Pigs Averaged $13.96 Per Head In Sixteenth Area Feeder Pig Sale

The Sixteenth Area Feeder Pig Sale here Thursday was one of the highest sales since it was started in 1960.

Eight hundred head of pigs averaging $24 lbs. per pig sold for $26.23 per cwt. or $13.96 per head.

There were buyers from Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, and Texas. The demand was greater than the supply — 400-500 more head could have been sold.

Texas buyers wanted 400 head, Louisiana buyers would have bought 200 head more if the pigs had been available.

This sale is furnishing farmers in the county and area an excellent opportunity to supplement farm income by producing pigs.

The quality of pigs was not as good as we need. There is a great need for using better boars. We can expand this program twice as large as it is if we will improve the quality. Feeders are willing to pay more for high quality pigs and with other sales organized throughout the state feeders are going to buy where the quality is best.

15,282 head of pigs have been sold since this program began in 1960. The average weight per pig was 53.4 pounds; the average price of all pigs is $24.21 per cwt. or $12.86 per head.

This program has helped to improve and expand the hog enterprise throughout the county and area.

Viewed first by the members was Mrs. Parker's neat and well-arranged garden, where various types of spring flowers are now in bloom. The garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Duckworth was appreciated for its professionally landscaped Japanese garden. A lovely waterfall adorned with colorful flowers was the focal point of this artistic setting. Mrs. Chase was one of the first in this area to learn of the care and growth of azaleas. Boxwoods, rose gardens, tulip plantings, and a wide variety of shrubbery plantings attracted attention at the colonial estate of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Burreas.

How To Find Job Security

"The so-called liberal who cries out for broad welfare measures and state control lacks faith in people and in our free society," declared L. C. Michelin, Republic Steel, at the 36th NAM Institute on Industrial Relations.

Leader of a seminar on promoting employee understanding of the free market economy, Mr. Michelin scored political promises of job security. "No contract, no political party—not even an employer—can give anybody a secure job. The business of earning a living doesn't work that way." Only profits, he stressed, can create and maintain job security. The worst thing that can happen to an employee is to work for a company that isn't making money.

"A profitable and efficient company," Mr. Michelin concluded, "is the only one that can be humanitarian, and state-minded liberals would do well to remember that."

But we can hardly expect them to—especially in an election year.

The Congressional Pay Bill

It doesn't take a seer to figure out why the House, when a roll call vote was demanded, turned down the bill to increase Congressional salaries by $10,000.00 a year. Numbers of other officials would have received similar boosts.

This, after all, is an election year and every member of the House must face the voters come November. And a majority of the members obviously didn't relish the idea of defending a huge pay raise at a time when all the talk concerns economy to prevent inflation.

But the bill is not dead. And it is a matter on which the voters should make their positions known. The members of Congress are hardly financially underprivileged, with their present salaries of $22,500, plus a wide variety of valuable fringe benefits and other perquisites. The odds are that many of the members couldn't do nearly as well in private life. And it is a matter of record that it is a rare occasion when a member voluntarily leaves his post. He steps down only when death, disability or voter decision force him to.

Actually, pay should not be the overriding incentive when it comes to public service.

Civil Rights Not Racial Question

By SENATOR JOHN STENNIS

WASHINGTON—Congress has no power to take a civil right away from one group, and transfer that right, in the nature of a privilege, to another group.

That, however, is just what the proponents of the civil rights bill are trying to do in the present Senate debate.

This is not a racial question. It is a constitutional question. If this bill should ever become law, it would take away far more rights than it could ever possibly protect.

The broad power which this bill would confer on the Attorney General of the United States is frightening and alarming.

Under this bill, the Atty. General would become an untouchable czar, clothed with more raw, naked and absolute power than has ever been granted to the Executive Branch of the government in the peacetime history of this great nation.

As one of the three team captains of our Southern forces battling against this bill in the Senate, I shall continue to point out to the people of this country the dangers of placing this vast and unlimited power in the hands of a single individual, the Attorney General of the United States.

whipped a long succession of Federal generals. Now they were ready to take on the greatest general the Union had found—Grant.

OUTBOARD MOTOR SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

ALL HANDS ALERT!

