Junior Miss Pageant Set For Aug. 18

Scholarship awards, adventure, new friends and fun—all of these are offered in the Prentiss County Junior Miss Program.

The local Junior Miss competition will be held August 18 at Seth Pounds Auditorium to start at 7:30, according to an announcement today by Leighton Miller, chairman of the committee making arrangements for the Junior Miss activity.

The local competition is part of a nationwide program to honor and reward the country's leading high school girls for achievement in scholastics, creative talents, self development and community betterment.

The winner here will represent Prentiss County in the state Junior Miss program at Meridian, Jan. 30-Feb. 2, 1980, competing with 45 others for the many scholarship awards and a chance to participate in the America's Junior Miss National Finals at Mobile, Ala.

"The nature of the Junior Miss program—the high ideals established and maintained throughout its 22 years—has earned the program approval of educators and civic leaders throughout the country," Miller said.

At the beginning in 1958, 18 states, with 50 girls participating, took part. The program has grown steadily and today embraces thousands of girls in all 50 states.

America's Junior Miss is sponsored nationally by Coca-Cola USA, Eastman Kodak

Company, Kraft, Inc. and Simplicity Patterns. The local competition is sponsored by the Booneville Jaycees, Inc.

The program is open to girls who will be seniors in the 1979-80 school year. Applications can be obtained from the Bank of Mississippi, the Peoples Bank, The Baldwin News in Baldwin, or by contacting Leighton Miller at 728-8212 or 728-5734.

Suit

$78,000 judgement against Carolyn Long of Prentiss County. It was filed after Long's car was involved in a collision last August in Tupelo.

The suit against the sheriff was filed by Reverend Thomas L. Parker. It seeks a $60,000 judgement against the sheriff and a $15,000 judgment against his bonding company.

According to the suit, Parker and his wife were visiting relatives in Arkansas last September when Sheriff Martin and others threw tear gas grenades into Parker's house to force Harold Elliott and a female companion out of the house.

The suit contends that the grenades started a fire that nearly destroyed the house. Parker alleges through the suit the pair broke into the house and were in it without his knowledge or permission.

The suit says that the sheriff should have known that Elliott "was not a dangerous criminal or desperate fugitive" and that Martin used "excessive force and violence" to apprehend the pair.

The suit also says that before the grenades were used, Elliott was unaware that the sheriff was trying to apprehend him. Parker also contends that there was no need for the grenades to be used.

Parker says that the house and furnishings were virtually destroyed in the fire, causing hardships and expenses.

In the second suit, Martha Cook of Lee County filed against Long, contending that Long's car struck the Cook car and caused Cook substantial medical bills and physical injuries.

According to the suit, Cook was northbound on South Glover St. in Tupelo, halted at a red light at the intersection with Varsity Drive, and was hit from behind by the 1977 Ford driven by Long.

The crash was caused because Long's car was peeding, following too closely and out of control at the time of the collision, according to the suit.

The wreck brought injuries to Cook that included pains in the neck and shoulders, headaches, and present and future medical bills that will go over $3,000, according to the suit.

A judgement of $78,964 is sought, court records indicate.

in 152. Officials added that the chance of a particular person being injured is about one in 600 billion.

Prather explained the procedure that will be activated here to deal with the possibility of airborne wreckage falling in this area.

"Twenty four hours before the station reenters the atmosphere and falls to earth the civil defense center in the basement of city hall as well as other civil defense centers in the state will be activated," he said.

chance of Skylab falling around July 12, according to federal space officials. The satellite is presently at an altitude of about 165 miles and is falling several miles weekly.

The device is presently speeding sideways through space, which increases its resistance to the occasional air molecules at that altitude. The resistance slows the space station's speed, dropping it into increasingly lower orbit.

When the unoccupied spacecraft reaches about an 80 mile altitude, the air will be so thick that it will be unable to keep up the speed to stay in orbit.

Application OK'ed

The Booneville Board of Aldermen Tuesday night gave Mayor Charles Crabb authority to file for a $231,000 federal grant for the city, and decided to seek bids for concrete and painting work.

The approval to seek the federal grant allows the city to submit a final application for funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money would be used for improvements in the city's water and sewer system.

The city aldermen voted to seek bids on painting the city's No. 3 water well tank and to obtain concrete to help repair and replace city sidewalks.

The board also voted to contribute $75 to Booneville's Miss Hospitality, Melody Strange, to help defray costs of the state Miss Hospitality pageant she will attend in Biloxi later this year.

Cummings

In his statement to the voters Cummings made the following comments: "My decision to seek the office of Tax Assessor-Collector was the most difficult decision I have ever made in my life. This office is responsible for collecting about one and one half million dollars per year from Prentiss County taxpayers, sells about 16,000 tags per year, and completes about 6,000 Homestead applications plus many other functions.

"All counties in the state are facing a court mandate that requires property reassessment at 100 percent of market value by 1983. This means that your next Tax Assessor-Collector must be a person who is willing to work for and is totally dedicated to the people of Prentiss County in order to prevent property taxes that are beyond our ability to pay.

all your business with the Tax Assessor-Collector's Office can be conducted by mail whenever possible.

"I would like to keep your Tax Assessor-Collectors Office responsive to the people and continue to expand and improve its services to the people of Prentiss County.

"I would like to be considered for this office solely upon my own qualifications, abilities, and sincerity in my desire to be your next Tax Assessor-Collector. I do not feel that the people of Prentiss County owe me anything because my wife is the present Tax Assessor-Collector.

"Both Sarah and I feel a certain obligation to the people of Prentiss County for the support she has received for her efforts to keep property taxes at a sensible and reasonable level during her term of office.

"I worked for the American Seating Company in Booneville for ten years and am presently employed as receiving manager at a local manufacturing plant where I have been for the past eight years. I also farm with my father, C.E. Cummings, near the Blackland Community.

"If I have the honor and privilege of serving as your next Tax Assessor-Collector, I will give you four years of hard work, your office will be responsive to your needs at all times, and all your business in the office will be conducted in a respectful and efficient manner."

"We hope to have about six hours notice about whether this area will be involved or not, but even if parts from the Skylab do come down here there are no precautions I can urge people to take," he said.

The state Civil Defense Council will provide updates on reentry times as data becomes available, the director said.

He added that all reports of sightings, impacts, descriptions of debris, or information on injuries or property damage should be relayed to his office or the nearest highway patrol district as soon as possible.

Space officials have predicted about 500 pieces capable of causing injury will survive the dying craft and fall in a zone about 100 miles wide and 4,000 miles long.

About half the pieces will weigh less than 10 pounds, according to space officials. The other will range in weight up to two tons, they said. The craft contains no radioactive material.

"I am married to the former Barbara Estes of Tupelo and we have 3 children, Shay (10), Allison (7), Amanda (6) and expect our fourth child in September. Barbara is a former teacher in the Itawamba County School System and my children now attend Fulton Grammar School. My family and I are members of the Fulton United Methodists Church.

"I have practiced law in Fulton for the past nine years during all of which time I have served as City Attorney and City Prosecuting Attorney. I also served as Itawamba County Prosecuting Attorney for four years, 1972-1976. I have practiced law in Chancery and Circuit Courts, the Mississippi Supreme Court, the United States District Courts of both Northern and Southern Mississippi and the Fifth District United States Court of Appeals. I am a member of the Mississippi Bar Association, Mississippi Trial Lawyers Association; Fulton Rotary Club and Ducks Unlimited.

"I have a strong desire to maintain law and order and make the First Circuit Judicial District a safe and pleasant place in which to live and raise a family. I will be firm and fair and promise to bring those accused of crimes to a speedy trial. My experience as a prosecuting attorney qualifies me for the arduous job of District Attorney and my record for convictions recommends me for the job.

"The seven counties of the First Circuit Judicial District are among the fastest growing in the state. I will do my very best to keep our area free of the 'criminal element' that so often accompanies rapid growth. I feel that by maintaining a full time office and devoting all of my efforts and energy to the job of District Attorney I can and will make our area a safe place in which to live. I will always be available to law enforcement officers and citizens alike. My family and your family deserves the protection from crime that I will do my best to insure."

In spite of some crime and a few criminals, we have a good county. I do not know of another one that has more good people or is any freer of crime than is Prentiss County. ## Dexter Cadle Announces Candidacy

The following is Dexter Cadle's announcement of candidacy.

"I take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for the office of Justice Court Judge of the Second district of Prentiss County.

"As many of you know, I was elected to this office in a special election to fill the unexpired term of Mr. G.A. English who resigned.

"I served the remainder of his term for which I was elected to serve, but I did not seek re-election four years ago when my term expired.

"I wish to thank the people of the 2nd District, for the wonderful vote you gave me in that election and ask for your vote and support in this election.

"The powers of this office have been expanded by the legislature and are much greater than in the past.

"I feel that through my experience as Justice Judge and my experience in Business, I am qualified to serve in this office.

"If elected I will be fair to all who come before me, but I will enforce the laws regardless of who the violators might be.

"I will be influenced only by the evidence presented in each case. Since this office deals with petty larceny and grand larceny, I will have the opportunity to deal with those who steal your property.

"It is my opinion that the homes and possessions of each individual deserve to be protected from the lawless.

"The powers of this office are broad and must not be taken lightly. I will co-operate fully with all state, county and district law enforcement officers.

"In conclusion, I would like to ask for your support and influence on August 7, and ask that you take this means as my personal solicitation to elect me your 2nd district judge on August 7. Thank-you.

News From Oak Ridge

By BERYL COATS
Correspondent

Due to sickness and problems with my vision I did not report any news last week. Several people called to learn what hindered me.

Our shut-ins are about the same except that Mam-ma Coats continues to be more alert than formerly.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the J.A. Barnes family and to Mrs. Arletta Geno and relatives who are so grief-stricken over the tragic death of their loved one, Mrs. Glenda Henderson.

Also sympathy goes to the relatives of Mrs. Nola Palmer.

Numerous visitors have attended the services at Oak Ridge in recent weeks. These include the Tommy Stoop family from Tunnel Hill, Ga., Wayne Ricks from Par-deeville, Wisc.; Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Hill from Memphis, Tn.; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Ryan and children Teresa and Michael from Hughes, Ark.; Jan and Joel Frame from Symrna, Tn.; Cathy Corbin from Jumbertown; Mrs. Becky Livingston and Niki from Muscle Shoals, Ala., and some brethren from Mayfield Congregation.

Get-well wishes go to Mary Tigrett who had surgery in Memphis June 25. Also to her husband Donald who is a patient in the Baldwin Hospital.

Mrs. Pearl Green, a patient in the local hospital, seemed to be better but had a relapse and had to be back in intensive care. Let's hope she can get better.

Get-well wishes go to Tim Harris and all those mentioned above and to Aunt Myrtle Harris.

With the price of oil, gas and food escalating, let's try thinking of the things we have which money can't buy.

Prentiss County ASCS News

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

The Prentiss County ASCS Office reminds farmers that July 15, 1979 is the final date to report crop acreages at the county office.

Farmers participating in the set-aside programs must certify their acreages in order to earn any program benefits including disaster payments, price support and deficiency payments.

Farmers planting cotton and soybeans should report by July 15 in order to be eligible for price support loans and other program benefits.

It is important that farmers report their acreages in order that history acreage may be maintained for future programs.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) disbursed $70,512.63 in farm facility loans during the first nine months of fiscal year 1979. The loans represented 70,330 bushels of storage space. Funds are still available for farmers who wish to build additional facilities or to expand their present storage structures.

Under the farm facility loan program, producers can borrow up to $50,000 on facilities adequate to store two years' crops, with 15 percent down and 10.5 percent interest, to build or remodel typical, conventional type on-farm storage structures such as steel bins, wooden granaries, and wet storage structures. Loans are also available to build high-moisture forage and silage storage space.

Farmers who have adequate on-farm storage and drying facilities have greater crop handling and marketing flexibility at harvest. In years of over-abundance they can store their crops in good condition until prices rise.

To be eligible for farm facility loans, farmers must grow one or more crops of barley, corn, dry edible beans, flaxseed, grain sorghum, oats, peanuts, rice, rye, soybeans, sunflower seed, wheat and high-moisture forage.

The ASCS official pointed out that the loans are secured and borrowers must provide adequate security to protect the Commodity Credit Corporation's interest.

Further details on the farm facility loan program may be obtained by contacting the local ASCS office.

Prentiss County farmers have planted or improved 1,005 acres of trees during the period from 1975 through 1978 by means of the Forestry Incentives Program.

The five-year Forestry Incentive Program (FIP) acreage in the U.S. is about 1.2 million acres. FIP was authorized by Congress in 1973. The program provides up to 75 percent cost sharing with private landowners for tree planting and timber stand improvement.

Eligible farmers must own no more than 1,000 acres of eligible forest land. Other eligibility and program details are available from the county ASCS office. State forestry agencies provide technical assistance.

Letters To Editor:

An open letter to the people of the Thrasher School District:

About two months ago the Thrasher High School basketball coach resigned, and the search was underway for a replacement. Immediately, a young man about to graduate from college began to be mentioned.

Many of us with close personal ties with the basketball team realized the strength and potential of our team for next year, and we sincerely felt that the most mature, experienced coach available would be required to lead and coach our team.

To elevate a new man with no experience to the position would be an injustice to our team, the school and its fans, and to the young Jacky Rowsey himself. However, all we could hear was the rumor that Jacky was going to be the coach.

I began to take an active role in investigating the rumors. I talked with a number of former basketball players, current ballplayers, other coaches, and other interested people...without exception, they insisted that Thrasher's basketball team could be good next year, if they had an older, more experienced coach to guide them. My investigation pointed even more definitely to the move to discourage the experienced coaches and move up the young coach we all felt would be a poor move for all concerned.

Was it really true that all applicants for the job who should have been encouraged to seriously consider our coaching job were actually being discouraged? Was it true that a new coach was about to be hired upon a basis of kinfolks and politics?

