Local Hospital Has Met Rules Of Medicare But Hasn't Been Approved

B. G. Horton, administrator of the Northeast Mississippi Hospital, said Wednesday that as of now, the local hospital has not been approved for Medicare.

Mr. Horton said that the hospital has, to the best of his knowledge, complied with all the rules and regulations for Medicare.

He said that a doctor can now admit an emergency case to the hospital, by certifying that it is an emergency, and that if the patient has a Medicare card, the government will pay its share of the cost.

A public notice in the newspaper and radio will be made when the hospital is approved.

Split-Session Terms Are Discontinued By The Prentiss County School System

Mrs. W. M. Murphy, Superintendent of Education, said the Prentiss County Board of Education, at the request of the Health, Education and Welfare Department in Washington, D. C. voted Thursday to discontinue the split-session school term in Prentiss County.

All schools in the county will begin the last of August.

This is believed to be the first time in the history of the schools that a summer session has not been held.

The sessions usually began in July; however last year the term did not begin until August 2nd due to the fact that the desegregation plan of one grade per year submitted by the school board was not approved.

Washington approved the plan which called for the desegregation of grades one through four last year; the next four grades in the fall of 1966 and complete desegregation by 1967.

All schools in the county are in the plan.

Booneville Grammar, Booneville Junior High and Booneville High School have never had a summer session, but New Site, Marietta, Wheeler, Jumpertown, Hill's Chapel, Thrasher and Wick Anderson have, until this year, operated approximately 6 weeks in the summer in order for school children to be out in the fall to help harvest the crops.

Although the Baldwin school is located in Prentiss County, they have a separate school district and are not included in the Prentiss County jurisdiction. The Office of Education in Washington, D. C. revealed last week their plans to cut off federal financial aid to 14 school districts in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi, including Baldwin, for alleged racial discrimination. The schools have failed to comply with school desegregation guidelines based on the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Office of Education said. Superintendents of the 14 cases and recommend whether or not the federal aid should be terminated. The Civil Rights Act provides that no school district where evidence of racial discrimination is found may receive federal financial aid.

DAIRY PRINCESS — Miss Peggy Jo Moore of Jumpertown has been chosen Dairy Princess of Prentiss County. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Moore, Miss Moore will compete in the State Dairy Princess Contest to be held in Jackson on August 17-18. Miss Moore will be a freshman at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College in September. She lists horseback riding and singing as her hobbies.

New Building To Be Constructed For Martin Hill Free Will Baptist Church

The Martin Hill Free Will Baptist Church, located 5 miles east of Booneville on Highway 30, has recently voted to undertake a building program. A new 36' by 76' structure will stand where the old one story frame building has served the community for 37 years. The new building will be an all masonry facility with a full basement which will provide 8 classrooms with an area for assembly.

The main floor will consist of a nursery, sanctuary with elevated pulpit and choir section, baptistry, pastor's study, and one classroom.

The normal seating capacity will be 200 with a maximum of 300.

The old building has been moved to the rear of the lot as grading and leveling takes place, and will continue in use until the new structure is ready. Plans call for its future utilization as an educational building or possible renovation as a parsonage.

Services will continue on schedule after an "under the trees" worship session on Sunday, July 3, while the old building was being relocated.

The Rev. Curtis Briley is pastor.

4-H Horse Program Scheduled July 8

On Friday afternoon, July 8, at 2 o'clock a 4-H Club Horse Program will be presented at the riding rink on Jacinto Road, near the Clarence Nunley farm.

The program will consist of a discussion on general horse health by Dr. Jimmy Nelson, care of the hooves by Ray Gregory, and training the horse by O. R. Curtis.

Jim Archer, assistant county agent and county 4-H Club director, said, "This should be a very interesting program and all 4-H Club members who are interested in horses and horsemanship are urged to attend."

Mr. Archer added that horses and horseback riding as a sport are rapidly regaining their popularity in this area, so that this is a most fitting program at this time.

Rites Today For Mrs. Frank Prather

Mrs. Frank (Dena Faye) Prather of Booneville passed away Wednesday at 12:30 a.m. at the Northeast Miss. Hospital after being in failing health about two years. She was a member of the Baptist Church and a housewife. She was 73.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday (today) at 3 p.m. in the chapel of McMillan Funeral Home with Bro. Billy Roby officiating. Burial will be in the Booneville Cemetery with McMillan Funeral Directors in charge.

She leaves two sons, Rix Prather of Iuka and Billy Prather of the Army Air Force; a brother, Grady Ricks of Memphis; two sisters, Mrs. Otha Miller and Mrs. Wyatt Miller both of Wheeler; six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

When some challenge comes our way, we get upset, complain and feel unjustly treated. This makes matters worse. We should welcome the challenge as an opportunity to prove our spiritual understanding and thank God for the opportunity. We suffer only when we resist something in our lives. The secret is, then to embrace the Spirit of God in everything.

Motel folks (including ours at Maggie Valley, N. C.) might not like this but my sister-in-law told me and it really works. When traveling and when an iron is not available, hang the clothes in the bathroom and turn on the hot water. The steam cause the wrinkles to fall out in nothing flat.

This item was clipped from the "Dear Abby" column and left for me. "I'm an old coot, I suppose, up in my 70's, and these Beatle hair-cuts and scraggly females get me down. But I have found a cure. I have a picture album that contains a picture of me when I was 17. I look at this for a few moments and then I find it's easy to keep my trap shut."

Brother-in-law Joe sent me a booklet entitled "Party Line". One of the articles is entitled "Our Greatest Labor Problem."

A Professor of Economics at King's University, Halifax, says that not strikes and tie-ups, but the widespread aversion to work is our greatest labor problem.

A young woman complained that inasmuch as her father and her father-in-law had worked hard to accumulate fortunes, it was unfair that her husband should also work hard and not enjoy some of the wealth the older folks had accumulated. The fact is, her husband actually enjoys his long hours of work. His business fascinates him.

Two young men bought an old store building in a New Hampshire village and worked from daylight to darkness to get it ready for business. They had a happy time because they were working to make their dreams come true.

Two men, one seventy-nine and the other a youngster, built a two-story, six room cottage in six weeks in Connecticut.

There are hundreds of thousands of workers like them. But something must be done to increase the number of those who do not think of work as a curse. One can understand the natural response of the owner of a plant to the sight of a couple of highly paid machinists loafing on the job. His anger, even though it may be a manifestation of bad management or bad personnel relations, is excusable. He sees what men like them are doing to the nation as a whole. They are making a big contribution to the high cost of everything they and others buy.

Obviously, the place to start is with children in homes and schools. Work must be made a part of their fun. Tom Sawyer made his friends eager to whitewash the fence. He made it appear like fun to them.

Interagency Commission On Mental Illness Launches 4-Point Program

Mississippi's new Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation has launched a four-point program for helping thousands of Mississippians.

Briefly stated, the goals are:

1. To develop coordinated services.
2. To find personnel.
3. To collect facts.
4. To keep the public informed.

Regarding Point One, the make-up of the commission is, in itself, a long step toward coordinating services for the mentally ill, the retarded, alcoholics, emotionally disturbed, and others in need of help, because the commission is made up of the chief executive officers of the five state agencies with programs related to the above groups.

These include the state agencies for mental institutions, for colleges and universities, for health, for education, and for welfare — each with a specific function in the fields for which the commission will be responsible.

