In Murder Trial

Edge Receives Life Term

After two days of testimony, James Lowery (Larry) Edge, 39, of Prentiss County was found guilty last week of the 1978 shotgun slaying of another Prentiss County resident, John Wayne Murphy.

Edge's trial was held last Wednesday and Thursday in the Prentiss County Circuit Court under Circuit Judge Fred Wicker of Pontotoc. The jury deliberated for about two hours following the testimony and returned a "guilty as charged" verdict around 8 p.m. Thursday.

Edge, through his attorney, had filed a motion for a change of venue, but the motion was denied earlier in the October term of the court. He was handed down a life sentence in the state penitentiary by Judge Wicker.

Edge was charged with the shotgun slaying of the 39-year-old Murphy on the night of Oct. 24, 1978. The shooting occurred at Elder's Lake, south of Booneville, where Edge and his wife, Geneva, had met with Murphy and another woman, Eva Eppersen. However, Eppersen testified that she was not present at the actual time of the shooting; she said that at the time it occurred she was gathering wood for a fire they had built.

According to testimony in the trial, Mrs. Edge had been having an affair with Murphy and was attempting to break it off. The Edges testified that Murphy objected to her breaking off the affair and attacked her with a knife.

Mrs. Edge said that Murphy kept saying that if he couldn't have her, nobody else could and that he was going to kill her and then himself.

The husband and wife testified that in the attack, Mr. Edge was cut on the hand during the struggle. Edge left his wife struggling with Murphy while he got a 12 gauge shotgun, they testified.

When Edge returned to the scene of the struggle, Murphy was still attacking Mrs. Edge and still threatening to kill her when Edge shot Murphy, they said.

Edge's defense was that he was protecting his wife, according to his court-appointed attorney, J.B. Garretty of Corinth. Murphy was ap-

LAST ROSE OF SUMMER—After several weeks of unusually beautiful fall weather, showers moved into the area this past weekend. Raindrops here cling to a rose after Sunday's rainfall dumped over an inch of rain on the area. More showers are predicted for the remainder of the week. It will not be long until flowers such as this will be gone from sight and the limbs of the trees will be bare. (Photo by Ken Christian.)

County Unemployment Up

The latest figures prepared by the Mississippi State Employment Service revealed that the number of Prentiss County residents unemployed edged up to 400, or 3.8 percent of the civilian labor force. This compares to 3.7 percent in August and 4.9 percent in September 1978.

According to Charles Smith,

Area Manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service, the number of residents employed also rose to reach 10,020, with the largest increase noted in Agricultural employment. However, the total number employed is slightly below the figure for one year ago.

As both the number unemployed and employed rose, the civilian labor force also experienced an increase over the month to reach 10,420, but compared to the September 1978 estimate, a drop of 270 was evident.

Establishment based employment in the county climbed to 6,750 at mid-September, a rise of 260 from August, but down some 110 from the previous year. Manufacturing employment remained relatively stable over the month but was slightly below the estimate for one year ago. Nonmanufacturing employment experienced increases from last month and one year ago.

The civilian labor force for the four-county area of Alcorn, Prentiss, Tishomingo and Tishomingo climbed to 44,590, according to Smith. This is a minimal gain from last month and a very noticeable increase of 3,680 from the same period one year ago. The 2,050 persons unemployed reflected an increase of 130 from the previous month and a substantial decrease of 520 from the same period one year ago. This figure represents 4.6 percent of the civilian labor force.

The number of area residents employed at mid-September was estimated to be 42,530, slightly below last month's figure. However, a very noticeable increase of 4,190 was noted over the year.

Establishment based employment for the four-county area was estimated to be 34,370 in September, some 1,160 more jobs than estimated in August and some 3,050 more than the same period one year ago. Both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing employment contributed to these monthly gains. Yearly job gains were practically all in the nonmanufacturing group with Government and Construction contributing the largest increase.

Jumpertown Grant For Park Approved

A grant of $29,400 from the Tombigbee River Valley Water Management District has been approved for the city of Jumpertown, according to Doug Mansell of the Prentiss County Development Association (PCDA).

Mansell said that Larry Dillard, executive director of the Management District, notified Jumpertown Mayor Bobby Smart of the approval of the grant Monday, Oct. 29. The grant was requested through the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors, he said.

The grant is to be used as the local or matching share of a Bureau of Outdoor Recreation grant to construct a proposed town recreational park. The approval of this additional money, along with donated community labor, means that the total project cost has been obtained, Mansell said.

The PCDA provided technical assistance to Jumpertown and the Board of Supervisors in obtaining the matching share. Mansell said that this type of cooperation between community, local and county officials is a step forward for the county's goal to improve the quality of life in the area.

William H. Holley, Eugene Gifford and Glenn Goodwin represent Prentiss County on the Management District board of directors.

Rienzi Designated Flood-Prone Area

Rienzi Mayor Edward Switcher has been notified that his small community town is one of 287 Mississippi localities recently identified by the Federal Insurance Administration (FIA) as a flood prone area.

According to Willard Inman state coordinator for the National Flood Insurance Program, because of that designation Rienzi must enter the flood insurance program by Nov. 17 to become eligible for federal disaster related loans, grants or assistance.

A locality must submit an application to the FIA cer-

General Election Tuesday

Prentiss County voters go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, to select 22 county officials and cast their ballots for fourteen state candidates including a state senator and representative.

With many Democratic candidates running without opposition, the voter turnout is not expected to be as heavy as in the August primaries. But the governor's race has stimulated some interest statewide.

Democratic candidate William Winter, who is making his third try for the governor's chair, is opposed by Republican businessman, Gil Carmichael.

Carmichael has been campaigning since he won his party's nomination in the first primary on August 7, when he defeated Leon Bramlett.

Winter, after leading the democratic ticket on Aug. 7 over six opponents, faced Lt. Governor Evelyn Gandy in an August 28 runoff.

No republicans are seeking local offices, but three Democratic nominees will face independent opponents.

For Sheriff, Democrat John McCauley faces Independent Benny Stennett; for Constable of the 4th District, Democrat Samuel Bridges meets Independent Doyle Livingston; and for Justice Court Judge of the 5th District, Democrat Willie Anderson will face Independent William L. Phillips.

In all other county races Democratic nominees are running unopposed.

In addition to the governor's race, four other democratic nominees for state offices have a Republican opponent, while one faces an independent candidate.

Democrat Ed Pittman faces Republican Jeff East for Secretary of State, Democrat William A. (Bill) Allain is opposed by Republican Charles Pickering for Attorney General, Republican Conner Fulton is challenging Democrat George Dale for Commissioner of Industries, Democrat D.W. Snyder faces Independent Linda L. Lewis, for Public Service Commissioner, and incumbent Northern District Highway Commissioner Bobby G. Richardson is challenged by Republican Howard Stanton.

Two state resolutions are also on the ballot. Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 507 provides for periodic reapportionment based on each census, while House Concurrent Resolution No. 33 authorizes the legislature to create a commission on judicial performance.

$80,000 Grant Approved For Industrial Access

Congressman Jamie Whitten this week announced an $80,000 Economic Development Association grant for the City of Booneville.

The federal grant, along with $20,000 matching money provided by the State of Mississippi is to be used for an access road into the Booneville-Prentiss County Industrial Park.

Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb also announced notification from the governor's office of a flood relief grant-loan for $83,000. The money, consisting of a $41,500 grant and a $41,500 loan, is to be used to repair streets and sidewalks damaged by last April's heavy rains and flooding.

Carmichael, Winter Face The Issues

With the gubernatorial race coming down to the wire, the issues being ballyhoed by both candidates have simmered down to just a few major topics.

Both the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, William Winter, and the Republican nominee, Gil Carmichael, made campaign swings through the area within the last few days.

Carmichael attended a fund raising dinner on behalf of his campaign Thursday night, Oct. 25, in the Frank Haney Union off the Northeast Mississippi Junior College. Winter made a campaign stop in Booneville Monday, Oct. 29.

Carmichael, in a speech before his supporters at the dinner, put much emphasis on defeating the "old political machine in Mississippi."

He spoke of the ties his opponent, Winter, has with the "machine."

"William is the best of the old politics," he said, "but William is still caught in the old politics. The old political system down in Jackson has been running this state for the last 50 years and they've been passing it down the line. They move this fellow from this agency to that agency; you think you've got change, but you haven't."

On the other hand, although Winter is basing his campaign on his years of experience in Mississippi politics, he denies having any connection with the old "political machine."

"If I were connected with the political machine," he said, "I would not have been defeated twice." This is his third try at the governor's office.

"I have no apologies to make for the positions I've been in," Winter said in an interview last week, "either as a public official or a private citizen."

The Democrat characterized his campaign as a "simplified campaign" that has been run without the use of nationally known people as supporters. Carmichael interprets Winter's shying away from the support of nationally known Democrats differently.

"The next governor of Mississippi will have a tremendous amount to do with the next president of the United States," Carmichael said. "I'm tickled to death that Gov. Regan and Gov. Connally wanted to come down here (to help campaign)," he said.

On the other hand, he said that Winter does not want to be tied to the national Democratic party. "They're scared to death Kennedy and Carter may come down here," the Republican said.

Winter said that this is not true. He said that he does not need to bring in people to campaign for him. The people of Mississippi have not accepted this type of campaigning in the past, he said, and he does not think they will this time.

One issue both candidates have spent time discussing recently is the problem of the disposal of nuclear waste from the two nuclear power plants now under construction in the state at Yellow Creek and at Port Gibson.

Both candidates seem to agree that nuclear power is necessary in the state to some extent, but they disagree on the method of disposing of the radioactive waste produced by the plants.

"Common sense will tell you that we have to have the energy that will be generated in the future by nuclear energy," Winter said, "but we have got to be careful to insure the health and safety of our people."

Winter said that, although no fool proof plan has been devised as of yet for nuclear waste storage, "there are better places to put the stuff than in areas that are productive or inhabited."

"We have over 1,000 square miles of desolate areas in the southwest that are already contaminated to some extent," he said. "So, why take a chance?"

parently killed instantly by the blast to the head, Garretty said.

Assistant District Attorney Richard Bowen, of Corinth, was assisted in the prosecution, said that the state introduced evidence that Murphy was crippled and unable to walk at the time of the shooting because of an automobile accident he had been in.

"His leg had been broken and the bone had not yet mended," Bowen said. "There was something wrong with it and he was supposed to go into the hospital the next day for surgery."

"He couldn't walk without the aid of crutches. The crutches were found several feet from his body that night," Bowen said.

"The state also showed that, as far as could be determined, there were no signs of a struggle. Mrs. Edge had testified that there was blood on her jacket and that the deceased had tried to choke her," Bowen continued. "There was no evidence of this a few hours after the shooting occurred."

"The sheriff testified, along with the deputies, that they saw no evidence of any choke marks on Mrs. Edge's throat and that she had no blood on her jacket as she had testified," the assistant district attorney said.

"That was really the reason the jury returned the murder verdict, I think," Bowen said. "They didn't believe Edge's testimony about him killing Murphy in self-defense. They obviously thought it was just a slaying."

Garretty, Edge's attorney, said, "Their (Mr. and Mrs. Edge's) testimony was that he (Murphy) had a knife and was threatening to kill her (Mrs. Edge). Her husband then got the gun and shot him because he wouldn't cease his attack." The bad aspect of it, from Edge's point of view, was that Murphy had a broken leg and was on crutches, Garretty said.

"There was a knife found on the scene," the defense attorney said, "but it was closed, according to the testimony of the sheriff."

"It was really all about whether the jury believed the Edges' testimony that Murphy just went wild that night and was shot as a result of that," Bowen said, "or whether, they believed, as the prosecution contended, that Larry Edge, out of a fit of anger over his wife's involvement with Murphy, just killed him out there that night. And that's obviously what the jury found and returned as their verdict." Edge is presently being held in the Prentiss County jail without bond. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff to await transportation to the state penitentiary where he is to serve a life sentence.

Garretty said that "an appeal is under definite consideration" in the case.

The prosecution was led by District Attorney John R. Young with Assistant District Attorney Richard Bowen and Prentiss County Attorney James Godwin assisting. Corinth attorney J.B. Garretty was the only defense attorney on the case.

Carmichael, Winter

nuclear waste for storage in those areas that were contaminated by nuclear testing.

