Blue Devils Picked For 'Number 1' In Conference

According to the balloting, Booneville High School's Blue Devils will be on the top of the heap in football this year.

At least that's how the 10 coachs whose teams compete in the round robin have figured it in the 20th annual pre-

Blue Devil Coach Jim Drewry was very happy that the team had been voted to be in the number one spot. Drewry said that "we've got a lot of work ahead of us ... but we've also got the boys that can do the job." He went further in saying that this position automatically puts pressure on the boys, and makes them work a little harder.

There's sort of a three-way logiam at the top of the heap with defending champion Fulton a nearby second and then relative newcomer Houston.

The Blue Devils attracted six first-place votes, while the Indians counted three and the Hilltoppers had one. Coaches do not vote for their own ball clubs.

Ripley's Tigers and Shannon's Red Raiders round out the upper division choices.

The Blue Devils, charter member of the conference, along with Shannon, have never managed a championship although they've made a stout run for it in more recent years.

Both Houston and Saltillo are new faces.

Fairley Speaks

The Booneville Breakfast Civitan Club enjoyed a very interesting and informative program by Kenneth Fairley at its August 2, meeting. Mr. Fairley is the Dire-

The Bureau of Narcotics is the newest agency in law enforcement in the state being formed in 1971 as the Bureau of Drug Enforcement. In its two years of existance it has grown from one agent and one secretary to about fifty employees with plans for continued expansion. Mr. Danny Lowery of Booneville is one of the fifty mentioned.

The Bureau serves as a resource to aid local law enforcement agencies -- primarily by performing under-cover work. Approximately 95% of their arrest are in the area of drug sales.

Figuring this year's champion is more demanding than usual for six of the 10 coaches are new on the job and making pre-game preparations will prove uncertain.

year ago the coaches correctly named Fulton to finish out in front and the Indians responded in style with an unbeaten 10-game march through the season.

In the voting, Fulton picked up four second place votes, while the Blue Devils counted one third place tally. The 'Toppers drew one fourth place ballot.

Booneville seems to have the most returning talent this time, but Coach Jim Drewry is concerned about his lines, offensive and defensive.

Fulton, of course, has had some new-arrivals in the offseason and obviously the moment of a winning season as a solid starting place when the firing starts.

At Houston, Coach Bill Rish proposes to use the impetus of the school's first winning season in a long time as a starting plus some of the best front line talent he's seen. Depth, of course, is a problem everywhere in this conference where two-platoon football has long ago given way to going both

Investing In America's Future

It's a truism that the more complex our society becomes, the greater the need for better trained, better edlucated people. The demand for higher skills, whether in the fields of farming and agriculture, in electronics and engineering, in medicine and in science, all require extra and additional knowledge and training beyond the public and high school lewel.

America has also fostered the belief that eweryone in our great country, whether from a poor family or a rich family, should have an equal opportunity to forge ahead -- as far and as high as his abilities and ambition could take him.
Unfortunately, economic facts of life have posed a very real obstacle to such goals and needs. Evem the moderate income family, today, often finds the cost of higher ecucation -- as much as $2,500 a year, or $10,000 for a full four years, a staggering if not insurmountable burden.

A major breakthrough was achieved in 1972, when Congress initiated a government sponsored, but privately financed corporation, known as the "Student Loan Marketing Association" "Sallie Mae." Operating under government charter, and backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government, lending institutions such as banks, savings and educactional institutions are currently purchasing stock in Sallie Mae. Beginning this Fall of '73, these funds will be available to lending institutions dealing in student loans. Such student loans may then be retained, sold to Sallie Mae or presented to Sallie Mae as collateral for additional student lending purposes. The result will be a vast increase in the amount of

is one of the best investments an individual can make. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, a 4-year college graduate will earn, on the average, an income nearly $4,400. higher per year than the average high school graduate; or, $200,000 more over a 45-year period of gainful employment. A $200,000 return on a $10,000 investment isn't bad. Even more important, however, is that the whole "Sallie Mae"

Buy 'American' Tomatoes

Experts believe that the exotic tomato origina ted in Bolivia, South America. In the 16th Century, the tomato was known in such places as France, Italy, Spain and Eingland. But it was not until 1781 that the first record was made of an "American" tomato -- planted and raised by Thomas Jefferson. Today, the Tomato is Big Business, raised iin every State in the Union, and especially in Florida and Texas, where the plant is grown and harvested all year 'round.

