Letter to the Editor:

On January 16, The Task Force On Aging held a meeting in Booneville. I attended this meeting.

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss and formulate plans to provide community oriented services to the elderly. Meals on Wheels, homemaker services, visiting nurse care... these and other programs were reviewed and discussed.

Some of the proposals considered are contigent upon Federal money and the President's willingness to release the funds.

No one can deny the plight of many of our elder citizens;
no one can claim that "we" have done much to discharge our clear and moral responsibility to these "forgotten citizens".

I am in full support of every plausible program to aid and assist the elderly; any and all community sponsored programs concieved to bring comfort, cheer and care to these lomely and isolated folk. But I must say in all candor that what these old people need most is more income! They need a genuine feeling of security. The $75 per month that the State of Mississippi presently grants these fine old people is not security. It is abject insecurity!

sorry for the old, but because it is morally right and necessary that these people have a fair deal.

Everybody Has Tax Relief Plan

By A. B. Albritton

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 20 — In matters of taxation, there are more ways than one to skin the proverbial cat. The cat, in this instance, is the taxpaying citizen of Mississiippi.

As the 1973 legislature continues its deliberatioms in Jackson, the state's taxpayers are voicing a common seenti-ment: What better time than now for tax relief?

Two factors are emerging as themes in discussions therd over the state and around the Capitol.

ONE IS THE STATE'S present tax structure, which imposes among the nation's highest tax burdens on Mississippi's

Another has devoted himself to psychic studies -- Ed Mitchell. Dr. Charles Berry, physician to the astronauts, stays, "It can't help but have some effect on their psyches." Berry, who earlier delineated some of the several medical difficulties resulting from space flight, seems now more anxious about psychological complications. Though we've not yet had a report on the readaptation of our Apollo 17 crew, I remember Apollo 15 astronauts Scott and Worden recovered very slowly. It was decided they may have been "overworked" during their voyage. The Russians appeared to lose interest in manned sipace flight after three cosmonauts came down dead. The re-entry malfunction was mechanical but there is no way to know whether the physiological effects of 24 days of weightlessness contributed to "pilot error."

A Soviet scientist said, "Even if a living organism becomes accustomed to weightlessness quickly and well, the process of readapting appears to be extremely long and can be NASA is understandably reticent to publicly disscuss negative side effects of space exploration.

Some members of Congress seize any such reticence as evidence that we should back off. More than anything else, that's what the Skylab project is all about. Our technology has proved itself.

Engineers point to the perfection of the Apollo 17 mission as evidence we now can go anywhere.

The machines have been tested and they passed their test. It's men who must be tested now, and it's the medical scientists who now have their fingers crossed.

Just think of our State's generosity in setting the maximum old age grant at 75 dollars per month at a moment when the state's treasury groans under the weight of a huge surplus. While the aged are left to pinch their pennies...and dream of a little handful of security...officials write and speak of brick and mortar measures. By concentrating on concrete material problems, officials can avoid thinking about subtler social needs that are less apparent and harder to manage, but equally compelling.

Old age must be made tolerable, not because we are low and middle income wage-earner.

The other is the unprecedented surplus in the state treasury, which may go above 100 million dollars by the end of the current fiscal year. This, together with the influx of some 80 million dollars in federal revenue-sharing funds, makes for one of the rosiest financial pictures in the state's history. Gov. Bill Waller urged the legislators to proceed with great caution in this area. He also expressed support for the retention of an unusually large 50-million-dollar budgetary "cushion" in the treasury. But a host of legislators, apparently not taking their cues from the governor, have filed bills which would enact various changes in the state's tax structure. NEW IMPETUS WAS added when a number of prominent political figures - among them Lt. Gov. William Winter, State Treasurer Brad Dye, and even former Gov. Ross Barnettput forth tax relief proposals of their own in recent weeks.