Like Winter, Carmichael says, "I am not for nuclear waste deposits in the state of Mississippi at all, period." However, he says that with the nuclear power plants being developed in the state there is another problem.

"Right now the Federal government has the responsibility to take care of the waste of those plants," Carmichael said, "but somewhere down the road we may have to deal with it ourselves and nobody else may take the waste from our nuclear power plants. Then we will have to figure out what to do with that nuclear waste."

"I will not let them bring in outside nuclear waste," Carmichael emphasized. "I'll fight them every possible way I can fight them."

He says that he leans toward a method developed by the French to dispose of their nuclear waste. "They encase the nuclear waste in glass bricks and bury them deep in the ground," he said. "Even if water does run over it, it can't get to the waste because of the glass brick."

Another problem being discussed by both candidates is the future of the railroads now serving some of the smaller communities.

During a campaign stop in Corinth last week, Winter said, "This area is dependent on the maintenance of its rail lines. Corinth itself was built as a major rail center. Though its lines are not in danger, just to the west, the cities of Walnut and Ripley are subject to losing their rail transportation."

"The linking of the Tennessee Waterway to rail lines is very important," the Democratic candidate said. He said Monday in Booneville that in order to make sure that the companies that own the lines keep them up, he would take them to court if necessary.

Carmichael says that he agrees with Winter that the rail system is indispensable to the state, but he says he disagrees with him on how to keep them operating.

"William says that the best thing we can invest in legal fees to sue the ICG to make them keep up the right of way," the Republican said. "If we sue the ICG, we will have 4.5, 6 years that we'll be in the courts." "Do you think new industry will spring up along that rail line while it's in litigation?" he asked.

Carmichael said that he favors forming a corporation to buy the line from the railroad, if they will sell, and creating a short line railroad. He said that either the counties it passes through or the industries it serves could be in charge of running it.

Winter summarized the major issues in two categories: (1) the need to straighten up state government and restore integrity, and (2) the need to develop more economic opportunity for the people of the state.

"There is a general concern across the state for the economic problems we are experiencing, such as inflation and the high price of gasoline," Winter said. "But the governor and the state has only limited ability to solve these problems."

"But in the realm of what the state government can do, I believe the issues have boiled down to those two major issues I have mentioned."

Carmichael said that, in addition to a two party system for the state, there are three things he and his supporters will give the state in January if he wins: transportation, education and tax reform.

"We're going to take it a step at a time," he said. "We're not going to go in there and get it all done the first day."

"I want to restore family life in our country," he added. "I want to preserve some of the history of our past. I want to put the elementary schools back in the neighborhoods, because I think baby children ought to be able to walk to school, almost."

tying that certain floodplain requirements to reduce future losses from flood damage have been adopted, before individual property owners can purchase flood insurance, Inman explained.

Inman, who is manager of the state Research and Development Center's Local Planning Assistance Branch in Jackson, said that if the city decided to enter into the program once the application is approved, a flood insurance policy can be obtained from any licensed property and casualty insurance agent.

"Then if flood damage occurs, the property owner can collect up to the extent of his coverage," Inman said.

However, the Rienzi mayor said last week that the town will carefully weigh the cost of the statewide flood insurance

Forestry Field Day Nov. 8

Residents and timberland owners of Prentiss County are invited to attend the Northeast Mississippi Forestry Field Day to be held at the J.C. Green, Jr., tree farm three miles east of Guntown in Lee County on Nov. 8, according to W.H. Haden, Prentiss County agent.

The forestry field day, which includes a 10-county area in northeast Mississippi, will feature timber management practices, wildlife considerations and economics. J.C. Whitehead, chairman of the board of the Bank of Mississippi, will be the keynote speaker for the half-day program which begins at 9 a.m.

A woodland tour will feature the following: bottomland hardwood area and a discussion of management and wildlife considerations; upland hardwood area illustrating no treatment and no management; upland site recently harvested, sheared and prescribed burned, a young pine plantation illustrating various treatments, a recently thinned pine plantation, and a 36-year-old pine plantation and discussion of economic considerations.

Discussion leaders for the woodland tour will be: Harve Huffstatler, Joe Zary and Wallace Henry, of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission; Louidean Ball, Charles Quinn and John Vaughan, all of the Mississippi Forestry Commission; Dr. John Waldrop and Dr. Wallace Killcreas, Mississippi State University Agricultural Economics Department; Dene Enlow, Randy Body and John Lee, all of Westvaco Corp.; Billy Joe Dye, Seitz Lumber Co.; James McNeil and Bud Truett, Weyerhaeuser Co.; Preston Padgett, Tennessee River Pulp and Paper Co.; and Stanley Hurt, Timber Development Organization.

Glen Jones, executive vice president of the Mississippi Forestry Association, will serve as master of ceremonies for the platform program. An exhibit will feature forestry publications on a variety of topics.

The field day is a cooperative effort of the Mississippi Forestry Commission, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Mississippi Forestry Association, local forest industries and related organizations and agencies. It is planned especially for landowners and residents of Alcorn, Chickasaw, Clay, Itawamba, Lee, Monroe, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tishomingo and Union counties.

Those attending the Northeast Mississippi Field Day should turn east off Highway 45 at Guntown and follow the signs advertising the event. A free box lunch will be served after field day activities. Several drawings will be held for prizes.

Tony Thompson, District Conservationist for Prentiss County, encourages all Prentiss County forest landowners and other interested persons to attend. He said that bus transportation will be available at the Booneville First Baptist Church, parking lot, leaving at 8:15 a.m.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, Would you answer in the Question Box, my question. According to the (AP) a group of black ministers want another book added to the Bible. This book would be a letter written by Dr. Martin Luther King, while he was in jail in 1963. Would it be right to add this book to the Bible?

ANSWER: No, it would not be right to add anything to the Bible. I will give you Bible authority as to why this cannot be done.

1. Because the Bible is already complete. 11 Pet. 1:3; 2 Tim. 3:16-17 and Jude 3.
2. Because God does not allow additions, subtractions or substitutions in his book. Deut. 4:2; Rev. 22:18-19.
3. Because those who pervert his work rest under the curse of God. Gal. 1:8-9.
4. Because human opinion is not God's revelation. You see it would be wrong to add any man's opinion to the Bible.

"The Mousetrap" At Northeast

In conjunction with Cultural Arts Week at Northeast Junior College, the Department of Speech will present "The Mousetrap," a murder mystery by Agatha Christie, in Dinner Theatre Performances Monday, Nov. 5, Tuesday, Nov. 6, and Thursday, Nov. 8, at 6:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of Frank Haney Union.

The author of "Ten Little Indians" and "Witness for the Prosecution," Christie comes forth with another English hit about a group of strangers stranded in a boarding house during a snow storm, one of whom is a murderer.

The suspects include newlyweds, Mollie and Giles Ralston portrayed by Gena Freeman of Tupelo and Tommy Wofford of Mantee, who run the house. As the plot intensifies, the suspicions that are planted in their minds nearly wreck their perfect marriage.

Others are a spinster with a curious background, Susan Long, Corinth; an architect who seems better equipped to be a chef, Terry Hurt, Aberdeen; a retired army major, Tom Marino, Corinth; a strange little man who claims his car has overturned in a drift, Tony Coleman, Houston; and, a feminine jurist who makes life miserable for everyone, Amy Susan Morris, New Albany.

Into their midst comes a policeman, Tom Brown, Tupelo; traveling on skis. He no sooner arrives than the jurist is killed. To get to the rationale of the murderer's pattern, the policeman proceeds to probe the background of everyone present; thus, rattling a lot of skeletons.

The climax of the two-act play should be interesting to all of its viewers as each one attempts to name the murderer.

Tenn-Tom Closed To Hunting

The Nashville District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has closed all portions of the Divide Cut and Bay Springs Lake Sections of the Tennessee Tombigbee Waterway to hunting effective immediately. This includes all lands and waters administered by the Corps of Engineers in Tishomingo and Prentiss Counties of Mississippi. This action includes all types of hunting, both small and large game, waterfowl and trapping. These measures are being taken to provide for the safety of both construction workers and the general public.

Since all the Divide Cut is under contract and Bay Springs Lock and Dam is under construction, the entire area will be frequented by both Corps and contractor personnel performing work in connection with the construction of the Waterway. The map shows the boundaries of the land closed to hunting. If additional information is required, contact the Resource Managers Office in Iuka at 423-6074. Your cooperation is appreciated.

Athletic Injuries Studied

A new branch of medicine promises to help prevent and cure injuries for professional and amateur athletes alike. ETV's "Nova" series explores the world of sports medicine in "All Part of the Game" at 8 p.m., Tuesday, November 6, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Athletic injuries are not unique to professional athletes. The physical fitness craze has brought on an increase in injuries among amateurs, especially runners.

"Nova" visits Dr. Stan James of Eugene, Oregon, who films runners in slow motion to learn what movements may cause problems. Dr. James has found that one common problem, excessive pronation—an inward turn of the foot as the runner lands on it—can be solved by placing a support pad inside the shoe. This simple device is known as an "orthotic," one of the most important runners' aids of the past decade. "All Part of the Game" also examines sports medicine's role in the prevention of injuries to children.

TO THE VOTERS OF PRENTISS COUNTY:

This Election is drawing to a close. Many of you may have lost your candidates in the Primaries and many of you may have grown tired of the whole thing. I have faced strong opposition all the way and my opposition are still working to keep me out of the Sheriff's Office. They have made the statement, that they still can win if there is a light turn out in the general election. This is their only chance and I can't believe the voters of Prentiss county will let this happen.

I deeply appreciate the vote and support given me in the primaries and ask you once again to please go to the poles on Nov. 6 and cast your vote for fair and impartial law enforcement.

Vote for John McCauley for four years of law and order.

Fastest Growing Educational Movement In America

By REV. BILL JOHNSON,
Pastor
FAITH BAPTIST MISSION
Booneville, Miss.

The Christian school movement is the fastest growing educational movement in America today. The "U.S. News and World Report" and "Christian Life" magazines have referred to the rapid proliferation of Christian elementary and secondary schools as the "Boom in Protestant Schools" and the "Christian School Explosion." Christian schools are currently being established at the rate of one every seven hours across the United States, or three per day.

privilege, permit me to share some reasons why I believe that Christians should send their children to Christian schools.

The first reason is that a Christian is accountable to God for what their children are taught in school. Proverbs 22:6 is a direct command to parents: and says, "Train up a child in the way he should go." What you children are taught in school should be a direct extension of your parental views. The teachers under whom your children are taught should be the kind of teachers you would personally hire if your children were being educated at home. Christian schools offer, on an overall basis, a far better level of instruction. The test scores over a long period of years are conclusive. The annual Stanford Achievement Test administered to first through eighth grades shows that Christian school students are from six to 16 months ahead of the national norm in reading and five to nine months ahead of the national norm in all general subjects areas.

The Bible does not teach that children should be exposed to all kinds of sin in order to be aware of sin. We are to "train up" a child, not point him downward!

Children do not grow spiritually stronger in a negative, non-Christian environment. Students do not become stronger Christians by being taught non-Christian thinking, but by being taught Christian thinking. There is no such person as a "neutral" school teacher who neither advances nor inhibits religion.

School represents 16 percent of a child's time. It is prime time, a training time, and a Christian school education represents a positive, Bible-centered form of instruction that will build up a child in the faith-not tear him down.

Proverbs 19:27 says, "Cease, my son, to hear the instruction that causes to err from the words of knowledge."

Another reason I send my children to Christian schools is because the Christian school has not cut itself off from the most important book in the world-the Bible. It is important in that it enables us to see the light we need in education.

Without the Bible, education is nothing more than the blind leading the blind. Standards of morality must be taken from Scripture alone, not from "situation ethics" as often taught in secular schools. As Theodore Roosevelt stated, "to train a man in mind and not in morals is to train a menace in society."

Christian school educators teach all subject matter from a Christian context. They put the Bible at the center of the curriculum and ask the student to evaluate all they see in the world through the eyes of God.

To quote Dr. Roy Zuck, a Christian educator, "The secular vs. Christian school issue to really a question of whether a child will learn to view life from man's perspective or God's perspective. From man's viewpoint, history is purposeless; from God's viewpoint, history has meaning. From man's viewpoint, science is the laws of "nature" at work; from God's viewpoint, science is the outworking of His laws."

In a Christian school, a student is exposed to the centrality of God in all of his life. In government schools, a student is legally "sheltered" from this important dimension of education.

