Corridor Study

COMPUTER MODELS—In a public meeting Monday night at Northeast Junior College, Dick Winter of Argonne National Laboratory of Argonne, Ill., gives examples from an economic pilot study of five counties along the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. Winter's presentation was part of a meeting designed to inform the public about the $5 million Tenn-Tom Corridor Study currently being undertaken by the Army Corps of Engineers. The study is scheduled for completion in 1984.

Public Meeting Introduces Tenn-Tom Corridor Study

The potential for economic development of the cities and counties along the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway was addressed during a public meeting conducted Monday night by the Army Corps of Engineers at Northeast Junior College. Almost 70 people, including mayors, supervisors, city and county planners, various government agencies' representatives, and interested citizens, attended the meeting. Its purpose was to acquaint citizens with the Tennessee-Tombigbee Corridor Study, which is being conducted by the Mobile and Nashville Districts of the Corps at a cost of $5 million.

Study manager Joe Birindelli of the Mobile District conducted the meeting Monday night. He said the federally funded Corridor Study will assess potential impacts of the Tennessee Waterway upon 48 counties in four states—Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky—and identify needs of those counties.

The study will provide resources to state and local planners to enable them better to prepare for the many changes that the Tenn-Tom likely will bring to the corridor, he said.

Figures Questioned

Census Shows City's Population Down

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Editor

It doesn't quite make sense.

That's the way some city officials are looking at the latest population figures from the Census Bureau.

A strange series of events have led the city from an early Census Bureau estimate this summer of a population of 6,631 (an increase of 12.5 percent over the 1970 figure of 5,895) to the latest population figure for the city of 5,600 (a decrease of 5 percent from the 1970 figure).

In what, at least on the surface, appears to be a somewhat contradictory note, the latest Census Bureau figures on housing units available in Booneville show an increase of 3.1 percent in the total number of housing units—from 2,159 units in 1970 to 2,227 units in 1980.

The original 1980 population figure of 6,631 was termed a "local review" figure, which the Census Bureau defines as "unofficial working figures from an interim count." The Bureau says this interim count is "primarily a housing count."

Shortly after Mayor Charles Crabb received this first figure (6,631) from the Census Bureau, it was revised to 6,170, the mayor said. He said he was told this revision was due to "a malfunction of the computer" in compiling the original figure.

Now the latest figures from the Census Bureau say the population of the city dropped to 5,600. This figure is termed a "preliminary" figure by the Bureau.

Preliminary figures are defined as "the first official population and housing counts." These preliminary figures were hand-tallied by the district Census office in Tupelo, which has since closed.

The third and final set of population figures from the Census Bureau will be released in 1981 and are called "final" figures, defined as "a refined version of the preliminary figures and may differ from them."

These final figures are the ones which are entered into the Census Bureau's computers in Suitland, Md. They are the figures on which many of the various revenue sharing and other funds the city receives will be based.

Although a statement last week from the Regional Census Center in Dallas, Texas, said the final figures may differ from the preliminary figures, Paula Wright of that office told the Banner-Independent by telephone Tuesday that it is unlikely these preliminary figures will change.

"They (the figures) are always released first as preliminary simply because if there has been some typographical error, we can correct it before the official figures go down (in the computer)," she said. "But, actually, all these numbers we are talking about now have been through a local review, so they should be pretty well finalized numbers."

In the local review cited by Ms. Wright, Mayor Crabb attempted to get the original figure of 6,631 (the only figure he had received at that time) increased to 7,000, which he said he felt was a

Shoplifting:

Merchants Combat Seasonal Problem

Shoplifting, a year-round problem with retail businesses, becomes more acute during the Christmas season. And Booneville merchants are taking extra steps to combat what is expected to be the biggest season for shoplifters in many years because of tight money and inflation.

Not only are extra efforts being made locally, but Gov. William Winter has proclaimed December Shoplifting Prevention Month.

Among steps being taken locally to combat the crime is attendance at a special seminar being conducted by the Continuing Education Department at Northeast Mississippi Junior College.

The program, to be held Tuesday, Dec. 9, deals primarily with prevention. It consists of a film and lecture showing sales personnel how to spot shoplifters and the proper method of apprehension.

Opal Melvin, head of the Continuing education

Department, said the Tuesday night session has already been filled, but if there is enough demand, the program will be repeated Thursday night. Anyone interested in attending may call her at 728-7751.

A check with local merchants indicates they are more concerned than ever about the crime of shoplifting and are making plans to hold it to a minimum. All businesses are encouraging their employees to be especially watchful and to be sure and report all incidents immediately. Methods of detection and apprehension have been discussed at formal and informal meetings for several weeks.

Marshall Dickerson, president of the Uptown Association, indicated that all merchants are dedicated to prosecution of offenders.

"This means," Dickerson said, "anyone convicted will have a criminal record which will have an adverse effect on their employment." (Continued on Page 11)

Visiting Hours

Changed At

County Jail

Effective immediately, visiting hours at the Prentiss County Jail will be from noon until 4 p.m. on Sundays and from 4 to 8 p.m. on Tuesdays, a spokesman for the Prentiss County Sheriff's Office said Tuesday afternoon.

These new times replace the old visiting hours—8 a.m. to noon on Sunday and all day Tuesday—which are no longer effective.

Letters To Santa

With only three weeks left until Christmas, it is once again time for Prentiss County boys and girls to write their letters to Santa.

As in the past, the Banner-Independent plans to publish letters to Santa Claus in the annual Christmas edition of the paper. Since there will only be two more issues of the paper before the Christmas edition, it is important that these letters be written as soon as possible.

If you would like for your letter to appear in the Banner-Independent so Santa can read it in the paper, sign your letter, including your full name, address and age, and mail the letter to Santa Claus, c/o The Banner-Independent, P.O. Box 269, Booneville, MS 38829.

In order to appear in the Christmas edition of the paper, all letters must be in by Wednesday, Dec. 17. If we receive any letters to Santa after that date, they will not appear in the paper, but we will forward them to Santa at the North Pole so that he will still see every letter.

It's Tax Time Again!

If you own a business, a home, or property in Prentiss County, it's that time of year again—time to pay taxes.

The annual period when all taxes are due—personal, property, and real—is now underway, according to Prentiss County Tax Assessor and Collector Dan Childers.

Prentiss Countians can pay their taxes at Childers' office in the courthouse any time during regular office hours. Taxes can be paid through January without penalty, but after that there is a one percent per month penalty added to the bill, Childers said.

If any county residents are unable to come to the office to pay these taxes due to illness, disability or handicap, the taxes may be paid by mail, Childers said.

In order to pay by mail, the taxpayer must send a written request to Childers' office, being sure to include a return address, he said Tuesday. The office will then send the taxpayer a statement on how much taxes are owed.

Homestead applications can also be handled by mail, Childers said, if a written request with a return address is sent. (Continued on Page 3)

Christmas Parade Set For Today At 6 p.m.

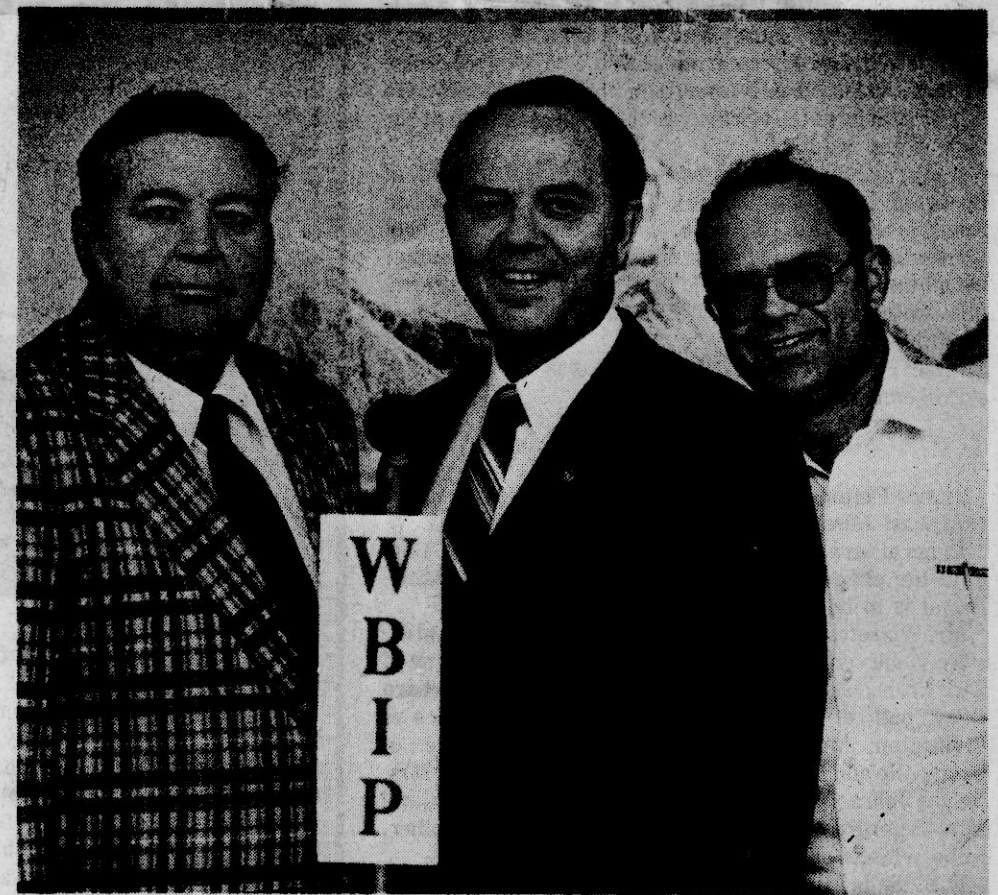

Booneville's 1980 Christmas Parade is scheduled to begin tonight at 6 with a large turnout of floats and bands expected.

