2 Teen-Agers Injured In Separate Accidents Over The Week End

Miss Linda Breeland and Jerry Carpenter were injured in separate automobile accidents which occurred over the week end.

Miss Breeland, 19, daughter of Mrs. Alvie Whitely of Booneville, suffered a serious cut on her left arm and bruises on her face and head late Saturday night when the car in which she was riding went down a 25-foot embankment, and she was thrown from the car.

The driver, Richard Scott of Corinth, apparently went to sleep. He was not injured. Both he and Miss Breeland are students at Northeast Mississippi Junior College. She is in the Baptist Hospital in Memphis, where her condition is reported to be improved.

Jerry Carpenter, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Carpenter of Highway 30 East, suffered severe head injuries Sunday night at 9:15 when the car he was driving overturned.

The accident occurred near the VFW Hut about two miles northeast of Booneville. Deputy Sheriff J. B. Whitehead, who investigated, said the other passengers in the car reported that the brakes failed as they were approaching a curve on the gravel road and the car ran up the side of the bank. When Jerry looked out of the window to survey the situation the car turned over and pinned his head beneath it.

After receiving emergency treatment at Northeast Mississippi Hospital here, he was taken to Baptist Hospital in Memphis where his condition is critical.

Jerry Lambert and two Dodds boys of Thrasher were passengers in the car, and Lambert stayed overnight in the hospital here for observation, but was not seriously injured.

To My Friends Of Northeast Mississippi

Even though severe temporary illness forced my retirement from public life this past year, it did not in the least diminish or detract from my dedicated interest in the future of our State and Nation. This interest is the only reason for my making the following statements to my friends who have trusted my judgment in the past, and to the present leaders of our State and this section of the Nation.

I will say in the beginning that I believe that the Republican Convention at San Francisco, by its action, gave the American people, and especially the people of the South, and MOST especially the people of Mississippi, a ray of hope and an inspiration to re-dedicate their lives to those principles on which our Nation was founded, and on which it has grown to be the greatest country in the world. It is perfectly clear to me that the return to sanity, in the writing of the Republican platform, together with their selection of Barry Goldwater, gives us a tremendous opportunity — with a solid united South—to become a part of the return to a Constitutional government of laws that will recognize each and every area of our great country as being of equal importance.

I am sure that all of those of our section who are dedicated to our way of life must take pride in the reception of the entire Southern delegation at the Republican Convention and the decisive part they played, with a united front, in the final results. You will perhaps recall with pride that it was this solid block of a little less than three hundred votes that had the nomination of Senator Goldwater completely secured from the very beginning. It was with this backlog of solid support that the Goldwater forces rolled back every effort of the radical extremists. I believe we can take further pride in the fact that it was a Southern state, South Carolina, that cast the final deciding vote that put Senator Goldwater over the top as the party nominee.

As I take pride in these gains, I am horrified at the thought that this could be the South's and even America's last chance to re-establish Constitutional government, if the South should play petty selfish politics and be influenced by party labels, rather than principles. With this in mind, I would like to congratulate those Democratic State Officials who are taking their position this early, and putting the future of Mississippi ahead of their own future.

These statements are inspired by the recent statements and position of Mr. Tom Garrot regarding the Mississippi Democratic Convention next week. Tom Garrot is a life-long Democrat-like most of the rest of us—a great Mississippian and long-time member of the Democratic Executive Committee. As a life-long Democrat and former State Representative, I am begging our delegates to the State Convention to join Tom Garrot in endorsing Barry Goldwater, and boycotting the so-called Democratic Convention.

This conglomeration of minority groups and corrupt big city machines is all set to kick our duly elected delegates and replace them with illiterates now being recruited by Rev. Martin Luther King, James Farmer, and other rabble rousers. Please, let's not humiliate any of our loyal Democratic State citizens by having them empaneled in this manner.

With my feelings, I would be an ingrate if I did not recall the overwhelming part Gov. George Wallace has played in setting up the present situation. No man in American history has been so completely abused, maligned, and insulted as this man was in carrying my message—and yours—to the people of Indiana, Wisconsin, and Maryland. No man in history ever conducted himself in a more dignified manner than he did in

Ladies Auxiliary Of First Freewill Has Regular Meeting

The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Freewill Baptist Church met at the church July 21 for their regular meeting.

Since the last meeting, the auxiliary has visited several places, of which includes the three nursing homes of Booneville. Among other projects were the clothes sent to the Cuban Refugees at the shelter in Florida.

