County Red Cross Chapter Planning Gifts For Men Fighting In Vietnam

Your Red Cross is offering every family in Prentiss County the opportunity to show in a tangible way that they are solidly behind our fighting men in Vietnam, according to Ralph Stutts, Chairman of the Prentiss County Chapter.

"We want to make this Christmas a memorable one for every serviceman in Vietnam. To make certain that there won't be any 'forgotten' U. S. servicemen in Vietnam on Christmas Day, the Red Cross proposed to distribute 'ditty' bags filled with small gifts for every man or woman on duty there", Mr. Stutts said.

He explained that a ditty bag is a small, easily-made bag, given to the serviceman to hold his personal gear, such as shaving equipment, usually some letter from home, etc. Any serviceman who has been hospitalized in a military or VA hospital is familiar with a "ditty" bag. Mrs. Claire Ross, home agent and several of the ladies in the Home Demonstration Clubs are making the red nylon net Christmas bags, which will be shipped to the First Calvary Division in Vietnam.

Some of the items suggested as suitable fillers for the bags are: Ballpoint pen, small package writing paper, small address book, plastic cigarette case, lighter, plastic soapdish, terrycloth wash cloth, nail clipper, foot powder, small puzzles or solitaire game, paperback books, etc. Items have to be small because the bags are 12 x 13. No liquids, combustibles, food, or any item that would melt or deteriorate in heat should be included.

The bags must be mailed by Thursday, September 15 and postage is needed for mailing. You may leave your items for the ditty bags at the Red Cross Office, 400 Adams Street.

BHS Gridders Top Selmer; Baldwin To Invade Friday

Although they were stopped on their first series of downs, the Booneville Blue Devils scored the second time they got possession and were never headed as they went on to rack up the heavier Selmer, Tenn. Lions 34-0 in their season opener here Friday night.

This Friday night the Booneville lads will host arch rival Baldwin on the Northeast Mississippi Junior College field. Baldwin and Fulton, who shared the conference title last year with Calhoun City and were pre-season picks to be among the top this time, battled to a 14-all tie last week and the Bearcats would like nothing better than to get into the win column at the expense of the Blue Devils.

Last week it was apparent from the outset that the Booneville squad came to play, and while mistakes were numerous due to first game jitters and a rain-wet field the good more than offset the bad.

Freddie Tollison moved from the Booneville 45 to the Selmer 36 on a punt return to give the Blue Devils field position, then he skirted left end to the 11. A fumbled snap from center cost a down with no gain, after which Tollison made one. One pass from Hal White intended for Mark Lowrey was incomplete, then with fourth and nine at the 10 White hit Lowrey for the touchdown and Tollison kicked the extra point.

Selmer returned the kickoff from the 20 to the 40, but the Booneville defense reared up as Mike-Guy and Jimmy Walden broke through to hit for losses and the Lions were forced to punt. Tollison returned from the Booneville 30 to the 39 as the first period ended.

When play resumed, Hal White got eight on a keeper, Mike Guy went off tackle for a first at the Selmer 46 and Tollison took a pitchout for a first at the nine. A fumbled snap lost one, then Booneville drew an offside penalty to make it second and 16. Two Hal White passes intended for Mike Guy and Tollison were incomplete, then he hit Lowrey at the three and he went on in to score. Tollison's placement was blocked.

The Blue Devils drew a 15-yard penalty before the kickoff for a personal foul call on the extra point try and had to kick from their 25, but Mal White's kick carried to the Selmer 25 and there was no return as the would-be runner's knee was on the ground when he touched the ball. The Booneville defense again held with Jimmy Downs breaking through to hit for a seven-yard loss, and forced a punt. Jerry Echols took the ball at his own 40 and went all the way but a clipping call nullified the play and Booneville was penalized to their 43. They picked up two first downs and Hal White passed to Lowrey for the remaining 26 yards, but again the play was nullified and Booneville drew a 15-yard penalty and had to kick. Hal White kicked to the 10 and Ronnie McKinney and Larry Barron were there to hit for no return.

The Lions threw one incomplete pass, then Downs hit through to stop the runner at the line of scrimmage, and another pass was incomplete when Mike Nabors jarred the receiver loose from the ball. Gary Martin crashed in to block the ensuing punt and Booneville got possession at the Selmer 16. Hal White threw to Tollison on the first play for a score and Tollison's placement was wide, but Booneville had a 19-0 lead for the halftime intermission.

The third period was scoreless as the ball changed hands frequently on fumbles and interceptions and early in the final quarter Booneville was forced to punt. White kicked to the Selmer 17 and there was no return. Downs and McKinney teamed up to stop a reverse for 12 yards loss, and on the next play Selmer was penalized half the distance to the goal, at the three. Then Mike Guy stormed in to drop the Lion quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

The safety gave Selmer a free kick from their 20 and Don Guy took the ball at the Booneville 32 and went down the right side all the way for a touchdown. Mal White kicked the point to make it 28-0.

With a minute and a half of playing time left, Booneville held and took over at the Selmer 48. Tollison picked up five and Bill Breedlove three and an incomplete pass stopped the clock. Hal White threw to Lowrey for a first at the 12 and called time with four seconds left, then passed to Lowrey for a touchdown as time ran out. Mal White's placement try was a short.

Coach James Drewry and Line Coach Richard Brown said although they were pleased with the determination and spirit showed by the squad, they have been working hard this week to try and correct some of the mistakes.

They said, "We can't make that many mistakes against Baldwin and expect to win."

ALL THE WAY — Booneville's Don Guy, No. 10 (arrow) took a Selmer free kick following a safety in their game here Friday night early in the fourth period at the Booneville 32 and raced down the right side for a touchdown. Marshall Dickerson, 78 on ground, cleared out two would-be tacklers and other Booneville escorts identifiable are Mark Lowrey, 89, Jimmy Walden, 75, David Young, 65, and Larry Garner, 81.

Stranger Foiled In Attempt To Cash Bogus Check At Peoples Bank Tues.

