Decision On Eligibility Delayed

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Editor

The Executive Committee of the Mississippi High School Activities Association Inc. has delayed making a final decision on a question of eligibility for those students who live outside the Booneville city limits but who will attend city schools next term.

In letters Monday to Lex Cain, superintendent of the Prentiss County School District, and Troy Henderson, superintendent of the Booneville Municipal Separate School District, Dr. Woodrow Marsh, director of the Activities Association, requested additional material from the two school boards and said that the Executive Committee would reconvene on August 2, 1980, and "make a final determination at that time."

Superintendent Henderson

met with the Executive Committee in Jackson Friday, May 9, to discuss the eligibility problem.

Under the rules set forth in the handbook of the Activities Association, those students who do not attend school in the school district in which their parents are "bona fide" residents are not eligible to participate in sports, band or other competitive activities which come under the jurisdiction of the Activities Association.

The formation of the Booneville Municipal Separate School District—which becomes effective July 1—has divided Prentiss County into two districts—the Booneville Municipal Separate School District and the Prentiss County School District.

The city limits of Booneville are the boundaries of the separate school district and any students living outside those boundaries will be attending school in a district other than the one in which their parents reside if they come into Booneville schools next term.

Both the county school board and the city school board have agreed to pass resolutions asking that the Activities Association grant a one-year waiver to this rule for these students. An organized group of county parents, the Prentiss County Concerned Parents Education Committee, also sent a letter to the Activities Association last week requesting a waiver of the rule.

In his letters to the two school superintendents, Marsh said the Executive Committee had reviewed the Booneville Municipal Separate School District formation and how it will affect student athletes in Booneville and Prentiss County.

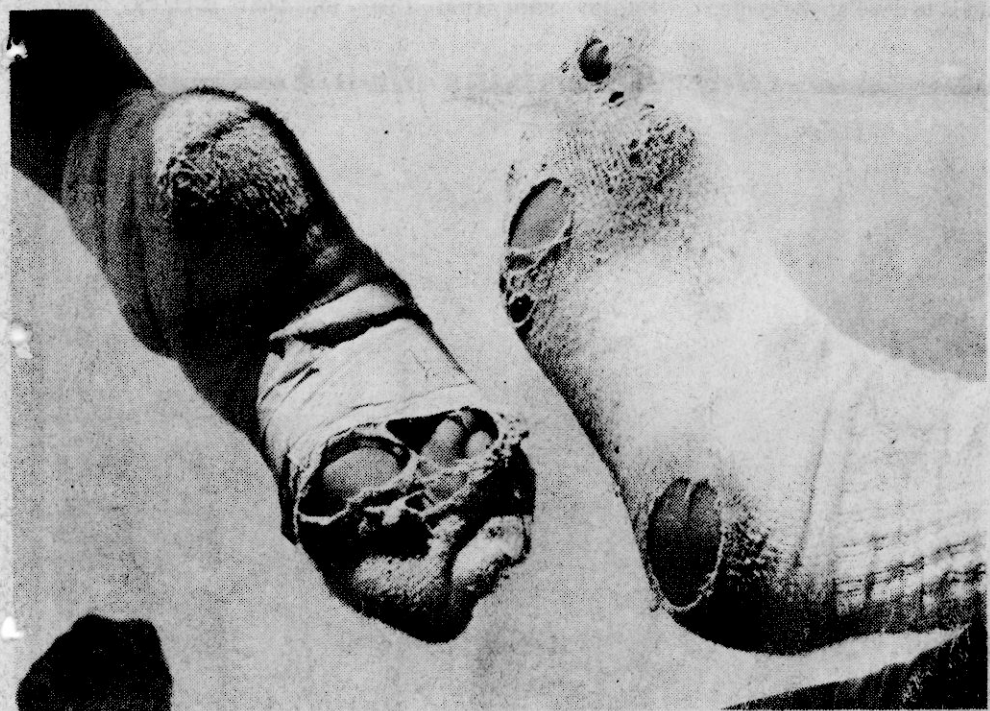

"Consideration was given to the request of the Boards of Trustees of both school districts," he said.

After discussion and deliberation, the Executive Committee is requesting further information from the two school boards, he said.

Marsh said the Executive Committee is requesting "copies of the board minutes of both boards, showing a resolution and names of students asking for and receiving a release by the county board and accepted by the city board for the 1980-81 school year."

Although the Activities Association has still not agreed to the waiver of the residency rule, it has departed from the position taken during the December meeting of the Association.

Mosquito Control Needed

Dengue Outbreak Possible

Greg Geno, District Sanitarian with the State Board of Health, told the Banner-Independent this week that there is a possibility of an outbreak of Dengue in Prentiss County this spring and summer if steps are not taken to control the local mosquito population.

Dengue, a mosquito-borne, viral infection, is characterized by fever and severe eye, joint, muscle and bone pain. It also produces a rash.

Older people might remember it by the name "Break Bone Fever," Geno said.

"It is not hardly ever fatal," he continued, "but it does cause a weakness of the entire body system. It makes you feel really weak and tired."

"We have been warned by public health officials that there could be a Dengue outbreak this year," Geno said Monday. "What they are wanting all the towns and communities to do is to prevent a large population buildup of mosquitoes."

In order to prevent an outbreak of Dengue, Geno asked that all Prentiss Countians clean up around their homes, destroying any potential breeding places for the mosquitoes.

"We don't think it's going to be serious," he said of the possibility of the outbreak, "but we don't want to take any chances what-so-ever."

Mauney Named To Succeed Eaton

Eddie Mauney has been named to succeed the late Ruey Eaton as alderman at Jumpertown, it was announced last week.

The alderman post was vacated when Eaton died unexpectedly on March 18.

Mauney was appointed to the post on April 1 to serve until a special election could be held to elect a new alderman.

The deadline to qualify for the election of the new alderman was May 1 and Mauney was the only one to do so, a spokesman for the Jumpertown Town Hall told the Banner-Independent last week.

Since Mauney had no opposition in seeking the position, he will serve the remainder of the term in that post.

Students' Summer Jobs Not Easy To Come By

With summer here, school will soon be out and young people will start looking for summer work. With so many people out looking, the competition for jobs will be keen, according to Charles Smith, Corinth Area Manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service.

"To improve your chances for employment," he said, "be prepared. Identify what you have to offer an employer. This will include any work you have done or even volunteer experience, plus what you have learned in or out of school that may be useful on a job; for example, being good at crafts or working around cars or machines, at helping children or working with people of all ages."

Another thing to do is ask a teacher or counselor at school about jobs in the area and how you can put your talents to work, Smith said. Your school counselor may be able to suggest fields that are right for you.

A very important thing to do is write down what you need to know at a job interview. This would include your work record, with names and addresses of previous employers, personal references; these can

Local Festival Plans

Begin To Take Shape

Plans for Booneville's first Boone Hill Festival are beginning to take shape, according to Keith Schackelford, chairman of the committee that is planning the event.

The festival will be held Thurs., Fri., and Sat., Aug. 7-9, and will consist of numerous events designed to appeal to people of all age groups. The committee also hopes many events usually held during the summer months can be incorporated into the festival to add variety.

Most local organizations have been contacted and have indicated a willingness to cooperate. The first activity officially scheduled for the three-day event is the annual mini-fair sponsored by the Prentiss County Cooperative Extension Service and coordinated by Extension Home Economist, Claire F. Ross.

Mrs. Ross said the mini-fair consists of all types of craft exhibits as well as displays of garden produce, preserved foods, plants, flower arrangements, clothing and needlework. In connection with the mini-fair, there will also be one or more "how to do it" booths demonstrating such favorites as cake decorating, gift wrapping and embroidery.

While the Homemakers Clubs of Prentiss County all participate in the fair it is not limited to club members. Anyone, male or female, may participate.

Shackelford said the festival committee has also contacted many other local organizations and should have several more events scheduled by its next meeting on May 19.

RYAN HAND WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP—Booneville High School's Ryan Hand took first place honors in the pole vaulting event last Saturday at the State Track Meet in Jackson. The local leaper cleared the bar at 11 ft. 6 ins. for his first place finish. For a complete report on his efforts, turn to page 15 of today's sports' section.