As a result of my investigations and questions, it seemed that the answer to both questions was in the affirmative. I then personally appeared with my request to the local trustees that they seek, find, and then recommend for hiring, the most experienced, mature coach that could possibly be found.

Two of these men seemed to think that Jacky Rowsey was the only one they needed to consider. But, the two men included Jacky's father-in-law and a close personal friend who wanted the young coach regardless of his suitability for the job. What was the position of our principal, Mr. Harold Padgett? Did he really want the best coach for the team, or was he more interested in staying on the good side of some outspoken trustees?

Once more, I went to the trustees and asked them to delay a decision on a coach until more applicants could be considered, and to not hastily hire a new man to the displeasure of many Thrasher parents and patrons. I got the impression that my request might be falling on deaf ears, and I then pleaded that we be allowed a few days notice if Coach Rowsey was to be submitted as the local trustees' choice for a coach to the Prentiss County School Board. They agreed that an advance notice would be given.

I then approached Mr. L.T. Huddleston, county board member from the First District, and informed him that a small minority of people were pushing for Jacky Rowsey as our coach, and that it seemed probable that he would be recommended by the local trustees. It turned out to be more than probable. Shortly after, the local trustees met and decided upon recommending Jacky Rowsey. They apparently felt that our opposition was unimportant, or would not amount to anything. We were still genuinely displeased with this action because we felt that personal motives were placed above the welfare of our team and our school.

I now requested that we be given about two weeks before the final action was to be taken by the County School Board. At my request, Mr. L.T. Huddleston asked for the delay by the Board and they granted it. I proceeded to circulate a petition which stated:

We, the undersigned fans, supporters, and patrons of Thrasher High School in a concerted effort to obtain a basketball coach bring to the attention of the proper authorities, our concern and interest that maturity and experience and knowledge be put above kinship and politics as qualifications of our next coach.

Further, the word is out that the qualified coaches have been discouraged. Look farther and find a qualified coach for this job.

I obtained about 300 signatures on this petition, and could have gotten many more. I appeared before the County School Board, told my story, and presented the names to Mr. Huddleston. I understand that he looked over the names on the petition, and did some investigating about coaches who had applied for the job, including the interviews of those coaching applicants.

I feel that his investigation was a honest attempt to determine what had actually happened. I also understand that Mr. Huddleston asked the County School Board to retain Jacky Rowsey as a grammar school coach and continue the search for a high school coach. I further understand that the majority of the county board members agreed and referred the matter back to the Thrasher principal and local trustees to continue the search for an experienced coach.

Where are we now? The local trustees and principal seem to feel that the position is no longer open because the only coaching position open at Thrasher has been filled by Jacky Rowsey. They are not looking for a high school coach as the Prentiss County School Board recommended.

There was a vacancy at Thrasher a few weeks ago because our high school coach resigned. A local man wanted the job, had the inside contacts to get the job, was opposed by a host of loyal patrons, and he was hired as a grammar school coach. We don't oppose his being rehired as a grammar school coach, but we can't understand why there is no longer a high school coaching job open.

School will start in a few weeks and we still need an experienced coach. This confusion and delay will make it increasingly more difficult to fill the position with a seasoned coach. We understand that all coaches must get experience only by coaching, and we know that all coaches must start somewhere. But now is not the time for us to settle for inexperience and youth if a veteran can be found to guide a potentially strong team to a good year.

More people in the Thrasher community need to get involved in promoting our cause. It is my opinion that a veteran

The Sky (lab) Is Falling!

By HANK WIESNER
Managing Editor

Someday in the next month or so no one knows just when or where yet-Skylab is going to end not with a bang but a splatter.

The 85 ton space station is fixing to fall out of space, and the splatter will come from an estimated 500 parts that are expected to survive falling through earth's atmosphere. They are expected to fall in a sort of "footprint" area 100 miles wide by about 4,000 miles long.

The space experts are telling the public there's no need for alarm, but they're worrying while they tell you not to. No one on earth has ever been hit by any of the estimated 6,000 pieces of space junk that have dropped out of the sky in the past two decades. No one wants this forthcoming metal rain to bring the first casualty.

The best estimates now available indicate that the "footprint" will be in an area bounded by 50 degrees north and 50 degrees south latitudes that takes in most of the world, and an awful lot of ocean.

Skylab should have stayed in orbit far longer. Launched in 1973, it was anticipated that the vehicle would have a stable orbit until about 1983. But fate stepped in and spoiled the best plans of the scientists.

A series of unexpected sunspots-magnetic disturbances on the surface of the sun-heated the earth's atmosphere and caused it to expand. Skylab was to be designed to fly in thinner air almost 200 miles above the earth. When it ran into the denser expanded atmosphere the vehicle was slowed and fell into increasingly lower orbits far faster than expected. It is now losing altitude at the rate of several miles per week.

When the space station reaches an altitude of about 80 miles, space experts expect it will be traveling too slowly to maintain orbit and will begin its final fall.

Thus far, space officials haven't taken any direct action to change its fall. Earlier this year, they had envisioned spending a manned space shuttle-a reusable craft that could fly into orbit and then back to earth-to attach a rocket motor to the spacecraft and boost it back into a safe orbit. The shuttle has been bugged with technical problems, however, and won't be ready to fly until early next year.

Officials have also considered trying to alter the Skylab's place of descent with radio controls to two gyroscopes aboard the craft. But if they altered the spacecraft's route and it fell on a populated area, the lawsuits and political fallout as well as the damages and casualties could be enormous.

The thought of hundreds of pieces of steel and aluminum-with some pieces expected to weigh as much as two tons-falling like rain has triggered a major tracking and preparedness program by the federal government.

When officials from National Aeronautics and Space Administration and North American Air Defense Command get a reading on the fall they will notify other agencies.

The Federal Preparedness Agency has set up a network of park rangers, civil defense folks and Coast Guardsmen to watch for the debris.

They hope they can accurately plot the decline and fall of the roamin' spacecraft, but everyone remembers what happened the last time a falling spacecraft was tracked.

Last April officials predicted that a Soviet craft launched in 1971 would fall out of orbit and smash into earth somewhere in the South Atlantic off Africa.

Instead, it came down in the north Pacific off Alaska.

Eyes On Mississippi

How Do You Stop Eaves?

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON-The unspoken message that suddenly seems to be coming out of the abnormally quiet Democratic race for governor is: How are you going to stop John Arthur Eaves?

Certainly the early polls didn't show Eaves, the 41 year old Jackson lawyer whose main claim to notoriety in the political arena has been as a George Wallace look-alike, as any real threat in a race with several heavyweights.

And the polls still don't reflect what political instincts are beginning to tell: that

Eaves is going to be tough to keep out of the Democratic runoff, and possibly going all the way.

What possibly caused many to discount Eaves early-on was that he had been categorized as the Cliff Finch-style candidate at a time that Mississippi wasn't buying any more Cliff Finches. Eaves himself had sensed that the Finch gimmickry and flamboyance was passe' when Finch's senatorial race last year collapsed in a shambles.

So Eaves got out of his James K. Vardaman-type white suits and downplayed gimmicks (he had already launched his campaign using a big broom as his symbol), and went about finding his constituency.

Now it turns out that constituency may well be the same one that put Finch in office four years ago, and somewhat of the constituency that also pulled Bill Waller from an also-ran to a winner in 1971.

Waller had been the first governor elected in Mississippi by a tentative coalition of traditional "Redneck" whites from the rural areas and blacks who were attracted to Waller's neo-populism. Waller's pitch to those groups however, was quite restrained.

In 1975, Finch came along and made a direct bid for a "Redneck-blackneck" coalition, with an even stronger overlay of populism. It worked, pulling Finch out of the pack of lesser contenders to become the Democratic nominee. The coalition began to break down in the general election, and Finch barely held on to edge out Republican Gil Carmichael.

Finch tried to reconstruct the "Redneck-blackneck" coalition last year and ride it into the United States Senate. But the rural whites abandoned him and blacks declined to come out and vote for him. It appeared that the unique combination of the two racial groups, which if turned out in strength for one candidate, can almost guarantee his election, had disintegrated, and couldn't soon be put back together.

Evidently Eaves, who had been planning his campaign for the past four years to win with the "Redneck-blackneck" coalition, had begun to back off that plan earlier this year, in view of the Finch experience.

But the way the campaign developed, he apparently has been pushed back into the plan, and seemingly, it is working. Probably more than anything, the entry of William Winter into the campaign forced Eaves to define his turf among the rural folks and the black folks, leaving Main Street to his opponents.

It's no surprise to watchers of the political antics of Mayor Charles Evers that the black leader has cast his lot with Eaves, the former segregationist. This was seen coming on two years ago when Eaves alone among potential gubernatorial candidates showed up in Evers' inner circle social function down in Fayette.

But Eaves may have to deal with a danger of losing some of his Redneck constituency if Evers is put out front in the campaign. This is what eventually caused some of Finch's rural whites to back off when they saw Finch's black friends being flaunted at them.

Eaves' spectrum of support runs all the way to the far right, embracing some of the old Citizens Council leaders such as R.C. Bradshaw, and Charles Blackwell, once a Klan lawyer, and their present following of hard-core conservatives, to political blacks who were closely identified with the Finch Administration.

"Most experienced coach available" needed at Thrasher; city school facilities need improvement coach who can help our team have a great year is still possible, but our principal, our local trustees, and our County Superintendent of Education, Mr. Lex Cain, all of whom are in a position to help us, need to get busy and do what they were elected and selected to do-work for the best interest of our school and our children instead of giving in to the personal interests of a few who would force their wishes upon all the rest of us who are really in the majority.

James Swinney

Better facilities needed

Dear Sir:

It was with interest and sincere appreciation that I read Dr. William Hall Preston's letter to the editor in last week's Banner-Independent. With some apprehension, I feel that I must, as a parent and a teacher, respond to this letter.

It is not clear to me why our mayor and board of aldermen chose not to act on the feasibility study for the Booneville School System. It seems to me that the elected leaders of our city should be concerned about all of Prentiss County, but their main interest and effort should be directed toward the betterment of the city that they chose to serve.

Surely we all realize that the people of the city of Booneville and of the county must work together for the good of all of us, and that each to a certain extent depends upon the other. Both groups want what is best for the children of the entire county. Can any of us in Booneville say that what our near 1900 students have now is the best or even adequate?

In the city of Booneville we have an overcrowded elementary school with one third of the students housed in obsolete, portable structures that are not only inadequate but unsafe. The children in this school spend three years with no auditorium for student body assemblies, no gymnasium for physical education, no facilities or teachers for music and art.

As a teacher in the Middle School, I work in a well-organized, congenial atmosphere, in a building that is clean and efficiently supervised. This structure houses nearly five hundred children, yet there is no gymnasium for physical education, no auditorium for student assembly and no instruction in art and music.

Conditions in the Junior High, I understand, are somewhat similar, however there is a gymnasium for indoor physical activity and student assembly.

When these children enter Booneville High School, they are expected to develop pride in a building that is unattractive, unclean and completely inadequate to house nearly six hundred students.

They sit in classrooms where window panes are broken, assemble in an auditorium where curtains are literally falling down and the seats are broken and laying on the floor.

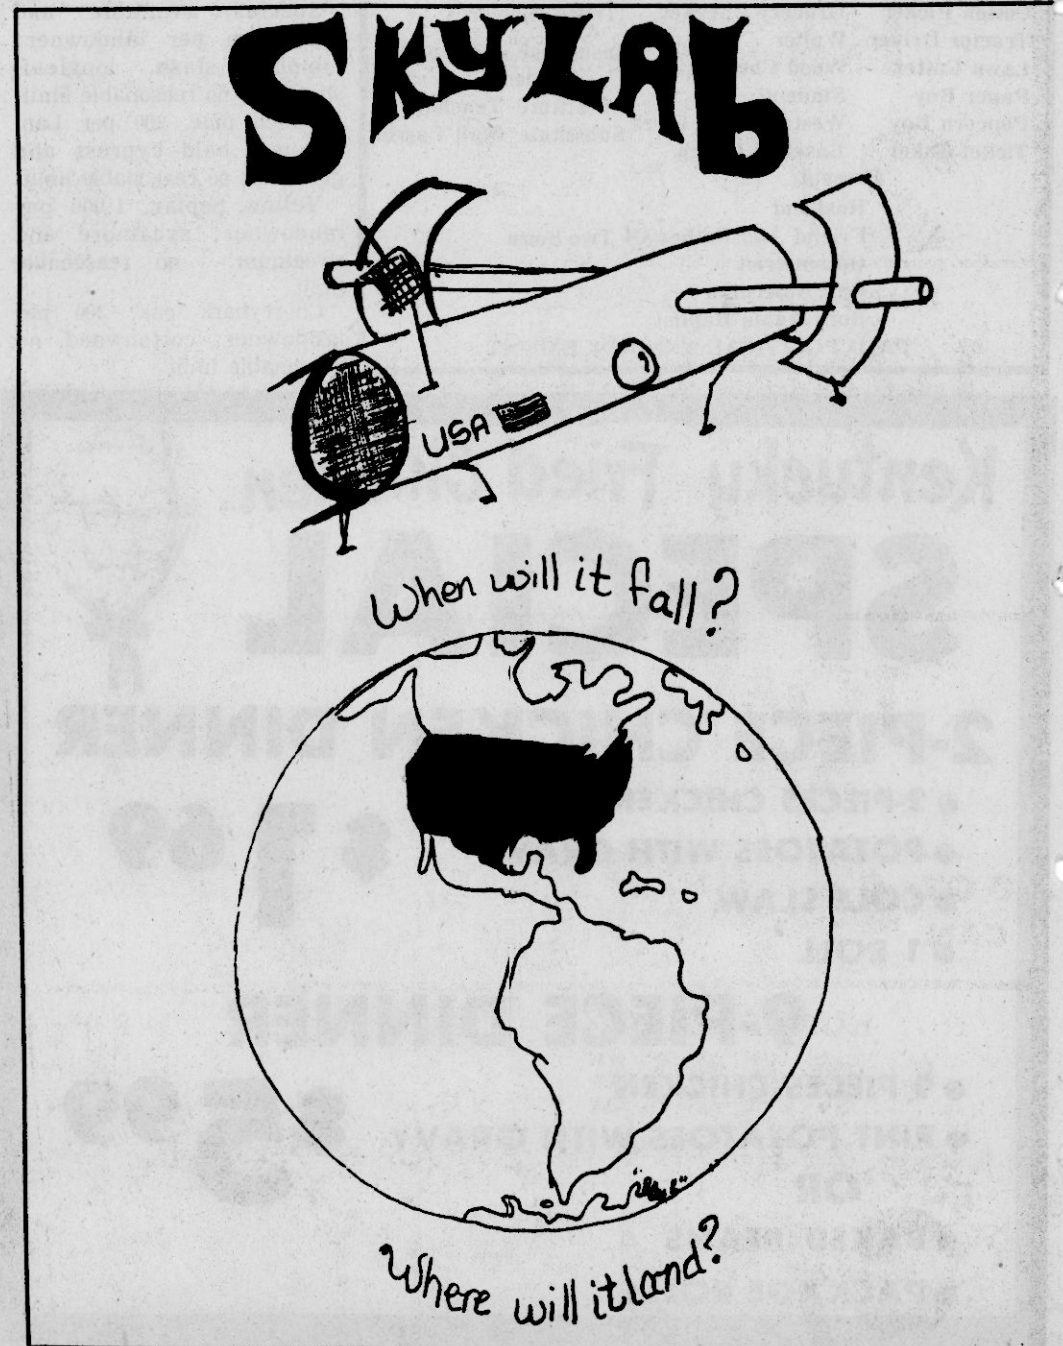

The campus is littered; the gymnasium is not large enough for the crowds that assemble there; the football team plays home games on a rented football field at a cost of two hundred dollars a night and the seniors graduate in a borrowed gymnasium.

