No Passes, Please!

The Highway Department could have been referring to Sheila Rogers of Booneville (above) when they posted this "No Passing Zone" sign on Highway 45. Actually Sheila, who works as a "flagman" for North Mississippi Hot Mix, the contractor for the Highway 45 overlay, was just leaning against the sign post while taking a short break from her traffic control duties. A spokesman for the company said that they are ahead of schedule on the overlaying of the 16 miles of the highway from Baldwin to the Alcorn County line. They hope to have the job completed by the last of October or the middle of November.

From Storm

County Escapes Damage

Mother Nature was kind to Prentiss County when she steered Hurricane Frederick just far enough east to keep the bulk of the storm damage away from this area last Thursday.

Local damage from the storm was limited to uprooted trees, broken tree limbs and some water damage.

Bill Prather, Civil Defense Director, measured five inches of rain locally, but said water damage was not as extensive as it might have been. He added that he had not heard of serious property damage locally, but some streets were blocked temporarily by broken tree limbs.

As a precautionary measure the Prentiss County School system dismissed all schools at 12:00 noon Thursday. Reports indicated that the weather could become severe by 2:00 p.m., and the students would be enroute home during the peak of the storm. Many frightened parents picked up their children before school was dismissed.

Witt Abernathy, manager of the Prentiss County Electric Power Association said the county had several power outages between 4:00 p.m. Thursday and 4:00 a.m. Friday. Most of the outages

Smoke... But No Fire

Where there is smoke, there is not necessarily fire.

Booneville residents will learn the truth in this statement when Cook Coggin Engineers of Tupelo start their smoke testing program of the Booneville sanitary sewer system.

The testing will start Monday, Sept. 24, and will continue for about three months until all sewer lines in the city have been checked.

The program is part of the Federal 201 Facilities Plan in connection with a 20-year design program to determine the sewer's condition and the need for new sewer lines and treatment facilities.

The system presently has three lagoons and one treatment plant. The new program will eventually eliminate the three lagoons which will not be able to meet affluent limitations set by the Bureau of Pollution Control.

The smoke testing is part of a program to locate places in the system in need of repair.

The present leaks allow rainwater to seep into the sewer system, unnecessarily increasing the load on the treatment facility. Eliminating this excessive treatment of rainwater will reduce the overload on the treatment plant, thus reducing considerably the expense of operating the plant.

Cook Coggin spokesmen pointed out that the smoke would not enter homes under normal conditions, but if it should, there is absolutely no harm to people or property. Most of the smoke should go out the plumbing system's vent pipe, but if some should leak into the house, it can be quickly dissipated by opening the windows.

Members of the Cook Coggin testing crew will personally inform as many residents as possible in the areas they are testing.

"If you see the testing crew in your area," the spokesman added, "ask them if they are testing in your neighborhood. It can eliminate your concern about a fire if you should see smoke seeping into your home.

Local Man Held In Murder

A 75-year-old Booneville man is being held without bond in the Alcorn County Jail in connection with the Friday, Sept. 14, slaying of an Alcorn County narcotics agent.

Chester A. Barnes of Booneville has been charged by the Alcorn County Sheriff's Office with capital murder, aggravated assault on a police officer and kidnapping.

Lane Caldwell, a 25-year-old state narcotics agent, was killed when he attempted to disarm Barnes while he was seated in a car at Hodum's Exxon Service station on Highway 72 in Corinth, Alcorn County Sheriff Edwin Coleman said.

The shooting incident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. Friday when Alcorn County Chief Deputy Terry Doles and Caldwell answered a call about a possible kidnapping.

Sheriff Coleman said that the call came from Fay Bennett, 37, of Blue Mountain, who, on occasions, ran errands for Barnes, such as "taking him to the grocery store."

However, the events leading up to the shooting began earlier in the day in Booneville.

The sheriff said that Ms. Bennett told officers that when she arrived at Barnes house in Booneville Friday, he was packing his clothes and said that he had to "get out of town."

Ms. Bennett also told officers that he asked her to drive him to a Corinth motel. However, she said that as they were leaving Booneville, Barnes pulled out a pistol and began telling her that he knew that she loved him.

Sheriff Coleman said that this frightened Ms. Bennett, but she continued driving to Corinth. When she stopped at the Holiday Inn Exxon Station on U.S. 72, Barnes allowed her to get out of the car and that is when she escaped and asked attendants to call the police.

Service station attendants said that Ms. Bennett got out of the car and told them "that man has a gun and he's trying to kill me."

Chief Deputy Doles took the call when it came in to the Sheriff's office. As he was leaving to answer the call, "Lane asked Terry if he wanted him to go along," Sheriff Coleman said.

Before joining the narcotics bureau, Caldwell had served as an Alcorn County Deputy Sheriff for several years, Coleman said. He was assigned to the bureau's Corinth office and worked with the department on cases, the sheriff said.

"He was like a brother to all of us down here," he added.

The young narcotics agent went with Doles on the call because he was the only officer available at the time.

Upon arriving at the Exxon station, Doles and Caldwell found Barnes seated on the passenger side of the Ford Thunderbird.

Coleman said that Barnes refused to open the door all the way.

"Terry (Doles) told him to get out, but Barnes told him he couldn't," Coleman said.

"We'll help you out," Coleman quoted Doles as saying.

It was then that Doles noticed Barnes had his hand in his pocket. "Take your hand out very slowly and make sure nothing is in it," the sheriff said Doles instructed.

Caldwell dove into the front seat of the car after shouting to Doles, "He's got a gun!"

Investigators said they believe that Barnes had the gun behind his back at the time the first two shots were fired.

Two bullets from the 25 calibre semi-automatic pistol entered Caldwell's body only one-half inch apart, the sheriff said.

Caldwell shouted, "I've been shot," but he continued to struggle for the gun although he was wounded, the sheriff said.

Townlift:

Delayed, But Healthy

Booneville's Operation Townlift is alive and well according to John H. Hanley of the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District.

Hanley said TVA's Townlift Planning Division reported their schedule had been delayed by reorganization, but the conceptual drawings are now complete. The drawings include proposed store front elevations, a parking lot design, and possible special treatment for some alleys.

The tentative schedule is for the planners to return to Booneville in October for direct contact and discussion with involved property owners.

To Stricken Area

Local Residents Send Help

Living up to its name as the City of Hospitality, Booneville did its part this past week to help its less fortunate neighbors to the South who fell victim to the ravages of Hurricane Frederick.

Shortly after the storm had abated on Thursday night, the first call for assistance came when the Singing River Hospital in Pascagoula put out an emergency call for an electrical generator. The storm had left the hospital completely without electrical power.

It was then that Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb and Civil Defense director Bill Prather arranged for the city's new 150 kilowatt emergency power generator to be sent to the hospital.

However, it did not turn out to be as easy to get the generator there as it might seem.

The heavy and bulky generator was sent to Tupelo Thursday night with intentions of flying it to the coast. Unfortunately, the unit proved to be too large to be loaded on any of the available aircraft. Plans were quickly changed and the National Guard came to the rescue with a "Low Boy" trailer which was subsequently used to move the generator to the Pascagoula hospital.

In Shootings

Two Injured Sunday

Two Prentiss County residents were hospitalized with gunshot wounds that resulted from two separate and unrelated incidents Sunday.

According to Booneville Police officers, Cora Utinans, approximately 58 years old, of 307 North Third Street, received a gunshot wound in her right leg about 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

The wound reportedly occurred when Ms. Utinans knocked a .25 caliber colt pistol to the floor while making up a bed.

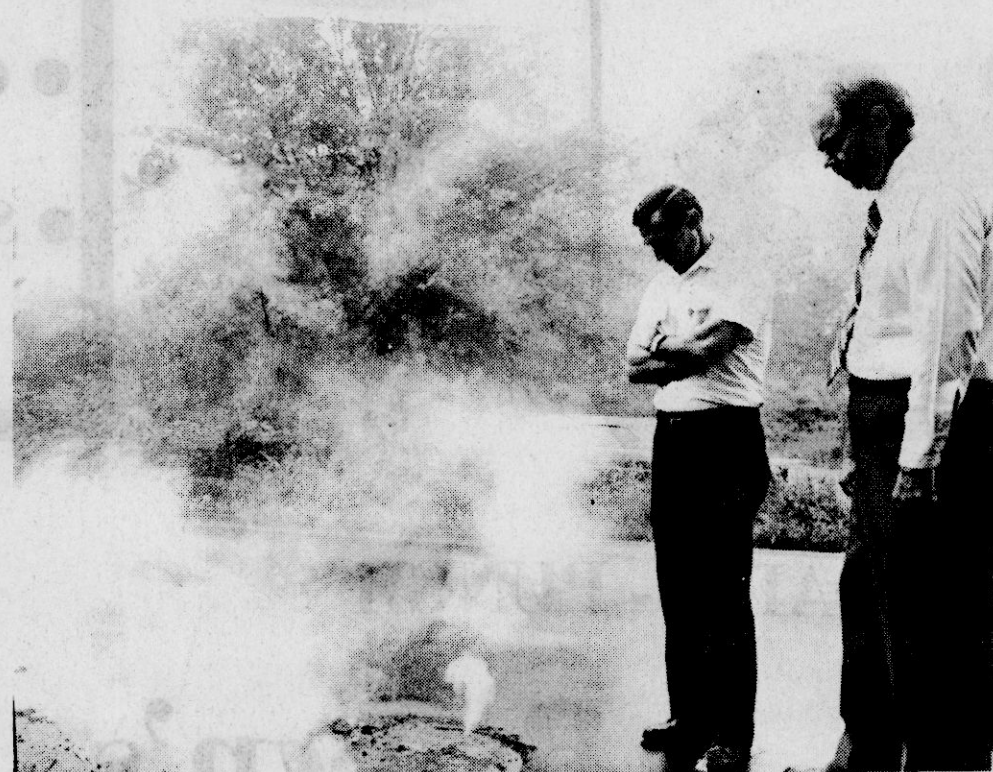

The investigating officer reported that the bullet entered Ms. Utinans' right thigh and exited through the lower part of her leg.

In another incident, James Horn of the Miss. Corps Ambulance Service in Booneville, reported that Tim Glenn, 28, of Siloam Rd., received a serious injury to his leg when a 12 gauge shotgun accidentally discharged.

Horn said that Glenn was apparently taking the gun from a rack in a pickup. He was apparently removing it barrel first when it discharged, he said.

The blast from the shotgun hit him in the left leg just under the knee, Horn said.

Glenn was transferred to Tupelo for immediate surgery. Horn said that the Ambulance service received the call at 8:25 p.m. Sunday.

SMOKE TESTING—Fire Chief Frank Fleming (left) and Mayor Charles Crabb watch as smoke pours from a sewer manhole. The smoke is part of a program starting Monday that will test the entire Booneville sewer system for leaks.

Local Man Held

Coleman also said that a third shot narrowly missed Doles as it went by his head and broke a window in the service station.

Doles dodged, Coleman said, and when he turned around with his gun drawn, Barnes had dropped his gun.

"He (Doles) was afraid if he fired his gun he might hit Lane again," Coleman explained.

"Doles did what was right," he added.

Coleman said that Barnes wife had died about a year-and-a-half ago and family members said that since that time he had felt as if everyone had deserted him.

Caldwell was buried in the Pleasant Hill Methodist Cemetery Sunday, just across the road from the small church where he had attended all his life.

More than 75 narcotic officers from Mississippi and Tennessee, Alcorn County officers, Corinth policemen, Jackson, Miss., policemen, Mississippi Game and Fish officers and Mississippi Highway Patrolmen were in attendance at the funeral.

were caused by trees and branches falling on power lines.

According to Abernathy, the winds were stronger in the eastern part of the county where the damage was most severe. The longest outage last

Abernathy continued, "point out the importance of clearing the right-of-way, and of our being allowed to cut back far enough to prevent trees from falling on the power lines during high winds. This is the best way for us to prevent outages."

Mason Griffin, Public Relations Manager for South Central Bell, told the Banner-Independent that his company had very few outages due to high winds. The heavy rains, however, did cause a few problems. But South Central's greatest hurricane-related problem was caused by the unusually heavy traffic on the circuits to the Gulf Coast area, Meridian and Hattiesburg.