Safety precautions should not be confined to saving lives on the motor highways. It is just as important to observe safety measures on the water. It would be well, therefore, for all boating enthusiasts to adhere to the following simple rules for safe boating prescribed by Admiral E. J. Roland, Commander of the U. S. Coast Guard:

DON'T—

- Overload your craft or allow your passengers to move about in a way that may change its balance.
- Leave shore in a leaky or badly constructed boat.
- Venture into dangerous or restricted waters.
- Operate near swimmers.
- Forget your wake can endanger others.
- Use gasoline stoves.
- Lie at anchor with a short scope of line.
- Mix liquor and boating.

DO—

- Observe the rules of the road. Carry approved life preservers for each person on board.
- Instruct at least one of your passengers in the rudiments of handling your craft in case you are injured.
- See that all hands know what to do in an emergency and where to find the safety equipment.
- Check weather and tides before going out.
- Check gasoline system, make sure all tanks are vented, see that bilges are free of vapors, oil, waste and grease.
- Be sure you have an adequate oil filter.
- Check your battery and maintain electrical equipment in accordance with good marine practices.
- Reduce speed through all anchorage areas.
- Reduce speed at night, and maintain a proper lookout at all times.
- Take your time in buying a boat or equipment for it; a bad "bargain" could cost you your life.

100 Years Ago—New Faces Appear On Virginia Front

By LON K. SAVAGE

New names—names that already had or soon would become historic—began appearing on the rosters of the Federal and Confederate armies in Virginia 100 years ago this week as they prepared for a final onslaught that would decide the Civil War.

Some of the names belonged to young men just beginning to be known in the Civil War. In the Federal Army of the Potomac, there were 33-year-old Phil Sheridan, just appointed as head of Grant's cavalry, and 34-year-old K. Kemble Warren, who had just taken over the Federal army's V Corps.

In the Confederate armies that were converging in Virginia, the new faces belonged to men who already had made their mark in the war: Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, who had commanded in the bombardment of Fort Sumter at the outbreak of the war, and Gen. James Longstreet, just back from a winter in the mountains of eastern Tennessee.

Sheridan, like Grant, had made a name for himself in the Western campaigns and now had come East to finish up the war. His appointment had been suggested by Henry Halleck, and Grant had agreed readily. The appointment meant that at least the Federals in Virginia would have a cavalry leader who could measure up to the Confederacy's daring and adventurous "Jeb" Stuart.

Warren, a hero of Gettysburg, was one of several commanders appointed in April in the Federal army. Among others was Winfield Scott Hancock, freshly recovered from a Gettysburg wound, now commanding the II Corps. Perhaps most important was Franz Sigel, who became head of the Department of West Virginia with orders to move up the Shenandoah Valley.

Longstreet

Longstreet had been ordered back to Virginia early in April when Gen. R. E. Lee had concluded, after much study, that the brunt of the spring campaigning would come in Virginia and Georgia—not in Tennessee. Throughout the winter, Longstreet had been up in the mountains where he had gone after battles at Chattanooga and Knoxville.

Beauregard came up from South Carolina to take over the Confederacy's Department of North Carolina and Southern Virginia, and again he found himself in one of the hottest spots of the war. Within months, he and Lee would be together again fighting to defend Richmond.

And as April came to an end, Lee found himself in command of most of his old team, the team that had

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

County cotton farmers need to study how participating in the 1964 Cotton Program will affect their income.

Under the new program, farmers can plant within their domestic allotment, their effective allotment, or plant extra acres for export.

The domestic allotment is a percentage of the farm's 1964 effective allotment which was established in the fall of 1963. By planting within his domestic allotment the farmer is eligible for a price support loan on his entire production plus an additional price support payment based on the farm's normal yield and the acreage planted for harvest.

Another alternative allows the farmer to plant his entire effective allotment. He will receive the price support loan on all cotton harvested but will not receive the additional price support payment. Farmers can also plant their effective allotment plus additional acreage designated for export up to a maximum of 5 per cent of the effective allotment. He will be eligible for the price support loan on cotton produced on the effective allotment acreage but will sell the extra production for export at the prevailing market price.

More information about the cotton program is available at the Prentiss County ASC or Extension offices.