The State Board of Health administers community services and preventive programs. The Board of Mental Institutions provides inpatient and residential services at Whitfield, East Mississippi (Meridian) and Ellisville (for the retarded). The Board of Education has vocational rehabilitation and special education programs. And the Board of Trustees, Institutions of Higher Learning, conducts research and training in many areas relevant to mental illness and mental retardation. The Welfare Department provides related social services.

The Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation will provide, for the first time in Mississippi, a means by which these five agencies can coordinate their programs in the field of mental illness and mental retardation.

Under Point Two of the four-point program, the commission will seek more psychiatrists, psychologists, nurses, social workers and related personnel for Mississippi. And it will strive to hold on to existing personnel and halt the exodus of professionals from the state.

Personnel in all these categories are in seriously short supply in Mississippi — and have been for years, primarily because salaries in Mississippi are so low and because ongoing programs in these categories are few and far between.

As one of its first acts, the commission will create a Program Council made up of Mississippians familiar with mental illness and retardation problem areas. It has also been determined that the professional manpower shortage in the state is serious enough to call for a second council — a Manpower Council — to concentrate specifically on the personnel shortage problem. These two councils will serve as advisory groups to the Interagency Commission.

Point Three calls for the collection of facts pertaining to top-priority needs in Mississippi of the mentally ill, the retarded, and those who are severely emotionally disturbed.

One goal of Point Three is to have all agencies involved in these problem areas establish comparable data-collection and record-keeping procedures, so that records of individual cases can more easily flow across agency lines.

Finally, Point Four calls for keeping Mississippians informed as to the primary needs of the state's mentally ill and mentally retarded, as well as the needs of their families. The commission will also keep

J. L. Keeton brought a branch from his crabapple tree to the Banner-Independent office Tuesday that had over 125 choice apples on a forked limb slightly over two feet long.

He stated his tree, about 10 years old, was loaded and the limbs breaking from the weight of the fruit.

The striped red crabapples are excellent for making jelly, he said, and left them for me to try.

From personal experience, I know tar is hard to remove from anything, however I wish the sidewalks of our fair city could be cleaned up. It seems to me that most of the dirty, ugly places are tar, probably gotten there during the resurfacing of the streets.

The announcement that the schools in the county would not have a split session came as good news to me. It has always been hard on teachers who want and need additional schoolings themselves, to go to college in the summer. Then too, during this near 100 degrees weather, students have a difficult time concentrating on schoolwork and many forget it by the time they re-enter late in the fall. I realize a few families need the children to pick cotton in the fall, but I think the advantages will outweigh the disadvantages.

Tale of Two Wars

(NOTE: The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily those of this publication.)

The June 1966 issue of NATION'S BUSINESS, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, carried the following paragraphs titled, "War is not necessarily hell."

"Gen. William C. Westmoreland is often under enemy fire during his 18-hour days of leading the war in Viet Nam.

"To compensate him for his life and death decisions he is paid $27,400 a year.

"In a much safer war - the federal government's war on poverty - the generals face nothing more harrowing than the slings and arrows of outraged unfortunates. But the pay is more generous. Even the deputy director of the war on poverty makes about $1,000 a year more than the rugged commander of American forces in the real war.

"General Westmoreland's deputies are not nearly so well compensated. Take Gen. Harry W. O. Kinard, a typical division commander with direct combat responsibilities in the real war. He earns a total of $22,630. Washington's war-on-poverty office pays its lobbyist $2,500 a year more than that. Even its top publicists make more than real generals.

"Of course our courageous generals fighting the Viet Nam War aren't in it for the pay.

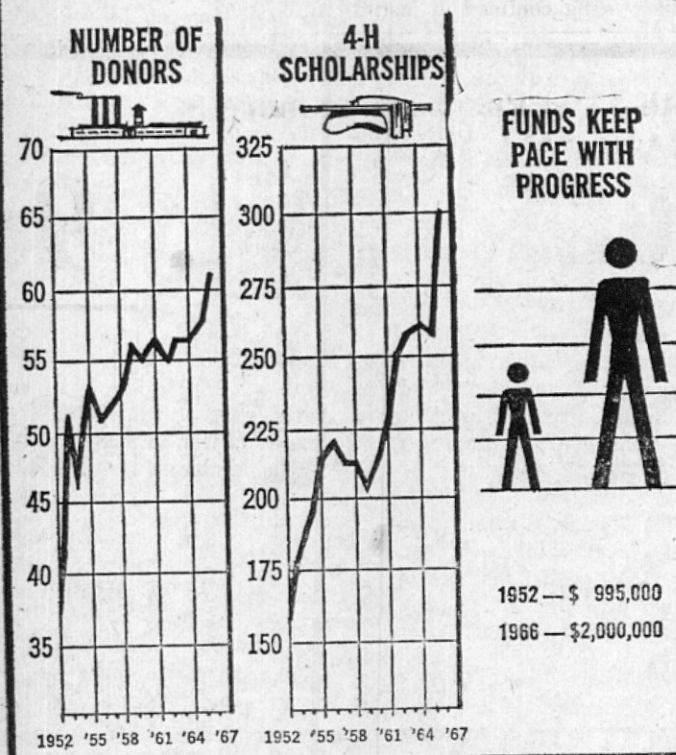

"Nor, no doubt, is salary the only inducement to those who wave wooden swords in Washington. But, as Erasmus noted: War is sweet for those who do not really know it."

The Mississippi Economic Council believes Congress should be urged to require economy in the federal government by reduction in spending requests which do not impair essential federal government functions.

SUPPORT OF 4-H AT NEW HIGH

BEGINNING with an annual contribution of a few thousand dollars 45 years ago, the National 4-H Service Committee, Inc., this year has budgeted a record $2 million for services to the 4-H program.

"For nearly half a century the Committee has fostered a steady growth of service and support to 4-H," said Norman C. Mindrum, director. "Contributions from U.S. business in support of 4-H award programs are at an all-time high."

From a handful of donors the list has grown to an all-time high of 61, representing virtually every type of major business and industrial enterprise.

These 4-H backers not only provide awards and educational aids, but also encouragement to 2,185,000 boys and girls participating in 4-H Clubs.

This year marks the 45th National 4-H Club Congress to be held in Chicago. The annual event brings recognition to boys and girls between 14 and 19 years of age who have successfully engaged in 4-H Club projects and activities for at least three years.

The 1,600 Congress trips sponsored by the award donors are said to have a lasting and far-reaching effect on the youth from the 50 states and Puerto Rico who win them.

Among the 61 donors are the following which have given support to the 4-H program from 15 to 48 years: All-Chalmers, American Oil Foundation, Armour and Company, Santa Fe Railway System, the Burlington Railroad, Coats & Clark Inc., Illinois Central Railroad, Ker Glass Manufacturing Corporation, Livestock Conservation Inc., Montgomery Ward, Simplicity Pattern Co. Inc., Standard Oil Company (Ky.), and The Standard Oil Company (Ohio). Also, Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Wilson & Co., Inc., Standard Brands Incorporated, The Pure Oil Company, Hercules Incorporated, Ford Motor Company Fund, Elgin National Watch Company, Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago Board of Trade, Carnation Company, American Forest Products Industries, Inc., Cities Service Oil Company, Inc., The Sears-Roebuck Foundation, Massey-Ferguson Inc., Sunbeam Corporation, Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, International Harvester Company, Chicago and North Western Railway and the Milwaukee Road.

