Marietta Man Killed By Auto

A Marietta man was run over by a vehicle early Wednesday morning near Marietta.

According to officials of the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department, Ray Cheatham was run over and killed about three miles east of Marietta on a foggy road. Cheatham was a former Marshall of Marietta.

Officials said that Paul Barnes and two of Cheatham's brothers, Woody and James were riding in an automobile in a very dense fog when they cited Cheatham. It was indicated that he was laying on the traffic lane of the road. Due to the dense fog, it was impossible for the automobile to stop before hitting the body.

No charges have been made pending further investigations by the Sheriff's Department.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at press-time.

Baldwyn Man Killed Enroute To See Son

GUNTOWN-- A Baldwyn man was killed in a traffic accident near Guntown at 11:45 Monday shortly after his son was hospitalized with injuries suffered in an earlier mishap.

Authorities said B.E. Ray 49, was en route to the hospital at Tupelo where his son was taken when the elder Ray's car collided head-on with an automobile driven by L. V. Nichols, 53, also of Baldwyn. Nichols received severe lacerations and was taken to a Tupelo hospital. The son, Richard Ray, 24, received a broken leg when his car slammed into a bridge abutment about 30 minutes before the crash in which his father died.

The fatal accident occurred about 11:30 p.m. on U.S. 45 a mile and a half north of Guntown.

Mr. Ray was a used car dealer and a veteran of World War II.

Services were at 1 p.m. Wednesday from Waters Funeral Home with burial in Prentiss Memorial Garden. Services were conducted by the Rev. Kermit Brann.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Pattie Sue Ray; three daughters, Patricia Ray, Cathy Ray and Carol Ray, all of the home; two sons Richard Ray and Ronald Ray, both of Baldwin; one sister, Mrs. Maxine Miller of Tupelo.

David Carnell Named Northeast Assistant Coach

A New Albany native has been named assistant football coach at Northeast Jr. College here.

Officials of the college said David Carnell, football coach at Biggersville High School, received the assistant post here.

In making the announcement, Northeast Coach Bill Ward said Carnell will begin his duties immediately.

The 27 year old native of New Albany replaces Al Ferguson who resigned 10 days ago to become head football coach at Sulligent High School in Sulligent, Ala.

Since Carnell became football coach at Biggersville more than four years ago, he has guided the Lions' football program from junior level to high school.

His 1972 team finished 6-4 after a 2-5-1 record in 1971, their first year in high school competition. In 1970 the Lions played a B team schedule and in 1969, Carnell along with Lex Rhodes, then assistant principal, coached the junior high team.

At Northeast Carnell will be defensive coordinator along with serving as an instructor in the Physical Education Department.

"He will do us a real good job," Ward said. "He's a fine football coach and a fine young man. I respect his football coaching ability. He will be an asset to our program."

Carnell said the move was a step up in his coaching profession. "I felt it was a good move professionally for me to get into junior college coaching."

"I feel like it's going to be a big challenge," Carnell said. "We open with Gulf Coast (perennial junior college power) Sept. 1."

Ward coached Carnell at New Albany from 1962-64.

"We can work together real good," Ward said. "By this taking the job immediately we can work on making plans for Aug. 13 (first day of fall practice)."

Carnell, who has served as president of the Tippah County Conference, will also aid Ward in recruiting.

"Being from our area is always an advantage. The coaches and kids already

The body will be at the home until time for the service. Jones Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) in the Antioch Baptist #2 Church. Rev. Joe Herndon and Rev. W.E. Sharp will officiate.

Survivors include his wife, Lagretta Hurt Michael; three daughters, Pam, Tenna and Ann Marie, all of the

Ten City Arrests Made

City Court records revealed that 10 arrests and tickets were issued the past week.

In this amount of arrests, and tickets, $314 was collected in fines during city court here. The arrests and tickets were given for speeding, reckless driving, DUI, DWI. Thomas H. Comer, Jr. is the City Court Judge.

Thomas Comer, Jr. Follows Dads Steps

Like father, like son. Twenty-two years ago, Thomas Comer, Sr. was sworn in as the City of Booneville's first City Court Judge ... and Monday, his son, Thomas Comer, Jr., received the same oath as the City's third judge.

City Judge Ellis Finch has held the position for some 12 years. Judge Finch was appointed in 1961 and held that position until 1973 when Judge Comer was appointed.

Both Comers are, of course, in the law profession here. Thomas Comer, Sr. was appointed to the judgeship in 1951 and served in that capacity for the next ten years.

Thomas Comer, Jr., is 29 years old. He married the former Lori Martin of Pascagoula, and the couple have one child, Emily, 4. Thomas Jr. received his law degree from the University of Miss. in 1968.

In commenting about being appointed to this important post, Mr. Comer said "it is indeed an opportunity and challenge to be able to serve the people of the City of Booneville in this capacity."

"This is a very high honor, and I'm extremely appreciative of the confidence placed in me," young Comer said.

The elder of the Comers commented that he "enjoyed my tenure as City Judge, and I'm glad to see my son get the opportunity to serve in this capacity."

Oxford, Ripley Firms Win ETV Contracts

Construction of the 8th station of the Mississippi Educational Television Network may begin in September it was announced recently.

William R. Smith, Director of the state Authority for Educational Television, said he was informed that the state Building Commission has awarded an $82,800 contract for construction of the facility near Booneville. Smith said the contract was awarded to Grantham Construction Company of Oxford and George Anderson Construction Co. of Ripley.

The station originally was to have been activated last year but construction was delayed because of opposition to the use of VHF Channel 12 by the owners of commercial channel 12 in Jackson. The ETV board and Federal Communications Commission ultimately authorized construction of the new ETV station.

Smith said that the FCC will consider the matter after 3 a.m. August 1, and "hopefully a construction permit will be issued shortly after" Smith pointed out however, that the FCC has 3 days in which to make a decision.

The ETV director said the facility, to be located in Prentiss County near the Tipton County line, would include a 30 by 40 foot building, a 574 foot tower with an antenna. The station will be staffed by "3 or 4 engineers," according to Smith. The contractors have 180 days to complete the project, but Smith said he did not believe that it would take that long.

Programs from the ETV Center in Jackson will be beamed to the local center by microwave from Jackson and then to homes in Northeast Mississippi by the antenna at the local station.

The counties that will be primarily served by the new station will include Alcorn, Tipton, Tishomingo, Prentiss, Lee, Itawamba, Pontotoc, Union and Benton. The channel coverage will also include parts of Marshall, Lafayette and Monroe counties.

Radar In Use

Booneville Chief of Police W. W. Stacy, reported this week that radar is in use on the city's streets.

Chief Stacy commented that the radar will be used on different streets at different times, and that it will be strictly enforced.

The Chief indicated that motorists should drive with extra care during the summer months due to the large amount of children playing. "Extreme caution should be taken in an effort to insure these youngsters a healthy summer," the Chief reported.

Keep Gasoline In Tank; Not Trunk

National Transportation Safety Board Chairman John H. Reed has focussed attention upon a growing, if not entirely new, hazard to motorists.

The combination of summer travel and gasoline shortages has induced a great increase in the practice of stashing away an extra, "emergency" supply of gasoline in automobile trunks. Too often, the extra gas is poured into any container that happens to be handy; a glass bottle, a plastic jug, a gallon metal can, or whatever. Such a practice, Mr. Reed reminds us, is extremely hazardous. "Even cans which are designed for gasoline," says Chairman Reed, "can be dangerous."

If involved in an accident, or if the gasoline leaks from a faulty container and seeps through the floor, the red-hot tailpipe carrying the motor's exhaust is more than enough to ignite the fluid. And it doesn't take liquid gas to cause a death-dealing conflagration. The fumes alone -- evaporated gasoline mixed with air -- coming into contact with a lighted cigarette or even an electrical spark, can cause a violent, powerful explosion.

Safety Board Chairman Reed is right when he says, "Keep gasoline in your car's tank." If you are concerned with running out, try to keep your tank more than half full (rather than letting it run down to zero); make more frequent stops at service stations; don't drive when you don't have to; and drive at slower speeds.

The Innocent Should Be Protected

There is a disturbing trend in law enforcement in America that needs correction, and quickly.

It has always been a fundamental precept of American justice that the innocent are to be protected. Lately, however, there have been many widespread incidents where, in the course of hot pursuit of criminals, the civil rights of the innocent have been violated.

Recently, for example (July 6) in Washington, D.C., members of the 3rd District police vice squad raided a rooming house, with a valid search warrant, seeking drugs. Three were arrested and charged with possession of narcotics, dangerous weapons, and unregistered ammunition, and quantity of narcotics was seized in one apartment. For making these arrests, the police deserve commendation.

However, on the same floor of the building, two other apartments, occupied by individuals with no connection whatsoever with the apprehended suspects, were also forcibly entered. Doors were smashed, clothes and belongings were ripped, torn, and scattered about the floor; bottles were broken, cameras, tape recorders, refrigerator and other furniture was smashed and destroyed.

One can sympathize with the plight of the police and law enforcement officers. Of all criminals, those trafficking in drugs are among the most vicious, and most dangerous. The men of the law pitted against them must be tough if they are to survive.

At the same time, we accomplish nothing in our battle against crime if, in the process, we destroy the rights of the innocent. The right of our people to be safe and secure in their domains is threatened. Corrective steps are imperative.

Merit Says It All

Why say anything more, when the Mississippi Economic Council's comprehensive program for county development says it all?

Fifty-three counties have joined MERIT, thus affording their citizens the opportunity for self-evaluation and an incentive for improving existing services and facilities.