A Time To Remember

GRADUATION 1980—The look of jubilation on the face of Booneville High School graduate Connie Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Murphy, symbolizes the feelings of all those students in Prentiss County who received their diplomas this week. A time of joy for having completed a long, arduous task mixed with sadness at leaving many life-long friends, each going his own way, the emotions of a high school graduation come only once in a lifetime. For a special salute to the 1980 graduates, please turn to the special graduation section in today's Banner-Independent. (Photo by Ken Christian)

Decision

At that time, the Executive Committee voted to stick strictly to the rules set forth in the association handbook.

The Executive Committee has now apparently agreed to at least consider the matter further.

However, some have also interpreted this latest move as a further delaying tactic—possibly to forestall a legal suit.

Members of the Concerned Parents' Committee have indicated that they cannot wait until August 2 for a final determination on the eligibility of county students.

"We can't wait that late," said Charles Walden, Chairman of the Parents' Committee, "because some of the kids are going to be transferring based on the ability to participate."

He said that some of the students who would like to attend city schools next year and have requested a release from the county system, will change their mind if they are not allowed to participate in sports.

"We will make a move before August 2," he said. Indicating that the Parents' Committee might file a lawsuit to either enjoin the Activities Association to make a decision before August 2, or a lawsuit asking the court to make the final decision on eligibility, Walden said, "We need a decision prior to August 2. We will seek a decision either by the Activities Association or by the courts earlier than that."

The formation of the separate school district directly affected some 850 to 1,000 county students attending Booneville schools. Parents of 411 of these students signed petitions distributed by the Concerned Parents Committee requesting that their children be allowed to attend the city schools.

During discussions with the city school board and the parents group, the county school board verbally agreed to release these students and any others who attended city schools this term to continue in the same district next year. Students wishing to attend city schools who live outside the city limits were given forms at school for their parents to complete, officially requesting a transfer.

Although there has not been an official count of the number of students requesting the release, Superintendent Cain estimated Friday that approximately 700 had returned the "Request for Release" forms.

However, although the county school board has agreed verbally to grant these requests for releases, on an individual basis, no official action has been taken. The review of these requests by the board has been delayed due to the investigation of the legality of the formation of the separate school district by Donald Franks, attorney for the county school board.

Superintendent Cain said Friday that Franks has not yet made his recommendation to the county school board concerning the legality of the separate district. And, he said, the county school board will not make its final ruling on the release requests until Franks completes his investigation.

domestic mosquito, is the carrier for Dengue, Geno said. A very dark mosquito, it can be identified by the white rings around its legs.

"The female mosquito is the one we are concerned with," the local health official said, "because it feeds on blood. They require a blood meal to develop eggs."

In addition, the female mosquitoes are strongly attracted to humans, Geno said. He also said that, although they do bite at night, they are more apt to bite during the day.

The mosquito that carries the disease is an artificially breeding mosquito—so called because they breed in artificial containers such as old auto tires, buckets, watering cans, tin cans, clogged roof gutters and other such containers which hold water.

"Anything that will hold water and has an artificial surface to it makes a good breeding place for the mosquitoes," Geno said, "surfaces such as glass, plastic or metal. The eggs attach themselves to that type of surface."

However, the mosquitoes hardly ever breed in mud puddles since there is no good surface there on which to attach. Also, contrary to common belief, the mosquitoes do not like to breed in highly polluted waters, such as an open sewer.

"They like a stagnated type of water more than they do highly polluted water," Geno said. "They breed around human habitation and that's what makes them so bad."

"It is a really common mosquito and it is attracted to humans," he continued. "It is one that will breed in artificial containers which everybody has around their homes whether they realize it or not."

"If everybody would do their part in helping to destroy these breeding grounds," he said, "it would really help."

The city has begun their annual mosquito control program and are now spraying for mosquitoes on a regular schedule. However, Geno says that spraying alone is not going to get rid of the mosquitoes, or even slow them down that much. It will take a concentrated effort of the entire community to completely control the mosquito population.

Although mosquitoes can carry many diseases, Dengue is the major concern at this time. The same mosquito that carries Dengue is known to be a carrier of Yellow Fever in tropical areas, but Geno says that there is little problem of that here.

"The national public health people say 'Dengue is what we need to be on the look out for at this time,'" he said, "because the mosquitoes have evidently been infected with it."

For those involved in outdoor activities, the health official said that the application of a mosquito repellent and the wearing of long sleeves will help avoid mosquito bites.

Senior Centers Perform Services

As institutions go, senior centers are still in their infancy. The first senior centers in the world were conceived and born in the United States in the 1940's. Since then they have grown and multiplied at a great rate.

Now more than 5,000 senior centers cover most of the country, and there is hardly a city or sizeable town without one.

The federal government now contributes some funds toward building and renovation, and federal funds cover a large share of the nutrition programs and social services operating in many senior centers.

A good example of this type of center is the recently renovated Jacinto school house, located adjacent to the old Jacinto Courthouse.

Through funds provided by the Area Agency on Aging, the Alcorn County Supervisors and the Alcorn County Development Council (A.C.D.C.), a civic organization in Jacinto, the old school building has been almost totally renovated and is now being used as a senior center. Much of the funding for the operation of the center come from Title III of the Administration on Aging.

John Hanley, director of the Area Agency on Aging, Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District, said that the agency furnished almost $23,000 for the renovation of the old school house.

"Once a center has been designated and renovated," Hanley said, "the long range plan is to develop the center into a focal point for senior activities, such as meals, arts and crafts, health screening, fellowship, and recreation."

Hanley said that the program is still in the planning process and that eventually the centers will be open eight hours each day. They are open about four hours each day now.

Mailbox Improvement Week Set

"It's time to do something for your winter-weary friend, the mailbox," says Postmaster Jack Wright, "and the perfect time to do it is during Mailbox Improvement Week, May 19-24."

Residents of Prentiss County are urged to examine their mailboxes to determine whether they have been damaged during the winter by weather or vandalism, Wright said, particularly those located along rural routes.

"Some boxes may only need painting," the Postmaster said. "Others may need to be replaced. Mailbox Improvement Week is a good time to decide the best way to improve your mailbox. A damaged or improperly placed box will make it difficult for rural letter carriers to leave that special letter or package."

The Postal Service does not restrict customers to a specific type of mailbox, but does say that all boxes—whether standard or custom-made—must meet certain specifications for size, strength and location. A variety of approved commercial mailbox designs are available for use with decorative posts. "Customers should check with the Booneville Post Office for specifications," Wright said.

"I would remind people that the mailbox regulations have been written with safety and efficiency in mind," said Postmaster Wright. "You should not use massive farm equipment or heavy objects like plows and milk cans filled with cement to hold up mailboxes. Supports of this type are potential accident hazards. They can damage vehicles and cause serious injury to people who accidentally strike them."

Wednesday On ETV

Documentary Looks At 'Street People'

A new public television documentary focuses on the problems of the "deinstitutionalized" mentally ill at 9 p.m. Wednesday, May 21, on the Mississippi ETV Network (Channel 12 in Booneville, Channel 11 on the cable.)

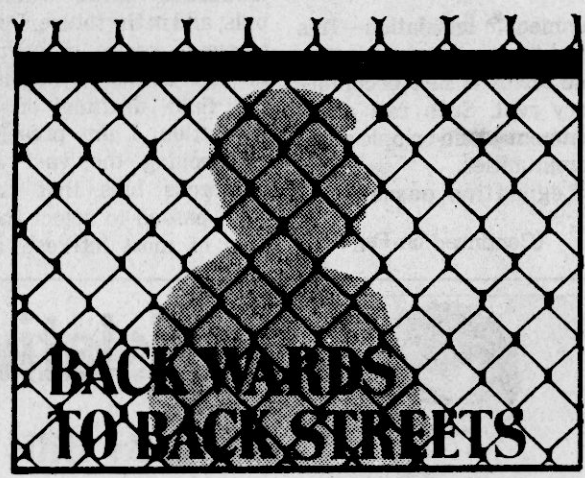

A locally produced follow-up, "Into the Mainstream," can be seen on ETV immediately after the PSB special.

"Back Wards to Back Streets," endorsed by the National Mental Health Association, describes the needs of the long-term mentally disabled. There are about 1 to 1.5 million of these people. They live in what are sometimes called "psychiatric ghettos"—neighborhoods of squalid welfare hotels, substandard adult homes and rooming houses.

