Many Saddened By Death Of Huck Windham

The passing of Herschel Windham, business man and electrical engineer, last Tuesday, August 18, 1964, in the Baptist Hospital in Memphis touched many hearts in Prentiss County from the poorest to the richest.

Services for Herschel were held on Thursday at 3 p.m. in McMillan Funeral Home with Rev. W. L. Wallace, Rev. Huey Wood, Rev. W. E. Sharp and Rev. T. L. Parker conducting.

Huck, as he was known by all, was married to the former Estelene Barnes and leaves two daughters, Beth and Mitzie Windham.

Huck was born February 12, 1921, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edd Windham, members of one of the oldest families in Prentiss County.

After attending the Booneville Public Schools, Huck went on to make a name for himself in the business world. He began his career in the electrical and plumbing field working for M. A. "Jack" Brown, and soon started contracting on his own. He built a good business for himself through hard work, long hours and a devotion to his job. At the time of his death, he was working on several contracts — small and large, but regardless of the size of the job, it received his best.

Huck was a member of the Fairview Baptist Church. He served in the armed forces for five years during World War II and saw action overseas in Europe.

Also surviving him are four sisters, Mrs. Pearl Holley, Mrs. Earl Dobbins, Mrs. Aaron Dillon and Mrs. Raymond Spencer, and two brothers, Leonard Windham and Sam J. Windham.

The active pall bearers were Whit Miller, Paul McCullar, Douglas Jumper, Theron Pounds, Marvin Burcham and Clarence Tidwell.

Honorary pall bearers were his immediate employees.

Huck will long be remembered in the hearts of his many friends. His keen wit and manner made him welcome in any group. To know Huck was to love him.

First Cotton Ginned Tues.; Harvest Outlook Is Good

The harvest looks good for Prentiss County, and this week saw the first bale of cotton ginned. Mayor M. W. Smith said Vernon Morgan of Route 2, Baldwin, had the first bale. It weighed 444 pounds and was ginned at the Wheeler Gin. He has 27 and 6/10th acres of Dixie King and picked this bale off of about 3 1/2 acres on the Bonnier Arnold farm. The cotton was planted April 12th and ginned Tuesday.

Leonard Bishop, likewise, thought he had the first bale. He lives on Route 3, Baldwin. His bale was ginned at the Corbitt Gin Co. and weighed 480 pounds. He planted the Smooth Leaf Pine cotton on April 8th and has 45 acres of cotton on the Sam Patten place in Pratt Community about 3 miles east of Baldwin.

Charles E. Calvert of the ASCS office said he had talked to a number of people in the county and many believed the crop will be almost as good as last years — which was a record in the county and the state.

He said corn generally was in real good shape and a good yield was expected. The other money crop, soybeans, is better than usual for this time of year.

Mr. Calvert said, "We need sunshine and dry weather to mature the crops on out."

The ASCS office is paying 3-1/2 cents premium on the price support program for small farms with less than 15 acres of cotton. The payments began August 10th and by Wednesday, August 26th, a total of $124,119.00 had been paid to farmers.

Funds Approved To Begin Work On Tombigbee Flood Control Project

WASHINGTON — Senator John Stennis today hailed Congressional approval of $400,000 to commence a long-awaited flood control project on the Tombigbee River of Northeast Mississippi as "really a sound investment for the future."

Stennis has championed the Tombigbee project for many years in the Senate, while Congressman in pushing the project through the House of Representatives.

Thomas Pound, executive secretary of the Tombigbee River Water Management District which will furnish local support, said, "The starting of this project is the most important undertaking that has come to our part of the state in my lifetime."

"I am very pleased," said Stennis, "that we have finally obtained the green light on construction of this vital flood control project which will mean so much in the protection of life, property, livestock, farms, home and pasture-lands in Northeast Mississippi."

Stennis noted that preliminary planning of the project has already been completed and financed through an appropriation of $161,000 appropriated earlier by the Congress.

"The $400,000 approved this week is the first money we will have received with which to begin actual construction."

Total cost of the long-range project as estimated by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, which is the government's agency for flood control work, is $27 million dollars.

Landowners and residents of Northeast Miss. have jumped into the project with what Stennis called have formed the Tombigbee Water Management District to help pay their local share of the cost of the project.

Major General Jackson Graham, Director of Civil Works for the U.S. Corps of Engineers, testified in favor of the project before the Senate Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee.

The General said the project enjoys a 16 to 1 benefit-to-cost ratio, based on a 50-year project life as studied by the Army Engineers.

The flood control project will embrace the Tombigbee River and all its tributaries north of its junction with the Warrior River in Western Alabama.

Stennis said improvements will be made on 22 tributary streams affording flood protection to nearly 300,000 acres of land. Residents of Northeast Mississippi have been plagued by frequent and serious floods along the Tombigbee for years, the last and most disastrous having flooded 169,200 acres in May 1960.

General Graham testified that the project would have protected 111,000 acres affected by the 1960 flood and would have saved more than a million dollars in damages to homes, farms, livestock and other property.

The General said, "The authorized project will completely eliminate damages from minor floods and will reduce major floods along the 22 tributary streams that flow into the Tombigbee."

Stennis said the first $400,000 will be spent in Town Creek, Mantachie Creek, Big Brown Creek and Donivan Creek in Itawamba, Lee and Prentiss counties because they were the first streams on which engineering work, preliminary to construction, was completed.

Itawamba County was the first to come into the Tombigbee Water Management District with the assurance that it would provide its local share of the cost of the project. Lee and Prentiss Counties followed.