Although a prestigious program, MERIT mixes fair, honest, rigid standards for excellence with incentives for strong local involvement.

MERIT was authored by state officials, county supervisors, chancery clerks, tax assessors, law enforcement officials, and other professionals in government and business.

MERIT can be successful. Several counties which have won awards have proved that.

The strength of MERIT lies in the county itself -- local participation. This is what MERIT is all about. Local people working to make their community...their county...a better place to live, work, and raise a family.

MERIT is a steppingstone to a good, strong county. MERIT shows where the problems are, offers suggestions on how to improve those areas, and the incentive to get it done.

MERIT...it says it all.

Should They Live Together First?

DEAR PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: My boyfriend and I are planning to get married but we feel that we should live together for a few months to be more assured that our marriage will work. How do you feel?

PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: Trial marriage is a subject being discussed more and more. As long as we live in a culture based on Judeo-Christian ethics and morality, trial marriage will present, both to society and the individual, problems of a psychological, moral, spiritual, and social nature.

Space doesn't permit the elaboration on the nature of these problem areas but there are many, many persons who, had they not impatiently rushed into a trial marriage, would have had a happy marriage if entered into with the legal, moral, and spiritual permission of our society.

Some enter a trial marriage with a sincere, conscientious motive. If things work out, we'll get married; if not, we won't have to go through a lot of red tape and expense of a divorce. Unfortunately, life is just not the simple, emotions are involved. Sometimes, there is pregnancy; sometimes, children are born and often suffer the consequences of an illegitimate relationship. In most cases somebody does get hurt. Many involved in trial marriages want the privileges and enjoyment of married life but none of the responsibilities.

I can think of no sadder end to what could have been a beautiful relationship between two persons in love than a trial marriage. To many, who are living in a situation of trial marriage, there is not the psychological attitude which, if the couple was married, would give them more motivation and incentive to cope with and adjust to, marital situations. Why really try to iron out difficult problems? Why try to adjust to someone who "seems" impossible at times? These are illustrations of situations which often arise but are not faced with the determination and stick-to-it attitude that characterizes two people who face the same situations but who are married and, rather than go through the trauma of divorce, will sacrifice some of their pride and selfishness for the welfare of the marriage. When a couple is legally married they are joined together legally, morally and spiritually. This definitely adds a dimension to a relationship which doesn't exist in a so-called "trial marriage". From the way some magazines, television shows, and some books reflect the situation, a young person might get the idea that this is a way of behavior that is widely prevalent among later teen-agers; however, this is not true, yet. Hopefully, you young people can see through the shallowness and pitfalls that such a relationship has to offer.

If you feel that you and the person you're dating are really in love, don't gamble with the relationship and with possible psychological frustrations later on. Either keep the relationship on an acceptable level, legally, morally, and spiritually by not living together before marriage or get married and enjoy the relationship in the proper way.

Angry Young Less Angry Now

Within a year, the media has fed our fascination with saturation coverage of a chess match in Iceland, a bizarre shoot out at the Olympics, another at a Maryland political rally and the dramatic mining of Haiphong Harbor.

Last month Watergate was shoved off the covers of news magazines by a superhorse.

Through a picture-tube window, Americans watch the passing parade with undulating enthusiasm. It's difficult now to remember how terribly important we constructed a Missouri Senator's mental health. Will it be difficult to remember Watergate on year from now?

School-agers react to whatever is news, as most of us do, except that they are likely to be less inhibited. On several campuses this graduation time I got the word: "Watergate is a so-what."

A few years ago there was rage on campus over what many construed to be misuse of power. There were many angry confrontations, some violent ones.

Recent reaction to Watergate revelations has ranged from wait-and-see to cynicism but almost no indignation.

PAUSE FOR POWER

Hearing Is Believing

A supremely important truth was stated paradoxically by Jesus Christ after His resurrection. To the apostle Thomas Jesus said, "Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed" (John 20:29).

This statement has often puzzled men. What did Jesus Christ mean when He said, "Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed"? The answer to this question goes to the root of the objection often voiced by skeptics, namely, why does God not do something spectacular in order to convince me that He exists?

The answer to this question lies in the nature of true, saving faith. Saving faith in Jesus Christ is a rational act... and a volitional act... and a moral act.

Believing in Jesus Christ is a rational act, because faith is action based on the sufficiency of the evidence. Moreover, believing in Jesus Christ is also a volitional act. It is an act of the will. Faith involves motion toward an object. And saving faith in Jesus Christ is an act of the will by which I move onto the solid Rock, Christ Jesus.

But, more than this, believing in Jesus Christ is a moral act; and it is a moral act because it clearly demonstrates the true state of a man's soul. To believe on Christ I must truly want the salvation which He offers. Jesus Christ thus said, "And this is the condemnation, that light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved" (John 3:19, 20). Jesus Christ thus made the issue very clear. The man who loves the light will come to the light, and the man who loves the light will come to the light, and the man who loves moral darkness will spurn the light. Believing on Jesus Christ is therefore an index to a man's inner life.

And this is precisely why faith can never be compelled. Faith, to be a moral act, must be a free act. If faith is compelled, it loses this moral quality. Compelled faith cannot be true saving faith, because it is not free.

Thomas was willing to believe, but only on certain conditions. And Thomas himself laid down those conditions. He must see in the hands of Christ the mark of the nails. He must thrust his hand into the side of Christ. And then Thomas will believe. In effect, Jesus Christ therefore said to Thomas, "Thomas, you believe, because you could do nothing else but believe. You cannot say, No, to this evidence, even if you wanted to, because this evidence has forced you into an inescapable corner. Your faith, therefore, is somewhat a compelled faith. But, Thomas, men in later generations will not have my personal presence. They must believe on the basis of reliable testimony. The evidence for their act of faith will be sufficient, but not as direct as the evidence you have had. Therefore, the command to them to believe will serve more as a test of their inner moral state. It will more accurately manifest their desire to know me and to possess my salvation. Therefore, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

We today, who live in the twentieth century, do not have this kind of empirical evidence that Thomas demanded. We cannot have it. Jesus Christ is gone. Instead of the evidence of direct physical contact, we have the evidence of suitable testimony. On such kind of evidence all life is conducted -- at school, in the home, at work, everywhere. And this kind of evidence is more than sufficient for an intelligent act of faith. For the benefit, therefore of those who come to believe on Christ in the years that were to follow, the Lord Jesus said, "Blessed are they, who, though not seeing, are yet believing." Faith which results from seeing, is good; but faith which results from hearing is more excellent.

The question, therefore, that I must ultimately answer is simply this, Do I sincerely want to know God? Do I truly yearn for holiness of life? Do I really want to be saved? If I do, then God invites me to come now to Jesus Christ and He will save me. Jesus Christ Himself said, "If any man thirst, let him come unto Me, and drink" (John 7:37).

VA Questions And Answers

Q-- I am a Vietnam veteran interested in training under the G.I. Bill, but I am not sure what courses to take. Can VA help me decide?

A -- Yes. Eligible veterans may receive vocational counseling from VA at no cost to help them derive greater benefits from their training. Application should be made to the VA office nearest the veteran's home.

Q-- How many spinal cord injury treatment centers does VA have? How many prosthetics treatment centers for amputees?

A -- VA has 15 centers for treatment of spinal cord injury patients and 18 prosthetics treatment centers for amputees. These are geographically dispersed around the country.

Q-- My brother is a Vietnam veteran and VA has rated him totally and permanently disabled as a result of service-connected injuries. Our family doctor says he needs psychiatric care, but we can't get him to go to a VA hospital. Could he get VA outpatient psychiatric treatment?

A -- Yes. Q -- I lost my certification of attendance card which my employer signed. What can I do about this?

A -- Call VA and provide them with your enrollment information. Upon verification with your employer, VA will take action to issue your check.

RESTORING JUNK
Much junk ends up being sold at auctions or antique sales to people who are searching for unlikely things to turn into useful, decorative items.

The reasons why we have come to value these things are strange, but simple. As new styles develop, yesterday's styles become less attractive. Modern designs are simple and functional. More synthetic materials and finishes are used and less craftsmanship or hand work is employed.

Consequently, some people are determined to save what is left of the artifacts of our grandfathers' time. Others get a great kick out of mending something that seemed beyond repair. It's fun to take nothing and make something out of it.

There are several hints for those who are thinking about restoring junk. Think twice before starting any do-it-yourself job. It can develop into a major project. There is no substitute for elbow grease. This, in many cases, is the restorer's most useful materials.

It is easy to slosh acids and solvents around, but the damage they do may well outweigh the time they save.

Many chemicals used for restoring are poisonous and care must be taken when using them. Protective clothing and gloves should be worn.

Dangerous materials should be confined to the workshop and never used in the kitchen. All bottles and jars must be carefully labeled. Poisons should be kept under lock and key.

A fire extinguisher is essential workshop equipment and a bucket of sand for extra fire protection is also useful. Plenty of fresh water should be available.

Electrical equipment should be used properly and wall plugs properly installed and maintained. Most electrical tools require three-pin plugs.

BRIDGE for EVERYONE

James Kerry

If you have been playing bridge for many years as I have, then we both at one time or another have been subjected to the old rule, "Get the trumps out first," or you will end up in the cellar. Experience has since taught that "It ain't necessarily so."

Both vulnerable. North deals.

Opening lead: Four of spades.

