grain sorghum, and barley. Minimum diversion under the 1964 program is 20 percent of the individual farm's total feed grain base. For diverting more than the minimum acreage from feed grain production into a conserving use, the diversion payment will be figured at a higher rate. If the diversion is 40 percent or more the higher rate applies to the whole diversion.

Besides the diversion payments (part of which may be paid in advance if the farmer requests it), a participating grower also earns price support payments on the normal production of the average planted to one or more of the three feed grains in 1964, and he is also eligible to put his crops under the regular price support loans or purchase agreements.

Farmer interest in Prentiss County is higher than last year. Indications are that 1964 participation will run well ahead of that under the 1963 feed grain program.

March 31 — Final Date To Release Cotton Acreage

DO YOU HAVE COTTON ACREAGE THAT WILL NOT BE PLANTED IN 1964? March 31, 1964, is the final date to release cotton acreage. By releasing, you make your allotment available to other farmers and at the same time protect your allotment history. We have had approximately 300 acres of cotton released and approximately 5700 acres requested. Every acre counts — so let's release it if it will not be planted. The office will be open until 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, March 21 and 28 to accept releases or requests.

V A Answers Vets Questions

Q—Do eligible war orphans have a deadline by which they must have started on their education program?
A—No. No deadline except their own age. You may begin school at any time as long as you are between 18 and 23 years of age. In certain circumstances, it is possible to begin before 18 and continue after 23. See any VA office for details.
Q—What is the present maximum amount of a GI home loan the Veterans Administration will guarantee?
A—The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 per cent of the loan but not more than $7,500. The limit on the amount to be obtained in a direct loan, when no loans are available from private lenders, is $15,000.
Q—I am a veteran about to retire. Will my Social Security benefit and also 26 weeks of unemployment compensation be considered as income?
A—Your Social Security benefits will be considered income but not for persons soliciting laborers for out of state jobs. . . . H 420, add to list of new plants getting county and city ad valorem exemptions.

BILLS PASSED BY SENATE included: S 1548, provide per diem payments to chancery judges. . . . S 1520, authorize publication of articles of incorporation within 30 days after passage of act. . . . S 1555, relieve banks of making bonds when serving as an executor of trust unless instrument specifically directs. . . . See last paragraph for Friday actions).

AT CAPITOL FRIDAY MORNING . . . Senate tabled motion to reconsider teacher-pay bill and it now goes to House. . . . until you have been given full credit for your personal contributions from wages to the Social Security fund while you were working. All unemployment compensation benefits are considered income.

Q—A friend of mine—a World War II veteran—pays his GI insurance premiums once a year and saves money. Can I do the same with my Korean GI term policy?
A—Yes. Holders of all forms of GI insurance—whether World War I, World War II, or Korea veterans—can pay premiums on a yearly, rather than a monthly or quarterly basis. Notify the VA office to which you send your insurance premiums of your intention.

Q—I have just paid off my GI loan in full. Will this automatically entitle me to another GI loan?

A—No. Repayment in full does not entitle you to another GI loan.

Q—I am moving and don't want a mix-up in receipt of my VA compensation check. I plan to tell the VA but they may have mailed my check before they receive my notice. Is there anything I can do to avoid a mix-up?

A—Notify the VA but also notify the Post Office, giving your old and new addresses. This will insure the forwarding of any check that is placed in the mails before VA can correct your address after your change-of-address is received.

MR. AND MRS. WADE HENDERSON LINDSEY

Miss Pamela Kemp And Wade Lindsey Are Wed At First Methodist Church Sunday

Miss Pamela Rosalie Kemp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kemp, and Mr. Wade Henderson Lindsey, son of Mr. Cecil Lindsey, were united in marriage at the First Methodist Church on Sunday, March 15, at 4:30 p.m. before a large assemblage of friends and relatives. Performing the double-ring ceremony was Rev. Stratton Daniel Jr., cousin of the bride, of Birmingham, Alabama.

The altar of the church was decorated with stands of yellow and white gladioli, grandiflora leaves, and emerald and fern palms. The background of white was bedecked with ivy. Casting a soft glow over the sanctuary were candelabra of yellow tapers.

