Marietta Sewage Treatment Plant Plan Awaits Federal Approval

By HANK WIESNER Managing Editor

An engineering plan for a proposed $700,000 sewage treatment facility for the town of Marietta is now under final federal review, according to town officials and the engineering firm that developed the plan.

Approval of the plan would complete the second phase of the three stage project and clear the way for construction to begin later this year or next spring, according to Sonny Martin with the Willis Engineering Co. in Booneville.

The project will be financed through the sale of about $100,000 in town revenue bonds, coupled with grants from the Environmental Protection Agency, the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Farmers Home Administration. The FmHA is also expected to loan money to the town, according to Martin and Town Clerk Nancy Brasel. The loan would be repaid over a 35 year period by sale of the revenue bonds.

The average estimated cost per user would be from $6 to $8 per month, she added.

The system would be located on property in southeast Marietta that is already owned by the town. Included in the project will be a sewage treatment facility, four lift stations and about 26,000 feet of eight-inch pipe that will tie the system in to about 110 families, according to information from the engineer.

The treatment facility will be a mechanical type called an extended aeration system. It blows water into the air and trickles it over a form of limestone to purify it, the engineer said.

After treatment the water will be discharged into a drainage ditch and eventually make its way to Big Brown Creek.

"Environmental Protection Agency officials are looking over the plans now before giving their final approval," Martin said early this week.

Following their OK, bids for the work would be accepted by the town, and construction would begin. Construction could begin this summer, later this year or next spring, depending on when approval comes on the project, the engineer said.

He estimated construction time at six months to a year.

Approval of the study would end the second phase of the three part project to bring a sewage treatment facility to Marietta.

The first stage was carrying out a 201 federal study that determined the need for a treatment plant. That was done in 1975.

The second phase involves designing a system, and the third phase is construction of the system, Martin said.

Hospital Report: Revenues Up, Patients Down

The Northeast Mississippi Hospital is expected to show a $200,000 net revenue increase over last year's figures despite a decline in patient days and levels of hospital occupancy from last year, with the revenue increase coming from rate increases, according to a financial report presented to the hospital's Board of Trustees during a meeting Monday night.

After hearing the report, the trustees also accepted recommendations from Administrator Ralph Smith and raised rates in selected areas of hospital operation effective next Monday.

The report also outlined the hospital's ratio of total expenses to total revenues, and showed that Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross accounted for over 67 per cent of the total patient days recorded at the hospital during the six-month study.

The study covered a period that ended March 31, and was prepared by W.F. Horne and Co. Ltd, certified public accountants from Laurel.

Cochran Aides Coming

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran's mobile field office will visit Booneville Thursday, June 28. The newly inaugurated mobile office program is intended to offer local residents a chance to discuss their problems with Cochran's staff.

Said Cochran about the new program, "A mobile field office is the most effective and most economical way to provide constituent services to the greatest possible number of Mississippians. Rather than ask people who need assistance to travel to a state or a regional office, we will be able to visit each of the 82 counties on a periodic basis.

Cochran's staff will be at the Prentiss County Courthouse from 2-4 p.m. Thursday. "Anyone who has a problem with the federal government, or who has a special concern about a matter before the Senate is invited to stop by and talk to my staff," said Cochran.

County Democrats, Candidates To Meet Saturday Morning

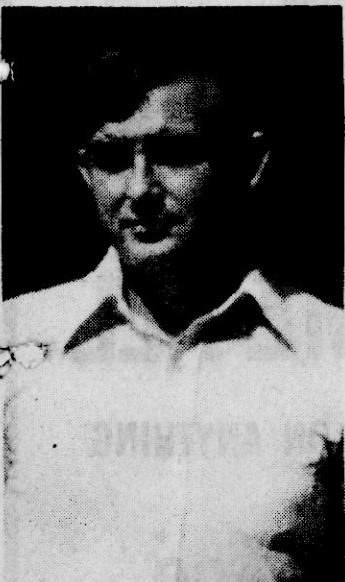

The Executive Committee of the Prentiss County Democratic Party will meet Saturday morning in the courthouse with Democratic candidates for offices in this area, according to committee chairman Glen Goodman.

The executive committee will meet at 9 a.m. and candidates will meet with the committee at 10, he said.

Purpose of the 9 a.m. meeting at the circuit clerk's office will be to qualify candidates and insure that they meet all requirements for the office they seek.

The 10 a.m. meeting will be to determine speaking dates and times for the candidates during their campaigns.

Goodman said that all candidates must pay qualifying fees to the Democratic Party set by state statute before they can be qualified.

Department, reduced the number of employees on the public payroll, and we have earned more interest on the investment of public monies than ever in the history of our State. During this time of high inflation and higher and higher government costs, we in the Treasury Department have reduced our costs.

"Previous to my service as Treasurer, I served eight years in the Mississippi State Senate representing Forrest, Lamar and Marion Counties. I believe that my service in the Senate and my service as Treasurer qualify me for the important post of Secretary of State. "The major responsibilities of the Secretary of State's Office are: to grant corporate charters and to qualify out-of-state corporations to do business in this State; to administer the State's Securities Law and to supervise the sale of securities. The Secretary of State administers the Uniform Commercial Code, the Trademark Registration Law, all of which require a strong legal background.

"I am a graduate of the University of Mississippi School of Law and engaged in the private practice of law for 16 years in Hattiesburg. This background in law will assist me in carrying out the duties of the Office of Secretary of State. "The Secretary of State also is the custodian of the Capitol Building and other state governmental buildings and grounds in Jackson. I served from 1966 to 1971 as a member of the State Building Commission. Therefore, I have a working knowledge now concerning the maintenance and operation of these state facilities. Renovation of our Capitol Building will begin within the next 30 days. As the State Treasurer, it was necessary that I approve this renovation in accordance with the law and therefore I am familiar with the renovation plans and am fully aware of the historic significance of this beautiful building. I pledge to safeguard the historical importance during this renovation period.

great patriotism, a respecter of our history and of our people. I pledge that, if I am elected Secretary of State, we will safeguard and protect our historical buildings, that we will carefully register and record and safeguard all official documents and laws and constitutional amendments of Mississippi. I pledge to respect our past and our people.

"My campaign will be a campaign of hard personal work on my part and on the part of my wife and my three children. I shall conduct a responsible campaign, a dignified campaign and a campaign dealing only with the task ahead. The Secretary of State should be a person with a strong governmental and legal background; one who has been an active leader in his community and state; a person with fresh, innovative ideas and a person who has an understanding of and a strong identification with the people of the entire State of Mississippi. The Secretary of State must be a person of honesty, integrity and a person of leadership ability and a person devoted to public service. I believe that I meet the qualifications and the desired traits; therefore, I along with my wife, Barbara and our children, Melanie, Win, and Jennifer, announce my candidacy for the office of Secretary of State, and we earnestly solicit the support of all our citizens who desire an efficient, economical and cautious approach to public service.

confidence in the Highway Commissioner's office in order to enact legislation to have a meaningful Highway Program. "Mr. Davis added that he is well aware of the increasing burden of problems of the municipal and county officials in maintaining and improving the streets and roads under their jurisdiction. He pledges his fullest cooperation with the supervisors and city officials in working on a program that will be of benefit to them. "Davis said, "I'm not making any promises except to tell the people of the Northern District that I will give them 100 percent effort to coordinate the total road program in the District. "My experience as an Administrator will provide the leadership and teamwork needed to do the job so that we can have better roads for all of us."

The 43 year old Davis is a family man, being married to the former Nancy Hogan of Slayden. They have three children, Kermit Jr., 19, a student at Phillips County Community College in Helena, Arkansas, Bill, 18, a graduated senior at Starkville High School and Jenny, 7, a 3rd grader in the Starkville Public School System. Nancy is an elementary teacher in the Starkville Public Schools. The Davises are active members of the Church of Christ. A graduate of Walnut High School in his native Tiptah County, Kermit received his BS at Mississippi State University in 1959, and his Masters in Administration from MSU in 1970. Kermit was the first High School Basketball recruit to be signed with a grant-in-aid by the late legendary MSU Coach Babe McCarthy. After his playing days, he served as Head Basketball

Coach at two Mississippi high schools, Leakesville and Tupelo, taking the latter to two grand slam championships. He returned to Starkville as MSU Assistant Coach and Ticket Manager taking over the Head Coaching job in 1970. As Head Coach, Kermit was responsible for a $200,000 annual budget. Kermit resigned from MSU in 1977 to take a position with the Public Service Commission. Serving his country, Kermit was an officer in the U.S. Army from 1960 to 1962 and was decorated for Distinguished Service. Leaving active duty, he spent the next eight years in the Mississippi Army National Guard. Promotion Board. I am a Baptist. "In announcing my candidacy for Supervisor of the Fourth District, I do so realizing this is one of the most important offices in County Government. This office belongs to the people and if elected I will at all times strive to serve all the people in the district and at the same time work for progress for Prentiss County. "The next four years could be the most crucial we will ever face. With inflation continuing to spiral, with energy shortages, taxes rising and many others problems, we must as citizens be determined to devote unselfish, dedicated service. Public officials must be honest and fair to see that tax dollars are spent wisely. Our roads and bridges must be maintained and improved, I believe they can be without increasing taxes. "I know the value and importance of maintaining and properly taking care of all equipment. My training and experience will enable me to save money by using proper care and supervision in maintenance and repair work. I know that it will require close supervision of all functions of this office if you the tax payers get full value of your tax dollars.

"The County Board of Supervisors are faced with many issues of great importance to all of our people. If elected I will approach all issues with an open mind, and before rendering a decision, I will carefully consider all of the facts and how they will affect our citizens before I cast my vote. I will at all times keep in mind that my duty is to represent you the citizens of the Fourth District to the best of my ability. "I would like to serve the next four years as your supervisor, if elected I will give you four years of honest, dedicated, unselfish service. I will do my best to render the kind of service that you deserve, and I assure you that if given the opportunity to serve in this capacity that I will do my utmost to conduct the affairs of this important office in an honest, impartial, efficient manner and in a way that will never cause you to regret supporting me. Presently I am working with my brothers and father in the sawmill business, hauling products of the mill. "One thing I am not is a politician. some of the best teachers that you could find anywhere. "Two terms as your County Superintendent of Education have taught me that our schools must operate without some of the luxuries that most of us want and some of us think we need. The informed person knows that we are doing a good job with what we have to do with.

"Yes, all of us want improvements, and we are realizing them slowly but surely. The people of this county have told me that the majority of you want our schools to remain in the various communities and I am working with you in every way that I can to keep them there. "As long as I am your County Superintendent of Education, all my recommendations and actions will be directed toward promoting the interest of all our children, not a special few. I am as interested in promoting better education and better facilities for one child as I am another.

"During the coming weeks, I will continue to discuss with you, the voters, some of the things, we have done to further the education of our children and some of the programs being developed. Dead in the collision were Alonzo C. Acree Jr., 23, 300 Murdock St. and Richard D. Keith, 25, 613 Sables St. Corinth. The two men were pronounced dead on arrival at Magnolia Hospital shortly before 10:30.

The Corvette was almost ripped into pieces on impact. The sports car left the highway on the east side and rolled down the embankment. The Corvette came to rest about 120 feet from impact. The accident was investigated by Highway Patrolman Jan Barnett.

Traffic at the wreck scene was snarled for over an hour as wrecker crews and firemen worked to cool and clear the wreckage. Traffic at one time was back up almost a mile on each side.

Details of the fatal collision were sketchy but one witness said the 1974 Corvette, owned by Acree, was northbound on what is known as Mitchell Hill when the accident occurred.