Social programs, educational and job training programs and rehabilitation facilities are oftentimes not available for them, so many wander the streets during the day. They don't eat properly, exaggerating their mental and physical illnesses. They are the deinstitutionalized—alone and unprotected, and therefore, many are abused and exploited.

Many people might ask why aren't these people in a hospital where they will be fed and kept safe and protected. Twenty years ago they would have been, but to help remedy the growing problem of under-staffing and insufficient funds in hospitals, officials began a national public policy of deinstitutionalization along with the development of a network of mental health services in local communities.

Deinstitutionalization meant three things: (1) keeping people out of the hospital when they didn't really need to be there; (2) releasing those who could, with varying degrees of support, live in the community; and (3) shortening the length of time people stayed in the hospital.

"Back Wards to Back Streets" examines the benefits of deinstitutionalization along with the problems that it has created.

Unfortunately, the plans for developing housing and other support services for the deinstitutionalized took longer than expected. Sufficient money wasn't appropriated, or when it was, the mentally ill were left out of many programs which were, at the same time, available to the physically handicapped.

Zoning laws were challenged by communities that didn't want former patients living in their neighborhoods.

Those challenges were successful in many cases. Many people, who had been hospitalized for years, lost contact with family and friends. When they returned to the outside world, they discovered a rapidly changing, confusing and overwhelming environment.

"Back Wards to Back Streets" also shows, however, that in some communities the plans did work. After-care services, government-sponsored housing, rehabilitation programs and community friends can exist for some long-term mentally disabled.

At Thrasher High School

Esther Floyd Named Star Student

Esther M. Floyd, a senior, has been selected as Thrasher High School's STAR Student, according to the Mississippi Economic Council.

STAR Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. Scholastic averages and scores on the American College Test are considered in designation of a school's STAR Student.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school students, explained D.B. Massengale Jr., of Pascagoula, chairman of MEC's Education Committee.

"Top scholars are being designated as STAR Students in more than 300 participating schools in Mississippi," he said. "From these STAR Students, area winners will be selected, and the Council will award scholarships to the state's top STAR Students."

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher, a teacher who the student feels has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement.

Esther has designated Wyatt H. Weatherford as Star Teacher.

Both the STAR Student and the STAR Teacher will receive certificates from the Council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cletis E. Floyd, Esther is an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Her major area of interest is science.

Esther has received several honors at Thrasher High School, including awards in Combined Science, Biology, Trigonometry, and Senior English.

She has been involved in many club activities, including four years in the Beta Club, serving as vice-president her junior year and secretary her sophomore year. Also a four-year member of the Science Club, she served as president her senior year, vice-president her junior year, and reporter her freshman year. She also served as treasurer of the FFA during her senior year. She belonged to the FHA her junior year, the Library Club during her freshman and senior years; the Math Club her freshman, sophomore, and junior years and the Pep Club for four years.

She said she plans to attend Ricks College in Idaho and study photography.

Star Teacher Weatherford has taught Social Studies at Thrasher High School for the past 11 years. He was also chosen as Star Teacher in 1977-78.

A graduate of Baldwin High School, Weatherford received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Mississippi State University. He is currently doing advanced graduate work at Mississippi State and the University of Mississippi. Weatherford is a member of the First Baptist Church of Booneville.

Letter To The Editor

'At Least He Tries!'

(Editor's Note: The following open letter to the people of the United States was submitted to the Banner-Independent by 14-year-old Anderson Junior High School eighth grader Scott McKinney. Scott said that he is writing the letter about President Carter "because the people of the United States are complaining about everything he does." "It might make the people realize that we really do have a good President," Scott said about the letter. He said that he is sending a copy of the letter to President Carter at the White House.)

and "Jimmy Carter messes a lot of things up."

Well, at least he tries! But if you can recall back to 1976, it was you, the people who elected Jimmy Carter. So don't put the blame on President Carter, put the blame on yourself, you were the ones who put him there, this great job with its many responsibilities.

So, why don't you, the people, get off Jimmy Carter's back? He's got enough problems as it is.

With the Middle East situation and the re-elections, he's got enough troubles without you complaining!

It's bad to elect someone and not care what he does, but to elect a President and not stand behind him is even worse. So support YOUR President.

Thank you,

Enough Is Enough!

You'd think that after nine years of failure to persuade any judge to block the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway project, the opponents would give up.

But no. Although the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans refused last week to rehear the opponents' failed lawsuit, the opponents are looking for a new weapon.

"There have been many events and new laws since 1971 (when the efforts to halt the construction began)," said Stephen D. Roady, attorney for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and the Environmental Defense Fund.

"There are many new issues," he told the Louisville Courier-Journal. We don't know what "new laws" and "new issues" Mr. Roady has in mind. But the remark reveals an attitude toward the law that is mischievous. It's an attitude that sees the law as a weapon to be used in a fight rather than as an instrument of public justice.

Whatever new laws there may be, they weren't intended to block Tenn-Tom. Congress could have achieved that easily, had it wished to do so, simply by refusing to provide funds for the project.

To attempt to use a law passed by Congress to override the intent of Congress would be a cynical and deceptive abuse of the law and of the courts.

The opponents of Tenn-Tom have used every argument they could dredge up to persuade the courts to halt the project.

They subpoenaed 240,000 documents in an attempt to find something wrong. (Even the Warren Commission obtained only 140,000 in its exhaustive investigation of the Kennedy assassination.)

They didn't find anything that would impress a judge.

They orchestrated a media campaign, inducing the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Washington Star and Reader's Digest, among others, to take a stand against the waterway without ever hearing the other side of the case.

They said the Corps of Engineers deceived the Congress, which was an insult to the integrity of the Corps and to the intelligence of the congressmen.

They said the waterway would cost far more than the Corps had said it would. Of course it will. Everything costs more now than we ever thought it would.

They said the waterway would damage the environment. The Corps came back with persuasive evidence that it will enhance the environment.

They said the waterway would not be used enough to justify the costs. Again the evidence is that the Corps was conservative, if anything, in figuring its cost-benefit ratio.

If the waterway isn't going to be used, what is the L&N worried about? No railroad was ever hurt by an unused waterway.

Of course, the L&N knows that the waterway will be used. It will compete for freight business in the areas it serves.

The interests of the L&N are not the same as the interests of the public. The public's interest is in the cheapest possible transportation. In some places that means railroads; in some it means trucks; in some it means barges.

Enough is enough. The opponents have had nearly a decade to prove that the waterway will injure the region and waste public money.

There have been seven federal court decisions involving the waterway since 1971, and all have been favorable to Tenn-Tom.

Searching for new pretexts to block the project will not benefit anybody.

'Good Samaritan' Measure Now On Books

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau
Federation

Nearly a year ago the Mississippi legislature passed a bill that removes an obstacle that once stood in the path of emergency aid at the scene of an accident. Appropriately termed

Good Samaritan legislation, the measure now on the Mississippi statute books waives personal liability for persons at the scene of an accident who seek to give aid or transportation to injured persons only to have those efforts backfire in some way—real or purported.

The threat of lawsuit in the event intended aid went awry has hindered many a person from becoming involved at the accident scene—sometimes with tragic consequences for the injured person or persons whose urgent need for immediate medical aid or transportation to a hospital resulted in death.

One such example that has likely influenced many prudent by-standers in the past to remain by-standers is the frequently described contingency, if not excuse, of a person with a spinal injury being further harmed by inept handling by untrained persons who just happen to be nearby or present when a serious accident occurred. The fear of doing the wrong thing has kept many would-be good samaritans on the sideline when their services, professional or not, were sorely needed.

Now Mississippi law recognizes good intentions in such emergencies in a true sense and prevents the unscrupulous kin of the injured or even the injured himself from later bringing a damage suit if all didn't happen in a certain way in the rescue or medical efforts.

This writer has witnessed such events and bears witness to the need for the Good Samaritan provisions. On one occasion I came up behind a serious automobile collision on a state highway which ultimately claimed the lives of a mother and two children.