A tentative list of parade participants earlier this week showed a total of 31 participants (not including the two police escorts) have signed up to appear in the parade. This includes eight bands and at least two entrants in each of the float categories—church and youth floats, school floats, commercial floats and civic floats.

Those participating in the parade are asked to meet in the Prentiss Manufacturing Company's parking lot on Adams and First streets at 5:15 p.m.

THREE GOODFELLOWS—Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb (center), and R.J. "Piggy" Bonds (left) and Harold Campbell, both of radio station WBIP in Booneville, will be hosting the 31st annual Goodfellows Program this Saturday night at the American Legion building, beginning at 8 p.m. This year's program is being dedicated to the memory of former mayor Marion W. Smith, who was a major supporter of the Goodfellows Program for many years.

Local Goodfellows Program Set For This Saturday

The 31st annual Goodfellow Fund Raising Program will get underway at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, at the American Legion building.

Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb said this week that this year's program is being dedicated to the memory of former Booneville Mayor Marion W. Smith, a long time supporter of the Goodfellow program, died this past summer.

As usual, Booneville radio station WBIP will broadcast the Goodfellow Program.

Harold Campbell of WBIP has lined up several groups and individuals to perform at Saturday's fund raiser. Performers so far include two gospel groups—The Seekers Quartet and The Singing Hills—as well as The Country Sounds and Rusty Martin.

In addition to the entertainment, the audience—both at the Legion building and listening on the radio—will be able to bid on donated items, such as home-baked cakes, hams, homemade quilts, and other items.

The goal for this year's program has been set at $3,000. Last year's goal was $2,500, but Mayor Crabb said the additional money is needed to keep up with inflation.

Volunteers will be manning telephones to take pledges during the program. The telephone numbers to call to make a pledge

Saturday night are 728-9970 and 728-9975.

Mayor Crabb also said that advance gifts or donations may be made at any of the city's banks or at the City Hall.

Funds raised by the Goodfellows are used all year to provide financial help to needy Prentiss County families and individuals. This help comes in the form of Christmas food baskets, clothing, groceries, financial aid to those who have suffered from the loss of their homes due to fire or other disasters, medicines and other needed goods and services for residents and transients.

Another Candidate Qualifies

As of press time Wednesday, one more candidate had qualified to run in the city's special election for the alderman-at-large post previously held by J.W. Timbes.

City Clerk June Hutcheson said Tuesday that Keith Shackelford had qualified to run in the city election set for Dec. 27. Willie D. Jumper, the only other candidate so far, had qualified previously.

The deadline for candidates to qualify is Dec. 17, ten days prior to the election.

If no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast in the election, a runoff election will be held one week later.

At NEM Hospital

Joint Commission Accreditation Standards Met

By CARL BARKER
Hospital Administrator

Recently, the Board of Trustees of NEMH received notice that the hospital had been approved for a full two-year accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation for Hospitals. The hospital had been surveyed by a four-member survey team made up of a hospital administrator, a medical doctor, a registered nurse, and a medical technologist. All departments were reviewed.

The purpose of JCAH as stated in their manual is:

(1) To establish standards for the operation of hospitals and other health-related facilities and services;

(2) To conduct survey and accreditation programs that will encourage members of the health profession, hospitals, and other health-related facilities and services voluntarily:

(A) To promote high quality of care in all aspects in order to give patients the optimal benefits that medical science has to offer,

(B) To apply certain basic principles of physical plant safety and maintenance, and of organization and administration of function for efficient care of the patient, and

(C) To maintain the essential services in the facilities through coordinated effort of the organized staffs and the governing bodies of the facilities;

(3) To recognize compliance with standards by issuance of certificates of accreditation;

(4) To conduct programs of education and research, and publish the results thereof, which will further the other purposes of the corporation, and to accept grants, gifts, bequests, and devices in support of the purposes of the corporation; and

(5) To assume such other responsibilities and to conduct such other activities as are compatible with the operation of such standard-setting, survey and accreditation program.

The JCAH is an outgrowth of the Hospital Standardization Program established by the American College of Surgeons in 1918 to encourage the adoption of a uniform medical record format that would facilitate the accurate recording of the patient's clinical course. The American College of Surgeons recognized the need for a system of standardization that would provide a means of identifying those institutions devoted to the highest ideals of medicine.

The founding members of the JCAH were the American College of Surgeons, the American College of Physicians, the American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association, and the Canadian Medical Association. The Canadian Medical Association continued its participation in the JCAH until 1959 when the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation activated its own program. The American Dental Association became a corporate member of the JCAH in 1979.

In 1965, Public Law 89-97 (Medicare) was enacted. Reference to the JCAH in this law represented the confidence of Congress in the ability of the health care sector to voluntarily assess the quality of care being provided. One result of the 1965 Medicare legislation was that hospitals accredited by the JCAH were automatically "deemed" to be in compliance with the federal Medicare "Conditions of Participation for Hospitals" and, thus, deemed to be eligible for participation in Medicare.

All JCAH standards have certain characteristics: They are valid, that is, they relate to the quality of care or services provided; they are optimal within available resources, reflecting the highest state of the art; they are achievable, meaning that compliance with them has been demonstrated in an existing facility; and, compliance with them is measurable.

The JCAH assumes the role of evaluator, consultant and educator. Its function is to help hospitals identify both their strengths and weaknesses in regard to JCAH standards, and to provide guidelines for improvement through consultation and education. A request by a hospital for a survey signifies a professionally motivated, voluntary commitment to self-evaluation and self-improvement.

Of paramount importance to the voluntary approach, is the continuing examination, the appropriate revision, the proper implementation of these standards. As a result of its responsiveness to the needs of hospitals and their patients, the JCAH remains in the forefront of those dedicated to the evaluation and improvement of the quality of health care in the United States.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

WARD HOGLAND

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, what does Paul mean when he says, "Prove all things?"

ANSWER: This text found in 1 Thess. 5:21 is a good one. The only way to prove the rightness of things in the area of religion is to go to the Bible, the only true standard. If the Bible "proves" what we are doing is right, then no man can argue against it successfully. If, on the other hand, the Bible proves our activity wrong, it is our responsibility to change our activity to conform to the will of God. This is what happens when one is converted. He realizes up to this point that his life does not conform to the Bible. He is willing to change his life in harmony with the Bible. Remember we "Prove all things" by finding it in the Bible. You will find a command or statement, an approved example or necessary inference for all that God wants you to do. The word "prove" is translated from an assayer's term and the very connotation of the word requires very close scrutiny. In the old west there was a thing called "Fool's gold" which deceived many people. The same is true in religion.

Paving The Way

NON-TRADITIONAL STUDENT—Guy Windham, the first male to enroll in the vocational office training program at the Prentiss County Vocational Technical School, uses a computerized typesetter as one of his jobs while at the Banner-Independent. Guy was introduced to this type of work through the cooperative vocational office training program. He was also recently featured in a poster for the Vo-Tech, declaring "Business and Office is for 'Guys' as well as gals."

'Non-Traditional' Student Breaks New Ground

Over a year ago Guy Windham was a "non-traditional" student at the Prentiss County Vocational-Technical Center. While at the center he enrolled in a course that had previously been filled by females. As the first male to enroll in the course, he became a "non-traditional" student.

Today he is a sophomore at Northeast Mississippi Junior College majoring in business education and he says his experience as a non-traditional student continues to help him.

Windham was enrolled in cooperative vocational office training at the Prentiss County Vo-Tech Center during his junior and senior years. He began working at the Banner-Independent newspaper office while in high school as a part of the co-op program.

The cooperative vocational office training program is sponsored by the Vocational and Technical Division of the State Department of Education.