Lady's Slipper Is King Of The Wild Flowers

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau

A modern tragedy lies in the fact that the vast majority of rural Mississippians, middle aged or younger, are destined to live out their lives without ever experiencing the thrill of exploring the pokey pace of springtime across the wrinkled brow of an undisturbed woodland area to come face to face with a singularly beautiful lady's slipper orchid.

Not only is this circumstance a reflection on our ecological times that so few still exist today, but also on our very lifestyle when so few people have the interest and temerity to enter into a habitat whose perils are grossly overrated to experience some of the truly finest sensations of the intricate fabric of life.

This writer conscientiously set out seven years ago to find this occasionally still persisting queen of the wildflowers, goaded on by statements from my elders of their discoveries of another day in less sophisticated times.

But, on with the search in a moment, after we first describe this marvel of nature that has so enticed lovers of the out-of-doors since time began.

The lady's slipper is perhaps our most familiar native orchid world-wide, appearing in various countries and habitats in varying forms. Possibly the only variety native to Mississippi is the yellow lady's slipper, a variable species in its own right which ranges from the woodlands of Europe and Asia into North America. On this continent its range is in bogs, swamps and woodlands from New foundland to British Columbia and southward to New Jersey, the mountains of Georgia and Tennessee, hence across the Appalachian type foothills of Mississippi appearing occasionally in all instances even into Louisiana and New Mexico. They skip the arid far western plains to show up again in the rain prone mountains of Washington state.

This 'slipper' orchid derives its name from the flower's resemblance to the sandal or slipper (pedilum) of Aphrodite, the goddess of love and beauty who was born on the island of Cyprus; hence, the family name of cypripedium—a combination of the latin forms for Cyprus and sandal.

It is best to be prepared to come into the presence of this charming plant. Its roots feed on rich, undisturbed humus in virgin-like woods. The stem rises nearly two feet high and the plant has from three to five somewhat cane-like leaves topped by from one to two extraordinary yellow flowers streaked with red ribs. The rich slipper is poised with the opening uppermost as though it is ready for a fairy princess to slip a foot inside and step down onto April's carpet or a nymph-like dance beneath the small shafts of sunlight occasionally piercing the high forest canopy overhead.

The sheer beauty of the flower, and its habitat, is superlative in every sense.

Now, having described this rare visitor in our midst, where does one find it? Without a knowledgeable guide you probably won't, even if you live to be a hundred. I sought this elusive plant on my own and somewhat diligently for five years. I was goaded on by a Stoneville, Miss., plant scientist who told of his discovery of a colony of them in a rare ravine in Webster county while he was a student in college.

A Lion's Club member at Laurel recalled seeing them in his youth on his father's place in Winston county. But where are they today?

Two years ago this writer continued his quest for help at a Mississippi Wildflower program he put on during National Library Week at the Ripley Public Library. The next day librarian Tom Covington went out and discovered one in a remote area of Tippah county, sharing its woodsey habitat with an even rarer Showy Orchid. He shared the discovery with me on a stormy afternoon and we photographed it in the rain. Older Tippah countians were familiar with the spectacular plant.

Last month I was led into the hills of Clay county to see four plants, already having flowered, within a space of 12 feet. Simultaneously there was a report from a reliable forester of a colony found this spring in Lee county.

Thus we know fortunately that this beleaguered queen of the wildflower kingdom still reigns over her time tattered kingdom here in Mississippi. God save the Queen!

Timber Sale Contract Is For Protection Of Buyer and Seller

By JOHN STUART
County Forester

Contracts and Buyers—Details of a timber sale should not be trusted to memory. All timber sold should be covered by a written agreement or contract. Contracts help protect both the buyer and the seller from a misunderstanding.

A contract should outline the owner's wishes regarding the conditions of the sale. It should specify what is to be cut, set a time limit for completion of the cutting, and state when and how payments will be made.

Provisions should be inclined for damage to fences, roads, or other improvements and penalties may be established for careless or unnecessary damage to young or unmarked trees.

Any special or unusual provisions should be outlined clearly. These might include location of sawmill sites, or ownership of saleable tops, slabs, and edgings. Contracts should be worded to take advantage of special tax provisions, such as capital gains, if applicable.

Sample timber sale contracts are usually available from county agents or state forestry service personnel. Invitations to inspect and bid on the timber should be sent to several possible buyers, along with the estimated volume, size, and quality of timber for sale. A copy of the contract should also be included, since special or unusual provisions must be considered before an offer can be made.

It should be remembered that the highest bid is not always best. The buyer's integrity, experience, and reputation should be considered in selecting a bid. Once a decision has been made, the buyer and seller should go over the terms of the contract and agree fully on its provisions. Two copies of the contract, one for the buyer and one for the seller, should be signed and witnessed.

Supervision and Evaluation—The responsibilities and obligations of the contracting parties do not end with signing the contract. Cutting operations should be visited frequently to make sure contract specifications are being fulfilled. Violations should be corrected or compensated for at the time they occur.

Finally, the timber owner should evaluate the decisions he has made and determine how these decisions will effect future production and income. It should be remembered that future sales may be more important and profitable than present sales.

Forest owners desiring more information regarding timber sales and management may contact John Stuart, County Forester, in the back of the Bank of Commerce or by calling 728-6835.

Medical Scholarship Loan Fund Established To Honor Dr. Googe

JACKSON—The family of the late Dr. and Mrs. George W. Googe of Alcorn County, has established the Googe Memorial Medical Loan Fund in their memory at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, according to Dr. Norman C. Nelson, vice chancellor for health affairs and School of Medicine dean.

Medical students who have completed at least two quarters in the School of Medicine, show evidence of financial need and are in good academic standing will be eligible to apply for the loans, he said. Preference will be given to applicants from Alcorn and Prentiss Counties, the area Dr. Googe served during his medical practice in Rienzi.

A general practitioner for more than 50 years, the late Dr. Googe charged his patients only $7.50 for obstetrical services in the early days. But his daughter Louise Googe of Corinth recalls that eggs were only five cents a dozen then and a gallon of milk, just 10 cents. Hickory smoked ham sold for 10 cents a pound and so did whole butter.

Miss Googe compiled her recollections of her father in an article for the Daily Corinthian in 1976. She described him as a "good old fashioned country doctor..." who saw his patients where it suited them—in his office in the local drug store, at his own home, or their homes. Because the Googe home was his second office, Miss Googe and the other three children learned the importance of the Hippocratic Oath early, she says.

"We were constantly reminded that we must 'see no evil, hear no evil, and speak no evil.' I often think of the homes that might have been broken and the people who might have been shot had we ever dared to tell all we knew."

A recurring obstacle the physician faced was the people's confidence in woods lore and home remedies for solutions to health problems. A knife stuck in a leak in the house was believed to stop a hemorrhage; an ax under the childbirth bed, sharp side up, would prevent the new mother from having afterpains, according to commonly held superstitions.

The knife and ax were harmless enough, but some home remedies could have adverse effects. Miss Googe wrote: "Whiskey is not an antidote for snakebite, but simply accelerates the heart, making the poison spread faster over the system. Yet when Dad arrived on the scene, the patient was often well under the influence of Mississippi moonshine."

Dr. Googe, who logged hundreds of miles during his 50-year practice still made many of his rounds on horseback even after the automobile arrived in Alcorn County and at the Googe home. He always kept several, and any one of them could be depended on to negotiate the muddied dirt road which always thwarted his tin lizzie.

Born in 1876, Dr. Googe earned his medical degree at the University of Kentucky. He started his general practice in 1904. He died in 1956, still in practice.

Hospital

The report showed that as of March 31, excess revenues from hospital operations were $444,014. Compared against a $678,102 figure for the year ended Sept. 30, 1978, the report indicated an annual increase in revenues of $209,926.
The $444,014 figure was "annualized"—doubled, since it is expected at least as much will be earned in the next six months as was in the six month report period—to yield a figure of $888,028. The figure of $678,102—the last full year of hospital earnings which ended on Sept. 30, 1978—was subtracted from the $888,028 figure to produce the $209,926 figure.
The hospital showed a $43,443 excess of revenues over expenses for the six month period that ended March 31, according to the report.

According to figures presented in the report, departments with losses as of Sept. 30, 1978 tended to increase the losses through the end of the audit period this year, while departments with gains tended to increase their gains through the same period.
There were three exceptions to that finding in the 18 departments, the biggest one being the operating room, which reported a small gain this year of $2303 after a $65,909 loss as of September of 1978.
The annual increase figure brought a commendation from the report to the hospital for "significant improvement in its financial condition." Total revenue at the hospital increased 16.78 per cent while total costs rose 14.20 per cent on an annualized basis. The main reason for the sharp hike in revenues was rate increases, according to the report.

Total expenses as of March 31 were 85.32 per cent of total revenues, whereas in September of 1978 the total expenses ratio was 86.81.
Revenues and expenses by patient day equivalents also showed well in the report, and the gross revenue per patient day showed sharp improvement since September of last year.
Patient days as of the end of the reporting period were 13,555, an annualized drop of about four per cent from the 28,264 figure recorded at the end of September last year.
Average total gain per patient day at the end of the reporting period based on Medicare reporting formulas was $32.75, as opposed to $23.99 at the end of September, 1978.
After hearing the report, the trustees approved with little discussion was selected rate increases Administrator Smith requested for the 136-bed hospital.

Increases include raising daily room rates in the coronary care and intensive care unit from the present $64 to $69, and raising the daily equipment charge in those rooms from $75 to $90.
Recovery room first hour rates were raised from $45 to $50. Rates for each quarter hour after the first hour in the recovery rooms were hiked to $25 from the present $20.
Miscellaneous charges included raising the daily charges for new born nursery areas from $40 to $45, and raising the delivery room charge from the present $110 to $125, as well as raising oxygen mask use from $10 to $12.50.
Each of those areas—coronary and intensive care, delivery, recovery, and newborn—had shown projected revenue decreases from the September, 1978 figures.
In action later in the meeting the board of trustees also voted to raise the mileage allowance for hospital employees from 12 cents to 16 cents.

Incumbents Face Uphill Battle

By BILL CRAWFORD
Columnist
Northern District incumbents aren't going to have an easy time this year. Both Highway Commissioner Bobby Richardson and Public Service Commissioner D.W. Snyder face tough competition.
Scandal, lack of funds and deteriorating roads in the Northern District have made the re-election of Richardson problematic. The first-term commissioner thought about running for statewide office but decided to stay on as a highway commissioner. That was not prove to have been a good decision.

Helping out Richardson will be numerous highway improvement contracts which will get underway this summer. When some of the awful stretches of highway in the Northern District get this last minute attention it may bring some supporters back to the fold.
Challenging Richardson for his seat are Zack Stewart of New Albany and Kermit Davis of Starkville.

Stewart finished third behind Richardson and Herschel Jumper in 1975. He promises a strong race this year.
Davis is the former Mississippi State basketball coach. A popular if relatively unsuccessful coach, Davis will be making his first political race.
Snyder, burdened with ever increasing utility rates, a rural district with some of the worst telephone service and an earlier scandal over accepting favors from utilities, has

Eyes On Mississippi

Winter Takes Off The Gloves

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON—William Winter has brought in as his campaign consultant the guy who just produced John Y. Brown's amazingly successful campaign to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Kentucky.
His name is Bob Squier of Washington, D.C., said to be the hottest political media strategist in the field right now, coming off a string of successes, including a stint to help Jimmy Carter when the Georgia peanut farmer's campaign was faltering toward the end of the 1976 race.
Squier evidently brought Brown from nowhere in a crowded Democratic field with a media blitz and a broadside against corruption in the statehouse administration in Kentucky. Of course, Brown, a 45-year-old millionaire who peddles Kentucky Fried Chicken was not bereft of notability in Kentucky, even though he had never run for office before.