Mrs. Billy Calhoun, organist, presented nuptial music, and accompanied Mrs. Jack Dubard, soloist, as she sang, "Because," and "O Perfect Love." At the conclusion of the ceremony, she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a wedding gown of white peau de soie. The sheath gown featured a scooped neckline and was highlighted by applied alençon lace and pearls and a belted flowing train. The bride's illusion fingertip veil fell from a diadem circlet of pearls. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a bridal bouquet of white orchids surrounded by lilies of the valley and ivy, which streamed from the bouquet.

Maid of honor, Miss Virginia Tays, wore a dress of yellow peau de soie featuring short fitted sleeves and a bell skirt and her shoes were of yellow satin. Her veil of yellow tulle fell from a yellow rose, and she carried a bouquet of white mums centered with daisies and white streamers.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Wayne Lindsey, of Memphis, Tennessee. Groomsmen were Jerry Bynum of Corinth, Kenneth Lindsey, cousin of the groom, Richard King, cousin of the bride, of Decatur, Alabama, and William Robinson of Memphis, Tennessee. Mrs. Richard Kemp, mother of the bride, wore a sheath of taupe lace with matching taupe flowered hat. Her corsage was of brown-throated orchids. Mrs. W. V. Kemp, grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of navy blue brocade and a corsage of white mums. Mrs. Richard Grisham, grandmother of the bride, wore a two-piece black suit of crepe and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white mums also. Mrs. J. B. Lindsey, grandmother of the groom, wore a dress of navy and white crepe and a white mum corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Parkwood Grove Manor, home of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Kemp, on Parkwood Grove Road. Presiding at the bride's register was Miss Martha Jones. Miss Mary Jane Turner, Miss Martha Ruth Hill, and Mrs. Jim Tigrett assisted at the table. Also assisting were Mrs. Richard King, Mrs. Leo Clark, Mrs. Joe Carter, Mrs. Merrill Cartwright, and Mrs. Kenneth Smith.

The bridal table was overlaid with pink net over pink. The exquisite cloth featured applied silver candles.

The beautiful cake consisted of three tiers and was decorated with a miniature bride and groom. Silver candelabra held lighted cream tapers. Baskets of gladioli flanked the table to the back.

The crystal punch bowl, surrounded with white mums and greenery, held lime punch. Compotes were filled with pink and white minis and toasted nuts.

Throughout the home were candle and flower arrangements, all enhancing the beauty of the occasion.

The gifts were on display in the spacious rooms of the lovely home. For going away, the bride chose a two-piece suit of pink crepe. Her only accessory was a string of pearls, and she wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in the Eudora Apartments in Booneville.

PLANT If you released in 1962 and 1963 and do not intend to plant in 1964, you are urged to release your allotment on or before March 31. As wintry blasts subside, can thoughts of a new spring suit or coat be far behind?

There are many beautiful woolen suitings and coatings on the market this year, so why not try making your own spring outfit? More and more women are.

If you make other clothes for yourself but have hesitated to tackle a suit or coat . . . for fear it wouldn't have a really well-tailored custom-made look . . . take some tips from clothing specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They have simplified the techniques used by professional tailors in making or altering suits and coats, and tell about them in two publications, "How to Tailor A Woman's Suit" (HG-20) and "Fitting Coats and Suits" (HG-11). Single copies of these publications may be obtained free from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250. Send a postcard with your name and address.

Sometimes it's hard to put your finger on just why a garment does not fit. Booklet HG-11 tells you what signs to look for and then what causes them.

Crosswise wrinkles above the waistline in the body of a coat or jacket, for example, mean the waist is too long. Skirt seams that twist to one side may be caused by a part of the skirt not being cut on the straight of the goods, or by a figure irregularity that requires extra allowance on one side.

The specialists recommend that you ward off these problems by making a trial muslin garment just like the pattern. Make any necessary changes in the muslin, which can then be used as a pattern. Or, you can transfer the changes to the paper pattern.

A tentative date has been set for a workshop on Making a Basic Muslin Pattern. Details will be announced later.

Automotive manufacturers continue to surprise pessimistic economists by increasing sales where no market seems to exist.