"I have worked during the summer for the past three years," he said, "and the job is a direct result of my participation in the non-traditional course."

"I have enjoyed working at the newspaper office and have received much satisfaction from my job," Windham said. "My employer and co-workers have always encouraged me to use my skills in typewriting and proofreading and have assisted me and encouraged me to do my best."

According to Windham, Mrs. Laura Cartwright, cooperative VOT coordinator, made the program successful through her encouragement and guidance. She also learned what it was like to have a non-traditional student in her class.

"I remember that we were preparing for family night at the school," he said, "and Mrs. Cartwright told the class to be sure and wear dresses. I told her I wasn't planning to wear a dress to family night. I guess being the first male student in the program was not only an experience for me but for Mrs. Cartwright as well."

Windham says he felt that he was not the only male who wanted to enroll in the program and he was right. Today there are nine males studying vocational office training and intensive business training at the vocational center.

"Males were easily accepted by the females in the business and office department," said Windham. "I have found that males and females can be friends and work together if we accept what the person is and not what traditional setting he or she should be in. All it takes is respect for the individual."

Local Man Charged With Embezzlement

A Booneville man has been arrested and charged with grand larceny and embezzlement by the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department in connection with the alleged theft of a quantity of items over a period of time from a local auto parts store.

Raymond Allen Coleman of Route 5, Booneville, was arrested by the Sheriff's Department Friday, Nov. 28, and charged in connection with the incident, according to Deputy Sheriff Jack Terrell.

An estimated $3,000 to $4,000 worth of property allegedly taken over a period of time from Burns Auto Parts in Booneville were found at Coleman's home Friday, Terrell said.

The Sheriff's Department found the items by acting on

Thanksgiving—A Day For Family, Friendship And Love

On Thanksgiving Day the W.D. McCutchen family got together for a time of visiting and feasting. This year the clan met in the family Life Center of the Gaston Baptist Church.

Mrs. Pauline (McCutchen) Bailey wrote the following poem to express her feelings about the day.

The McCutchen's Thanksgiving

The nearest thing to Heaven
Is meeting with kith and kin;

The precious lovable children,
Sweet ladies, youth and mem,
Brothers, sisters, uncles and
E'ven a kessin' cousin;
Grandpas, grandmas, aunts, too,
And in-laws by the dozen.
Some have traveled from afar,
Other ones were nearer;
All have come for this event
That annually grows dearer.

Happy chatter, children's laughter,
Food befitting kings,
Picture-taking, movie-making,
Then the day takes wings.
Sun is setting; we'll be getting Back to our abode;
But we'll treasure each experience
On the homeward road.
Only once a year we see them,
So it's sad to part;
But we'll look to next November
With a thankful heart.

State Politics 'As You La'k It'

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—The revival of interest here in the state capital in Shakespearean theatre makes one contemplate how Shakespeare would have told the story of Mississippi political lore if he were around viewing this scene. Perhaps he would have done it as a tragedy, but more probable, as a comedy. As a matter of fact, with apologies to Shakespearean purists, we have set about to relate the story of a Mississippi political panorama as it might have been told by William Shakespeare:

The Title: 'As You La'k It'

The Characters: (not in order of their importance, or how important they THINK they are)

Act I

(In the Castle)

(King William at his post, Lord Edwin of Pittman enters)

William: What news do you bear, Lord Edwin?

Edwin: It is the news of the election returns, and the news is not good.

William: You mean you have the returns, and the election was only held three weeks ago? My, how quickly dost the system work these days.

Edwin: Yes, but I've been meaning to talk to you about that. I believe if we can just get carrier pigeons instead of those ox-carts to bring in the election returns, we might even improve on that.

William: Well, you must talk to Sir Buddie, the Chamberlain of the House about that. But, alas and alas, tell me the results. Did Jimmy, the Earl of Plains, win?

Edwin: No, sire, I regret to inform thee, Reagan, the Prince of Hollywood, has indeed won, as best we can tell.

William: Surely this is not so. Have the good folks from the land of Tishomingo been heard from yet? Old Tish has never failed me.

Edwin: I fear they have, sire. There is nothing we can do for Jimmy, the Earl of Plains. By the way, how much longer do you have on your term, sire?

William: Three years, Lord Edwin, why do you ask? That is, three years, unless, unless...oh here comes Lord Bradford of Dye and Sir Buddie, the Chamberlain of the House.

Buddie: Sire, I thought you told me if I voted for the Earl of Plains, I would get the water off my fields in the Valley of the Park...will I get the water off my fields now?

William: To quote a good friend, all the world's a stage, and men and women are merely players, they have their exits and their entrances...who's worrying about your water, you turkey, what about me? I was supposed to get a pass key to the Oval Office, and now word comes from that awful Mouncercrantz that I will be the last in line getting in to see Reagan, the Prince of Hollywood.

Now, Sir Buddie, we can try again next time in four years, one out of two, that's not bad, is it? Of course, it will be necessary that my term be extended so we can team up again. I'm not asking for another term, you understand, but it has been mentioned.

Bradford: Now, sire, we would not want to impose upon your generosity...and ask you to stay another term. Besides, some of us have already made our plans. I see Jim Buck, the Earl of Pelahatchie and Prince of Agriculture is just arriving. What sayest thee, dear Jim Buck?

Jim Buck: As they say in Pelahatchie, sweet are the uses of adversity...while you ambitious ones battle over the kingship, I care not for the position, for I have my own domain, where I am untouchable, and nobody keeps an eye on me.

In case any of you expects to become king, you've got to come by me, but I don't want to see you poking around in my terrain.

Buddie: Nor in mine. One of you fellows may call yourself king, but on my turf, I'm king, and don't you forget it.

William: Well, I see nothing has really changed. But if you don't behave, maybe we will bring back Cliff the Finch, and then you'll all be sorry.

Act II (In the Forest)

(Charles, Lord Mayor of Fayette, Lott, Earl of Pascagoula and Thaddeus, Duke of Cochran, meet.)

Charles: The deal, the deal is the thing. It's not for loyalty's sake that I give favor. 'Tis a matter of where best my fortunes lie. I care not for Democrat, nor Republican, but I do care much for thyself.

Lott: I am glad, dear Charles, that you, unlike your brethren, do not pale by what our new leader, Reagan of Hollywood, has said he will do once he is in the great House of White.

Besides, who needs those welfare programs and Social Security anyway? I knew Calvin Coolidge would be vindicated one day.

Thaddeus: I am not so sure how all this is going to work out, dear Lott. I hear there are a lot of poor people in this land called Mississippi. If we cut taxes, and spend a great deal more on armaments, as Reagan of Hollywood says, how are we going to help the poor folks?

Lott: Ah, dear Thaddeus, you do not have faith. It has been written for Reagan by those wise men of the West Metro-Goldwyn and Mayer, and he has the answers. And, besides, our Reagan was inspired by the greatest Duke of them all.

Thaddeus: Who was the greatest Duke of them all?

Lott: John Wayne, of course.

Wind Power Cannot Compete With Oil

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation

No way windmills can compete with Persian Gulf oil in electrifying the rural landscape!

Disappointing? Yes. But true? Positively, say researchers out in the state of Kansas where the prairie winds are as ceaseless as the accumulation of taxes to be paid.

So in the face of higher and higher prices for oil, energy planners still can't contemplate relief anytime soon by trapping the wind's energy, even in the American prairies where its constancy and velocity are legend.

The scientific facts are that more than 40 years ago, from 1932-1938, two Kansas State University electrical engineers made extensive studies of the possibilities of utilizing the state's wind energy. Yet the difficulties R.G. Kloeffer and E.L. Stiz pinpointed in their work are still with us and no solution is in sight.

Pumping water for livestock is another matter, and accounts for the century old practice of utilizing picturesque windmills out on those solitary plainscapes to turn the gears that draw a small but steady stream of water into a holding trough to water livestock.

Even in the late 19th century Kansas State researchers fiddled around with a jumbo 14 feet long by eight feet in diameter windmill designed so simply, they said, that any farmer with a hammer and saw and a little help from his blacksmith could assemble. Then, as early as 1914-1916 there followed university experiments on wind-electric plants.

Kloeffer and Stiz described their model as a large wind wheel of the multi-bladed type that was connected by stepped up gears to a generator. The whole rig was mounted atop a high tower and voltage regulation was attained through the use of relays. Around 1925 commercial wind-electric plants using two and three bladed propellers appeared on the plains market, and owners around Kansas reportedly were generally satisfied. Yet the two researchers set out to improve the operation of these plants and increase their efficiency to benefit Kansas farmsteads remotely located far from then existing power lines.