Brown also had certain other assets, including a fat checkbook and a wife named Phyllis George, the ex-Miss America turned sports commentator. As is Winter, Brown was a last-minute entry into a race where lines were already pretty well drawn.
Among Squier's other successes was the election of Sen. Howell Heflin over in Alabama last year in a campaign where the strategy had to be changed in mid-stream after George Wallace pulled out.
Squier, who handles only the television and radio strategy of the campaign, works only for Democrats and no conservative Democrats. Evidently he doesn't come cheap. His price tag, according to sources, is $15,000 per campaign, primary and general election treated as two campaigns, plus expenses.
The stocky, unobtrusive Squier is not unknown in Mississippi. He produced and directed the recent William Faulkner documentary for Mississippi Education Television which has been getting rave notices nationally.

Winter, while appearing to be having difficulty making up his mind about jumping into the governor's race, evidently was carefully calculating how to project a new image if he ran, and unless he could come up with better TV than he had in the past, he wasn't going to run.
Though his friend Jesse White, until recently a member of Sen. Stennis' staff in Washington, Winter made the connection with Squier and he agreed to take him on. Winter had almost decided to go with Stuart Stevens, the young electronic wiz who produced TV for Cong. Jon Hinson in his big upset over John Hampton Stennis last year.
It's obvious from the opening gun of his campaign that we're going to see a new William Winter this time. No more Mr. Nice Guy. No more kid gloves stuff.
Winter came out slugging in his first news conference as a critic of the administration of Gov. Cliff Finch, with less than subtle intimation he will target Lieut. Gov. Evelyn Gandy as part of The Finch administration.

The word is that Winter decided even before Squier came aboard he was going to have to tackle Gandy from the outset, along with making the suspected corruption of the Finch administration a prime issue. But others, especially John Arthur Eaves and Jim Herring had already started out with the corruption theme.
Whether or not Winter can catch on as the prime anticorruption candidate apparently depends on the talents of strategist Squier and will prove if Winter made a good investment. It's uncertain that Winter at this stage can raise the money it will cost to put on one of Squier's blitzes.
This change of tactic by Winter apparently is going to have a major effect on the tone of the campaign. In the past, the usually reserved Winter has always been counted on by the opposition to keep the campaign on the high road while they engage in the in-fighting and nuances which usually produce winners.

The prospect now is for a slam bang affair from the beginning, probably the hardest hitting campaigning we have ever seen in Mississippi.
Winter's acquisition of Squier doubtless will cause the other major candidates to look closer at their own media strategists. Already, Herring is said to have dismissed his South Carolina agency because of initial response to TV spots seeking to tie Gandy to fallen Sen. Bill Burgin.
How Gandy will campaign is yet a mystery. Her initial organization meeting here last Sunday at the Downtowner reportedly was something of a flop in terms of numbers.
Gandy has never operated with an organization before, and she apparently is yet to be convinced she needs one now.

Congressman's Comment

Federal Health Care Eyed

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th Dist. Mississippi

The overall goal of congressional efforts in the health field has been to assist in the delivery of adequate medical care to Americans at a reasonable cost.
But even the most honorable intentions have a way of getting sidetracked somewhere along the line, and I'm afraid that's happening with the issue of national health insurance.
In theory, "equal care for all" is a concept worthy of high praise. But, under pressure from the American people to reduce federal spending and the high inflation rate, Congress is asking some tough questions.

Those questions include: How much will it really cost? Where will the money come from? What will we get in return? I think the questions are justified because of the poor results from nationalized health care systems in such countries as Britain and Canada. Medical care in those countries, most experts agree, is worse off now than it was before socialized medicine.
No one should presume that our present system of health care provided by the private sector is a perfect one, because there's no such thing as a perfect system. But American health care professionals have taken a positive approach to providing better quality than is found in any other country.

We know that the cost of medical care has increased; a dollar's worth of medical care in 1967 costs $1.85 today. But other services have increased at a faster rate. A 1967 dollar's worth of auto repairs costs $1.90 today; a dollar's worth of plumbing services in 1967 costs $2.10 today; and a dollar's worth of postal services in 1967 costs $2.22 today.

The American free enterprise medical system has made remarkable strides. In 1900, for example, the life expectancy of the average American at birth was just over 49 years. Today, the average baby is likely to live at least 74 years.
Tuberculosis and polio, two devastating diseases, have been virtually wiped out. Open heart surgery, once considered too risky, has become fairly commonplace and saves many lives each year. The cancer survivorship rate is showing some improvement.

These statistics indicate to me that any so-called medical crisis may be more rhetoric than fact.
It's the cost of illness today which is a problem for the working people of this country.
I believe there should be a renewed commitment within the private health care delivery system to hold the costs down, without any more of the expensive intervention the federal government is famous for.

Whitten Backs Pay Raise

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congressman Jamie Whitten (D-MS-1) yesterday voted to give himself a $3,162 pay increase that would have raised his annual salary to more than $60,500, according to the National Republican Congressional Committee.
The majority of the Congress, however, was not quite so self-confident. The bill which included the increase was finally defeated, 232-186.
In a day highlighted by "parliamentary trickery," the Congress considered a 7 per cent pay increase, amended that to a 5.5 per cent increase and then rejected the entire legislative appropriations bill because the pay raise was included. Congressman Whitten, however, voted to pass the bill and the pay raise.

As the bill was presented yesterday, the only choice Congressmen were to have was either to accept the 7 per cent increase or to trim that increase to 5.5 per cent. But the Republicans were successful in changing the rule to allow a yes or no vote strictly on the pay raise.
But when Congressman George O'Brien (R-II) stood to offer that amendment, the Democratic Leadership flooded the floor with pro-pay raise Congressmen in order to produce a quorum that would object to O'Brien's amendment. Because of this fancy parliamentary footwork by the Democratic Leadership, O'Brien's amendment went down to defeat on a voice vote.

In leading the fight against the increase, Rep. O'Brien said that it was important to give the public "some kind of encouragement" in fighting inflationary wages and prices. "They need to know we'll practice self-denial before we ask them to do it," he said.
Rep. Robert Dornan (R-CA) warned his colleagues that "the people out there are angry," and that legislators should not raise their pay if they wanted to keep their jobs.
The bill will now be sent back to the Legislative Appropriations Subcommittee.

Cow Feeding Problems Solved?

Overfeeding or underfeeding grain to lactating dairy cows has been a dairy industry problem for many years, but, thanks to a minicomputer, scientists at Mississippi State University's Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station may solve this problem.

"Cows typically are not in the milking parlor long enough to consume enough grain mix to support a high level of milk production," explained Dr. James E. Tomlinson, MSU associate dairy nutritionist, "and feeding grain mix on a herd basis wastes valuable feed as some cows consume more than they need. Too little grain mix results in lower milk production; too much wastes dollars."

The MSU scientist first determined the nutritional intake for each of the 24 cows in a test group and then determined how much additional nutritional intake was necessary to maintain each cow's maximum production level.

"We did this through challenge feeding, and approached that involves feeding more grain mix than is needed to sustain current milk production in early lactation," Tomlinson said. "As the cow's milk production increased, we increased the feed to the point that the feed increase no longer led to a milk production increase."

The figure for each cow was put into a mini-computer, and the computer allotted the total amount of feed in six-hour intervals over each 24-hour period. The system, Computer-Controlled Outside Concentrate Feeder, is manufactured by Technical Industries, and MSU is the first to make commercial use of it.

Electronic transponders, which activate the flow of feed in an automated supplemental grain mix feeder, are worn around the necks of the cows. Each cow is permitted to eat all the feed allotted in each time period. If any feed is not consumed, the mini-computer pro-rates it over the remaining periods. At midnight, when the 24-hour cycle is completed, the cows are not permitted to have any carryover feed; a new cycle begins. The mini-computer will indicate the amount of feed a cow didn't consume, but "normally we don't have more than two cows not eating the full allotment, and those that don't are virtually never the same cows," Tomlinson said.

Three other approaches, each using 24 cows, also are used for comparing systems. One approach uses magnets that activate feeders with no limit on feed intake.

Another involves a Calan headgate. A pre-measured amount of feed is placed behind the headgate. This limits overall feed consumption, but it doesn't control the intake of each cow.

The third approach uses transponders around the cows' necks which activate the flow of pelleted feed, one pound per minute, into a feeding manger. A timer on the transponder is set to limit each cow's 24-hour intake. The cow is allowed a designated number of minutes per day at the feeder; when this time has expired, the transponder will no longer activate the feed flow into the manger. This system is manufactured by de Laval Separator Company.

Milk production and feed intake in the research pens are recorded daily.

"We see great potential for this mini-computer approach," Tomlinson said. "It can handle as many as 256 cows using eight feeder stations." Early results verify Tomlinson's optimism, but "we have not yet reached the point where we can make concrete conclusions," he said. "The high cost of feed makes some type of control almost a necessity in efficient dairy farm operations."

Lt. Dawson Graduates

Marine Second Lieutenant Robert W. Dawson, son of Winfred B. Dawson of 305 Miller Circle, Booneville, was graduated from The Basic School.

The Basic School is located at the Marine Corps Development and Education Command in Quantico, Va. It is designed to prepare newly-commissioned officers for assignment to the Fleet Marine Force and emphasizes the duties and responsibilities of a rifle platoon commander.

The training included instruction on land navigation, marksmanship, tactics, military law, personnel administration, Marine Corps history and traditions, communications and the techniques of military instruction. During the 26-week course, leadership by example and teamwork were stressed and the students participated in a demanding physical conditioning program.

The fair warm weather is still with us and farmers are grateful to be able to get land preparation and planting done. Our meteorologist has predicted rainfall by June 20.

Visitors at Oak Ridge on Sunday June 10 were Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Hill of Memphis; Mrs. Delma Shouse, Joy, Jan, and Joel Frame of Smyrna, TN. Some of our shut-ins aren't doing well at all. These are Mr. Earl Kennedy and Mr. Sherman Estis.

Mam-ma Coats is doing better than she did for a while—has been more alert.

Thirteen people from here attended the youth rally at Pine Grove east of Fulton, Ms. On their way home one young lady was heard to say that she had the best time she had ever had in her whole life. The Church needs to provide more such activities for young people.

Mrs. Pearl Green—"Ma"—is a patient in the local hospital—room 128. We hope before this is printed that she will be well enough to go home.

Everybody is glad that Sean Polk was able to leave LeBonheur on Friday the 15th. Sharon Coats attended a 4-H meeting in Starkville last week.

The Blackland Chapter of F.H.C. Associates had a successful bake sale on Saturday June 16. The proceeds go to Free-Hardeman College.

Get-well wishes go to our shut-ins, to "Ma" Green, to all who are unable to be about.

I'm so glad that Aunt Myrtie Harris has improved enough to leave the house and go for a short ride. She was carried to the Vaughn cemetery and the Cotton Springs Cemetery. I hope to go to the Vaughn Cemetery soon as my maternal grandfather, Hop Harris was buried there.

A Thought for the Week:
Living for Jesus affords happiness so true,

Leading others to Him will bring joy to you;

Living for the Saviour brings rewards here and in eternity, too.

Let's remember this and strive His will to do.

Baldwyn Apartments Nearing Occupancy

Sixteen new apartments for the elderly in Baldwyn soon may be open for occupancy, after final approval last Thursday by Farmers Home Administration construction inspectors, said Scott Reiber, Council of Governments coordinator.

The Baldwyn units, under construction five years, will be the first of 52, rent-subsidized apartments occupied outside Tupelo in Lee County. Construction on 20 Guntown and Saltillo apartments is nearing completion, while work on 16 more in Shannon and Nettleton is well under way, Reiber said.