COASTAL BERMUDA

If you prepare a good seedbed, you can expect good survival from Coastal Bermuda set in April and May.

Spray following setting to control weeds. After the Coastal runners start growing, nitrate. If crabgrass comes in, turn in the cows and graze it off.

Weeds and crabgrass are the biggest enemies young Coastal has. Sometimes they prevent Coastal from covering the ground. But once you get the ground covered with Coastal, you won't be bothered with weeds or other grasses.

SOYBEANS

Johnson grass is probably one of the biggest enemies of high producing soybeans.

The time is here to be carrying recommended pre-plant Johnson grass control.

Two methods recommended are dalapon applied as a pre-planting broadcast foliage treatment, and repeated preplanting cultivation.

Neither method will give 100 per cent control, nor will they control seedling Johnson grass that emerges after the soybeans are up.

Chemicals recommended for pre-emergence weed control in soybeans are Amiben, Linuron (50 per cent wettable powder sold as Lorox) and NPA (sold as Alanap 3). When annual weeds like crabgrass, brachiaria, goosegrass, pigweed and annual morning glory are early season problems pre-emergence treatments are recommended except on light sandy soils.

FERTILIZER PLACEMENT

Just where you place the fertilizer in your row crop program can have a major bearing on how your crop produces.

For row crops, do not broadcast fertilizer unless you are willing to step up the rate of fertilization.

Unless the soil already has a medium or above phosphate and potash level, or you will increase the rate of phosphate by 50 per cent, use band application.

When placing the fertilizer band, be sure to put it below and to the side of the seed drill. This will help prevent seedling damage from contact with the fertilizer.

LAWN FERTILIZATION

The first step in any lawn fertilization program should be a soil test. Then base your applications of lime, phosphate and potash on the soil test.

In most cases nitrogen, phosphate and potash are removed from the soil by growing grasses in a 3-1-2 ratio. Nitrogen requirements vary with the different grasses. Split your nitrogen applications into 3 or 4 doses through the summer. All the phosphate can be applied in one application in the spring and the potash should be divided into two applications — spring and fall.

rector, introduced Mrs. Guy Dicus, head of the Home Economics Department, Northeast Mississippi Junior College, guest speaker for the afternoon, who enlightened the group with a talk.

Mrs. Dicus' topic was "Color." She discussed color in relation to wardrobe and homes, mentioning the main objective should be appreciation for color. She stated that color is a universal issue — each country having its own interpretation. She displayed tablecloths from India, which were colorful and artistic in design, to demonstrate this point. She also said that every woman needs one creative outlet and this can be achieved through experimenting with color. There is a place and use for every color—the secret is to know where and why. There is no age barrier. She closed her remarks by saying that there is no color clash in nature. The Master Painter never makes a mistake and urged each member to be more aware of the colorful beauty surrounding our lives daily and challenged each one present to be more daring and to experiment with color and above all to appreciate the beauty around us every day in some way and in so doing have a brighter world in which we live.

Mrs. Jack Dubard gave an interpretation of the hymn, "Thine Is The Glory," by Handel, and told of Handel's life. He was the creator of the "Messiah," a lawyer in the 17th century and one of the best composers.

Senior Class Party Saturday Night Was Elaborate And Entertaining

One of the most elaborate Senior Class parties ever held in Booneville was held Saturday night at the Booneville High School gymnasium from 8 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

The sidewalks leading to the gym were lighted with hurricane lamps and as one approached the entrance, lovely dogwood branches foretold of the elegance of the occasion.

Just inside the doors were pretty potted plants and more of the season's favorite blossoms — dogwood.

Surrounding the entire floor area of the gym were stately cedar trees, lending not only beauty but a delicate fragrance to the entertaining event.

Guests registered as they entered and there were over 150 present for the gala occasion including a large number of the teachers. Unique favors—fashioned in the school colors of blue and gold—were miniature diplomas and graduate hats tied with gold ribbons. These were displayed in a handsome arrangement of blue flowers and fern and were pinned on the guests as they arrived.

The gym floor was divided into three sections. One part was arranged with card tables where the seniors and guests could play a variety of games. A beautifully decorated seine separated the area from the seats in the gym.