Unfortunately, the American -- and in particular, the Florida -- tomato is under attack; by, of all people, some of the self-"consumerism" representatives, who are propagandizing against the American-grown tomatoes in favor of those raised in Mexico.

'Tis true that the imported varieties are cheaper, mostly because the Mexican harvest worker is paid only one-fifth the wages enjoyed by Florida farm workers; and costs in Mexico are $200 per acre compared to $600 am acre in Flo-But it could be that another reason why our homegrown Florida tomatoes draw a consistently better market price is because U. S. consumers prefer their firm feel and good flavour.

Another focus of attack is because the "consumerists" have discovered the fact that most Florida tomatoes, these days, are picked when mature but still green, and then ripened with ethylene gas. They worry that they "are not as nutritious." Fact is, as far back as 1969 eminent scientists reported, after extensive research, in the Annual Review of Plant Physiology that ethylene treated fruits "proved to have the same nutritional values as those harvested at the same time and allowed to ripen without treatment."

Our Florida tomato industry is fighting for survival against cheaper Mexican brands which have already captured more than half our U. S. market. It doesn't make sense that some city-based American journalists and consumer groups should go on the attack against our domestic tomato farmers who, with all other farmers, have enough problems on their resources available for loans to qualified students. Vocational and technical schools, as well as accredited colleges and universities, are eligible. Statistics show that borrowing money to "buy" an education concept represents a very real investment in America's future.

When Clothes Make The Man

Many restaurants now carry a special sign on the entrance door -- no shirt, no shoes, no food. This simply means you cannot enter this restaurant unless you are dressed right. But, do you know that you cannot enter heaven unless you

The Bible, for example, says, "My soul shall be joyful in my God, for He hath clothed me with the garments of salvation. He hath covered me with the robe of righteousness" (Isaiah 61:10). Again, the Bible says, "But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested ... even the righteousness of God which is by faith in Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe" (Romans 3:21, 22). Notice that distinction: the righteousness of God is unto all, but only upon all them that believe.

But, what does the Bible mean by this term, the righteousness of God? A careful study of the New Testament will indicate that this term includes three distinct ideas: what God is; what God requires; what God provides.

First, the righteousness of God refers to what God is in Himself. God is absolutely holy. God is perfect righteousness. The Bible says, "God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all" (First John 1:5).

Secondly, the term, the righteousness of God, refers to what God requires of sinful men. The Bible says, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). The glory of God is simply the sum of all the revealed attributes of God. The highest of these attributes is the right-eousness of God. So we might paraphrase, "For all have sinned and come short of the righteousness of God." God has only one standard by which He measures sinners, and that is His own perfect righteousness.

Now this fact casts us all into hopeless despair, for none of us can ever measure up to God's perfect standard, for the Bible says, "There is none righteous, no, not one" (Romans

However, there is a third use of this term, the righteousness of God, and this use of the term refers to what God freely offers to believeing sinners. The Bible says, "Even the righteousness of God which is through faith in Jesus Unrist unto all and upon all them that believe" (Romans 3:22). Here the righteousness of God is pictured as a garment that is placed by God upon all them that believe. When a sinner admits that he is spiritually bankrupt and cannot measure up to God's standard, then God offers to that man that perfect righteousness which Jesus Christ has provided through His death upon the cross. When a man by faith receives Christ as Savior, righteousness of God is credited to him as an asset. God's righteousness covers him as a garment.

The explanation of this parable is to be found in the oriental custom of that day whereby the king provided the outward garment for every person who came to a royal wedding. To enter the royal wedding feast a man must wear the garment the king provided. In the parable of Matthew 22, when the king spotted the man who did not have on the proper wedding garment, the king immediately had the man cast into outer darkness. The only men who could remain at the wedding feast where those who were clothed in the garment which the king provided. And, my friend, thus it is with the King of Kings; for God has prepared a marriage supper, and He has provided His own righteousness as your perfect garment to enter the feast. He offers this garment to all who will believe in His Son. God commands that we appear before Him dressed in this righteousness alone. Woe be unto the man who dares to appear before god in some garment of his own providing. He will be cast into outer darkness.

But if a man will by simply faith receive the garment God has provided, then God will clothe him in the perfect righteousness of Jesus Christ. This will fit him for God's presence throughout all eternity. This is to be dressed in the righteousness of the Lord Jesus Christ. This is to be fitted for heaven. This is to be ready to die.