In carrying out its program, one major objective of the commission will be the partial shifting of services from the state to the community level. The first step in this transition will probably be the development of service areas in the state and the establishment of centers in these areas having well-defined working relationships with ed to execute the standard form of contract for construction, together with Performance Bond, within ten (10) days after formal award of the contract.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any and all formalities in the best interests of the County.

state-level services.

Many communities throughout the state have expressed a desire to develop such centers, and, in several cases, counties have banded together to work toward making such centers a reality. The Inter-agency Commission will assist such local and regional groups in these efforts.

It will be up to the commission to lay down the ground rules for determining how these various multi-county regions may qualify for available funds at federal, state and local levels.

The commission was created by the 1966 legislature as a result of an intensive study in 1963-65 by Mississippians interested in long-range planning to meet state needs in serving the mentally ill and the mentally retarded. These Mississippians made up the Mississippi Mental Health Planning Council and the Mississippi Mental Retardation Planning Council. In related reports made public in the Fall of 1965, the two councils recommended ed establishment of an inter-agency group for closer coordination by existing state agencies in the fields of mental illness and retardation.

Enthusiasm at the local level for this program is reflected not only by the formation of these various regional groups but also by the support the program received in the legislature. It was approved 42-3 in the Senate and 117-7 in the House during the 1966 legislative session. And a $50,000-a-year appropriation, beginning July 1, 1966, was approved 47-0 in the Senate and 94-6 in the House.

The support came from the thousands of Mississippians who want retarded and emotionally disturbed friends and relatives helped and diagnosed before their conditions become hopeless. Program spokesmen do not claim that every case can be helped. But they do point out that regional centers, closer to a man's home and job and community, can — by early diagnosis and treatment — keep many people from being confined in institutions as long-term cases.

Members of the Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation include C. Seth Hudspeth (Board of Mental Institutions), chairman; Dr. A. L. Gray (Board of Health), vice-chairman; J. M. Tubb (Board of Education); Miss Evelyn Gandy (Department of Public Welfare); and Dr. E. R. Jobe (Board of Trustees, Institutions of Higher Learning.)

They will meet at least once a month and will work with the Program Council and the Manpower Council, as well as with the professional staff, with offices at 440 Woodrow Wilson Ave. in Jackson.

Together, the five commissioners possess a total of 191 years experience in state government, and they will pool this experience as they search jointly for new solutions to one of Mississippi's oldest problems.

BROADENING AGRICULTURE

Fewer young people are going into farming. That's a hard fact. Fewer youths are going into agriculture. That's a downright fallacy, for agriculture today isn't pushing a plow, it isn't even driving a tractor or cotton picker or harvester. It isn't planting, or breaking new ground or baling hay. That's farming. Agriculture is broader. It includes farming — or production. It also includes processing, marketing, distributing farm products, servicing farmers and farm equipment. The farm machinery salesman is in agriculture. So are truck drivers, feed mill operators, farm supply store proprietors. There are egg graders and inspectors, hatchery managers, livestock buyers, feeders and auctioneers. There are extension specialists, canners, dairy products manufacturers, journalists, rural realtors, teachers, nurserymen, agricultural mechanics, landscape architects, tree surgeons, lumbermen, and veterinarians. Agriculture involves thousands of other people who are utilizing agricultural knowledge and depending on agricultural production for their livelihood.

"Does your company emphasize product development or advertising?"

A top official of a leading wood manufacturer was perplexed when asked this question at a recent convention; his quick reply was:

"It would be useless for us to emphasize product development without emphasizing advertising. No matter how good they are, we couldn't sell new products without increased advertising."

The more a manufacturer does to improve his line, the larger must be his advertising budget, the executive said. The rule holds from processing to the final retail sales. Whether the businessman likes it or not, he happens to be operating in an era when change and improvement is expected by the consumer. But it is also the era when the consumer is more skeptical than ever of the claims of the seller.

The consumer wants new and better products. But he is sophisticated enough to know that not all changes are improvements, and that not all new things are better.

Yet, the consumer expects to hear the pitch for change. He considers it the responsibility of the seller to present his case. He is willing to listen; he wants to be convinced that he should invest in a new car, home laundry, television set, vacation trip, or a lake cabin.

But the affluent consumer expects to be courted. In a buyers' market such is his privilege. He expects advertising to sell him. He

A Tribute To John Mahaffy

Rev. Billy E. Roby, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said of John William Mahaffy at services held June 23rd at McMillan Funeral Home, "He was a giant in the forest of men who will be missed. Silent was the fall, but great will be the loss. He was a giant in his community, a giant in the sight of God and his church and a giant in the eyes of his family. His handshake was always friendly and warm, his smile congenial and his spirit contagious."

A great number of loved ones and friends have donated to the building fund of the First Baptist Church, the Heart Fund, the Adult Crippled Hospital, sponsored by the Rotary Club of which he was a member, and various other worthwhile causes, to honor his memory, which revealed their love for him and his wide circle of friendships.

Mr. Mahaffy's death was an occasion of sincere sorrow, removing from an active field of service an individual who had in various ways served his community.

He will long and affectionately be remembered by the many who knew his real worth as a leading contributor of his times.

His life was remarkably close to the rule: "One's life should not be measured by time, but by service. It's history should not be so much a record of his words, as his deeds. It's influence not in proportion to his years, but to his righteousness."

He meant so much to the people. He stood out as an example of how helpful, how exemplary, the career of a single individual may become to his community, whether as a business man, church and civic leader or in his home.

His heritage from a distinguished family and his devotion to Christian principles contributed to form a character that was the pride of his associates, the ideal of his family, and the delight of his friends.

We learn from his life that success flows not from chance, nor from a happy combination of e-

Gospel Meeting Begins July 10 At Roaring Hollow

A Gospel Meeting will begin Sunday, July 10 at Roaring Hollow Church of Christ. Bible Study will be at 9:30 a.m. and dinner will be served at the noon hour with singing in the afternoon.

There will be night services only at 7:30 p.m. with Bro. J. T. Smith doing the preaching. The public is invited.

As Vice-Mayor, he foreshadowed policies of the future considered of the greatest importance with his unusual insight to problems, and an ideal for the betterment of his official duties, which he pursued throughout his tenure of service.

As soon as he acquired authority he instituted measures to make the objectives of his department effective.

His personality endeared itself to all the members of the board and his co-workers. His quiet mannerism and willingness to hear all sides of a question were indicative of his leadership.

He set for those he supervised a definite task, thereby establishing a high standard of accomplishment.

His enlightened social conscience and contacts with his employees gave him insight as a leader of utility progress.

In the plans for improvement he was an originator of advanced ideas, and in all questions which came before the board meetings, came his quick, intelligent response. Courteous, but positive in his nature when need be, his heart strings were touched with tenderness toward the needy and distressed.

He possessed that dominant force, honor and integrity so essential to the achievements of the high purposes of his duties in any capacity. His spirited temperament was directed in such channels as to distinguish him among his contemporaries. A very human person he had the gift of understanding, sympathy, and inspirational leadership.

His keenness of interest was an asset and he brought to his activities an energy and an intensity of purpose. He gave these attributes freely.

Robert Browning perfectly describes his faith and optimism when he said: "One who never doubted clouds would break — never dreamed that right through worsted wrong would triumph."

Mr. Mahaffy's business establishment grew into one of the dominant enterprises in the furniture field. His outward development was a symbol of his inner strength.

