Community Fund Goal Reached

The dawning of a new year has a special meaning to everyone involved with the Prentiss County Community Fund.

For this is the time... the first in three years... that the Community Fund has met its quota. The $30,000 quota was met "around the first of the year."

Chairman Charles Walden said the 12 agencies who make up the fund, "did a tremendous job for the welfare of the people of the county. A tremendous individual effort was performed by each member involved."

It was noted that individual donations ranged from 5 cents to $1,000. Also in the business category, donations ranged up to $5,000.

"This is the first time in three years that our fund has reached its quota. We certainly want to complement the drive chairmen for the excellent work that was performed," Walden said.

Spradling Steps Down At Baldwin

Baldwin Head Football Coach Jackie Spradling recently announced that he is resigning from that position.

Spradling, head football coach for the past three years, commented that his resignation is effective at the end of the school term.

Spradling said that his plans for the future were indefinite at this time.

Superintendent of schools Steve Clark is in the process of finding a replacement.

Spradling is a graduate of Fulton High School, Itawamba Junior College and Mississippi State University.

During his stay at Baldwin, he compiled a 17-12-2 overall record, his most recent a 5-4-1 mark.

Prior to coming here, Spradling coached for two years each at Okolona and Burnsville.

Spradling's announcement is the second to come from the Tombigbee Conference to date.

Earlier veteran Coach Mitch Grissom at Saltillo announced that he would retire after several decades in that profession.

Additional changes are expected within the months ahead, as decisions are made for the 1973-74 school year.

Groups included in the fund are, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, American Red Cross, Cancer Fund, 4-H Clubs, RC DC, Mental Health, Cerebral Palsy, Goodfellow Fund, Cystic Fibrosis, USO, and Community Center.

Appreciation for a job well done was expressed to each member of the group... and also to all those countians who gave of their personal possessions for the success of the fund.

3 Administrative Changes At Northeast OK'd

Three major administrative changes at Northeast Miss. Jr. College here were approved by the institution's board at a regular meeting Tuesday.

The monthly meeting, the first in the new administration of president Harold White, lasted less than 20 minutes, with some tardy board members arriving after adjournment.

Upon recommendation of President White, the board voted to shuffle the administrative set-up at the Booneville institution.

Under the new organization three key officials will assume new or expanded roles at the college.

Joe Childers, who served as the interim president before White's election, was named administrative assistant and acting dean of instruction. Childers was formerly the school's maintenance director.

James Rhodes, the college's present administrative specialist, will also become an administrative assistant with special emphasis on institutional development.

Named as the Dean of Student Affairs was Hal Hughes, the school's present Dean of Students. Hughes' new position will include the jurisdiction of his old office as well as encompass new areas involving student activities and student life.

White emphasized that the changes were not part of a major shake-up at the college or part of general reshuffling of personnel.

"I have been very impressed with the way the college has been operated in the interim period between my departure last spring and my return this month. I think that much has been accomplished," he said.

(White was president of the college from 1965 until 1972. He resigned to become federal-state Coordinator for Governor William Waller. He was reappointed president in November.)

In other action, the board voted to initiate a trial program of non-resident credit courses throughout the junior college district. The courses will be offered on a limited basis at designated sites in the five county region. Credit will be limited to twelve semester hours.

The trustees approved the routine awarding of bids for instructional equipment at the college, and also approved the reappointment of G.W. Hinds as a member of the board. Hinds serves as an appointee of the Union County Board of Supervisors.

Blue Devils Chosen Second In Top Twenty

The Booneville Blue Devils have been picked as tied for second place in the Clarion-Ledger Top Twenty basketball poll.

It was noted that the Blue Devils are in the second place with Greenville as first and Hernando as third in the North Boys teams. Corinth was listed in fifth place.

However in this season's poll there is an absence of 1971-72 powers Houston in the North and Hattiesburg in the South.

Houston, which finished the regular season with a 36-1 mark, seems to be missing the skills of seven-footer Dale Hathern, while Hattiesburg's overall state champs of a year ago, could do with the services of another Eugene Short. In the North Division, Greenville, IL-3, nudged out Booneville and Hernando in the closest race of the poll. However this may change due to Greenville's 78-75 loss to Cleveland on Tuesday night. The Hornets collected two first place votes and a total of 14 points to 13 for both Booneville and Hernando. Leflore County was a close fourth with 12, while Corinth rounded out the top five.

