Whitten Voices Support Of Guard

Congressman Jamie Whitten, speaking at the National Guard Armory in Booneville Saturday, Dec. 1, voiced his support of the National Guard and Reserves, saying that he would work to secure financial support for these "citizen soldiers."

Whitten, Chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Appropriations Committee and a member of the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, made his remarks while touring National Guard Armories at Booneville, Baldwyn, Iuka, Fulton and Tupelo.

Speaking in Booneville before an assemblage of Guard members and local officials, Whitten said "we must look for real contributions to our defense in the future (from the Guard and Reserves), both because of economics and also to retain public support for national defense."

Whitten said "the Guard and Reserves is the most patriotic group we have. I have always been a strong supporter of these citizen soldiers, both from a patriotic and economic viewpoint."

"More and more I find recognition of my view that, though we must retain a strong and mobile regular military, we must fit our real defense into the economy and into American life with nation-wide support," Whitten continued. "This we can do only with a strong National Guard and Reserve."

Whitten said "the military service cannot meet reasonable manpower targets today at any price. We are constantly reducing educational requirements under the present voluntary enlistment programs and, according to the press, many recruiters are being charged with misleading many of those who do volunteer. Who knows how many of these volunteers would renew their contracts if they were to face armed conflict?"

"While the Guard and Reserve have public support," Whitten continued, "I regret that the regular services do not have anything like the public support they deserve. In this period when the dollar has lost fifty percent of its value since

At American Legion Building

Goodfellows Program Saturday

The thirtieth annual Goodfellow Fund Raising Program will get underway Saturday night, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. It will be held in the American Legion building and will be broadcast over WBIP radio.

A host of professional and amateur talents have been lined up to provide entertainment during the program for the live audience at the Legion building and for the radio listening audience.

Booked entertainment to date include the Singing Hills, the Singing Echoes, the Country Sounds, Jim Whitley, and the Misfits, a Bluegrass band from Tupelo. Local recording artist Kim Whitley will also be performing her new record "Mr. Heartbreak Mender." Other local talent are also expected to appear on the show.

In addition to the entertainment, the audience will be able to bid donated items, such as homemade cakes, hams, quilts and other items.

The goal for this year's program is set at $2,500. Volunteers will be manning telephones to take pledges as the program is broadcast. The numbers to call for making pledges are 728-9975 and 728-9970.

The funds raised during the program are used to provide year round financial help to needy Prentiss County families and individuals. This help comes in the form of Christmas baskets, clothing, groceries, financial aid to those who have suffered from the loss of their homes due to fire or other disasters, medicines and other needed goods and services for residents and transients.

The local civic clubs are helping out by providing volunteers for such jobs as answering the phones and keeping a running tab of the donations.

Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb and WBIP employees Harold Campbell and R.J. "Piggy" Bonds will be masters of ceremonies at the fund raise.

Crabb pointed out that anyone who would like to make an advance donation could do so at any of the local banks.

THREE GOODFELLOWS—Drawing attention to the fact that the annual Prentiss County Goodfellows program will be broadcast from the American Legion building this Saturday night are (from left) R.J. "Piggy" Bonds, Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb and "Happy" Harold Campbell. Proceeds from the annual fundraiser will go for Christmas baskets for needy Prentiss County families.

For Community Fire Protection

Mini-Pumpers Recommended

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles dealing with an Emergency Response Plan developed by the Yellow Creek Watershed Authority.

The purpose of the plan is to increase the effectiveness of the county's emergency services, allowing units to respond to emergency situations in the least amount of time possible.

The plan has been submitted to the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors and the Prentiss County Emergency Response

Committee for study. These officials will then decide if it is economically feasible to implement some, or all, of the suggestions made in the plan. Today's article deals with fire protection in the county.

Prentiss County is largely a rural area approximately 22 miles by 19 miles containing a total land area of approximately 418 square miles. According to a projection by the Yellow Creek Watershed Authority, the county will

To New City School System

Student Releases Refused

According to the minutes of the Prentiss County Board of Education, the board has voted not to release any students living outside the Booneville city limits to attend the Booneville Municipal Separate School District.

This action means that approximately half of the students now attending the city schools will have to attend county schools when the separate school system goes into effect.

A proposal for a separate school district by the city's appointed Board of Trustees was approved Nov. 19 before a hearing of the Educational Finance Commission (EFC) in Jackson, thus establishing the Booneville Municipal Separate School District.

The boundaries of the separate district were established to coincide with the Booneville City limits. The Separate School District is slated to become effective July 1, 1980.

Dr. William Preston, president of the Board of Trustees for the Booneville Municipal School District has previously stated to the Banner-Independent that parents of pupils who want to attend Booneville schools, but live outside the city limits, must go to the county school board and request that their child be released to attend a city school.

"This is the only requirement necessary and means that ADA (Average Daily Attendance) funds and the territory of that student for educational taxation follows him," Preston said. "The new Booneville separate school system by law must have this permission before it can accept the students."

The only other separate school district in Prentiss county is the Baldwyn Separate School System. A spokesman for the office of the Prentiss County Superintendent of Education said Wednesday that, at least in the last six years, there have been no students released from the county school system to attend the Baldwyn schools.

A spokesman for the Separate School District, indicated that if the county refused to release a student to the city system, that student could possibly seek a court ruling on the matter. However, the spokesman pointed out that the initiative would have to be on the part of the student, or his parents, because the separate school board itself cannot, by law, take any such steps. According to the records, the Prentiss County School Board passed the proposal of not releasing any of the county students to the city system by a vote of four approving the proposal and one abstaining.

For Schools Consolidation

County Submits New Plan

Following the approval a little over two weeks ago by the State Educational Finance Commission (EFC) of the city's separate school district plan, the Prentiss County Board of Education has revised their long-range plan for consolidation of the county schools.

Meeting in executive session Wednesday, Nov. 28, the board approved the plan by a vote of four approving and one abstaining. The plan, if approved, will consolidate the county schools into a system having only two high schools, one west of the city of Booneville and the other east of the city.

A previous plan similar to this one was submitted to the EFC, but, because the Booneville city schools were taken out of the county system with the approval of the Booneville Municipal Separate School District by the EFC on Nov. 19, the earlier plan had to be revised.

The new plan has been submitted by mail to the EFC and a spokesman for the county Superintendent's office said that the board hopes the EFC will place the plan on its Dec. 17 meeting agenda.

The spokesman said that if the EFC approves the plan, the board would begin plans immediately to implement it.

A bond issue would be one of the possible means of financing school construction under the new plan. The school board spokesman indicated that the board has an estimate on construction costs, but declined to release the figures, saying that more study was needed on the matter.

Under the new plan proposed by the county, the New Site attendance center would close, but elementary and junior high centers would remain in Hills Chapel, Jumpertown, Marietta, Thrasher and Wheeler.

For County Residents

Rat Control Program Begun

Greg Geno, District Sanitarian with the State Board of Health, estimated last week that there is approximately one rat per person in Prentiss County. Each rat does about $20 worth of damage per year in spoiled foods and other damages he said.

Based on the Yellow Creek Watershed Authority's projected estimate of a population of 22,403 persons in Prentiss County in 1980, this means that rats could do about $448,060, or almost half-a-million dollars, worth of damage in the county next year.

In order to combat the rodent problem, the State Board of Health, in cooperation with the Booneville Board of Aldermen, Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb and the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors, has started a campaign to rid the county of the rats.

Geno, along with personnel from the city and the county, worked last week to mix approximately 4,600 pounds of rat poison which is now available to county residents free of charge.

The Environmental Protection Agency will not allow the rat poison to be disbursed to individual county residents by local officials, Geno said, but the county can make the poison available at various distribution centers located about the county where Prentiss Countians can go to get the poison.

The poison, which was mixed by hand by city and county employees at the Street Department shed, is a mixture of cornmeal, sugar and pivalyl, an anticoagulant. It can be picked up at the Fire Department located in the Booneville City Hall building or at any one of the five district supervisor's sheds. Persons receiving the poison will be required to sign a form, for record-keeping purposes.

Geno urged all those who use the poison to carefully follow the directions on the bags. The poison is relatively safe, he added, but stressed that it should be kept away from children and pets.

It will probably take several doses per rat to kill the rodents, Geno said. However, about three bags per family should get the job done, he added. In the beginning, the amount of poison distributed will be limited to that amount.

Mini-Pumpers

To a certain extent, this is already the case. But the YCWA Emergency Response Plan makes some suggestions for improvements in the system.

A current inventory of major fire-rescue apparatus in the county includes the Booneville Fire Department with two 1,250 gallon tankers, one 750 gallon pumper, one 500 gallon pumper and one MERV II Rescue Vehicle; the Baldwin Fire Department with one 1,250 gallon tanker, one 750 gallon pumper, and one 300 gallon mini-pumper; and a volunteer fire department in each of the five districts in the county.

The Thrasher Volunteer Fire Department, located in District 1, has one 1,500 gallon tanker; the Jumpertown Volunteer Fire Department, District 2, one 1,250 gallon tanker; the Wheeler Volunteer Fire Department, District 3, one 1,250 gallon tanker; the Marietta Volunteer Fire Department, District 4, one 1,250 gallon tanker and one 300 gallon mini-pumper (which was out of service at the time of the survey); and the Cairo Volunteer Fire Department, District 5, one 1,500 gallon tanker.

From this inventory, it is clear that the various fire protection organizations throughout the county are relying almost exclusively on large capacity tankers for fire protection. According to the YCWA plan, this is not the best way to handle the situation.

The plan states "Units of this type (the large tankers) are slow moving and in most cases are very dangerous when driven at speeds necessary to provide a rapid response in rural areas. Tankers are designed to transport relatively large volumes of water as a backup supply for pumpers. While tankers are equipped with hoses and can deliver an effective stream of water on a burning structure, they are inappropriate for rapid response to 90 percent of the fires which would be encountered in rural areas."

Instead of the large tankers, YCWA recommends the use of mini-pumpers. A mini-pumper unit consists of an 8,500 to 10,000 GVW truck chassis equipped with a 350 gallon tank and mid-mounted high pressure, low volume pump, appropriate hoses and other equipment and tools.

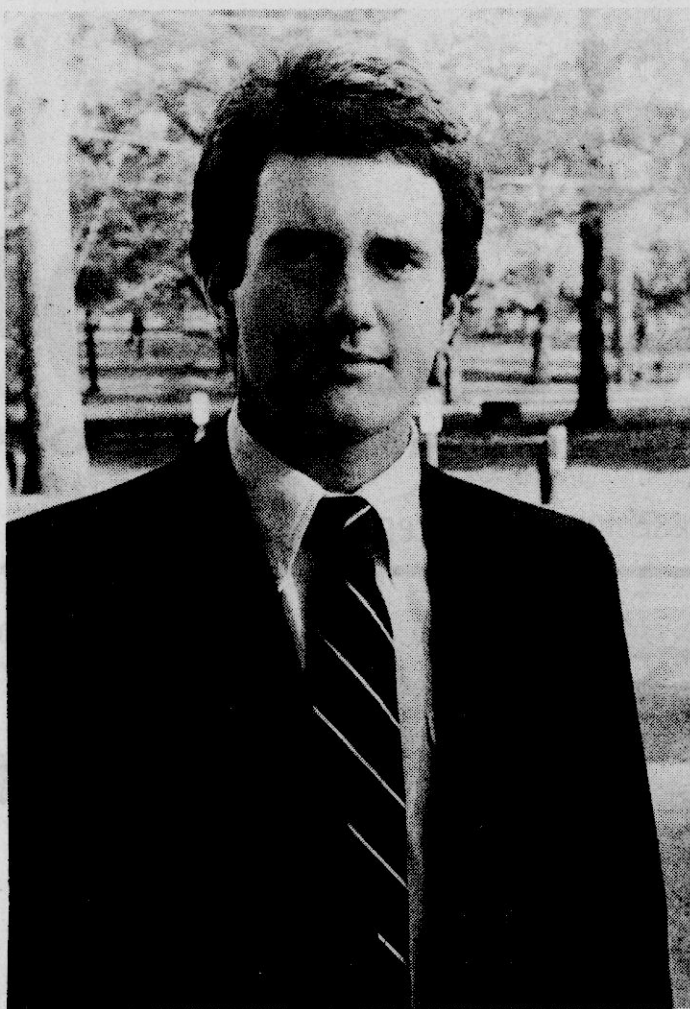

These mini-pumpers would be the basic response unit, according to the YCWA plan, with the tankers providing back-up as necessary.

The use of the mini-pumper should cut down the response time considerably, possibly allowing the response team to arrive before the fire is totally out of control. According to YCWA, house fires are virtually uncontrollable after about ten minutes, so the faster response time is more critical than the water capacity of the truck.

The YCWA plan recommends the addition of seven mini-pumpers, at a cost of $12,000 each to the county system. One mini-pumper would be placed at the Booneville, Cairo, Thrasher and Wheeler stations, the Marietta mini-pumper would be put back in service; and new stations with one mini-pumper each would be established in the Blackland Community and in the Hills Chapel area.

The YCWA plan also points out that it is important to provide an adequate facility for housing the equipment to protect it from weather conditions and from the freezing of water in the tanks, plus providing storage for hoses, turn-out gear and other equipment.

Next week the Banner-Independent will look at the Yellow Creek Watershed Authority's recommendations for a countywide emergency communications system and at the recommended training program for emergency response personnel in the county.

Wood To Speak Saturday About Great Pyramid

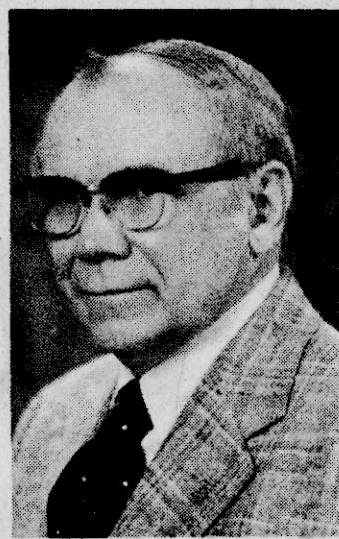

The Great Pyramid of Gizeh, Egypt, the only one of the seven ancient Wonders of the World remaining, has puzzled ancient archeologists and other scientists for centuries.