The $700,000 project, supported by a FmHA loan and a $75,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission, will be managed by the Better Community Corp., an entity of the Council of Governments.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development will subsidize, in part, the low-income and very-low income tenants' rent under the Section 8 housing program, COG officials have said.

The original contractor in charge of the construction of the apartments had financial problems, delaying completion of the units, a COG spokesman said.

Martha Reese, of Amory, who joined the COG staff two weeks ago, will manage the apartments. Reese drew experience in Amory where she was employed by the housing authority there, handling accounting and occupancy duties, Reiber said.

Applications for tenants are still being taken in Baldwyn, as well as in Guntown and Saltillo, Reiber said.

Chase Attends School

LONG BEACH—James Chase, Booneville, attended a school bus driver instructor workshop June 10-14 on the Gulf Park campus of the University of Southern Mississippi.

Among the daily sessions were classes in first aid, CPR, and conserving fuel. The instructors also participated in an obstacle course designed to test their driving skills. Three hours credit was given for the workshop.

Notes From The Home Economist

By CLAIRE T. ROSS
Extension Home Economist

Is your refrigerator packed, leaving no space for the cold air to circulate? That also spells spoilage for food. You either need a larger refrigerator or you will have to go to the market more often. Make certain only essential things are kept in the refrigerator.

Sometimes recipes for hot cocoa tell you to beat the mixture until frothy. That's a good way to prevent a skim from forming on the top and keeps milk from boil-over as well as loss of protein.

Skimping on milk is a poor way to trim the food budget because it's difficult to get enough calcium into the diet without eating very large quantities of other foods which contain that nutrient in significant amounts. And, of course milk also provides phosphorus which calcium needs to form bones and teeth.

Leftover hard-cooked eggs? Why not stuff them and serve to round out a salad or sandwich lunch? Cut four eggs in half lengthwise, then mash the yolks and mix with three tablespoons dairy sour cream, one-half teaspoon of prepared mustard, one-fourth teaspoon each of salt and celery seed and one tablespoon of sweet pickle relish. Refill whites and chill.

Don't worry about the keeping quality of whole cheese in its original wrapper, it keeps very well. If you have large pieces, with no immediate plans for use, they can be frozen if cut into one pieces. For smaller pieces of cheese, shred them, then store in a glass jar or wrap in plastic. It can be used for sprinkling on vegetables for seasoning, mixing with bread crumbs as casserole topping or even sprinkling on salads for flavor. Have just a dab of leftover vegetables? Make them into a soup for lunch by mixing with a thin white sauce and topping with a spoonful of shredded cheese.

Cheap Beef May Not Be Bargain

Have you seen full-page newspaper ads recently invited you to purchase beef for your freezer at only "89 cents per pound?"

Don't be misled. You should

SHE'S TWO

Crystal Gail Harris celebrated her 2nd birthday May 15th. She is the daughter of Jerry and Helen Harris of Booneville, Crystal's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carmon King of Booneville and Mr. and Mrs. John Harris of Fulton. Her great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lucke Lindsey of Red Bay, Ala. and Mrs. Cora King of Booneville. She has two older sisters, Laurie and Teresa.

be aware that there are several grades of beef, and only a very poor quality can be sold at 89 cents per pound. Also, when you read the ad carefully, you will find that it contains a statement in small print—"subject to cutting loss," which indicates that you may be paying considerably more per pound for the edible product.

When high grade beef is selling on the hoof for $1.30 per pound today, it is difficult to believe that you can purchase good beef for 89 cents per pound, especially after 40 to 50 percent of the body weight is lost when butchered.

Be on the lookout for the old "bait and switch" scheme. A negative selling method which may be used is one in which you are taken into the cooler and shown a carcass of very poor quality at 89 cents per pound hanging by a very attractive succulent carcass which costs much more. You may be switched to the higher grade of beef at a much higher price.

Obtain all the facts before you actually make the purchase, then compare the actual price per edible pound of beef with that offered by other businesses. Make sure your bargain is a true bargain.

Andersons Live Long Lives Despite Wars

The children of the late Audie E. and Lucy Bolton Anderson met at Zera Duggar's on the 3rd of June for a family get-together.

Old-timers will remember that Audie Anderson and Lucy Bolton were teachers in the early 1900s. They were married in 1910. Lucy changed her career to homemaking and Audie added farming as a supplement. He later devoted all his time to farming.

From this union, there are forty-four living descendants. Eight children, 17 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Besides, the death of the parents and an infant great-grandchild, there hasn't been a death in the family. That means neither a descendant or their spouses. Another thing that makes that unusual is that four of the sons were in the armed forces, three in active duty during World War II, a grandson in the Vietnam conflict and a grandson-in-law served in the National Guard.

The reunion was the first time in 11 years that all eight of the children were at the same place at the same time. Those present were: Bryan Anderson, Memphis, Tn., Harvey and Dennis Anderson, Ohio, Audie E. Anderson, Jr., Huntsville, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Rex Anderson, Biloxi, Ms., Ora Bell Anderson, Booneville, Zera Duggar, Booneville, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Berry, Sulligent, Ala.

There were two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren present. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hancock, Greg and Jim, Saltillo, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hisaw, Anissa and Michael, Booneville. The other great-grandchild was Sandra Hayes, Sulligent, Ala.

MARRIED—Lisa Gayle Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aubert Knight of Columbus and formerly of Booneville, was married to Walter Steven Chism of Columbus on May 19, at Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Columbus. They are now living in Columbus, where he is employed with the U.S. Postal Service and she is a sophomore and student employee at the Mississippi University For Women. Booneville residents who attended the wedding included Miss Earline Woods, Mrs. Robert Floyd and Miss Jan Floyd.

The Northeast Mississippi Junior C.B. Club had a weiner roast and a hayride. They all had a real good time and most of it was due to Mr. Ralph Caver taking them on the hay ride. They would like to express their appreciation to you Mr. Caver for a wonderful deed.

"Lost John," had another heart attack and is in critical condition in intensive care at our local hospital. "Mississippi Shorty," still having lots of trouble with her leg. "Lame Duck" spent a few days in Big M in hospital for tests. "Lady Blue" also been in Baldwin hospital for tests. We hope everyone is soon on the road to recovery.

Happy birthday to "Early Bird." Hope you have a nice day and have many more to look forward too.

"Bedsprings," "Lady Bedsprings," "Little Bedsprings," "Letterman," "Lady L," and "Little Bo Peep" spent a few days in Nashville and while there they visited Opryland. "Bedsprings," and "Letterman," were able to get LuLu autograph.

Officers meeting was Thursday night at Upholstery Man's house. We have several things to bring up at Tuesday night business meeting. There will not be a social for July because of many members are on vacation and out of town. Business meeting in July is nomination for officers for next year.

Several couples got together and had a cookout for "Big Q," and "Lady Q," and family. Everyone enjoyed the good food and the fellowship and "Lady Q," was looking great and had a good time also.

"Applejack," it is good to have you back in town. You need to get your base fixed back up, so you can modulate with all of us.

Hello, Mr. Jim Smith in Bald, Louisiana. Glad you enjoy our C.B. News. We hope everyone does.

"Upholstery Man," "Twitty Bird," and "Chipmunk," motored to Fayette, Alabama Sunday and attended a family reunion. They said there was only one station open between here and there and cars were lined up for long ways to get gas. You better travel thru the week if you are going anywhere!

Congratulations to "Cotton," for attending twelve years of school with a perfect attendance record of not missing a day. That's great!

Until next week stay well, be happy, and attend the church of your choice.

Weather To Be Hot, Dry Thru July

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Mississippi temperatures through mid-July will average slightly below normal in the west and near normal in the east. Mid-June should be hot and dry, with weather patterns changing late in the month.

According to the National Weather Service Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, rainfall will range in excess of 3.5 inches in the north and central counties to more than five inches along the coast. Afternoon thunderstorms will generate more rain, says weather experts. High temperatures near 90 and lows about 70 will be common.

Agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville, who prepare the forecasts, say dry weather through mid-June will allow soybean planters to make up for lost time. Wetter conditions later in the month and in early July will help get the crop up, but will favor growth of weeds and insects in beans and cotton.

Dr. Jim Hamer, Extension entomologist, says extra care in scouting and timely applications of chemicals will help insure good yields. Frequent showers are expected to interfere with some spraying programs.

In late June, growers will benefit from cotton and soybean insect reports included in the Mississippi agricultural weather advisory broadcast at noon over NOAA weather radio and many commercial radio stations.

Rice should grow well through mid-July. Water usage will be high. Degree day 50 accumulations for the season in the Stoneville area are about four days behind those of a normal year, say weather experts. Degree day 50s will accumulate slower than normal for the next 30 days.

Hay and small grains should be harvested quickly, because showers will interfere with operations later.

Mail Size Standards To Change July 1

What's socially acceptable today may not be well received in the future. It may be oh, so proper, but is it mailable?

That's what consumers should determine before purchasing those tiny little invitations, RSVP's, birth announcements, thank you notes and similar items which may not be mailable after July 15.

As of that date, the Postal Service will begin enforcing letter mail size standards, to reduce mail handling costs and eliminate one of the main causes of damaged or delayed mail.

Under the new regulation, letters and cards less than 3 1/2 by 5 inches will not be accepted for mailing. Extra large envelopes—more than 6 1/8 by 11 1/2 inches—will incur a 7 cent surcharge, if they weigh one ounce or less.

Those tiny envelopes create jams in mail processing machinery, damaging not only the small piece, but often other mail as well.

And the larger envelopes—those subject to the surcharge—cannot be processed by machine, but must be handled manually, at considerably higher cost.

For about three years the Postal Service has been working with envelope manufacturers and stationers to help them adapt to the new standards. Most of them long ago stopped production of the undersized items.

But, consumers should be wary of "bargin" prices offered by stores that might still have stocks of the non-mailable items.

Little cards and envelopes may be mailed after July 15 only if they are placed in larger, standard envelopes before mailing, the Postal Service says.

Volunteer Leaders Enlisted

Key regional volunteer leaders for the Mississippi Economic Council's M.B. Swayze Foundation $3 million fund drive have been enlisted, according to Co-chairmen Jack Reed, a Tupelo businessman, and Jackson banker W. Albert Simmons.

The drive for the new Foundation will be launched in the fall on a statewide basis, according to Reed and Simmons. Reed, an MEC past president, will lead the statewide effort, while Simmons heads up the campaign in the state capital as chairman for Metropolitan Jackson.

Designed primarily as an educational effort, the new Foundation's major thrust will be the American Enterprise Center, a clearinghouse for economic education and leadership training in the state.

Leaders for the other four geographical areas are utility company executive Joe Tatum and attorney Bruce Aultman, both of Hattiesburg, who will lead the South Mississippi effort; Gulfport banker Leo W. Seal, Jr., and Pascagoula surgeon Dewey H. Lane on the Gulf Coast; Starkville banker Lewis F. Mallory, Jr., Northeast Mississippi; and businessman Morris Lewis, Jr., of Indianola and William A. Crabill of Marks in the Delta. Mallory is president-elect of MEC, and all other regional leaders are past presidents.

"The goal of the M.B. Swayze Foundation and the American Enterprise Center which it will fund is to 'Pass On' to succeeding generations of Mississippians a knowledge and appreciation of our free enterprise system," said Reed. Simmons added that "American enterprise is a unique combination of free enterprise and American business but it is not adequately understood by most Americans young and old. It is for this reason MEC has undertaken the task of passing on to future generations a system which has given Americans the highest standard of living in the world."

Reed said that Mississippians have demonstrated that they believe in the ideals and values that are being put forward by the Center and the M.B. Swayze Foundation.

"Mississippians care about the young of our state," Reed said, "and they want to see the things that have made this country great passed on to their children and grandchildren. The American Enterprise Center will capture the hearts and imagination of many in our state. And, we are hoping they will join us and many others in making a worthy investment in this campaign."

