King Named Auditors' President

A Mississippian is the newly-elected president of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers.

He is W. Hampton King, CPA, State Auditor for Mississippi since January 1964, and the only Certified Public Accountant to hold that post.

King also is the first Mississippian to serve as president of the N.A.S.A.C.T. which has been in business for over half a century.

During his nine years as a member of the association, King has served as its treasurer and as its fourth-and second-and first-vice-president.

King was elected at the 57th annual convention of N.A.S.A.C.T. in Hawaii.

King was elected to a one-year term which will expire when his successor is chosen at the association's next annual meeting, to be held in Sun Valley, Idaho.

Each state has three automatic members in the association--the three men or women holding the offices spelled out in the association's eight-word title.

Mississippi's other two automatic members are State Treasurer Brad Dye and State Director of the Commission of Budget and Accounting, Francis Geoghegan.

But the association membership actually exceeds the 150 automatic members (three from each state), because it includes associate members as well.

The convention this year registered 412 participants including former elected officials as well as officers of banks and other financial institutions.

Attending the Hawaii session, in addition to King, were J. S. McIlwain, Assistant State Auditor, and Frank M. Shelby Jr., Supervising Auditor, State Department of Audit.

In an interview upon his return to Jackson following his election, King was asked what his priority program was going to be during his year as president of the national association.

"The association," said King, "has been trying, for years, to work closely with its federal counterpart in the General Office of Accounting, and in the federal office of Management and Budget, to develop audit standards for governmental operations, and we will continue to emphasize that endeavor during the coming year."

King said the General Accounting Office recently published a pamphlet on audit standards as developed by federal and state audit agencies, working together toward that end.

"This has been an exchange of ideas," said "which both state and federal fiscal officers have found helpful."

King noted, too, that a Southeastern Regional Audit Council is being formed, and he looks forward to this new entity, too, as a forum for a helpful exchange of views and ideas regarding audit procedures and other activities of interest to state and federal fiscal officers.

"There has been a lack of communication between federal and state auditing agencies," said King, "and we hope that these new projects will bring us into better touch with each other on important items of mutual interest."

Quiet Holidays

Holiday festivities are gone and now its back to the regular work routine for most Prentiss Countians who enjoyed one of the quietest holiday seasons in history according to the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department and Booneville Police officials.

Prentiss County Sheriff Roy Elder commented, "this has been two of the quietest weekends we've had in a long time."

But with high school getting back in session yesterday and the college semesters soon to start, the vacations are just about over for everyone and we'll make our tracks in 1973, being able to change nothing in 1972 but still cherishing the memories of it.

The Mississippi Legislature went back into session Tuesday and it'll be interesting to see if the Governor and the lawmakers will be able to get together and pass some meaningful legislation for Mississippians.

Riffs between Governor Waller and some members of the Legislature have been reported however it will be a while before everybody in Jackson chooses sides and we know who is against who.

One new school board member and the new election commission were sworn into office on Tuesday with Chancery Court Clerk Gene Gray administering the oath.

Edwin Brown is the new fifth district school board member and new election commission is composed of Luther Moore in the first district, W. L. Caver - 2nd district, J. B. Baker - third district, John Lee Williams - fourth district and Ellis Kizer - fifth district.

Booneville merchants are taking advantage of the past-christmas season and offering shopper terrific values on many items. Watch for the big sales in town and save.

Aging Program Planned At NE

The University of Mississippi, through University Extension and the Mississippi Council on Aging, is coordinating efforts with The Northeast Mississippi Junior College in a statewide educational program on aging. Twelve junior colleges widely scattered over Mississippi will participate in this project.

Using an innovative telephone system linking together the twelve junior college campuses, the voices and ideas of well-known specialists will be amplified and transmitted to widely scattered communities throughout Mississippi. At each campus is a telephone receiver and a microphone to enable the audience to both hear the telelecture and ask questions of the speakers.

There will be six two-hour sessions, each being held at 7:00 p.m. on the second Tuesday of each month. The first program will be January 9, 1973 in the Administration Building at The Northeast Mississippi Junior College.

During this first session an overview of the problems and needs of the aging person will be presented. Subsequent topics will include Health and its Changes with Age (February 6); Leisure Time and Constructive Activity for the Aging (March 13); Income and Social Security (April 10); Housing and Transportation (May 8); and Community Services for the Aging (June 12).