Saturday, Dec. 8, at the Guy Woods Community Center in the Tuscumbia Community, Alex Wayne, a Lexington, Tenn., manufacturing engineer and inventor, will disclose his findings from a lifetime study of the Pyramid.

Wayne's avocation has been an intensive study of the pyramid. From this, he has concluded that, contrary to popular opinion, the Great Pyramid was never intended as a tomb, because Egyptians carefully sealed their tombs airtight. The great Pyramid has four fresh-air channels to the outside, Wayne points out.

Although the Great Pyramid has been around for over 4,000 years, Wayne says that there is an increasing amount of interest in it.

The Guy Woods Community Center is located in the old Tuscumbia School building. A spokesman for the center said that Wayne's program will be open to the public free of charge.

Rat Poison

The best place to put the poison to kill the rats is around places where the rats seek shelter, such as trash piles and areas of rubble, Geno said.

Geno said, "In addition to putting out the poison, we urge everyone to clean up around their homes. Trash and rubble are where rats harbor."

Geno added that rats tend to congregate in cold weather, so now would be a good time to put the poison out.

Whitten

1967—and is continuing to lose its value steadily—our economy is weak. Yet we know that to maintain the strength of our armed forces we must have a strong economy. Fortunately, while our finances are in bad shape, we still have a country rich in physical resources."

Whitten, chairman of the U.S. House of Representatives Appropriations Committee and a member of the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, said that during the last few weeks he has been meeting in conference with the Senate on Defense Department funding for fiscal year 1980. He was to return to Washington Monday, Dec. 3, to resume deliberations with the conference.

The first District Congressman indicated that he would work to give the Guard "what weapons it needs and deserves. It has been customary in the past to give the Guard the leftovers from the regular military service, but I hope to see that change."

Commenting on Defense spending and the inflation problem, Whitten said "History has shown that the only way any country has been able to spend more than half its income on the military has been by levying taxes or requiring tribute from its losing adversaries," he said. "Ours is the only nation in history that, forced into war, instead of asking contributions for our costs, spend our money to rebuild the cities and restore the industry of our former enemies."

"Ours is the only nation," he continued, "to give our former enemies new factories and expect our people—frequently with old plants—to compete. We are the only nation that permits our bank stock, our businesses, our land to be bought by our former enemies and new fair-weather friends and we furnish them the money to do this through military spending to protect them, while they spend their money on their economy."

"Historically, it has been the losers who pay the cost," he continued. "With us it has been the opposite and now we are feeling the effect, for our silver and gold are gone and half the value of our paper money has disappeared through inflation. It is high time we wake up to these facts, if we are to maintain our strength."

On another subject, commenting on the hostage situation in Iran, Whitten said "first and foremost we must place the lives of American hostages above everything else. It hasn't been easy for the President nor for others in authority—but personally, as strong as we feel, we must restrain ourselves, temper what we say, until their well-being is secured. Anything said should be directed toward that end." "After this, hopefully, is accomplished," he added, "then and only then should we make further decisions."

Share Your Home For Christmas

Local families have the opportunity to share in an unusual Christmas gift this year by inviting a South American student to live with them.

"Sharing your home and love with an exchange student eager to learn about America, can be a gift to enrich your life," said John Richardson Jr., president of Youth for Understanding and former Assistant Secretary of State for Education and Cultural Affairs. "It is an opportunity to learn about another culture in a very personal way."

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational program that has exchanged over 75,000 teenagers worldwide, since 1951. It is one of three high school student exchange programs recognized by the International Communication Agency of the U.S. Department of State.

"The purpose of this program is to increase international understanding through the family-living experience for young people and we are inviting families to share the spirit of America with students from South America," said Linda Crill, Regional Director of the Youth for Understanding International Student Exchange Program. Students like Elsa Nieto of Colombia and Paulo de Mello of Brazil will be living with host families and attending local high schools. Elsa is a serious piano student who also enjoys playing the guitar. She has interests similar to American seventeen-year-olds, including tennis, volleyball, dancing and reading. Elsa describes herself as sincere, polite and friendly. She would like to live with a host family in a small town and have a sister close to her own age. She has studied English and French for several years.

Paulo, 15, enjoys sports in his home town of Rio de Janeiro. Basketball, soccer and volleyball are his favorites but he also likes swimming and rowing. A four year student of English, Paulo also excels in math and art. He hopes to live with an active sports-minded family.

Forestry Program

Receives Grant

State Forester Jack Holman has announced that the Mississippi Forestry Commission expects to receive approximately $50,000 in Federal funds for matching grants to rural communities to assist them in obtaining needed fire fighting equipment.

This program, known as the Rural Community Fire Protection Program, was authorized by PL 95-113. This will be the sixth year Mississippi has received funds for this program.

Holman stated that in order to assist a larger number of communities with the 1979 program, a maximum limit of $2,000 per community in Federal matching funds has been established.

Rural Communities of under 10,000 population may make application to participate in this program.

Additional information may be obtained at the Forestry Commission District Offices located at Tupelo, Philadelphia, Bay Springs, Wiggins, Brookhaven, Rolling Fork and Elliott, as well as the State Office in Jackson.

Applications for matching grants must be received by the Forestry Commission at its office in Jackson by January 15, 1980.

Bus And Train Rides Can Be Exciting

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau

Some travel sophistication is beginning to take on the ominous ring of a hollow log. Whether by air, rail, wheels, hooves or feet, travel is great! The great mobile society of the twentieth century really needn't bemoan so greatly the overly confusing energy crisis that is rapidly drying up America's over-indulgence in the late auto penchant.

This writer took a Mississippi bus ride the other day. It was a great experience. Not terrific, but great! It cost 11 cents a mile, approximately, and my car stayed home. Some routes are cheaper. And a few months back I took a Mississippi train ride from Jackson down to New Orleans and back. It was great too—and terrific—for about 8 cents a mile—and my car stayed home.

I am no stranger to travel. I've been privileged to ride 747's across the Atlantic, subways in New York, Mexico City, London and Paris. I've hovecrafted across the English Channel and plied the Baltic Sea in an overnight liner. I have led tours across Europe and Scandinavia in some of that continent's crack express trains. And, they are all great ways to get around. But the very latest was a busride from Jackson to Starkville only a few weeks ago. It was comfortable, safe, uncrowded, and like clockwork. We rolled into the Starkville terminal right on schedule.

The regression by neglect of Mississippi's public transportation system is tragic, due primarily to an overly sophisticated attitude by the general public. As we swing back down to earth in the eighties we are going to rediscover something we had going all the time that deserved more than snubbing.

Granted, no cutie sashayed down the aisle serving cokes and peanuts shortly after we pulled out of the station, but neither did we disappear into a cloud layer for the most of the trip. Instead, Mississippi's autumn panorama swept beautifully past as we moved from Jackson to the dead center of the state; and hence into the red forested hills before reaching the prairie flatlands near dusk.

We rolled past thousands of farms and rural and small town homesteads. Sumac was ablaze, and turnips were both peeking and peaking out from multitudes of home gardens. I sort of hated to disembark.

The train trip was a return to the travel luxury of half a century ago with plush reclining seats, the constant option of taking a walk down slightly wobbly aisles, a good selection of refreshments in a nearby coach. Mississippi glided quickly past—her generously endowed vegetative rights of ways causing brief flickers from the choice view of farms and cities, river bottoms and marshes.

In southern Mississippi and Louisiana the wetlands were an adventure with colorful water plants abloom and waterfowl on parade. The train slithered past the Superdome and that was it. A destination too soon!

Did I backhand the planes awhile ago? Didn't mean to really. They're great too. Swift and beautiful, and offering a God-like view of the magic kingdom down below. An angel-for-a-day feeling.

So the ol'clunker won't crank. Sooo! Spoken like a ten year old boy. And gasoline is over a dollar a gallon, and for some that's bad news like around a quarter a mile.

Let's admit it. We just had too many good things going. And like the dog with a bone that saw his reflection in the pool, we snapped at the pretty images of alternatives and lost what we had.

It's about time Mississippi folks, and I'm one, shed some of our over sophistication and go on with redeveloping a public transportation system that has been around longer than you and I, doing a more than creditable job.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

Farm to Market Link

No sector of our economy, in Mississippi and elsewhere in America, is more dependent on transportation than agriculture.

The effective and efficient movement of agricultural products is of paramount importance, not only to the agricultural sector, but to the overall economy of our nation.

Historically, the availability of transportation has been tight during peak harvest seasons. However, the temporary shortages of the 1960s have turned into critical shortages in the 1970s. The capacity of our transportation system has been stretched thin by the need to move a growing volume of agricultural production, to meet the demands of both our domestic and foreign markets.

For example, the dramatic upsurge in the production levels of our major crops the past ten years underscores the added burden on our rail, water, truck and air transportation systems. During the past decade cotton production has increased by 43 percent, soybeans, 90 percent, rice, 66 percent, feed grains, 58 percent, and wheat, 56 percent, for a total of 137 million metric tons more in production which must be moved to market than was the case just ten years ago.

Much of this increase has been in response to the rapid growth in foreign demand. U.S. agricultural exports have grown at an annual rate of nearly 10 percent the past decade, about double the rate of our domestic consumption: As a result we now export farm production from about 100 million acres, or one in every three harvested, for a value this year of over $32 billion. We have become a nation of agricultural exporters, as the dollar figure just mentioned clearly indicates, but we must import about $50 billion in foreign oil to meet our nation's needs.

Although our nation's transportation system thus far has managed to cope with this tremendous volume of farm production, the rising export shipments have placed a substantial strain on the movement of agricultural products and related goods and services within our internal, or domestic, markets.

Some segments of our agricultural economy have been burdened with surcharges on shipments of such things as poultry feed. This is a classic example of how efforts to compensate for seasonal demands for transportation in one sector of our agricultural economy result in excessive burdens in other areas.

If we look beyond 1980, the complications are further compounded. If the projections by experts are correct, and I hope they are, the demand for American agricultural production will double or perhaps even triple during the next decade.

I am concerned that our ability to transport this tremendous increase in farm production may be a limiting factor in sustaining this growth and demand. It does our farmers little good to produce abundant crops if these commodities remain bottlenecked in our transportation system.

The solutions will not be easy, and we should not concentrate on just one mode of our overall transportation system. There are many problems which must be addressed in the process. These include delays in improvements on key waterway facilities such as Locks and Dam 26 on the Mississippi River, completion of the Tennessee

How Do You Curb Inflation?

(Everyone has his own theory as to what will curb inflation. One of these has found popularity with President Carter and is called wage-price guidelines. Other administrations have employed these restraints and the result has always been the same. The following takes a look at such guidelines and examines their real worth in the fight against inflation.)

Wage/Price History

Inflation has always hit our economy hardest during wartime. Former presidents sought to curb this inflation through the imposition of wage/price controls. So these anti-inflation measures are not new. President Carter, however, is the first president in history to impose them during peacetime.

Unfortunately, these artificial restraints have never worked. They are like a cork plugged into a volcano. For a short time it bottles up the eruption. But the volcano's energies continue churning until they finally blow the cork off.

So it is with wage/price controls—freezes, guidelines, standards or whatever an administration chooses to impose. For a while the guides may seem to hold down inflation. But within a short period of time, the system begins to deteriorate. Little by little, violations occur. Then shortages and black markets arise until eventually the program crumbles. When this happens, the resulting inflation rate is far worse than the rate would have been without the stopgap measures because the crunch comes all at once and with great intensity.

The interesting thing is who emerges as the out-front persons in the Carter fundraiser. Honorary chairman of the event is a man named James O. Eastland, better known as the "Big Jim" of some 36 years in the United States Senate.

Evidently, Eastland was the personal choice of Jackson banker Pat McMullan, who has been made coordinator of the Carter re-election campaign in Mississippi, based on McMullan's role as the top financier for Carter dating back to 1976. McMullan was one of the very few fatcats persuaded in the early days to back Carter. His conversion was largely the work of then Jackson Mayor Russell Davis, who committed to Carter months before he was believed to have a chance of winning the nomination.

It's interesting now that McMullan and Eastland's presence in the list of name putting on the affair for Mrs. Carter will pull in quite a few other big money boys around the state, particularly now that they see Jimmy Carter would be far preferable to Sen. Ted Kennedy as the Democratic presidential candidate.

However, in the close-to-the-vest planning that went into the Rosalynn Carter visit, somebody failed to make contact with Governor-elect William Winter, who could turn into a key person for Carter in the Deep South. This omission was finally caught in the past several days and apparently rectified.

While Winter has made no public statements as to his preference in the Democratic presidential race, it is almost a certainty that he will go with Carter. Some national political observers had tried to imply that because Winter was known to have backed Jack Kennedy in 1960, he would also be for Ted. That doesn't happen to be the case.

Significantly, many of the political idealists who had backed Winter and worked as volunteers for him in his 1975 gubernatorial campaign were the same ones who formed Carter's cadre of workers in the 1976 presidential nomination bid.

Considering the fact that a Democrat has just won the governor's office in near landslide proportions and Democrats have been highly successful throughout the state against a strong Republican challenge, it is incredible the amount of friction and disarray that exists at the top level of the Mississippi Democratic Party.

Although Tom Riddell of Canton as co-chairman of the party has nominally been in charge the past several months, it is obvious there is no recognized leader within the party ranks. Strong hostility exists between Riddell and other top figures in the Democratic Executive Committee, so much so that they couldn't even get together on a Democratic fund-raiser for state candidates between the Aug. 28 second primary and the Nov. 6 general election.