Prosperity of the past 10 years is due in large part to the increase in two-car families. Approximately 12 million households in the United States now use two automobiles. Ten years ago the number was approximately one-third as much.

But now motor company executives feel that a new spurt in sales may be traced to an increase in three-car families. Already three-car households number 1,800,000 in the United States.

In view of the history of automobile sales, it seems absurd to talk of a "saturated" market. The good product, the progressive store and the lively community move toward expansion and extension.

Market expansion, neither for product nor store, can be significant without aid of advertising. Before they buy, people must always feel some need for buying. More automobiles, new furniture, prepared foods, better housing are sold only after the consumer has heard or read how and why a change would benefit him.

Selling a retail store is much the same as selling a second and third automobile to a family. The retailer who assumes that he has reached a peak is likely to find his sales falling.

The retailer who wishes to take a place of growth in an expanding economy exploits his unique advantages to expand. But he is not likely to reach his new market unless he makes effective use of advertising. The consumer must be constantly reminded of how and why a particular store may best serve him.

STATE'S MINERAL OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Mississippi's mineral production in 1963 was valued at a record-breaking $224,081,000, according to the state geologist quoting from a recent report. 1963 production represented a five per cent gain over the previous year, and it was the 11th consecutive year in which mineral production has gained. Petroleum led all minerals during the year with a total value of $162,840,000, followed by natural gas with a total of $34,600,000.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING
Executive Vice-President
Southern States Industrial Council

AUTOMATION MEANS PROGRESS

The blindness of the U. S. union movement was strikingly revealed in mid-November when AFL-CIO president George Meany condemned automation as "a real curse to this society" and warned that it could produce "a national catastrophe."

Mr. Meany said of automation, which means the control of machines by other machines, that "there is no element of blessing in it." In making this statement, the AFL-CIO boss in effect said he wants to turn back the clock in modern industrial society.

One of the areas in which the United States has a clear lead over the communist world and the backward nations is in automation. The U. S. is able to out-produce other nations, not because it has more industrial workers but because it has some of the finest automated factory equipment in the world. If the United States were to abandon automation or if American factories were to slow down the introduction of new machines with electronic controls, it would be a national disaster. The U. S. would soon be overtaken by less developed nations who have hordes of hand workers. It is shocking to find the head of American unionism saying that the dead hand of the past should control the free enterprise system. Behind automation lies years of scientific and engineering effort and investment by hundreds of companies. If automation were to be cancelled, it would be necessary to cancel a significant part of the standard of living of the American people.

For example, automated industrial processes are the heart of automobile-building these days. If the auto industry were to be compelled to return to the methods of the 1930s now in the midst of the 1960s, prices on cars and trucks would soar. This, in turn, would mean that sales would nosedive and workers would lose their jobs.

Without automated production processes, the cost of medicines would skyrocket. Under such circumstances, the very wealthy individuals in America would still be able to buy what they needed, but the average man would be denied what he needs and wants. Thus automation is not simply a benefit for large corporate enterprises but for the entire buying public in the United States.

Many segments of American enterprise are threatened by cheap foreign imports. This means that workers in these industries are threatened with a loss of jobs. The reason the foreign manufacturers can sell things cheap is that they have almost unlimited quantities of low-cost labor. If U. S. industry is to survive and U. S. working-men are to stay employed, they must use the most modern equipment that technology can develop, namely, automated machinery.

Mr. Meany commits a great mistake when he proposes to fight progress, when he depicts machinery as an enemy. The entire history of the industrial revolution—from the 18th century to the present—shows that more and better machines mean more and better-paying jobs for workingmen. What machines do—and this includes today's automated machinery—is create new job opportunities. The machines give rise to a wealthier population that wants new products and new services. In the end, everybody benefits.

To resist automation is to ask for a stagnant, dying economy in which new industrial ideas are ignored or rejected. Such resistance implies that those who are resisting prefer a government that thinks in terms of doles and handouts rather than in encouraging modern men to use modern means of creating new wealth.

Mr. Meany's refusal to face up to the opportunities of modern engineering progress is a tragic measure of the backward-looking attitude of the leadership of the union movement. In taking this stand on automation, Mr. Meany shows that, no matter what his intentions, he is no friend of the working man in the United States for he is striving against the workingman's long-range interests. If opposition to automation is the policy of the AFL-CIO, then it has established itself as a reactionary force blocking the progress of the average man in the United States.