An Important Message To Our Customers Concerning Inflation!

In 1962, when the first Wal-Mart Store was opened, two simple basic principles were the guidelines we lived by... WE SELL FOR LESS, EVERYDAY...and SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Today, 17 years and 238 stores later, these two principles continue to guide our actions.

Throughout the years, we have prided ourselves in being the leader in offering first quality merchandise at lower prices than anyone else. Inflation or nothing else will alter our position on this.

Everytime Inflation worsened, we have been the leader in coming forth with programs and efforts to lessen the burden on everyone within our trade areas.

Now again, we are making every effort to ease the impact of Inflation on our customers.

Here are just a few ways Wal-Mart is battling Inflation.

1. We vigorously resist any price increase from our suppliers. Every price increase we eliminate or delay means savings for you.
2. In many instances recently, Wal-Mart has absorbed price increases from our suppliers, but have not raised our selling price to our customers.
3. We continually strive to have the lowest everyday shelf price on every single item, everyday of the year.
4. We have consistently, over the years, been among the leading Retail Companies in America in Expense Control. This tight control of expenses enables us to pass on lower prices to you.
5. We regularly run special sales events and offer even lower prices and bigger savings to our customers.

6. Early this year, Wal-Mart actually LOWERED the everyday selling price on many high volume items.

The response from you, our customers, was so good, that we know you appreciated this anti-inflationary action. Therefore, we are continuing the program and at this time, we have lowered the everyday selling prices of several other key items.

7. We have contacted our Government Officials personally, and in the mail, urging them to take steps to control excessive Governmental Expenses and Inflationary Programs. We urge you to join us in this effort.
8. We have become very Energy conscious, and have actually run tests on our stores on energy usage. As a result steps have been taken to cut our energy consumption considerably. If we can cut our energy costs, we can cut more prices for you.
9. We built new warehousing facilities to allow us to move products quicker and cheaper to our stores. By cutting our freight costs, we can sell the merchandise at a lower price to you.
10. By carrying a broader assortment of merchandise, we have become more of a one-stop shopping center, which enables you to shop in one location for all your needs.

With your continued support, we can, and will, increase our efforts to slow down Inflation. We pledge to vigorously resist cost increases and all unnecessary expenses. In fact, we are working hard to dispel the feeling that Inflation is inevitable. Join with us in fighting Inflation by shopping for value and prices. Write your elected officials and retailers such as ourselves. Let us know how we can serve you even better.

Special Programs Aid Youth

The U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration sponsors and supports many programs to help young people get jobs and services such as counseling and training to prepare them for jobs. According to Charles Smith, Corinth Area Manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service, these programs are authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act.

Smith said that some of the programs for which young people are eligible include CETA Title I, which offers on-the-job training and work experience, and Title II Public Service Employment Programs, which offers transitional employment in jobs that provide needed public services. Young people ages 16 and up who meet the criteria are eligible for these programs. There is also the CETA Summer Youth Program available during the summer for disadvantaged youth ages 14-21. Of course, the Job Corps Program offers a residential type training for young people and trains them in a specific skill.

Some areas also have programs such as Youth Incentive Entitlement Pilot Project, which is for designated areas, the Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Projects, Youth Employment and Training Program, Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth, and the National Young Adult Conservation Corps, for unemployed youth 16 through 23 to work up to a year on conservation projects in parks, national forests, and recreation areas.

Yellow Creek Officers Expert Marksmen

LUKA—It is common knowledge that law enforcement personnel seldom draw their service revolvers except for target practice.

In fact, Tennessee Valley Authority Public Safety Service officers are no exception to this rule at the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant north of here. Trespassers should beware, though, if entering the plant for criminal purposes. Captain Curtis Emerson's public safety officers are proven marksmen and recently demonstrated that by capturing the Yellow Creek Invitational Pistol Match on May 26 at the plant's pistol range.

"Officer Randy Kennedy was primarily responsible for initiating this event, and we plan to make it an annual affair," said Emerson, who serves as Director of the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant Public Safety Service. "Most of the shooters came from the area this time."

Participating teams in the tournament included four teams from Yellow Creek Public Safety, one team each from the Hardin County Sheriff's Department, Savannah Police Department, Tennessee State Park Commission Rangers, and one team representing the Mississippi Highway Patrol and the local Game and Fish Commission. A total of 37 persons competed in the event, including Emerson, a 10-year TVA veteran and former security director at TVA's Bellefonte Nuclear Plant. Emerson fired a 478 total out of a possible 500 to gain first place honors in the Master Class. John Dillehay, representing the Tennessee Conservation Department, shot a 468, and Yellow Creek public safety officer Ronald Ultz took third with 456.

In the expert division, Yellow Creek's Larry Martin gained third place. Yellow Creek's Phillip Kemp and James Curtis placed first and second, respectively, in the sharpshooter category, while Yellow Creek's Raymond Vaughn and David Hale finished one-two in the marksman category.

TVA's public safety officers are required to qualify twice a year and must shoot 70 percent or above. New officers must qualify with their revolver in 90 days to stay on the force. Officers are furnished with a TWA issue Smith and Wesson model 15 .38 special combat masterpiece. Emerson, who attended Smith and Wesson's gun clinic in Springfield, Mass., performs all maintenance and parts replacement for the guns.

Emerson has won the TVA Valley-Wide Handgun Tournament four of eight years. On May 31, he finished second in a field of 30 shooters at the Southern Area Public Safety Tournament held at Muscle Shoals, Ala. Emerson and Ultz also teamed for a second-place finish at the Lawrence County Handgun Association staged in Hatton, Ala.

CSA Grant To Aid Youth Recreation Program

The Northeast Mississippi Community Action Agency has received a $9,000 grant from the Community Service Administration for their summer Youth Recreation Program.

Northeast Mississippi Community Action Agency is a non-profit Agency funded to provide services to low-income people in Alcorn, Prentiss and Tishomingo Counties.

Programs are designed to provide recreational opportunities during the summer months to poor or underprivileged young people between the ages of 8 to 13 years.

The Community Service Administration funds allocated for the three counties were: Tishomingo $2,340; Alcorn $3,510 and Prentiss $3,150. The funds will be distributed throughout the Counties to reach the underprivileged youth in all areas.

The Mayor's Committee for the Handicapped utilized some of their recreation funds for a planned trip to the Ringlings Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus in Memphis, Tennessee.

They are also sending a number of handicapped children to Camp Tik-A-Witha in Van Vleet, Miss. This camp is operated by the Prairie Girl Scout Council and provides one week of camp for qualified special children from July 23-28 of this year.

The four city parks in the Prentiss County area, Booneville East Side Park, Booneville West Side Park, Baldwin City Park, and Marietta City Park, requested Summer Youth Recreation Funds to purchase recreational supplies.

Hankins Captures Second Consecutive NE Tennis Crown

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

Henry Hankins, disc-jockey from Fulton, Ms., dropped Corinth's Robert Hand 6-1, 6-3 here Sunday to successfully defend his Men's Singles title of a year ago at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tennis Tournament held throughout last week.

Hankins, one of the smoothest players on the courts today, breezed through his competition in the five day tournament and won each match in two straight sets.

The Fulton netter tripped Dee Spain from Tupelo and a NEMJC netter 6-3, 7-6 in semi final action and also disposed of Corinth's Larry Lemonds 6-1, 6-1 in opening round action to advance to Sunday's finals.

Hankins wins were astonishing. The Fulton performer moved as graceful as a ballet performer in "Nut-cracker Suite" and thrilled the large crowd in attendance with his smooth play on the courts.

Moving his opponents from side to side, he left doubt in anyone minds who the champion of the tournament was. The matches (three in all) were never even close.

"It was easier this year than last year," Hankins said. "Last year I went three sets on almost every match and it seemed about ten degrees hotter and boy when that tournament was over I was totally exhausted."

Elsewhere, Booneville's Kathleen Arnold, who always plays the Northeast event well, advanced to Sunday's finals but lost to Corinth's Antrice Kay 6-2, 6-2 in the women's Singles competition.

Kathleen, who seems to get better and better each year, dropped Tupelo's Kim Roberts 6-0, 6-0 and then bowed to Kay, the Corinth superstar who is noted as one of the best young performers in the state, in Sunday's finals.

Catching the 2:30 starting time Sunday, both Kay and Arnold fought the blistering heat and battled in the two sets with Kay getting the best of it with the two straight set win.

In other action, Becky and Janice Crockett of Tupelo took the Women's Doubles title with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-0 win over Tupelo's Julie Boyd and Kim Roberts. The Crocketts earlier defeated Kathleen Arnold and Loreda Windham while Boyd and Roberts stopped Tracy and Kathy Arnold.

In Mixed Doubles competition, Becky Crockett, Tupelo and Bryan Rutledge of Starkville dropped Corinth's Antrice Kay and Robert Hand

7-5, 6-0 to earn first place in that event.

James Dilworth of Corinth took first place honors in the boys 18 Singles competition with a 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 win over New Albany's Jim Kwasinski. Dilworth replace Anthony Clark of Ripley as the bracket's champion.

In other action, Corinth's Dr. Robert Perry won the 30 and over Singles bracket with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 victory. Perry replaces Tishomingo's Danny McClung as winner in that bracket.

In men's doubles competition, Tupelo's Dee Spain along with Warren Prichard of Memphis stopped Dale Mitchell and Anthony Harrison 7-5, 6-3 and in semi final play defeated Nickie Young and Samm; Way of Corinth 6-2, 6-1.

Griffin Wins Corinth Country Club Tourney

CORINTH—Ripley's David Griffin fired an eight under par 208 here last weekend to earn first place honors in the Annual Corinth Invitational Golf Tournament held at the Hillandale Country Club.

The Ripley native shot a 69 Sunday to finish seven strokes ahead of second place finisher Harold Cashon of Jackson, Tennessee and by eight strokes over Gerald Chatam from Hernando.

Griffin, a familiar name to Booneville golf fans for winning the Booneville Invitational three consecutive years, is noted for his outstanding golf play and, according to local fans, never looked better in the Corinth event.

David, leading by three strokes after Sunday's first nine holes, added the icing on the cake on the 14th and 15th holes of the tournament. The Ripley golfer eagled the 565 yard par five 14th, and birdied the 15th to breeze to the Hillandale win.

Clifford Kizer, former golf pro at the Booneville Country Club now a member of the Corinth Club, took one of the highlights of the tournament when he aced the 15th hole of the final round to win a 1979 automobile. The Corinth golfer sank the par 3 hole-in-one with a four iron.

Flight winners were first, David Rather; second, Bill Burge; third, Tom Magee; fourth, Danny Boatman; fifth, Harold Patrick; sixth, Bobby Worsham; seventh, Mark

Yoakum; eighth, Gene Roberts; ninth, Jim Hubble; tenth, Les Jeup; eleventh, Bruce Dillingham; and twelfth, James Greene.

Hunting Regulations Given

JACKSON—As a result of nine special public hearings held across Mississippi, the state game and Fish Commission's 11-member board finalized the 1979-80 hunting regulations.

After hearing from special hunting interest across the state and recommendations from agency biologists, the Commission established rules and regulations which is expected to affect some 700,000 state and non-resident hunters. Several significant changes were made over last year's regulations.

State deer hunters will have some 113 days to hunt beginning with the first archery season October 6 and ending with the last day for deer hunting on January 31, 1980.

Archery hunters will again have their special bow season from January 16 through January 31, however it will be for bucks only this year.