After all items of business were disclosed, the program was entered into. Mrs. Captula Lawrence presided as program chairman and gave the introduction. After the introduction, prayer was bestowed by Mrs. Fay Pierce. Mrs. Marselle Lindsey read the scripture found in Isaiah 28:9 and in Deuteronomy 4:9. In subsequent program, "My Family Too" was given. Part one was presented by Mrs. Maggie Galahar; Part two by Mrs. Alma Martin; and Part three by Mrs. Lowen Stein Wright.

After the program, an altar call was given by the president, Mrs. Dorothy Gore. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Lowen Stein Wright.

carrying our message. There could be no question that the dignified manner that he did in carrying our message. There could be no question that the gigantic protest that Governor Wallace rolled up under these adverse circumstances served notice on America that John Doe is demanding a change, and created a climate different to any other Convention held by either party during the past forty years. If a great, true Democrat, that has contributed what he has to this cause can be so unselfish as to withdraw from national acclaim at a time when his popularity is growing by leaps and bounds, I can do no less, as a private citizen, than do any and everything in my power to elect Barry Goldwater, and help restore the Constitution and the Supreme Court to their rightful, respectful places.

Definitely, we will elect either Senator Goldwater or President Johnson in the November election. Which shall it be? THINK ON THESE THINGS.

Sincerely,

COTTON EXPORT MARKET ACREAGE ANNOUNCED

Growers in Mississippi have filed a total of 1,085 applications under the export acreage provisions of the 1964 upland cotton program, Orville E. Bostick, Chairman of the Mississippi Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, has announced.

These applications cover a maximum of 15,015 acres for export, representing an increase of 0.9 percent over the State's total allotment of 1,550,709 acres available for distribution to upland cotton growers this year.

Nationally, 10,189 applications have been filed for export market acreage for maximum of 87,737 acres. This represents an acreage increase of 0.5 percent over the total allotment of 16.2 million acres.

The chairman explained that the special upland cotton program for 1964 upland cotton provides for export market acreage (5 percent) in addition to a farm's effective farm allotment. Export market acreage is authorized by the legislation enacted early this year when the additional acreage will not interfere with reducing the carryover by at least a million bales a year.

Producers had until June 1 to file applications for such export acreage. Production from such acreage is for export only, and neither price support nor export payments are available for this cotton. Bonds or other undertakings furnished by producers to assure export of the cotton will be released or cash deposits refunded upon satisfactory proof that the necessary amount or such export cotton — the number of pounds equal to the appraised 1964 production of the export market acreage — has actually been exported.

Growers who plan export acreage, of course, are not eligible on the same farm to receive the additional 3.5 cents price support payments available to producers who reduce their cotton acreage under the domestic allotment program. They will, however, be eligible for the basic price support loan of 30 cents a pound on cotton produced within the farm's effective allotment.

ACREAGE REPORTED FOR '64 COTTON CROP

Cotton planted in 1964 estimated as of July 1 at 14,754,000 acres, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has reported. This is 0.6 percent less than was planted last year, and 4 percent less than the 1958-62 average. The upland cotton allotment of 16.2 million acres for 1964 is only fractionally less than in 1963. The 1964 allotment of 112,500 acres for extra long staple cotton is about one-fourth less than last year.

Orville E. Bostick, Chairman of the Mississippi Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, points out that new cotton legislation was approved in early April after the planting was underway in many areas. Under the new upland cotton program, farmers had three choices. They could (1) plant their 1964 allotment as originally issued; (2) plant the farm's domestic allotment—in most cases, about 67 percent of the effective allotment—and receive a payment of 3.5 cents per pound over the basic support price; or (3) apply for and plant 5 percent more than the basic allotment, after furnishing assurance that the production from the extra "export market acreage" would be exported without government payments.

Under the latter provision, growers throughout the country have applied for about 88,000 acres of export cotton this year, with most of the acreage in Texas, California, and Mississippi. Since growers have until their acreage is officially measured to decide between growing their cotton according to the farm's effective or domestic allotment, no report has been issued as yet on the extent of participation with the domestic allotment plan.

sued as yet on the extent of participation with the domestic allotment plan.

The new cotton legislation is not applicable to extra long staple cotton.

A Typical Baseball Game

And now we go to a baseball park To see an exciting game.

That's our favorite team at bat; We know them all by name.

The batter's up and the pitcher's ready;

The ball comes flying through the air.

The batter swings and goes around. He missed it but a hair.

The batter stands, his muscles tense;

He knows he must come through. The pitch is coming, there it is.

The umpire yells, "Strike two!"

The batter has but one more chance

To try to get a hit.

And now the ball comes streaking home;

It pops into the catcher's mitt.

The batter thinks the pitch was low And knows the umpire cannot see. But then the cry rings in his ears. The umpire says, "Strike three!"

"Oh yeah," the batter swings around,

"I know that pitch was low. I don't have to be called out

Even if you do say so!