Stennis had high praise for the "good work done by local authorities in obtaining and giving their assurances of their local contribution to the project's cost."

Work to be done on the first four tributary creeks will consist of cleaning out channels, straightening creeks, removing snags, and reepling and widening the four creeks where needed.

Pound said the Mississippi Legislature authorized the Water Management District to withhold a two-mill state tax levy for all counties participating in the projects to pay local cost of the flood control work. In addition, each participating county is levying a half-mill tax on land within the Tombigbee watershed as a financing source.

Pound was in Washington last week for conferences with Senator Stennis and with Congressman Abernethy on the project.

More Rabid Bats Found In State

Two more rabid bats have been analyzed by the State Board of Health Laboratory.

Dr. A. L. Gray, State Health Officer, said one of them was found in a north residential area of Jackson and the other in Winona. Both of the diseased bats were dead when found.

"We don't know how widespread the rabies infection among bats is, but are trying to find out," said Dr. Gray, after the fourth bat head proved positive for rabies.

Dr. Gray repeated his warning of early in the week that whenever a bat is seen extreme caution should be exercised.

"Don't touch any bat, dead or alive, with the naked hands," he warned.

Anyone bitten or scratched by a bat, according to Dr. Gray, should contact his private physician immediately and follow his advice as to treatment.

"When someone has been bitten by a bat, it is urged to capture it dead or alive in order that laboratory analysis can be made to determine whether it is rabid," stated Dr. Gray.

He urges parents to instruct their children not to touch bats.

Stennis Says Situation In Southeast Asia Deadly Serious

WASHINGTON — The situation that has developed in Southeast Asia is deadly serious.

The Senate has adopted a resolution approving United States determination to take all necessary measures to prevent aggression and to repel any armed attack against our forces in international waters.

For years, I have advocated that the United States take a firmer, harder line in its dealings with other nations and in the general conduct of its foreign affairs with would-be enemies or aggressors.

We have responded to the willful, deliberate and unprovoked communist attacks on our ships with a firm, swift and strong sting.

We have hit them a severe blow. This resolution merely says we will hit them again if we are attacked.

I believe this firm course may be our last and our only chance to avoid what could quickly develop into a full-scale war. This resolution shows our unity as well as our determination. It also shows that no one has a chance to attack us without paying a heavy price thereafter.

The situation is serious, but it will become far worse if we show the slightest weakness or hesitation. If we must have a show-down, it is far better that the show-down comes before Red China obtains nuclear weapons.

None of us are happy about the situation in Vietnam and about our

Child-Labor Provisions Intended To Help Keep Boys, Girls In School

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (Special) — "The uneducated of today are the unemployed of tomorrow," Regional Director Sterling B. Williams of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions pointed out in reminding employers of the child-labor standards provided in the Fair Labor Standards Act.

"These standards are not intended to keep young people from working," he said, "but are designed to give them an opportunity to get an education in this age of automation. The man who quits high school before graduation will earn an average of $50,000 less during his working lifetime than the high school graduate."

Williams urged employers to encourage boys and girls with summer jobs to go back to school to equip themselves for a useful and satisfying life. Part-time employment outside school hours is permitted under the Act for 14- and 15-year-olds in a variety of jobs, such as sales, office, or clerical work.

Minors 16 and over may be employed in any occupation other than those found and declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. An 18-year age minimum applies to hazardous occupations such as driver or driver's helper on a motor vehicle, elevator operator, logger or sawmill operator of certain power-driven machinery and some excavation work.

Williams said that employers can protect themselves against unintentional violations of the child-labor provisions by obtaining and keeping on file an age certificate for each minor employed, showing him to be the legal age for the occupation in which he is working.

The Fair Labor Standards Act applies to employment in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and in certain large enterprises engaging in or producing goods for such commerce.

Additional information about the Act's child-labor provisions may be obtained from the Jackson office of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, located at Room 320A, U. S. Post Office Building. State labor and school officials will provide information about the State child-labor laws. Williams said that the higher standards should be observed if Federal and State laws differ.

Study Shows How Cotton Harvesting Affects Quality

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. — Although three-fourths of the Delta cotton crop is now harvested mechanically, many planters are still concerned over the effect mechanical pickers have on cotton quality.

Morris M. Lindsey, USDA economist working at the Delta Branch Experiment Station, recently completed a study involving 10,096 bales, about equally divided between hand- and machine-picked. His report, which should reassure users of mechanical pickers, included the following conclusion:

"Cotton grade was higher for hand-picked cotton but by the small margin of 2½ index points—95.98 or slightly above Strict Low Middling for hand-picked cotton and 92.44 or about midway between Low Middling Plus and Strict Low Middling for the machine-picked cotton."

"Gin turnout, contrary to popular belief, was better for the machine-picked cotton where 1,553 pounds of seed cotton produced 500 pounds of lint as compared to the 1,583 pounds of hand-picked seed cotton required for 500 pounds of lint. Staple length, percentage of seed turnout, and percentage of ginning waste were almost identical for the two methods of harvesting.

"At market prices for the last few seasons, difference in grade between machine- and hand-picked cotton would favor hand picking by $3.50 to $7.00 per bale. However, with gin turnout in favor of machine-picked cotton, the difference of 30 pounds of seed cotton would yield 9.7 pounds of lint valued at $3.20 when priced at 33 cents per pound. When all factors are considered, there seems to be little difference in the effect ginning has on the factors that affect lint value for either hand- or machine-picked cotton."