Christian schools support the family as the number one institution of society. Christian school educators train students to respect their parents. These educators agree with the early American patriot, Noah Webster, who said, "All government originates in families and if neglected there, it will hardly exist in society."

"The Atheists have, for all practical purposes, taken over public education in this county." These shocking words were spoken by a prominent public school educator, Dr. W.P. Schoffstall, Arizona State Superintendent of Schools.

Paradoxically, many public school personell openly support Christian school education. As a matter of fact, the largest group among the parents who send their children to Christian schools across the nation are public school teachers and principals.

In a nationwide survey recently conducted among public school educators, the following statement was typical of the responses: "I prefer to send my children to a Christian school because Christ is central to all information taught and caught. The public school is basically humanistic and materialistic in its approach to life and the fundamental questions of human existence and purpose. The Christian school holds a unique position with the home and the church."

Christian school educators maintain discipline in the classroom and on the playground. Without a reasonable standard of discipline, the process of education is severely hampered.

"For whom the Lord loves, He chastens," the Bible teaches. It is within that context of love that discipline is carried out in a Christian school. This important feature of education is rapidly disappearing from public school education.

According to the recent Gallup Poll of Public Attitudes Toward Education, "Lack of discipline in the public schools again heads the list of problems cited most often by the survey respondents. Discipline has, in fact, been named the number one problem of the school in five of the last six years. New evidence of its importance comes from the special survey of high school juniors and seniors. An even higher percentage of this group names discipline as the leading problem faced by the local public school."

I believe that our children are gifts of the Lord, not wards of the state! It is we parents who have the responsibility to train them according to God's Word, not only at home and in church, but also in the school.

More and more parents, especially Christian parents, are coming to the conviction that secular public education and its representatives no longer present their personal parental views. These parents are exercising their freedom of choice by sending their children to Christian schools and colleges.

It is our purpose here at Booneville Christian Academy, not to deal in a competitive way with public school education, but merely to offer parents of like conviction an opportunity of exercising their God-given rights as Christian parents to give their children a quality education in a Christian environment.

Opposes Sales Tax On Food

Editor:

Gubernatorial candidates Winter and Carmichael have both expressed interest in helping the elderly with some kind of tax relief. People do not automatically become impoverished at age 65. Those who can pay with no more hardship than their juniors should be grateful for their good fortune and expect no special favors.

Any discounts or tax relief given the elderly should go to those with incomes and assets below a prescribed level. That would be cumbersome and would perpetuate the same stigma society unjustly attaches to welfare recipients. There is, however, one sure way to help those needy elderly about whom our candidates are rightly concerned: The sales tax on food bought at grocery stores for human consumption could be eliminated.

This kind of relief has several advantages. It is simple and immediate. It requires no application forms and no new bureaucracy. Its effects are certain and substantial. Over half of our states either never had a tax on food or have repealed it. Thus we know the idea is workable.

To be sure, others than the elderly would benefit. But the low income people of any age would feel the benefit more because they must allocate a greater proportion of their small budgets for food with a correspondingly less amount left for other necessities. And, are also interested in those persons in the prime of life who are struggling in this age of inflation to feed their growing families?

According to our tax commissioner's office, repeal of sales tax on food would reduce revenues by about $100 million. Compared with the over $2 billion collected annually by the state, there is no justification for crying fiscal poverty.

Thank you Gil Carmichael and William Winter for thinking of the elderly. As you continue thinking, please hold the above points in your minds.

Legislators Face Many Vital Issues

On Nov. 6 Mississippi voters will complete the process of electing new state leaders when they cast their ballots in the general election.

These leaders-many new to public office-will be required to face issues of vital concern to the future of Mississippi.

Issues which these new officials will address relate to education, taxation, transportation, state and local government organization, development of the state's resources, and providing an attractive business climate for new industry.

It is, therefore, necessary for concerned Mississippians to take an in-depth look at the choices offered and to evaluate the candidates' abilities and ideas on government. Only through effective leadership can Mississippi hope to solve lingering problems, cope with new challenges, and respond to new opportunities.

The Mississippi Economic Council suggests that citizens should be aware of the responsibilities of citizenship, as well as the mechanics of government, and then demand excellence through intelligent exercise of such knowledge. The Council also encourages the participation, involvement, and representation of all citizens in the governmental process.

The kind of government we have is based on the quality of its officials...and the quality of our officials is determined at the ballot box.

Senate Loses Legislative Talent

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—Mississippi's State Senate, once regarded as the more mature and sophisticated of the state's two legislative branches, has been, in the view of longtime legislative watchers, in a decline talent-wise ever since reapportionment came nearly two decades ago.

What now is in prospect for the next Senate that takes office here in January is even further slippage in experience and legislative talent, and a more rustic makeup than ever.

Already 24 of the 53 current members of the Senate have dropped by the wayside, either by defeat or by voluntary retirement. There's a strong possibility that two or three more may get left out in the Nov. 6 general election.

Perhaps the biggest loss in talent has come from the decision of several of the ablest younger members of the Senate who had headed some of the top committees not to seek re-election, due partly to the frustration they felt in the system and the relative incompetence of the Mississippi upper chamber.

More and more in recent years, the House, which a decade or two ago was the raw-boned, undisciplined end of the legislature, has gathered the better legislative talent in proportion to its numbers and become the more sophisticated, forceful legislative branch.

The Senate picture consequently looks rather grim as Brad Dye, once a member of that body, takes over as lieutenant governor and president of the Senate come January.

Dye himself was never known as one of those lawmakers who is addicted to hard legislative work and worrying about the nitty-gritty problems of making the Senate function as a more efficient and effective body. In his time in the Senate, he preferred to leave those chores to some of his more serious colleagues.

But now the pilot's seat with the task of having to make what appears a distinctly disjointed, inexperienced and rurally oriented mass of talent into something that resembles a functioning legislative organization.

Dye has been in a remarkable position from which to operate, having won the lieutenant governor's seat in the first Democratic primary back on August 7, and being the only high ranking state official not to face Republican opposition in November.

Apparently he has used this time to dangle committee assignments over the heads of prospective senators in return for a few key rules changes he wants to solidify the position of the lieutenant governor in relation to the Senate.

For one thing, he wants to abolish the Senate Services Committee, the lone attempt launched several years back toward getting closer together with the House for joint research, bill drafting and personnel management around the legislature. Dye wants to put those functions, particularly control over staff, back under the Rules Committee, and, the lieutenant governor.

He doesn't seem to be having any problem yet with his proposal, but there is an intensified interest now by some older senators in getting on the Rules committee, whose members are elected from the Senate ranks.

Meantime, the big problem for Dye is how to fill some 15 major committee chairmanships which have become vacant by the attrition among the present Senate membership. That problem, say some insiders, is further complicated because he doesn't have that many senators of chairmanship calibre from which to draw.

Everyone, of course, is watching closely whom he will name as chairman of Appropriations, the big job which Sen. John Corlew of Pascagoula has shouldered well when Bill Burgin was knocked out by a federal Kindness-In a remote district of Wales a baby boy lay dangerously ill. The widowed mother walked five miles through the night in the drenching rain to get the doctor. He hesitated about making the unpleasant trip. He questioned "Would it pay?" He knew that he would receive little money for his services, and besides, if the child were saved, he would only become a poor laborer. But love for humanity and a sense of professional responsibility conquered, and the little child's life was saved. Years after when this same child became first Chancellor of the Exchequer, and later Prime Minister of England, the old doctor said, "I never dreamed that in saving that child on the farm hearth, I was saving the life of a national leader." God is constantly justified in the responsibilities. He has place upon us for preserving both material and spiritual life-Selected

Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Deaton have returned from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wade Adams, Kim and Kaye in Kenosha, Wisc., Enroute home they had an overnight visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Franklin in Sullivan, Ill.

"Telephone Lady" and "Twitty Bird," what kind of bird can't fly? You two should know because it seems someone always has a quarter at coffee break.

Several club members have been on the sick list this week. "Little Kingfish" spent a few days in the hospital; "White Girl," is still not feeling well; "Twitty Bird" was unable to work almost all of the week; and "Little Birdhunter," "Little Bluejay," and "Little Blue Wave" have all been sick with colds. Hope everyone is feeling better soon.

Happy Birthday to "P.Q.," "Pee Wee," and "Buffalo." Hope each of you have a real nice birthday and have many more to look forward to.

Things have been busy around "Blue Lady's" house. Just within a few weeks she has pieced five quilt tops and quilted five quilts by herself. That's a good hobby and she'll sure stay warm this winter.

Saturday was a big day for 22 members of our club. They cut nine cords of wood for club members unable to help themselves. We appreciate everyone helping. A picnic lunch was enjoyed at noon on a picnic table at "Texas Ruby's" house.

"Upholstery Man," got some sawdust in his eye during the wood cutting and "Twitty Bird" had to take him to the emergency room.

DAV Field Reps To Visit Tupelo

Local Veterans & Families to Benefit From Free DAV Services

Free assistance for local veterans and their families will be available when a Field Service Unit of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Tupelo on Nov. 14. This is the sixth consecutive year that one of these office-equipped vans has traveled the state, bringing free counseling and claims service to veterans and their families.

The DAV Field Service Unit will be located at the Downtown Mall. These units are generally open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A fully qualified and trained DAV veterans' benefits expert will man the traveling service facility. He can assist veterans and their families in filing claims for such federal and state benefits as disability compensation, pension, employment and job training programs, educational benefits, hospitalization and medical care, Social Security, death claims, and more.

During the first five years of the DAV's nationwide tour with its fleet of nine Field Service Units, a quarter of a million veterans and dependents took advantage of this free service. As a result of these visits, DAV National Service Officers filed 80,000 claims for disability compensation and pension benefits alone. Thousands of claims for other government benefits were also filed.

Veterans need not be members of the DAV to take advantage of this free service. The project is an extension of the 600,000-member organization's 50-year-old National Service Program, that provides a variety of assistance at no cost to veterans and their families. Under the program, the DAV employs 280 full-time National Service Officers—85 percent of whom are disabled veterans of the Vietnam War period—at facilities across the country.

During the most recent full year for which statistics are available, these veterans benefits specialists handled 243,000 individual cases, winning federal benefits totaling $609 million for veterans and their families.

"It's surprising how many people don't even know about benefits they're entitled to by law until they step into one of our mobile offices," said DAV National Adjutant Denzel D. Adams. Explaining the need for the program, Adams added, "Many veterans, dependents and widows live some distance from VA facilities where DAV services are available. Our Field Service Unit program carries these services right to the doorsteps of these people."

DAV officials urge veterans of all wars—particularly disabled veterans—to take advantage of this free service by visiting the DAV mobile office to discuss any problems or questions they may have concerning veterans' benefits. "Special emphasis is placed on Vietnam Era veterans," said Adams, "because many of these men and women aren't using the benefits they've earned."

Local DAV and DAV Auxiliary members are cooperating with the DAV's National Headquarters to bring this special service program to the area.

Learn Talent, Ability To Prepare For Future

By WANDA ROBINSON
4-H Program Assistant

LEARN TO EARN

Many youth are now trying to choose a livelihood to their future. To make a right decision, you must determine what your talents and abilities are. It would also be wise to consider recommendations of your guidance counselor.

After deciding upon a career or narrowing the possibilities, you must decide if academic, trade, or technical training will best qualify you for your chosen profession.

Where can you get the specific educational training to qualify you for the job and want? If you are interested in learning a trade or a specialized skill, the opportunities have never been better. The labor market experts point out that barely 2 out of 10 jobs now require a college degree.

In your decision making, investigate the alternatives before making a choice. These points may be helpful:

(1) You must like and want to pursue the education or training for the specific career you choose.

(2) College graduates can expect to earn more during their lifetime than nongraduates. The average earnings of skilled workers ranked fourth in the 10 occupational groups used by the labor department.

(3) The status of tradesmen and technical workers is now strengthened by the federal government's career education emphasis.

The main control of mites is to eliminate the nesting or roosting sites of birds and rodents. Insecticide sprays containing 2 to 3 percent malathion, 2 to 3 percent chlordane or 0.5 percent diazinon are effective for spot treatment. Ag And Forestry Museum Under Construction In Jackson

Mississippi's farm and forestry leaders are preparing to broaden the base of financial support for the state's Agricultural and Forestry Museum now under construction on a 39 acre site donated by the City of Jackson alongside the city's Interstate system.