Another part was the serving area. A long table, overlaid with white cloths, was centered with a gorgeous silver candelabrum decorated with spring flowers in blue and gold and holding lighted tapers. On one side was a crystal punch bowl filled with delicious punch which the guests enjoyed along with miniature sandwiches, ham, turkey, potato chips, hors d'oeuvres, canapes, and dainty cookies. The center of attraction was the dance area, covered completely with a draped canopy and lighted with twinkling lights and spotlights. The entrance to the area was through an arch covered with blue and gold and centered with a lovely gold wire hall filled with tiny twinkling lights and flowers. On each side of the arch were artistically decorated seines with ornaments, balls and designs in blue and gold.

Music was provided by "The Ramblers" of Birmingham, Ala. Behind the orchestra stand were large gold letters, "Seniors, 1964."

The young people enjoyed the party and will long remember how the gymnasium was transformed into a place of beauty for their senior party.

Hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. Luke Armstrong, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Barron, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bethay, Mrs. J. D. Box, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cadle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie D. ## Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

Courteous, efficient service is the basic ingredient for continued success of any business organization. Any firm, organization or person will maintain a much higher degree of good will if the service they offer is courteous, efficient and sincere. Courtesy is one of the most important aspects of service firms.

Mr. Woodruff

There are many types of service organizations. Among them are such firms as service stations, plumbers, electricians, painters, shoe repairmen, laundries and dry cleaners, restaurants, and many, many others. Many other organizations offer various services by which company personnel comes into contact with customers.

Of course, practically every business which offers a service is fully qualified to do so. However, too often such firms do not satisfy customers with efficient, courteous service. And the result almost always means loss of customers, thereby losing good will for the firm.

A big fault with many service organizations is due to the fact that they are not always sincere with their customers. When you call a repairman to come and fix a leaking washing machine and he assures you that he will be at your home within the hour, you will believe him. But when two, three, four or more hours pass, what is the housewife to do but call another serviceman. And what's more important, you can rest assured that a housewife treated in such a manner will not call such a firm again.

Firms should realize readily that they can only lose when they are not honest and sincere with customers. As in the case above, the least a service firm should do is to call the customer back within the hour if it was impossible to make the call. In the long run, being honest with the customer, even if it means telling the customer that he cannot come at all, is the best course to follow.

Restaurants are another type of firm where prompt, efficient service is a necessity for continued good will of customers. When a person goes into a place to eat, he wants to be served properly. He wants the attention of a waitress who appears interested in providing him with the best food and service no matter what he orders. A person ordering a hamburger should be afforded the same treatment as a person ordering the best steak in the house.

But even a satisfied trip to a restaurant can be spoiled if, when a customer approaches the cashier to pay his bill, he is encountered by a grim-faced money-snatcher. The least that a cashier can say is, "Did you enjoy your dinner," or "Hope you folks enjoyed your breakfast." So little effort to say, yet overlooked so often by so many restaurant operators.

Courtesy to customers is not automatic. It takes effort. It takes more than a sign on a front window which reads, "Our customers come first." It takes a great deal of human relations effort by serving every customer in an honest and sincere manner.

Perhaps poet Edgar Guest came up with a couple of lines that sums it up best when he wrote: The true trade magnet I believe, is just the treatment folks receive.

MRS. ED JOHNSON

Ed receives his hometown paper each week from Vernon, Ala. Once a year the paper publishes a list of voters, and since he registered in 1944 his name has been on the list although he has voted only one time and that was an absentee ballot in 1946.

Why? The only answer we know is that Veterans are exempt from poll taxes in Alabama . . . but it looks like they'd have an accounting of some kind.

Cecil Lauderdale, well-known native of this county who teaches in the Lawrence County High School at Molton, Ala. told me about a student there who is one of 26 students chosen from the United States to represent this nation at the International High School World's Fair in London, England. Her name is Alice Harden and she received the honor through her science work. Mr. Lauderdale teaches a class she is in, but he doesn't teach her science. The Fair is sponsored by Prince Phillip. Miss Harden and the group will tour Europe noting the various Science projects.