According to Griffin, the telephone traffic to these areas was 2½ times normal, and this heavy load caused delayed dial tones and busy circuit conditions throughout the state, including Prentiss County.

Local Residents Send Help

Prentiss County were again asked to help later in the week when the Civil Defense Headquarters in Pascagoula called on Friday asking for donations of canned goods and cleaning supplies.

Prather and Crabb with assistance from the Booneville

Fire Department helped collect a load of supplies for the stricken area.

Approximately 24 hours after receiving the call for assistance, the hastily assembled load of supplies, many of which were donated by local grocery stores and others by individual citizens, was transported to the Gulf Coast town.

Morgan Moving and Storage donated a van to transport the goods. Two Booneville Firemen, Leroy Frost and Oscar McGee, volunteered to drive the load of supplies to Pascagoula.

Frost and McGee left about noon Saturday with the supplies and arrived in Pascagoula around 7:30 p.m. They said they took the supplies directly to the Civil Defense Headquarters where they were instructed to take them to the Salvation Army Headquarters.

Frost and McGee said that the area had sustained heavy damage from the storm, but the main problem was water. Most of the area's water supplies had been contaminated.

The two reported they had no trouble at all making the trip. However, they made it a point to stop for gasoline at stations in outlying areas rather than waiting until they reached more populated areas.

They returned to Booneville on the next day, Sunday.

Prather also left for the storm stricken area Saturday to assist in Civil Defense emergency operations.

Little Ricky To Appear Here

Do you enjoy watching the reruns of the old "I Love Lucy" show from the 1950's? Remember the cute little boy who played "Little Ricky," the son of Lucy and Ricky Ricardo?

Well, "Little Ricky," the former child actor, Keith Thibodeaux, is now 28 years old and he will be performing in Booneville next week as drummer for the band David and the Giants.

The five piece band, which plays contemporary religious music, will be appearing in Booneville on three separate nights.

Tuesday, Sept. 25, the band will perform in the new Fred's parking lot. On Wednesday, Sept. 26, they will perform at the Booneville City Park. And on Thursday, Sept. 27, they will perform at the Emmanuel Pentecostal Church on Highway 4 East. All performances will start at 7:30 p.m. and all performances are sponsored by the Emmanuel Pentecostal Church. The pastor, Michael Holder, has extended a cordial invitation for everyone to attend one or all of the performances.

Each of the three performances scheduled in Booneville will begin at 7:30 p.m. There will be no admission charged. In case of bad weather, all concerts will be held at the Emmanuel Pentecostal Church.

David and the Giants, who are based in Laurel, Mississippi, are led by David Huff, who is the lead singer, plays guitar and writes most of the band's music. All the songs they perform are original.

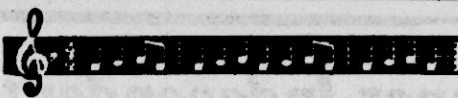

The group has played in concert with such groups as Black Oak Arkansas, Cheech and Chong and Jerry Lee Lewis. Huff has written songs that have been recorded by Donnie Osmond and Joe Stampley.

Other members of the band include Huff's twin brothers, Rayburn and Clayburn, and Gerald Hagan. The sound engineer is David Yelverton.

The group with crusade speaker Ken Morgan, has performed in cities throughout the United States and have just returned from a crusade trip in England.

STORM DAMAGE—Although not quite as bad as down on the coast, Booneville did receive some wind damage here last Thursday. Several trees were reported blown down and power service was interrupted slightly. The heavy rains caused some flooding across the county. (Photo by Lee Gentry.)

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

WARD HOGLAND

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland. Phillip is divorced. He said they simply married too young (While they were both in college) and it just didn't work, but no bible grounds. I am 33 and would like to marry Phillip. Would I be within Bible limits or would it be adultery? (No name please)

ANSWER: This letter was signed (No name please) and was postmarked in Jackson, Ms. with a request I answer in this column. Your problem is indeed a common one (since almost one-half of our marriages are ending in divorce. Matt. 19:9 says, "But I say unto you that whosoever shall put away his wife, except for fornication, and shall marry another committeth adultery." The verb translated "Commits adultery" is (in greek) present tense, and denotes continuous action (or state of being). Hence "Keeps on committing adultery." The two verbs "Shall put away" and "Shall marry" are modified by the phrase "Except for fornication." It must be understood that the phrase "Except for fornication" sustains identical relationship to the two verbs. The phrase therefore is clearly adverbial in function. Since Phillip obviously did not put away his wife for fornication (according to your letter) it seems you do not have a BIBLE right to marry him. I am very sorry about this; since your letter indicates a great desire to marry him, however, I must tell you what the Bible says.

PS. I am sorry I did not have room to print your entire letter. WH.

Carter-Kennedy Clash May Hurt Party Unity

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—The long-awaited move by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to claim the Democratic presidential nomination is being viewed apprehensively by most Mississippi Democratic Party officials who see it causing possible havoc to the fragile party harmony in this state.

Prospects of a nomination battle between Kennedy and President Carter have not yet begun to sink in here, but at first blush, Democratic leaders are hoping it doesn't come about, for sake of party unity, particularly while they are trying to nail down the governor's office against a Republican threat.

They are hopeful, however, that the issue of presidential politics, which GOP gubernatorial nominee Gil Carmichael tried to raise in his opening shots against Democratic standard-bearer William Winter, won't really catch on and interfere with Winter's apparent clear-sailing.

But looking a little farther down the road, a Kennedy-Carter contest has ominous overtones for the tenuous bi-racial structure of the Democratic Party. And the possibility that Kennedy would sweep the nomination raises all over again the spectre of a growing Republican Party in Mississippi conwerving Mississippi Democrats by the droves in the 1980 presidential race.

The immediate reaction here is that Carter would be able to hold on to a solid majority of the delegate votes from Mississippi to the 1980 Democratic National Convention should he be challenged by Kennedy.

Faced with the alternative of Kennedy, even the former George Wallace forces in the Mississippi Democratic Party, who reluctantly supported Carter in the final analysis in 1976, would rally to the Georgian now. The Wallaceites still represent a solid one-third of the state Democratic party strength, roughly the percentage which black Democrats hold.

It has been the offsetting influence of the Wallaceites and the blacks which has allowed the Democratic middle ground to hold the party together with sticking plaster ever since the celebrated merger of the Regulars and Loyalists at New York in 1976.

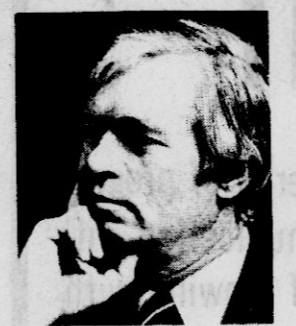

A Kennedy candidacy would trigger an almost certain polarization of the black wing of the Mississippi Democratic Party behind the Massachusetts senator, although some blacks who are deeply committed to President Carter would remain loyal to him.

But the emotional pull of the name Kennedy among blacks is considered stronger than any ties which blacks may otherwise have to the state party. It could provide the framework that would bring Charles Evers back into the Democratic picture as the champion of the Kennedy

SPECIAL REPORT:
Soviet Troops in Cuba

Many of you, no doubt, have viewed with alarm the news that the Soviet Union has several thousand combat troops stationed in Cuba.

This latest development in Cuba's involvement as a Russian ally, or satellite to be more accurate, has raised a number of serious questions concerning American policy and capabilities as a world power.

One question involves our overall perspective of the Western Hemisphere and our neighbors in North and South America. Are we going to allow the Russians to use the island of Cuba as a staging area for future intervention or involvement in Latin America, as they are doing now in Africa? This would certainly be a departure from the historic Monroe Doctrine and succeeding American policy dealing with the Western Hemisphere.

The Russians have been training, advising and equipping the Cuban military forces for a number of years, and have persuaded them to serve as stalking horses or spear-bearers for Soviet intervention in a number of areas in Africa.

Given the history of revolution and instability in many countries of Central and South America, there is every reason to be concerned about any buildup of Russian forces in Cuba, a buildup that could result in Cuba serving as a Western Hemispheric military base for future Soviet imperialism.

Another question concerns our own intelligence capability, our ability to monitor potentially hostile forces so close to our own shores. Those of us who live in Gulf Coast states do not need to be reminded that Cuba is only 90 miles from the Florida keys. The shocking news that several thousand Russian combat troops not only are in Cuba, but probably have been there for three years without our knowledge, clearly shows the need for us to take the steps necessary to strengthen our intelligence network.

The fact that the administration publicly admits that it has taken three years to discover the Russians have a brigade of combat-ready troops in Cuba almost makes me wonder if the next revelation will be that they are conducting summer maneuvers on Ship Island in the Mississippi Sound.

Much of the blame for this deterioration in our nation's intelligence system can be traced to the anti-military, anti-defense sentiment which welled up in the aftermath of the Vietnam War and Watergate. It was a reaction to what many Americans perceived to be abuses of power by some in our national government.

However, as your United States Senator, I am worried that we must not allow further slippage in our intelligence system, particularly as we consider such things as the campaign.

While Evers has been sniping at the Democratic Party and its nominees since 1972, his old loyalties to the Kennedy family (he was state co-chairman for the short-lived Robert Kennedy campaign in 1968) doubtless would activate him for Teddy's bid.

The danger in Mississippi's black Democrats coalescing behind Kennedy is that it could revive the old racial split in the party and put it back to where it was in the 1960's.

The big difference between now and the 1960's is that the Republican Party in Mississippi is much stronger now and could easily drain off dissident Democrats, especially if Kennedy does become the nominee. Nobody in the Democratic hierarchy can forget that even with the unification of the Loyalist and Regular factions in 1976, Jimmy Carter only carried Mississippi by one percentage point over Gerald Ford.

The Kennedy move and its potential for splitting the state party organization may draw William Winter, as the heir-apparent leader of the Mississippi Democratic Party into the party deliberations even before the November general elections to serve as a unifying influence. Many local Democratic officials around the state had backed Winter this time because they viewed him as the best of the group of Democratic gubernatorial aspirants to put the pieces of the party back together again.

One major development which could ease intra-party tension over a Kennedy-Carter battle at least temporarily is a

Miss Donna Robbins Marries Mr. William Reed

Donna Louise Robbins

The serene glow of myriad candles formed the background of classic beauty for the marriage of Miss Donna Louise Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robbins of 5074 Waldrugs Street, Memphis, Tenn., and formerly of this area, and Stephen William Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reid of 462 Shofner Avenue, Memphis, Tenn. The marriage was solemnized at 6 p.m. Aug. 11, at the La Belle Haven Baptist Church of Memphis. The Reverend Dennis Renick, pastor, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The nuptial music was presented by Miss Patricia Keltner, of Memphis, organist, and Miss Della Comella, of Memphis, vocalist.

Gerald Reid and David Reid, brothers of the bridegroom, served as acolytes.

Vows were exchanged before an altar centered with brass arched cathedral candelabra festooned with a sunburst arrangement of white and coral carnations and gladioli holding white tapers. On either side were numerous Renaissance candelabra and candelteers holding matching tapers. At the side of the priedieu where the bride and groom knelt during the prayer stood the trinity candles, which became the unity candle symbolizing the two personalities when they were used in the ceremony.

The church pews were marked with lighted candles shielded by crystal orbs placed in brass candleholders entwined with smilax and tied with white satin ribbons.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a formal length gown designed by Jena Fashions of white organza and imported reembroidered alencon lace enhanced with pearls. The Empire lace applique bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, and the long fitted sleeves were edged with deep lace at the wrist. The A line skirt adorned with lace motifs and matching scalloped lace flowed gracefully to the back with an attached cathedral length train. Her illusion veil was secured to a lace applique Juliet caplet with matching lace enhanced with pearls bordering to the shoulders of a rolled edge cathedral length veil.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white orchids accented with gypsophila, stephanotis, and tube-roses softened with puffs of tulle from which attached ribbons of white bridal satin ribbon fell. Attached to the bouquet was an heirloom Irish linen and lace handkerchief that had belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Lee M. Womack.

