17th Area Feeder Pig Sale Today

The 17th quarterly Booneville Area Feeder Pig Sale will be held Thursday, July 16, at the Agricultural Building one mile north of Booneville on Highway 45.

The sale will begin at 1 p.m. with 1250 head of high quality pigs consigned. All are from purebred and purebred crosses of meat type hogs, vaccinated and ready to feed out.

They range in weight from 30 pounds to 90 pounds and are offered in lots attractive to all buyers.

The program is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service of Alcorn, Ontario, Benton, Union, Lee, Itawamba, Tishomingo and Prentiss Counties. The sponsors invite and urge farmers, businessmen and others who might be interested in the program to attend and see the prices that these pigs bring.

Since the program was begun in July of 1960, a total of 15,282 pigs have been sold at an average of $12.86 a head. The average weight was 53.4 pounds. This is approximately $7.00 per pig more than they would have brought had they been sold at the average price quoted by stockyards during that time.

County Agent W. T. Smith said that the potential is still far from being reached.

"We're selling about $75,000.00 worth of pigs a year, and we could easily double that amount if area farmers will produce the pigs," Mr. Smith said.

Socialism Defeated

A recent election in Saskatchewan, Canada, was a significant one. It resulted in a victory for the Liberal Party. And, in the words of an Associated Press news report, it also resulted in the "ouster of the only Socialist regime on the North American continent."

The defeated socialist government had imposed compulsory medical insurance, along with a government hospital plan, and this was one of the major issues at stake in the election. The voters turned this down, as well as the other socialist policies the government espoused. And this fact should certainly give pause to the American advocates of Medicare — which amounts to compulsory medical insurance for the entire segment of the population which is drawing social security payments. All of these people would have to accept it, and all the rest of us would have to help pay the bill through increased social security taxes.

The truth is that the financial situation of people in the 65-and-over bracket has been vastly misrepresented. Factual surveys show that most of them are much better off than the Medicare advocates claim. For the less fortunate, there are all manner of welfare plans designed to take care of their needs — medical and other. And the organized medical profession is pledged to provide services for all, regardless of ability to pay.

Compulsory medical care insurance — by any name — is a threat to free medicine. It is a threat to the great and constant progress that only free medicine can provide. That was what the Saskatchewan voters felt, and they acted accordingly. And it's a safe bet that, given the chance, American voters would do precisely the same thing.

America's Racial Problems

By HILL HODGES

The subject which I wish to discuss before you today is that of "America's Racial Problem." As we all realize, this is a most extensive and important subject and lack of time and ability will prevent a full treatment thereof. However, I trust that I shall be able to present some facts and lines of reasoning which will be of service to you in arriving at the proper conclusions upon this most important matter.

As we were taught in our public schools, mankind is made up of five separate and distinct races; which are Mongolian, or yellow, race; the Ethiopian, or black, race; the Malayan, or brown, race; the Indian, or red, race; the Caucasian, or white, race. Not only are these races of different colors, but also there exist other outstanding physical differences as well as differences in mentality, instincts, sentiments, emotions, desires and ambitions.

Approximately eighty-five per cent of the population of the United States of America is made up of the Caucasian race, ten per cent of the Ethiopian race, and five per cent of the Indian, Mongolian and Malayan races. Most of the negroes, or black race, live in the area referred to as the South. In our own state of Mississippi, with a total population of slightly more than two million, there are more than nine hundred thousand of the black race. Consequently under the subject, "America's Racial Problem," I feel justified in discussing race relations in the South, because this phase of the subject transcends all others in importance and is of vital interest to the welfare of this and succeeding generations; not only of the South but of the entire nation.

A brief review of American history as related to our subject, reveals events and circumstances somewhat as these. In the early colonial days negroes were brought over by the English and northern shipowners. They were sold as slaves to the early white settlers throughout the original 13 colonies from New Hampshire to Georgia. It is especially significant and interesting, in the light of subsequent happenings, to note that the institution of slavery existed throughout the entire country, not only in the colonial days, but also at that period of American history in which the Declaration of Independence was signed and the Constitution of the United States of America was adopted, which bound the thirteen colonies into one nation, and for several decades thereafter. In fact, many of the makers of these two great instruments were themselves owners of slaves. Also, George Washington, the Father of Our Country, operated a large plantation with slave labor.