The umpire listened silently, And then he calmly said,

"Go home and eat your supper, son,

And then climb into bed.

We all know how the game is played;

Surely we've heard the name. This is one of the incidents

In a typical baseball game.

You're Missing A Lot

Have you risen in the early dawn? Seen the sparkling dew on your lawn?

Heard some bird's first lazy peep? Watched your babe smiling in sleep? If not, you're missing a lot.

Have you watched "Old Glory" in the breeze unfurl and wave? Or prayed that ours will continue to be the "Land of the free and home of the brave?"

Have you helped to bear another's load? Or cheered a brother along life's road?

Have you thrilled to clasp a friend's hand? Have you told him of the Heavenly land? If not, you're missing a lot.

Is your greatest joy in serving the Lord? Do you worship according to his Word?

Try to live close to Him each day? By studying His word and remembering to pray? If not, you're missing a lot.

Just Scribbling

by

MRS. ED JOHNSON

Beautiful dahlias decorated the coffee table at Aletha Lodge over the week end. The three varieties, Autumn Blaze, Mrs. Mary Lord and Polly Bergen, were grown by Mr. Herman Wood who says he now has 32 different kinds. He had 60 last year, but the weather played havoc with many of them. We appreciated him bringing them by. I hesitate to mention the many pretty flowers brought to the Lodge for fear I'll omit some. Earlier in the spring, Mrs. Theron Pounds sent several arrangements of large lovely pansies. We had a unique white arrangement from Mrs. Brit Barron; others from Mr. P. B. Hale, Mrs. Douglas Dallison, and goodness, many others I'll remember AFTER the paper comes out.

Readers of this paper will be interested to know that Mrs. Lois Holley, who owned a hotel here for many years, now the Holiday Hotel, is with us. She's still pretty and we're just elated that the Lodge is her present home.

Norman Young has his new Standard Station completed and it's very attractive. Of special note is the sidewalk he has built beside the station. I just wish it went right on up to First Street. With all the other needs we're always talking about, we do wish the city had more funds to devote to good sidewalks.

Kenneth Smith asked me, "Why do pots have 3 legs?" I thought and thought, but couldn't figure out why. "Simple," he said, "so they won't wobble." It's true that with three legs an appliance won't wobble. Don't know why I didn't know that.

I enjoyed a recent visit in the Roger Stanley home. I had gone by to pick up an item for the paper from Mrs. Stanley and stayed an hour admiring all the beautiful things in the home. One set of dishes, hand-painted with the Coat of Arms of various rulers, was unusually pretty—the craftsmanship was truly the work of an artist.

Our sons have been at Ivy Hill Motel in Maggie, N. C. with the Longs for the past 10 days. Their daddy has had to find grasshoppers, crickets, etc., to feed the menagerie. We've really missed them, especially at night.

The champion athlete in bed with a cold was told by his doctor that he had a temperature of a hundred and one. The athlete then asked, "What's the world's record?"

Judge—I shall have to give you ten days or $20.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

The article written by Mr. Dixon to the Commercial Appeal and reprinted in your column expresses very well how far we have drifted from helpfulness to each other since the generation of our fathers. Hire lads indeed! We always thought pall bearers were usually counted friends of the deceased or his family. This last service should be one of love and sympathy. If six or eight men cannot carry one dead man a short distance, how can the poor undertakers stay alive? I've never noted a pulley to hoist the body while it is being prepared for burial.

Mr. Dixon should have told the family if he had a heart condition. They certainly would understand his refusal to help. His very suggestion that someone be paid to do this service makes us think he is lazy, selfish, or the person buried meant nothing to him at all.

We remember the time when friends not only willingly and gladly carried the coffin, but dug the grave also.

MISSISSIPPI PLANTS 1,495,000 ACRES OF COTTON IN 1964

Cotton acreage planted in Mississippi in 1964 is estimated at 1,495,000 acres. This is 10,000 acres more than the 1,485,000 acres planted in 1963, but 25,000 less than the 5-year average of 1,520,000 acres.

During this 5-year period, cotton acreage planted ranged from 1,185,000 acres in 1958 to 1,665,000 acres in 1961. The 12 Delta counties planted an estimated 803,000 acres of cotton in 1964, slightly more than in 1963. The remainder of the state planted an estimated 692,000 acres, compared to 683,500 acres in 1963.

Farrar's And Dr. Dixon's Offices Are Redecorated

Farrar's Beauty Shop and the dental office of Dr. Vance Dixon, both located on the second floor of the building on the corner of Main and West Church Street have recently been redecorated.