A stranger, who gave his name as James H. Watts, attempted to open a checking account Tuesday morning at The Peoples Bank and the Trust Company with a check on The Corinth Livestock Commission Company in the amount of $2,900.75, desiring $2,000.00 in cash and the rest left in the account.

Mrs. Agnes Carter, teller, was concerned that she couldn't recall that name in the area and after asking a few questions, relayed the situation to the manager, who in turn, questioned the man. He said he had recently moved to Booneville and lived on Route 1, near Troy Moore's store, and had sold livestock at the Corinth auction. The man was not nervous or agitated and remained quite cool, but said he was in a hurry since his children were in the car and were probably uncomfortable due to the heat. Candy was given to the man for his children; but due to his vague answers, the bank declined a check.

Gospel Singing At Wheeler Baptist Sun.

There will be a gospel singing at the Wheeler Primitive Baptist Church Sunday, September 11 beginning at 1:30 p.m. Everyone has a special invitation to attend.

Later the bank confirmed with the Corinth firm that the check was bogus although it was written morning at The Peoples Bank and the Trust Company with a check on The Corinth Livestock Commission Company in the amount of $2,900.75, desiring $2,000.00 in cash and the rest left in the account.

A description said he was 6'2" tall, in a 1965 or 1966 Impala with an Alabama license and traveling in the company of two other men - instead of with his children.

Alertness on the part of Mrs. Carter and other bank officials prevented a loss to the bank and possibly to others who might have been approached.

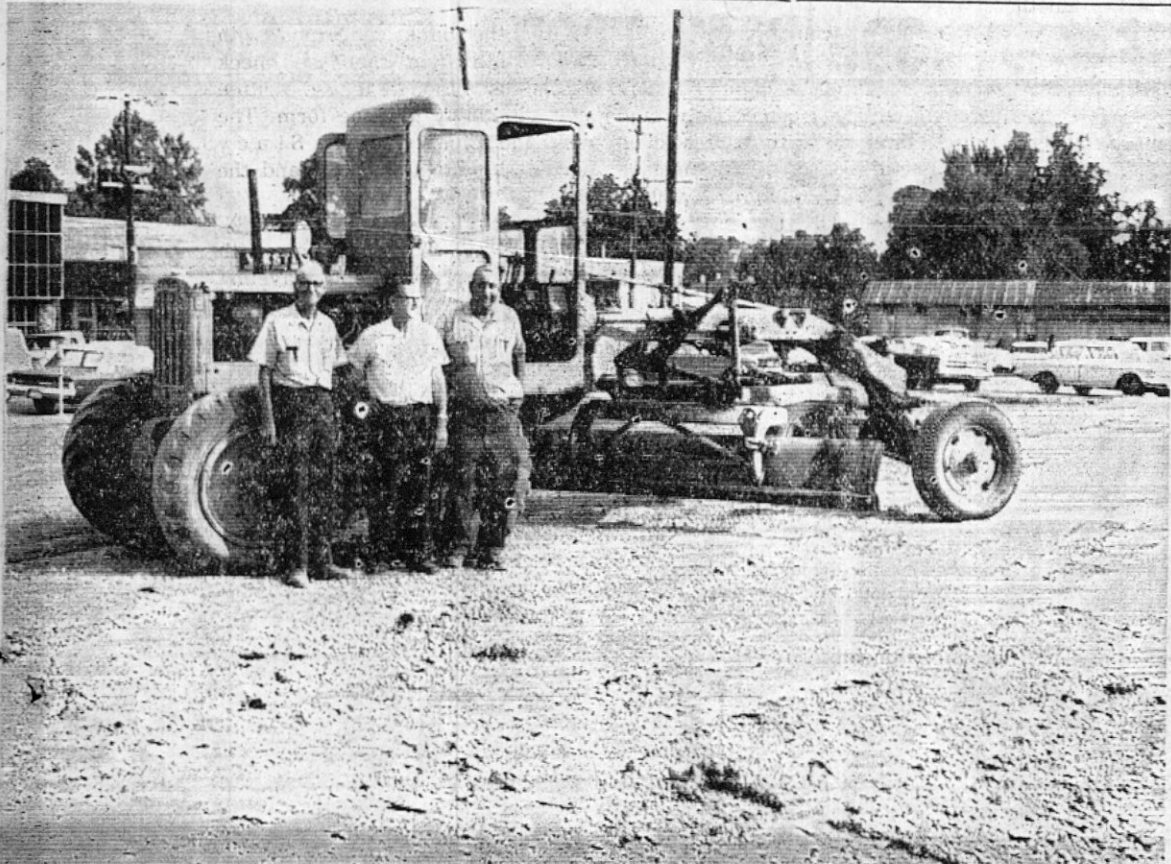

As a bank official said, "Not all strangers are crooks, but all crooks are strangers."

Gospel Singing At Marietta Methodist Church Sept. 10th

As a citizen of the empire of humanity, Dr. Bernard Patrick's entire life was a career of service dedicated freely and willingly to humanity, and its constructive influence, which touched and enriched the entire community and a area where he so long made his home, endures as a lasting memorial to his rare devotion and fine skill. Dr. Patrick was identified with the medical profession of Corinth for more than thirty years. Integrity and distinction were his, and his ideals and principles found expression not only in his everyday life but in his practical business ethics. He was a churchman who carried Christianity into all his associations.

Bringing the healing touch he responded to every call upon him. A tireless worker he carried a large practice with great success. He never spared himself, and no amount of time was too much for him to give, no detail too small to receive his personal attention. He devoted himself without intermission to his heavy duties, meeting to the utmost extent possible the demands upon his time and strength, performing all in a spirit of friendliness and good will. His genial nature and fondness for people were qualities which were in themselves healing forces.

He not alone attended to the sick bodies of his patients, but he gave them courage to meet life's realities, to face problems that confronted them, confidence to go forward with the assurance that right things were always best. He brought comfort and peace to troubled hearts. He came over the threshold of homes and hearts and helped to make them whole. His presence in the sick room was always soothing and he gave an abundance of cheer and unfailing hope to the afflicted. He was gentle with people. He was a man of determination for whom soft-spokenness was an asset in his drive to attain a lofty and difficult goal.