In the North girls race, Hattiesburg emerged in first place collecting one first and a total of 20 points, while Louisville placed second with 13 with Horn Lake third and Carthage and North Pontotoc tied for fifth.

CALLAWAY SECOND
Fullport nipped Jackson Callaway for the top spot among the South boys' teams. The Commodores, 18-1 thus far, tallied five firsts and 43 total points compared to Callaway's three first and 38 total points. The Chargers also lost only one game this season, that being a 55-53 decision to fourth place Jackson Murrah. Monticello was fourth followed by Murrah and Warren Central in fifth place. Murrah is 8-1 while the Vikings are 11-1.

The Morton Panthers copped two firsts and a total of 20 points to take the top spot among the South girls. Hazlehurst, IL-0 and the only undefeated team in the South placed second while West Jones was third. Mendenhall and South Pike tied for fifth.

Panelists for The Clarion-Ledger Top Twenty are sixteen high school coaches, selected by a committee of the Mississippi Association of coaches. They are Byron Lahmen, Tupelo, Harry Adair, Hatley, Charles Crouther Coldwater, Van Chan-

Ministers Involved In Mission

Fifteen Methodist ministers will arrive in Booneville this coming Monday to participate in the 'Ministers, We Care Mission'.

The meetings, set for January 15-17, will be held at the First United Methodist Church here. Mrs. W.M. Murphy, chairman of the Work Area on Education of the church, made the announcement.

"These ministers are coming to our church because 'They Care', they are coming without travel expense or honorarium," an official said.

Everyone is invited to the services each evening, 7 til 9. There will be 15 discussion groups led by the ministers from 7 til 8. At 8 there will be a special Witness-Worship Service with special music and singing and each minister will share his testimony of his Christian experience. The nursery for pre-school children will be opened each evening.

The ministers scheduled to participate are: Glyn O. Wiygul, Corinth; Don Bishop, Iuka; John D. Humphrey, Jr. Ripley; Bowen Butt, Aberdeen; Grady Bailey, Iuka; Fabian Clark, Wheeler; J.R. Staudy, Kosciusko; Herschel Wiygul, Baldwin; Jack Williams, Iuka; B.F. Lee, Greenwood; Bryan Scarbrough, Okolona; Claude Johnson, Calhoun City; Page Box, Coffeeville; Truman Brooks, Fulton; and Glenn Miller, Greenwood. The local Ministers, Marshall Grisham, Betty Marie Grisham, and E.S. Furr will serve in various capacities.

Mrs. White Named Cookie Sale Chairman For Area

Mrs. W.B. White has been named as Cookie Sale Chairman for the Booneville Neighborhood of Girl Scouts.

The announcement was made today by the Cookie Committee of Prairie Girl Scout Council and Mrs. Milton Anderson, Neighborhood Chairman.

Mrs. White, said that Girl Scouts will take orders for cookies from Friday, January 12 through Saturday, January 20. Cookies will be delivered from Friday, February 16, through Saturday, March 3. Girl Scouts will have extra boxes of cookies for sale during the delivery period.

Education Comes First

Despite icy roads and inclement weather, more than 2,000 women registered Monday at Mississippi State College for Women for the spring semester. College officials had announced a one-day extension of registration to accommodate an estimated 500 late-arriving students. (Left to right) Jada Farley, a senior of Jasper, Ala., and Mrs. Wanda C. Crowe, a senior of Columbus (formerly of Booneville) are shown with Dr. John Southwell getting class cards. Miss Farley is majoring Math and Mrs. Crowe is majoring in Special Education.

Call Me Mythter

Let's have a Men's Lib.
The first and biggest protest by our Men's Lib will be that nearly all mothers are women. This is patently illegal, unconstitutional, obnoxious and discriminatory.
For women thus have closer ties with the children than men. Women are at home with the young from birth. They can -- and do -- subtly influence the minds of the children in ways that might militate against fathers as men and against men as men. This is an increasingly dangerous and intolerable situation in a changing world that can only be corrected by an amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The amendment should read, roughly:
Women shall not be in charge of the children for more than six months of the year. Fathers shall be allowed to take over the household duties, including the children, for six months during the day or at night, whichever is longer. (Let the courts figure it out: it will help their aching backlog.)