Obviously, the reason for drawing trumps is to avoid the possibility of the defense trumping your side suit winners, and, of course, this is good reasoning if you are looking at, for example, six top trump winners in a major suit, plus enough side suit winners to bring home your contract. However, things are rarely this simple and you generally find yourself searching for the ninth or tenth trick. In situations such as this you may find it necessary to use your trump holding in either dummy's or declarer's hand for ruffing in order to get the maximum number of trump tricks from the combined holding.

When the dummy comes down some declarers automatically review the situation for ruffing losers in the dummy and in most cases fail to see the possibility of ruffing dummy's long side suit in the closed hand which, of course, yields the same result.

As an example, in the hand shown today declarer has seven winners in his four spade contracts. Utilizing the closed hand ruffing principle, let's observe the results.

South won the opening lead in the closed hand and lead his singleton heart to dummy's ace. A small heart was returned and ruffed in the closed hand. A diamond to the king in dummy provides a second heart ruff in the closed hand. Another diamond to dummy's ace provides entry for the third ruff. At this point declarer has scored seven tricks. The opening trump lead, the ace of hearts, three heart ruffs in the closed hand and the ace and king of diamonds. With three high trumps remaining in dummy, the contract is thus assured.

On this hand there is no way to get home drawing a second round of trump before ruffing hearts. You need all three of your remaining spades to be made independently of North's trumps. None can be spared for the secondary task of drawing trumps. J.K.

ASCS

During the 12 months ending in September exports of soybeans, cottonseed, and related products will be larger than exports for the corresponding period last year despite the licensing system that has now replaced a June 27 embargo reports a farm program official. However, these shipments will not be as large as they might otherwise have been, in order to protect feed supplies needed by American livestock producers and their consumer-customers.

"We simply couldn't meet this year's sudden jump in foreign demand with old-crop soybeans and meal," says Prichard, Chairman of the Mississippi State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. "Therefore, it became necessary to allocate available supplies."

Mr. Prichard quoted U.S. Department of Agriculture authorities who point out that even with the embargo and subsequent export licensing system this country expects to ship overseas a record 491 million bushels of soybeans this year--some 57 million bushels more than the previous record set in 1970.

"At the same time, we will now retain sufficient supplies of old-crop beans to meet domestic needs, thus providing for our livestock producers said, ultimately consumers."

After considering domestic requirements, the government determined that approximately 33 million bushels of soybeans and 750,000 short tons of soybean oil-cake and meal are available for export, Prichard explained. This represents 50 percent of the outstanding contracts for soybeans exports for the remainder of the season an 40 percent of the reported unshipped contracts for cake and meal.

Therefore, the Federal government established an export licensing system under which each contract for soybean exports will be reduced to 50 percent of the unfilled quantity. Each contract for soybean meal and oil-cake will be reduced to 40 percent of the unfilled quantity. Licenses for cottonseed and cottonseed meal and oil-cake will be issued for the full quantity of the unshipped balance of contracts that were in force on June 13, 1973, because supplies are adequate to meet these exports and still fill domestic needs.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that this licensing system will allow for a 145-million bushel crush and a 40-million-bushel carry-in of beans this fall thus protecting livestock producers - and consumers from possible shortages of feed.

"Our first responsibility is to our own citizens even though we want to keep the export markets that we have built up so carefully," Prichard said.

A number of unrelated and unpredictable events have occurred together around the world, resulting in the current global shortage of protein meal, the ASC chairman said. These include harvesting problems in the U. S., crop failures and droughts last year in Russia, India, Australia, and South Africa, failure of the Peruvian fishmeal industry the past two seasons, the continuing growth in world demand for livestock products, and U. S. dollar devaluations that have made this country's commodities more attractive to foreign buyers.

ASCS ASKS FARMERS TO RETURN POST CARDS

Recently the ASCS office at Booneville mailed about 425 double post cards Form ASCS-406 to farmers not enrolled in the 1973 cotton, feed grain and wheat programs. The purpose of this card is to secure a report of crop acreages on these farms and to establish credit for this year's acreage of cotton, feed grain and what.

If credit is not established, future allotments and bases will be reduced for the farm. In addition, the acreages of soybeans and oats for harvest as grain are needed for statistical purposes.

We urge all farmers to return this card promptly when all crops are planted.

Acreages of crops on enrolled farms were secured when these farmers came to the county office to certify their set-aside and crop acreages. ASCS REMINDS FARMERS TO MAINTAIN CERTIFIED LAND USES

Prentiss County farmers who have certified compliance with 1973 farm program requirements are reminded to continue to carry out their commitment for the remainder of the year.

Approximately 900 farmers in Prentiss County had certified compliance with this year's farm program by the July 1 deadline. Certification amounts to a pledge by the farmer as to his program acreage, his acreage set aside from production, if any, and that he has complied with all program provisions.

Following certification, certain farms are picked at random for a spot check of program acreages. The accuracy of the certification is determined by comparing actual acreages with those certified by the producer. Producers found out of compliance could lose all or part of their program payment. Spot checks will continue throughout the remainder of the year.

Reports compiled from other areas indicate that some producers have failed to meet the minimum size and shape requirements of set-aside acreage, and are subject to loss of payments. Generally, a set-aside area which is less than an entire field must be at least 5 acres in size, with a minimum width of 132 feet. Producers who graze or hay set-aside acreage must notify the county ASCS office.

If a producer feels he does not understand the rules for set-aside acreage he should contact the county ASCS office immediately.

U. S. Army, State Cooperating...

The U. S. Army and the State of Mississippi are cooperating on a plan to make Army job training available to help young Mississippians prepare themselves for future jobs in demand in the state, according to a joint announcement made by LTC Chetwin M. Hurd, commander of the Jackson Army Recruiting Main Station, and Dr. Milton Baxter, Executive Director, Governor's Office of Education and Training.

Colonel Hurd and Dr. Baxter made the announcement in kicking off a pilot study to determine the plan's feasibility.

In announcing the study, both men stressed a need for cooperation between the state and the Army to ensure that whenever possible, Army enlistees be placed in training for skills that are compatible with jobs that will be in demand in Mississippi once the enlistees return to civilian life.

In a televised news conference Governor William Waller indicated that a great push is needed for expanded vocational-technical training, to provide a professional work force capable of keeping pace with the state's industrial boom.

That statement from the governor resulted in a meeting between Dr. Baxter and Army recruiting officials, to see if the Army could assist in providing that trained work force. The Army offers vocational and technical training in more than 300 skills that are compatible with business and industry needs. Those include broadcast journalism, mechanical and electrical maintenance, electronics, data processing, chemistry, construction, communications, drafting, heavy equipment operation and maintenance, finance, food specialty, law enforcement, surveying, air traffic control, telephone maintenance, shoe repair and many more.

In the pilot program, Dr. Baxter's office will tell Army recruiters which skills are most needed and in shortest supply. Then the Army will determine which of those skills are compatible to training available and encourage qualified enlistees to enter those areas of training. Recruiters will explain to potential enlistees that job training will benefit them if they plan to return to Mississippi once their enlistment is up.

If the pilot program is successful it will be ex-

Five 4-H Assistants

Five 4-H program assistants have been employed to assist the Extension 4-H Youth Agents in an effort to reach the youth who are not presently involved in the 4-H Club program. These program assistants will be contacting you of 4-H age and prospective leaders in the various communities and will be assisting with special short term activities.

The 4-H program assistants rendered valuable service on July 10 in connection with a 3-County Dairy Training and Dairy Foods demonstration.

Later in the summer there will be similar training sessions on Beef and Swine. The session on Beef will be conducted at Corinth and the swine at Iuka.

On July 16, 17, and 18, a Bicycle Clinic was conducted at the Baldwin Community Center and at the Booneville Community Center. A bicycle Rodeo concluded the clinic.

Later there will be a Forestry Tour to wood-using industries in the vicinity of Fulton; a tour of fish processing plant for youth interested in fish production and foods and nutrition. Included in this trip will be a tour of the State Penitentiary.

A tour of Mississippi State University for High School students interested in Career Exploration will be made.

The fall Livestock Shows will be held in Prentiss County on Sept. 6 and 7 with the Tupelo show being held September 10-14.

These events are open to all Prentiss County youth, in the City of Booneville, Mississippi.

The Veterans Administration can advance up to $250 in extra allowances to selected veterans receiving education assistance under its programs.

panded to cover the needs of business and industry in all parts of Mississippi, and will involve Army recruiters across the state.

Annual Bad Debt Loss by Business Hits $5.9 Billion

Nearly $6 billion in bad debt losses have been incurred yearly by American corporations, according to Dun & Bradstreet Inc. Reports.

Losses averaged 0.38 per cent of sales for the 1969-70 fiscal year by all incorporated industries, or a total loss of $5.9 billion, Dun & Bradstreet said.

4-H Assistants

Those youngsters shown here have been employed for the summer months by the Extension service here. They are, left, Alyce Hoover, Linda Smith, Orpheus Triplett, Stuart Johnson and Jimmie Archer. Pictured with this group is Jim Archer, Extension 4-H Youth Agent. Miss Nancy White, 4-H Youth Agent, also will assist in supervising the group.

Amendment Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced an amendment to food stamp program regulations which would require that the income of certain individuals be averaged over a 12-month period in determining eligibility for participation in the food stamp program. This amendment applies to those individuals such as teachers, who are under a contract which is renewable each year or longer.

The provisions of the new amendment do not apply to workers who are involuntarily laid off and workers whose income is unexpectedly halted.

Kraft Presents RCDC Program

The June meeting of the Blackland RCDC was presented by the Kraft Food Company. The club was honored to have Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox present.