Band members, athletes, cheerleaders and members of activity clubs seem to have to spend entirely too much time on fund raising campaigns just so their organizations can have the necessities that enable them to function adequately.

There are a few external problems that anyone can see by just looking. It is my belief that it is time for parents, teachers, elected officials, and concerned citizens to look on the inside of our schools to find out what each one of us can do to improve the educational environment of our children. Then we must act immediately and with dedication to remove some of these problems.

We must put the needs of our children first.

Sincerely,
Janel Stuts

Home Economist's Notes

By CLAIRE T. ROSS
Extension Home Economist

In this land of plenty, millions of Americans are not eating wisely. Not because they do not have enough to eat, but because too little of the right or too many of the wrong things are consumed. In short: food is what you eat, nutrition is how your body uses food. And if you are not eating foods to meet your body needs, you may be suffering from poor nutrition. Some of the damages caused by severe malnutrition may be irreversible.

"You are what you eat." Food is the basis of life. It is the source of health and well-being, provides the energy needed for everyday living, affects body weight and height and even strength to a great extent. Are your food dollars buying just food, or are they buying a well balanced, nutritious diet?

Food contains protein, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, minerals and water. All of these nutrients nourish the body. Food nutrients perform three main functions: (1) to build and repair body tissues, (2) to regulate body processes, and (3) to provide energy. Each has its own special job to do in building, maintaining and operating in the body. A nutrient may perform one, two or three of these functions. All work best when teamed together.

The body can pick and choose what it needs from the nutrients in the diets, and see to it that each organ or part of the body gets exactly the right amount of nutrients: not more and not less. But, if the diet lacks some of the needed nutrients, the body need is not met. The body keeps busy, working twenty-four hours a day, always building itself up, repairing itself, and discarding waste products. It needs a constant supply of nutrients to do its job, and when it receives the nutrients it applies them where they are needed.

One thing is certain: Nutrition affects everyone from the day he is born, actually even before he is born. Nutrients for the unborn child's growth and development come from the mother, which means that her diet is especially important.

While you as a parent guide your children to good eating habits you might take a good look at your own food attitudes. If the food you don't like is never served, then your family may never get a chance to appreciate and enjoy it regardless of how nutritious it might be. Changing poor food habits is usually harder than starting out with good food habits, but it can be done. The parents' example will teach children to eat foods that are not their favorites, usually without the children ever even thinking about it. The more food people learn to enjoy, particularly among the fruits and vegetables, the easier it will be for them to change their diets if it becomes necessary because of health problems, travel, school or some other reason.

Food eating habits should be started early in life. Variety in foods eaten as a baby can help form good food habits. You can promote better eating for your children through the foods you buy and serve.

These principles of establishing good eating habits are the basic format of Weight-Off-Wisely.

Miss Davis, Mr. Chambers Exchange Vows

Miss Julia Lee Davis and Mr. George Gouldbern Chambers were united in marriage Saturday, May 26 at 7 p.m. in the courtyard of the First United Methodist Church in Booneville. The Reverend Charles Potts officiated in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Luther Davis of Booneville. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Peyton Chamber of Corinth.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mr. Sam Galloway of Jackson.

In a setting of natural greenery, the vows were pledged before an arch entwined with greenery and centered with white wedding bells. An arrangement of gladiolas and daisies was in the background of the arch which was flanked with ferns and candelabra with white tapers. Yellow daisies with white ribbons marked the aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The bodice featured a high band collar of heavily beaded lace, a sheer yoke outlined with a border lace and a crystal pleated ruffle which covered the shoulder. The waistline was slightly raised and finished with a white satin ribbon. The skirt was appliqued with lace and finished at the hem with a lace border and crystal pleated ruffle like the bodice. The train was chapel length and very full.

Her veil was two tiers of elbow length illusion with a shoulder length mantilla attached over them.

Her bridal bouquet was an old-fashioned arrangement of gardenias, white daisies, and tulle tied with streamers and love knots.

Miss Myra Bennett of Jackson, was the bride's maid of honor. She wore a dress of seafoam green jersey fashioned with a split capelet sleeve, scoopneck, and a blouson waistline. The skirt was finished with a graduated hem falling to ankle length in front and to the floor in back.

Her bouquet was an old-fashioned arrangement of white and yellow daisies with tulle and bridal satin streamers.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Phil Young and Richard Gray of Corinth.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Davis wore a peach formal with matching jacket. Mrs. Chambers, mother of the groom, chose a blue formal with matching coat. Both wore corsages of white daisies.

The reception to which additional guests were invited was held on the lawn at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's white tiered cake topped with fresh daisies and the groom's chocolate cake were served from tables on the porch. Other refreshment tables were set up at various places about the lawn. The tables were overlaid in white and were decorated with greenery and white tapers.

Rice bags were given to guests by Miss Lindsey Jobe of Corinth and Miss Karen Cole of Memphis, Tennessee.

News From Rienzi

By VIOLA PRESLEY
Correspondent

The family of Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Perry of Corinth, formerly of Rienzi, honored Mr. Perry on his 70th birthday one night during this week with a cookout at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Gailer in Corinth. The cookout was called one of the greatest including all the family's favorite, special dishes. Going from Rienzi were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Weatherbee and family; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Perry and Tim. Coming from Sikeston, Missouri were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith and family. The only members of the family unable to attend were Mr. and Mrs. James Harold Perry and their children of Houston, Texas. We join with others in wishing Mr. Perry many more happy birthdays.

A large number of our people attended funeral service Thursday afternoon at Kemps Chapel Baptist Church for Curlee Holloway. The sympathy of all our residents is extended to Curlee's family at this time.

Summer vacations are beginning at this time for many in Rienzi. Most are planning shorter trips with less travel than usual.

Our town was shocked and saddened when the news came concerning the death of Ronald Wade Leggett in an accident early this week. He was the son of Mrs. Lavern Leggett, one of our most loved teachers in the Rienzi Elementary School. Thoughts and prayers of all are with Mrs. Leggett and her family in their grief.

Bring Memories Alive with our Photo Restoration Service

HAVE AN OLD TATTERED OR FADED PICTURE OF A LOVED ONE?

DON'T THROW IT AWAY!
OLD PHOTOS NEED NOT FADE AWAY

What do you do when you come upon an old, torn picture of a grandparent, a mangled Sepia print of an uncle wearing a World War I uniform, or a faded photograph of a 9-year-old wearing a turn-of-the-century dress? Whatever you do, don't throw it out! It can be made to look like new — or better than new.

The artisans who do this work are skillfully trained. They can make meticulous copies, but do much more, too. They can get rid of cracks, faded areas, torn sections or spotted blotches. Even handwriting across an autographed portrait can be removed. If a background, such as wallpaper, is too busy, it can be toned down, changed in pattern or completely removed.

Even missing parts of an old photograph can be created, providing face of the person is clearly defined. Clothing can be changed, too.

Group photos pose an interesting challenge. One person can be taken out of such a photo — a wedding picture, a football team, a graduating class picture — and a distinguished single portrait is the result. And the portrait can be in black-and-white or color.

Photographs are memories. They are our link with the past. Having them faithfully copied and restored guarantees a photographic family history to pass on to all future generations or an interesting and unusual touch to any home.

Edwina Hobson And James H. Carpenter, Jr. Exchange Vows

Baldwyn First Baptist Church was the setting for the candlelight ceremony uniting Miss Edwina Hobson and James H. Carpenter, Jr. on Sunday afternoon, April 22, at three o'clock.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hobson, Mr. Haskell Carpenter and the late Mrs. Hazel Carpenter of Michigan City.

The sanctuary was centered with an arched candle flanked with spirals and heart shaped candleabras decorated with arrangements of Mauve and dusty rose tulips, purple statice, mauve daisies, baby's breath, and purple carnations. Neanthe Bellum palms were placed at vantage points. The aisles were decorated with mixed bouquets of mauve, shaded spring flowers, and tied with mauve streamers. The vows were repeated before the altar surrounded by the glow of candlelight.

After the ceremony the couple lighted the traditional unity candle signifying unification of both families. The Reverend Danny Holland officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Music was provided by Miss Theresa Burcham at the piano and Mr. Bud Davis at the organ. Special renditions were presented by Miss Pam Turner, who sang "Evergreen." Mr. Terry Hurt and Miss Turner sang a duet "Annie Song" while grandmothers of the couple were escorted into the sanctuary. "Let It Be Me" was sung by the two prior to the traditional wedding march which was presented by Mr. Davis as the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father.

She wore a formal length gown of white organza and chantilly lace. The empire lace bodice was styled with a Queen Anne neck which the bride wore a string of pearls and full Bishop sleeves with a lace at the cuff. Soft A-line skirt flowed to the back with three rows of lace and tiers into a full fan shape attached chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured to a chantilly lace mead piece and bordered in matching lace. She carried a cascade of butterfly roses and stephanotis centered with a white hybrid cattleya orchid. Danity streamers tied in love knots fell from the bouquet. The matron of honor was Mrs. Pam Tyson of Corinth. The bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Hirsh of Jackson, Mrs. Bonnie Hackman of Memphis, and Mrs. Martha Sharp of Lamar. The bridesmaids wore matching formals of mauve chalk qiana with a chiffon over blouse. Softly gathered empire bodice was fashioned with thin rolled straps and gathered floor length skirt.

The best man was Wade Sharp of Lamar and groomsmen were Buddy Carpenter of Columbus, cousin of the groom; Steve Farese of Ashland, and Kanny Thomas of Birmingham, Ala.

The bride's mother wore a formal length gown of sea green. Chiffon tiers overlaid the V-necked satin slip. She wore a corsage of white oymbidium. Mrs. Howard Connor, the brides godmother was attired in a chiffon print formal of qiana. Her corsage was a double cymbidium. The sister of the groom wore a beige formal with a lace bodice. She wore a double white cymbidium corsage. Grandmothers of the bride and sister-in-law of the groom wore white cymbidium to complement their attire.

Mrs. Clyde Tapp presided at the register table graced with a white cattleya orchid on a gold easel. Her corsage was white cymbidium.

The rehearsal dinner was held April 21, at 8 p.m. at the private dining room of Thurston's in Corinth. The U-shaped tables were complemented with spring bouquets of iris, tulips, azelias and jonquills. Attendants were presented with silver engraved goblets. Mr. Steve Farese, groomsmen, toasted a long and happy life to the couple.

The wedding reception was held in the church's reception hall, which was festively decorated with ferns and greenery.

The registry table was graced with a brass easel holding a white orchid on a white satin pillow. Seated at the registry table was Mrs. Debbie Arnold.

Mrs. Carpenter's wedding portrait was on display as guests entered the room.

The three-tiered wedding cake was the focal point of the bride's table, with fourbranch candleabras on each side. The center of each canelabra held an arrangement of flowers complementing those used for the wedding ceremony. The bridal bouquet was placed in front of the wedding cake, completing the decor of the bride's table. The bride's cake was served by Mrs. June Reed and Mrs. Sherri Immon.

The groom's cake was two-tiered with grapes cascading from a brass cricket box on top. Four branch brass candleabra were on each side of the cake, intertwined with baby's breath, statice, and grapes. Accenting the brass on the groom's table was a brass cage with two doves, which were behind the table. Serving the groom's cake were Miss Cindy Hill and Miss Nell Luter.

In addition to the traditional punch bowl, a font was also used. Serving at the punch table were Sabrina Greer and Melissa Carpenter, and Tammy Bollinger.

Rice bags and wedding scrolls were placed on small tables and decorative tree to provide guests with a remembrance of the wedding. These were served by Misses Jamie Robinson of Cedar Hill and Patricia Carpenter of Lamar, Ms. Mr. Bud Davis provided entertainment at the piano throughout the reception.

Other hostesses were: Mrs. Shirley Lewis of Water Valley, Miss Janice DeV Vaughn of Baldwyn, and Miss Susan McKiernan of Memphis, Tenn. After the reception the bride chose a printed blouson blouse with a dusty chalk skirt accented by the 14 karat gold necklace and bracelet, given to her by the groom. She wore the white cattleya orchid from her bouquet. After a week honeymoon in Acapulco the couple returned to their home in Michigan City.