In all of his efforts, his devoted companion, the former Miss Inez Dilworth, who is well and sincerely loved by the townspeople, was closely associated within the sheltered privacy of his home, were revealed his lovable qualities that will endear his memory. His domestic environment was enriching through daily devotion, congenial intellectual and cultural interests.

Able, sincere and warm hearted he stood high in the appraisal of his generation which assures a permanent and honored place in the history of our city.

He leaves his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Jim Ray of Huntsville, Ala.; two granddaughters, Christi and Deanna Ray; three sisters, Mrs. E. D. Brown of Booneville, Mrs. Lloyd Parker of Potocassi, N. C. and Mrs. W. B. Doty of Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

Rev. Clifton Perkins, a former pastor, and Rev. Billy E. Roby conducted the services.

Burial took place in the Booneville Cemetery with the following pall bearers serving, Messrs. Jack McGee, Eston Stevens, Dr. William Preston, Charles Crabb, Lealon George, Ovid Robertson, W. D. Kernell and Ben Taylor Smith.

Watershed Work Plans Announced

Soil Conservation Service officials report that bids were opened today in Jackson on the final contract to be let for the fiscal year 1965-66 in which about 5 million dollars worth of watershed construction has been contracted.

Broom Construction Co., Purvis, Mississippi, with a bid of $171,694.65 is apparently low in today's bid opening, according to W. L. Heard, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Jackson.

The bid covers construction of two floodwater retarding structures in the Black Creek watershed project, to be located within an eleven mile radius of Lexington; and one floodwater retarding structure thirteen miles from Yazoo City.

Mr. Heard said during the period from July 1, 1965 to date, contracts have been let for 26 floodwater retarding structures, 145 miles of channel improvement, 18 grade stabilization structures, 5 miles of bank stabilization and approximately 200 cantilever overall structures. Construction is in a number of flood prevention and small watershed projects scattered over the state. Many are nearing completion.

All of the projects are sponsored by local soil conservation and drainage districts, and provide protection of much valuable valley and hill land through mechanical and land treatment measures. Federal funds cover flood prevention.

In many cases the projects provide additional benefits of recreation. With respect to the Black Creek project, R. C. Flanagan, Jackson, area conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, reported that the Central Mississippi Presbytery has already begun construction of a $50,000 recreation camp around one of the dams which has already been completed near Lexington.

Mr. Flanagan said 14 of 38 proposed floodwater retarding structures have already been completed on Black Creek. About fifty per cent of the planned land treatment has been applied. This consists of pasture and tree plantings and other measures executed by landowners with Soil Conservation Service technical assistance available through the Soil Conservation District. In the tree planting phases of the program, the U. S. Forest Service has responsibility.

Mr. Flanagan said two reservoirs have already been built in Piney Creek, and about 80 per cent of the land treatment has been applied.

He added that these projects will greatly reduce flood hazards below the dams.

In this area, according to Mr. L. A. Wilkins, area conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, bids were opened during the fiscal year on construction work in Chiwapa and Toposhaw watershed projects. Town Creek and Tuscumbia watersheds are expected to begin construction in the near future.

ROBERT SIDNEY SPAIN is beginning three year apprenticeship with Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, anticipation in receiving his license of credited architect. Robert Sidney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spain of Booneville. In June he was awarded his degree of Architecture from the Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Ga.

OF tennis AND religion

It happened on the very first point as everyone knew it would. The champ was testing the challenger's backhand.

Champs are like that. Right from the start they probe for some flaw in the opponent's game.
 And when they find it—look out!

Life is just as probing and relentless. Quickly it uncovers our weaknesses . . . then assaults them again and again.

Is that why men go to church? It's one of the reasons!

Victories never come with glorying in our uncertain strength. They come with doing something about our proven weaknesses.

Long ago it became trite to observe that the Church is meant for sinners rather than saints.
 But it is sound Christian living to recognize honestly our shortcomings . . . and constantly, persistently to seek God's help in overcoming them.

Thursday Study Club Has June Program

The Thursday Study Club met Thursday afternoon in the lovely home of Mrs. Clarence Chase when the June program was presented.

Facile with all types of art, Mrs. Chase is at home in any medium, in the arts and crafts, in floriculture, flower arrangement, and in the role of hostess. She is an exemplar of the contention that an individual who specializes in only one subject could not rightfully be counted an artist. Some of the charming interpretations of her brush in water colors and oil and several pastels all companionable nature studies are admired. A touch of her artistry was given an arrangement of day lilies in a range of colors.

Adding to the Chase home are treasured heirlooms in antique furniture and collectors items.

A delightful dessert plate was served after which the president, Miss Mabel Cunningham, conducted a brief business period. Mrs. L. E. Rugg was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. E. L. Robison presented the timely and informative scheduled subject on Plants in Medicine, from Margaret B. Kreig's book, "Green Medicine, or The Search for Plants That Heal."

This book written by the assistant scientific editor of the New York Times, is scientifically accurate, as an on-the-scene accounts of botanical investigations ranging from remote rain forests to gleaming laboratories around the world. Here for the first time in any book are more fascinating than fiction, true tales of discoveries that have resulted in some of our most vital medicines.

Mrs. Kreig describes the type of chemists, botanists, pharmacists, physicians and plant scouts. The most important and successful in this field of research is the ethnobotanists who study the primitive people and their relationship to the plant life of their region. Through friendly participation in their customs, they create good will and thereby receive valuable information in identifying plants and their uses.

The higher plants were discussed and plants that demonstrate most beautifully what happens when the chemist knows what nature holds.

She gives a fascinating account from her four years research and her personal interviews with hundreds of scientists here and abroad and experiences on an expedition to the Amazon and Mexico.

As much as $10,000,000 may be spent in perfecting the end product. Some idea of the magnitude is gained when we consider there are about 350,000 botanical species with around 2,000 new plants added annually to the botanics. Reports in this book pertain to the 175,000 higher plants. Plants are chosen for their history containing certain elements to complete the overall picture of natural products investigation.

The greatest and most all-out quest was for the lost Strophantus, a certain strain containing the starting material for compound E. Billions of cattle were needed for ox bile for the supply in the treatment of arthritis. The quest was for a cheaper supply which finally resulted in starting material from Mexican Yams. Steps could be reduced 35 to 18 steps by building on this structure. Thus Cortisone became available at reduced prices.

Interest is turned to the castor family which produces one of the most highly complex forms of intoxication, attributed to the alkaloid in peyote mesquite.

Datura, one of the deadly nightshades, is discussed with its family of 3,000 species. It contains belladonna. Jimson weed, or datura, was used by the natives as a narcotic. The drug atropine comes from datura. In nutmeg seed, the common denominator of myristicine, a phenol ether, is found. In kitchens it is harmless. All narcot-

(This is the final in a series of sixteen articles featuring the academic departments at The Northeast Mississippi Junior College.)

By MARY ROBINSON

The act of speaking, states Mrs. William Preston, chairman of The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Department of Speech, involves many forms, including conversation, public speaking, debating, forum discussion, reading aloud, storytelling and acting.

Knowing that training in effective public speaking is an essential part of training for leadership in any endeavor, Northeast offers several courses designed to aid the student in this important phase of his everyday life.

Included in the speech curriculum is the course, Speech Fundamentals, a basic course in the principles and types of speech and the study and application of the principles of speech, organization, composition and delivery. Frequent oral ics in history seem to be linked with religion and magic.

