Blue Devil Gridders Open Season Against Pontotoc Here Friday Night

The Booneville High School Blue Devils will open their 1964 football season Friday night when they host the Pontotoc Warriors on the Northeast Mississippi Junior College field. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

The Blue Devils worked out twice daily in preparation until the beginning of school Friday, and practiced under the lights Tuesday and Wednesday nights to get ready for the Friday night game.

Coach Doug Herbert said he was pretty well pleased with their appearance in the night workouts and several of the lads looked like they wanted to play football.

Probable starters in the opening game on offense will be ends Bill

Murphy and D. T. Whitfield; tackles Eddie Lindsey and George Mitchell; guards Danny McCord and Billy Joe Young; center Richard (Slick) Walden; quarterback Ken Shackelford, halfbacks Terry Cartwright and Mike Cunningham, and fullback Bony Jones.

In the starting defensive alignment Bill Stennett, Tommy Floyd, Freddie Tollison and Mike Kemp will replace Stennett, Mitchell, Cunningham and Shackelford.

The Pontotoc Warriors have 13 lettermen back from the squad which finished fifth in the Little Ten Conference last year, and Little Ten coaches rate them a little stronger than they were the last time around.

Other schools making up the Little Ten are Aberdeen, Amory, Bruce, Houston, New Albany, Oxford, Starkville and West Point.

Coach Bradley Sanders of Pontotoc said his team will be a little bigger this year, but not quite as fast. He rates his quarterback as the team's strongest point, and was quoted in the Pontotoc Progress: "In Danny Hooker and Gary Todd we should see two of the finest quarterbacks in this area—possibly in the Little Ten Conference."

Other strong positions include tackles, ends and fullbacks. Guards are rated as probably the weakest positions in the Pontotoc lineup.

Average weight of the Blue Devils and Warriors will not differ significantly, as one team will have an edge with certain alignments and the other with another set of players in the game.

Mayor M. W. Smith stated that routine business was discussed and that the board agreed to pay for the telephone at the public library.

The engineer report showed the new water well seemed favorable for another gusher.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

COTTON DEFOLIATION

Defoliation of cotton pays when yields are high and plants are leafy and succulent. Good defoliation plus proper harvesting will mean less trash, less green stain; therefore, better quality cotton and more money for the producer.

But a lot of cotton each year receives chemical defoliant needlessly. If dry weather or crop maturity is causing the leaves to drop naturally, then it is a waste of time and money to apply defoliant. If 75 to 85 per cent of the leaves drop naturally and the cotton is in a drouth-stressed condition, chances are that no material benefit will be realized from chemical defoliation.

Main benefits from chemical defoliation are improved grades and more efficient harvesting. It also results in bolls opening and drying faster, allows picking to start earlier in the day and sooner after rains.

The first requirement for good defoliation is a good crop of cotton.

Apply defoliation when at least 60 per cent of the cotton is open. Too early defoliation is likely to affect the maturity of young bolls and the quality of the cotton will be lowered. But don't wait too late to use a defoliant. Most defoliants will not work after temperatures drop below 60 degrees F.

Some recommended materials include: Calcium cyanamid is still an excellent material on mature cotton. Moisture is needed to activate this material. Chlorate materials also do a good job on mature cotton and there is some indication that chlorates work better than some under drouth stress conditions. The organophosphorus compounds like Def and Folex do an excellent job on succulent green cotton and second growth.

GRAZING HARVESTED COTTON FIELDS

Here is a list of restrictions on grazing cotton fields following application of different insecticides:

Do not graze livestock in fields that have been treated with aldrin, BHC, DDT, dieldrin, endrin, ethion or kelthane.

Do not graze livestock, nor feed gin trash from fields treated with aramite, bidrin, chlorobenzilate, demeton (systox), heptachlor, methyl, thimet, strobane or thiodan.

On guthion and toxaphene, do not graze fields treated in LATE SEASON nor feed gin trash from treated fields.

Where dipterex has been used, do not graze livestock in fields within 14 days of last application. If TDE (DDD) was used in late season do not graze or feed trash to dairy animals being finished for slaughter.

No restrictions are listed for malathion, methyl parathion, parathion (ethyl), or sevin.

When using any agricultural chemical, read and follow all directions on the label.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BRINKLEY HOUSTON

Miss Iris Jeanne Bailey Becomes Bride Of George Brinkley Houston In Lovely Ceremony

The Second Ponce de Leon Baptist Church of Atlanta, Georgia, was the setting Saturday evening, August 22 for a wedding of much beauty and social interest when Miss Iris Jeanne Bailey was married to George Brinkley Houston of Booneville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I J Bailey of Atlanta, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Houston of Booneville.