All of their research and experiments proved that while at first they could generate electricity as cheaply as with engine power using fuel, the wind power failed to give service as reliable and complete as did the engines. They summarized their findings in KSU Engineering Experiment Station Bulletin

No. 52 in 1946 as follows: "The cost of electric energy from a power line will likely range from three to six cents per kilowatt- (Continued on Page 18)

CONSUMER REPORT

BUYING WOOD

Does the price of oil, gas or electricity have you considering burning wood? You are not alone. Across the country, increasing numbers of consumers are turning to wood either to supplement or totally supply heat.

Although it has become a favored fuel, buying wood is not always a simple matter. Either buy wood from a dealer that you trust or become an educated consumer. Begin with understanding there are five things to consider when buying wood: the amount of wood, the species, the moisture content, the degree of preparation and finally, the price.

The Amount

Wood is sold by cords. A standard or full cord is a volume of 128 cubic feet, measured as a pile 8 feet long, 4 feet high, and 4 feet wide.

Other amounts are less specific: A "face cord" (or a "short cord") is a pile of wood 8 feet long, 4 feet high, and as wide as the lengths of the cut wood, usually 12, 16 or 24 inches. A "stack" of wood is a poorly defined fraction of a cord. And a "truck load" is a vague term depending on how big the dealer's truck is.

A standard pick-up will hold only one-third to one-half of a full cord. Beware of what the dealer claims to be "about" a cord, delivered in a half-ton pick-up truck. If you are not sure, stack the wood before you pay.

Species

Some species of wood are denser and give off a great deal of heat such as oak and beech. Others don't give off much heat but are easy to start—such as cedar and white pine. A cord of wood with a good mix is not a bad buy—it's handy to have some easily ignited wood for kindling and Heating on warmer days.

Moisture

Wood is usually advertised as green or unseasoned. Seasoned or dry wood will give you more heat and ignite more easily. Wet wood has a reduced heating value because some energy is required to evaporate the moisture before the wood will burn.

Since "seasoned" is a vague term, you should find out how long it has been since the wood was cut. Generally, it should be at least six months.

In the future, buy your wood in the spring or early summer to be sure it will season properly before winter. Besides, you will probably get a lower price by buying in the off-season.

Degree of Preparation

Preparing wood is labor intensive, and the price depends on how much work you are willing to do yourself. It's fairly common to buy wood in 4 or 16 foot lengths and do some of the cutting and splitting yourself. You will save a lot of money—and spend a lot of personal energy.

Other sources of wood that require varying degrees of preparation include scavenging the local tree dump, picking up windfalls on the roadside, and buying cutting rights from a private landowner.

Price

Prices for wood vary from place to place according to labor and transportation costs, supply, and demand. Shop around, try to buy when the demand is low, and be sure you understand exactly what you are buying.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

New Defense Commitment

There is a very close relationship between our nation's defense preparedness and the ability to achieve our diplomatic and foreign economic goals.

As the world changes, our Armed Forces must change in order to meet new challenges to our security and economic interests abroad.

To help strengthen our defenses, the Senate recently passed an appropriations bill providing for nearly $161 billion in new funds for the Armed Forces. This legislation appropriates 17 percent more money for defense than last year, and is $6 billion higher than the Carter administration's recommendation.

Since World War II, the emphasis of our defense and foreign policy has been on protecting our interests in Western Europe and strengthening the NATO alliance. While NATO capabilities must be improved, I believe the greatest threat of all to world peace exists, not in a European conflict, but in the small outbreaks which have occurred with increasing regularity in the Third World.

The Middle East, Asia, Africa and Latin America have become increasingly volatile in recent years.

Along with this change has come the ominous buildup of Soviet military power. The Russians have substantially increased their naval, ground and air forces, and have launched an aggressive campaign of expansion in many of the Third World areas.

They have been aided and abetted in these efforts in developing nations by the military forces of others such as Cuba and East Germany. Our allies such as Japan and the major countries of Western Europe ought to be seriously concerned about this Soviet activity, since they rely even more heavily than the United States on imported oil and strategic minerals from the developing nations to fuel their industrial economies.

I believe the Japanese and our NATO allies must begin to shoulder more of the defense burden of the Free World. Japan and West Germany have been able to concentrate their resources almost solely on economic development while the U.S. has provided the defense umbrella for those outside the Communist bloc.

As for our own country, I am particularly concerned that we build up our Navy, airlift and manpower capabilities to help keep the sealanes open and foreign markets available for commerce. The so-called Rapid Deployment Force in particular is a concept whose time has come. Our armed forces must be prepared to defend U.S. security interests, wherever the emergency occurs.

While the Russians have built up their Navy to alarming size, our own naval capability has diminished. Our active fleet is the smallest it has been since 1939. Because of our inadequacies in the area of deployment, it could take up to 30 days to place 25,000 troops in the Persian Gulf area.

I believe our Armed Forces should seek the maximum flexibility to deal with the wide range of contingencies which are likely to arise in the developing world.

We must face up to certain facts. First, the developing world is essential to U.S. national interests. Second, those interests are threatened. And, finally, we have to be prepared to make military commitments in order to defend those interests.

U.S. foreign policy, because of our preoccupation with Europe, has not reflected the true depth of the problem. The newer Third World governments are inherently unstable and the Soviet Union shows every sign of seeking to exploit these instabilities in order to gain allies and create further turmoil which would be damaging to Western interests.

In the balance hang our trading partners, international allies, sources of vital strategic materiel, and our very survival as a free nation.

Almost 40 percent of American exports go to the Third World, and about half of our imports come from the developing world and have technological and strategic importance.

I am confident that with continued allied cooperation and with continued commitment by our government to meet the challenges of a rapidly changing world, our nation will move toward a secure and peaceful future.

On Thursday, Nov. 27, families and friends gathered to count the Lord's blessings on the celebration of Thanksgiving. Despite the Middle East troubles and economic problems at home, we all found that we had plenty to be thankful for.

We have reasons to be thankful for harvest, health, homes and homecomings; for electricity, the roller-skate revival, blue jeans that fade and dreams that don't. We give our Thanksgiving praise for healing beyond hurt, for love beyond measure and life beyond life.

Now with the roast turkey, the dressing, gravy, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce and the pumpkin pie of our Thanksgiving Dinner behind us, we settle down to await the rapidly approaching Christmas holiday season.

Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Foster were Jerry Penna, Michelle, Jeff and Jared, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Foster and Susie, Olene Jackson, and Pam and Vickie Lambert. Then on Thursday the Foster's and Myrtle Cole enjoyed a meal in Iuka with The Lucian Pucketts.

Joining Mr. and Mrs. Billy Moorman for dinner on Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moorman, Shawna and Angela, and Mr. and Mrs. Dawain Brown.

Mrs. Bernice Chase joined her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dweain Johnson, for Thanksgiving. Also present were Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Chase, Lisa, Scotty and Timmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Lambert, Shane and Bradley.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Green, Bill, Bradley and Garland on Thursday night were Mrs. Travis Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Cromians, Dale Riddle, Vadie Hill, Peggy Griffin, Gena and Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Riddle, Glen and Tracy.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Morgan, Jason and Kimberly over the holiday were Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Marshall, Vance Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall and Stephanie, all of Water Valley. From Coffeeville were Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Marshall, Bryan and Chris, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Marshall and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hill.

Mrs. Eulalor Holder spent a few days in Baldwin with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holder and family. She was there for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Please call 728-4731 or 728-9563 nights with all your family news items. Get your news in by Sunday nights as the article has to be at the office on Monday morning. I would like to hear from a lot more of you folks out there.

Ted Burns, Blinda Dunaway and Brock made a trip to Ripley on Monday for trade day. It was interesting, but crowded.

Mrs. Ada Clark has been feeling a bit under the weather. We all hope she is well again soon.

New Patients Accepted By Dental Clinic

The Dental Hygiene Clinic at Northeast Junior College is now accepting patients by appointment according to Dr. Lee Eads, licensed dentist and director of the two-year program. Appointments can be made between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Monday's, Wednesday's and Thursday's, and from 12:30 until 3:30 on Tuesday afternoons by calling 728-7751 or toll free 1-728-7759, ext. 208.

The examination, which includes cleaning, oral examination, x-rays, and fluoride treatment, is conducted by dental hygiene students, under the supervision of both Dr. Eads and licensed hygienists.

"Many people do not realize that we offer such extensive patient care in our clinic," Dr. Eads commented. "Of special significance to many is that we send all records, upon request, to the patient's family dentist."

The program, one of only three in the state, has teaching facilities for approximately 12 to 15 students who receive both classroom and on-hand experience through the carefully planned curriculum.

Miss Ann Moseley, Mr. John Davis Exchange Vows

COMO, Miss.—Miss Ann Moseley Robinson of Como and John Cleveland Davis of Booneville were married Oct. 25 at the Como United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Leon Robinson of Como. The groom is the son of Basil C. Davis of St. Charles, Mo., and the late Marjorie Godwin Davis. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cleveland Godwin Sr. of Booneville.