Despite his complete preparation for his profession, he still reached for further technical acquirement. The advantage of hereditary environment and the will to make the most of his opportunities were combined in the career of Dr. Patrick. During his active career he rose to a position of distinguishing prominence. Equipped by temperament for the work that he performed he served his contemporaries faithfully and well, shedding everywhere about him a gracious and beneficial influence. He was a man of scholarly tastes and attainment and devoted much of his time to study and research.

He was a discreet man. He gave the world his ear more than his voice, a wise process as old as philosophy. He had an amiable reserve that showed a man of thought and chastened feeling.

Dr. Patrick was a patron of the fine arts. The beautiful oil paintings that are treasured in the home are interpretations of his pictorial personality. Interpretations which are distinctly his own.

During World War I he served with the 114th Engineering Corps in France as assistant bandmaster. He was especially gifted as a violinist and as a clarinetist.

As a lover of the out-of-doors he enjoyed hunting and fishing during his leisure time.

Apart from his profession his first devotion was to his home.

Sharing his ideals, his companion, the former Miss Hortense Sutherland, gave him sympathetic assistance in his work that made their union delightful and of mutual advantage. Their home life radiated supreme happiness.

"The sun rises and sets, the beauty of morning's auroral tints and the rich glories of the evening sky are so usual that we scarcely pause to drink of their beauty. So it is with the friends we daily meet and enjoy. It is not until the shadows of death have darkened the landscape in which they find their setting that we awaken to the finer shades and lights of their intellectuality, their charm, or the beauty and stability of their character." So we feel it has been so with Dr. Patrick. "A life of rarest consecration to his labors, slipping away without ostentation of farewell and leaving a glow of warmest appreciation with all who knew him to lighten the cloud that descended when they knew he had passed to his reward."

Services were conducted Thursday, September 1, at two o'clock at McMillan's Funeral Home, by Reverend E. H. Cunningham, a long-time family friend, and Reverend Billy E. Roby. He was buried in the Booneville Cemetery. The following served as honorary pall-

R. J. Paulk, Father Of Mrs. Anderson, Dies

Having retired in the summer of 1949 when he became ill, Robert J. Paulk, Sr., of Tupelo died of a heart attack Monday afternoon at 3:30 after a lengthy illness. He had been a patient at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis two weeks. He was 88.

Services were conducted at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 30 in the Funeral Chapel of W. E. Pegues with the Rev. John H. Traylor, Jr., pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Glenwood Cemetery.

Born September 7, 1878, at Cloverdale, Alabama, plantation home of a family which came from South Carolina in the early 1800's, he was the youngest son of Joe J. and Amanda Austin Paulk.

When Mr. Paulk was nearly grown the family moved to Florence where his father was a partner in the Johnson-Paulk Hardware firm, and the son entered Florence State Teachers College (then State Normal College). Finishing in the spring of 1899 he worked several months with a lumber firm in Iuka, then came to Verona in 1901 to take up farming a 60 acre tract for which his father had traded. In April 1905 he married Miss Callie Faires of Waterloo, Alabama.

Mr. Paulk acquired several tracts of farm land through the years, to which he devoted his major interest, but on the side traded stock, operated a grain elevator, bought and shipped cotton during the first World War, bought and shipped corn, raised and shipped seed corn, owned the Allis-Chalmers Tractor and Farm Implements agency until the beginning of World War II, and in his latter years dealt in real estate.

Mr. Paulk was faithful member of the Baptist Church, transferring his membership from the First Baptist Church to the Calvary Baptist Church at the time of its organization, and becoming a member of the first board of deacons and serving in this capacity from 1936 until 1949. He was known to vote his convictions, even if he stood alone. He never held a grudge, and worked as sincerely and cooperatively with men who over-rode his views as when he triumphed. His integrity was above reproach; he proudly adhered to the old school which held that a man's word is his bond.

Surviving are two sons, R. J., Jr., and Lester, both of Tupelo; and two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Anderson of Booneville and Mrs. C. D. Garrison of Mobile, Alabama. He also leaves three grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Metorites have been found in all parts of the world.

Taxes And Inflation

Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri emerged from the White House recently with proposals for a tax increase to curb inflation. Our instinctive reaction to that idea was probably much the same as that of any other private enterprise taxpayer. But we must admit the senator provided strong evidence that drastic steps of some sort are now necessary.

He mentioned the balance of payments deficit, the continuing outflow of our gold reserves, and the additional burden on the American dollar as we now are trying to keep Britain's "sterling" monetary system from collapsing. He even went so far as to say that unless something is done soon "the dollar might become even more vulnerable than sterling."

It may be significant that he said such things right after a conference with President Johnson. We recall not long ago that Mr. Johnson made a speech in which he said that we were in great shape because our rate of inflation was less than that of most other countries. We also get the impression, since that mix-up on the airline strike settlement, that Mr. Johnson is willing to take time out to personally announce good news, but often finds it more convenient to let someone else give out with the bad.

We don't mean to suggest that Senator Symington wasn't speaking his own mind on this matter. But some of his remarks did appear as though he was trying to help the President off the hook of that wage-price guidelines formula which has turned out to be such a flop. Said the Senator from Missouri: "Experience with voluntary restraint has shown that such restraint cannot be expected to work effectively over an extended period. Direct controls on prices and wages should be avoided if possible . . . Expenditure curtailment in certain programs should of course be considered, but the quickest and most effective method would be an increase in tax revenue."

Well, we're "from Missouri!" on this one, too. We've got to be "showed" how a tax increase will curb inflation without either a simultaneous curtailment of some federal spending programs or an application of direct wage-price controls. Without the latter, a tax increase would bring immediate demands for wage increases in all major industries, probably including a "cost-of-living" boost for all government employees. Without curtailment of some Federal spending programs there simply is no effective method to curb inflation or strengthen the American dollar.