Dr. Dick H. Hall officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Vows were said before a background of greenery, flowers, and candles. Holding center of interest was a tall basket of white chrysanthemums and gladioli which was slightly in front of a large branched candle tree aglow with lighted tapers. Woodwardia ferns formed the background for the banks of candles which heightened the beauty of the sanctuary.

Mr. Charles Waddy, organist, and Mr. Wendell Kitchens, vocalist, presented the music.

Miss Suzan Bailey, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Houston, sister of the groom, of Booneville, Miss Barbara Barr of McComb, Miss, Miss Willene Montfort of Richland, Ga., Miss Linda Blackwelder, Miss Lynn Hasty and Miss Judy Hall, all of Atlanta.

Their identical full-length gowns were of fern green silk organza over taffeta featuring taffeta cummerbunds, fitted skirts with attached back panels developing into demis-trains. The attendants carried cascading bouquets of white asters entwined with miniature English ivy.

Junior bridesmaid, Sandra Bailey, cousin of the bride, wore white polished cotton, floor length, with a scoop neckline, brief sleeves, and a cummerbund and bow of fern green. She carried white asters.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a designer's original wedding gown of foil taffeta fashioned with an embroidered Alencon lace bodice accented by a scalloped neckline, elbow length sleeves, all embroidered with seed pearls and paillettes. The controlled bouffant skirt swept into graceful fullness at the back and extended into a court train caught at the back waist with a single self-fabric rose.

A miniature headpiece of taffeta and Alencon lace secured the bride's triple-tiered veil of illusion.

Her cascading bouquet was of Phalaenopsis, stephanotis and orchids. She carried a white Bible laid on an heirloom handkerchief of handmade lace.

She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Mr. Houston was attended by Ronny Stephens of Booneville, a cousin of the groom, as best man.

Groomsmen were David Turner, John Spiegts, and Jimmy Morrison, all of Dallas, Texas, Jimmy Street of New Orleans, La., Julius Tipton and Don Locke of Jackson, Miss., and Arthur Jones of Moss Point, Miss.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs.

Bailey wore a floor-length gown of imported silk organza over taffeta in aqua, featuring a slim skirt and a bodice encrusted with matching crystals and beads. She wore elbow length white kid gloves and carried a small beaded clutch bag. Her corsage was small white orchids.

Mrs. Houston, mother of the bridegroom, chose a floor-length rose crepe, very simple in design, featuring a draped back neckline. Her kid gloves were of elbow length and she carried a white beaded bag. Her corsage was a matching orchid.

The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. H. Bailey, Sr., of Daytona Beach, Florida, was attired in a deep blue silk dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Carl West, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a peacock blue floor-length gown of silk chiffon over taffeta. Her accessories were dyed to match. Both grandmothers wore white orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. I J Bailey entertained with a large and brilliant reception in the church social hall. Miss Nancy Raley kept the bride's book and Miss Marcia Ingols gave each guest a miniature wedding portrait of the bride.

The bride's table, overlaid with net covered satin, featured a tiered cake ornamented with a replica of the bridal bouquet. Each layer was accented by bridesmaids' cesters and from the base of several were extended dainty white satin ribbons each containing a hidden favor. After the wedding cake had been cut by the bride and groom, each bridesmaid chose a ribbon and when removed from the cake it revealed her fortune.

Two large satin covered serving tables, elaborately decorated with white asters, tuberose, carnations, snapdragons, and gladioli in tall silver epergnes and silver candelabra holding stately white candles, held ornate silver punch bowls and silver trays of an assortment of nuts, brownies, hand decorated mints, canopies, and hors d'oeuvres. Two small round tables held tall silver compote of chilled melon balls in green, orange and red and topped with tokay grapes. These tables were graced with small white arrangements of flowers and greenery. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Douglas Johnson, Miss Loretta Tillman, Miss Mary Sue Bailey and Miss Lou Bailey.

When the bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to the Smoky Mountains, she was wearing a lovely Dior blue wool suit, a matching blue beaded hat, and brown alligator accessories. Her corsage was an orchid from her bouquet.

A large arrangement of an assortment of white flowers graced the center table and was flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding glowing white tapers. Similar flowers in silver epergnes and white lighted candles extended along the table. Bridal place cards completed the setting.