Greg Geno, club president called the meeting to order. America was sung and the pledge to the flag given. Jill McAlpin read an appropriate poem. The Flag Talks.

Rev. Jimmy Grisham made an inspiring talk using the 23 Psalm.

The President in calling for old business did read the resolution of exceptional display of courage and personal sacrifice of Robert McGaha and Vertes Lee Burnside of which was signed by Lt. Gov. William Winter and presented to the families. He announced a special news release would be forth coming.

Greg Geno called on Mr. Walter Nunley to present Mr. Ray Braly. They showed many slides showing the old and new method of diary farming in the surrounding area. The comments on each slide was very interesting. The club has always appreciated the Kraft Foods presenting these outstanding programs each year.

Prior to adjourning the club was reminded of our sponsor, the B.P.W. Club entertaining our club with a picnic at the city park at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Incentives for Investing

Does favorable tax treatment on capital gains benefit you? Even if you don't invest in the stock market, the answer is yes. Equitable capital gains taxes encourage individual investors to funnel money to industry. With these dollars invested in private enterprise, companies build plants and buy machinery, equipment and computers. This means more jobs, goods and services—and a higher standard of living for all of us. If incentives are reduced, fewer people will invest... and expansion will halt. In our economy, it takes money to make jobs. Z

Butcher, Banker . . .

Everyone from the butcher to the banker tries to increase their assets and many invest in the stock market. As a result, some 30,000,000 Americans (two-thirds with taxable incomes under $15,000) invest, and help our economy expand. To make it worth the while of individual investors who take the risk, the capital gains tax must continue to tax long term investments fairly. Z

Miss Oakley, Robert Bryan Wed In Church

The sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church in Booneville was the setting for the 3 o'clock afternoon wedding, June 3, of Miss Frances Yates Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tate Oakley of Booneville, and Robert Wilson Bryan, son of Mrs. William Houston Bryan of Meadville, Mississippi.

The guests were greeted as they entered the church by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Abernethy and Mrs. Truman Brooks, aunt of the bride. The Reverend Truman Brooks, Pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Fulton, Mississippi, and uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony before a verdant background of oriental fern trees and spiral Renaissance candelabra entwined with fern holding glowing yellow tapers and enhanced with candlelight and enerald fern on either side of the altar. On the side of the white wrought iron prie dieu covered with candlelight satin where the bride and bridegroom knelt during the ceremony was a candelabra festooned with ropes of fern holding the Trinity Candle, which became the Unity Candle symbolizing the two personalities when used in the union ceremony.

Hollis McGeehee and Jimmy Dickey served as acolytes. The church pews were marked with yellow bouffant bows and a single yellow taper tied with yellow ribbon designated the family pews.

A program of Nuptial music was presented by Sam Galloway of Booneville, organist, and Larry Smith of the University of Mississippi, soloist, who sang "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love." Concluding the ceremony Mr. Smith sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mr. Galloway played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white amercaine jersey fashioned in a slim silhouette. Crystal pleating and Venice lace appliques centered with seed pearls outlined the V neck and cuffs of the long fitted sleeves. The slim skirt extended into a chapel train. The cathedral length Mantilla of imported silk illusion enhanced with lace medallions and bordered with scalloped lace fell from a camelot headpiece of lace and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white orchids, lily-of-the-valley and majestic daisies tied with long white satin streamers.

Attendants
Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Donald Harris of Booneville. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harold Taylor White, Jr. of Columbus, Mississippi, Miss Faye Ann Bryan of Meadville, sister of the bridegroom, and the bride's twin sisters, Mrs. Phillip Cole of Booneville and Mrs. Ronald Whitehead of Ellisville, Mississippi.

Each of the attendants wore long formal length dresses of maize rose print polyester organza empire line with shirred flounce skirts, scoop neckline and puffed sleeves. They wore ivory lace braid picture hats banded with yellow satin ribbon and carried white wicker baskets holding yellow centered white majestic daisies and miniature English ivy and accented with yellow satin ribbon tied in love knots.

Tommy Lloyd of Natchez attended Mr. Bryan as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Joey McNulty of Bude, Hollis McGeehee of Meadville, Jimmy Dickey of Brookhaven, Phillip Cole of Booneville, and Ronald Whitehead of Ellisville.

Mrs. Oakley selected for her daughter's wedding an original floor length gown of pink crepe appliqued with motifs of Venice white lace. The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Bryan, wore a formal princess mint green silk gown designed with a matching floor length coat featuring a mock train. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Reception
Mr. and Mrs. Oakley entertained with a reception on the patio of the church immediately following the ceremony. The collar scheme of the wedding, yellow and white, was repeated throughout the decor.

Mrs. Milton Waters, cousin of the bride, cordially welcomed the guests at the entrance of the patio, which was adorned with large urns of Southern greenery. Presiding at the large round registration table covered with a yellow satin cloth edged with Brussels lace was Patti Stroud of Meadville, Mississippi.

The bride's table covered with yellow satin overlaid with yellow illusion and accented with green hand made roses held the three-tiered bride's cake, which was decorated with white spun sugar roses cascading down one side. The anniversary tier was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, a single wedding bell and lily-of-the-valley. A silver epergne containing an artistic arrangement of yellow and white flowers adorned this table. Mrs. Joe Carter, Mrs. Larry Smith and Miss Rita Moore served the bride's cake.

On a companion table yellow fruit punch was poured from an ornate silver punch bowl surrounded by yellow pompons, Queen Anne's lace and fern by Miss Cindy Langston and Mrs. Mike Eaton of Ripley.

The bridegroom's table covered with yellow illusion over a satin cloth accented with satin bows and ivy held a two tiered chocolate cake decorated with frosted grapes and flanked by a yellow and white arrangement of summer flowers in a brown Franciscan pottery vase. Miss Martha Jean Tigrett, Miss Barbara Sue Ezelle and Miss Bridie Nell McMillan of Decatur, Mississippi, presided at this table.

Distributing yellow net rice bags tied with yellow ribbon and lily-of-the-valley from small white wicker baskets were Miss Amy Cole, niece of the bride, Miss Melanie and Master

Dalton Guy Garner, cousins of the bride. The dainty young lasses wore cotton eyelet pinafores over yellow and white checked gingham floor length dresses. Attached to the rice bags was a personal message from the bride and bridegroom which said, "Thank you for making this day a happy one."

Circulating hostesses included Mrs. Bill White, Mrs. Milton Waters, Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, Mrs. James Bethay, Mrs. Norman Young, Mrs. Joe Carter, Mrs. Eddie Caveness, Mrs. Henry Mize, Mrs. Quitman Loden and Mrs. W. V. Kemp, who also had charge of the lovely decorations.

For travel the bride selected a white eyelet cotton pantsuit designed with red buttons. She wore anorcid from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Meadville, Miss.

Out of Town Guests
Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Neil Oakley of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Oakley of Senatobia, Mr. and Mrs. Waymound Masley of Raymond, Mr. Larry Brooks of Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greene and David of Stone Mountain, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. Amos Carmichael of Memphis, Mrs. Allen Lee of Quentin, Mrs. Shelia Watts, Miss Myra Dickey, and Mr. L. B. Dickey of Brookhaven, Mr. Elton Pickett and Mr. Dalton Thornton of Meadville, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Myers of Hattiesburg, Mr. Steve McNulty and Mr. Sam Thornhill of Bude, Miss Beth Massey and Mr. Hal Bridges of Greenville, Miss Phyllis Bryant of Natchez, Mrs. Tommy Lloyd of Natchez, Miss Carolyn Bethay of Saltillo, and Mrs. Margaret Barnard of Memphis.

Rehearsal Dinner
The wedding party and guests were entertained with a candlelight rehearsal dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Taylor Young of Booneville. Other hostesses were Mrs. Joe Carter, Mrs. McEllis Nabers and Mrs. Kenneth Pounds. Mrs. Carter greeted and served punch to each arriving guest.

The spacious living and dining room was decorated throughout with spring flowers dominated by yellow roses culminating in the most artistic arrangement of all at the head table, covered with a laced edged, cut work linen cloth, where the rose centered bouquet was flanked on either side by yellow tapers in ornate candle holders matching the silver epergne which contained the flower arrangement. Other tables contained miniature companion bouquets and yellow tapers. The prospective bride and groom presented gifts to their attendants.

Bridesmaid's Luncheon
Mrs. Milton Waters and Mrs. Phillip Cole, cousin and sister of the bride-elect, entertained in the home of Mrs. Waters. The table from which the buffet-style luncheon was served was covered with pink satin overlaid with a pink illusion cloth edged with Brussels lace. This table was adorned with an artistic arrangement of yellow and pink roses flanked on either side with candleabras holding pink tapers. Yellow centered white daisies and babies-breath graced the smaller tables.

Mrs. Waters presented the bride with a miniature bridal nosegay of artificial rosebuds and orange blossoms surrounding a single live pink rose. The pink satin streamers were tied with love knots. Miss Oakley's corsage was white rose buds, while Mrs. Tate Oakley, mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. William Bryan, mother of the bridegroom elect wore corsages of white carnations.

Special guests were Mrs. Robert Greene and Miss Patti Stroud.

Brunch
The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Abernethy was the setting for the Sunday morning brunch honoring Miss Oakley and Mr. Bryan the wedding party, and other guests.

Mr. Abernethy greeted the arriving guests, who were ushered into the spacious dining room where Mrs. Henry Mize served individual fruit bowls from the attractive buffet styled dining table, which was adorned with lovely flower arrangements and food delicacies.