You wouldn't have found Eastland in that number when

Carter was hustling for delegate votes in Mississippi four years ago, but it must be said that after Carter got the Democratic nomination, Big Jim did come out openly for the Georgian and turned a few screws for him in the election.

Mississippi Economic Council

The People's Business

An Editorial

The fastest growing economic activity in the United States posted a 400 percent increase during the last decade. This growth rate—the envy of any business executive if it was in the private sector—is the growth of expenditures of a multitude of federal agencies having major regulatory functions.

These 56 agencies, according to the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., grew from a combined budget of $1.2 billion in 1971 to an estimated $6.0 billion for 1980.

The most rapid expansion is in the newer forms of "social regulation" agencies—consumer safety and health, job safety, and environment and energy.

The Center states that consumer safety and health regulatory budgets have increased 300 percent since 1971 and 69 percent from 1976 to 1980. Budgets for regulating job safety and other working conditions increased nearly 600 percent in the past 10 years and 57 percent in the last five. Government regulatory expenditures in the environment and energy areas have increased nearly 1200 percent in 10 years and a more modest 82 percent from 1976 to 1980.

The Mississippi Economic Council acknowledges that some regulation is needed and that most federal regulatory legislation is well intended but suggests that a thorough evaluation and reorganization of the present system is needed.

No new regulatory measures should be enacted until: —the economic impact of such measures is determined with benefits greater than the costs of compliance—costs borne by the consuming public;

—agencies should be reviewed to eliminate overlapping functions which often lead to conflicting requirements on business;

—agencies should be required to use only persons knowledgeable of a particular operation to draft regulations or inspect those operations; —business should be reimbursed for legal and technical expense involved when it prevails in legal proceedings to reverse an unwarranted fine or compliance requirement; and —Congress considers the long-range impact of federal regulatory activity on employment by business in the U.S. which must compete in international markets with virtually nonregulated business operations of other countries.

Dallas Ballet To Appear In Tupelo

The Dallas Ballet will appear with the Tupelo Symphony Saturday Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. at the Tupelo Civic Auditorium. Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will be performed in it's entirety, featuring forty local, young dancers in the childrens parts.

Some season tickets are still available. Children accompanied by season ticket holders are admitted free. If seats are still available twenty minutes prior to the start of the performance, single tickets will be sold. Season ticket holders should claim their seats by 7:30 P.M.

In the past few years, the art of dance has captured the imagination of the American public. Many thousands of people, more than ever before, have viewed performances of dance, live and on television, and have thrilled to the skill and beauty this enduring art form presents. Clearly, dance has "taken off" as popular entertainment. The Tupelo Symphony takes pride in presenting and performing with the Dallas Ballet and contributing to the popularity of dance in the Northeast Mississippi area.

The Dallas Ballet has twenty dancers from all over the country who perform under the artistic direction of George Skibine, who has long been identified with the world's greatest ballet companies. Their sets and costumes are designed by Emmy Award winner, William Pittner and the lighting is done by Jennifer Tipton, winner of Broadway's Tony Award. The Dallas Ballet Academy, the official school of the company, is under the direction of Marjorie Tallchief.

The Tupelo Symphony will continue its season on March 2, in concert with the Atlanta Symphony.

Cleovis Stevens of Booneville. Miss Searcy is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Searcy of Belmont and the late Mr. and Mrs. Earnie Malone, also of Belmont.

Mr. Stevens is the grandson of the late Mr. T.J. Davis and Mrs. Irene Gray of Rienzi and the late Mr. and Mrs. Sid Stevens of Booneville.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Belmont High School and Northeast Miss Junior College. She is presently practicing as a Registered Nurse at North Mississippi Medical Center.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Booneville High School. Mr. Stevens is presently employed with the Daily Journal where he is a District Manager.

The wedding will be held Friday Dec. 14, at 7 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. A reception will follow in the home.

All friends and family are invited to attend.

Baptist Women Meet

Twenty-eight women of the First Baptist Church gathered in the lovely home of Ann Kimbrell and Sue Honeycutt Saturday, Dec. 1, at 7 p.m. for the opening session of the Foreign Missions Week of Prayer.

Eunice Dickerson gave the opening prayer and Sue Honeycutt brought an interesting and inspirational message centered around the theme of Missions, paying tribute to Mrs. Sarah Rogers.

Several of the group decided to give to the Lottie Moon Christmas offering in memory of Mrs. Rogers.

DR. ROBERT HAMBLIN

Former Resident Coordinates Faulkner Collection

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO.—A former Booneville resident is the coordinator of a William Faulkner program which is currently receiving nationwide attention.

Dr. Robert W. Hamblin, professor of English at Southeast Missouri State University, is primarily responsible for arranging for the public exhibit of perhaps the finest private collection of William Faulkner materials in existence.

The collection, the property of Missouri businessman Louis D. Brodsky, is the product of 20 years of collecting and includes some 2,000 items relating to the life and work of the prize-winning Mississippi author. Some 200 of the choicest pieces of the collection have been on display at the SMO State Museum since October 2. The exhibit closes December 13.

The Brodsky Collection includes rare and unusual editions of all of Faulkner's published works; books inscribed by Faulkner to various relatives and friends; unpublished poems drawings, and cartoons; several legal documents, including four variant Faulkner wills; numerous letters, telegrams, and personal papers relating to Faulkner; and the handwritten ledger of the Ripley Railroad Company (1871-1887), originally the property of Faulkner's great-grandfather, Col. W.C. Falkner.

Dr. Hamblin, a Faulkner scholar since his graduate school days at the University of Mississippi, where he earned his master's and doctor's degrees, first met Mr. Brodsky two years ago through a student enrolled in one of Dr. Hamblin's literature classes. Since that time the two men have collaborated to produce the exhibit, scholarly articles based on materials in the collection, and a 200-page catalogue describing the collection. The book, which is dually sponsored by SMO State University and the Bibliographical Society of the University of Virginia, will be published next month by the University Press of Virginia.

To accompany the exhibit, Dr. Hamblin planned a series of Faulkner lectures by nationally known scholars, including John Pilkington of the University of Mississippi, T.D. Young of Vanderbilt, and Jay Martin of the University of Southern California. Dr. Hamblin and Mr. Brodsky also delivered lectures in the series.

Faulkner scholars and readers from all over the nation have attended the SMO exhibit, and the show has been featured in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Kansas City Star, the New York Times, and other newspapers.

Dr. Hamblin is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Robert L. Hamblin of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Route 2, Baldwin. His wife is Ralph R. Smith of Booneville.

Fire Possibility Increases During Winter Months

Twinkling Christmas lights, dancing candle flames and crackling fire-place logs can add to the warmth of the Yuletide season; unfortunately, they also can contribute to the making of a holiday disaster.

The Insurance Information Institute reminds residents that the possibility of a fire increases during winter months and urges residents to be more fire safety conscious during the holidays. Last year fires occurred about once every 41 seconds in a residence, and more than 5,000 people lost their life in residential fires.

The 1978 dollar loss from fires totaled a record $4 billion. For a safer Christmas, the Institute offers the following reminders:

--Only purchase a Christmas tree that is still fresh. If needles readily fall from the tree when you shake it, choose another.

--Before setting the tree in its stand, cut an inch off the base of the trunk, which will help the tree to absorb water better. Check the water level in the stand at least once a day.

--Keep your tree away from heat sources that can ignite it or dry it out, such as candles, fireplaces, space heaters and electrical appliances.

--Whether you have a natural or an artificial tree, make sure that your lights are approved by Underwriters Laboratories and that they are safe to be used with your tree. Don't use a string of lights on a metal tree; instead, use a spot light.

--Check that your light cords and any extension cords have not become frayed, and never plug several strings of lights or other electrical items into one extension cord.

--Be sure that three lights do not touch packages underneath; and when leaving home or going to sleep, disconnect all tree lights and all outside lights.

--Do not use flammable decorations on any tree.

--Never leave lighted candles where children or pets can play with them or knock them over. Keep candles away from drapes and other materials that burn easily.

--Never burn package wrappings or other trash in a fireplace.

--Always keep your screen in place while using your fireplace; and do not leave a fire unattended, especially at night.

--Store ashes from the fireplace outside the house in a closed metal container.

Notes From The Library

By LEE DAVIS Librarian

Robert J. Ringer's "Restoring the American Dream" is among the new non-fiction books received recently at the George E. Allen Library.

Former Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon says of it, "People throughout the world...who have a common belief in the liberty of man, will surely share in the spirit of this book, and I urge each one of them to spread the word to as many others as possible so that the restoration of the American Dream can become a reality."

It is of personal liberty that the author writes; and how that liberty is affected by taxation, inflation and majority rule in moral, political and economic realms. This best seller takes a strong stand against accepting the premise that government by the people means government by those in power.

The author presents specific actions that can help to correct this growing tendency which can result in personal and national loss.

Another recent addition to the library is "Looking out for Number 1." Many may already be familiar with this recent book by Ringer.

The Twelve Days of Christmas, illustrated in a beautifully applied silk quilt by Mrs. Harry Johnsey of Jackson, Tenn., gave a festive atmosphere to the library last year. This year we are exhibiting her lovely "eggery" which also depicts the scenes of the same well-loved song.

The decorated eggs depict the song in two versions—one using tiny quail eggs and the other using the larger goose eggs. The exquisite detail of Ms. Johnsey's work must be seen to be believed.

We invite you to do just that; see how bead work, delicate figurines, cut work and painting, along with other skills, combine to produce such artistic creations.

In addition to the quail and goose eggs, the display includes finch, emu, rhea, blacknecked swan, Japanese banty, parakeet and ostrich eggs. All are shells from infertile eggs and collecting the shells themselves has brought Mrs. Johnsey some interesting experiences.

You will surely enjoy seeing what it is all about the next time you come to the Allen Library.

It's rush, rush. The streets are busy and the stores are full. Towns are having their parades.

It's that time of year again. All the kids from one to hundred are trying to be good, so Santa Claus will come to see them.

"Chipmunk," missed several days of school due to sickness. "Lady Termite's" mother is in Baldwin hospital due to a stroke. "Ole Blue," is still improving.

"Grannie," and "White Dove," are not feeling good.

"Blue Surf," has got a good case of laryngitis (I can talk all I want to and he can't talk back, Ha!) "Upholstery Man," has a cold also. Hope I haven't missed anyone. Hope all the sick folks are feeling lots better and will soon be able to be about again.

"Lady Wrecker," what is this we hear about you going deer hunting with your car? That would be O.K. if it didn't do any damage.

Saturday was a big day at the Upholstery shop. In one compartment, several club members were making poodles and wreaths. In the other side the company was making pictures of all the folks who bought coupons from the club. Due to a break down they will be making pictures at the shop again Friday December 7, from 2 until 10:00 p.m. for those who were unable to get their beauty struck. We appreciate all those who helped with this project.

Sunday was the annual radiothon for the Rehab Center in Tupelo. The C.B. Club and folks in Prentiss County turned in $2,200. That's great—we never know when it might be us that needs help.

I don't have any birthdays or anniversaries listed this week, but if I've missed someone I hope you have a nice birthday or anniversary and have many more.

Friday night the committee for fixing fruit baskets are to meet at the upholstery shop at 7 to fix these. Everyone remember your aluminum pie pans and bring them to work with.

"Hauler," and "Ole Blue," along with a few others, can be seen polishing up those dancing shoes for the dance.

Our Christmas social is Saturday night, Dec. 8 at 6:30 at the Community Center in the city park. We will be entertaining the Timber Hill's group and their families along with Gene Gann and his band.

Everyone please attend and enjoy the good fellowship, food and some good music. The junior club will exchange gifts and get a chance to tell Santa what they want for Christmas. Bring plenty of pot luck and join in the spirit of things.

Until next week stay well, be happy and attend the church of your choice.

ASCS Administrator
Fitzgerald Addresses
Committeemen Association

Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the United States Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), was in Jackson, Miss., last week where he spoke at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Association of Farmer-Elected Committeemen (MAFEC).

The administrator told the 300 plus delegates of the association that no other group was more qualified to provide input into the development and administration of farm programs than this association. He went on to say that no other group has a membership which is limited to bona fide farmers who have served or who are currently serving as administrators of farm programs.

Fitzgerald emphasized that no one could predict the future of agriculture in this country, as there were too many variables. He said even the top economists could not agree. He quoted a saying that was attributed to President Harry Truman who supposedly searched for a one-armed economist.

Truman reportedly said he wanted an economist with only one arm so that he could not say, "On the one hand, this set of statistics indicate that you should follow this course, but on the other hand these statistics show the opposite."

The administrator went on to say that in his opinion the overall outlook for agriculture in the immediate future is good. He said that exports of farm commodities during recent years were good. He also commented that the export of farm products are helping to keep America afloat so far as world trade is concerned.

Payments Available For Honeybee Losses

The tiny honeybee has long been recognized as one of the busiest beings in the animal kingdom. It provides honey, which has provided man with a major source of food for thousands of years. Nevertheless, the bee plays a far more important role in agriculture than simply making honey.

In its frantic search for nectar, each worker bee visits thousands of plant blooms and in doing so carries seed producing pollen. Many fruit, nut, vegetable and forage crops are largely dependent on bees for pollination. Accordingly, production of these crops are dependent on availability of bees.

Accidental killings of bees and other pollinators have resulted from the use of insecticides for the control of destructive insects. Because of the role of bees in crop production, a loss of bees is not only potentially disastrous for the beekeeper, it can also reduce crop production and cause shortages.

The objective of the beekeeper indemnity program is to compensate beekeepers who, through no fault of their own, have suffered losses of honeybees as a result of the use of insecticides near their hives. No payment will be made if the bees were killed as a result of pesticides which were not registered and approved for use by the federal government. The list of government approved pesticides is developed and maintained by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Under the program, an indemnity payment is made directly to beekeepers who have suffered the loss. The payment is made on the basis of flat rates of payment per colony. The current payments rates are: colony destroyed, $22.50; colony severely damaged, $15; colony moderately damaged, $7.50; and queen nucleus destroyed, $7.50.