Vows were pledged before the semi-circular altar under the stained glass dome of the old church. The church was decorated with candelabra bearing white tapers, greenery, and flowers in shades of coral, mixed with white.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride wore the same gown her maternal grandmother, Mrs. V.R. Sanford, wore 69 years earlier when she was married in the same church.

The gown, of pin tucked batiste and Guipure lace over candelight silk, was styled with a portrait neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The skirt extended to a train of lace.

Miss Robinson wore a mantilla of English net edged in Guipure lace and carried a colonial bouquet of Sonia roses and white miniature carnations.

Miss May Robinson of Como and Mrs. Steven Brown of Southaven, sisters of the bride, were her honor attendants. Her neice, Miss Jennifer Brown, was junior bridesmaid. The bride's attendants wore gowns of candelight voile and carried colonial bouquets of coral and white poms.

The Rev. Berry Whitehurst officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Lamar Smith, organist, presented a program of nuptial music, featuring a special favorite of the bride, "The Theme From Dr. Zhivago."

Stanley Smitherman of Booneville served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Hal Wright of Corinth and Jeff Wright of Booneville, cousins of the groom, and Porter Robinson of Memphis, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Robinson wore a street length dress of teal blue. The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. S.A. Law, wore a rose dress with matching jacket. Mrs. Jesse C. Godwin Sr., grandmother of the groom, wore a soft mauve pink ensemble. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Reception

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the fellowship hall of the church following the wedding.

The bride's table was

Mr. And Mrs. John Davis

covered with a white eyelet cloth and featured a four-tiered, coral wedding cake as its centerpiece. Lucinda Williams and Janet Fannon served as hostesses at the bride's table.

The groom's table was centered with a German chocolate cake decorated with the pharmacy emblem denoting the groom's profession. Vicky Allen and Jamie Goolsby served at this table.

Other hostesses assisting with the reception were Susan Irby, Joy Arnold, Lorie Gryder and Elise Pepper.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, uncles and aunts of the groom, were hosts for a rehearsal dinner given for the couple.

For the occasion, the private dining room of the Fish Net Lodge at Sardis Dam had been decorated with greenery and clusters of white tapers held by brass candlesticks of varying heights.

In addition to members of the wedding party, other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norfleet Sledge, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Robinson and the Rev. Berry Whitehurst.

Brunch

A wedding-day brunch for the bride and her family, the wedding party, and out of town guests was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Short, Mr. and Mrs. William Sledge Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Williams at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Short in Como.

The colonial-style home had been decorated throughout with a fall theme.

Dinner Party

Congratulations are extended to Mrs. Sally Gardner, together with our prayers, for her success as she once again becomes an active part of the nursing profession. Several years ago, because of illness Sally was forced to give up nursing and since that time she has lived with the hope that some day she would return.

Always looking forward to this eventuality, she has kept herself prepared and ready for that day. Sally is a successful beautician here in the community but for her the greater desire was for nursing—a desire that was granted on Monday morning as she joined the staff at Magnolia hospital in Corinth as an L.P.N. We wish for her all the best and God's blessings always.

Our heartfelt and deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. Bertha Anderson and her family and to the family of Jimmy Lee (Chicken) Fields, during this time of great sorrow and grief in your lives. Truly we feel to a great extent your loss and we share your grief, and because of this we turn to God who is able to supply all our needs, for the comfort and strength needed in the days ahead.

The Rev. Russell Howell of Sallito spoke from the subject "Counterfeit Christian," Sunday morning at Spring Hill, and brought a very interesting message to the congregation. The Rev. Howell was immediately remembered by many of the members from a previous visit six years ago when he appeared here as singer, pianist and choir director of the New Albany community choir. This is his second year in the ministry.

At Spring Hill on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 6, at 3 p.m. members of the Pastor's Aid Club will render a program in pageant form with Mrs. Marsha Ragains as the director. The public is invited.

Our prayers continue for the sick and shut in of the community. We are happy to report that William (Cassie) Rowland is home from the Tupelo hospital. We hope that he continues to improve. Cecil Robinson is recovering from surgery while still a patient in the Tupelo hospital. His condition is reported to be good. We are very happy for these improvements and hope that they will continue.

Jane Grove was home for the long weekend this past week and gave her mother an extra day of happiness by remaining through Monday. We hope that she has a safe trip back home.

To The Family of Jimmy Lee (Chicken) Fields,

With Love

When this is read, you will have faced and suffered through one of the greatest trials or woes known to mankind here on this earth. And having done so, we who love you can only pray that God will continue to give to all of you the strength needed for the difficult days ahead.

Upon hearing the news of this tragic event, all concern was immediately focused upon you, and the prayers of all those concerned were for your well being.

I came to you as did many others to assist in any way possible and to comfort you as best we could and I found in each of you a complete acceptance of God's will and I saw in action once again that fierce protective love that each of you have for the other that has brought you through so many rough times in the past and kept you together. Its still working and we are grateful.

Chicken will be greatly missed in the community and on the job by all who knew him and had respect for him as an individual and as a family man, but as you are so bravely trying to accept, without question his going, we, your friends, can do no less. But we want you to always remember that we are here.

For those times when friends and family members are unable to give the comfort that you seek, remember:

God is still on the throne

Within your bosom you have the phone

Wherever you walk you're not walking alone. Remember, God is still on the throne.

When in distress, just call him.

When you're oppressed, just call him.

When storms assail you, and others have failed you or,

When you're in doubt and you can find no way out—Remember, God is still on the throne.

May he bless you always and keep you in his loving care.

Narda Budlowe Owen Weds Burton Lewis Kraft

ARLINGTON, Va.—Narda Budlowe Owen and Dr. Burton Lewis Kraft were married Sunday, Sept. 28, at the Quality Inn in Pentagon City, Arlington, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Budlowe of Booneville. Her grandparents are Mrs. Bernard Patrick and the late Dr. Patrick Sr. of Booneville, and Mrs. Alex Budzilowski and the late Mr. Budzilowski of Umatilla, Fla.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Simon Kraft of Annandale, Va. His grandparents are Mrs. Emmanuel Newman and the late Dr. Newman of Falls Church, Va.

Rabbi Arnold Fink of Temple Beth El Synagogue of Alexandria officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Gary St. Clair, a close friend of the couple, sang "Evergreen." "Nadia's Theme" was played as the wedding party entered the hall.

The ceremony was conducted under a traditional Jewish canopy depicting the fall harvest. The "succoth" was covered with greenery and decorated with colorful fall leaves, apples, pears, grapes, bananas, Indian corn and squash.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved ivory gown. The bodice, with a high neckline in front and low in back, and the fitted sleeves were made of Venice lace embroidered with tiny pearls. The skirt was of flowing chiffon with a short train.

Instead of the traditional veil, the bride wore a hat which was handmade to match her gown. It was appliqued with handclipped Venice Lace and banded by tiny pearl strands and French veiling, all in ivory.

She carried a bouquet of ivory, gold and rust silk flowers with a trailing of orange and silk maple leaves. A diamond necklace, a wedding gift from the groom, was her only jewelry.

The bride's sister, Miss Rebecca Dawn Budlowe, was the maid of honor. She wore a long dress, also of ivory, but accented with star flowers in the fall colors of rust, gold and brown. The pearls she wore harmonized with those of the bride's gown.

Dr. And Mrs. Burton Kraft

The groom, dressed in an ivory tux, was attended by his brother, David Kraft, as best man. The bride's mother wore a long flowing chiffon gown of soft beige with a matching chiffon cape. The groom's mother wore an autumn silk crepe with a high lace neck and long sleeves with lace cuffs. A single strand of pearls completed her outfit.

Following the ceremony, as the wedding party left by the center isle, a song from "Fiddler on the Roof" was played. Immediately, the bride and groom re-entered the hall and, with their parents, formed a receiving line to greet the guests.

As the guests left the hall, Miss Rebecca Budlowe and David Kraft directed them to the open veranda on the roof overlooking Washington, D.C., where, after the guests were served hors d'oeuvres and wine, they witnessed the Blessing of the Challah, a Jewish tradition.

The guests were then invited inside to the Penthouse Restaurant for a champagne brunch and were entertained with festive music from a three-piece band.

The bride and groom danced the first dance to the music "Just The Way You Are." They were joined on the dance floor first by their parents and then by the other guests.

The wedding cake was a five-tiered ivory rum cake, enhanced by a cornucopia filled with fall-colored maple leaves overflowing down the side of the cake, mixed with babies' breath and ivory-hued roses.

Before the cake was cut by the newlyweds, the best man toasted them both and welcomed hte bride into the family.