However, in the course of time, slave ownership proved to be unprofitable in the Northern states on account of the severity of the climate and inability of the negroes to efficiently work in the chief industry of the region, that of manufacturing. Consequently the practice was gradually discontinued and eventually outlawed. On the other hand, in the South, the negro was easily adapted to the mild and semi-tropical climate thereof and proved himself to be an efficient worker in the chief industry of the section, that of opening up and cultivating vast plantations producing cotton, corn, tobacco, sugar, rice and other farm products. Consequently in the South, slavery flourished and increased.

Gradually the sentiment grew, especially in those areas where slavery had ceased to exist and after the channels of natural reproduction had replaced the profitable commerce of important slaves, that the institution of slavery should be abolished by law. Northern congressmen, senators and other statesmen vigorously advocated this procedure and the Southerners in turn with like vigor opposed it. These differences increased and in the year 1861, eleven of the Southern States, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, seceded from the United States and set up a new government, the Confederate States of America. Slavery was practiced in Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri, but these three, known as the Border States, did not secede from the Union. This movement was followed by the Civil War, with the outcome of which we are all familiar.

During the course of the war, President Lincoln issued his famous Emancipation Proclamation and later sections were added to the United States Constitution upholding and implementing this action. After the war, in order to be readmitted to the Union, the Southern States were forced to accept these provisions. Thus slavery was abolished in our nation. However, the negroes to a great extent remained in the South and their descendants are with us today.

The progress and development of the negroes as a race is a marvel of history. The general harmony and peace existing between our two races, which by nature are so widely separated, has never been equalled in the annals of time. In fact, the prosperity, peace and happiness attained and enjoyed by the negroes in the Southern States of America exceeds by far that existing elsewhere among their race on the face of the earth. Whereas their cousins still occupy the jungles of Africa in a savage and heathen condition, even practicing cannibalism, our negroes, who are so fortunate as to have had their ancestors brought to America as slaves, enjoy the benefits of the progress and prosperity of America. Booker T. Washington, the great negro leader and educator, preferred to see the Divine Hand of Providence in the transfer of a part of his race to America and prophesied that there would eventually be a mass migration of negroes from America to Africa, thereby Christianizing and civilizing millions of members of the Ethiopian race dwelling in the Dark Continent.

In the matter of race relations our town and community are typical of the thousands of such towns and communities throughout the Southland. Here we find the two races living happily and peacefully side by side. We find the negroes living in their section of the town in comfortable homes, with a most commodious school building, three churches and several business houses. Some of them are self-employed and some are employed by white people, all prospering in proportion to their abilities and efforts, which, after all, is the true American way of life.

Of course America is not Utopia and we must admit that there do exist some few exceptions to the general wholesomeness of race relations in the South.

One of the contributing factors to admirable and laudable race relations in the South is the prevalence of the Christian religion in the region. The ancestors of our white population brought the faith with them from Europe and the negroes were Christianized by their white masters long before slavery was discontinued. Now we would not pretend that the Southern people, either individually or collectively, are fully Christian, but we do know that in the South the Christian code of ethics and morals prevails, that Jesus Christ is the accepted pattern of proper living and that His standards are those used in passing upon human conduct and relationships.

Thus the white citizens of the South, with few exceptions, in line with the doctrines of the Master, regard their superior position due to heritage, education and control of the state and local governments, as a responsibility and obligation to provide fair and honorable leadership and to aid and assist those less fortunately situated.

On the other hand the colored people, also with few exceptions, with Christian forbearance, are submissive to existing conditions and appreciate their white friends and neighbors. They have accepted the scriptural precept "to do justly, love mercy and to walk humbly with their God." Furthermore, in instances of mistreatment, real or imaginary, they are well aware of the Christian philosophy contained in these words of Jesus, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them which hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you." Many of them have found, through personal experience that with the spirit of Jesus in their hearts and lives, they can live victoriously, have that "wonderful peace which passes understanding" as they live and rest assured that all will be well with them when, "The sweet chariot shall swing low, coming for to carry them home."

It has been wisely arranged by the leadership of both races that there be separate religious organizations and separate houses of worship for the two races, not in a spirit of racial animosity or antagonism but in realistic recognition of the distinctions which exist between the races.

