NO. 27

City Continues To Improve Streets

The City of Booneville continues to improve the streets by the placing of plastic disks for pedestrian crossings and for the parking spaces.

These markers will last about 10 years. Heretofore, without proper equipment, the crossings and parking spaces have been painted, a task that was necessary twice a year. Over the years the plastic disks will be a saving to the taxpayer.

These markers are the same as are used at the local hospital. In fact, the 350 being used on the streets were bought from the hospital. The city has ordered additional ones.

BHS Freshman Class Elects Officers

The Freshman Class of Booneville High School recently elected class officers. They are as follows: Beverly Dixon, President; Marie Buchberger, Vice-President; Benny Burcham, secretary; Dianne Phillips, Treasurer, and Kay Green, Reporter.

District B&PW Meet Set For Corinth

The B. & P. W. District 7 meeting will be held in Corinth Sunday, October 4 at the Curlee Cottage. Registration will be from 9:00 to 9:30 a.m. All Booneville members who wish to attend, meet at the Town Motel no later than 8:45 a.m.

The exchanging of $120,000 in county notes for the deed to the M. R. Fugitt homestead was transacted Monday. Shown seated is Bluford Allen, Chancery Clerk; and left to right, E. K. Windham, attorney for the Board of Supervisors; Mrs. W. M. Murphy, secretary of the Board of Trustees of the college; Miss Eunice Fugitt and Miss Mauveline Fugitt, two of the heirs.

Additional Land Is Purchased For Northeast Mississippi Jr. College

Additional land for future expansion of the Northeast Mississippi Junior College was assured Monday when final transactions were completed in the Chancery Clerk's office. One hundred twenty thousand dollars ($120,000), in county notes were exchanged for the deed to the M. R. Fugitt homestead which includes about 23 acres and the McEllis Nabors home north and adjoining the college.

The Board of Trustees of the college adopted a resolution showing the need for the purchase and pointed out that it was the only available land adjoining the college. The board requested and recommended that the Board of Supervisors purchase the land while it was available and before further development of the area made the cost prohibitive.

Under the statutes, the Board of Supervisors was the only body with the authority to make the purchase.

There has been a 2-mill levy in Prentiss County since the college was organized for improvement and expansion. This money can be used for the purchase of land or retirement of notes issued for the purchase of land, and will be used to retire this $120,000 note issue.

Rain Slows Cotton Picking; Over 6,500 Bales Ginned

Despite the fact that rain has halted the picking of cotton this week, from all indications this area will still have an excellent cotton crop this year.

C. E. Calvert, ASCS Office Manager, said Wednesday that as a result of the rain, the grade of cotton would be lower for a week or so because the average farmer would not wait until the sun

BOONEVILLE GIN	931
HOBOT GIN	877
MARIETTA GIN	838
PEOPLES GIN	765
GARNER GIN	582
COLSON GIN	434
FRANKSTOWN GIN	396
And in Baldwin:
CORBETT GIN	960
MCCARTHY GIN	783

This brings the total to 6,566 bales not included Rienzi from which no report could be obtained by phone.

Last year's crop was a record in the county and the state and local persons are optimistic that this year's crop will be even better. The other money crops, corn and soybeans, are expected to have a good yield also.

Blue Devils Win Homecoming Game Over Kossuth 27-0; Play Shannon Fri.

Friday night was a beautiful night in Booneville. The weather was clear—not cold, but with a definite chill of autumn in the air. And a big, lopsided full moon just rising over the east stands at the football field provided a perfect backdrop for the presentation of the Homecoming Court and the crowning of the Queen during halftime ceremonies.

To climax a thoroughly enjoyable homecoming for Booneville fans, on the gridiron the Blue Devils were on their way to a satisfying 27-0 victory over Kossuth's Aggies.

Donald (Bony) Jones took the opening kickoff for Booneville at his own 29 and went all the way but a clipping penalty nullified the score and moved the ball back to the Booneville 47. Jones got four at left end and three at right guard, then Terry Cartwright made one at right end on a penalty play. Five yards assessed against Kossuth for offside gave the Blue Devils a first down at the Kossuth 42. They were unable to advance, however, and with the line of scrimmage at the 42, Stan Pounds punted out of bounds at the three to set the stage for the first score.

After the Aggies had tried two running plays, Mike Kemp recovered a fumble to give Booneville possession at the seven and on the first play of the series Jones took a pitchout at right end to score. Kemp hit right tackle for the extra point.