After the reception, Dr. and Mrs. Kraft left for a honeymoon in Florida. They are now at home in Falls Church, Va., just outside of Washington, D.C.

Rehearsal Dinner

The night before the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Kraft honored their son and his fiancée with a rehearsal dinner at an Italian restaurant in Arlington, Va. Those attending, in addition to the bride and groom and the hostes, were Miss Rebecca Budlowe, Dr. and Mrs. David Budlowe, Miss Cynde Lynn Kraft, Miss Andrea Carol Kraft and her escort, Gordon Van Zuiden, David Kraft, Mrs. Emmanuel Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Berliant of Cincinnati, Miss Susan Berliant of New York City, Miss Nancy Kraft of Atlanta, and Dr. and Mrs. Gary St. Clair of Lynchburg, Va.

Mrs. Hubert Hare was a guest of the Al Weeks of Atlanta during the holiday.

Nancy Fowler of Tupelo spent Thanksgiving Day and night with her mother, Mrs. Beth Tidwell.

Our community was saddened last Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) by the death of our beloved neighbor, Mrs. Alice Spain.

"Miss" Alice passed away at the Care Inn in Grenada, Miss., at 3 Thursday afternoon. She had been there a little more than a year. My family moved next door to her 26 years ago last July. Donny and Butch were 14 and 7 years old. Lila and I and the boys learned to love Miss Alice like she was our own.

She had a great sense of humor, never seeing a lot of faults in others. Miss Alice loved her church dearly, hardly ever missing a Sunday when she was well. Many times when I would run out for a short visit she would be reading her Bible. Through the years we worked our garden and raked our leaves together.

Butch and Donny loved to talk to her about baseball and she was an ardent lover of the St. Louis Cardinals. Miss Alice knew all the players by name and also the rules of the game. We will miss her greatly, but we know one thing for sure, heaven is a better place because of her arrival there.

Our sincere sympathy goes out to her dear children, Herbert of Grenada, Louise Loveless of Booneville and Dot Jones of Oklahoma City.

Those attending the Hopkins and Scott wedding in London, Ky., Nov. 22 were Mrs. Vernon Chase, Lesia, Timmie and Scott of Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Scott of Hill's Chapel. The groom is the son of Mrs. Aileen Scott and the late Lenous Scott of McMinnville Tenn. His grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Scott of Hill's Chapel and the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Moore of Jumptown.

Jim Lacy of the University of North Alabama spent the Thanksgiving holiday with his grandparents, Horace and Bertha Irvin, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Lacy. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bolt spent the weekend with Mrs.

Lenous Scott in McMinnville, Tenn.

Thought for the week: This is especially for the loved ones of the late Mrs. Alice Spain.

"A Little While"

It is so natural that we fall asleep

Like tired children when the day is done,
That I would question why

the living weep
When Death has kissed the laughing lips of one.
We do not sigh when golden skies have donned
The purple shadows and the gray of night,
Because we know the morning lies beyond,
And we must wait a little while for light.

So when, grown weary with the care and strife
Our loved ones find in sleep, the peace they crave,

We should not weep, but learn to count this life
A prelude to the one beyond the grave;
And thus be happy for them, not distressed,
But lift our hearts with love to God and smile,
And we, anon, like tired ones will rest
If we will hope and wait-a little while.

Copied.

Girl Scouts Honor Mrs. Galloway

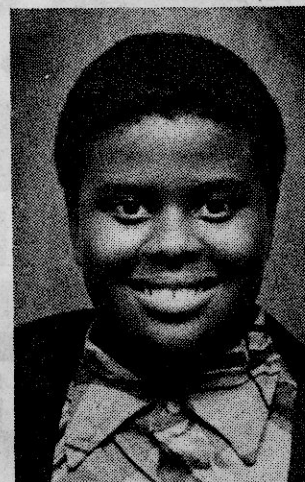

In 1965 the Girl Scouts of the Booneville Neighborhood found one of their best friends in the person of Mrs. S.C. (Ruth) Galloway.

After having served for 6 years as Den Mother and Assistant with both her sons, Sam and Bob, there was no way around her pitching in with her daughter Cissy in the Girl Scout program. The program, being new in Booneville at the time demanded many different hats for the adults who were involved. In her devotion to the program Ruth has worn many more hats than does the average Girl Scout leader. In addition to her years of leadership of her daughter's troop from 1st year Juniors through Cadettes and on through Seniors, she continued as Assistant Senior Adviser for 2 years following her daughter's graduation in 1974. She, along with her husband, Dr. Galloway, served two terms on the Prairie Council Board. She served 2 years on the Council Nominating Committee with her being chairman for 1 year. For 2 years Ruth served on the Training Committee, and is presently a member of Adult Development Unit which is responsible for planning for leadership training for adult volunteers throughout Prairie Council. She has had instructions to be a "Trainer" and helps with basic training of new leaders. For 10 years she has served on the Booneville Neighborhood Service Team.

Mrs. Galloway along with her husband have devoted many hours and traveled many miles for the Scouting program in general. Dr. Sam gave generously of his time in sitting on Boards of Review etc. when his son Bob was a scout. Bob went on through the Boy Scouts and then Explorers and later served as Scoutmaster for 2 years. Their daughter Cissy is presently a Brownie leader in Booneville. Thus the fruits of Ruth Galloway's efforts in time, energy, devotion and stamina are far reaching.

Ruth was recognized for her 15 years of service and received her 15 year pin at the annual Prairie Girl Scout Banquet held at Northeast Mississippi Junior College on Nov. 13, a gathering of adult workers and Senior Scouts from all the 19 counties which make up Prairie Council.

non-toxic vinegar leaves no streaks. And, it's non-abrasive so you won't scratch flat glass in windows. (This is great for cleaning mirrors, tv screens and car windshields, too!)

Perk Up Your Automatic Drip!

Did you ever notice that it's taking longer now to get freshly-perked coffee than it did when you first bought your Automatic Drip Coffee maker? Here's why:

Hard water mineral deposits may be building up and clogging the inside heating element of your ADC appliances. Vinegar can help dissolve these deposits whose build-up depends on the hardness of water and how often the pot is used. To perk up your coffee pot so you get fast, freshly-brewed coffee without any bitter tasting overtones, simply fill the reservoir with vinegar and run through a brew cycle. (Check your owner's manual for specific cleaning instructions.) Rinse thoroughly with water when finished.

Slick Trick

Stale coffee residue and oils collect inside percolator coffee pots and cause bitter tasting coffee. To remove residue, pour vinegar into cooled, unplugged percolator. Soak overnight.

effect on credit and job applications.”

Some of the larger stores in the area are already employing off-duty law enforcement officers, both in uniform and plain clothes, to help combat the problem.

Shoplifting has been called Mississippi's most widespread monetary crime. It results in an annual loss to retailers of more than $150 million which must be passed on directly to the consumer in the form of higher prices. This means each adult in the state must pay $150 per year in marked up goods due to theft.

According to John Wellons, president of the Mississippi Retail Merchants Association there is no stereotype for shoplifters.

“They come in all ages, from all walks of life, and from all income brackets,” Wellons said. “There are four basic classifications of offenders: juveniles, amateurs, professionals, and kleptomaniacs. And more than 65 percent of them are amateurs and juveniles—people who think stealing from a big company with lots of money is not really stealing, and it's really no big deal.”

“But retail merchants and law enforcement officials are dedicated to proving them wrong by prosecution of all cases,” he added. “For example, for the first offense theft of any item less than $100 in value, the maximum penalty is $300 fine and-or six months in jail. For the second offense the penalty is a $500 fine and-or one year in jail. And the theft of an item valued at more than $100 is a felony and carries a sentence of up to five years in the state penitentiary and-or a $1,000 fine.”

Booneville Police Chief Wendell Stacy said shoplifting complaints have been less than usual for the pacts of potential future development in the corridor, Birindelli said.

Using this program, which should be available at little or no charge to officials in the 48 counties, local planners will be able to analyze development options for their areas, the study manager said.

The pilot study was conducted by Argonne National Laboratory of Argonne, Ill., in Mobile and Greene counties in Alabama; McCracken County, Ky.; Itawamba County, Miss.; and Wayne County, Tenn.

An equally important purpose of the public meeting, Birindelli said, was to get input from the public about the Corridor Study.

“The real purpose of this study is to help people plan for the future, to help them make changes, to solve problems,” he said. “We want to hear from the people what their problems are, and what are the needs of their community. We want to know what they would like to see the Corridor Study do to help address these needs.”

“Public involvement is a very important part of this study,” he said.

However, there was a complaint Monday night (that the study is coming too late, that the area may already be wasting economic advantages

Hunter's Responsibility Determined by Attitude

Many people feel purchasing a hunting license and the correct size of shotgun shells for a shotgun are the needed preparation to be a responsible hunter. An even more fundamental and necessary element of the responsible hunter exists—attitude.