There will be about 540,000 new cases of cancer diagnosed this year according to the American Cancer Society. About half of them could be saved by early diagnosis and treatment.

MISSISSIPPI'S industrial growth takes a giant stride forward

Our new Pascagoula refinery—America's most modern—is now in full production. This new refinery not only assures Mississippians finest-quality petroleum products but also, we believe, marks the beginning of a new era in the industrial growth of Mississippi.

This refinery covers 2600 acres, and is fed with crude oil from the Gulf Coast fields through the longest underwater pipeline in the world. With a capacity in excess of 100,000 barrels a day, it is one of the world's largest refineries.

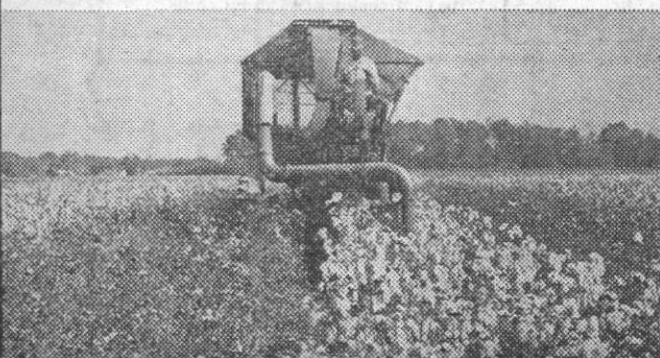

We wish to take this opportunity to thank again the people of Mississippi, the Governor and Legislature, for their wholehearted cooperation in making the site selected available to us. Cooperation of this type will result in selection of Mississippi by many more industries as the location of their new plants to serve the fast-growing South.

Our new refinery is another example of Standard Oil's planning ahead to serve Mississippi and the South.

YOUR SAVINGS BOND QUIZ

Question: I will be entitled to a refund of $43 on my income tax return for 1963. Is it true that I can take this refund in Savings Bonds?

Answer: Yes, provided you have not yet filed your tax return. There is a box to check on your tax return if you want your refund in bonds. In your case, you would receive a bond worth $50 on maturity, plus a check for $5.50 representing the difference between the cost of the bond ($37.50) and your total refund.

Question: I married recently and want to know if I can add my wife's name to my Savings Bonds?

Answer: Yes, either as a co-owner or a beneficiary. Use Form PD

1787 which can be obtained at many banks or by writing the Bureau of the Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark St., Chicago, Ill. 60605.

Question: I need to borrow several hundred dollars and don't want to cash in my Savings Bonds. Can I use them as collateral for a loan?

Answer: No; and this is because of one of the safety features built into Savings Bonds for your own protection. No one can redeem Savings Bonds except the person to whom the bonds were issued or the legally authorized guardian or custodian for that person.

The immediate goal of cancer control in the United States is the saving of 270,000 lives—or half of those who develop the disease each year, according to the American Cancer Society. Earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment could accomplish this.

Legislature Now Settling Down To Serious Business

Representative Charlie E. McCoy reports that the legislative bodies in Jackson are settling down to the serious business of taking care of the state's needs with a weather eye toward the financial "where-with-all" to pay the bills for the benefits. Mr. McCoy says the members are very aware of the burden that extra taxes would incur. As a group, the members want to carefully study how the monies are now being spent to see if there are not some places where needless expenditures can be channeled back into the available funds trough. Mr. McCoy has received an appointment to membership on the investigative committee to check expenditures.

Mr. McCoy says the Mississippi Educational Association and the State Department have placed their demands before the Senate in the form of bill number 1582 which is resting quietly in the committee while other less demanding bills are being pushed through the bodies. The Senate has passed and the house is ready to pass a committee substitute bill — a raise in teachers' pay only. The original bill 1582 would, if passed, place the state in a position which would force raising taxes to the extent of $8 million dollars. It is for this reason the substitute bill was introduced.

Mr. McCoy says he finds in his close informal association with the members that they are in sympathy with the teachers, the bus drivers, janitors and the lunchroom workers but they are also considering the ability of the taxpayers to meet the financial demands of added revenue.