The complete report is published in the August issue of Mississippi Farm Research and is available upon request from the Mississippi Agriculture Experiment Station, State College, Miss.

Soil Testing Pays

This is a good time to take soil samples from those fields where you have trouble getting desired crop yields. See your county agent for information, field data sheets and soil boxes. Keep your Soil Testing Labs busy.

Thrasher RCDC Has Annual Picnic

The Thrasher R.C.D.C. held its annual picnic Friday night, August 14, at the City Park. After the supper a short business meeting was held. Plans were made to begin work soon on the club's long range project, which is helping to cover the walk from the school building to the lunch room.

The next meeting is Friday night, September 4, which will be A Parents Teachers Night. A prize will be given the class which has the most parents present. The following Friday night the club will sponsor a "Womanless Wedding". The club is looking forward to having a full house each night.

FARM ECONOMY LOOKING UP

Mississippi made the highest percentage increase in net farm cash income in 1963 over 1962 of any state in the nation. The big increase is attributed to the state's big increase in farm income in 1963 to large cash receipts from cotton plus significant gains from soybeans, eggs and broilers. Mississippi farmers marketed more cattle and calves.

The News From Frankstown Mission

by J. M. Franks

The Frankstown Mission bought the McElroy farm thinking from many angles, thinking of how beautiful it could be landscaped into a park, second to none.

The stately oaks, mingled with pine, dogwood, and many attractions, of nature that have stood on this land and delivered the message of the Bible to everyone that understands what the scripture says the Lord teaches in His handiwork.

I can remember in my time the homesteaders and the many fine families that lived on this farm, dedicated, stalwart people. I would love to mention their names, but I might leave off some that would be as important as those I would mention. Its dealing in happy and sorrowful recollections — almost all these people are gone, including the majority of our own family.

Just think the people, our neighbors and friends have given and subscribed $854.00 as payment on this farm, and we have only had the deed to this for a few days.

To everyone that believes that it is "more blessed to give than to receive", and that every dollar, all the cattle, and hills, and every thing belongs to the Lord — send us a gift, any size — you don't even have to sign your name. Lets pay for this land right around the

Imposters Posing As Representatives Of Welfare Dept.

Miss Evelyn Gandy, Commissioner of Public Welfare, has received reports that unauthorized persons are representing themselves as employees of the Department of Public Welfare in some sections of our State. Miss Gandy is urging anyone having knowledge of these imposters to report them to the Sheriff of their counties or local law enforcement officials.

Miss Gandy's statement follows: "Reports have come to us that persons receiving welfare checks in some of our counties are being subjected to various kinds of pressures by persons claiming to represent the Welfare Department. Some clients have been led to believe that they would lose their welfare checks unless they signed certain papers or participated in some scheme or activity as suggested by these so-called welfare workers."

"The only persons having any authority concerning welfare checks in the State of Mississippi are employees of the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare. These employees have proper identification cards signed by the Commissioner of Public Welfare of the State of Mississippi in their possession. All employees of the Welfare Department will be glad to display these identification cards upon request."

"We urge our citizens who do not personally know the employees of the Welfare Department in their counties to ask to see identification cards of all those persons claiming to represent the Department of Public Welfare.

"We also urge anyone having knowledge of these imposters who are attempting to mislead and confuse our people to report them immediately to the Sheriff of their county or other local law enforcement officials."

Just Scribbling

by

MRS. ED JOHNSON

It's nice to go on a vacation but it's wonderful to be back home again. For the next few weeks I'll be writing about some of the things we saw and did — when we catch up a little.

I was saddened over the death of Mrs. Johnnie Young and Mr. E. L. Robinson — both occurring while we were gone. Mrs. Young was with us a month at the Lodge and even though I had known and admired her through the years, we came to love her while she was with us. The constant and steadfast devotion of her daughter, Marinette, and Miss Vessie Ferrell, will long stand out in my memory.

Through my close association with Mrs. Christine Robinson and her continued interest in the paper that was so dear to her heart for many years, I also came to know Mr. Robinson and recognized him as a great person. He stimulated my thoughts on many occasions and was truly one of the influential men of the South. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were a devoted couple — always together — sharing every phase of their life. She has our deepest sympathy.

In addition to the above, all of us at the Lodge keenly felt a deep loss in the death of Hershel (Huck) Windham. One of his daughters, Beth, has been a fine receptionist there this summer and his other daughter, Mitzi, is in and out of the Lodge. The guests and staff are extremely fond of both children and we truly sympathize with them. Huck was such a likeable person and on several occasions, when no one else could, repaired the vast mechanical apparatus at the Lodge.

Mrs. Alta Bolton brought oddities of nature by the office last week — a five-in-one potato and a tomato shaped like a duck. The three yellow tomatoes, normal, were enjoyed at the Johnson dinner table as were the fine apples brought by Dewey Pounds. You just can't buy apples like that in a store!

J. L. Keeton showed me a huge pumpkin shaped like a gourd. I didn't know what it was and he called it an odd sounding name and said, "It's better known as a potato pumpkin." He has several and this one measured 30 inches around. "Makes good pies", he added.

Roy Koon brought a huge sunflower to the office and it's now in the window. Several folks asked for seeds to plant, but most folks wanted to eat a few seeds. They taste a little like peanuts.

Albert Feldman can always bring a smile to my face. He told me about the woman who died when she was a 100 years old. She left a trunk to her doctor, who had been seeing her many, many years, and who likewise was quite old. In the trunk were all the prescriptions he had ever given her — which she had never filled!