The continental look was carried out effectively at Farrar's. Walls of pinehurst green blend with booths painted blue spruce and the styling chairs and air-conditioned dryers are upholstered in antique gold. At the windows, Austrian shades are enhanced with off-white draperies, also used at the booths, and a touch of the French decor is added by the gold ropes and tassels.

Operators are Miss Geraldine Williams, whose booth is decorated with a group of bird pictures, and Mr. Van Robinson, whose booth is adorned with pictures of Harlequin dances. Mr. Loyce Farrar's styling department walls are graced with artistic landscape pictures by Robert Wood and Rob Palmer.

The lobby furniture is Danish modern upholstered in moss green. Mr. Farrar has been in business in this location for 26 years.

Dr. Dixon chose restful sage green for the walls of the reception room, two operator rooms and lab room.

The new tile floor is a marbled pattern. Draperies are of a textured cotton with silk matching roping used for tie backs.

Green Austrian shades will be used in the lab room.

Mrs. Bobby Chaffin is Dr. Dixon's receptionist.

Dr. Dixon has practiced dentistry in Booneville for 28 years and has been in the present location since 1943.

Procedure Change In Getting Number For Social Security

U. S. Internal Revenue Service said today that persons needing social security numbers for tax purposes henceforth should apply to the local office of the Social Security Administration or Internal Revenue Service.

Special procedures in effect the last two years for issuing such numbers centrally from Baltimore have been discontinued. Internal Revenue said the volume of new requests has declined to the point where it is believed issuance can be handled at the local level more efficiently.

Form 3435, Notice of Identifying Number, used by payers of dividends and interest to request account numbers from their shareholders and depositors has been revised to reflect the new procedure for obtaining numbers locally. Financial institutions and corporations should obtain supplies of the revised form from District Director of Internal Revenue, 301 N. Lamar Street, Jackson, Mississippi and should discontinue use of the previous Form 3435(9-62) which listed a Baltimore post office box.

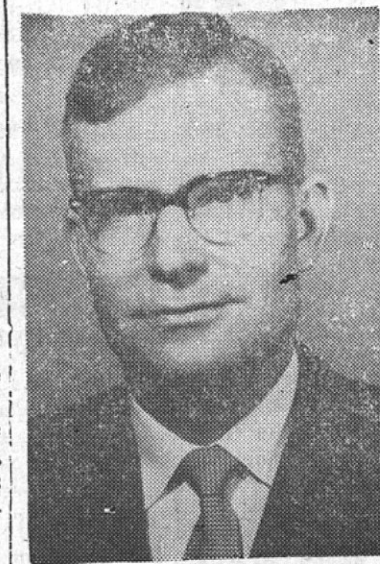

Taxpayers are required by law to enter their tax account (social security) number on their tax return. Recipients of dividends and interest are required to furnish their number to payers of income who must report such payments to Internal Revenue. Tax reporting by identifying number is essential to effective operation of Internal Revenue's ADP system for computer maintenance of taxpayers accounts.

"Worrying won't solve our problems but it will keep us in training to run and hide a while from emergencies," —Douglas Meador, Matador (Tex.) Tribune.

Three conferences and meetings because of exceptional leadership ability.

Patsy was accompanied to Muscle Shoals by Mrs. Claire Ross, Prentiss County Extension Home Agent.

Research Points To Better Control Of Cotton Boll Rot

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Modern practices which increase cotton yields also tend to increase boll rot losses. Large, densely-leaved plants result from irrigation and heavy fertilization and these conditions are more favorable for rot.

Dr. C. D. Ranney, USDA plant pathologist, is studying the problem at the Delta Branch Experiment Station at Stoneville. In 3 years of testing he found that fungicides reduced boll rot losses significantly but in two of the three years the savings were not great enough to offset the cost of the chemicals and their application.

The helicopter was found to be an excellent vehicle for applying fungicides. It resulted in good penetration without the damage ground equipment normally inflicts on the plant.

Bottom defoliation combined with early harvest is the most practical of all methods for controlling boll rot, according to Dr. Ranney. In recent tests this combination has increased the value of the cotton crop 36 per acre. Dr. Ranney believes the savings will justify the cost most years.

"With the economic necessity of using mechanical harvesting, early bolls remain exposed to adverse weather conditions for a longer period of time," Dr. Ranney said. "Exposure alone is a major factor favoring boll rot, but together with an environment in the field that favors boll rot development, the situation becomes an increasingly serious problem."

Skip-row planting reduces boll rot. The open type of planting permits more rapid drying and allows better light penetration in the lower plant zone. Fallowing of the skipped rows also helps control other cotton diseases.