I found two ladies, two children, and an infant lying on the highway, three of which were to die shortly. The injured and dying lay on the pavement in cold rain as a circle of dozens of people watched several persons give aid and some measure of comfort pending arrival of ambulances.

The scene was an indictment of human compassion versus legal caution and restraint.

The Mississippi legislature acted wisely in voiding the conflict between the two.

The new legislation prohibits civil suit from arising whenever medically trained persons or anyone who acts in good faith and in the exercise of reasonable care give assistance that doesn't have a rosy ending. It even covers the transporting of the injured to a point where medical assistance can be reasonably expected. An example well could be that of a wreck occurring while the Good Samaritan is transporting the victim in his own vehicle to a hospital or doctor's office.

If an accident should happen in such a case, even killing the injured person, the well intended actions of the Good Samaritan wrap a cloak of legal protection about him. The law also requires a person involved in an accident to provide certain information and assistance such as transportation to a medical

"I wish the people at the telephone service would try to change the information for 411. I called there four times today and I let it ring for about 15 or 20 times each time and they didn't answer. I called the operator and she said that they were supposed to be there. I don't know what to do and I need the information real bad. Please do anything you can if possible. Thank you."

Garbage

"By the looks of the road ditch in front of Wal Mart, they have changed the

Senate Report

By Bill May

Senator District 5

Itawamba, Prentiss and Tishomingo

During the week of May 5th, the Senate concerned itself with action on conference reports. There were approximately 130 bills that went to conference, each requiring action by the respective Houses.

There were several bills passed this week which are of great importance to all of you: Senate Bill 2672, which sets the guidelines for statewide reappraisal; Senate Bill 2604, which increases the amount of compensation given teachers; and House Bill 469, which increases the maximum finance charges on certain loans under certain conditions.

In previous reports I have discussed these various bills, and in the future, I plan to run a series of articles giving a detailed synopsis of the final drafting of the legislation. I am presently researching the vast and numerous bills that have been passed to select those bills of most interest, and shall report them as well.

I hope that you have found these reports informative, and I trust that you will continue to read this article to obtain further information on these bills which have now become law.

Since this is the last new letter I shall be reporting from Jackson, I would like to thank the papers for their support in relaying this information to you. In order for government to better function and to be of service to the people, the people must know the function of government.

I appreciate the concern and interest that many of you have demonstrated in my initial session of the Legislature, and I hope that you will continue to inform me of your needs.

Legislative Letter

By Tim Ford

Representative District 18
Lee and Prentiss Counties

The first session of this legislative session is history. For myself, I would describe it as being educational, interesting, eye-opening, gratifying, and frustrating. Overall it was a productive and harmonious session. Everyone is still speaking to one another.

Some of the highlights of this session are, in my opinion, the following:

(1) The Statewide Housing Authority—A provision for low and moderate income families to obtain low interest mortgage loans. This is accomplished by selling tax-free revenue bonds and making available the proceeds to these families. It doesn't cost the taxpayer a dime.

The Governor has signed this bill into law already. This bill was of particular interest to me, as I worked on it in the subcommittee, the full Ways and Means committee, the House floor, and as one of the three house conferees when we met with the three Senate conferees in the last days of the session. Some 4,000-5,000 homes will be made available to home buyers in this state who otherwise would not have been able to own homes without this legislation.

(2) Reappraisal—For some 14 years the legislature has wrestled with this problem. It is the problem of taxing property uniformly statewide. With the passage of this bill, the counties may avoid a court ordered 100 percent assessment of real property. Although this bill is voluntary to the counties, and is termed "weak" by some proponents of reappraisal, it sets into motion some relief, in the long run, to our taxpayers and provides for a "current use" assessment rather than "highest and best" use assessment as addressed by the court order.

(3) Railroad Abandonment legislation—This threat to some of our cities and towns is fast becoming very real. Such rail abandonment would cripple some communities.

Legislative Report

By Billy McCoy

Representative District III
Prentiss And Alcorn Counties

On May 9th the Legislature ended its 1980 session. Certainly the past four months have been filled with many new and varied experiences for me as a new member of the House of Representatives. I am certain the lessons learned during this session will enable me to serve you better for the next three and one-half years.

Governor Winter spoke to a joint session of the Legislature last Thursday and recalled the major proposals of his administration and the response of the Legislature to those proposals. While both the Governor and the Legislature have been committed to a balance budget and to the preserving of the fiscal integrity of the state, the pressing needs of state government toward providing for the essential services have been met.

The basic needs of education at all levels from elementary through the university level have been provided for. Teachers have been given approximately $1200 per year increase in salary.

State employees have been given a much-deserved increase in salary that will provide for an eight percent increase.

As recommended by the Governor, reorganization of the Department of Bank Supervision was carried out. The Motor Vehicle Comp-troller's office was consolidated into the State Tax Commission and the entire State Tax Commission was reorganized. Also there was reorganization of the State Health Board and other areas of consolidation such as the Governor's Office itself.

The creation of a corporation that will have the authority to issue tax-exempt revenue bonds to provide funds for home mortgage loans should make at least 4,000 new homes available to Mississippians.

The creation of a new Board of Energy and Transportation should help Mississippi be competitive with other states in terms of its ability to meet its energy and transportation needs. Legislation has been adopted which should provide for continued service of the railroads to many communities that were on the verge of losing this most needed service.

In my opinion the most far reaching legislation of the 1980 Session was the passage of the bill that provides for reappraisal of property. Again there is no doubt that the burden of taxes will be shifted from the utilities, commercial property, and automobiles to the homeowner and landowner.

It has been a great privilege and honor for me to represent the citizens of Alcorn and Prentiss Counties in the House of Representatives.

While there have been many pleasant experiences, there have also been times of frustration and disappointment. Through it all I have kept my foremost promise to at least be sober, honest, and to work hard on your behalf.

Should you wish to contact me this summer call 728-6434 or write Representative Billy McCoy, Route 3, Box 346, Rienzi, Miss. 38865.

Mrs. Emmons Turner, president of the club, introduced John Tompkins who is the new administrator of the Northeast Mississippi Hospital. He spoke briefly about the assets of having a community hospital, about services available at the local hospital and about plans being made to meet future needs. Following his presentation, he asked for suggestions from the group. Mrs. Curlee Ross generated interest with her account of plans for the Boone Hill Festival scheduled for August 7, 8, and 9.

Mrs. S.C. Galloway's Free Enterprise System talk concerned the necessity of having education in economics available at the high school level.

Mrs. L.W. Peeler announced that the annual English Award offered by the Woman's Club was presented to Bo Burrell at the Awards Day Program at the school.

Mrs. Galloway also conducted a mini-workshop for her presentation of "The History of the Woman's Club, 1978-80." She cited many club-supported causes and recounted numerous projects in which members participated.

Mrs. Webster Cleveland installed the newly elected officers, comparing the qualities needed to carry out the duties of each office to the qualities found in different spices.

Duncan Lotts

Announce

New Son

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Lee Lott of Booneville announce the birth of a son, Casey Langston Lott.

Born on April 8, he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ray Langston of Booneville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Lott III of Birmingham, Ala.

George Coats, an employee of South Central Bell, recently attended a cable repair school in Jackson, Miss. His wife was with him for the last 10 days of the school and their little daughters, Tanya and Michelle, were happy to stay those days with their Mama, Mrs. Pearl Brady, in the Chapman Community.

The following poem was written about 1941, but a daughter requested that I have it printed.

Mother Did This For Me

All pains suffered for my two boys
Become to me only great joys,

For mother suffered so for me and I love her more Because Mother did this for me!

With heavy eyes and weary feet

My care for them is sweet;
Again, I know, in days gone by

Mother did this for me!
All earthly pleasures I may be denied

Become as nought if their love will abide

And I see them grow tall and good

'Twill be great happiness in this life
And mother felt this for me.

May God give me strength and patience

To be a living example to my sons

Being always to them What Mother is to me.

Beryl Sandy Coats

I am sure these sentiments would be those of many young mothers today.

County Executive Director

Forestry Incentives Program

The tree planting season under the forestry incentives program is just about complete and officials are pleased with the success of the program this year. Three hundred eighty one producers in Mississippi earned $742,168 cost-share funds under the forestry incentives program during the 1980 planting season.

Five farms in the county performed 197 acres of FIP practices this season and earned $6325.

