Community Action Agency Provides Weatherization Project For Residents

The Northeast Mississippi Community Action Agency, serving Prentiss, Tishomingo and Alcorn counties, has begun a weatherization program this year to help those who cannot afford to make the improvements to their own homes.

The weatherization service provided by the agency is intended to help keep in the warm and seal out the cold this winter. The homes that qualify for the project will be weatherstripped, storm windows will be installed, insulation will be added and some of the houses will be underpinned.

The agency expects to weatherize some 32 homes in the three county area by the end of the year and hopes to weatherize more in the coming year.

Jim Wilkinson, Director of Housing and Weatherization for the agency, said, "This is a valuable service for the elderly and handicapped. The poor who qualify can receive up to $400 per house."

All work done on the homes chosen for the program is performed by a crew hired through the CETA program, with materials purchased locally.

"Materials are purchased locally to increase the economical flow in the counties," Wilkinson said. "Crews for this program have been well trained and are excited about helping the poor of their communities."

The local Community Action Agency headquarters is located in Corinth, with Neighborhood Service Centers in Prentiss, Tishomingo and Alcorn counties.

Prentiss County results for other state offices include Democrat Ed Pittman defeating Republican Jeff East for Secretary of state by a vote of 5,383 to 854.

William A. (Bill) Allain, the democratic nominee, for Attorney General, defeated Republican Charles Pickering by a vote of 4,084 to 2,439 locally.

Democratic incumbent Insurance Commissioner George Dale also defeated his Republican opponent, Conner Fulton, by a vote of 5,190 to 736 in the county.

Another Democratic incumbent, Northern District Highway Commissioner Bobby Richardson, defeated Republican Howard Stanton locally by a vote of 4,838 to 1729.

D.W. Snyder, incumbent Public Service Commissioner for the third district, defeated his Independent challenger Linda L. Lewis with a vote of 5,487 to 615 in local voting.

Prentiss County Circuit Clerk Travis Cox reported that approximately 7,290 Prentiss

'Holiday Fair' Set For Nov. 15

Are you looking for do-it-yourself ideas for holiday decorating and gift-giving? "Holiday Fair," Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Fellowship Room of the First United Methodist Church will be the answer to your problems.

Extension Clubs are making a big push to make this the best of all the Holiday Fairs so far.

There will be demonstrations of how-to-make festive decorations and gifts, and a mouth-watering display of holiday goodies. Along with this will be a combined handout of directions and recipes available at a small fee to cover expenses. Also, available will be free commercial recipes and handouts.

Among demonstrations by Extension Clubs on the program at this date are Decorations from Nature's Materials, cornshucks, also nuts, cones, wreath making from live evergreens, counted cross-stitch, and others.

Home economists from three counties will be bringing in demonstrations and exhibits. Included will be Mrs. Jeanine Martin, Alcorn County; Mrs. Barbara Guinn, Itawamba County; and Mrs. Lula M. Jamieson, Tippah County.

Local craftspeople to be exhibiting and demonstrating already committed are Joan Whisenant from Creative Crafts, East Church Street, and Faye Drevry of the new Wishing Well on Highway 45 across from the hospital.

Special people from the Extension staff will be giving do-it-yourself demonstrations: Wanda Robinson, Holiday Mints; Sandra Cole, Counted Cross-stitch and other holiday decorations; and Gary Bridges with his nature-loving wood-burning plaques.

This holiday program is being co-ordinated by Claire T. Ross, Extension Home Economist, with the entire Prentiss County Extension Service staff.

CHECKING INVENTORY—Navy Lt. Cmdr. Murray Gentry of Booneville looks over his stock of medicine in the pharmacy at the Balboa Naval Regional Medical Center in San Diego, Calif. Booneville Native Helps Compound 6,000 Prescriptions Per Day For Navy

By JUDY ZINCHAK
Navy Public Affairs Center

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Pink ones, green ones, capsules or pills, Murray Gentry has them all.

Lt. Cmdr. Gentry is a pharmacist at the Naval Regional Center in San Diego. Distributing drugs there is a full time job for him. He disseminates them to over 6,000 people a day.

"This is the only place I know where I have the opportunity to work with and to also be in charge of 14 pharmacists and 55 to 60 technicians," said the 35-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Gentry, 702 North Jefferson St., Booneville, Miss.

"I can't speak in the number of actual tablets we distribute but we fill approximately 6,000 prescriptions a day," said Gentry.

Gentry explained the pharmacy service doesn't just encompass the hospital but 13 outlying dispensaries.

"There are a number of people working in our region," he said. "For an example, the people from El Centro come in once a week to pick up supplies from the pharmacy," he said. "They not only pick up pharmacy supplies but other supplies are picked up also."

Gentry said they have very tight security procedures at the hospital. "The drugs are kept in a vault behind lock and key. The paper work is just horrendous and it is full time job for one person."

A 1962 graduate of Booneville High School, Gentry received his bachelor of science degree in pharmacy from the University of Mississippi in 1968. He was commissioned in 1970. "I had a choice of being drafted or seek a commission so I looked into the Navy," he said. "They needed pharmacists so I joined."

"I've stayed in the Navy because it is a good place to practice pharmacy," he said. "The professional rewards are here and the advancement is good."

"I'm probably equal to or above my peers who stayed in either a community practice or hospital pharmacy at a staff level in the civilian sector," he added. Gentry believes good quality service is extremely important in the pharmacy. "Lunch is our busiest time. People come in during their lunch hour to get prescriptions filled. Our people have to eat at this time also," he said. "We are operating on about half a staff at this time and so the wait may be a little longer."

"It takes time to fill a prescription correctly," said Gentry. "We think it's more important to fill it correctly than it is to fill it quickly."

Emergency Services Week Is Nov. 4-10

A team of people, equipment, and facilities are working together to save lives in Mississippi, but they're still not satisfied with their efforts.

Team members know that many Mississippians still die each year as the needless result of poor emergency medical care.

To get others involved in their goal to provide well-trained emergency health care personnel who can respond in the ideal time to a medical crisis, the team called on Governor Cliff Finch to proclaim November 4-10 Emergency Medical Services Week in Mississippi.

In the past five years, the EMS team has eliminated many inadequacies in the state's offering of emergency medical care. Some 154 providers are licensed to operate nearly 300 vehicles and employ more than 1,000 certified emergency medical technicians (EMTs). Statewide, more than 2,500 EMTs are certified, and many of those give uncounted volunteer hours to help save lives.

"EMS is alive and well in Mississippi," Spruill said. "Since the State Legislature passed the EMS law 1974, other laws have authorized taxing authority for emergency medical services and have improved the Good Samaritan Law to include professionals other than doctors and nurses. Laws also authorize the training of advanced life support personnel—EMT Intermediates and EMT Paramedics."

"Regionalization has become a reality in the state," he added. "Three regions—North Mississippi and South-west Mississippi EMS Authorities and Southeast Mississippi Air Ambulance District—are active, funded, and developing extensive, comprehensive, and sophisticated emergency medical care systems in the rural areas."

"Most of the ambulance providers today are highly professional organizations," Spruill said. "They employ adequately trained personnel, use the latest in emergency equipment, and encourage more training and higher standards than ever before."

The greatest need in reaching the goal of statewide quality EMS, he said, is money. For health care professionals to provide adequate emergency medical services, more funding is needed on the local and state levels.

Spruill said he joins Governor Finch in calling on consumers as well as health care providers to become aware of the needs and provide the support to give Mississippi well-trained emergency medical personnel who can respond to medical crises in the ideal time.

Northeast Sponsors Emergency Clinic

During the month of November, The Northeast Mississippi Junior College in cooperation with the Appalachian Community Service Network (formerly AESP) is sponsoring a series of video-taped workshops for firemen and emergency medical technicians.

"Survive Your Next Alarm," which deals with survival techniques and protective clothing for firemen while fighting fires was to be held during the week of November 5.

During the week of November 12, the workshop will be entitled "Emergency Rescue Procedures," which deals with procedures for safely removing victims from crashed vehicles and inexpensive tools which can be used in extrications of these victims.

The last workshop, "Flammable Liquid Spills: Evacuate or Attack," will be held during the week of November 19. This workshop is designed to assist personnel in responding to a serious accident involving flammable liquids or hazardous materials.

Each person who participates in all three workshops will receive a certificate for .6 Continuing Education Units. Because many firemen and EMTs have already participated in some of these workshops, it will not be necessary for them to attend the same ones again to qualify for the CEU Certificate.

Subscribers on the Booneville Video System may register for home-viewing of these seminars on Channel 2. Other participants must come to the Northeast campus on Thursday night at 6:30 in Room 58 of Hines Hall for the broadcasts.

"Emergency Vehicle Rescue" will be held on Thursday night, November 15, 6:30-8:00 p.m. and "Hazardous Liquid Spills" will be on Thursday, November 29, 6:30-8:00 p.m. Call for an appointment to view "Survive Your Next Alarm" on campus.

The fee for each workshop is $3.00 per person or $5.00 per person for any two workshops. For more information contact Mrs. Opal B. Melvin at 728-7751 (or toll-free 728-7759), Extension 231.

Thad Sponsors Tax Cut Bill To Aid Deaf

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senator Thad Cochran is co-sponsoring a bill which provides a tax reduction for the purchase of telecommunication devices to allow the deaf and hearing-impaired "to hear and be heard."

The Senator pointed out that there are 170,000 deaf and hearing-impaired in Mississippi and 14 million in the United States.

"These individuals are entitled to the same tax benefits now received by the blind," Senator said. "They, too, are burdened with additional expenses to compensate for their handicap."

The legislation will aid the deaf and hearing-impaired in three ways: It will provide a tax deduction on the purchase, installation and cost of servicing teletypewriters. These devices coupled to standard telephones allow the deaf to communicate over telephone lines to anyone who has similar equipment.

Secondly the bill will allow the deaf a tax credit on the purchase of television captioning equipment. This special equipment adapted to a television set allows a broadcast signal to transmit captions similar to the subtitles used in foreign films across the bottom of the television screen.

Views On Car Tag Situation

Editor,

After reading the article about the mailing of car tags, I wish to express my views of this matter and others concerning Prentiss County.

First of all, I fail to understand why Prentiss County doesn't have the money to continue this. Our vehicle tags aren't only higher in the state of Mississippi than our neighboring states, but our neighboring counties.

Also, our gasoline is priced higher than our neighboring states and counties.

What I'm saying is this, we put our elected officials in Washington, D.C., and in Jackson, as well as here in Prentiss County. Are they asleep on the job?

Our state treasurer said recently that we had over ninety million dollars surplus in our treasury because of being over-taxed.

I feel it is time the people of Mississippi were heard, don't you?

Sincerely,
Herbert L. Kitchens

Not Likely

Finch, 'Greatest Governor'?

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—Cliff Finch was of in the wild blue yonder somewhere last week, still pursuing his lofty, oft-repeated goal of becoming "the greatest governor Mississippi has ever had, or ever will have."

With just two months left on his four-year term, there's not much chance the perambulating Panolian is going to win the title of the "greatest." In fact, not many Mississippians now would be willing to place him in the ranks of the "good" governors the state has had. Few, in fact, ever reach the latter category.

How Finch stands with the folks as he is about to depart has been one of the subjects which has come up in some of the polling done by gubernatorial and other candidates. His name has been tossed into what the pollsters call the "feeling" thermometer about certain public figures whose names are currently being bandied about.

This column has learned that in the Peter Hart poll made in early October, only 22 percent of the people had a positive feeling toward their governor, while 54 percent felt negatively about him. The remaining 24 percent was neutral.