WHEAT PRODUCTION RECORD HIGH

Mississippi's 1964 wheat crop is estimated at 4,437,000 bushels, over 3 times as much as the 1,302,000 bushels harvested in 1963 and triple the 5-year average of 1,166,000 bushels. Yield per acre is forecast at 29 bushels this year, 2 bushels less than in 1963, but 3.6 bushels above average. There were 153,000 acres harvested for grain in 1964, compared to 42,000 last year, and the 5-year average of 51,000 acres.

Netherlands Cadets Will Visit Corinth C.A.P. Squadron

On July 30th and 31st the Corinth Eagle Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol will be visited by five Cadets and their escorts from the Netherlands. Officers from Mississippi Wing Civil Air Patrol will fly them to Corinth where they will be met by members of the local squadron. They will then proceed to Shiloh Park and Pickwick Dam for a guided tour.

Major Doris M. Baker, Commander of Corinth Eagle Composite Squadron stated that "The Red Carpet Treatment" is planned for them from the time they disembark the aircraft at Roscoe Turner Field until they depart for Columbus Air Force Base for a tour.

A special detail of C.A.P. Cadets are to roll out the red carpet to their aircraft where the visitors will be properly welcomed by Mayor John D. Mercier, Major Baker and other members of the Corinth Squadron. After the welcoming ceremonies the group will proceed to Shiloh and Pickwick for the tours. A covered dish supper is planned for the night of July 30th. A cruise down the river is included in the agenda at which time the group will be aboard a luxurious yacht.

These Cadets are in the United States on the Civil Air Patrol International Cadet Exchange and are guests of Mississippi Wing Civil Air Patrol and squadrons designated by Mississippi Wing Officers. It is an honor to be selected as one of the squadrons to assist in making their visit to this country a success.

The group will depart Corinth on July 31st for Columbus Air Force Base for a guided tour, and then proceed to Jackson, Miss.

Better Equipment Being Developed For Crop Dusting

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—Engineers, who say equipment for aerial application of dusts and granules has changed little since the practice began 40 years ago, are now busy improving the distribution system.

A new system, designed and tested at Mississippi State University, reportedly requires less power to operate, permits better control over the ejected materials, and gives a wider swath.

The most frequently used dust distributing system is the venturi, which depends on air scooped in by the forward motion of the plane to force the dust out through the spreader. Mississippi engineers installed two engine driven blowers in the system. This supplied positive sources of energy, forcing the material laterally into the wing-tip outlets to produce greater swath width.

In the venturi system, swath width is controlled to a great extent by the altitude of the plane. High flying produces a wide swath but this also increases the danger of chemical drift to nearby susceptible crops. Wide swaths can be obtained at low altitudes with the positive energy system, thus reducing the drift hazard.

Three agricultural engineers, Fred L. Shuman, Jr., Dr. W. R. Fox, and Dr. James H. Anderson, reported their findings in a recent Experiment Station publication. The research was done in cooperation with the Aerophysics Department.

Swath width is one of the most important factors which control the cost of applying chemicals by air.

VA Answers Vets Questions

Q—Under the terms of the GI loan benefit, can a veteran mortgage his present home to obtain money for other expenses?

A—Only for home improvement. GI loans are not available to pay doctor bills, buy furniture, etc.

Q—I hold a permanent plan GI life insurance policy. I need money to pay bills. Should I cash in my policy?

A—You should consider borrowing on your policy. You may borrow as much as 94 per cent of the cash surrender value without losing your insurance protection. Once a policy is surrendered for cash, it cannot be restored.

Q—I was discharged from service less than a year ago. Is it possible to receive dental outpatient care from the VA?

A—It will be necessary that you file a claim for dental treatment within a year from the date of your active duty. The VA will make a determination as to the outpatient care you may receive.

In the Mississippi tests, swath widths 2½ times that of the standard venturi system were obtained with the new equipment. The engineers say that when blowers are used, swaths 80 to 100 feet wide may be expected in most field applications. For general application work, a flight speed of 90 miles per hour and an ejection altitude of 15 feet produced the widest swath and gave best control over ejected material.

HOME AGENT NOTES

By CLAIRE T. ROSS

The Preserving and Freezing and Canning season has definitely descended. Prentiss County certainly has its share of industriously busy homemakers involved in the pursuit of these activities. So, the following comes as a timely suggestion:

How to Preserve a Husband
Be careful with your selection. Do not choose too young. When selected, give your entire thoughts to preparation for domestic use. Some wives insist on keeping them in a pickle, others are constantly getting them into hot water. This may make them sour, hard, and sometimes bitter. Even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good—by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with love and seasoned with kisses. Wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion, and serve with peaches and cream. Thus prepared, they will keep for years.

The above is not original, but it includes good home management as well as skill!