Hugh Arant of Ruleville, president of a newly created foundation to support development and operation of the museum, said that committees currently are being organized in the counties for a grassroots campaign that will bring the opportunity to all Mississippians to assist in a small way in the development of the museum.

"For only 75 cents donated by every citizen of Mississippi," Arant said, "we can provide $1½ million that we anticipate will be needed to provide this state with the educational institution that will be developed in and through this museum. And we believe that our people in all walks of life will want to be a part of this undertaking. The museum will be so much more than a mirror into the past. While it will preserve for future generations our colorful past, it will be a tremendous educational force for the future as well," he said.

Arant pointed out that the 20,000 square foot museum now under construction received a $1½ million appropriation at the outset from the Mississippi legislature. This basic building will house exhibits that will come alive with theatrical settings, track spotlights, floor-to-ceiling panels, photo murals, and life-size models. Audio-visual presentations and graphic text will be combined with maximum and changing uses of artifacts to tell the fascinating story of Mississippi development.

Funds donated by individuals and businesses, Arant added, will be necessary to fully develop the site with a typical Mississippi village using actual structures from throughout the state which have been donated for removal to the museum site. Among the authentic relics from typical Mississippi crossroads villages will be a working cane mill, blacksmith shop, gristmill, cotton gin, and sawmill. Also to be preserved and perpetuated on the site will be pioneer homes, a church, and the all purpose country or general store.

Also on the site the original and added landscaping will be in the fashion of an arboretum, or tree park, displaying the various tree species that grow in Mississippi and the major forest types. Outdoor exhibits will explain the wildlife, geophysical features and distribution of forest types in the state.

"These features," Arant said, "will assure this state of a museum facility that will serve as a valuable educational institution as well as museum, and will attract student groups and tourists in great numbers.

"This project was well researched and studies made of similar museums throughout the United States which have proven highly popular and successful.

"Individual and business solicitations will be made to meet these needs during the second half of November, and we urge all citizens to share in this progressive project for Mississippi," Arant concluded.

Rare Canine Disease Studied At DSU

CLEVELAND, Miss.—A Delta State University entomologist and a Cleveland veterinarian have submitted a case study they believe will add significantly to the knowledge of a rare, sometimes fatal canine disease that recently was reported for the first time in Mississippi.

The disease, Ehrlichiosis, is transmitted by the Brown Dog Tick, and affects the circulatory system of domestic and wild canines. So rare is its occurrence that little literature exists on the illness and it is seldom suspected in routine diagnoses.

However, Dr. Frank Branch, Jr., doctor of veterinary medicine, began suspecting a severe case of the malady in a registered Irish Setter found near Cleveland in early September and reported his findings to Dr. Johnny D. Ouzts, associate dean of the School of Arts and Sciences at Delta State University.

A blood sample from the Setter was sent to the University of Illinois which confirmed the disease Oct. 1 after running additional laboratory tests. The animal was transferred to the teaching hospital of the School of Veterinary Medicine at Mississippi State University for continued observation and treatment.

Ouzts and Branch were asked to submit a report on the case study to "Veterinary Medicine and Small Animal Clinician" a professional journal interested in expanding the available literature on Ehrlichiosis and alerting other veterinarians to its symptoms and possibility of occurrence.

Symptoms of the disease which is not transmissible to humans, include nose bleed, weight loss, high temperature, severe lethargy and severe anemia, said Ouzts. Most susceptible are large species of dogs, especially hunting dogs and other permitted to roam widely.

"While the disease is rare, it carrier, the Brown Dog Tick, is the most common species of tick," Ouzts said.

"Ehrlichiosis has been detected in Florida and Texas, and one case was found in Arkansas in 1977," Ouzts said, "but a review of literature revealed that no cases have been reported in Mississippi."

Branch and Ouzts agreed the Mississippi case presented no cause for alarm since the disease is detected by a blood test and treatment is relatively simple in its early stages.

However, they agreed that suspicious dog owners should take their animals to a veterinarian if symptoms occur because Ehrlichiosis can progress from a mild form to severe chronic, possibly resulting in mortality within 60 to 120 days.

Treatment ranges from injection of an antibiotic to whole blood transfusions, depending on the severity of the affliction.

'Devils Waltz To Victory Over Chieftans

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

Blue Devil quarterback Buddy Hall and halfback Braddock Miller combined for six touchdowns here Friday night to aid Booneville's Blue Devils in a 41-19 romp over Iuka's Chieftans in a 'Bigbee' matchup at Chieftan Field.

Hall had his best night of the year scoring three six pointers on the ground while catching another while Miller added two tallies on the ground and threw another. The duo also chipped in with some two point conversions for a battle royal for the night's work.

The Devils scored more in this single game than they had the entire season. Before Friday's outing, the Devils had registered 35 points in eight ballgames, and Friday's 41 point total moved the Devils scoring list to a respectable 76 points.

From the start of the football game, it appeared that the Devils came to play football and one could plainly see that the men with the horns were not to be denied in this one.

Booneville put 25 points on the board in the first half and added 16 more in the final two frames to post their third victory of the season in nine ballgames and boost their Tombigbee Conference mark to an even 3-3 record with two more conference outings yet to follow.

The Chieftans broke on the scoring column first on the opening drive of the game. Iuka quarterback Bobby Dooley broke off right guard and raced 65 yards for the first six pointer of the night. The extra point followed and the Chieftans opened up a 7-0 lead. This one didn't last very long. The determined Blue Devils came right back on their first possession of the game to chalk up their first score.

Booneville's Braddock Miller took the Chieftan kickoff and ran it back to the Iuka 30 yard line. Freshman back Greg Oakley then thrilled the Booneville fans with a burst off right tackle and ran it to the four yard line.

Quarterback Buddy Hall then scored the first of his three six pointers on the ground on a run over left guard. Hall added the point after to tie the game at 7-7.

Booneville's second score came just minutes later when Miller intercepted a Dooley spiral and run it in from 20 yards out to give the 'Devils the lead for good. The extra point was blocked and the Devils held a 13-7 lead.

The first quarter ended but not the scoring. Second quarter action left off right where the first ended.

A Chieftan penalty spotted the ball at the Iuka 28 yard line. Senior back Ed Caveness carried for five yards to the 23 and Hall, on a keeper play, carried on a burst off right guard to the three yard line. After two incomplete passes from the three yard line, Hall handed off to Miller and raced to the endzone where Miller found him on a halfback option pass for the Devils third score of the night. The two point conversion attempt failed and Booneville held a 19-7 lead.

The Devils came back again just minutes later: for another tally, after Booneville held the Chieftans freshman Bernard Anderson brought the ball back to the Booneville 44 yard line.

On the second play from scrimmage, Hall, who had his best night of the year, scampered 56 yards to score. The two point conversion again failed and the Devils held a 25-7 lead.

Luka got on the boards again with 2:27 left in the first half when quarterback Dooley fired a touchdown pass to Mike Thomas to trim the Devil margin. The two point conversion attempt failed and Booneville led 25-13 at the intermission.

Both teams played to a scoreless third quarter but the fourth quarter lit up the sky again with fireworks.

After the Devils took ball possession in good field condition, Hall lit up the scoring charts again with his fourth touchdown of the night. The Devil signal caller then threw to Miller for the two point conversion to give the Devils a 33-13 lead.

The Devils final score came later in the final period. Miller, who has been the workhorse for the Devils the past few weeks broke loose on a 50 yard scamper that move the ball deep in Chieftan territory and then the 149 pound junior halfback capped off the drive with his second tally of the night. With a four yard run. Hall then threw to (guess who) yep Miller again for the two point conversion for the Devils final points of the night.

The Chieftans, trailing 41-13 late in the game, made the score just a little more respectable anyway when they added one final six pointer before the horn sounded.

With some five minutes left in the game, Dooley fired a touchdown strike to Keith Curtis for the Chieftans third and final tally of the night. The two point conversion again failed and the Devils held on from there to post their third victory of the '79 season.

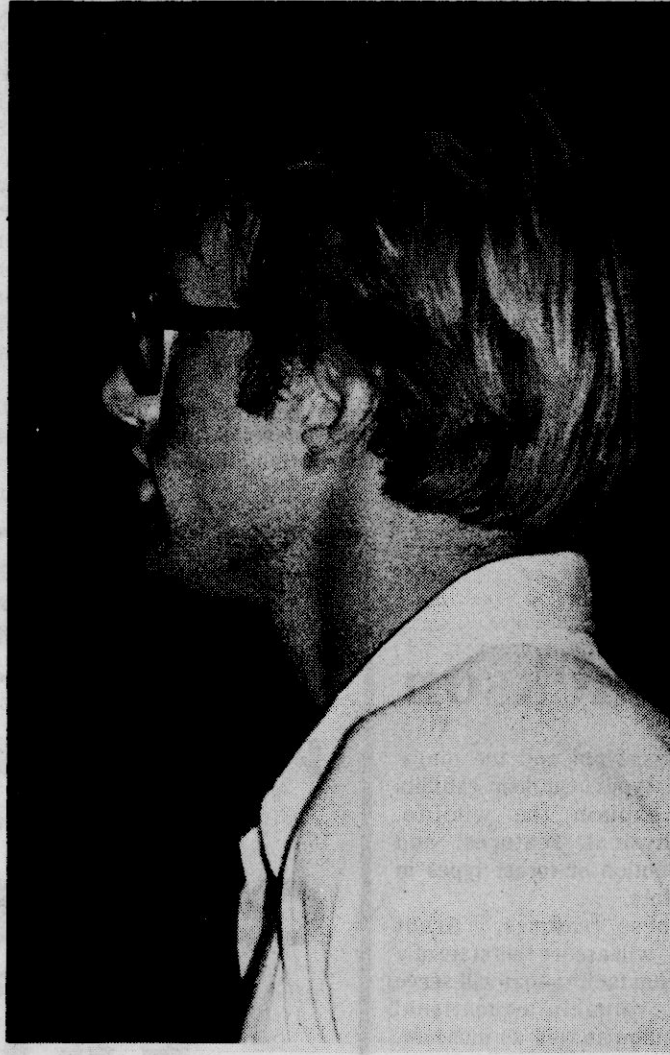

Booneville's troop travels to Okolona Friday night to face the Chieftans and then follows with their final outing of the year next Friday night when they host one of the powerhouses of the Tombigbee Conference, Ripley's Tigers. Blue Devil coach Mac Curlee said prior to Friday's game with Iuka that he felt like the Devils had improved and added that he hoped the Devils were ready for the Friday night encounter.

Ready they were as the Blue Devils put on a show for the Booneville fans...

Tigers Put It On The Line Tonight

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers put in all on the line at Senatobia tonight when the fight for their lives for a spot in the Mississippi Junior College Playoffs.

The Tigers, now 5-4 on the year, and 4-1 in the North Mississippi Junior College Conference, will have to battle the second place Northwest Rangers in a do or die situation with the winner finishing second in the North.

IUKA—Iuka High School of the Tombigbee Conference has plans for renovating its gym. Dr. Jerry Stone, superintendent of schools, said that the project was part of a $550,000 bond issue.

The bond issue was passed, but the bonds haven't been sold.

Plans call for more seating, renovation of dressing rooms, improved lighting and a new playing floor.

back to the drawing board and look ahead for next season.

Northeast head coach Bill Ward said he hoped the Tigers were ready to play tonight. "We've worked hard all week long and the players know what they have in store. They have to win this one, there is no looking back at this stage."

Ward said the Tigers have had it rough this season. "We've had a tough season this year," he said. "I think the JUCO has been more evenly matched this year than in the past. "A couple of weeks ago, we had to play two number one football teams in a row."

"I like to play this type football," Ward added. "It's always tough to play a team Northwest on the road like tonight's game but we know what we have to do and I like it this way. Oh, don't get me wrong. I'd like to have a little more breathing room, but we just don't have that time."

The Tigers have lost just one conference game this season, that coming to the hands of Itawamba's Indians at Fulton. Northwest holds the best overall record but they too have lost one game and the victor tonight would take over second place and would advance to the State Playoffs.

This Week's Choices

Last week's prognosticators fared pretty well in all phases of the prediction chart since no real upset occurred, at least in the college ranks.

High School and junior college action went pretty much as expected although a few surprises did occur.

