Cotton Growers Unite In Effort To Recapture Some Of Lost Markets

Cotton growers heard Tuesday night that continued determination to solve their problems through the sound business methods of the Cotton Producers Institute can mean a very bright future for the industry. The Institute was set up to carry out a voluntary, non-political program of research and promotion for cotton to increase profits.

A progress report of the Institute's 1964 research and promotion program was given here at a meeting of cotton growers, agricultural workers and interested businessmen Tuesday night at the Prentiss County Electric Power Association building.

County Agent W. T. Smith presided and opened the meeting by telling the group, "We should all realize by now that we are going to have to do something as individual producers to improve the cotton situation." Mr. Smith also conducted a question and answer and discussion period at the end of the program.

Bob Love, of the National Cotton Council Memphis office, explained the difference between the National Cotton Council and the Cotton Producers Institute, pointing out that the Institute is unique in that it has no overhead and all funds can go directly for research and promotion. He also told the group how synthetic fiber materials have cut into the cotton markets.

The report on the research and promotion projects was given by Pete Scrivner of Tupelo, East Mississippi field representative of the National Cotton Council.

The meeting was set up by a steering committee set up at a similar meeting held recently in Aberdeen for East Mississippi. Prentiss County members of the steering committee are Oliver Eaton, William H. Holley and H. C. Shirley.

"It's possible to tell this story only because cotton growers who were aware of our competitive pressures started three years ago to do something about them," Mr. Scrivner said. "That was when they initiated the Institute's research and promotion program as the only permanent means of correcting cotton's problems."

The report pointed out the Institute's research program objectives are to: (1) cut unit costs of producing, marketing and processing cotton an average of $55 per bale or 11 cents per pound; and (2) develop better products which will enable cotton to expand its domestic market by 5.6 million bales.

For 1964 Institute trustees budgeted some $800,000 for 21 research projects, 10 of which were initiated in 1963. Projects are expected to attract $500,000 from other sources, thus pushing the total research effort to $1.3 million.

Cited as an example of progress being made was a systemic insecticide project. Researchers have found at least four different groups of insecticides that show outstanding effectiveness against all test insects for as long as 10 to 16 weeks.

Institute research also has produced new 100 per cent cotton trousers which will be on the market next month. The manufacturer guarantees the trousers will never need ironing, and plans to promote them nation-wide through local newspaper advertising.

An experimental all-cotton wash-and-wear suit for men now is undergoing testing. These two items will help cotton hold and expand its share of the big men's suit and trouser market now being threatened by synthetics, it was pointed out.

Three Institute projects cut across the board and hit at four major targets in production — insects, weeds, diseases, and yields.

The report also disclosed that (1) two other projects are seeking answers to help growers combat insects; (2) three are working to provide more effective, lower cost weed control methods; (3) two are underway on the most restrictive cotton diseases; (4) three deal with improving yields; and (5) two could produce answers to marketing and processing problems.

Product improvement projects are seeking ways to give cotton better luster, warmth, creases and easy care properties. If research can make substantial improvements in these qualities and provided the fiber is competitive in price and promotion, cotton stands to gain a market of 5.6 million bales.

In a filmed interview shown at the meeting, Marvin C. Lunde of Chicago, Ill., national sales promotion and advertising manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., lauded the Institute's $1.8 million promotion program for 1964.

Speaking on him, Mr. Lunde said the program is "a hard-hitting sales effort and forms a sound basis for building the kind of advertising and promotion push required in today's highly competitive business world."

The report pointed out cotton sales messages in 1964 will reach a circulation of one billion — the largest and most effective in the industry's history. This means ev-

Patrolman McDaniel Urges Citizens To Leave Law Enforcement To Officials

Highway Patrolman Hubert McDaniel climaxed his talk to Rotary Club members on Monday with the admonition, "We urge all people to leave enforcement of the law up to law enforcement officials."

Patrolman McDaniel was introduced by Grady Ewell who was in charge of the program. Whit Abernethy, president, presided at the meeting held at the noon hour at the Town Motel.

Joining the Highway Patrolmen Division eight years ago, Mr. McDaniel has had Prentiss County as his territory, although he goes anywhere when called.

The speaker opened his talk by giving the history of the Mississippi Highway Patrol which was organized in 1938 with 50 men. With the 200 extra men recently added by the legislature, the staff now numbers 475. These patrolmen work in the following departments:

Traffic Department, of which Patrolman McDaniel is a part, has to do with traffic regulations. The Identification Bureau helps sheriffs in their investigation of accidents. The Auto-Theft Bureau keeps records of automobiles that are stolen and recovered and works with other states along this line.

The Cattle Theft Bureau keeps records on stolen cattle. Patrolman McDaniel said, "Most people are surprised to know the large number of cattle which are stolen each year. It's a big-time racket."

Drivers License Bureau is concerned with all persons operating vehicles having license to do so.

The Safety Responsibility Bureau deals with accidents when people do not have liability insurance.

The Auto Safety Inspection Department is concerned with the vehicles being operated.

Patrolman McDaniel told of the specially trained men who are aiding in training the Auxiliary Police Departments in the various areas. He emphasized to the Rotarians that every person should remember to leave the enforcement of the laws up to the Law Enforcement Officials.

His talk was well received by the group.

HOME AGENT NOTES

LAUNDRER BEFORE USING

Yes, the rule for linens is to launder before using! Good care begins with this preliminary laundering... the laundering before you use new sheets, tablecloths, place mats and towels. This laundering removes factory finish, soil and fingerprints due to handling, printed lettering, pasted labels and embroidery machine oil. It also restores fluffiness to Turkish towels that tend to mat and "settle down" on store shelves. In laundering linens, it is best to follow general directions in your washer and dryer use-care booklets, and any special directions on the merchandise itself. Even lace cloths, organdies and openwork are machine-safe if encased in a mesh laundry bag.