It is hoped that concerned citizens of all ages will participate in these informative sessions on aging.

Depolluting Oregon, A Tough Job

Oregon, a most beautiful state, had much to lose to pollution and was losing it.

Oregon got tough. The first five years of the cleanup roused much resistance, triggered some riots.

Let's see if it was worth it. When Oregon's Gov. Tom McCall hung a "keep out" sign on his state's borders, outsiders were offended, insiders feared he'd frighten away lucrative tourist traffic.

But McCall persisted. "Come visit," he said, "but don't stay."

Bumper stickers reading "Don't Californicate Oregon" were called rude, crude--but visitors got the message. Oregon's Department of Environmental Quality ordered Boise Cascade's pulp and paper mill to stop polluting the Willamette River or be shut down. It shut down.

Hundreds of idled workers and their families marched on the state capital, called Gov. McCall "Hitler!"

He took it. Stood firm. Said, "The mill will clean up or stay closed." It cleaned up. The plant, which had been leaking 150,000 gallons of sulphite waste into the river plus much pollution into the air, remedied the situation within 12 days.

For an elected official to risk the ire of important industry, to risk offending tourists, to risk economic hardship for voters--was it worth it?

The Willamette River, five years ago the most polluted waterway in the Pacific Northwest, is 90% pure, is again a beautiful waterway where swimmers swim and salmon spawn. Former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall says every beleaguered river system in the nation should follow this example in triumph over tragedy.

The fertile Willamette River Valley comprises only 13% of the state's land but is home for 70% of its people. Astraddle that river are the population concentrations of Portland, Salem, Corvallis, Eugene and 17 other municipalities.

And 600 industrial facilities, paper mills, lumber mills, metallurgical plants, canneries. Rains flushed animal wastes from feed lots into the river. Road-building machines gouged gravel from its banks and bottom.

Years before it was politically fashionable, before any federal money was available for the purpose, one Portland newscaster promised to reverse this "pollution of paradise" if the state would elect him governor. Tom McCall was if the state would elect him governor. Tom McCall was thus elected.

Depolluting Oregon was a tough job; McCall got tough. By 1967 the state legislature had enacted wide-ranging environmental laws.

Now, after five years, most resistance has been overcome and much damage has been undone.

It was expensive. Municipalities had to spend $150 million, industries had to invest $50 million. Eventually taxpayers will pay it all.

But they received in return a river for recreation, a sustained source for salmon, fringe benefits from recycled waste and on their 96,000 square miles of America the Beautiful the lease has been renewed.

Legislature Must 'Keep Head Above Water'

More and more state legislatures are getting carried away by the "no-fault" automobile liability insurance concept. The Mississippi Economic Council hopes the Mississippi Legislature can "keep its head above water" and not be overcome by the groundswell of oratory about no-fault insurance.

The concept of no-fault insurance of automobile accident compensation was introduced more than fifty years ago, but only in the last ten years has the idea received any measurable degree of public acceptance.

The MEC does not deny that the no-fault system might solve some of the problems but it does not agree that it will necessarily solve more than it creates.

There are several reasons why the Mississippi Legislature should "wait and see" before jumping on the no-fault bandwagon:

--Other states had automobile insurance problems such as court congestion and alarmingly high insurance premiums--this, Mississippi does not have.

--Highway safety--reduction of injuries and fatalities--is of prime importance in considering the insurance problem;

--Reduction of insurance rates in one state does not mean the same would happen in Mississippi;

--And, any consideration of no-fault should include a "hard look" at the Delaware system in which personal injuries are paid promptly but with the injured retaining full right to sue.

Through a study of the no-fault theory and the fault, theory and the fault, or tort, system of liability, the MEC reports that "It is apparent that regardless of the type of system followed, insurance costs to the consumer will depend largely on passage and enforcement of effective safety laws in Mississippi."

The MEC recommends that the legislature look at ways to make state highways safer, and at the same time, defer further consideration of no-fault insurance measures until credible data from the experiences of other states can be gathered to determine its merits.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY AGENT

W. T. Smith

Fall Fertilization

One of today's big opportunities for farmers is the wise use of fertilizer and lime. Fall application of phosphate and potash fertilizers for next year's crop is a relatively new practice, but it is a good one for soils that can be plowed in the fall without danger of severe erosion.