Two basic approaches to altering the taxes on sales, income, and property, traditionally the state's major revenue producers, run hrough all the proposals.

increase exemptions granted under present taxes. And there is a significant difference in the effect of the two approaches on the bulk of Mississippi taxpayers. This is the point at which the cat, and the various means by which he may be skinned, enters the picture. Lowering rates, as advocated by Dye, Barnett and several legislators, would give those in the highest income brackets the biggest tax break.

BUT THOSE LEAST able to pay taxes stand to gain more under Winter's proposal that personal exemptions be increased and retirement income be exempted altogether from the state income tax. The same holds even more true of the proposals that sales tax exemptions be granted on such necessity items as food and prescription drugs on which those with low or fixed incomes must spend a far greater share of their

How this struggle will sift through the legislative mill remains to be seen. It is too early to know what will come of the proposals for more equitable forms of taxation advocated by progressive forces. But what seems clear to all is that the time has come for some major form of tax relief for the average citizen of this still poorest state in the nation.

Protect Your Business

Crime is on the upswing in the United States.

That is neither an original nor thought-provoking statement. Public opinion turns a deaf ear to repeated bombardments of "broken record" themes.

But, the Mississippi Economic Council, the state chamber of commerce, is concerned about the problem of rising crime MEC has sought to improve law enforcement through legislation and through community development rograms spanning 20 years. Despite trumpets heralding Mississippi's low crime rate, burglaries, break-ins, and robberies continue to plaque our business establishments.
For this reason, the MEC echoes the recommendations concerning protection systems for businesses as discussed in a pamphlet printed by the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce.

Although these recommendations are not the entire answer to the problem, MEC believes these ideas, plus strict law enforcement, can help to deter crime. The recommendations

-Check with local police. Police departments have specialists who can tell which system is best for your business and some offer free inspections;

-Survey locally-available equipment. In disregarding claims of free maintenance and easy installation, remember every system requires careful installation, regular testing, and repairs; -- Don't settle for wild claims. Check proposed equipment, and if possible, visit a plant where the system is in operation and ask the owner's opinion of the equipment; --Ask for at least three bids from reliable suppliers.

Remembering that the lowest bid is not always the best, check for services and equipment offered to be sure they meet

-- Include maintenance and operation costs in determining the cost of the system. These costs may make a great difference in the desirability of the device;

-- Call your insurance underwriter. Many devices earn discounts on burglary and other forms of crime insurance. The recommendations offered here in no way replace quality law enforcement, but the MEC believes they provide method for the businessman to protect his business in the face of losses due to increased crime.

PAUSE FOR POWER

Heaven's Mandate

There is an inescapable mandate which every believer must face in the spiritual realm. Addressed only to believers, and yet addressed to all believers without exception, this mandate is found in Romans 12:1: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." Here is Heaven's mandate. In substance it says, "Give yourselves wholeheartedly to God. Present yourselves—all that you are, all you possess, all you hope to be—to the Lord God."

A question, however, naturally arises. What right does God have to say to me. "Present your body a living sacrifice"? What right does God have to my life?

Now. that is a fair and reasonable question, and we want to answer that question from the Bible.

First, you belong to God by the right of creation. God created you and all things which you enjoy and possess. The Bible says, "He hath made everything beautiful in his time" (Ecclesiastes 3:11). You therefore belong to God by the right of creation.

Your winter needs around 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent by mid-February. It is doubtful if much response will be obtained if the nitrogen is applied sooner.

Some of that nitrogen you applied in December has been lost due to rains and cold weather. With sunshine and warmer weather you some rewill still get sponse from the December applied nitrogen. Research has also shown that you will get faster regrowth and more total season production if you move stocker calves from grass during cold, weather. If your wheat had jointed out before the extremely cold weather, it is doubtful that you will get much forage production before March l. The majority of your grazing will come from the ryegrass rather than the wheat.