To be eligible for payment, a beekeeper must report the loss immediately to the local ASCS office and request an inspection. No charge is made for the inspection.

Secondly, a beekeeper must show that (1) a loss of bees occurred due to the use of insecticides; (2) the beekeeper's own use of insecticides in no way contribute to the loss; and (3) if the beekeeper had advance notice that insecticides were to be used near the hives, any reasonable steps available were then taken to protect the bees.

Mississippi Farmers To Receive Survey
Questionnaires

A sample of Mississippi farmers will receive a questionnaire during the last week of November pertaining to their 1979 crop acreage and production. Dick Knight, Statistician in Charge of the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said the survey will be conducted to gather information concerning the acreage and production of crops grown in 1979.

Over 6,000 Mississippi farmers will be asked to complete these questionnaires. Since crop production accounted for accurate as possible.

Because of this, Knight stressed the need for farmers who receive the questionnaires to fill them out and return them promptly.

State statisticians use the findings from this survey and data supplied by other farmers from the December Enumerative survey to be conducted the last week of November to determine county, state, and national estimates. All information on individual farms is kept confidential.

A report on the survey will be published at 3:00 P.M. (ET), January 15, 1980.

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, what does "Calling on the name of the Lord" mean in Acts. 22:16?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: The text says, "And now why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." You will notice three things in the text: 1. Arise; 2. be baptized; 3. wash away thy sins. It doesn't matter what you call the washing, baptism stands between the sinner and the washing! The passage does not say that baptism is the washing—it says that baptism stood between Saul and the washing away of sins. There is a rule in grammar which covers the participle form of this part of the command Ananias gave to Saul. It reads, "The active participle following an injunction points out the manner in which it is to be obeyed." It is obvious that the command Ananias gave to Saul was an injunction. "Calling" is an active participle, therefore "Be baptized" was the manner in which the injunction to call on the name of the Lord was to be obeyed! Thus, we can see that baptism stands between the sinner and calling on the name of the Lord. As a matter of fact if Saul was saved without baptism he was saved before he called on the name of the Lord.

Many people will recall "The Puzzle of Pearl Harbor" on December 7. We should not forget those gallant Americans who gave their lives for their country.

Mrs. Frank Windham of Booneville is spending the week with the Jimmy Tollisons.

Sunday luncheon guests of Mrs. Ethel Tucker were Loyd Moore of Belmont and Jim and Ann Tucker of Corinth.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Hill were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of Biloxi.

The Jim Jamisons were overnight guests Thanksgiving of Mrs. U.O. Bigg Sr. of Tunica.

Gladys Saylor, Joy Saylor, Brenda Saylor and Traci were in Amory Sunday to attend a stork shower for Mrs. Kerry Saylor.

Connie Guin and Shirley Parham were Christmas shopping in Tupelo Saturday.

Get well wishes are extended to Shirley Hare and Jake Stone of the Baldwin Hospital.

Bonnie Hill of Dumas visited Sunday with her father, Mr. Amon Trantham.

The Ladies Adult Sunday School class of the Oak Hill Baptist Church visited Aletha Lodge Nursing Home Sunday afternoon to present each patient with a fruit basket. The little twinkle in the patient's eyes gave evidence of their appreciation.

Karen and Shaundra Hodges of Pine Grove visited Sunday with Melanie Garner.

The Harry Whites of Memphis are now in the process of building a new home in our community.

Melissa Mauney of Corinth enjoyed the weekend with Lenise Mauney and other relatives.

Danny Joe McAlpin chatted Wednesday with the Jim McAlpins of Tupelo.

Mrs. Eva Garner, Mrs. Ethel Tucker, and Mrs. Bernice Perry accompanied Betty

Rose Lothenore to Corinth Sunday afternoon for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the UMW at the Gaines Chapel Methodist Church. Special guests were Bishop and Mrs. Max Stokes of Jackson.

Friends regret the serious illness of Mrs. Percy Windham at the local hospital. Best wishes for a speedy recovery are extended.

The UMW of Christ United Methodist Church presented an impressive program Sunday night. Each member had made a Christian emblem to decorate the Christmas tree. Historical facts on each emblem were related prior to the placing it on the tree.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. William Arnold who died Sunday.

Mrs. Claude Trantham spent Sunday with the Barry Yearbers of Booneville. The family celebrated Heather's first birthday with a beautiful birthday cake and ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Flake Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hampton and family, Susan Childers, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gann and family, Mrs. Rhett Eaton and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Bonnard Eaton were in Jackson Saturday for the wedding of Miss Pam Bower and Mr. Jimmy Craft at the Assembly of God church on Raymond Road at 2 p.m. Saturday. Most of the relatives remained for the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. James Craft.

Robert Kelly was in New Albany Sunday due to the death of a relative, Willard Owens.

Quiche Noel To Ring In The Holidays

There's something about a quiche that convinces guests you've spent untold hours in the kitchen. Actually, it's a very quick and easy menu item. But, let that be your secret while you reap the compliments.

A quiche is simply an egg-rich custard pie to which you can add almost any tasty mixture of ingredients you happen to have on hand. Use seafood, vegetables, meat, chicken, cheese, what have you. Once you get into quiche-making, you'll think up all sorts of delectable combinations. In a quiche, even leftovers (like holiday ham or turkey) can go to a party in a new guise and with no apologies.

Quiche Noel features a popular duo, chicken and Cheddar cheese. Bright green peppers and rosy pimiento lend a special holiday air.

To speed up preparation time, take advantage of frozen pie shells—deep dish ones work best. Bake the shells ahead of time and you'll be all set to whisk up the filling and pop them into the oven. Each quiche provides six main dish servings. Cut smaller slices to serve as an appetizer.

Festive-looking, great-tasting Quiche Noel can be the hit of your holiday season.

QUICHE NOEL

1 (9-inch) pie shell, unbaked
6 eggs, beaten
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
¾ cup chopped cooked chicken or turkey OR 1 can (5 oz.) boned chicken
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

1 cup half and half or light cream
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
½ teaspoon seasoned salt

Brush pie shell with small amount of the beaten eggs.

Prick bottom and sides with fork. If using metal pie pan, bake shell in preheated 450 degree F. oven until golden brown, about 5 minutes. If using pie plate, bake shell at 425 degrees F. Cool on wire rack. Reduce oven temperature to 375 degrees F. for metal pan or 350 degrees F. for pie plate.

Sprinkle cheese, chicken, green pepper and pimiento in pie shell. Beat remaining ingredients together until well blended. Pour into pie shell.

Bake in preheated oven until knife inserted halfway between center and outside edge comes out clean, 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

MICROWAVE: Cook pricked pie shell in microwaveable pie dish 4 to 5 minutes on High. Fill as directed. Cook on High 5 minutes. Cook on reduced power (30 percent to 50 percent) 10 to 12 minutes; rotating 3 or 4 times. Let stand 10 minutes.

Original Art Offered At UM

UNIVERSITY, Miss.—Original graphic art from America and Europe will be exhibited and offered for sale at the University Galleries of the Ole Miss Fine Arts Center, Dec. 13-14.

The original etchings, woodcuts, lithographs and serigraphs—provided by Marson Graphics of Baltimore, Maryland—will be on display from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. both days. The prints will be shown in open portfolios in an informal atmosphere. Prices of prints in the collection begin at $5.

Featured will be works by Chagall, Daumier, Fantin-Latour, Maillol Rouault and Whistler. The works of such noted contemporary artists as Baskin, Coughlin, O'Conner, Kaczmarek and Eggers will also be included.

A representative will be present to answer questions about the work, the artists and the various graphic techniques employed.

In honor of the Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spencer, their children request the pleasure of your company at an Open House on Sunday, the Sixteenth of December, Nineteen Hundred Seventy Nine, from two to five p.m. at 207 Hatchie Street in Booneville.

UPTOWN BOONEVILLE

News From Sunflower

By BETTYE BRANDON
Correspondent

On Sunday morning, Dec. 9, the Rev. Otis Shumpart of Dorsey, Miss., will begin his duties as the newly elected pastor of Spring Hill M.B. Church. The members are looking forward to his coming with great anticipation.

Our former pastor, the Rev. Bill Ragin, because of ill health felt it necessary to resign from the position.

Under his leadership, the members received true dedication, loyalty, and a continuation of spiritual growth.

He is still very much a part of the activities of the church when his health permits. We pray that he may continue for a long time to come.

The pain of grief and sorrow has been an almost dominant factor within our city these past few weeks and I find myself unable to express the depths of my feelings for the families who have suffered the loss of loved ones during these times. I have chosen the words of another to better express what I wish to convey and pray that you will find comfort and strength from them in the days to come.

To the Hastings family, The Shields family, the Arnold family, the Rutledge family, and others:

QUIETNESS

"Be still and know that I am God."

That I who made and gave thee life
Will lead thy flustering steps aright;

That I who see each sparrow's fall
Will hear and heed thy earnest call.

I am God.

"Be still and know that I am God."

When aching burdens crush thy heart,
Then know I form thee for thy part

And purpose in the plan I hold.

Trust in God.

"Be still and know that I am God."

Who made the atom's tiny span

And set it moving to my plan,
That I who guide the stars above

Will guide and keep thee in my love.

Be thou still.

Doran.

We are happy to report that Miss Cathie Mae Johnson is home from the Tupelo hospital. She suffers from a broken leg and is still very much confined. We are happy that she is recovering.

Mrs. Lillian Childers is home from the Memphis hospital. She says that she is much improved.

Mrs. Catherine Rowland is much better and back on the job. Mrs. Versie Jones is recovering nicely from surgery though she is still a patient in the hospital.

James Triplett Jr. has been a very sick young man this week as a result of his trip to Dayton, Ohio. He says it was a very enjoyable experience but not worth being sick and missing school. Cheer up Pookie, you'll be feeling better and back in school soon, I promise.

Our sincere prayers for a complete recovery goes out for Mrs. Agnes Shannon who is a patient in the hospital's C.C. Unit. She is an L.P.N. on staff at the hospital, a wonderful woman, and a dedicated nurse.

Mr. Luther McGee, a very energetic young man, was the prominent guest at a surprise birthday dinner on Nov. 22, given by his wife, Mrs. Zelphia McGee, and Mrs. Eleanor McGaha. He was very pleasantly surprised and the happiness from it is still very much a part of him. He was 80 years old.

"With God All Things Are Possible"

Miss Sallie Lucille Gardner is a woman alone who has overcome many disastrous and shattering events in her life and has come out victorious through every obstacle.

She is the mother of four children, an active member of the Baptist Church, a beautician, and a former L.P.N. Sallie completed her formal education in the year 1955 and continued to complete a course in cosmetology. After which she proceeded to establish herself as a beautician.

At this time, to supplement her income, she worked as an aide at the Booneville Headstart center. For a period of time business was good and her future looked bright. Shortly thereafter her job at the headstart center was terminated due to a state law governing income statutes.

But she was not daunted by this and moved on to a position as a nurses aide at the local hospital and was encouraged there to enter the school of nursing. After successfully completing the course and state requirements, she became a member of the nursing staff of the hospital where she remained for 5 years and continued her business on a part-time basis.

During this time she received an offer from the Aletha Lodge Nursing Home which she accepted, but after a time found that this position was not as satisfying as hospital nursing and returned to her original position.

Sallie was successful in all of her endeavors to the extent that she was able to purchase, a home, acquire the necessary equipment for her beauty shop and see one daughter through high school without any meaningful problems. The pressure and demands that were a constant part of her life soon resulted in illness and she became a patient in the local hospital for some weeks.

The aftermath was two years of total desperation and despair in which she was faced with unemployment, and the loss of utilities and possessions. The security of her family was threatened along with the possible loss of her home.

In her desperation she sought help through every available source and sought employment in every field. She states that through the aid of her family, people of the town, community, churches and business firms she was able to endure. She took whatever jobs were available to supplement the income from her business which she continued to operate efficiently.

She says that she will always be grateful to two people in particular. One was, a businessman who advised her to return to her church, which she did and says that she found there great peace of mind and strength to go on. The other was a former doctor who recommended psychotherapy and got her started in secessions at the University Hospital in Jackson, Miss. and later at Tupelo.

Her last secession was held in August of this year. Sallie is once again prospering and is secure in the belief that her future will be all that she desires. Her faith in God, mankind and medicine is unshakeable.

Her eldest daughter has completed a cosmetology course but is presently employed with the Welfare Dept. here in the city. Three other children are in junior high and high school. Her business is successful, as is evident throughout the community. She still maintains her L.P.N. licenses in the hope that she will one day return to nursing.

She is a member of the senior choir and teacher of the primary class of the Sunday School. She is in the process of organizing and conducting a young people's choir composed of the Sunday School children.

With admiration and respect we pray for continued success and prosperity for Sallie, a woman of great courage, faith, strength and love for all.

Till next week.

Controlled Burning Aid Forests

By JOHN STUART
County Forester

The use of fire in the forests of the United States has come full cycle.

Early settlers found Indians using fire in the virgin pine stands and adopted the practice themselves to keep down brush for better access and hunting and to get rid of the brush and timber so they could farm. This custom of setting fires plus careless wildfires left millions of acres of forests in the South non-productive.

The increasing wildfire problem caused many foresters to advocate the exclusion of all fire from the woods. By the turn of the 20th century, however, some pointed out that fire might have a place in the management of longleaf pine.

As early as 1907, people began to use fire to reduce fuels on the forest floor. Research and experimental burning were begun in the 1930's and the use of prescribed fire increased.

Today, prescribed burning is an established resource management tool in southern pine forests. Prescribed burning is a desirable and economically sound practice on most pine sites with more than two million acres of forest land prescribed burned each year in the Southern States.