The bride chose as her matron-of-honor her only sister, Mrs. Teddy Pierce. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Leigh Brown, Miss Lynn Phillips, and Miss Becky Groves. All of the feminine attendants were from Memphis and wore formal length dresses of apricot quiana designed with sleeveless blouson chiffon bodices fashioned with round necklines. The soft A line skirts featured tulip fronts. They carried victorian nosegays of Sonja roses combined with gypsophila and puffs of coral tulle. They were tied with coral satin ribbon.

Mr. Reid chose his brother, Gerald Raymond Reid of Memphis, as his best man. The groomsmen were Timothy Reid and David Reid, both of Memphis and brothers of the bridegroom, and Paul Lasworth of Columbus, Ohio, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Robbins, wore an azure blue handpainted chiffon formal length dress of classic Grecian lines designed with a low round neckline enhanced by an elegantly draped finger-tip length train extending from the shoulders. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Reid, the bridegroom's mother, wore a soft blue chiffon designed with a high neckline, fitted bodice trimmed with buttons of self material and a formal length accordin pleated skirt. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Mrs. Horace A. Googe of Marietta, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a long dress of sky blue crepe de chine with cowl scalloped neckline featuring embroidered cutwork and appliques of petal flower designs, which were repeated in the scalloped cuffs of the long tapered sleeves. She wore a cymbidium corsage.

Mrs. James P. Robbins of Memphis, paternal grandmother of the bride, chose an aqua crepe dress designed with a high neckline, long sleeves and a formal length flowing skirt. She wore a cymbidium corsage.

Following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained with a reception at the Hilton Inn on Democrat Road.

The setting for the reception was overlooking the pool. The refreshment tables were covered with white linen and completed with gathered floor length white satin borders ornated with garlands of smilax caught with coral satin bows and clusters of wedding bells.

Mrs. J.P. Overcash of Starkville, cousin of the bride, registered the guests from a table centered with a silver candelabra holding white tapers flanked by a silver bowl containing an arrangement of late summer flowers and apricot rice bags tied with matching ribbons and caught with lily of the valley placed on a silver tray.

The beautifully four tiered sculptured white cake decorated with sugar spun coral roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom was placed on a large circular table surrounded by Boston fern and coral and white flowers. On either side were silver compotes holding white and coral daisy mints and nuts. Mrs. Carroll Yarber of Mrs. La Beaume Peeler, both of Booneville, and Mrs. Earl B. Womack of Marietta, aunts of the bride, served the cake.

The bridegroom's table, covered with a floor length gold cloth, held a rectangular chocolate cake decorated with a colorful automobile. Placed on one side was a brass candelabra holding coral tapers. The opposite side held brass compotes holding coral mints. Mrs. Joe Dixon of Memphis, Tenn., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Timothy Reid of Memphis, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served at this table.

Miss Patsy Herring of Memphis served honey pink fruit juice from a silver punch bowl placed on a round table. Miss Pat Muffoletto of Memphis presided at the champagne fountain.

Centering the long hors d'oeuvre table was a very tall epergne filled with a large arrangement of sonja roses, daisies, carnations, and gypsophila. Matching silver candelabra holding white candles graced either end of the table.

For travel the bride wore a three piece beige and brown fibranne suit with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage. After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple is at home at the Charter Oaks apartments on Oak Bak Street in Memphis. She attends school at the De Soto Branch of the Northwest Mississippi Junior College, and he is employed by the Richards Manufacturing Company.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reid honored their son and his fiancée with a rehearsal dinner in the private dining room of Jim and Bill's Steak House on Madison Avenue in Memphis on the eve of the wedding. The U shaped table covered with a damask cloth was decorated with colorful arrangement of late summer flowers.

Mrs. Reid welcomed the guests, and Mr. Reid gave the invocation.

The bride elect wore a white polyester dress featuring a wide blue belt and applied blue motifs on the mid-length skirt. She wore a gift corsage of white carnations tied with blue ribbons.

The couple chose this occasion to present their attendants with gifts.

Bridesmaids Patio Party

Mrs. Teddy Pierce, sister of the bride, and her mother, Mrs. Charles Robbins, honored the bride and her attendants with a patio party at the Robbins home on Holmes Street, Saturday, Aug. 4, at 7 p.m.

Torches and patio lights outlined the entertaining area. The buffet table was covered with a white cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of flowers. On either side were hurricane lamps, which also centered the individual tables for four.

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS Librarian

Library users really determine what a library will be and do, since the purpose of a public library is to help meet their informational and recreation reading needs. However, knowing what can be accomplished, getting creative new ideas, exchanging know-how these things are some of the reasons for meetings of librarians, trustees, and patrons. Any interested person is welcome to them.

Now in its seventieth year, the Mississippi Library Association will meet at Jackson October 10-12. Veteran newsman Daniel Schorr, American Library Association executive director Robert Wedgeworth, and American Library Association past president Clara Jones will address the group, which has a membership of about 1200. A schedule of events, workshops and discussion topics can be seen at the George E. Allen Library. We hope many of our friends will attend.

Franks of Oxford; Mrs. Richard August, Miss Peggy Hale, both of Marietta, Ga.; Mrs. Robert Shaw of Meridian, Miss Hazel Clayton of Memphis; Mrs. W.R. Lukas of Gulfport; Mark Franks of Oxford; Jane and Bill Hodges of Columbus, Joe and Margaret Ann Proffit of Knoxville, Tn.

We report the illness of Bill Jack Horton. He is in our local hospital.

The passing of Mrs. Callie Bruce of Wheeler made my heart very sad. For eighteen years I was closely associated with her in the Wheeler Baptist Church. We worked in the children department. I'm sure the teaching in the public school in Wheeler made a great impact upon children under her supervision. Mrs. Bruce was a great flower lover and grew many beautiful flowers. She furnished flowers for her church many, many years. The Wheeler Community will not be the same without Mrs. Bruce. I can say sincerely, she was one of the greatest christians I have ever known. Our christian sympathy is extended to Joan and her family.

Mrs. Maxine Johnson returned Saturday to her home after spending last week with her sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Moss of Birmingham, Ala. While there she was guest of her nephew, Dr. Ronny Moss and family of Birmingham. She also visited a neice (Ronny's sister) Miss Debbie Moss, who is a nurse in a Birmingham hospital. The Lester Moss visited his mother Mrs. Joe Moss of the Burton Community and other relatives.

Mrs. Pearl Morgan, Joyce Michael, Bob and Robin of Lockport, Ill., have been visiting Mrs. Minnie Morgan

Mooney who had the misfortune of breaking her hip, Pearl remained for a week with her and visited Mrs. James West, Mr. and Mrs. William Hisaw and other relatives and friends. We are glad to report that Mrs. Minnie is at home now.

Another day of my vacation in Florida was spent at the Busch Gardens, Tampa, Fla. If you have a love for animals and birds this is the place to go. The Busch Gardens is called "The Dark Continent." It is a replica of places in Africa. We visited first the City of Moraccan. Here you could browse through the open air shaps and examine the exotic goods, merchants display. We then enjoyed the dramatic multimedia presentation at the Tangiers Theatre Marrakesh. This is only the beginning of a fun-filled visit to "The Dark Continent."

Stanleyville is a town that means fun and entertainment, for real excitement, challenge the wild and wet flume ride, the Mighty Python and the Monstrous Mamba, then sit back and be entertained in the Stanleyville Theatre or browse for souvenirs in the Stanleyville Bazaar.

The Bird Gardens is something to see. Here the home of over 2,500 exotic birds and the world-famous Anheuser-Busch Bird Circus. The talents of these tropical birds will astound and amuse every member of the family.

Nairobi is a place for the kids of all ages who love to pet and feed the live animals in the animals petting area. Nairobi is the home of alligators, monkeys and lion cubs.

The Serengeti Plain is great. You can take the high-flying skyride or hope abroad an authentic steam-powered train into a land where giraffe, rhinoceros, Cape buffalo and over 500 other animals of the jungle roam free. Or if things get a little too hot for you, tour the Serengeti Plain from the open-air, overhead safety of the Monrail. Which ever you choose, the Serengeti Plain will be an experience you'll be talking about for years to come.

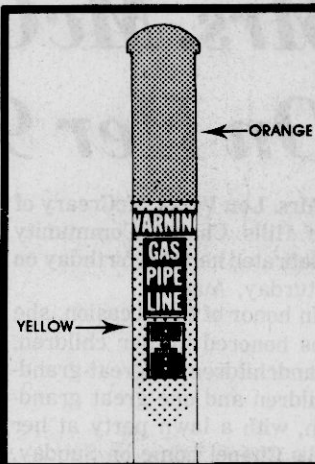

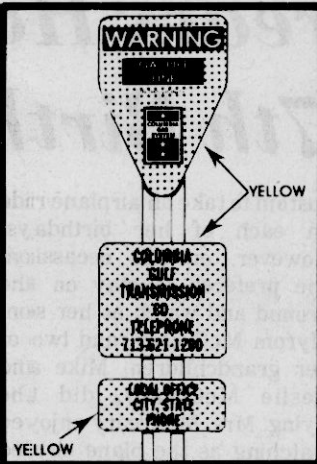

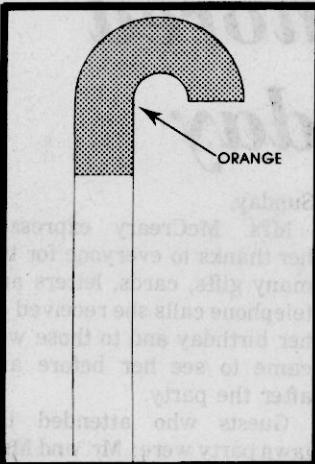

While in Tampa, we visited my nephew, Nicky Presley who is an auditor for the Metropolitan Bank and Trust Co. there. He gave us a tour of their beautiful building. That night we went to see the airport, which to be was very thrilling. Many large planes came and left while we were there. We also visited the loading docks for bananas and other fruits. We toured one large mall and saw several large ships docked in the bay. We saw many beautiful parks in the Tampa and Ocala areas. When we started home, we came by the way of Mobile, in fact one week before the hurricane Frederick made his debut, we were eating supper at the place where the USS Alabama was docked.

Next year put Florida on your list as a vacation spot.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Keeton, Mrs. James West, Mrs. E.D. Maxwell and Mrs. Harliss Hill were in Selma, Ala. Sunday attending the funeral of Mr. J.E. Cauthen. Mr. Cauthen was a brother-in-law of Mrs. West and Mrs. Maxwell others from Booneville attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Travis Cox.

Mrs. Virdie Dulaney of Paragould, Ark., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nix of Cahokia, Ill. have been recent visitors in the home of Mrs. James West. While here, Mrs. West carried her to visit many other relatives. She is a cousin of Mrs. West and had not been here in 25 years.

Someone gave me a local about visitors from Springfield, Mo. Would you please call me at 8-4427. I wish to apologize.

These markers show the location of our natural gas pipelines. As part of our vigorous safety program, we regularly patrol the pipelines by plane and by foot to look for signs of possible leaks. As an added measure, we would like for persons who live by or travel near our pipelines to know how to spot a possible leak and where to report suspicious conditions.

- Signs of a possible leak:
- What to Do:
1. A blowing sound on or near the pipeline right-of-way.

1. Put out cigarettes, stop all engines, put out pilot lights and extinguish any other source of ignition.
2. Dirt being blown into the air.

2. Leave the area and prevent others from entering.
3. Water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river.

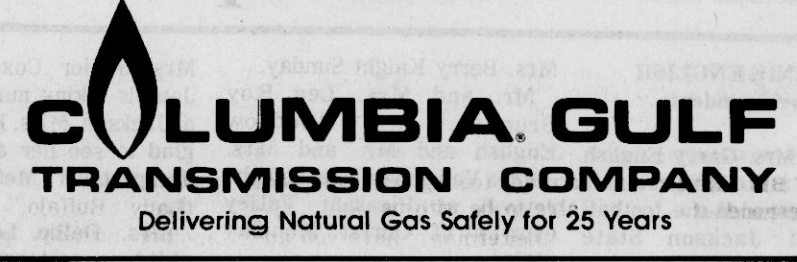

3. Notify the pipeline company or local police and fire departments.
4. Fire coming from the ground or burning above ground.
5. Grass and other plants turning brown in areas of otherwise healthy vegetation.
6. A peculiar, pungent or unfamiliar odor.