DEAR PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: Who is supposed to be the head of the house? PROFESSOR WILLIAMS: This question can be answered in three ways. Biblically speaking, the male iss the unquestioned head of the house. God gave man full authority over his household. Even up to the recent past, the husband and father was still the head of his house. All activities were under his command. He gave the orders; and exerted supreme authority over all the family members and their activities. However, as a sociologist, I am fully aware of cultures such as among certain Indian tribes and is land groups where the female was and still is to some extent the dominant figure. These cultures have never been exposed to western thought and religion which has had so much to do with the

Today, the modern American family is quite different. The very fact that democracy emphasizes equality has had an influence in developing the attitude that no one person is the head, in the family, as such. Responsibilities are shared according to the situation. In the modern American family, no one person is the head; more likely than not the husband and wife share in responsibilities and decision making with the children taking more and more part as they grow older. Family ties are based more on companions hip and psychological considerations rather than the traditional concept of the father being the authoritarian figure. The growing emphasis on women's liberation and the opening up of employment another professional opportunities for wives has further made the modern American family more equalitarian in na-

I feel that young people should be more selective in whom they date in regard to race, religion, social and economic background and general philosophy of life. Often, a couple finds themselves unable or not wanting to stop a romance once it gets started. This can be understood; but what can be done before this situation is reached is to not date indiscriminately and not put oneself in a position to helplessly and hopelessly grow to love a person who might make the worst possible husband or wife.

Areas that are to be formed this fall should be harvested as early as possible. Soil samples should be taken as soon as land forming has been completed to find out any special fertility requirements. Never make deep cuts that will expose unpro-

grasses and weeds. Take soil samples to find our if lime is needed. Apply it during the fallowing period between diskings so that the lime will become thoroughly mixed with the soil.
SILAGE HARVESTING -

The silage you feed next fall and winter will be no better than what you put into the silo. One common mistake is harvesting silage too early. This early harvesting when moisture is too high causes excessive runoff, poor fermentation and loss of nutrients.

Corn should be cut for silage when grain moisture is around 35 percent and the grain is fully dented. Total plant moisture should be around 70 percent.

Sorghum should be cut when the grain moisture is 35 percent and the grain is in the hard dough state. Total plant moisture should be around 70 percent or slightly

Since the opening lead, forcing South to ruff, had reduced his trump holding to four in hand, and facing East's double declared could see trouble brewing up the road if he permit-ted himself to become careless. In addition to scoring five trump tricks the hearts must run, or be established and if hearts won't produce six tricks the spade finesse must work.

Let's assume declarer pulls two trump, only to learn they are divided four - one, now any at-tempt to establish hearts round of hearts from the closed hand will be trumped and declarer ends up two tricks short on any line of play from here on

Because my partners are always excellent play-ers (at least that's what I always tell them; you'd be surprised at how much better they play) this did not happen to us in this case. Here is one of the most beautiful examples of disaster preclusion planning that you will ever see.

After ruffing the open ing diamond South lead the ace of hearts to test the suit and observed the drop of the jack by East. He may be false carding, and maybe not, but we can't afford to have a heart honor ruffed so South decided to continue hearts, only this time he must lead from dummy.

Since the spade finesse must be attempted even-tually declarer crossed to dummy successfully fi-nessed the spade queen and lead a small heart. East ruffed and South played small thus estab-lishing the suit. The ruff by East was the only trick for the defense as South now can win any return, draw trumps and claim the balance. South utilized a clever and effective play in permitting East's ruff of the heart suit without sacrificing an honor. It had the same result as if declarer had been able to ruff a small heart in dummy on his second lead of hearts, namely establishment of the suit. It is almost always safer to lead up to your high cards rather than just flopping them down on the table, don't you think? And besides it lends a little more guesswork to the game, and is more likely to promote a misplay by the defenders.

On the morning of the Stephens-Cartwright Wedding, August 4, at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Da-Harold Prichard, and Mrs. La Beaume Peeler honored the bridegroom, Cliff, and his attendants with a buffett bachelor's breakfast in the elegant Wickwood home of the Travis Cart-wrights.

The guests were received by Mr. Cartwright and his sons, Terry and Gary, in the living room and then moved into the den where their places were marked with minature ceramic groomsmen. The "grooms garter" was also at the bridegroom's place. The tables were covered with gayly colored linen cloths and centered with various species of china birds.

