Hanging Is Termed Suicide

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

Prentiss County Sheriff Ralph Martin said Monday that a 59-year old New Albany woman who had been placed in the Prentiss County Jail for public drunkenness before dawn Saturday apparently hanged herself only hours later with a jail blanket.

Prentiss County Coroner Macky Gann said Monday he has tentatively called the death of Rosie Lee Deaton a suicide.

pending the results of an autopsy which was performed Sunday afternoon. He said autopsy results may not be available for "several weeks."

Sheriff Martin said that the woman had been placed in jail about 1 Saturday morning. She had been arrested in Baldwin about 12:30 a.m., and the driver of the car she was in who also arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated, according to Baldwin Police Chief John Conlee.

Baldwin police tried unsuccessfully to find a way to get the woman home after the pair was transported to the county jail. The woman was taken to the jail in Booneville because the only cell available in Baldwin was full, the chief said.

Sheriff Martin said that after being searched she was issued a blanket because it was a "cool night" and placed in the women's section of the jail. Her cell is separated from the other cells by whitewashed brick walls.

Radio operator Glenn Honeycutt said the woman was "beating on the bars and hollering" after she was placed in the cell.

The operator checked on her about 3:30 after she became quiet and found her body, the sheriff said. The operator called deputy Jeff Jackson, and the two men attempted unsuccessfully to revive her because the body was still warm, he added.

Mrs. Deaton had torn the reddish blanket, fashioned one end into a noose, and wrapped other end around the whitewashed mesh around the cell. She jumped from the top of a double bunk bed, the sheriff said.

She was found with her feet dragging the floor and apparently died of strangulation, the sheriff and the coroner said. She did not appear to sustain a broken neck, both men added.

They added it was the first suicide in memory at the county jail.

Rains Slowing Farm Planting

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

The recent rains that have hit Prentiss County and the surrounding area have put farmers about two weeks behind in breaking land and putting in crops.

"The latest soybean market information shows that farmers should be looking at booking now. Beans are now $7 and with the world supply this, fall and next year, the price may drop. Farmers should seriously consider taking the present price," he said.

If the weather stays good, however, county farmers should be able to get their largest cash crop—about 56,000 acres of soybeans—planted and develop a more abundant crop than last year.

That was the assessment of Prentiss County Agent W.H. Haden, who outlined the farm situation in Prentiss County last week.

"We were fortunate in this area because we didn't have too much damage from flooding. We didn't have any serious damage problems, but the rains have put us about two weeks behind with farming and breaking land," he said.

He said that "almost nothing" has been planted to date, due to having only three or four good working days in the field during the past several weeks.

"We need some sunshine so we can start the groundwork before the soybeans crops are put in this year. Farmers need to disc their land, then apply fertilizer and leek control chemicals.

"After that's done farmers will be putting in their soybeans from May 15 to June 15. Some beans may be put in after that time but it will probably cause a reduction in yield," the county agent said.

"If we have good weather this year, our soybean crop yield should be better than last year. We had a drought then and most farmers only averaged about 15-16 bushels per acre.

"If we have the weather and moisture, the 800 or so farms on which soybeans are raised

In other areas, the county agent had the following assessments:

—Livestock: "I've seen some people building fences and putting in cattle that haven't done so in four or five years. The rising beef prices have developed an interest in raising cattle."

—Cotton: "There's been no cotton planted to date that I know of, but Prentiss County produces very little cotton anyway," he said, usually less than 1,000 acres.

—Hogs: Prentiss County's early April hog sale was the best ever. It was the first sale of 1979 in the state, and there were 1921 pigs sold at an average of 91 cents per pound. He termed the hogs "probably the best group we've had quality wise."

—Pimento Peppers: Two very poor years have brought about sharp reductions in pimento pepper farming in the county. About 37½ acres will be planted this year, down from 160 acres in 1976. Dry weather has hurt the crop, he said.

—Corn: The rains delayed corn planting severely, the county agent said, noting that planting should have been done in April. The late planting will put the county's approximately 3,000 acres of corn into a summer maturity date, when the crop will be hurt by insects and dry weather.

—Cucumbers: There will only be about 10 acres of cucumbers planted in the

2 Charged With Larceny

Two people were charged with petty larceny by Booneville city police earlier this week, according to city police records.

Mary Flory of Charleston, S.C. and Charlotte Mullinex of Tupelo were charged in connection with attempts to take money from several soft drink machines in Booneville.

The two were arrested after allegedly being seen trying to get money from three different machines, according to records.

Records also indicated that 13 different soft drink machines were tampered with, according to people who called in to police to complain about the tampering.

The two people are free on $500 bond pending further action on the misdemeanor charges, according to records.

Records also indicated that a Chevrolet belonging to Peggy Tenseener was stolen from the Davidson Chevrolet garage last week. The car was later recovered in a creek in Tippah.

Title XX Funds Assured

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

The Prentiss County School Board Wednesday learned that federal Title XX funds will continue to come into the county, at least through September.

In other action during the meeting, the board accepted several letters of resignation and hired one new teacher.

County Supt. of Education Lex Cain showed the board a letter dated May 1 he had received from Jack Byars, commissioner of the State Department of Public Welfare, confirming that Title XX funds would not be cut off May 31 as previously planned.

Byars' letter said that the federal department of health Education and Welfare had advised the department of public welfare by telephone on April 26 that "a change in interpretation" of federal rules would allow the department to continue the use of Title XX funds to provide day care services to handicapped children.

The letter said the contract would not be cancelled on May 31 but would continue to the regularly scheduled date of termination, which will be in September for the Prentiss County Child Development program which handles the handicapped preschool program here.

The letter regretted "any inconvenience and anxiety these issued may have caused."

PCCD officials had recently been told the federal funds would be cut off May 31 because federal officials had questioned the use of the money for the preschool program.

The turnabout by welfare officials was good news, but still left the county with the problem of finding about $60,000 in matching funds to draw the approximately $187,000 in federal funds.

Sewage Line Tests Are Set

If you see smoke pouring out of a manhole in Booneville sometime during the next few months, don't be alarmed. It's just city employees testing the city's sewage lines for leaks.

Marvin Burcham, manager of the city's gas and water department, said recently that the city will be testing its sewage lines for leaks and flow.

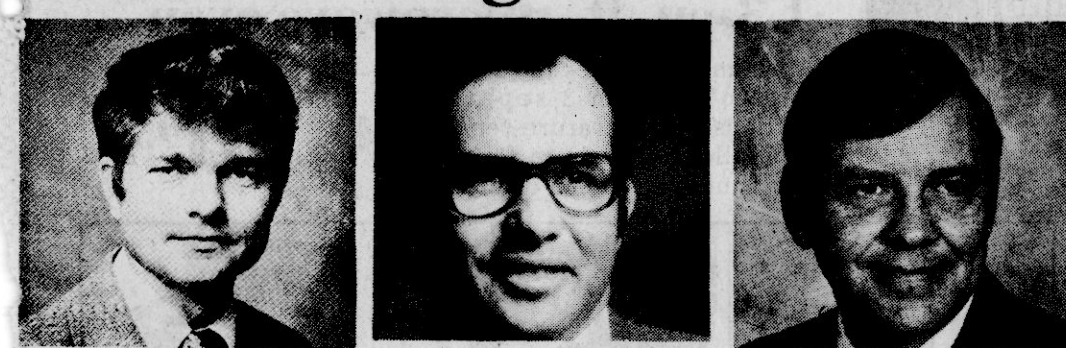

To do that, city employees will hang a smoke flare inside a manhole and use a fan to blow the smoke through the lines. Smoke escaping from the lines will tell the workers where any leaks to be repaired in the lines are, Burcham said.

The work to check the lines was recommended by the consulting engineering firm of Cook-Coggins of Tupelo.

Burcham added that the work was also being done as part of the federal 201 water treatment plan requirements.

He added that some city streets will be damaged since some of the manholes are buried under blacktop, and added that he hoped no one would be inconvenienced by the work.

Trio Seeking Office

McCoy

William J. (Billy Joe) McCoy of Booneville announces that he intends to qualify and be a candidate for the office of State Representative, District 3, in the August Democratic Primary. If elected, he would represent the citizens of Prentiss County's First, Second, and Fifth Supervisory Districts and those who vote in the Alcorn County Precincts of acinto, Rienzi, Biggersville, ethel, and Union.

McCoy, who is an employee of the Mississippi State Department of Audit, will inquisish his duties with the department of Audit in early e, and will formally qualify begin actively campaigning for the office at that

Stewart

Zack Stewart of New Albany today authorized the Banner-Independent to formally announce his candidacy for the office of Northern District Highway Commissioner in the August 7, Democratic Primary.

In making his statement to the voters, he said that, "I'm entering the race for highway commissioner because of my concern for the lack of direction and credibility of our road program and the seemingly growing disregard for what the people think about highway department operation.

"As long as we have controversy, flip-flopping on vital public issues and mis-direction

Richardson

The first term incumbent Highway Commissioner for the Northern District, Bobby G. Richardson, has authorized the Banner-Independent to announce Richardson qualified in early January of this year for the office and issued the following statement to the people of the Northern District.

"First, I want to sincerely express my thanks and appreciation for the overwhelming vote of more than 150,000 votes I received four years ago. The confidence you expressed in me by this vote, challenged me to do the very best possible job with the limited funds available for highways in the Northern District.

$90,000 In Fees Paid Here

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

The Prentiss County chancery clerk's office took in over $50,000 in fees for work done during 1978, while the county circuit clerk's office took in just over $15,000 for work done last year.

The county's five justice court judges reported a total of just over $23,000 compensation—with Dist. 3 reporting just over $9,000 of that—while four of the county's five constables reported just over $2,600 compensation for their work.

The figures were contained in annual financial disclosure reports filed by the officials in connection with state law 7-3-45 of the Miss. Code of 1972.

The law requires financial accounting for all elected officials whose official financial compensation comes in whole or part from fees.

A check through courthouse records revealed reports from all the officials except Dist. 3 Constable Verlon Jones. Employees in the chancery clerk's office were unable to find a copy of that report.

Deadline for filing the reports in April 15. According to state law 7-3-47, failure to file a report is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum $500 fine and a maximum six months jail sentence.

According to the reports, the Chancery Clerk Gene Gray's office took in a total of $35,120 from governmental treasuries, and another $14,929 from private individuals or firms. Total receipts came to $50,049.

Disbursements from the office included $19,195 in salaries to four office employees and $3710 for social security payments, retirement and advertising for a total of $22,906.

The records listed $27,143 received as compensation for the job of chancery clerk during 1978.

Circuit Clerk Travis Cox's reported an income of $11,740 from governmental treasuries and $3176 from private individuals or firms for a total intake of $15,076.

The report listed a payment for salaries of $3539, but listed the $15,076 figure as total compensation for the job last year.

Dist. 5 Justice Court Judge Roy Hare showed his office received $5444 as total compensation last year. The money was from fees in connection with court cases. He listed no deductions from the total.

Dist. 4 Justice Court Judge Billy Sartin showed a total income of $1269 from his office, listed a $240 rent payment and showed a net income of $1029, according to records.

Dist. 3 Justice Court Judge Joe Davis showed a total of $9030 received for his work last year. He listed no deductions.

Dist. 2 Justice Court Judge Bill Cook showed $4988 total income from his office, listed deductions of $1403 for salaries, utilities and office supplies and showed a net income of $3584.

Dist. 1 Justice Court Judge Q.D. Pollard showed a total compensation of $4648 for his office and listed no deductions, records indicated.

Dist. 5 Constable John Lambert showed a total intake of $1256, from court work, serving warrants and summons, and showed a car expense of $586 for a net income of $669 for the year.

Dist. 4 Constable Samuel Bridges showed a total income of $868, reported a $320 gasoline expense and a net income of $548, according to records.

Dist. 2 Constable Robert Moore showed total compensation of $1224 and no expenses.

Dist. 1 Constable Gayle Floyd showed a total income of $340, a car expense of $110, for a net income of $230.

Billy is 36 years old, and is married to the former Edith Leatherwood of Kossuth, and they have two children, Sam and Kim, who attend the Booneville Public Schools. He is a graduate of Booneville High School and Northeast Mississippi Junior College. He received his B.S. Degree in Agricultural Education from the Mississippi State University, and was graduated with honors.
He is a former vocational agriculture teacher in the public schools of Mississippi, and is a former loan officer with Farmers Home Administration. For the past eleven years, he has been an employee with the Mississippi State Department of Audit, and has been engaged as well in a private farming and business partnership with his father.
The McCoy's are members of Gaston Baptist Church where Billy has served as a Deacon, Sunday School teacher and Church Moderator. Billy is active in several farm organizations, and has won numerous awards in relation to his farming activities. He was selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1971. For the past 6 years, he has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Northeast Mississippi Junior College.
While announcing his intention to qualify, McCoy makes the following statement:
"The newly created Third Legislative District covers a large portion of two counties, but it is a district in which the citizens of both counties have many common goals. It is my sincere desire to serve all the people of this district and to be a true voice for them in the State House of Representatives.

"I am a native born son from the very heart of this new district, and feel that I truly know the expectations of the average voter and taxpayer concerning state and local government. I am basically a conservative in my beliefs toward the role that government should play in the average citizen's life. I believe, for the most part, that the least government is the best government. However, I recognize the role that state and local government must accept in education, transportation, health care, law enforcement, retirement programs.
"I have worked with the educational and governmental leaders of the area for many years, and feel that I know much concerning the true needs of government at the state and local level. I have also been a private businessman and farmer and know first-hand of the frustration felt by the average taxpayer toward government in general.
"Certainly, I as an individual Representative would not claim to be able to solve even a small portion of our problems by myself, but I do claim to have an uncommon desire to be your voice in the State Legislature and to put all my heart into being a true working Representative for you."

Stewart

we will never have the kind of roads we want in North Mississippi because the legislature is not going to have much support for an operation which there is little public confidence.
"My campaign for this office will be a positive one based on my own ability but I will also point out, when needed, things which need correcting within the highway operation.
"As highway commissioner I will provide the strong leadership necessary to regain the confidence of the people in the legislature. I will seek to attract our state's best young people to work within the department and I will always act in the best interest of the public on all highway matters. Your vote and support 4 years ago is deeply appreciated and I ask for your renewed efforts on my behalf in the coming months and I pledge to you to do all within my power to make the best public servant possible."
Stewart, 41, was born in Sumas (Tippah County) and is the son of the former Ollie Mae Wood and the late John Alvis Stewart, Sr. He is married to the former Betty Jo Jagers and they have four children, Jeffery Weston (16); Temple (15); Tarea Leigh (10); and Zackery Jason (6).