If you plan to dig, probe or blast near one of our pipelines, please call Columbia Gulf before you do. The markers shown above indicate the vicinity of the pipeline, but knowing the exact location is essential before disturbing the area. Give us a call and you'll get help fast.

I may need surgery on the left eye but am hoping that I won't. To anyone who might need eye surgery, I highly recommend Dr. Bernard Shipp. My vision is a little blurred, so bear with my handwriting, Mr. Editor, please.

Northeast CB Club News

By LADY BLUE SURF
Correspondent

Our sympathy goes out to the "Tobacco Man" in the death of his mother, Mrs. Leland George. Also to the family of the "Pool Hall Man." Mr. Bill Wigginton president of Saltillo C.B. Club.

Around twenty club members attended the benefit dance at Iuka V.F.W. for six year old child with bone cancer. They took in about $500.00. Appreciate everyone that could attend. "Blue Surf," "Butterbean Lady," "Little Blue Wave," and myself had to attend a gospel singing at the community center sponsored by Independent Order of Foresters featuring the Servants quartet for the Florence Hallum Child Abuse Fund.

Happy anniversary to "Mr. and Mrs. Songster," on their 53rd year. Hope you have a great day and have many more wonderful years together.

Several on our sick list again this week—"Sparrowhawk," in hospital in Big M, "King" unable to be up and around all the time with his back, "Lady Walking Cane," real sick with a cold. "Sidekick" has been getting out of the house and sitting on outside for awhile. Hopes to soon be able to ride in the van. Hope everyone is already feeling better and soon able to be with us. "Letterman," have you and "Lady L," used your anniversary presents yet?

Happy birthday to "Little Sparrowhawk," "Little Wrecker Girl," "Lady Walking Cane," "Little Sidekick Girl," "Blue Surf," and "Butterbean Lady." Hope each of you have a nice day and have many more wonderful years to look forward too. "Lady Buffalo," received another birthday present. It seems that she and Dolly Parton must have something in common.

Sure thankful we didn't have any severe damage from the hurricane. Many people were not that lucky.

Until next week stay well, be happy, and attend the church of your choice.

TVA Apprentice Program Is Rewarding

YUKA, MS—Becoming a journeyman in a trades occupation with the Tennessee Valley Authority is a lengthy but rewarding process.

The primary purpose of apprenticeship training is to assist workers who have not yet gained the experience necessary to become an expert in their field.

At TVA's Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant north of here, there is a training program for inexperienced craft workers formally called the TVA Apprenticeship Program. Apprenticeship training, a preliminary to journeyman status, is carried on through work experience, "on-the-job" training, and related classroom instruction.

The basic purpose of the program is to develop the resources available in the valley, both human and natural. Essentially, the training of employees insures construction of high quality facilities and meets the needs of people in the area served by TVA.

"An important aspect of the program is cooperation of individuals in each craft in the training of apprentices," commented Yellow Creek personnel officer Hubert Sockwell, who also serves as secretary of the Local Joint Apprenticeship Committee. The selection of apprentices takes place by the committee made up of a management representative, labor representative and the secretary. Others who help select apprentices include the construction superintendent, and international representatives.

"The efforts of journeymen to make their knowledge and experience available to apprentices is a key factor in the total construction industry," added Sockwell. "Here at Yellow Creek we have had a good working relationship with all people and every effort has been made to assure that apprentices continue to get quality training."

Currently, apprenticeship training extends to four crafts: carpenters, steamfitters, operating engineers, and linemen.

"Apprentices undergo four hours of classroom training each week," remarked Yellow Creek training officer Freddie Williamson who oversees the program. "Instruction is provided by skilled craftsmen who work as journeymen on the job."

The Yellow Creek program started on June 5, 1979, with its first major purpose to place emphasis on safety and Quality Assurance training. According to Williamson, "our main goal was to meet the immediate needs of the project in order to be in compliance with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission."

At the peak of the program, an estimated 300 to 400 apprentices will be on the job. Several hundred men and women are expected to go through apprenticeship training during the next few years.

The News From Altitude

DOBBINS RETIRES—Philip Dobbins, right, receives a Seko watch from Bill White, Postal Operations Manager, in retiring from the Postal Service after 32 years of faithful service. Dobbins has spent some 34 years in Federal duty starting his army duty Dec. 1, 1944. He says his first pay rate was 65 cents per hour and stamps were 1 and one half cents each. When he began work all incoming and outgoing mail was by trains. Philip said he thought the postal service has come a long way since he first began. "The basic function is still the same but now they're able to get mail from origin to destination in the shortest time possible." When asked what was the most unique experience to happen to him in his 34 years of service, he said, "Once two ladies came by the front desk and asked to buy two stamps. I sold them two and they just kept standing there. I ask if I could be of further assistance to them and they said they wanted them wrapped."

Attend Fire Control School

Representatives of fire departments, police officers, civil defense units and public officials from several northeastern Mississippi and south-central Tennessee counties attended a half-day school Monday on methods of controlling natural gas fires.

Columbia Gulf Transmission Co. conducted the school at its Corinth Compressor Station in Alcorn County, Miss.

"We hold the school to acquaint firemen and others with special techniques in controlling a natural gas fire," according to Kenneth R. Manning, section superintendent at Corinth. "We also plan for cooperative action in case an emergency ever arises along our pipeline system."

Classroom instruction was given on the nature of gas fires, fire control equipment and chemicals, and fire control techniques. Participants also were given the opportunity for some "hands on" practice in extinguishing a fire.

Instructor from Columbia Gulf's Houston headquarters and from The Ansul Company, a fire control equipment company, conducted the training. Similar schools are scheduled at other locations along Columbia Gulf's 847-mile route.

A unit of The Columbia Gas System, Inc., Columbia Gulf is a natural gas pipeline company which transports gas from the Gulf of Mexico and southern Louisiana to a point near Ashland, Ky.

Attending from Booneville were: John Stuart, Paul Clark, Thomas E. Coker, Tommy Nix, Tulon Coker, J.M. Bain. All six are with the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

Several in our community attended the Mississippi Alabama Fair and Dairy Show last week in Tupelo. I'm sure all the young ones had a good time.

School turned out early on Thursday due to the rain we received from hurricane Frederick. The wind got really bad at one time and several trees were blown down.

Several family members gathered at the city park on Sunday for a birthday dinner honoring Mrs. Edith Foster and Leslie Newcomb. Present for the occasion were Myrtle Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Penna, Michelle, Jeff and Jared, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Foster and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Newcomb, Leslie and Melissa, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Young, Marie Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dunaway, Jennifer and Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hutchens, Martha and Jamie, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cole, Mrs. Margie Burns, Tracey, Pat, Steve and Bryan all of Booneville, Mrs. Sheila Hill and Joseph and Mrs. Lana George and Desiree of Baldwin.

NE Hosts Coahoma Tonight

Tigers Rally: Drops Hinds 27-20

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

RAYMOND, MS—We didn't lose our poise and we came back at 'em," some very pleasing remarks by Northeast Mississippi Junior College head football coach Bill Ward after his Tigers scored 27 points in the second half here Saturday night to drop Hinds 27-20.

"I was real proud to win," the Northeast mentor said. "I thought our kids showed a lot of courage and stamina in the comeback victory."

"Our defense stiffened at the right time," Ward added. We had enough momentum to get the job done after that."

The Hinds squad jumped out to an early 14-0 lead in the half but the Tigers, winners now of their past two outings, came back in the final two frames to put 27 points on the board.

James Spears got the ball rolling (little play on words there) in the third period when he caught an 87 yard bomb from quarterback Robert Codgill for the first Northeast tally of the night. Booneville's Rick Coggin booted the extra point to trim the Hinds deficit.

The Tigers then went to work. "This had to be the turning point of the ballgame," Ward said. "After we scored that touchdown on the bomb, our team caught fire."

Randy Cochran lit up the scoreboards for the next score when he plunged in from four yards out after the Tigers marched some 40 plus yards for the scoring drive.

One right after another. This time it was the quarterback's spotlight. Codgill, who played well in all phases of the game

Tigers Stick

To Game Plan

Northeast Mississippi Junior College head football coach Bill Ward said here Tuesday that the Tigers would stick to their originally game plan tonight when they host Coahoma Junior College at Tiger Stadium.

The Northeast mentor said the overall team outlook is good for tonight's ballgame and added that assistant coaches Billy Southward, offense coordinator and David Carnell, defense coordinator, would run the same type offense that gave the Tigers a win over both Holmes and Hinds in the past two weeks.

"Oh we might change some phases of our game plan," Ward said. "But mainly we want to establish our running game and score early in the contest. We will throw the football and might throw it alot but we want to have a consistent attack rather than the surprise approach."

The Northeast head coach, now in his 26th year as football leader, said the Tigers still had some injuries that occurred from the previous ball games but added that they came out of the Hinds game last week in pretty good shape.

"We still have some folks injured," Ward said. "But we have plenty of players to fill in those injured spots."

Northeast, with some 66 players on the squad now, will return to full form tonight. The squad had to be cut for the past two road encounters but the Northeast coaches will dress out the entire squad in tonight's ball game.

A large crowd is expected for tonight's game which gets underway at 7:30.

PPK Contest

Set Saturday

Cartwright Ford and the Booneville Jaycees will sponsor Punt, Pass, and Kick competition, Saturday, September 22, at the Booneville High School practice field. Competition will begin at 9:00. The PPK competition is for the ages of 8 through 13. Entry forms may be obtained from Cartwright Ford, the Middle School, Booneville Elementary School, and the Junior High School. All entry forms must be signed by a parent or guardian. In case of rain, the competition will be held Saturday, September 29.

Howard Dodds, chairman, said "This competition is open for both boys and girls."

Saturday night, dived over from the one yard line capping off a long drive.

The final score of the night, which put the finishing touches to Hinds, came when Codgill fired a 37 yard scoring toss to Eddie Norman. Coggin added the extra point, his third of the night, and the Tigers held on from there.

The Tigers rushed for 172 yards in the game led by Anthony Norman who had 85 yards on 14 carries. Cochran followed with 58 yards on 12 carries.

In the passing department, Codgill and Al Graves shared the duties with Codgill have the bettered hand connecting on 3 of 6 passes for 165 yards.

Northeast had only five penalties in the game compared to some seven for Hinds.

Norman led the punters with four punts for a 37.5 average. The Tigers return home tonight to meet Coahoma's Tigers in a 7:30 contest at Tiger Stadium.

"Coahoma can beat you on any given year," Coach Ward stated. "If you can get to them early then you stand a better chance but you have to keep them close."

"We feel like our boys are ready," Ward added. We have had some good practice sessions this week and we'll be gunning for them."

After tonight's ballgame, the Tigers will hit the road again next week when they face Gulf Coast at Gulfport and will then return home Oct. 6 when they host East Mississippi for Homecoming.

RAINDROPS ARE FALLING ON MY HEAD—Booneville cheerleaders from left, Tracy Arnold, Bronzie Morgan, and Connie Murphy pay no attention to last Tuesday's rain as they prepare for this week's football action. The trio here joins the Banner-Independent in urging all football supporters to attend the Booneville at New Albany game and also the Northeast-Coahoma game tonight. Let's fill the stands. Fresh From Guessers School With This Week's Picks

By Pigsaw Pete

Although I'm a couple of week's late, I'm really glad to be back in Booneville, and am happy that I was chosen over many other monkeys to help predict the games for the Banner-Independent again this year.

Even though I hate to pat Lee Gentry on the back, I'll have to give him credit for doing the prognosticating while I've been at "Gridiron Guessers School" held by Jimmy the Greek, Howard Cosell and Arvin Schlinkelheimer. Each year this top-notch training school is held behind the incinerator at Notre Dame University for sports prognosticators.

Since I had the opportunity to attend this year I feel that I will surely stay above the 75 per cent mark throughout the year. One of the main things they taught us was the importance of coming up with an outstanding pen name, like Schlembecher, Parsegian or Switzer; or getting a good nickname like Bear, or Brick.

Since "Pigsaw Pete" is as good a nickname as there is I'm assuming the last name of Parswitzbecher, and will forever answer to that instead of my real last name, Pander.

Since I've been gone Booneville has lost one of its greatest sports figures, namely "Big Irv" Feldman, who went on to greener pastures. I know the folks around here miss Irv and his style of broadcasting, but I understand that Piggy Bonds has other capable voices handling the action chores.