Evidently the way Mississippians feel about

Finch has dropped off rather sharply since the first of the year when the first polling started in the political campaigns. Back in January, Finch, despite his Senatorial defeat last year, still had a slightly higher positive than negative rating in the polls.

His decline has become more pronounced since the governor's race has been in progress, further indicating that Finch, even while taking no real role in the gubernatorial campaign, is still the underlying "issue" of what the voters were looking for this year.

Most political observers believe that if Finch had not been the yardstick by which voters measured their choices in this campaign, William Winter would not have been able to make his remarkable comeback in the Democratic primaries.

Finch, though obviously in substantial disfavor now, still must be looked at as some kind of phenomenon who burst upon the state scene, out of the backwoods of North Mississippi and won the governor's office in a popular election with the second biggest vote every given a candidate in history.

He was clever enough to catch the tide of populism in the state at the time, using what now is looked upon as some rather corny gimmickry, and promises of jobs for everybody in order to win identity with the common folks, black and white, and those who felt they were the "left outs" of the state decision making.

When Finch came into office, it was like a country boy in a supermarket. He wanted some of everything and there was going to be plenty to pass around to his friends. Everybody was his friend, and he loved everybody.

Here and there, he came up with some pretty good ideas about government, but mostly his proposals were vague, and he picked them up and dropped them like a kid playing with Tinker Toys. There was always a great deal of motion, but not much accomplished.

What showed up rather quickly was that Finch did not have any basic skills in government and was a poor judge of the quality of leadership and administrative talent in his administration.

Some have observed that Cliff Finch is the personification of the "Peter Principle," that time and events, and luck have pushed him much further than his capacity to occupy the office he holds. What many didn't realize in the beginning was that Finch, a poor boy from the country, with minimum intellekt, had tremendous ambition and the kind of drive that is overpowering.

Anyone who has had the experience of meeting Finch in a one-to-one setting will admit that he is far from the bumbling, ungrammatical figure that he appears to be in front of larger groups.

But the entire makeup and motivation of the Finch personality is an ego trip which obviously must be fed constantly. Those near him admit that he must have the sound of applause in his ears and the waiting helicopter or jet in order to keep himself pumped up.

This is what apparently has triggered his fanciful dream that he is a prospective candidate for the presidency of the United States. Recently, after Finch returned from his trip to China, he is said to have ticked off all the places around the world where he was wanted, and remarked, with a straight face, "I could be king of the world."

Where Finch will be placed in the history of Mississippi governors is yet problematical. But almost anyone would say now, there hasn't been one quite like him before, and probably none in the future.

Don't Buy 'Pie-in-the-Sky'

Beware Easy Money Schemes

FROM THE OFFICE OF
A.F. SUMMER,
Attorney General

When you arrive at the motel, you'll think that you have just met one of the ten best dressed men. Mr. Doe will then fill out a very impressive application form which will be sent to the "home office" along with your check. You will be informed that if your application is not accepted your check will be returned. Of course, you will most certainly be accepted because your check will be cashed immediately and you will now be a distributor for products to be sold through vending machines, from standing racks, from jewelry cases or by some other marketing scheme.

Many Mississippians have experienced the loss of a great deal of time and hard earned money as a result of investing in one of the many deceptive schemes now sweeping the country.

If you ever receive the vending machines or racks, they are usually of poor quality and do not function properly and the items to be sold are usually slow selling items; such as hot foods, gum and candy, panty hose, cigarette lighters, ball point pens, and maps or stamps.

The con men who are promoting these schemes will promise services such as training, professional locators who will secure high traffic locations, protected territories, and even a buy back agreement if you are not completely satisfied.

Many Mississippians who have invested have discovered that it is not even economically profitable to service the racks or machines, considering their time and the high price of gasoline.

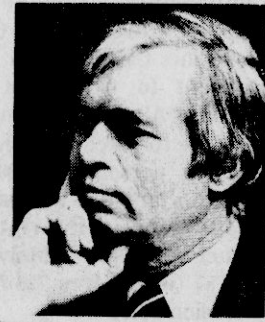

Don't buy a "pie-in-the-sky." Don't be misled by high pressure sales persons who paint pretty pictures of financial success.

Unfortunately, many Mississippians have, and financial success is usually achieved only by the promoters.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

SALT II and Our Defense

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is expected to complete its consideration of the controversial SALT II, or strategic arms limitation treaty, soon, and floor debate on this issue may begin in the Senate before Thanksgiving.

This SALT process between the United States and the Soviet Union is probably the most important international arms limitation effort in history.

Almost all of my colleagues in the Senate agree that our votes on this complex issue could be the most crucial decision we will ever make as U.S. Senators.

President Carter invited me and a number of citizens from Mississippi to the White House the other day for a lengthy personal briefing on the SALT II agreement.

That session, and a breakfast meeting the next day with Henry Kissinger, are examples of the frequent meetings being held to fully explore the provisions of the agreement and the consequences which may flow from Senate ratification or rejection.

My purpose at this point is to obtain all the information available on which to base a decision as to whether or not ratification will serve our national interests.

During consideration of the treaty, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has adopted several amendments which in the opinion of many serve to clarify and strengthen it.

One amendment declares that nothing in the treaty will prevent continuation of our existing strategic relationship with NATO allies, such as Britain and France. It is important to note that the SALT II agreement does not include, does not limit, deployment of nuclear weapons by our European allies. Neither does it involve China, which has been a traditional and bitter rival of Russia for centuries.

Another amendment adopted by the committee declares that the United States may terminate the SALT II agreement if the Soviet Union impedes our verification of their compliance with the treaty terms. Also, the committee has made it clear that Soviet development of new missiles with greater capabilities than permitted by SALT II would be a treaty violation.

As my study of the agreement has progressed, certain facts have become clear. With or without the SALT II treaty both the U.S. and Russia will have more than enough nuclear weapons to literally destroy each other. Also, the treaty itself does not address the overall military capabilities of both superpowers, particularly with respect to conventional weapons, non-nuclear forces, and theatre nuclear forces. Only intercontinental weapons systems are touched by the agreement.

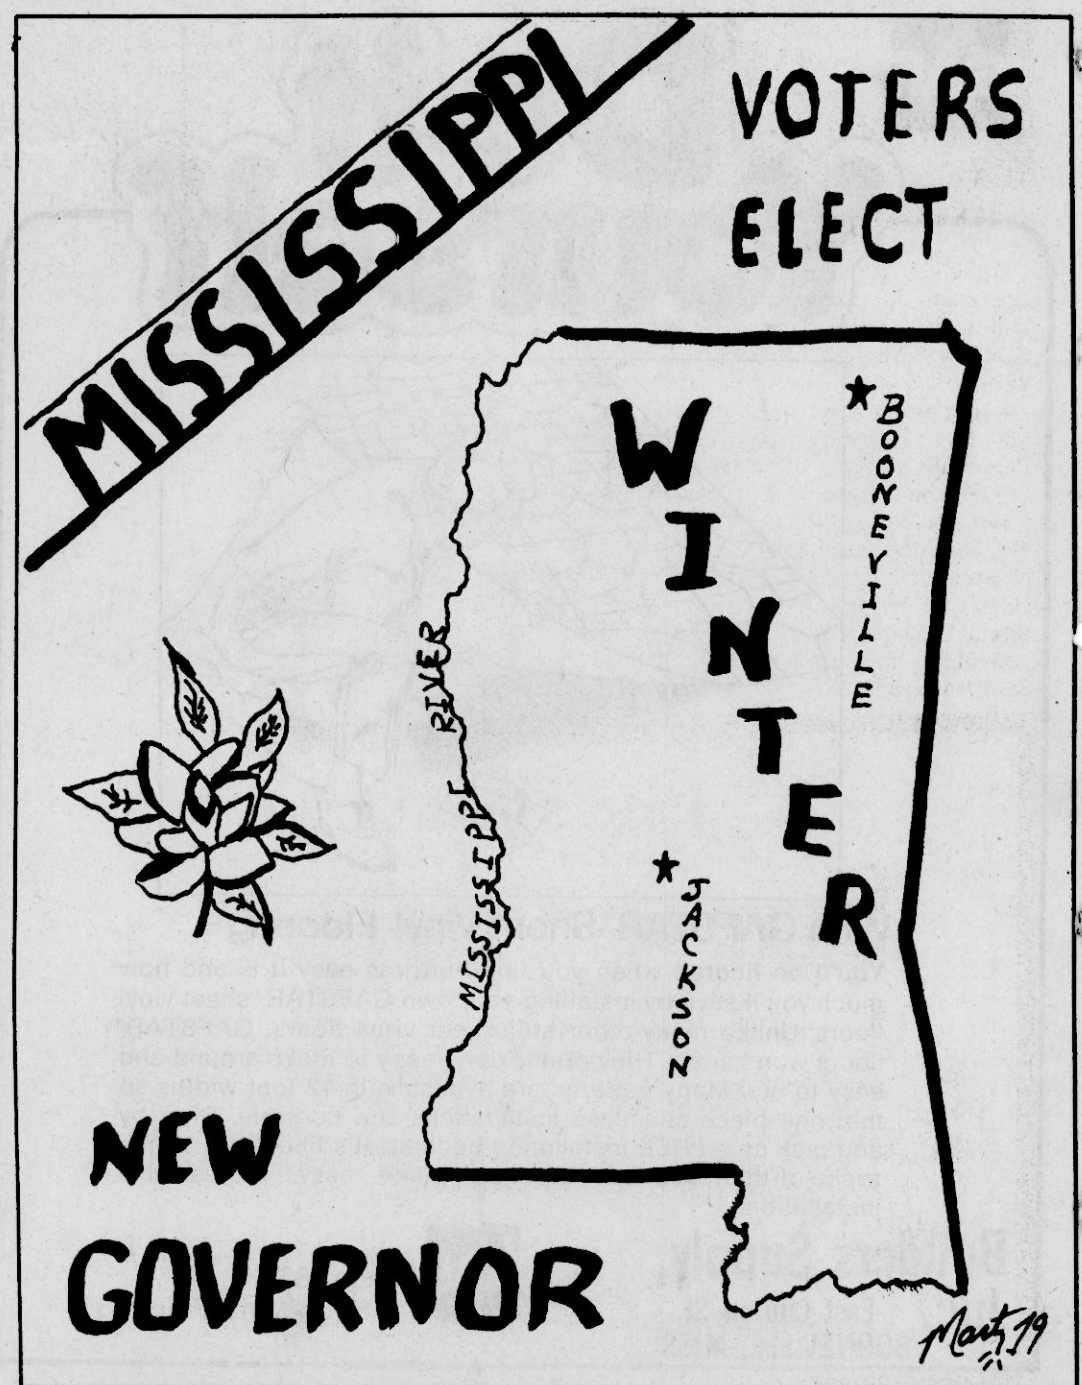

Regardless of how I may ultimately vote on ratification, I will be urging during the debate that we increase our national defense budget to a more realistic level in order to build up our conventional military power.

We definitely need support for troops, equipment such as tanks, ships, cargo planes and more sophisticated weapons for combat readiness.

Serious doubts have been raised in recent weeks about our manpower levels, the availability of sufficient Navy ships and Air Force planes, and the performance of weapons and equipment in our Armed Forces. I don't think we have enough well-trained troops, and support units to carry out the mission of protecting our interests at home and abroad in a conventional manner.

It would be one of the greatest ironies of history if the United States were so engrossed in controlling the nuclear arms race, the buildup and proliferation of nuclear weapons, that we allow our overall military capability to slip into an inferior position.