Till next week
Helen

BUGS GALORE — Sylvia Spears of Oxford surveys part of the nearly 10,000 mud daubers and other insects she has collected as a basis for her Master of Science Degree thesis in Biology at the University of Mississippi. The Ole Miss coed collected the nests of mud daubers (commonly called dirt daubers) from a dozen counties in Mississippi. She then watched the eggs hatch, caught, killed and pinned each insect for her research. This is probably one of the world's largest collections of Mississippi mud daubers.

Formal Furniture Makes Fall News

They say patio dining caused it all. The shirt sleeved evenings and informality of the barbecue is leading to a fall and winter-time extremism within the home itself. Or at least, so say the furniture makers, who are betting on this trend with the introduction of new, elegant, classic furniture for home dining areas.

This grouping by Bassett Furniture Industries is called Facade. It is of Italian provincial inspiration. In keeping with the trend toward softer coloration of furniture finishes, the details include maple burl veneer or drawer and door overlays combined with solid birch mouldings.

Wooden rosettes and especially designed brass trim for the legs and hardware add elegance to the architectural design.

The breakfast china with its glass sides and shelves measures 72 inches and contains interior lights to dramatize cherished dinnerware or accessories. A look of spaciousness is achieved with the cane high back chairs. The collection includes a handsome credenza buffet, octagonal as well as oval table and a drop-leaf server on casters.

Weather Causes Some Cotton To Cut-Out

In some areas a sudden drop in temperature along with severe wind and cold rain gave the cotton a great shock. Several days after the rain, wind and lower temperature, the weakest cotton began to lose leaves. Older cotton, full balled cotton, and areas short on nitrogen or minor minerals were damaged. All this means is an earlier cotton harvest in the affected areas.

mity—that is, if one group of Americans have one service, then every other group must have the same service. Such a concept violates the system of states, which allows, in one sense, the existence of 50 different laboratories for government. Within each state, state constitutions allow for even greater diversity of practice. County X may decide to have a Recreation Commission. They are not forced to have the same facilities and live according to the same model. This system provides freedom in abundance. It makes life good and makes possible flexibility that is part of the strength of the Republic. Indeed the Constitution provides only that each state have a republican form of government, not that citizens live in identical fashion. What would work in Wisconsin would not necessarily work in Vermont.

But the Supreme Court, which prefers regimentation to freedom, evidently intends to require all Americans to live according to a single design.

The Court's precedent could cause the gravest kind of trouble and the spread of compulsion. Suppose, for example, that voters of one state set up a state-supported system of birth control clinics. Under the Supreme Court's ruling in the Prince Edward case, it follows that the court might well decree that the other states would have to provide equal clinical facilities, regardless of the wishes of the population. Thus the court might find itself in the position of imposing a birth control clinic system on a state or county, levying taxes for its support, though the people regarded such a clinical system as a moral evil, precisely as the Prince Edward citizenry regard forced association as a moral and social evil.

All this points to the fact that once courts have exceeded their rightful boundaries and become engaged in coercion of free men, they have started down the road to tyranny and consequent public resentment. The Prince Edward decision is a reminder that judicial tyranny is no different than any other form of tyrannical rule. The fact that the men ordering taxes in Prince Edward County wear black robes and sit behind a bench in a marble building makes them no different than if they were state bureaucrats armed with oligarchical powers. Usurping the rights of the legislature is the mark of dictatorship in any free society.

Control Hornflies, Lice and Ticks

Use 4-lbs. of Co-Ral 25 per cent wettable powder mixed in 100 gallons of water in a pressure sprayer and thoroughly wet the cows skin. By applying two quarts of mixture per animal, as a top line and side spray, the farmer's cost is less than 5c per head.

ON THE LOCAL SCENE

Dewey and Dwight Nicholson and Freddie Holder, carriers for the Jackson Clairon Ledger and Jackson Daily News won a trip to Dude Ranch at Sulphur Springs, Miss. They returned home Monday night after spending several days there.

Dr. J. T. Googe of Sylva, North Carolina visited Mrs. Jim R. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas, Tuesday night enroute to Marshall, Texas, where he is to go on duty September 1 as director of the new Health Department work.

Keep Worms Out Of Soybeans

This is time of year for worms in soybeans. Look! Where three worms are found per foot of row apply an insecticide. Use 2-lbs. Sevin (sprayable) broadcast per acre. Sevin gives a long residual kill of worms. Sevin is safe — it is approved for use on soybeans — no residue in the meal or oil. Toxaphene or DDT are not recommended for use on soybeans.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

DRYING OFF DAIRY COWS

Many dairymen find the following method very successful in turning cows dry:

1. Reduce grain ration to one pound each milking for two or three days before the dry date.

2. On the dry date quit feeding and milking. Turn on pasture with rest of herd unless she is a persistent milker.

3. Persistent milkers are placed in a dry lot with only hay for feed and a small amount of water daily. (The udder gets tight for two or three days then softens up and everything is normal.)

4. Cows with chronic or serious udder trouble are milked dry about one week after dry date and treated with udder infusions.

5. All cows being turned dry are observed daily.

SMALL GRAINS

Planting time for small grains and other early fall grazing crops has arrived. For planting on fallow land, that is, where land has not been prepared, it should be done as soon as possible and allowed to settle before planting.

For those who are going to plant oats, treating against leaf blotch is recommended. No oat variety is immune to leaf blotch and the cost of treatment is small compared to the risk of planting untreated seed.