The talented young lady is an accomplished pianist and singer; an all A student and valedictorian in a class of 102 seniors. She appeared before the Mississippi Science Teachers Association in Biloxi several months ago and presented a paper.

Mr. Lauderdale complimented her highly saying she was an all-around girl, a Christian leader, and he hoped her record would be an inspiration to other students to strive for the highest obtainable.

Postmaster Kyle Lindsey helped out the column this week by placing this quote in our post office box: "Old fishermen never die; they just smell that way."

Several weeks ago when our family went to Jackson, Miss. to see Booneville play in the basketball tournament, the boys got hamsters. They got home with two of them and placed them in a box in their room. As you have probably figured, one got out, and every night I'd hope the hamster wouldn't turn up in our bed. It didn't, but now I wish it had. The little animal got in some cabinets . . . or under some cabinets . . . and near some cabinets, and spent its last days there. The odor is most unpleasant and even though we've emptied the cabinets, we can't find the remains.

Does anyone know how long we'll have to keep the cabinet doors closed?

It's getting time to plant cotton and I hope the weather stays pretty enough for the farmers to get some seed in the ground. Nevertheless, I know one person who isn't too concerned. That's Mrs. W. Stephens of Route 2, Baldwin, who sent me this poem:

GOODBYE BRE'R WOLF

I have not planted cotton since nineteen-thirty-two; For when it brought three cents a pound, I vowed that I was through. The wolf was parked at my front door, and something must be done; My family was starving and I could not farm for fun. Now there's no fear of hunger in our household any more; We went to work and raised some crops to dry and can and store. We drove that wolf so far away, he never came again. . . . And we did it all with crop control, our cow and hog and hen! Still . . . cotton was our county's No. 1 cash crop last year . . . just as in the past years.

We receive pictures and articles from many national foundations . . . polio, cancer, tuberculosis, etc., and when we have room in the paper we try to use part of them.

Two weeks ago we ran such an article and picture which read: "If tuberculosis is to be beaten, early detection is vital. Here Karin Westervelt receives a quick and painless Tuberculin Tine Test from Dr. Fred Graziano of Nanuet, New York, while brother Kevin waits his turn . . . etc."

Here's the coincidence: Mrs. Herb Johns of Spring Valley, New York, was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shackelford and sister, Mrs. W. L. Caver, this city, when the article came out in the paper. Dr. Graziano is her family doctor and the children mentioned are cousins of her neighbors and play with Mrs. John's children! The world gets smaller every day.

Miss Bessie Murphy of 324 North Smith Street, Booneville, wrote me about an unusual experience. She had a mother cat that found four kittens and a few days later her black English feist dog found four puppies. When the kittens were about three weeks old, the cat deserted them and they gave two kittens away and put the other two in the doghouse with the puppies. The mother dog loves the kittens as well as she does the puppies and provides for them all. A few days ago, Miss Murphy saw the dog moving into a better location—the storm cellar—and she moved the kittens before she did the puppies! Miss Murphy added, "Don't be surprised if you hear of barking cats."

More quotes from S. T. Dandridge:
The one good thing about baldness—it is neat.
To make a long story short, there is nothing like the manager walking in.
When one forgets self, he often does things he will be remembered for.
To really smart girls, men are no problem—they are the best possible answer.

HOME AGENT NOTES

By CLAIRE T. ROSS

You want your shoes to look nice, but above all to fit comfortably. Whether they fit properly for looks and comfort depends on whether you've checked all four dimensions for fit. You want to check length, width, depth and shape.

If your old shoes show wear at the toes, or the inside sole has worn "pockets" for your toes, you need a longer shoe than you've been wearing. You will probably be surprised to know that there is only 1/6-inch difference between numbered sizes. For example, a size 8 shoe is only 1/6 inch longer than a size 7 1/2 shoe.

But one size can make a great deal of difference in looks and comfort, so check your length carefully.

If the upper part of the shoe above the sole of your old shoes extends over the soles, you're ready for the next width. The letters for shoe widths range from AAAAA to EEEEE or M for medium, N for narrow, and S for slim.

The widest part of the shoe should be over the first joint of the big toe. The heel should fit snugly. If you take a B width with a AA heel, for example, such combination widths are available.