Rauwolfia, the Hindu tranquilizer which has been used for 100 years in Africa and India and for at least 30 centuries, was discussed at length. It has revolutionized the world for the treatment of mental diseases and blood pressure.

Digitalis from the foxglove, discovered in a Shropshire garden as a folk remedy, is known as the best heart attender. From Curare, the arrow poison, it is said that the end product is used for a relaxant in abdominal surgery.

The incredible history of quinine from the Cinchona tree or Peruvian bark began in 1633. Two French pharmacists gave to the world quinine in 1820. The best bark came from Bolivia in 1861.

Mistletoe, the sacred plant of the Druids, Periwinkle and an extract from Mandrake is being tested for cancer with the evaluation of 600 botanicals in their search touched off when 57 plants were pointed out as folk remedies when John Foster Dulles became ill.

Trusting humanity placed great faith that in every ill there existed a cure in the field and forests.

In the search for the plants that heal we meet a few of the men and women who mix basic science, commerce, education and international good will to produce green medicine from the Universal Plant Kingdom. The results of their good work is beneficial to all mankind.

Mrs. Robison displayed an old medical book containing colored pictures of medical plants and their use and a backyard collection of plants.

Dr. Dorothy N. Moore Program Director On Mental Illness

The appointment of Dr. Dorothy N. Moore as program director of the new Mississippi Interagency Commission on Mental Illness and Mental Retardation was announced today by commission chairman C. Seth Hudspeth.

"Dr. Moore coordinated the 1963-65 study which resulted in the formation of the commission," said Hudspeth, "and she is an excellent choice to coordinate the program growing out of that study."

During the study — from July 1, 1963, to the end of 1965 — Doctor Moore, a psychologist, was on loan from the State Board of Health.

She now leaves the State Board of Health to become the full-time program director of the commission, made up of the chief executive officers of the five state agencies (health, education, welfare, colleges and mental institutions) which serve the mentally ill and the retarded.

"The State Board of Health is sorry to lose Dr. Moore," said Dr. A. L. Gray, the board's chief executive officer, "but her work during the study was invaluable, and that background should not be lost to the commission."

Dr. Moore is chief executive officer of the Board of Trustees of the Mental Institutions and chairman of the commission. Dr. Gray is vice-chairman. The other commission members include Miss G. G. Gand, Department of Public Welfare; J. M. Tubb (Department of Education) and Dr. E. R. Jobe (Board of Trustees of the State of Higher Learning).

Dr. Moore joined the State Board of Health in 1949 as a clinical psychologist at the regional mental health center in Greenwood, where she worked until 1957, when she went to Louisiana State University to study for her doctor's degree.

She received her Ph.D. in psychology from L.S.U. in 1961 and returned to the State Board of Health that same year as consultant psychologist in the Mental Health Services Division.

She was born in Florence, Alabama, and attended high school and college in Huntington, West Virginia. She received her B.A. degree from Marshall University in Huntington in 1942 and her M.A. in psychology from Michigan State University in 1949.

As coordinator of the Mississippi Mental Health and Mental Retardation Planning Program from July 1, 1963, to the present, Dr. Moore served the Mississippi Mental Health Planning Council and the Mississippi Mental Retardation Planning Council.

These two councils, in the Fall of 1965, completed and made public final reports surveying the need for a long-range program in Mississippi for the mentally ill, the mentally retarded, the severely emotionally disturbed, and others in need of help.

A key recommendation in both reports was the formation of a group through which all five involved agencies might coordinate their efforts. Establishment of the Interagency Commission resulted.

Rev. G. H. Holloman Rural Minister Of The Year

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. — Rev. Garland H. Holloman of New Albany, Miss., has been named Rural Minister of the Year in Mississippi by The Progressive Farmer magazine and Emory University, Atlanta.

The award will be presented to Rev. Holloman July 14 during the 22nd Town and Country School, Church and Community Workshop, conducted by the Candler School of Theology, Emory.

Rev. Holloman is superintendent of New Albany District, North Mississippi Methodist Conference. This six-county district is probably the most rural of all the districts in the Annual Conference. Under his leadership, there has been renewed interest in service and good stewardship of church property. In his five years here, 1960-1965, more than 90 projects of repairing and building have been completed. Five new churches have been erected and three parsonages built. The ministers in his district tell of his inspiration and enthusiastic backing in every respect.

His activities have extended consistently beyond the church itself. He is helping develop the Centre School building in Tippah County to provide a place for adult education, community meetings, Scout and 4-H Club gatherings and other events.

Rev. Holloman has held three pastorates in his 19 years of ministry.

try. He received the Silver Beaver award for his leadership with the Boy Scouts. As a member of the board of trustees of Rust College, he has worked for accreditation of this Negro college. He has served on the board of directors of the Salvation Army and on the General Board of Education of the Methodist Church.

Although he is not a minister of any one church, Rev. Holloman's leadership among the hundred churches in his district has qualified him for the honor of Mississippi's Rural Minister of the Year.

July Meetings

Here is a list of some meetings that you may want to attend. At each, you will get some real time-management information:

At Mississippi State University July 14 will be an Agricultural Engineering Field Day. It will highlight "Soil and Water Conservation Research for Agriculture."

The summer meeting of the Mississippi Section of the American Society of Agronomy will take place July 21 at the Coastal Plains Branch Experiment Station at Newton. More information on "1.5 by 75" will be a highlight.

The annual Junior Hereford field day will be held at the N-Bar Ranch near Shuqualak on July 20.

At Mississippi State University on July 26 will be a beef cattle clinic, featuring Dr. Jon Bonsma of the University of Pretoria in South Africa. He is well known for his ability to detect reproductive efficiency of beef cattle by visual appraisal.

Cotton Insect Control

Ultra-low volume applications, whether by ground or air, are not recommended in Mississippi this year. When sufficient research has been completed, the use of low volume applications will be considered by the state committee.

Only malathion has received a Federal label to be used as a special concentration in ultra-low volume... less than one gallon per acre.

90TH BIRTHDAY. Mrs. John Reynolds celebrated her 90th birthday on June 12th and she is shown here as she opens one of the many gifts presented her on the occasion. trates in small amounts that do not have Federal registration, there are possibilities of excess residues and they could be phytotoxic to the cotton plants.

Cocklebur In Soybeans

You can control cocklebur in soybeans with an amine salt formulation of 2, 4-DB, sold as Butoxone SB and Butyrac 175. Apply it as a broadcast spray over the top of the crop at .2 (two tenths) pound active material per acre in 10 to 20 gallons of water.

Treat from two weeks before early bloom until mid-bloom. Best control is obtained when cocklebur plants have elongated and are as tall or taller than the soybeans.

Do not use the material when soybeans are growing in very dry soil or water-logged soil. You should apply 2, 4-DB only to soybeans and cocklebur that are growing vigorously.

Farm Safety

July 24-30 is National Farm Safety Week. Make this week a time to check up on your accident potential. Then practice safety every week in the year.

PHYSICIANS LICENSED TO PRACTICE MEDICINE

Recently 137 physicians were licensed to practice medicine in Mississippi. The Executive Officer of the State Board of Health said that 105 of the physicians were licensed as a result of medical examinations given by the State Board of Health during the regular semi-annual meeting on June 13 and 14 in Jackson. In addition, licensure by reciprocity from other states to Mississippi resulted in licenses being issued to 32 physicians and to one podiatrist.