Kossuth took the ensuing kickoff at the ten and it was downed with no return. On their first try from scrimmage Tommy Floyd recovered a fumble at the 20, and again Jones scored on a pitchout at right end. Cartwright skirted left end for the point and Booneville had a nice 14-point lead with 6:56 left in the opening quarter.

Neither team could keep possession for a sustained drive in the second quarter, although Kossuth had a third and two situation at the Booneville three-yard line but the Blue Devil defense stiffened to take over on downs at the two with 10 seconds left in the half.

The Aggies received the second half kickoff with Davis returning from the 11 to the 33. Four running plays gained a first down at the Kossuth 49, and four more tries on the ground made another at the Booneville 41, but after being stopped twice for no gain and an incomplete pass they punted out of bounds at the Booneville 21.

Shackelford made six and Jones but handed off to Cartwright at right end for a first at the nine. Kossuth drew an offside penalty to make it first at the four and a rash of fumbles set in. Booneville fumbled a pitchout but recovered for no gain. On the next play Kossuth recovered at the five and on their first try Bill Stennett recovered (Continued on back page)

Extra Caution Is Needed

Now that the harvest season is in full swing and there are more and more farm vehicles on the public roads and highways motorists need to exercise extreme caution, particularly during the dusk and dark hours.

Highway Patrolman Hubert McDaniel said that there have been several accidents during the past few days caused by farm vehicles. Most of them could probably have been prevented by a little more alertness on the part of the drivers. However, one of the main causes of such accidents are vehicles which are not properly lighted or do not have sufficient reflectors.

Farmers should cooperate with motorists in keeping down accidents by operating their tractors and trailers on the roads at night only when it is absolutely necessary, and before operating them at night at all, be sure that they have adequate lights and reflectors so that they will be easy to see.

Such precaution will help protect the tractor operators as well as motorists.

Campaign Of Contrasts

The hard philosophical and political core of the Goldwater movement rests on the belief that in previous presidential contests the American people have been offered an excessive dose of "me-tooism", that great numbers of voters have had no place to do, that they deserve and want something very different, and that this year they are going to get just that.

Senator Goldwater's campaign, then, consists of providing the voters with "a choice, not an echo." President Johnson is doing precisely the same thing. As U. S. News World & Report puts the contest, "It's a sharply defined study in contrasts presented on presidential ballots this year. . . . The two men have conflicting ideas on almost every phase of the Presidency—in domestic problems, in international affairs, economic policy, defense, the whole role of Government." That has certainly been proven in the early campaign moves and speeches.

Take, for instance, one of the most important issues—that of permitting NATO commanders to order the use of certain kinds of nuclear weapons. Senator Goldwater has said, "I have suggested that a way must be developed to provide NATO with its own stock of small, tactical, nuclear battlefield weapons—what may be truly called conventional weapons." The President's answer was a direct, unequivocal rebuttal: "Make no mistake. There is no such thing as a conventional nuclear weapon." No one could ask for a greater difference than that on a question of major policy.

the economy. The Goldwater position is that our prosperity is illusory, that it is based on false and dangerous fiscal premises, and that profound trouble is in the offing unless drastic changes are made. Again, the differences are fundamental, irreconcilable, and far-reaching. And so it goes—with civil rights legislation, with the war on poverty, with the whole question of what a central government should and should not do for and to its citizens, with local and individual rights and responsibilities.

There has been speculation that the President would conduct what is called, for want of a better term, a high-level campaign, making use of the White House and his office as a sounding board and employing TV as his principal tool. There is doubt now as to this. Mr. Johnson—like Senator Goldwater—was never one to hold back from the battlefronts when the political wars were on. It is also reported that he is dubious of the polls, which show him far in the lead, and means to use every instrument he can command to make his case and to make himself available to live audiences. That is what local groups, interested in governorships, congressional seats, and other lesser offices, want.

The roles of the Vice Presidential hopefuls, Representatives Miller and Senator Humphrey, will be important. They will do tough, down-to-earth in-fighting. Their opponents are all looked on as villains of the deepest dye—their supporters a collection of Sir Galahads.

So the choice, a real choice, is there. Something like 70 million Americans will make the final decision.

100 Years Ago— St. Louis Threatened In Confederate Raid

By LON K. SAVAGE

Since the capture of Vicksburg in 1863, the Civil War was slowly dying along the Mississippi River. But 100 years ago this week, the Confederates of Missouri and Arkansas launched a last-gasp raid west of the river and threatened two of Missouri's most important cities — St. Louis and Jefferson City, the capital.