June brides and others will do well to follow tips such as these from efficient homemakers: Iron linen damask damp with a hot iron. Iron first on the wrong side and then on the right side for a glossy finish. Roll cloths in a cylinder to eliminate all creases when spread on a table; or fold lightly in thirds so there will be only two creases, both "standing" the same way. To avoid wear on one set of threads, change the position of creases each time tablecloths, sheets and napkins are ironed.

Iron monograms and other embroidery right side down, and over a well-padded board or folded towel to bring out the design in 3-D effect. Cover lace and other openwork with a clean press cloth or tissue to prevent the iron from catching and snagging. You can sponge plastic tablecloths and place mats with warm suds followed by rinse-wiping. A well-lathered vegetable brush will coax crumbs from a textured surface.

An easy way to wash small, fragile pieces like dainty handkerchiefs is by shaking them in a capped jar half full of soap or detergent suds, followed by rinse water.

Our office has been a-buzz the last week... The home demonstration council is in the organization-stage of a county-wide recipe book. Watch for it!

A hat workshop for all home demonstration ladies is in the making. So, things have really been popping!

Pilot Club Has Hospitality Program

The Pilot Club of Booneville observed its annual hospitality program last Thursday evening at the Town Motel Restaurant. The Coordinating Committee with Mrs. Clifford Kizer as chairman, presented the program, which was presided over by Mrs. Webster Cleveland, Jr., president.

The decorations and place cards truly depicted the atmosphere of true Mississippi hospitality. Small light houses were placed on the banquet tables to further signify a genuine welcome.

The Invocation was given by Steve Greenhaw. Mrs. Harold Pritchard led the Pledge of Allegiance. The welcome was given by Mrs. Kizer and Mrs. Bill Golden appropriately sang "Summertime."

Rev. W. L. Wallace, Jr., pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave an interesting and enlightening address on "Hospitality," which he defined as a quality of life that is a part of every day life. He pointed out that a great problem of the world today is the art of being a good neighbor, which could be developed through a sense of humor, a spirit of tolerance, knowing each other, and having a basic integrity in our lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welch of Daytona Beach, Fla., were the club's out-of-state guests, and they were presented gifts from Manufacturing Co., Blue Bell, Kraft Cheese Co., Marathon Cheese Co., and Brown Shoe Co., by Mrs. W. V. Kemp. Mayor Smith then presented them with the key to the city, and Mrs. L. W. Peeler gave a brief summary of the history and achievements of Booneville and Prentiss County.

Booneville's Miss Hospitality, Miss Gloria Dixon, and Miss Carolyn Walden, alternate, were especially honored and presented gifts. Mrs. Mary Gault Nabers and Miss Kathryn Mathis served as pianists for the program which ended with the entire group singing "Way Down South In Mississippi."

Other guests attending were Mrs. Don Eubanks of Memphis, Tenn., Miss Marilyn Carter, Dr. Webster Cleveland, Jr., Dr. Hoyt Nelson, Clifford Kizer and L. W. Peeler.

Torte In Three-Quarter Time

Ah, Vienna! The beauty... the gaiety... the waltzes... the coffee houses with their scores of confections, each richer and creamier than the next! If a generous amount of cream doesn't introduce the recipe, then a frothy dollop of whipped cream is likely to be its finale. Sour cream, too, is a favorite—a lively flavor note borrowed from the Slavs, but set to new uses by the Viennese with such imaginative dash that it's become a "native" specialty. This tall, split-layer cake, with all the airs and graces of Viennese torten, and the special lushness added by sour cream, offers one delectable example. Stir poppy seeds into the batter, add a harmonious filling, and accompany the torte with coffee, like the Viennese. But you can conduct your baking allegro—with the quick American ease of a cake mix inspired by Viennese sour cream recipes. It puts a new accent on elegant and effortless eating.

Vienna Poppy Seed Cake with Sour Cream Filling
1 package Vienna Style white cake mix 2 egg whites
1/4 cup poppy seeds 1 package fluffy white frosting mix
1 1/2 cups water

Combine poppy seeds with 1/4 cup of the water. Let stand for 30 minutes, don't drain. Combine cake mix, egg whites, poppy seeds, and remaining 1 cup water. Prepare and bake cake as directed on package in 8 or 9-inch round layer pans. Cool layers completely. Split layers horizontally before filling to make four layers.

Sour Cream Filling:
1 1/2 cups sour cream 1 package instant vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
2 egg yolks 1/2 cup milk

Blend together sour cream, egg yolks and milk. Stir in vanilla pudding and pie filling mix. Blend until smooth. Chill until ready to fill layers. (Chilling makes the filling a stiffer consistency.)

Fill layers with sour cream filling and frost with fluffy white frosting prepared as directed on package. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Services For Mr. E. Clay Wright Held Sat. In Belmont

E. Clay Wright, 71, retired banker of Belmont, died Thursday at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis. He was born in Prentiss County. In the Fourth District, and in his boyhood days attended the Booneville High School.

He established the Bank of Belmont and served as president of the institution for a long period. His son, E. C. Wright, served as cashier many years, while his brother, Ellis Wright, was president. Earlier, the deceased was associated with Allen Wright Hardware Co.

Mr. Wright was an outstanding citizen of his area, and he was active in the business and civic life of Belmont for many years. He and his family made major contributions to the development and progress of his town and county. As a member of the Church of Christ he had an unusual record of zealous and devoted christian service and as a Sunday School teacher in a long tenure of 38 years.

He leaves his wife, the former Miss Josephine Jordan of Red Bay, Ala., a daughter, four granddaughters, a sister, Mrs. L. P. Allen, and a brother, Ellis Wright of Belmont.

Rites were held Saturday afternoon at 2:00 at the Church of Christ with burial in the Belmont Cemetery.

Traffic Safety Begins At Home

Motorists ought to be as safety-conscious in driving around town as they are on the open road. Donald J. Gray, President of the Mississippi Safety Council, said studies show that three out of four traffic deaths take place within 25 miles of home and a half of serious accidents happen at speeds of 40 miles an hour or less.