SOIL TESTING

Want to get clovers growing in those pastures again? On most Mississippi land it will take liming and fertilizing. Soil testing can take the guess work out of your lime and fertilizer programs. It will let you know just how much lime your land needs and how much and what kinds of fertilizer.

We can supply you with instruction sheets, soil boxes and mailing cartons for taking soil samples.

COTTON INSECTS

Watch out for bollworms. Many eggs have been found and light trap catches of moths is on the increase. Worms like succulent cotton best, but don't overlook cotton that needs rain.

When poisoning for worms, be sure to use a recommended insecticide at the recommended rate and at the recommended time.

HOME GARDENING

How's your fall garden coming along? There is a long list of vegetables that you could have growing in the garden now, and a pretty good list of those you can still plant.

Included among the vegetables recommended for planting early in September are Swiss chard, Chinese cabbage, collards, leaf or head lettuce, mustard, onions, parsley, radishes, spinach, and turnips.

These along with the hold-over vegetables from the spring and summer garden should give you plenty of produce up until frost.

COTTON DEFOLIATION

Cotton defoliation pays, especially when yields are high and plants are leafy and succulent.

Good defoliation, plus proper harvesting, will mean less trash and green stain in your cotton. It will mean better grades and quality — more money.

MISSISSIPPI PROGRESS REPORT

A Summary of Current Events
Contributing to the Economic Development of Mississippi

MANUFACTURING JOBS REACH NEW HEIGHT

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission reports that manufacturing employment and earnings reached a record high for the state in June. Manufacturing employment jumped to 138,200 during the month, topping the previous mark of 136,600 set last September. Factory earnings of $71.81 per week topped the previous record of $70.93 set last September. Of the total employed in manufacturing, about 62,000 were producing durable goods.

FLORENCE INDUSTRY PLANNING EXPANSION

Sinclair Wire Works of Florence has announced the completion of a merger with the Lindsay Wire Weaving Company of Cleveland, Ohio. As a result, the Florence operation will be expanded to hire an additional 30 people. The Sinclair plant was built in 1962 and partially financed by a $110,000 BAWI bond issue.

SOUTHBRIDGE EXPANSION APPROVED BY LARGE VOTE

Alcorn County's first district voters approved a $200,000 bond issue to finance expansion of the Southbridge Plastic Products, Inc., plant at Corinth by a vote of 1,950 to 29 in late July. Southbridge proposes to make a 60,000-square-foot addition to the plant and to hire an additional 50-75 workers immediately and several hundred more eventually. Southbridge currently employs approximately 300. The plant produces finished plastic products for the automotive, furniture and toy industries. The plant opened about three years ago.

WESTINGHOUSE AT VICKSBURG ANNOUNCES EXPANSION PROGRAM

Substantial enlargement plans for the Westinghouse Electric Corporation's Vicksburg light fixture plant have been requested, according to a top official of the firm. W. W. Sprout, Jr., a vice-president, said: "I have just requested the approval of our corporate management to increase the size of our plant here. The exact details are being verified, but I am sure it will require at least a one-third increase in present size. If the approvals requested are obtained, work should commence on our five-acre plant within the next one or two months, and the addition of the plant should be completed early in 1965." The Westinghouse plant at Vicksburg presently employs more than 600.

GROUND BREAKING FOR MP&L

State dignitaries, including Gov. Paul B. Johnson, participated in ground-breaking ceremonies for one of the world's largest single unit electric generating plants in late July. The plant, to be built for Miss. Power & Light Co., at Vicksburg, is scheduled to cost some $40 million and will begin operations in 1967. Capacity of the plant will be upwards of 500,000 kilowatts. The project is part of a new $150 million construction program set for MP&L during the 1964-70 period.

NEW CHEMICAL COMPANY TO LOCATE IN GULFPORT

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., has signed a contract with the Harrison County Development Commission and board of supervisors for the construction of a $3,000,000 chemical plant on the county's industrial seaway. Headquartered in White Plains, N. Y., Reichhold is a leading manufacturer of industrial chemicals and raw materials for the plastics and surface coating industry. The new facility will produce a number of new and unique synthetic resins from the petrochemical feed stocks available in the South and Gulf Coast areas. Production and employment is expected to start in 1965. Some 150 will be employed initially, and employment is expected to eventually increase to about 400. A 34-acre site on the industrial seaway will be utilized. The company has an option on an additional 66 acres for expansion purposes.

Cockleburrs In Soybeans

Cockleburrs are showing up above the soybean plants in nearly every direction you may travel through the Mid-South. Use Butyrac 175 (or a similar material) at 1 gallon in 100 gallons of water and spray broadcast on ten acres. Cockleburrs are using up moisture, fertilizer and crowding out the bean plants.

Control Flies On Beef Cattle

Cattle need to be free of flies, etc., during this hot weather. Use Lintox-D spray or Lintox-D dust or similar materials.

Let Them Be Armed

It won't be long now until the school bells — figuratively, if not always literally — ring again. And millions of youngsters, some eagerly, some with lagging feet, will resume their educations after summers which one hopes were filled with events and adventures that will be long remembered.

In recent years, there has been a vast literature on the subject of American education. It has been compared, favorably and unfavorably, with that of other nations, notably England and Russia. Each of these differing systems, it seems, has its own particular goals and principles, and each has its advantages and disadvantages. But, here at home, there is a strong and growing feeling that American education in all its levels too often leaves out an essential. That essential is the inculcation of a real knowledge of what free and representative government stands for and requires of its citizens and, with that, a realization of what this means in every facet of life — business, the professions, the arts and crafts.