A menu of chilled melon balls, tossed green salad, Peachtree House special breast-of-chicken, green bean casserole, baked stuffed

OIL PRODUCTION

Mississippi has posted a crude oil production record — last year 58,752,000 barrels. In 1939, the first year of a recorded production, only 107,000 barrels were pumped from the good, oil-rich earth. At the end of last year, 2,693 wells were producing oil in the state. Additionally there were 408 gas and condensate wells. Exactly 36 of the state's 82 counties now boast either oil or gas, or even both, production. Mississippi's land area totals 30,222,720 acres, and 248,000 have proven productive for oil or gas. Also, another estimated 11 million non-productive acres are under lease. Principal mineral products in order of value are: First-crude petroleum. Second — natural gas. Third — cement.

Don't Blame The Automobile

The Public Health Service reports that for the first four months of 1964 the automobile accident death rate was 13 per cent higher than for the same period in 1963.

The marvel is that the death rate isn't higher than that when you see the total lack of courtesy and respect for others shown by drivers on public highways. Too many of them think (or don't think) as they sit behind the wheel of a car with a 200 to 350 horsepower engine that they own the road. They pay no attention to the speed laws, they ignore the simplest driving rules, and they seem to think that it will always be the other fellow who will be hurt, instead of themselves, when they cause accidents.

You read in the newspapers of one-car accidents. The polite phrase is used, "the car went out of control." That really means the driver couldn't handle his racing machine at the speed he was driving when a curve, a tree or a power pole failed to get out of his way.

The better the highway the greater the danger, because most drivers are totally incompetent to handle their cars at the speeds they can go in violation of speed limits.

Until respect for others improves, automobile killings will continue to mount.

Newspapers do not have to "sell" advertising to those who know public opinion best — that is, political experts.

Between August and November more than a billion dollars will be spent on political advertising in local, state, and national contests. Details concerning major candidates will be repeatedly publicized even though voters are already well acquainted with them.

The politician, whatever his stature, does not make the mistake of assuming that the public has tastes which are fixed by first impressions.

The political scientist correctly assumes that the public generally has a short memory and a fickle loyalty.

"I begin each campaign with the assumption that no one remembers any good I have done, that no one owes me anything, and that I owe the public everything," states a venerable Congressman who has served his district 28 years.

His philosophy makes good advice for anyone planning advertising for a business. For, like political images, retail markets and brand names are in constant danger when advertising effort is relaxed.

covered from their shock, looked down into the crater full of milling Yankees, turned their guns downward and opened fire. It was slaughter. Before the Federals could get back to their lines, 2,500 of them had been shot down.

Such was the Battle of the Crater. It cost Burnside his job. It added an unforgettable chapter to the story of the Civil War, and it cost 5,000 casualties. In Grant's words, "The effort was a stupendous failure."

Next Week: Mobile Bay.

tunnels before, passed the idea along to Gen. Robert Potter; Potter passed it up to Gen. Ambrose Burnside. Burnside approved it, and the men went to work, while Generals Ulysses S. Grant and George Gordon Meade scratched their heads uneasily.

While army engineers scoffed at the idea, Pleasants' miners went to work and soon had disappeared underground. Within three weeks, their tunnel was 510 feet long; they had a ventilation system that worked, and they found themselves directly beneath the Confederate redoubt where they could hear Confederate soldiers tramping 20 feet above them.

Four tons of explosives — in 320 kegs — were then hauled down through the tunnel and placed under the Confederate redoubt. Next, a 100-foot fuse was laid, and by July 26, all was ready. Grant, who now was co-operating, prepared his troops for an attack, and the order went out that the explosion would take place at 3:30 a.m. July 30. Burnside was to follow the explosion with an all-out attack through the hole to capture the ridge behind it, wipe out Lee's army and end the war.

Soldier's Idea

The idea for the tunnel originated with the 48th Pennsylvania, a regiment of ex-coal miners from the anthracite region of Pennsylvania. The soldiers gave the idea to their commanding officer, Lt. Col. Henry Pleasants; Pleasants, who had dug the resulting gap in the line. But once through the line, they became confused and poured by the hundreds into the crater caused by their own explosion, and the Confederates killed them off by the hundreds inside the crater.

The attack was the "Battle of the Crater." It happened after Federal troops dug a tunnel from their trenches through 500 feet of dirt to a point directly under a strong hold of the Confederate line. Then, using thousands of pounds of gunpowder, they blew up the Rebel stronghold and followed through

Public Relations Notebook

BY Neil Woodruff, Asst. Professor of Journalism, MSCW

One of the most desirable characteristics of any person is that of integrity. Generally, we do not stop to think just what is involved when we say a person does or does not have integrity.

Mr. Woodruff

Integrity truly is, it is quite important to all relationships between people.