Mothers are forbidden to discuss fathers and men with children (their own or others) except in a kindly way and in a respectful tone of voice. The Fifth Amendment may not be used in defense of violation of this act.
The penalty for violations of this amendment shall be loss of the dishwashing machine for six months to two years, with similar deprivations to make the penalty fit the crime.
Women also have illegal preferential treatment in various profitable fields of work; precision chorus lines, dress modeling, soprano and alto singing, female roles on stage, screen, circus and other traveling shows. Some method can and must be found to share these roles with men, who should have equal employment opportunity.
Nuts? No more so, you will doubtless agree, than some of the proposals by "Women's Lib." Oh, just one more thing; the new cry of our Men's Lib will be, Call Me Mythter. (pronounced mith'-ter).

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Mailbag

Letter to the Editor -

There is a traffic hazard on College Street which needs some attention and correction. This is the parking that occurs on both sides of the street in front of McMillan Funeral Home. This obstructs the street at frequent times so that a car can get through only one way, and even this is often difficult because of the angle at which the vehicles are parked.

Something should be done without delay about this dangerous practice. Most businesses provide parking space for patrons and guests. If parking is provided is not utilized, then parking should be restricted to one side of the street. I have observed many "No Parking" signs on other streets, but this particular danger spot seems to be disregarded by the authorities.

Science-Fiction Writers Baffled

Writers of science-fiction, from now on, will have a most difficult time dreaming up wild tales to match, much less surpass, scientific fact. At least that is the prediction of scientists who are now feverishly pursuing a new scientific breakthrough in a field known (at least, for the time being and for want of a better term) as "Acousto-Optic Technology."

The new breakthrough, according to Science News, is a combination of Sound (acoustics) and light (optics) which uses the word "propagate" to describe the work of sound vibrations, and light waves on solids, liquids, and gases. Sound is used to act upon light in combination when they are working on various materials. That is about all that can be told without entering into technical language far beyond the understanding of the average laymen. But one immediate practical effect of the method will mean that it will be possible to transmit or communicate printed information with unbelievable precision and speed. According to Science News:

"Acousto-optic read-out methods can greatly enhance the speed with which material is presented. An acoustically modulated laser beam can be made to scan a screen, or microfilm, or special printing paper (as the electron beam in a television tube scans its screen) and print out material conveyed to it.

"Zenith recently demonstrated a print-out machine that can print 400,000 characters a second. Theoretically the system could transmit one whole volume of the Encyclopedia Britannica from New York to London in about 18 seconds -- or the whole 24-volume set in about seven minutes.

"Bell Labs has an acousto-optical printer that can reproduce entire pages of type or illustrations. It can scan a typical newspaper page in four seconds -- one-sixtieth of the time needed by present conventional wire methods."

We learn also that Zenith has developed acousto-optic television systems that enable it to print a picture on a thin, flat wall screen. There, too, the laser beam comes into its own as a practical force.

No one doubts any longer the apparent infinite capacity of science to present wonders to the world. The field of acousto-optics offers some breathtaking possibilities. Not even the scientists dare speculate at this moment where it will lead or in how many ways it may change our lives. It is a wonder to be watched.

Science-fiction writers: take a back seat!

It's a new Army now--an easy-life, mark-time-in-place Army with beer in the mess halls and no KP--but the fire in the belly which motivated generations of fighting men has gone out.

How are we going to rekindle that fire? By making the Guard and reserves our first-string linemen and by letting them know what they are.

Just money won't do it. No mercenary army ever yet won a war. But war is going out of style. The peacetime force will require men with technical skills competent to employ the technology which alone can keep the wolves and bears at a respectful distance.

Comments And Opinions

PAUL HARVEY

We Can't Let Insurance Lapse

President Nixon's plans for the Army after Vietnam call for an all-volunteer force of fewer than 1 million men. Despite the conviction of some and the hope of everyone that this will be our last war, we can't let our insurance lapse.

Departing from office, Defense Secretary Laird said, "Without the draft we'll have to rely more heavily on the Guard and reserves."