Yes, it is true that Jesus Christ is the universal Savior of all mankind. Most assuredly the need for Him is common to all races. Yet it would be just as reasonable to take the position that the universal and common need of all for air, water and food demonstrate that racial distinctions should be ignored as it is to claim that the need for Christ should eliminate such distinctions. Conversion to Christianity does not transform a person from the race of his birth.

These racial differences, my friends, were not created by man but are a part of Divine Handiwork. Let me read to you this passage from Holy Writ. Acts 17:24 and 26:

(24) "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, — (26) And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation."

Thus we have here the positive statement that the Lord, who did speak this universe into existence and does sustain it by His might, as one specie of life, created the nations, or races, (the Biblical meaning of the word "nation" being "race") and, furthermore, set boundaries to separate them as they dwell on earth. Thus the Divine Creator was the segregator, and it is the part of consecrated Christians to observe and preserve these bounds as determined by Him. How can a person subscribe to the first four sections of the Decalogue, commanding men to love, worship and fear the Lord their God, which are summarized and brought forward by Jesus as the Great Commandment, and refuse to recognize features of His Creation so apparent as the fact that He created the races and set boundaries between them?

Another contributing factor to the friendly relations existing between the Caucasian and Ethiopian races dwelling in the South is a series of wise laws promulgated by our Southern statesmen.

One such provision is that of setting high qualifications for the right of voting. An enlightened, stable, able and interested electorate is necessary to the success of a democratic form of government.

WHAT A WAY TO GO!

A War We Favor

We are peace-loving by nature but there is one kind of warfare that we heartily endorse—unrestricted war on littering.

That's because litterbugs are again out in full force. These people, who exhibit no consideration whatever for others, are strewing parks, beaches, highways, byways, forests and wilderness areas with mountains of litter. So serious has the situation become that each year more and more private streams and woodlands are denied to sportsmen, picknickers and hikers.

Litterbugs are not only a nuisance, they are causing heavy drains on the public purse. Taxpayers are now forced to put up half a billion dollars a year to clean up the mess litterers leave. In some areas it costs as much as ten cents a pound to compensate cleaning brigades for the trash collected.

The only sure way to end, or at least confine, the litter-plague is for every picknicker, motorist, hiker, hunter and fisherman to become self-appointed guardians of America's scenic beauty and to stick closely to the rules of cleanly outdoor conduct by placing discards in proper receptacles.

Consequently laws have been enacted setting up educational requirements, providing permanent residence and the payment of poll tax as conditions prerequisite to voting. The enforcement of these laws prevent some of our white citizens and many of the black race from participating in the elections.

Another provision of law to promote racial harmony are measures requiring separate but equal public facilities and accommodations for each race.

By far the most important interracial law is that preventing intermarriage between the races. All our other customs, rules and regulations are in support of this one. All fair minded students of world history are in accord that attempts to assimilate various races into one race have always produced decay and deterioration within a nation.

Abraham Lincoln, the Great Emancipator, was outspoken in favor of segregation of the races. In all probability had he lived a few more years, the pages of American history would not be blackened with that disgraceful period known as Reconstruction. Days, in which among other things, under military rule, the abortive and futile effort was made to destroy race segregation.

Within the past two decades in the churches and national government many terrific assaults have been made upon the customs, rules and regulations which have provided race harmony in the South. Many of the safeguards for the Southern way of life have been weakened and displaced.

Therefore in the South the race problem is not the relationship between the two races dwelling therein but it is one of properly and successfully meeting and defeating the moves of those from outside our boundaries, who seem determined to destroy our Southern culture and way of life.

Let us then resort to every honorable means of defense at our disposal. Let us trust and pray that the public sentiment throughout the nation will be that the Southern solution of the race problem is in accord with the Divine Will and

Local Business

By S. S. TALBOT
Chairman, Dept. of Journalism
University of Mississippi

The trade center which depends entirely on agriculture has practically vanished.

Even in the more rural areas, industry helps to supplement community economy. Problems which did not exist in the old country town arise when a farm community becomes a part-time manufacturing community.

Problems are largely a matter of Mrs. Viola Isbell fell Friday and broke her hip. She is a patient at Tupelo Hospital. Her sister, Mrs. Jeff Brinkley is with her. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. George Hardin and Mrs. Jeannie Chaffin of Waterford, Miss., were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Owens.