An attitude, the combination of a person's feeling and knowledge of something that influences the way he reacts, is the determining factor of a responsible hunter. A responsible hunter's attitude is composed of several components.

The first and most important component of a responsible hunter's attitude is safety. Safety is demonstrated by the hunter who always treats every gun as though it were loaded, makes positive identification of his target, and never points a gun at anything he does not intend to shoot. Safety becomes a habit or second nature to the responsible hunter and influences his every action while afield.

A responsible hunter understands and obeys all game laws. It is not enough, for example, to think the daily bag limit is 10 birds because last season's limit was 10 birds. The responsible hunter obtains a current copy of the hunting regulations, reads them for himself, and knows the law regarding current bag limits.

A responsible hunter respects the landowner and his property. He leaves things just as he finds them. Open gates are left open; closed gates are reclosed after entry. Above all, the responsible hunter remembers he is a guest on any property, public or private, other than his own.

A responsible hunter has a responsibility to himself. While afield, he wears the appropriate clothes to ensure both his high visibility to others and his comfort during changes of terrain and weather. His gun and hunting equipment are kept

College; Janice Malbon, instructor of the CPS review course; Martha Barnes, president-elect of the Mississippi chapter of the National Secretaries Association; and Ray Vuncannon, her husband.

Mrs. Vuncannon Wins CPS Award

Mrs. Lynn Vuncannon, executive secretary to Harold T. White, president of Northeast Mississippi Junior College, has been awarded the professional designation Certified Professional Secretary (CPS). The announcement made by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries, a department of the National Secretaries Association (International), was made following Mrs. Vuncannon's completion of the associations rating requirements.

One of only six women in Mississippi to receive the title this year, Mrs. Vuncannon has fulfilled the prescribed period of education, has worked successfully in her chosen career, and has recently passed a two-day comprehensive examination in the areas of behavioral science in business, business law, economics and management, accounting, secretarial skills and decision making, and office procedures and administration.

A graduate of Northeast, Mrs. Vuncannon has been employed by the college since 1968, and has served in her present position for the past eight years. She is a member of the local, higher education, state and national associations for educational office personnel.

In addition to her most recent achievement, Mrs. Vuncannon holds the Professional Standards Certificate, Associate Professional-Option C, from the National Association of Educational Office Personnel and was named to Outstanding Young Women of America in 1979.

President White, in commending Mrs. Vuncannon for her accomplishment said, "She is everything a good secretary should be. She is loyal, efficient, and courteous, but most of all she is respectful of the confidentiality her position holds."

She is married to Ray Vuncannon of Booneville, and they have one daughter, Denise.

USDA, Soil Conservation Service

How many times have you walked across your farm and saw gullies in your cropland field and poor mixtures of legumes and grasses in your pasture? You can do something about this problem if you want to.

The Soil Conservation Service, through the Prentiss County Soil and Water Conservation District, offers a free service to land owners and users that can help solve this problem. This free service is called Conservation Farm Planning. All you have to do to get a conservation farm plan for your farm is come by the Soil Conservation Service office in Booneville and sign up as a Cooperator.

After you decide to have a conservation plan developed, a member of the Soil Conservation Service staff will come out and go over your farm with you. The Soil Conservation Service staff will work with you to develop conservation practices that will help reduce your erosion problems, while at the same time help you to improve your yields.

One of the best things about a conservation plan is, you will find out just what your soils are capable of producing at a profitable level, and the best management practices to follow.

After your conservation plan has been developed, work toward completing the whole plan. This process may take four or five years, but if you will do a little each year you will be able to complete the whole plan.

If you want to solve the erosion problems on your farm, come by the Soil Conservation Service office in Booneville and sign up for a conservation farm plan, or call us at 728-3544.

importance of soil for granted! Actually, without it, we cannot exist. Though the majority of the population has no direct contact with the use and management of the soil, we cannot deny our dependence on it. There is nothing that we have or use that does not come directly or indirectly from the soil.

Each year we are losing vast acreages of arable lands to uses other than food and fiber production to support the population. In addition, erosion, as the result of negligence, is causing us to abandon a large acreage formerly used for food production.

In today's society, three to five percent of the population is engaged in the production of food and fiber. This small group of people is managing the agricultural soil. Good management combined with special effort will keep soil productive and in place.

Each of us can ride on our county roads and determine who is doing the best job of soil management. In good soil management, rows will be arranged across the slope instead of up and down the hill; water will leave the field on a protected surface instead of a gully; areas too steep for row cropping will be vegetated with a sod for hay or wildlife use; and the crop being produced will appear vigorous and uniform in height.

If you are interested in good soil management, you will be happy to know that help is available. The Prentiss County Soil and Water Conservation District, assisted by Soil Conservation Service personnel, can help you plan the best management practices for your situation. They can also inform you about cost-share programs that are available to help defray the cost of installing conservation practices.

Call or come by the Soil Conservation Service office to get help with your problem.

At CDF Seminar

George Herman To Speak

George Herman, widely recognized as the moderator of the award-winning "Face The Nation" TV program, will be the speaker for the Community Development Foundation's Annual Economic Symposium on Dec. 15, according to CDF Division Manager Mitch Stennett.

Ray Brady was originally scheduled as the guest speaker, but will be unable to attend due to an assignment to cover a top-level meeting of OPEC nations during December, Stennett said.

"Although George Herman's name may not be a household word, his face is easily recognizable from his TV appearances since 1945," Stennett said. "He has been the mainstay of the CBS Washington News team for many years, covering both international and domestic affairs."

Now specializing in business and economic affairs, Herman will speak on how Washington works the economy and will probably tell about the outlook for the new administration and the nation in economic views.

He has addressed several outstanding groups, including the Mississippi Banking Association and comes to Tupelo with many recommendations, the CDF manager said.

The Symposium will begin at noon at the Ramada Convention Center. Tickets are $7.50 per person and can be obtained by phoning the CDF office at 842-4521.

MISSION OF THE CHURCH

The church was in God's "eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord." Ephesians 3:10, 11. Universally, the church has no EARTHLY organization which legislates for it. Christ is its only head. Ephesians 1:22, 23. Locally, Christ has organized his church into congregations. In the local church Christ, the head, has ordained elders or bishops to oversee the local church's entire work. The mission of the church is carried out in local congregational capacities. The mission of the local church is not political. John 18:36. It is not to supply entertainment or recreation. The mission of the church is first, last, and always to seek the salvation of souls by broadcasting the gospel. Romans 1:16. The church is God's Missionary Society. The church is under the great commission. Matthew 28:19, 20. It is the pillar and ground of the truth, 1 Timothy 3:15. The world is our field of operation. Mark 16:15. We are debtors to all men. Romans 1:14. The church of Christ is striving to discharge this debt by putting another evangelist fully supported by us into the mission field. We invite you to hear Mr. Norman Hogan.

These serious, long term studies in harnessing wind power in a region that probably has the greatest potential in the United States is significant, and should behoove Mississippians not to expect any great breakthroughs in wind use in this state where summers are fraught with considerable numbers of muggy days when there is scarcely a breeze stirring.

Claims to the contrary deserve scrutiny before investments are made.

HEALTH TIPS DON'T BE MISLED

By Dr. Michael J. Ream

Sick people are more frequently than otherwise unaware of spine failure in cases of sickness, pain and disease. Spine failure does not always produce pain or discomfort in the back unless there is acute backache or lumbago, but don't be misled. In the great majority of cases the effects of spine failure are observed at some distant point remote from the spine, such for example as neuritis in the arm or leg; headache or malfunction in one or more vital organs. Because of this fact, you can be excused for not immediately recognizing the location of your pain or illness, being in the spine...

If you have been doctoring for some time, and find yourself, relieved, but not entirely well, might it not be wise to try something different, some new approach and means to locate and remove the cause, rather than treating the effects?

In the spirit of a sincere helpfulness it may be suggested that you consult a modern Chiropractor. It may mark the day when you start on the road to vibrant health.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific Chiropractic, written by Dr. Michael J. Ream whose office is located at 208 First St. Tel. 728-8456.)

BIRMINGHAM, AL (Sp)—The Southeastern Conference closes their regular season for 1980 football, except for one game, this Saturday with four traditional contests. Georgia hosts Ga. Tech, Alabama and Auburn meet in Birmingham, Florida hosts Miami and Tennessee visits Vanderbilt. The Florida-Fla. State game, originally scheduled for Nov. 22 at Tallahassee, has been reset for Dec. 6 to accommodate the NCAA-ABC-TV program.