The big game of the week in high school came when Baldwin's Bearcats dropped a fired up bunch of New Albany Bulldogs at the 'Dogs home field.

The Bearcats have played well all season and came out with a big one here against New Albany coach Ben Jones who has the Dogs in first place of the Little Ten Conference.

In last week's chart, The Sports Desk, along with Charles Brown each correctly predicted nine out of 12 games while coach Lee Stewart followed closely behind with 8-12.

Big Game Tonight With Northwest

Missed Conversion Aides NE Tiger Victory

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

A missed two point conversion attempt by Delta's Trojans in the latter stages of the game proved to be vital here Saturday night and gave the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers a 15-14 victory over Delta's Trojans before a home crowd at Tiger Stadium.

Trailing by a single point late in the game, the Trojan head mentor elected to do what most coaches would do and go for the win instead of a tie.

Delta had charged a fourth quarter drive that put them within a point of tying the Tigers and knocking them out of a possible playoff birth. But the Trojans came with the intentions of winning the game and tried for the two pointer.

With the entire Northeast boosters on their feet, Delta, after scoring the TD, went wide to the right on the conversion attempt and the Tigers stopped them even before the Delta runner reached the line of scrimmage.

All the Tiger fans gave a sigh of relief when the play was stopped and one could see the delighted look on the Northeast plays both on and off the field.

The Tigers almost had to win the Saturday night contest to stay in contention for a playoff birth in the State JUCO series.

The win also made tonight's ballgame with Northeast all so very important. And to think it all came down to a two point conversion attempt that failed.

The Tigers battle Northwest Rangers tonight at Senatobia and a victory would send the Northeast pawmen into the State Junior College Playoffs.

Early in the game, the Tigers looked as if they would breeze through the North battle with the Trojans.

Northeast jumped out to an early 16-0 lead and seem to be heading for an easy victory but had to fight for their lives in the final two quarters of play.

Northeast's first score came with 10 minutes left in the first period of play. The Tigers took ball possession at the NE 39 yard line and promptly drove 58 yards in seven plays.

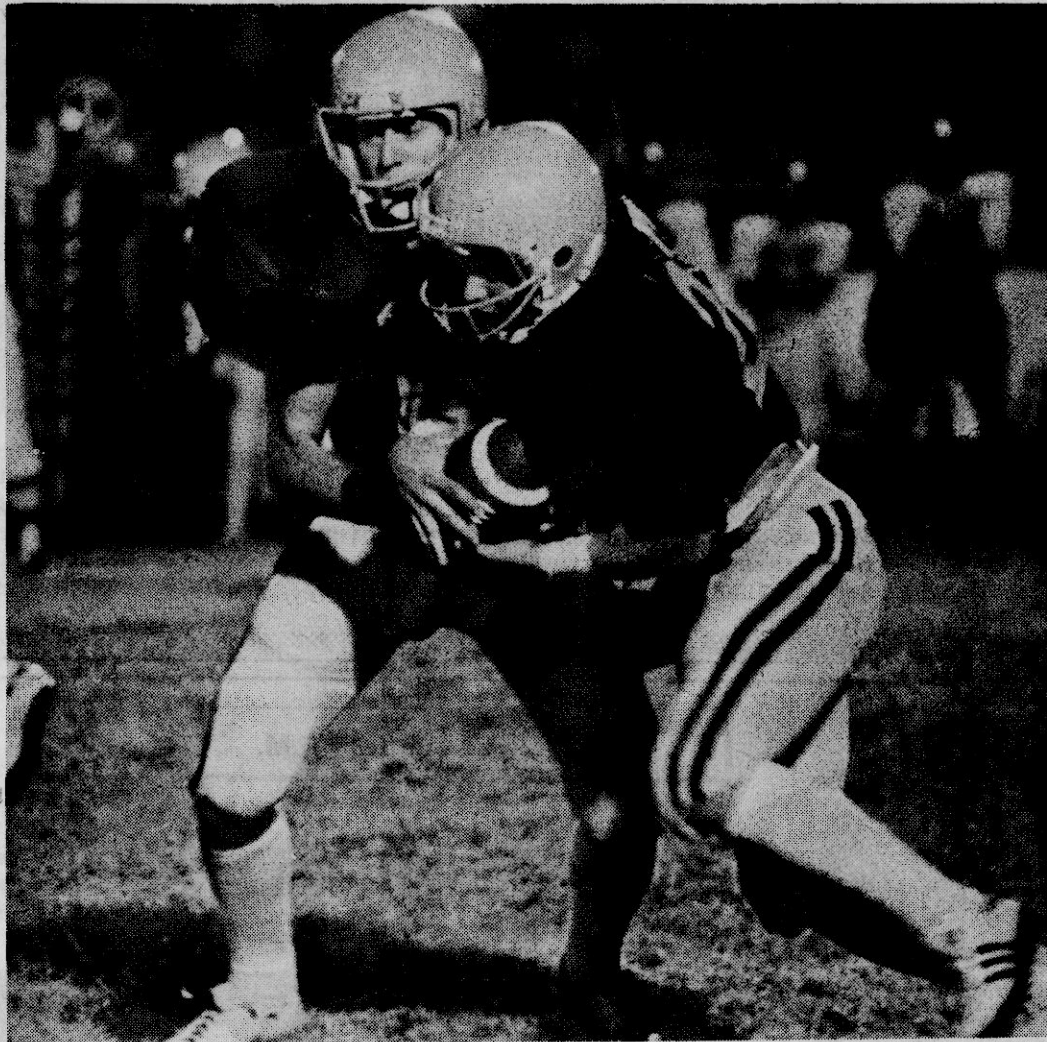

Tiger runningback Anthony Norman, a 165 pound freshman, clipped off 30 big yards in the drive while back Randy Cochran, a 195 pounder, got the final yard on his touchdown run.

The Tigers came right back after this on another drive. The Tigers moved the ball down to the 29 yard line. The drive stalled there and Corinth placekicker Jim Tsagarakis promptly split the uprights with a 39 yard field goal to give the Tigers a 9-0 lead in the opening period of play.

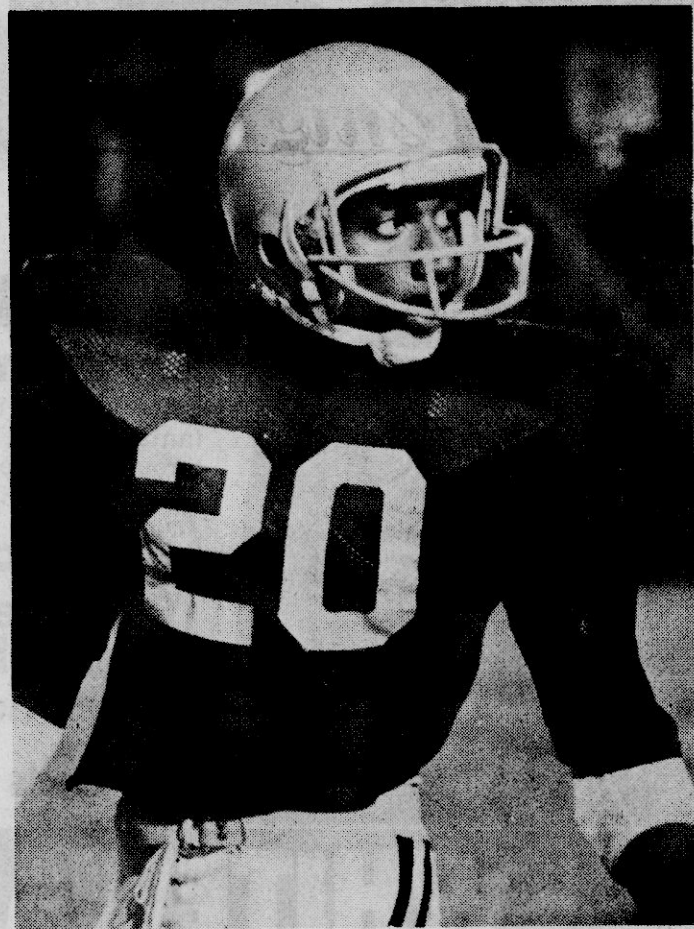

Northeast, playing like they could run all over the Delta squad, came right back at em again. This time it was a 56 yard march for the Tigers second touchdown drive of the first half.

The Northeast offense, directed by offensive coordinator Billy Southward, moved the ball on both the left and right side of the football field and marched 56 yards to paydirt.

NE quarterback Al Graves,

HANDOFF—Northeast quarterback Al Graves hands off to Tiger runningback Butch Ayers in last Saturday's battle with Delta at Tiger Stadium. The Tigers took a 15-14 victory.

TRIPLITT ON THE MOVE—Northeast's Michael Triplett, who has been a valuable asset to the Northeast Tigers all year had a fine night Saturday against Delta's Trojans. Triplett has been one of the workhorses for the Tigers this season.

Marietta Drops New Site

Marietta Junior High took a three game stand over New Site last Monday night in local basketball action.

Marietta's B Boys took a 46-18 decision in the opening game while the Marietta girls dropped New Site 109-4 in the second contest and Marietta's A boys dropped the Baby Royals 71-18 in the nightcap.

Melissa Whitley broke an alltime record (as far as the books go) scoring a remarkable 61 points to lead the Marietta girls followed by Michelle Young with 22.

In B boys action, Ronald Clark led the scoring charts with 12 points followed by Joey Hughes with 11 and Kip Loden with 10.

In A boys action, Mark Barnes led the Marietta scoring bridge with 32 points followed by Duane Snyder with 14 and Rodney Moore with 11.

Thrasher Drops Wheeler For Tourney Title

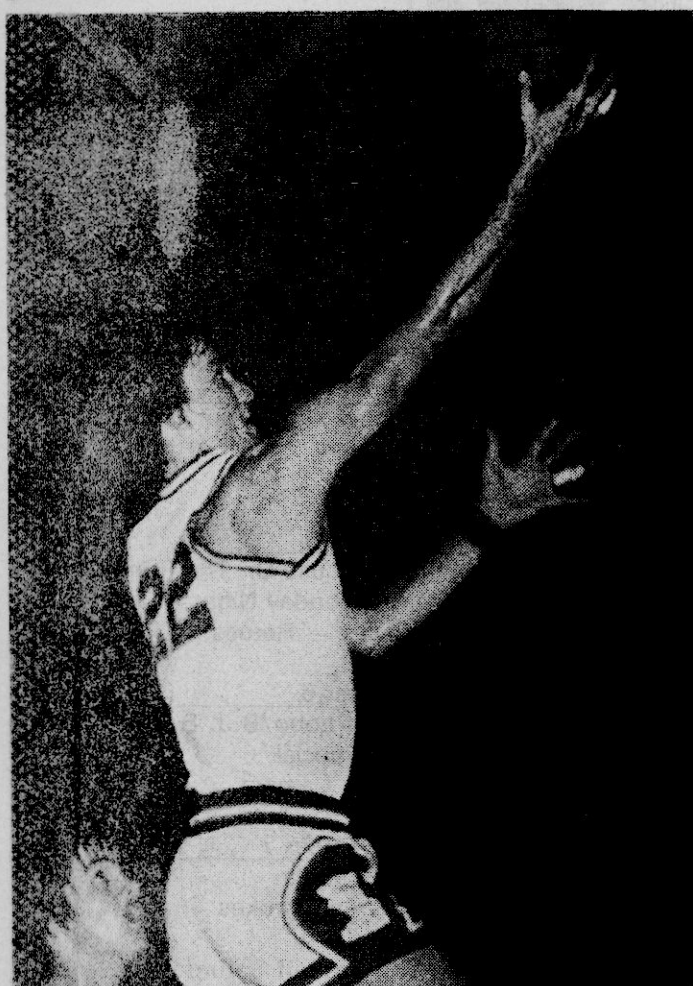

"We played well defensively and offensively we played the type ball needed to win," expressions from Thrasher head boys coach Jacky Rowsey after Thrasher's Rebels took first place honors in the Thrasher Basketball Tournament with a 62-56 victory in Saturday night's finals, over Wheeler's Eagles.

In girl's action Belmont's Cardinales earned the coveted girls titles with a 60-49 victory over Thrasher's Rebelettes.

The Saturday night win for the Rebels was the troop's fifth of the year without a loss and also their first tournament victory of the season.

Coach Rowsey said he was fairly pleased with the Rebels performance during the tournament but added that there were several spots that needed some work.