Please call 365-2535 by Tuesday noon for news to put in paper.

Larger industries have long recognized the need to establish lines of communications between the company and local citizens, employees, and community leaders.

In smaller communities, industry officials are finding that the community newspaper may do the whole job better than any combination of media. Certainly the local newspaper is less expensive than the variety of publications sometimes used to reach all levels of the local citizenry.

The local paper is carefully read by company employees, community leaders, and the general public. Communications from industry concerning labor problems, policies, plans, and current activities are carried in both news and advertising sections.

Any newspaper is glad to carry bonafide news and feature stories about local industries. In most small communities more such news would be used if it were made available by industry.

Similarly, advertising which is concerned with the promotion of company interests can, and does, result in numerous benefits in maintaining better community and employee relations.

Just Scribbling

by

MRS. ED JOHNSON

I appreciated a letter this week from Mrs. Ethel Villavaso of Austin, Texas, telling about being in a beauty shop where one of the girls had a copy of this paper. She said, "In this paper under the heading 'Just Scribbling' was the hilariously funny poem beginning, 'There's nothing whatever the matter with me' and going on for about ten verses. I wish you could have been there when we all were reading it. You would have been gratified to see what fun you gave us by publishing this masterpiece in your column. I copied it while drying my hair and have passed it on to several friends and promised a copy to several more. I have intended all this time to write and tell you how much we all appreciate it."

Can you imagine someone taking time to write a letter to a stranger? I don't even write my folks like I should, but am going to try to do better.

I've been writing a column for a newspaper, first in Baldwin, and now at Booneville for many years, and I've always written about our two sons—from the infant stage right on through this teen age—and somehow I wanted you readers to know about an accident our 16 year old had Monday night.

He spent last week at Scout Camp at Yocona. Since he is a member of the Order of the Arrow, he was among those asked back down Monday night to see who would be selected for Brotherhood. This was the longest distance we had allowed him to drive, and he, George Mitchell and Stanley Perry attended together. Enroute home, on gravel roads, he ran off an unraild 10 foot high bridge into a creek, practically demolishing the car. Fortunately they were not seriously hurt although George suffered a head wound.

Before the boys left, I gave them what our refer to as "the lecture" and cautioned them to wear safety belts. I was told that the fact our son had his safety belt fastened probably kept him from going through the windshield. The steering wheel was broken in two places.

Maybe all of us should "buckle up."

I gave up watching the late show on television a couple of years ago—one of the few New Year's resolutions I ever kept—but Monday night I watched the Republican Convention until 12 o'clock. I used to wonder what went on at the national conventions, and after seeing and listening to one, I still wonder.

I've counted my blessings many times in the last couple of days. It's surprising how much we have for which to be thankful. Why not count yours... and I hope the list is a long one.

Till next week,
Helen

HOME AGENT NOTES

By CLAIRE T. ROSS

Be getting your plans all ready next week... National Farm Safety Week. The date is July 19-25.

The theme for the week is "Safer American Families Everywhere." That means everybody will be working for safety, whether they be on a farm or in a town.

This is the week to get everything in order for every week of the year to be a safe one around our home, buildings and grounds. Remove hazards, repair and store tools, put insecticides and other poisons in a safe place away from children and animals, clean up papers, rubbish and other fire hazards.

Doing some little jobs you've been planning during Safety Week will keep you and your family off an accident-happened-to list.

If you live on or visit on a farm, be particularly careful around machinery, ponds, guns and hazards that may cause falls. Machinery, rowing, firearms, and falls are the leading causes of fatal accidents on our farms.

Next cook-out time you may want to try hamburgers with a new look:

Hamburgers On A Stick
2 pounds ground beef
1/3 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1 Tablespoon minced onion flakes
10 sliced frankfurter buns
1/8 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Piccalilli or Chili Sauce
Combine beef, tomato sauce, dry bread crumbs, onion flakes, celery salt, salt and pepper. Peel bark from sturdy long stick. Mold hamburger firmly around stick, using about one-half cup for each one. Grill over hot coals. Fill hole left by stick with piccalilli or relish. Serve in frankfurter buns. Yield: 10 hamburgers on sticks.