Mr. McCoy says the friends of the teachers in the house have introduced a bill carrying 39 signatures which provides a raise of $300.00 a year in addition to the $100.00 a year accruing for upgrading or tenure. The budget committee of both houses feel these monies will be available under the present existing conditions. Mr. McCoy says he finds that the legislative members are more concerned with what they can do than with what they would like to do for the teachers of Mississippi.

Gov. Paul Johnson recommended the $100.00 for upgrading but his budget did not provide for the added $300.00 per year raise which the passage of the bill will necessi-

Rites Held Tues. For Mrs. Mary D. Spain

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Dandridge Spain of Booneville were conducted Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of McMillan Funeral Home with Bro. W. L. Wallace, Jr., officiating. Burial was in Gaston Cemetery with McMillan Funeral Directors in charge.

Mrs. Spain died about 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Trolinger Nursing Home following an extended illness. She was a native of Prentiss County and a member of the Methodist Church. She was 83.

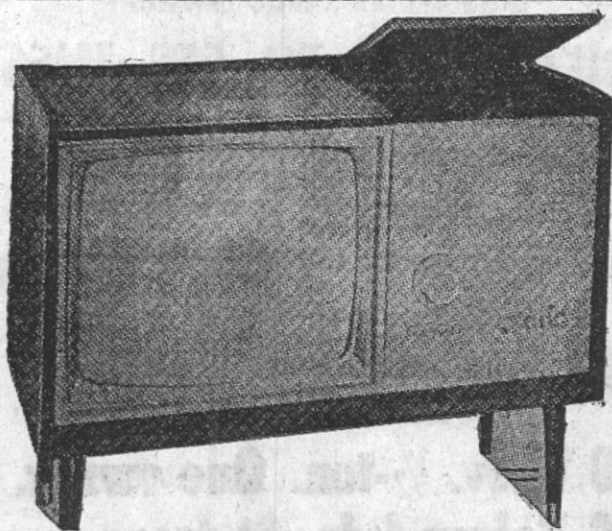

She leaves two step-daughters, Mrs. Ward Stephens, and Mrs. Sid Stephens.

The American Cancer Society reports that some 48,000 cancer patients are saved each year who would have died had they developed the disease not too many years ago. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment are your best protection against cancer.

tate. The voting or making available additional funds is still a problem which the finance committees will have to meet. The friends of education in both houses feel that is not an unreasonable demand on the state finance.

The American Cancer Society estimates that about 290,000 people will die of cancer this year. Many of these deaths will be unnecessary — many cases could have been cured by earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. See your doctor annually for a health checkup.

New Pascagoula refinery of Standard Oil Co. (Kentucky)

Standard Oil Company's New Refinery At Pascagoula Opens

PASCAGOULA, Miss., March 16.—Standard Oil's Pascagoula refinery, construction of which began a little more than two years ago, is now on full stream.

The completion of this refinery, which is America's most modern, and one of the largest in the world, marks an important milestone in Mississippi's modern industrial growth.

When, in 1961, Standard Oil expressed a desire to build a refinery at Pascagoula and locate it on a 2600 acre plot on the Bay Cossotte, the Governor called a special session of the legislature to pass enabling legislation, and the people of Mississippi went to the polls and voted in a constitutional amendment which made the purchase of this site, and the location of the refinery at Pascagoula possible.

"We wish to thank the people of Mississippi, the Governor and legislature," said W. C. Smith, president of the Standard Oil Company (Kentucky)—"for making the site selected available to us. Cooperation of the type you extended to us will result in the selection of Mississippi by many more industries as the location for their new plants."

"From seventy-eight years of close observation of the South we have served," continued Mr. Smith, "our company is convinced that Mississippi and the South are on the threshold of greater industrial and economic expansion than they have ever experienced before, and the construction of our Pascagoula refinery is an effort on our part to anticipate this growth, and be prepared to serve the South's expanded needs."

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

NOTICE

We failed to plant 1,207 acres of our cotton allotment last year. This was a loss of approximately 250,000.00 to farmers alone. As a result of our farmers to plant this acreage we lost 200 acres of history. This cannot be regained and will affect our allotment for future years.