"This year trappers who take fox and bobcat will have their seasons shortened by 18 days due to data we have acquired which indicates that pelts of land-based animals are not the prime quality that manufacturers prefer when fox and bobcat are taken very late in the season. We also want to avoid interfering with the reproductive period of certain fur-bearing species like the red fox," Game and Fish Director Joe Stone explained.

"It has been proven over and over that the value of inferior animal skins taken late in the season drops drastically in quality and price."

Montgomery Wins Bobtail Race

ATLANTA—Doyle Montgomery, formerly of Booneville and now living in Cincinnati, recently won the National Atlanta 200 Bobtail Truck Race.

Racing in a General Motors Truck, the Booneville native waxed his field of competitors and won a guaranteed $15,000 for his first place finish.

Some 400 trucks entered the Bobtail event which produced a entry fee of some $60,000 with tractor trucks from all parts of the country.

Montgomery's pit crew composed of Mel and Ed Arnold, two of the best in the country, were a big asset to the Booneville racer and helped Montgomery win his first truck race ever.

Doyle and his wife, the former Dorothy Crowell of Booneville, are owners of Montgomery and Son Trucking Company of Cincinnati.

Along with his first place finish, Montgomery also won the best truck appearance in the race.

Athlete Of The Year Set June 22

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (Sp)—The Southeastern Conference Athlete-of-the-Year will be elected, recognized with a beautiful trophy and a $2,500 scholarship for his school, then announced to the nation Friday evening, June 22. All ten student-athletes, one from each school, receive a trophy and a $500 scholarship.

Showcase for this event is a banquet in the fabulous Enterprise Ballroom of the Presidential Park Hotel in Atlanta at 8:00 p.m. Highlight of the evening will be announcement of the winner by Dr. Boyd McWhorter, SEC Commissioner, on opening a sealed envelope.

The ten outstanding athletes, chosen for 1978-79 to represent their universities in the competition, participate in four different varsity sports—football, basketball, baseball and track. They are, by alphabetical order of their schools: Alabama: Reggie King, basketball, F. Auburn: James Walker, track hurdler; Florida: Jim Watkins, baseball, LF; Georgia: Willie McClendon, football RB;

Kentucky: Jim Kovach, football LB; LSU: Charles Alexander, football RB; Ole Miss: John Stroud, basketball, F.; Miss. State: Mike Kelley, baseball, CF; Tennessee: Reggie Johnson, basketball, F.; Vanderbilt: Frank Morica, football RB.

The 1978 SEC Athlete-of-the-Year was Jack Givens, who led Kentucky to the NCAA basketball championship. In 1977 the honor went to Larry Seivers, two-year All-America receiver in football for Tennessee, and the original honor, in 1976, was awarded to Harvey Glance of Auburn, and Olympic sprinter.

The Top Athlete is selected by vote of the sports directors of the ten television stations and sports information directors of the ten SEC schools. They make their evaluations by personal observation of the athletes in action during the sports seasons, by written material supplied by the schools and by a 4-minute film on each candidate, produced by the TV stations.

Make Happy Choice When Selecting Honeymoon Spot

The Big Question has been popped, the date's been set and now there's just one decision left — where shall we go on our honeymoon?

As you pore over travel folders and listen to suggestions from friends and parents, keep in mind that your honeymoon should be well within your budget. Marriage counselors point out that a too-costly honeymoon can become a burden instead of a pleasure. But, don't be someone's houseguest in order to save money, either. Psychologists advise that the honeymoon period should be a time for the newlyweds to be alone together, without the stress of outside relationships. Keep your plans simple ... your honeymoon should be a time of relaxation, with a minimum of time schedules.

Don't overlook nearby spots in planning your honeymoon ... they often offer unexpected beauty, along with more time to vacation because of less traveling.

New Mexico, for instance, can seem a place out of time, with its turquoise-blue skies, stark mesas, towering mountains, and centuries-old pueblos. You can view the magnificent formations of Carlsbad Caverns, fish the New Mexican rivers, or watch the sunset turn the desert into a "Land of Enchantment" ... New Mexico offers a variety of experiences right in America's own Southwest.

Close to our northern borders, Canada offers beautiful countryside and the excitement of its big cities, without the hassle of passports or visas. Yet you can enjoy the French ambience — including cuisine and language — in Quebec, or get a taste of what British cities are like by visiting Ottawa and Vancouver.

The Pocono Mountains of northeastern Pennsylvania are known as "honeymoon country" and with good reason. The mountains with their rippling streams and waterfalls, lovely meadows and quaint farms make this area a perfect setting for romance. In addition, there's swimming, boating, golfing and tennis for outdoor enthusiasts, as well as skiing in the winter season.

In the Deep South, Georgia offers something for every honeymoon couple: sandy beaches, antebellum mansions, and the excitement of Atlanta. Its beautiful coastal area boasts the Golden Isles, while its towns can be as romantic and charming as Savannah or as ultramodern and energetic as Atlanta. The Appalachian foothills and the Okefenokee swamps illustrate the wide range of scenic attractions offered by this southern state.

In the Far West, Southern California offers a kaleidoscope of experiences for visitors. Where else, but in Southern California, can you go surfing or scuba diving in the morning, ride a dune buggy or snow ski in the afternoon and enjoy a great theatrical premiere in the evening! It used to be that if you enjoyed live theatre, you had to go to New York to see a Broadway or off-Broadway production. Now Southern California offers drama, musicals and comedy productions that match or surpass anything in the East. All this and the marvelous year-round climate that natives hoast about!

Wherever you do ultimately decide to spend your honeymoon, remember to travel lightly.

The Perfect Wedding Takes Lots Of Organization

Most brides find planning their wedding both exciting and complicated.

Here is a check list to aid in this "labor of love:"

- Determine your budget and decide on style and location of the ceremony.

- Set the date with your fiancé and decide on particulars of ceremony with clergyman.

- Plan your reception and, if possible, arrange for all the services you'll need.

- Decide upon bridal attendants.

- Draw up invitation list.

- Select your wedding dress, veil, and accessories.

- Select florist, musicians, and photographer.

3 Months Before Wedding:

- Order invitations, stationery, and notepaper.

- Begin shopping for first-year trousseau.

- Have both mothers choose their gowns.

- Visit your doctor and if necessary, check on rubella immunization.

- Arrange transportation and any accommodations for wedding party and out-of-town guests.

2 Months Before Wedding:

- Plan rehearsal dinner and invite bridal party.

- Arrange recording and display of wedding gifts.

- Address wedding invitations.

- Choose wedding ring.

- Obtain marriage license with fiancé.

- Decide upon and order attendant's gifts.

One Month Before Wedding:

- Have hair styled as you would for your wedding and have final fitting on your wedding gown.

- Prepare newspaper announcement of your wedding.

- Arrange fittings of bridesmaids' gowns.

- Order wedding cake if not included in other preparations.

- Attend parties in your honor.

- Plan seating arrangements.

Wedding Reflects Both Traditions And Times

It used to be that weddings were limited to three classifications: informal, with the ceremony held in a church, chapel, home, club, garden or hotel; formal, held in a church, chapel, home, club or hotel; and ultra-formal, held in church.

Now there's yet another classification — very informal, as young couples search for new ways to express their feelings about love and life. A meadow, a beach, or a park may very well be chosen as the site for a wedding ceremony nowadays. Or, if the happy pair has a special hobby or interest, the ceremony may even take place in an airplane, as it did for one couple in the skies above the San Fernando Valley in Southern California. Other couples have married on horseback, (with the entire bridal party on horseback) aboard a boat, or even in a submarine. (The groom was a naval officer.)

In the Ozarks of Mis-

It's A Fact ...

The bridal veil originally symbolized woman's subordination to man. In ancient Greece, a bride was usually covered from head to foot with a yellow veil.

In ancient Rome, the traditional bridal veil was red.

souri, a lovely cavern has become so popular as a wedding site that it is now known as "The Bridal Cave."

Most young couples wanting to get away from the stiff formality of church or chapel weddings will probably choose to be married in the family garden, however. Aside from the sentimental attraction of a place you know and love, the family garden can provide a lovely setting for the wedding ceremony, with its flowers, trees and grass.

If a young couple should decide on a public park for their wedding rites, it would be advisable to check with the proper authorities first. In some cities, getting married in the park has become so popular, you have to make a reservation!

With today's emphasis on the natural, more and more invitations will probably be inviting friends and families to share the joy of Jane and John's wedding day ... under the old oak tree in the meadow.

Tips On Caring For China And Crystal

There was a time when the nicest wedding gifts were carefully packed away and saved for special occasions. Nearly all china and crystal items, for example, were considered too delicate for everyday use.

But brides today can and do put even the nicest presents to regular use. Fortunately, modern eclectic lifestyles make it appropriate and a dishwasher makes it practical. The Maytag Consumer Information Center says that such items are safer in a dishwasher than if washed by hand. The possibility of chipping or breaking is far less in protected dishwasher racks than when being handled with sudsy hands in a sink.

Even though most good dishes can be washed in a dishwasher, there are certain items that should always be handwashed, including hand-painted china and antique china and crystal. The patterns may be affected by the high-temperature water and strong detergents in an automatic dishwasher.

There are other items that need special cleaning attention. For a free copy of a booklet that discusses the entire subject and offers tips on how to make the most of a dishwasher, write: Consumer Information Center, Dept. 125YG, The Maytag Company, Newton, Iowa 50208.

Best Man Plays Key Role

One of the most important members of the wedding party is the best man. He is the person to whom everyone else will turn to make sure things are running smoothly. He has a myriad of duties on that most special of days, all of which will take the burden off the bride and groom and their families.

Traditionally, his functions encompass:

- Keeping the wedding rings safe until the proper moment arrives and if there's a ringbearer, making sure he follows his instructions properly;
- Helping the groom ready himself and accompanying him to the wedding, arriving at least a quarter of an hour in advance;

- Taking the luggage of both bride and groom and the groom's going-away clothing to the reception hall;
- Having the clergyman's or judge's fee ready on the wedding day, and presenting it at the appropriate time;
- Having marriage license on wedding day;
- Checking honeymoon arrangements and connections, and making sure groom has all necessary tickets and documents before the newlyweds set off together;
- Acting as toastmaster at the bridal table, and assisting the newly married couple to get away at the right time.

Love At First Sight

When searching for your dream wedding gown, shop around if you like, but don't feel uneasy if you find something you really like right away. It's a well-known fact in the bridal industry that most girls end up buying the first or second dress they see.

Niagara Falls still beckons newlyweds

Niagara Falls...surely one of the most beautiful and romantic spots in the world and synonymous with the word "honeymoon" since the time, according to legend, that Napoleon's brother and his bride visited the Falls on their honeymoon, traveling the whole distance from New Orleans by stagecoach.

Located in an area of North America resonant with history and tradition, this scenic wonder, which is equally gorgeous both summer and winter, combines the best of all worlds.

There is nothing more awe-inspiring or breathtaking than the rush of water over the Falls, viewed from a multitude of angles, in all of its glorious infinite variety.

And, for a change of pace, there are numerous attractions of cultural, historic and scientific value nearby to interest even the most devoutly solitary of honeymooners.

There are numerous hotels, of course, on both the American and Canadian sides of the Falls, that cater to honeymooning couples and as formalities for crossing the border are minimal it is easy to go back and forth to visit the attractions on both sides.

Probably the first thing visitors to the Falls will want to do, after gazing at them from eye level or above (from one of the several towers that flank the Falls), is to see them from below, from one of the Maid of the Mist boats that have plied the river since 1846, affording spectacular views of the American Falls and coming thrillingly close to the base of the Canadian, or Horseshoe, Falls.

The boats leave frequently from both the American and Canadian sides from the middle of May through the middle of October, providing memories sure to last a lifetime.

Another highlight of any visit to the Falls is the descent "from Table Rock House on the Canadian side, through the scenic tunnels behind the Falls.