Neither should we permit the SALT process to become a vehicle for nuclear blackmail by the Soviet Union. As your United States Senator, I am committed to helping assure that our military posture is improved and that we are not locked into a position of inferiority.

WOMAN OF ACHIEVEMENT—Mrs. Blanche Carter was honored as the Booneville B&PW club woman of achievement for 1979. Presenting Mrs. Carter her award is Mrs. Patsy Keenum woman of achievement of 1978. A luncheon was held in her honor during national B&PW week by the local club.

Timber Hills Employees Attend Council

Ten employees of the Timber Hills Mental Health Services attended the ninth annual conference of the Mississippi Community Mental Health and Mental Retardation Council in Biloxi October 24-26.

The purpose of the council is to promote the utilization of mental health and mental retardation services in Mississippi. It offers the one opportunity each year for a state-wide meeting of a cross section of mental health and mental retardation staff to engage in the exchange of ideas and interests.

Albert Ellis, Ph.D., a leading expert in the field of psychotherapy and marriage and family counseling, presented a workshop entitled "Rational Emotive Therapy." Dr. Ellis has been in the practice of psychotherapy and family and marriage counseling in New York for almost 30 years. He has authored over 30 books and monographs. He is currently executive director of the institute for Rational Living and director of Psychological Services for Advanced Study in Rational Psychotherapy. Marc W. Gold, Ph.D., Research Psychologist at the University of Illinois, presented his structured training approach for working with the developmentally disabled in a workshop entitled "Try Another Way." His approach has proved to be an effective, practical tool for the training of front line workers. Speciality meetings included sessions on "Transitional Living," Partial Hospitalization, Aftercare, Developmental Disabilities and Radio Programming for Mental Health Centers.

Attending the conference from Timber Hills were Ken Cooley, Corinth, Coordinator of Outpatient Services; Dr. Rex Haire, Corinth, Clinical Psychologist; Mike Seat, Corinth, Coordinator of Children's Services; Rick Gray, Corinth, Mental Health Worker II; Dorothy Lemon, Corinth, Mental Health Worker; Linda McLaurin, Corinth, Medical Records Librarian; Nolan Gray, Ripley, Partial Hospitalization Specialist; Lois Hill, Booneville, Aftercare Coorinator; Nadine Loveless, Iuka, Supervising Day Care Teacher and Barbara Shackelford, Booneville, Program Development Public Information Specialist.

Booneville Fire Report

The Booneville Fire Department answered calls to two fires this past week, both of which caused relatively minor damage.

The first fire occurred at the Irene Pickett residence, 111 South Fifth Street, on Saturday, Nov. 3.

The fire, which was reported shortly after 1 p.m., reportedly started from an electrical short. Damage was limited to a door frame in a closet.

The second fire occurred Monday night, Nov. 5, at a house at 207 Felker Street owned by Bobby Atkins.

The fire, which was located in the bathroom, was believed to have started from an electric heater.

Baptist Convention Will Meet

The 1979 meeting of the Mississippi Baptist Convention will include a vote on an $11.2 million budget and a vote to consider a study on the future of Clarke College.

The convention, meeting at Jackson's First Baptist Church, Nov. 13-15, is the official business meeting for messengers from 2,000 churches which participate in the Mississippi Baptist Convention. The group meets annually for business, inspiration, and fellowship.

The budget to be voted on is the amount of income estimated to come in from participating churches. One-third of that money would be sent out of state to Southern Baptist causes in the nation and around the world. The rest would finance missions and education programs within Mississippi, including the work of 15 state Baptist agencies.

The Mississippi Baptist Education Commission and the Clarke College Board of Trustees plan to jointly recommend to the convention that a complete indepth study be made of "all possible alternatives concerning the future of Clarke College." The study would be made by the Southern Baptist Education Commission.

The Baptist Junior College in Newton has been facing declining enrollment and declining finances.

Bill Causey, pastor of Parkway Baptist Church in Jackson, is president of the Mississippi Baptist Convention.

Preceding the convention will be the annual Baptist

Miss Whitley Weds Mr. Chase

In a beautiful candlelit ceremony, Miss Cathy Ann Whitley became the bride of Michael Dale Chase on Saturday evening May 26, 1979, at six o'clock at Martin Hill Freewill Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Dale Whitley, Sr., of Booneville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Chase, also of Booneville. The Rev. Bill Smith performed the double ring ceremony.

The guests were greeted in the foyer of the church by Miss Debbie Walden who presided over the registry table. Wedding scrolls were given out by Miss Tammie Hablin.

The altar area glowed with the light of rainbow colored tapers set in white and gold wrought iron candle holders entwined with greenery. The center of the area was accented by a latticed wrought iron arch laced with plumosa and daisies, and ornamented with a cluster of wedding bells at the top.

On each side, there was a tall basket holding gladioli, carnations and daisies in rainbow colors. Palm trees and the unity candle completed the decor of this area.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Bill Smith at the organ and Mrs. Sam Postlewaite at the piano. Vocal selections by Sam Postlewaite were "Whither Thou Goest," "How Many Times Do I Love Thee" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The candles were lighted by Jackie Whitley, Jr., and Steve Jones who also rolled out the carpet.

Miss Lisa Davis of Aubura, Ala., served as maid of honor and Mrs. Terrye Murphy was matron of honor.

Other bridal attendants were Miss Vickie Beard, cousin of the bride, and Misses Jody and Kim Chase, sisters of the groom. They wore pastel colored formal dresses of qiana, featuring a ruffled V-neck. A matching color circlet of baby's breath adorned their heads. They carried colonial bouquets of pastel colored daisies and baby's breath.

Dexter McCreary of Memphis served as best man for the groom. Other groomsmen were Jackie Whitley, Jr., brother of the bride; Gary Walden of Corinth; Benny Carter of Oxford; and Steve Jones of Booneville.

Flower girls, Molly Kitchens and Tamara McKinney, and ring bearer, Deric Murphy, were lovely in their formal wear.

At the sound of the wedding march, the bride entered with her father, Mr. Jackie Whitley, Sr. She was radiant in an original gown of purest white satin, overlaid with re-embroidered imported French Alencon lace.

The fitted bodice featured a square neckline with two ruffles and a tiny satin bow at center front. The skirt was five-tiered and the sleeves were long and fitted, with a ruffle and satin bow at the wrist. Her illusion veil was edged in scalloped lace and attached to a Juliet cap.

The bride carried a Colonial bouquet of white daisies interspersed with baby's breath in pastel colors and centered with three cymbidium orchids.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Whitley chose a formal gown of pink silk organza, featuring lace trim at the neckline, a wide cummerbund and a full skirt.

Mrs. Chase, mother of the groom, selected a smartly designed floor-length gown of pale turquoise silk georgette with V-neck, fitted bodice, and softly gathered skirt. Both mother's wore white orchid corsages.

Mrs. Earl Whitley, paternal grandmother of the bride wore a floral street length dress in shades of pink. Mrs. Humbert Rhoads, maternal grandmother of the groom, was attired in a deep pink two-piece dress of polyester knit. The grandmothers wore a corsage of white Fugli mums.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Maurice Hill, a long time friend of the families.

RECEPTION

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Charles Walden who was in charge of the reception.

The tables were covered with white lace cloths over colored polished cotton.

The bride's table was centered with the three-tiered white cake decorated with sugar spun rainbow colored daisies and topped with a bride and groom.

Burning tapers, accented with an arrangement of rainbow colored daisies and baby's breath, along with the bride's bouquet completed the decor of the table. Misses Debbie Walden and Pat Whitley, cousins of the bride, served here.

Guests were greeted at the groom's table by Misses Jan Rhoads, cousin of the groom, and Kim Jones who served chocolate cake and coffee. An attractive decoration on the table was a musical car which played the wedding march.

Miss Sarah Walden, a cousin of the bride, served a delicious yellow punch.

Little Misses Amy Kitchens and Rai Ann Crabb served as rice girls. Miss Cathy Chase of Tupelo and Miss Nina Jean Moorman were tea girls.

FBLA Honors Parents At Family Night Ceremonies

The officers of the Prentiss County FBLA were officially installed during the annual Prentiss County FBLA Family Night Thursday, Nov. 1, by Jeff Kellum, Northern District state FBLA vice-president from Lafayette High School of Oxford.

In an address to the approximately 200 parents, students, and special guests prior to the installation of officers, Kellum quoted William Faulkner in saying, "Man will not merely endure, but will prevail." He said that FBLA makes leaders to be fit like Faulkner's man.

He told the students that the world of business is an economic jungle. He reminded them that the law of the jungle is "survival of the fittest," and that the law applies to the business world.

He went on to say that to be a fit leader, young people must identify with a job or task. In doing so, there are four points they must consider: identify the problem, organize a plan, execute the plan, and analyze the result. Young Kellum

Decorator Draft-Dodger

Get ready for cold weather. Drafty doors let an unwanted chill into a home. The pioneers pushed small rugs or old blankets against the crack at the bottom of the door to make floors less drafty. Draft-dodgers serve the same purpose, but are more attractive and handier. They are easy to make, inexpensive and can be finished in less than an hour. All you need is some fabric, heavy-duty thread and fine sand.

Draft-dodgers are long, flexible, sausage-like fabric tubes filled with sand. They are about two inches in diameter and long enough to extend across the bottom of the entire door frame. Use any sturdy, tightly woven fabric—new or recycled. Coordinate with the furnishings and decor.

You might want to choose a print in practical colors that hide soil, will be easy to see and not easy to trip over. If the door is used often, you may want to leave the draft-dodger hanging in place by the door until most of the people in your household are settled for the night.

Here's how:

1.) Cut a strip of fabric six or seven inches wide and as long as the width of the tube.

2.) Make a loop with the fabric or sturdy twill tape and

- insert into one end of the tube.
- 3.) Allowing 1/2 inch seams, stitch across the loop end and down the long side. Turn to right side.
- 4.) Fill with clean, dry, fine (sift out stones using a colander) sand. It helps to use a funnel.
- 5.) Don't pack tightly—the tube must be flexible to fill the crack.
- 6.) Turn in seam allowance of open end and stitch securely.
- NOTE: Be looking for the announcement of the Holiday Fair to be held at the First United Methodist Church. There will be lots of holiday ideas, foods, decorations, and instructions. Also, demonstrations will be held.

Bob Hope Is National Diabetes Chairman

By BERYL COATS
Correspondent

It is hoped that the weather man will miss his prediction for rain on Nov. 6-that there will be more bright, dry days for farmers who still have beans in their fields.

Mrs. Pauline Jones is home and able to attend services after having spent a week in the Baldwin Hospital.

Mrs. V.L. Coats was absent from worship Oct. 28 due to illness. She's better but the bronchitis hangs on.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Bessie Pounds and girls in the loss of their beloved husband and father, Mr. Dewey Pounds.

The Lester Coats family have moved to the Saltillo area. He begins a ministry with the Mayfield congregation. He labored here for more than four years and is being missed very much. May God bless him and June in the new work.

Our shut-ins are about the same except for Mr. Earl Kennedy who isn't doing well at all. Best wishes for improved health go to him and his good wife who is a faithful nurse and companion.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Taylor are entertaining a little daughter who was born Oct. 24 in the North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo. She has been named Crystal and will be called "Crissey." Congratulations, Steve and Cora Lee!

Visitors at services on Sunday morning, Nov. 4 were Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Hill from Memphis, Tenn.; also Mr. and Mrs. Herschell Barber from Memphis.

Guest speaker Sunday, November 4, was Bro. Norman Euell from Leland, Miss. His lessons were very impressive. He, his wife and two young daughters were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kennedy.