Unemployment On Downward Trend

Unemployed in Prentiss County continued a downward trend to reach 4.4 percent of the civilian labor force at mid-May according to Charles Smith, Corinth Area Manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service.

This compares to 4.7 percent last month and 5.3 percent in May 1978. The number of Prentiss County residents employed rose to 10,160, an increase of 40 over last month and 20 from one year ago. This increase has caused the civilian labor force for the county to increase slightly also. It was estimated to be approximately 10,630 individuals.

The number of individuals employed in the county, whether residents of Prentiss County or surrounding counties, declined from last month to reach 6,730. Non-manufacturing employment experienced a slight gain but was offset by the loss in manufacturing employment.

Smith continued that the total civilian labor force for the four-county area of Alcorn, Prentiss, Tishomingo, and Tishomingo rose to 42,450 at mid-May. This shows an increase over last month and a marked increase of 2,140 over May 1978. The number of unemployed persons fell to 2,040, or 8 percent of the civilian labor force, in May. The number of persons employed climbed to 40,430, a substantial increase over last month and one year ago with all categories contributing to these increases.

Nonagricultural wage and salaried employment, a combination of manufacturing and nonmanufacturing employment, in the four-county area continued to rise to reach 32,300, an increase from the previous estimate.

Gasoline Rationing A Possibility

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

Even as President Carter faced the nation last week on his strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union, another potential crisis was hitting close to home. There was talk of gasoline rationing in the Nation's Capital.

While Washington is not the national trend-setter that California, for example, is, the lines which formed around this area's 1,200 gas stations were just as long and tempers were just as short as they were on the West Coast a few weeks ago.

It was an ironic situation, because Washington is better known for giving gas (heartburn, really) than for getting it. Still, some arrangements had to be made.

Gas rationing late last week became a reality here, with implementation of a system based on the last digit of car tags. The system is designed to help end those long lines.

While gas rationing in Washington seems far removed from the situation in Mississippi, it does provide an opportunity to give you an update of on-going energy matters. First, the House Ways and Means Committee has approved a compromise version of the President's "windfall profits" tax.

The bill would net an estimated $27.8 billion in the next five years, giving the government a portion of the extra revenues the oil companies will gain from the phasing out of domestic price controls, which began June 1. The bill was forwarded to the Rules Committee, on which I serve.

I still have some reservations about how the revenue generated by the windfall profits tax will be used, and hopefully my questions will be answered during debate.

That bill involves domestically-produced supplies, but almost one-half of the 20 million barrels of oil used every day in the U.S. come from foreign sources, like the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). OPEC is gearing up for its summer conference in Geneva this week, where new price levels will reportedly be set.

There have been reports that Saudi Arabia, the world's leading exporter, would consider increasing its daily output if such industrialized countries as the U.S. decrease their imports. That would mean more intensive conservation measures on our end. Other energy-related plans are also under consideration. One proposes a multi-billion-dollar fund to encourage the development of new domestic energy sources, like synthetic fuels. Under the proposal, loans, investments and price guarantees could be available to people trying to find alternatives to foreign oil, and it could include making oil from coal and biomass (garbage) and wider use of gasohol.

The other is a consolidation of the existing 114 federal programs now attempting to assist transportation in rural areas. Some experts believe a more effective public transportation system in isolated, rural areas could be beneficial in saving energy.

Add a HOWMET PLANT-PLAYROOM™ for about 1/2 the cost of conventional construction.

Now with the HOWMET TEMP-TROL™ insulated ceiling, it's possible to heat and air condition the patio enclosure with a minimal chance of roof condensation.

The Howmet Plant-Playroom is really a very ingenious system of windows, doors and wall panels arranged in any combination you need. The walls are load bearing, just like the walls of your home. Every unit is precision engineered and factory assembled for accurate, fast installation. This patio enclosure is completed in days rather than weeks because it's for recreational activity, and not a conventional room addition. The cost saving comes from reduced assembly and erection time. It's a sensible solution to today's high construction costs.

For your comfort we only install time tested, double hung windows...a trouble free window system. Unlike side sliding and single hung windows, double hung windows allow air to circulate through the top and bottom openings. Even ventilation during a rainstorm is practical in a Howmet Playroom.

House Approves Bill

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The fire over the annual appropriation for the Departments of Labor and HEW began to burn at 1 o'clock one afternoon last week on the House floor. When the smoke had cleared, it was almost 1 o'clock the next morning, and the House had voted to spend $73.5 billion.

Burning the midnight oil over funding for these two giants of the federal bureaucracy has become common practice. Every year, the House goes through a similar agony. Deciding which programs to cut, which ones to increase and which ones to leave alone means making some of the major decisions of the year.

The issues are complicated by the comprehensive nature of the bill. No single appropriations measure even comes close to covering as many aspects of the federal government as this one does.

From abortion to welfare and from CETA to OSHA, many of them are in the Labor HEW appropriations.

As might be expected, debate on this legislation lends itself to a touch of the dramatic, and one of the most emotional parts of the debate involved abortion. After an hour's arguments on both sides, the House voted to leave intact language which prohibits the use of federal funds for abortions, except where the life of the mother is endangered if the fetus were carried to term.

This language has in the past produced a bottleneck with the Senate during conference because of that body's more liberal allowance for the use of federal funds for abortions.

In all, there were some 40 proposed amendments to the Labor HEW appropriations, indicating concern among Members of Congress that changes needed to be made. Some changes were for the better:

World Food Production To Increase

MISSISSIPPI STATE — People all over the world suffer from malnutrition. They can be harmed by eating too little food, too much food or by the wrong balance of particular elements in their diets, reports Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) Land Use Center.

Research is needed to find out how present diets affect human activity. How do low levels of nutrition affect physical growth, school and job performance, pregnancy and disease? What are the best ways to prevent mental and physical defects that occur in children? The National Academy of Sciences is studying these questions and others.

Next, what food can best meet nutritional needs? Soybean products have a high protein content. They provide many ways to have protein.

The way foods are stored and cooked can affect their nutrient level. People in different countries and at different ages require different nutrients. This needs to be investigated, adds Dr. Chapin.

Another research need is to evaluate the effect of government policies on nutrition. For example, saccharin was banned because of a policy stating that people should not consume it. However, the use of saccharin for diabetics may outweigh potential risks.

"Finally, we need to know what programs will best reach the people who need better foods," says Dr. Chapin. Current programs are: adding vitamins to (fortifying) food products, labeling food products, nutrition education, and supplemental feeding, such as food stamps and school lunches.

Do these programs really provide nutritional benefits?

Research is needed to develop technology to evaluate the effect of these programs quickly and at least expense, he adds.

"The Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service is conducting a nutrition program with a built-in evaluation. Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) uses professionals who train helpers. Helpers go to homes and give lessons on nutrition. Evaluation occurs as the helpers go to homes and give lessons on nutrition and as the helpers analyze food selections the students have made in the previous week," he explains.

What effect will these research findings have on land use? If the researchers learn legumes would meet nutritional needs, for example, then buyers will pay better prices for more nourishing products. The government may offer tax incentives to farmers who grow legumes, and we would probably see an acreage increase in legumes, he says.

"Efficient land use and management to produce high yields of nutrient-rich crops is one step to solve world and national problems of malnutrition," says Dr. Chapin.

Elderhostel Is Coming

Sponsored by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, Elderhostel will be held at Mississippi State University (MSU) the weeks of July 15 and July 22, according to Dr. Gail Cotton, program coordinator, gerontology, Extension Service.

"Elderhostel combines the best traditions of education and hosteling," she explains. "It's low on luxury and high on hospitality."

For more information, interested senior citizens may contact their Extension home economists. Enrollment is limited.

Prices Higher In Moscow

Where's the best place to buy your weekly groceries? Not in Moscow, according to an economic-comparison chart just released by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB). The tricolor poster—comparing the standards of living in Washington, D.C., London, and Moscow—indicates that the U.S. city is your best bet. Americans would work 12.5 hours and Britains 21.4 hours to buy the weekly groceries included in a Soviet diet for a family of four. Soviets, however, toil 42.3 hours to buy the same items. The above example is just one of the comparisons found on the 1979 edition of the poster, "What's the Difference? Washington, D.C., London, Moscow." The publication compares 19 consumer products in the three cities in terms of work time—rather than rubles, pounds, or dollars—because off the fluctuation of currencies on the world market.

Prices, surveyed in March, 1979, were converted into work time based on the hourly take-home pay in January for factory workers: U.S., $4.61; Britain, $3.25; and Russia, $1.38. Health insurance premiums, income and Social Security taxes were deducted from U.S. and British wages, while unemployment insurance was deducted from British wages only. Family government allowances given in Britain and the U.S.S.R. were added for a family of four.

Despite inflation in America, the U.S. comes out on top overall. For instance, if a citizen in the U.S. capital needs to drive to work, he or she can buy a middle-sized car for 4.1 monthly paychecks. A Londoner spends 8.5 months (based on a 44.2-hour work-week compared with the U.S. and U.S.S.R. equivalents of a 40.6-hour workweek). The price tag on a comparable car in Moscow would confiscate 35 months of pay from the average factory worker there.

Some items, such as lipstick and panty hose, could not be found by surveyors in Moscow in any state retail store at the time of the study. But the poster does include a 72-minute lipstick along with a 427-minute pair of panty hose in Moscow, taken from a previous study. Those times compare with 22 minutes for panty hose and 26 minutes for lipstick in the U.S.

Some items were not included in the study, however, because they weren't available in all cities surveyed. For instance, frozen and convenience foods, prevalent items in many Western households, are not widely available in Moscow.

In addition to commodity-cost comparisons the poster includes statistics from government sources on such items as energy resources, productivity, trade, and transportation. It even points out the U.S. has over 10 times as many telephones as the Soviet Union per capita and almost twice as many as Great Britain.

The comparative-pricing statistics come from the research arm of Radio Liberty, the U.S. government-supported station in Munich, West Germany, which broadcasts to millions of listeners throughout the Soviet Union. NFIB and the AFL-CIO requested the study and funded the research.

Copies of the poster are available by writing to the Education Department of NFIB, 150 West 20th Ave., San Mateo, CA 94403. NFIB is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization representing the legislative viewpoint of small and independent business.

Cochran Opposes Direct Election Amendment

During my six years on Capitol Hill—first in the House and now in the Senate—I've learned that carefully listening during a debate on an issue can be just as important as talking.

In recent weeks I've listened with special attention as my fellow Senators have discussed with me the pros and cons of a proposed amendment to the Constitution. Sponsored by Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana, the amendment would change the way we elect our President, abolishing the present electoral college system in favor of a direct national election.

Under the electoral college system, states are allocated a number of electoral votes equal to the size of the state's Congressional delegation. Mississippi, with five Congressmen and two Senators, has seven electoral votes. In each state, the Presidential ticket getting the most votes on election day wins all of that state's electoral votes.

With direct election, the candidate receiving the most popular votes nationwide is the winner. Advocates of the direct election amendment point out that under the electoral college system it is possible for a candidate to receive the most popular votes, yet lose the election in the electoral college. This has happened once, back in 1888 when Benjamin Harrison edged out Grover Cleveland in a hotly contested, close election. It could have easily happened in our last Presidential election if Gerald Ford had The electoral college system recognizes this by forcing a President not simply to get the most votes, but to get the most votes in the most states.

It can be argued that changing the way we count the votes in a presidential election would profoundly alter the way the campaigns for those votes would be conducted. With direct election, presidential hopefuls would not be forced to build a party base and nomination by a party might even lose its political significance. A successful media campaign could conceivably turn an unknown, inexperienced candidate into President of the United States virtually overnight. Presidential campaigns would not hinge so much on party workers and interested citizens as on media consultants and communications experts whose work would take on an even greater significance under direct national election.

It is possible that under direct election, smaller states such as Mississippi would take on a diminished role in presidential elections. A Presidential candidate would be interested in campaigning for several thousand undecided Mississippians only if those votes meant the difference between winning and losing all of Mississippi's electoral votes. Direct election could result in presidential candidates concentrating nearly all of their attention in the country's most populous media markets and the largest cities.

Under the present system a winning Presidential candidate must attract a majority of the vote from more than one region of the country—Ohio and Mississippi.

The concept of the direct election of the President does have a simple and basic appeal to the democratic spirit of most Americans. But as I've learned in my discussions with Senate colleagues, there are also some convincing arguments to be made against tampering with the electoral college.

Perhaps the most convincing is that direct election would undermine the fundamental constitutional principle of federalism, federalism being the idea that the United States are just that, a federation of fifty individual states.

try. One could not win by just getting a heavy vote in a few very populous areas.

With the electoral college, a candidate is therefore forced to identify with the interests of a coalition of voters that cuts across sectional and regional boundaries ensuring that the President will be a true national leader.

In finally weighing the arguments for and against direct election of the President, it is important to remember that our present system has served us long and well. Perhaps certain reforms are in order, such as requiring that electors vote for the candidates to whom they are pledged. But I see dangers in tampering with our constitution and an elective system that is unrivaled by any national democracy.

For these reasons, I'll be voting against the direct election amendment here in the Senate.

WASHINGTON—Even though there are new interstate shipping rules to help prevent the spread of pseudorabies—a costly virus disease of swine and other livestock—hog producers must take safeguards of their own to keep their herds disease-free, a veterinarian with the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

James A. Downard, chief staff veterinarian for swine diseases with the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), said the new federal shipping rules became effective May 17.

Downard said producers should incorporate the following suggestions in their management practices to avoid pseudorabies infection:

Buy only test negative breeding animals from pseudorabies free herds. Isolate for 60 days and then retest all breeding animals added to the herd. All show and exhibit animals returned to the herd should be isolated and retested the same as new herd additions. Don't add feeder pigs from an outside source if you have a breeding herd. Provide sanitized boots and clothing for all visitors that

Most everyone has been working in their gardens and fields and haven't had much time to modulate lately. The gas shortage is going to keep lots of us at home during the holidays and maybe the skip will be quieter and we can key up and visit.