Our young people are growing up into a world torn with bitterly opposed ideologies. In this, the battle for men's minds is all important. Its outcome will determine what the world of tomorrow is to be. Let those young people be armed with the truths they will need.

Keep Down Labor Day Accidents

"Labor Day" is 82 years old this year. An American workers' organization back in 1882, called the "Kings of Labor", gave birth to the idea, deciding on the first Monday in September to be observed as "Labor Day".

This holiday has apparently surpassed all other holidays in highway travel. At least, the MISSISSIPPI STATE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION, INC. finds it has surpassed all others in motor vehicle deaths — 750 was the 1963 total!

Because of the "last of summer" feeling of Labor Day, families take advantage of this "last chance" at picnic and camping outings. This exiting from cities to park and lake areas pour heavy traffic onto the highways.

The state automobile association stresses the need for sensibly spaced driving, urging motorists to allow plenty of driving time — time to watch your speed, and your fatigue.

Public Relations Notebook

by Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

A great deal of emphasis is being placed on business leaders today. There are fairly common ideas about the qualities which are most desirable in a leader, particularly a business leader.

Practically all of the relationships of a business leader are bound by his ability to associate in the most effective way with other people.

Mr. Woodruff

Of course, an officer of a company or the general manager or any other person in authority, is human, just like the rest of us. However, for continued success of an organization, a leader should possess as many desirable qualities of leadership as possible. Foremost among the abilities of a leader is that he know his job and that he is prepared through experience and education to assume the duties of his position.

A good business leader must be able to distinguish between the important and unimportant. He must be able to make decisions and in the long run and for the continued success of his organization, the decisions he makes must be correct ones for the most part. A good leader must be tactful and he must have the ability to delegate authority and responsibility to others.

An ideal business leader is one who is widely read and well-informed about community affairs and national and international events. He must be able to retain facts and come up with ideas that are in the best interests of the company or organization which he heads. And he must be able to anticipate the needs brought about by constantly changing conditions in relation to his organization.

The business leader who is capable of judging accurately the

100 Years Ago— Lincoln Loses Hope Of Being Re-elected

By LON K. SAVAGE

Abraham Lincoln was in the depths of despair 100 years ago this week. As he admitted frankly, it appeared unlikely that he could be re-elected in November.

The Civil War now had dragged on for more than three long years. Thousands upon thousands of young men from the North had gone South with the armies, there to be slaughtered in battle. What was there to show for it? Very little, many people thought.

Down around Richmond, Ulysses S. Grant — Lincoln's great hope for victory — appeared to be stymied in the Petersburg defenses. He had gotten to Petersburg only ability of those working with him and for him, is filling an important need of any organization. More often than not, there is a marked weakness in this area. A good leader keeps his subordinates well-informed about the organization, its policies and plans for the future. He will encourage participation by his subordinates in solving problems with which subordinates are familiar.

Perhaps, such a list as this could go on and on. It is quite likely that no one business leader could live up to a prescribed list of qualities. However, continuing research has shown that new emphasis is being placed on the role of the business leaders in our society. More than ever before, the ability of the leader to recognize fellow workers and assure them that they are a part of the business team, is probably the most desired quality hoped for in the business leader area. It takes a good leader to have good followers.

at the cost of more than 50,000 lives, and it appeared as many more men would die before he could crack the line of the wily Confederate Robert E. Lee.

Down around Atlanta, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman had fought all summer against the army of John B. Hood, but he could claim only that he had won a hundred or so miles of scarcely populated land.

True, the Western campaigns had been victorious, but that did not seem to stop the Confederacy's operations.

In The North

In the North, people seemed sick of war. Horace Greeley, editor of the New York Tribune, had written Lincoln August 9 asking that he invite peace proposals from the Confederacy. Nine-tenths of the people, Greeley said, were for peace on almost any terms.

Other newspapers agreed. Political observers in state after state predicted that Lincoln's chances were all but gone. The only hope for Lincoln, many said, was that between then and election day, there be important success in battle.

So far, the Democrats had NOT nominated an opponent for Lincoln, but already it appeared the nomination would go to George Brinton McClellan, once Lincoln's top general who now favored peace.

Admits Plight

On August 23, Lincoln signed a memorandum, admitting his plight. The memorandum reads:

"This morning, as for some days past, it seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be re-elected. Then it will be my duty

Seedling Orders Now Being Taken

Seedling orders are now being accepted by the Mississippi Forestry Commission for the planting season beginning in December, announced State Forester Jack Holman today.

Holman stated that 13 species of trees are available. Orders for slash and loblolly pine will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. He added that those who place orders early will receive the trees they need of the species desired.

Species available are four species of pine, including slash, loblolly, long-leaf and short-leaf, plus bald cypress, green ash, yellow poplar, black locust, sycamore, sweet gum, red cedar, Mexican cypress, and cottonwood.

Although prices of nearly everything the Commission buys have increased, seedling prices are at the same low levels of the past six years. Each landowner may receive 1,000 seedlings free by paying a 35-cent delivery charge. Additional seedlings are available at $4.50 per thousand plus the 35-cents per thousand charge for delivery to the county.

to so co-operate with the President-elect as to save the Union between the election and the inauguration, as he will have secured his election on such grounds that he cannot possibly save it afterwards."

Lincoln sealed the memorandum, had it endorsed by several cabinet members and then asked that it not be opened until after election day.

But Lincoln's mood and his chances of re-election both were to brighten considerably within the next few days. For word then was coming north of the victory at Mobile Bay, and at Atlanta Sherman was on the verge of capturing one of the South's most important cities. These two events would turn the tide.