When it is compared with the huge campaigns that had taken place that summer in Virginia and Georgia, there really wasn't much to the raid. But it was enough to throw a little scare into the people of St. Louis and give the troops there some exercise.

The raid was organized by Gen. Sterling Price, one-time Missouri governor and veteran of the battles of Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge. For the past year, he had operated in Arkansas and southern Missouri with a small army, making himself a nuisance to the Federals but winning no important battles.

Heads North

Price's raid was anything but fancy. He took personal command of an army of 15,000 Confederates in Arkansas and headed straight north, crossing the Arkansas river September 1 and quickly moving on to the Missouri line. There, he was met by state militia who resisted his advance and learned of his bold purpose: to move straight for St. Louis.

Up in St. Louis, Federal Gen. William S. Rosecrans, who had been relieved at Chattanooga a year earlier, hastily counted his troops and feared he didn't have enough to stop Price. A division of the Army of the Tennessee, which happened to be passing by on the Mississippi River, was halted to help defend the city.

Price arrived at Pilot Knob, 85 miles south of St. Louis, on September 26, where he came up against 1,000 Federals in a fort. He opened his attack next day, lobbing shells into the fort, but was unable to reduce it. That night, General Thomas Ewing, Jr., commander of the fort, abandoned it and joined the other troops assembled to protect St. Louis.

Price Comes On

Price came on. Arriving at the city's outskirts, he was met by a hot reception from the Federals, and quickly turned aside. Perhaps, he thought, it would be better to attack Jefferson City.

So Price turned westward and attacked Jefferson City, and again his efforts came to little. The Federals who had gathered at St. Louis to stop him poured out of the city in hot pursuit of the Confederates and drove them off from the capital city.

Price continued on west along the south bank of the Missouri River toward Lexington and Kan-editor must necessarily limit news matter as to variety, subject matter, illustrations, and typographical display.

On the other hand, the newspaper is under practically no restriction other than the bounds of truth and good taste.

The advertiser may present his ideas in any form, making use of any type of illustration and type of any size. However simple his idea, he may, and often does, use a whole page to present it.

Thus newspaper advertising has evolved far beyond the listing of retail products for sale.

A casual perusal of a newspaper may reveal advertising by schools, libraries, churches, numerous government agencies, trade associations, labor unions, banks and loan companies, magazines, radio and television networks, stock brokers, insurance companies, consumer co-ops, chambers of commerce, airlines, mail order companies, and the newspaper itself.

The bulk of such advertising presents itself as a service to the reader. It provides information and news without attempting to sell a specific company or service. The benefit to the company is intangible and indirect.

Yet, the continuous growth of such advertising seems to be evidence that it is effective and widely read.

IN THE NEWS—

Capitol Hill Boring Place Since Campaign Trail Ended

By Thomas G. Abernethy
Member of Congress

For several weeks now Capitol Hill has been a lonely and sometimes boring place. Congress is supposed to be transacting business; but actually, since the Democratic Convention all business in the House could have been done over a morning cup of coffee. The leadership has put just enough on the agenda to keep a quorum in town and they have had a hard time doing that. On several occasions neither body could muster a quorum. About half the membership is thundering along the campaign trail.

In the meantime, the liberals have had the Senate hog-tied. These same liberals, who for years have opened their tear ducts and bleeding hearts over the mere thought of one engaging in the "undemocratic and preposterous" privilege of filibuster, have conducted a highly successful filibuster of their own. In killing off the Dirksen and Tuck amendments, they left the Supreme Court in full charge and control of membership distribution in the State Legislatures. Apparently only the moon is beyond control of the Court. This evokes the thought that Warren & Company sure would make good passengers for the first moon trip. What a happy thought!

Anyway, Congress is still tied to the banks of the Potomac as the Administration clings to a faint hope of passing its multi-hundred-million-dollar Appalachia pork barrel bill. This is nothing but a vote-getting sop to some impoverished coal mining areas which long ago priced themselves out of the fuel market. A good many other Congressmen have some low income areas, too. And they refuse to be led, blindfolded and muzzled, to the Appalachia feed trough. There has been talk of sweetening things a bit for those balking Members from outside the Appalachia region with another Area Redevelopment Bill and a $200-million blank check public works pork barrel program. These sure would make handy handouts during the campaign weeks. But up to now reluctant House Members are not buying the offer.