Happy anniversary to "Roofopper" and "Lady Roofopper." Hope you have a nice day and have many more wonderful years together.

Officers meeting will be Thursday night July 12 at 7:30 at "Upholstery Man's," home. This will be the next to the last meeting for this group of officers as our regular business meeting will be nomination for new officers for another year. "Pinetree" and "Angel," have sure been enjoying that lift that all the good folks helped buy for him. He has been able to attend church most of the time lately and that is sure wonderful. It really helps all of those muscles in "Angel" back too!

Happy birthday to "Birdog Man," "Lady Q," "Little Angel," "Cookie Monster," and "Lady Blue." Hope all of you has a nice day and have many more to enjoy.

"Big Orange," didn't you know that big tractors are to work with? We heard about your accident and were glad you weren't seriously hurt.

We hope all of our sick folks are feeling better and soon able to be back with us again.

We hope all of you had a nice and safe holiday. "Blue Bird," and "Little Queen," sure sold lots of watermelons and peaches at their market.

There will be a picnic July 14 at City Park for the handicapped and their families.

There will not be a social this weekend due to so many families being on vacation.

Until next week, be happy, stay well, and attend the church of your choice.

Libbritton said of his candidacy, "Before I establish my policies for this office, I must express my deep admiration for the Honorable Heber Laddner who has held this position for more than 30 years. In following the political scene in Mississippi, it is easy to determine who is performing a satisfactory job for the taxpayers in this State—it is usually those who do not make the news—those who do not get involved in illegal activities—those who silently carry out the business of performing the duties that come with the office they are elected to fill. Because of the way Mr. Laddner has conducted himself as Secretary of State, he has received very little publicity which means his dedication to State government projected

"Today, political payoffs by taking jobs from persons who have dedicated their lives to State government, in order to place 'campaign workers' or 'contributors' in secure positions even though they may not be qualified, is in direct opposition to my

"In my opinion, being a leader in our State is one of the greatest challenges a person can face. It places them in a prime position of influence, especially where our young people are concerned. I taught and coached in high schools from Pachuta to Tunica, and from Morton to Sardis and Vicksburg, and I can speak from personal knowledge that our young people are in great need of seeing the political system of our State provide a view that the successful politician need not be self-

"My earlier mention of getting the political axe came after five years with the Governor's Highway Safety Program where I was from 1972 until the early part of 1977. I am proud of what I accomplished there as Project Director of the Alcohol and Traffic Safety Division. The position called for close work with the Attorney General's Office, the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, the Department of Mental Health, the State Department of Education, and with Legislative leaders of our House of Representatives and

In addition to my interest in alcohol abuse prevention, I am an avid supporter of early drug training in our schools. # Local Softball Race Tightens

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

The Booneville Softball Association league games are now in the thick of the pennant races and, with games held Thursday through Saturday of last week, the season standings tightened even more.

There are now no undefeated teams in either the men's or ladies standings and, as things stand now, the race is open for a league champion.

A person might say history repeats itself, or use any cliché they want, but the local games seem to be a merry-go-round this season and one would have to talk with Johnny Carson's Amazing Creskin to predict any games in this league.

Figure this one out if you can...Last week three teams were undefeated in local league play in both the men's and women's leagues and yep, low and behold, now there's none. I'm not calling any wins upsets anymore because they're switching back and forth with wins and losses.

Last week, Sell-Rite's ladies, Swinney's Air Conditioning, and Pizza Hut all had unblemished marks in the local league standings but all three teams were defeated this week. Sell-Rite dropped an 8-4 decision to Browns Hamburgers last Tuesday night, Swinney's fell to Johnny Johnson on Saturday 12-11 and Pizza Hut lost a 9-6 count to Schweiger also on Saturday.

Action from last week goes as follows: Tuesday night action-Woodman of the World 12-2 over the Jaycees, Schweiger (w) 8-0 over the Northeast Mississippi Hospital, Schweiger men 14-4 over E.Z. Design, American Packing 19-1 over North Ms. Uniform Rental.

Friday's action--Sell-Rite 9-5 over Schweiger, Farm Bureau 11-10 over Oak Hill, Browns 13-3 over American Packing, Pizza Hut 11-9 over Johnson.

Saturday's action--Eaton Furniture 7-0 over J.C. Angels in a forfeit game, Farm Bureau 19-8 over MG Motors, American Packing 18-15 over Blue Bell, Oak Hill 22-3 over Jaycees, Schweiger 9-6 over Pizza Hut, Schweiger 18-12 over North Ms. Uniform Rental, and Johnny Johnson's Furniture 12-11 over Swinney's.

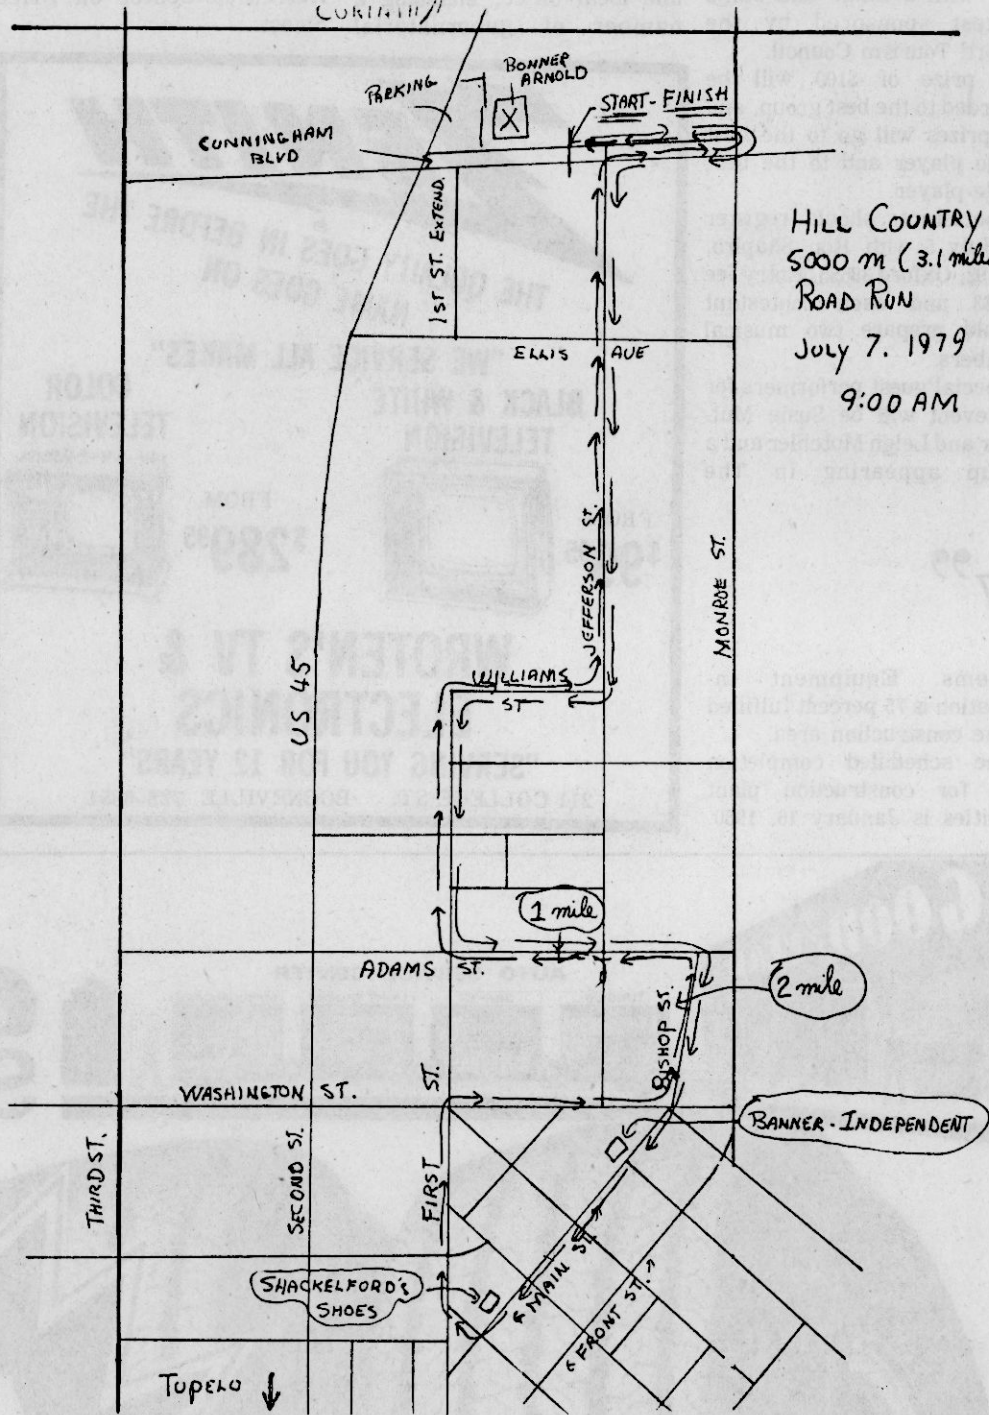

Teams will continue to play makeup games throughout the Fourth of July Holidays and will resume league action at the conclusion of the holidays.

As of presstime Monday

Pizza Hut and Swinney's were tied for first place in the men's standings with 6-1 records followed by Schweiger at 7-2 and Johnny Jonson. and Sybarites are at 5-2. In the ladies league, Brown's leads with a 7-1 record followed by Sell-Rite with a 6-1 mark and J.C. Angels with a 6-2 record.

Booneville Invitational held recently, says he's still looking for a partner but added that he will play in the tourney.

Yellow Creek Is A "Small City"

IUKA—When construction work is completed north of here at Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant, units 1 and 2 will have a generating capacity of 1,375 megawatts each, the largest two-unit power plant in the TVA system.

This future power plant is the seventh in a series of the Tennessee Valley Authority's nuclear power projects. Located in Tishomingo County, the project's construction plant (temporary) facilities consist of numerous buildings and trailers housing administrative and engineering groups. A total of 42 shops and buildings will be located here during the plant's construction phase and will provide the spectacle of a small city. These buildings, which will later be taken down, loaded, and transported to other TVA locations, will shelter many of the approximately 4,000 employees expected during the plant's peak in late 1981. That peak should hold until mid-1982, when there will be a gradual decline in employment.

Everything in the entire plant is considered construction plant except for the nuclear island area, ERCW spray ponds, turbine buildings, cooling towers, perimeter drainage channel, 500-kV switchyard, and the permanent materials warehouse yard. The Division of Power Production will have an office building west of the powerhouse area, where it will carry out operational and plant maintenance activities when the plant is nearly completed.

A permanent operating staff of about 500 persons will take over after construction is finished.

In the construction plant area, prominent regions include the central concrete mixing plant and facilities at the project entrance, 161-kV electrical substation, reinforcing steel laydown area, barge unloading facility, administration building, Chicago Bridge and Iron laydown area, craft shops area (including 16 major buildings), shops and hourly employees' parking lots and the cooling tower contractor's laydown area, and construction materials storage yard.

The overall construction plant is approximately 74 percent complete. Building erection for construction features, including siding and roofing, is nearing 91 percent completion. Work continues for the administration building interior partitions and ceilings. The 42,000-square foot administration building will house all administrative and engineering groups, including the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's onsite representative in the future. The building is partially complete with movement of all groups to be completed by August. A visitor's overlook will also be established south of the administration building at a vantage point that will allow visitors to have an overall view of the major construction areas.

Other unique features of the construction plant area that resemble city life include training and test buildings, medical and public safety building, a sewage treatment plant, power pole lighting throughout the plant, underground waterlines, and roads named after construction personnel.

To date, 67,188 linear feet of piping, 848 tons of structural steel, 15,669 cubic yards of concrete, 641,536 square feet of siding and roofing, and 3,271,393 cubic yards of earth have been installed, erected, placed, and excavated throughout the construction plant. Building services are approximately 60 percent complete, including electrical heating and air conditioning

Big Day In Oxford July 7th

OXFORD—A full schedule of events—from a fiddle and banjo contest to an old-fashioned political rally—are scheduled for "Saturday on the Square" July 7 in Oxford.

Events get underway on historic Oxford Square at 1 p.m. with a fiddle and banjo contest sponsored by the Oxford Tourism Council.

A prize of $100 will be awarded to the best group, and $50 prizes will go to the best banjo player and to the best fiddle player.

Contestants should register by July 5 with Ron Shapiro, Box 92, Oxford 38655. Entry fee is $3 and each contestant should prepare two musical numbers.

Special guest performers for the event will be Susie Mutchler and Leigh Mutchler and a group appearing in The University of Mississippi Summer Showcase production of "The Robber Bridegroom."

A political rally sponsored by the Oxford Jaycees and Epsilon Sigma Alpha will follow the fiddle and banjo contest. Candidates for state and local office, including a number of gubernatorial candidates, will speak at the rally.

Saturday on the Square will also feature other entertainment, refreshments and craft tables.

In case of rain, the events will be held in the Oxford Activities Center on Price Street.

Cochran Bill Asks Exemptions

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Mississippi's Thad Cochran has introduced legislation to exempt from federal income taxes the first $20,000 earned by overseas American missionaries.

Cochran said this bill was needed because the Foreign Earned Income Act of 1978 now requires religious and charitable workers in foreign countries to pay from $1000 to $4000 annually in additional U.S. income taxes.

"Tax hikes of this size would have an adverse impact on private missionary and charity activities," said Cochran.

"In recent years, many charities have experienced increasing difficulty in adjusting pay scales to keep pace with inflation and the declining dollar overseas," said Cochran. "Charities, unlike their counterparts in private industry, have no mechanism for passing along cost increases to their 'customers', and can increase salaries only by cutting the services they provide."

Added Cochran, "Since workers in charitable organizations overseas are compensated modestly, the effect of a tax increase of this magnitude would be enormous. Many workers would be faced with a hard decision as to whether or not they could remain overseas."