Home Hints

To avoid "garden nails," scrape fingertips over a damp bar of soap. This fills the space between nails and skin, so soil cannot leave ugly brown nail lines. The hardened soap will dissolve when you wash your hands later.

Instant Soap Pads for travel, hikes or picnics can be made at home. Soak folded paper towels in a dense soap solution. Then dry

Billingsleys Going To Bahama Islands

Leaving for a trip to the Bahamas Saturday, will be Mr. and Mrs. H. F. (Red) Billingsley. The trip is sponsored by the Mississippi Golf Association and Mr. Billingsley will enter the tournament.

They will join Mr. and Mrs. George Flippin of Tupelo at Pompano Beach on Sunday and the group will sail from West Palm Beach on the 23rd. They will be royally entertained for 7 days and 6 nights. Their daughter, Betty, will remain here with friends.

Enroute home, the Billingsleys will visit Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Caskey at Homestead, Florida.

Other local members of the association are Carol Yarber, Floyd Cunningham and Red Kernell, none of whom plan to attend.

One of the most fashionable summer teas was enjoyed last week in the lovely H. F. Billingsley home. Shown left to right are Mrs. A. B. Schultz, Miss Caraly Moorhead, Mrs. Howard Davidson, Mrs. H. F. Billingsley, Mrs. Henry Mize and Miss Betty Billingsley. Standing in front are Misses Carolyn Miller and Peggy Robertson, Mrs. Billingsley, Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Mize were hostesses, assisted by the others and Mrs. Thomas Comer and Miss Linda Comer, who are not pictured.

The Billingsley Home Is Scene Of Lovely Social Event On Wednesday

Nestled in a picturesque wooded area off Highway 45 South, the H.

F. Billingsley home was the scene Wednesday afternoon of a tea that brought together over 150 Booneville ladies who enjoyed the hospitality, tempting party delicacies and beauty of the event.

Graciously greeting the guests were the hostesses, Mrs. Billingsley, attired in a stunning pink ribbon knit with white accessories, Mrs. Henry Mize in a fashionably polished cotton figured shift and Mrs. Howard Davidson, wearing a striking yellow silk sheath with matching shoes.

The foyer of the lovely home was enhanced with three red roses in an artistic arrangement at a vantage place on a table.

Mrs. A. B. Schultz, wearing an original blue satin embroidered linen with satin insert, and Mrs. Thomas Comer, in a chic aqua silk jersey, added their cordiality to the party scene, as they welcomed guests into the living room. Sharing attention in the room was a handsome fireplace with scones on either side and a brush oil painting in a lighted frame of the Billingsley's beautiful daughter, Betty. Prize-winning roses from the garden of Miss Mabel Cunningham in a crystal bubble bowl created a classic design on the piano. The recently re-decorated home with its lush carpeting was gently lighted with decorative floor to ceiling lamps.

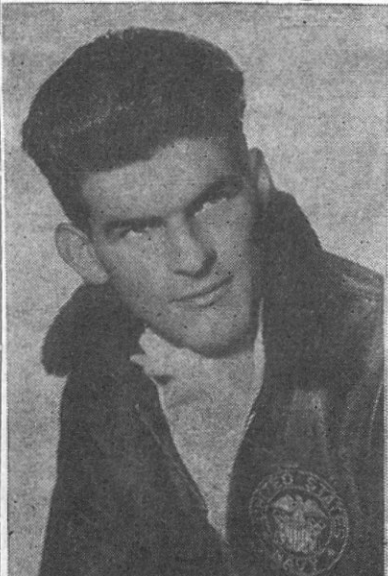

The dining table was overlaid with an exquisite cutwork cloth. The centerpiece on the table was a study in cameo-pink carnations and miniature dahlias in a silver epergne. Silver candelabra holding lighted pink tapers added to an elegant table dramatized with lustrous silver. Miss Billingsley, attired in flattering white jersey, was assisted in serving by Caraly Moorhead in a dainty pink voile ensemble and Linda Comer, in an attractive yellow polished cotton outfit.