THE BRITISH EXAMPLE

For many years, self-proclaimed civil libertarians in this country have hailed British police and judicial practices as a prime example which the U. S. should follow. Capital punishment should be abolished for any and all crimes, said they, because such was the trend in Britain. The un-armed "Bobbies" of London were hailed as an example for American cities to follow, to make their police forces less aggravating to the "civil" populace.

All right, we're ready now to listen to arguments from the American Civil Liberties Union and other "civil liberties" zealots that we should follow some current British examples in these regards, such as the following reforms now being considered in Parliament:

- 1) Do away with rules of procedure which compel police to caution a suspect before interrogation that anything he says may be noted and used in evidence against him.
- 2) Provide stiffer penalties—up to life imprisonment—for such crimes as armed robbery.
- 3) Require a defendant planning an alibi defense to give details before trial so police and prosecutors will have ample time to investigate.
- 4) Require defendants in criminal cases to go into the witness' box for examination by the prosecuting attorney.
- 5) Abolish the rule requiring a unanimous jury vote to get a conviction, allowing instead a 10-2 vote as sufficient.

We're not sure that we would subscribe to all those reforms for our own judicial process. But certainly now that Britain has tried the super-gentle approach to the problem of crime prevention and found it wanting, there would seem to be a most timely lesson for us in their experience.

Just Scribbling

MRS. ED JOHNSON

I am intrigued with a 1914 Sears, Roebuck and Co. catalogue showing men's ready-to-wear, brought to the office by Mrs. Archie Saylor. There are pictures and a swatch of material for each suit. The fifty-two year old catalogue is in pretty good shape and has 33 pages. The lowest priced suit is $4.65 and the highest is $18.00. One advertisement reads, "Stylish oxford gray pincheck weave cassimere outing suit for $5.50" and another, "Our finest navy blue pure wool serge outing suit for $12.00."

... and moths had not bothered the swatches of material! It was found in a house built by Mr. Tice Moore in 1913, later owned by Mrs. Joe Green and now owned by Mr. Bud Green who is having the house remodeled. Newell Brown found it between the walls of the upstairs part of the home.

Three weeks ago our 16-ton printing press began walking - a little late in life. It moved several inches away from the large motors, thus causing a delay in getting out part of the papers. By using a hydraulic jack, the press was placed back in the original position and the next week behaved itself.

However, on Monday of last week, a part broke; it was welded locally, but broke again. The part was carried that Monday night to Corinth and a new piece made and put in - then another part broke. So last week your paper was printed on the Southern Sentinel press at Ripley and we deeply appreciate using their press.

Thursday through Monday of this week a major tearing down and reassembling of our press was undertaken. The last time we had work of this type, the pressman charged $12.00 an hour from the time he left New Orleans until he returned.

The only bright note in the whole picture was discovering that Stanley Perry, who helps our son print the paper, showed much mechanical ability. In fact, Ed says he ought to consider studying mechanical engineering.

There was no guarantee when the pressman came from New Orleans, and none now, that further breaks will not occur.

On second thought, I guess there were two bright notes. It didn't cost $12.00 an hour for Winn, Stanley and Cecil to help Ed.

"If every country now living under communism were to disappear from the face of the earth, the real threat - the idea of utopian prosperity under state capitalism - would remain. Until the fraudulent, unworkable theory of Marxian economics is thoroughly discredited . . .

SOUTH LOOKS UP

The following excerpts from THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL written by David Lawrence, a great leader of this country, versed in knowledge and wisdom, should make any man in the South feel very optimistic. We can look at our own community and know that these statements are the truth. We need to be active, alert, broadminded and strive to go up and up in the field of education, strive to make our region better in every way.

... Here are significant points from official tables of the U.S. Department of Commerce, Labor and Agriculture and the Federal Reserve Board:

"The number of jobs in the South has increased 33 per cent, while the remainder of the country has gone up only 15 per cent.

"Factor jobs alone have increased 27 per cent as compared with a growth of only two per cent in all other parts of the United States.

"Personal income is up 83 per cent as against 69 per cent in the rest of the nation.

"Population has risen 21 per cent in the South as against a 16 per cent increase in the remainder of the country.

"Factory output shows a 103 per cent increase in the South, while 50 per cent is the gain in the balance of the country.

"Bank assets have gone up by 92 per cent in the South, while all the other regions have risen by 76 per cent.

"Retail sales in nine years have grown by 56 per cent as compared with 51 per cent in the rest of the country . . .

"... Workers are available and willing - and are considered less likely to strike. The climate is moderate. Water supply, so important to many industries, is boundless . . .

"So far during the 1960's the South has been the only region of the country whose population has grown at a faster rate than in the decade of the 1950's . . .

WELCOME RETURN

SHARP DANGER

You hear the remark, "as sharp as a razor." You could hear another, "as sharp as broken glass." Wounds from broken glass are common and many of them very serious, sometimes the worst of all. Cut glass has no respect for any part of the body or the type of wound it makes. We often think the uglier the wound the better it suits the glass, and it so often carries infection, too. Glass injuries could be largely prevented. Glass in the automobile does not shatter and cut as in the past. It is easy to break a bottle, a jar, maybe a jug, at times. Make a search tomorrow - in the yard, the barn yard, around the junk pile - and clear your home or your business of this danger. The glass cut too often necessitates a hospital visit for traumatic surgery and may mean infection and tetanus to combat. It is much better to prevent wounds from broken glass.

THE MIM PHILOSOPHY

Mr. Neal Cirlet of Jackson, Mississippi, a representative of the Blue Cross-Blue Shield Insurance organization brought an informative and inspirational talk to the local Rotary Club recently. A move has been started in Jackson urging people to trade at home. It has gained some momentum. We are quite certain that too many people do go out of the state to buy when they could purchase the same or comparable product at home. Some even go out of town for hospital and medical services when they might get just as good at home. Everything being equal it might be best to say, trade at home. If your merchant does not have the product you desire, give him the opportunity to secure it for you. If he is wide awake, he can do just that.