Let's don't let this happen this year.

Do not forget Mr. Smith the deadline . . . MARCH 31 is the final date for releasing unwanted cotton acres and asking for additional acres.

Let's get 100 per cent of our county's allotted cotton acres planted in 1964. Either plant your acreage, release or rent it!

Cotton Insect Recommendations

The 1964 cotton insect control recommendations in leaflet form are available from our office. Get your copy now and make your plans to do a complete insect control job this year.

Hot Tamale Man

Hear that old familiar sound? It's the Hot Tamale man coming around.

It's Willis Johnson with his little white cart.

His Hot Tamales are a work of art.

I don't know just what Willis has got, But I know he makes them doubly hot.

Now when you have eaten one or two, You had better have a "big orange" close to you.

About those "mollies" I want to be fair, They will wash your face and comb your hair.

Why a fellow eats "mollies" for pity sake, When your mouth is on fire every bite you take.

Your very first bite is a little rough, Like the first time you took a dip of snuff.

But after you've eaten the first three or four, You can't do without them any more.

Some Saturday night when the weather is cold, And in your bones you feel a little old,

Look up Old Willis and buy you about ten, The kind that separates the boys from the men.

Now you will really begin to feel spry, You can look a big bull dog square in the eye.

If you ever have an ailment, don't take a pill, There's no kind of germ that a "mollie" won't kill.

If you want to live a life that is healthy and sound, Just go see the Hot Tamale man in town.

—Dick Brown

provide hay for the winter. A good seedbed and weed control are necessary for getting Coastal established. Apply phosphate and potash at planting time and then apply nitrogen after the Coastal gets started growing. If time is needed, apply it any time you want to.

Corn Notes

Would you like to reduce the drought risk on the corn you plant this year?

Here are some suggestions that may help you do this: Break the land deeply and let seedbeds settle before planting. Place the fertilizer deep so that the roots will go deeper. Plant as early as possible—as soon as frost danger is over.

Think about planting a medium maturing hybrid on more droughty soils. Control weeds. Cultivate shallow. When available and needed, use irrigation.

Some advantages of using medium maturing hybrids are that they can be planted early and will mature early before the usual late July and August drought. They are suited to planting for early and mid-summer hogging off. They may be harvested in late summer for sale or early feed—corn prices are usually higher at that time of year. Medium maturing varieties allow you to harvest corn before cotton picking begins.

Some disadvantages are: medium maturing varieties are usually shorter than full season hybrids. On good land where adequate moisture is available they produce less than full season hybrids. They tend to have less weevil resistance and poorer shuck coverage than full season hybrids and are not as well suited to cribbing.

State's Motorists Have 2 Deadlines At End Of March

The end of March is the deadline for two very important events for Mississippi motorists . . . motor vehicle inspection and drivers license renewal.

There are over 125,000 licenses that will expire the 31st of this month. Stop for a moment now and check the expiration on your drivers license. If it is given as 3-31-64, then you are urged to renew now and avoid the delay that will necessary result if the renewal is postponed until the last minute.

With the great number of licenses expiring those who wait until the 30th or 31st will have quite a wait for their new license. The same thing applies to the motor vehicle inspection. It is important that you have the new green and black 1964 inspection sticker applied to your windshield on or before the end of the month. Since there are over 1100 inspection stations throughout the state it will be easy to have your vehicle inspected and the earlier the inspection is made, the better. The Highway Safety Patrol encourages you to be attentive to these two matters and take care of them immediately.

Rice

Mississippi rice growers produced 1,911,000 cwt. of rice on 49,000 acres, harvested at an average yield of 3,900 lbs. per acre. Rogue and a similar herbicide played an important part in increasing rice yields by controlling grasses.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to our many friends who were so kind to us in the loss of our darling son, grandson and nephew, Gary.

You were so kind to express your sympathy by sending flowers, cards and by making visits and offering your personal comforting words.

To Bro. Huey Wood and Bro. W. E. Sharp for their words of comfort and to the pall bearers and McMillan Funeral Home for their wonderful service.

We will be ever so grateful and may God bless each one is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shelton, Leland and Ray, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert Morris, Wayne and Marsha. 51-1tp