Most often integrity becomes significant when related to a business leader or to some other person who is in a position of authority. Integrity is important in positions of leadership such as ministers, elected or appointed public officials, bankers, lawyers, teachers, various administrators, law officials and many others. Integrity involves many things, all of which are related to affairs of people.

A person has integrity when he respects the views of others and when he places confidence in his subordinates and praises them when warranted. His personal standards are high and in general his over-all objectives in life are high. The person with integrity is an integral part of the organization to which he belongs and is not using the position for personal gain or as a stepping stone to something better.

A person with integrity will be respected and trusted in his community and will find adequate time to devote to civic affairs. He will have a good credit record. He will be able to take constructive criticism from his associates and will be tolerant of opinions which oppose his own views. And he will admit his own mistakes readily and seek to correct them in an honorable way.

A person with integrity will be able to control his emotions. And he will be big enough to grant credit where credit is due. He will advance subordinates to higher positions when they are due for promotion rather than hold a man down because of some personal, unwarranted reason. A person has integrity when he continues to work hard in his job without supervision. He is a self-starter and when given a job, he will see it through to completion. He will keep himself physically fit at all times.

Of course, there are many other characteristics which relate to the integrity of a person. A person certainly must be honest and sincere at all times and he must continually have respect for other persons. He should be religious and tolerant of the religious beliefs other than his own. A person with perfect integrity would be hard to find. However, perfect or near-perfect integrity of people will forever be the desires of us all.

Mrs. Helen Martin Entertains In Memphis

Mrs. Helen Martin spent the week end at her home in West Memphis. While there she, along with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Martin, attended the revival at Highland Heights Baptist Church. Dr. Angel Martinez, a close friend of the family, conducted the services. Mrs. Martin's entire family was converted during services conducted by Dr. Martinez in Forrest City, Arkansas, several years ago.

Following the services on Sunday night, the Martins entertained Dr. Martinez and Rev. and Mrs. Johnson, pastor of Highland Heights Church with a supper.

Dr. Martinez, widely-known evangelist, will conduct a revival at Greenwood, Miss., in January, 1965. He has written several books, which may be purchased at the Baptist Book Store in Memphis. Dr. and Mrs. Martinez are presently making their home in Fort Smith, Ark.

School has started; the swimming pool has closed, but a remark by LuAnn Hurst, young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Hurst, lingers in my mind: "I knew I could swim in five feet of water, but I didn't know I could in 11 feet."

Booneville plays the first football game of the season on Friday night at the local field. It means much to the players for the fans to support them, especially at the first game, so try to arrange to be there if possible.

Our sons spent the last two weeks in July with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Long, at Ivy Hill Motel in Maggie, N.C., and while there collected a large number of snakes. Mother told the boys they had to turn the snakes loose — she wasn't having them crawling around in the car on the way back. They found a way to get by her though — and on the 500-mile trip she noticed the care they gave a jacket. They had kept two and got them back to Booneville — sewed up in the lining of the jacket.

I was happy to hear that Mrs. Gordon Smith, who has been in the local hospital for two months, is able to return home. She is in good spirits and just might be able to again bake those delicious cakes for which she is known far and wide.

This column is very short this week, but I'm saving up for a long one when I write about our trip. Herschel Presley, shop foreman, was on vacation last week; Marguerite Gaddis, office helper, is on vacation this week, and Leista Horn, office manager, will be off next week. I'm glad we went first — or we wouldn't have felt like it.

Till next week,
Helen

HOME AGENT NOTES

By CLAIRE T. ROSS

The meat voted "most likely to succeed" in most family meals is the universal favorite — GROUND BEEF. And why do you suppose ground beef is so popular? Well, first off the reel is its low cost. Then a close second is that it is easy to cook. These are just a few of its virtues.

There are three very important items that make ground beef dishes top favorites: proper selection or buying, proper storage, and proper cooking.

SELECTION AND BUYING OF GROUND BEEF

Color: Choose ground beef with a bright, fresh, cherry-red color. Even though the deepness of color will vary with the part of the animal from which it comes and also the age of the animal, the color should always be bright and fresh-looking.

Odor: One of the most reliable ways to tell if ground beef is fresh is to smell it. Fresh meat has a faint, sweetish, clean odor. Meat that is too old to buy has a definite sour, off-odor. The odor becomes stronger and more definite the longer the meat is allowed to stay on the meat counter.

Specific Beef Cut: Ground meat varies a little in quality according to the cut of beef from which it comes. The flavor, color, texture, moisture and fat content may vary. Cuts usually ground are round steak, chuck, flank and sirloin tip. Some of these are less tender cuts and grinding tenderizes them.