Many fertilizer companies are offering a special deal to farmers who buy fertilizer in the fall by deferring payment or part of the payment until spring.

Fertilizer companies just don't have enough storage to take care of all the fertilizer they produce, or enough for the farmer's spring needs. It is just good business for them and the farmer to store phosphate and potash in the soil.

The practice of applying phosphate and potash in the fall is good for fields to be planted in either cotton or soybeans. On clay soils where rows are formed after applying the fertilizer, the settled seedbed makes for easier planting with fewer spring trips.

Nitrogen fertilizer should not be applied in the fall for the following season's crops.

soybean harvest losses

Average harvest losses in Mississippi range around three bushels per acre of soybeans--around 11 percent of our yield potential. With good harvesting techniques and good management, these losses could be cut in half.

In weedy fields, reduce combine speed to keep the threshing and separating losses as low as possible.

Shatter losses increase markedly when moisture content is below 12 percent. Harvesting in late afternoon and at night often helps reduce this loss from too-dry beans. Do not harvest when moisture content is much over 17 percent or there will be excessive losses from threshing and separating and more damage to the beans.

FARM-CITY WEEK

This year's Farm-City Week stresses the inter-relationship between farm and city people and the mutual responsibility in protecting the environment.

Thanksgiving, the climax of Farm-City Week activities, would be a good time to start a year-round program of concern for the quality of life in Mississippi.

1972, A Very Good Year

1972 is behind us. You've read the tally sheet. It was a very good year.

It is not yet a warless world but we are nearer that objective than at any time in our nation's lifetime.

Where every generation of young people is idealistic, today's is militantly idealistic. They in every way represent those opinionated, restless, intolerant, imperfect, tell-it-like-it-is young people whom Christ chose as His first Disciples.

Yet for all our shining prospects in a nation less divided and more prosperous than ever before, many Americans are afraid to let themselves enjoy.

So ingrained is our instinct for pessimism that most anybody you ask for directions will tell you to "go down to the first red light and turn right."

Or he'll say, "Go to the first stoplight and turn."

That light says "go" as often as it says "stop"; that light is green as much as it is red--but we are pessimists.

That is the sum of this accounting of our progress and our prospects. The world's hurts are healing. Our nation's horizon is the brightest ever. Go straight ahead to the green light and keep going!

Have the happiest New Year ever!

TUPELO, Miss -- Mix the co-star of an upcoming James of television's most familiar faces, and a former child star... Then add five University of Mississippi students and a handful of Speech and Theatre faculty members. What's the result? It's the cast of Midas Production's "America: Love It or Leave It" which may have the simpler title "Love It or Leave It" by the time the movie on location in Lee County, Miss. is completed. Release date is tentatively set in mid-1973. The movie is about a young Vietnam veteran who begins a cross-country motorcycle trip, joins two other young wanderers, and is accused with his new friends of a small town murder. The veteran is played by Robert Walker Jr., son of the late actor Robert Walker and Jennifer Jones, who won the Oscar for "Song of Bernadette." The other youths are Tony Dow, who was Wally in the TV comedy hit "Leave It to Beaver," and Billy Richard, formerly a member of a singing group, The Coasters. Other major roles are played by Julius W. Harris, who has appeared in "Shaft," and "Super Fly," and will co-star with Roger Moore in the new James Bond Movie; cowboy star Rod Cameron; and Richard Anderson, veteran of scores of movies and television plays.

Ole Miss graduates students with speaking roles in the film are Marte Rovelstad, Potomac, Md.; Tony Balch, Sheffield, Ala.; Lolly McBryde, Oxford, Miss.; Jim Reed, Booneville, Miss.; and Katherine Piner, St. Joseph, Mich. Several other students are asked to "stand by" for later scenes.

The University's Speech and Theatre Department was first contacted last October by production manager Janet Mokarzel, and department chairman Dr. Donald McBryde was quick to realize that the movie would "provide an excellent learning opportunity for our theatre students." Director Preston Collins later interviewed more than 30 students and consulted various faculty members on Ole Miss Actors and actresses for his film. "In addition, faculty members have been invited to observe filming and, as time permitted," Dr. McBryde said, "they have done small roles where 'older faces' were needed." Vick Robbins, an assistant professor in the department will receive co-designer credit for the Midas Production film for his assistance in preparing designs for some of the settings after the production designer left Lee County earlier than anticipated. "This has been a unique educational experience for all of us," Dr. McBryde said. Boy Scouts Open For Women, Too

A wider interpretation for the participation of women in the Boy Scouts of America locally has been announced by Todd Agnew, President of the Yocoma Council.