The forestry incentives program is designed to increase the nation's supply of timber products and to enhance other forest resources. The demand for saw timber, plywood logs, and quality hardwood logs in this county is expected to exceed the supply within 25 years unless many more trees are planted each year and much more forest land is placed under good forest management.

The forestry incentives program is available only to privately owned land. Many private non-industrial landowners do not have the funds to make long term investments to improve forest land; therefore, the program is designed to assist those landowners.

Seventy-four counties in Mississippi are designated for FIP and are eligible to participate in the program. The COC's in most of these counties have approved cost-sharing for practices to be carried out by producers throughout the remainder of this year.

Mississippi has benefited by receiving funds totaling $5,893,758 to improve the productive capacity of our private forest lands since the origin of the forestry incentives program in 1975.

Emergency Feed Program

Mississippi livestock producers were fortunate during 1979 in many respects, according to D.L. Triggs Jr., State ASCS

Director. He said that good growing conditions throughout the state helped livestock producers obtain sufficient feed for their herds.

Weather is unpredictable and growing conditions could be less than favorable in 1980. If this should happen, Triggs said that ASCS does have an emergency feed program to assist livestock producers with their feed needs.

The director went on to say that the ASCS emergency feed program authorizes farmers to receive financial aid when their livestock are threatened by conditions caused by a natural disaster. Types of losses which are recognized include:

(1) Those caused by abnormal weather conditions such as drought, flood, excessive rain, hail, and high winds. This does not include cold weather, snow and ice.

(2) Feed stocks which were produced on the farm in the current crop year and were damaged or destroyed by a natural disaster while in storage. Feed stocks which were not totally destroyed must be appraised for their remaining value as livestock feed.

(3) Those caused by other conditions resulting from a natural disaster which are beyond the control of the producer.

(4) Those caused by fire, when the cause of the fire can be attributed to a natural disaster. Participants may be reimbursed up to 50 percent of the cost of feed purchased during the emergency period. This, however, may not exceed two cents per pound in terms of feed grain equivalent.

Triggs emphasized that to be eligible for the assistance, livestock producers must have suffered a substantial loss in the amount of feed normally produced, have insufficient feed for the period of the disaster, and must purchase larger-than-normal quantities of feed.

Interested persons may obtain further program details from their local ASCS office.

County Agent's Report

By W.H. HADEN
County Agent

The seeding rate for soybeans can vary widely and still give the same final yield. Plant a seed rate that will insure a final stand of 100,000 to 110,000 plants per acre in rows 20 to 40 inches wide. On grain drill plantings, you can have 150,000 to 175,000 plants per acre because of more uniform distribution.

The pounds of seed needed depend on germination and seed size. Generally, using 80 percent germination seed, you will need 11 seed per row foot in 40-inch rows, eight seed per foot in 30-inch rows and three seed per foot in six-inch rows.

Farmweek

Mississippi farmers have one problem in common—soaring fuel costs. On May 19, Farmweek will look at this problem and what farmers can do to save energy. Guest will be Extension Agricultural Engineer John McVey.

For fuel-saving tips and the latest in agricultural news, weather and market reports, watch for Farmweek Monday night, May 19, at 7:30 or the next Tuesday morning at 7:30 on your Mississippi Educational Television Network station.

Planting Time

It's planting time for cotton and soybeans, and farmers are going full blast.

Getting and keeping a stand and controlling weeds in young crops are top priority items. We need a bumper crop this year, and practices carried out during the next few weeks will determine the kind of crop we make. Farmers should apply all the agronomic practices needed to make a bumper crop:

--plant the best seed available in a moist, firm, well drained seedbed; make all early planting on raised beds, especially on poorly drained soils; --apply banded fertilizers at least six inches from the seed;

--use proper herbicide rates and band where practical to reduce cost;

--use a complete pre-and post-emergence weed control program to maximize yield potential; and,

--cut nitrogen rate for cotton by 30 percent on fields having a history of excessive stalk growth or where cotton follows soybeans.

Sunflower News

By BETTYE BRANDON
Correspondent

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. Cecil Hurd, who expired on Wednesday, May 7. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, May 11, at the Pleasant Grove M.B. Church with the Rev. A.C. Welch officiating.

Mothers, I sincerely hope that your day on Sunday, May 11, was as eventful and happy as mine. One of the happiest moments was in watching the expressions of surprise and happiness on the faces of the mothers of the church as gifts were presented to them by members of the junior choir. And of course, the gifts and attention that I personally received from family members.

But my greatest gift and happiness of all is to have my son back. Harry is doing fine. His mental and physical condition is very good. His determination to abstain from the use of drugs has been successful. He is working everyday and looking forward to returning to school when all arrangements are completed. Thank you for your prayers, help and encouragement. You helped make this possible and to make this my happiest mother's day ever.

Immediately following the worship service at Spring Hill M.B. Church Sunday morning, May 11, mothers of the church, Mmes. Annie Boothe, Addie M. Jones, Allie Gellispie, Josephine Fields, Gertrude Humphrey, Mimmie M. Baptist, Ira Burress, Ruby Grove, Pearl L. Johnson, Mary B. Chambers, Annie M. Dent, and Lucille Agnew were all honored in a special surprise service and presented with gifts of fruit baskets by members of the junior choir in honor of mother's day. The beginners and primary class of the Sunday School were also part of the service with songs and gifts for individual mothers. It was a beautiful and memorable service, thoroughly enjoyed by all.

I am happy to report that Nita Sugars continues to improve from injuries received in a car accident on Friday, May 2. She is still a patient in the Tupelo hospital. Remember her in your prayers and if possible send a card to cheer her and let her know you care.

We continue to pray for the sick and shutin of the community and especially for Mr. Edgar L. Gardner who is a patient of the local hospital, we hope he is soon home again with family members.

To The Graduates

Proverbs 1:7—"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; Fools despise wisdom and instruction."

Well, you have finally made it. All that work, study and sweat is behind you now. The little piece of sheepskin is yours now and you are about to leave behind some of the best years of your life.

You are embarking upon another voyage, the voyage of venturing beyond the academic world into the everyday work world. There are some things I hope you will carry with you on the voyage. It will mean a better trip for you and for those of us who have to make the voyage with you.

First, I hope you will carry some "common sense." Book learning is good and needed. Our world would be all the poorer if we failed to have it, but it just isn't enough by itself. Somehow our world seems to have lost some of this common sense that marked a previous generation. Common sense is hard to define, but I guess it means just thinking things through.

Next, I hope you will carry with you some respect for the rights of your fellow traveler. We are all making this journey together and that means that we can't go it alone. You have rights, and you should protect those rights less someone take them from you. Those rights haven't been earned easily.

Many a fellow traveler has given his life for those rights of yours, so protect them. But at the same time remember that those of us who travel with you also have rights. We are human beings with the same desires, hopes and feelings that you have. So I guess that the best way to protect your rights is to respect the rights of others.

Also, please remember to take along something to help you with your responsibilities. Responsibilities are like the home you had to do, it makes the difference when the tests comes. This is where the real problem is today. Everybody wants his rights, yet not everybody assumes his responsibilities, this makes for trouble.

If there is a hole in the ship and you don't dip out your share, someone else will have to work twice as hard to keep the ship from sinking, then if another person decides he doesn't want to dip either the ship is in real danger of sinking.

Another thing I hope you will do on the trip is to put in more fuel than you use. There are many people who will contribute nothing in the way of fuel for the trip. They are just free-loaders. This means that someone has to contribute their share. And you can remember from the school books that if your fuel runs out the ship stops. So leave a little more than you take.

One more thing you will need for the trip is a compass. Many times we lose our sense of direction and the result is war, poverty, hate, crime and other things that would destroy our ship. Just by setting sail does not mean that we will arrive at our destination. We need to continually check our charts to make sure we are headed in the right direction.

I hope you will have a good journey. This is my prayer for you. Not just because you are graduating, but because there are so many people who have invested so much in you and done so much to make possible the certificate you now hold.

They include your parents, teachers, friends and a host of other people who provided funds, help, prayers and encouragement. They are all pulling for you.

The ship is in your hands now. Chart a good course, set sail, and stay true to the best that is in you. God Bless and Keep You.

Till Next Week..