Cochran believes that the authors of the 1978 Act did not realize the impact his law would have on workers in charitable and religious organizations.

Cochran pointed out the tax increase specified in the Foreign Earned Income Act of 1978 is directly contrary to federal policy as established by Congress in the Foreign Assistance Act.

"The Foreign Assistance Act declares a policy of relying on the charitable sector 'to the maximum extent possible' in providing overseas assistance in relief," maintained the Mississippi Senator.

"My bill would provide some relief to those individuals willing to devote their time and energy, often at great personal sacrifice, to help those in need around the world," Cochran said.

Mathiew Attends Workshop

LONG BEACH—Kenneth E. Mathiew of Booneville, attended a School Shop Safety workshop June 25-29 on the Gulf Park campus of the University of Southern Mississippi.

Participants earned three semester hours graduate or undergraduate credit for the workshop, which was designed to make industrial education professionals aware of their responsibilities as teachers in the development of safety consciousness as well as in the prevention of school shop accidents.

Dr. Marvin L. Lanmon, assistant professor, USM Department of Industrial and Vocational Education, was director of the workshop, sponsored by that Department.

New Loan Plan Set For FmHA

In an effort to shorten the time between loan applications and final action, the Farmers Home Administration has approved a plan whereby FmHA County Offices will set aside "administrative periods" to work on processing loans. In Mississippi, the administrative time is to be from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. each day.

FmHA Administrator Gordon Cavanaugh said, "As the demand for Farmers Home programs continues to increase, time becomes an even more precious commodity. In many offices, especially those with very small staffs, it is very difficult to find the time to do the work needed to move loan applications on to final approval. By officially setting aside a few hours a week to work on the loans, it is hoped that delays experienced by some borrowers can be reduced."

Mississippi FmHA State Director Mark Hazard emphasized that someone in the FmHA office will be on hand to meet the public and respond to telephone calls during "administrative periods" but that within reason, loan officers should be free to process loans.

Mark Hazard said the plan will be put into effect in all County Offices, effective July 1, 1979. "I think the 'Administrative period' will greatly improve our efficiency and prove to be of benefit to our borrowers," Hazard said.

Eaves Kicks Off Local Campaign

Monday night July 2, John Arthur Eaves kicked off his Prentiss County campaign for governor at the Booneville City Park.

An estimated crowd of 2,000 people from Prentiss, Alcorn, Tishomingo, and Tippah counties were on hand for the rally and fish fry.

Also in attendance were several local officials, and numerous candidates for Prentiss County elective offices.

The rally began with a four-piece band from Jackson, and then proceeded with the fish dinner.

As the large group waited in line to eat, Eaves made his way through the gathering and shook hands with the local people for about an hour and a half.

At 8:30 Eaves gave a 40 minute speech on several of the issues that touch the people of Mississippi and particularly the Northeast Mississippi area.

One of his main points was for the United States to bargain a "barrel of food for a barrel of crude", and thus use its agricultural power.

During his speech Eaves was stopped several times by the crowd's applause for his ideas on state and national issues.

After the speech Eaves made his way back through the crowd and shook hands with the people, asking for their support in Prentiss County. He then left for a late meeting at Corinth, where he was to campaign July 3rd.

Some inexpensive and delicious Christmas or all-occasion gift ideas are probably right under your nose. Garden-fresh vegetables and fruits are now available for canning and freezing. There are numerous gift ideas in both categories of fresh produce, says Ann Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

In the vegetable area, pickles are an age-old favorite. Numerous vegetables other than cucumbers can be pickled. Pickled okra and pickled zucchini are just two of the many delightful taste treats. Label them with a personalized label, and then put a decorative bow on top. Or, include an inexpensive pickle dish or serving fork along with a jar of your favorite recipe, Mrs. Rushing suggests.

There are numerous relish combinations for you to experiment with. Corn relish and chow-chow are both welcome additions to a hot or cold meal. They're not only flavorful combinations, but they also look pretty. If you don't have up-to-date recipes, contact your county Extension home economist, she suggests.

Fresh fruits conjure up images of delicious jars of chutney, brandied fruit, fresh preserves, jelly or fruit pickles. There are numerous easy recipes for these items. If you've never made jelly or jam, you'll find even a beginner can turn out a satisfactory product.

Clothing Choices Reflect Individuality of Consumer

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Clothing is more than a necessity. Besides meeting physical needs, clothing expresses individuality.

"To make the kind of statement you want, choose clothes carefully," advises Marguerite Davis, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service clothing specialist. "Take time to examine garments and compare prices."

If you want high-quality clothes, you don't necessarily have to pay high prices. Miss Davis suggests inspecting clothes for these signs of good workmanship: wide, finished seams reinforced at points of stress; short, secure stitching; wide, flat hems; button-holes properly placed, sized and sewn; firmly attached trimmings; neat, coordinated fastenings; smooth linings; secure, working zippers; and a generous fabric allowance.

"The way a garment is cut, put together and finished affects its appearance, fit and durability," says Miss Davis. "A well-made garment is usually, in the long run, the best buy."

Reduce costs by postponing or eliminating some purchases, waiting for sales or promotions, and planning your wardrobe around one or two basic color groups so accessories can be mixed and matched.

Decide in advance how much money you want to devote to clothing care. Do the garments require ironing, hand washing or dry cleaning?

Regardless of a garment's quality, price, appropriateness and attractiveness, if it doesn't fit well, it will feel uncomfortable and be a bad buy. Try on all garments before buying. Sit down, bend and stretch.

Put the jars in a cool, dry place so they're ready for gift-giving at a moment's notice. An especially nice touch to go along with the homemade jams and jellies is your favorite bread baked to perfection.

Get busy preserving delicious fresh produce items now available. When Christmas comes, you'll be able to relax. You'll have the perfect gift tucked away in your pantry — fresh Mississippi produce picked at the peak of quality and preserved with loving care.

World's Food Production Must Increase

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Food production varies because of weather, pests, diseases, handling and government policies which affect food prices and supplies.

"We must learn how to increase the supply of the eight kinds of food, to stabilize food supplies and to decrease rates of population growth which increase demand for food," says Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center.

"We produce food from three major renewable resources: crops, animals and aquatic areas," says Dr. Chapin.

Of the 22 billion acres of fertile land in the world today, only about three and one-half billion acres are cultivated. Nine billion are used for grazing, and nine and one-half billion acres are in forest. By far, the largest acreage that can produce food is in surface water. Eighty-nine billion acres of water are on the earth, but many are barren. Cultivating the sea and inland water has only just begun with oyster reefs, fishing seasons and catfish production, he explains.

Present food consumption in Mississippi requires three acres of land per person. By dividing the available 22 billion fertile land acres by four billion people, we have five and one-half acres per person in the world today. If we take three acres, the Mississippi standard, and subtract it from five and one-half acres, the world supply, we have a surplus of two and one-half acres per person worldwide.

Drier areas, not including deserts, take more land — as much as five acres per cow in Texas. In addition, one-third of all food production is lost to pests. So we are close to earth's capacity to support human life beyond its present limits unless we do something about it through education and research, says Dr. Chapin.

World population is expected to reach five billion by 1988, 4.2 acres per person, and six billion people 1997, 3.6 acres per person.

Research could mean feeding at least 100 million additional people on the same amount of land, says Dr. Chapin. New and better use of land can be brought about through research and Extension. Double-cropping and even quintuple cropping on the same acre each year is possible, and may become practical, explains Dr. Chapin.

Vanishing, nonrenewable resources are more difficult problems to solve, but new sources of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash also must be found or recycled for mass multiple cropping to succeed.

Increasing nitrogen with legumes grown as a cover crop improves crop fertility and production. As many as two to five crops may be planted in sequence at varying intervals to better use sunlight, water, labor, make greater yields and help distribute food throughout the year.

"We know now that wheel pressure from vehicles used to plow and cultivate land three years ago can reduce today's yield by forming compaction similar to a hard pan," says Dr. Chapin. "By proper subsoiling, as much as 70 percent of the water on some soils may be captured in the soil instead of running off into the stream channels.

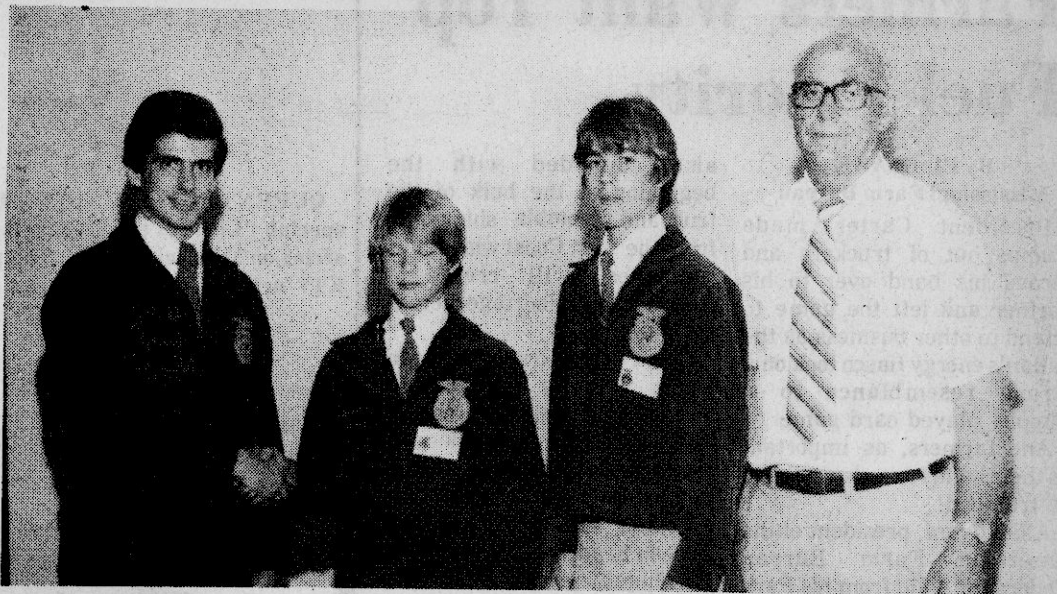

This stores water for later use of crops and pasture and reduces nonpoint pollution."

The greatest solar energy factories are green plants. They store energy from the sun as calories which are burned to produce human energy or as fuel to drive machines. This is a part of photosynthesis about which we have much to learn, he adds.

Aquaculture is water agriculture, the growing of aquatic animals and plants in salt or fresh water. The Mississippi catfish industry is an example of a $37 million industry conducted on only 18,000 acres of land.

FFA—Sam McCoy, Elton Steel and Walter Sartin of the Prentiss County Chapter are greeted at the 46th annual, Mississippi FFA Convention by Jeff Rudd, National FFA Vice-President, from North Carolina. The convention was held, May 29-June 1, at the Humphrey Coliseum on the campus of Mississippi State University. Over 1,000 members and guests were present at the convention, which included speeches by prominent individuals, also contests for FFA members and award presentations.

For Over Fifty Years—

Sugar Consumption Remains Same

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Sugars and other carbohydrate sweeteners have a pleasant taste, add to the taste of other foods, and provide preservative and other needed functions, says Dr. Charles Shannon, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) food technologist.

Dr. Shannon, who is also the designated regional communicator for Mississippi for the Institute of Food Technologists (IFT), says a recent IFT report on sugars and nutritive sweeteners in processed foods points out that over-consumption of sugars and other nutritive sweeteners is not advisable.

"Good nutrition can best be achieved by a balanced and varied diet," he explains. "Your diet should take into account the nutrient contribution each food makes. Sugars are only one class of sweet substances which help us satisfy an appreciation for sweet taste. Sugars, syrup, molasses, sugar alcohols and honey are all classified as nutritive sweeteners. All provide about the same number of calories gram for gram," he adds.

The report by IFT also describes the most common substances used for sweetening, including the simple sugars fructose (commonly found in fruits) and glucose to which all carbohydrate molecules must be reduced before the body can use them for energy. These carbohydrates include starches, cellulose, pectin and glycogen (animal starch), as well as the disaccharides sucrose (table sugar), lactose (milk sugar) and maltose. They are found in many foods, adds Dr. Shannon.

Despite popular interest by some persons in using sugar alcohols for special diets or weight reduction diets, many health scientists are uncertain about pursuing the supposed advantages of substituting fructose and the sugar alcohols for sucrose as the major sweeteners, especially for diabetics, until more research is done on their long-range nutritional and physiological aspects.

The IFT report also reveals that per capita consumption of sugar has remained essentially unchanged for more than 50 years, although corn syrup consumption has begun to rise in the past decade. The United States is eighth in sugar consumption, following such countries as Israel, Australia, Costa Rica and Switzerland, says IFT. Each American eats about 102 pounds of sugar per year.

"Sugars are not 'super' foods," reminds Dr. Shannon. "They are simply foods and should be regarded as any other low-nutrient-density foods. A balanced diet includes enough carbohydrates and fats to meet energy needs. Those who wish to lose weight should restrict sweeteners, fats and alcohol because they contain few nutrients other than calories."

THE WAY WE WERE—Approximately 40 senior citizens, sitting under a shade tree at the Paden Bridge, entertained themselves and others with famous as well as not-so-famous stories of "The Way It Used to Be" Tuesday, June 11. Mrs. Kate Crabb (far left) shares her account of the tornado that passed through Paden and the destruction that was left behind. The party, sponsored by the North Mississippi Environmental Education Consortium, also included a tour of the Tennessee Tombigbee Waterway led by Neil Schillings of the Corps of Engineers and a historical account of the Tishomingo State Park by Director Steve North.

Water Management Vital To Farms

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Water management is one of the most critical problems in making a crop on many Mississippi farms, according to Dr. Kelton Anderson, leader, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Agronomy Department.

Water management includes many things relating to removal, conservation, storage, use and addition of water. Removal of excess water is important to get the land prepared for planting and to provide suitable conditions for effective harvest.