Other hostesses were Mrs. James Bethay, Mrs. Eddie Caveness and Mrs. James Davis.

In Last Place?

Does the United States have the strongest economic growth rate in the world? During the 1960s, our annual rate of economic growth was about 4%; Japan's was 11%. One reason: of ten industrial nations, the U.S. devoted the smallest share of its total output to capital investment. Ever more stringent capital gains taxes will discourage the small investor, backbone of our economy

A $2.6 million contract for installation of an air pollution control system for a power generating plant has been awarded to American Air Filter Company, Inc., by Kentucky Utilities Co., Lexington, Ky.

The contract is to design, furnish and install a system to remove sulfur dioxide and flyash from the flue gas of three existing coal-fired boilers at the utility's Green River Generating Plant in western Kentucky.

Mrs. Gann Honored

Attending a reception and bridal shower recently was Mrs. Mary Gault Nabors Mrs. Thomas E. Denson, mother of the bride, Mrs. Donald Gann, honoree, Mrs. Thurman Gann, mother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Merrill T. Cartwright, Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mrs. David Prichard, Mrs. Ed Honeycutt, Mrs. John Gambill, Mrs. Norvel Perry, and Mrs. Homer Guy, hostesses.

Mrs. Donald Gann Given Bridal Shower Sunday

Mrs. Donald Green, nee Miss Mary Ann Denson, was honored with a beautifully planned reception and bridal shower, Thursday evening, July 12, from 7 until 9 o'clock, in the newly decorated party room of the Wagon Wheel Cafeteria. The wedding of this popular couple was Sunday, July 15.

Creating a very hospitable atmosphere were the hostesses, Mrs. Merrill T. Cartwright, Mrs. John Gambill, Mrs. Homer Guy, Mrs. Ed Honeycutt, Mrs. Mary Gault Nabors, Mrs. Norvel Perry, Mrs. David Prichard and Mrs. Kenneth Smith.

Mrs. Prichard and Mrs. Cartwright cordially welcomed the guests and presented them to the honoree, who was attired in a tulle dress of polyester featuring an A-line blue skirt with rows of multi-colored dots and a white empire bodice with dorian sleeves and a belt of self fabric, her mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Denson. Mrs. Thurman Gann mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Thomas A. Denson, paternal grandmother of the bride. The bride's mother chose for the occasion, a stylish brown and white checked cotton dress trimmed with a white collar and cuffs. Mrs. Thurman Gann wore a silk ensemble with a striped blouse and a white pleated skirt. Mrs. Thomas A. Denson wore a pink crepe dress with long sleeves.

The refreshment table was covered with an elegant white maderia cloth and centered with an artistic arrangement of purple phlox and regal lilies in an antique white ceramic vase. From this table Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Gambill served individual bridal cakes topped with a single white sugar spun rose. Mrs. Nabors and Mrs. Honeycutt poured pink frappe from a silver bowl surrounded by English ivy. Rainbow colored mints and salted nuts in gleaming silver compots were placed nearby.

Mrs. Perry presided at the tables where the gift china and silver were displayed.

These tables were covered with gold and coral cloths that blended beautifully with the room's decor.

Mrs. Guy directed the guests to a long table covered with white linen which held other varied, useful and beautiful gifts.

Miss Patti Perry and Miss Donna Denson, sister of the bride, presided at the registry which was placed on a table overlaid with a white linen cloth embroidered in designs of white roses and a single bud vase filled with Talisman roses adorned this table.

Many friends enjoyed the congeniality of this colorful reception and all wished the honoree much happiness.

Black Business Is Growing Rapidly

The rapid growth of the black entrepreneur is indicated by an analysis by the magazine Black Enterprise. One hundred businesses owned by blacks grossed sales of from 1 to 40 million dollars in 1972.

Earl Graves, publisher, said that blacks have reached a point in history where "we can identify thousands of black-owned and black-controlled businesses. Many of them are embryonic and still struggling for survival across the nation."

Carolyn Green, Gary Martin Engagement Told

Mrs. Modenia Green of Booneville announces the engagement of her daughter, Carolyn to Gary Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Martin also of Booneville. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr.

MISS GREEN

Wallis Green and the grand-daughter of Mrs. J. E. Moore and the late Mr. Moore and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green.

The prospective bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Martin and the late Mr. W. H. Lacy and Mrs. W. H. Blythe.

Miss Green is a 1972 honor graduate of Jumbertown High School. She attended Northeast Mississippi Junior College and is presently a Junior at the University of Mississippi, majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Martin is a 1968 graduate of Booneville High School. He attended Northeast Mississippi Junior College and is a senior at the University of Mississippi, majoring in Business Administration.

The wedding will be solemnized August 17 at 7 p.m. at the Booneville Church of Christ. A reception will follow the ceremony at the church.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the ceremony and the reception.

Kitchen Shower Honors Miss Huggins

Mrs. H. F. (Red) Billingsley and the girls' Sunday evening Bible class of the Booneville

Church of Christ honored the lovely Miss Marilyn Huggins bride-elect of Ricky Dovel

Caldwell, with a kitchen and linen shower in the lovely home of Mrs. Billingsley on

Kitchen Shower

Honoring Miss Marilyn Huggins were Miss Conita McCoy, Mrs. Tommy Palmer, Miss Pat Palmer, Miss Pam Palmer, Mrs. Bill Huggins, the honoree Miss Marilyn

Huggins, Mrs. Vance Caldwell, Mrs. Kermit Jones, Mrs. Jim Archer, Mrs. Roy Morris,

Mrs. H. F. Billingsley.

Highway 45 South on Saturday afternoon, June 16.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Kermit Jones, Mrs. Shelby McCoy, Mrs. Ruel Barron, Mrs. Howard Christian, Mrs. Tommy Palmer, Mrs. Jim Archer, Mrs. Roy Morris, and Mrs. Bobby Woodruff.

Mrs. Billingsley greeted the guests in the foyer. She wore a long dress of pink and gray plaid crepe skirt with a solid pink blouse.

Receiving in the living room where the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Bill Huggins, and Mrs. Vance Caldwell, mother of the bridegroom - elect. Marilyn wore a long dress of yellow and pink silk crepe. Mrs. Huggins wore a dress of powder blue polyester crepe, and Mrs. Caldwell wore a rose polyester crepe. The honoree and mothers wore white carnation corsages presented to them by the hostesses.

The tea table, which was beautifully overlaid with a white cut-work table cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white and yellow daisies. A silver candelabra holding three tall tapered candles added brightness and beauty to each end of the table. Fruit punch was served from a beautiful crystal punch bowl. Fitter fours were served from a large silver tray.

After being served the guests were ushered into the spacious den where the many lovely and useful gifts were displayed.

The hostess presented Marilyn with an electric corn popper.

STORING BREAD

According to home economists for the Cooperative Extension Service at Mississippi State University, it is best to store bread in the freezer or in a dry place at room temperature. It will become stale quickly when stored in the refrigerator.

Thompson Takes Reins In Civitan

The Booneville Civitan Club installed new officers for the coming year Tuesday night, July 10th at the Booneville Community Center.

Gerald Carter, newly appointed Lt. Governor for the Mississippi North District, performed the installation ceremonies.

Installed as officers for the 1973-1974 Civitan year were: President - Tony Thompson, President - Elect Talmadge Finch, Vice - President - William Arnold.

Secretary - James Goddard, and Treasurer - Perry Henderson. Performing his last duties as outgoing club president Gerald also presented plaques to J. W. Timbes, outgoing club secretary, and Perry Henderson, club treasurer, for their outstanding service to the Club.

Tommy Floyd was also presented a plaque from the Mississippi District of Civitan for his service as Lt. Governor. In summing up the Club's accomplishments for the past year, Gerald pointed out that Booneville was the only club to charter new clubs in Mississippi. The Club chartered the Luka and Booneville Breakfast Civitan Clubs. The Club also helped the handicapped by loaning hospital beds and wheelchairs and by its continued support of handicapped children.

Assuming his duties as new club president, Tony Thompson appointed new committees and outlined new goals for the coming year. He challenged all club members to help carry out the goals and work together to make Booneville an even better place in which to live. He stated that the club would adopt the theme of "Civitan Help People" for the coming year.

It was also his pleasure to present Gerald Carter with two handsome plaques - one for his service as club president and the other for having been selected by his fellow club members as "Civitan of the Year".

Prior to the installation of officers, a buffet dinner was held for the Civitan Ladies.

Shower Honors Mrs. Foy

Those attending a miscellaneous bridal tea-shower honoring Mrs. Mike Foy, bride; Mrs. Raymond Hughes, mother of the groom; Mrs. Jim Archer; Mrs. Rupert Pike; Mrs. Jim Alexander; and Mrs. Kermit Jones.

Mrs. Foy Honored With Tea Shower

Mrs. Mike Foy, the former Jane Woodruff, was honored with a miscellaneous Tea-Shower at the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Kermit Jones on Saturday July 7, from 2:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon.