In most cases ryegrass is a higher quality forage than fescure, but if you will use heavy enough stocking rates to keep the fescue grazed below six inches ttall, it is a high six health program that reduces quality forrage. SAFETY NOTES Animals accounted for

Life-Saving Grants Made To Medical Center

Life saving grants have een made by The National been made by Foundation-March University Dimes to the of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson for the 1973 calendar year.

Yazoo Owen Cooper, City industrialist and March chairman of the of Dimes in Mississippi, presented checks representatives of Medical Center.

"Every life saved and every individual through these grants." Cooper, "will be due to the generosity and humanitarianism of Mississippians who give to the annual March of Dimes."

He referred to a grant of $42,774 to the center's Department of Pediatrics for its Birth Defects Treatment Center and to a grant of $40,506 to the center's Department

Obstetrics and Gynecology to expand its nurse-midwifery program. Since 1962, The National Foundation-March of Dimes has given grants to the Birth Defects Service program at the Medical Center, and this year's $83,280 is the larges* amount ever given in a sı. zle year.

A $10,000 grant last year enabled the Medical Center to launch demonstration program in Holmes County to show how nurse-midwives, working with public health officials. can be most effectively used in reducing infant mortality rates.

The additional $40,506 grant this year will enable the Medical Center to expand this program to Warren, Sharkey, Issaquena Yazoo and Claiborne Counties as well as to continue it in Holmes County.

The program has provided care for many mothers and infants who would not otherwise

Rebel Football Isn't What It Used To Be

What's it like to be a football player at a footballoriented institution such as the University of Mississippi?

Most seem to feel it is a glamorous existence, filled with special privileges and advantages denied student. short, it is a life of leisure.

dispelled these misconceptions in her article "20th Century Gladiators", a startling report on "why football at Ole Miss isn't what it used to be."

Apecifically Mrs. Roberts explored the changes that have taken place since Billy Kinard took over the head coaching reins from the legnedary John Vaught in January, 1971. For the seniors and maybe a few juniors who remember now it was under former coach John Vaught," Mrs. Roberts wrote, "the 'good old days' in Ole Miss football are gone, and morale is way down, and the senior football players don't like any of it."

And Mrs. Roberts has figures to back her up. "Out of 37 high school students recruited in 1969 for the Ole Miss freshman football squad, this year's seniors, 20 have left the team," Mrs.

Roberts said.
Why? The fringe benefits are gone, and the grant-in-aid scholarship alone is apparen-tly not enough "pay" for the conditions under which the football player lives and for the amount of work he has to put in on the practice field. Senior Robert Rooks, who is in his first semester off the squad, put it this way: "Ole Miss football players are driven too hard. The system is more like a machine than recreation. No player involved has any enjoy-ment. Each player is doing his job of trying to please everyone around him, but inside he's unhappy. I'm happy for the first time in my college career. I feel like I've been let out of a cave." Another varsity player gives this report: "Every morning you wake up dreading practice. Football never leaves your mind. All day long you're conscious of it."

Skeet Shoot Set Coming Saturday

A Skeet Shoot will be held at the Prentiss Sportsman's Club

tinue throughout the day. In case of inclement weather, the shoot will be held the following Saturday the

Mrs. Roberts deals with other aspects of the athlete's life, such as Miller Hall and the quality of meals served to the football players ("Miller Hall's advantage is that it offers second helpings".), and academic assistance ("There may be a scattered professors who develop a pro- athlete bias, but the truth seems to be that they don't. Some athlete bias.").

the "20th Century Gladiators" centers around the change from Vaught to Kinard, and the effect that change has had on lives of under them-the Ole football players. "Thus the old order changeth," Mrs. Roberts wrote. "This year's seniors have been a part of both eras, John Vaught's and Billy Kinard's, and most of them don't like the change. They miss the benefits."

In my opinion, the third most important of the 4-C's of diamond grading is CLARITY, or the type and extent of inclusion or flaw in the diamond

It is a fact that nature created the precious diamond, and like nature's work, no two diamonds are exactly alike. Like fingerprints, they differ in some way.