This brings the session down to the final touches on Foreign Aid, Medicare, Bobby Baker, and Matt McClosky. Foreign Aid is long noted for never gaining final passage before the final hour of the final day, usually around 4 o'clock in the morning after Members are weary from both an all-night session and about ten months of constant battle. Of course, the give-away folks always wind up with their chunk of cash. In fact, this year, after several years of substantial cuts and savings to the taxpayers, the Johnson Administration turned the pendulum in the other direction and picked up about $500-million more in give-away foreign aid from the House than Kennedy got during his last year. The Johnson team can really show the Kennedy boys a thing or two when it comes to handling the Hill.

By the time this reaches you there may or may not be a vote on Medicare. It's chances of passage are so slim that sponsors are afraid to force a vote. You ask, why? Well, in the midst of a campaign it is much better to have a live issue than a dead bill. Politics! It is quite a game!

Finally, you need not expect anything exciting to come of the reopened Bobby Baker case or the Matt McClosky contract on the New House Office Building, cost of which soared during construction from 60-odd-million to approximately a hundred million bucks — the most costly building in all the world. This is not to say there isn't something hot in both ovens. The fall of 1964 just is not the propitious time to allow a good hard look. Election day is only a month away. After election? Well, maybe. But not before, no sir!

Anyway, we had hoped adjournment would have come before now. Surely, it will come around soon. When it does we will be home, making the rounds and hope to see everyone. While everything has not gone to suit us, we have had a good year and enjoyed our work. See you soon . . . I hope!

DRIBBLES: Wonder who quieted down the street demonstrations and why? Seems strange this great power of influence was not exercised

by

MRS. ED JOHNSON

The tinge of autumn is in the air and for the past few days, a sweater has felt good in the mornings. The cotton crop looks good; Booneville won its homecoming football game last week; new businesses continue to open which indicates that we're still progressing; our college buys more land; and the streets have been resurfaced. With all this going on, I think it's time I was a little more regular in writing this column. Anyway that reader I have out on Route 5 said she missed it.

Speaking of streets, I hope the City Fathers will continue their excellent job and put stop flaps at the three-way intersections of First and Main Streets and First and Market Streets. Seems to us they are needed.

Beth Windham, who is combining a part-time job as receptionist at Aletha Lodge along with full time studies as a freshman at Northeast, showed me a lovely engraved certificate recently about her father which read: "The United States of America honors the memory of Herschel B. Windham. This certificate is awarded by a grateful nation in recognition of devoted and selfless consecration to the service of our country in the Armed Forces of the United States. Lyndon Johnson, President of the United States."

I think it's wonderful our country makes this nice gesture at such a time.

The Lodge now has 29 guests, although one is to be transferred to a hospital and another will soon be well enough to return home. We have been open one year and we deeply appreciate the support and kind words which have come our way. Since my folks have been in North Carolina this summer, I have depended heavily on the good staff we have: Ione Windham, Sophia Rogers (she's been with us almost the entire year), Sammie Sappington, Lera Hayden, Edna Tennyson, Ruby Tartt, Mattie Sanders, Hattie Nicholson, Beth Windham, Betty Sullivan, and our capable men, H. F. Lovell and Ellis Woodard. Of course, Ed helps me when he can and the boys reluctantly mow, etc.

This past Sunday we were especially treated by having Bro. J. L. Gore bring an inspiring message and the Mel-O-Tones beautifully sing some religious songs.

In the phone book this week I found a "thank you" letter to Ed's sister, Nell Fling, from our older son. It was for a Christmas present.

Within a few weeks, we hope to install an engraver for making cuts of pictures to go in the paper. At the present it is necessary for us to take our pictures to Tupelo or Corinth but with the purchase of this additional equipment we will be able to print even more pictures. Two years ago we bought a Ludlow for setting large size types. Now if we could just find some way to finance a new press!

Seriously, I'm reminded of what Bobby Burress said yesterday while we enjoyed a conversation with him. "You can't stand still. You've got to keep going forward," and that's exactly what he does with that new Goodyear Store on Highway 45, plans for a new grocery store in the same shopping center, and perhaps even other businesses.

We can't go nearly as fast as he does...but we are continually trying to find new methods and better equipment to keep giving you a first-class newspaper.

Marion Smith introduced me to a Birmingham News reporter, Mr. Metz, last week, who was here to write a story about progress in Booneville. The reporter told Mr. Smith, "Instead of Booneville, you should call this city 'BOOMville!'" Mr. Metz said that all over the state of Mississippi he kept hearing about this city, which in spite of being located between two larger cities, has surged forth in recent years in every way!