LEARNING SCRIPTS — Music and theater students are among the participants in the Summer Music-Drama Workshop at the University of Mississippi and some situations require they learn lines as well as lyrics. Workshop students include (from left) Kathy Young of Pontotoc, Ken Smith of Booneville, Elsie Ann Allison of Charleston, Linda Winship of Columbus and Carol Heathman of Indianola.

From Center-Stage To Backstage Just Part Of Program At Ole Miss Drama Workshop

A stage-struck "star" this week may be a backstage bell ringer next week at the University of Mississippi Summer Music-Drama Workshop.

The transition from center-stage to backstage is not "out of character" here, it's simply part of a varied program of diverse instruction which students receive in the Ole Miss Summer Music-Drama Workshop. Nobody wears their feelings on their sleeves; directors, designers, actors and crew members alike do the tisser chores as well as the more glamorous tasks.

Dr. Donald M. McBryde and Dr. James Coleman are co-directors of the Workshop and the first thing the some 40 participants learn is that the world behind the stage is equally as important as the scenes the audience see on opening night. Twenty scholarships each in music and theater ($150 for the summer) are offered to students annually in the Workshop. Regular University students who enroll in the music or theater courses participate in the productions, too.

As the curtain goes up on the five Workshop productions this summer the audience won't see the sore muscles and tired teens back of the scenery. But each show will have behind it hundreds of work hours put into the building of sets, making of costumes and varied props. All of these tasks are done by the students in carrying out the theme of the Workshop — to give participants an accurate understanding of all phases of modern theater.

The students attend classes daily and can receive up to six hours of university credit each semester. Subjects covered in the program include acting, fencing, voice, stage movement, make-up, lighting and music history. Rehearsals open at 10:30 each morning for cast members but backstage work on sets and such begins much earlier. Work on lines as well as sets often goes on late into the night.

Technical director of the shows is Bill Basham of Paducah, Ky., and shop foreman in charge of stage construction is Bert Foregger of Oxford. Carolyn Combs of Bishop, Calif., is in charge of costumes. Directors for shows this summer include Robert Canon of Sardis, Harry Jordan of Jackson, Ray Schenider and Helen Kellum, both of University.

The season opened last week with a three-night run of the comedy "Light Up The Sky" and the second show was the Pops Vaudeville Concert Friday and Saturday nights, July 1 and 2. Other shows include "Reynard The Fox," a show for youngsters slated for July 7-9, and "Look Back In Anger" on July 21-23. An all-campus production of the musical "South Pacific," Aug. 10-13, will close the summer theater here. All of the productions are being staged in Meek Hall Auditorium and curtain time for each performance is 8 p.m.

Many of the students in the Workshop plan professional careers in music and theater while others are enjoying the work just for the summer. But all of them — would-be-pros and novices alike — enjoy the applause on opening night.

Miss Pamela Gail Wilburn And Dallis Yearber Wed In Church Rites June 24

In a wedding of beauty Miss Pamela Gail Wilburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Kenneth Wilburn, became the bride of Dallis Yearber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Yearber, also of Marietta, in the Marietta Methodist Church in a setting of dignity and simplicity. The Reverend John Millsaps, Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony, Friday evening, June 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the presence of many relatives and friends.

Candlelight and soft greens accented the beauty of the sanctuary. Single lighted tapers, which reflected the beauty supplied by baskets of white gladioli flanked the altar. Rising high behind the prieu dieu was a large arrangement of emerald ferns centered with white wedding bells. Native magnolia greens and a single blossom were placed in each window and a large fan shaped arrangement of magnolias was placed at the entrance.

The center pew rails were marked with individual white satin ribbons.

The music was presented by Mrs. Harold Smith of Kossuth, pianist, and Victor Farrar, soloist. Preceding the ceremony Mr. Farrar sang "O Perfect Love" by Barnby. The bridal party entered to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. The traditional Wedding March from Mendelssohn was played for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a carpet length original wedding gown of white bridal satin featuring a molded waist length bodice of chantilly lace fashioned with a scooped neckline and long petal-point sleeves secured with tiny satin buttons. The entire gown was further enhanced by the matching floral motifs applied on the slightly bouffant skirt. Her shoulder length veil of illusion cascaded from a tiara of lace, pearls, and crystals. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations arranged in a cascade effect with white satin ribbons tied in love knots.

Miss Janette Burns, maid of honor, was attired in a street length pink embroidered net over satin. Her neadress was a crown of pink illusion. She carried a single pink rose in long stem colonial fashion.

The best man was Kenneth Burns while Kenneth Rickey Wilburn, brother of the bride, and Charles Taylor served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wilburn wore a dress of soft blue bonded jersey with which she wore a tulle hat of the same color and matching bag and shoes. The groom's mother was attired in a mint green polished cotton dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

Mrs. I. W. Young, maternal grandmother of the bride wore a light blue lace dress with a corsage of white carnations. The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Truman C. Wilburn, wore a navy blue lace dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at the church following the ceremony. This entrance was outlined with wrought iron hurricane lamps.

The guests were registered by Mrs. Charles Blaylock of Fulton, cousin of the bridegroom, at a table overlaid with a white heirloom cutwork linen table cloth brought from South America by the bride's maternal grandmother. The traditional memory candle was also placed on this table.

The bride's table was covered with an imported white cutwork and embroidered cloth laid over pink. Centering the table was a five-tiered silver candelabrum holding lighted white tapers, which was flanked by the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and a silver punch bowl from which green punch was served.

Both were surrounded with artistic arrangements of fern. Queen Anne's lace, and pink roses. Garlands of Southern smilax and pink rosebuds were secured at the corners of the table. Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Paul Jack Houston served the wedding cake which was baked and presented to the bride by Mrs. Zelma Jackson. Misses Betty Gray and Jenny Henson poured punch.

Others assisting at the reception were Mrs. H. A. Googe, Mrs. J. A. Gilmore, Mrs. Carl Yearber, Mrs. E. B. Womack and Mrs. Zelma Jackson.

Pale pink and green net rice bags placed on silver trays were distributed to the guests by Misses Patricia Wilburn, cousin of the bride; Mitzi Blaylock of Fulton and Jackie Hughes, cousins of the bridegroom. They wore dainty pastel summer frocks with corsages of white carnations.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Truman C. Wilburn, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Wilburn, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilburn, Mrs. Paul Wilburn, David Allen Wilburn, Johnny Wilburn, Mike Wilburn, Paul Wilburn, Jr. and Phillip Wilburn of Fulton; Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Young, Guntown; Mrs. Maude Smith, H. L. Smith, Kossuth; Mrs. John Millsaps, Jr., Baldwin; Jack Houston, Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. Jetty Nunley, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis L. Williams, Mrs. Ethyl Green and Mrs. L. W. Peeler of Booneville.

The bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a pink cotton lace dress with a corsage from her wedding bouquet. They will live in Marietta, where they have already purchased and furnished a new home.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilburn placing a 45 block expansion pro-entertained the members of the wedding party on the eve of the wedding with a rehearsal dinner in their home. The buffet table was attractively decorated with summer flowers.

Miss Wilburn wore a trousseau dress of beige linen with matching accessories.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mrs. Paul Jack Houston and Mrs. Robert Taylor honored Miss Wilburn with a miscellaneous shower, Monday evening, June 20, at the Marietta Cafe.