Visitors are carried by elevator 150 feet down through solid rock to the viewing portals where the majesty and power of the Horseshoe Falls can be admired close up, an unrivaled experience.

On the American side, the Cave of the Winds trip, allowing access to a walkway at the base of Bridal Veil Falls, is a must.

For those who will be satisfied by nothing less, helicopter trips over the Falls are offered from the Canadian side.

And, for breathtaking views of the rapids and river, there is the Spanish Aero Car that spans the river over the swirling Whirlpool Rapids, and the boardwalk alongside the rapids which is accessible on the Great Gorge Trip.

For those who can drag themselves away from the transcendent splendor and drama of one of Nature's Seven Wonders, there are many places of interest in the vicinity.

Chief among these is Niagara-on-the-Lake, one of the prettiest 19th century towns to be seen anywhere. Located on Lake Ontario, at the mouth of the Niagara River, this charming spot is well worth visiting.

There are several inns, ideal hide-aways for the honeymooning couple, which abound in tradition and tranquility, and which provide a charming alternative for those who truly want to get away from it all.

Queen Street, with a plethora of shops that date back over 100 years, is the place for strolling.

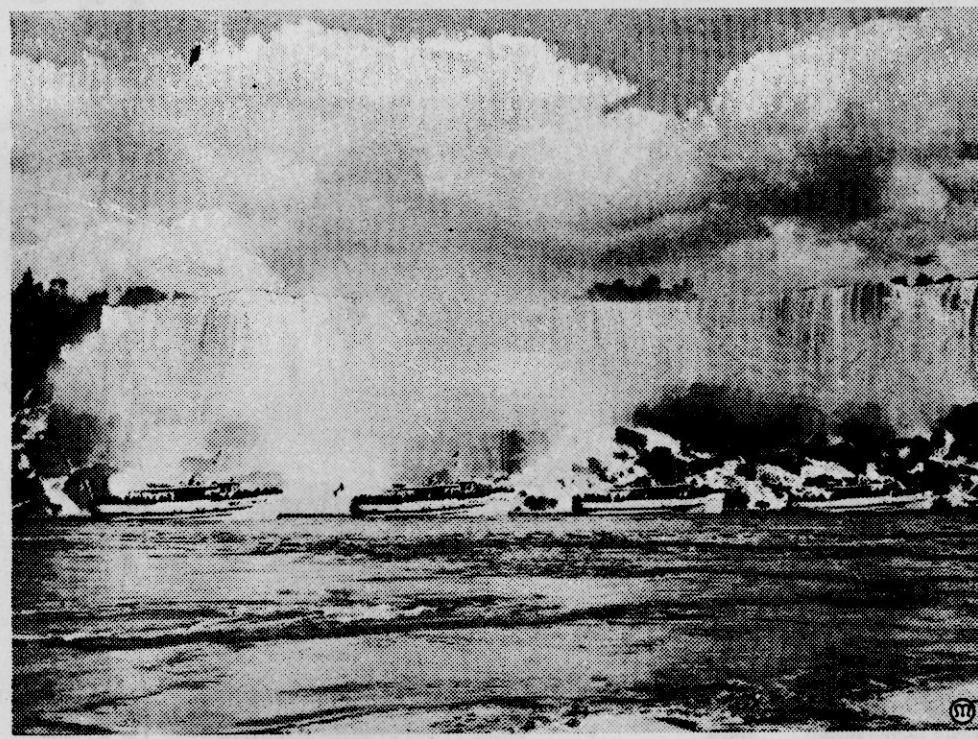

In addition, Niagara-on-the-Lake is the home of the Shaw festival (mid-May through September), featuring the plays of George Bernard Shaw and his contemporaries, which draws theater-goers from all over.

These highlights, plus many other places of interest, make this town the ideal destination for a honeymoon excursion.

It is a place, certainly, of which memories are made, a place whose quaintness and charm complement perfectly the scenic beauty of the nearby Falls.

And, as for the Falls—what better place to be alone and discover the beauties of Nature and of each other, amid scenery that is so splendid that it is the perfect setting for that once-in-a-lifetime vacation...your honeymoon.

A VEIL OF MIST rises up from majestic Niagara Falls, still one of the most romantic spots in the world. The ideal way to experience the Falls in all their splendor and glory is from the deck of the Maid of the Mist, which cruises past the American Falls to the very base of Horseshoe Falls for an unparalleled view of the tumultuous, rushing waters. The roar of the cataracts in their headlong course and the feeling of spray all around are sensations never to be forgotten. Photo courtesy: Maid of the Mist Corp.

The bride's calendar

A formal wedding takes a good deal of planning, and you should allow at least six months to take care of all details with ease and comfort.

Six months before, sit down with your parents and decide on your wedding budget and on the sort of wedding you want.

This decided, choose the places where wedding and reception will be held, find out how many guests can be accommodated at each place and make reservations.

Plan reception and begin considering menu. Choose wedding colors and go shopping for your wedding gown and accessories.

With your fiancée, go to see the person who will be officiating at the ceremony.

Select your attendants.

Begin planning your new home. Choose and register china and silver patterns.

Plan for your honeymoon: consult a travel agent and send for a variety of brochures.

Three months before your wedding, your guest list should be complete.

You should, at this point, begin shopping for your trousseau, select and order attendants' dresses, select a portrait photographer and order invitations and announcements at least four weeks before you want to begin addressing them, to allow sufficient time for engraving.

Make honeymoon reservations.

Plan details of ceremony and reception with caterer, florist, etc.

One month in advance, mail invitations; order flowers; choose gifts for groom and attendants; order groom's ring; have final fitting for wedding gown and headpiece; have portrait taken; arrange for newspaper announcements.

Two weeks before, go for marriage license with your fiancée; send announcements to newspapers; complete honeymoon arrangements.

One week before, take care of last minute details.

Begin moving possessions to your new home.

Estimate number of reception guests and send tabulation to caterer.

Finish writing your announcements to be mailed on your wedding day.

Arrange rehearsal date and notify members of bridal party of time and place.

Perfect setting for romance

THE MAGNIFICENCE OF NATURE is nowhere more apparent than at Niagara Falls, where the sight of the rushing waters, the feeling of spray which permeates the air and the sound of the cataracts roaring are a glorious feast for the senses and form the perfect backdrop for the most romantic of honeymoons. Photo: Niagara Falls Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The Traditional Wedding Cake

The tradition of the modern wedding cake dates back to medieval times. In that era, it was the custom that wedding guests brought small cakes for the couple and piled them up in the center of the table. The bride and groom were supposed to kiss over the cakes without knocking the pile over.

One day, a traveling baker came up with the idea of icing all the cakes together into one large cake to make the couple's kiss easier. That event marked the start of today's wedding cake!

Wedding Costs: Who Pays Them

Cartoons and jokes to the contrary, the father of the bride isn't the only one with wedding bills to pay. According to the Jewelry Industry Council, some wedding expenses are traditionally met by the groom and his family, while others are borne by the bride herself, if she's financially able.

Why brides say 'I do' with a diamond

To some people the diamond means baseball. To those born in April the diamond is their birthstone. But to young couples in love the diamond is the universal symbol of engagement.

Though many time-honored traditions have topped, the tradition of the diamond engagement ring is stronger than ever—75 percent of first time brides received a diamond engagement ring in 1977.

Invincible symbol

The diamond is the accepted symbol of the engagement promise, representing to young people everywhere the individual expression of their love.

It all began with Mary of Burgundy. She was the first lucky girl to receive a diamond ring for her engagement to Maximilian of Austria, on August 17, 1477.

The diamond has been considered one of the most precious of all materials, almost since the dawn of history. The diamond, the hardest substance known to man, literally endures forever. Once cut and polished, it never loses its beautiful brilliance. The very word diamond comes from the Greek word "Adamas" meaning invincible.

Every stone unique

No two diamonds in the world are the same. Each diamond has a personality of its own. Think of a diamond as Nature "doing her own thing."

The major consideration in choosing an engagement ring is, of course, its cost. Today, a good-quality half-carat engagement ring can cost from $600 up.

Value factors

It is important to know what factors affect the price of a ring. One, naturally, is the size and quality of the diamond.

Another is the amount of gold or platinum in the design.

Because although diamonds, like everything, have increased in price, gold has gone up too. This means that a wide ring will cost more than a narrow ring with the same size diamond.

Putting it another way, for the same price you can get a bigger or better quality diamond if it's set in a narrow band rather than in a wide one.

And it's the diamond, not its setting, that is going to last for a lifetime and beyond. Many diamond engagement rings have been handed down from generation to generation.

What about shape?

The shape of the diamond is also a factor in its cost. In general, the round or brilliant cut is less expensive than the so-called "fancy" shapes, i.e. the marquise, the pear and the emerald cut. The reason is simply that more rough diamonds are found in nature that lend themselves to the brilliant cut.

The oval is an adaption of the round or brilliant cut and appears larger than a brilliant of the same carat weight.

The marquise cut is the name given to the diamond shape that is long and pointed at both ends. This word is a French one in the feminine form and is pronounced mar-KEYS.

The marquise is rather an expensive diamond to cut because some of the rough stone must be ground away in forming the two pointed ends.

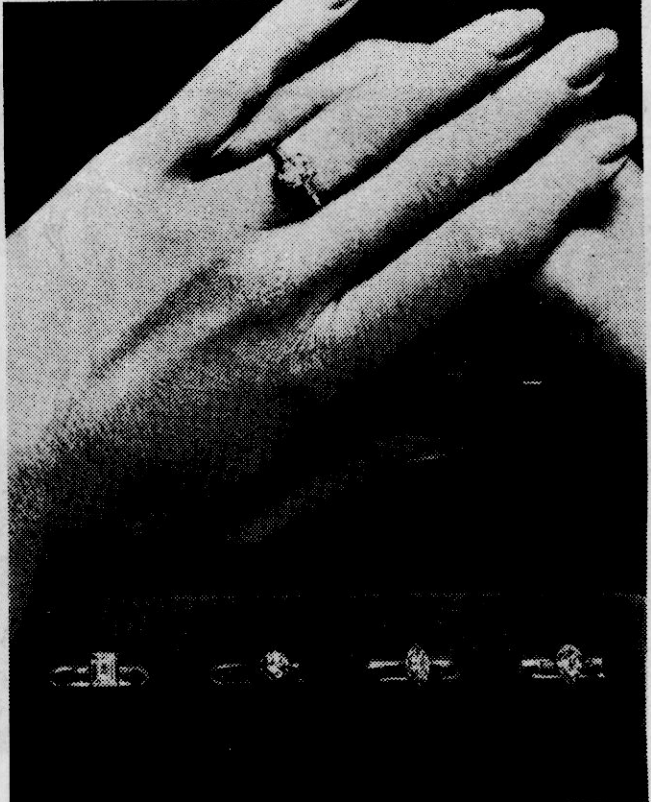

It is a very feminine and graceful shape, and has been growing in popularity as an engagement ring choice in recent years. It has a great deal of fire and sparkle like the brilliant.

Brilliant cuts

The pear shape is the English name for the French "pendeloque" which is related to our word pendant. The cut is a variation on the brilliant cut, with one wide end curving smoothly to a point. The point of the pear is always worn toward the fingernail.

The emerald cut—a straight-sided oblong—goes back centuries to the old table-cut method of fashioning gem stones, particularly

Anniversary traditions

Those who are looking ahead eagerly to the years to come are always curious to know which anniversary is symbolized by what.

Those who are faced with the question of what to give a couple celebrating an anniversary frequently find that a consulting list of traditional anniversary presents is an excellent way of deciding upon a gift that is both practical and beautiful.