Visiting the Myron Coats family last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Long and daughters Karen and Jamie.

Belated birthday greetings to George Coats whose day was Oct. 27 and to Bryan Harris who celebrated Nov. 1.

There's so much violence dissension and gossip prevailing. Here's something on which to think:

"There's so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us

That it doesn't behoove any of us to talk about the rest of us.

JACKSON, Miss.—Bob Hope, internationally renowned entertainer and widely recognized for his many charitable interests, is serving as the American Diabetes Association's Honorary National Chairman for 1979-1980.

Beginning this November, National Diabetes Month, Mr. Hope will be corresponding with hundreds of thousands of Americans, urging them to support the fight against diabetes, America's third leading cause of death by disease.

"Although I believe that laughter is a great healer, there just aren't any laughs in diabetes," says Mr. Hope.

years, the same questions that stumped the ancient Egyptians are still puzzling today's medical scientists!"

What scientists do know is that diabetes is a complex disorder of body chemistry in which the body is unable to use food energy in a normal way. They also know that diabetes can lead to some very serious complications; among them, blindness, heart attack, kidney disease, and gangrene leading to amputation.

The American Diabetes Association is our country's foremost nonprofit voluntary health organization working on behalf of diabetics and their families. Its more than 500 offices nationwide include the Mississippi Affiliate which conducts local programs in patient, professional and public education and supports diabetes research both here in Mississippi and around the country.

"There are many thousands with diabetes in Mississippi," says Dr. Bonar, president of the Affiliate. "They range from babies to the elderly and come from all walks of life, all religions, all races. No one is immune to diabetes which means that it should be of concern to everyone in our community."

Dr. Bonar advises that anyone who needs help, has a question, or is simply interested in diabetes can call, write or drop by the Affiliate office at Woodland Hills Building, Old Canton Road, Jackson, 981-9511.

Christmas Seal
People Care

The Mississippi Lung Association, "the Christmas Seal People," care about every breath you take, says John F. Busey, M.D. of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Christmas Seal voluntary health organization.

Your Mississippi Lung Association is dedicated to prevention and control of lung diseases and is working year-round in the crusade for better "life and breath" for all Mississippians, he said.

Breathing is the act of life, but how we breathe varies enormously. You may never notice your breathing unless you are a victim of lung disease...and lung disease changes everything. We are working to alert citizens to the importance of early detection of lung problems, Dr. Busey added.

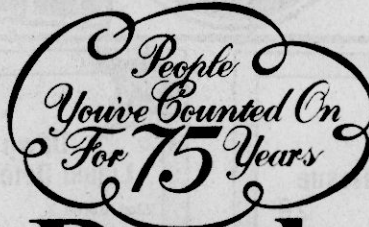

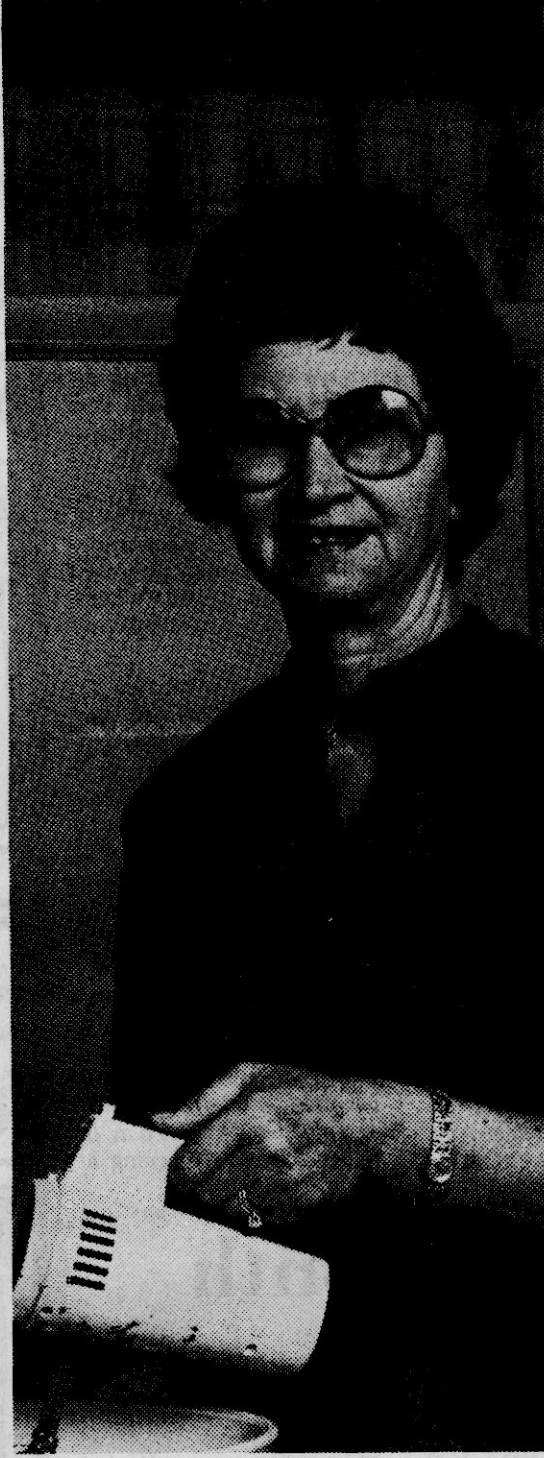

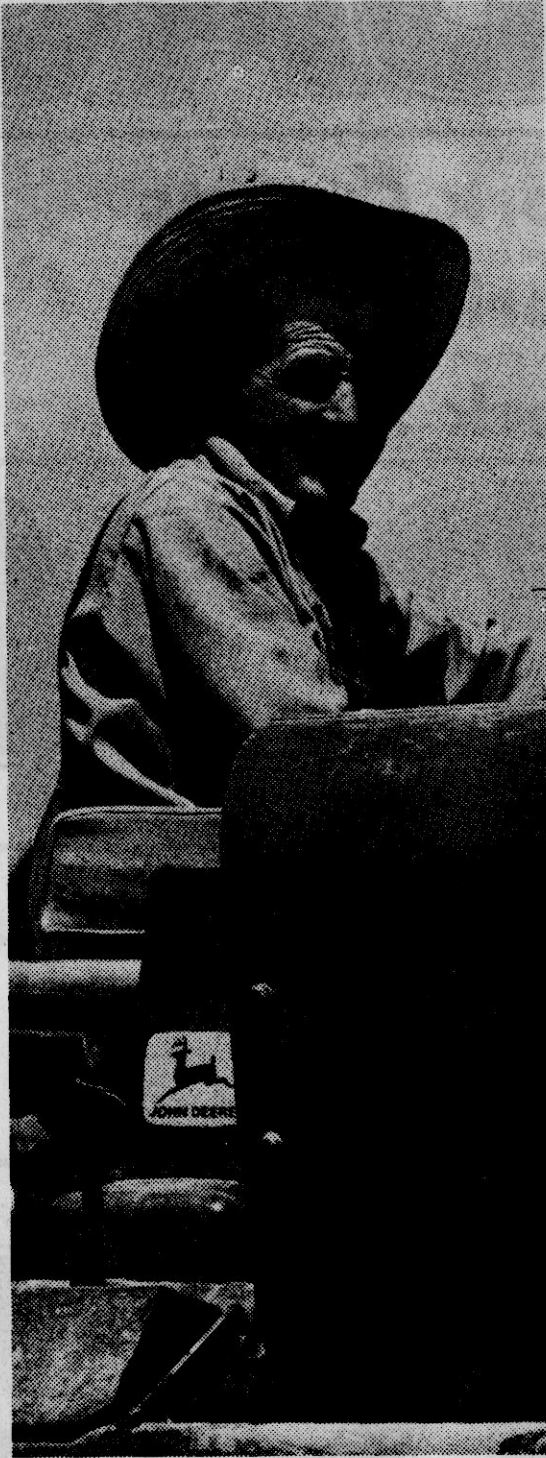

The Mississippi Lung Association is working to help Mississippians identify symptoms of lung disease and to realize the need to seek medical care. Symptoms of unhealthy lungs include chronic cough, shortness of breath after little or no exertion, chronic sputum production, chest congestion, wheezing, difficult or labored breathing, and frequent chest colds. Take these signals seriously and seek advice for your health's sake, the doctor said.

A broader scope of the Mississippi Lung Association's commitment for lung health includes coordinating programs in pediatric lung disease, smoking and health, adult lung disease, occupational lung disease and air pollution.

It is a year-round program of dedication with a purpose...the "life and breath" of all Mississippians, Dr. Busey concluded.

Anyone desiring educational material or information about any lung disease is requested to contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 9865, Jackson, Miss. 39206.

Fertilize and Lime
Soybean Fields

Manage Stored Soybeans

Proper management of soybean seed in storage is essential for high quality seed. Seed harvested at 13 to 14 percent moisture content will not need drying.

However, if the seed are above 14 percent moisture, they should be dried to about 13 percent for safe storage. Drying of this nature usually can be done with natural air; no heat is needed. Temperatures of 50 to 60 degrees F are desirable for storage.

Aeration of seed in bins is needed regardless of the moisture content at time of storage. Aeration reduces the temperature of the seed mass at time of storage; this helps maintain seed quality. Periodic aeration also prevents moisture migration caused by large changes in outside temperature.

These temperature variations create air currents which cause moisture to migrate from one area of the bin to another. This increases the moisture content in the beans, usually in the interior of the mass. Moisture can increase to the point where the beans will heat unless aeration is used.

If your soybean fields haven't had a soil test in three years, they need it now. Most soybean fields in the state need fertilizer and lime.

Lime will do a better job when applied and disked into the soil in the fall. Phosphate and potash can also be applied now for soils with a pH of nearly 6.0 and those not too sandy. Where small grain or ryegrass is fertilized, the amount needed for soybeans can be added this fall to eliminate this job next spring.

Adequate lime and fertilizer can increase yields on most non-Delta soils and on many soils in the Delta where phosphate and or potash are low.

On Monday, November 12, Farmweek will look at why more farmers in Mississippi are renting land rather than buying it. Farmweek reporter Tyson Gair will talk with Extension Agricultural Economist Dr. Bob Williams about the economics of renting land instead of buying it.

They will also discuss problems of renting from both the landowner's and renter's viewpoints. The program can be seen on the Mississippi Educational Television Network on Monday at 7:30 p.m. or the next Tuesday morning at 7:30.

Record Month For State Baptists

Mississippi Baptists had their first million dollar month in history when Cooperative Program receipts for missions were $1,018,812 for October, according to Earl Kelly, executive secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board.

The money is channeled through the board in Jackson to state Baptist agencies with one-third going to missions and education causes of the Southern Baptist Convention outside the state.

The 2,000 Mississippi Baptist churches which participate in the Cooperative Program, voluntarily contribute to the unified budget plan which is apportioned among the 15 state Baptist agencies which include the Children's Village and four colleges.

The 1979 budget for the work of these agencies in Mississippi is $120 million. Total gifts for the year thus far have been $8,353,348. This is an increase of $1,082,818 over the same period last year, a 14.9 percent rise.

November Will Be Wetter

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Mississippi farmers may have to contend with an increase in rainy weather in November, according to the National Weather Service Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The monthly outlook is calling for wetter than normal conditions and above normal temperatures, say agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville who prepare the report.

This may create problems for cotton and soybean producers. At the start of November, more than half of the soybean and cotton crops must still be harvested. Wet weather will cause long delays in harvesting because of short daylight hours. Farmers will need to manage time wisely and make full use of good harvesting days.