The refreshment table, from which punch and tiny bridal cakes topped with wedding bells were served, was centered with an unusual arrangement of deep pink roses. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Janice Harris, Teresa Taylor, Debbie Devaughn, and Judy Harris.

The honoree's gift corsage complemented her green and white dress which she wore for the occasion.

John Smith Miller Working On Two Major Projects

Engineer John Smith Miller, son of Mrs. Maude Miller of Booneville is employed in two major development programs in Alabama. Mr. Smith, a graduate of Georgia Tech, is president of Miller, Stevenson, Baker and Stephenson, Inc., an Atlanta planning consultants firm.

Mr. Miller's firm set the boundaries for Birmingham's Multi-Million dollar civic center, which is expected to be completed in 1970. It will move closer to reality next month with a National Conference in New York, geared to attract architectural competition for the project.

Mr. Miller's firm is employed for placing a 45 block expansion project for the University of Alabama Medical Center. They will plan the work for the expansion urban renewal project which is scheduled to last 18 months. It is hoped the project will be finished in five years.

The Medical Center will mean they can stop saying "There is no room in the inn."

For Birmingham the utilization will mean growth, expansion and employment. Cost of the project is said to be more than $6 million.

Local Business

By R. S. TALBERT
Chairman, Dept. of Journalism
University of Mississippi

It was called "summer slump" a generation ago. Now it could be called "vacation boom."

The concept of summer slump was built on two factors. When the consumer depended on one-crop agriculture which was harvested in the fall, his spending was suppressed during the summer.

But summer slump was caused to some extent by the local merchant himself. Too often he presumed that demand for his goods would decline. Or, perhaps, he was just ready to take things easy for awhile.

Whatever the cause, the merchant relaxed his selling effort. He did not attempt to find new goods to stimulate a summer demand. His

SENATOR JOHN STENNIS, left, chats with Major General Walter Johnson, Mississippi Adjutant General, at Camp Shelby where the Senator received the Mississippi Magnolia Cross, the state's highest non-combatant military award.

Stennis was cited for "exceptional meritorious service in a position of great trust and responsibility" as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee. The citation commended him for "outstanding qualities of leadership and statesmanship" and for "his high qualities of courage, character, and determination" which resulted in "a valorous service to the people of Mississippi."

advertising became passive.

Today the spending potential of the consumer is not bound by seasons. Indeed, the typical family now saves for the purpose of increasing spending during the summer season.

Summer is the season of vacations, longer daylight hours, travel, varied recreation, home remodeling, gardening, and yard work. All of the activities cost the consumer more than routine activity during other seasons.

Summer is the season when the consumer needs new air-conditioners, sports clothing, camping equipment, new tires, boats and motors, garden tools, more gasoline, paint and household fixtures.

Summer is the season when a man learns that the old automobile should be replaced. It is the season when he learns of the advantages of central cooling. It is the season of the big family expenditure.

The retailer who relaxes his advertising effort during the new "summer boom" fails to retain his share of the local consumer market. Also, he permits local trade to migrate to outside markets. He helps to maintain the era of the "summer slump."

MISS DEVONNE STANFORD
Stanford-Southern
To Wed July 17th

Mrs. Mary Francis Stanford of Memphis, Tennessee, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Devonne Stanford, to Arthur W. Southern, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Southern of Booneville.

The wedding will be solemnized at 3 o'clock on July 17th at the Scenic Hills Baptist Church in Raleigh, Tenn.

Mr. Southern attended Thrasher High School and is now employed in Memphis.

Following the rehearsal, Mrs. Smith received her guests wearing a princess-style dress of pale pink tulle. The bodice was accented with rhinestones. Mrs. Gooze chose an after-five dress of cream-colored crepe with scooped neckline. Both mothers wore pink carnation corsages.

For the occasion Miss Gooze selected an original silk creation of azeala pink with raised flower designs in lighter shades. The sleeveless dress featured a slim skirt and blouson bodice with scooped neckline. At her shoulder she pinned a pink cymbidium orchid.

Dinner was served in the private dining room of the Downtown Restaurant. The T-shaped table was beautifully centered with an arrangement of pink carnations and gladioli in a crystal bowl. On each side were crystal candelabra holding pink tapers.

Tossed salad, steak, green beans, whipped potatoes, rolls, cherry pie, coffee and tea, comprised the delicious menu.

Guests who enjoyed the lovely affair were Mr. and Mrs. George Walker Gooze, George Morton Gooze, Miss Susan Scott, Miss Donna Petty, Jerry Crossett, Mrs. L. E. Tate, Mrs. Lasater Parker and Mrs. B. C. Williams, all of Jackson, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee Morton, Miss Anita Morton and John and Frank Morton of Greenville, Miss.; Mrs. Bob Crowe of Memphis; and Marvin Malm, Bill Priddy, George Borden, and Dick Nichols, all of Milan, Tenn.

The bride couple chose this time to present gifts to the wedding party.

"Yeah, same here—my five year old can do better—in fact I copy his stuff!"

Miss Martha Ruth Hill of Booneville represented Prentiss County recently in the Mississippi Dairy Festival Queen Contest, which was held in Jackson. She was one of 53 contestants from all over the state who participated in this new contest which is a part of a new program promoting the dairy industry in Mississippi.

Each New Driver Must Use Permit At Least 30 Days

The recent Legislative Session gave a new look to the state's driver license law by requiring all persons who have never had a drivers license to first obtain a driver's permit and use the permit for a minimum of 30 days.

The newly enacted law reads as follows:

"Sec. 1. Every applicant for a new or original driver's or operator's license, except persons holding an out-of-state license, shall first obtain a temporary permit upon the payment of a fee of fifty (50c) cents, which would entitle him, provided the permit is in his immediate possession, to drive a motor vehicle on the highways of the State of Mississippi for a period of sixty (60) days when accompanied by a licensed operator who is actually occupying the seat beside the driver. Provided, however, for any pupil participating in a driver education course established by the laws of the State, and otherwise qualified to obtain a temporary driver's permit, the effective period for the temporary driving permit may be extended to the end of the semester in which the course is given.

"Section 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after June 30, 1966."

Bill Sutherland, Chief Drivers License Examiner for the Highway Patrol, pointed out that the new law would require new drivers to pass a written test based on Mississippi traffic laws, rules and regulations, before they could obtain a permit.

Sutherland said further that in order to refresh one's memory how a teen-ager goes about obtaining a drivers license, the following is necessary:

1. Be at least 15 years old. Pick up a drivers Handbook and driver's license application from their local Driver License Examiner.

2. Know the Handbook, complete the driver license application, have both parents sign application and have it notarized.

3. Obtain a certified birth certificate. If the birth certificate is not certified, it will not be approved. The quickest and most simple way to be certain the birth certificate is certified is to look at it! If it is, it will say so; if not, contact the State Health Department and request a certified birth certificate.

4. Once you have a certified certificate, you are now ready to reappear before the Driver License Examiner.

5. Take the driver's license application that has been signed by both parents or guardian, and has been notarized, and the certified birth certificate to the Driver License Examiner. He will then give the teen-ager the written test, eye test and road sign test.

6. When these tests have been passed, a learner's permit, good for 60 days, is issued to the applicant and will permit the applicant to drive if a licensed driver is in the front seat with the applicant.

7. Applicant must retain permit a minimum of 30 days before returning to the Driver License Examiner for road test.

8. Before road test is given, automobile lights, horn, brakes, windshield wipers are checked and must be in good working order.