The depth and shape of the shoe are determined by the last . . . the wooden form on which the shoe was made. If you see bumps that outline your toes on the uppers of your old shoes, you need a deeper last.

To check width, wiggle your toes. Do they all move freely? They should.

If your old shoes are puckered or wrinkled behind the ball of the foot along the arch, or if they are greatly out of shape, the shape of the last is wrong, and your shoes aren't long enough from ball to heel. The proportion of the shoe from ball to heel and ball to toes differs from last to last.

To check the shape, try on shoes standing up. Your foot should rest on the bottom of the shoe, with your weight equally distributed between ball and heel.

Always check the looks of shoes in a mirror. Walk in them and note first how they feel, but carefully note, too: the fit at the heel (they should not slip; fit at sides (they should lie smoothly); fit at instep (there should be no bulge); and d toes (they should not turn up).

Butter Measurements

In using butter in your cooking, remember: one pound or four sticks equals 2 cups. One-quarter pound or one stick, equals one-half cup. To cut butter cleanly, cover knife blade with waxed paper or dip knife in hot water, dry and cut.

Miss Elizabeth Ann McGee Wed To Ernie L. Clayton In Church Ceremony

Miss Elizabeth Ann McGee and Ernie L. Clayton pledged their marriage vows on Friday, April 17 at 8:00 p.m. at the Church of Christ in Booneville. Bro. J. A. Thornton performed the double-ring ceremony with the traditional nuptial songs being provided by Harding College A Cappella Chorus.

Miss McGee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. McGee of Rt. 3, Rienzi. Mr. and Mrs. Clint Clayton of Booneville are the parents of the bridegroom.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with white gladioli and palms with lighted white tapers in candelabra forming the background.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a street dress of white cotton brocade with a round neck and short sleeves. Her shoulder length veil fell from a small cluster of white roses. She carried a cascading bouquet of carnations centered with a white orchid.

Little rice girls were Glenda and Linda Kennedy of Birmingham, Alabama, children of Mr. and Mrs. Howell J. Kennedy and cousins of the bride.

Mrs. McGee chose for her daughter's wedding a blue linen sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Clayton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink linen with black and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy of Memphis, Tenn., grandmother of the bride, chose a blue knit sheath with a waist length matching jacket and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Prentiss ASCS County News

By CHARLES E. CALVERT, Office Manager

NEW COTTON PROGRAM

Orville E. Bostick, Chairman of the Mississippi Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, has announced the provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1964 as it applies to upland cotton. Mr. Bostick said that due to the lateness of the season, ASCS State and county offices are gearing for fast action. The new cotton program will work as follows:

The 16 million acre national minimum acreage will be retained for 1964, just as it was for 1963. Farmers who comply with their effective allotments (regular allotment after reapportionment of released acreage) will be eligible for a price support loan of 30 cents a pound (basis middling 1-inch cotton at average location). A domestic allotment will be established for each cotton farm and will be 67 per cent of the farm's regular allotment. For small farms, the domestic allotment will be the smaller of 15 acres or the 1964 effective allotment.

Cotton farmers have the option of planting within their domestic allotment or their effective 1964 allotment. If the acreage planted to cotton is within the domestic allotment, the farmers are eligible to receive in addition to the price support loan on the cotton, an additional price support payment. This payment would be at the rate of 3.5 cents per pound on the normal yield per acre established for the farm. This is the farm payment rate per acre. The total of such additional price support for a farm complying with the domestic allotment will be the acreage planted for harvest multiplied by the farm payment rate and will be paid in-kind after performance checking. The Commodity Credit Corporation will assist in marketing the payment-in-kind certificates. This will help compensate farmers for reducing production and sales by taking part in the program. However, cotton farmers may grow other cash crops such as soybeans on that part of the effective allotment not planted to cotton because of compliance with the domestic allotment, except that on farms where the effective allotment is more than 15 acres the feed grain acreage may not exceed the feed grain base.

The new also provides for export market acreage and the Secretary of Agriculture has announced that this will be 5 per cent of the effective allotment for a farm. The export acreage production must be exported. Neither price support nor export payments will be available for this cotton. The farm operator must furnish a bond to assure that the cotton will be exported. Operators planning to export market acreage must sign up and furnish bond by June 1, 1964. Those who plant export acreage will not be eligible on the same farm also to receive price support payments under the domestic allotment program. They will, however, be eligible for the basic price support loan of 30 cents a pound on that cotton produced within the effective allotment for the farm.