But as well as we like the trade-at-home principle, we need to go several steps farther. We need to stop, think and investigate why the purchaser chooses to go elsewhere. We also need to be aware of the many products that Mississippi can surpass other states in producing. Perhaps we are not well enough informed about our assets. We want to give our men and women the type of education that will enable them to produce, to develop the talents they have to become an outstanding lawyer, preacher, the farmer who can raise a better pig at less cost than any one else. Taylor Smith sold a lot of good pigs, even to Texas. You will hardly be able to beat Prentiss County in the production of high-class sorghum molasses and the county has led the world in the production of corn per acre by bushels. Mississippi has been a leader in junior colleges and is near the top in the production of pulp wood. We need to develop every human talent for what it is best suited, utilize every acre of land for what it can best produce, and utilize every foot from here to the Gulf of Mexico. Let every state do the same and then have a free interchange of products. In this way each person helps the other.

"Let every man prove his own work and then he shall have rejoicing in himself and not in another"—Bible—This means for a student in school to work out his own arithmetic problems for himself if he wants to feel satisfaction and strength and not copy the problem off of some one else's tablet.

"Don't talk your religion—live it."

"Books are nourishment to the mind."

If you buy at home you can probably produce something that you can sell at home.

Prentiss could well become the pig county of Mississippi, and Mississippi the pig state of the South. Keep the pigs coming.

WORK TOGETHER

Our nearby town of Baldwin now has made the beverage both legal and illegal. Maybe the folks can tell whether it makes any difference in the affects and taste pretty soon. We don't know which it will be, but most likely they will agree with each other. Baldwin is a cooperative town. It has made a lot of progress the last few years because the people work as a unit. This is very important.

there will be no permanent protection from the appeal of something-for-nothing . . . Karl Marx was right about one thing; every functioning economy needs a dictator. But Marx picked the wrong one - government. Free enterprise operates under the right one - the free customer - who, by merely refusing to buy, by taking his patronage elsewhere, can discipline any business, large or small, which does not offer what he wants at the right price. This is the proper and democratic place to put power; in the hands of everybody. It needs no supervision except government enforcement of an official code of honesty and fair play."

GETTING MORE OUT OF LIFE

Riding to work the other day, the bus driver gave us a fresh point of view, relates an unnamed writer in a current publication. "Driving in traffic day after day must get tiresome," one of us ventured.

"No-o-o-o," he drawled, raising his voice on the last of the extended "o's." "It's what you see in between traffic that makes this job interesting. You work in an office—" he continued, and without giving us a chance to answer, "and what do you see? Nothing but walls, work, worry."

"Sure, I've got worries, too, but what of it? I've got a new sight every leap the pistons take in this motor. There's new people to see, children I'm watching grow up, houses I'm watching being torn down, and happiness and sorrow between every two street lights on my route."

Here, an ancient, rust-infested car trundled across the bus's path, breaking the conversation momentarily.

The bus driver resumed: "Listen, I know what kind of mood you and every rider on my bus are in when you hit the step into the bus. A cheery word from me has helped a lot of gloomy folks many a morning. When I get you down to work safe, I've kept a business going with one of its important cogs safe and sound. When I get you home at night, and know your wife is waiting for you, I've made another family happy because its husband and father is home, fit as a fiddle."

A commendable philosophy. Here was a seemingly unemotional task. Cramped in a crowded leather seat, this man was seeing more, and getting more out of life than many get in the round of scenic wonders or educational advantages, or comfortable surroundings.

THE LIGHT TOUCH

A man learning to fly invariably holds the "stick" too tightly. He may even "freeze" onto the controls and cause a crash. He is tense, nervous, fearful. The instructor's task is to teach the student the "light touch"—the light, relaxed, confident touch that marks the master airman.

Many business crashes have been caused by men who tried too hard—who "froze" onto the "sticks" of their business planes. A man who is personally acquainted with many of America's most successful executives says that practically all of them are "easy-going" fellows. They do not fret and worry and fear. They have applied the "light touch" to their jobs. They do their tasks with quiet faith.

Local Business

Gyp artists are more active today than they were in the era of the traveling medicine show.

In one field alone, the "home-improvement" racket, swindlers cheat the American public of one-half billion dollars each year, according to the American Better Business Bureau.

Salesmen who frequently take gullible bargain seekers for a ride are money termite inspectors, roof repairmen, furnace inspectors, and concrete or asphalt contractors.

Gyp artists may be distinguished in two ways. They are likely to be non-local persons. They do not advertise their services in the local newspaper.

Protection against dishonest pitchmen is an incidental public service of newspaper advertising. No newspaper could knowingly afford to carry the advertising of a swindler. No regular newspaper advertiser could afford to falsify promises to the public.

Fly-by-night salesmen and swindlers avoid the local newspaper like the plague. They may operate technically within the law, but they cannot operate in the light of publicity.

Judicious use of newspaper advertising, then, is the public's best insurance against fraudulent home improvement schemes.

The newspaper editor is usually among the first to learn of a visitation by gyp artists to the local community. A call to the local newspaper may often reveal traps in a deal which sounds too good to be true.

BLESSINGS ON THE MAGNOLIA

Mississippi is the Magnolia State. Booneville has some nice magnolias and we should have many more along the highways. The magnolia is very beautiful when it is green and growing. The most beautiful of these trees we have noted in Booneville is the one in the old C. R. Lacy yard. The C. R. Lacy family was a well known and useful family in this county for many years. Mr. Lacy, a wonderful teacher, also served well in the state senate and rendered fine service as chancery clerk. His son, Wesley, served as mayor of Booneville and Gene was and is known in political circles. The Lindsey Keetons now own the Lacy home and the magnolia is in the front yard. It grows not so tall, but is quite large across and beautifully symmetrical. We are sure it has displayed its beauty and shed its fragrance in this yard for more than a half century. This lovely tree has seen romance also. We think perhaps Miss Tommie Lacy, the fine daughter, was married in the shadow of its branches. Blessings on this magnolia tree!