Until recently, being a reservist, except as an alternative to being drafted, has been utterly unrewarding. One weekend a month you'd trudge off to an armory, usually to sit around, shuffle papers, doze or clean rifles that are never fired more than once a year.

Guardsmen and reserves, Laird admits, have been our Pentagon's stepchildren. Rarely did their missions relate to national strategy. Their programs were never an adequate challenge for enlightened young men and women. Their equipment was shoddy, outdated, inadequate. Understandably, when the Vietnamese war unfolded our government used draftees rather than "pretrained" men.

That's changing. In fiscal '73 a billion dollars' worth of mostly brand-new equipment will be transferred to the Reserve and National Guard.

Hereafter in any emergency these men will be the first called.

In 1968 the average enlisted reservist received $32 for his last weekends; now it's $52.

Army Reserve and Army Guard now total 660,000 men. That's 40,000 men short. So new incentives are being instituted for recruitment and for re-enlistment and -- most important -- training is going to be made relevant.

The Department of Defense has prepared for Congress a package of bait including further pay hikes, merit promotions.

Whenever old soldiers get together nowadays in VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) posts or American Legion halls, they like to talk about "the old Army." They refer to the spit-and-polish, snap-to, gung-ho Army which lost all those qualities while straddling the 38th parallel in Korea and the DMZ in Vietnam.

No-win pulled-punches wars where the announced objective is a midfield stalemate inspire nobody.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Youth Agent

4-H . . . Community Resource

Everyone lives in one or more communities. Every one living today will likely live and work in several different communities during his lifetime. How each person spends his time in this environment will be greatly influenced by what he knows about his communities and his own ability to act responsibly in them.

The community influences who each individual is and what he can be. If today's youth learn to understand this phenomenon, tomorrow's adults will surely find ways of beneficially influencing their communities.

The development of a sense of social responsibility needs to be encouraged and nurtured during a person's youth. During childhood, adequate love and positive relationships with family and playmates, enable the youngster to move on and achieve worthwhile experiences in school, church and voluntary youth groups. If the young person has had positive and worthwhile experiences to build upon, his interests broaden to include groups, activities, and projects that are related to life in the community.

In order for this to happen, it is very important that the groups and organizations (school, church, recreation, etc.) with which young people are affiliated, truly build into the community bridges for participation, and that adult organizations reach out to relate to youth. The width and depth of the gulf is too great, and the young person's experience is too limited, for him to make the transition into community by happenstance or all at one time.

4-H CRD IS NOT A NEW PROJECT

It is not a new program. For many years, 4-H Clubs have been successful in introducing 4-Hers to their community through Community Service activities, some of which may have had educational value. 4-H/CRD puts youth and their learning at the center of community action. The members both learn about, and function for, their community. Youth must be aware of community and all of its aspects as they grow into adulthood and endeavor to become effective citizens and potential community leaders.

THE BIG IDEAS BEHIND 4-H/CRD

As you work with youth, helping them actively learn about and improve their communities, you should keep the following objectives in mind.

1. To have youth know more about and better understand the community in which they live and the impact it has on their lives.
2. To have youth know how to relate to communities in order to participate effectively in community activities, programs, and organizations.
3. To have youth develop knowledge and skills in community leadership.
4. To have youth develop and carry out significant community action projects to improve the quality of their environment.
5. To have youth develop an interest in and a love for their home community.

It is important that youths learn about the communities in which they live. I am sure that you have either said yourself or have heard others say, "People just aren't interested in their community. It seems difficult to get people involved in what is going on within their community." The 4-H/CRD project is an attempt to help correct this kind of situation. One of the reasons for this apparent lack of interest is the great degree of mobility that is occurring within this nation. It is suspected that any youngster you have in your group will, on the average, live in five or six different communities within his lifetime. This means that the more he understands about his present community and its decision-making processes, the more effective he will be as a citizen in the other communities in which he will eventually live.

Youth need adult guidance and support, if they are going to have the opportunity to learn about their communities and realize their goal of improving the quality of the environment in which they live.

If you, as an adult or an older youth, would like to become involved in working with the youth in your area, please contact your Extension 4-H Youth Agents at 728-5631 or come by the Prentiss County Cooperative Extension Office in the basement of the Post Office Building.