Next Week: Atlanta Falls.

Orders of 25,000 trees or more may be picked up at the nursery if the landowner desires. Groups of landowners whose orders total 25,000 trees may also pick up their trees at the nursery.

Holman emphasized that landowners having idle acres should consider establishing trees on those lands at the earliest opportunity. He stated that Mississippi is now in a period of wood industry expansion made possible by the tree planting and timber management of the state's landowners.

"The Forestry's Commission's wood utilization and marketing program is helping to bring new industries and expand existing industries," said Holman. He pointed out that economists are predicting that all forest acres must be put into full production during the next 20 years in order to fulfill the predicted demand for raw materials.

"Landowners may place orders with Forestry Commission personnel or with any agricultural agency," said Holman.

RABBIT AND QUAIL

Recent studies by biologists and wardens of the Game and Fish Commission show every indication of an above average rabbit population this year. Cotton tail rabbits are on the increase in some areas, especially in the delta, and seem to be holding their own in other areas. The outlook for quail this year is excellent, due to fairly even rainfall in most parts of the state. Out of 272 observed coveys, the average covey size was 11.1 birds. The covey size will probably increase due to later hatchings. Reports from south Mississippi reveal about average covey sizes and an increase in total number of hatchings. As with rabbits, even rainfall seems to be the main contribution factor in the quail population increase.

Cocklebur In Soybeans

As soon as cockleburs form a canopy over the soybeans, use Butyrac 175 or a similar material at 1 gallon to 10 acres applied as a spray in 10 gallons of water per acre. Do not treat fields in a severe drought stress. Remember, the cockleburs can cause you to lose more soybeans than a slight delay in soybean plant developments during dry weather.

STATE HAS 105 AIRPORTS

Mississippi has 105 civilian and military airports, according to recently released figures. Fifty-five of the landing fields in the state are privately owned, and thirty-seven are both paved and lighted. Six additional airports are paved but unlighted, while only eight of the sixty-two unpaved airports are lighted. Four of Mississippi's airports have runways in excess of 7,000 feet, six have runways totaling between 5,000 and 6,000 feet, six have between 4,200 and 5,000 feet of runway, 14 between 3,500 and 4,300 feet, 22 between 3,000 and 3,500, and the remaining 53 have less than 3,000 feet on runways.

STATE'S EMPLOYMENT RISES

Employment throughout the Southeast increased for the fifth straight month, with Mississippi showing an increase of 6,100 jobs from June, 1963 to June, 1964. Such continuing increases month after month are healthy reflections of the confidence felt in the state's development.

Spider Mites In Cotton

A. G. Bennett, Extension Entomologist, says both red and two-spotted mites are reported by agents. He also says use Bidrin, Kelthane and Systox for the control of mites. A. G. recommends a thorough coverage of cotton plants with 5-6 gallons of spray mixture per acre. See your county agent.

IN THE NEWS— FBI Crime Report Reveals Miss. To Be Most Law Abiding People In U.S.

By THOS. G. ABERNETHY
Member of Congress

There has been a noticeable lack of interest on the part of the national press that the FBI Crime Report revealed Mississippians to be the most law abiding people in the United States. Although released back on July 20, we have yet to see or hear any national news reports about the low crime rate in our State. Imagine, if you will, the lengthy columns of derision and ridicule that would have been accorded us had we been certified as one of the most crime ridden states, such as California, Nevada, New York, Massachusetts, Texas, Michigan, Illinois and so on. All of these were among those states which wound up with the dubious distinction of being either on or near the bottom for law abiding conduct. If Mississippi had been certified among that muck and mire of crime, the left-wing writers, who have the nation's news media by the tail, and the professional minority leaders would have been yapping again for Marine occupation of every corner and crevice of Mississippi.

The high political establishment which enjoys the occupancy of Washington's white columned mansions and marbled halls has also been noticeably silent on Mississippi's fine record for respect of law. If the honor had gone to a northern or western state, instead of Mississippi, there would no doubt have been gill-edged telegrams from the Department of Justice and ceremonial recognition in the beautiful and fragrant Rose Garden of the White House grounds.

There is no doubt—not the slightest—that FBI Director Hoover's crime report was brought to the attention of the Attorney General, Mr. Hoover's boss. Neither is there the slightest doubt that it was brought to the attention of the President, the boss of both the Attorney General and Mr. Hoover. Although our fine record was passed over without comment from these gentlemen, they have not permitted Mississippians to go without consideration and effective attention.

Almost simultaneously with the release of the crime report, which in these trying times was about the highest compliment that could be paid our State, the President and Attorney General saw fit to direct a heavy contingent of FBI agents into our midst and open a new large FBI office in the City of Jackson. Appropriate press releases were widely distributed, resulting in huge headlines in the Yankee Press. But these headlines did not compare with those that shortly followed when it was announced that FBI Director Hoover, himself, was being dispatched to Jackson to open the office, a chore which could have been performed by an ordinary errand boy. This, however, would not have satiated the hungry desire to make a scapegoat of Mississippi and thus gain the ear and favor of the nation's social planners and professional racist and religious minority groups. So they played it big and sent head man J. Edgar Hoover to open the office door. Opening the door of a new office is a very difficult job in the eyes of Washington and, of course, it took a man like Mr. Hoover to do it just right.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Hoover's crime report revealed that the State of Texas, home of the President, and Massachusetts, home state of the Attorney General, have almost three times the crime record of Mississippi. Both states are way, way, way down the list and far below the national average for respect of law. It is such a shame that the good people of these great states have to put up with so much crime. No one ever tries to help them by calling for the Marines or sailors. What a pity. The situation is even worse in New York. These poor people have been beset with riots, beatings, bombings, pillaging, larceny, assault, murder and the like. It is really such a shame, such a shame. But the people in Mississippi and other states which have such fine records for respect of the law should not be too critical of our brothers in Texas, Massachusetts, New York, California, and so on, where there is so much violence and crime. We must continue to be understanding, and tolerant.