The Mississippi Safety Council is sponsoring a "Drive for a Safe Holiday" campaign in cooperation with Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee, and offers these six tips for safe summer motoring:

HAVE YOUR CAR CHECKED. Remember the "Circle of Safety" — brakes, tires, lights, steering, exhaust, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rearview mirror, horn. Make sure they're ALL in safety shape all the time.

USE SEAT BELTS. They help prevent injuries, save lives. Seconds will buckle a belt; an instant will release it. Safeguard your family—use seat belts whenever and wherever you drive or ride.

GIVE YOURSELF A BREAK. Whether going downtown or on a trip, allow enough time so you won't feel rushed. On long trips take frequent breaks. Arrive relaxed.

BE ALERT TO HAZARDS. Adjust your driving to road, traffic and weather conditions. Remember, posted speed limits are for NORMAL driving conditions.

ADOPT GOOD DRIVING HABITS. Merge smoothly into traffic... keep pace with other cars... signal well in advance of your exit or change of lanes.

USE COURTESY ABUNDANTLY. Everywhere—at intersections, when turning, while passing, or being passed, at night when your headlights are on high beam — "Make Courtesy Your Code of the Road." It pays!

In assuming individual responsibility for the safety of all motorists and pedestrians, a driver may add still another link to the chain of safe drivers in our community and on the nation's highways during this summer vacation season.

Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

Relationships of people are endless. They go on and on. Besides everyday business and personal relations, we find ourselves dealing with many other publics. For example, we have direct and indirect relationships with government. We also have various relationships within a particular church. And people quite often have very strong relationships with pets such as dogs, cats or birds. And there are many more.

Mr. Woodruff

But of all relationships, the most important are those existing within a person's immediate family unit. The family unit today has changed markedly from its identity prior to World War II. Members of families are scattered in all directions. In many cases, after children are grown, it is seldom, and sometimes never, that all members of a family come together again.

Developments in transportation and communications have aided tremendously in binding family ties. At one time, if a son or daughter went to work in a town 20 miles from home, they were "working off in the city." Today a son or daughter thinks nothing of taking a job hundreds or thousands of miles from home. Thinking today is not in terms of staying close to "home," but it is that of seeking the desired employment and the most money.

Recent research shows that only a relatively small percentage of persons are native to the city or community in which they now reside and work. We are a moving society today. And each individual makes his own decision as to where he will work and where he will live. But one of the most interesting aspects of this nomad existence is to watch the gleam in a person's eye and listen to the romantic tone of voice when he has opportunity to talk about "back home."

As people become older, their

After the closing prayer, the hostess served a delicious salad plate with pink lemonade.

Local Business

By S. S. TALBOT

The advertiser is far more interested in whom he actually does reach with his message than in how many heads are counted if everyone uses a medium at a particular time.

One of the most respected research firms in the United States recently released figures which reaffirm the importance of the newspaper in terms of the kind of person newspaper advertising influences.

According to the research report, 98 per cent of all families with an annual income of more than $10,000 are regular newspaper readers. In the $5,000-$10,000 bracket the figure was 94 per cent.

The careful study again shows that newspaper reading rises as income and educational level of a family rises. Those who are most able to buy are most likely to be newspaper readers.

Perhaps more important, women, especially, in the higher income groups tend to use the newspaper as a shopping guide. They are women who are willing and able to buy. They have enough money to shop around for stores and goods which appeal to them most.

One retail merchant said: "My advertising pushes charge accounts and monthly payment plans. New customers who are at-

Don't Try to Take Law Into Own Hands, Stennis Urges

By SEN. JOHN STENNIS

WASHINGTON — Some members of Congress have appealed to the President of the United States for "protection" of Freedom Riders who have announced plans to invade Mississippi this summer.

I have appealed to the President and the Attorney General of the United States to discourage these agitators and warn them to stay out of Mississippi. I have had no response from my appeal.

Moreover, I appealed to the Senate to the vicious civil rights bill that would outlaw the Freedom Rider movements of people wanting to stir up strife and trouble. The Senate refused to approve my amendment.

Later, last week, I offered a separate bill that would accomplish what my amendment had set out to do. I will continue to push for adoption of this bill.

The pattern of activities of the agitator groups is clear. They move into a peaceful community, hold meetings, make speeches, organize demonstrations and otherwise play upon emotions of both races and excite them to a fever pitch. The actions almost always produce a powder keg situation in which riots, violence and even bloodshed follow.

"Too often other media bring customers who cannot make payments and who are interested only in non-profit items. Such business can be worse than no business."

When this point is reached, it then becomes necessary for the local law enforcement officials to take action to maintain law and order. The actions of the law officers in putting down the disturbances result in appeals by the agitators to Washington for Federal intervention. These appeals — regardless of the merits — all too often receive a preconceived and sympathetic response from Washington. That's what happened in Birmingham in May of last year.

These racial zealots are making their move which they hope will lead to the military occupation of Mississippi, and perhaps to other Southern States.

According to one nationally known newspaper columnist, "the real aim of the extreme Negro organizations is to secure the military occupation of Mississippi by Federal troops."

More than ever, it is essential that we exercise judgment, discretion and restraint. We can best serve and help the cause by leaving these matters to our state and local officials who are the ones to cope with the situation. We must back them to the limit. We must not try to take the law in our own hands.

100 Years Ago—

"Alabama" Is Sunk Off Coast Of France

By LON K. SAVAGE

France had a taste of America's waters, Capt. John A. Winslow of Civil War 100 years ago this week. The "Kearsarge" and "Alabama," spread the word that he was waiting outside the port to do battle with the "Alabama." Soon, he received word that the famous Capt. Raphael Semmes, skipper of the "Alabama," was agreeable to a battle and would come out and fight as soon as arrangements were completed.

For the rest of that week, the two ships prepared for the fight. On Sunday morning, June 19th, the "Alabama" nosed out to sea, and the fight was on.

The "Kearsarge" and "Alabama" were about the same size; each had about 150 crewmen, and each was heavily armed. But the "Alabama" was the more famous; for the past two years it had sailed the high seas and captured 64 Federal merchant ships, burning all but seven of them.