A graduate of Pontotoc High School, he attended Itawamba Junior College and Mississippi State University. Following college he entered the U.S. Marine Corps and upon honorable discharge served as Engineer and Chief Engineer at a television station in Columbus. From 1962-72 he served as a customer engineer with IBM Corporation and in 1972 was appointed head of Mississippi's Division of Appalachian Development.
As head of ARC over 180 projects totaling more than $72 million were approved for our state including roads, garbage collection, water and sewerage, vo-tech schools, sports, hospitals and health departments.
While serving as the director of ARC, Mr. Stewart worked toward getting Mississippi included in the Appalachian Development Highway System and in March, 1973 was able to get a corridor highway designated across our state.
In 1975, Mr. Stewart polled almost 60,000 votes in his bid for the highway commissioner's post. He is now on leave of absence as district manager for Equitable Life Assurance Society while campaigning in 1979.

county this year, and the nearest receiving station will be in Corinth. A minimum of 30 acres is needed to maintain the receiving station which this county has had in past years.

-Wheat: The county agent said the wheat crop was in "fair" condition, and said the size of the crop was about 500 acres.

Richardson

"The experience I brought to this office has rewarded you with dramatic progress for the Highway program in the 31 counties of the Northern District, with a population of approximately 900,000 people covering a broad area from the Tennessee line on the North to the Southern most part of Choctaw County and from the Alabama line on the East to the Mississippi River on the West, which includes 3,436 miles of state maintained highways.
"The progress during my administration is the results of effective leadership which I have demonstrated as your Commissioner. I have 18 years of experience as a professional Highway Engineer with work in construction, testing, maintenance, and as your Highway Commissioner.
"For two years, I was chairman of the elected Highway Commission, and have earned the respect and support of Highway Department employees and supporters of better highways for North Mississippi.
"My aggressive efforts with the Legislature have provided additional funds for highways, and I will continue to fight for a long-range highway funding program.
"My membership in the Mississippi Society of Professional Engineers, National Society of Professional Engineers, Southern Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, and the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, provides working relationships with highway professionals at the local, state and national levels and qualifies me to continue the work started during my first term.

"My record of progress in the 31 county district is outstanding and the following accomplishments show:
As of Jan. 1, 1976, $109 million of construction contracts were in progress. During my administration, $277 million of new construction contracts have been awarded. Over 101 miles of new four-lane highways have been opened to traffic, 153 miles of four-lane contracts have been awarded.
"Also, 186 miles of two-lane roads in the 31 counties of the Northern District have been opened to traffic, and or contracts awarded for reconstruction. For the first time, the Northern District is getting its fair share and more of available highway dollars. I want to continue this record of progress."
Richardson was born in Ecru, Pontotoc County, 42 years ago. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Richardson, who still live in Ecru. In 1962, he graduated from Mississippi State University with a degree in Civil Engineering, and after four years of work experience received his license as a certified engineer. Richardson is a Baptist, Mason, Shriner, Scottish Rite.
Richardson concluded, "I want to continue this 'experience at work,' with an endorsement term so that I can work for you in constructing and maintaining the kind of highway system we all want and need for the 31 county Northern District."

Junior College Trustees Accept Resignations, OK Leave Plan

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Board of Trustees accepted a letter of resignation and employed several new instructors during a short meeting Tuesday afternoon.
The board accepted the resignation from Jim Scott, the college band director. The letter takes effect at the end of this month.

Board members passed a resolution of commendation for Scott, and also authorized President Harold T. White to seek a replacement. Scott will enter private business.
The board also voted to accept faculty recommendations to hire Phillip Heaps as an instructor in respiratory therapy and Shirley Keith as a medical laboratory technology instructor.

The board passed a personal leave plan for the college instructors. Under the terms of the program, two days leave each year would be accrued toward a maximum of six days. The leave would be used for personal emergencies such as illness in the family, according to President White.

The board voted to authorize President White to purchase a learning laboratory—an audio visual device designed to aid students in learning reading and computation skills. The device will cost about $21,000 and be purchased through Delta Audio Visual Service.

In other action, the board?—Heard a short report from Dean Joe Childers that 55 first year students were enrolled in the associate degree nursing program and that 54 would be returning next year. He added that the program normally had a "high attrition rate" of students but that both student enrollment and program faculty seemed to have stabilized.
—Decided to seek bids for servicing the school's typewriters, as well as seek bids for publishing the president's annual report, and the student year book.

—Decided to allow the administration to evaluate the best bid received for the purchase of about $7,000 in welding gear for the school's vocational education program. President White will report his findings back to the next board meeting.

State welfare officials have said that minimum program funds from that department now used as match money can't be used after the PCCD program ends Sept. 31.
There aren't enough local funds in the county school system to use as match funds, and Supt. Cain said he has been unable to find another source of funding thus far.

The school board accepted resignations from Ronny Jackson, assistant football coach at Booneville High School, and Doug Holland with the PCCD.

The board voted to hire David Wilkerson at Booneville High School as an assistant football coach.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, Does the Bible tell us to tithe of all the money we make? L.S.

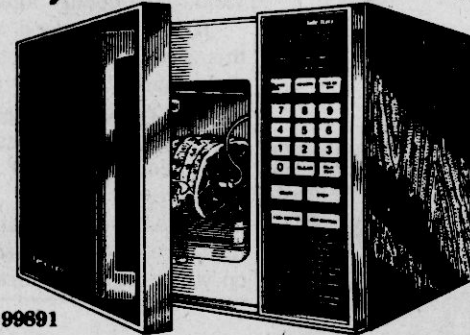

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: Your question is a good one and we will give it some attention. This may come as a surprise, especially from a preacher but God does not tell us to tithe today! He did tell the Jews under the Laws of Moses to tithe. However, you must remember he also told them to burn incense, offer animal sacrifices and have priests from Levi. Paul tells us that the Law of Moses was nailed to the cross (See Col 2:14). You see, gentle friend, if we are to tithe we would be obligated to keep the other parts of the Law of Moses. Paul said in Gal 5:3, if one is circumcised he is debtor to do the whole law. Our responsibility in giving is expressed in the New Testament in 1 Cor. 16:1-2. We are told to lay by in store as we have been prospered. When I say we are not to tithe I do not want to leave the impression that we are not to give! Indeed, the New Testament tells us to give, perhaps even greater than that of the Jews. In 2 Cor. 9:6 we are told if "WE sow sparingly we will reap sparingly," on the other hand if "We sow boundfully we will reap boundfully." Remember too, the Bible says God loves a cheerful giver (See 2 Cor. 9:7). God's work can be carried on in an adequate way when his people give as the New Testament directs.

keeping you in touch

By Bob Bartley
Corinth Manager

If you reach a wrong number, don't leave someone hanging and worrying. Speak up and explain the error. And if you reach a wrong number on a long distance call please call the operator immediately to report the problem. She will make certain that you aren't billed for the wrong number called.

Vacation travel season is here. Remember to use long distance to help plan those trips and to keep in touch after you leave home:

-If you're flying, call early to make airline reservations. Flights get booked up quickly during the summer vacation months, so call in advance.

-If you're driving, make your hotel or motel reservations in advance, especially if you're going to a resort area where rooms get booked up early.

-Check the telephone directory for a toll-free "800" reservation number before you call long distance to make travel or lodging reservations.

-Use long distance to check with your family and friends either at home or at your destination. Long distance—it's the easy, fast, inexpensive way to guarantee someone's peace of mind!

Once a year, Mother makes a special kind of jam—a Mother's Day telephone traffic jam. With so many of us wanting to talk to Mother on her day, the long distance traffic jam can get pretty sticky. So here's a special hint on how to keep your call from getting stuck in traffic. Call early—on Saturday.

If you dial your long distance Mother's Day call yourself, the One-Plus* way, on Saturday, you'll avoid the traffic and get your call through faster. Plus, you'll get the One-Plus Weekend 60% Discount all day long! (It's in effect only until 5 p.m. on Sunday.)

So, do yourself a favor and make your Mother's Day calls early.

*One-Plus rates do not apply to Zero-Plus dialed calls, operator handled calls, coin telephone calls or calls from a hotel or motel.

Discounts apply to

• total charges on One-Plus calls

• additional minute charges only on operator-assisted calls

We hope everyone has had a good week. All this rain has kinda got folks feeling blue but maybe the sunshine is here to stay for awhile.

Saturday night was our regular social. Those of you that weren't present missed some good fellowship and lots of good food.

Sunday was Fulton C.B. Club break. We all had a good time and the Northeast Mississippi C.B. Club won 2nd. place for selling the most tickets and 1st place for largest club in state.

"Blue Surf," and myself sure appreciate all you club members traveling down with us and helping us out. We couldn't have done it without your help!

Happy birthday this week to "Queen," "G. Q.," "Mississippi Shorty," "Lame Duck," and "Lady Bambi." Hope you have a real nice day and have many many more to look forward too.

We have had several of our club members under the weather this week. We sure hope everyone has a better week and feels up to par.

Thursday night May 10 is our regular officers meeting at Upholstery Man's home at 7 p.m. Everyone please be present. Also, the finance committee is supposed to get together.

"Upholstery Man," "Twitty Bird," "Chimpunk," "Buffalo," "Lady Buffalo," and family and "King and Queen" attended coffeebreak in Pocahontas, Ark., Sunday and brought back a trophy for farthest traveled club out of state at 231 miles.

Spirit of America C.B. Club jamboree is Saturday and Sunday May 12 and 13 at Springville National Guard Armory, Springville, Ala.

"Queen" what in the world happened to your hair do Saturday night? Seems like butter really had something to do with it. We've gotta hear the whole story.

Regular business meeting will be Tuesday night May 14 at Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

WIND DAMAGE—A tornado that one neighbor described as looking like "a ball of fire" touched down before dawn Friday morning and bracketed Gary and Peggy Chittom's house at 400 S. Lake St. in Booneville with fallen trees. A large oak tree was pushed over in their front yard at about 12:30 a.m. while a smaller apple tree was felled across the driveway behind their house. Gary, Peggy, and their daughter were in the house when the trees were knocked over, but there were no injuries and no major damages.

Supervisors

Accept Two Bids

The Prentiss County Board of Supervisors in recent action accepted several bids for light pickup trucks and decided to require utility companies to notify the supervisors before digging into county right of way property to place utilities.

The board accepted a $1500 bid to buy a 1971 Ford truck from W.G. Cole and an $1800 bid to buy a 1974 Chevrolet.

The two trucks will be equipped with 300 gallon water tanks and used as light fire trucks in the county. The supervisors plan to put one truck, equipped with pumper in each district to form a "quick reaction" county fire service.

The costs of mounting the tanks will be paid by the Tennessee Valley Authority under a program designed to develop the fire-truck quick reaction force.

The Ford truck will be placed in Dist. 2, while the Chevrolet will be placed in Dist. 4, according to supervisors President W.V. Horn.

In other board action, supervisors voted to require utility companies to notify the board of any digging activities planned on county right of way land.

The requirement also calls for a permit to be issued to the companies from the county engineer before any digging can take place.

The permit requirement is similar to requirements now in effect for companies that want to bury pipes or cables on right of way property for state aid roads.

The permit requirement will give the supervisors better knowledge about who is digging on road right-of-ways in their districts.

It also allows them to contact the proper parties should repairs to the roads made after the digging prove unsatisfactory, board members said.

Read Columnists

There are times in this column writing business when you need to get things off your chest. This is one of those times.

One of the realities Mississippians should understand is that none of the "political columnists" published around the state really lives and breathes true objectivity. Look closely at each columnist and you'll find him taking sides.

Look at the present governor's race, for instance. None of us columnists has blatantly stated "I am for so and so." But that is exactly the case. Each of us can be accurately placed in one camp or the other at any given moment.

Dear Sir,

The plan presented by the Miss. Economic Council to reorganize county government has a nice sound, bringing visions of economy and efficiency, but its real purpose is to eliminate control by the voters.

The plan to eliminate self-rule is not original with the MEC, but is being pushed nation-wide by the National Chamber of Commerce. The movement was started by "1313", the Chicago-New York axis of would-be managers of the American people and is sponsored by socialist manipulators.

"1313" is properly known as the Public Administration Clearing House, a non-governmental but political

You will note that Pittman, Minor and Weidie all have a Democratic leaning. That's one reason I decided to syndicate this column a year ago.

As more and more Mississippians align themselves with Republican candidates they ought to have an opportunity to hear a non-Democrat point of view occasionally. (Something a few old-time Democrats don't like, judging from their efforts to remove my column from

Night Creatures Haunt Us All

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

Who's afraid of the big bad wolf? About all of us are afraid of something, from wolves to goblins to water to heights. And even though there's usually little basis in fact for our fears, we rarely let reason interfere with a higher order of logic.

Our fears are the night creatures—those apparitions that haunt the dark corners of our minds, waiting to spring out snarling and terrify us.

In a way, there are the indicators of our humanity, and the dark side to being blessed with the power to imagine that sets mankind apart from the other animals.

The power to imagine also includes the power to things most people would rather not imagine.

Imagination can be our best friend or our most insidious enemy. It lets the male and the female look at each other and see what they want instead of what's there. It helps perpetuate the human race.

The same imagination can keep a child awake all night, wide-eyed and fear-frozen, until the dawn's light turns the shapeless malevolent blob lurking at the foot of his bed back into the friendly old overstuffed chair that had been there for years.

Usually our fears are without basis in fact. They may be as literally groundless as the fear of flying. But those afraid of cruising through the sky aren't eased by the fact that flying is statistically the safest form of transportation—far safer than risking life in a motor vehicle on the highways.

How many people do you know that are afraid of the dark? Ask them why they don't fear the dark itself, but what the darkness may contain, whether a shin-bruising footstool out of place or some hideous apparition come to eat them or suck their blood.

Some people fear the water—even though our bodies are more than three-quarter liquid. The fact that anyone can learn a simple technique in five minutes that will ensure them against ever drowning doesn't matter.