The Blue Devils will have their hands full when they travel to New Albany Friday night, but they won't be awed by Ben Jones and his Bulldogs. As a matter of act, I'm betting that the Dogs get sent straight to wherever when our Blue Devils start tearing at them.

Having already proven themselves by beating Saltillo and their last opponent, they have nothing left to prove. But the Devils have something to prove and will, by beating the Union County boys by 12 points.

Saltillo will have a night off when they host Alcorn Central. The front-running Tigers will blast the Golden Bears by 30 points in a lop-sided battle.

The Baldwin versus Ripley conflict will be the week's closest. It will be the supreme battle between the Bearcats' stout defense and the Tigers' dazzling offensive display.

Throughout the long night, the game will be a classic confrontation, but the Ripley squad will have about a 4-point home field advantage and will use that to win. I'm going with Coach Larry Cole's tough crew to win by 4.

Coach Jim Drewery's Aggies will find the home turf very acceptable when they plow up Iuka by 14 points, or more.

Shannon will be expecting a strong Nettleton club to bring the game to them and won't be disappointed. However the Red Raiders will hold on to win by 10.

Okolona's Chieftains, under coach Bob Pitner, will have to struggle to beat Houston, but should manage a 6-point victory this week.

Northeast has an outstanding early season record of 2-1 overall and shares the north division lead. Their great come-from-behind win last week over Hinds proves that their deadly ability is up to what was hoped for before the season began.

It's a sure thing that Coahoma will be after blood, but they'll find the Tiger veins too tight to suck, and Ward's "Wonders" will claw the visitors to pieces in a tight struggle at Tiger Stadium tonight. Northeast to win by 8 points.

Ole Miss now has a star. The star is making a good start at lighting up a rough schedule for the Confederates, making shambles of Memphis State's defense last weekend.

But Booneville's Brad White is injured, and Missouri is always one of the meanest Rebel foes. Despite McGee's speed and Jim Miller's superb punts, the Mizou Tigers will tear the Johnny Rebs to little-bitty pieces. I'll have to pick Missouri to win by 21 points.

Mississippi State will fare little better than the Rebs. Maryland's Coach Jerry Claiborne is one of the best in the land, and can turn second-rate teams into super contenders. Even though the Terps are picked to finish 4th in the Atlantic Coast Conference, that's still good enough to knock the Bulldogs all the way back to Starkville. Even though I don't like to do it, I'm going with Maryland to win by 12.

Southern Mississippi is as good as they've been in several years, but not good enough to beat an inspired Auburn team. Auburn will win by 14 points.

A 7-point victory will result when Coach Joe Paterno's Penn State squad hosts Texas A&M this weekend.

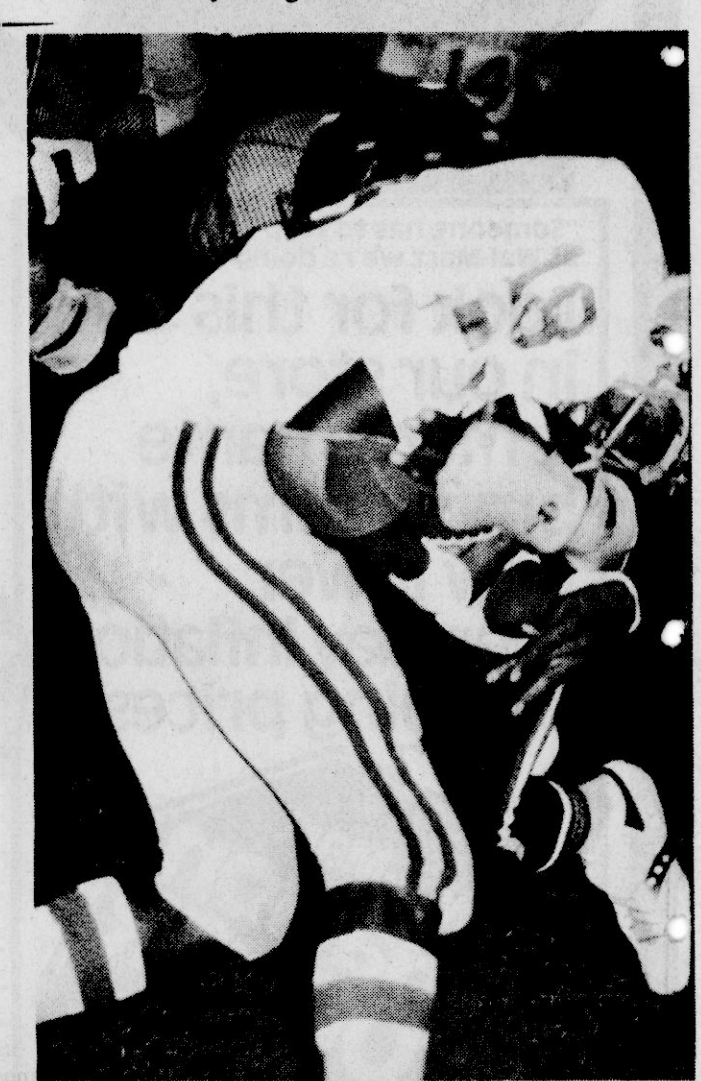

Florida's Gators will have their swamp-mouths full when the Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech invade thier southern swampland. But the cros will be able to devastate the Georgians by 6 points.

Even though Purdue might still be considered a slight favorite, they will find the going tough when the Fighting Irish arrive in Lafayette. Dan Devine has a pocketfull of surprises for the Boilermakers and should quench their fire by 11 points.

Jackie Sherill's Panthers will make quick work of the North Carolina defense when they travel to Chapel Hill. DickCrum will not be able to gear his team up long enough to out-last the stubborn felines. Pittsburg to win by 6.

Well, sports fans, that's it for this week. I'm shooting for a 75 percent mark on accuracy, at least.

Now, back to my new girl-friend.

Local Fan Support Needed: Ole Miss Spirit High

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

Football fever is in the air and, without a doubt, if you are a football fan like I am, right now is your time of the year. It almost seems like there is some type electricity in the air when this time of the season rolls round. All phases of the football programs are now in full swing for area high schools

'Bigbee Recap

Runningback Phillip McDonald scored the first Ripley tally on a one yard plunge off right guard with Dan Bennett converting to give the Ripley troop a 7-0 lead.

Arlandors McKinney scored the first Saltillo six pointer of the night and Randy Webb ran for the two point conversion to give Saltillo the lead.

Bennett score for Ripley in the final period on a pass from Hamilton but Saltillo came right back.

The Lee County Tigers scored their final tally with only minutes left on the clock when Terry McGlun reached paydirt.

Ripley made one more try at them but fell short.

The Baldwin Bearcats had an easy time of it against Booneville's Blue Devils at Latimer Park Friday night and currently rate an unblemished 2-0 mark in Conference play, 3-0 overall.

NOT ENOUGH FANS

I was a little disappointed at the Booneville crowd however last Friday night when the Devils played Baldwin at Latimer Park.

When these two teams get together, you almost assume the stands will be full on both sides. This was not the case last Friday night. There were enough empty seats on the Booneville side to seat the entire 407 th.

This reason for this may be due to Booneville's record thus far. But folks this is the time the team needs you the most. Without you fans, the team wouldn't have any reason for winning whatsoever.

Any team can have their troubles at the beginning of the season but when they're losing, they need your support more than ever. When a team loses, they need someone to take that loss with them. It's hard for them to swallow by themselves.

Remember, even the best of teams have their troubles and you know how a local fan feels when the team loses, well just think how the players feel.

Let the team know you're behind them by attending their games. It'll all work out in the long run...

SPIRIT HIGH AT MEMPHIS

There wasn't spirit dragging at Memphis last Saturday night when Ole Miss and the Tigers battled heads. Some 53,000 fans turned out at Liberty Bowl Stadium in one of the largest crowds in the series history.

I journeyed up to the tinsel town last Saturday afternoon all set to spend the weekend in one of my favorite cities.

As always, when your traveling to any Ole Miss game you meet cars with those Rebel flags flowing in back glasses, on antennas or any other place the Rebs put them.

This was just the start of it. After we got to the motel (Holiday Inn Rivermont) a group of Ole Miss fans were in the lobby doing the Rebel yells. Of course, some of those I can't mention in this column.

When we arrived at the Stadium, all you could hear were shouts of spirit boosters from both Memphis State and Ole Miss fans. Now this was an hour and one half before game time.

While all of this was going on I was inside the press box with the Tiger Lillies waiting on me hand and foot. The Lillies, (in case you don't know who they are) are a group of girls who work in the press box serving food and drinks to all press persons like myself.

I over stuffed myself again as I always do when I go up there, eating enough for 3 people instead of one but you only live once. (That is unless your a cat.)

Getting back to the spirit thing. It's amazing to watch one different types of fans that attend a college football game like this one.

If you judge the fans in attendance at this particular game, Memphis State would win the loudness award but if you measure it on spirit altogether, then Ole Miss would have the edge.

Just before the game got underway Saturday, the Memphis State cheerleaders burned the Rebel Flag and from that point on the Rebel fans told Memphis State (politely of course) where they were from.

The best part of this whole thing is the point I'm trying to make. Fans that support their team are, without a doubt, a credit to the schools record and without them...well, hang it up jack...

TRIP WAS ENJOYABLE

All in all the Memphis trip was enjoyable for me. I had a great time and can't let this article go by without saying how nice everyone was to be me at Liberty Bowl Stadium.

Everyone treated me great. Including the Ole Miss coaching staff, the Memphis press box staff and all the officials connected with the game. All the girls too!

REMEMBER

When your team plays. They need your support...Help them out by attending their games...

Baldwin's Bearcats, aided by their defense which hasn't been scored on, used a combined running and passing attack here last Friday night and waltzed to a 27-0 victory over Booneville's Blue Devils in a Tombigbee rivalry matchup held at Latimer Park.

The whole reflection of the game was changed early in the contest. The Bearcats jumped out to an early 7-0 lead in the ballgame and the Devils came right back with a drive of their own and marched the ball down field to the Bearcat goal line. The Baldwin defense, which has to be listed as one of the best in North Mississippi, stopped the Blue Devil unit short of the touchdown strike and ended the Booneville threat.

Dates Back To 1927

'Devils Lead Bulldog Series

When Booneville's Blue Devils hit the field at New Albany tomorrow night the Devils will hold a 7-4 game edge in the series which dates back to 1927.

The series covers a wide area including the roaring 20's, the depression days of the 30's and the post war eras of the 40's. The series stopped at this point and didn't pick up til 1976.

Overall there have been 13 games with Booneville winning 7 losing 4 and there have been two ties.

The Devils will defend last year's victory, a 28-0 shutout over the Bulldogs in a home contest at Tiger Stadium.

New Albany was the winner in the opening game of the series in 1927, winning 26-0. The next year at home, the Booneville Bulldogs (their first nickname) on October 12, with McQuire kicking a 30 drop kick field goal, stopped the Bulldogs

3-0. The next recorded meeting was in 1932 and on the home field the Booneville team was 34 was Coach Hale's last season at BHS and it was enough for Booneville to battle New Albany to a scoreless tie. It was played in Booneville.

(1945-1950) When the Blue Devils and the Bulldogs met at New Albany on November 10, 1945 it had been 11 years since the two teams met. Booneville had several players, mostly backfield men, injured in a pre season game and suffered all season long from a lack of backs. New Albany won the renewal game of the series 12-0. Even though Booneville had lost just one game during 1946, when the teams met on November 8 at Box field the New Albany Bulldogs, were the favorite. Booneville tailback, and late Ole Miss and Southern

Miss Star, "Scrap" Hart scored on runs of 56 and 30 yards to tie New Albany 13-13. In 1947 Booneville had lost a close one to Aberdeen after being ahead most of the game when they met the Bulldogs in New Albany on October 24. With New Albany leading 18-13 in the third quarter, "Scrap" Hart bailed the Devils out with a 56 yard run to give Booneville the win 20-18. October 22, 1948 Booneville and New Albany met on the Booneville Field. Booneville was and would end the season undefeated. The score was tied 7-7 at the half, but in the second stanza with Lindsey and Stutts combining the devils came back to win 20-

7. Booneville had played 25 games and not suffered a loss at home. They had lost to Kossuth 33-0 on October 5, 1945. The Devils did not lose another home game until New Albany turned the trick on October 28, 1949 12-6. The score was tied 6-6 at the half. The next year BHS suffered through one of it's worst teams ever, winning just one game. Booneville and New Albany met at New Albany and the bulldogs were the heavy favorites. It took New Albany the entire game to pull it out 13-6.