Till next week,
Helen

Pilots Entertain District Governor

THE LOVELY HOME OF MRS. E. O. RODEN was the scene on September 17th between the hours of 6 o'clock and 6:45 o'clock for a delightful affair by the Booneville Pilot Club honoring Miss Phebe Hopper, Governor of District III Pilot International. Guests included Co-Pilots, former Pilots, representatives from local civic and service clubs, Welcome Wagon, the City of Booneville and press. Pictured above is Miss Hopper, left, and Mrs. Webster Cleveland, president. Greeting the guests were Mrs. Roden, Mrs. Cleveland and Miss Hopper. Pilot daughters, Gaye Roden, Greta Buchberger, Barbara Moore and Cindy Caveness, invited guest, presented leis to each one attending. The young ladies were attractively attired in grass skirts and added to the Hawaiian atmosphere which prevailed throughout the home. Beautiful potted plants and flower arrangements added to the beauty of the occasion. The dining table was overlaid with a handsome brightly decorated "harvest" cloth. Delicious punch was served from a silver punch bowl and assorted pastries and cakes were enjoyed. In the den, still more refreshments consisting of Corneliass and a variety of dips, even caviar, were placed on a table for guests to partake. Mrs. W. T. Barnett, Jr., Mrs. L. W. Peeler and Mrs. Clyde Carter assisted in serving.

Evans-Journey Vows Are Pledged In First Methodist Church At Greenwood

Pink and blue were effectively blended to form the decorations in the sanctuary of First Methodist Church when Miss Beulah Kathron Journey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Journey of Greenwood, became Mrs. Joe Larry Evans, Mr. Evans is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown. The Reverend Billy E. Roby of Booneville officiated at the double ring ceremony on Saturday, September 5.

Pink blossoms and blue tapers were used on the altar. Baskets of pink chrysanthemums and matching tones of gladioli were interspersed with wrought iron candelabra garland with greenery to provide a striking complement to the dresses of the attendants.

Preceding the bride to the altar was Mrs. W. B. Hix, Jr., of Greenwood, as matron of honor. DeMoynne Kay Culpepper of Booneville was flower girl. They wore identically designed gowns of embroidered cotton satin, the pale blue basque waist forming brief sleeves and bell-shaped skirts. Their bouquets were pink carnations.

Mrs. S. C. McElroy, organist accompanied Mrs. Rebecca Culpepper of Booneville, who sang, "How Great Thou Art," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

W. K. Journey escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a formal gown of imported organza, the fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and brief sleeves enhanced with Chantilly lace, delicately beaded with seed pearls and sequins. The dramatic bouffant skirt, which terminated in a chapel train had a center front panel of the matching lace traced with seed pearls. She wore a mantilla of matching Chantilly lace and carried an arrangement of stephanotis and white orchids on a white Bible.

W. B. Hix, Jr., of Greenwood and H. Royce Culpepper, Jr., of Booneville were attendants of the groom along with W. K. Journey, Jr., brother of the bride. Harmon Marton Connell of Natchez was lighter of the candles and H. Royce "Ricky" Culpepper, III, of Booneville was ring bearer.

Immediately following a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church, the couple left for their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains. Mrs. Evans was wearing a beige linen sheath with a matching coat embroidered in white wool. She wore a matching hat and black accessories and completed her costume with the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will make their home in Memphis, Tennessee.

Mrs. Rebecca Culpepper Is Guest Speaker At Thursday Study Club

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Curlee was the setting for the September meeting of the Thursday Study Club. The house, radiating hospitality through its hostess, reflected the charm of gracious cultured Southern living which has been enjoyed by the Whitley and Curlee families for three fourths of a century. The members of the club enjoyed the rare works of art gathered by Mary Whitley Curlee in her interesting travel as well as the beauty of rare pieces of furniture that have been valuable possessions of the family for four generations.

Of special interest was Mrs. Rebecca Culpepper's review of the study, "A Century of Nursing" by Abby Howland Woolsey. The very thorough discussion of the history of hospitals and nursing from early days and to the present was given in detail.

Mrs. Culpepper, who is presently chairman of the department of nursing at Northeast Mississippi Junior College, reflected a deep understanding not only the problems facing nurses training and hospital care at the present, but a familiarization with the many hardships connected with the profession from the beginning.

Mrs. Culpepper, in an interesting way, told of conditions that existed in early hospitals, workhouses and nurse training schools in France, Germany, Switzerland and England as well as in the United States.

Of special interest was her description of Hotel Dieu, a hospital in France that dated to the early 1500's. Operated by nuns, the hospital averaged 1,000 inmates. The lower story of the building was a tallow factory, where the mutton fat produced by thousands of sheep used to make soap for the patients, was rendered and made into holy candles. The large wards were unheated and unsanitary. Mrs. Culpepper said from early reports as many as six to eight patients were in a bed with measles, itch, typhus fever and smallpox patients laying side by side with non-contagious cases.