You may prefer certain cuts above others for better cooking and quality at lower cost. The more tender cuts such as round steak are higher in cost than the less tender cuts as chuck or flank.

The higher grade cuts, as choice or good, may be higher in price than standard or commercial grade animals.

The best way to learn your own preference according to cut is by "trial and error," or trying some of each, comparing them and then making your decision.

Amount of Fat: Fat adds flavor, juiciness and CALORIES! Too much fat in ground beef may cause greater shrinkage as the fat melts and comes out of the meat during the cooking, especially if too high a temperature is used. Ground beef used for outdoor cookery should contain less fat, to prevent excess oil on the cooking fire. This causes flame-ups, charring of the meat and excess smoking.

Cost: Some factors may vary the cost of ground beef, but it is usually one of the lowest-costing forms of beef found in the meat market. The low cost is one of the main reasons why ground beef is so popular.

When To Stop Poisoning Cotton

Select the top most boll on a cotton plant (repeat across field to get average) and if it is the size of your thumb, poison 5 more times at 4 to 5 days interval. At the time of checking field consider fertilizer used, age of cotton, cut-out of cotton, variety, moisture and per cent insects in field to determine when to stop applying insecticide on cotton to save top crop. A cotton boll lost means you lose money.

STUDENTS IN SCHOOL

An estimated 630,000 Mississippi students have packed up their books, donned back-to-school wear, grabbed a bite of breakfast, and rushed out the door for the first day of school this term. An additional 45,000 young men and women will be in college dormitories awaiting bells for first classes of the year; and all in all, 675,000 students will fill desks in schools in the state's 150 school districts and 47 colleges and universities. The new public school enrollments of 608,000, if estimates are as true as they have been in the past, will represent a substantial increase over last year. In addition, some 21,206 students were enrolled in non-public institutions last year, making the grand total of school children in the state last year 625,477. Private school totals cannot be estimated accurately at this time for the current year and an increase is expected.

Miss Young Honored At Kitchen Shower

On Wednesday afternoon, August 19, Mrs. Floyd Cunningham, entertained at the Booneville Golf and Country Club with a kitchen shower for Miss Connie Sue Young, bride-elect of Dalton Garner.

The guests enjoyed several games of bingo and admired the many useful gifts which Miss Young received.

A blue and green color scheme was carried out in the decorations, which included a gaily decorated garbage can in which the gifts were placed and a broom, gifts of the hostess.

The table was centered with a floral arrangement of blue and green, and two strips of satin ribbon in the same colors ran the length of the table. Small blue and green dish cloths tied with blue ribbons were used for napkins, and they too, were presented to the honoree.

After refreshments were served, Miss Young was surprised to find the many gifts, when told to look inside the decorated garbage can, having thought the party was merely a bingo party.

Rabid Bats Found All Over The State

Dogs and cats that have not been vaccinated against rabies within the last year should be given this protection without delay, according to Dr. A. L. Gray, State Health Officer.

The warning to pet owners came in the face of an increasing number of rabid bats that have been found in the past two weeks throughout an eleven-county area.

"Since bats can fly for some distance, the danger of a large-scale infestation of this highly infectious disease is great and every precaution must be taken to avoid it," Dr. Gray said.

The state health officer said that bats can infect dogs and cats as well as humans and cattle.

"Rabies is highly contagious, even from the saliva of a dead animal," stated Dr. Gray.

"A dog or cat may become infected with rabies by 'pawing' a dead bat or by rubbing against a tree where virus-laden saliva has been smeared," he explained.

Dr. Gray urged Mississippians to observe the following rules until the bat "sear" is over:

*Don't handle any bats, dead or alive, with bare hands.

*Be careful when entering musty attics, storerooms or other protected places that might be a roosting spot for bats.

*Be suspicious of any bat seen in the open during daylight.

*If a human or domestic animal is bitten or scratched by a bat, contact your private physician or local health department at once.

*Capture any bat, dead or alive, that attacks a human or his pets.

Try not to injure the head. Keep the bat packed in ice until it reaches the State Board of Health Laboratory for analysis.

*If strange behavior is noted in any wildlife, call your health department or sheriff.

*Teach children to leave bats alone.