Maybe you have heard about the recipe book the home demonstration clubs of Prentiss County are compiling. This collection of recipes will be not only from the kitchens of home demonstration members, but from good cooks all over the county.

Mrs. Paul Hallstedt of Booneville H. D. Club gave us this recipe, typical of the good recipes included:

DILL PICKLES

1 qt. white vinegar
3 qts. water
Three-fourths cup salt
1 teaspoon powdered alum
Bring ingredients just to a boil. Into each jar put one grape leaf and 1 garlic clove. Place a head of dill in bottom of jar. Fill with medium sized cucumbers. Place another head of dill on top. Pour the hot liquid over each jar and seal.

Set jars in the sun. Every other day turn upside down. This allows flavors to spread evenly. Processing takes about 10 days.

If you have not included your favorite recipe, send it in this week—or drop by the office and pick up a blank.

PLAN BEFORE YOU BUY

Your family's needs and desires, the color scheme, the style of furniture, the kind of space you have, your budget limitations—all of these points should be considered before you actually buy furniture.

Take time to study magazines and furniture ads; discuss the different styles and colors with your family and friends; talk with experienced decorators, if possible. You'll learn many good basic ideas which can help you. Listen carefully, then make up your OWN mind, based on what you and your family want.

Once you have a plan in mind, look around. Furniture is usually a long time investment and it is much better to make up your mind slowly than to have a mistake staring at you for years to come.

DRESSING ZIP FOR SALADS

Green salads go along with summer meals and cookouts. For regular use in your mixed salads, you may want to do as many homemakers do: keep a quart of French dressing on hand.

The basic recipe for a quart of this dressing calls for 3 cups vegetable oil, 1 cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons paprika and a dash of pepper.

To make, combine all ingredients and beat well. Store the dressing in a covered jar in the refrigerator. Shake well before using.

You can vary this basic dressing in a number of ways.
For tossed salads, blend 1 ounce of blue or Roquefort cheese and 2 tablespoons cream into a cup of basic French dressing.

For vegetable salads, add a hard-cooked egg, a small cooked beet, and a finely chopped small onion to 1 cup of basic French dressing.

For another variation, to 1 cup of basic dressing add 1 finely chopped hard-cooked egg, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon chili powder, 1 tablespoon grated onion and a quartered garlic clove. Remove garlic before serving.

Have you tried using a second top sheet on cool summer nights? It adds just the right comfort and is easier to launder than a light blanket.

Voters Will Have Choice

If hindsight were foresight, we would all be able to observe that the successful drive for the Republican presidential nomination. Not so many months ago at political pundits decided that Senator Goldwater, for all of his efforts, had next to no chance, and they dregged up all manner of evidence to substantiate that view. A betting man could have gained excellent odds with a wager against him.

But history, as it has a habit of doing, has taken a very different page. And the varied reasons, practical and philosophical, for the Goldwater victory are now evident.

For one thing, he had, and has, a dedicated organization which demonstrated the ultimate in political understanding and efficiency. The Goldwater effort was aimed squarely at the grass roots. It is conducted on a precinct-to-precinct basis. This isn't make headlines, but it did gather in determined and unmovable delegates.

For another, the Senator had proven his status as a real party man. He held the job of Chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee for three campaigns. It was his taxing duty to visit every state, time and time again, eliciting funds and other support for GOP Senators facing electoral fights whether or not their views on controversial issues squared with his. He thus placed the party in his debt. And, at the same time, he became known in every far reach of this country.

But there was another consideration that went beyond these political assets, important as they were in bringing about the result at San Francisco. Senator Goldwater, more than any other seeker of the nomination, promised and stood solidly for a program and a philosophy that will offer the voters a real choice come next November, whatever their decision may be.

As Raymond Moley wrote a while back in Newsweek, "What must be understood is that, according to the compilations of voting records by the Congressional Quarterly, the Republicans in the Senate have been more and more polarized against the liberal Democrats during the past five years. They have provided an authentic, responsible opposition." It can be added that deep cleavages in attitudes are not a Republican monopoly. The Democrats must deal with that problem too.

In other words, no matter what one may think of his views, Senator Goldwater presents a direct contrast to what is known as "me-tooism"—that being an attitude that offers the voters programs which are little different from those of the entrenched opposition. No man now nationally prominent in public life stands so solidly against what he regards as the unnecessary and destructive growth of federal power and in favor of individualism, private enterprise, personal liberty, and the responsibilities and rights of the states.

This, the Senator and his backers are convinced, represents the present mainstream of American thought. But that is another story—a dramatic and significant story which will not be told until the votes are tallied in November.

Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

It seems the older people get, the more they cherish and speak of their memories. Memories are as much a part of our existence as anything else you can think of. Even in the fast-paced world of today, our day by day experiences and associations with others will result in fond memories some time in the future.