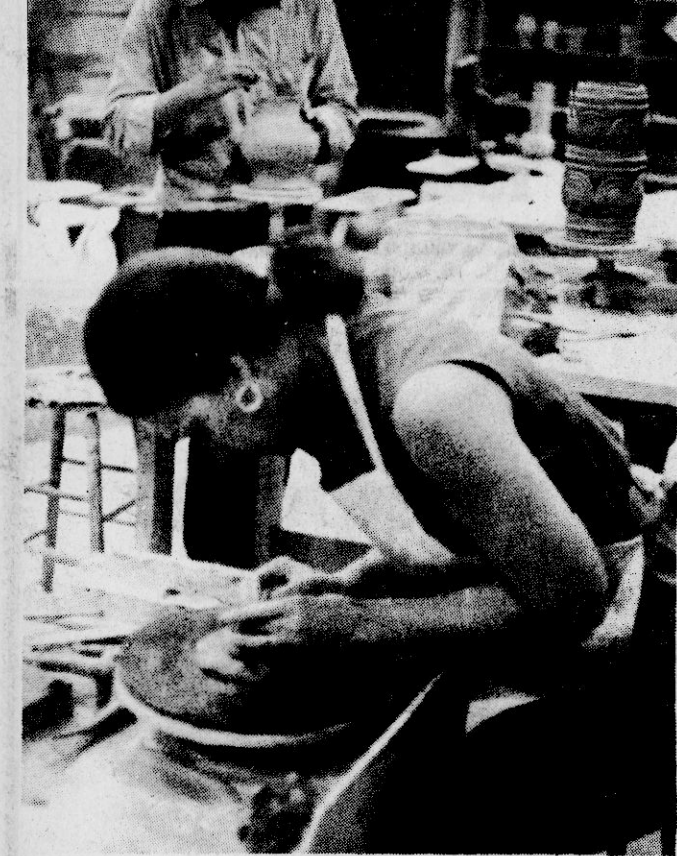

Serving as hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Helen Jones and Cindy, Mrs. Durrelle Alexander, Mrs. Evelyn Billingsley, Mrs. Erma Archer and Jimmie, Mrs. Ann Green, Mrs. Beverly Johnson, Mrs. Dot Huggins, and Marilyn Mrs. Christine Pike, and Mrs. Alma McCoy.

Mrs. Jones received the guests along with Mrs. Foy, Mrs. Woodruff, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Frances Hughes, mother of the groom. The honoree, mothers, and hostesses were beautifully attired in floor length frocks.

Miss Cindy Jones presided at the register. The guests were served cake, nuts, mints, and punch. The table was beautifully arranged with a crystal punch bowl, a silver candelabra, and an arrangement of an assortment of yellow flowers prepared by Mrs. Jones. Mrs. Jones had also used her most gifted talent for preparing the corsages of yellow roses for the honoree and mothers, as well as other floral arrangement throughout her lovely home.

The gifts were on display in the bedrooms.

Education Drive Pledged By AAA

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- The new Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council, Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., has pledged an all-out campaign to bring the facts of tire care and safety home to the nation's 118 million registered auto drivers.

"We want to make sure that everyone who drives a car knows how to get the most safety and mileage out of its tires," said Mr. Lovell.

"A recent study by the General Accounting Office showed that tires themselves don't cause many accidents," Mr. Lovell pointed out. "So, along with continued industry attention to maintaining our record on safety, consumer education in the proper care and maintenance of tires becomes increasingly important."

Mr. Lovell, President of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, was installed as Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council on July 1. He succeeded Ross

R. Ormsby, who retired as Chairman of the Council and RMA.

"Ross Ormsby helped found the Council, and got it off to a good start," said Mr. Lovell. "We are going to make it even more effective in the future with an expanded communications program."

The new program will include regional meetings with news media representatives, special material for driver education classes and service station personnel public service announcements on tire safety for television stations, and news releases on tire safety subjects.

The Council, founded in 1969, is supported by all U. S. manufacturers of passenger car tires. It serves as the communications arm of the industry.

Recently the Council has been publicizing the report of the General Accounting Office on the federal automotive safety testing program. The GAO concluded that tires are not a significant factor in highway accidents, and the government is spending too much of its available funds testing them.

Mr. Lovell, formerly Assistant Secretary of Labor for Manpower, was appointed President of the Rubber Manufacturers Association on March 1, 1973.

He served as Assistant Secretary of Labor from 1970 to 1973. Before that Mr. Lovell was head of the Michigan Employment Security Administration and Chairman of the State Mediation Board.

Earlier he served both Ford and American Motors

Studies have indicated that extremely underinflated tires might be a contributing factor in dangerous "cross over" accidents on the highway. The Tire Industry Safety Council says drivers should always maintain proper inflation less they wish to risk becoming a contributing statistic for further accident research.

Mr. Lovell, 52, was graduated from the Harvard Business School with a Master's Degree in Business Administration in 1946. A native of Greenwich, Connecticut, he attended Brown University and the Lawrenceville School in New Jersey. He served in the Navy in World War II, with an intelligence group in China.

He is married to the former Beatrice Sweeney of Concord, Massachusetts. There are four daughters in the family. They reside in the Georgetown section of Washington.

She's Two

Jeania Gail Pike celebrated her second birthday June 27. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pike of Booneville. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carey Pike of Booneville and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thorne of Belmont. Jeania has an older sister, Maria, age 5.

County Roads Included In State Aid Projects

Contracts for 36 State Aid road projects, estimated to cost a little more than $5.0 million, have been let or are advertised to be let by Boards of Supervisors in 29 Counties during the month of July and the first two weeks of August. The announcement was made by the State Aid Engineer of the State Aid Road Division, who said that the proposed lettings, which embrace projects in 35% of Mississippi's 82 Counties, call for 29 construction projects providing for 57.5 miles of grading, drainage bridges, and bituminous surfacing. Also included are 7 projects providing for 64.3 miles of reseal work on previously paved State Aid routes. The announcement further pointed out that the scheduled lettings represent one of the largest estimated contract volumes let during any similar period of the program. The largest single project, costwise, is of particular interest and is designed for a center lift span to accommodate river navigation. It is estimated to cost a little more than $1.0 million.

State Aid road contracts are let by Boards of Supervisors, subject to the approval of the State Aid Road Division. During the program's 22-year duration some 8,000 miles of State Aid road construction improvements have been accomplished, with 7,400 miles of this total being hard-surfaced or paved.

The list includes for Prentiss County, SAP 59 (30): 1,658 miles of grading, drainage, and gravel surfacing on the Moore's Mill Road. Letting scheduled for 2:00 p.m. on August 7, 1973, at Booneville, and SAP 59 (31) 0,055 miles of box culvert and bridge on the Moore's Mill Road. Letting scheduled for 2:00 p.m. on August 7, 1973, at Booneville, Mississippi.

Rev. Crowson Will Speak At 3 Churches In County

A special service featuring the ministry of Free Will Baptist Bible College of Nashville, Tenn. will be held at three churches in Prentiss County this weekend.

Officials said the Rev. Milton Crowson, minister and Bible teacher, will represent the School, Saturday evening July 21 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Crowson will be at the New Lebanon Free Will Baptist Church Sunday morning, July 22, he will be at the Martin Hill Free Will Baptist Church and Sunday evening July 22, Rev. Crowson will be at the Booneville First Free Will Baptist Church.

Rev. Curtis Briley is pastor of the New Lebanon Church, Rev. J. L. Gore is pastor of the Martin Hill church, while Rev. Luther Gibson is pastor of the First Free Will Baptist Church.

Crowson, a native of Pontotoc County, graduated from the Bible College in 1960. He completed his residence toward an M.A. degree in 1971 at Bob Jones University.

He has been active in the work of the Free Will Baptist denomination. For eight years Crowson pastored Free Will Baptist churches in Traverler's Rest, South Carolina, Oak Ridge, Tennessee and Russellville, Ala. Five years ago he came to Nashville, Tenn. to teach Bible and history at Free Will Baptist Bible College.

Crowson and his wife

Martha, have three children Allan, age 21; Susan, age 17; and Jeff, age 11. Allan is a 1973 graduate of the Bible College, and will be spending this summer as a missionary in Africa.

Free Will Baptist Bible College is an accredited co - educational Christian School that specializes in the training of ministers, missionaries, church musicians and other Christian workers. The school currently enrolls about 600 annually.

Tightening Money Will Cut Inflation....

Cutting government spending and tightening the money supply, a University of Mississippi economist believes, will substantially dampen the current inflation spiral in the United States.

Dr. Cabell Shull, who spent 10 years in the U. S. Foreign Service as an economist, also applauded the Federal Reserve Board's recent monetary action to curb inflation. Dr. Shull is chairman of Economics at Ole Miss.

The Federal Reserve Board, the national agency which supervises the money supply and regulates monetary policy, recently raised the discount rate from 6 1/2% to 7%. Banks borrow from the Federal Reserve at the discount rate. Now they must charge best customers about 8.25% when lending money to them.

The Federal Reserve actions were taken after an announcement that the total money supply had jumped at a 9.3% rate in the quarter which ended June 20. Most economists consider a 6% growth rate for the money supply desirable for sustaining economic growth; the money supply is defined as the total private demand, or checking-account deposits plus cash, in the public's hand.

Dr. Shull said that he preferred a balanced budget to the present on of deficit spending. However, he cautioned those who think that the balanced budget is the sole solution to inflation.

"It's better to have a balanced budget than to have the deficit budget that we've been running," he said. "Of course, a balanced budget can be inflationary also."

Spending reductions, Dr. Shull said, are a key to putting the lid on inflation. Reluctant to say which government programs should be cut, he held that "wasteful spending" in domestic programs--the inefficient use of allocated funds--and spending abroad are of major concern. Dr. Shull said he recognized, however, the importance of poverty programs and foreign aid grants.

"We can't let those people starve," he said. "The objectives of these programs are good, but often they become inefficient and wasteful. What we need then is an overhaul, a realignment and take-off again."

According to Dr. Shull, if the government cuts the budget and decreases the money supply, it will generate unemployment. "The purpose of unemployment in these circumstances is reallocation of our resources. Then you pump them up again and reallocate them to more efficient usage."