Women may now serve as members and associate members of local councils including membership on the Executive Board and District committees. They may also be named as Institutional Representatives, Explorer Advisors and Skippers, members of the College Scouter Reserve, Unit Commissioners for Cub Scouting, and as Cub Scouting Roundtable Commissioners.

Mr. Agnew said that there are already over 475 women serving in such positions as den leaders, den leader coaches, assistant den leaders, merit badge counselors, associate advisors and as unit committee chairmen and members.

The long-standing Women's Reserve has been changed to Scouter Reserve and may now include males and females, Mr. Agnew said. These people may be in fathers' or mothers' clubs and serve as unit organizers, training course faculty, and Exploring consultants.

"In addition to the opening of the Boy Scouts of America to more women, we're recognizing the abilities of younger men and offering them responsibilities that we know they can carry," Mr. Agnew said.

Webelos den leaders, assistant Webelos den leaders, and assistant den leaders may now be commissioned at 18 years of age, and 18-year-olds may serve as merit badge counselors. Formerly, younger counselors could register only for merit badges in which the principal requirements were for physical skills.

At the University of Mississippi every semester 20 Coeds take a course in Scout Leadership. They serve as assistant den mothers. This has been in effect 6 years. Also, the A.P.O. (Scout Service Fraternity) has 5 Coeds serving as permanent den mothers for boys in Lafayette County Elementary School. Previously these boys were unable to find den mothers as they live out in the rural area where leadership has become extremely difficult to acquire.

The Department of Music will hold auditions for Merit Scholarships at Murrah High School in Jackson on Feb. 24 and on March 10 in Meek Hall on the Ole Miss campus.

The Merit Scholarships are designed to assist high school seniors and junior college transfer students who demonstrate a high degree of proficiency in the area of performance. Any student majoring in music is eligible for a Merit Scholarship.

Over 90 Local

Chambers Consider Proposals

Jackson, Miss.---Over 90 local chambers of commerce have been asked to consider ten legislative issues as part of the Mississippi Economic Council's "box-score" on proposals facing the 1973 session of the state legislature.

According to MEC President William Crabill, the chambers will be asked to study the proposals and decide what stand that particular chamber will make on the issue.

"The reports from the chambers," said Crabill, "will be compiled and presented to legislators before the 1973 session convenes."

The ten issues to be considered by the chambers are gubernatorial succession public school kindergartens, state government re-organization management of 16th Section lands to produce maximum revenue for schools, appointment of the state superintendent of education, improvement of Mississippi's lower court system, equitable tax assessments, removal of chancery clerks from the fee system, improvement of county road administration and an expanded, lay state board of education.

"The chambers will vote to endorse, oppose, or take no position on the proposals," Crabill said.

Gubernatorial succession and public school kindergartens are issues being considered for the first time.

The gubernatorial succession issue, as endorsed by the MEC, would allow a governor of Mississippi to be elected to two terms in office, consecutive or otherwise. The Council has also recommended that the change not apply to a governor in office at the time of the measure's passage.

Aging Council Sees Favorable Action

Looking forward to favorable action by the forthcoming Congress and the framing of an acceptable version of the vetoed Appropriation Bill, The Mississippi Council on Aging is going ahead with training and planning in preparation for the massive program which will provide food service projects for the state's and the nation's elderly.

Speaking to the statewide training group, State Council on Aging Executive Director Hoarace Kerr said: "The interim time period which we have inherited as a result of the presidential veto may be a blessing in disguise. At one point we were under considerable pressure to complete our state plan and get it filed, and we did, in record time, but if the funding for this program had come thru immediately we would not have been prepared to make a full implementation of the program." Mr. Kerr said further: "Now, we will be ready and able to do a good job of utilizing the resources of this new appropriation within the next few weeks."

Birth Card Offered

"The Vital Statistics Bureau of the State Board of Health has initiated a new service for Mississippians," says Dr. Hugh B. Cottrell, State Health Officer.

Although the law may require a person to provide a certified copy of his birth on specific occasions, "We now provide a birth registration card, which suffices in many instances," said Paul Hawkins, Supervisor of the Vital Records Unit.