BOONEVILLE LOSSES

The people of Booneville, Corinth and Northeast Mississippi deeply regret the passing of Dr. Bernard Patrick. He was outstanding in his profession and his family is well known for their fine citizenship and stalwart integrity. His son, Bernard, is making a fine record in the field of neurology and his daughter and her husband have represented us on the medical mission field. Mrs. Patrick before her marriage was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Sutherland, a fine person with a brilliant mind. The people of Booneville held Dr. and Mrs. Patrick in highest esteem and we are sure the people of Corinth did the same, especially the doctors who were so well represented at the funeral. We are sorry that Dr. Patrick could not have had many more years as a citizen of Booneville.

GOLDEN DAYS

School days are here again. The buses are rolling and the children seem quite happy. Our school affairs seem to have been handled very smoothly under the direction of Mrs. Murphy. We are probably on the way to more consolidation.

HARM TO ALL

Generally speaking, the roads in Northeast Mississippi seem to be below average for the state. Just all of the reasons why we do not know. The roads of the state should be uniform in quality as nearly as is possible, for if the roads are back in this section it will not only hurt us locally but will do great harm to the entire state. We must have more and better roads. We must have some four-lane roads. Northeast Mississippi all in all is the best section of the state and we should not have the poorest roads.

WITH PRIDE

John Stanley of Corinth, son of our J. C., is now director of the Curlee Clothing Company of Saint Louis. This is a big distinction, but he is equal to it. A big business man in Corinth, John is well connected with the business life of Mississippi and the Mid-South. Curlee is a very outstanding clothing company in the nation and we understand it prepares to take on new growth. Mr. John Stanley, Sr. played quite an important part in the early days of this great company. John, the third, has a fine family and we are proud of him as a "Booneville boy."

MORE ASSETS

The Ruff family from Buffalo, New York, is now domiciled in Booneville. We are proud of this family and predict they are going to be a big asset to our city. This is the type of family that makes a town strong and secure.

HE TOLD TOO MANY

The Sunday School lesson recently emphasized the value of truth and honesty to human society. "Truth crushed to earth will rise again." — "The greatest friend of truth is time, her greatest enemy prejudice, and her constant companion is humility." (Charles Caleb Colton) "Sin has many handles, but a lie is the handle that fits them all." (Oliver W. Holmes). It is very important to first know the truth and then to tell the truth if it needs to be. A man who cannot be depended on to tell the truth is a great enemy to human society. Sometimes it is a big asset to a man personally to tell the truth.

We heard of a man on a ship who died of what was thought to be bubonic plague. The captain was told this was the cause of his death and he became very much disturbed. He called in his steward and instructed him about the deceased. "He is in Room 216. Tonight when the passengers are in bed, you slip the body out and bury it at sea. This way we may prevent a stampede on the ship. Be sure, now, don't forget." A day passed and the captain passed Room 216 and just opened the door. There still lay the corpse on the bed. He sent for the steward and was about to throw him overboard. The steward begged for mercy. "I'm so sorry," he said. "I thought you said Room 206." "Gracious," said the captain, "you didn't throw another man overboard, did you?" "I certainly did." "He was not dead, was he?" "Well, replied the steward," he SAID he was not, but I had known that man years ago

Miss Lona Mae Simmons And James Mardis Are Married In August 20 Ceremony Here

Miss Lona Mae Simmons became the bride of Mr. James Lester Mardis August 20, 1966, at 7:30 p. m. at the First Pentecostal Church of Booneville. Rev. Robert Forbush officiated.

Miss Simmons is the daughter of Mr. Bolivar Simmons and the late Mrs. Simmons of Booneville. Mr. Mardis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mardis of Jumbertown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was very radiant in a floor-length gown of bridal satin and lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a blossom of organza and pearls, forming her chapel train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations tied with pink streamers.

The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed before a background of pink gladioli and a white satin prayer bench which was entwined with pink gladioli. The center of the background came to form a peak, using pink candelabra intermingled with green palm leaves. Small green palm trees on either side of the gladioli finished the decorations.

A program of organ music was provided by Mrs. Tulon Lambert who played, "I Love You Truly," while the candles were being lit. Mrs. Robert Forbush, soloist, sang "Always" and "Whither Thou Goest." Traditional wedding marches were used.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Mrs. Lucy Arnold. The bridesmaids were Carol Hayden and Betty Goodin. They wore identical dresses of pink crepe and matching veils and shoes of pink. Each carried a single pink gladiol.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Jerry Mardis. Groomsmen were Phil Mardis and Gary Smith.

Ushers were Bobby Ashcraft and

AN ETERNAL FORCE

The wind is like the power of God.

It is invisible — you can neither see nor touch it. And yet it will carry a sailboat skimming across the waves with all the beauty and grace and freedom of a sea-gull.

But whereas the wind may die and leave you drifting aimlessly and helplessly with the tide, the strength of God remains eternally steadfast.

It is through the Church that man is given understanding of this Power. For by worshipping God he can acquire the spiritual insight which gives fuel to his soul and purpose for his pursuits.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Whitten Says Northern Miss. Can Be Blanketed By Rural Water Systems

The protection and convenience of a modern water system can be brought to every rural community in northern Mississippi, Congressman Jamie L. Whitten declared today.

Thanks

We, the United Drys of Prentiss County, would like to say thank you to every one who took part in encouraging the voters of Prentiss County to vote against coming out from under the Dry law of Mississippi.

This is only the beginning of what can be done to help make our county a better place to live and raise our children. We need to help our law enforcement officers to enforce the liquor laws. We need to inform and educate our young people as to the evil effects of alcoholic beverages.

"Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift." II Corinthians 9:15.

Paid for by The United Drys of Prentiss County

The Congressman disclosed that 51 rural water systems already have been developed in the 20-county area of the new Second Congressional District under a program established the past three years through the Farmers Home Administration, a Department of Agriculture agency. The projects represent $6 million in new water system construction — about one-third of the total to date for the entire state.