In some cases, prescribed burning is the only practical solution to reducing hazardous fuel accumulation and preventing disastrous fires. No alternative treatment has yet been developed that can compete with fire from the standpoint of practicality and cost.

Other treatments such as disking, chopping, or chipping may cost from $25 to $50 per acre. The use of prescribed fire, on the other hand, averages about $2 per acre in the South.

A good definition of prescribed burning is: Fire applied in a skillful manner to fuels of the forest, in a definite place, for a specific purpose, under exacting weather conditions, to achieve management objectives.

The major use of prescribed fire are reduction of hazardous fuel accumulations, wildfire habitat improvements, and preparation of site for planting or seeding.

A prescribed burn can be used for more than one purpose. A prescribed burn always reduces the fuel accumulation. With a few modifications, a burn for hazard reduction can improve wildlife habitat. Almost any prescribed burn improves access and visibility.

Prescribed fires can be harmful as well as beneficial. They can contribute to changes in air quality, although to much less a degree than wildfires. Proper planning and execution are necessary to reduce any detrimental effects to air quality.

The impact on all resources should be considered carefully—especially the impact on all wildlife, aesthetics, and stream siltation.

Public opinion is another factor to consider since the general deterioration of our environment.

Prescribed burning is a complex tool and should be used only by those trained and experienced in its use. Proper diagnosis and detailed planning are needed for each and every area.

For further information, please call me at 728-6835 or come by my office located in the back left hand side of the First Miss. Bank of Commerce building on Highway 45.

Retardation Center Expands Programs

Providing one of the best residential facilities for the mentally retarded in the Southeast isn't enough for North Mississippi Retardation Center at Oxford.

N.M.R.C. wants to stimulate other sites to provide quality services for the severe, profound, multiply handicapped. Demonstrations and on site training workshops, as well as, the dissemination of written material compiled by Project RUN (Reaching US Now) are some current services provided by N.M.R.C.

Next year RUN outreach plans to contact other institutions to see whether these institutions with their facilities, staff and equipment will serve community children. Late in November Mrs. Genora Holloway, Director of RUN, was asked to speak to the Southeastern American Association of Mental Deficiency on RUN as one of the innovative programs that may be the way of service delivery for the mentally deficient in the next 25 years.

RUN is designed to demonstrate the value of early intervention, its economy and logic. RUN urges correct procedures designed for the critical periods of the development of certain skills which occur during the first five years of life.

Profound, severe, multiply handicapped children from birth to eight years of age are accepted in the RUN program. They are taught specific techniques in the areas of communication, pre-speech, feeding, special education and physical therapy.

Through the concentrated service of a teacher, teacher's aide and physical therapy aide who work with three children at a time, one and a half hours, three days a week, the 23 children served in the program are given one on one attention. Fourteen of the children are community children and the other nine are residents of the North Mississippi Retardation Center. The teaching staff is assisted by a Speech Pathologist and a Physical Therapy Consultant.

The community children in the RUN program reside in the 23 county area served by N.M.R.C. Comprehensive diagnostic evaluations are conducted by the interdisciplinary team at the center prior to admittance in the program. Diagnoses include cerebral palsy, microcephaly, hydrocephaly, mental retardation, aphasia, Down's syndrome and spina bifida.

One of the outstanding features of RUN is the parent involvement and training program extended all community students' families. RUN Director, Genora Holloway says, "The parents are the natural teacher of the child. We need them. If the school takes over all the responsibility, where does that leave the parent? The school and the parent must share the responsibility." This parent involvement equips the parent to carry out prescribed treatment at home.

Dr. Randy Hendrix, Director of North Mississippi Retardation Center emphasizes,

"The North Mississippi Retardation Center maintains the philosophy that the best means for deinstitutionalization is through prevention of inappropriate institutionalization. Outreach services to the community facilitate the accomplishment of this goal."

Lott Donates Papers To Law Archives

UNIVERSITY—U.S. Rep. Trent Lott has donated to the Ole Miss Law Archives his papers concerning the 1974 House Judiciary Committee impeachment hearings against former President Richard M. Nixon. Lott was a member of the Judiciary Committee at the time of the hearings and became a familiar figure to television viewers of the committee's deliberations. The Lott papers are among several major Ole Miss special collections devoted to 20th century public affairs, including the papers of former Senators James O. Eastland, Pat Harrison, John Sharp Williams, and Representatives Thomas Abernethy, Ross Collins, John Rankin and William Whittington.

Members of the Rienzi Baptist Church visited with the Rienzi Methodist church

Sunday evening, with Bro. Johnny Duvall as host pastor. Bro. Wiley Gann brought the evening message; Charles Palmer and Mrs. Jeny Palmer brought the special music. At the conclusion of the service the hostess ladies served a variety of delightful refreshments, including grape punch, sandwiches, desserts and coffee.

Mrs. Buddy Robinson is able to be out again following an attack of flu. Also Mr. and Mrs. Howard Long are beginning to return to their normal routine following a period of two weeks at home with the flu.

Stuffed Toys Recalled

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Approximately 422,000 stuffed mobile toys which may pose a strangulation hazard to infants are being recalled by their importer, R. Dakin & Company, of San Francisco.

The recall applies to eight different types of stuffed animal mobiles which are intended to be suspended from ceilings by means of three elastic cords.

Last month an 11-month old baby girl strangled when she became entangled in the elastic cords suspending one of the toys from her crib.

The toys being recalled include:

Hummbug Bee, model 34-3645

Embo Elephant, model 34-1972

Jolly Polly Parrot, model 34-3462

Stanley Stork, model 34-3653

Jingle Frog, model 34-3661

Lucky Ladybug, model 34-3662

Duckwoop, model 34-3666

and Jingle Lamb, model 34-3690

Each toy is covered with plush fabric and contains a musical chime device. The model numbers appear on a tag attached to the animal's ear.

The toys were imported from South Korea and distributed in the U.S. from January, 1977, through October, 1979. They sold nationwide for approximately $7 each in toy stores and other retail stores.

Parents should return the toys to the stores where they were purchased for a full refund.

INTENSIVE DAY CARE

WE ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THAT A NEW THERAPY, MOBILE INTERSEGMENTAL TRACTION, HAS BEEN ADDED TO OUR OFFICE.

THE SPINALATOR, AN IMPORTANT AID IN NERVE AND SPINAL REHABILITATION, IS DESIGNED TO IMPROVE SPINAL MOBILITY, INCREASE FLOW OF NUTRIENTS TO DISCS, STIMULATE CIRCULATION, STRENGTHEN DEEP SPINAL LIGAMENTS, AND PROVIDE A GENTLE MESSAGE.

WHAT IS INTENSIVE DAY CARE?

You are personally invited to visit our IDC facilities so that you may understand the vast difference between this procedure and "ordinary" Chiropractic Care. The IDC patient is given a private or semi-private room and hospital bed with attendant, multiple supportive therapies as required, and Chiropractic manipulative treatments by Doctor Davis. The patient may remain in the Center for the entire day and return to the comfort and security of his own home at night.

COMPREHENSIVE CHIROPRACTIC CARE

Intensive Day Care is the most modern concept in Spine and Nerve Rehabilitation. Here at the DAVIS CHIROPRACTIC HEALTH CENTER the staff is highly trained in the proper care of severe problems such as the whiplash injury, many on-the-job industrial injuries, and the chronic disabling spine and nerve problems.

Dr. Davis and staff attend frequent seminars and symposia on Intensive Day Care procedures and treatment techniques for those cases requiring this type of care.

Baldwyn Tourney Now Underway

BALDWIN—The 1979 Baldwyn Tournament of Champions got underway here Tuesday night and will continue through this week with the finals set for Saturday night.

Baldwyn's Lady Bearcats and Tupelo's Golden Wave are the defending champions of the tournament and both squads will be on hand again this year to defend their titles of a year ago.

Action got underway Tuesday night at 6 p.m. with Wheeler and Saltillo girls battling each other in the opening game followed by Tupelo's Golden Wave facing off with Biggersville in the 7:15 ballgame and nightcap action saw Baldwyn's girls meeting

Okolona in the Tuesday nightcap.

Results of the Tuesday night action was not available at press time but a complete recap of the tournament will be published in next week's Banner-Independent.

Wednesday night action saw Wheeler and Shannon boys start the action at 6 p.m. followed by Tupelo and Shannon girls at 7:15 while Baldwyn's Bearcats met Okolona's Chieftans in the Wednesday nightcap. Results of those games were not available at presstime.

Tonight's semi-final action gets underway at 6 p.m. with Booneville's Devilettes battling Biggersville's Lady Lions in the opening game followed by Saltillo's Tigers against Booneville's Blue Devils at 7:15 and the nightcap will see the Baldwyn-Okolona-Wheeler Saltillo girls winners meeting in tonight's final game.

Friday's action starts at 6 p.m. while Saturday's finals will get underway at 7 p.m.

According to some tournament sources, this year's event appears to be equal in several phases of the overall tournament picture.

Several teams have somewhat a shot at the coveted first place crowns while there are a few favorites in the tourney.

Officials for the tournament are Lawrence Meeks and Lynn Nash and admission is $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Rebels, Rebelettes Take Tourney Laurels

Thrasher's Rebels and Rebelettes continue to sweep local tournament competition in the area with a pair of wins in the finals of the Jumpertown Tournament held Saturday night.

Thrasher's girls, took top honors with a 37-29 victory over Ashland's girls while the Rebels took the boy's title with a 53-50 victory over Wheeler's Eagles in the Saturday nightcap.

Lisa Shook and Monte Hare led the Rebelette attack with 12 points each while Ashland's Muriene McKinney had 20 points.

In boy's action, James Swinney paced the Rebel scoring brigade with 14 points followed by Darryl Hatfield with 12 and George Leslie with 10.

Terry Ballard led all scorers with 21 points to lead Wheeler while teammate Tim Kesler added 10. Thrasher led by one 24-23 at the half.

All four final teams picked up victories in semi-final action to advance to Saturday's finals.

Both Thrasher's Rebels and Rebelettes earned wins on Thursday night while Wheeler and Ashland picked up victories Friday night.

In Thursday's action, Thrasher's Rebelettes dropped Pine Grove 40-31 while the Rebels checked Ashland 62-61.

Monte Hare and Debbie

Oswalt led the Rebelettes with 11 points each while James Swinney paced the Rebels with 33 points.

In Friday's action, Wheeler's

Eagles dropped Jumpertown 101-59 while Ashland's girls checked Jumpertown's Cardinales 49-39.

Tim Kesler led the Eagles with 22 points while Keny Geno had 21 for Jumpertown.

In girl's action, Murlene McKinney led Ashland with 21 points while Teresa Yates netted 10 points for the Cardinales.

The wins for the Thrasher clubs marks the second week in a row to claim tourney championships. The two squads finished first in last week's Wheeler Tournament.

Thrasher's Rebels remains one of the only undefeated teams in North Mississippi with a perfect 17-0 record while the Rebelettes post a 14-3 mark. This is through Saturday night.

Sports At A Glance

By LEE GENTRY
Sports Editor

I devote my column this week to a potpourri of topics focusing mainly on the Prentiss County basketball fever that has now swept area sports fans.

It never fails to amaze me that the fans from the County have a tremendous following for their favorite basketball teams.

Tournament competition really brings out the fan support such as the one's that has been scheduled recently and sometimes the gym or gyms have trouble with the seating arrangements.

Local County competition is more equal this year than in the past (or at least appears to be at the time) and each time the local teams play each other, to quote an old cliché, "It's anyone's ballgame."

Thrasher's Rebels, under the new direction of head coach Jacky Rowsey, continues to have the hot hand so to speak, and holds the number one ranking in Prentiss County as well as one of the top North Mississippi spots.

The Rebels, as of presstime Tuesday, remains unbeaten with a perfect 18-0 record, which includes wins over the rest of the

Basketball Fever Hits Prentiss County

County squads. The Thrasher troop definitely appears to be the team to recon with since they've beaten most of the other County squads on more than one occasion.

One thing stands for certain. The local Prentiss County teams will make it official as to who the champs are when the Annual Prentiss County Tournament gets underway next Monday night.

You can't really count anyone out of this year's tournament. Although Thrasher has beat the other teams, several of them have been close ones and when you put it all on the line in the County event, then anything can happen.

As far as the girls situation goes, here again, your guess is as good as mine.

Several of the County girls teams are even better than they were a year ago and this makes next week's tournament even more exciting.

DID YOU SEE THAT?

Did you, by any chance see the New Orleans-Oakland football game Monday night on television? That game needs to make the Guinness Book of World Records as the game where the most shoes were thrown at the television set.

How can a team possibly lose after they completely dominate the first half of play and then took a three touchdown lead in the third period? Well New Orleans knows how to do it.

The Saints, needing a win in the worst way, took a commanding 35-14 lead early in the third quarter and then completely folded in the second half.

Don Merideth was ready to sing his 'Turn out the lights, the party's over' song. Well he sung it alright, but it was in the fourth quarter when Oakland had scored their fourth six pointer of the second half and took a 42-35 victory.

Well, these things happen I guess. But there is one thing for certain. The Saints, with Archie Manning included, will remember that game from some time to come.

HEISMAN TROPHY WINNER PLEASED

I guess by now everyone has heard that Charles White, runningback for Southern Cal, has won the 1979 Heisman Trophy, given to the top college football player in the nation.

How good is he? Well just ask him and he'll tell you. White was interviewed on the Today Program Tuesday morning and an NBC sports reporter asked him how he felt about receiving the award. Well he told them he thought he should have won the award. Now you can't be more blunt than that. I guess if I was as good as he is, I'd brag too...

DON'T FORGET THE TOURNAMENT ACTION

Yep...Don't forget those tournament games scheduled for the next few weeks. Basketball action at it's best. The Baldwin Tournament is underway this week and will continue through Saturday night and then the County Tournament will follow next Monday night through Thursday night. So get out and support your favorite team.