How It Started

The "Kearsarge" in a routine port call at Flushing, Holland, heard that the "Alabama" was at Cherbourg and immediately sailed for France in hope of doing battle. Two days later, the "Kearsarge" arrived at Cherbourg and found the "Alabama" floating in the breakwater, her Confederate flag flying high. Unable to attack in French

Hot Fight
At 10:57 a.m., the "Alabama" opened fire from 1800 yards with a broadside that cut some of the "Kearsarge's" rigging. The "Kearsarge" responded with a broadside that knocked down the "Alabama's" ensign for a few moments.

For 65 minutes, the two ships sailed in circles blasting at each other, as Frenchmen watched through spyglasses from the Cherbourg heights or from the rigging of ships at port. An excursion train of sightseers arrived from Paris just in time to have the unexpected spectacle unfold before them.

The "Alabama" fired a 68-pounder through the Federal ship's starboard bulwarks, wounding 3 men, and another shell set off a brief fire in the "Kearsarge." But the Federals sent shell after shell crashing through the Confederate vessel's sides.

Finally, the "Alabama" turned and headed for shore. The "Kearsarge" followed and with a few more shells brought her to bay. As the Federals watched, the famous "Alabama" sank stern-first into the water, then slipped backward beneath its surface.

The "Kearsarge" began picking up survivors and then called for help from a nearby British yacht which joined in the rescue effort. Then, to Winslow's dismay, the British yacht sailed off with the men it had rescued, including Semmes, and the Federals had been deprived of half of their prisoners. The battle cost about 30 Confederate casualties — only three for the Federals.

Next Week: Kearsaw Mountain.

VACATION TRAVEL

In order to enjoy a vacation to the fullest, one should follow three simple rules, beginning with planning the vacation correctly, then to avoid any chance-taking while enjoying it. The third rule, perhaps the most important, is to return from a vacation refreshed. In order to get a car ready for a vacation trip, it is a good idea to make sure everything is in good working order.

ORCHARD REMINDERS

Continue summer training of young trees by removing suckers and excess branches. Keep strawberries as free of grass and weeds as possible throughout the summer. When hoeing, be careful to prevent cutting or pulling loose roots of runner plants.

Keep young pecan trees free from weeds and grass in a 6-foot area around the tree. Water thoroughly as needed.

Remove badly damaged or dead branches, limbs and trees to prevent shot-hole borers attacking other trees. Be sure to brace new growth of grafts on top-worked pecan trees to prevent wind damage.

Spray trunks of peach trees with DDT, dieldrin, or thiodan around August 1, again September 1 and again October 1 for control of peach tree borer.

COTTON WEED CONTROL

Misuse of such materials as DMA, DSMA, SMA and MMA can damage cotton plants, thus cutting yield. If used other than as directed on the label, it could result in harmful residues in cotton seed.

Of these materials, only DMA has been tested extensively by Mississippi researchers. This material is recommended by the State Weed Committee on a trial basis only.

None of these organic arsenical herbicides are recommended as broadcast topical sprays where the material is allowed to contact the upper parts of the cotton plants.

Label directions state that the materials be used as directed sprays only so that they will contact grass and weeds and only the extreme lower parts of the cotton plant.

The directions also state that only two applications of the material at three pounds per acre be applied. No application should be made after the cotton begins to

DAR Has Increase In Young Members

Mrs. L. E. Perry, Regent of the Natchez Trace Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, recently released the following information concerning membership in the National Society of the DAR:

Current NSDAR membership is 184,515. Total new members admitted during the year was 7,017, a gain over the 1962-63 figure of 6,086. Of the new members admitted over 2,000 or approximately 30 per cent, were Junior Members, ages 18-35. Last year the percentage ran 26 per cent.

The decided increase in younger members reflects this administration's interest and encouragement of youth in the organization.

Further comparison with 1963 totals indicates a gain in reinstatement of former members of 743 over 570. This year 3,706 deceased members were reported, a decrease of 163 over the 1963 total of 3,869.

A state-wide tally of the membership figures shows as follows: 28 states showed an increase, 1 maintained a status quo and 22, a loss. States leading with largest overall increase were: (1) Texas, (2) Louisiana, (3) Oklahoma and (4) Virginia. Those reporting the most new Junior members within the period were: (1) Illinois, 109; (2) Ohio, 99 and (3) Texas, 96.

BE SURE TO READ AND FOLLOW DIRECTIONS ON THE LABEL. Disregard any advice to the contrary!

WEEDY PASTURES

Look around you and see what weeds are doing to pastures! They are crowding out the good grasses and clovers — taking up badly needed moisture and plant food.

You can control these weeds with 2,4-D at the rate of one pound per acre in water. If cotton or soybeans are growing too close to the pasture area for safe spraying, try clipping.

When clipping pastures at this season of the year, raise the clipper blade five or six inches so as to leave plenty of grass for regrowth and for ground cover.

Strong Stalks Needed As Corn Yields Increase

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. — As corn yields increase, stronger stalks are needed to hold the grain off the ground until harvest. This is one of the objectives of the corn breeding program in Mississippi.

Dr. C. O. Grogan, research agronomist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture heads the corn breeding program which is conducted jointly with the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station. A recent report of the Station's Agronomy Department shows this progress being made in strengthening the stalk:

"Dwarf hybrids were tested extensively in 1963. It has been learned that dwarfism contributes something to lodging resistance that cannot be ascribed to reduced ear height alone. The tallest dwarfs lodged only one-fourth as much as the normal counterparts and at the same time produced equally as much or more grain. In silage-potential tests, ears of dwarf corn comprised 49 per cent of the total dry matter compared to 41 per cent for the normal, and the stalks made up 12 per cent versus 20 per cent of the total dry matter for the normal counterpart.

"Resistance to crushing pressure of a 2-inch stalk section from the second internode above the ground was highly correlated with stalk diameter, rind thickness, and weight of the 2-inch stalk section. Rapid screening of lines and hybrids for lodging resistance is possible with this test.

"Differences were found among single crosses in resistance to Southwestern corn borer and some hybrids showed resistance to girdling even though heavily infested. Early planting is recommended until resistance hybrids are produced.