The fear of heights is misnamed—most people fear the fall, not the perch. And a fall from any height can kill—the higher falls just give one longer to reflect on the final error that claimed their life.

And the fear of enclosed spaces is foolish on the face of it. Few spaces ever grew slowly smaller and slowly crushed screaming people into a reddish pulp smeared on the floor.

Some people fear animals—mean dogs, spooky cats, rats, snakes, spiders and other slitheries. The fact that few dogs bite, most animals are more afraid of people than people are of them, and the fact that few animals will stalk man except to try to kill the creature that wounded them makes little difference.

Some people are afraid of being alone, others afraid of not being alone. There are times for being alone, and other times to be with a crowd. It takes skill to learn when the crowd can bolster a sagging spirit, and when to walk away from the group that is headed nowhere or the wrong place, and inner courage is needed to carry out the choice.

There are those who irrationally fear death. They fail to realize that death is not the end of existence, merely a change in it. Life goes on in other ways, in other places, as a soul moves toward the light at the end of the long tunnel.

But imagination is a strange alter, and many people approach it to worship their own diety in the hierarch of assorted fears. The dream and nightmare are both usually far more poignant than the reality that spawned them.

Learning that, in Roosevelt's words, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself" is one more course in the university of adversity that humans enroll in when they come into this world.

Eyes On Mississippi...

Major Racial Issue Brews

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON—A major racial issue is brewing here in state government over the creation of a powerful new state agency which will control the multi-million dollar health care facilities program in Mississippi, including the licensing of nursing homes.

The seven-member agency, to be called the Mississippi Health Care Commission has only two more appointments to be made before it is to start functioning officially on July 1.

Thus far, all of the appointees, including the two of Gov. Cliff Finch, are white males. Politically sensitive blacks are getting very uneasy that the entire commission will wind up all-white, certainly a sharp reversal in the policies of the Finch administration, and the previous Waller administration in putting blacks on every major state commission.

Left to be named are the appointees of Lieut. Gov. Evelyn Gandy and House Speaker C.B. "Buddie" Newman. Gandy, who is running for governor, will undoubtedly be on the hot seat in deciding whether or not to name a black as her lone appointee. Certainly her decision could be critical to her ability to win black support in the gubernatorial race.

Newman would normally not be expected to appoint a black in such a situation, but here, again, he may become sensitive to the effect of his choice on the governor's race. His candidate for governor is Rep. Charles Deaton of Greenwood, who has been a top House lieutenant of Mr. Newman's.

Deaton has very little entre now to the black vote, and Newman could possibly convert the Health Care Commission appointment into a political plus for his friend.

In any case, should the commission be void of blacks, there is a strong likelihood of a major legal effort being made to block the commission from functioning. And that possibility has serious overtones for the state in meeting deadlines set by federal legislation on certificate of need regulations in the health care field. Mississippi stands to lose upwards of $30 million in federal health care funds if it is not in compliance with Public Law 93-641 by Sept. 30, 1980.

The Health Care Commission act has had rough going since it started out in the 1979 legislative session as one of the "must" bills in Lieut. Gov. Gandy's legislative program, and a priority item with lawmakers interested in public health programs.

It also had considerable support on the House side from Speaker Newman and his leaders who were irate that some six members of the State Senate were revealed to have gotten into the nursing home business using apparent legislative influence.

Governor Finch vetoed the bill after it has passed both branches of the legislature, but the lawmakers, in a massive uprising, overrode the veto, and put it on the lawbooks. Finch had cited as his objection the obvious dilution of the power of the executive branch to make appointments to the state commission.

Of the seven members, the governor got only two appointments, and the others were handed to the Lieutenant Governor, the House Speaker, the Secretary of State, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, with the State Health Officer as the seventh member.

Underlying the edginess of blacks about the composition of the new Health Care Commission is whether or not it will retain Robert Pugh, now director of the Governor's office of Health Planning and Development, as executive director.

Pugh, who came here from California four years ago, is now the highest ranking black appointee in state government. He was given his present post by Finch during last year's Senatorial race in what many regarded as a political ploy for black support.

Pugh however, is highly regarded for his competence and educational background in the health management field and impartial observers say he should be regarded as the top contender for the important new job. But Pugh has his critics among some white medical leaders for his manner of dealing with them.

Some sources say the governor before vetoing the Health Care Commission bill had approached Gandy and Newman to get their assurance that Pugh would be retained, and they declined to give it to him.

One story which had accompanied Pugh's entrance into the Finch Administration three years ago was that he had been arrested as a leader of the riots in the 1960's on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley. Pugh labels the story as a canard which was concocted by those who have opposed him.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A bill to permit the use of the chemical pesticide mirex to control fireants in the South has been introduced in the Senate by Mississippi's Thad Cochran.

Authored by Cochran, the bill, which he describes as "emergency legislation," would permit use of the pesticide during 1979 and 1980 in nine Southern states—Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Texas, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina and Tennessee.

"Since mirex was banned by the Environmental Protection Agency last June, there has been no effective method to control our Southern fire ant problem. Endless delays have prevented an effective substitute, ferriamicide, from receiving federal government approval. It may be two more years before an effective substitute is on the market—don't think Mississippi and our neighbors infested with fire ants can wait years without a meaningful control program or agent," said Cochran.

many important nutrients needed by every family member for good health. Eggs are especially valued for the amount and high quality of the protein they contain. When you serve eggs, you can be confident you are giving your family the kind of protein needed to build and repair body tissues. In fact egg protein is so near perfection scientists often use it as a standard to measure the protein value in other foods. Eggs also provide significant amounts of vitamin A, iron and riboflavin; they are one of the few foods with natural vitamin D. In addition, eggs contribute smaller amounts of many other nutrients, including calcium, phosphorus and thiamine.

Medical Group Provides Aid

UNIVERSITY—Northeast Mississippi Medical Society is a recent enrollee in the Medical Alumni Guardian Society of The University of Mississippi. Alumni Association, the Medical Alumni chapter announced today.

The Society was established in 1975 by medical alumni of Ole Miss to provide special assistance to the University Medical Center in the form of extraordinary gifts through The University of Mississippi Foundation.

Membership is formed by benefactors who have made exceptional current or deferred donations. These gifts may be designated or undesignated as the contributor wishes.

There are now 230 members in the Society, with contributions exceeding $2,600,000. The Northeast Mississippi Medical Society is composed of physicians in Alcorn, Calhoun, Chickasaw, Itawamba, Lee, Monroe, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tishomingo, and Union counties.

The society's contribution is for the benefit of the Billy S. Guyton, M.D., Memorial Medical Education Loan Fund. The Guyton loan program was established in 1972 to honor the late D. R. Guyton, who was a student, faculty member and dean of medicine at Ole Miss. He was a resident of Oxford for 55 years.

At Jumpertown School—

Storybook Characters Come Alive

Mrs. Anne Marie Ford's second grade at Jumpertown School enjoyed a storybook character day Thursday.

Each student chose a book that he would like to read and report on to the class.

In order to make the book report more interesting each child dressed according to his storybook character.

The storybook characters were: Madonna Davis, The Dooley's Play Ball; Ray Harden, A Rose for Mr. Bloom; Tracey Owens, Amelia Bedelia; Traci Young, The

Magic Carrot Seed; Bryon Eaton, Army of Two; Robin Stephenson, "Stand Back," said the Elephant, "I'm Going to Sneeze!"; Slade Parks, The

Friendly Bear; Melissa Box, Raggedy Ann and Andy; Angela Gray, The Rocking Chair Ghost; Linda Maness,

Pete the Peanut Man; Todd Knight, The Gingerbread Man; Charlotte Moore, The Clumsy Cowboy; Reggy Eaton, Grandpa's Wonderful Glass; Lamont Bullock, The Small

Clown; Chris Smith, The Man Who Didn't Wash His Dishes; Jamie Agnew, The Cat's Adventure with Car Thieves; Guy Dean Staggs, The Upside Down Man; Renee Reese, The Maid and Her Pall of Milk; Mitchell Hayden, Peter and the Rocket Ship and Debbie Yates, The Witch who went to the Ball.

First place winner was, Melissa Box, Second place Lamont Bullock, Third place Reggy Eaton and fourth place Guy Dean Staggs.

Davis Is Candidate

Former Mississippi State head basketball coach Kermit Davis announced today that he would be a candidate for Northern District highway commissioner.

At press conferences in Starkville, Tupelo, Southaven, and Greenwood, Davis, 43, said he decided to enter the race after the urging of friends and supporters throughout the 31-county district.

"For many months I have been encouraged by many of my friends, representing both major political parties, to seek the office," he said.

Davis, a Tippah County native and a lifetime resident of the district, said he has long been aware of and concerned with conditions of the roads and highways in north Mississippi.

"It is my goal to be the best highway commissioner that the Northern District has ever had," he said. "I will make the people one promise—that I will give them 100 percent effort."

Davis said that the success of any highway commissioner rests with his ability to work with the state legislature and local governing authorities.

"As commissioner, I will work and cooperate with the legislature in every way possible while representing the people in the Northern District," he said.

"As highway commissioner, I intend to coordinate the total road program with the governing bodies of each of the 31 counties."

Davis, who directed the MSU basketball program 1970-77, is now a resident of Starkville. He and Mrs. Davis, the former Nancy Hogan of Slayden, have two sons, Kermit, Jr., a student at Phillips Junior College in Helena, Ark.; Bill, 18, a senior at Starkville High School; and Jenny, 7, a second-grader in the Starkville public school system.

Tupelo Publisher Wins Award

HATTIESBURG—George McLean of the Tupelo Northeast Mississippi Daily Journal is the recipient of the 1979 Mississippi Medalist Award recognizing outstanding journalism, it was announced at the University of Southern Mississippi journalism banquet.

McLean bought the bankrupt Tupelo paper in 1934 at the age of 29 and two years later it became a morning daily. Born in Winona, he earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Mississippi and his masters from Boston University.

Cited by the "Progressive Farmer" as "Man of the Year" in the early 1950's, McLean is known across the state for his devotion to community development and the use of his paper to this end, according to USM journalism professor Lloyd Chianison.

"To help build up this area of Mississippi," is what McLean describes as his greatest joy. The 74-year old chief executive of the Tupelo paper said one of his major goals was to give young journalists "the opportunity to grow and develop here."

The Mississippi Medalist Award is based on votes from newspapers statewide.

Alcoholism Studied

UNIVERSITY—One of 10 studies underway at Ole Miss to identify more accurately the causes of alcoholism has revealed that relaxation can overcome, or at least reduce, alcohol dependency. The project to discover non-alcoholic ways to cope with the stress of modern life is being directed by Dr. Wayne Maxwell of the UM Psychology Department.

Mrs. H.T. Wilson, Mrs. Lee Gann, Jeff and Taffy spent last weekend with relatives in Tennessee.

Mrs. Maudie Hall spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin at Wheeler.

Mrs. Henry Bearden, Mrs. Garry Bearden and Mrs. Larry Floyd of New Hope were recent visitors of Mrs. Louise Lindsey and Penny.

Mrs. Ida Powell and Mr. J.C. Wilson visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wood of Booneville recently.

Bro. Dobbs and Bro. Franks of Booneville visited with friends here Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Powell was in an auto accident Thursday night. Larry is in Tupelo Hospital doing as well as can be expected. Mrs. Powell was released from Northeast Mississippi Hospital Friday morning. We send get well wishes to them.

On Sunday April 29th, Mrs. Maudie Hall Holmes celebrated her 82nd Birthday at her home east of Wheeler in the Prospect Community. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hall and mother from Wheeler. Mr. and Mrs. Randle Hall of Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Lois Hall of Baldwin. Mr. John L. "More rain, more rest" used to be an old saying. That might be true while the rain comes down, but would mean more work later. All you farmers cheer-up-catch up on mending and oiling your machinery. Also, if the roof leaks, you can easily find the spot. There's always a rainbow behind the dark clouds.

Mam-ma Coats has been feeling some better lately, but the Earl Kennedy haven't felt as well. Hope they are better soon.

Renee Pannell was absent on Wednesday night due to illness. Condolences go to the relatives of Joe Parr, Danny Ray Coker, and the Cottrell boy.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Juanita Pounds and family and to Dr. Max L. Pharr whose mother passed away on Tuesday May 1. Mrs. Florence Pharr was a wonderful person-one who loved the church, her family, and was deeply interested in all people using every opportunity to help them to learn of the Savior and His way.

Mr. and Mrs. V.L. Coats spent a pleasant weekend in Decatur, Ala., visiting the Kenneth Wilson family. They especially enjoyed the worship services with the Flint Church of Christ for the concluding services of their gospel meeting. The speaker was Bro. Charles Curtis of Russellville, Ala., and his lessons were very good. On Sunday afternoon Kay and her mother visited the A.G. Tines family on Moulton Road. Bro. Tines is gradually gaining strength after surgery in Memphis a few weeks ago. It was good to see Calvin and Jean Rogers again.

Get-well wishes are extended to Mrs. Myrtle Harris who celebrated her 93rd birthday May 5.

Also, we hope Mrs. Ola Glover and Homer Harris are improving.

A few from Oak Ridge attended the singing at Chapman on the fifth Sunday.

Bonnie Kemp

Mrs. Kemp Named To Advisory Panel

Mrs. Bonnie Kemp, Title I math teacher at Booneville Middle School, has been appointed to represent Mississippi Title I Math classroom teachers on an advisory committee for Mississippi Educational Television.

The purpose of this twelve-member committee is to serve in an advisory capacity in the planning, developing and producing of a math film. This film will be used for in-service math workshops dealing with the utilization of basic computational skills. This film will be used on Mississippi Educational Television and later will be shown nationwide.

Hopefully, this film will be completed in time for utilization in math workshops this fall.

Energy Workshop At Northeast

A workshop designated to fit the needs of various units of local government has been scheduled to be conducted on the campus of The Northeast Mississippi Junior College on Thursday, May 17.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in Hargett Hall Auditorium. The workshop is being sponsored by the office of the Governor's Fuel and Management Commission and is being conducted by the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District in cooperation with the Mississippi Energy Extension Center at Mississippi State University.

The primary audience should consist of local energy coordinators, city county engineers, elected officials and building inspectors.