Freezing temperatures have already occurred on some extreme north Mississippi farms. Although most of the state usually receives a 32 degree temperature by the tenth of the month, the expected above normal temperatures could delay freezing temperatures past the normal

With 41-3 Romp Over Rangers

Tiger Gridsters Advance To State Playoffs

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

SENATOBIA—The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers advanced to the 1979 State Junior College Playoffs here last Thursday night with a remarkable 41-3 romp over Northwest Junior College.

"Boy I didn't expect this," remarks from Northeast head coach Bill Ward after Thursday's victory. I knew we had an excellent chance to win but boy I didn't expect us to roll all over them."

And roll over them they did. Never before in a key North matchup has a team like this completely dominated the game the way the Tigers did.

The Tigers have advanced to the State Playoffs for the first time in the history of the college's football tenure. The Northeast squad will not face the South division champion Jones Junior College next Saturday night, Nov. 17 at Jones' home site.

Ward said he was pleased with the Tiger's overall game plan last Thursday night. "We were just outstanding in almost every phase of the game," he said. "Our offensive line played extremely well all night long and most of our entire game plan was near perfect. As much as the word perfect goes."

"I honestly feel like Thursday's game was one of the best put together games since I've been coaching," Ward continued. "After we stopped Jones early in the game and they had to settle for a field goal. Then I could tell that we were in for a good night."

The Tigers jumped on the Rangers early in the first half. After trailing 3-0 by a field goal, The Tigers came back in the second to score the first of their 41 points.

The Tigers took ball possession at the 44 yard line. Anthony Norman, Tiger runningback, carried the ball on a 25 yard scamper while Graves then tossed a 21 yard pass to James Spears for a first down at the five yard line.

Northeast back Randy Cochran then capped off the drive with a three yard run for the Tigers first score. Jim Tsagarakis added the point after and the Tigers took the lead to stay at 7-3.

The Tigers came right back after this and took ball possession after they picked up a Ranger fumble at the 42 yard line.

Cochran, who had just scored the first tally took the first handoff and raced the entire length of the field to paydirt. Tsagarakis added the extra point to boost the Northeast lead to 14-3.

This ended the first half scoring but the not to be denied Tigers came right back where they left off in the first.

Al Graves cranked up his arm for the next score when he hit tightend Walt Walton on a 21 yard touchdown pass. Tsagarakis added the pass to give the Tigers a 21-3 lead.

Tsagarakis then thrilled the Northeast fans when he got the next points on the board with a 42 yard field goal to boost the lead to 24-3.

Mike Williams got the touchdown that really put the game out of reach when he scampered 37 yards for the Tigers fourth touchdown of the night. Tsagarakis again converted for a 31-3 lead and the Tigers held on from there and added then more points to waltz to a 41-3 victory.

The victory, the most impressive of the year, gave the Tigers a second place tilt in the North JUCO standings and moved the Tiger season record to an impressive 6-4 mark and a 5-1 record in Conference play. The victory for the Northeast squad sends the Tigers into the State playoffs for the first time in the history of the school.

"We have an entire week to prepare for Jones," Ward said. "They are a good football team and we'll have to play our best to beat them."

Memphis Dog Show Set

The Memphis Kennel Club will hold its 80th all-breed dog show on November 25, 1979. Judging will begin at 9:00 a.m. and will continue until about 3:30 p.m. Children under 6 years of age will be admitted free. The site of the show will be the Mid-South Fairgrounds, ample parking is available.

Last year the largest crowd in the history of the show, over 2500 people, watched as a Basset Hound owned by county and western singer Tom T. Hall and Billy Carter, the President's brother, defeated 800 others to go on to win the Best-In-Show award.

This year club officials hope for even more dogs and spectators since the Memphis Kennel Club dog show is considered one of the nation's premier American Kennel Club licensed events. It is of interest to note that Memphis is the site of the first organized dog show held in America.

Mike Warren: Racking Horse Show Perfectionist!

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

Competing in the world of racking horse shows is a hobby for some folks but for Mike Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Warren of Baldwin, it's both a hobby and a fulltime job as well.

The Baldwin lad is known far and near as one of the top racking horse riders and trainers and the awards he has won are almost too numerous to mention.

The world racking shows could be compared to just about any sport. Some of the entrants go an entire lifetime without achieving any great honors.

Well Mike stands above this...The Baldwin and Marietta lad, along with a six year old strawberry roan named Mary's Rose W, recently received the highest award given to a racking horse when they captured the World's Championship at the World's Racking Horse Celebration in Decatur, Ala.

"This is the highlight of my racking horse career," Warren said. "I've had this horse since it was two years old and to see the horse accomplish this is quite an honor for me."

Mary's Rose W isn't new to the winners circle. Rose W has been in some 22 shows including the state of Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Illinois, and Kentucky and has won the top three positions in every show except two and has won the state 58" class in Arkansas.

In the Decatur Classic, Rose W earned the judges highest awards with a first place finish in the 58" class and Warren received a beautiful (according to Mike) silver plate, a ribbon along with a $100 check.

The horse has claimed the highest single honor it can and Mike says Mary's Rose will now retire to be bred.

Mike is also one that's been around the winners post before. He has been riding horses since he was six years old. He has won 1355 trophies, some 1000 ribbons and has won some $5000 in prize money.

Mike has also won two saddles for high point riding, along with some special high point trophies.

Mike is not only a rider, but a trainer as well. He currently is working seven horses now in his barn to prepare them for next year's events and also has three colts that he will train for the following year.

Mike says it normally takes some three to four months to train a horse to be a contender. He says he works the horses an hour per day and sometimes more if the need arises.

Warren said he was extremely proud of Mary's Rose W and said he had been offered numerous amounts of money for the horse. "I gave $90 for her when she was two years old and I turned down $7000 for her at the Celebration at Decatur. I just couldn't stand the thought of parting with her."

Mike says he really enjoys his hobby of racking shows and said that he spends a lot of his time traveling to different parts of the country.

"Me and my family really have a good time when we go to the shows," he said. "We always take a camper along to sleep in. My family usually sleeps in the camper and I sleep next to my horse to guard him."

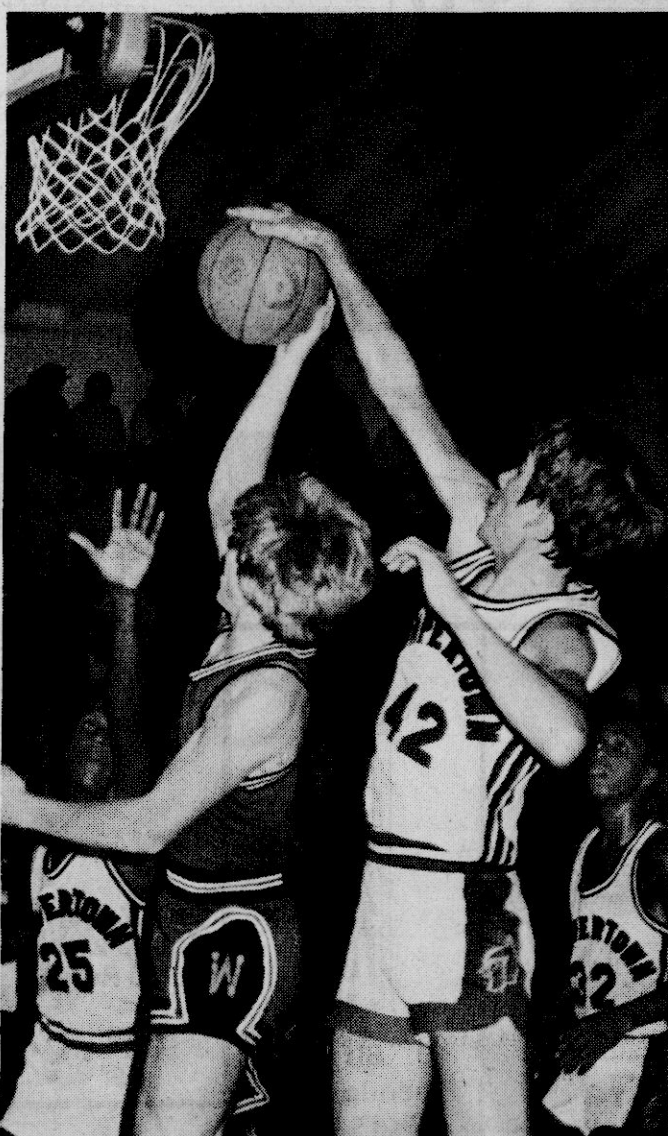

"It's amazing just how many people turn out for these shows, the racking rider said." There's people that arrives from all over the country.

The Celebration in Decatur is the grand daddy of the racking shows. The event draws some 50 classes from all parts of the nation and lasts some seven days.

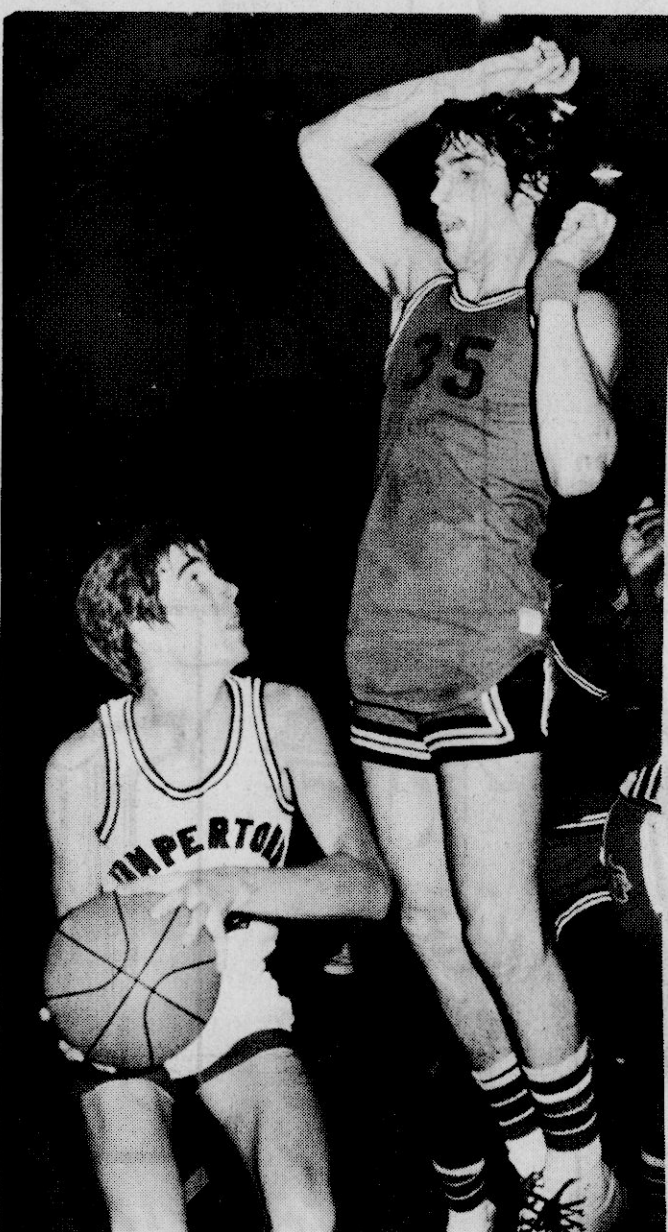

The name Mike Warren is and will from now on be known throughout the racking horse shows across the Southeastern States. His name, along with the names of his horses have appeared numerous times in the National Racking Review and the Racking Horse World.