(1976-1977) For the first time in 26 years. The Booneville Blue Devils played the New Albany Bulldogs. It was all Booneville as the devils won in a walk 37-12. In 1977 Danny Ray Copeland scored three touchdowns as Booneville amassed 395 yards rushing as to shut out New Albany 37-0.

And of course last year with quarterback Buddy Hall tossing two TD's and running for another, the Devils took the easy 28-0 victory.

talked about this particular play after Friday's game. "The game would have been entirely different if Booneville had scored on that drive," one fan said. "That was the ballgame right there," another one stated. "It just took too much out of them at that point."

Baldwin came right back after this and added two more six pointers to take a commanding 21-0 lead at the intermission.

Baldwin's Terry Tyes opened the Bearcat scoring early in the game when he broke two Booneville tackles and raced 65 yards to paydirt. Jackie Thomas booted the extra point and the Bearcats held a 7-0 lead.

The Devils, under quarterback Buddy Hall, who later was relieved by Ryan Hand, moved the ball down field on a few occasions but the Bearcat defense stopped them on a number of third down situations.

Post Wins

Northeast and IJC both registered wins this week in junior college action held Saturday night.

The Tigers came back from a 14-0 deficit at the half to drop Hinds 27-20 while IJC took a 29-16 win over East Central.

In other action, Northwest had to come from behind to drop Jones Junior College 10-3 while Pearl River coasted to an easy 20-7 victory over Holmes to remain unbeaten in Mississippi Junior College play.

East Central also got into the win column this week with a 7-6 narrow margin over Copiah Lincoln.

Gulf Coast and South West were both idle last week but will return to full form this week.

with the second Bearcat tally on a 14 yard sprint off right tackle. Thomas split the uprights again with the extra point for a 14-0 margin.

This particular spot in the ballgame appeared to be the turning point.

Baldwin's Dennis Anderson fired a 62 yard bomb to Ronnie Grice and with Thomas' extra point the Bearcats held a 21-0 lead at the half.

Booneville did appear to be fired up when they came from the dressing room after the half ended. They took the ball, picked up some valuable yardage but here again, that Baldwin defense stopped them.

The Bearcats marched down field time and time again in the final two frames. Their fourth and final touchdown of the night came late in the contest when Carl Hill plunged over from the one to cap off a long drive. The extra point missed this time but the 27-0 margin was just too much too late for the Devils to come back.

Predicting football games can be somewhat of a chore. No one would have thought that game would have ended like that.

The Devils, now 0-3 on the season, will have yet another hard test Friday night when they travel to New Albany to face New Albany's Bulldogs. The Bulldogs will hit the field with a 2-1 record including victories over both Saltillo and Pontotoc and will be out for revenge from last year's shutout at the hands of the Devils. Booneville will have something to say about this though.

Baldwin, 3-0 on the season, will travel to the Tiger Den Friday night to meet Ripley's Tigers. This matchup could be one of the best in a number of years. The Tigers bowed to Saltillo in a close one last week while the Bearcats would have to be considered the favorite with their unscored on defense and their superb offense which has scored 92 points in three games this year.

Hoyle Eaton Elected To Hall Of Fame

SPORTS EDITOR'S NOTE: Dexter Hoyle Eaton of Booneville has been elected to the Field Trial Hall of Fame. Eaton, a credit to Prentiss County for his accomplishments was honored and a story appeared in American Field Magazine and we thought it deserved a special publication in the Banner-Independent.

Dexter Hoyle Eaton, celebrated professional handler of Booneville, Miss., joins the distinguished coterie of great pro trainers who have been elected to the Field Trial Hall of Fame. During his colorful career, Hoyle Eaton has chalked up a series of brilliant wins and the stellar champions he has developed and handled make up a veritable galaxy of field trial greats. It is especially fitting that Hoyle Eaton joins two of his outstanding performers, Riggins White Knight and Red Water Rex, in the Field Trial Hall of Fame.

Solely based on the record, Hoyle Eaton more than merits the honor accorded, but his contributions cover a much wider range than the development, training and handling of noted champions. He has proved a close student of bird dog bloodlines and certainly has played an important role in the breeding of winners. Hoyle managed the stud careers of both Riggins White Knight and Red Water Rex and is currently handling the breeding activities of 1976 National Champion Miller's White Cloud for Gen. Walter S. McIlhenny, as well as other noted champions, an indication of Hoyle Eaton's capabilities, a confidence well bolstered by the producing records of the dogs he has so handled. But before reciting the amazing achievements and sensational statistics attributed to Hoyle Eaton in the last score of years, it seems desirable to give some background.

Hoyle Eaton was born on July 20, 1930, in Booneville, Miss., in a family of eleven children. Hoyle himself recalls:

"I always loved to hunt and it didn't matter what the hunt was for as long as it was in the fields or woods. One of the highlights of my childhood life was each Christmas my uncle would come visit us on the farm and bring his bird dogs and let me go hunting with him.

"While growing up on the farm every animal that my Dad would let me claim as my own I was continually trying to train that animal to do unusual or out of the ordinary things. I acquired my first bird dog in March, 1956. I bought two unregistered pointer pups for $5.00 each and bought Horace Lytle's book, "How to Train Bird Dogs," and this is where my bird dog career started. Those pups responded well and modestly I might say that I had them trained to such perfection their first season that people would come from all around just to watch them do things in the yard and some went hunting with me. By the next season I had many requests from people wanting me to train their dogs and this is how I started my professional career in the dog business. I had graduated from Wheeler High School in 1949 and went into military service for two years during the Korean War. After getting out of service, I began to work for the local newspaper as a printer and this is what I was doing when I enjoyed the above-mentioned experiences and when the field trial bug got me.

"My greatest stroke of good fortune was when Betty Gwyn Maxwell accepted my proposal and we were married October 14, 1954, a union blessed with two sons, Joe David Eaton, born July 21, 1956, and Paul Wesley Eaton, born February, 13, 1959.

"You can appreciate that it was a soul-wrenching decision, economically, to 'go to the dogs' but with the devotion of my wife, Betty, and the moral support of my family I have been able to do the things I loved. Giving your heart to a bird dog can be a risky business, but fortunately it all worked out well for me.

"Working with bird dogs and competing in field trials may not be the most lucrative profession one could choose, but there are many compensations for field trialing is a great sport and I would say one of the cleanest of all sports and most of the excitement is furnished by Nature which is unique within itself. And to be part of the development of a champion bird dog is inspiring.

"In my opinion," continued Hoyle, "a true champion bird dog is the greatest sporting animal of all. The reason being the bird dog has to be endowed with so many natural qualities—brains, good nose, desire, stamina, a graceful way of moving, style in running and on point, a willingness to please and take training, speed, go to his game high and with accuracy."

Hoyle conceded: "I am frequently asked which is my favorite," and responded by saying "my all-time favorite dogs are Riggins White Knight, Red Water Rex, Ormond Smart Alec, White Knight's Bullet, Miller's White Cloud, Rex's Cherokee Jake, Doctor J. J. Lisa of Arkansas, The Bumblebee, and I hope there will be others added to the list."

OLDEST GOLFER—Lloyd Downs, who is 88 years of age, received a special prize for being the oldest player in the Senior Division Golf Tournament held last week. Lloyd, who will be 89 in November, says he still enjoys playing the game. (Staff photo by Lee Gentry.)

Chancery Court Summons for Publication

THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI

No. 12,386

To Jeanette Moore Robinson, whose last known street address was 719 Clay, Paducah, Kentucky

CATCHING THE SPEEDERS—Booneville Police Captain Billy Inghram radios the speed of a passing automobile to one of his partners in a speed trap set up by the city police recently on College Street. Booneville Police Chief W.W. Stacy said that the department had received calls from some residents about excessive speeding in the area. It is routine for the department to set up radar from time to time in areas where speeding is reported, he said.

Effects Felt From Fredric

The Agricultural Statistician for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Jackson, Miss., reports that Mississippi definitely felt the effects of Hurricane Frederic last week.

Hurricane Frederic caused heavy rains in many eastern counties on Thursday the 13th as it moved northward along the Mississippi-Alabama state line.

Average rainfall amounts in the eastern section of the state were reported to be four to five inches with higher amounts in extreme southeast Mississippi. Merrill, Miss., reported the largest one day total of 9.0 inches on the 13th.

Rainfall amounts were lighter in western counties and areas along the Mississippi River received little or none.

Following on the heels of Frederic, a cold front on the 14th dropped temperatures. There were pleasant temperatures and dry weather over the state Friday and Saturday following the storm, but by Sunday showers had crept back into the state. However, rainfall totals were reported to be light.

CROP SUMMARY

Hurricane Frederic caused extensive damage to pecan and fruit trees in southeast Mississippi. Soybeans were also damaged by high winds and standing water in the eastern one-third of the state with the heaviest damage in the southeast. Late soybeans in some areas of the state benefitted from rainfall associated with the storm.

Soil moisture supplies ranged from surplus to short but ratings were mostly adequate to surplus. An average of 4.1 days was suitable for fieldwork compared to 5.2 days last week and 3.7 days for the same week last year.

Twenty-seven percent of the soybean acreage was shedding leaves or more advanced compared to 49 percent last year and 29 percent for the 5-year average. About 6 percent of the acreage was mature compared to 15 percent last year and 9 percent average.

Harvest is just getting underway with only a few fields harvested while last year at this time about one percent of the acreage had been harvested. The crop was in good condition except in areas with hurricane damage.

Forty-three percent of the cotton acreage had open bolls compared to 84 percent last year and 54 percent for the 5-year average. Although the first bale of 1979 cotton has been ginned, harvest is not yet generally underway. Last year at this time four percent of the acreage was harvested and the average for the date is about 3 percent. Cotton condition was rated fair to good.

Rice was in good condition and 51 percent of the acreage was mature compared to 73 percent last year. About 18 percent of the acreage was harvested compared to 30 percent last year and 20 percent average.

The corn acreage was 36 percent harvested compared to 38 percent last year and 26 percent average. The sorghum acreage was 68 percent ripe compared to 83 percent last year.

About 26 percent of the acreage intended for grain was harvested compared to 38 percent last year and 36 percent average. Hay crops were 83 percent harvested compared to 85 percent last year and 80 percent average. Winter wheat was nine percent planted compared to eight percent last year at this time.

Sweetpotatoes were 25 percent harvested compared to 36 percent last year and 34 percent average. Peanuts were 35 percent harvested compared to last year's 30 percent and the average of 41 percent. Pecans were rated in mostly poor condition. Pasture condition was good to fair.

Diesel and Gasoline supplies were rated adequate to tight. L.P. Gas supplies were rated adequate.

Meeting To Be Held

COLUMBUS—The 22nd Annual Meeting of the Rivers and Harbors Association of Mississippi will be held in Columbus, Mississippi on Thursday and Friday, September 27 and 28, and is expected to draw a large number of water resource development supporters from throughout the state.

Highlighting the two-day meeting will be a tour of the entire Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, according to Nortom Haas of Bay St. Louis, President of the Association. "We are looking forward to seeing the work under construction on this long sought and worthwhile project," said Mr. Haas, "and we are

for hosting our group.

This is the first time the group has met outside of the Coast area, according to Mr. Glover Wilkins, administrator of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Development Authority. "We are excited about showing the tremendous progress this waterway has made to the members of an organization that has supported the project for many years." On the 27th they will tour the Columbus, Miss., Aliceville and Gainesville, Ala. Locks and Dams; and on the 28th travel to the Amory, Miss. Lock and Dam and on to the Divide Cut section which is completely under contract. The entire project is projected to be completed in late 1984, approximately two years ahead of the original schedule.

A number of Mississippi water resource organizations will hold board meetings concurrently with the Energy Conference Set

OXFORD—Energy conservation for Mississippi industry will be the focus of a two-day conference to be held here September 18 and 19.