V.A. Questions And Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q-- My wife served in the Marine Corps during World War I. She passed away several years ago, but her illness and death had nothing to do with her military service. I hear there is some kind of new law allowing widowers like me to get a VA pension. Is this true?

A-- Yes. This is Public Law 92-540. But there is an income limitation for the pension.

Q-- My husband was killed in the Army in Vietnam and I would like to enroll in a well known university in Paris, France. Will VA help me do this?

A-- Yes. If you are eligible for assistance under the Dependents' Educational Assistance Program, you may now attend approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

Q-- My brother is blind from a Vietnam war injury. He's home now but we can't seem to get him interested in living again. Isn't VA doing anything about young men like him?

A-- VA recently entered into an agreement with the Blind Veterans Association for B.V.A. representatives, themselves blind, to augment VA services to blinded veterans.

No-Till Farming

There is a lot of interest in growing crops with minimum seedbed preparation, minimum-till and no-till. This type farming has its good points, but also some drawbacks. Weed control is an example.

There is no question that erosion is far less with no-till than it is when hilly land is broken.

Most interest in no-till farming centers around corn and soybeans. You are more likely to be successful with corn since herbicides are available to control a wide range of weeds.

Simazine and atrazine are two of the best herbicides. Applying paraquat and atrazine often takes care of the early season weeds and 2,4-D is excellent for removing timeliness and herbicide selection are critical. It takes a better manager for no-till beans and for conventional methods of growing beans.

Success in no-till with corn or soybeans is more likely the first year. Succeeding years often result in weed buildups and lost crops. Anyone deciding to try no-till farming should select only his cleanest fields plan some type of crop rotation and predict his weed problems. He should decide to be a better manager.

SOYBEAN DAY.
Do not forget Mississippi

Soybean Day, January 15 in the Student Union Building at Mississippi State University. Winners will be recognized. The latest soybean herbicide information will be outlined and new varieties will be discussed.

SEEDSMEN'S ASSOCIATION

FERTILIZER WINTER GRAZING

Feed costs are extremely high, so more than ever it will pay you to fertilize and properly manage your winter grazing crops. If you have not applied any nitrogen in the past six weeks, go in now with around 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent. Then in mid-March, do it again.

Don't graze ryegrass any closer than three inches above the ground, and to prevent any possible damage from extremely cold weather, don't allow it to grow taller than eight inches.

What Causes Dishwater Spots And Filming

One reason for the spots and filming you see on glasses and flatware as you take them out of the dishwasher may be water that is not hot enough. Adjust water heater control so that water coming into the dishwasher is 140 degrees to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

Another possible cause could be that you are using too little detergent or an unrecommended detergent. Try another brand of dishwasher detergent. Some brands work better in some water.

Mineral deposits from hard water will cause spots and film on dishes. When water is 9 grains hardness or more installation of a water softener is recommended.

If these steps are not possible, hand-towel glasses and silverware occasionally to help control filming or give dishes a vinegar rinse.

First wash and rinse the dishes, omitting the drying period. Then place 2 small bowls, each filled with one cup of white vinegar, in the lower rack. Allow dishwasher to run through the washing cycle.

Don't use this vinegar wash more than twice a month, as frequent use over a long period of time may be harmful to the dishwasher.

BE SURE YOU NEED THE REPAIRMAN

Do you really need to call that repairman? Be sure before you do. It might save you the cost of a service call. As many as one-third of service calls are made when there is nothing wrong with the appliance.

Before you call check the following:
- Is the switch really all the way on?
- Is the appliance plugged in? Better be sure.
- Is there a loose wire

some place?

- Is there electricity in the house?
- Has a fuse blown or circuit breaker tripped? Check the outlet to be sure electricity reaches it.
- Does a reset button need resetting? Has it popped out?
- Is the door closed securely?

Survey Says Industry Is Towns' No. 1 Need

The need for new industry is the most important problem facing small communities, according to a survey conducted by the American Bankers Association, Washington, D.C.

In the survey of 12,500 smaller banks (those with resources of less than $50 million) nearly 75 per cent of the respondents rated new industry as the number one community need. And 80 per cent of the bankers said they are involved in trying to foster new industry for their towns.