When you think of football, you think of the Super Bowl Title; when you think of baseball, it's the World Series; The same goes for others as well and when you think of racking horse shows, you think of your horse being a World's Champion.

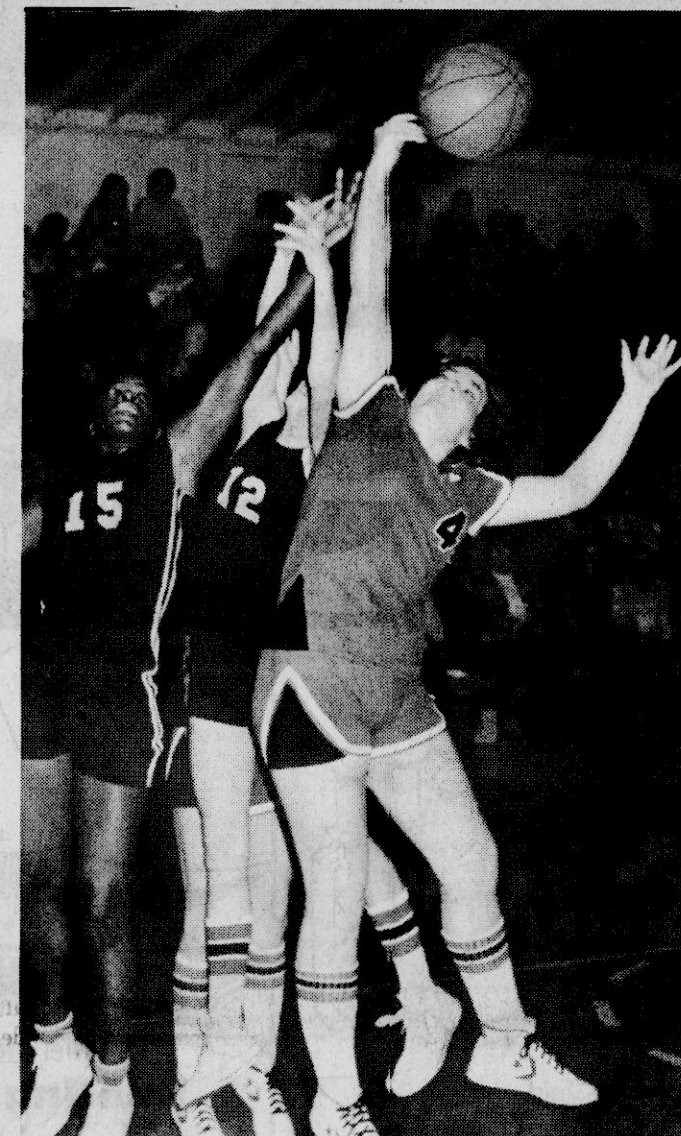

Well Mike Warren thought about that before and now says, "I did it this year and I'm going to do it again the next time."

'Devils Host Ripley Friday

Devil Defense Shines In Okolona Shutout

Booneville's Blue Devils, aided by a super performance on defense, picked up their fourth victory of the season here last Friday night with a 14-0 shutout over Okolona's Chieftans.

a team full of very improve freshman, clearly dominated the Friday night encounter although they put just 14 points on the board.

Booneville moved the ball almost at will in the contest and the Devil defense stopped the Chieftans time and time again.

The Chieftans had to be a slight favorite in the game but after the final seconds ticked off the clock, one had little doubt that the Devils were the best of the two.

Booneville could have easily rolled up the points on the Lee County team the way they did a week prior to the game against another set of Chieftans Iuka. Several Blue Devil drives were stopped a few turners hampered the Devils from turning the game into a rout.

Okolona gave the Devils their first scoring opportunity late in the opening quarter when they coiled up the ball at the Booneville 45 yard line.

The Devils went to work from there on running plays along with the passing arm of quarterback Buddy Hall and moved the ball across the goal line just two plays after the star to the second quarter.

Hall capped the drive with a run over right guard from three yards out and then followed with the extra point to give the Devils a 7-0 lead early in the second frame.

The 7-0 margin stood until halftime and even through the third but the Booneville troop, now 4-6 overall and 4-3 in the conference, opened the fourth with their final surge.

The Devils final six pointer came on almost the same situation as the first one did. Booneville tried scoring twice inside the ten yard line in the third quarter but finally capped off the drive at the start of the fourth and final one.

Braddock Miller plunged over from one yard out for the final six points and Hall split the uprights with the extra point to give the Devils the 14-0 win.

Both teams moved the ball after this but the Blue Devil defense, one of their most impressive shows of the year, stopped all threats.

The Devils will close out the 1979 football season this Friday night when they return home to host the number two team in the Tombigbee Conference Ripley's Tigers.

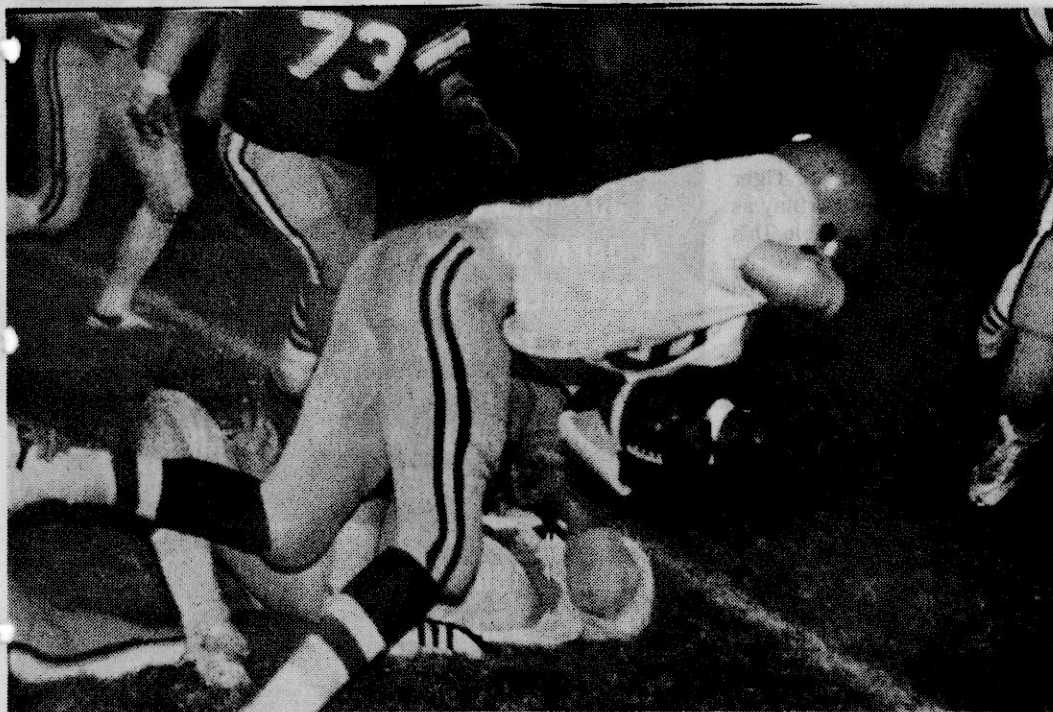

Blue Devil Coach Mac Curlee along with assistants Riley Presley and David Wilkerson will again field a number of freshmen performers against the powerful Tiger squad.

The Devils have worked hard all week in preparation for Friday's game and you can be certain the local men with the horns will be in their gunning for the Tippah county team. Gametime for the Friday night game is 7:30.

Series Dates Back To 1935

'Devils, Tigers Meet For 42nd Time

Booneville High School will be shooting for their 20 victory over Ripley's Tigers Friday night when the two teams meet for the 42nd time.

Since the series began in 1935, Ripley holds a slight edge on the Devils winning 21 games compared to Booneville's 19 and there has been one tie.

The Devils have a two game winning streak on the line here Friday night against the Tigers. Booneville won at home two years ago in one of the most memorable games winning 3-2 to earn a share of the Tombigbee Conference crown while last year the Devils handled the Tigers at the Ripley field 20-15.

Ripley is still ahead of the Devils on the Devils home field winning 11 games to Booneville's ten while at Ripley the Tigers still lead winning 11 to Booneville's eight.

From 1947 until 1960, it was a first game fixture and Booneville was able to win 9 and lose only 3. Starting with 1961, it has been a last game feature and it works out 5 wins for the Devils against 12 on the lost side.

Booneville holds the record for the most points in the series with their 84-0 win in 1947. Ripley's 47-7 drubbing of the Devils in 1967 was the most points scored by the Tigers.

Booneville won from 1955 through 1960 which was the longest Devil winning streak. Ripley turned it around in 1962 and won through 1968 for their longest winning streak.

The Coaching records against Ripley: Carson Pyle (1935-1941) 2-4-1 J.P. Box (1942-1951) 5-2-0; John M. Curlee (1952-1953) 0-2-0; Billy Ward (1954-1960) 6-1-0; Doug Herbert (1961-1964) 0-4-0; Jim Drewry (1965-1977) 5-8-0. Mac Curlee 1-0.

The Devils will field a young squad this Friday night when they go against the Tigers for the 42nd time of the series. The local squad will field a 4-6 overall record into Friday's game along with a 4-3 conference mark.

NE Roundballers Open Season Saturday

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

A new coaching change will go in effect here Saturday night when both the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers and Tigerettes open the 1979-80 basketball season when they host Columbia State at the Bonner Arnold Coliseum.

Guiding the men's team this season will be Noel Akins, a top notch roundball executive skilled at his profession and a firm believer in winning basketball games.

Akins comes to Northeast with an outstanding background from both the high school and junior college coaching ranks. Prior to his Northeast commitment, he began his coaching career, which spans 15 years, at Walnut for five years advancing then to Pontotoc where he served for two years and then went to Marshall Academy where he coached for three years.

He then advanced to junior college ball where he coached at Northwest Junior College where his teams earned a 52-20 overall record.

Coach Akins said he looked forward to the challenge of this year's team and added that he was especially pleased on returning to his home stomping grounds (so to speak) at Northeast where he graduated in 1959.

Coach Akins received his B.S.E. Degree in physical Education at Delta State University and latter earned his M.E. Degree at Ole Miss.

Millard Lothenore returns to the junior college ranks as leader of the Northeast Tigerettes. The local head mentor returns to the roundball circuits at Northeast where he renewed the ladies program a few years back and posted one of the top records in junior college play.

Coach Lothenore's teams were highly regarded as tops at their profession and his teams fared well in post season play as well as the regular season.

Lothenore said the Tigerettes have looked well in pre-season practice and adds that, even though some will be inexperienced, the overall outlook for the ladies is good.

The Tigerettes open Saturday night's first ballgame with a very young squad composed of five sophomores along with eight freshmen.

McDonald, 5'6" from Ripley; and Onnie Garmon, 5'5" from Blue Mountain. Freshmenmembers are, Nancy Browning, 5'5" from Ingomar; Amy Bradley, 5'6" from Myrtle; Sabrina Williams, 5'7" from Belmont; Lisa Mayes, 5'6" from Biggersville; Paula Garrison, 5'10" from Pine Grove; Karen Davis, 5'10" from Burnsville; Joy Heavner, 5'5" from Baldwin; and Martha Ashmore, 5'7" also from Baldwin.

The Tigerettes will kickoff the 1979 season Saturday night against Columbia State when they start with the opening ballgame.

Coach Lothenore said he looked for the Tigerettes to be quick this year and added that with the sophomore performers they have that the Northeast ladies should have some depth on the squad.