Joke of the Week...How do you keep a turkey in suspense?— I'll tell you later... Till next time...

CONFERENCE—Booneville coach Ricky Ford talks with the Blue Devils here in a time out during the Ripley game last Thursday night. The talk did some good...The Devils won 54-49.

HEADS DOWN COURT—Booneville's Debbie Brooks (20 with ball) heads down court here in last Friday's action against Ripley's Tigerettes. Brooks aided the Booneville girls in a 58-38 romp.

In Two Night Stand

Tigers, Tigerettes Split Games

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers and Tigerettes split action last week in two nights of action on Thursday and Saturday night in action both at home and on the road.

On Thursday night Northeast split games with Northwest Junior College in a home battle at the Bonner Arnold Coliseum while on Saturday night they shared games with Martin Junior College in road action at Pulaski Tennessee.

Thursday night's home action saw Northeast's Tigers, under the direction of head coach Noal Akins, drop Northwest Rangers 61-59 in a thriller while the Tigerettes fell to the Lady Rangers 98-72.

On Saturday night the tide reversed. Northeast's Ladies earned the win honors with a 71-66 victory while the Tigers lost to Martin 85-84 in the nightcap.

In Thursday's action, Martha Ashmore led the Tigerettes in scoring with 16 points followed by Helen McDonald with 14.

Sabrina Newborn paced the winners with 22 points while Bertha Robinson had 18.

In men's action Thursday, Mike Cartwright led the Tiger scoring brigade with 13 points followed by Troy McWilliams with 11.

The Tigers, in their win over the Rangers, hit 29 of 64 from the floor for a 45.3 percent average and hit 50 percent from the free throw line while Northwest connected on 42 percent from the field and 38.4 percent from the line.

The Tigers pulled down 35 rebounds on the night while they held their opponents to 25 rebounds.

Gary Hill led the Tiger rebounding corps with seven followed by Charles Conrad and Mike Cartwright with six each.

Gary Hill paced the individual stat list with five of six from the floor for a 83.3 percent average followed by Jackie Leach with 80 percent and Dale Groves with 75 percent.

In Saturday's action against Martin, Sabrina Williams led the Tigerettes in scoring with 14 points followed by Charmon Coley with 13 and Shelia Edgeston with 12.

The Northeast ladies, according to head coach Millard Lothenore, was saved at the free throw line in Saturday's outing. The Tigerettes hit on 13 of 16 attempts while shooting at a 32 percent clip from the floor.

Martin shot 42 percent from the floor and hit 18-26 from the line.

Sheila Edgeston led the Lady Tigers in rebounding with nine while Sabrina Williams collected five assists.

Charmon Coley led the individual stat list with 6-9 from the floor while Martha Ashmore led at the line with 6-7.

In men's action, Mark Buskirk led the Tigers in scoring with 21 points followed by Gary Hill and Charles Conrad with 13 each and Mike Cartwright with 11.

Travis Johnson led the Martin attack with 23 points.

Both the Tigers and Tigerettes travel to Paducah Kentucky next Monday night and then continue on the road on Tuesday against Northwest Alabama.

'Devils Drop Ripley Twice

RIPLEY—Booneville's Blue Devils and Devilettes took a basketball double header from Ripley last Thursday night in local roundball action held at the Ripley Gym.

The Devilettes took the opening game with a 58-38 victory over the Tigerettes while the Devils checked the Tigers 54-49 in the Thursday nightcap.

Diane Harris led the Booneville pointmakers in the opening game with a 21 point performance followed by Debbie Brooks with 14.

Linda Pate was the only Tigerette performer in double figures with Booneville led 36-21 at the intermission.

In nightcap action, Clarence Taylor led the Blue Devils scoring brigade with 17 points followed by Chris Williams with 14 and Ronnie Elam with 13.

Randy Johnson and Neal White led the Tigers scorers with 12 points each while Skip Benson followed with 11.

Ripley led 31-27 at the intermission.

Both Booneville's Blue Devils and Devilettes are now competing in the Baldwin Tournament of Champions held this week.

Marietta Takes Host Tourney

Marietta took a clean sweep in final Tournament competition here last Friday night in the finals of the Second Annual Marietta Basketball Tournament held last week.

This marks the second year in a row that Marietta has claimed all four divisions.

Marietta's girls dropped Anderson of Booneville 39-6 while the B Team tagged Wheeler 43-40. Marietta's eighth grade girls stopped Booneville 28-24 and Marietta's eighth grade boys checked Booneville 53-37 to round out the four game stand.

In seventh grade girls action, Kathy Whitle led Marietta with 14 points while in B Team action Marietta was led by Scotty Moore with 14, while William Lowery had 18 to pace the Wheeler attack.

In eighth grade girls action, Michelle Young led the Marietta attack with 14 points while Sovenia Harris had eight for Anderson.

In eighth grade boys action, Mark Barnes paced the Marietta boys with 22 points while Carlos Hastings netted 12 for Anderson.

Marietta coach Ricky Howell said he was pleased with the overall tournament and added that some outstanding basketball action was seen throughout the event.

Miller Named To All American List

Ole Miss punter Jim Miller of Ripley has been named to the 1979 United Press International All-American Football Team.

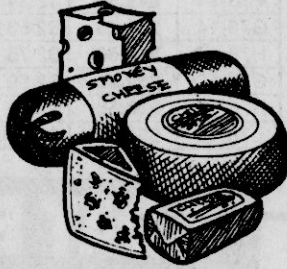

Miller, who finished third in the nation this year in punting with a 44.5 average, is a former Tombigbee Conference performer while at Ripley High School and has been one of the top college athletes in the Nation his entire tenure at Ole Miss.

The barefooted placekicker is expected to place high in the 1979 pro draft.

Miller was also named to the Sporting News All-American squad Monday, making the third All-American team the Rebels' star has been named to.

County Tourney Starts Monday

The Annual Prentiss County Basketball Tournament, sponsored by the Booneville Jaycees, has officially been set for Monday, December 10 through Thursday Dec. 13 at the Northeast Mississippi

Junior College.

The tournament is known each year as one of the top County events in the area and this year's tournament appears to be just as exciting as ever if not more so.

Competition will again be held B-Boys, girls and A-Boys brackets.

Thrasher's Rebels are the defending champions of the tournament in A-Boys competition while Baldwin's Bearcats and Lady Bearcats are the returning champs in both the B Boys and Girls division.

Prentiss County Tournament Chairman Manfred Saylor said he looked for yet another outstanding event this time around.

A new feature will be added to this year's tournament. The section of an All-Tournament team in both boys and girls will be announced during the Thursday night finals. Also all former State Championship teams from the County will be recognized on the final night.

Lex Cain, Prentiss County Superintendent of Education and former basketball coach, has been selected as the honorary coach for 1979 by the County Coaches Association.

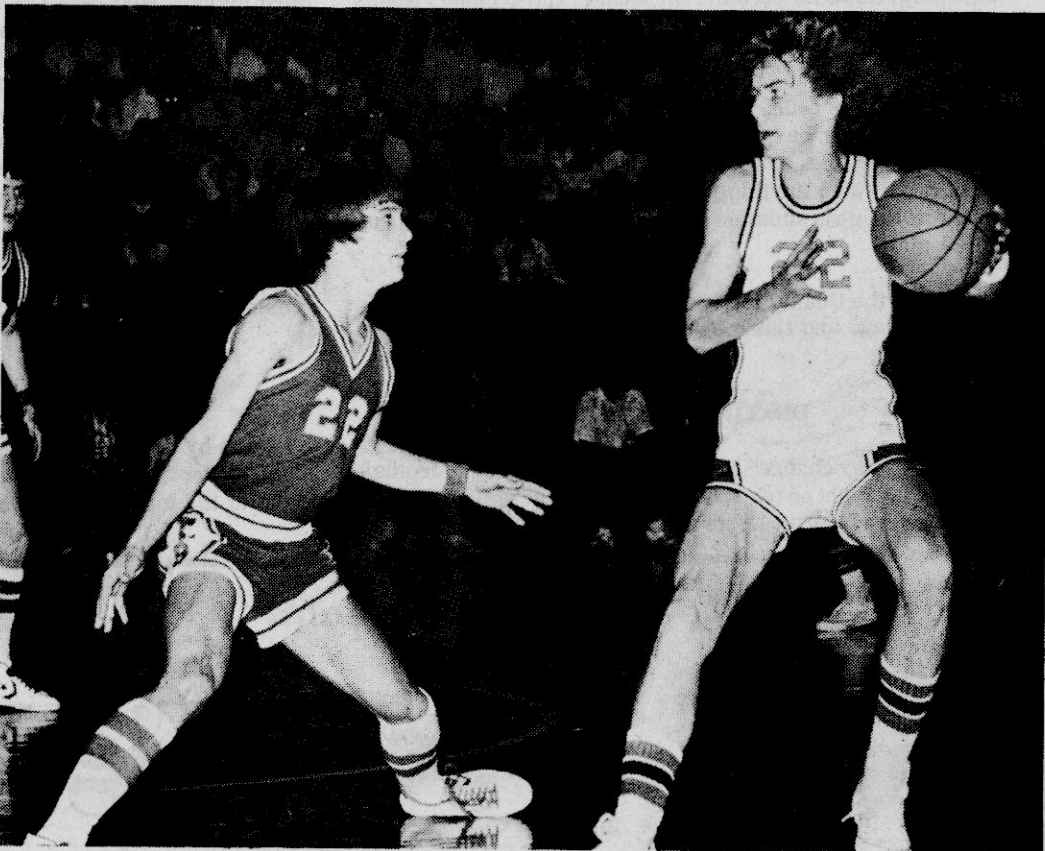

The Jaycees will again sponsor a free throw shooting competition. Trophies will be presented to the winners and the entry fee for this event has been set at $1.00.

"I believe we have the most competitive tournament that we've had in years," Saylor said. "The Booneville Jaycees are proud to be a part of the Prentiss County Basketball Tournament and we want to urge everyone to come out and see some of the most exciting basketball action ever. We also want to thank Northeast Junior College for the facilities and the help they offer during the tournament each year."

Officials for the Tournament are Lawrence Meeks and Bobby McCreight in girls and A-Boys events while Rickv Gillentine and Thurmond Saylor are the B team officials.

Admission for the County Event has been set at $1.00 for students and $2.00 for adults.

22 AGAINST 22—Wheeler's Tim Kesler (with ball) is guarded here by Thrasher's Darryl Hatfield in local County action. Thrasher's Rebels defeated Wheeler in the finals of the Jumpertown Tourney and then again Tuesday night in regular season play.

Cards Of Thanks

I would like to express my gratitude to the nurses on A wing, the dietary department, and to Dr. Madara for making my stay in the hospital a pleasant one. I think we have one of the finest hospitals and some of the best doctors and nurses in the state of Mississippi. Again, thanks for being so sweet and kind. May God bless you all is my prayer.

Lovella Lewellen

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank everyone for all the nice things done for us while in the hospital. For the visits, phone calls, cards, flowers gifts, and most of all for each prayer that was said for us. Also for all the doctors and nurses who were so kind. May God bless each of you.

Maxola and Kathy Bonds

CARD OF THANKS

The family of James Lindsey Keeton, Sr., wishes to thank the Medical Clinic nurses and doctors, especially Dr. Elzey, the nurses at the Northeast Mississippi Hospital, and our many dear friends for their compassion, concern, and comfort during the illness and passing of our loved one. You were there when we needed you most. May God bless you.

Ruth S. Keeton
Sarah H. Martin
Jimmy Keeton
John Keeton

CARD OF THANKS

Our heartfelt thanks to all our friends for the love expressed through helpful visits and deeds, flowers, calls, food, cards and especially your prayers. Words are inadequate to express our gratitude. We give thanks to our God for all of you and His goodness reflected in your many kindnesses during Eula's recent illness and hospitalization in Memphis. May God bless each of you with His wonderful presence during the Christmas season and the coming year.

NOTICE OF BOND SALE
$110,000
COMBINED WATER AND SEWER SYSTEM REVENUE BONDS OF THE
TOWN OF MARIETTA, MISSISSIPPI

Sealed proposals will be received by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the Town of Marietta, Mississippi (hereinafter referred to as the "Municipality"), in its regular meeting place in the Town Hall of the Municipality, until the hour of 7:00 o'clock P.M., on the 10th day of December, 1979, at which time said bids will be publicly opened for the purchase, at not less than par and accrued interest to the date of delivery of an issue of One Hundred Ten Thousand Dollars ($110,000) principal amount Combined Water and Sewer System Revenue Bonds of the Municipality (the "Bonds").

The Bonds will be dated December 1, 1979, will be of the denomination of $1,000 each, will be numbered serially from one (1) to one hundred ten (110), inclusive, will be issued in bearer coupon form, and will bear interest at the rate of 8 percent per annum, payable semi-annually on December 1 in each year. Both principal and interest on the Bonds will be payable at a place to be designated by the purchaser, subject to the approval of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen. The Bonds will mature serially on December 1 in the years and principal amounts as follows:

YEARS	AMOUNTS
1982-1992, inclusive	$2,000
1993-2003, inclusive	3,000
2004-2014, inclusive	5,000

Bonds maturing December 1, 1990, and thereafter shall, at the option of the Municipality be redeemable, in whole or part, in inverse numerical and maturity order on December 1, 1989, or upon any December 1 thereafter, upon not less than thirty (30) days prior notice, at par and accrued interest to date of redemption.