With Mississippi leading the nation on a per capita basis in development of rural water systems under the program, Mr. Whitten said he day is now in sight when water shortage and contamination can be a thing of the past in rural areas.

"We have found the means to wipe out one of the last great deficiencies in rural services as compared to city services," he said.

"Rural people have had enough of the age old struggle with unsafe water from shallow wells, cisterns and open streams.

"Every town and country home and business, every farm should have clean tap water flowing in through a modern pipeline system.

"If we take full advantage of the program now under way, this promise can become a reality in our part of Mississippi."

The program Congressman Whitten cited involves Farmers Home Administration guidance and financial backing for rural towns or non-profit associations of rural people to organize modern water and sewer systems.

As chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee dealing with Agriculture Department appropriations, Mr. Whitten has played a leading role in developing the program and bringing its benefits to his district.

The program is carried out under recent legislation that authorizes the Farmers Home Administration to make loans, or insure loans advanced by private lending institutions, to build systems organized through the initiative of local groups. Areas served include farms, other homes and establishments in the open country, and rural towns of not more than 5,500 population. Sewer as well as water system financing has been inaugurated this year.

Mr. Whitten said Mississippi's development has been almost entirely on the basis of Farmers Home Administration-insured loans, using funds advanced by local banks and other Mississippi lending institutions.

"We are setting an example for every other state, not only in modernizing rural areas, but also in our readiness to put our own resources behind this drive for progress," the Congressman asserted.

Mr. Whitten said DeSoto County already has achieved national distinction as "the first county to bring in sight the ultimate goal of the rural water program: water system coverage as complete as electric service." DeSoto has 13 rural water systems built or approved and 3 more in process of organization. Six of the original systems have already undergone expansion.

Other counties also have made substantial progress toward the same goal. Lafayette has 5 projects approved to date, Prentiss 5, Tallahatchie 4, Grenada, Panola and Tippah have 3 each; Coahoma, Itawamba, Pontotoc, Quitman, Tate and Yalobusha 2 each; Lee, Marshall and Tishomingo one each. Planning of more systems is under way in every county, with some to embrace several rural communities.

Projects are developed by local authorities or civic organizations working through their county offices of the Farmers Home Administration, Mr. Whitten said.

The Congressman pledged his assistance to any interested community in helping to organize the planning and financing of a project.

HOME ECONOMIST'S NOTES

By CLARE T. ROSS, Extension Home Economist

Where does Sally study? On the dining room table or the breakfast floor in front of the TV. At the bar?

Don't you think she should concentrate better, learn better study habits and do better school work if she had a definite permanent place of her own to study? A place where she can spread out and store her school books and papers. In her study area she needs a desk or table about 24 inches wide and 36 inches long. It should be the proper height for her to work comfortably. With the desk she needs a chair in which she can sit erect with her feet on the floor. The best selection is a straight-backed, armless chair that is not upholstered.

Don't let the desk face the window. It's better to have it facing a light-colored wall. The finish on the top of the desk is better if it is light-colored, too and not glossy.

Of great importance is the lighting. You will want to provide a good quality lamp that provides plenty of light — 150 watts is the minimum. You can get more information about lamp selection and placement from your home economist's office.

We've been talking about a study spot for Sally. But don't forget young Tommy. He needs one too, as does every school boy and girl.

Washable Woolens

It seems that woolen garments are about to join other fabrics in your washer. Both the U. S. Department of Agriculture and commercial firms have developed several chemicals that can be applied during the manufacture of woven or knit wool yardage to give it the same launderability as "man made" fibers.

These new treatments will permit you to machine-wash wool garments without those bugaboos of shrinkage, pulling and matting.

Some manufacturers are already using the chemically treated yardage for sweaters, shirts, dresses and socks. Since the chemical is not visible to the eye or to the feel, be sure you read the labels carefully when you buy fall and winter garments that are made of wool.

QUALITY COTTON

Keep all forms of foreign material (anything other than cotton) out of cotton!

Colored items of clothing, for example, carelessly dropped in a trailer of seed cotton can cause extensive losses. In ginning, such items are scattered throughout the bale. These show up in textile products with costly results. Such cloth has to be sold as "seconds" or the contaminated sections cut out.

Oil, grease and tar contamination of cotton through leaks, excessive lubrication, careless handling and storage should be avoided. Do not mark bales with stencil ink.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT

Have an area of pasture where the sod needs renovating? If so, give it a good disking and sow wheat or oats at the time of disking. This should give good grazing until the sod gets good next spring. Be sure to apply plenty of fertilizer at time of seeding. The cereal grazing will pay for the cost of renovating the pasture.

Two areas needing special treatment at this season are the clover pastures and broomsedge fields. Both need high rates of phosphate and potash to start with, after lim-ing. Plenty of fertilizer dealers will sell and spread fertilizer on pastures. Take advantage of this service.

A lot of clover areas need a good renovation to thin the sod so that they can come up and survive. Plant cereals or ryegrass when renovating.

Plow the broomsedge fields. Plant oats, wheat or ryegrass after liming. Be sure to use plenty of fertilizer. You'll wonder where the broomsedge went.

Those farmers who have bahia grass should look it over and see if it is too thick for clovers to grow in it. If so, try renovating and seeding cereal or ryegrass and fertilizing. Plant white clover on bottom land and crimson clover on higher land. You'll see a big difference in the bahia grass next season.

WINTERIZE THE POULTRY HOUSE

Start now getting the poultry house ready for winter. First do a thorough clean up job inside and outside. Disinfect all equipment.

Check the house and equipment for needed repairs. Make the needed repairs before winter gets here.

Take steps now to prevent frozen waterers during the winter. Bury your water lines, wrap the risers. Try heating cable for the waterers.

Installment Due On Tax Estimate

Individual taxpayers who file declarations of estimated Federal income tax returns must pay the second installment of tax due on their 1966 estimate by Thursday, September 15, 1966.

Mr. J. G. Martin, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for Mississippi, said that taxpayers whose anticipated income during 1966 has changed may be required to file an amended declaration of estimated tax.