The workshop, sponsored by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, the Office of Energy, the Department of Natural Resources, the Oxford-Lafayette County Chamber of Commerce, the University of Mississippi, the Mississippi Energy Extension Center, and the Small Business Administration, will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the University of Mississippi, Frank Yerby Building Auditorium.

Gil Wants Inflation Discounts

Gil Carmichael wants special inflation discounts for Mississippi's senior citizens. The candidate for Governor Wednesday proposed the "Mississippi Pioneer Club" for Mississippians age 65 and older providing for a voluntary discount program with Mississippi's stores, shops, and businesses.

"Inflation is the greatest problem our senior citizens face," Carmichael said. "Here in Mississippi we can't cure the inflation Washington lets go unchecked, but we sure can fight it."

Carmichael's plan to fight inflation for Mississippi's 223,000 older citizens is to provide each with a Mississippi Pioneer Card. This card will entitle members to discounts at stores, shops, and businesses which agree to participate in the program.

"A similar program in Ohio as signed up 850,000 senior citizens and 25,000 businesses, so it can be done," Carmichael said.

"All of us feel an obligation toward our parents and grandparents. I expect Mississippi businesses to stop forward eagerly to become founding members of the Mississippi Pioneer Club. Many firms already offer special discounts to senior citizens and deserve a special thanks.

"But we can do better." Carmichael isn't waiting until next year to start the Mississippi Pioneer Club. He and his wife Deamie will immediately begin signing up senior citizens.

"Every minute we delay lets inflation take another big bite out of already reduced pocketbooks," the Meridian businessman said.

"I want to be prepared to kick-off this program as soon as I take office in January."

Carmichael said his plan "is another low-cost, free enterprise solution to a major Mississippi problem. These are the type of solutions I want to find for all our problems. Big government and big spending aren't the answers."

He said government will hardly be involved in the Mississippi Pioneer Club at all.

"And that's what we need, less government in our lives."

News From The ASCS

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) has loaned more than $640,392.51 to Prentiss County farmers on 141,367 bushels of their 1978 grain crops. This compares with $304,614.29 loaned on 86,293 bushels of 1977 crops for the same period a year ago.

ASCS offers commodity loans to producers who participate in farm programs. The loans serve as a valuable marketing tool by providing operating cash and allowing farmers to hold their crop off the market to benefit from price increases.

In most cases farmers may satisfy their loan obligation by repaying the loan at anytime before maturity or forfeiting the crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation if prices at loan maturity are below the loan rate.

As part of a continuing program to help farmers save both energy and money, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will make loans to farmers on corn and sorghum either acid-treated or stored in wet storage facilities.

Farmers no longer have to dry the grain to become eligible for farm-stored loans. Any producer in compliance with feed grain program provisions will be eligible to apply for such corn and sorghum loans.

High-moisture corn and sorghum loans were first made available last fall in 10 States and 28 counties as part of a pilot program. Farm fuel shortages and higher costs prompted the agency to expand the program nationwide. This program eliminates the drying requirement, resulting in an alternate technology that uses less energy but still preserves the crop for the feed use intended. Drying grain with liquid petroleum and natural gas requires large amounts of energy. Since much of the corn and sorghum stored on farms is fed to livestock, drying of these grains is not essential as moisture does not adversely affect the commodities for feed purposes. Farmers interested in obtaining high-moisture corn and sorghum loans should call or visit the local ASCS office at 105 College Street, Booneville, MS 38829-Telephone number 728-3541.

Plans are now being formulated for the 1980 upland cotton and extra long staple (ELS) cotton programs.

Cotton producers and other interested persons have until Oct. 15 to submit recommendations concerning the ELS cotton marketing quota and allotment, the ELS cotton loan level and payment rate, and the upland cotton loan rate. Farmers may also express their opinions as to whether a seed cotton loan program should be offered and, if so, what the loan level should be. Other cotton program determinations to be made include the specifications for bale packaging materials, resale policy for cotton owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation and premiums, discounts, and location differentials for the upland and ELS cotton loan rates.

The ASCS official said that Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland will consider any written recommendations and views regarding the cotton program before making these determinations.

Comments should be mailed to the director, production adjustment division, USDA-ASCS, P.O. BOX 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Many Questions On Soviet Troops

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th Dist., Miss.

Revelations that the Soviet Union has secretly stationed a brigade of ground combat troops in Cuba have generated a great deal of concern on Capitol Hill, and the issue is troubling on several different fronts.

While the presence of Soviet military "advisers" and a Russian tracking station has been known for some time, only recently was it disclosed that between 2,000 and 3,000 troops, along with accompanying military hardware, have been deployed on the island just 90 miles from American shores.

In a word, the placement of these combat troops is intolerable.

The United States' direct confrontation with the Soviet Union during the Cuban missile crisis of 1962 is more than just a memory. As a college student then, I remember watching anxiously with all other Americans as President Kennedy dealt with the challenge.

He was able to deal effectively with the situation partly because there was no doubt in anyone's mind that the U.S. was militarily superior. We may now have lost that edge.

As yet, there has been no adequate explanation by the Soviet Union of why combat troops have been placed in Cuba. Many questions remain to be answered and the particulars need to be disclosed.

The revelations came just when the Senate was turning its sights on the strategic arms limitation treaty, which must be ratified before it becomes effective. Supporters of SALT II had argued for months that it should be considered on its own merits.

Now, however, even their tune has changed. SALT's strongest supporters are saying it is unlikely that the Senate will ratify the treaty as long as Soviet combat troops remain in Cuba. I think SALT debate should be linked with the Russian military presence in Cuba because, in fact, the two are connected: If the Soviet Union cannot be trusted to keep its troops out of Cuba, how can it be trusted to uphold its end of the SALT treaty?

The purpose of the Russian troops being deployed in the Western Hemisphere must be revealed immediately. I have cosponsored a resolution calling on the President to insist that the troops be removed and that SALT II debate be suspended until they are removed.

We should avoid confrontation with the Soviet Union if possible. But at the same time we have to draw the line on just what we will allow other countries to get away with.

Popular Cheese First Made In Switzerland

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Swiss cheese is a famous and popular cheese.

First made in the Emmentaler Valley of Switzerland, this pale yellow cheese with a nut-like flavor has large holes that develop from gas generated by bacteria in ripening.

Swiss cheese was first made in America in 1850 by Adam Blumer, a Swiss settler in Wisconsin. He was a skillful cheese-maker who believed that factory methods for making cheese could be developed. Today Swiss cheese is mass produced by standardized recipes and techniques in Wisconsin and other leading dairy sections of the United States.

Round Swiss cheese formed in blocks is an American innovation. It has many marketing advantages over Swiss wheels, including ease in handling, shipping and selling, says Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

In the dairy counter, you find it in pieces and slices. Two varieties are the most popular: Emmentaler and Gruyere. Emmentaler, best known in the U.S. as Swiss cheese, is mild, firm and smooth. It has an elastic texture and large, numerous holes. Gruyere is a softer cheese, higher in butterfat than Emmentaler. It has small, scanty holes. Pasteurized process Swiss cheese is also available. It is softer and has less flavor than the natural Swiss cheeses.

Refrigerate Swiss cheese in its original wrapper. It keeps well for several weeks in an air-tight wrapper. Trim any mold on the surface. Grate dried pieces and keep them in the refrigerator in a clean, tightly-covered glass jar. Use for garnishing soups, casseroles or salads. You may freeze small pieces. Thaw in the refrigerator, and use as soon as possible after thawing, she advises.

When buying cheese, remember that one pound yields four cups of shredded cheese and four ounces yield one cup of shredded cheese, adds Mrs. Rushing.

Seed Quality Depends On Timely Harvest

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Soybean and cotton harvesting will be under way shortly.

Some special attention should be given to preparation for harvesting where seed for planting are to be saved, says Dr. Charles Baskin, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service agronomist.

Combines and cotton pickers should be cleaned well to prevent contamination of the crop to be harvested for seed. If seeds or last year's crop seed are still in the combine or picker, they can be sources of varietal mixtures or weed seed contamination, he explains.

"Keep harvesting equipment in good working order. It is important to get seed for planting purposes out of the field as soon as possible to prevent field deterioration," says Dr. Baskin. "Seed quality is quite often lost in the field, and it is impossible to regain lost quality. Timely harvesting can probably do more to improve the quality of soybean and cottonseed harvested in Mississippi than any other thing seed producers could do."

Clean seed storage areas and have handling equipment in good working condition. Remove from bins any material from last year's bean crop or from the spring wheat crop. Most cottonseed storage has already been cleaned. Check aeration fans to be sure they are in good working condition. Cooling seed in storage is an important part of maintenance quality.

Be ready when harvest-time arrives if you hope to harvest good quality seed, he urges producers.

Natchez Trace Is Being Used For Variety Of Purposes

Natchez Trace Parkway Superintendent C.W. (Jack) Ogle announced today that the parkway is now being used heavily not only by motor vehicles but also by joggers and cyclists. He noted that uncontrolled mixing of these uses presents a hazard to each user.

Ogle advised that the Natchez Trace is a national parkway established to memorialize the Old Natchez Trace, and all users are entitled to its enjoyment within the regulations which govern the parkway.

An increase in reports of conflicts between different type users has been noted. Ogle said that the majority of users respect the rights of others and take due caution when encountering others, but that there are those who appear to believe that they have unlimited rights.

He noted that when inflexible members of different groups meet on the parkway, conditions exist which could result in a serious accident resulting in possible death to a runner or cyclist and a lifetime of remorse for an automobile driver.

Parkway personnel report that they have observed unsafe acts being committed by cyclists, joggers, and motorists and that regulations exist which are applicable to most unsafe acts. The parkway is hopeful that parkway users will accept their individual responsibility to use the parkway in a safe manner.

Chief Park Ranger Tomlinson uses the parkway for his personal jogging. He said that joggers and cyclists are particularly vulnerable. He said many of these users invite disaster by their failure to dress properly and identify themselves.

Joggers and cyclists should wear reflective clothing and increase their visibility as much as possible. He noted that many runners are on the parkway early and late in the day when light is absent or very poor. He noted that news media regularly reports incidents where pedestrians are struck on roadsides after dark. It is hoped this experience never occurs on the parkway.

In addition, joggers should run only on the edge of the pavement facing the traffic. They should use the road shoulder when passing a car from front or rear and should check the traffic when crossing the roadway. Jogging after dark should be only on the shoulders well away from the pavement and moving traffic.

Cyclists should ride on the right side near the edge of the pavement with the traffic. If more than one, they should maintain a single file and not weave in and out of the traffic lane. Motorists approaching and passing cyclists should use the same care and procedure used in passing other cars.

Ogle said that he did not want to see the activities of any group of parkway users restricted. After all, "The parkway is a unit of the National Park System," he said, "and not a State or Federal highway." He hopes that all will enjoy the parkway as a park and be considerate of the safety of all users.

Cochran Sponsors Financial Bill

WASHINGTON—U.S. Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is co-sponsoring a bill to minimize the duplication, conflicts and costs of federal regulations on the nation's financial institutions.

Senator Cochran noted the legislation has broad, bipartisan support, but was lost in the crunch of adjournment at the conclusion of last year's session of Congress.

"It also has the backing of every major federal regulatory agency with jurisdiction over financial institutions," he commented, citing the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the National Credit Union Administration, the Federal Reserve Bank and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

"Our nation's financial community is being increasingly burdened by new and changing federal regulations," the Senator said. "At least 83 federal agencies now issue regulations directly affecting these financial institutions, and 216 government agencies issue regulations which indirectly affect them.

"All this adds up to 64,000 pages of regulations, constituting over 4,000 rules and regulations, many of them time-consuming and inconsistent. The need is clear for some type of reform," the Senator said. "The costs of this regulatory burden are ultimately borne by the consumers who use these financial institutions," he stated.

The Financial Regulation Simplification Act of 1979 would require each regulatory agency to periodically review existing regulations, with an eye toward simplifying them and eliminating duplication, conflict and unnecessary costs.

The agencies would be required to submit a report of their progress to the Senate and House Banking Committees.

Setting Goals Helps Beat Dollar Crunch

MISSISSIPPI STATE — fresh air, sunshine, fresh Smart shopping, sharp credit management and cash flow planning can pull you through this dollar crunch.