"Stalk sugars appear to play some part in the degeneration of stalk structural tissues after maturity, thereby linking yield and stalk lodging since yield and stalk sugars are inversely associated."

William Francis Boone, June graduate of the University of Tennessee, is this year's selection.

William Francis Boone, Tennessee, '64, has been awarded a Rotary Foundation Fellowship for International Understanding, and will study next year at University of Montpellier, Montpellier, France.

Boone, who is also vice-president of Phi Kappa Phi, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study in the United States in 1965-66, and also has been granted a National Science Foundation fellowship.

Aiming for a Ph.D. in mathematics or English, Boone will be graduated with majors in these subjects and a minor in French. He hopes ultimately to go into college teaching or the foreign service.

The able young student has a scholastic average of 3.98 out of 4.00, highest at the university, and has been a member of the University of Tennessee College Bowl squad. He was chosen the outstanding freshman by Omicron Delta Kappa and outstanding junior and senior by Phi Beta Kappa. He received the Allen Prize in Mathematics. On the non-scholastic side he was designated the outstanding AFROTC cadet in his freshman and sophomore years, receiving the Chicago Tribune Award. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Pi Delta Phi, French honorary, in addition to holding memberships otherwise mentioned.

A former High Phi of Epsilon Omicron, Boone was born May 20, 1942, in Houston, Miss.; lives at 8013 Chesterfield Dr., Knoxville, Tenn., and is of the Methodist faith. Bill is the son of Frank Boone, affectionately known as "Boonie," who before his father's death often visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boone and visited in the home of his aunts, Mrs. J. E. Scott and Mrs. Clarence Chase. His mother is the former Frances Brand of Houston, Miss.

Social Security Law Violators Will Be Prosecuted

"Lawbreakers will be vigorously prosecuted for violations of the Social Security Act," Hugh Tigrett, District Manager of the Social Security Administration, warned today. Mr. Tigrett said he had just learned that a public accountant and her assistant, both of Benton, Tenn., were convicted in Chattanooga on June 2 of having committed a total of eight violations.

Miss Mable G. Lewis, the accountant, was convicted on four counts of charging fees not authorized by the Social Security Administration. These fees were charged for performing services in connection with applications filed by other persons claiming social security benefits. Miss Lewis and her assistant, Claude Hicks, were also convicted on two counts involving false information and statements which they gave or caused to be given to the Administration. The purpose of the false information and statements was to cause social security benefits to be paid to another person not entitled to such payments.

"A fine of $500, or imprisonment of one year, or both, is provided in the Social Security Act as possible punishment for each conviction of unauthorized fee charging," Tigrett said. He went on to say that any fee for services performed in a social security matter must be approved by the Social Security Administration, regardless of amount, if the person charging it or receiving it is not an attorney. "Even attorneys must obtain prior approval of fees exceeding certain amounts prescribed by federal regulations," he said.

He stressed the great importance of getting correct information from the nearest Social Security district office concerning these regulations, which govern fees charged for assisting claimants and others regarding social security matters.

The conviction of Miss Lewis and Mr. Hicks for violations involving false information and statements should serve as a warning to all persons, Mr. Tigrett said. When intending to cause social security payments to be made where none are authorized, a conviction of each such violation can mean as much as a $1000 fine, or imprisonment of one year, or both, he advised. Any suspected irregularities of this nature are quickly and fully investigated by the Social Security Administration.

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY BIG AND SMALL BOLLWORMS

Cotton farmers must always be on the lookout for an invasion! There are a great number of insects that invade fields and take a "bite" out of cotton plants. But when growers see signs of bollworms, large or small, they know there is big trouble.

A generation of bollworms may be completed in 30 days during warm weather, with 4 to 6 generations occurring annually. Farmers should watch for small, pearly-white, dome-shaped eggs on growing tips, squares and bolls. Eggs indicate a potential infestation, and the field should be surveyed again in 3 to 5 days. The color of developing worms varies from pink to green to almost black. Full-grown worms enter the ground and become mahogany-brown pupae, from which adult moths emerge.

A bollworm infestation is indicated by feeding marks on new leaves in the plant terminals or by holes in squares and small bolls. Newly-hatched worms feed on leaf buds and small squares, and later attack larger squares. Injured squares often turn yellow, flare and either drop to the ground or are easily swept from the plant. Large worms feed on bolls and pollen in open flowers. Greatest damage is caused by tunneling into and destroying bolls. In severe infestations, the worms may "top" the plant by eating terminals.

The heaviest worm population may be expected on plants that are in good growing condition. Many experts feel that the ideal treatment time is before the bollworms reach one-half inch in length, because they are much easier to kill and have done little damage. Most agree that it is practical to treat for larger worms when heavy infestations are found, but control is relatively poor compared with treatment for small worms.

F.N.S.

Studies indicate that timing of application is the most important aspect of bollworm control. Best results are obtained when the larvae are small and located in the terminal growth. It is usually more difficult to control the larger worms, lower on the plant.

Many growers are finding that a newer, safer carbamate insecticide, called Sevin, gives excellent control of big and small bollworms. Cotton farmers who accurately time their applications of Sevin when worms are small get more effective control. With heavy infestations of older worms, they make applications at 4 to 6-day intervals. Because conditions vary in different regions of the cotton belt, it is a good practice to check local and state recommendations for timing and rate of application.

MRS. ED JOHNSON

The weather has been rather warm lately. The temperature, according to the Temperature Clock at the Peoples Bank and Trust Company went to 107 degrees Sunday. Of course, that was a street level reading, but there are those who will tell you it was almost that hot everywhere.

Early Wednesday morning we were swamped at the news office and the girls were trying to wait on everyone. Mrs. Earl Sapington was one of the ones in there and asked Mrs. Horn if there was a charge for the items. When she was told there wasn't, she said, "You really do work hard for nothing."

Actually, we appreciate you calling or bringing in news items for the paper and urge you to continue to do so.