The card is similar to a driver's license in size and is embossed with the person's name, date of birth, county of birth, sex, race and state certificate number. Also included on the card is the date that the certificate was filed and the card issue date.

One may request a card by writing the Vital Records Registration Unit, Mississippi State Board of Health P. O. Box 1700, Jackson. A fee of $2.00 should be enclosed and the name, date of birth, and county of birth included. A copy of the birth certificate and birth card requested at the same time will cost $3.00.

"A card of this kind can be a real asset," Hawkins added. "It provides quick proof of age and serves as ready identification. It will probably prove to be a convenience that people will use frequently and even buy as gifts."

FBLA Hears Pounds

The FBLA Club had Mr. Jim Pounds the former president of the Booneville FBLA Chapter to come and speak to the club during one of their recent meetings. Mr. Pounds a student at Northeast gave his views on preparing for the business world. He stressed the fact that if the members of FBLA are to succeed in todays business world that it is the time for them to start preparing today for what they will be facing in tomorrows world. Pounds pointed out the importance of going on to college in the summer and taking some of your minor courses. He also told of a few advantages of going to a small hometown college, a college such as Northeast. He said, you are more than just a number in a classroom, that you get to know some of the people that you will be working with from day to day. You also get to know the teachers better and you may benefit more if you can get to be personal friends with a few of them.

FBLA is making meaningful advances toward the business world of tomorrow. Pounds said he was very proud and honored to come and speak to the FBLA remembering that not to long ago that he sat in the same seat.

Flower Blight Shows On Leaves As Spots

Mississippi State, Ms.-- Flower Blight, caused by a fungus, is common on azaleas and may be a problem on camellias in the southern parts of the state, advises William Moore, plant pathologist of the Cooperative Extension Service.

On camellia blossoms the disease may appear as brown spots scattered over the petal, or as a single brown area in the center of the flower. During favorable weather, the spots enlarge rapidly to produce a slimy rot of the affected petals.

On azaleas the disease first appears as small pallid water soaked spots on the petals, sometimes giving the flower a freckled appearance. When weather conditions are favorable for the disease, the spots enlarge rapidly and cause the flower to become limp and collapse. The whole flower appears to melt down and adhere like a wet blistered skin to the foliage.

"This blight often affects the blossoms on an entire plant almost simultaneously and may progress with such rapidity as to destroy the beauty of the plant overnight," he stated.

The fungus lives season to season on infected blossoms. New infection is spread by insects, raindrops and wind. Such spread is usually very rapid when conditions are favorable.

"To control flower blight on azaleas and camellias, remove all the old mulch from around plants and replace with new mulch before the plants begin to bloom. Drench the soil with Terraclor in early January, using one cup of Terraclor 75 WP in enough water to thoroughly wet 100 square feet. Treat the soil surface ten feet beyond the branches of the plants. When the first blooms begin to open, apply Thylate as a blossom spray. Using Thylate at the rate of one table-spoonful per gallon of water, continue applications at seven day intervals during the blooming period," Moore said.

Moore said that the importance of obtaining good coverage with the spray cannot be emphasized too much. It is best to use a power sprayer if possible, but a good knapsack type sprayer will do the job satisfactorily. The azalea flower is fragile and a driving spray blast can easily damage it. So a nozzle that will break the spray into a fine mist or fog should be used.

TWO YEARS--Christopher Shane Johnson celebrated his second birthday, December 17th with a party of fourteen guests to help him enjoy the occasion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Booneville. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owens of Booneville and Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Johnson also of Booneville.

In times of emergency the contents of your medicine cabinet may be crucial. Keep a constant check on your medical supplies and dispose of old bottles periodically. According to the St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar, available free from participating pharmacists, a well-stocked medicine cabinet includes: sterile gauze pads, cotton, adhesive strips, petroleum jelly, antiseptic for cuts, universal antidote for poison, thermometer, aspirin, hot water bottle and ice bag, cotton swabs, poison ivy lotion, rubbing alcohol. And keep your medicine cabinet locked to prevent children from getting at harmful items.

Capitol Party

The State Capitol rang with Christmas Carols last week as Governor Bill Waller welcomed thousands of first and second grade students to the Capitol for the first annual Christmas tree ceremony. The children were treated to entertainment and Santa Claus. The Governor was asked by newsmen what he had asked Santa for....the Governor quickly replied, "A better press."