You can learn to live with inflation, not just cope with it. You have to consider where you are and where you want to go. You'll need to set your goals and establish priorities, says Dr. Julia Barnes, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service home management specialist.

You may benefit from quasi-industrial style retailing in the near future. This concept features a block of buildings filled with discount-oriented wholesalers selling directly to the general public, she explains. This concept really benefits retailers and manufacturers. Consumers can buy at very low prices compared with shopping center prices. The frills and middle man are cut out, she adds.

"Senior citizens and anxious consumers have taken advantage of truck strikes and packaging standards by picking and gleaning in nearby fields. They're cutting the food dollar costs and the medical dollar costs. Exercise,

Some $40 billion were spent for advertising in 1978. Sharp shoppers can save 30 cents of every dollar by comparative shopping and applying the simple wise buying guidelines.

"Supermarket ads are not just for Mom. Dad and the older children are doing a lot of unit buying and comparative buying. Saving 10 percent on weekend specials, shopping with a list and using coupons-off are today's family gains," she adds. "Each member of the family is beginning to sharpen money management skills daily."

Short vacations paid for with ready cash and back-to-nature recreation help families manage their dollars better. Establishing an emergency fund helps keep the accidents and unexpected happenings from becoming family crises. It takes each member of the family working together with the planning, spending and sharing to beat the dollar crunch.

Solar Council Seeks Energy Sites

The Mississippi Solar Council needs your help in locating any solar or renewable energy sites in the state. The program is called the Model Solar Projects Survey and is being conducted on a nationwide basis by state solar groups. The listing will show what Mississippi is doing in the solar field, and will result in a slide show of solar and alternate energy projects in Mississippi.

The term "solar" has come to mean almost any alternate energy source, such as wind, hydropower, using wood wastes, or methane generation, as well as active and passive solar. Known projects of these types are few in our state. The MSC will enlist the aid of individuals and organizations in identifying as many sites as possible, and will award 3 cash prizes of $25 for the best projects located in the state.

This project is being funded nationwide by the Center for Renewable Resources in Washington, D.C. CRR hopes to identify the best examples of solar use in the U.S.

Specific information will be sought on each project. First, it will be classified in a category such as agriculture, business, community project, education or utilities. Other questions concerning the project will address its value, cost effectiveness, employment potential, and duplicity. Such information will result in a fairly detailed outline of the existing solar and alternate energy sites in our state—a useful tool to others becoming interested in solar and a gauge of the potential for types of solar technologies here.

For more information on the survey or to volunteer your assistance, contact Dianne Ford, MSC Chairman, at 887 Briarwood Drive., Jackson, 956-4868.

State's Citizens Can Voice Views On Waste Management

Mississippians will have three opportunities this month to voice their views on a proposed "from the cradle to the grave" approach to the management of hazardous wastes.

The Mississippi State Board of Health will conduct public hearings at 9 a.m. Sept. 13-14 at the Coliseum Ramada Inn, Jackson; Sept. 18-19 at the Admiral Benbow Inn, Biloxi; and Sept. 24-25 at the Lee County Public Library, Tupelo.

The agency's Division of Solid Waste Management and Vector Control drafted the proposed regulations after the Mississippi Legislature amended the Solid Waste Disposal Law to conform with the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

The amendment requires the State Board of Health to develop and implement a hazardous waste management program.

Until now, the state has had no formal program for the management of hazardous wastes, even though a 1974-1975 survey showed that Mississippi industries were producing more than 21 million cubic feet of hazardous wastes a year.

fectious, ignitable, reactive (explosive), low level radioactive, carcinogenic mutagenic teratogenic, or are substances that bioaccumulate.

Included among hazardous wastes are some pesticides, paints and solvents, waste oils, wood treatments, wastes from printing press cleanup, and metal plating and finishing and chemical wastes.

The proposed hazardous waste regulations give specific guidelines for hazardous waste generators, transporters, and owners operators of facilities for the treatment, storage, or disposal of hazardous wastes.

Mississippi currently has no regulated or controlled sites for the treatment, storage, or disposal of hazardous wastes. Some industries have on-site facilities and many others are using non-hazardous solid waste methods to manage the hazardous wastes. Others transport their hazardous wastes to disposal sites in Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, or Illinois.

If the proposed regulations are adopted and implemented, both industry and government will for the first time have a "rulebook" to follow in the management of hazardous wastes. The regulations also provide a penalty procedure for those who fail to comply with the rules.

regulations have been available since mid August at the District Health Department in Holly Springs, Clarksdale, Tupelo, Greenville, Greenwood, Starkville, Meridian, McComb, Hattiesburg, and Gulfport and at the State Board of Health in Jackson.

"We want the public to study the proposed regulations and suggest how to ease the economic impact," McMillan said. "We need their ideas on financial responsibility and on how to balance the risks and management problems."

"In managing hazardous wastes, disposal is the last goal," he emphasized. "Our real aim is conservation and recovery; we want to find ways to use the wastes. We feel that the proposed regulations will provide the needed flexibility to safely manage the hazardous wastes until the real goal can be met."

After the public hearings in September, McMillan's division will submit the regulations to the State Board of Health and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for final approval. Implementation could begin in the latter half of 1980.

There's Gold In Sweet Potato Hills

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Have you ever dug for buried gold in your garden?

Early and mid-fall is when many gardeners are digging for buried treasure — sweet potatoes, says Dr. Milo Burnham, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service horticulturist.

Like real gold, white and yellow, sweet potatoes also come in the same colors. Some of their names give impressions of treasure: Némagold, Goldrush, Gem and Nugget.

Sweet potatoes have been a popular garden vegetable for many years. The small slips planted in May and June have grown into luxuriant vines by now, covering and smothering anything that happens to be planted too close to them. The rains in July pushed the vines into extra heavy growth this year, but hopefully not at the expense of root growth, adds Dr. Burnham.

won't cling to the potatoes. Starting several inches away from where the stem enters the ground, loosen the soil and lift the potatoes. Try not to cut any with the shovel or pierce them with the fork. Freshly dug sweet potatoes scald rapidly if left in the sun, so shade the newly dug potatoes. Also, don't leave the potatoes out at night; they may get chilled in the autumn night air.

If you planted more than a couple of vines, you'll have more potatoes than you can eat in a few days. To store sweet potatoes, you must first cure them to heal cuts and bruises. Then store them in a moist place where the temperature stays between 55 and 60 degrees.

Curing is exposing the potatoes to a temperature of 85 to 90 degrees and a high relative humidity for 7 to 10 days. You can keep the humidity high by wrapping the potato containers in plastic. Damp sacks placed over the containers will accomplish this. Potatoes left to cure too long will sprout. Gradually lower the temperature to 55 degrees after curing, but continue to keep the humidity high. Potatoes kept where it is too dry lose moisture and shrivel.

As you dig your potatoes, select only the best for curing and storage. Don't try to store those with cuts or other evident damage, he warns. Your potatoes may show several types of damage or injury. A freckled appearance is scurf or soil stain. It affects only the skin and not the eating quality. Don't store potatoes with a lot of scurf.

Dark, sunken corky spots that go below the surface are either soil rot or black rot. Misshapen and cracked roots indicate possible nematode damage. Many small, shallow holes indicate feeding by the young of flea beetles and cucumber beetles. Holes with tunnels through the roots, a bitter taste and white grubs indicate sweet potato weevil, the most serious insect of all, he adds.

"The sweet potato, as we know it, is a plant root that has stopped growing in length and starting growing in diameter. The longer it grows, the larger it gets. That is why early planted and late dug potatoes are usually quite large and are known as jumbos," he says. "It really confuses a lot of people to think of the sweet potato as an enlarged root while the Irish potato is actually an enlarged stem. But, whether root or stem, they are good eating," adds Dr. Burnham.

"Since the sweet potato doesn't ripen or mature, you have to judge when to harvest by the length of time the vines have been growing and by weather conditions. About 110 to 120 days after transplanting, your buried treasure should be ready to dig. You must dig before the ground gets cold. Frosted vines must be dug immediately. Cold soils and frost turn yellow gold into back mush," he explains.

"The vines cover a large area of ground, but the potatoes are clustered near the stem below the soil surface. Clip off the vines, leaving a stub to mark the row, and begin digging with a shovel or fork."

"Try to pick a time when the soil is fairly dry so it

"Hopefully, the weather, insects and diseases won't have robbed you of your buried treasure, and with proper storage, you can enjoy it all winter long," says Dr. Burnham.

Welfare Department Fights Fraud, Abuse

The Mississippi Department of Public Welfare is continuing its statewide effort to crack down on fraud and abuse in the Food Stamp Program.

According to Robert Perry, Chief Investigator for the department, two Greenville residents pleaded guilty in the Greenville Justice Court on Friday, September 7, to receiving food stamps fraudulently.

Ms. Terry A. Bell was convicted of unlawfully receiving $576 worth of food stamps due to the fact that she did not report her employment to the county welfare office.

Ms. Ruthie D. Howard was convicted of receiving $262.50 worth of food stamps illegally for failure to report her daughter's Supplemental Security Income (SSI) check.

Judge Wilma L. Luncford found both Greenville residents guilty and sentenced them to a $100 fine each and restitution of $50 per month.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"SELAH" —What God Hides

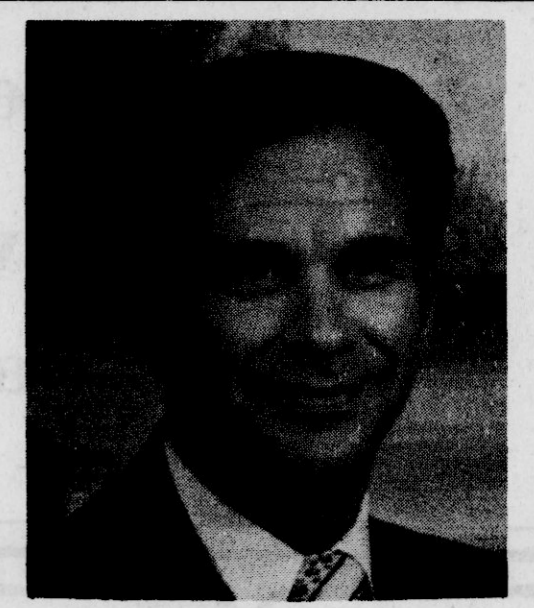

By Larry Hill

"Selah"—Habakkuk 3:3 This is one text, that very few if any have come to understand. There have been many explanations of it. Many say it is a musical sign—a direction to the Levitic choir, meaning "louder," "repeat," or "lift up the voice"; or indicating an orchestral interlude. Others think it means "lift up the heart." Still others, that it means "forever"; and others think that it is an exhortation to the reader or the hearer to consider earnestly what has been said and be warned thereby.

As a child, hearing the word read from the Psalms in family devotion, I used to think that it meant, "It is fixed," "It is certain," "It is sealed." Now I discover that a child's fancy and guess is as good as any other. Where so many interpretations are given, you can be fairly certain that no one knows just what the meaning is. For this reason I take the word "Selah" occurring seventy-one times in the Psalms and three times in the Prophecy of Habakkuk, as a sign or symbol of these things which in the very midst of the divine revelation God hides from us.

This last chapter of the book of Habakkuk is a grand hymn of the glory and power of God. In language and metaphors of overwhelming eloquence it speaks of God's judgements and majesty, the everlasting mountains scattered before him, the perpetual hills bowing down, the earth with the rivers, the sun and the moon standing still in their habitation. But the chapter comes to a close with a beautiful expression of the believers trust and faith in God. "Although the fig tree shall not blossom, neither shall fruit be in the vines, yet will I rejoice in the Lord. I will joy in the God of My Salvation." Three times in this great chapter we come upon this mysterious word "Selah." In the very midst, too, of the great Psalms, such as the forty-sixth, "God is our refuge and our strength," we come upon "Selah." How many things we do not know, nor under present conditions have any means of finding out. But God said "I'll never leave you nor forsake you," also, "Eye hath not seen, neither ear heard nor has it entered into the heart of man the things God has prepared for his children." There are many things yet hidden from us today.—But will be revealed in Heaven. Many great things which are beyond mere human understanding—This, amidst a world of trouble makes God's people homesick to go to Heaven.