Mr. Woodruff

So, with this in mind, see how your thoughts stack up with these memories of days gone by. Your mellow years are showing if you can remember when the family drove down to the depot and watched the evening train come in. And the only sure way to find out the exact time was to ask the conductor.

The greatest ordeal of a young boy was when his mother sent him out in the yard to cut a switch off the peach tree when he knew it would be used to give him a whipping. And when a boy's daily chores around the house were filling the box in the kitchen with wood for the kitchen stove.

Playing the record player meant winding the Victrola up and changing the needle after each record. A most enjoyable evening was when the family gathered in the living room to listen to the radio. A fireplace in homes was the only source of heat. Today, a fireplace is a luxury and a status symbol.

When an airplane flew over town, everybody was out trying to get a look at it. And when a plane did land, the entire town turned out.

100 Years Ago—

Sherman Repels Hood In Battle Of Atlanta

By LON K. SAVAGE

Confederate Gen. John B. Hood, whose job it was to defend Atlanta, was known everywhere as a man who wasn't afraid to fight. He saw the opportunity, and he saw the opportunity 100 years ago this week.

Not once, but three times did Hood see an opportunity to fight. Each time, he sent his army tramping out from Atlanta against the larger army of Federal Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, who rapidly was surrounding the city.

The first time came within 48 hours after Hood replaced Joe Johnston in command of the Confederates at Atlanta. He watched as Sherman's army crossed Peachtree Creek and fanned out just north of the city, and he perceived a glimmer on Sherman's part: Sherman had divided his army, part of it under George Thomas, "The Rock of Chickamauga," coming in on the city from the northwest, the other part under George W. Schofield and James B. McPherson coming in from the northeast through Decatur.

Hood attacked immediately, hoping to defeat Thomas while he was separated and then turn on the others. In early afternoon, his men poured out of their entrenchments and slammed into Thomas' army as it straddled Peachtree Creek.

But "The Rock of Chickamauga" was at his best in such a predicament. His men held steady, even when the fighting got hand to hand, and Thomas brought up artillery and reinforcements that sent Hood's men retreating back into the city. Over around Decatur, too, Schofield and McPherson charged, and Hood had his hands full. His first attack petered out a failure.

But Hood was not through yet. Next evening, the 21st, he sent a corps under William J. Hardee sneaking southward in the night, circling around below Decatur where McPherson's army was moving in. At dawn of the 22nd, Hardee's men came swooping in on one of McPherson's corps from the rear.

The Battle Again, Sherman's army reacted with precision. The men under attack turned around and began firing into Hardee's men with lethal effect. Other Federals came down to join in the fight. Hood countered by sending another corps charging toward Decatur from Atlanta, and this time McPherson's men turned around again to stave off the new threat.

In the midst of the fighting, McPherson galloped toward the noise, rode into a group of Confederates and was shot dead from the saddle. Sherman later wept when the body was brought to him and sent off a saddened letter to the 34-year-old McPherson's fiancée in Baltimore.

Meanwhile, Hood's attack again was petering out. Sherman sent in new divisions and brought up artillery himself to check the Southern advance. Gen. John "Black Jack" Logan, who succeeded Mc-

Local Business

By S. S. TALBOT
Chairman, Dept. of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Advertising works best if it reaches the consumer when he is in the proper mood and attitude.

This axiom, widely accepted by marketing experts, accounts for major food stores spending from 75 to 100 per cent of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

Grocery advertising fills a need which is valued by the busy American housewife. It saves her time and money which could be translated into billions of dollars annually.

Grocery advertising provides the latest information at a time when it is most wanted. It is complete; it tells where to buy and what to buy. It gives specific details on prices.

Important to the housewife and retailer alike, grocery advertising in the newspaper is accepted without question. It is a convenient basis for a shopping list in which the housewife has full confidence.

Buying is certain to follow advertising accepted under such conditions. Grocery stores have not found a medium which duplicates the local newspaper in creating such conditions at so little cost.