Tea girls, Carolyn Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Miller, in a pretty blue pigee, and Peggy Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Robertson, in a lovely orchid frock, added a touch of youthful freshness to the occasion. Commanding attention on the dining table was an alabaster bowl carved from a watermelon with scalloped edges and filled with colorful fruits—cantaloupe balls, yellow and mint pineapple, mandarin oranges, and grapes—and served on kabob sticks. The tray on which the melon was placed was surrounded with rose petals and rose leaves. The crystal punch bowl held delicious punch. Tiny biscuits with bits of sausage were served from a nearby heated serving tray.

An array of delicacies were enjoyed including barbeque meat balls, pigs-in-a-basket, tiny egg salad sandwiches, chicken salad cups, whipped cream cheese on date nut bread, fruit cake and mints in various pastel shades.

Red roses in a brandy snifter were placed on the breakfast. A drop leaf table was centered with a handsome ironstone tureen with lighted pink candles in silver holders on either side. The entire serving area was reflected in the buffet mirror on which unique figurines and a silver service were placed.

Guests were ushered into the mahogany-paneled den, where among the tropical house plants, roses from the garden of Mrs. W. V. Kemp, brought flashes of color to the center of the home. Glass window walls gave a view of the grass-roofed patio and of the green slopes and the picturesque woodland surrounding the immaculately kept grounds. The walls of the den were adorned with various collections of the traveled family and pictures of antique cars—reminiscent of Mr. Billingsley's business. In a relaxed atmosphere, guests enjoyed pleasant conversation.

The congeniality of the affair in addition to the warm reception of the hostesses made the tea one of the loveliest of the season.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

IMPORTANT EVENTS
SCHEDULED FOR JULY

You are urged to make note of the following meetings and events scheduled for July:

Thursday, July 16, AREA FEED-

MILTON
MOTOR CO.

Booneville, Miss.

NEW - USED

Cars - Trucks

Sales & Service

ER PIG SALE - Farmers who have never attended one of these sales are urged to attend.

Thursday, July 16, FORAGE FIELD DAY AT MISSISSIPPI STATE UNIVERSITY - Dairy. Mr. Smith and livestock producers will enjoy and receive practical information on producing, harvesting and storing of all kinds of forage crops.

Tuesday night, July 21, COUNTY WIDE DAIRY MEETING at the Prentiss County Electric Power Association building. All dairymen are urged to attend this meeting and hear successful dairymen from this area discuss their dairy operations.

Thursday, July 23, ANNUAL FIELD DAY AT THE HOLLY

SPRINGS BRANCH EXPERIMENT STATION - Farmers will be given information on crop varieties, fertilization rates, weed control and other practical farm information.

One way for farmers to keep abreast of the tremendous changes taking place in agriculture is to attend events such as these scheduled and hear and see first hand the practical approach to various farm enterprises.

SOYBEAN NOTES

Cocklebur in soybeans can be controlled with amine salt formulation of 4-(2,4-DB) sold in our areas as Butoxone SB or Butyrac 175.

Apply the material as a broadcast post-emergence spray over the crop at the rate of 0.2 pounds in 10 to 20 gallons of water. Treatments can be applied from two weeks before bloom until mid-bloom. On thinly infested fields apply the material at least seven to ten days before early bloom.

The herbicide will produce injury symptoms such as stem curvature and drooping leaves on all soybean plants contacted by the spray.

Generally as the level of cocklebur infestation increases, soybean injury decreases due to the canopy formed by the weeds over the beans. For best results both the soybeans and cockleburs need to be vigorously growing.

COTTON QUALITY

Quality cotton will make you more money. It is up to you to protect the quality that nature gives cotton.

Late season grass and weed control is extremely important to maintaining cotton quality. Last year more than 100,000 bales of Mississippi cotton were reduced in grade due to excessive grass in the sample. This cost our cotton growers more than $14 million.

Here are some things you might do to help reduce this loss: Use a lay-by chemical where stands are thin or stalks do not grow tall enough to give adequate ground cover, and in fields that have a history of being grassy in late season.

Keep grass and weeds worked out of turnrows. Then, where necessary, go back and spot treat to control weeds.

Insect control has a definite bearing on quality of cotton. Do a good job throughout the season. CLOVERS

Now is the time to start preparing to get clovers into the permanent pastures. On new pastures, follow the land and apply lime. Mix the lime with the soil by disking. Then, just before planting, apply 100 pounds each of phosphate and potash.