Some of the topics to be discussed will include 1) review of a local government building to determine its energy related needs, 2) analyze the consumption of energy rates at a chosen demonstration site for 1978, 3) demonstrate how a local government can establish its own energy management program, 4) discuss how a local government can conduct an "energy audit" and 5) motivate participants to attack energy related problems in their particular situation.

This workshop will be available to all counties in the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District. These include: Alcorn, Benton, Marshall, Prentiss, Tippah and Tishomingo Counties. We encourage each unit of local government to appoint a representative to attend.

If anyone has questions or comments, feel free to contact Mr. R.C. Anderson, your Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District Energy Coordinator, in Booneville at 728-6248.

Apply Herbicides Until Planting Time

By W.H. HADEN
County Agent

Soybean producers can apply the herbicides Basalin, Cobex, Prowl and Tolban and Treflan up until planting time. You should incorporate all of these herbicides into the soil immediately after application for best control of grasses and pigweed. Do not apply on windy days or to wet and cloddy soils. If you plan to tank-mix Sencor or Lexone with Prowl Tolban or Treflan, delay application until at least two weeks before planting.

Cotton and corn respond well to sidedress applications of nitrogen. Since the crops use most of the nitrogen during fruiting, it is best to sidedress cotton before first square and corn by the time it is 12 to 15 inches tall. With the dry season last year, carryover nitrogen is slightly above normal. Where cotton has a tendency to grow rank stalks, reduce the recommended nitrogen rate by 30 percent.

Actually, there is no one in the beef raising and distributing process from ranch to retailer who is profiteering. The main villain is inflation. The cow herd operator, after years of loss and fruitless labor in the 70's, needs today's high returns in order to stay in business. In fact, if prices do not continue to rise, in a few years, inflation will have eaten away what profit there is at today's prices. The cattle feeder who did not make any money for the better part of two years is in a tight financial position.

Only this past year did he start making a profit. Packers and retailers—the middleman—together has less than 2 cents per dollar of the cost of beef at their profits. Each segment of the cattle industry has got to make a profit to stay in business.

By and large, the consumer has been very understanding of the cattlemen's problems and have accepted increased prices with little or no resistance. The news media has been very understanding also and for the most part, given cattlemen fair treatment and good coverage. It is in the best interests of the cattle industry and the consumer to keep the government from interfering with the law of supply and demand, thereby encouraging cattlemen to rebuild their herds to provide an adequate supply of good, wholesome meat at fair prices.

Now is certainly the time for all cattlemen to take a good look at their cattle operation. With the profit situation the way it has been the last few years, many cattlemen have neglected their cattle.

They have not fertilized their pastures properly, controlled weeds, they have neglected dehorning and castrating calves in some cases. Some people have not wintered their cattle adequately, thereby causing the cattle to cycle later and push the calving season over into the late spring or summer which will reduce the profit to be made because the calves will not be heavy enough at market time.

Now is certainly the time to give top management to the cattle operation. There is time to reach this high level of management and still take advantage of the anticipated high prices for the next several years.

Crime Does Pay—

Citizens Collect Cash Rewards

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau

Now through rural crime detection surveillance, crime has been made to pay—but not the criminals. During 1978 over $2,000 in theft reward payments were made to alert rural Mississippians who detected something fishy going on and turned in the information to authorities to bring about the arrest and conviction of thieves.

And in one case the incident was about as fishy as could be, as catfish had been disappearing from a delta catfish farm and the thieves had left telltale footprints on the dam. A stake-out the next night by alert employees resulted in the apprehension of three men and a youth for poaching catfish. The men went to jail, paid $350 fines each, and had 60 days of their sentences suspended, while the youth went into Youth Court.

But netting thugs was not merely the lot of the menfolks. Two ladies in a rural area grew suspicious of the shiny red Cadillac that showed up to drive up and down a rural road, disappeared into a private driveway for 15 or 20 minutes, then raced away.

The flashy car and a $1 purchase of gas were memorable—and shortly authorities had located the car and apprehended two males shortly after they broke into a rural home, stole a clock, scanner, TV, radio and two piggy banks. The criminals were sent away for seven-year sentences in the penitentiary and restitution was required for their victims.

The alert citizens whose suspicions alerted local law enforcement officials were rewarded to the tune of $200 for providing information that led to the arrest and conviction of the pair for their crime.

During the past five years farmers of Mississippi have rewarded citizens for their crime detection alertness in 55 different cases scattered over Mississippi through a rural crime deterrent program sponsored by the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation. The program also includes arson and vandalism.

Federation members throughout the state are provided small green and white signs for posting on their property as a warning to would-be criminals that their property is covered by a theft reward program. Some criminals heed the signs and restrain themselves; others don't and are later restrained by prison bars.

Among those who took the chance and were caught during 1978, in addition to the above, were these cases.

A thief removed tools from a farm shop. The property was under theft reward protection and a citizen turned in sufficient information that led to the thief's arrest and conviction. He was sentenced to three months in jail, but the judge suspended his sentence and gave him 15 days on the county work program and fined him $100 and court costs.

Two county stores were ripped off—unsuccessfully. One resulted in the arrest and conviction of a juvenile. Another, burgled by four men, cost the four a period of time in jail, four years on probation, fines of $400 each and restitution.

Two men pulled a heist at a farm home. Later they were detected transferring the loot from one vehicle to another on the roadside. A dig barked, a citizen observed and reported, and two men entered the state penitentiary—paying society for taking a radio, stereo, a calculator and five guns.

Another rural criminal met his Waterloo trying to fence two new tires he took from a farm shed. He received a year's suspended sentence and a $50 fine. Still another tried to take four tires and the truck on which they were attached. On the clinker and four years in the Department of Corrections.

And, so it goes. Rural crime is on the increase. But so is rural vigilance—thanks to good citizens who care about their neighbors' welfare enough to help stop the bad guys in their tracks. And now, rural crime detection will pay the detectors even more. The federation has just upped its citizens' reward to $500!

Methodist Church Plans Decoration

Siloam United Methodist Church is planning their homecoming and Decoration for the 3rd Sunday in May.

There will be choir singing and quartet singing.

The Servant's Quartet will be the featured singers, along with the Singing Echoes.

We invite all singers to be there as we are planning a big afternoon of singing.

Plans have already been made to get the cemetery mowed.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the cemetery fund should contact J.P. Spark, Dwight Spark, or Joe Vernon Johnson. Or deposit your donation in the Siloam Cemetery Fund at the Bank of Mississippi.

Oak Leaf Blister Causes Little Damage

By JOHN STUART
County Forester

Oak Leaf Blister is probably the most common leaf disease of oaks in Mississippi. In some years during cool wet springs it may become epidemic and infect practically every leaf of the tree. Other than some growth loss, unsightly leaves, and excessive leaf fall, no damage is usually experienced by the tree. Live oak, water oaks, and laurel oak seem to be particularly susceptible to oak leaf blister, however, all species of oaks are susceptible to this disease.

This fungus is parasitic and causes hypertrophy or blisters on the leaves. Asci are produced in a single layer of palisade cells. hyphal cells transform to thinwalled chlamydospores and upon germination the inner spore protrudes from the leaf, is cut off by the septum, and forms an eight-spored ascus or saclike cell containing the ascospores.

Usually this disease is not detected or noticed until a large number of leaves are severely blistered or begin to fall. Close examination of the leaves will reveal the small depressed grey colored areas during the early stages of the disease. Although this fungus is present every year, optimum temperature and humidity conditions in the form of cool wet springs are necessary for epidemics of this disease. The fungus caused blisters start on the young growing leaves and first appear on the underside as small slightly depressed grey colored areas.

The mycelium stimulates the leaf cell to abnormal activity. The blisters may be 1/2 inch or larger in size when mature and are usually grey or brown in color. There may be several on each leaf and leaf curl is common when infection occurs on the edge. The spores overwinter in the ascus spore sacs on the twigs and stems of the tree and on the fallen infected leaves. No chemical control measures are recommended for this disease under forest or shade tree conditions. Even though this disease is unsightly and causes considerable concern to the homeowner it rarely, if ever, kills and otherwise healthy tree.

Valuable ornamental shade trees may be protected by the fungicide applications; however, it is necessary to spray the entire tree before the buds swell.

For more information on oak leaf diseases contact County Forester, John Stuart at his office located at the corner of Highway 45 and State Street or by calling 782-6835.

Northeast Sponsors Education Seminar

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College in cooperation with the Appalachian Education Satellite Program will sponsor a seminar on the utilization of Community Resources in Education on Wednesday, May 16, from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. in Room 58 of Hines Hall on the Northeast campus.

The seminar, which is the third in the series sponsored by RESA, is being presented by the Regional Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland in cooperation with the Appalachian Education Satellite Program.

While the seminar is open to the public, chief education officers, administrative staff involved with career education programs, and persons in-involved in education volunteer programs are encouraged to attend. The seminar will also be of interest to administrative personnel in service agencies. All participants will have the opportunity to interact via satellite with specialists in the field.

The use of community resources to enhance education opportunities is gaining widespread acceptance throughout the country. Through the examination of a successful community-based model, the seminar will provide administrators strategies for involving industrial, organizational, and governmental resources in the instructional process. It will also discuss the use and effectiveness of linking agencies in securing funds and resources.

The seminar is free. For more information or to pre-register, contact Mrs. Opal Melvin at 728-7751, Ext. 231.

Appalachia

Meets Planned

The Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District in conjunction with the Governor's Office on Appalachian Development is hosting a series of public meetings through the twenty (20) Mississippi Appalachian Counties. The purpose of the meetings is to gather information concerning the local needs of each county that will be used in formulating the State's Appalachian Development Plan.

The general topics of discussion will be health, education, economic and community development, and transportation needs.

The schedule for the six (6) counties comprising the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District is as follows:

May 16, 10 a.m., Chamber of Commerce Building, Corinth; 2 p.m., Tishomingo County Courthouse, Iuka.

May 17, 10 a.m. Prentiss County Courthouse, Booneville; 2 p.m., Tippah County Courthouse, Ripley.

May 18, 10 a.m. Benton County Courthouse, Ashland; 2 p.m. Marshall County Courthouse, Holly Springs.

Local Women Get Degrees

COLUMBUS—Two women from Booneville are among some 408 candidates for degrees at commencement Sunday, May 13, at Mississippi University for Women.

M.U.W. degree candidates from Booneville include: Patricia Lee Trantham, bachelor of science, School of Home Economics, and Lisa Carol Prichard, bachelor of science, School of Nursing.

Dr. James W. Strobel, president of M.U.W., will confer degrees beginning at 3 p.m. in the Emma Ody Pohl Physical Education Assembly Building.

City Firemen Answer Calls

Booneville firemen responded to a pair of calls last week, according to fire department records. Officers went to a grease fire May 2, at 9 p.m. at the home of Joseph Jones and extinguished it without incident.

Firemen also responded to a May 6, fire at 3 a.m. in a trailer owned by David Michael of Route 3, Booneville.

There were no injuries but the trailer was totally destroyed, according to records. Jumpertown firemen also responded to the call.

Extensions Granted On Cotton Loans

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

At the request of producers, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will extend upland cotton loans maturing April 30, an additional eight months, to Dec. 31.

Upland cotton loans mature 10 months from the first day of the month in which they are made. Under certain circumstances, farmers can request an extension of the loans.

Loan maturity dates can be extended during the tenth month of the regular loan program unless the average spot price for the standard grade of upland cotton for the ninth month exceeds 130 percent of the average spot price for the preceding 36 months.

Producers interested in extending their cotton loans may do so at the local ASCS office weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is located at 105 College Street, Booneville.

Prentiss County farmers participating in the 1979 wheat and feed grain program plan to set-aside or otherwise divert 251.1 acres of cropland.

A progress report at the end of the sign-up shows that 58 farmers intend to set-aside 38.4 acres under the wheat program and 144.6 acres under the feed grain program.

Producers in Prentiss County will receive payment for diverting an additional 68.1 acres of feed grain.

We are pleased with program participation in the county. It shows that our producers want to be eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments or disaster payments, and they want to increase the prices they receive for their crops by helping to prevent an excessive buildup of wheat and feed grain stocks.

According to the report, local participants intend to plant 192.1 acres of wheat and 1,437.5 acres of feed grains for harvest.

Final figures will be available after farmers have certified their acreage latter in the year.

Farmers who have wheat, wheat set-aside, barley and barley set-aside must report these crops that are planted on cropland by May 15, 1979, in order to receive history credit for future program years.

Farmers who failed to enroll in the program by April 30, 1979 cannot receive program benefits under the 1979 program, however, future programs may depend upon history of the crops planted, therefore, making it important that a record be made of any wheat or barley planted by reporting this information to the county ASCS office.

Ole Miss Awards Degrees To More Than 1,000

UNIVERSITY—Commencement ceremonies for the more than 1,000 members of The University's winter and spring graduating classes will be held on Sunday, May 13. The 2:30 p.m. ceremony in C.M. "Dad" Smith Coliseum caps a full day of events for graduates and their families.

Bachelors, masters and doctoral degrees will be awarded during the ceremony.

Retiring members of the faculty to be recognized include D.R. Frank A. Anderson, associate dean of engineering and professor of chemical engineering; Ollie Williams Jr., assistant professor of brass instruments; Selby Downer, assistant professor of marketing; B.L. Graham, assistant professor of health, physical education and recreation; C.N. Jones, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Katharine Rea, professor of higher education; and Al Boyer Jr., assistant professor of health, physical education and recreation.

The recipient of the University's 1979 Outstanding Teacher Award, Dr. James Mengert, assistant professor of English, will also be recognized.

Other events scheduled for the day include a breakfast for graduates and their families, sponsored by the Ole Miss Alumni Association; commissioning ceremonies for graduates of the University's three Reserve Officers Training Corps units; and a 10:30 a.m. coffee at the Ole Miss Union hosted by Vice Chancellor and Mrs. Harvey S. Lewis.

Water Planning Hearings Held

Citizen reaction to 208 water quality planning for Northeast Mississippi was reflected at final public hearings Monday in the three counties of Alcorn, Prentiss and Tishomingo. According to Troy Norris, project director of the planning process, reactions were unchanged from earlier hearings in the Northeast Mississippi Water Quality Management Plan.

Response ranged from "full speed ahead" in Alcorn County to "let's keep status quo" in Tishomingo County, Norris said. Residents in Prentiss County again sought support for agriculture interests.