No bonds shall bear more than one (1) rate of interest; each bond shall bear interest from its date to its stated maturity date at the interest rate specified in the bid; all bonds of the same maturity shall bear the same rate of interest from date to maturity. No interest payment shall be evidenced by more than one (1) coupon and neither cancelled nor supplemental coupons shall be permitted; the lowest interest rate specified for any bonds shall not be less than seventy percent (70 percent) of the highest interest rate specified for any other bonds. The Bonds shall not bear a greater overall maximum interest rate to maturity than eight percent (8 percent) per annum, and the interest rate of any one (1) maturity shall not exceed eight percent (8 percent) per annum. Each interest rate specified in a bid must be a multiple of one-eighth of one percent (1/8 of 1 percent) or a multiple of one-tenth of one percent (1/10 of 1 percent).

The Bonds will be executed and delivered pursuant to the authority and provisions of Sections 21-27-11 through 21-27-49, Mississippi Code of 1972, and will constitute a lien upon and be payable solely from the revenues derived and to be derived from the combined water and sewer system of the Municipality, subject only to the prior payment of the reasonable and necessary expenses of operating and maintaining said system, and subject to the prior payment of the Water System Revenue Bond of the Municipality dated November 1, 1979.

Proposals to purchase the Bonds should be addressed to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, should be plainly marked "Proposal for Combined Water and Sewer System Revenue Bonds" and should be filed with the Clerk of the Municipality on or prior to the date and hour hereinabove named.

Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check, certified check or exchange, issued or certified by a bank located in the State of Mississippi, payable to the Town of Marietta, in the amount of Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars ($2,200) as a guaranty that the bidder will carry out his contract and purchase the Bonds if his bid is accepted. If the successful bidder fails to purchase the Bonds pursuant to his bid and contract, the amount of such good faith check will be retained by the Municipality and covered into the proper fund as liquidated damages for such failure. The Mayor and Board of Aldermen reserves the right to reject any and all bids submitted.

If the Municipality does not receive a bid resulting in an average interest rate to maturity of 8 percent per annum or less, the Municipality reserves the right to sell obligations in a like principal amount at private sale.

The Bonds are offered subject to the unqualified approval of the legality thereof by the law firm of Watkins Pyle Ludlum Winter & Stennis of Jackson, Mississippi. The Municipality will pay for the printing of the Bonds, the validation of the Bonds and the legal fees in connection with said issue. Delivery of the Bonds will be made to the purchaser within sixty (60) days after the date of the sale of the Bonds, at a place to be designated by the purchaser without cost to the purchaser.

It is the opinion of bond counsel that the interest on the Bonds will be exempt from federal and State of Mississippi income taxes under existing statutes as presently interpreted and construed.

By order of the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the Town of Marietta, Mississippi, this 24 day of November, 1979.

Opening this year's exhibit will be a concert of carols by the Piney Woods School Choir

RATS FOILED AGAIN—Greg Geno (left), District Sanitarian with the State Board of Health, and city and county employees braved the cold weather last week to mix some 4,600 pounds of rat poison for Prentiss County residents. Geno said the crew was able to mix about 2,300 pounds of the poison every four hours by hand.

The poison is being made available to county residents through the cooperation of the State Board of Health, the Booneville Board of Aldermen, Mayor Charles Crabb and the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors.

Security Questions

Are Locks Just To Keep Honest People Out?

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to help Prentiss Countians combat the increasing number of burglaries and breakins in the area, Robert L. Bigsby, of Booneville, a certified locksmith with experience in the security field, has consented to answer questions area residents may have about protecting their homes and property. Anyone having a question for Bigsby should write it on a post card or in a letter and send it to Security Advice, c/o The Banner-Independent, P.O. Box 269, Booneville, MS 38829.

By ROBERT L. BIGSBY
Certified Locksmith

Prentiss County seems to be under siege lately by area thieves. As a Security Specialist, I hope to help Banner-Independent readers, by answering questions, correcting misinformation and instructing the public about security.

In this weekly column I will answer questions about locks, alarms and security measures residents can take to help protect their homes, automobiles and small businesses.

The following questions and answers are typical of those that will be covered in this column.

Do you recommend using double cylinder locks for homes and businesses?

Double cylinder locks require a key to open the lock from either side of the door. They are intended to be used on doors very close to windows, or on doors with windows, that could be broken out, allowing the door to be opened from the inside.

Although effective for this purpose, I cannot recommend them. In a fire, a misplaced key could mean serious injury. The risk is not worth the benefit of extra expense.

I would prefer replacing the glass with an acrylic or polycarbonate glazing substitute and using a single cylinder lock. These plastic materials are relatively transparent and very shatter-resistant.

Does it matter if a lock is installed upside down?
Yes, unless you want to get locked out accidentally.

In a properly installed lock, the key enters cut side UP in the keyway, smooth side down. If a spring breaks, or dirt and dust are allowed to collect, one can be locked out even with the right key.

By making a key lift the pins, gravity works with the lock and keeps the critical parts of the lock mechanism free from contamination. This advice applies to virtually all locks used for homes and businesses, but not GM cars.

Is price a good indicator as to the quality of a security product?

Unfortunately, no. You could easily spend twice as much for a product that was only half as effective as the cheaper product.

Worse yet you could spend a lot of money on, say, a lock to secure a door that for practical purposes, cannot be secured.

A good example of wasted money is to use a high security deadbolt lock on a hollow-core exterior door, even the most inexpensive deadbolt lock is likely to provide more security than the door it is installed on.

What is the best padlock I can buy to secure a utility shed?

First you have to determine what it is you expect the lock to do. I would consider best, a lock that did the job I expected it to do for the least amount of money.

If you are locking the shed to keep kids out of stored paint or fertilizer, even the cheapest padlock of the size you need should provide adequate security. However, if you are trying to protect your new riding lawnmower, I would use at least a 5-pin tumbler lock with a hardened shackle that locked on both sides and either had no code numbers or had a code number that could be recorded and then erased. The case should be either laminated steel or extruded brass.

Generally pin tumblers provide much more security, than do disc tumblers and warded locks. Warded locks usually use steel keys with square notches and can only be relied on to keep out small children. Disc tumbler padlocks are usually very easily picked by even the most inexperienced thieves. Pin tumbler locks on the other hand are usually more expensive, better made and are very hard to pick even by experienced thieves.

Please remember to use a hasp of equal quality to the padlock you decide to use.

How often should a lock be lubricated?

Two or three times a year should be enough in most cases, or whenever the lock starts to bind.

In any case, NEVER use oil or grease. These thicken or become gummy in time and attract dirt and dust and can cause a lock to jam up. Graphite or 'dry' lubricants such as WD-40 should be used. Silicone sprays cause build ups and are also not recommended.

It is a good idea to lubricate auto and outside locks before winter, for sure; also around Halloween time to help protect locks from vandals who use glue, gum or matchsticks to block keyways.

Is it true that locks only keep out the honest folks?

The purpose of a lock or any security device is to delay the criminal, expose him to the risk of detection or to alert police. Most criminals are looking for an easy 'score'. Anything that complicates their life makes it more likely they will go elsewhere to steal or rob their victims.

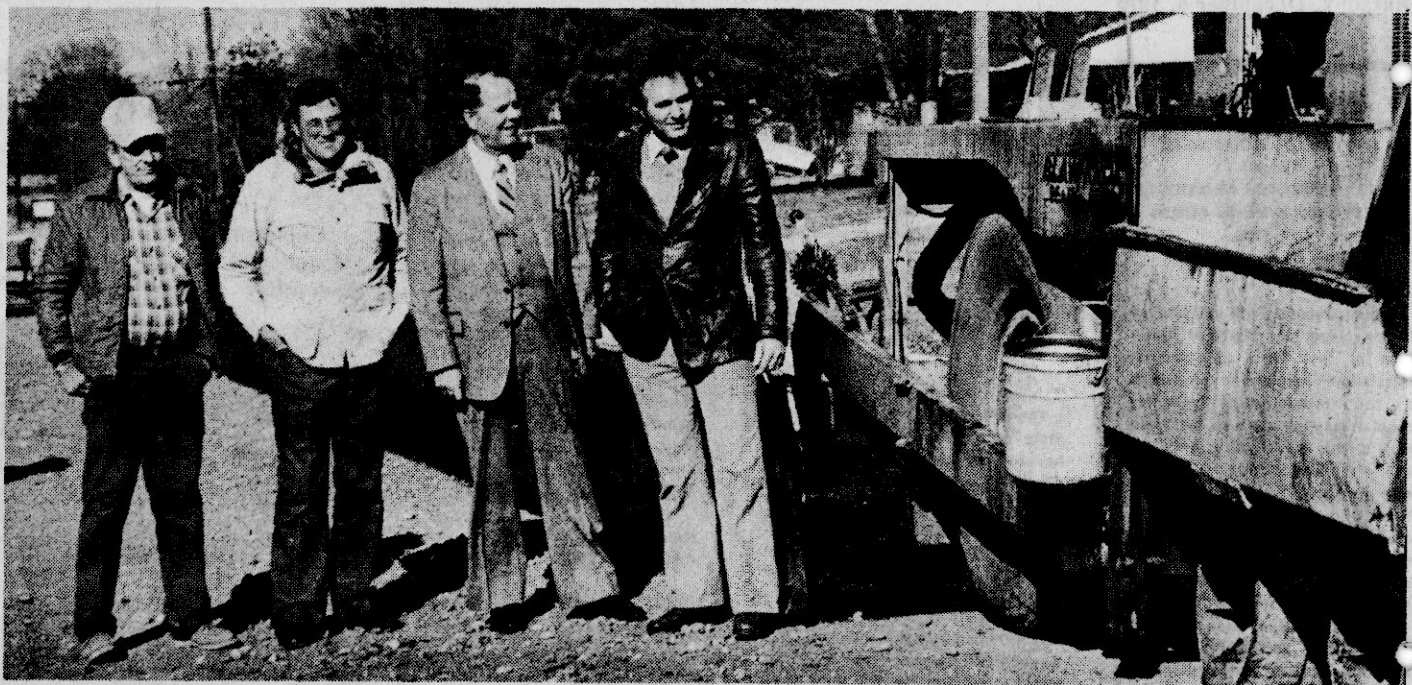

A "Security" lock will resist attack by ordinary hand tools for at least 10 minutes. While this doesn't sound like a long time, the burglar has no way of knowing whether or not the law is on the way. Usually only an experienced professional burglar persist under such circumstances.

Since most thieves in the area are not particularly experienced, let alone professional, very little money will give you a lot of protection.

While it is true a burglar can enter through a window, it is not nearly as likely as most people might imagine. According to FBI statistics 85 percent of all burglaries are committed through doors exclusively, meaning coming and going.

Remember, breaking glass makes a very distinctive sound that invites attention, something no burglar wants, not to mention cuts, bruises or the chance of being caught in a compromising position, half-way through a window.

Locks keep criminals out! Especially if they are designed and installed for that purpose. You can get a lock that will keep a person out for 10 minutes for about the same money as a lock that will only last 15 seconds.

PAVING BEGINS—Strange Construction Company began laying the new surface for a 1,100 foot section of Third Street Friday. The project, which began in July, is nearing completion. Contractor Jim Strange said that the street should be open to traffic by Christmas. After the surface is put down, the major construction remaining will be the laying of the sidewalks and sodding the right-of-way. Shown looking over the surfacing operation are (from left) Contractor Jim Strange, City Engineer Don Eubanks, Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb and Street Commissioner Wade Lambert. Lambert said that he hopes the city can start work on the next section of the street by spring.

Blue Mountain To Hold 'Christmas House'

Blue Mountain, Miss.—The Blue Mountain College

Alumnae Club will host its second annual "Christmas

House' the weekend of December 7-9, 1979 in Armstrong, the home of BMC

President and Mrs. Harold

Fisher.

One highlight will be a collection of antique crystal and china on loan from Gene Ward of Ripley. Tables will be set featuring cranberry glass goblets, cut glass, Pouyat china, Dresden porcelain and a Capodimonte tea set. Also displayed will be Royal Vienna portrait plates and Lenox Edward Marshall Boehm plates.

Chairman of "Christmas House" is Mrs. Harold Fisher and she is being assisted in the planning by Mrs. Joe H. Guyton, Mrs. William Washburn and Miss Mary Dean Hollis. Mrs. Sadie Lee Wells is president of the club.

Other features during the holiday weekend include traditional and modern Christmas trees displayed throughout the house, a variety of Christmas decorations and crafts for purchase, baked goods and daily puppet shows for the children under the direction of Miss Wilma Brogdon of Memphis.

The "Christmas House" will be open on Friday and Sunday between 2 and 5 each afternoon and on Saturday between 10 and 5. There is a $1 admission with all proceeds going to the college.

State's Economic Position—

From Top To Bottom In 120 Years

At the beginning of the Civil War, Mississippi was the 10th wealthiest state in the Union, but now—almost 120 years later—we are on the bottom—50th in per capita income.

Despite efforts to change this situation, to improve Mississippi's position among the state, we are losing ground. In 1972 the state trailed the national per capita income average by $1,415; by 1976, $1,866; and in 1978 the gap had widened to $2,074.

The Mississippi Economic Council—after a year and a half of work by a special study committee—has identified six steps for moving Mississippi off the bottom. Those steps are:

- Organize an alliance among the southern states to preserve the region's federally based economic incentives. Billions are pouring in the southern states—more than $4 billion into Mississippi each year—in the way of military installations, defense plants and operations, federal payrolls, and various federal benefit programs. A coalition has been formed of nor-

- theastern and midwestern states to influence policies and alter this flow. Mississippi and other southern states must oppose these efforts.
- Maintain and protect Mississippi's favorable business climate. The state has been identified by the National Council of State Manufacturers Associations as having the most favorable business climate in the nation. Mississippi must protect the state's right to work law, provide incentives for exploration of energy sources, preserve the state's favorable tax structure, provide incentives for business development and expansion, and promote an improvement of the state's image.
- Create within the office of the governor a cabinet-level position of senior economic advisor to further the work of the governor's office—long recognized as the center of the state's economic development efforts.
- Improve and protect the professional stature of the state's industrial development agency and its work. The new Board of Economic Development—formerly the A & I Board—must be staffed with qualified professionals and training programs must be provided for local public officials and volunteer workers.