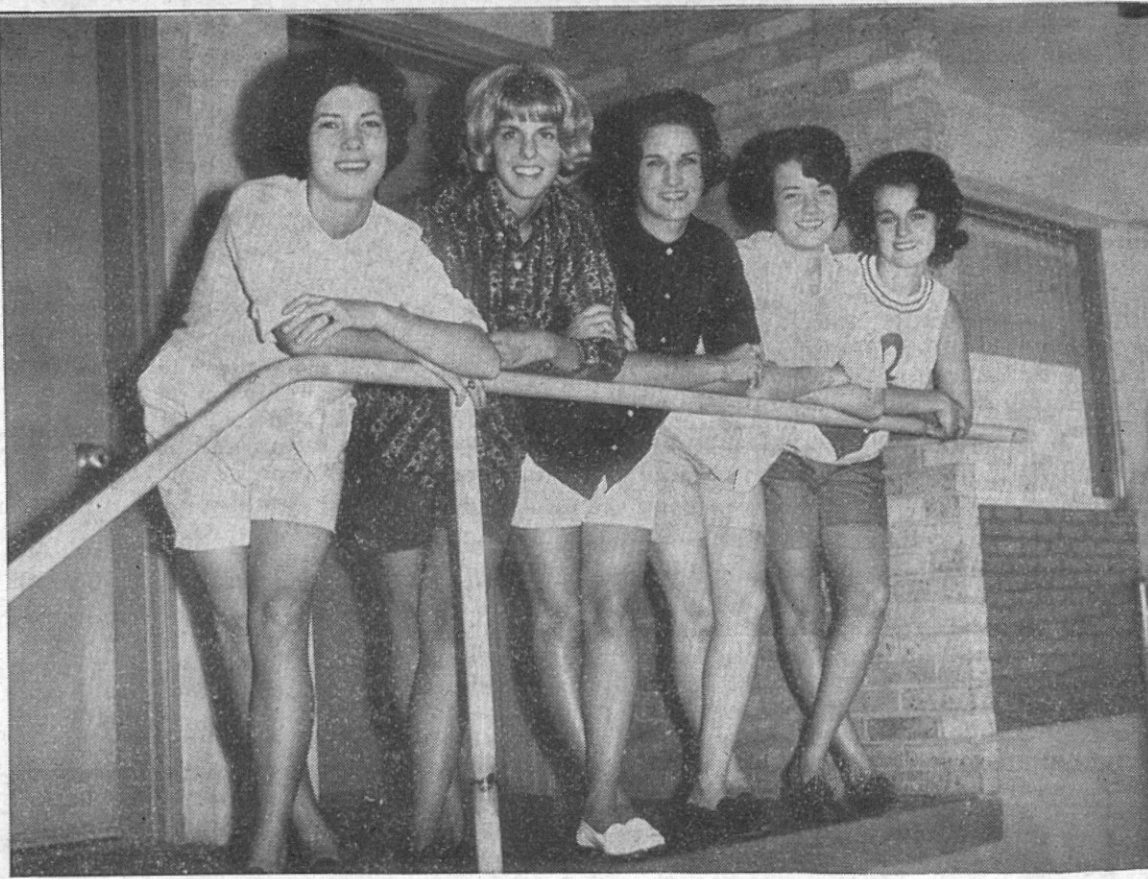

To date 14 rabid bats have been found in counties as widely separated as Jones, Sunflower and Itawamba, with no pattern of infection apparent," Dr. Gray reported.

He called upon Mississippians to exercise caution and to be sure the vaccinations of their dogs and cats have not lapsed.

On request of the State Board of Health a communicable disease investigator from the U. S. Public Health Service arrived in Mississippi on Tuesday to assist local health workers in probing the situation.

RECLAIMED ACRES

Trees are growing strong and straight, and pastures are green on North Mississippi hills that were barren a decade ago, a result of good conservation practices. Taking a trip across the counties that begin at the Tennessee line and extend well below Oxford, along the way men will be seen harvesting timber out of young forests—timber for the growing industries that employ hundreds of men and women. The fine livestock have replaced the herds of yesteryear, and prize bulls that sport world records graze the pastures.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING
Executive Vice-President
Southern States Industrial Council

THE PRESIDENCY

In the period when one of the two major U. S. political parties chooses a presidential standard bearer, the thoughts of the nation are on the man selected and on his concept of the presidency.

To be chosen as a presidential candidate is to receive an enormous responsibility, as well as honor, for the office of the President of the United States is the most important public office in the free world. The future of the American Republic, the chief bastion of freedom on earth, depends in a considerable measure on the wisdom and courage of the President of the United States.