There is a classified ad in this issue stating that if you would like to subscribe to the Jackson Daily News, contact Dewey Nicholson. The rest of the story is that he's trying to win a trip to Texas. His twin brother, Dwight, helps him some, but his most ardent booster now is his mother, Mrs. Ollie Nicholson. So if you want to know what's going on at our capitol, give Dewey a ring.

Some of our North Carolina folks, the Mack Fores, visited us recently, along with their daughter, Maxine, and son, Jimmy. They were enroute to visit a former army buddy of Mr. Fore. Since they came on Wednesday night, they helped us with the news and even read the proofs. We enjoyed their visit and hope they'll come this way again... and stay longer.

We have heard that Hospital Administrator B. G. Horton has been chosen or elected to an office in the Mississippi Hospital Association, but were unable to verify just what at press time. We're happy that another honor has come his way and will give you the particulars next week.

Mrs. A. E. Lindley of Route 4 brought an oddity of nature by the newspaper office this week. It was a cabbage that grew under the ground. Yes, there were real leaves on the cabbage, but don't ask me how.

I appreciated a card from Mrs. Richard (Eudora) Kemp, who is at the University of Missouri studying journalism on a fellowship. She thanked us for our part in helping her obtain the fellowship and added, "I already appreciate the hard work it takes to publish a paper."

I enjoyed talking to Mrs. John Faulkner at the Daily Corinthian Wednesday. She was asking about housing, etc., in Booneville. Her husband will teach in the Speech Department at Northeast Mississippi Junior College next year. Their daughter, Lynn, will be a senior at Corinth High School next year, but after that, the family will be a welcomed addition to our fair city.

It's been said that nothing confuses a man more than to drive behind a woman who does everything right.

A lot of friction on the highways is caused by one group of drivers trying to go fast enough to thrill their girl friends and the other group trying to go slow enough to pacify their wives.

Till next week,
Helen Johnson

Pisgah H. D. Club Meets

Some answers to the question, "How can I arrange flowers attractively?" were provided at the June meeting of Pisgah Home Demonstration Club members at the home of Mrs. E. J. Wimberley. The home agent, Mrs. Claire Ross, discussed mechanics, harmony, and line in flower arranging, then turned the demonstration into a workshop. Under the direction and criticism of the group, each person present arranged the flowers and foliage she had brought.

The president, Mrs. Malcolm Swinney, presided at the meeting.

The devotional was given by Mrs. L. C. McCutchen.

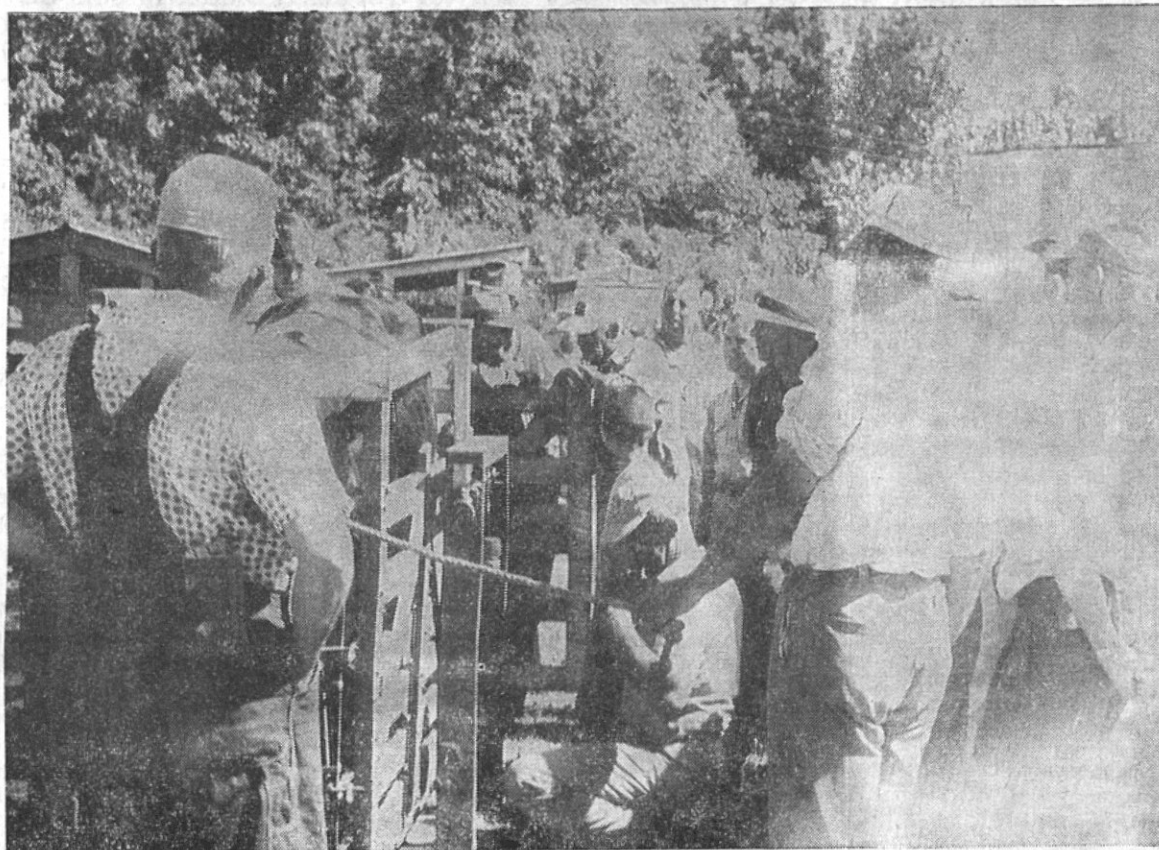

After the business session, four members of the group participated in the study topic, "The Hospitable Home."

Mrs. G. W. Taylor gave the garden leader's report.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Wimberley served refreshments in keeping with the June Dairy Month theme.

Pisgah RCDC To Meet Friday Night

The Pisgah RCDC will hold its regular meeting on Friday night,

WEIGHING TIME—Part of the crowd is shown at Prichard Farm Supply Saturday afternoon as D. H. Prichard, kneeling center, weighed two heifers to climax a guessing contest as to their combined weights. Persons entering the contest were invited to guess what the combined weights of the Holstein and Hereford heifers would be on June 20.