Unforeseen weather disasters, Dr. Shull said, also contribute to higher food prices--perhaps as much as the general rise in prices. Last year when the U.S. agreed to sell its surplus wheat to the Soviet Union, the world's supply was expected to be substantial. However, weather disasters produced shortages, and the forces of supply and demand forced up prices.

Late last month the government put an embargo on soybeans, cottonseed, and their by-products to prevent domestic shortages of these protein feed grains. President Nixon had already imposed a 60-day price freeze on most food items.

Another contributor to higher prices, cited by Dr. Shull, is the "inflationary psychology." He said that when people expect prices to rise, they tend to buy goods sooner than they need them since their money has more purchasing power today than tomorrow. Dr. Shull said it is wasteful to buy on such expectations.

"During inflationary periods, you buy things you don't really need. You think you will get utility out of them but you don't."

Dr. Shull also expressed concern about the dollar's decreasing value abroad. "When the dollar's value decreases abroad, we sell more and buy less. Since the value of foreign goods will be more expensive to purchase, we have to pay more. With the current energy crisis at hand, we will, most likely, increase our import of foreign oil--at higher prices since the dollar is decreasing in value in most foreign money markets."

A professor of Economics as well as Chairman of the Department of Economics at Ole Miss, Dr. Shull reiterated that there are numerous ways to stamp out inflation, but the most effective are budget cuts and money supply reductions.

Almost $30,000 RS Money Received

The City of Booneville received a check for $29,817, for almost $30,000 in Revenue Sharing Funds, according to Mayor Charles Steen.

Mayor Steen commented that the check received was for $29,817, and makes a total of $156,016 received through the federal money sharing. Officials said parts of this money have been used for the paving of streets in the city, for sidewalks here, and for other phases of city government.

The Mayor commented that the Police Department has used $5,875.12, the Fire Department, $3,662, Public Property, $1,125, Streets, $79,881.79, and Recreation, $3,813.78.

It was noted that when the city received its first three checks... December 1972 through April 1973, $60,000 of this money was divided equally and placed in the two banks ($30,000 in each) to draw interest through the winter months.

"This was done in an economy measure," an official said. The money drew interest of $1,137.32.

The total expenditure of the Revenue Sharing monies to date is $94,357.69, leaving a balance of $32,978.62. This balance does not include the recent check of $29,817.

The city is now working

Stutz Family Home Burns

The Tom Stutz family is asking the general public to help them since their home burned the past Thursday.

A spokesman, for the family said the fire burned all the belongings of the family members. Any furniture, food, clothes, dishes, cookware, towels, sheets, quilts, spreads, anything that can be used in the home will be appreciated.

The family has three children, two girls and one boy.

their duties and responsibilities at the July 5 meeting of the Booneville Breakfast Civitan Club.

Officers are as follows: Joe Kingsley, President; Kenneth Floyd, President-Elect; Connie Drown, Vice-President; Bill Williams, Secretary; Roy Morris, Treasurer.

Recognition was also given to Kenneth Floyd for outstanding services to the club. The club elected Mr. Floyd Civitan of the Year for 1972-1973.

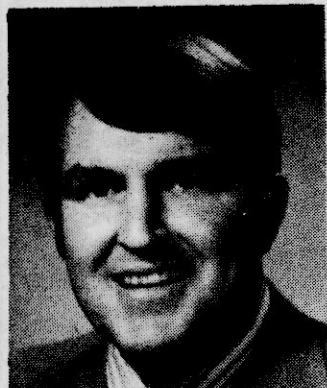

All present welcomed the new officers to their post and pledged their support over the coming year.

In All-State Band

Eddie Wood and Nola Scott recently returned from the Lions International Convention in Miami, Florida where they performed with the Mississippi All-State Band. This band was in international competition with 159 units, and won first place for the third time in four years. Compiling 198 points out of a possible 200 points in the parade, the state bandsmen won the title overwhelmingly. The band also presented a one hour concert prior to an address for Vice-President Spiro Agnew, keynote speaker at the convention held in Convention Hall. The Mississippi Lions All-State Band is composed of 125 young musicians selected from various schools throughout the state.

Methodist Church Revival

REV. WILLIAMSON

Revival services are scheduled at the Grace United Methodist Church in Booneville beginning Thursday evening, July 26, and continuing through Sunday night, July 29.

Evening services begin at 7:30 p.m. The Friday and Saturday morning services are at 6 a.m. The Sunday morning service is at 11 a.m. Friday and Saturday morning services will be brief, followed by coffee and doughnuts served in the church basement, so that those who work may have an opportunity to attend and still get to work on time.

Evangelist for these

W. H. McKinney Gets 1st Bloom

W. H. McKinney of the New Hope community brought the first cotton bloom in the Banner - Independent office.

Mr. McKinney found the bloom on July 7 in cotton that was planted in April. He commented that he planted Coker cotton and farms 50 acres himself. He also commented that his brother, L. B. McKinney had the first bloom last year. Mr. McKinney used 9-12-12 Royster Bonanza fertilizer.

services is the Reverend Cecil Williamson, North Mississippi Conference Evangelist, off Starkville, Mississippi. He is much in demand as an Evangelist throughout the South and very forcefully proclaims the Word of God for our day. The Reverend Henry G. (Hank) Story, new pastor of the Grace Church, will be in charge of the music for the services. Rev. Story is well known in this area for his effective leading of congregational singing as well as for his inspirational special music.

The public is invited and encouraged to attend all of these services. A nursery will be provided for the evening and Sunday morning services.

Study Conservation Problems

Studying basic conservation problems and new conservation techniques at the recent Environmental Education Workshop at the University of Mississippi were (from left) Travis King, Oxford; Mrs. Patricia Daniel Beckett, Oxford; Larry Steven Goldman, Booneville; and Martha Henry, New Albany. The session was sponsored by the School of Education.

Video Company, WBIP Get DSA At District Meeting

"In this time of great popular interest in pollution and ecology, we need to exercise caution lest we jump on the band wagon and miss the bread wagon."

This was the advice of the luncheon speaker Dr. William L. Giles, president, Mississippi State University, State College.

The meeting, under the leadership of Area Vice-President A. T. "Gus" Evans, Shuqualak, drew visitors from some 16 counties. The program centered around what Mississippians can do to keep erosion and sediment control in local lands rather than administered by the federal government alternatives proposed in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972.

Evans was re-elected and the following were elected to the state board of the Miss. Association of Soil and Water Conservation District Commissioners: Millard Phillips, Corinth; and Joe H. Stevens, Pheba. Mrs. L. E. Deaton, Belmont, was re-elected area vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Dr. Giles predicted that the nation is moving into some form of land-use policy, a necessary step in solving many problems of great complexity and magnitude.

"Some young people believe soil erosion and soil loss were only recently recognized as problems in this country," said Dr. Giles. "Nothing could be farther from the truth. Early settlers in New England spoke of soil as being 'worn out.' Washington and Jefferson had quite a lot to say about soil losses and what might be done about them. The Roosevelt Administration established the Soil Conservation Service which made possible a massive attack on soil and water losses. This was an idea whose time had come."

Other speakers described the current problem in Mississippi. Tom Benton, Jackson, state resource conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, declared that 100 million tons of soil are lost in the state each year due to erosion. This not only hurts the land, but much of it settles in stream channels, lakes and reservoirs, increasing flood problems and impairing the quality of municipal water, recreation and fish.

Benton said this erosion and sediment comes from seven major sources. Each year 50 million tons move off inadequately treated cropland. Another 10 million tons ooze off eroding streambanks. Unvegetated roadsides discharge an additional 10 million tons. Gullies pour out 3 million tons. Surface mines contribute another 2 1/2 million tons. Some runs off utility-rights-of-way during periods of critical construction. And urban development produces about 10 1/2 million tons.

Benton described solutions to these problems. They are being applied in many cases, he said, but people can no longer afford to tolerate this costly damage to the environment.

Laws to Control Soil and Water Conservation Districts have the legal authority under state law to promote and carry out a soil and water conservation program.

President R. E. Turman Horn Lake, announced that the Mississippi Association of SWCD Commissioners and the State Soil Conservation Committee will sponsor a Sediment and Erosion Control Institute September 18 in Jackson.

The purpose will be to consider the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 which requires the states to take some action to maintain or improve water quality. Homebuilders, highway construction officials, boards of supervisors, legislators and many other interested groups will be invited. Commissioners will present a model law for consideration at the institute.

W. L. Heard, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Jackson, said, "For years we've been concerned with what erosion does to the land. Now we need to take a look at what this is doing on down the streams and this is what we'll be talking about at the

In a talk about the responsibilities and authorities of districts, W. C. Nelms, assistant state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Jackson, pointed out that no other group in the state can make legal decisions about soil and water conservation. "SCS has to work through districts," said Nelms, "but, as you know, many other agencies and groups interested in the environment are also working with you. Others would like to. Invite them in. Your role is to decide what to do. Then find somebody to do it."

Many Opportunities Open In Dairy Field

MISSISSIPPI STATE, MISS. - The dairy industry involves more than milking cows. Young people have an opportunity to specialize in many fields in the dairy business.

Gerald T. Taylor, Extension dairy science specialist, observed that dairy manufacturing and dairy production are the two main areas in dairy careers. He pointed out that a young person may choose a career in processing, business or science in the dairy manufacturing area. He said within each of these fields, he may choose again to become an equipment salesman, sanitarian, supervisor or a researcher in various phases of dairy food technology.