Welfare Grants Reprieve

Mississippi's needy children and blind, aged, and disabled adult citizens who are eligible for assistance and services from the Department of Public Welfare received "at least a reprieve" from what he contended was a "harsh and punitive" HEW proposal to withhold millions of dollars in federal matching funds to the state beginning this month, according to a statement released today by Dr. Robert L. Robinson, state welfare commissioner.

In an address to the National Council of State Welfare Administrators in Washington HEW under secretary John G. Veneman announced a three month extension--until April 1, 1973--before funds are withheld from the states as penalty for ineligible recipients, and voiced a willingness on HEW's part to discuss proposed changes in federal welfare regulations with the state departments.

"However, the problem is not solved but only delayed," Robinson stressed. "Governor Waller and our Mississippi delegation in Washington are cognizant of the problems this agency faces and are working closely with us to seek a solution which will be in the best interest of all the people of Mississippi. Many members of the Mississippi legislature, which will convene in January, have also expressed concern and offered assistance for which we are indeed grateful."

Robinson had earlier expressed the fear that aid and services to Mississippi's needy would be diminished after the first of the year due to a lack of state funds to make up the difference if federal matching funds were withheld and promptly issued a statement sharply critical of the original proposal as "completely unreasonable." He also termed the control period initially announced as "arbitrary" and disputed a statement that the June-December, 1971, sample then contemplated by HEW was the most current available, pointing out that Mississippi had completed 100% of its January-June, 1972, sample and submitted it on October 30th.

The revised HEW announcement said that the January-June, 1972, base period for ineligibility statistics may indeed be applied. "As I earlier stated, we agree with any reasonable approach to the elimination of errors," Robinson said. "We stand second to none, either in the federal government or any of our sister states, in

W. T. Smith

AREA FEEDER PIG SALE

The Booneville Area Feeder pig sale will be held Thursday, January 11. This is the place to purchase graded pigs of any size and quality you want. The outlook for top hog prices is very favorable through the first six months of this year.

FEEDING UREA

Feed grade urea contains 45% N (nitrogen) all of which under favorable conditions can be converted to protein by micro-organisms in the rumen of cattle. Urea is not a feed nutrient, it is a chemical and contains no energy. In feeding urea to cows you need to adjust cows gradually to it. The change should be made over a period of two to three weeks. The suggested procedure is to mix 110 pounds of urea per ton of feed to begin with, increase amount to 20 pounds per ton in the second batch of feed and 30 to 40 pounds per ton in the 3rd batch. SOYBEAN AND COTTON-SEED

The supply of soybeans and cottonseed for planting will be in short supply. Book your seed planting needs as soon as possible.

SOIL TESTING

Collect soil samples as soon as soil is dry and get your soil tested. If lime is needed get it spread as soon as possible. Remember an acid soil will prevent your getting full value from fertilizer you apply. Lime along on acid soils can increase soybean yields from 3 to 10 bushels per acre. We have soil cartons and information sheets available at this office.

TRUCK CROPS. We will be able to produce cucumbers, pimiento peppers and possibly cabbage on a contract basis again this year. Watch for further publicity on producing these crops.

PRENTISS ASCS COTTON PRODUCTION EVIDENCE IS IMPORTANT TO GROWERS

Producers in Prentiss County are being asked to get their 1972 cotton production evidence in to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office as soon as possible.

Complete and accurate cotton production data is vital to each producer, since payment yield for each farm is based on actual production of upland cotton.

Producers who are not sure of the papers needed or all of the details for turning in evidence on cotton production should check with the county ASCS office. Producers who own, operate, or have an interest in more than one cotton farm are cautioned to be careful to keep the farms' production records entirely separate. Also, these producers must use the same type of records for each farm they have an interest in.

More spot checks on production evidence are being made by the county ASCS Office this year than in previous years. Also visits have been made to every cotton ginner in the county to emphasize the importance of good records and proper identification of all cotton with the farm on which it is produced.

DECEMBER - JANUARY ARE LAST TWO MONTHS FOR FILING FOR 1972 WOOL PAYMENTS

January 31 is the latest date on which 1972 wool applications may be filed in order for producers to receive incentive payments in April.

To file for incentive payments on 1972 marketings of wool and unshorn lambs, a producer need only provide sales documents and fill out a short application form. Sales documents should include name and address of the seller, date of sale, net weight of wool or number of head and live-weight of unshorn lambs sold, gross and net proceeds, and name, address, and signature of the buyers or the marketing agency making the sale.