WINS HEIFER—John Nichols, left, of Booneville, Route 1, and D. H. Prichard are shown with the Holstein heifer which Mr. Nichols won by guessing closest to the weights of two heifers in the contest at Prichard Farm Supply. B. S. (Doc) Howell of the Gaston community and Mr. Nichols had registered the same guess and broke the tie by guessing how much the two animals had gained in the past 100 days. As runner-up, Mr. Howell received 500 pounds of dairy feed.

June 26, at 7:30. This will be a supper meeting. Each family is requested to bring salads, vegetables or desserts.

The Claude Willey Family Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chase, with the members of their family, gathered in the City Park to enjoy an old fashioned picnic Sunday evening. The occasion was to honor their niece, Mrs. Claude Willey, their grand nieces, Claudia and Lorene and their grand-nephew, Robert, of El Paso, Texas, who are visiting in the home of Mrs. Willey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scott.

Especially enjoyable was the usual picnic lunch amid the wooded area of the park which is such a rarity to the children. The closeness and informality which is so characteristic of family outing prevailed throughout the evening.

Mrs. Willey is the former Elizabeth Scott. The family was motored to Memphis Wednesday by her parents where they departed via plane for their Texas home.

Jumpertown RCDC Has Regular Meeting

The Jumpertown RCDC met on Monday night, June 15 for their regular meeting of the month, in the high school cafeteria. The meeting was called to order by the president, Woodrow English.

Devotional and prayer was given by Bro. Dewey Wallis. The Civilians were in charge of the program. The History, Creed and Motto of Civitan on a local, state, national and international level was given by Mr. R. J. Bonds. Mr. Junior Smith, Mr. Toy Hill, and Mr. Bonds also discussed some of the fine projects carried out in our own county by the members.

Fifteen families were represented. Several nice door prizes donated by the following firms were drawn: Way-Fill, Gray's and Kemp's Grocery.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned by prayer led by Bro. Wallis.

Homecoming At Fairview Church

The annual homecoming at Fairview Baptist Church will be held Sunday, June 28. Services will begin at 10 a.m. Lunch will be spread at the noon hour.

The revival will begin on this day and continue throughout the week, with services beginning at 7:30 each night. Elder W. E. Sharp will be doing the preaching. Everyone is invited. Bro. T. L. Parker is pastor.

First Baptist Gleaners Class Meets Tuesday

Mrs. Nelson Baldwin's beautiful new contemporary home was the setting for the meeting of the Gleaners Class of the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening. The objective of the interior decoration of this home is the interpretation and expression of the requirements of the individual for gracious living in beautiful surroundings.

Mrs. Mavis Morgan, class president, graciously directed the slide program on Egypt and the Holy Land, introducing the narrator, Dr. Mary Summers. The speaker drew praise for her excellent presentation, making highly realistic the scenes, interest being rekindled in a very special subject. Approached historically in chronological order, the narration was well defined.

Scenes in Egypt were first featured, then Luxor, with the beautiful temple, and Lebanon, where the famous cedars of Biblical significance were observed.

Journeying on, Damascus and Syria held interest, followed with scenes in Jordan, the Dead Sea, Jericho, Bethany, Nazareth and Galilee.

Concluding a versatile program with the Israeli side of Jerusalem, Mt. Carmel and Tel-Aviv with a great deal of understanding, the speaker recorded accurately the history of each with interesting highlights.

Mrs. Baldwin, always a charming hostess, arranged in her spacious home a choice collection of flowers in a wide range of hues, in a new concept of color harmony fresh from her garden. A picturesque addition is the terraced patio between the home with a lakeside atmosphere and a dramatic backdrop pointed up its architectural type.

The bedroom patio enclosed with open tile, in lacy effect, extravagantly colorful to invite outdoor relaxation sets the mood for a lovely hospitality.

The buffet table held a tempting assortment of delectables, including dainty hors d'oeuvres and delicious chocolate cake, toasted nuts, coffee and feed drinks.

Off To Canada Again

Hoyle Eaton, well-known dog trainer, and his capable assistant, Jack Presley, will leave Monday for Saskatchewan, Canada for three months where they will train about 30 dogs.

The dogs, some of them highly priced and title winners, will travel in a completely equipped dog van. The reason for the trip to Canada is due to the cooler weather and longer hours — it doesn't get dark until 9:30 or 10:00. Mississippi weather is too hot for training in the summer time.

This is the fourth trip Mr. Eaton has made to Canada.

Steve Franks Receives Honor

Steve Franks, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Franks, received Honorable Mention in the 1964 Poetry Contest sponsored by the Commercial Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.

Steve will be a freshman at Millsaps College next fall.

Judging was in accordance with the age of the poet. Hundreds of poems were submitted and it was with difficulty that judges selected winners. Seventeen poets were given honorable mention. The following poem was submitted by Steve:

ON AN EVENING IN SEPTEMBER

The sun has gone down at the close of the day
And all little children have come in from their play.
A bird wings its way to its secluded roost
Among the sheltering branches of a sentinel spruce.
The far away cry of a lone whippoorwill
Adds a note of sadness to the evening still;
And one by one from their hiding places
The stars peek out from the celestial spaces.
In the moonlight the frost casts a silvery gleam
Like a jeweled palace floor in a fairytale dream
If I have seen I do not remember,
A thing so lovely as an evening in September.

MAYOR PERRY STOCKTON (right) of Seward, Alaska, tells newsmen how the city of 2,000, struck by earthquake, tidal wave and fire on March 27, survived the ordeal with the help of the Army and the civil defense rations, medical supplies, electric generators and fuel which had been stockpiled there in case of an enemy attack. He said: "Seward would have been a total loss without the training we had. Twenty minutes after the earthquake hit we were in operation through Civil Defense. The light plant was knocked out immediately, but we had a CD generator in the basement of the hospital and CD headquarters was set up there."