"In the dairy production area, a young person may elect to study dairy production, business or science.

SOUR CREAM

Extension home economists at Mississippi State University advise turning sour cream containers upside-down when storing in the refrigerator. No one knows why, but this method seems to preserve the sour cream for a longer period of time. Make sure the top fits securely before turning the container over.

THE FOUNDATION

It is common knowledge that the most important part of a building is the foundation on which it is built. It must be strong and be able to withstand the weight that is put upon it. So it is with the New Testament church; it is built upon a sure foundation. Eph. 2:20 tells us that the church is built upon the foundation of the Apostles and prophets with Jesus Christ being the chief cornerstone. What a church is built upon does not change it remains the same regardless.

The Prophets - Isaiah tells us in the 43rd chapter that there was always only one God. In the 10th verse it says "before me there was no God formed neither shall there be after me." In Chapter 44 verse 6 it says "I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God." Jesus came and said concerning this in Mark 12:29 "Hear O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord." There never was a trinity or three Gods, and even the word trinity is not to be found in the Bible. This is part of the foundation that the New Testament church is founded upon.

Baptism - Search the Bible to find the truth. How were the people baptized in the Bible. They were baptized in the name of Jesus. Nowhere were they ever baptized in the formula, or titles, of Father Son and Holy Ghost. The Lord's church was founded upon baptism in his name. Look through the Book of Acts and see for yourself, don't even take my word. Baptism is essential and necessary. See John 3:5 which states a man must be born of the water and the spirit, it did not say water, or the spirit.

Holy Ghost - The early church received the baptism of the Holy Ghost. It was founded upon this as recorded in Acts 2 about the Day of Pentecost. If the foundation of this church is founded upon receiving the Holy Ghost surely it is still for us today. How silly to say that God does not give this experience today when people all around Booneville are receiving it. In their homes, in prayer meetings, in services God is pouring out the Holy Ghost and it is for you to receive also. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you."

The New Testament church is founded upon this and there is no other foundation that can be laid. Search the scriptures and let the Lord give you everything he wants to give you. You can be born again!

Mississippi Governor Receives Warm Welcome In Japan

Gov. Bill Waller reported last week the Mississippi Far East trade mission had received a warm welcome in Tokyo and Japanese businessmen seemed interested in Mississippi.

"We are seeking industry to fill in our present agricultural base," he said. "Mississippi could reap two or three times more benefit from our agricultural production if we could process our raw cotton and soybeans."

He pointed out that we now ship most of our raw cotton and soybeans to companies outside of the state.

"If we could turn out shirts or other cotton products in Mississippi, our return would be considerably greater," said the governor.

Soybean meal cake and meat fillers were given as examples of finished soybean products.

"After the refining and processing step, we must make an effort on the selling and marketing level," he said.

"There must be a continuous demand for what we can grow," he said.

Waller said the Japanese were interested in finding new sources of food and wood products.

Another product which should be successful in Japan is catfish. The only problem, according to the governor, is the Japanese are not eating anything like catfish at this time, so catfish would first have to be test marketed in Japan.

"We would like to see them try our catfish," he said, "Not only here but in other Far Eastern countries."

Gov. Waller feels that the trade mission is successful, "we're ahead of other states in seeking out individual companies."

"The Japanese are learning about Mississippi," he said, "and they like what they hear."

The members of the trade mission are "very excited about the contacts they have made."

"They feel that this visit will lead to substantial business in the future," Gov. Waller commented.

The Mississippi delegation is scheduled to return to Mississippi on July 9 following business appointments in Osaka, Hong Kong and Singapore. The Japanese mission is the first major foreign economic venture by Mississippi.

Next Saturday, July 14, will mark the first of three Saturdays of the Governor's First annual Youth Fishing Rodeo.

Awards will go to girls and boys in three age groups: six to nine years, ten to 12 years, and 13-15 years, for the biggest fish by weight and the most fish on a string.

Next Saturday the Fishing Rodeo will be held in Southern Mississippi as the following lakes and times: Bogue Homa Lake near Laurel, 8-11 a.m.; Paul Johnson State Park near Hattiesburg, 9-noon; Flint Creek Park near Wiggins, 1-4 p.m.; Percy Quin State Park near McComb, 2-5 p.m.

Dr. Robert S. Brown, Superintendent of the School for the Deaf, has announced that Gloria Bennett of Biloxi and Bobbie Scurlock of Coffeeville were selected to represent the United States in the World Game for the Deaf at Malmö, Sweden July 21-28.

The Mississippi Park Commission has recently made improvements in many of the State Parks in Mississippi.

A new cafeteria has just opened at Tombigbee State Park and a lakeside amphitheater is also in the final development stage at the park.

At Percy Quin State Park a miniature golf course has just been completed and four new centrally heated and cooled duplex cabins are now available for the public to rent at Yocona Ridge State Park.

Gov. Waller has called for special study committees to look into the state's highway construction and public education systems. In his weekly, TALK WITH THE GOVERNOR radio program, Gov. Waller said Mississippians "must come to grips with the reality that we simply have a 'horse and buggy' system of highway construction."

He noted that Mississippi is the only state in the nation which doesn't have a statewide system of highway construction, and the governor said the slow pace of construction illustrates that changes in the system are needed. He said a legislative study committee is now looking into new laws concerning highway construction.

In response to a question concerning vocational training centers in the state, the governor said this brings out a major problem with our system of public education. Gov. Waller said that most secondary schools in Mississippi teach only college preparatory material, leaving students without basic labor skills.

He stressed that a balanced educational program is necessary, but said that "our schools must furnish students with the necessary practical skills with which to make a living."

Gov. Waller disclosed that a special committee of educators, businessmen, and legislators is being set up to look at the whole concept of public education in Mississippi.

The Mississippi Marine Resources Council reports the recently released 1973 edition of THREATENED WILDLIFE OF THE UNITED STATES, published by the U. S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service list three species in danger of extinction which are found in the coastal zone of Mississippi. According to the publication, the American alligator, Southern Bald Eagle, and the Sandhill Crane are in danger of extinction.

Gov. Waller recently signed up for the first Series E Savings Bond offered in a Payroll Savings Bond Campaign for state employees. The campaign gets underway July 9 and closes July 20.

In signing up for the Savings Plan the governor said, "Maintaining a healthy economy by controlling inflation has placed a special importance on this year's campaign. By buying Savings Bonds, employees will be doing themselves a real service while taking stock in America."

County Gets Over $100,000 In State Petroleum Money

Prentiss County has received $107,726 as its share of a petroleum tax surplus fund amounting to almost $11 million and distributed this month by the state motor vehicle comptroller's department.

Comptroller Doxy Fisher said in announcing the surplus that it was the largest ever returned to the counties. Distribution of the $10,739,868 surplus was authorized in 1966 and is based on the amount each county received from petroleum taxes at that time. However, it was some three years later in 1969 before the fund had grown large enough to make a distribution from surplus money in the state account.

"This year's surplus, in addition to being the largest ever returned to the counties, is also part of the largest year of total collections ever received by our department," said Fisher.

were in excess of $115 million, or a rise of eight per cent over the $107 million collected in the previous 12-month period.

Under provisions of state law, each county has already received from the motor vehicle comptroller $190,000 as its basic share of state petroleum revenues. The amount now distributed back to the county is over and above the basic amount set out in the law.

"The law requires that we divide any surplus money three ways," said Fisher. "We first have to divide the total amount of money into three equal parts."

"The first third is then divided equally among all the counties. The next third is split up according to the population of the county, while the last third is divided based on the square miles in each county."

Administration of the state's fuel tax laws is handled by the petroleum tax division of the motor vehicle comptroller's department. Other major sections of the department include the liquefied compressed gas division which is concerned with butane gas safety; the privilege tax division which administers Mississippi's truck weight limits, operates weighing scales at enter points into the state, and enforces the state's license tag laws; and the title division which administers the motor vehicle title act.

Field employees of the motor vehicle comptroller live in most Mississippi towns and cities but work under the direction of the agency's headquarters office in Jackson.

Farmers To Feel Fuel Shortage Pinch In '74

MISSISSIPPI STATE, Miss. Mississippi farmers can look for the possibility of a scarcity of fuel for producing their 1974 crop, according to John L. McVey, leader of the Extension agricultural engineering department at Mississippi State University.

"We haven't had much of a fuel shortage on farms this year, but there is an energy crisis, and we're likely to feel its effects more strongly next year," he said.

Because of this possibility the specialist said farmers will be keeping a reasonable amount of fuel on hand. "Most farmers will keep their available tanks filled with fuel, and will buy only to replace the fuel as it is used," McVey continued. "This will prevent a seasonal rush for fuel and if a temporary shortage occurs, most farmers will have enough to carry them through the shortage period." Most of the heavy, fuel-demanding work for this year's crop has been done. However, operators will be using additional fuel in harvesting the crop. "When growers have a choice of equipment, they are choosing smaller, more efficient tractors for the light work," he added. "While these savings may be insignificant on an individual farm, the savings statewide will be meaningful."

The engineer said proper fuel storage will increase efficiency by reducing evaporation losses. "As much as three percent of above-ground stored fuel can be lost in dark-colored, unshaded tanks. This loss can be reduced by using a special pressure vent cap, locating tanks in a cool place and by painting the outside white. Underground storage tanks are also good," McVey continued.

Although diesel fuel can be stored for several years under ideal conditions, most growers will plan on only about one year's storage because of the chance of contamination by water, rust, etc. Gasoline should be stored for no longer than six months.