The dining table was overlaid with a pink linen cloth with a center piece arrangement in a physician's medical kit containing pink lilies, gyposophila, pink doctor's roses, and white hydrangeas, which was indicative of Cliff's future profession, as he will enter the birds were place on either side. Gleaming silver trays and chafing dishes held delectable breakfast foods.

University of Mississippi Medical School this fall. Love

Carolyn Stephens, bride-elect of Cliff Cartwright, was honored with a delightful kitchen shower.

The shower was given by Mrs. Aaron Dillon, Mrs. Otis Cox, Mrs. W. B. White and Mrs. Joseph Hurst at the home of Mrs. Hurst. The guests were greeted for this happy informal occasion by Mrs. Hurst, presented to Carolyn and her mother, Mrs. Audie Stephens. Carolyn, radiant in a lovely beige dress with a glamellia cor-safe, chatted with each guest who then circulated and vi-sited with Mrs. Merril Cart-wright, mother of the groomelect, Mrs. Frank Windham, maternal grandmother of the groom-elect, and Miss Christi Cartwright, sister of the groom-elect. The guests registered at an antique marble-topped table high-lighted with a Tiffany rose bud in a milk glass bud vase.

at the refreshment table, which was covered with a beautiful Madeira hand-made embroidered and cutwork linen cloth which Mrs. Dillon bought when she lived in Italy. The table was centered with an outstanding arrangement of Roses, Fern and Baby's Breath. The roses were from the garden of Mrs. W. V. Kemp and Dr. Paul C. Elizey. The roses were arranged and the pretty and useful kitchen corsages were made by "Flowers by Ted."

Chandeliers brought out the sparkle of the silver punch bowl and the silver and crystal trays which held a variety of hors d'oeuvres and cookies made by the hostesses. Mrs. Dillon, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. White circulated in their charming manner, greeting, serving and visiting with the guests.

After refreshments were served, everyone gathered in the large family room and had a wonderful time visiting and watching Carolyn, who was assisted by Christi, as she opened and displayed many nice gifts. After all gifts were opened, all kitchen corsages were presented to Carolyn for use in her kitchen.

THE UNITED STATES' CROWN JEWELS

You are one of the owners of one of the most fabulous gem collections in the world. It is the National Gem Collection which is exhibited in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. When you visit our nation's capitol, be certain to take in our "crown jewels," they rival the

The collection actually started, in 1884, as an exhibit of American precious stones, part of the Smithsonian Institution's display at the New Orleans Exposition. The growth of the collection was slow, but became important around the turn of the century, when a large number of important stones and an endowment fund were bequeathed to the Smithsonian

Perhaps the most famous gemstone in the collection is the beautiful, blue Hope Diamond. It is a plum-sized 44.5 carats and is on display by itself in a specially created case - as it deserves.

The largest diamond in the collection is the colorless, 127 carat Portuguese Diamond. It was mined in Brazil. The Shephard Diamond, 18.3 carats, is a lovely yellow stone.

Another crowd-pleasing gem is the fantastic Star of Asia. It is a 330 carat blue star sapphire. Its size and perfect star make it a natural wonder. There are over a dozen notable sapphires at the Smithsonian. The collection grows every year.

Every major gemstone is represented, usually in large size. Ruby, emerald, topaz, garnet, opal...they are all here, glittering and glowing. They are enough to quicken any jeweler's - anyone's! -

Gemstones represent a way of life for me, so I am particularly pleased that our country has the National Gem Collection.

Too Few Realize Production's Role

Congressman Whitten speaking in Washrecently expressed concern and disappointment that there is so little understanding of the place agriculture holds in our economy as well as in our lives.

"At a time of food shortage, of an energy crisis, of high prices and declining value of the U.S. dollar abroad, we find too few who realize that the amswer is more production."

As Chairman off the Agriculture, Environmental, and Consuemr Protection Subcommittee, the Congressman said: "We find too many not satisfied with protecting public health and life, and by imposing restrictions, they not only require use of the dangerous instead of the safe, but are making

Congressman Whitten, ranking Member of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives stated he was glad to see the bombing of Cambodia rapidly coming to a halt as a result of his successful motion, requiring that it cease by August 15. "Senior membership on the Appropriations Committee gives me an excellent opportunity. It was because of this that we were able to save Title I funds for education under the Continuing Resolution.