IN THE NEWS— Debt Ceiling Goes Up Again So We Can Keep Spending Beyond Ability

By Thomas G. Abernethy
Member of Congress

The debt ceiling is going up again. Again? Yes, again! For as long as can be remembered the ceiling has been raised annually so the President and the Congress can go right on spending beyond the ability of the Federal Government to pay. Fiscalwise, the record is an ugly one.

Strangely enough there isn't much complaint about it. Evidently a majority of the national electorate must favor a program of deficit spending, for otherwise the President and the Congress would exercise more restraint. Mail against spending is quite light, almost negligible; but mail for more spending arrives daily, loads of it. The cycle rolls merrily along — more spending and higher debt, more spending and higher debt.

No genuine effort is now made to recover tax revenues sufficient to pay the bills. The government is operating under a built-in and intentionally designed program of planned deficit financing. This was nailed down a few months ago with the tax reduction bill. The President pushed hard for its passage but strongly committed his Administration to a program of economy. The Senators and Representatives who presented the tax reduction bill passed along the assurances they had received from the Executive Branch that there would be less spending. The bill rolled through over opposition of a substantial group who favored reduced spending first and tax reduction next. But the President and a majority won out with the simple promise of reduced spending. No doubt the promise was well intended but like most promises born of political parentage it has been laid aside.

During President Kennedy's three years, the Federal Government spent $17-billion more than it took in. After upping the ceiling several times, this $17-billion was added to the national debt and we are paying interest on it now at the rate of more than $510-million per year. Johnson, on stepping into Kennedy's shoes, promptly made a favorable impression upon the country with commitments to reduce the spending tide. Lights were turned out at the White House, exemplifying to the country that the purse strings were being tightened. But in spite of this good example, the spending spigot tapped to the Treasury Department continued to pour out the dollars. The reduced electric bill to the contrary notwithstanding, Treasury recently reported that the Johnson Administration in its first six months actually spent $2.5-billion more than the Kennedy Administration in a comparable period a year ago.

In his January State of the Union message, President Johnson told an applauding Congress that he was submitting a reduced budget and that the anticipated ten-billion-dollar deficit would not be more than $4.9-billion. Four months thereafter he has already revised that upward by almost a billion and another revision upward is predicted by fiscal experts sometime after the November election.

The national debt, rapidly rising, has soared to $312-billion, greater than the combined debt of all other nations of the earth. So, in this situation, Treasury officials have again asked the Congress to raise the ceiling from $315-billion to $324-billion, clearly indicating the Administration expects to continue spending beyond income.

Obviously the statutory debt ceiling has failed to serve as a deterrent to deficit spending. Its only virtue, if it has one, is to annually bring the enormity of our national debt and spending to the attention of the American people. Without regard to the debt limit, the President continues to program and the Congress continues to appropriate, far beyond the ability of the Treasury to pay.

Every administration since Roosevelt has submitted programs and budgets which left their respective administrations heavily submerged in red ink. Deficit spending in time of war is definitely necessary and in time of depression, such as the thirties, is generally acceptable. But in time of peace and the most prosperous period in all history it is inexcusable.

As sure as we live, our nation is galloping toward a time and debt level that will plunge it into economic catastrophe. It just cannot survive a perpetual irresponsible policy of deficit financing. Who would disagree that such a policy would destroy a private business? If a private business, then why not a government?

VA Answers Vets Questions

Q.—I receive a widow's pension. I was not working when I began receiving the pension, but I have now secured employment. Is it necessary to report this to VA, or may I wait until I receive an income questionnaire at the end of the year?

A.—You should inform the VA at once so that your continued entitlement may be checked. This could prevent the creation of an overpayment, which would later have to be repaid to the VA.

Q.—When I move next month, how should I tell the VA so that I will get my pension check at the new address? Should I notify the Treasury in Chicago?

A.—No, do not advise the Treasury. Notify the VA Regional Office where your records are located and they will advise the Treasury. Give your Claim Number along with your old and new address. Also, be sure to tell your Post Office of the change.

Q.—I have a rather large dividend accumulation on deposit with the Insurance Service. May I with-

INDUSTRY'S NEED FOR WATER

The value of long-range planning in conserving natural resources and developing them for the full benefit of a state and community can be realized when you stop to consider efforts by arid areas to secure a minimum water supply for industrial, municipal and domestic needs. Mississippians should be aware of efforts in this state to develop, conserve and greater utilize water and water-related resources. With adequate and long-range guarantees of water, there can be major industrialization and economic progress for Mississippi.

smart people are want-ad minded!

Cotton Growers—

every woman in the nation will be exposed to advertisements for cotton an average of 17 times during the five spring and fall months when buying of textiles is the heaviest.

The superior performance, appearance, comfort and economy of cotton products is being stressed. Sales messages are being presented through mass women's magazines, a national newspaper supplement, network television, trade magazines, direct mail, and newspaper advertising by local department stores that cooperate in a special retail promotion in major markets.

Sears, world's largest retail operation, will display 5,000 tie-in posters in most of its 750 stores, use another poster as part of a special sewing promotion, mail two million copies of an 8-page promotional piece to charge account customers, and supply stores with ad headlines and layouts on cotton for their newspaper advertising.

Not all of the report was bright, however, U. S. cotton in the last three years has suffered very serious losses in the domestic and export markets. As a result, the carry over has increased from a low of some 7.2 million in 1961 to more than 13 million for the year ending August 1, 1964.

This has caused the national acreage allotment to be cut almost 2.2 million acres over the last three seasons, and now there is talk of additional cuts for the 1965-66 crop. The primary cause of this trouble is that synthetic producers are out-promoting cotton $45 million to $4 million and out-researching it $80 million to $24 million.

While this situation is serious, there are other highly encouraging signs, it was stated. Growers are determined to expand the hard-hitting research and promotion program of the Institute. Participation is growing in established areas, and growers in three new areas have launched the Institute this year. By the end of 1964 it is expected to be operating in 12 of the 14 major cotton producing states. Still another factor, it was reported, is the rapidly expanding demand for fibers.