"It involves providing sufficient drainage all the way from the smallest field furrow in the little depression to field ditches to main channels," says Dr. Anderson. "It also includes beds on wet natured land to improve air and water drainage to help get spring crops earlier. Landforming and pothole filling improve removal of excess water from the surface, but not at a rate to cause severe erosion.

"Next fall, we will be thinking of water storage, and should consider the practices to increase water intake of soils in the winter and early spring wet periods to use for crop production in summer when rainfall is low and water use and loss is high," he adds.

Movement of water into the soil can be increased by breaking plow pans by subsoiling or deep chisel plowing.

This will let the water percolate beneath the pan rapidly and increase soil area available for water storage. Rooting depth is increased so the plant can remove more water from the soil.

Hill soils subsoiled on the contour will absorb more water and lose less in runoff. The strongly sloping soils should not be disked or pulverized by tillage in the fall because severe erosion will occur. Subsoiling should be the last trip over the field until spring seedbed preparation.

"Conservation and use of water during crop growth is important from now until fall," says Dr. Anderson. "Conservation can be aided by shallow seedbed preparation, minimum seedbed preparation and even no-till planting where it fits. Final seedbed preparation should be only deep enough to destroy vegetation and get enough loose soil for planting. After planting, cultivation should be shallow and only as needed for weed control."

Deep cultivation pulverizes and dries the soil out to the depth it is plowed. In addition, root pruning occurs and reduces the total root system, increasing risk of disease entry and stress on the plants.

Key factors in using the soil moisture is having a good stand of well-fertilized, healthy, fast-growing crop plants without weeds to compete. Protecting plants from insects and diseases is also important to make sure available moisture is used for plant development and fruit set.

Irrigation fits into crop production when the water supply is deficient, he says. It can make the difference in low and high yields when severe moisture stress lasts for several weeks. When to turn the water on, how much to add and when to turn it off varies with the crop, soil condition and other factors. Soil moisture meters (tensiometers) indicate when to apply water. Adding water where it is needed will increase crop yields and often increase profits.

"We have the water, productive soils and, in many cases, the knowledge of how to use the natural rainfall more effectively and how to supplement it with irrigation when soil moisture is short," says Dr. Anderson. "Our researchers are emphasizing efforts to refine timing, application methods and economics of irrigation in crop production systems."

Farmers can improve storage, conservation and use of natural water supplies through subsoiling, landforming, drainage and improved tillage practices. Irrigation water can be applied when needed to insure top crop production during dry summers.

Ole Miss Law School Building Is Renamed

UNIVERSITY—The former Law School building at The University of Mississippi is being renamed for Robert J. Farley, dean of the School of Law from 1945 to 1963 and son of and Ole Miss Law School dean, Farley Hall, undergoing extensive renovation, will house the Department of Journalism, the Graduate School of Library and Information Sciences, the Daily Mississippian, and the James O. Eastland Collection. Formerly Lamar Hall, the building was more than doubled in size under Dean Farley's tenure. The new Law Center building is also being named Lamar Hall, for L.Q.C. Lamar, an early law professor at Ole Miss who later was a congressman, cabinet member and Supreme Court justice.

Farmers Want Top Fuel Priority

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau President Carter made trumps out of truckers and turned his hand over to his partner and left the game to attend to other business as the nation's energy fiasco took on a strong resemblance to a sloppily played card game.
And farmers, as important as their hands are, don't like to be trumped!

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau
Federation, said from his Park Ridge, Illinois, farm organization headquarters late last week that farmers expect,
and will accept, nothing less than top priority for needed fuel supplies. He referred to President Carter's recent suspension of the Department of Energy's special Rule 9 which has guaranteed farmers top priority on fuel supplies for the 1979 crop.

"We insist Rule 9 be replaced with a new top fuel priority to all phases of food and fiber production and distribution, including transportation," Grant said. The farm spokesman added that it does little good for the farmers of the nation to produce a crop without provisions for moving the commodities through the market system to consumers.

The President's action
essentially cancelled farm fuel priority and gave it to the nation's truckers instead in an effort to appease them in their demands which have resulted in a nationwide trucking strike, boycott, and violence in many states where independent truckers have tried to carry goods despite the strike.

"The protest action of the Independent Truckers Association which has disrupted the flow of goods and services throughout the nation reveals what can happen when any one link in the food distribution chain breaks down," Grant said.

The strike began in mid-June at the outset of the fruit and vegetable harvesting season as truckers at critical distribution points in the nation refused to load ripening tomatoes, peaches, cherries and other highly perishable commodities. The strike's timing

also coincided with the beginning of the bulk of the fruit and vegetable shipments from the West Coast which, if it continues, will create a massive food shortage across the nation.

Grant said the American Farm Bureau Federation already has received reports of milk being dumped due to spoilage and chickens dying that were being hauled to slaughter houses. The Farm Bureau head appealed to Mike Parkhurst, president of the Independent Truckers
Association to end the boycott.
He said Farm Bureau is opposed to violence and does not think that's the way to do things. He pledged to the truckers that if the protest is halted, Farm Bureau will step up efforts to help solve some of the real problems of concern to both truckers and farmers.

In Mississippi, Hugh M.
Arant of Ruleville, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, said farmers have grave concerns over the President's action from both the production and harvest standpoints. He said Mississippi experienced wet and cold weather conditions in the state this spring that delayed crop plantings, particularly in the Yazoo River basin of the lower delta where landowners had to wait for floodwaters to recede and the land to dry out before planting could begin at the eleventh hour.

"Some of them are hardly through planting," Arant said,
"and still have a long way to go before their crops are made and they have no assurance that diesel fuel will be delivered when they run out.

"And coming on us hard are our harvest requirements both in the weeks ahead for watermelons and canteloupes that will be ripening and ready to move within the next week, and for Mississippi's major cash rowcrops in the fall season. We have a host of other enterprises important to the state and nation that depend on two-way trucking services, and none of us can afford either fuel cut-offs or boycotts."

Poor Management Jobs Cost Cattlemen Dollars

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Cattlemen are being urged to take care of important spring management jobs and develop a sound health program by Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) livestock specialists.

"Lack of sufficient planning and facilities cause many cattlemen to fail to conduct routine management operations," says Dr. W. M.
Swoope, MCES livestock specialist. "Without a bull pen, working chutes and headgates,
many routine and necessary management practices go undone. As a result, cattlemen end up selling mismanaged calves instead of marketing sound animals."

Failure to castrate, dehorn
and implant cows or failure to cull open cows can cost a producer with a herd of 30 cows nearly $1,449. This amount would more than pay for necessary working facilities, he adds.

Dr. Swoope, in explaining the $1,449 loss, says, "With an 85 percent calf crop in a 30-cow herd, a producer could market 25 calves each year. If 12 of the 25 calves were sold as bulls, they would be discounted an average of $5/cwt. At an average weight of 450 lbs., this means a loss of $22.50/head, or a total of $270 lost because of failure to castrate calves.

"If all calves were horned,
a producer would lose an additional $1.50/cwt. This means bulls would be discounted further $6.75/head;
400 lb. heifers would lose
$6/head," Dr. Swoope explains. "Failure to dehorn, then, costs $159 for the calf crop."

If calves were not implanted, the producer will fail to gain an extra 18 lbs. per head valued at $60/cwt., for an additional loss of $270. If the producer had culled the five open cows in his herd, he would have saved the cost of carrying those cows another year, Dr. Swoope adds. At $150 head/year, this cost the producer $750.

Proper facilities are essential for these important management operations, he says.
Facilities don't have to be fancy, just workable. They can be bought or constructed by the producer.

Home Gas Storage Is Very Dangerous

Gas-a-hogs are the newest threat to American health and safety. Not only are they becoming full-tank neurotics by darting from gasoline line to gasoline line, but they are also endangering themselves and others by carting and keeping secret hoards of scarce and costly fuel.

Indeed, says the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined Insurance Company of America, the gasoline shortage is creating a highly volatile situation in more ways than one.

Combined Insurance issued a warning to owners of motor vehicles not to store gasoline at home as a hedge against spiraling prices and reduced supplies at the service station pump.

It was joined by a number of others in issuing the warning. Among them are the Insurance Information Institute, the American Insurance Association, the Health Insurance Institute, the U.S. Department of Transportation, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, the National Safety Council and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

All are worried about the gas-a-hog who is hoarding fuel the way some people stockpiled coffee and sugar during World War II rationing days. While coffee and sugar posed no dangers, gasoline does, for it can be the source of explosion and fire, and sometimes deadly fumes, if improperly stored and handled.

Those concerned with gasoline safety caution against the hazards involved in transporting the fuel in portable containers in the trucks of cars. A minor rear-end collision can set off a dangerous fire and sparks from a short in car electrical systems can trigger an explosion. When you consider the fact that there were nearly 1.5 million rear-end collisions last year, you might agree with the Department of Transportation that a lot of people are traveling around with liquid bombs in their trunks.

Records indicate that the production and sale of gas cans has risen at least 100 per cent this year, with the sales of five-gallon containers increasing faster than those of the one-gallon cans homeowners often keep on hand for fuel for mowers and other equipment. There are indications also that retailers are increasing their inventories of gas containers in order to cash in on the shortage.

No one knows how many additional people are storing gasoline in glass and plastic jugs or other containers considered unsuitable for volatile liquids.

The National Safety Council points out that one gallon of gasoline has the explosive force of 14 sticks of dynamite, which means that those who carry fuel home from the service station are endangering themselves and the lives of others.

Combined Insurance safety experts say that extra fuel for cars should be transported only in emergencies. When it is carried, it should be placed in containers made for the purpose, and those containers should be removed from the vehicle as soon as possible after reaching home. Once unloaded, it should be placed in a well-ventilated cool place away from sources of heat or sparks.

And, bear in mind, the National Safety Council adds, that even "safety cans" are not really safe if vapors escape through their relief vents in the presence of an ignition source such as a mower or automobile.

Here are some additional measures to bear in mind in handling gasoline, as recommended by Combined Insurance:

- If you must keep gasoline on hand, store it in heavy metal safety containers with tightly closed lids. Keep the container well ventilated, never in the house or basement. Never light a cigarette when you are near it and never carry it in the trunk of your car.
- It is better to have full or nearly full can than a nearly empty one because a can low on gasoline creates a gas-air mixture more explosive than a fuller container.
- Once a container is empty, leave the cap off to let the fumes evaporate, and see that it is well aired.
- Never use a metal container that has any rust on it.
- Keep gas cans away from any source of heat or flame as the liquid expands in volume with higher temperatures and could seep out of even the best of containers.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
The Difference Between The Soul, The Spirit And The Body
By Rev. Castor Buse

Rev. Castor Buse
Little Creek Baptist Church
Marietta, Miss.

1st Thess. 5:23 tells us there is a difference. The soul is the part of man which results from the Union of spirit and body.
Our body links us to the material creation, our soul links us to God's intelligent creation, and therefore, is the seat of fellowship and praise.
The spirit links us with God. When Christ died, his body went to the tomb.
He committed his spirit unto the hands of God and his soul went into sheol (Psalm 16 and Acts 2).

The Bible plainly teaches that the body is mortal, but the soul is immortal, the body dies, and scripture calls it asleep, while the soul is never said to sleep.
In 1st Corin. 15:51-54 the distinction between the living body which is mortal, and the dead body which is corruptible is clearly made.
The Bible everywhere teaches consciousness of the soul after death. (Rev. 6-9).

Our Money Mill works harder for you.

It's getting harder to stretch a dollar these days, but The Peoples Bank has solved that problem. It's The Peoples Bank Money Mill, and here's how it works.

First we put your money in at the top of the mill. Then the gears start grinding and the mill begins to add the highest interest possible to your savings. As the mill is working, your savings are helping families and business in North Mississippi, to strengthen our economy and improve everybody's way of life. Our money mill uses your savings in more ways, and we do it better than anybody else around.

When our money mill is finished, your savings have really grown! You can either put your money back through our mill to gain even higher interest or you can use it for those special things in your life. Whatever your decision, The Peoples Bank Money Mill has worked harder for you and your savings.

So don't let your money lie idle, put it through the mill—The Peoples Bank Money Mill.

MAIN STREET — BOONEVILLE, MISS.

Vote For Charles Deaton For Governor

Charlie Deaton is one candidate in the race for Governor who doesn't have to talk about what he's going to do. He doesn't have to shout about what he's going to do. He doesn't have to make promises about what he's going to do. Charlie Deaton has proved what he can do. His record of 20 years service in the State Legislature stands for all to examine and evaluate. He has made the tough decisions when necessary to protect your pocketbook as a taxpayer and your interests as a citizen. Charlie knows the business of state government better than anyone else in state government...and he will run the state government of Mississippi on a businesslike basis. If that's the kind of government you want, then it's time for you to make a businesslike decision: Vote for Charlie Deaton for Governor in the First Democratic Primary, Tuesday, August 7, 1979!

A Personal Note From Charlie Deaton:

If you believe, as I do, that Mississippi needs fresh leadership in the Governor's office - someone with a proven record of achievement, who has pride in our State and her people and who will work with the Legislature, please join in our campaign. Write to me:

Charles M Deaton

P.O. Box 8382

Paid for by Charles Deaton for Governor Committee, Kenneth Fairly, Chairman.

Charles M. Deaton

"He's got what it takes!"

- "If you're looking for promises and handouts, I'm not the candidate for you."
- "I want to help preserve our great natural resources for my children, your children and the generations to come."
- "I have made the 'tough' decisions...I have said 'No' to those projects that would only benefit selfish interest groups."
- "I want to serve as your Governor because I love and have pride in this great State."

He's got what it takes... To have pride in Mississippi.

"In my opening statement for Governor, I said that I wanted people to join my campaign who have pride in themselves, pride in Mississippi and who want to live and — most important — work in Mississippi.

"Standing on the outside, throwing bricks and poor-mouthing our state doesn't help anybody. I live and work in Mississippi because I love and have pride in my home state.