There was no turnout in Prentiss County. At previous hearings, citizens and officials pushed for implementation of a Prentiss County Community Service District similar to the one in Alcorn County. The district will build, operate and maintain sewage treatment facilities in the areas of Prentiss County not under jurisdiction of any municipality. The district would operate in cooperation with city governments in Prentiss County.

Prentiss County officials have been particularly interested in supporting the farmers if dissatisfaction arises with the state 208 non-point source control program.

In a light turnout in Alcorn County, participants at the hearing voiced strong support for the plan and urged pushing ahead all economic programs. Emphasis in Alcorn County was on support for industrial development to utilize the Yellow Creek Inland Port facilities. Corinth Mayor John D. Mercier and Tennessee Valley Authority representative Sam Hixon reserved the right to comment on the plan until May 15 but both expressed qualified approval.

At Tishomingo County, a large crowd actively engaged in hot debate to maintain the tranquility of status quo. A majority of the participants feared any federal projects would result in more taxation. Norris pointed out several times that Public Law 92-500 and its amendments precludes taxation to build, operate and maintain wastewater treatment systems. "Before a system can be built, a sewer charge structure must be implemented making sure that only those who use the system will pay for its services," Norris stated, "In the past, most systems were operated by taxing the people."

Satisfied that the local 208 plan does not call for any action in Tishomingo County in the coming year, the Tishomingo County citizens said they would be glad for the cities to handle their own wastewater treatment needs if the rural parts of the county remain undeveloped.

One Tishomingo County official stated after the hearing that those in attendance do not indicate the feelings of all Tishomingo Countians.

Registration At Northeast

UNIVERSITY—Formal registration for intersession evening degree credit courses at The University of Mississippi Booneville Resident Center at Northeast Mississippi Junior College will be held from 4-7 p.m. May 10 in Room 103 of Patterson Hall at Northeast.

Ole Miss offers courses at Booneville in cooperation with Northeast. Classes will meet from 6-8:40 p.m. May 14-June 1. Late registration will be held May 14-16, and a $10 late registration fee will be charged after May 10.

Tuition for undergraduate courses is $27 per semester hour, or $81 for a three-hour course. Graduate fees are $33 per semester hour, or $99 for a three-hour course.

An effort will be made to offer all courses listed, but The University of Mississippi reserves the right to cancel courses which do not have a sufficient number of students enrolled. Determination will be made after formal registration on the basis of students enrolled in all courses.

Education courses to be offered at Booneville are EDEL 625 Problems in Teaching Arithmetic I, EDFD 607 The Professional Philosophy, IEDPY 623 Advanced Techniques in Individual Mental Testing, and EDRD 500 Basic Skills in Reading.

Liberal Arts offerings are ART 361 Teaching Art in the Elementary School, and ART 567 Art Workshop.

LSCI 519 Selection of Media for Children will also be offered.

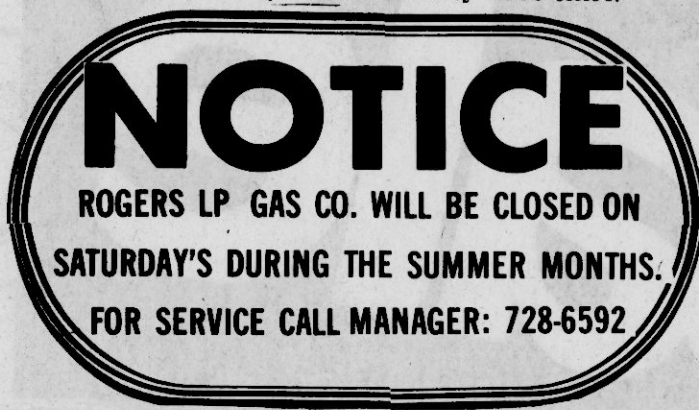

For additional information contact the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, Miss., 38677, (telephone-232-7140).

American people on food stamps."

Food stamp rolls are currently increasing at a rate of one million per month.

In arguing against the amendment, Congressman Paul Simon (D-IL) said the cut was not justified because of the good the program provides to America's poor.

"I know of the abuses," said Simon, "and we hear about those—but not the good things, when people get benefits who would otherwise not get benefits."

But advocates of the amendment said that with the $338 million carry-over from last year's appropriation, and the $139 million increase that the amendment would allow, there would be enough money in a reduced budget to see to it that no deserving person would be eliminated from the program.

The amendment was defeated 276 to 146.

FOR RUN—State Representative Charles Deaton of Greenwood recently that he will be a candidate for Governor this year. He is a growing list of gubernatorial hopefuls. Deaton, a veteran of almost 20 years in the State Legislature and Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for the past 4 years, said he will make a formal announcement in a few days, at which time he will outline his ideas on the issues facing Mississippi.

For Your Pet Danger Lurks In Yard

Just as the kitchen is the most dangerous room in the house, the back yard is potentially dangerous for the family dog, says the Gaines Dog Research Center.

While a dog isn't as likely to have an accident in the back yard as a human is in the kitchen, chances are good in many parts of the country that mosquitoes will be in the back yard—and more than 60 species of mosquitoes are known carriers of canine heartworm.

Heartworm is a killer to be feared by all dog owners, states Dr. George W. Mather, Veterinary Consultant to the Center. "When a mosquito bites an infected dog, it draws blood containing larvae called microfilariae. In warm climates, these larvae undergo changes in the mosquito for 10 to 14 days and then are transmitted to a vulnerable dog when the mosquito draws blood. The infective larvae migrate from the skin around the wound into the bloodstream and then normally take six to seven months to become adult heartworms," Dr. Mather declares.

"The adults usually cluster in the dog's heart and pulmonary artery, where they can block the flow of blood to the lungs and interfere with heart-valve action."

One veterinary survey of 548 dogs showed that yard dogs had an average infection rate of 63.3 per cent, while house dogs had 12.3 per cent. Another survey of 630 dogs listed mixed breeds (114) as most often infected, followed by German Shepherd Dogs (87), Pointers (84), Irish Setters (31), English Setters (27), Retrievers (26) and Beagles (23). The breeds are primarily outdoor dogs. House dogs had fewer cases.

What can dog owners do? The Gaines Dog Research Center recommends an immediate veterinary checkup. A blood test can determine if heartworms are already present. If they are, the veterinarian can prescribe treatment. If the dog is free of heartworms, very effective preventive medication—administered—is available and should be given according to the veterinarian's instructions.

Mother's Day Phone Call Is Tradition

A "lovin' phone call" on Mother's Day has long been an American tradition and according to South Central Bell, the volume of long distance calls placed on Mother's Day is second only to Christmas among the year's special days.

"We're going to do everything we can to ensure that all Mother's Day calls are completed quickly and efficiently," Bob Bartley, the company's manager said. "It is possible, though, that some minor delays may develop."

"Every possible spare circuit will be put into service in various calling patterns to handle the extra calling. On holidays, calling patterns differ from those on an average business day. Calls are placed over long distances and to more remote places in the country," he explained.

He said the nationwide telephone network is engineered to get calls to their destinations quickly, no matter how far out of the way they have to travel.

"The network is designed to send a telephone call by the most direct route," Bartley pointed out. "But if the most direct route is busy, the equipment automatically probes for other free circuits until it finds a clear route or determines that none is available."

"Sometimes we have to send a call across the country to get from one point to another in the Southeast," Bartley added. "But the equipment works so fast the caller isn't even aware of the distance involved."

Bartley suggested several tips for getting calls through faster and easier:

If you need a telephone number in a distant city, call Directory Assistance in that city several days before Mother's Day, to avoid peak calling times.

If you get a busy signal, wait a few minutes before placing your call again. On Mother's Day, calling volume is highest in the early morning and before 5 p.m. So, call early in the day for faster service. Also, it's more economical to call between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. and after 11 p.m.

"One-plus calls—those dialed direct by the customer without operator assistance—will also save the caller time and money," Bartley said.

Pop Rocks Now At Stores

It's official. Pop Rocks—the most popular and often hardest-to-get candy in town—is now available at local retailers. For some time supplies of the popping, sizzling, crackling candy by General Foods were available only through a few distributors who purchased it in test markets elsewhere and brought it into the area.

Now the candy's distribution is being expanded, the manufacturer said. The candy, which is carbonated to provide the crackle, is made by a difficult, patented process. It first was produced in small quantities and sold only in limited areas of the West. Demand exceeded General Foods' expectations, a company spokesman said. In one Western test market, a quantity of carbonated candy in a supermarket that was expected to last for three months disappeared in 10 days.

The "pop" in Pop Rocks comes from carbonation, the same kind that puts the fizz into soda pop. But it would take 10 packets of Pop Rocks to equal the amount of carbonation in just one can of soda.

Pop Rocks is being introduced in cherry, grape and orange flavors.

Local Softball Action Held

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

Two shutouts and two additional routings prevailed here Monday night in the Booneville Softball Association League games held at the West Side City Park.

Armstrong Construction Company, led by Kenny Goldman with three hits, dropped M&G Motors 9-0 in the first men's game while Sybarites tagged Booneville's Jaycees 13-0 for the second shutout.

A series of solid hits and a well balanced defense led Brown's Hamburgers Ladies to a 14-3 victory over Eaton's Furniture in the first girls game while Sell-Rite's Chargers tripped the J.C. Angels 15-8.

Two of the games were called after five innings due to the 10 run rule.

In the second contest of the night several players had two or more hits for Browns with Vicki Downs, who had two homeruns, Jan Floyd, Sue Houston and Pam Johnson, all with two hits or more. Teresa Phillips and Annette Hargett led Eaton's with a pair of safeties also.

In other girls action, turnovers by J.C. Angels along with a number of walks aided the Sell-Rite victory. Donna Rinehart and Monte Hare led the Sell-Rite hitters while Judy Sorrell belted a pair homers for the J.C. Angels.

In the final boys game of the night, Ricky Roberts led the Sybarites with two or more hits, who led 6-0 after the first inning.

Hands Advance To State Track Tourney

TUPELO—Booneville's Ryan and Todd Hand will advance to the State Track Meet with high honors in Monday's North Half Meet at Tupelo's Noble Stadium.

Ryan, the incredible leaper, placed first again Monday in the pole Vault event with an amazing jump of 12 feet 6 inches while Todd will advance to state competition also with a fourth place finish in the running long jump competition.

It was the second time in the past two weeks that Ryan has roared above the 12 foot range in the pole vault event. The local lad, who has finished first on several meets this year, jumped 12 feet seven inches in last week's Tombigbee Meet, also at Tupelo.

Todd also has some first place finishes in his credit also and again has placed high in every meet this season.

Ryan and Todd, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hand of Booneville, will march on the State Event expected to be around the top athletes in the event.

Little League Registration Set Again Saturday

Booneville West Side Park Director Joe Taylor said Monday that additional registration time had been allowed for this week in preparation for the opening of the Little League Baseball and Softball season.

Boys ages 15-18 that are interested in playing LL are requested to sign up at the park Saturday morning, from 8:30 til 11:00 a.m.

Also any boys ages 7-14 or girls ages 7-15 that hasn't already signed up should also be there this Saturday to sign up.

All managers from LL baseball and softball from 1st year are requested to be at the park Saturday Taylor said.

Tryouts for all boys ages 7-12 that wasn't on the team last year will be held Saturday morning from 8:30 til 11:30.

Anyone desiring to help coach or manage either baseball or LL softball are requested to be at the park Saturday from 8:30 til 11:00 a.m.

Also, anyone desiring to help umpire the games should also be there Saturday morning.

Taylor said he wanted every child who didn't have a chance to play 1st year to be sure and sign up this year.

The local LL squads will enter into the Dizzy Dean LL competition this year and Taylor said there would be plenty of games scheduled.

Photographers Life: Not Easy!

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

If you think a photographer's life is easy all the time, well, listen to this...

Now first of all, I will say that at times I do have some fun at my job but on some occasions a photographer can run into some problems.

This past weekend I went to Pickwick to try out a friend of mine's new boat. I usually take my camera with me and this time was no exception. The reason I took it, (you've probably already guessed) was to view the girls through my telephoto lens to get some closeups.

We arrived at Pickwick Sunday afternoon around 2 p.m. and put the boat in the water around 3. So off we went into the wild blue yonder to start our conquest.

It didn't take long to find some pretty lasses to shoot. The boat we were driving had a horn on it you wouldn't believe. It sounded like something that came out of a Groucho Marx

Eight NE Athletes Sign Senior Grants

Northeast Mississippi Junior College head football coach and athletic director Bill Ward has announced that 8 athletes have signed senior college scholarships for the 1979-80 sports season.

Harry Cosby, Iuka, has signed a football grant with East Tennessee State while Steve Lyles also from Iuka has signed on a football scholarship with Delta State along with Herbie Hellums from Ripley and John Sanford from Booneville who both signed basketball grant-in-aids and Michael Pitts who signed a trainer's scholarship with Delta.

Other signees include, Don Barthel, Memphis, who recently accepted a partial scholarship with L.S.U. on a football kicking grant; Kevin Cossitt, New Albany, who has agreed to terms with Mississippi College on a baseball scholarship and Ricky Garrett, the monster man from Walnut, who has signed a football grant with Mississippi Valley.

Ward said he felt like these performers would fare well in the senior college circuits and added that they have played exceptionally well in junior college play.

"This is the largest group of signees we've had in several years," Ward said. "And we're very proud of this accomplishment."

movie.

We met these girls from Memphis who were also riding in a boat (bigger than ours I might add) and through wave of hands, we became friends.

They soon found out I had my sharpshooter and started making advances at my camera. Well I started snapping away like crazy and here comes the funny part. I leaned over to get a closer look and low and behold, I (yeah you guessed it) fell out of the boat.

Hey no laughing now. Not only did I fall out but two of my friends who were also leaning on the side of the boat, fell out also.

Now I don't have to tell you what the girls thought of this. They were laughing like crazy and I can understand why. Believe me it was funny.

After I got back into the boat and cleaned out my camera, which I think stood the water better than I did, the girls felt sorry for us and came over to lend a hand. That made the whole trip worthwhile.

My film didn't make it through all this and is now floating somewhere down stream. But with all the trouble we went through, the girls made the weekend trip a pleasure.

So you see, a photographer's life has its ups and in this case downs...