"We did play our game most of the time in the tournament with the exception of the New Site game. They made us play their game," Rowsey said.

Deborah Parker led the Belmont girls in opening game action with 24 points; while Kim Coker and Shelia Lawhon added 10 points each.

Pam Johnson paced the Rebelette attack with 16 points followed by Monte Hiare with 10 and Lisa Shook with eight.

Bearcats Win Over Bulldogs

NEW ALBANY—Baldwyn's Bearcats had one of their better nights here Friday night and took a 16-13 victory New Albany's Bulldogs before the Bulldog home fans at W.P. Daniels Field.

The Bearcats had to come from behind in the outing, but did indeed and picked up their sixth victory of the '79 season.

One would have to say the Bearcat defense earned the 'Cats the Friday night win. The monstermen, known this year as one of top defenses in North Mississippi, did a spectacular job in holding the powerful New Albany offense to 13 points.

Quarterback Terry Hatch opened the scoring up for the Bulldogs in the second quarter after both teams played a scoreless first period.

Hatch, the Bulldog's top signal caller capped off a long New Albany drive and scored from one yard out.

Bulldog placekicker Mickey Basil added the point after and the Bulldogs took a 7-0 lead.

The Bearcats didn't let this bother them. Trailing 7-0 at the half, Baldwyn opened their scoring in the third period when runningback Dennis Anderson plunged in from eight yards out. Bearcat quarterback Ray Scott tossed to Tim Devaughn for the two point conversion to give the Bearcats an 8-7 lead.

The Bearcats didn't let this bother them. Trailing 7-0 at the half, Baldwyn opened their scoring in the third period when runningback Dennis Anderson plunged in from eight yards out. Bearcat quarterback Ray Scott tossed to Tim Devaughn for the two point conversion to give the Bearcats an 8-7 lead.

The Bearcats came back after this to score their second tally of the night. This time it was Anderson again on a three yard run. Then the big play of the game, Scott again tossed a two pointer, this time to Ronnie Grice and the Bearcats took a 16-7 lead.

New Albany came back to score another six pointer when Adam Martin threw 40 yards to Larry Cameron and the extra point failed.

The Bearcats held on from there to take the three point victory.

The Bearcats return home this Friday night with a battle with Alcorn Central's Golden Bears at Latimer Park.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 33

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE 6 OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONSTITUTION OF 1890, TO ADD A NEW SECTION, TO BE DESIGNATED AS SECTION 177A, AUTHORIZING THE LEGISLATURE TO CREATE A COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL PERFORMANCE.

Amend Article 6 of the Mississippi Constitution of 1890 by adding a new section, to be designated as Section 177A, to read as follows:

"Section 177A. There shall be a Commission on Judicial Performance of the State of Mississippi, to be composed of seven (7) members; three (3) of whom shall be judges of courts of record in the state which are trial courts of original jurisdiction, other than justice courts; one (1) member who shall be a justice court judge; two (2) lay persons who reside in the state and who have never held judicial office or been members of the bar of Mississippi; and one (1) practicing attorney who has practiced law in the state for at least ten (10) years. All judicial members are to be appointed by the judiciary of the State of Mississippi as provided by law. Restrictions on the members of the commission may be imposed by statute. Members of the Commission on Judicial Performance not subject to impeachment shall be subject to removal from the commission by two-thirds (2/3) vote of the Supreme Court sitting en banc.

On recommendation of the Commission on Judicial Performance, the Supreme Court may remove from office, suspend, fine or publicly censure or reprimand any justice or judge of this state for: (a) actual conviction of a felony in a court other than a court of the State of Mississippi; (b) willful misconduct in office; (c) willful and persistent failure to perform his duties; (d) habitual intemperance in the use of alcohol or other drugs; or (e) conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice which brings the judicial office into disrepute; and may retire involuntarily any justice or judge for physical or mental disability seriously interfering with the performance of his duties, which disability is or is likely to become of a permanent character.

A recommendation of the Commission on Judicial Performance for the censure, removal or retirement of a justice of the Supreme Court shall be determined by a tribunal of seven (7) judges selected by lot from a list consisting of all the circuit and chancery judges at a public drawing by the Secretary of State. The vote of the tribunal to censure, remove or retire a justice of the Supreme Court shall be by secret ballot and only upon two-thirds (2/3) vote of the tribunal.

All proceedings before the commission shall be confidential, except upon unanimous vote of the commission. After a recommendation of removal or public reprimand of any justice or judge is filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court, the charges and recommendations of the commission shall be made public. The commission may, with two-thirds (2/3) of the members concurring, recommend to the Supreme Court the temporary suspension of any justice or judge against whom formal charges are pending. All proceedings before the Supreme Court under this section and any final decisions made by the Supreme Court shall be made public as in other cases at law."

$20,000 Estimated

Boys' Town Damaged By Frederick

During the past 25 years, Magnolia Boys Town located on Boguehouma Lake at Laurel has withstood several storms, including Camille, and over 1,200 boys. But none have ever caused the damage of Hurricane Fredrick.

Henry Bucklew, director of Magnolia Boys' Town, said the estimates of damage are over $20,000.

The roof was destroyed;

there was interior damage to the sheet rock on ceilings and walls; floors buckled because of water damage; windows were destroyed and the paint was damaged.

Director Buckley said, "We are just thankful our boys were unhurt."

In addition to the loss at the home, a tree fell across the offices of the home, causing severe damage.

"Our first concern is for the care and welfare of our boys," Buckley said. "Now more than ever in our 25 years helping needy boys we must have help to repair and replace our storm damage. Because of the continued water damage, we have been able to get the roof replaced with the help of several very special friends.

We will now start repairing the inside and we ask the help of all our friends to assist us."

"In our 25 years we have never closed our doors and we are confident friends will assist us now with this most urgent need," Bucklew said.

"Pop, the boys and myself will do most of the labor if we can get the needed materials," he added.

Financing Is Important To Farmers

Hit hard by inflation and unpredictable markets, many farmers and ranchers are taking their first plunge into the strange world of Congressional legislation this month.

Most of them would rather concentrate on their crops and livestock, but they have thrust themselves into testifying, phoning and letter writing to protect and promote the cooperative credit system they depend on for their extensive financing.

"To survive, we need every competitive option we can get on whatever we purchase and that should include various forms of insurance," Dan Crumpton of Clarksdale, Miss., told a House subcommittee in October.

The statement could have been made by any urban consumer advocate, but Crumpton was speaking on behalf of his rural cooperative, the Clarksdale Production Credit Association.

It was just a coincidence that Crumpton was having to defend his cooperative during Cooperative Month, the annual October observance of the centuries-old cooperative concept, a granddaddy of the consumer movement.

The cause of the sudden farmer legislative activity is a bill titled "Farm Credit Act Amendments of 1979," which was introduced in both the Senate and House this summer. It is an attempt to update the 1971 law that governs Production Credit associations, Federal Land Bank associations and Banks for Cooperatives.

The bill has drawn some opposition from commercial bank groups and large export companies. Insurance organizations have also taken advantage of the re-opening of the legislation to attack the insurance programs authorized by the 1971 Farm Credit Act.

But farmers and ranchers have been quick to defend the PCAs, Land Bank associations and Banks for Cooperatives which they own. They depend on the Farm credit cooperatives for about $50 billion worth of financing to keep their operations going.

Although legislation is a new field for many of them, they have made up for their lack of experience with an impressive showing of genuine concern, country candor and personal observations.

After hearing some of the farmers testify in Memphis, U.S. Rep. Ed Madigan (R-Ill.) laughingly said that he listens very carefully whenever a witness humbly identifies himself as "just a dirt farmer."

U.S. Rep. Ed Jones (D-Tenn.) chairman of the House subcommittee on agricultural credit and conservation, added that he prefers to conduct hearings "in the boondocks" because he feels he gets more meaningful testimony there than he does from professional witnesses in Washington.

The farmers applauded. Farmers and ranchers from six Southern states testified at the two-day hearing conducted by Jones in Memphis.

Besides Crumpton, the witnesses included T. Herman Vann of Huntsville, Ala., Billy Ross Brown of Oxford, Miss., Warren Price Jr., of Ethel, La., Earl Jackson of Mobile, Ala., and Barton Redditt of Greenwood, Miss., all PCA members.

It was the first Congressional testifying experience for most of them, but they drew constant praise from Jones and Madigan.

"I submit to you, Mr. Chairman, that we need to be able to buy our insurance or get any other of our inputs from the person or institutions that will provide them to us at the least possible cost," Redditt said.

"The competition which is created through this (insurance) program will be very beneficial to the farmer,"

Barton added. "Under our present free enterprise system competition of this nature should be allowed to develop."

But it was the farmers' grass roots personal experiences that seemed to get most attention from the Congressmen.

Vann, who has been farming for about four decades, ended the hearing with some of the most impressive testimony, relating the rude awakening he had when a tornado struck his area, killing 18 people on an adjacent farm.

"When that tornado had gone through, people began to look at the insurance coverage they had. They found in most instances their coverage was only a small fraction of what they needed to replace their farm buildings," he said.

It was a solid point for more insurance competition and service, he said.

Additional hearings on the 28-point bill will be held around the nation and in Washington this month. They are expected to prompt even more farms to speak up for their cooperatives.

Lung Association Sponsors Contest

"Smoking and Health" is the subject of the third annual statewide essay contest sponsored by the Mississippi Lung Association, announced Dr. John F. Busey of Jackson, president of the Christmas Seal voluntary health organization.

Announcements outlining rules and regulations have been sent to all Mississippi schools. Any regularly enrolled 8th or 10th grade student is eligible to participate. Eighth and tenth grade teachers are asked to select two essays in local classrooms as preliminary winners and send them to the Mississippi Lung Association in Jackson for statewide judging. Deadline for entry is November 16, 1979.

All entries will be judged as to content, accuracy of statements, originality and effectiveness. Winners will be announced in mid-December.

Twelve prizes will be awarded. First, second and third place winners will be chosen in each of the following categories 8th grade girls, 8th grade boys, 10th grade girls and 10th grade boys. Prizes will be: 1st place, $25.00; 2nd place, $15.00 and 3rd place, $10.00.

Additionally, all four first place winners will be invited to come to Jackson in late December to tape a television program, "Access," with Mr. Jack Schweitzer, host. The television program featuring the top essay winners will be aired in January 1980 on the Mississippi Educational Television Network during National Education Week on Smoking.

The Mississippi Lung Association will furnish resource material, free of charge, upon request. Dr. Busey added that requests for educational pamphlets, films and posters on smoking and its subsequent health hazards are increasing. A wide variety of educational material is available year-round from the Mississippi Lung Association.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Banking On Time

By C. D. Edge

So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. Psalm 90:12.

Wouldn't it be wonderful, someone was heard to say, if there were such a thing as a time bank? Imagine all those hours, stacked up in a savings account, just waiting for us to use them at our discretion. How we could plan for the future! And if we kept a number of them on deposit, we could collect a percentage of interest on them, perhaps enough to live on and prolong life indefinitely.

We all realize that this is just a dream and nothing more. Yet interestingly a part of it is true. We do have a time bank. It is one of our many birthday blessings from God-together with His gifts of breath, and sight, and taste, and the ability to love. There are only two stipulations which He makes when He grants us these precious days. First, we are not to know how many He has put on deposit for us, and second, we must continually and without ceasing make regular and equal withdrawals-24 hours a day.

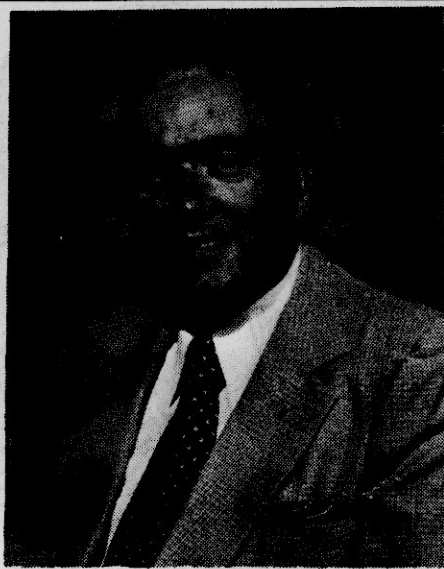

While in this mortal life, each of us is given different total deposits, we are all equal in the rate at which we can tap them. Our only concern, then, should be to use them wisely, just as in Jesus' parable of the three men and their talents, it was not how much each had that counted. The question the giver asked when he returned was, what did you do with them?