A New Wardrobe In Your Closet

By CLAIRE T. ROSS
Extension Home Economist

The next time you open the door to your closet full of "nothing to wear," step in and find a whole new wardrobe. A little imagination and creativity is all it takes. Spend an afternoon trying clothes. Try mixing and matching garments you have never thought of wearing together before. You may be surprised at the number of "new" outfits you can find.

Current fashion trends have made separates or coordinates a "hot item." This trend makes it easier to "mix and match" items in your wardrobe to expand the usefulness of many garments.

Most women's wardrobes are full of pantsuits or pants outfits which have always been worn with only the parts purchased together. Perhaps the intertwining of the jacket of one outfit with the pants of another would result in a "new outfit." The weave or pattern of the fabrics, the textures, and the colors would have to be compatible.

Have you ever worn the blouse which was purchased as a part of one ensemble with another skirt, suit or pair of pants? If not, you are not getting the mileage out of your garment that you should. Some garments remain unworn for months, simply because they are part of your "Sunday Best" or "Special Occasion" outfit.

To combine a non-matching jacket or vest with pants or skirt, wear a print blouse that repeats both colors. Or pick a solid color blouse that looks good with each separate to pull the two together. Avoid combining all dark or pale colors together.

Coordinate plaid, print, stripe or check pants or skirts with two tops by bringing out two different colors in the skirt or pants. Your sweaters can be paired with your dresses, pants or skirts. Both tailored and soft-looking blouses go well with sweaters.

Of course, we have been assuming that all the garments in your closet are in a wearable condition. I'm afraid most of us would have to do a little refurbishing—letting out seams, lowering hemlines, changing buttons, getting a new belt or something.

Slips which are too short can be utilized by making them into half slips or by making either adults or children's panties. Commercial patterns can be purchased, but the best fit is obtained by ripping up an old pair of panties to use as a pattern.

Your mind is probably buzzing with ideas for extending your own wardrobe. The next time you think you have "nothing to wear," let your imagination run wild. Reach into the closet and put those garments which have been merely "decorating hangers" to work. Enjoy your new found wardrobe!

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian

The George E. Allen Library is eager to have all those interested in tracing their family histories join in the work-day planned for Friday, May 23. The Northeast Mississippi Genealogical Society will send a number of their members with a large collection of materials to which we don't usually have access.

Researchers who have exhausted sources here will find new books and ap proaches and may wish to contribute to other workers from their own experience. Your materials will be welcome.

Those who are beginning genealogical searches, even those who are in their teens and earlier, will find help in getting started. We encourage these in particular to be at the library at 9 a.m. for a learning session.

The "come as you can and work as you wish" plans are for a day from nine until five and you may bring your lunch if you wish. Beverages will be furnished.

When you begin your search for work, a good place to start looking is with the local Employment Service, he said. The measure applies with equal concern in the case of boating accidents by requiring the operator of any vessel involved in a boating accident to remain at the scene of such an accident until he has rendered all necessary aid and assistance including transporting the victim to a source of medical assistance. It further includes other emergency situations where aid or rescue and desirable and important.

While these provisions fall short of mandatory aid to various victims in public places, the time may yet come when no citizen has an inherent right to turn aside and refuse aid to another human victim of accident, illness or crime when a helping hand is obviously needed then and there.

Retirement—These people have not received additional benefits since 1973. This was much needed legislation for them.

(6) Teacher Pay Raise—The teachers will receive a substantial increase in pay depending on what scale they are and how many years of teaching. Some teachers have been concerned and upset with this measure as of late and thought they were being considered last. This is simply not true. We first voted on this 6-7 weeks ago.

It should be pointed out that the teacher pay provision is included in the entire minimum foundation program. This program is the largest single item in our budget. As a matter of fact, education itself accounts for approximately two-thirds (66 percent) of every state tax dollar. The pay raise was never in jeopardy, but provisions and fringe benefits included with it were.

I hated to see a measure to provide additional support for transportation fall short of approval. This is an area in the minimum foundation program that we, as legislators, must address early in next year's session.

On another note, a bill I introduced and worked closely on with Rep. Billy McCoy of Rienzi, passed and was signed by the governor.

This was an act to provide for felony penalties for anyone altering, mutilating, or changing identification numbers on vehicles and farm equipment. I feel it was a much needed bill to aid law enforcement in our area and the whole State.

I appreciate your concern and consideration this year during the session. If I can be of further help during the "off season", please let me know.

SHAPE—UP TO SHOP

Clothes shopping is an art that anyone can learn. The sooner you do, the more money you will save. And never again will you stand in front of a closet full of clothes and wail, "I haven't a thing to wear!"

The following tips will help you become a smart shopper.

(1) Make a list. When you plan to buy more than one or two items, make a list. You won't forget anything, and being specific can save much time. Check your closet first to make sure the new clothes will go with what you already have.

(2) Do you need it or want it? Knowing the difference between needing something and wanting it is another way to save money.

(3) Co-ordinate styles and colors. That purple shirt is just great, but what will it go with? Smart shoppers don't the clothes they already have or plan to buy.

(4) Shop at reputable stores. It's a good idea to go to stores you know or those that have been recommended by friends. Sometimes that highly advertised store is a rip-off.

(5) Try before you buy. Most clothing stores allow you to try on clothes before you buy them. Take advantage of that service. Trying clothes on first is a good way to make sure all the buttons are there and

(6) Consider wearability. Where do you plan to wear those new shoes? If they are for school, you'll want a good pair that fit properly and will last a long time. If they are summer sandals, you might not need the same kind of durability. This is true for all types of clothing. Knowing exactly what you want clothes for will help determine the wearability you need.

(7) Beware of fads. It's fun to be among the first to have the latest style in pants, coats, shoes or whatever, but sometimes fashions are fads. You can waste money on clothes if you buy every fad that comes along.

County Forestry Report

After a landowner has received a management plan on his property how can the Mississippi Forestry Commission help him? After careful study of the plan with your county forester and after an inspection of your property, you can obtain a workable knowledge of where the problems lie and what needs to be done.

Since tree planting, timber stand improvement, and certain types of site preparation work are seasonal, it is much to the landowners advantage to start planning this year what he would like to accomplish next year. The Forestry Commission has three nurseries which grow hardwood and pine seedlings for sale to Mississippi landowners.

The capacity of these nurseries is limited, so seedlings for planting in January or February must be ordered in July and August. Many times areas to be planted in the winter should be burned in the fall to reduce competing vegetation, hardwood sprouts, and reduce fire hazard for a year.

Heavy site preparation, such as dozer work or discing, needs to be done in the summer or early fall before rainy weather begins.

There is another very important reason for planning forestry work well in advance. Presently, there are three cost-share programs available to assist landowners in such jobs as tree planting, site preparation work, improving existing timber stands, and establishing permanent fire roads and lanes.

Two of these programs are Federally funded through the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). The other program is funded by a severance tax on forestry industry.

This state program was actually begun by the forestry industries voting to tax themselves to help private landowners put their woodlands into production. All three of the programs mentioned may pay up to 75 percent of establishing and improving timber stands.

Applying for and securing these funds is a lengthy procedure, but your county forester handles many such cases each year so he can explain the procedure you need to follow as well as help you understand the terms used and the paper work involved. In most cases your county forester will be checking performance on the federal programs and always on the state programs.

After you have planned your work well in advance, ordered your seedlings, and applied for and been approved cost-share assistance you are ready to go to work. Your county forester can supply you with a list of vendors who do such work as three planting, TSI, and site preparation.

If you would like to start a program to improve your woodlands or if you need help in getting forest work done, contact the local office of the Mississippi Forestry Commission by visiting our office in the back left-hand side of the Bank of Commerce Building or by calling 728-6835.