A blank form for use as an amended return is printed on the back of the bill which the Internal Revenue Service sends individuals for an installment of estimated tax. Mr. Martin said, Form 1040-ES (Amended) also may be obtained from any Internal Revenue Service office.

Document No. 5111, which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, may be obtained by writing to your District Director, Internal Revenue Service.

"Opportunity to enlarge our present facilities in Indianola to 23 acres, with the purchase of 6 acres of land to the north and 2 acres to the east, influenced our decision to rebuild in Indianola," Mr. Lewis continued.

Expected to be completed in the late summer of 1967, "the new warehouse will be one of the most modern and up to date grocery warehouses in the South," Mr. Lewis concluded.

It was smooth styling from the half-inch heels to boldly strapped crushed leather uppers. Then wham, the frame-up...with little pilgrim buckles! PARASOL remains a closed-up T-strap, in Red or Black (also Black suede). But that BOLERO bared all the heel, in Beige or Black. Come to the rescue of Fanfares now... as seen in 'Teen.

Important Change In Social Security Law During 1966

An important change in the social security law in 1966 will mean cash benefits for many persons over 72 years of age who have not worked under social security. This announcement was made today by Hugh Tigrett, manager of the Tupelo, Mississippi social security office.

Mr. Tigrett went on to say that the amount of this payment will vary depending on whether the person is a man or woman and whether married or unmarried.

"A man", he said, "will get $35.00 each month. A woman who is single, divorced or widowed will get $35.00 a month also. A married woman whose husband has qualified for the $35.00 a month payment will get $17.50 a month."

Mr. Tigrett pointed out that this special payment would not be made to persons now qualified for social security benefits. Neither will a payment be made to persons qualified for any other governmental pension which is equal to or greater than the payment he would get under this special law. If his other government pension is less than his payment under the special law, social security will make up the difference.

"Persons who have applied for health insurance under social security will not need to put in a new claim", said Mr. Tigrett. "Social security will get in touch with them for any additional information which may be needed to complete the claim for payments."

The social security representative visit Booneville each Monday at the City Hall from 9:00 A.M. to 12:00 Noon.

Quartet Convention In Memphis Oct. 20-23

The 1966 National Quartet Convention will be held in Memphis, Tennessee at Ellis Auditorium October 20, 21, 22 and 23.

This is the eleventh annual meeting of gospel singers who come from all over the United States and Canada to perform for four days. Thousands of gospel music fans converge on Memphis to listen to their favorite singers. The Blackwood Brothers are hosts to this event and featured along with The Statesmen of Atlanta, former Louisiana governor, Jimmie Davis. The Chuck Wagon Gang, of Fort Worth, Texas, The Happy Goodman Family, The Lefevres, The Speer Family, The Oak Ridge, J. D. Sumner and The Stamps Quartet and scores of others.

A movie recently made that features a dozen top gospel groups will have its premiere in Memphis during the four day meet.

In addition to the singing there will be a meeting of the membership of the Gospel Music Association, a national organization formed to promote gospel music. There will also be a number of business luncheons for industry leaders.

Three states, Arizona, New Mexico and Utah are touched by the Navajo Indian reservation of nearly 16-million acres.

Tourists visiting Malaysia, in southeast Asia, have increased by 25 per cent since 1961.

VA Answers Vets Questions

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I am a "cold war" veteran. May I obtain a G. I. loan for the purpose of purchasing a business?

A — No. G. I. loans may be made under the new G. I. Bill only for the purchase of a home or farm.

Q — My father was killed in military service and I have been attending school under the educational program administered by the VA. I will be married this summer, but intend to return to school and complete my college education. Will my marriage terminate the monthly payments I have been receiving from VA?

A — No. Marriage does not terminate your entitlement for this benefit.

Q — What procedure is necessary for correction of an other than honorable discharge?

A — Upon request the military services will provide Form DD-293, Application for Review of Discharge for other than Honorable cases, and DD Form 149, Correction of Military or Naval Record for veterans with dishonorable discharges. Although VA has no jurisdiction in these cases, forms are available at VA offices.

tails that will mix with gasoline. Sleep is a disease no one wants a cure for.

Locomotion of a fish is relatively simple. The weight of the body is about that of the water it floats in. Power is provided by side to side motion of the fins.

BRITISH INFLUENCE

In a suit you will wear with quiet pride

The well dressed man this fall is known by the details of the suit he wears. In our splendid collection of both town and country suits the British Influence is strong . . . you'll like the slight broadening of shoulders and lapels, the waist definition and the flare to the coat. You'll especially like the rich fabrics for fall: the imported look and feel to the splendid worsteds in the town suits, the delightfully casual look of the tweeds and shellands in our country suits.

Study Compares Machine And Hand Picking Of Cotton

STATE COLLEGE, MISS: Hand-picked cotton may be better than machine-picked in some respects but the differences are small and of no consequence when compared to the advantages of mechanical harvesting.

This is the conclusion of Agricultural Engineer E. B. Williamson and his associates after a three-year study at the Delta Branch Experiment Station at Stoneville, Mississippi.

In a cooperative U. S. Department of Agriculture study the engineers also found very little difference in the performance of three types of spindles used on mechanical pickers. Other considerations such as durability and serviceability of the harvesters are believed to be more important than differences in lint harvested by the various types of spindles.

The principal results of this study indicated that grade of lint harvested by use of all three types of spindles was about the same, but because of higher content of foreign matter, spindle-picked cotton averaged almost one grade lower than hand-picked cotton. Neither classers' call of staple length, fibrograph measurements, nor fiber length distribution were significantly affected by the type of picker spindles used in mechanical harvesting.

Lint from hand-picked cotton was less uniform in length than that picked mechanically. Short fibers were more abundant in hand-picked cotton than in spindle-picked, probably because hand harvesters tended to pick more immature locks and partly opened bolls than did the machines.

There appeared to be little real difference in fiber strength of lint picked by hand or by any of the three types of spindles. Lint from hand-picked cotton had less foreign matter than that from any of the three spindle-picked cottons.