9. One last thing, the person that drove the applicant to see the Examiner must have valid driver's license and in his possession at the time the test is given to the applicant.

Miss Janeen Annyce Gooze Is Married To Ward Hervey Smith In Jackson Ceremony

The Allen and Edgewood Church of Christ in Jackson, Tenn., was the setting Saturday afternoon, June 25 for the wedding of Miss Janeen Annyce Gooze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker Gooze of Jackson, Tenn., and Ward Hervey Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Ward Smith of Gainesville, Fla. Performing the double ring ceremony, which took place at four o'clock in the afternoon, was Carmack Skelton, minister of the church.

Baskets filled with white gladioli, stock, and lilacs fashioned into Empire arrangements decorated the church. Entwined with Southern smilax were white candelabra holding stately white tapers which shed their glow over the wedding couple. Reigning over the entire scene from a lofty center position was a tree candelabra entwined with smilax and lilacs. Complimenting the entire decorations, graceful palms were used to accent the flowers and candles.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. L. E. Tate, organist, and Jerry Crossett, soloist. Immediately before the processional, Mrs. Crossett sang "Janeen I Dream of Lilac Time". The song for which the bride was named.

The beautiful blonde bride entered the church on the arm of her father wearing a traditional wedding gown of white silk organza over taffeta featuring a modified bateau neckline outlined with re-embroidered Alencon lace. Long tapering sleeves secured at the wrist with tiny buttons formed petal points over her hands. The voluminous full skirt was further enhanced by a front panel of the lace and pearl motif. Graduated tiers of organza, gently flowing into points in the back of the full skirt, accented by delicate organza bows cascading down the back, flowed gracefully into a cathedral train.

Her veil of imported French illusion fell from a double drown of matching lace outlined with pearls and crystals. The bride carried a bouquet of white purple-throated cattleya orchids, white lilacs, and tiny French gardenias fashioned into a cascade. Highlighting the bouquet were imported lace leaves encrusted with pearls.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her cousin, Miss Anita Morton of Greenville, Miss. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Scott and Miss Donna Petty of Jackson, Tenn., and Mrs. Bob Crowe of Memphis.

They wore identical floor-length models of shell pink silk and crepe. The gently moulded silk bodices featured scooped neckline and short sleeves. The stylishly slim crepe skirts were joined to the bodices by bandeaus of silk that outlined the Empire waists, and full floating panels fell from the necklines in back.

Their headpieces were circlets of shell pink illusion falling from clusters of pink flowers. Feminine attendants wore short white gloves and single strands of pearls, gifts of the bride, and carried identical bouquets of purple cattleya orchids with garlands of English ivy.

Dr. William Ward Smith, father of the groom, served as best man, and groomsmen were George Morton Gooze of Jackson, Tenn., brother of the bride, Marvin Malm, Bill Priddy, and George Borden, all of Milan, Tenn.

Mrs. Gooze chose for her daughter's wedding a creation of pink crepe featuring a floating chiffon panel in the back secured by pink satin bows. Her lace jacket was fashioned with a rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves, and her small pink veiled hat featured a crown of matching lace. Her shoes and bag were dyed to match, and at her shoulder she pinned a large purple orchid trimmed with leaves fashioned of illusion and pearls.

The mother of the groom was attired in a silk suit of turquoise shantung with matching hat and shoes. She also wore a purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. Charles Cullen Morton of Booneville, grandmother of the bride wore a pink crepe dress featuring a lace jacket with three-quarter length sleeves. Upon her head was a pink flowered hat, and she had a pink cymbidium orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the dining rooms of the church.

The bride's table covered with pink and overlaid with a handmade white organza cloth featuring wide insertions of lace, held a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink sugar roses and green leaves and topped with a miniature bride and groom. The table was centered with many-branched candelabra holding pink tapers and entwined with pink carnations, lilies of the valley, and smilax. Punch was served from a crystal bowl edged with garlands of smilax and lilies of the valley. Dainty mints and assorted nuts were served from heirloom silver compotes and trays.

Mrs. Tate provided organ music during the reception hours.

Assisting with hospitality, were Mrs. B. C. Williams, Mrs. Lasater Parker, Miss Nancy Fesmire, Miss Cheryl Lee Campbell and Mrs. Ronald Cooksey, all of Jackson, Tenn., and Miss Kaye McClain of Union City, Tenn. Also serving were Mrs. Charles Lee Morton, Miss Louise Gooze, Mrs. Robert L. Carithers, and Mrs. Crawford W. Belsor, aunts of the bride.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee Morton and sons, John and Frank of Greenville, Miss.; Miss Louise Gooze of Corinth; Mr. and Mrs. Crawford W. Belsor of Florence, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Carithers of Statesville, N. C.; Bob Crowe of Memphis; and Mrs. Bill Priddy, Mrs. George Borden, Mrs. Marvin Malm, Mrs. Lillian Rust and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Nichols of Milan, Tenn.

Leaving for a Southern wedding trip to New Orleans and the Florida coast, the bride wore a three-piece suit of turquoise shantung, featuring a pleated skirt, white over blouse, and a jacket with elbow length sleeves. Complimenting her outfit were white patent shoes and bag and a white straw pillbox. She pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder.

The newlyweds will make their home at 1245 Park Avenue, Jackson, Tenn.

HOME ECONOMIST'S NOTES

by CLAIRE T. ROSS, Extension Home Economist

Let's try another question to test your skill in buying eggs. Suppose your supermarket is selling U. S. Grade A eggs for 61 cents a dozen and U. S. Grade B Large eggs for 54 cents a dozen. If you plan to serve the eggs fried or hard cooked, which should you buy?

Check your answer:

- U. S. Grade A Large
— U. S. Grade B Large

Now read the correct answer at the end of this column.

MORE TOWEL SPACE

Each person who uses a bathroom needs at least 21 inches of space for hand towels. If your bathroom shortchanges the folks in your family on this space, put your imagination and the many towel-hanging gauges available to work. You will find towel racks to go at end of a tub, towel rings for hand towels, as well as the traditional bar-type towel racks.

QUALITY HOME-CANNED AND FROZEN FOODS

At this season when we find an abundance of fruits and vegetables in our gardens and orchards or at our markets, we think of how good some of them will taste for out-of-season meals. Some products you prefer to can, others you will choose to put in the freezer. Whatever method you use, for good quality products, use strictly fresh, sound fruits and vegetables. Use those that are "just right" in ripeness and maturity — not overripe or too old.

Clean food thoroughly before you cut or break the skin. Keep all your utensils and containers extra clean. Work with small amounts. If you find it necessary to can or freeze large amounts in one day, spread food where it will be well ventilated and reasonably cool.

Read and follow instructions carefully for the fruit or vegetables you are canning and freezing. Don't skip that important step of blanching vegetables you freeze. Check the recommended time, since heating time varies for different vegetables and different size pieces of the same vegetable.

Pay careful attention to head space recommendations for canned products. Follow instructions for getting a good seal. Process by correct method and for recommended length of time. Cool and store foods as recommended.

Ask at your Extension Home Economist's office for a copy of publication 281. In it you will find directions for proper canning and freezing of fruits and vegetables.

Question Answer. U. S. Grade A Large, U. S. Grade A or AA are best for frying and hard cooking. But the U. S. Grade B eggs would be a good buy for scrambling or for use as an ingredient in cakes and casseroles.