BY CHANGING DEBT INSTRUMENT----

UM Profs Say State May Save Millions

UNIVERSITY, MISS., -- Two professors at the University of Mississippi have found a way which may save the state of Mississippi nearly a half million dollars each year.

Dr. Kenneth W. Hollman, assistant professor of Economics, and Dr. Walter J. Primeaux, Jr., director of the Bureau of Business and Economic Research and professor of Economics maintain that by changing the debt instrument of the state from revenue bonds to general obligation bonds, Mississippi would pay almost a half million dollars a year less in interest. Revenue bonds and general obligation bonds are issued according to the authors of the study, "when a state needs funds in excess of tax collections." They said that due to "peculiarities which distinguish one type instrument from the other," interest rates on the two types of instruments are not identical.

"An examination of the Constitution of the state of Mississippi reveals that constitutional limitations are not responsible," the authors said. "Only the decision made by public policy makers was responsible for the utilization of revenue bonds--at higher interest costs--in lieu of full faith and credit issues--at lower interest costs."

The total debt of Mississippi state and local governments increased from $594 million in 1960 to $1,166 million in 1969, a rise of 96.3 percent. "There is no indication that the rate of growth will abate in the predictable future," said Dr. Hollman and Dr. Primeaux.

The report, which was published in the fall, 1972 issue of the "Mississippi Law Journal," revealed that "if the revenue debt in Mississippi were transformed into general obligation bonds," the state could save approximately $498,570 per year because of the lower interest rate of the general obligation bonds.

The purpose of the Ole Miss study was to determine if Mississippi law required the higher interest-rate-bearing instrument to be used.

Oil Firms Boosting Environmental Funds

Petroleum companies are spending an average of some $3.3 million a day to protect the U.S. environment, according to preliminary results of an American Petroleum Institute survey.

The survey indicates that estimated environmental expenditures during the past year totaled $1.2 billion, of which more than $1 billion was spent on air and water conservation. The rest of the money went for land restoration, solid waste disposal and noise control.

This year's estimated spending on air and water conservation is four times as great as in 1966, the first year for which figures were gathered. The total for the seven-year period is expected to reach $4.5 billion.

Beauty Reminders

The two most expressive parts of a woman are her hands and face. Here are some beauty tips from the new St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar, available free at local pharmacies who purchase the Calendars to give to customers: To keep that glowing, healthy complexion remember that removing makeup is just as important as putting it on. Always remove all traces with a cream or gel before going to bed to allow your skin to breathe while you rest. Stale makeup clogs pores and invites infection. Keeping your hands in equally good shape is difficult because almost every daily task is harmful to their appearance.

Open House Will Honor Taylors On Golden Wedding Anniversary

BATESVILLE--Mr. and Mrs. Clovis McKinney Taylor extend to all friends and relatives a cordial invitation to attend the celebration of their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, January 14, between 2 and 4 o'clock at First Baptist Church.

'Open House' marking the occasion, will be hosted by Mr. Mac Taylor and Mrs. John Sherman of Charleston, son and daughter of the couple and their spouses, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Sherman. The affair will take place in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Ida Holley of Booneville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Holley. She attended school at the 'Burnt' School house and later taught there for a year.

Mr. Taylor, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Taylor of Booneville, was born February 22, 1896. He also attended Bearden School in the 'Burnt' School House and Hills Chapel School in Prentiss County.

Even in his early years,

C.M. seems to have been a man of decision, and once his mind is made up, is there any changing it? One day, when returning home hungry and tired from bird hunting, he passed the home of Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Holley where he stopped to eat some peanuts from barrels in the buggy shed. From this vantage point he could see the Holleys' daughter, Ida, raking leaves in the yard. On his return home he announced to his parents, "I've been living in two and one-half miles of my wife all of our lives and I did not know it until today." His decision carried and about three years later the couple were married on December 23, 1922, sitting in a buggy, at the home of the Rev. G.P. Mayo, in the presence of members of the pastors family.