In any case, to satisfy the curious and to assist the befuddled, the following outlines the major anniversaries and the presents that symbolize them:

First — Paper
Second — Cotton
Third — Leather

For the distinctly personal . . . Home celebrations make unique, lovely weddings

The home ceremony—warm, one-of-a-kind, and distinctly personal—is the newest trend in weddings today.

Especially when family and friends get involved in everything from writing invitations to preparing food, ceremonies held at home are joyous shared experiences for couple and guests alike.

Almost any home or apartment can be used for a simple home wedding. Of course, the guest list must be limited in accordance with the space available, but that makes those invited feel even more special.

Food should be beautifully prepared, but it needn't be elaborate. A homemade wedding cake, baked from a mix and decorated by hand, makes an unusual focal point for the refreshment table.

Once the cake has been baked according to package instructions, it is easy to decorate using an electric foodgun such as Wear-Ever's Super Shooter. With a little practice, you can quickly fashion a series of festoons, garlands, and rosettes in creamy pastel frosting. A few fresh flowers provide the finishing touch to that one-of-a-kind cake!

To round out the refreshment table, use the electric foodgun to create platters of elegant canapés. For best results, make a variety of mixtures a few days before the wedding, and store them in the refrigerator in the extra foodgun barrels.

Then, just shortly before the ceremony, family or friends can "shoot" them onto crackers or vegetables for fresh, lovely canapés. Add punch or champagne, and you've got everything you need for a successful reception.

If you're a bride-to-be, consider a home ceremony. The more of your wedding you plan yourself—and execute with the help of people you love—the more personal and memorable your special day will be!

HER HAND FOR DIAMONDS—If you're planning to get engaged in the near future, you should consider the shape of the diamond, and the shape of her hand. They should complement one another. The five most popular diamond shapes are: the oval cut (shown on hand) which seems larger than others of the same weight; the emerald cut which can be rectangular or square in outline; the round or brilliant cut; the marquise is long with points at both ends; or the pear shape which is wide at one end and tapers to a point at the other.

Beauty Tips For The Bride

While you're planning your trousseau, your wedding and honeymoon trip, don't forget to plan for looking your loveliest throughout each day of your honeymoon. A little forethought can insure that you'll stay radiant after your wedding day with a minimum of time and trouble.

Make sure your hair is in ideal shape by having it professionally cut, styled and permed or touched-up a week before the wedding. Indulge yourself with a manicure and pedicure as well — this will pay beauty dividends if you take along a bottle of the same polish on your trip for touch-ups.

Be sure and take your beauty paraphernalia separately, where you can find what you need quickly and where leaking bottles or jars will do minimum damage.

Your beauty kit should include manicure implements plus nail polish remover and polish; your favorite skin-care and foundation products; a mini-dryer and curling iron; an eye-kit of mascara, shadow, remover, etc; a wardrobe of fragrances; a good supply of shampoo and conditioner; lipstick shades to complement your honeymoon wardrobe (or color gloss for lips and eyes to save space); depilatory; and sun tan needs.

Taking time beforehand to plan your beauty regimen will mean you can look your loveliest during your honeymoon.

Elderly, Disabled Hit Hardest By Inflation

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th Dist. Representative

If there's any one group hit hardest by inflation and the high cost of living in this country, it's elderly or disabled Americans. Many of these people have been engaged in gainful activity and, because of retirement or disability, are forced to seek help from their government.

Judging from the correspondence I've received, elderly Americans are not interested in federal handouts. But they do want—and deserve—some return on their lifelong investment in their country.

Providing our elderly with the support necessary to maintain an independent and productive existence has been the overall goal of congressional efforts in this field. Despite the good intentions, Congress sometimes falls short of its goal, and the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program is an example.

SSI is a federally-administered program providing income assistance to needy aged, blind and disabled persons. Many states supplement the federal payment through separate means and, in January, 1979, more than four million people across the country were receiving benefits.

Congress began to take a closer look at SSI after critics charged the current program actually discourages the disabled from seeking employment. Federal assistance was pegged to a "substantial gainful activity" earning limit so low that if a disabled person went to work, he risked losing SSI altogether.

In short, it was more profitable for them to remain unemployed, often living on a meager monthly payment, even though they were in many cases willing and anxious to work. There was also a feeling that abuse and fraud in the system was working against the best interests of the recipients.

Last week, the House took up proposed corrective measures. The legislation increased the "substantial gainful activity" earnings limit to the level at which an individual's monthly countable earnings equal the basic federal SSI benefit. The bill also provided a standard work-related expense disregard of 20 percent of gross earnings in determining the monthly SSI benefit for the disabled.

Further, individuals who have lost SSI disability status over the past four years solely due to their job earnings will immediately qualify for continued SSI, if other requirements are being met.

The bill proposed to make the bureaucracy more responsive by requiring HEW to notify an SSI applicant concerning its decision, including a citation of pertinent law and regulation, as well as a summary of evidence used. Too often, HEW decisions have been forwarded down the bureaucratic chain, with individuals not knowing the "why's" of decisions affecting them.

The bottom line is this: The federal government should encourage every individual who is willing to work, which should leave more funds for those truly in need of benefits.

Total Cotton Use May Decline This Year

RALEIGH, N.C.—While demand for U.S. cotton continues to be strong, both in this country and abroad, total use of American cotton in 1979-80 may decline slightly from the current marketing year levels, report Cotton Incorporated economists.

The reason for this apparent paradox, they say, is the prospect for a mild economic recession beginning in the fourth quarter of this calendar year.

The Cotton Incorporated economists say present conditions indicate that total 1979-80 consumption of U.S. cotton will be about 12 million bales, or 400,000 bales fewer than 1978-79 offtake (domestic consumption plus exports).

Writing in the June issue of the Cotton Summary, Cotton Incorporated's monthly publication, Daniel Troxler, associate director for demand economics, says U.S. mill use of cotton should still be near current levels when the new cotton marketing year gets underway August 1.

"But both mill business and cotton use are expected to weaken in the remainder of the year," he adds. "With consumer demand for cotton products remaining strong, barring unfortunate developments with OSHA cotton dust standards for mills, domestic mill cotton use should dip relatively little despite the expected recession. At this time, domestic mill use of cotton for 1979-80 is estimated at 6.0 million bales, 300,000 bales fewer than estimated for this year."

Troxler notes that a mild recession in the United States also would temper the growth of cotton use in foreign countries. "In 1979-80," he adds, "foreign use of cotton is estimated at 56.3 million bales, a modest gain of 600,000 bales more than 1978-79."

Demand for U.S. cotton exports is expected to continue strong in 1979-80, says the Cotton Incorporated economist. The present estimate is 6.0 million bales, about 100,000 bales less than Cotton Incorporated's 1978-79 export estimate but 500,000 bales more than the 1977-78 export total.

The reduced offtake, combined with the prospects for a large U.S. crop—now estimated by Cotton Incorporated at 14.3 million bales—are likely to keep cotton prices under pressure in the coming months," Troxler adds.

Cotton producers, he says, should develop their crop marketing plans accordingly. Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers. Supported by producers' per bale assessments, it carries out programs of research and marketing to benefit each cotton producer.

The June Cotton Summary examines data from various sources reflecting cotton demand at the mill, retail and consumer levels.

Mills producing denim, corduroy and lightweight woven fabrics "are enjoying excellent demand for their products," notes Troxler. "Mills running towels, sheets and cotton yarns for knitted apparel also report good business."

Looking at consumer purchase data from the Marketing Research Corporation of America (MRCA), Troxler says cotton's market share was 39 per cent in first quarter 1979, one per cent ahead of the first quarter last year.

However, he says, consumer purchases of all types of fiber were off about 5 per cent in the first quarter this year compared with the same period a year ago. "Although consumers have continued to spend fairly strongly on textile goods," he points out, "their dollars are buying fewer actual pounds of fiber."

Taiwan To Buy Farm Products

JACKSON—A trade delegation from Taiwan will arrive in Mississippi July 26-28 to purchase an estimated $14 million worth of Mississippi agricultural products, officials said Wednesday.

The Mississippi Marketing Council received confirmation of the visit Wednesday via a telephone conversation with Taiwan Consul M.T. Kuo, Taiwanese diplomatic officer in Houston.

The Taiwanese government, said Kuo, has made a concentrated effort towards purchasing U.S. products in recent years as part of a "Buy More In America" campaign.

The trade delegation is the fourth trade mission from Taiwan to tour the U.S. since early 1978. The group will visit 17 states to give maximum exposure to their campaign to increase imports.

While in the United States, Kuo said, delegation members, headed by Taiwan's Foreign Trade Director, H.K. Shao, are expected to purchase more than $800 million worth of agricultural and industrial products for export to Taiwan.

In December 1978, the third such trade delegation from Taiwan to visit the U.S. purchased more than 100 metric tons of soybeans and corn, worth more than $20 million, from two Mississippi companies.

A spokesman for the 16-member trade delegation told marketing council officials Wednesday they were interested in purchasing 54,000 metric tons of soybeans. He said, however, the group will be looking at the state's agricultural industry as a whole.

Merle Fraser, Marketing Council secretary, said, Kuo has requested his office to inform Mississippi agribusinessmen of the upcoming visit and encourage their participation in subsequent business sessions with delegation members.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"I Love You"

By Rev. Luther Gibson

What does it mean when you say that to your Mother or Father or friend? I love you. That's hard, isn't it? You want nice things to happen to those you love. You like to help them, and make them happy. You would do many things to make them happy.

And your mother and daddy say I love you to you. Even when you are naughty they still love you-but of course not the bad things you do. There is someone who loves you more than your friends or your mother or father. Isn't that wonderful? That someone is Jesus, Jesus is God.

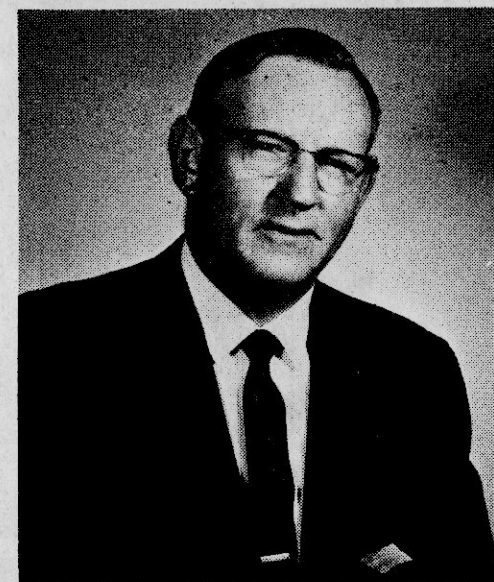

He wants nice things to happen to you. He wants you to be happy now and all through life, but He also wants us to be happy when we die. He wants us to come to heaven some day and live forever with Him.

Jesus doesn't love the bad things we do in life. These things are called sins. These sins makes Jesus unhappy because He is sinless because He is God and God knows no sin. When we are bad, we must be punished for our sins and the Bible tells us that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Even though we think we are pretty good, within our-selves we are not, but listen, Jesus loved us so much that He did something wonderful for the world (even though we were sinners). He came as a babe on Christmas Day. And when He was grown up he died to take the punishment of our sins. Would you die in order to save a friend? That really shows love, doesn't it?

Now Jesus wants us to love Him, too. He wants us to let Him live in our hearts. We must believe that He is the Son of God and that He died for us. And, of course, when you love Jesus, You will love others also and will try not to do wrong things which make Him unhappy. He will help you whenever you need Him. Do you remember this song? "Jesus loves me this I know, for the Bible tells me so. Little ones to Him belong. They are weak, but He is strong.

Jesus wants all of us to love Him, young and old alike. Jesus said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbide them not, for of such is the kingdom of God." Will you say as so many million have said, "We love Him, because He first loved us."