Coach Akins' Tigers have one of, if not the, youngest ballclubs in the Mississippi Junior College Ranks. The Northeast pawmen have only two sophomore performers on the '79-80 squad along with a host of some 11 freshman. 6'0" Mike Cartwright, a former Booneville High School performer, and Troy McWilliams, 5'11", last year's starter from Oldham Co. Kentucky, will be the lone returnees on this year's roster.

Coach Akins said he looked for some senior leadership out of these two performers and added that the freshmen have improved greatly over the past few weeks of practice sessions.

Freshmen recruits on the squad includes, Mark Buskirk, 6'0" from Ingomar; Charles Conrad, 6'5" from Corinth; Frank Durrough, 5'10" from Ingomar; Rusty Garvin, 5'11" from Burnsville; Dale Groves, 6'1" from Booneville; Mark Hastings, 6'6" from Thrasher; Gary Hill, 6'3" from Corinth; Jim Kwasinski, 6'4" from New Albany; Jackie Leach, 6'4" from Booneville; Giles McDaniel, 6'4" from Booneville; and Larry Spight, 5'4" from Blue Mountain.

Coach Akins stated that the Tigers would have to earn their respectability this season and added the 1979-80 schedule was again a hard one.

"We have some tough teams in the state this time around," Akins said. "we're young but we're fast, we're average in height but we have the determination."

Coach Akins said the Tigers, strong point this year will be their depth coming from not experience but from their equal ability.

He added that the weakest point of the Tigers was their inexperience in junior college basketball.

The newly elected NE Tiger mentor said he hoped to play as many people as possible this year. "If we're forced to run with a team, then we need more personnel."

Akins said their toughest opponents this season would probably be Saturday's foe Columbia for out-of-state play and both IJC and Northwest inside the state.

The newly elected coaches will have some heavy shoes to fill. Lothenore takes over for last year's ladies' mentor James Lamb while Akins takes over for former coach Ken Lindsey, who posted an outstanding record in his overall tenure at Northeast.

Both coach Noel Akins and Coach Millard Lothenore say they are looking forward to Saturday's opening game and added that there looking forward to a respectable season.

No one doubts the fact that be in capable hands in the Northeast Junior College will basketball circuits.

Tigers Advance To State Tourney Play

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers will march on the 1979 State Football Playoffs Saturday night November 17 when they travel to Jones Junior College.

The Tigers advanced to the playoffs with a 41-3 win over Northwest last Thursday night to finish second in the North Miss. JUCO Conference.

"We are currently preparing for the Jones game," Northeast head football coach Bill

Ward said. "They are a top knotch football team and we have another week to prepare for them."

Ward said he was pleased with his team's performance against Northwest and added that the Tigers would have to equal their performance against Jones, the South's number one team.

"We'll play the same kind of game plan we've used all season long," The Northeast mentor said. "We'll use the power I formation and also the pro set and then divide the power I."

Ward said Jones also used the I formation and would probably run the 50 defense with an eagle weak and eagle strong.

Northeast, Itawamba and Jones all have clinched a spot in the playoff while one spot is still uncertain. A playoff game will be held tonight to determine the South number two team.

Itawamba will be the host team against the Gulf Coast-Southwest winner while Jones is the host for the their matchup with Northeast.

The Tigers finished the '79 season with a 6-4 overall record along with a 5-1 mark in North Conference play and finished second in the Conference behind front running Itawamba.

Kickoff for the November 17th classic is set for 7:30 p.m.

Over Golden Bears

Bearcats Win

BALDWIN—Bearcat signal-caller Ray Scott thrilled the HOMEcoming crowd here at Latimer Park Friday night when he led Baldwin's Bearcats to a 47-0 romp over winless Alcorn Central.

Scott paced the Bearcat brigade with two touchdown passes on the night while running for another and filled the air passing for 136 yards on the night.

Scott opened the Bearcat scoring early in the opening quarter when he fired a 60 yard touchdown pass to Ronnie Grice to give the Bearcats a 7-0 lead.

Again in the first quarter Scott ramblled through the Golden Bear defense on a 25 yard touchdown run.

Tony Anderson scored again for the Bearcats in the first quarter on a 15 yard run.

Terry Tyes got the lone second period score on a 34 yard run for the Bearcats.

Dennis Anderson opened the second half scoring when he scooped up a Golden Bear fumble and raced down the field for a 52 yard touchdown run.

Scott's second touchdown pass came in the third quarter on a 76 yard connection to Tim DeVaughn.

Mark Anderson ended the night's scoring as he jolted through the defense on a 30 yard touchdown run. Baldwin kicker Jackie Thomas connected on five of seven extra point attempts.

The Bearcats will close out the 1979 season, except a possible bowl bid, this Friday night when they travel to Tiger Town to face Nettleton.

Hunting Areas Are Now Open

JACKSON—Wildlife biologists from across the state have recommended numerous counties and selected public hunting areas to be opened again this year to antlerless deer hunting.

Meeting in Jackson at the state's Natural Science servation heard suggestions from game biologists as to which counties and wildlife management areas should be open to doe deer hunting.

Cards Of Thanks

The family of Mrs. Randy (Marla) Downs would like to express our appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for all the kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our lovely Marla.

Thank you for the prayers and words of kindness in our sorrow. For all the food you brought.

To Bro. Bill Mason and Bro. Johnny Duvall we say thank you for the beautiful message. And a special thanks to the singers. And to McMillans for their kindness.

And to the people in Louisville, Ky., who were so good to us while we were there with Marla.

To all we say God Bless you all.

Randy Downs and the Downs family

Know Their Apples

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Get to know the appearances and types of apples, suggests Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

For instance, Red Delicious is elongated with five points at the blossom end. The skin feels thin, smooth and protective. Red Delicious can be dark red, brilliant red or sometimes light red with bold stripes and tinges of yellow/green. The flesh is creamy white and fine grained. It's a low acid apple and is sweet, juicy and has a mild aroma. Served slightly chilled, it is an excellent snack. Use it in fresh apple salads, too, for a taste pleaser, she suggests.

Golden Delicious has a different personality. As the name implies, it is yellow, sometimes yellow/green. The stem end is full and round, tapering slightly toward the blossom end. The skin feels velvety and occasionally has a russeting appearance. The flesh has a yellowish tinge and is fine grained and mildly aromatic. It's crisp, tender, sweet and juicy. It's an all-purpose apple good for cooking, baking and eating. Unlike some other varieties, this one will hold color without browning when exposed to air.

Another all-purpose apple is Jonathan. It is red, with color ranging from bright to dark. The skin is thin and slightly tough; the flesh is yellowish-white with occasional red veins. This one is moderately tart and sprightly in flavor. It is good for eating, baking and cooking, adds Mrs. Rushing.

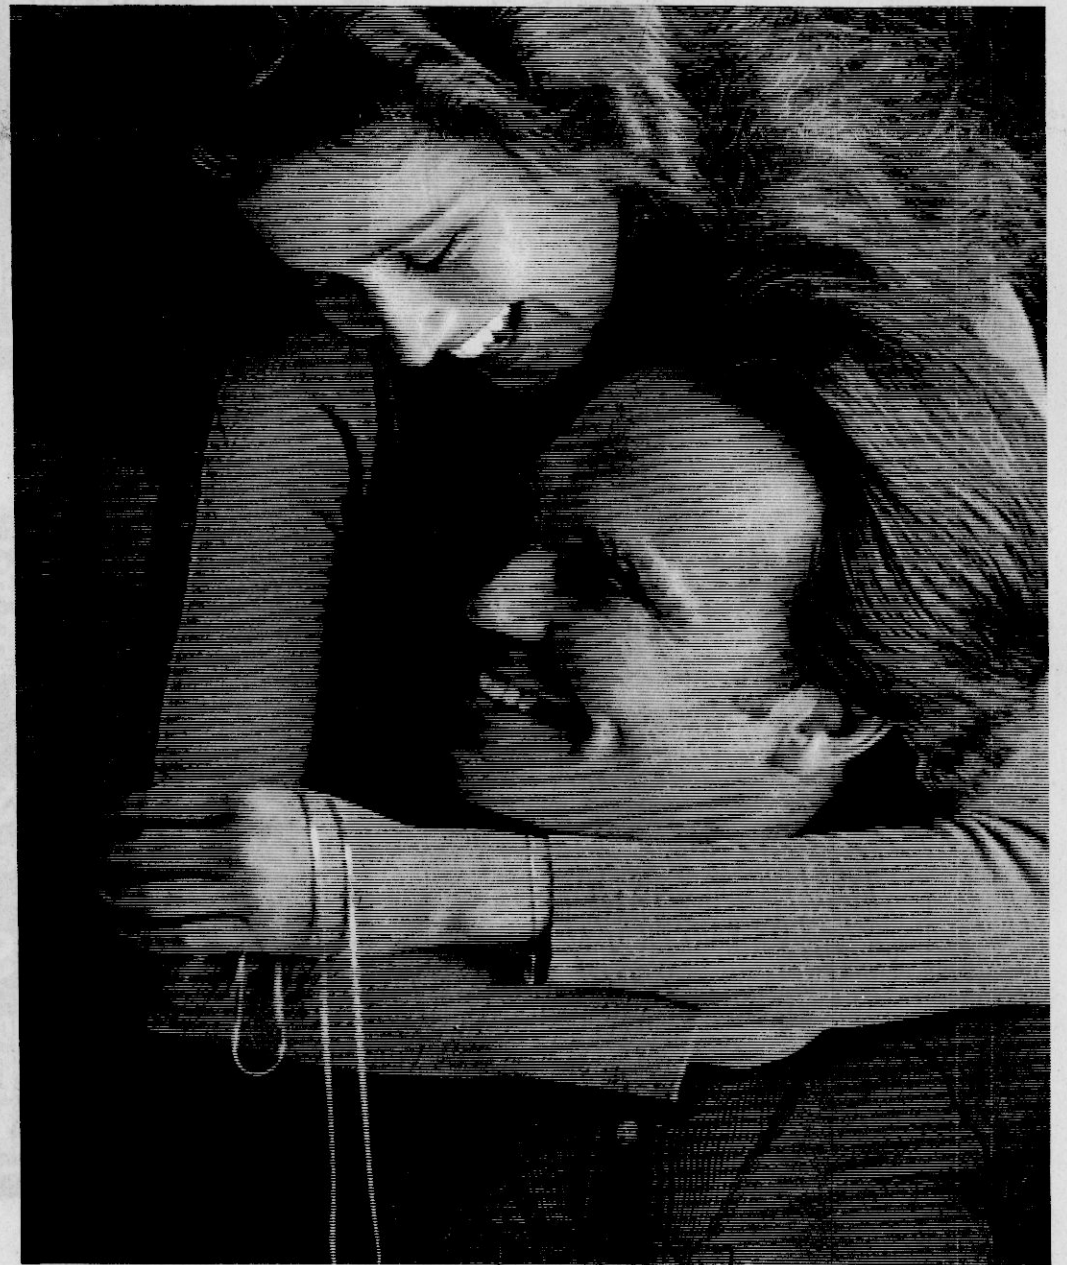

Rome, sometimes referred to as Rome Beauty, has a flavor that stands out best when cooked or baked. It holds its shape well when cooked. It, too, is red, with occasional greenish/yellow stripes. The skin is thick and either rough or smooth. It feels firm and heavy. It is basically round, but may be flat at the blossom and stem ends.

Stayman may be confused with Red Delicious, but it is harvested much later in the apple season. It is slightly elongated or oval, and deep red, often with some green undertone showing on the surface. It's usually slightly russeted which does not affect quality.