"If you're looking for promises and handouts, I'm not the candidate for you. I believe that the worst form of political cruelty is for candidates to promise voters something that cannot be delivered. So I make only one promise...as governor I will serve and hire people who have enough pride in themselves and this state to want work and not just jobs. If that is the kind of Mississippi you want to see, then I'm asking for your support in my race for governor."

...and Maintain a Sense of Values.

Charlie Deaton was born in Hattiesburg, then lived in South Mississippi, Walthall County, on a farm until he was around 14 years old. It was here at an early age that he learned the basic values of life: honesty, hard work, love for family and friends, and faith in our Creator. Even though Charlie, his family and most of their neighbors were of modest means, they had a great pride in themselves, in their state and in their country. Charlie Deaton has carried this pride and sense of values with him throughout his life and career. They provide the cornerstone of his campaign and he will instill them into the Governor's office.

He's got what it takes... To Preserve Our Natural Resources.

"Mississippi is blessed with an abundance of wildlife and other great natural resources. Our lakes, streams, woodlands and state parks provide unlimited opportunities for outdoor recreation and provide job opportunities for thousands of our people.

"In my 20 years in the State Legislature I have served as Chairman of the House Game and Fish Committee, Chairman of the Wildlife Heritage Commission and as a member of the Conservation and Natural Resources Committee.

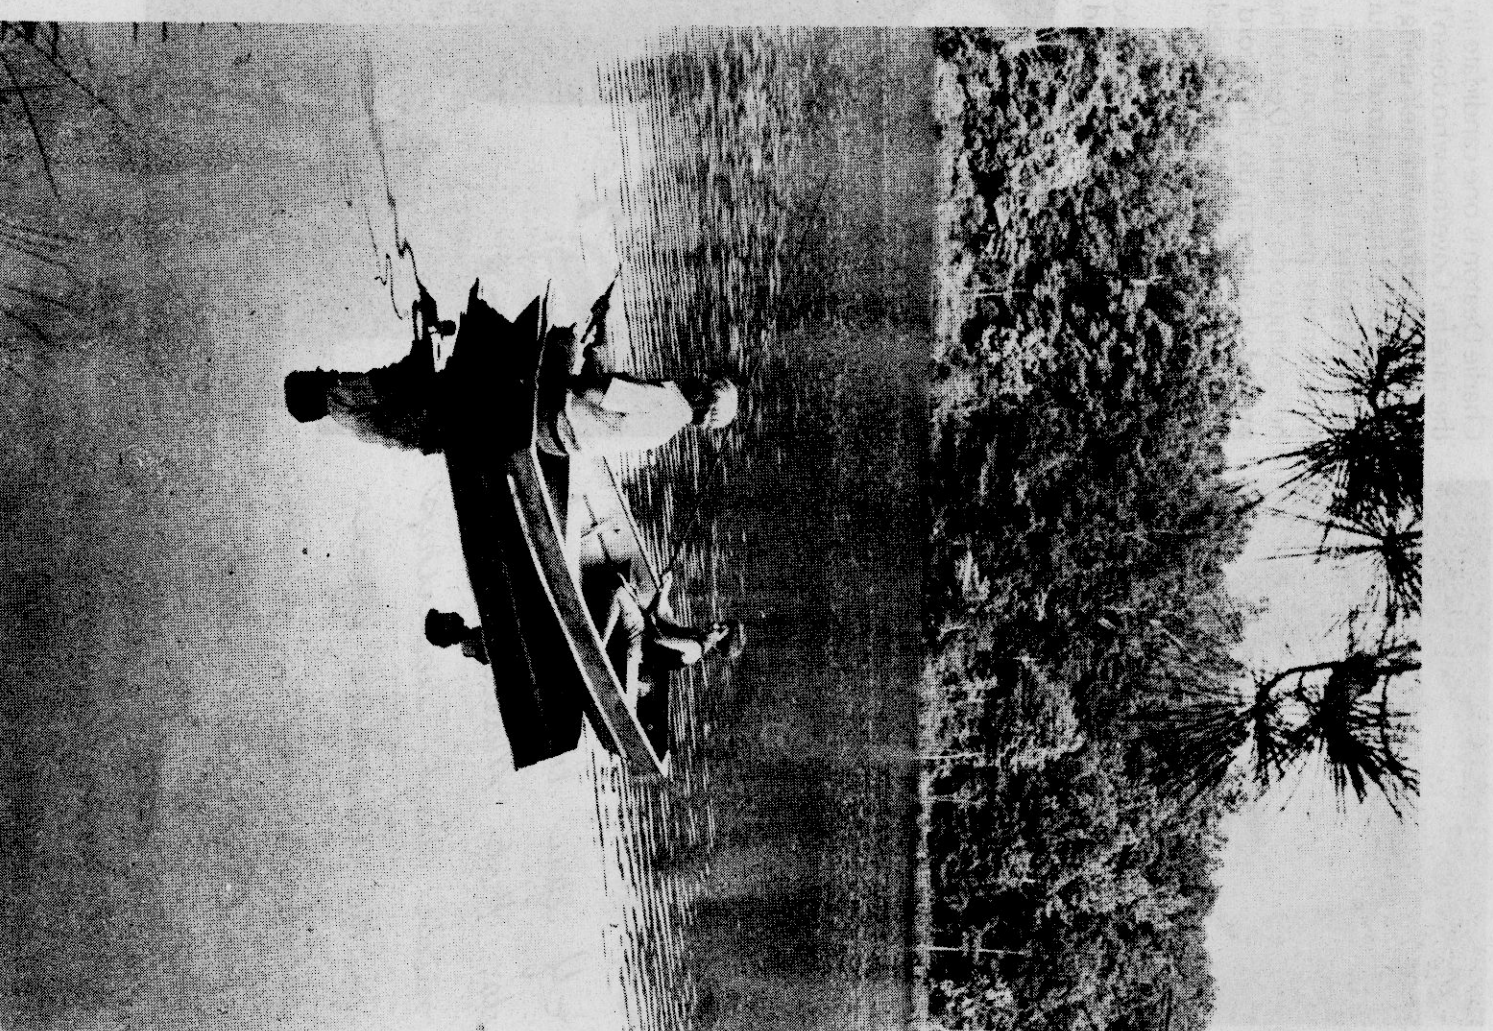

"As your Governor, I want to put this invaluable experience to work in helping preserve our great natural heritage for my children, your children and generations to come. This requires long-range planning and a business-like approach in the management of our natural resources.

"One of my first acts as Governor will be to propose a special program at junior college level that will train qualified personnel and develop new techniques for management of our wildlife and other natural resources. This will result in an even better quality of life for all of the people of Mississippi and will, at the same time, create more and better job opportunities."

...and Develop an Even Greater Quality of Life for All of the People of Mississippi.

"Deaton has been primarily responsible for the excellent availability of game and fish within the state. His concern for having park facilities available to all citizens of the state spearheaded the drive to upgrade our park system."

House Resolution 28
Passed Unanimously
by the Mississippi
House of Representatives

He's got what it takes... To Work with the Legislature.

"Mississippi government can no longer be held back by petty squabbles and in-fighting between the Governor's Office and the Legislature. After 20 years in the House of Representatives, I believe I have earned the respect of most of our Senators and Representatives. More important, I have learned to respect them...as individuals and as the governing body of this great state.

"As governor, I believe I could work with the Legislature, not against it, to develop a policy of careful, coordinated planning for the future. You don't build a house without plans. You don't run a business, operate a farm or educate your children without a plan. State government must plan down the road to see how much present programs will cost in the future. The Governor's office should provide the leadership necessary to do so without alienating the men and women whom you elected to represent your local interest."

"House colleagues and Legislative staff members & all Deaton a man who takes his responsibility seriously."

Associated Press

Campaign Promises Aren't Worth a "Plugged Nickel"!

The people of Mississippi are smart enough to know that a gubernatorial candidate can promise himself blue in the face...but campaign promises don't mean a thing...because at least 90% of a governor's effectiveness depends upon his ability to work with the legislature.

In his 20 years in the legislature Charlie Deaton has earned the respect of his colleagues in the legislature. He can and will work with the legislature to get positive, progressive programs passed. Yet, no one questions the fact that Charlie Deaton will be his own man. He will work with the legislature, not for the legislature! All the other candidates can do is promise. Charlie Deaton can perform!

He's got what it takes... To Run Government Like a Business.

"The state government of Mississippi is big business. We need a governor who knows the business of state government and who has the business sense to oversee our two and a half billion dollar budget.

"For eight years I served on the House Budget Commission and for the past four long, tough years I've been chairman of appropriations in the House. During that time we maintained a balanced budget and gave back to the taxpayers more than 75 million dollars in the form of tax cuts. Because I have been heavily involved in state finances, I've frequently been forced to make decisions that were not popular with some people but were 'good business' for the State of Mississippi and its people.

"If you want your state government run on a businesslike basis by a governor with common sense experience in state government, then the time has come for you to make a businesslike decision. A vote for Charlie Deaton is a vote for sound, progressive, businesslike government."

...and Make the Tough Decisions.

"When you're raising a family on a tight monthly budget, you have to make a lot of tough decisions about where money goes...you have to set priorities in order to be fair to the family as a whole.

"I believe this same sensible approach should be used in operating state government. As chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, I have made the same kind of tough decisions you face every day. I have supported those progressive programs that will benefit the whole family of Mississippi people. I have said 'NO' to those projects that would only benefit some selfish interest groups.

"As governor, I will continue to make the tough decisions that are necessary for state government to be run on sound businesslike basis."

"In two sessions, Deaton has become known as a man who'll listen with an open mind, trying to balance the needs of the people against the resources of the taxpayer."

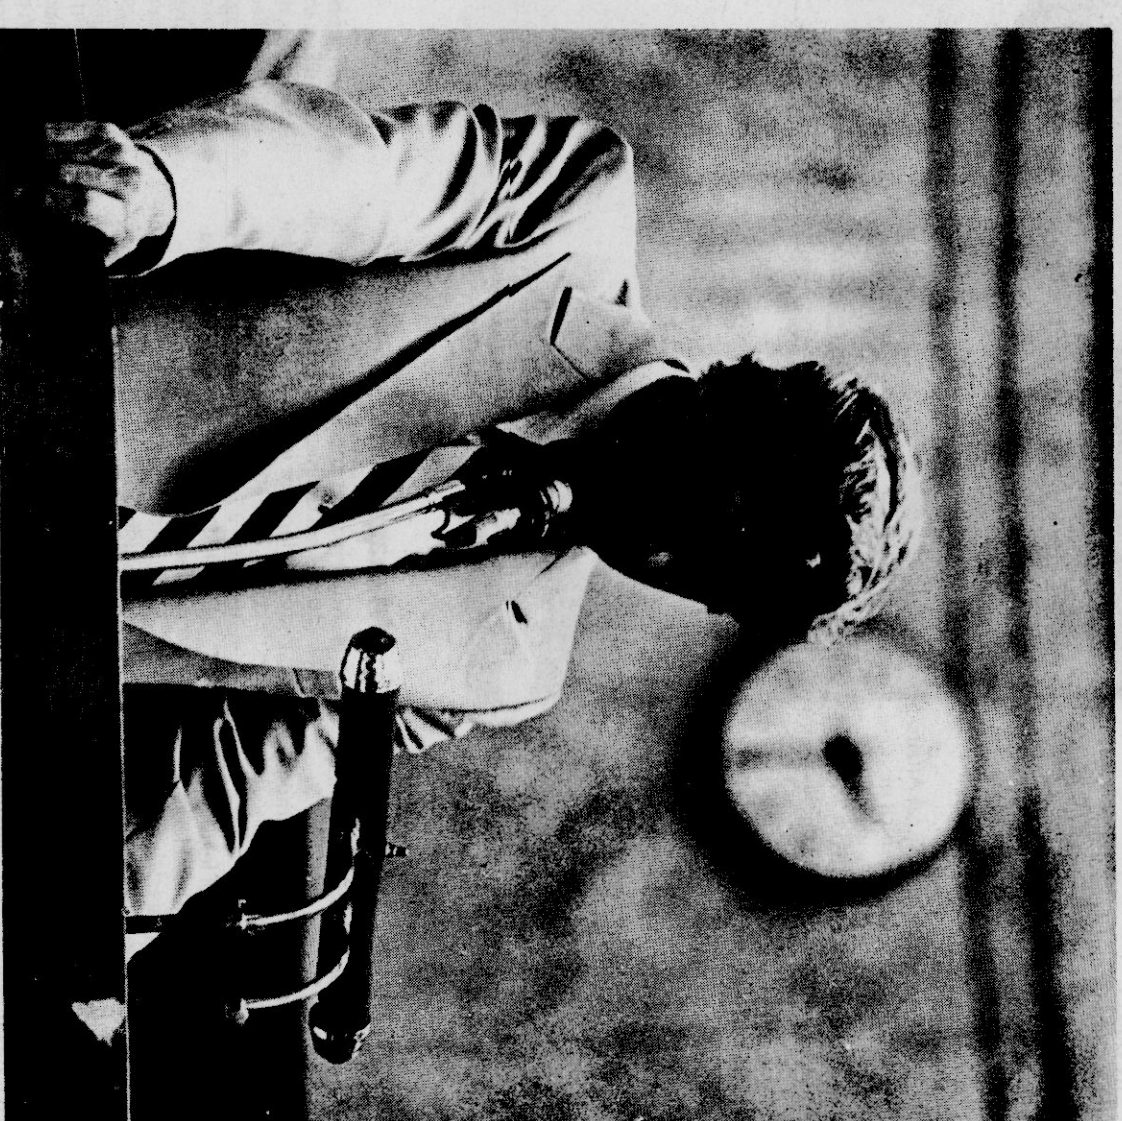

Associated Press

"He's hard to snow. When somebody wants to spend the taxpayers' money, Deaton wants to know what the taxpayers are going to get for it."

Greenwood Commonwealth

"Because of his diligent study in his varied positions, (Deaton) is considered by knowledgeable people to have more knowledge of all aspects of State Government than any other person in Mississippi."

House Resolution 28
Adopted Unanimously
By The House of Representatives