In times past, the U. S. has had many types of men as President. Unfortunately, not all of them have been among the best men of their respective eras. Some have been crudely partisan in outlook. Others have been inordinately ambitious and thirsty for power, seeking only to perpetuate themselves in office. The great danger from the time of President Jackson down to modern times has been a desire to enlarge the powers of the President at the expense of the national legislature and the liberties of the states and the people. This has been much the trend in recent years, with the Chief Executive trying to dominate Congress, virtually abolish the states, and impose on the people all-powerful bureaucratic controls.

Because some recent presidents have had a passion for centralization and for controlling people, our system of free government has suffered. The balance of powers has been upset. The individual's freedom has been diminished, his rights curtailed, often in the very name of "rights."

The danger to this and every republic is Caesarism. Historically, we know that a republic is destroyed by those who talk most frequently about democracy. Thus it was in Rome centuries ago, when liberties were crushed by those leaders who professed their love of mankind in general.

In this year an appreciation of this truth is badly needed in the United States. The public needs an appreciation of the solemn importance of the presidency, but also of its limitations.

However, public appreciation of the necessary limitation of presidential power can only come from a presidential candidate who has the conscience of a conservative, who is eager to accept a constitutional responsibility but who seeks no near-dictatorial authority.

The presidential candidate who thinks of Americans as "little people" or "common men" who must be guided along the correct path is no friend of freedom. The informed conservative knows that the best human material for the presidency is the man who believes deeply in preserving freedom of choice, association, and decision. The superior presidential candidate wants to return lost liberties and restore the altered balance of power in government. He is critical of judicial tyranny that allows a handful of men to make arbitrary rulings that affect the future of a free society. He is unwilling to see the self-reliance of the American people undermined by government programs that in the guise of helping people, actually deprive them of initiative and opportunities for constructive personal action.

The best presidential candidate also is determined to recreate the role of the states as media of local government and desires to see the federal government with draw from excessive interference with the communities of the nation, allowing them to determine their own patterns of custom that make possible ready progress.

In short, the best presidential candidate is the man who respects freedom by refusing to diminish it, who cherishes constitutionalism instead of trying to impose the Leader Principle of the American Republic. The best kind of leadership is the restrained kind and, as Thomas Jefferson said, the best kind of government is that which governs least. This is even more true in the modern era of totalitarianism danger than it was in the more gentle world of the late 18th and 19th century.

Despotism is nonetheless real for

Girl Scout Troop 141 Attends Performance Of Miracle Worker

Girl Scout Troop 141 attended the performance of the Miracle Worker on August 21 on the lawn of Ivy Green in Tusculum, Ala. Before curtain time the troop made an informal tour of the Keller Shrine which is the Helen Keller birthplace.

The troop left Booneville at 3:00 p.m. by bus driven by Mr. Luther Simmons and accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Opal Anderson, and Mrs. J. E. Thomas of Iuka, Professional Advisor for this district. After arriving in Alabama they toured places of interest such as Wilson Dam Nitrate Plant, and Tusculum Teachers College. The troop then went to the Holliday Inn in Florence, Ala., for a delicious chicken dinner in the Patio Room.

This trip was the result of winning the cookie sale in January. All Girl Scout Troops of 13 counties of the Tennessee Valley Girl Scout Council competed for this award. Booneville Troop 141, though young in scouting, won the award for the most cookies sold per capita.

being benevolent in intention. Tyranny is no softer because government aims to alleviate poverty or uplift some element in the national life. The road to serfdom often is paved with charitable intentions.

Homer Gaston Cadle Dies Suddenly

Prentiss ASCS County News

By CHARLES E. CALVERT, Office Manager

The County ASCS Office began making diversion and price support payments to eligible farms participating in the Feed Grain Program Tuesday, Sept. 1. Farms eligible to receive these payments are urged to visit the office and pick up their drafts. Farmers are reminded again that the diverted acreage must be mowed or clipped if it is in a natural vegetative cover to destroy weeds.

ACP SIGN-UP CONTINUES

The county office is continuing to take applications for seed, fertilizer, lime, ponds, ditches and other eligible practices in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

The cost-share rate is 65 per cent paid by ACP and 35 per cent paid by the farmer for permanent pasture practices. There is a special 80 per cent rate by ACP and 20 per cent by the farmer to those farmers who have not planted permanent sod in 1961, 1962 or 1963.