Under a quota program, marketing penalties apply to any "excess" cotton. This part of the program will operate the same as in former years. The difference this year is that under the new cotton legislation the upland cotton grower will have three allotment programs to choose from. He can choose to keep his cotton plantings within the old "effective" farm allotment (after any release or reapportionment); he can plant within a smaller "domestic" farm allotment and use the acreage so reduced for other crops — but not in excess of his farm's feed grain base if the farm has an effective allotment of more than 15 acres; or he can plant within the effective farm allotment plus an acreage (5 per cent of the allotment) for export only, after filing an application by June 1, 1964, and furnishing bond that the export acreage production will be exported without government subsidy.

Under both the effective and the domestic allotment plans, the farmer will be eligible for the usual price support cotton loan, at a basic level of 30 cents a pound middling 1-inch cotton at average location. Under the domestic allotment plan, the farmer will be eligible for an additional price support payment of 3.5 cents per pound on the normal yield of the cotton acreage planted for harvest within the domestic allotment, provided he also meets the program's feed grain provisions where applicable. Under the export acreage plan, the farmer will be eligible for the 30-cent price support loans on all his cotton except that credited to the export acreage.

Growers should decide which allotment they want to use and plant accordingly. If the cotton acreage is determined in excess of the chosen allotment, the grower will have an opportunity to adjust the acreage to the allotment by a deadline to be established by the ASC county committee.

duction to anyone, at any time, and at such prices as he can get. There are no restrictions on sales of 1964 crop wheat. A producer desiring to receive a price support loan, certificates and acreage diversion payment, can voluntarily sign up to participate and become a co-operator. For further information come by or call the ASCS County Office. The phone number is 728-5442.

COTTON QUOTAS STILL IN EFFECT IN 1964

Cotton marketing quotas will continue in effect in 1964, as approved by growers last December. The question arose as a result of the recently enacted cotton legislation, which supplements the cotton program already in effect. Marketing quotas were approved for the 1964 upland cotton crop by 94 per cent of the growers voting in a referendum throughout cotton-producing areas.

Under a quota program, marketing penalties apply to any "excess" cotton. This part of the program will operate the same as in former years. The difference this year is that under the new cotton legislation the upland cotton grower will have three allotment programs to choose from. ## VA Answers Vets Questions

Q—Will a dishonorable discharge from military service bar a veteran from receiving VA hospitalization?

A—Yes, that is the case. Q—I am disabled and the premiums on my National Service Life Insurance are waived. When I die will my beneficiary receive the full amount of my policy or will the unpaid premiums be deducted at the time of settlement?

A—Your beneficiary will receive the full face value of your policy. No deduction will be made to cover the premiums you did not pay while the policy was on waiver.

Q—Does the VA furnish medical care to dependents of veterans?

A—No, not as such. Of course, VA hospitals will admit anyone when necessary to save a life in a medical emergency. But such non-veteran patients must pay the government for their care.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Board of Supervisors will, on May 4th, 1964, purchase for and on behalf of the Fifth Supervisor's District, one side mount rotary mower equipped with swing blades, guard chains, front and rear. Bids must be filed with the clerk of this board by 10 o'clock A. M. on that date.

This the 7 day of April, 1964. Bluford Allen, Clerk of the Board. 2-4tc

What Would It Cost To Rebuild?

The replacement cost of commercial buildings continues the steady rise shown in recent years. Insurance policies written three years ago should be increased by 6 to 9 per cent to keep insurance level with current replacement costs; the increase in the last year has been an average 2½ per cent.

Fire property loss for this class was the highest on record in 1963; there has been a marked increase in the number of fires in factories and commercial buildings. Be sure that you will have enough insurance in the event of a damaging loss.

If you do not, contact CARTER-MUTUAL for low, low rates. (pd. adv.)

A bachelor is a fellow who can take a nap on the top of a bedspread. The U. S. Post Office handles 68 billion pieces of mail annually, half the world's total.