This is just one instance that happened to me. I've had enough happen to write a book but I think I'll keep it in a column form. Another quick one was during the North Half Tournament final game held at Northeast. After the game was over and Booneville won it at the buzzer. I was so excited that I jumped into the middle of the celebration which was nothing short of a mob. Believe me I was trampled and when it was all over, my camera was still in my hand but my flash unit was lying across the gym floor.

Someone brought it to me after the shock but they brought me change instead. My flash was then in three pieces instead of one.

So there you have it. This is what makes my job so much fun. I hate to think what's coming next...

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW...

Here's a question for you, with an odd twist...who's the only manager in baseball history to win the World Series in each of the first 2 years he was a big league manager?...Answer is Ralph Houk, who won the World Series with the Yankees in 1961 and 1962—his first 2 years as a manager. But then, oddly enough, Houk never won a World Series again after that.

The shortest time any boxer ever held a world championship was 3 hours...It happened when a fighter named Young Stribling was declared the winner of a fight for the world light-heavyweight championship on Oct. 4, 1923...But 3 hours later, officials reversed their decision and took the fight—and the title—away from Stribling.

Only once in history has a rookie ever won the Most Valuable Player award in major league baseball. Who was the only rookie to do it?...Answer is Fred Lynn of the Red Sox, who was voted Most Valuable Player in the American League in his rookie year, 1975.

Marietta Holds Awards Night

The Annual Marietta Awards Banquet was held last week and a host of awards were given to the area performers for their outstanding efforts during the past year. Basketball awards given include, Most Valuable Boys, Dwayne Snyder and Mark Barnes; Most Valuable girl, Melissa Whitley.

Troy Hardin received the Most Valuable Award in boys track while Michelle Young received similar honors in girls track.

Sandra Glenn received the school's top award in girls volleyball while Dwayne Snyder earned most valuable in boys volleyball.

Marietta coach Ricky Howell said he was pleased with the overall athletic program this year and added that the Awards night was a highlight of an outstanding season.

Bulldogs Host SEC

State, Florida Win SEC Titles

BIRMINGHAM, AL—Mississippi State and Florida, early winners of the divisional titles in Southeastern Conference play, tangle with runnersup LSU and Kentucky this weekend in the third annual SEC Baseball Tournament to determine the 1979 championship and the league's representative in the NCAA tournament. State, winner in the West, is host for the event.

Florida and LSU open the action in this double-elimination affair at 2:00 CDT Friday, with Miss. State and Kentucky coming on at 7:30. Two games, at these same times, are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday on beautiful Dudy Noble Field, which seats 6,000 spectators, and a seventh game if necessary will start at 7:30 Monday.

Kentucky beat Georgia 11-4 at Lexington Sunday after splitting a doubleheader

Saturday (2-3, 4-2) to take the runnerup spot in the East. Florida lost three to Tennessee at Knoxville Tuesday-Wednesday (5-4, 0-2, 7-4), then Vanderbilt tagged Tennessee two of three over the weekend (7-5, 5-3, 0-1). Miss. State hit Ole Miss twice in Oxford, 5-3 and 5-1, with one game rained out, and Alabama tipped Auburn twice, 4-1 and 4-3, after losing the first, 4-11.

Miss. State, 17-2 in SEC play and 40-9 overall, is rated No. 4 by Collegiate Baseball, and Florida, 16-8 and 36-16 is 27th. LSU is 13-7 and 33-18, with Kentucky, 13-11 and 29-16. State's next win will break the SEC record of 40, held by LSU and Ole Miss.

Kentucky beat both Eastern and Western Kentucky last week to lead the SEC's 9-5 week against other schools. The record to date is 153-69 for 68.9 percent. The schedule has three games Tuesday-Auburn hosting UA-B'ham, Georgia vs. Ga. Tech at Macon, and Tennessee hosting Memphis State for two-then one game after the tournament, Auburn vs. Ga. Tech at Americus next Tuesday.

Robert Sorrell, fine freshman outfielder at Auburn, hit 10 for 21 last week to raise his SEC-leading batting average to even .400. Mike Pike, Vanderbilt lb, is hitting .390. State's Mike Kelley, cf, .385, Georgia's Buck Belue, of, .36 and Tennessee catcher Benny Beazley .376. Kelly now has 325 hits to break the career record of 324 set by Tennessee's Bobby Tucker, 1970-73. Scotti Madison, Vandy catcher, hit three home runs to take the lead at 15. Randy Gipson, Kentucky of, hit one to total 11 for the year and 35 for his career to pass the 34 of Tucker for a new SEC record. Tony Stevens of Florida added an RBI to make the SEC record total 66 and Kelley hit another triple for a new season record, tem.

Joe Georger won two more games at Kentucky to make his pitching record 12-1, with a 2.63 earned run average. Ken Kurtz of Miss. State has the best ERA, 1.66, with a record of 9-1, and the league's most strikeouts, 82. Vanderbilt's award went to Muhammad Ali, whose ability to keep coming back in the tough physical sport of boxing has been one of his most noteworthy accomplishments.

Nicklaus Named Athlete Of Decade

NEW YORK—To many it doesn't deserve to be grouped with those noble physical activities of football, baseball or track and field. Certainly it doesn't demand the physical contact or exertion of hockey or even tennis.

After all, you don't see Jack Nicklaus sweat very much.

But the Golden Bear, who has won a record 17 major golf tournaments, has been around a lot and Monday he was named Athlete of the Decade, 1969-79, beating out such physical phenomenons as O.J. Simpson, Bobby Orr, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bruce Jenner.

"A lot of people don't consider golf in the realm of athletics. But you have to be in shape," Nicklaus said by telephone hookup from the Spokane (Wash.) Country Club.

Second place went to another veteran, American League batting champion Rod Carew, who has been playing baseball almost as long as Nicklaus has been playing golf. Indeed, last year's Athlete of the Decade awarded the scholastic award and had the most assists. Ann

McBrayer was the best defensive player and Kay

Massengill had the best free throw percentage. Peggy Grice was the most improved.

Ragin was the most valuable baseball player and Anderson got the pitching award. Ray Scott earned the defensive player award.

Johnny Cotton Now Competing In National Trials

Johnny Cotton, a beagle owned by Lex Houston of Booneville will compete in the International Beagle Trails in Pittsburg, Pa., beginning this afternoon and continuing through tomorrow.

The dog advanced to the International competition with wins in both local trials as well as the Southern Association Trials held in Memphis.

Some 125 to 150 dogs will compete in the International competition this week and the winner will vie for the National honor plus huge trophies to be awarded.

Johnny Cotton left for Pittsburg last Sunday where he will be run by special trainers in competition and will return to Booneville next week after the trials are over.

For NE Camps

Applications Available

Coach Bill Ward, Athletic Director at Northeast Junior College, encourages all young athletes who are planning to attend one or more of the four athletic camps at Northeast this summer to return their applications by May 24 (Junior High Boy's Basketball Camp) and by May 31 (all other camps).

Camp schedules are as follows:

Basketball-Junior High Boys-May 27-June 1

Basketball-Junior and Senior High Girls-June 3-June 8

Tennis-Junior and Senior High Boys and Girls-June 3-June 8

Football-Junior and Senior High Boys-June 3-June 8

Basketball-Senior High Boys-June 10-June 15

Instructions for the basketball camps will be given by Northeast Coaches Millard Lothore and Ken Lindsey, as well as outstanding coaches and players in the Northeast area. Special guest will be former Boston Celtic, Bailey Howell.

Joey Langston, winner of over forty trophies in Tennis Tournaments throughout the nation, will supervise the week-long tennis camp.

The football camp, under the direction of Coach Ward, will be supervised by Defensive Coach David Carnell and Offensive Coach Billy Southward, both of Northeast.

Tuition for overnight campers is $85.00 per week, while that for day campers only is $65.00 per week.

A Tennis Mini Camp for Adults will also be offered this summer, according to Coach Ward, if enough response is given.

Ever notice how some fishermen seem to come home regularly with fish, while others have a hard time catching enough to mess up a skillet? Some call it luck, but I call it skill.

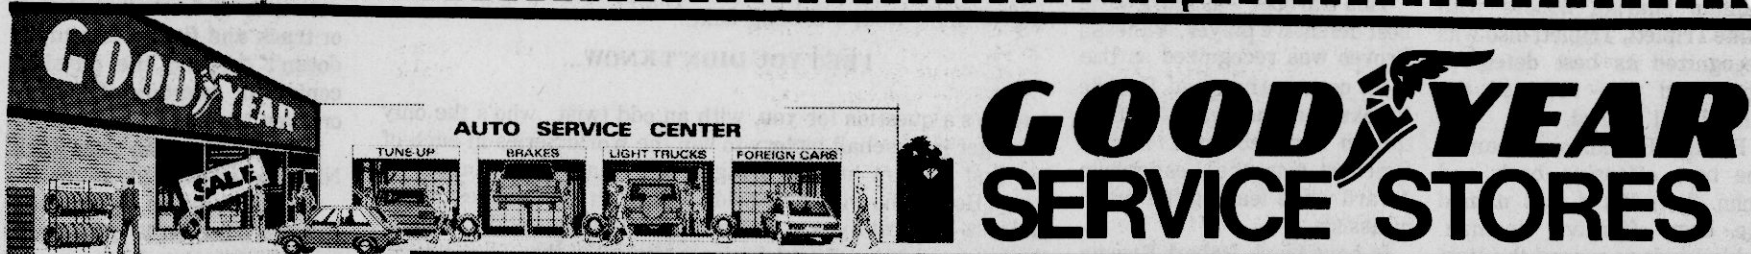

A good fisherman also keeps his tackle in tiptop shape so it won't malfunction on him, and he keeps his lures in motion all day long, letting the fish tell him which one, or color, they want. Yep, fishing can be luck but most of the time it's a matter of dedication and knowhow.

BRETT TOM'S CLOSING TIP Your fishing line is the vital link between you and the biggest fish of your lifetime. Keep the terminal end strong by cutting off worn line which is weaker. And whenever a line gets stiff, replace it with new line and fish with confidence. There are two things a fisherman should keep fresh—his line and his fish!

ORDER

IN RE: ORDER ADOPTING THE SAME POLICY FOR THE ACCOMMODATION OF UTILITY FACILITIES WITHIN THE RIGHTS-OF-WAY OF STATE AID AND FEDERAL AID COUNTY ROADS AND A STANDARD FORM OF PERMIT APPLICATION THEREFOR FOR ALL COUNTY ROADS IN PRENTISS COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of Prentiss County, Mississippi, meeting in session on the 7th day of May 1979, finds as follows:

WHEREAS, there came on for consideration by the Board of Supervisors of Prentiss County, Mississippi, the matter of the adoption of a policy for the accommodation of utility facilities within the rights-of-way of all county roads in Prentiss County, Mississippi and the Board after considering the same feels that it should adopt the same policy as previously adopted by the Board of State Aid and Federal Aid county roads which is entitled "A Policy for the Accommodation of Utility Facilities within the Rights-Of-Way of State Aid Roads and Federal Aid County Roads" adopted by the State Engineer on January 17, 1972, and also the adoption of a standard form of "Permit Application for Use and Occupancy Agreement for the Construction or Adjustment of a Utility", as submitted to the Board by the State Aid Engineer of the State of Mississippi and the Board being aware of the need to have a reasonable policy procedure for utilities to use and occupy the rights-of-way of all county roads within the county; and this Board having examined and considered the policies and permit applications previously adopted for State Aid and Federal Aid county roads finds and determines the adoption of that same policy would be in the interest of the county as it applies to all county roads.

Upon motion being duly made and seconded

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1) The document entitled "A Policy for the Accommodation of Utility Facilities within the Rights-Of-Way of State Aid and Federal Aid Roads" and the standard form entitled "Permit Application for Use and Occupancy Agreement for the Construction or Adjustment of a Utility", which are on file in the Chancery Clerk's Office, the County Engineer's Office and the Board of Supervisors Office are hereby adopted by the Board of Supervisors of this County to be used on all county roads within the County and are to be effective from and after the date of this Order.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED:

2) That the Plans and

Specifications for the desired accommodation be prepared and signed by Applicant and then submitted to the County Engineer, who shall examine same and if found to be in compliance with the Policy hereby adopted, the County Engineer is empowered to approve and sign such Permit Application as the act and by authority of this Board of Supervisors citing this Order as his authority therefor.

SO ORDERED by the Board of Supervisors on this 7th day of May 1979.

The Board of Supervisors
Prentiss County,
Mississippi

I have reviewed the internal accounting control procedures including the accounting records and supporting documents of the Purchase Clerk of Prentiss County, Mississippi that I considered relevant to the Criteria established by House Bill Number 775, Laws of 1974, and House Bill Number 670, Laws of 1975, of the Mississippi Legislature. My review included tests of compliance with such procedures during the period from October 1, 1977 through September 30, 1978.

The objective of internal accounting control is to provide reasonable, but not absolute, assurance as to the safeguarding of assets against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and the reliability of financial records for preparing financial statements and maintaining accountability for assets. The concept of reasonable assurance recognizes that the cost of a system of internal accounting control should not exceed the benefits derived and also recognizes that the evaluation of these factors necessarily requires estimates and judgments by responsible officials.

There are inherent limitations that should be recognized in considering the potential effectiveness of any system of internal control. In the performance of most control procedures errors can result from misunderstanding of instructions, mistakes of judgment, carelessness, or other personal factors. Control procedures whose effectiveness depends upon segregation of duties can be circumvented by collusion. Similarly, control procedures can be circumvented intentionally by individuals. Further projection of any evaluation of internal control to future periods is subject to the risk that the procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions and that the degree of compliance with the procedures may deteriorate.

I understand that procedures in conformity with the criteria referred to in the first paragraph of this report are considered by the Board of Supervisors to be adequate for its purpose in accordance with the provisions of House Bill Number 775, Laws of 1974, and House Bill Number 670, Laws of 1975, and that procedures not in conformity therewith indicate inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on my review, in my opinion, the purchasing records and internal accounting control procedures of the Purchase Clerk of Prentiss County, Mississippi, during the period October 1, 1977 through September 30, 1978, were adequate for the purposes of the Board of Supervisors and were in general compliance in all material respects with the requirements of House Bill 775, Laws of 1974, and House Bill 670, Laws of 1975, except for the conditions described below which I believe are material weaknesses in relation to the criteria referred to in the first paragraph of this report.