New York, you know, has visited a number of its young people upon Mississippians during the Summer Project for the purpose of remodeling us into the image of New Yorkers. So has Massachusetts, California and other states cited by Mr. Hoover as being heavily crime ridden. Our visitors probably have not heard about the riots and report on crime back in their home states. But they will get the word. So have patience.

You know, it is the understanding of these up-country people that a race riot is not really a race riot if it happens North of the Potomac. But let one negro get in an argument over a ham sandwich or a pork chop in Georgia or Mississippi — and boy! Whewh!! It is a 24-carat outbreak of racial violence.

Seriously, the social, racial and religious problems which beset this country will never be solved as long as political leaders in Washington pursue a policy of making a scapegoat of Mississippi, or Alabama, or Georgia. They will never be solved as long as these leaders play politics with such, which is exactly what they are doing. It is great to be recorded in the history books of this nation as one who served as President, or Attorney General, or Congressman. But one of such is remembered longest not because of the distinguished honor of holding the office but for the manner in which he served those who bestowed the honor upon him.

VA Answers Vets Questions

Editor's Note: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through Veterans Administration. Below are some representative questions. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I have a service-connected disability which requires continuous treatment. I plan to travel abroad this summer. What arrangements shall I make regarding medication and treatment?

A — You should contact the VA Clinic now treating you to obtain appropriate supplies of prescribed medication to carry with you, and for suggestions about obtaining medical supplies and service abroad. In case of a medical emergency, you should contact the American Embassy or Consular Office.

Q — My husband died recently and the VA paid his insurance to his former wife even though they had been divorced 15 years ago. Why was this done?

A — The VA is required by law to pay the insurance to the person last designated as beneficiary by the insured veteran. Your husband either neglected to change his beneficiary after the divorce, or it was his wish that the insurance be paid to the former wife.

Q — Is it necessary to report compensation or pension from the VA as income if I am receiving VA pension?

A — The person receiving the compensation or pension directly from VA need not report it as income on his pension claim. However, if the money was paid by the VA to someone else and received by the pensioner by inheritance or gift from that person, then it should be reported as income for pension purposes in the same manner as other property received by gift or inheritance.

Q — I am a widow with an infant child. Soon I will marry a disabled veteran who receives maximum pension. How much will his pension increase with two dependents?

A — Assuming the veteran is single now, the maximum pension would be $85 per month if his income was below $600 per year. A veteran with two dependents with income below $1,000 per year would be entitled to $95 per month.

Q — Under the above circumstances, will the VA pay any medical or dental expenses for my daughter and me? If I should become pregnant, will the VA pay the maternity costs, in part or in full?

A — The VA will not pay any medical or dental expenses for your daughter or you, nor will it pay any maternity costs.

Q — Does a veteran who served between September 16, 1940, and December 31, 1956, earn any gratuity Social Security wage credits?

A — Yes. These gratuitous credits amount to $160 for each month of duty, but are not listed on the Social Security earnings record until benefits are applied for.

Q — When will educational training benefits expire for veterans of the Korean Conflict?

A — The educational program for Korean veterans will expire January 31, 1965. The educational program for World War II veterans has already expired.

Q — My husband's World War I insurance is more of a burden on our very limited finances. Will this ever be paid up?

A — Some types of insurance contracts are paid up after 20 or 30 years. If you cannot tell from reading the policy, you may write to the office to which you pay your premiums.

Q — In the case of a serviceman's death while he is on active duty, what are the limits of the Death

Gratuity and who receives it?

A — The benefit is a sum equal to six months pay of the deceased. However, it shall not be less than $800, nor more than $3,000. It is paid to the surviving spouse, child, or children unless the serviceman has designated his parents, brothers or sisters.

HANGING ON WALLS

The simple task of hanging a picture on a wall often turns into a minor disaster with cracked plaster, falling pictures, and unsightly holes marring the wall.

Light weight pictures or wall decorations can be hung anywhere with a simple nail, or nail-type hanger, in the wall. Place tape over the spot where the nail will enter to eliminate tiny cracks or chips.

Medium weight objects and most drapery rods should be hung with one of the screw and plastic insert kits available on the market today. This requires drilling a hole with your electric drill. Inserts usually call for a 3/16 hole as deep as the length of the plastic insert.

Your screw can then be driven into the insert which will expand and form an amazingly tight bond.

For heavy plate glass mirrors, bookcases, or other heavy objects, the toggle bolt is best. Drill completely through the wall to the air space (you'll feel it when you're through). Insert the toggle bolt. The screwing will cause two wings or prongs to extend out from the hole and cling to the inner wall. This will hold almost anything.

Thor Tip — Wood screws are for use in wood. When hanging in a plaster wall use sheet metal screws with full threads for extra holding power.

Handyman Questions
Q. My drill works well in wood but not masonry walls. What's wrong?
A. Ask your dealer for a carbide tipped masonry bit... use for drilling tile, brick, plaster, asbestos and plaster.