--Encourage the development of small home-owned businesses. Small businesses—those with 20 or fewer employees—generate two thirds of all new jobs in the U.S.

--Improve the level of education of all Mississippians, concentrating on the development of basic skills in the elementary grades.

These six steps, obviously, will move us in the direction of economic prosperity.

Drinking And Heart Disease

There is no clear evidence that drinking will prevent a heart attack, a committee of the American Heart Association says, and it warned against excessive use of alcohol, or any change in drinking habits.

The advisory was issued in response to preliminary research reports that show moderate consumption of alcohol in the form of beer, wine and spirits, may reduce the amount of "bad" cholesterol (low density lipoprotein or LDL) in the bloodstream while raising the level of "good" cholesterol (high density lipoprotein or HDL).

"There is no doubt that the dangers of acute or chronic excessive alcohol intake far outweigh any theoretical beneficial effect on HDL cholesterol," the AHA Nutrition Committee said in its advisory.

The best way to reduce your level of blood cholesterol, the AHA emphasized, is to eat a prudent diet that is low in animal fats and eggs, which are the main sources of cholesterol.

High levels of cholesterol and other fats are a major risk factor for the development of cardiovascular disease. Cholesterol is a waxy substance carried in the bloodstream in five different types of fat "packets," including HDL and LDL. Research has shown that high levels of HDL may offer protection from heart disease. Individuals with high HDL levels have fewer heart attacks while individuals with high levels of LDL have more attacks.

The committee cited recent data from a large National Institutes of Health-sponsored study that demonstrate a significant positive correlation between the level of HDL cholesterol and the amount of alcohol the individuals participating in the study claimed they had consumed. But the committee said it's too early to recommend a change in drinking habits based on such preliminary observations.

The committee cited statistics showing the enormous social, economic and health costs associated with alcohol consumption. In 1976 the federal government estimated there were 18 to 20 million alcoholics in the United States causing an annual $25 billion economic loss. Alcoholism is also estimated to account for five to 10 percent of all trips to see the doctor.

And alcohol-like candy--adds "empty" calories that may contribute to obesity and malnutrition, the committee noted. In other words, alcohol and candy are sources of energy but they lack essential nutrients such as vitamins and protein. Also, alcohol can alter the way the body uses essential nutrients.

It is clear, the committee said, that alcohol ingestion may result in cardiovascular disorders. In fact, evidence indicates that alcohol taken in large amounts is toxic to the heart and may destroy heart muscular tissue. And alcohol may indirectly contribute to hardening of the arteries through an effect on blood lipids in some individuals.

That excess alcohol consumption affects lipid metabolism appears to be indisputable, the committee said. "However, it is likewise quite clear that the effect varies with the dose, the individual and the conditions of exposure, i.e., acute or chronic. This has led to a variety of apparent divergent reports in the literature and has left the issue of meaningful health effects of the altered lipid metabolism somewhat clouded."

The Nutrition Committee is composed of a group of medical and scientific authorities who are volunteer advisors to the AHA.

Heat Homes With Care This Winter

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Soon Mississippi families will be concerned with providing energy for heating homes through the winter, says Dannie Reed, Mississippi Co-operative Extension Service farm safety specialist.

"Many will think about installing wood-burning stoves and fireplaces," he says. "Defective or misused heating equipment of all kinds causes many home fires. The 'good old days' may be back, but the old fire hazards need not return with them."

Reed gives this advice to the homeowner who is using or plans to use a wood-burning heater: Make sure the stove is installed properly. Read accompanying instructions, or consult your dealer or a fire authority. Check with your county agent for helpful publications on installing and using wood heaters. Make sure the chimney or flue is in good condition and has adequate draft to assure good venting of smoke and gases. Clean and inspect it regularly to avoid build-up of creosote which could fuel a dangerous chimney fire. The stovepipe should be leak-free and connected securely. Clean it each month if the stove is in service for much of the heating service, Reed recommends.

"Don't use kerosene or charcoal lighter fluid to start a fire," he adds. "Don't let the fire get roaring hot. Keep it controlled with dampers, and you'll save fuel, too."

Place ashes in a lidded metal container, he suggests. If you haven't installed a smoke detector, do so when you install a wood heater, he adds.

GAS TRANSMISSION LINES CONDUITS TO A CHANGING MARKET

Gas transmission lines which take years of planning and engineering, and cost millions to build, are really just big conduits.

They link thousands of customers to producing areas where newly-discovered gas is put up for sale. The movements of this market, in terms of price and availability, simply travel down the pipelines to the customer.

For many years companies like United Gas bought natural gas for interstate shipment in the market where the producers' sales price was limited by government regulation. Gas not sold in interstate commerce had no such price restriction. As the market price of natural gas began to rise, much natural gas was confined by producers to the intrastate market.

Now, however, new national legislation has brought sweeping changes to this complex situation. Producers of natural gas can now charge for gas sold in interstate commerce prices that are much more in line with the intrastate market. This incentive, in the truest tradition of our economic system, will result in more gas being available.

But it will cost more.

Gas transmission lines are, after all, just conduits to the market place, and what happens on one end affects what happens on the other.

New Bass Rules Start January 1

JACKSON—Mississippi bass fishermen will soon come to grips with an admittedly tough and challenging task of deciding if they want to catch more fish or better fish—or both.

The decision should come in early 1980 when the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation introduces what is being called a major development in the state's fisheries management program on some already heavily fished public waters.

Beginning January 1, 1980, the department will institute a special size limit on bass caught in Lake Lamar Bruce in Lee County, Lake Claude Bennett in Jones County, and Lake Mike Conner in Covington County.

The new limit on these lakes permits fishermen to keep bass under 11-inches and over 15-inches in length. All bass in between must be returned to the lake immediately upon capture.

Also beginning January 1, 1980, all bass under 12-inches long taken from Lake Mary Crawford in Lawrence County must be returned to the water.

The new program will expand to Ross Barnett Reservoir north of Jackson beginning July 1, 1980. It will permit anglers fishing the reservoir in Madison, Rankin, Hinds and Scott counties, between the lowhead dam and the main dam and that part of Pelahatchie Bay owned by the Reservoir Board, to keep bass under 15-inches and over 20-inches in length. All bass between the 15 and 20-inch size however must be returned to the lake.

The new program, termed the "slot limit" on bass, was passed by the agency's five-member commission at a meeting held in Jackson on September 18. The management plan will remain in effect on the selected public waters until December 31, 1982, or until amended by the Commission, according to fisheries chief Barry Freeman.

"The increased number of people bass fishing on many of our state lakes and reservoirs is one cause of the poorer fishing and one reason for going to this slot limit system," Freeman said.

"For instance on Ross Barnett Reservoir, about 10 years ago only about 19 percent of the total number of fishermen actually fished for bass. Now, close to 50 percent of all the fishermen on the lake fish strictly for bass."

Freeman explained that what has been happening on many lakes is a continual buildup of smaller bass and a decrease in large bass numbers. A system used by many bass clubs is partly responsible for this, he says.

"The majority of bass fishermen have instituted a self-imposed 12-inch limit on the bass they keep. Any bass under this they throw back. Of course, they keep large bass, so this creates a stockpile of many smaller fish, but heavy pressure on bigger bass," Freeman said.

According to Freeman, the increase in small bass cuts down on the reproductive success of bluegill and crappie, since bass feed on the small fish of these species. "The overpopulation of bass generally makes for big bluegill," Freeman admitted, "but very few to catch."

Freeman said that part of the idea behind the slot limit is to take bass within certain size limits and protect bass in other size ranges. He indicated that the system as it is now will protect larger bass for a period of time, until more of that size accumulate in a particular lake.

"Also, we will be encouraging anglers to start removing many of the smaller bass they have been throwing back. If bass fishermen continue with their self-imposed 12-inch limit and throw back the very fish we want them to remove, then this system won't work. So it's going to be imperative that we have the support and cooperation of bass clubs and everyone who wants more and better fishing," Freeman said.

Postmaster Offers Tips On Packaging

Christmas packages will stand a better chance of arriving at their destinations in good shape if customers follow a few simple instructions, according to Booneville Postmaster Jack Wright.

"Select a corrugated fiberboard box with the 'burst test' number printed on it. That number is usually found in a little circle on the bottom of the box," said Postmaster Wright. "The higher the pounds-per-square-inch number, the sturdier the box."

Boxes rated 125 pounds may be used for many types of merchandise weighing up to 20 pounds. A box rated 175 pounds can hold up to 40 pounds of goods. Items that are fragile or breakable such as cameras or glassware should be packaged in a 275 carton.

Books or other dense and heavy materials also need stronger boxes. Check appliance stores for these heavier cartons, and make sure the seams aren't broken.

Postmaster Wright also offered these additional tips for wrapping gifts for mailing this Christmas:

- Make sure the contents are well-cushioned and there is no empty space in the box. Use crumpled newspaper around the item, on the bottom, the sides and on top of your gift. Foamed plastic shells and air pocket padding also are good cushions.
- Brown wrapping paper and twine cord are not necessary. Wrappings can rip off, and twine can get caught in processing machinery.
- Put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and your return address inside the box.
- Use sealing tape to close and seal the box. Three types are recommended: pressure-sensitive tape, kraft paper reinforced with nylon or glass and filament-reinforced pressure-sensitive tape. Do not use masking tape or cellophane tape. They're no longer recommended due to past poor performance.
- Use a smudge-proof ink for the address which could appear in the lower right-hand corner of the box. Write your return address in the upper left-hand corner. Be sure to include the zip code for both the addressee's address and your return address.
- Remove any other labels or addresses from the carton.

Winter Fruit Adds Menu Excitement

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Making a meal exciting is as easy as A B C ... apples, bananas and citrus.

These fruits are ripe and ready, and many stores are featuring them in weekly specials, says Ann O. Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist. In addition to being an economical buy, they are also a nutritious one.

Apples provide natural bulk or fiber and aid in digestion. Bananas also help maintain a good body chemistry. Those fruits belonging to the citrus family — oranges, tangerines and grapefruit — are excellent sources of vitamin C. All contain fructose, a fruit sugar readily absorbed in the body. This provides quick energy and satisfies any immediate "energy crisis." A medium-sized apple, banana and orange contain 80, 100 and 70 calories, respectively.

"Each of these fruits is great for snacks, brown bags or lunch boxes," says Mrs. Rushing. "Don't forget them while menu planning."

Fried apples, flavored with a hint of cinnamon or mace and served with sausage, will wake up any sleepy head. Or, try sprinkling brown sugar over a grapefruit half; then broil until the sugar melts to a golden caramel topping. For dinner, slice bananas and saute in butter and brown sugar to accompany a pork roast.

Baked apples are easy and may be served as a salad, side dish or dessert, either warm or cold. Experiment with a variety of "stuffings" in the cored cavity of the apple. Don't throw away that citrus peel, she adds. Serve salad in orange shells made by cutting the fruit in half and removing the pulp, keeping the shell intact.

Try all three winter fruits with a low calorie recipe for ambrosia, she suggests.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Keep Christ In Christmas

By John Wilson

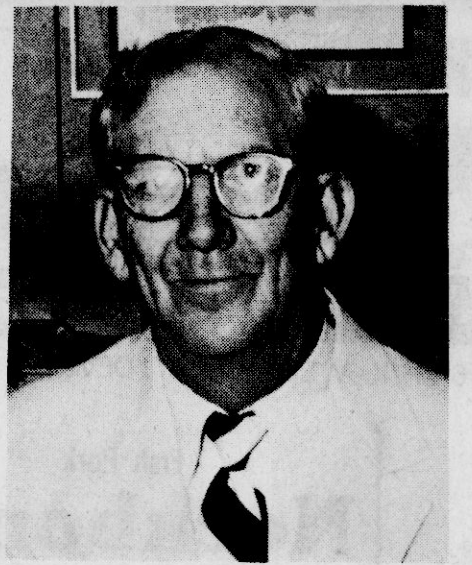

As we near the Christmas season once again, let us remember what Christmas is all about. It is the birthday of Jesus Christ and should be remembered as such. To many, Christmas is a time to eat, drink and be merry. To others a time to make as much noise as possible with fireworks or any other way they can make a loud noise. For many this is the only time of year they can be with their loved ones and how many families regret that Christmas time has come because of the drinking and carrying on that some members do. Many people, each year, are killed at Christmas time because of drunk driving and reckless driving. It's a wonderful thing for families to spend Christmas together, but not if it's going to cause heartaches and pain for years to come. I can think of nothing that God would be more pleased with than a family gathered around the Christmas dinner table giving Him thanks for the gift He gave to man almost two thousand years ago; the gift of His Son Jesus.

As we think about giving do we do it as God gave His Son, because He loved us? I'm afraid too many times we give hoping to receive as much or more in return. How many times have we heard someone say, "I'm not going to give him or her anything this year because they never give me anything. "This is not the spirit in which God would have us remember the birth of His Son. Many people spend much more than they can afford for Christmas presents just to impress someone. Our gifts should be given to those we love just because we do love them and we can show our love for our heavenly Father by showing our love for our fellowman.

Many, today, leave Christ completely out of Christmas. I can think of nothing more repulsive, to a Christian, than a sign in a store or shop that says "Merry Xmas." I do not think we should buy from these places at all if they leave Christ out of Christmas. Let's keep Christ in Christmas this year.

Christmas Day would be a wonderful day for Jesus to come back for His children. If He should come what would He find you doing? Would He find you in church thanking God for His blessings or would you be found in some tavern? Maybe He would find you gathered around the dinner table enjoying the fellowship of family and friends or would He find you indulging in the things of the world. I believe we should be closer to God at this time of year than any other. I'm going to keep Christ in my Christmas. How about you?