(1) Receiving reports are not being timely filed with the Purchase Clerk.

I recommend the Board of Supervisors to advise all county officials department heads and authorized employees that a receiving report must be prepared in triplicate and filed with the Purchase Clerk not later than the twelfth hour of the third regular business day after receipt of any equipment heavy equipment, machinery, supplies, materials or services.

(2) Vendor's invoices covering purchase of exempt items do not have the required signed vendor's certificate that reads as follows:

"THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT THE CHARGE MADE DOES NOT EXCEED THE COST TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC OF SUCH ITEM OR ITEM IN THE SAME QUALITY AND QUANTITIES."

I recommend in the future, the Clerk of the Board notify the individual supplier that his claim cannot be allowed for payment until the required signed vendor's certificate is affixed to his invoice.

Cards Of Thanks

"LOVE" is a word often spoken about, but only recently in the loss of our husband and daddy did we really learn what it meant. To our many friends, your love has meant so much. We could not have made it without your prayers and concern. Each visit, call, flowers, food and any act of kindness shown will never be forgotten. To Brother Rayburn, Dr. Elizey, McMillan's Funeral Home and the pallbearers we say a big "Thank you."

Joe will always live as a big part of our lives. "Our grief is for now, but love is forever."

The Family of JOE PARR

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Gertrude Melton wishes to express their sincere appreciation for all of the kindnesses shown during her illness and at the time of her death.

Your concern, love, prayers, visits and flowers have been an encouragement and blessing to us in this time of sorrow.

Thank you for your expression of sympathy and God Bless each of you.

D.W. Snyder, Public Service Commissioner of the Northern District, announced his candidacy Wednesday for re-election following qualification with the Secretary of State.

Blue Mountain Offers Clinics During May

BLUE MOUNTAIN—A number of short courses, clinics and workshops will be offered during the May intersession at Blue Mountain College, according to an announcement made today by BMC Dean William Washburn.

A May 7-11 Church Administration Clinic is already considered full with a waiting list. The clinic is geared toward pastors, church staff members and ministerial students and will be under the direction of Dr. James Travis, head of the Biblical Studies Department at BMC.

Leading sessions at the clinic will be Guy Culver of New Albany, director of missions for Union County; Leon Emery of Jackson, director of church administration for the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board; Joel Haire of West Point, a state-approved church administration consultant and Lee Prince of Memphis, pastor of Union Avenue Baptist Church.

Church professionals desiring more information may contact Dr. Travis at Blue Mountain.

A related program is a May 25-26 workshop for church organists which will be under the direction of Ed Ludlow, associate professor of Organ and Church Music at BMC.

The May 25th session will be held at the Springdale Baptist Church in Ripley with the May 26th portion being conducted at the West Jackson St. Baptist Church in Tupelo.

Ludlow said, "The purpose of the workshop is to review and discuss easy music appropriate for church use and playable by part-time organists."

Fifty pieces selected from all seasons and for general use will be demonstrated on several instruments. Details about the workshops may be obtained by contacting the college.

A two-week course "Women in History" will be taught May 14-25 and will be under the direction of Dr. Carey Hearn of the BMC History department. It will carry 3 semester hours of credit and will meet 1 day a week between 8:30-12:30.

Dr. Hearn noted, "The course will focus on the woman's movement between the Seneca Falls, N.Y. convention (1848) to the present and will examine the strides made as well as some of the set-backs."

The course is open to everyone with registration set of May 14 between 8:30-9:30 a.m. in the school's registrar's office.

Details about the May intersession, course costs and meeting dates may be obtained by contacting the Dean's Office at Blue Mountain.

to serve in this office of such high responsibility. "I am offering for re-election on the basis that I can continue to provide a valuable service to the Northern District and the entire state by drawing from the experience that I have gained as your Public Service Commissioner over the past years."

"My experience, both state and national, will enable me to serve the people better during the most difficult energy shortage period in our history. Your Public Service Commissioner plays a vital role in the life of virtually every Mississippian. Experience and knowledge of today's complex regulatory problems are necessary if we are to solve them and move forward in an orderly manner."

"It is my responsibility as Public Service Commissioner to provide sound regulatory judgment in discharging the duties and responsibilities of this high office. This I pledge to do through continued effective utility and transportation regulation. "For many years, I have strived to retain our intrastate natural gas in order for our citizens to have an adequate energy source. From these efforts, gas distribution companies in Mississippi are now able to virtually eliminate curtailment of gas and are, in fact, announcing that they are in a position to make service available to new industrial customers who require 300 Mcf or less per day on interruptible contracts and amounts over 300 Mcf per day at seller's option type contracts. "I advocate the immediate exploration and development of "Mississippi-mined" lignite as a boiler fuel for producing electricity. The utilization of lignite as a boiler fuel will pump millions of dollars into the economy of Mississippi in addition to reducing the electrical bill of every Mississippian. "It is my pledge that I will continue to devote my full time and energy to the people of Mississippi so we can enjoy a good life in the greatest country on earth."

Local Creek Adds To Bridge Scenery

Muddy Water Rises As Rains Continue

New Storage Reservoir Will Help Prevent Flooding

Prentiss County District Conservation Officer Tony Thompson said recently that the soil conservation service here, in cooperation with the Tuscumbia River Watershed District, has plans to install a series of reservoirs in Prentiss and Alcorn County which could help lessen the severity of future flooding here.

"Five of the 22 proposed structures have already been installed and a contract for the sixth project will be let this summer," Thompson said.

"Two of the projects have been built in Prentiss County. Both are located in the Pisgah area," the officer continued. They are called structure 38 and 39. Two more planned dams are to be built here, and they will be called structures 34 and 36.

"The two that have been built here are designed to store flood water and allow it to exit at a safe rate downstream. Both are located on the headwaters of Polly's Creek," he continued.

There was no cost to the county for construction. The residents of the flood plan area that are downstream of the dams grant easements, and the dams are built by the Soil Conservation Service, he said.

Currently in the planning stage is the Brown's Creek Watershed project, which will involve about 90,000 acres in the county when it is completed. It will provide benefits to about 11,500 acres of prime bottomland when it is installed.

Rising costs of obtaining the easements needed have stopped the installation of the project for the time being, according to Thompson.

He added that a search is underway for grant money from the state or country to aid with the purchase of the

Expert Tells Buyers To Cut Spending

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Surviving an inflationary period requires adjusting. Spending habits must be reviewed and altered to take care of basic needs before desires.

Families who are surviving are learning to plan ahead for large expenditures such as a new roof, car, tire replacements and household repairs, says Bonita Bridges, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service area consumer management specialist.

Lump sums due on insurance are divided by the number of months covered in payment. A small amount reserved each month is easier to "come by" than a large payment every six months.

The price of gasoline stings, adds Mrs. Bridges. What can families do to adjust to the cost of gasoline? Share rides with a neighbor, walk, bicycle, stay home more and plan trips to take care of several errands, she suggests.

Substituting is becoming a renewed art. "New" has less meaning. What do you have available to substitute for a purchase or a less expensive purchase? Many homemakers used spinach a few months ago when lettuce prices skyrocketed, she points out. Do-it-yourself techniques allow some families to have

Exercise Important To Weight Control

Health Surveys indicate that many people are gaining weight or staying overweight on relatively moderate calorie intakes. Although overeating is probably the major cause of overweight, physical inactivity contributes greatly to the problem.

There are a few encouraging signs that desire for fitness, or health-consciousness, is replacing simple weight-consciousness in the minds of many Americans.

There is growing awareness that a sedentary way of life can contribute to degenerative disease of the arteries and to obesity and its potential complications, most notably, diabetes, says a new pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

There also is a growing preference among Americans for a healthy, physically fit appearance. Emphasis is on condition. Body, skin and hair that are in good condition are widely regarded as easements.

"Soil Conservation Service-designed projects above Jackson, on tributaries of the Pearl River, protected local communities and prevented even greater flooding than what occurred, recently there," said Pete Forsythe, state conservation engineer, SCS, Jackson.

"Sixteen SCS-designed reservoirs in Choctaw, Leake and Winston counties held their capacity of more than 17,000-acre feet of water during the Easter flood. In addition, emergency spillways stored an additional 5,000-acre feet of water which was gradually released," Forsythe reported. "Without these dams, an additional 9 inches of floodwater would have covered the entire pool area of the Ross Barnett Reservoir. In support of these dams, only 23 miles of channels have been constructed—a minor part of the over 1500 miles of streams in the Pearl River Basin above Jackson."

In addition to reducing downstream flooding, the projects aided local communities.

At Ackerman, Mayor Tom Glasgow said: "The Soil Conservation Service watershed project helped us avoid absolute disaster during the recent flood. Without this project we'd have been in the same position as Jackson. If we hadn't had the project, we would have had one-half of the town and half the businesses, including the Courthouse, inundated. But, because this project protected us, water didn't get into a single commercial building, and only three houses had a slight amount of water."

The mayor continued: "This project is the single most useful thing we've ever had for money for luxuries such as vacations or better automobiles. Mowing your lawn, painting your home and changing oil in your auto require time and energy, but not a great deal of money.

Flexible, happy families plan the use of all dollars coming into the household. Even one dollar a week is important. A dollar a week wasted totals $52 a year. Plan before spending. Designated money is easier to control, says Mrs. Bridges.

Families are learning to live with less heat and cooling, using less hot water, using the oven for an entire meal and reducing the use of all electrical appliances.

What adjustments have you made? Discuss ways to reduce living expenses with your family, she suggests.

Is there any possibility of increasing the earning power of the family? We are becoming a service-oriented society. What marketable skills does your family have?

The family that works together in earning money and carefully planning the use of every dollar earned can survive. For most families, survival means continuous adjustment, she adds.

necessary for good looks.

You may feel too lazy to get started on a physical fitness program, but it's probably the lack of exercise that makes you feel that way. On the other hand, you may think of yourself as active or energetic because you are always busy—too busy to take time out for vigorous exercise. Some of the busiest people in the world have found time for jogging, tennis or morning calisthenics.

There are all sorts of guides to simple home exercise programs. Or there is jogging or other such activities. Or regular participation in active sports and games, such as handball or tennis. If you are over age 30 or are unaccustomed to vigorous exercise, consult with your physician before starting a program.

But, if you want to maintain good health and to keep the excess pounds off, a regular, vigorous exercise program is a must. For the rest of your life.

the city of Ackerman, and we're most grateful to the Soil Conservation Service for it."

The project, which includes four flood prevention dams and about one mile of channel, is one of three SCS-designed watershed projects above Jackson on tributaries of Pearl River.

All are sponsored by local soil and water conservation districts and drainage districts, and work in coordination with the U.S. Corps of Engineers' flood control projects on the major rivers. Conservation to control erosion is an important part of each project. This conservation work, which landowners do on their own land, also helps to prevent sediment from filling downstream reservoirs, protects water quality, and helps to absorb and slow rainfall.

At Carthage, representative J.H. "Slick" Turner reported: "The reservoirs in Standing

Pine watershed held tons of water for later runoff. This would have been added to the bloated streams had these structures not been in place.

"I believe if we'd just had a few more like these on Standing Pine, a lot of flooding downstream would have been eliminated. These reservoirs did the job they were constructed to do by holding back water. When you get something that will do its job, you can't argue about it."

J. Hoy Hathorn, Louisville attorney, said, "We will have a wonderfully designed project when completed. We desperately need channels to complete this protection. I believe when our project is complete, people all along the Pearl will be better off. They'd have less silt to fill up reservoirs downstream, and they'd have less flooding.

"Projects upstream equalize water flow. We can divide it—hold part of it—and release part of it gradually.... Bear in mind, though, that these projects won't eliminate (the effects of) 20-inch rains..." Hathorn said.

Turner also referred to the torrential floods of Easter weekend as an "Act of God, which no one could completely anticipate and plan for."

The SCS-designed projects are part of a coordinated plan for flood protection of the 3,000 square-mile Pearl River Basin. About half of the proposed SCS projects have been completed, controlling runoff from 55 square miles.

All the project expect the one at Ackerman, in the Upper Yockanookany, are funded under the provisions of Public Law 566, the Small Watershed Act. The project at Ackerman is funded under RC&D (The Resource Conservation and Development Act) designed to help communities establish critically needed facilities that could not be funded under other laws.

FBLA CONFERENCE AT UM—Among members of 130 Mississippi high school chapters of Future Business Leaders of America attending the organization's 25th annual state-wide leadership conference at The University of Mississippi were sweepstakes winners (from left) Laura W. Cartwright and Frances B. Rutherford, Prentiss County Vo-Tech Center; Jane Hogins, Diane Braxton, Faye Massey and Dale Boatright, Dee Allison and Kay Moffett, the meeting was coordinated by the Ole Miss Division of Continuing Education.

In Last Eighty Years— Government Has Changed Little

Mississippi's county government structure has changed little since the enactment of the 1890 Constitution, and the Mississippi Economic Council released a study today which, if implemented, would modernize a system often beset by local traditions, habits, prejudices and interests.

The report was released by the Council after approval by the Council's 88-member Board of Directors.

The nine-month-long study is a consolidation of 20 years' work by MEC on the organization of county government in Mississippi, according to MEC President G.B. Beard of Jackson.

The report, the work of a special study committee chaired by Yazoo City industrialist Gene Triggs, found that the present structure is incapable of meeting the needs of present-day Mississippi and is inadequate for twenty-first century county government.

"In our work," said Triggs, "we found that county government is bound to the traditions, habits, and even constitutional and statutory barriers of yesterday. It has changed little over the past century," he said.

Triggs' special study committee was an assignment by the Council's State and Local Government Committee chaired by Tupelo banker Lewis Whitfield.

"This model plan for county government traces the creation and development of counties, first in America and then in Mississippi," said Whitfield. "It details the inflexible structure under which county government in Mississippi operates today, and it attempts to identify problems resulting from this outmoded, inflexible form of government."

"We doubt changes will occur overnight," said Beard, "but movement must be made toward a county government system which can meet the needs of its citizens for the next century."

In restructuring the county government system, MEC recommends that the county governing board, the board of supervisors, should be a parttime, policy-making body and should be divested of administrative duties.