Jaycees Of State To Elect New President

Mississippi Jaycees from the 87 Jaycee chapters will meet in Tupelo this coming September 11-13 for their Summer All-State meeting. An unusual item of business will come up at the meeting, when they will, for the second time this year, elect a State President to lead the 4300-man organization. Willard Oliver of Jackson recently announced his resignation from the position. Oliver was elected as president at the Jaycee State Convention last May, and has been leading the Jaycees since that time. Oliver will leave the state on September 15, to take a new position in his field of insurance in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

In addition to the business of electing a president to fill Oliver's vacancy, the Jaycees will also elect a state vice president for one of the nine areas in the state. This meeting in Tupelo will give the members present an opportunity to attend forums at which they will receive vital information about conducting civic programs in their own communities. Also the state chairman of over 30 Jaycee projects will kick off their programs for the coming year at the Tupelo state meeting.

Tupelo Jaycees and Jaycettes, hosts for the weekend, will entertain the visitors from all over the state, beginning with a pool-side party on Friday night. Jaycees are all urged to attend the important meeting in Tupelo, September 11-13. The Mississippi Jaycees will also hold business meetings at the same time the Jaycees are meeting.

Funds are limited in this program, so you are urged to file early if interested in any of the above-mentioned practices.

DOMESTIC COTTON ALLOTMENT PAYMENTS

There are a number of people eligible for domestic cotton allotment payments that have not applied for this payment.

The county office has already paid out approximately $126,000 in this program and urge others who have not done so to pick up their drafts. Farmers eligible for payment are those with an allotment of 15 acres of cotton or less or if the allotment is more than 15 acres, returned back to 15 acres or by one third of the allotment.

Spider Mites

High winds and cool weather can aid spider mites in spreading over the entire cotton field. The mites can stop top boll maturity. This means loss in yield per acre. Do not be fooled with rumors of weather — look for MITES and be sure. Use Systox, Trithion, Bidrin or similar materials. See your local county agent.

Micronaire Out Of CCC Loan Program

Charles Moore, Extension Cotton Specialist, announces that the micronaire program as discussed earlier will not be in effect this crop season. See your county agent or ASCS Officer.

VA Answers Vets Questions

Q.—Is there any help forthcoming for the son of a totally disabled veteran to get a college education?

A.—Yes. On July 7, 1964, President Johnson, signed a bill which provides benefits similar to those now being given under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Program, to children of living veterans with service-connected total and permanent disabilities, and to those children of veterans who died while a disability so evaluated was in existence.

Q.—Can I use my annual National Service Life Insurance dividends to pay on my policy loan?

A.—Yes. You should notify the VA office having your insurance records that the annual dividends are to be applied against your policy indebtedness.

Q.—My son is receiving $35.00 a month pension from the Veterans Administration. He recently inherited $2,000 from his grandfather's estate. Will this have any effect on his pension payments?

A.—Yes. This income will cause the discontinuance of the pension payments for the remainder of the year in which the inheritance was received. The VA should be notified immediately of any increase in income that will affect pension payments. In your son's case, his income exceeded $1,800, the income limit for a child. His pension will be discontinued at the end of the month in which he received the $2,000.

Q.—I served a short period during World War II, discharged because of a disability incurred while on active duty. I have been told that due to my short period of service I am no longer eligible for a GI loan. Is this true?

A.—If you were discharged from service because of a disability incurred in service, your eligibility for a GI loan for a home, farm or business will not expire until July 26, 1967. Check with your nearest VA Office for assistance in establishing your loan eligibility on the basis of disability.

Farm Employers Must Pay Social Security On Hands

Monday, September 7, 1964, is Labor Day and a national holiday, and this day is almost a signal that crop gathering time is here, Hugh Tigrett, Social Security District Manager, said today. He went on to say that many farmers will be hiring workers to pick cotton and gather corn and other farm crops during the next three months. These farm employers, he explained, have to pay social security tax on their employees if they are paid $150.00 during the entire year of 1964. Also, if the employee earns less than $150.00 but works 20 or more days and is paid cash wages figured on a time basis (hour, day, week) the tax must be paid. The tax rate is 3½% for the farmer and 3% for the worker.

Although the tax report is not due until January 1965, the farmer should withhold the worker's share of the tax each pay day and keep a good record in order that a correct report can be made when due.

If any farmer has any social security questions about farm employees, they can be answered by the Social Security Office in Tupelo or the representative who visits the City Hall in Booneville each Monday morning. There will be no representative at the City Hall Sept. 7 and the District Office will be closed because of the national holiday.

No invitations will be sent, but all friends and relatives are invited.

Bottom Defoliation Of Cotton

Past research shows that bottom defoliation of cotton helps reduce boll rot. Do not wait until boll rot starts. Check limbs on lower one-third of cotton plants for bolls too hard to press between thumb and forefinger. Set sprayer nozzles to spray a straight horizontal line the height desired to remove leaves. Use either Def or Folex. See your county agent.