Clarity Grade Number 7 prominent cleavage parallel to and just under table.

above photographic sketches show two diamonds of exactly the same grade but with different inclusions. These diamonds happen to be grade No. 7, which means that the inclusion is barely large enough to be seen by the unaided eye with perfect vision. Notice how different the shape of the inclusion is and where they are located within the diamond. This makes for perfect fingerprint identification.

The American Gem Society CLARITY grading system begins with 0 as flawless, and numbers through 10, which is the lowest quality of Gem Diamond. Grades 1 through 6 have inclusions but too small to be seen with the unaided eye; in grades 7 through 10, inclusions can be seen with unaided eye.

The important thing to remember is - know what grade you are purchasing at the right price, then you have a

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY R. MORRIS

Barbara Moore, Bobby R. Morris Wed In Church

In a mid-winter setting of serenity in one of the season's most beautiful wedding ceremonies, Miss Barbara Marie Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Moore, became the bride of Bobby Randall Morris of Memphis, Tennson of Lauderdale Booneville and Mr. A. R. Morris of Miami, Florida, in the First Baptist Church of Booneville with pastor, officiating for the ceremony, ring Saturday, December 30, at five o'clock in the presence of many relatives and friends of the couple.

Mrs. Merrill Cartwright and Mrs. Webster Cleveland Jr., greeted the guests as they entered the vestibule of the church and directed them to the registration table. Mrs. Wayne Johnson, sister of the groom, presided at the register which rested on a candlelight lace covered table beside an all white memory candle and surrounded by a small arrangement of carnations and roses in a crystal bowl. Mrs. Johnston also presented each guest with miniature scroll tied with a white satin ribbon inscribed with the names of the couple and containing a Biblical quotation defining love from I Corinthians 113 and personal thanks from the bridal couple to the guests for attending their wedding. Directly behind the registration table was a large basket containing a gladioli and chrysanthemum.s. Tall fern trees stood with stately elegance at the emtrance of the doors to the sanctuary.

The Nuptial Prelude was presented by Sam Galloway, organist. The candles were lighted by Larry Lauden-dale and Wayne Morris of Memphis, cousin of the groom, preceding the singing of "One Hand, One Heart" by Miss Mary Garth Crumlby of Houston, soloist, who Prayer' during the cere-mony. Mr. Galloway presented the traditional wedding marches.

Plans Revealed

Plans for a propsoed multimode transportation route Kansas City to discussed in Tupelo the past Friday by representatives from five states.

A spokesman for the Multi-State Transportation Route Advisory Board said the group, hosted by Miss-issippi Northern District Commissioner Highway Herschel Jumper, concentrated on plans to secure federal funds for a feasibility study of the proposed route.
The organization currently is seeking a study of the need and cost of a four or six-lane limited acess highway through Kansas, Tennessee, Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. It would pass through Memphis, Tupelo, Birmingham and Columbus and Brunswick,

"I feel confident that this quirement will be developed to serve and southeast region in the not-to-distant future," said Kermit Blaney Columbus, Ga., executive director of the group.

Officials said they also envisioned compansion water and rail routes along the same path.

Jumper said Mississippi to go ahead with four-laning of U.S. across the Northern part of the state in 1974. He said Mississippi would be reimbursed by the federal government for cost of the four-laning federal funds eventually approved for the Attending the meeting were representatives from Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida. Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama was represented by State Sen. Bob Wilson of Jasper.

Mississippi State, Ms.--Home gardens are on the increase across the nation, primarily as a way to fight inflation and the rising costs of food. The expense involved is relatively low in comparison to the value of the vegetables grown. "It doesn't take a whole lot of land to have a vegetable garden, but of course the larger the area the greater the variety of crops you can grow and more you can produce." said Dr. Milo Burnham, horticulturist for the Cooperative Extension Service. "A onefourth acre garden containing 25 different vegetables on 100 foot rows will easily produce 3,000 pounds of vegetables. Such a garden requires about $10 for fertilizer and pesticides about $25 for seed." home garden not only provides fresh vegetables for the table, but also for canning and freezing. There is almost no time during the year that something fresh cannot be harvested from a garden, but in winter months selection is low canned and frozen vegetables add variety to those winter months.