Mrs. Culpepper said the wonder was that with the unsanitary conditions any patient survived the treatment administered in the early hospitals.

In 1819 the conditions in Europe were deplorable. Though most of the care of the ill was done by nuns some nurses of a low type were hired at a very poor salary. Some nursing was done by soldiers back from wars and by orphans. Little can be said for hospital care and the profession deserved little confidence.

Until the advent of Bellevue in 1845 and the establishment of the Nightingale School of Nursing in America, little progress was made.

It was at Bellevue in New York, 1873 that the modern conception of nursing and hospital care as we know it today had its beginning.

It was Florence Nightingale ideas and ideals of what nursing should be that formed the basis of the principles and practices of modern day nurses training.

In conclusion Mrs. Culpepper clearly outlined the aims and objectives of modern nurses training which is basically patient care. The modern nursing training not only prepares the nurse adequately to care for the welfare of the ill, but to know why they do the things they do. It is a separate field from sanitation, which is done by others and from medicine. It is a specialized field which gives the nurse an intelligent understanding of how to administer to the well being of the sick.

The members were very fortunate in having Mrs. Culpepper, whose talk was informative as well as interesting. They congratulate the college Nurses Training Department in securing the able leadership and anticipate much success for the work of this department.

A delicious dessert plate was served by the hostess, Mrs. Curlee. The members enjoyed both the social as well as the educational aspect of the program.

A Worthwhile Project For M.Y.F. Groups

(The following item was taken from the Mississippi Methodist Advocate, Sept. 9, 1964.)

The Teenagers March Against Leukemia
By ANN HILL

The opportunity to help save an uncountable number of young lives is being placed before the teenagers of Mississippi, if we will just accept the challenge. The Teenagers March Against Leukemia is a wonderful project that has been adopted by young people across America for the sole purpose of maintaining Saint Jude Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Danny Thomas is the founder of this marvelous non-denominational, non-sectarian institution where a dedicated battle is being waged against leukemia and other catastrophic diseases prominent among children.

Last year the Teenagers March Against Leukemia was held in scattered sections of our state and received a heartwarming response. This success was largely due to the enthusiasm and diligent work that was given to our drive by MYF groups all over Mississippi.

Again this year I am honored to be in charge of organizing the Leukemia drive in towns throughout the state, but I need your help. If you, the MYF groups in Mississippi, would unitedly adopt the Teenagers March Against Leukemia as one of your special projects we could have a tremendously successful drive and each of you would be playing a significant role in the destruction of our nation's number one child killer—Leukemia.

I have talked with Bishop Edward J. Pendergrass about the possibility of asking the Methodist Youth Fellowship's to take charge of the Teenagers March in all areas of the state and he has given his personal endorsement to the drive. He said, "It sounds like a worthwhile project for all MYF groups." Bishop Pendergrass also told a group of ministers about the Teenagers March at the North Mississippi Pastors Conference and they voted unanimously to have their MYF groups adopt the Leukemia drive.

Please ask your Fellowship Group to organize and participate in the door-to-door campaign that will begin on Sunday afternoon, October 4, 1964, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. and may be continued through the next eight days. I believe we should actively support St. Jude Hospital because more patients have been treated there from Mississippi than any other state, and no charges are ever made. By participating in the Teenagers March, we have a chance to express our gratitude.

If your group will take charge of the Teenagers March Against Leukemia in your town, city, or county, please write to me as soon as possible. I will need to know the names of your adult leader and teenage chairman, and the approximate number of marchers you expect to have so the identification kits can be sent to you.

Some day Leukemia will be destroyed and millions of teenagers will know that they have done something truly worthwhile for the betterment of mankind.

The challenge to help those who desperately need your help is before you, if you will just accept the opportunity. Please volunteer for the Teenagers March Against Leukemia!

Miss Hill, who is in a wheelchair, will be remembered by her many friends, as she has worked so hard on this project.

The young people will meet at the Methodist Church Sunday, October 4 at 2 o'clock and go out in teams, working for this project. They will return to the church for

Optometrists To Have Seminar Friday

Mississippi Optometrists will convene at the Sun-N-Sand Motor Hotel, Friday, October 2 for a post-graduate seminar under the direction of Dr. A. M. Skeffington of St. Louis, Mo. Dr. Skeffington is an internationally known teacher and author, and is Director of Education for the Optometric Extension Program, a non-profit foundation dedicated to education and research in Vision.