SCHOLARSHIP CONTRIBUTION—Mrs. Marjorie Oakley Waters (second from right) of Booneville presents a check to Harold T. White, president of the Northeast Junior College, in support of the Pauline Oakley Bryant Scholarships. Given in honor of Mrs. Waters' sister, the scholarships will be awarded each semester to two Prentiss county students majoring in Secretarial Science. Recipients are to be selected on the basis of academic accomplishments. Also on hand for the presentation were Ronnie Sweeney (left), director of recruitment, and G. Hal Hughes, Dean of Student Affairs.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Do You Worship Regularly?

By Tom F. Rayburn

"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together..." Hebrews 10:25

It is recorded of Dwight L. Moody that he visited a man one wintery evening to discuss with him the matter of his salvation. The man told Mr. Moody that in his opinion he could be as good a Christian outside the church as in it. At this point, Mr. Moody made no answer but got up and went to the fireplace; took the tongs and removed one coal and laid it on the hearth. In silence the two men watched the coal smolder, and then die out. At this the man turned to Mr. Moody and said, "I see what you mean." The neglect of worship leaves a vacuum in our lives.

To worship publicly is not to get salvation, but to worship publicly is to hear the message that will save you when you believe it, and trust the Saviour.

Sometimes Christians allow things to crowd spiritual values out of their lives, and in the process they lose sight of God.

Years ago Guthrie said, "If you find yourself loving any pleasure better than your prayers; any book better than the Bible; any house better than the House of the Lord; any table better than the Lord's table; any person better than Christ; any indulgence better than the hope of heaven, take alarm."

Apathy can also destroy our desire for worship. Edmund Burke said many years ago, "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do NOTHING!" Apathy can also destroy our churches.

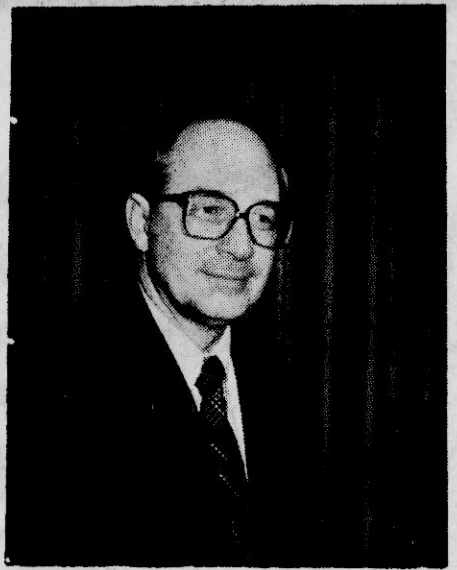

Then, some do not prepare for worship. A Christian should use a good part of Saturday night in preparing himself for worship on Sunday. Put a priority on Bible Study and Worship for Sunday. On Saturday night prepare for worship by pressing your suit; shining your shoes; reviewing your Sunday School lesson; getting to bed at a reasonable hour; and praying for the pastor as he preaches on the Lord's Day.

But, some of us are like the tourist who stopped his car for some emergency need. He approached an old rundown house with a ragged man sitting on the front porch, contentedly rocking away. When the tourist found he could get no help he paused awhile to chat with the man. "How are your crops this year?" He was told not so good. "How's your corn?" The man replied, "I don't have any. I didn't plant any. I figured there wouldn't be any rain and I didn't plant any." The tourist went on to ask, "Well, how about your potatoes?" Again the man answered, "I figure with no rain for my corn, I couldn't raise potatoes so I didn't plant any." Then after a pause and a puff on his pipe, he added with a bit of triumph in his voice, "No sir, I just played it safe. I didn't plant anything." Does this compare with our neglect to prepare for worship?

Let's forsake not the assembling of ourselves for public worship each Lord's Day. I think it is Satan's activity that keeps us away.

Satan, a story goes, held a great banquet for one of his imps to honor him for his ability to get Christians to neglect worship.

Let's go to church each Sunday! Let's worship regularly!

Cool Fall Weather Is Perfect For Cooking On The Grill

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Fall weather is perfect for cooking on the grill, says Ann Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

As demand for meat cuts shifts, look for better prices on favorite broiling steaks. With few exceptions, beef steaks tender enough to give a good product by usual broiling methods come from the rib or loin sections of a mature beef animal.

Exceptions are the top muscle of round steak and the rib eye muscle that extends into the blade chuck roast. Each of these steaks costs less if you buy them as a part of the round steak or blade chuck and remove them at home. You may buy them in meat counters, however, as top round steak or chuck tenders. Their cost per pound is lower than that of boneless steaks cut from the rib or loin.

In stores that practice voluntary meat identity labeling, you can recognize usual cuts for broiling by checking the price label of high-quality mature beef cuts for the words "beef loin" or "beef rib." Broiling steaks include one or two of these muscles in order of tenderness: tenderloin, loin eye or rib eye. The beef loin tenderloin steak is the most tender and expensive of all steaks, says Mrs. Rushing. It has no bone and little trimmable fat, but also has less fat marbled in the lean than other loin steaks. The tenderloin muscle is sometimes left in portions several inches long to serve two or more people. The standard name for this cut is beef loin tenderloin roast, but it is often called chateaubriand.

Beef loin porterhouse and T-bone steaks rank second and third in tenderness. Both contain some tenderloin muscle. The porterhouse has a larger tenderloin section than the T-bone, so its price per pound is usually higher. Both steaks have the characteristic T-shaped bone separating the tenderloin from the larger, less tender, loin eye muscle.

Beef loin sirloin steaks are large steaks. A thick one is relatively economical for two or three people. Price per pound is less for sirloins than for T-bones. Sirloins are remarkably juicy, tender and flavorful, adds Mrs. Rushing.

When sirloin prices vary with the shape of the bone, those with wedge-shaped bones are likely to be priced lower than other sirloins. However, in stores where prices for all bone-in sirloins are the same, those with either a flat bone or pinbone are better values because they contain relatively large tenderloin muscles.

Beef rib eye steak contains the rib eye muscle, which is less tender than the tenderloin. Those from the small end of the rib make relatively economical individual bone-in steaks.

Bone-in beef steaks from the chuck, shoulder or round are identified by experienced shoppers as good choices for cooking by moist heat, but boneless steaks from these same cuts can be confusing.

Arm or round-bone chuck steak is best braised or made into Swiss steak. The blade chuck steak is usually used for the same purposes, but the rib eye muscle may be removed for broiling.

Round steak has less fat marbled throughout the lean than chuck, rib or loin. It is both less flavorful and less tender than loin and rib cuts, says Mrs. Rushing. The top round muscle (the long undivided one) is the tenderest of the three separate round steak muscles, but may be either broiled or braised.

The bottom section of round steak contains two muscles that are less tender than the top round. While moist heat cookery is generally best for all round steaks, the round muscle, sometimes displayed in meat counters as the "eye of round," can sometimes be sliced thin across the grain and pan broiled successfully, adds the specialist.

Planning Meals
Can Save On Food Budget

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Grocery shoppers often complain about the high costs of everything, yet select items among the costliest foods in the store, according to Barbara McLaurin, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service food and nutrition specialist.

Food prices continue to rise. Most grocery shoppers must look for ways to make the dollars buy good nutrition. However, unless you watch your selections, it's easy to save on one item but run the total cost up with such items as out-of-season fruit and produce, gourmet specialties and frozen foods prepared with sauces. All are expensive luxuries, says Mrs. McLaurin.

If you're serious about saving on your food shopping, meat costs are the first place to economize because meat takes one-third of the food dollar. These suggestions may help, she adds.

Plan meals before making the grocery list. List the main dish — meat, fish, poultry — and plan around these protein foods. Check the newspaper for advertised specials and try to include these in menus and on the shopping list.

If you stretch meals with casseroles and pasta, plan to use nonfat dry milk whenever the recipe calls for milk. Use plentiful foods of the season. If eggs and poultry are plentiful, use these as main dishes. Add a canned fish or meat if good buys are available.

Look for inexpensive cuts of meat; they are just as nutritious as expensive choice cuts. Look for beef cuts from the chuck, round, shank and short plate. Read the label to learn the type of beef and cut.

Try to figure the cost per serving of food, especially meat, rather than the cost per pound. Boneless meat cuts with little waste may be better buys than cheaper cuts with the bone in.

Use bone and fat amounts per cut to help determine the servings of meat yielded. To determine the cost per serving, divide the price per pound by the number of servings per pound the cut will provide.

Read labels of all foods for cost per serving. Store brands and unlabeled brands of canned goods may have the best prices, Mrs. McLaurin explains.

Inside Insect Pest Can Be Controlled

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Some insect pests that plague us in the home can be controlled by modifying their environment, says Dr. Ted Brook, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service pest management specialist.

Psocids, book lice, springtails, fungus gnats, sow bugs, pill bugs, millipedes and centipedes are attracted to high humidity conditions. These pests can be discouraged by ventilation and sunlight that reduce humidity. Air conditioners remove humidity; attic fans and window fans can produce an air flow on low humidity days to help dry up humid situations.

"Elimination of harborage and some sanitation help reduce silverfish, roaches, crickets, food weevils, moths and spiders. Boxes of stored items, piles of newspapers, magazines and food cartons provide shelter, breeding sites and food for these pests," he adds. "Clean up and discard as much as possible. Seal items you plan to keep so insects cannot enter."

As more of the home environment becomes less attractive to insect pests, the areas where they remain are easily identified and treated. It will be necessary, in most cases, to use a pesticide to get control. Control efficiency is increased when breeding areas and harborage areas are reduced by proper sanitation.

"Household pest control is a never-ending battle because the pests need the same things we do and will share our shelter and food if we let them," says Dr. Brook.

Information on control of household pests and help with insect identification is available at your county Extension office.

Agriculture Research Important

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee told members of the Agricultural Research Institute that "the pertinent question is not how many dollars we spend on research, but how many useful research results we get for the dollar."

Congressman Jamie Whitten, addressing the Institute at the National Academy of Sciences, said that in the agricultural field, "production must continue to receive top priority."

Citing increased farm productivity as a major "anti-inflation factor," Whitten said that farm output has increased 22 percent during the past 20 years, while total farm inputs have remained nearly constant.

"Output per man hours on the farm because of expensive machinery and other improved means of production has increased about 6.5 percent each year since 1967, compared to less than two percent for the non-farm sector," Whitten said.

"It has been estimated," Whitten said, "that the cost of 1976 farm output, using 1965-level technology, would have been 48 percent higher. It is important to the consumer and the economy, therefore, that this most efficient and productive segment of our economy be permitted to prosper."

But the North Mississippi legislator also said that in order to achieve this prosperity, "research must be properly targeted."

Toward this end, Whitten said that the "on-going and well-established research and extension activities of the Department of Agriculture and Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, a partnership built on formula-based core support, have been of great value to producers and consumers."

Addressing the issue of competitive, peer-panel research grants, Whitten cautioned that "in my judgement, we can't have peer-panels and Washington experts making all the decisions. This would undermine the very initiative which is essential at the State and local levels."

"The Department of Agriculture has always been the 'people's department'," Whitten said, "and should continue to address those matters identified by the people to be essential. The priorities selected by the people must take precedence over what frequently amounts to the pet projects of the experts in specific scientific disciplines."

At the core of the objections of the peer-panel approach, Whitten said, "is the concern that the topics of research be targeted by those who are held accountable by the people. The public review of research activities through open Congressional hearings must be continued."

"The essence of government is the allocation of scarce resources," the First District Congressman said. "How well we perform that duty in making today's agricultural research decisions will mold our legacy to future generations."