Ryan Hand Wins State Pole Vaulting Crown

Booneville High School's Ryan Hand took the State's top Pole Vaulting honors here Saturday with a first place finish in the State Track Meet held in Jackson. Hand took the coveted first place laurels with a leap of 11'6", a leap he has easily bettered this season. Hand's first place tilt climaxes an almost perfect season on the track and field circuits. Of the seven meets this season (including Saturday's State meet) the Booneville performer has finished first in six of those including first places in both the District and North Half events. The Booneville star has claimed victories this year in the Bulldog Relays at Aberdeen; the Gazette Relays at New Albany; The Tupelo Daily Journal Relays at Noble Stadium; the District and North Half Relays at Aberdeen and Tupelo respectively; and claimaxed the season with Saturday's first place finish in the State Meet. Ryan holds a number of records in pole vaulting events across North Mississippi. Including among those are the Daily Journal Relays record set last year with a 12'3" mark; last year's Tombigbee Relay with a remarkable 12'7" jump which falls just one fourth inch off the State overall record. Ryan plans to further his ability in the pole vaulting circuits by attending a special pole vaulting camp this summer in Florida. The local lad says he plans to do even better at Booneville High School next season and hopes to break the State Record.

May 25 Opens Northeast Camp Season

Northeast athletic director and head football coach Bill Ward said here Tuesday that the final plans had been made for the first two summer camps which start May 25-May 30.

Both the Jr. Sr. football camp along with the junior boys basketball camps cranks into gear on the May 25 starting date.

It is official that Ole Miss famed punter and All-

Who Will Win?

Bernie Moore

Trophy Eyed

BIRMINGHAM, AL (Sp)—The race for the 1979-80 Bernie Moore Trophy, symbol of the best all-around sports program in the Southeastern Conference, has seven schools with a solid chance to win as they compete in spring sports championships.

Following the fall and winter seasons (football, basketball, wrestling, swimming, cross-country and indoor track) LSU, the defending champion, was out front with 32 3/4 points, followed by Kentucky with 31 1/2, Tennessee 31 1/4, Alabama 27 3/4, Georgia 27 1/4, Auburn 24 and Florida 16. Ole Miss has scored 11 3/4 points, Vanderbilt 9 and Miss. State 8 1/2.

American Jim Miller of Ripley will be one of the guest instructors in the football camp along with other area coaches and the Northeast football staff.

This year's football camp will stress punting, passing and receiving. Coach Ward said he felt like more emphasis should be put on these phases of the game.

A host of area high school coaches will be on hand for this year's basketball camp according to Northeast head boys coach Noel Akins.

Akins said he was pleased that the area coaches had agreed to help with the camps. "We like to get our area high school coaches working with our program," Akins said. "Most of them usually bring some of their kids with them and this helps them train them for junior college play as well as prepares them better for their upcoming seasons."

The May 25-30 basketball camp will be for all junior high performers interested in improving their basketball skills.

Former professional basketball star Bailey

Howell will again be on hand to help with the campers along with a host of area high school mentors.

Expected to work with coach Akins on the camps are coaches Johnny Knighton, Rickey Howell, Tom McKnight, Malcolm Kuykendall, Janet Doom, Bill Horton, Tommy Gunn, Gary Miller, Harvey Childers, plus several Northeast Tiger players.

Both the junior-senior football camp and the Jr. high boys basketball camps will officially open the summer session May 25-30.

The camps return June 1-6 with the junior-senior girls basketball camp along with the annual summer tennis camps.

The senior boys basketball camp then finalizes the camp season and gets underway June 8-13.

Coach Ward said he hoped anyone who hasn't signed up for the camps will do so and added that this year's camps appear to be even bigger than ever.

Rural Life Museum Being Built

The Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum Foundation has received contributions totaling more than $145,000 toward establishing a state rural life museum, according to Commissioner Jim Buck Ross, Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

The museum exhibition building, a 32,000 square foot structure is under construction now on a 39-acre site donated by the city of Jackson.

Progress on the initial construction phase of the museum on Lakeland Drive is on schedule and a completion date is targeted for this fall, according to Bruce Hartfield, director of the Museum Division of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

Funded by an appropriation of $1.5 million by the 1978 Mississippi Legislature, the building will house reception and orientation areas as well as numerous exhibits depicting the rural history of the Magnolia State.

More financing is being sought through a statewide fund-raising campaign, conducted by the Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum Foundation, to complete the facility.

"When the museum is completed, visitors touring the facility will be able to step into time periods dating back to the state's prehistory," Hartfield said, "then move progressively through its stages of rural development up to the present."

An additional 1.5 million dollars are needed to complete the large facility which will provide many entertaining, as well as educational displays.

Ross, who conceived the museum idea, said that money received in contributions is being invested in certificates of deposit to draw interest while the funding goal is being reached. As soon as the exhibition building is completed, further plans and work will be initiated to keep the project in motion.

"This is why all proud Mississippians who are interested in helping to preserve the rich heritage handed down by past generations are being asked to send their contributions as early as possible," Ross explained. "Every person, contributing according to their means, will provide adequate funds for completion of the museum complex in a relatively short time."

Museum plans call for a working old-time blacksmith shop, a cane mill, saw mill, and displays and exhibits professionally designed to effectively reveal the history of Mississippi's rural past. Every segment, including phases of pioneer farm life and the forest industry, will make it among the best museums to be found anywhere, and it will be utilized for the benefit of all Mississippians, Ross said.

"While many exhibits will feature displays of numerous artifacts, others will use techniques similar to those which have made attractions like Disney World and Six Flags Over Texas so popular," Hartfield explained. He continued, "The history of our state's progress in agriculture and forestry is truly an exciting story and exhibits such as the ones we are planning will make a visit to the museum an exciting and very worthwhile experience."

The museum fund-raising campaign is gaining momentum, according to Hartfield, and a majority of the counties have formed local committees to assist in the effort, while others are in the process of organizing.

He stated that many persons, statewide, have already sent their contributions, and some of them have pledged more during the next few years. Contributions may be made in honor of individuals, families, or other groups designated by the donor.

"We are finding that Mississippians all over the state are proud of the rural heritage handed down by their forefathers. The museum offers them the opportunity to preserve that heritage for their children and future generations," Hartfield declared.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the museum project may contact any of the local worker or mail it to: Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum Foundation, P.O. Box 1609, Jackson, Mississippi 39205. All monetary contributions are tax-deductible, Hartfield said.

HELPING HAND—Volunteer inmates from the state satellite prison in Corinth have been in Booneville recently providing manpower for projects of the local Community Action Agency. All the prisoners involved in the program are in the last few months of their sentences. Shown constructing a greenhouse at the site of Second District Supervisor J.P. Davis' equipment shed are (from left) Robert Bearden, Jacky Weatherford, Mrs. William Anderson of the Community Action Agency, Dan Bearden, Terry Johns, and Charles Moore. Mrs. Anderson said that the greenhouse will be used to grow plants to give to low income people.

Blood Pressure Program Underway

Some 4,200 Prentiss Countians are thought to have hypertension, an unhealthy high pressure exerted by the blood within the arteries, according to the Mississippi State Board of Health. Another 3,000 are borderline hypertensive.

During May, National High Blood Pressure Month, the state public health agency is conducting an intensive effort to find people with high blood pressure and help get this major contributor to heart disease and stroke under control.

The effort started within the agency.

Dr. Charles A. Cook, medical director of the Statewide Hypertension Control Project, said every State Board of Health employee was invited to take part in a massive screening project at the central office in Jackson and in the nine district and 81 county offices. Besides helping hypertensives discover their disease, the project will provide "solid facts" on the presence of high blood pressure among agency employees.

"Many people don't even know they have high blood pressure," Dr. Cook said. "Some people think they can tell when their blood pressure is up; they think the condition produces such clear-cut symptoms as dizziness and headaches. Because of this mistaken belief, patients sometimes neglect their doctors' instructions to take their medicine every day; instead, they take their medicine as if it were aspirin, for the relief of symptoms."

"The fact is, the only way for somebody to know if his blood pressure is up is to have it measured by one especially trained to do so," Dr. Cook emphasized.

"High blood pressure is painless," the physician added. "It has no symptoms when it begins doing damage. The only way to treat high blood pressure is to follow treatment every day."

Most hypertension patients must take daily medication throughout life. Additionally, the doctor may recommend such other changes as cutting down on salt, losing weight, quitting cigarette smoking, and getting more exercise to help the medicine work more effectively.

High blood pressure can affect any one of any age or any race. But health professionals have identified certain groups of people as more likely than others to have hypertension: the elderly, poor, medically underserved, and blacks.