Teach us to number our days, asks the Psalmist of the Lord, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. This means learning to live life to the fullest as God shows us the way. For as Jesus pointedly noted, no man knows the hour when his Master shall come and ask for an accounting of his stewardship. And the stewardship of time given to us to learn of Him and love Him is the most precious talent we have.

No one can stop time. You can seize the present moment and invest it in the personal acceptance of the Lord Jesus Christ as Saviour, and thus be saved for time and for eternity. Acts 16:31 says, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. John 3:36 tells us, He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life.

Why not share our faith: Have phone-will call; Have pen-will write; Have interest-will come; Have car-will bring; Have money-will tithe; Have voice-will sing; Have concern-will pray; Have conviction-will share. Wise Christians will use all the talents that God has given, applying John 9:4 to their lives-I must work the works of Him that sent me, while it is day: The night cometh, when no man can work. My friend Jesus said this and He speaks only truth. You can bank on it.

Army Offers New Reserve Program

The Department of the Army has announced a new program designed to increase officer strength in the Reserve Components by making unit membership available to Army ROTC cadets, and by permitting men and women enlisted in Reserve units to simultaneously enroll in Advance Course ROTC. Called the ROTC Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP), it changes previous policy which did not allow an individual to participate in both programs at the same time.

What it means in terms of dollars and cents is that those who take advantage of the program receive the ROTC Advanced Course subsistence payment of $100 per month, plus at least $70 per month for part-time training, 16 hours per month, with an Army Reserve unit.

SMP permits participants enrolled in ROTC Advanced Course to serve as officer-trainees in Army Reserve units, in a paid enlisted status. The program does have some limitations; for example, students on ROTC scholarships are not eligible for simultaneous membership.

Eligible Reservists; either those already in troop units or those serving in the Individual Ready Reserve manpower pool, are now able to take two-year Advanced ROTC at one of the 276 colleges and universities and 600 cross-enrollment schools which offer Army ROTC. As SMP participants, ROTC cadets will be assigned to a Reserve Unit near school for part-time monthly officer training plus two weeks of Annual Training, all with pay.

The Army anticipates high acceptance of the SMP offer among college students already in the Army ROTC program, but priority for acceptance into SMP is being given to the thousands of individuals who are eligible within Reserve ranks and to civilians with prior military service.

The Army also sees the high school senior as having strong potential for SMP enrollment.

A senior can include Army ROTC in college curriculum plans and join the Army Reserve before high school graduation. Then, by taking initial military entry training the summer before entering college, the student starts Army ROTC as a member of the Advanced Course. This means the student can be eligible for early commissioning after completion of the sophomore year. He or she then continues to serve with the nearby Reserve unit during the two remaining years of college with the rank and pay of a second lieutenant. Following college, SMP officers can be selected to serve a period of Active Duty, or may continue to have a part-time career in the Army Reserve.

The SMP has certain limitations and, of course, qualifications must be met. To summarize certain basic conditions of the program, the cadet participant will:

- Serve as an officer-trainee.
- Be paid in the grade and years of service attained in the Reserve (in addition to the $100 month ROTC subsistence payment), but not less than the equivalent of E-5 (sergeant).
- Generally be assigned the duties of a second lieutenant, under the direct supervision of a commissioned officer.
- Be assigned to a unit on the basis of an officer vacancy or projected vacancy. (The total number of officer-trainees will not exceed 4 percent of total unit strength.)
- Be required to meet the same standards of satisfactory performance required of all other officers in the Reserve.
- In the event of mobilization for war or National emergency, be treated as either a commissioned officer or potential officer. The cadet may be commissioned and mobilized with the unit or be provided additional training prior to commissioning.
- Be retained in the Selected Reserve in the highest enlisted grade attained until the completion of military service obligation (six years from date of enlistment), should the cadet fail to complete Advanced ROTC or fail to be tendered a commission.

Storm Doors Cut Winter Fuel Bills

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Installing storm doors is one excellent way to reduce heat loss and heating bills in the upcoming months, says Bob Mayo, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service agricultural engineer.

If you consider purchasing storm doors for your home, keep the following suggestions in mind when making your decision.

Check the finish. A plain aluminum finish will oxidize; this decreases both the attractiveness and ease of door operation. Wooden or steel storm doors cost about the same as aluminum doors.

The quality of construction affects the strength and performance of the door. The quality of locks and catches will also affect the door's durability.

Check the corners to make sure they are strong and airtight. If you can see through the joints on a storm door, they will leak air. The quality of weatherstripping can also affect how airtight the doors are. Compare several types of weatherstripping before you make your final choice, suggests Mayo.

Although you can save 10 to 15 percent of the purchase price by installing storm doors yourself, do not attempt it unless you have the tools and skills necessary for the job.

Make sure the installation is properly done. Check to be sure doors operate smoothly and close tightly. Check for cracks around the jamb, and make sure the seal is as airtight as possible.

If the door has exchangeable window and screen panels, make sure all panels fit properly and offer a weather-tight seal.

Storm doors should not be installed over steel clad exterior doors with insulated cores. Heat buildup from the sun can cause the glass to break, adds Mayo.

Quiche Makes Nutritious Fall Meals

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Create a quiche for your fall meals, suggests Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

If you need a new idea for breakfast, lunch or supper, try a quiche. Eggs and cheese provide protein and, with the addition of fresh vegetables, quiche is almost a complete meal.

In case you aren't familiar with quiche, it's sometimes referred to as an egg or cheese pie and is of French origin.

A mixture of eggs, cheeses, seasonings, vegetables and meats is poured into a pastry crust and baked for 30 to 50 minutes at a low temperature. A knife inserted in the center should come out clean.

Many excellent recipes for quiche can be found — some economical, others more expensive, depending on the ingredients you choose. To concoct your own, use 6 eggs, 1-1/2 cups of half and half, 1 cup shredded cheese and 1-1/2 cups of meat, fish, poultry, vegetables or combination of all. Season with your favorite herbs, onions and green peppers, she suggests.

Many cheeses are excellent for use in quiche, each lending its own distinct flavor to the dish. This is a good time to take advantage of lower grade eggs since appearance of the egg is not important, adds Mrs. Rushing.

Vegetables such as squash, spinach, broccoli, corn and many others make excellent additions to quiche, either in small amounts to prevent leftover waste or as a main ingredient.

Bake at low temperatures since quiche is made of ingredients high in protein. High temperatures will make the egg white tough, the yolk mealy, the cheese tough and stringy, and the milk curdle, Mrs. Rushing explains.

You can prepare an excellent brunch or lunch with quiche as the star and perhaps a fruit salad and a muffin as accompaniment. For a heartier supper meal, serve several vegetables and rolls.

MSU School Of Architecture Is Accredited

Officials at Mississippi State University have been notified that the institution's architectural school, the only one of its kind in the state, has gained full accreditation by the National Architectural Accrediting Board.

The NAAB, which only considers accreditation after a program has graduated its first class, gave its stamp of approval for a five-year period, the longest length of time possible under board regulations.

Established in 1973, the school graduated its first class of 16 in 1978. The bachelor's level curriculum includes four years of study at the Starkville campus and a fifth in Jackson.

In the conclusion of the accreditation report forwarded to the university, the NAAB said: "Although MSU has a rather traditional curriculum, it takes on a special (effective) character by virtue of the young, imaginative and enthusiastic faculty and the way they teach. To date, the school has earned and received a healthy report from the university, state, community and profession. There is little more than can be asked of a school at this point in its development, except to ask that it keep its momentum. The NAAB visiting team has a feeling that it will; and if it does, it can become a significant institution of architectural education."

Architecture Dean William G. McMinn said he was "very pleased" that the board gave the school maximum accreditation.

"We think it is a credit to the faculty and the students in the school for the work they have done over the last five years and shows that the National Architectural Accrediting Board has confidence in our program," the dean added.

The architecture school has a current enrollment of 290 students and a full-time faculty of 13.

Candlelighters Share Experiences

Julia is a very special child. So is Carrie, Brandy, Jamie, Eugene, and Dan. Julia lives in Monticello, Carrie in Jackson, Brandy in Terry. The others live in Morton, Carthage, and Crystal Springs.

Julia's parents are special, too, as are the parents of all the other kids, for they are members of "The Candlelighters." Sounds like a sorority, or some social club, or at the least, an exclusive organization.

And that is precisely what it is. "The Candlelighters" is an organization of parents and friends of children with cancer. The branch in Mississippi is an affiliate of the national group by the same name.

Officially, they are known as the University Medical Center Candlelighters, which basically is a non-profit organization for the purpose of providing special assistance to the parents of and the children who are oncology patients of the University Medical Center in Jackson.

The club's objectives are, as listed in the by-laws, to share experiences with other parents; to provide parents of children with cancer emotional support and help them learn to cope with the stresses and problems facing them; to provide educational information to the public, as well as to the parents, and to support research in childhood cancer.

Exclusive as the organization is, however, the membership is not limited to parents of children with cancer. There is an associate membership of interested individuals and an honorary membership conferred upon individuals for distinguished or extraordinary services to the organization.

The club is composed of a board of directors, officers, and members, and they meet each month with an annual meeting in August for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Various fund-raising projects are agreed upon each year, with all of the proceeds earmarked for direct help to children with cancer and their families.

This is where you come in. There is at least one child in or near the town where the newspaper you are reading is published. Did you know that?

Furthermore, the Candlelighters have a special project for the 1980 year, which is an engagement calendar featuring works of art by Mississippi artists. It is a pretty calendar, well laid out, designed to be of help to individuals. They can be purchased for $4.00 from a school, church, or civic group in your area, with the entire $4.00 going to directly help these special kids, as well as their parents.

The organization itself has no paid office help for any of the correspondence, supplies or anything they undertake. Theirs is a labor of love. You can contribute to this organization with your love, as well as your dollars, by purchasing one of these calendars.

And Julia, Carrie, Eugene and Dan will appreciate your love. The possibility exists that your purchasing one of these calendars will provide some extra care, or help, or enable one of these special parents to have a little more time-and love-to spend with their special children.

For more information, contact Barbara Skinner (Carrie's mother) at 373-8155, in Jackson, or write Candlelighters, P.O. Box 12256, Jackson, Mississippi 39211. She'll be glad to help you.

Auto Repairs

Major Consumer

Complaint

MISSISSIPPI STATE — If you have a problem with automobile repairs and maintenance, you are not alone, according to Norine Barnes, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service area consumer management specialist.

The Attorney General's office says the number one consumer complaint in Mississippi deals with automobile repair. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates $20 billion is wasted nationally each year on poor, needless or fraudulent auto repairs and maintenance.

These faulty practices cost society, as well as individuals, since mechanical defects contribute to accidents and improperly maintained cars use more fuel and produce more harmful emissions. So, everybody loses when cars are not properly maintained, she adds.

"Because few consumers know how their cars work and what maintenance is needed, we are truly at the mercy of the repair facility personnel," says Mrs. Barnes. "These tips can help you get the best maintenance and repair for your car."

When you choose a repair facility, check its reputation with friends, local consumers or the Better Business Bureau.

Ask these questions, she advises. Are the mechanics certified or licensed? How long has the shop been in operation? Does it appear to be well equipped? Do they give written estimates and advise you of additional costs? Is the work guaranteed in writing? Are the prices competitive? Is it convenient to your home or work?

After choosing the facility, make an appointment. Request that a certified mechanic work on your car. Talk to the mechanic; be brief but specific about your problem.

"Don't diagnose your own problem unless you are very sure," she adds. "If you are asking only for a statement of the problem, find out the charge for a diagnosis. Ask for a written estimate and state that additional work requires your approval."

Ask for all the replaced parts. Get guarantees in writing and be sure you understand time limitations or other restrictions on guarantees, cautions Mrs. Barnes.

If you have a problem, talk to the mechanic who worked on your car. Then, if necessary, take your complaint to the shop manager or owner. Contact your local consumer office or Better Business Bureau if you need further action, or write the Mississippi Attorney General's office.

How To Get

Best Buys

In Food

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Looking for the best food buys possible?

Where you do your major food shopping often affects your grocery bill. When you shop for the bulk of your groceries also determines the quality and price of many foods you buy, such as perishable produce and meat, says Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

Check prices in nearby stores for several foods you buy regularly. Then decide which store offers reasonable prices and other features important to you, such as variety and good quality of foods, offstreet parking and check cashing.