Dr. Skeffington is also widely known in the fields of psychology, neurology, and education for his work and research in children's vision, its development and role in child behavior.

Theme for the one day scientific education meeting of the states' vision specialists is "Detection and Care of Vision Problems of School Children."

Special emphasis will be placed on refreshments. Wayne Hunter and Mrs. D. C. Cadle will assist them. Mrs. Leonard Downs is also helping sponsor this project.

Thrill cannot be taught—it must be experienced. Thousands of American children are learning about it by buying U. S. Savings Stamps regularly at school or at post offices.

on the modern techniques and latest developments in Optometry, which provide the means to detect children with poor visual development which may hinder school success. Clinical research points to a very definite relationship between a child's vision and his behavior. For example it is generally agreed that 80 per cent of all that a child learns is gained through the visual pathway. Reading is the most important of the skills thus gained. The local Chairman in charge of arrangements for the seminar is Dr. Carl von Seutter, Optometrist of Magee, Miss.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 4-10

Fire killed 11,800 Americans last year, over half of them in their own homes.

Get busy with every member of your family during the coming week — Fire Prevention Week, October 4-10 — and make your home fire safe.

Involved in a home safe from fire are two important factors: good family habits about fire and its hazards and good construction.

Good family habits include such things as care with matches and smoking, care to turn off surface units, good housekeeping to get rid of rubbish, proper use of electrical fuses, appliance and extension cords, and a constant general awareness of the ways fires start and how to avoid them.

Good construction includes good escape routes, fire-resistant roofing material, proper wiring, built-in fire stops, solid doors in every room and good escape routes.

An ordinary wooden door can keep smoke and fire out of a room for as long as 30 minutes. Best exits lead directly outside, not through other rooms. Windows should be large enough and low enough to climb through and operate easily.

RESTORING RUFFLES

A laundering problem is keeping ruffles fluffy-looking. Whether you are dealing with lace ruffles, embroidered ruffles, or self ruffles, you will find these tips helpful:

1. Straighten and finger-press the ruffles while damp. If they are made of a no-iron fabric, finger-pressing is all you need.

2. Press ruffles in two steps. Begin by ironing the full length of the ruffle just along the edge. After pressing the edge, point the iron into the gathers and "swing" it gently from side to side along the ruffle.

3. Don't iron ruffles until bone dry. Instead, hang a ruffled garment or curtain after pressing and let the air finish the drying.

A Budget For The Young Couple
To help young newlyweds who are sometimes more romantic than realistic about what it costs to run a household, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has prepared a new publication, "A Guide to Budgeting for the Young Couple."

In this guide, family economists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service tell how to set up and use a simple, workable budget. The budget is designed so any couple can tailor it to their income or situation, and gear it to their individual needs.

A different sounding Pound Cake comes well recommended from Mrs. E. L. Marshall of Baldwin. Any of you who have eaten anything from Mrs. Marshall's kitchen know her stamp of approval is golden! Try this:

Cream together 3 sticks of oleo and 2 cups sugar. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add and beat 2 eggs and 1 cup flour. Then add and beat 2 more eggs and 1 cup flour. Finally, add 2 more eggs and 1 cup flour. Beat well. Bake in a greased tube pan in a 350 degree oven for 1½ hours.

Hospital Notes

Please observe visiting regulations for the children... As much as we would like to welcome youngsters, experience has taught us that a hospital environment does not lend itself to children visiting patients. There are several reasons... one very important one being that small children are susceptible to and many carry communicable diseases.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By W. TAYLOR SMITH, County Agent

DAIRY NOTES

Been having trouble with low butterfat tests lately? There could be a number of reasons for this. Here is a list to check and see if one or more might be your problem:

Low quality forage (hay and pasture). Low forage consumption. Too much grain and not enough forage in the cow's ration. Pasture or grazing too high in moisture content.

— lush, fast growing water grass. Dipping teat cups and not breaking the vacuum — allowing water to enter milk. Rinsing utensils and not draining them properly. Not properly drying udder after washing.

Graining hay or forage tends also to lower test. Also higher producing cows tend to test lower.

FIRE PREVENTION

October 4-10 is National Fire Prevention Week and a good time to take stock of the fire hazards on your farm and get rid of them! What about your barns and other service buildings, are they in good shape with regard to wiring and storage of combustible materials? If not, now is the time to do something about it.

It is also a good time to disk or plow fire lanes around pastures, between woods and public roads; between pastures and woods, around stacked hay or farm buildings.