The problem is particularly acute in Mississippi, which has the lowest per capita income in the nation and a large black population. Almost 30 per cent of the state's black population and 20 per cent of the white population do not have a physician whom they see regularly. The state has the lowest physician to population and nurse to population ratios of any state in the nation.

In Mississippi, more than 450,000 people (35 per cent of the population over 10 years of age) are thought to have high blood pressure. The state's rate of hypertensive heart disease is twice the national rate.

While efforts during May are focused on finding and treating people with high blood pressure, the State Board of Health effort year 'round is aimed at controlling hypertension.

Controlling what is probably the most important public health problem in the United States involves the patient, his family, and his physician, nurse, pharmacist, and other health professionals. It requires remembering every day that high blood pressure can be controlled, but it must be treated for life.

Prentiss County residents may learn whether they have high blood pressure through the free screening program at the Prentiss County Health Department. Readers may telephone 728-3518 and for more information. Clinic days are Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 5 p.m.

UM ALUMNI SEMINAR—Attending a recent alumni seminar at the University of Mississippi were (from left) Marion Smith of Natchez, Stacy Davidson of Cleveland, J.D. Pugh of Columbus, Linda Duckworth of Booneville, Herbert Rogers III of New Albany and LeRoy Francis of Meridian.

The annual seminar is designed for alumni association officers, and for chairmen of local chapters, county alumni recruiting committees, and county Share-a-Scholar programs. The meeting was sponsored by the Ole Miss Alumni Association.

Family Fun Weekend Is Planned

A weekend of family fun is planned at J.P. Coleman State Park May 24-25, according to Park Manager Ron Harwood.

The activities will include something for every member of the family, he said.

"Some 32 booths will be open with exhibitors showing needle work, macrame, ceramics and other crafts," he said. The theme of the crafts display is "Reflections of the 70's."

On Saturday afternoon a full slate of field events is scheduled for the young people, Harwood said.

"Sunday afternoon's feature attraction will be a gospel music concert," he said. "Several outstanding gospel groups from the area will perform."

J.P. Coleman State Park is located along the Tennessee River, 13 miles north of Iuka off Mississippi Highway 25. Cabins, motel units, camping pads and a restaurant are available, in addition to a full service marina.

For more information, contact Harwood at 423-6515.

MEET LI'L ABNER—Members of the Hill's Chapel AIM (Accelerated Intellectual Movement) class attended a recent showing of the musical "Li'l Abner," presented by the Departments of Music and Speech at Northeast Junior College. THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Take Another Look"

By C. D. Edge

Are you just a little weary of the place where you are? Your job? Your house? Your Car? Maybe even that wife or husband as the case may be. Better take a second look and remember the incident recorded below.

There was once a farmer who, having lived on the same farm all his life, grew tired of it and desperately craved a change. He subjected everything on the farm to his own blind and merciless criticism, and at last decided that he would sell and buy another more to his liking.

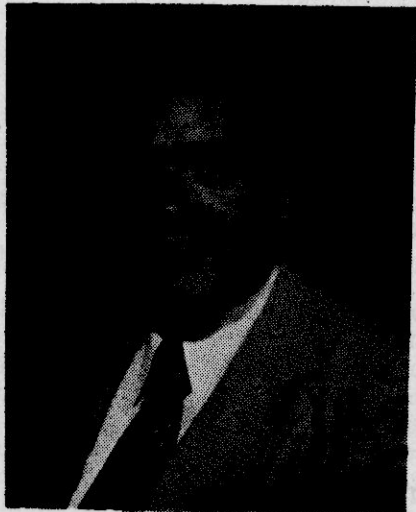

He listed the farm with the Realtor who at once prepared a sales advertisement for the newspaper. Before giving it to the newspaper, he read over to the farmer the very flattering description of the property which he had prepared. He wrote of the farms advantages, its ideal location, its up to date equipment, its fertile fields, and its well-bred stock.

Wait a minute, said the farmer, read that again, and take it slow. Again the description was read.

Changed my mind, said the farmer. I'm not going to sell. All my life I've been looking for a place like that.

Paul the Apostle in the sixth chapter of 1st Timothy reminds all of us that we are to be content. In verses 6 thru 8 he says-GODLINESS WITH CONTENTMENT IS GREAT GAIN. FOR WE BROUGHT NOTHING INTO THIS WORLD AND IT IS CERTAIN WE CAN CARRY NOTHING OUT. AND HAVING FOOD AND RAIMENT LET US BE THEREWITH CONTENT.

Bad Year For Lowland Farms

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation

For delta oldtimers it is old hat to crop the high ground and watch the low ground lie under water well into the year. It has happened plenty of times before, and they know it will happen again and again. The only uncertainty is the timing.

But for the new breed who have mostly grown up during a relatively dry cycle of years, it is a little harder to take—this spring flooding despite decades of drainage improvements by local farmers working together in drainage districts and by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

In 1980 some 30,000 acres of Mississippi delta rowcrop land will go unplanted because of providential hindrance in the form of rain and more rain. Rain gauges have measured from 26 to 27 inches of rainfall in parts of the drainage area since March 5—more than double the average of 11½ inches the area has received in the past since records have been kept.

Farmers who have cleared lowlands for agricultural purposes have done so with the realization that it is a gamble which they usually win. Even most spring flooding moves on downstream through the Yazoo and Mississippi Rivers leaving them to hurriedly prepare and plant soybeans which do quite well on the well watered bottomlands. The gamble has prospered them far better than the racetracks or lotteries of other parts.

But this year the odds are stacked against them. They should go fishing and forget about it. Here's why.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reports from the district office at Vicksburg that the level of water in the four north Mississippi reservoirs—Arkabutla, Sardis, Enid and Grenada—must be constantly lowered to the capacity of the river systems below them in order to avert possible trouble from rains that yet likely will come.

The two northernmost reservoirs—Arkabutla and Sardis—are currently holding 85 percent of their capacity. Enid is 92 percent full while Grenada is pouring a column of water two feet deep out of its 100 foot wide spillway.

This surplus of water will prevent the usual drain down of water that is ponding in the central delta lowlands of Leflore, Tallahatchie, Humphreys and Quitman counties. Several drainage strictures along the way slow the waters' recession. So it will sitay there and crops will not be planted.

The picture is considerably brighter however in the lower Yazoo basin where the Mississippi River is expected to fall rather rapidly during the first two weeks of May—provided new rainstorms don't interfere. As you read this column the Mississippi River at Vicksburg will probably be down by some ten feet. At Greenwood the Yazoo River is expected to fall by about five feet to 27 feet on the gauge and then be greatly at the mercy of the release of waters from the reservoirs.

In a report to delta farmers at Greenwood last week the Corps reported that the portion of the Yazoo basin project already complete has significantly reduced damages to cropland in the basin by lowering peak stages and duration of flooding.

This disclaimer was added: "With all the additional works now authorized, flooding will not be totally eliminated. Some lower lying lands will continue to flood periodically, even after authorized works are completed."

Farmers below the reservoirs are not the only ones hurting this year. Daily the corps office in Vicksburg has been getting telephone calls from concerned farmers above the dams asking them to lower the lake levels in order to draw water off of their croplands as farmers below the dams ask that floodgates of the reservoirs be closed to impound water that is overflowing their fields.

Meanwhile the Corps continues to manage the water and its release of same for maximum efficiency in reduction of peak stage and duration of flooding on agricultural lands.

And farmers find that they must either switch to higher ground or take their chances as usual with spring floods.

MESC Tests Ruled Okay

JACKSON—Officials of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission (MESC) say that a recent federal court ruling on the use of Employment Service tests will have a beneficial effect for employers.

In a March ruling, U.S. District Judge Orma R. Smith found that the tests are fair, properly validated, and properly administered, and that they meet Equal Employment Opportunity Commission guidelines. Smith's decision came in a class-action suit brought against the MESC, charging that the tests discriminated against blacks and women.

According to MESC Executive Director Edgar C. Lloyd, Jr., some employers have been hesitant to use the ES aptitude-testing services because they feared charges of discrimination. Lloyd says the court ruling should allay any fears that the tests are discriminatory or invalid.

The Mississippi Job Service administers tests developed by the U.S. Employment Service for a wide range of occupations. Many employers find the testing service a valuable tool in helping to select applicants who have the necessary aptitudes for a given job.