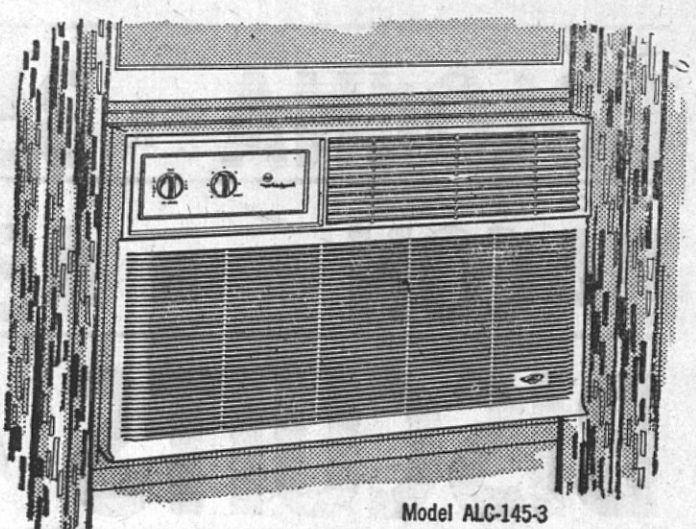

The grocer's choice of the local newspaper as a primary information outlet is not a matter of speculation. Sales are the surest and best test. The larger grocers have tried all advertising media. They have kept specific figures on results.

But after experiments they return to the local newspaper as the best medium for reaching the housewife when she is "in the proper mood and attitude."

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

COTTON INSECTS

Farmers need to keep a close check in cotton fields now for insects. Boll weevil infestation is increasing, worms are increasing in some fields and Red Spider is increasing in a number of fields.

It is necessary from now on to check cotton at least twice each week and if infestations are building up apply three applications of poison at 4-day intervals.

PEACH TREES

August 1 is the time to put on the first application of insecticide for control of peach tree borers. Among the materials recommended are DDT, Dieldrin and Thidan. Spray the trunks thoroughly. Second and third applications should be made around September 1 and October 1. Check the Mississippi Spray Calendar available free from this office, for specific details on controlling peach tree borers.

COTTON WEED CONTROL

Cotton is generally too big for cultivation now to control grass and weeds. Middles are full of cotton roots and damage would likely occur if it were cultivated.

But for control of the late grass and weeds, following the rainy weather, you can use flame cultivation or herbicides.

Several flamings may be necessary to clean up a real grassy field.

For farmers not having flaming equipment, use of herbicides may be the only answer. Diuron plus surfactant at the contact kill rate, or relatively low rate; or at a full layby rate will do an excellent job on most actively growing grass and weeds.

If weeds are larger than two inches tall, it may be necessary to use 30 to 40 gallons of solution to get good results.

It will pay in quality cotton, more dollars per bale, to get rid of grass and weeds. Come by this office for details.

SOIL TESTING

Soil testing takes the guess work out of fertilization and liming. It lets you know specifically the kinds and amounts of fertilizer and lime needed for particular crops.

The majority of our soils are too acid to get best results from fertilizer applied.

Lime helps in at least five ways: It makes most plant nutrients, especially phosphorous, more available to plants.

Soil bacteria are needed for good plant growth. The bacteria multiply faster in sweet soil than in acid soil. Increasing the activity of the microbes speeds decay of organic matter, releases plant nutrients and improves soil tilth.

Lime increases fixation of nitrogen by the soil bacteria and legume root-nodules.

Limestone supplies calcium as well as some magnesium, if dolomitic, to growing plants. Both these elements are needed for proper growth.

Liming helps overcome crop depressing action of aluminum and manganese in highly acid soils.

Soil testing lets you know just how much lime is needed to bring the pH of your soil to the proper level.

For details on soil testing, come by this office and pick up information and soil cartons.

N.E. Group Wins National Honor

Northeast Mississippi Junior College has learned that its president and four of its alumni have been selected to appear in the 1965 edition of the Outstanding Young Men of America publication, an annual biographical compilation sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Named from Northeast were President E. A. Knight, Adrian Smith, Dr. Gerald B. Windham, Arnold Wilson, and Dr. Lamar Quarles. Biographical sketches of each of the men will be included in the new edition of Outstanding Young Men of America. They were selected by a thirteen-man National Board of Editors, and will be among approximately 10,000 young men between the ages of 21 and 36 who "have distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor to the point of being outstanding."

President Knight came to Northeast as Academic Dean in 1960, and was named to the presidency in 1961. He started his career in education as a teacher and assistant principal of Meehan High School at Meridian, following graduation from the University of Southern Mississippi, where he obtained both his bachelor's and master's degrees.

He was superintendent of Lauderdale, Miss., school system, and registrar and dean at East Mississippi Junior College at Scooba.

President Knight has been listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest since 1961.

Adrian Smith, an alumnus of Northeast, is a professional basketball player with the Cincinnati Royals.

Dr. Gerald B. Windham is a native of the Jumptown Community and is sociology professor at Mississippi State University.

Arnold Wilson is a physical therapist at Regional Rehabilitation Center in Tupelo, and is a native of Baldwin. He graduated from Northeast in 1956.

Dr. Lamar Quarles is on the staff of Belhaven College in Jackson. Following his graduation from Northeast, he obtained his bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi State University, and his doctorate from Louisiana State University.