Be extremely careful with any burning you feel is necessary. Make sure that you do not burn on windy, dry days. Always have enough equipment and labor on hand to control any fire that you might start.

LAWNS

Want a winter time green lawn? You can have one by overseeding your permanent grass with a cool season grass.

Tests at Miss. State University show that ryegrass seeded at ten pounds per 1,000 square feet will produce a highly desirable winter lawn.

Illahoe or Pennlawn creeping red fescue will also give excellent winter lawns but are slower in germination and growth than ryegrass.

Seed your winter grass in mid-October-October 10-15.

WINTER PEAS

Winter peas will come up and grow in heavy sods and give good spring grazing. Peas do not give as long a grazing period as clovers but do give good grazing in March and April and part of May.

If you broadcast seed on top of the ground, plant 50 pounds per

Plans And Features Highlight Workshop Of Woman's Society

New ideas, plans and features highlighted the District Workshop of the Woman's Society of Christian Service for the New Albany District held September 22 at the First Methodist Church in Booneville. Mrs. W. R. Lampkin, president, and Mrs. W. C. Smallwood, Sr., vice-president, were in charge of the program.

As special features Miss Olive Hicks of Ripley presented the Bible study on Genesis; Mrs. C. W. Hall of New Albany, the study on Spanish Americans; Mrs. L. V. Sharp of New Albany, the study course on The United States and the New Nations; and Mrs. J. G. Houston, Sr., of New Albany, the course on The Church's Mission Among New Nations.

These presentations were suggestive in plans, materials and methods for use by local societies with the appropriate and attractive tables of articles and large posters, provided by Mrs. J. W. Hollandsworth and Mrs. S. W. Downs, adding much interest and effectiveness for the presentations.

The effective presentation of new terms by the Myrtle society, new changes of procedures by Mrs. W. C. Smallwood, Sr., the skit, History Begins for Methodist Women, by Mrs. William Scott and several ministers, and points for use of the general Program Book by Mrs. Cleveland Childers provided interest and information for the local societies.

For the opening feature, Mrs. J. G. Houston, Sr., led the group singing of old and new hymns and Rev. W. L. Wallace, Jr., pastor-host, led the prayer. Notes of inspiration were offered throughout the program with the message of Mrs. Ruth Wood on spiritual food as the climax. Rev. Smith Whiteside led the prayer for the cooperative lunch at the noon hour, and the lovely arrangements of roses throughout the church, provided by Mrs. W. V. Kemp, added inspiration for the day.

New journals and other materials were available for every society and local representatives found various materials for carrying on the Woman's work in the book room. One hundred and twenty-five or more were present to partake of the joys of the day, including several pastors, Mrs. H. E. Jones, president of the organization for the North Mississippi Conference, Mrs. C. W. Hall, conference secretary of Youth Work, Mrs. N. N. Maxey, a former conference president, and Mrs. George Easterland, formerly of the district.

acre; if you disk them in, cut this to 35 pounds.

One of the best ways to plant winter peas is to use the sod seeder. With this method you can mix the winter peas and ryegrass or small grains. The sod seeder does a good job of renovation while planting on heavy sods.

Football -

for Booneville at the two. Jones went to the one from where Kemp scored at center. Shackelford was stopped on the point try. Kossuth returned the kickoff from the 15 to the 39 as the third quarter ended.

Again the Booneville defense held as Murphy, Eddie Lindsey and Danny McCord led the charge in to hit for a 10-yard loss on a pass attempt. A run netted two and a pass 14, then an incomplete pass gave Booneville the ball on downs and after they had picked up a first down Kossuth recovered a fumble at their own 40. The Aggies were assessed five for illegal procedure and after a gain of one, an incomplete pass and a pickup of four, punted out of bounds at the Booneville 30.

A pass Shackelford intended for Cartwright fell incomplete, then Pounds was hemmed in back to pass and ran for nine. Shackelford sneaked for six and a first at the Blue Devil 45. A pass from Pounds intended for D. T. Whitfield was incomplete, a draw play lost two and Booneville was penalized for illegal procedure. Then Pounds faded back and threw to Murphy who took the ball at the Kossuth 35 and went on in for the touchdown. Freddie Tollison skirted right end for the point, and although there was 4:20 left for all practical purposes the game was over.

With this victory under their belts the Blue Devils should be all primed for their meeting with the Red Raiders at Shannon this week. However, the Raiders will be doing their best to rebound from the 39-0 walloping they received Friday night from the Fulton Indians. Kickoff time for the game at Shannon will be 7 p.m.