The incentive payment price is 72 cents a pound for wool marketings with payments based on a percentage of each producer's returns from sales. The percentage will be that required to raise the national average price received by all producers up to the 72 cents incentive price.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the wool payment program will continue unchanged for 1973, with the same level of incentive prices. These prices are in accordance with the law which requires that support shall be at these levels for each of the three marketing years through 1973.

FINAL DATE FOR REPORTING PERFORMANCE UNDER THE 1972 RURAL ENVIRONMENTAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

If you have a practice under the 1972 Rural Environmental Assistance Program that has not been reported, be sure to come by and sign the completion form before December 31, 1972. This is the final date for reporting performance. All practices will be canceled that are not reported by the closing date. Vendor claims must be filed by January 2, 1973.

Machine shop is a two-year course designed to give the student advanced level skills into the machinist and tool and die trades. Instruction consists of set-up and operation of metal working machines as well as safety, layout work, blue-print reading, shop math, inspection methods, heat-treatment of steels, and elementary metallurgy. The last semester is devoted to introduction to tool and die making.

FM Station At USM

The new University of Southern Mississippi student FM radio station, WMSU-FM, is scheduled to go on the air on March 1, according to Dr. Stan P. Gwin, chairman of the Department of Communication.

Providing a full range of programming and operated by radio-television majors, the new station will have a city grade signal of from five to eight miles and will operate at 91.1 MHz with power of 10 watts. WMSU-FM will operate from 6 p.m. to midnight, Sunday through Friday. The station will open in temporary quarters in West Stadium with its 170-foot antenna located atop the Paul B. Johnson Science Tower.

David Waite, long-time area radio-television announcer and assistant professor of communication, will manage the station and be in charge of programming. "We plan that the format will involve block programming," Waite said.

"Music will run the spectrum: symphony, concert, big band, country and contemporary. We'll have news features and documentaries.

"We expect some colleges courses may be taught over the station, and the station is expected to be the voice of the University. All departments will have access to use the station.

"Expected to be using the facility extensively are Fine Arts, the Jazz Lab Band, the Pride, and other University groups. "Radio-television majors will get practical experience and the best students ought to graduate with sufficient experience to step right into commercial positions ready for on-the-air work."

"Borrowing neighbors usually take everything but a hint."—Herman Gross, Tri-county (Mo.) News.

"A fellow we know is putting all his money in taxes. He says it's the only thing he is sure will go up."—William R. Lewis, The Lynden (Wash.) Tribune.

Social Security

By HUGH TIGRETT

Question: When I filed for medicare I could not get the hospital part because I had no work under Social Security. Can I get the hospital part now?

Answer: You can file for the hospital part. It will cost $33.00 a month and you must also have the doctor bill part of medicare to get hospital coverage.

Question: We have a disabled child who has been crippled since childhood. I was told he could receive Social Security now. Is this true?

Answer: A child who becomes disabled before age 22 may qualify for checks on a parents record. However, the parent must be drawing Social Security before the child can draw.

There have been many changes in the Social Security Law since October. If you have questions call your Social Security office for details.

1972 is now history and a good year it was, thanks to our many friends and customers.

With the holidays behind us, we are ready to get down to the business of serving you better and more promptly. If for any reason we have failed to satisfy your desires promptly, we hope you will give us another chance.

Diamonds are basically our business and for the next few weeks, I want to talk about what makes value in diamonds. Most people still believe that a certain size diamond should cost a certain amount. For instance, a one carat diamond should cost $600.00 or $700.00, when in reality, a one carat diamond can cost from $300.00 to $2000.00 depending upon its quality.

What I hope to do in the next few weeks is to point out quality in a diamond and how to recognize it. Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat Weight determines the value in a diamond and I will discuss these values at length in the next few articles.

Real Physical Fitness

Today's woman finds herself participating in more and more activities. From spas, to exercise classes (...one, two, three, four...), to tennis lessons. But don't neglect your inner needs while keeping your outer person up to par. Modern women may need the woman's gentle laxative. Correctol, to really keep fit. And keep these exercise tips in mind. Always start-off a new activity slowly - don't overdo at first and suffer later. Follow a regular schedule so your body learns to perform well. Remember, real physical fitness requires a balanced diet as well as exercise.