"This will prevent a loss to Mississippi of fifty percent of the funds available last year for the underpri-vileged and disabled," he

On Flood Control and Navigation, the Congressman pointed out that the additional $3.5 million for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Project which he and his committee got through the Congress will be used for construction, including excavation, of the Divide Cut portion located in Northeast Mississ-

First of all I'd like to get some names of these critters in the open. They are called red bugs, harvest mites, itch mites, scrub mites, bichos colorados, betes rouges, rouget, herbstimilben, alamushi, kedani and tsutsugamushi. These names will take you around the world, but don't forget to stop off in the Mediterranean for a breather because there aren't any chiggers there.

You'll likely find chiggers in undisturbed soil, where there are many small animals and little grazing or walking. They like thickets or scrubtype vegetation, of the House and Senate: "The managers again direct the Corps to proceed with the upper auxiliary channel, or alternate means of drainage, and the Ascalmore-Tippo and Opposum Bayous Projects.

'It is noted that this year's flood waters would have been approximately six feet lower had these projects been completed.

"In reference to the Yazoo Basin reservoirs, the is urged to expedite the updating of the master plan to bring up to national standards the provision of recreational facilities, including the upgrading of access roads.

"Yazoo Basin: 'Provided. that not less than $250,000 shall be available for bank stabilization measures as determined by the Chief of Engineers to be advisable for the control of bank erosion of streams in the Ya-zoo Basin, including the foothill area, and where necessary such measures shall complement similar works planned and constructed by the Soil Conservation Service and be limited to the areas of responsibility mutually agreeable to the District Engineer.' "

$350,000 was provided for the Ascalmore-Tippo and Opposum Bayou project, $400,000 for planning and specification, and $700, 000 for construction of the upper auxiliary channel or alternate means of drainage.

Continuation of recreation works for the four reservoirs, Arkabutla, Enid, Grenada, and Sardis, were provided for and the Corps of Engineers was di-rected to start work on the necessary access roads.

wedding eve, Friday evening, August 3, at 7 o'clock.
The Cartwright home was beautifully decorated with summer flowers. A crystal bowl containing sweetheart roses and gypsophila was placed on the table in the foyer where the guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright.

After the Invocation given by Michael Johnson, a groomsman in the wedding, a delicious three course dinner was enjoyed by the guests seated at tables for four covered with yellow and white checked cloths. The dessert table was overlaid with a gold net cloth over gold satin and centered with a colorful arrangement of flowers in a low green crystal container.

The bride-elect wore a floor length gown of yellow crepe with a gift corsage of white carnations tied with blue ribbons. Mrs. Cartwright was attired in a forskirt.

The bridal couple chose this occasion to present their attendants with gifts. Miss Stephens gave her attendants gold and pearl necklaces, and Mr. Cartwright presented his with engraved key chains, and the ring bearer with an identification bracelet. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond pendant.

Thirty-six guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright, including members of the wedding or community service in the book. Less than 2% of the junior and senior class

students nation-wide are awarded this recognition.

New Tire Rotation System Adopted

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- A system of automobile tire rotation for maximum safe tread life has been adopted by tire industry experts, the Tire Industry Safety Council reports today in a new edition of its "Consumer Tire Guide." Using the newsystem, bias and belted bias rear tires should be moved straight forward, and front tires crisscrossed to the rear wheels. The old rotation sys-em was the reverse, tem front tires moved straight back and rear tires crosscrossed forward. The new Guide also includes a rotation pattern for radial tires.

Radials should be ex-changed front and rear on the same side of the automobile, the experts say. They should never be crisscrossed.

"Proper rotation procedures are spelled out in detail in the new Guide primarily because they are an in portant tire safety pre-caution," said Council Cha-irman Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr.

"Premature and uneven tire wear can cause poor steering response and pos-sible sudden tire dis-ablement," Mr. Lovell explained.

"To realize the full potential of tread life, tires should be rotated at 6,000 to 8,000 mile intervals," the new Guide says.
"The first such rotation is by far the most impor-tant in setting the stage for long even tire wear," the Guide emphasizes, adding, "In some instances, if irregular wear begins to develop, rotation will be advis-able at less than 6,000 miles."

The Guide says that inflation should be rechecked after rotation to get proper front and rear pressure relationship.

Rotation time is also a good time to inspect tires for damage and to remove foreign objects embedded in the tread, the Guide suggests.

The Guide cautions that if different types of tires are used on front and rear axles, they should be rotated on the same axle.

The new, blue-collored Guide can be obtained free of charge on request to: "Tire Safety," Box 726, Niew York, New York 10010. Include a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envellope.