Besides saving cash and promoting good a garden has values that cannot measured. These values vary according to individual attitudes and circumstances. Many people view gardening as a hobby and

Hodges Named Info Officer, Six Flags

ATLANTA, GA...William D. Hodges has been recently appointed Publicity Manager for Six Flags over Georgia a 200-acre historicallythemed family entertainment park in Atlanta.

The announcement was made by Larry D. Jennings Director of Marketing.
In making the announcement, Jennings stated: "Due to our 1973 plans for a ten-acre, $2.5 million expansion to the Six Flags park, we are continuing our corporate policy accelerating our management staff. Hodges brings to Six Flags valuable expertise to further assist in our on-going, themepark expansion plans and management growth fulfillments."

Hodges, a twelve-year resident of Atlanta with an extensive background in corporate management and international national public relations organizations in New York, South Carolina, and Florida, will be responsible for publicizing and promoting the successful family entertainment park located west of Atlanta on Interstate 20.

Hodges, 34, came to Six Flags Over Georgia from his former position as director of advertising and public relations for Phipps Plaza, an extensive shopping mall and land development complex in Atlanta. Prior to this, Hodges served as promotion director and circulation manager for ATLANTA magazine, official publication of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Terre A native of Haute, Indiana, Hodges graduated from the University of Florida with a Bachelor of Science degree in advertising.

Hodges is actively involved in several organizations, including the Atlanta Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America Alanta Press Club, Broadcaster Promotion Association, Atlanta Advertising Club, and the Georgia Press Association, plus other state press and broadcast associations.

Hodges resides in north-east Atlanta with his wife, Sonja, and daughter.

Mrs. Katherine Arnold, Mrs. Jim Alexander, Mrs. Jessie Loveless Mrs. Elizabeth Cunningham and Mrs. Wilford Williams attended the Ferrante and Flicher Community Concert in Tupelo Monday night.

Mrs. Myrtle Padgett and Mrs. Ivy Frasier were happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Howard Padgett of Birmingham for a visit of several days recently. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of Corinth Mrs. and Mr. and Mrs. Flake Eaton of Blackland.

I received a letter last week from Mrs. Charlene Cox Alford of Henderson, Texas. She says she still gets our paper and enjoys reading it very much. Charlene is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cox and the sister of the late Dillard Cox. She is the proud grand-mother of a little girl born on Dec. 28th, 1972. She told me of a trip she and her husband made year to places in East Africa, Athens and Rome. Come back to Booneville for a visit Charlene, we enjoyed hearing from you.

It is good to hear from former residents who write in to let us know enjoy reading the home town paper. Had a note from Sarah Beene Greenburg Texarkana, last week. Thank you Sarah, I still miss you in our Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker and children down for the weekend visiting Mrs. H. W. Parker and Mrs. Walter Floyd family.

Glad to report Mrs. Eva Lou Nabers came home from the hospital Monday. We hope she will soon out and around soon.

Thomas Dallison is a patient in St. Joseph Hospital in Memphis pheumonia and Bronchitis. We hope we can report him much improved soon, his wife, Hazel. with him.

Northeast Wins Against East Central

Northeast Junior College's Tigers dispatched East Warriors here Friday night, 64-58, in a Mississippi Junior College Conference contest.

The victory for Coach Ken Kindsey's Tigers left them with a 7-1 record in the North Division and an 11-7 overall record.

The victory for Northeast was of the come-from-behind variety, as East Central raced out to a 38-31 halftime

Allen Holditch and Ray Charles McNeal scored 14 points apiece for Northeast teammates