These administrative duties should be vested in an administrative officer in each county by the board of supervisors. The administrative officer, in turn, should appoint the various administrative officers which positions are now filled through the election process. These appointments would be approved by the board of supervisors.

Positions recommended for removal from the ballot and subject to appointment include the sheriff, tax assessor-collector, clerk of the courts, clerk of the board of supervisors, and coroner. The clerk of the courts office is the result of the combination of the judicial function of chancery clerk and circuit clerk. The clerk of the board of supervisors would assume registration and recording duties now performed by the chancery clerk.

"These recommendations and others in the report are designed to provide clearer lines of authority and accountability throughout the structure of county government," said Whitfield.

These other recommendations are also included: --Abolish the office of constable and provide that the sheriff's office be responsible for duties previously assigned to these officers.

--Abolish the office of ranger.

--Require the administration of all county road programs on a countywide basis and designate a county road manager for every county.

--Require policy making, planning, budgeting, purchasing, maintenance, and construction for the county as a whole.

--Permit city-county, state-county, county-to-county, or any other combination of intergovernmental cooperation which would avoid any unnecessary duplication of services

--Abolish payment by fees of any county officials and place all officials on salaries. Fees collected should be placed in the county treasury.

--Amend the state Constitution to permit the Legislature to revise justice courts or establish small claims or similar courts and prescribe the jurisdiction of the courts and set qualifications for officers.

--Abolish county welfare boards and permit the creation of multi-county welfare departments.

The model plan, stressed MEC leaders, maintains the basic democratic ideal of control of government by the people by retaining the election of the members of the board of supervisors, yet encourages capable, efficient government by providing for the employment of a strong, professional county administration, and the appointment of skilled professionals in each of the other administrative positions.

"It allows supervisors to devote complete attention to policy and legislative matters while serving on a part-time basis," said Whitfield, "yet assures continuing control over county affairs by the board through control of finances, control of the budget, and final control of executive and administrative appointments," he said.

Flood Damages Art Museum

The Mississippi Museum of Art suffered major damage from the record-breaking Easter weekend flood in Jackson. The museum has joined other residents and businesses of the city in the grim task of cleaning, repairing and replacing.

Thanks to the timely evacuation of all art work by a dedicated group of staff and volunteers before water entered the museum, no loss or damage was sustained and all objects are perfectly safe at this time. Constant efforts are being made with emergency generators to maintain desirable humidity and temperature levels.

Damage to the museum, located in the one-year-old Mississippi Arts Center, which is above the 500-year flood plane, permeated first floor. Interior and exterior walls, carpeting, tile floors, two 2000-square-foot ballet floors, four elevators, and hundreds of feet of built-in cabinetry were severely damaged.

All of the museum's support facilities (including the Museum School, the Media Center, the Museum Sales Gallery, the New South Film Center, meeting rooms and all staff offices) are located on the first floor; thus the flood has severely disrupted the museum's services.

The exhibition galleries are closed to the public and are temporarily the site of staff operations. The galleries cannot be opened until first floor repairs are complete and city officials approve reopening the Arts Center to the public.

Presently the full staff is working on two shifts assessing damages, restoring furnishings and other items that can be saved, and relocating exhibitions and programs.

Principal museum programs affected are exhibitions and exhibition-related activities. The following are cancelled or postponed until further notice:

--All museum exhibitions, tours, receptions, and school programs have been canceled. Groups who had planned museum visits or meetings in the Arts Center should call and reschedule. All lectures, film programs, and meetings for May will proceed, as scheduled but will be relocated.

TROPHY—John F. Spencer, (center) Inspector of District Four of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, accepts a trophy on behalf of the 48 Patrolmen in his district who were responsible for ending 1978 with the "Lowest Percent of Fatality Increase." Making the presentation is James Finch, (right) Commissioner of Public Safety, and C.H. Tyrone, (right) Assistant Chief of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol. District Four, with the substation in New Albany, ended 1978 with a two percent increase in fatalities taking place on Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol governed roads and highways while other districts showed increases up to 31 percent. District Four encompasses Alcorn, Benton, Itawamba, Lee, Marshall, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tiptah, Tishomingo and Union Counties.

Arson Drives Insurance Rates Up

Into one pot pour two cups of rising labor costs, mix in three tablespoons of increased prices for construction materials, sprinkle with a rash of arson and simmer over the possibility of a catastrophe—and you have a recipe for increased property insurance premiums.

"Insurance companies look at two main factors in considering rate changes: the amount they pay per claim and how frequently they pay it," said Henry Roberts, a member of the Insurance Information Institute's Mississippi Committee.

"Controlling the cost of property insurance requires finding ways to hold down the price of the goods and services that insurance pays for and the means to eliminate unnecessary claims, such as those caused by arson."

In recent years arson—the malicious burning of property—has been siphoning off more and more insurance claims dollars. Nationally, the National Fire Protection Association estimates that 177,000 arson fires occurred in 1977, causing an estimated property loss of $1.159 billion.

This year the Mississippi state fire marshal's office expects to investigate about 500 fires of suspicious origin—a 125 per cent increase since 1974.

Arson fires use up claims dollars because the fire insurance policy obligates the insurance company to pay for all fire losses, whether or not they are intentionally set.

Public policy prevents the payment of insurance benefits only when a company can prove in court if necessary—that the policyholder set the fire to defraud.

Proving who set the fire can be difficult. Besides the fact that the fire itself destroys a lot of evidence, a policyholder who wants to burn his property often will hire someone else to strike the match. Then he will leave town to establish an alibi.

Although the Mississippi state fire marshal's office estimates that a large per cent of the arson fires in the state are set to defraud insurance companies, convictions for the crime are rare. Nationally, arsonists are convicted in only two per cent of all incendiary fire cases—and only a percentage of those convicted ever go to jail.

Some experts believe that arson fires may be responsible for as much as 30 to 50 per cent of the total dollar fire loss in the United States. If only 10 per cent of fire insurance premiums cover losses from arson, completely eliminating the crime could result in a $6 million savings to Mississippi policyholders.

Also contributing to the price of property insurance is the cost of goods and services in the construction industry. Aggravated by inflation, the price of some items has risen almost twice as fast as that of property insurance. For example, the Consumer Price Index has measured an increase of 85.3 per cent in overall construction costs since 1972, and the index for house maintenance and repairs has gone up 74.8 per cent in that time. These figures compare to a 36.3 per cent rise in property insurance premiums.

Increases in individual construction items have been just as dramatic. Between 1975 and 1978 the price of lumber increased 69 per cent; millwork, 47 per cent; plywood, 47 per cent; building paper and board, 42 per cent; plumbing fixtures and brass fittings, 24 per cent; heating equipment, 15 per cent; prepared paint, 17 per cent; and fabricated structural metal products, 22 per cent.

The cost of labor has risen right along with the cost of materials. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, in Jackson since 1971 union hourly wage rates climbed 67 per cent for bricklayers, 72 per cent for carpenters, 64 per cent for electricians, 74 per cent for painters, 63 per cent for plasterers, 58 per cent for plumbers and 100 per cent for building laborers.

Another ingredient in the pricing of property insurance is the potential for a catastrophe. In states which are subject to perils such as tornadoes, hurricanes and hailstorms, insurance companies must have enough assets on hand to pay for the many claims that would result from a severe storm.

Mississippi has had 199 tornadoes touch down in the state since 1973; and, consequently, property insurance premiums in the state are higher than they might otherwise be.

With so many items contributing to the cost of property insurance, the wise property owner looks for ways to reduce his premium. One means is to make sure that you purchase only the amount of insurance you need.

Most important in this regard is the use of deductibles—the amount the policyholder agrees to contribute toward the total amount of the insured loss. The homeowners policy usually contains a basic $100 deductible. By increasing the amount of the deductible, an additional premium savings of as much as 20 per cent is possible.

To discuss these and other ways to save on property insurance, contact your insurance agent.

Land Use Often Affected By Government Policies

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Government policy and organizations affecting food must provide incentives and opportunities for income production and better distribution of food, according to Dr. Bob T. Chapin, coordinator, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center.

Research on groups and money policies is essential. Information systems are increasing rapidly through computer analysis, TV tape transmittal, storage and remote sensing inventories. Research is needed on product information requirements, crop monitoring systems and international data bases for land and nutrition, and total information system designs, he adds.

The policies in Taiwan have contributed to increased food production, lower death rates and reduced birth rates, but this is not always the case. Sometimes, technology that permits farmers to grow more food at a lower cost per unit of output is offset by government policies that influence the price of farm products and inputs. These policies can make increased production unprofitable, and thus discourage use of new technology.

"Freezing Russian grain shipments by legislation or striking union members hurt American wheat farmers," he explains. "We must learn more about how such policies and actions work."

Policies affecting agricultural production could encourage the replacement of nutritious food crops with less nutritious crops. Farm income and proper diet might move in opposite directions.

Inadequate credit or marketing services can affect the flow of seed, fertilizer, fuel, machinery and proper land use. We must learn more about these problems, says Dr. Chapin.

Policies that limit access to land, water or fishing grounds can reduce productivity. Trade policies should be examined closely.

Social science research on food and nutrition is behind that of biological science because of a lack of skilled personnel, methods, data, funding and organization, says Dr. Chapin. We need to know why people buy certain low quality foods instead of more nutritious foods of similar prices. Once sound research reveals the answer, it must be delivered to the public.

"Each time a crop is changed, it affects the use of the land which produces that crop.

COMMENCEMENT—Norman C. Nelson, M.D., vice chancellor for health affairs, dean of the School of Medicine and professor of surgery at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson, will deliver the commencement address for the thirty-first annual graduation ceremony at The Northeast Mississippi Junior College in Booneville, which will be held Friday, May 11 in Bonner Arnold Coliseum at 8 p.m.

Chicken Good Choice For Microwave Cooks

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Chicken is a favorite food for those who have discovered the pleasures of microwave cooking. It cooks to perfection in a fraction of the time required by conventional methods of preparation.

The National Broiler Council advises allowing about six to seven minutes per pound for cooking chicken. However, not all microwave ovens are the same, so always follow the manufacturer's instructions, stresses Barbara McLaurin, food and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Normally a three-pound whole chicken that takes one and one-half hours to roast in a regular oven is ready to eat in just 30 minutes in a microwave — a real help on days when you're short on time," says Mrs. McLaurin.

A microwave is also ideal for defrosting frozen chicken. Simply take the chicken from the freezer and unwrap. Place in a safe-for-microwave casserole or baking dish and cover with the casserole lid or wax paper. If the oven has no "defrost" power level, alternate a three to five minute heating period with a three to five minute standing period for each pound of frozen chicken (about three periods of each for a three-pound chicken). Rotate the dish at the end of each heating period. Remove giblets as soon as possible during the thawing process.

Following are tips from the National Broiler Council for cooking chicken in the microwave:

To brown chicken, coat with butter (not margarine), soy sauce, thyme, paprika or a commercial browning sauce.

Do not salt before cooking. Chicken usually cooks best on "high"; for less than three pounds, use "high" to "medium high" setting.

When cooking chicken parts, place larger, meatier parts near outside; tuck giblets under the breast.

To keep moisture in and avoid spatter, cover: chicken with wax paper, glass cover or plastic wrap with one corner folded back to vent.

Standing time is important; chicken continues to cook after the oven is turned off.

New van fever?

If you've got the symptoms, the Autobank treatment can vanquish your troubles.

If you've been experiencing pressure whenever the whole family gets in the car... if you've had a strange craving to take to the road with all the comforts of home... and if you've noticed an itch in your fingers for a new set of keys, you've probably got new van fever. And you're not alone. Fortunately, banking science has found the cure for new van fever.

The Autobank is the place for fast relief. You can arrange for treatment at any of our loan clinics (convenient offices throughout North Mississippi) or at your dealer's. Either way, our low bank interest rates make the cure easy to swallow. Our VIP Club customers even get an interest rebate! Don't let new van fever get you down... take two aspirins and call the Autobank!

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK
by By Milton Koon, Pastor Gaston Baptist Church

"Meekness"

When we speak of meekness most people immediately think of weakness or timidity. Yet, the Bible says, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth." Matthew 5:5 What did Jesus mean?

Meekness according to the Bible is power under control, the ability to love and care in difficult times. Moses was not a weak or timid person, yet Jesus identified him as being the meekest man on the earth.

Are you saying that a meek person never gets angry? No! Ephesians 4:26 says, "be angry and sin not." Godless anger destroys but godly anger builds up. God has given us the ability to get angry. However, we must get angry at the right things, like pornography, misuse of drugs, alcoholic consumption, and other injustices that are a part of our society.

Meekness in Jesus' day was used to refer to several different things: a soothing medicine, a quiet breeze on a hot day, a broken colt was referred to by the word we translate meek. For example, a proper dose of medicine can be extremely helpful when one is sick, however too much of the same medicine can be deadly. Also, a quiet breeze is refreshing on a hot summer day, however a wind like hurricane Camille in 1969 cost millions of dollars in property damage and many lives is all but helpful. Meekness is power under control.

Look in the Bible at the life of Joseph (Genesis 37 ff). Joseph was hated by his brothers. He was sold into slavery by his brothers. Yet, when Joseph was made Prime Minister of Egypt and the famine came, Joseph did not deny his brothers who came to him. He could have had them killed or refused to sell them grain. Rather he gave them grain and made arrangements to see his father again.

Meekness does not show itself when we are wrong, but when we are right. Meekness is not the shamed boy who is caught with his hand in the cookie jar. Meekness is not embarrassment when we are caught doing something wrong. Meekness is power under control. It reveals itself when we are right and when we have the power to help somebody who is wrong.

Again in I Samuel 24, Saul was seeking David to kill him. (David was to be the new king and Saul wanted to stop him.) David was deep within the cave where Saul stopped to sleep. David's men tried to get David to kill Saul and put an end to the running for his life. However David only cut a corner off of Saul's garment. Yes, easily he could have killed him but no. Power under control.

Jesus was led as a lamb to the slaughter saying not a word. Did Jesus have the power to stop the crucifixion? Yes, but he was doing the will of God and he would not. The Bible says he could have called ten legions of angels to rescue him. But Jesus did not seek revenge rather he sought the salvation of those who put him to death.

The people of the world say there is no place for meekness if you are climbing the ladder to success. But the ladder to success is lined with meekness. How do you measure success? Was Jesus successful?