Unless you require home delivery and credit — services found almost exclusively in smaller, independent stores — you probably will choose a chain or large independent store because it generally offers more variety, more shopping convenience and better prices. For certain foods, you may prefer a specialty shop — bakery, meat market or vegetable stand — because of better quality or better price.

When you shop depends on your schedule, availability of the car and other factors. Try to go when the store is not too crowded and you have time to select with care, Mrs. Rushing suggests.

Study labels, compare prices and get acquainted with new food products. Give food buying the attention it deserves.

WHAT ARE THEY WORTH TO YOU?

The price tag may seem high but the price will be even higher if you try to get it for nothing by shoplifting. Stores have been hit so badly by stealing that they've been forced to protect themselves against losses by tightening security measures and prosecuting offenders. That means your chances of getting caught are greater, as well as the risk of having a police record for the rest of your life.

When stores are faced with soaring operating expenses due to thefts, they're forced to pass added costs on to you, the consumer, with higher prices. When you look at that big price tag, remember . . . shoplifting costs everyone more in the end.

VA Questions And Answers

Q—I have moved to a new address. I have informed the post office of the change and have assurance my mail will be forwarded. Is there any additional action I must take to make sure I receive my VA checks at my new address?

A—You must also notify your VA regional office of your change of address as soon as possible.

Q—I have a disability rating of 30 percent and receive $121 a month. A friend has a 60 percent rating and receives $292. Why don't I receive half as much as he does?

A—The amount to be paid a veteran for a particular disability rating is set by law. These rates do not relate in an exact pro rata way to the 100 percent disability rate. The more disabled a veteran is, the heavier the impact on his employability. So the law provides proportionately more compensation to those with the most severe impairments.

Q—I bought a home with a GI loan after World War II and paid the loan off several years ago. I am now considering another loan and wonder if the old regulations limiting you to the purchase of conventional houses still apply.

A—Today's GI loan program is much more flexible. You may now buy mobile homes and condominiums with loans guaranteed by the VA.

Q—My friend received claims forms for collecting the GI life insurance based on her former husband's death. She was reluctant to apply because she thinks she lost the right to the insurance due to divorce. However, I persuaded her to fill out and return the forms. Was I correct persuading her to do this?

A—Yes. Divorce does not affect an individual's right to insurance benefits. Whoever is properly listed as beneficiary by the insured veteran will be paid the insurance benefits.

Q—I have a service connected disability and was discharged prior to World War II. Does service during this period qualify me for an automobile grant?

A—The VA automobile grant is available to veterans who are entitled to VA compensation for loss or loss of use of a hand or foot, or who are blind, regardless of the period of service.

Q—I am being transferred to Australia because of my job. I have a home I purchased with a VA guaranteed loan. If I sell my present home, may I get a loan to buy a home in Australia?

A—No. GI loans are granted only for property in the United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands or Guam.

Q—I retired last year at age 62 because of illness. I served in World War II but suffered no disability in service. Is there a veterans' pension available to me?

A—To qualify for non-service connected pension before age 65, a veteran must be rated permanently and totally disabled by the Veterans Administration. Over age 65, there is no such requirement. In both cases there are strict limitations on income from non-VA sources.

Q—What is the required standard of school conduct and progress required of a veteran receiving GI Bill educational assistance?

A—Generally, a veteran with 90 days or more continuous active service is entitled to unemployment benefits under federal law. Contact your local state employment service for specific eligibility requirements.

Q—The veteran must maintain satisfactory conduct and progress in accordance with standards and policies of the educational institution he attends.

Q—I have been honorably discharged after four years of active military service. What is my GI Bill educational entitlement?

A—Four years of active military service entitles a

FALL LAND MANAGEMENT

Subsoiling, liming and land forming are key management practices to consider this fall for better crops in 1980. Fall is a perfect time to subsoil cropland with traffic panels. A good job of subsoiling will increase water intake, rooting depth, soil aeration and crop yields. It will also reduce water runoff, erosion and, often, nematode problems. In tests in the Delta, subsoiling increased cotton yields an average of 130 pounds per acre. Lime is critically needed on about four million acres of row crop and pasture land in Mississippi. Liming row crop land in the fall will give the lime time to react with the soil to correct acidity problems for next year's crops. Severely acid soils limed adequately will yield 7 to 10 more bushels of soybeans per acre or about 125 pounds of cotton.

Land forming will assure earlier planting, more precise application of chemicals and use of cultivation equipment. Another benefit is better water management without erosion. Land forming is a must if you plan to irrigate. If you're considering land forming, consult a professional engineer before starting.

Notes From Your Home Economist

By CLAIRE T. ROSS
Extension Home Economist

Fall is a fine time to fit apples into any mealtime situation. They're nutritious and easy for the school lunch and are good in many salads. Now as brisk weather turns our tastes to spicy and warm treats, apples will be the perfect starting point. They're excellent in many dishes. Of the many varieties of apples grown in the United States, Delicious is the leading variety as far as volume produced. Delicious apples may be either Red or Golden. The sweet flavor of the Delicious variety makes these apples ideal for eating out of hand and for salad making. All-purpose varieties, as their name indicates, are usable for fresh or cooked products. Their quick-cooking characteristics and tart flavor makes them ideal for baked apples, pies and other desserts. Of the all-purpose types, Jonathan, McIntosh, Rome Beauties, Yorks and Staymen are produced in large volumes. When you cook with apples, size is the key. Remember that one pound is equal to two large apples, three medium apples or four small apples; and you need about two to three pounds for a nine inch pie.

The firm, tart flavored apples are the best for cooking and baking. Soft apples cook more quickly than firm apples and do not retain shape as well. Sugar added to the water keeps the apples from becoming mush, but be careful not to add too much. Apples not only have nutritional, but protective and regulative qualities. They provide dietary balance and significant amounts of minerals and vitamins. Their fruit sugars give a quick supply of energy.

LOW CALORIE CHEESE APPLE CRISP

4 medium apples, cored and sliced
1/4 cup water
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons liquid artificial sweetener
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese

Place sliced apples in deep pie plate or baking dish. Combine water, lemon juice and sweetener; pour over apples. Combine flour, salt and cinnamon; cut in butter until consistency of coarse meal; sprinkle over apples. Cover with grated cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve warm or cold. Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 171 calories.

APPLE OATMEAL BARS

1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda

1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup quick oatmeal
1/2 cup shortening
2 1/2 cups thinly sliced apples
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup white sugar

Sift together flour, salt and soda. Add brown sugar and oatmeal, cut in shortening until crumbly. Spread one-half the mixture on a greased 7 x 11-inch baking dish (or 8-1/2 x 8-1/2 x 2). Arrange apples over this. Dot with butter and sprinkle with sugar. Cover with rest of mixture and bake 40 to 50 minutes in 350 degree oven. Cut in squares and serve with cream.

COVER CROPS

From now until early November is the best time to plant wild winter peas, vetch or cereals for winter cover and a green manure crop to turn under next spring. Peas or vetch will provide organic matter plus 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre. Cereal crops, such as wheat or rye, will provide only organic matter. These annual green manure crops will build organic matter only temporarily; however, they may have great value in improving herbicide performance and soil tilth during the following growing season.

FARMWEEK

The November 5 edition of Farmweek will take a look at how some Mississippi farmers are pooling their resources to help offset the high costs of farming. Farmweek reporter John Winfield will talk with a group of Montgomery County farmers who share equipment in separate farming operations. These farmers may have the answer to today's extremely high equipment costs. The program can be seen Monday night, November 5, at 7:30 or the following Tuesday morning at 7:30 on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

When the Easter Flood hit Central Mississippi and Hurricane Fredric struck Southern Mississippi, George called for a moratorium on insurance premiums and requested a deferment on loan payments to insurance companies. George was there when you needed him. During the past four years, George Dale's office has provided assistance to hundreds of people who called on him for help. Can Maintain Soil Content

Crop Residue Is Very Important

By DAVID SUMMERS
Soil Conservationist

Crop residue is one of the most important assets on the farm. By proper use of crop residue we can maintain better soil organic content, improve soil structure, reduce detachability of soil particles that have chemicals and nutrients attached to them, improve the biological activity of the soil, and reduce soil erosion by 15 to 30 percent.

However, many farmers will not take advantage of crop residue. Fall disking and baling crop residue are the two most common mismanagement practices.

Fall disking will cover the crop residue and leave the soil exposed to the elements of erosion. And, there is absolutely no benefit derived from fall disking. However, subsoiling or chiseling may be beneficial on loamy soils with less than two percent slope.

Many farmers will also remove the crop residue by baling for livestock feed. However, tests have shown that there is very little food value in crop residue. The TDN (Total Digestible Nutrients) is usually less than 50 percent and it has practically no protein.

Those who use crop residue to improve their land will realize better yields and a soil that is more tillable. Let's take advantage of our crop residue.

For more information on crop residue management and other conservation practices, contact the Soil Conservation Service in Booneville, phone 728-3544.

Problems, Ohio State University, and president, National Training & Development Service for Local and State Governments, will open the morning general session on providing services and facilities at satisfactory levels under a spiraling inflation situation.

Governor Cliff Finch will speak at the luncheon. A question and answer session will follow.

Opening the afternoon general session will be Charles M. Deaton, Greenwood attorney; former chairman, House Appropriations Committee, Mississippi Legislature; and member, Mississippi Budget Commission. Deaton will talk about financial management opportunities at both state and local levels.

Participants may attend any two of the seven concurrent workshops in the morning and afternoon sessions. The workshops, dealing with specific aspects of personnel and financial management, include: Legal Issues in Jails, Energy Management, Computer Applications, Managing the Public Workforce, State's Role in Local Government Financial Management, Pooled Insurance Pro-Con and Effective Budgeting.

This program is sponsored by the Office of the Governor, cooperating with the Mississippi Municipal Association, the Mississippi

Association of Supervisors and the American Society for Public Administration. The Center for Governmental Technology, a branch of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, will coordinate the event.

Funding is provided in part under a grant from the U.S. Office of Personnel Management under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, obtained through the Office of Federal-State-Local Programs, Office of the Governor.

Memorial Center Recognized

On Sunday, November 4, more than 300 United Methodist Churches throughout North Mississippi will be recognizing one of its newest agencies, Baddour Memorial Center, located in Senatobia, Mississippi. Representing a pioneer effort in the field of mental retardation, the $3 million Center has been built entirely through the contributions of the Baddour family and hundreds of other caring individuals, businesses and organizations.

The purpose of Baddour Memorial Center is to provide a model residential community for mildly and moderately retarded adults in an environment that is designed to promote maximum growth mentally, spiritually, socially-emotionally, physically, and vocationally; and to provide a program of outreach through churches to handicapped persons and their families.

The Center, which officially opened in December of last year, currently has 41 residents representing seven states. An additional 49 residents will be accepted by September of 1980.

On this the first Baddour Center Sunday, more than 75 volunteers will be speaking in Methodist Churches throughout North Mississippi telling the "miracle" story of this unique Center. The volunteer speakers will also be seeking financial assistance for the Center's Helping Hands Fund. This fund is used to help the residents and their families with tuition costs, medical and dental bills, clothing and other personal needs.

To secure further information, contact your local United Methodist Church or write Baddour Memorial Center, P.O. Box 69, Senatobia, MS 38668.

L. FOSTER-MANAGER

The people of Mississippi have known where William Winter stands on the issues from the very beginning of his campaign for governor. He has placed before the voters his Action Plans to get Mississippi moving again, and he has addressed the tough issues in a high-level and straightforward manner.

Some of William Winter's plans are simple but crucial pledges to the people about the kind of governor he will be — such as his six-point plan to restore honor and integrity to state government. Some of his plans are bold new programs — for example, his six-point job development plan. Some of the Action Plans are designed to make existing governmental programs work more effectively, while others would eliminate unnecessary and wasteful government programs altogether.

The problems of the elderly...the need for a new look at education for our young people...the strengthening of our rural areas through increased job opportunities and a coordinated transportation plan...these are some of his plans for the 1980's that William Winter has put before the people.

It will take know-how and commitment to make these plans work and to get Mississippi moving again. William Winter has the determination to make them work...and he can provide the effective leadership needed to get the job done.