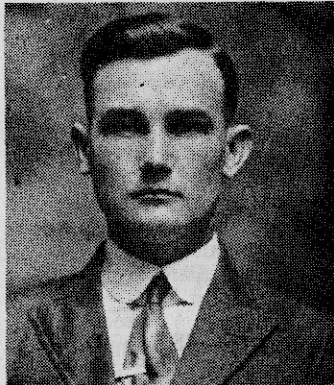

For three years after their marriage, the couple lived in the Taylor family farm home, then owned by C.M. and in 1925, they moved to Coffeeville, where he worked at B.L. Breedlove Lumber Company. In February 1927, he and J.C. Little purchased the lumber company and established Taylor Lumber Company. During World War II when the lumber market was at a low ebb, C.M. obtained employment at Camp McCain near Grenada for a year and a half, while Mrs. Taylor carried on curtailed operation of the lumber yard. While on the farm, their daughter, Mary Alice, now Mrs. Sherman was born on November 2, 1925, and their son, Mac, was born in Coffeeville on October 13, 1935.

Taylor Lumber Company in Batesville opened for business on November 1, 1947, with J.C. Sparks as manager and in 1952 the Taylors moved into their present home in Westmoreland Heights.

The Taylors have been active in the schools and churches of the communities in which they have lived. In Coffeeville Mr. Taylor was a deacon in the Baptist Church and he is a retired deacon of

DIAMOND CUTTING

As I mentioned last week, the next few articles will discuss the factors that make value in diamonds. The way a diamond is cut seems to be the most important single factor affecting its beauty.

One of the first questions that comes to mind may be, Why not cut all diamonds properly? Probably the most diamonds are improperly cut in order to save additional weight; that is, to make the finished product weigh more. Another reason for improperly cutting a diamond is to make the finished product wider across the top, thus appearing to be larger. Whatever the reason, brilliance, beauty and value is always sacrificed when a diamond is improperly cut.

As you can see from the sketches, an ideally proportioned diamond reflects the light that enters from the top, back out the top. The uniqueness of the diamond is its ability, when properly cut, to give total reflection. When the diamond is cut too shallow, the light beam is lost out the bottom of the diamond. Or when the diamond is too deep the light is lost out the side of the diamond. In other words, any deviation from the exact cutting angles lessens the beauty of the diamond.

If you are interested in seeing what makes the value in a diamond, come by Wayne Fil Jewelry in Tupelo or Booneville and we will be glad to show you.

Notes from the state Capitol

By Martha Carole White

State Representative District 2

The 1973 session of the Mississippi Legislature officially opened on January 2. The time limit as set by law for this session is 90 days, so little time was wasted in plunging into business.

The first day was unusual in two respects from past opening days. The first business to be taken care of was the presentation and passage of a post-audit bill, similar to one passed last session and vetoed by the Governor. Usually, an appropriation bill to take care of legislative costs for the 90 day period is the first order of business.

The second departure from custom was the "State of the State" message to the joint legislature made by the Governor. This message usually takes place several days after opening day.

As far as finances are concerned, the condition of our state is better than many of our sister states. We anticipate an 83 million dollar surplus in our state treasury, and about 30 million additional dollars this year from the Federal revenue sharing program.

Until disposition of this revenue sharing money is made, it is being invested so as to earn still an additional $4,000 per day in interest.

Various plans are being made for the spending of those funds. High on the list are the fields of education and improved health care. In addition, several bills for various kinds of tax reductions have been filed and are to be considered.

During the first week the House gave its overwhelming approval to a bill aimed at helping children who have learning disabilities and who need special classes in order to receive the education that they deserve. This bill provides for the establishment of these classes and requires school officials, upon receipt of a petition by the parents of five or more exceptional children, to evaluate the children and take steps to establish special classes for the youngsters. Most of the costs would be paid by the state, rather than the local districts. This bill now goes to the Senate for their approval.

As I have told you in the past, it is a pleasure to have you visit the Capitol, and I am always especially proud to introduce those of you who do visit to the members of the House of Representatives.

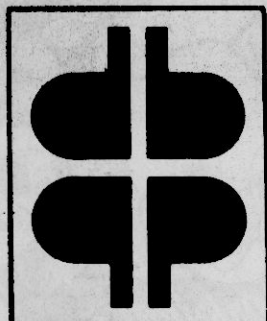

If you otherwise need to contact me during the session you may write to me at Route 2, Baldwin, 38824 or at the New Capitol Building, Jackson, Ms. 39205. If you would like to telephone, the number to call is Jackson, 948-7321. This is the Capitol switchboard, and I can then return your call at no expense to you.