With four teams rating the AP and UPI Top Twenty, and all four accepting bowl invitations, it is a highly successful season for the SEC. Georgia, the nation's only undefeated, untied major team is No. 1, with Alabama currently 9th, Mississippi State 17th and Florida 18th. The Bulldogs play No. 2 Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl, Alabama meets Southwest champion Baylor in the Cotton, Miss. State faces Big 8 runnerup (Nebraska or Oklahoma) in the Sun and Florida hosts ACC runnerup Maryland in the Tangerine. In each bowl the SEC meets a champion or runnerup.

Last Saturday Miss. State clinched the runnerup spot in SEC standings by taking a thriller from Ole Miss, 19-14, and Tennessee advanced to sixth by beating Kentucky 45-14. State is 5-1 in SEC play and 9-2 overall.

Dec. 6 nationally, with a noon, EST, air time.

Alabama 3rd,
Miss. State 7th
In Rushing Offense

Birmingham, Al (Sp)—Alabama is No. 3 in the nation in rushing, next to Nebraska and Oklahoma, on 306.5 yards per game and Mississippi State is No. 7 on 285 even. Bama and State also top the SEC in defense against rushing, with yields of 124.4 and 135.9 per game respectively. Tidesmen gain 5.4 yards per rush and limit opponents to 2.6, and they have scored 31 TDs rushing to their opponents 4. State gains 4.8 ypr and Georgia yields only 3.1.

Ole Miss for Pass Offense, Alabama for Pass Defense

Ole Miss leads SEC passing by gaining 185.9 yards per game. They have the most completions, 164, for the most TDs, 13. Auburn completes the highest percentage, 59.6 percent, and Alabama has lost only one by interception.

Alabama is fifth in the nation on pass defense, yielding only 100.1 ypg, and LSU is sixth on 103.8. Bama opponents have only 88 completions and LSU's only 40.3 percent. Tennessee has permitted only 4 TD passes.

Outside the league, LSU tagged Tulane 24-7 and Vanderbilt withstood UT-Chattanooga 31-29. That makes the SEC record with others, so far in 1980, 29-16, a winning effort of 64.4 percent. That mark is a combination of the 17-7 record with other major conferences and 12-9 with independents. The conference part of it is: 6-2 with the ACC, 3-2 with the SWC, 2-1 with Big-8 and Pac-10, 1-1 with Big-10 and 1-0 with MAC, PCAA, Southern and Southland.

The Florida-Miami game is being televised regionally by ABC-TV under the NCAA television program. Al Michaels is the play-by-play announcer and Frank Broyles the analyst. Air time is 12:00 noon, EST, with the kickoff at 12:25. Also, ABC-TV will televise the Florida-Fla. State game of

Northeast CB Club News

By THRASHER STAR Correspondent

It's Monday morning. Thanksgiving is over all of the left-over turkey is eaten or put away. Everybody will be on a diet for a week or two before Christmas, then back to the table again for all of the goodies of the holiday season. Hope everyone had a safe and happy holiday.

Happy birthday to the "Lady Birdhunter," and "Midnite Cowboy," on their birthdays Sunday. Hope each of you had a nice day. "Hauler," "White Girl," "Cotton," and Mrs. White was in Memphis over the weekend to be with her brother-in-law, Rex Puckett, who had surgery. Hope he continues to improve.

Much to our sorrow, "Sidekick," passed away Thursday morning. Our sympathy to the "Lady Sidekick," children and entire Pippin family.

"Sidekick," was loved by everyone who knew him.

We would like to wish a delayed happy birthday to Granny Cair. Who was honored with a party Sunday afternoon at the Community Center. Around 60 to 75 people came by for cake and coffee and wished her many more birthdays.

I hear the "Little Blue Wave" and "Little Red" are not feeling too good. Hope both of you get to feeling better real soon.

Sunday afternoon and night is the radiothon for the Rehab Center in Tupelo. If any-one wants to go down to help, we will be leaving around 12:30 or 1. We will have a table set up to help raise money for the center. "Cotton," did you get to sleep late Monday morning? Would you believe he is not driving the school bus any more. Don't be late for school now.

The "Little Rascal," "Yo-Yo" and I visited Delta State Campus in Cleveland last Wednesday. We hope to get the "Little Rascal" pre-registered for school.

Hope each of you have a nice week. Go to the church of your choice, but go.

By State Archaeologists

Effigy Bead Collections Sought

Archaeologists at the Mississippi Department of Archives and History are looking for private collectors who possess stone animal effigy beads. Two collections of such beads, usually in the form of animals, birds, or insects, are on loan to the archaeologists from the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

The beads are unique to this area and are relatively rare, with about 55 now known from the four-state area of Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana.

Department archaeologists believe that there are more of the rare beads contained in private collections throughout the state, and they would like to study them, with an aim at recording their locations and distribution and their association with other Indian artifacts. They hope to formulate theories as to their origin and use, which will be published soon along with photographs of the beads and other findings. The beads may have been used in magical ceremonies to insure the success of the hunt. On the other hand, they may have been insignia worn by very important people in the Indian community. Anyone who possesses a stone bead of this type is urged to contact archaeologist John Connaway, Mississippi Department of Archives and History, P.O. Box 36, Clarksdale, MS 38614. Site locations will be kept confidential and all artifacts involved will be returned to their owners.

Clement Opposes Regulatory Act

TVA Director Bob Clement last week voiced his opposition to a Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA) which would place a mandatory surcharge on new homes not meeting TVA conservation standards.

"After listening to a number of concerned citizens express their doubts about the merits of this measure, I am thoroughly convinced that it is not in the best interest of Valley residents, and therefore not in the best interest of TVA," Clement said in an address to the Knox County Technical Society in Knoxville, Tenn.

Along with the rest of the TVA board, on Nov. 10 Clement heard public opinions about PURPA Standard 7, seven new standards that have been proposed by TVA's staff. The charge for inadequate insulation in new homes has been the most controversial of the new proposals and has been criticized by home builders associations in several states in the Tennessee Valley.

Instead of assisting people in their efforts to economize," Clement said, "Standard 7 would impose a new burden of their pocketbooks. Instead of helping people become efficient home-energy users, this proposal adds a new layer of government regulation which could keep people from owning homes at all."

Clement said that people should be allowed to decide for themselves the kind of home they want to purchase. "I have enough confidence in the residents of this Valley to believe that they will buy homes with as much insulation as they can afford," he said. "For us to require more than that would simply be counterproductive, both to the potential homeowner and to the homebuilder."

Clement also said that the TVA program would duplicate programs already existing in both the public and private sectors. He said that municipalities, counties, states and the homebuilding trades already have insulation and conservation standards in place.

"We should be providing these organizations with technical assistance," Clement said, "but we don't need a new bureaucracy to do a job that's already been done."

Clement said the "for all these reasons, I will ask

Chairman Freeman and Director Freeman to join with me in opposing this ill-advised measure.

Governor Establishes Handicapped Office

Gov. William Winter announced in Jackson last week that he has established the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services as part of his response to recommendations made by the Mississippi Handicapped Services Task Force.

Winter appointed the task force in May to consider the various problems of handicapped people in Mississippi. Following a series of meetings to study problems of the handicapped, the committee presented its recommendations to Winter.

The governor, calling the report submitted by the task force "thoughtful, provocative, and intelligent," presented his response last week.

"I have responded to this report by issuing an executive order that implements the findings of this task force, resulting in the creation within the division of Federal-State-Local Programs in my office, a coordinator of handicapped services," he said. "I have also authorized an advisory council consisting of 18 members representing handicapped people and parents and guardians of handicapped people in our state."

Winter said creation of the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services will "bring together in a coordinated effort, services to handicapped citizens that are now being administered by a number of different state agencies.

By doing so, the governor said, "we can measure the effectiveness of these efforts and make certain that we are not duplicating efforts or eliminating areas where handicapped people need to be served better. We can then also address ourselves to the long-delayed process of removing architectural barriers.

"We have a great deal to do in terms of the continued education of the people to the needs of the handicapped so that we will afford handicapped people the opportunity for full participation in all activities of our society," Winter said.

Winter also announced that he is setting up within his Office of Human Development, an interim coordination team which will work over the next six months to develop strategies to strengthen the coordination of handicapped services now being provided by the various agencies in state government.

"I believe the goal of shaping our society in a fashion that invites the full participation of our handicapped people can be achieved," Winter said. "The task is before us, and during my tenure as governor we plan to continue to work toward that end with the same enthusiasm and sincerity that the Handicapped Services Task Force has demonstrated."

We're looking for Gulf South energy supplies — wherever they can be found

As the Gulf South continues to grow and expand, United Gas continues to seek new natural gas reserves to supply the basic energy demands of the existing homes, businesses and industries that are the foundation of our economy.

It's a difficult job. It's also very costly. But wherever natural gas can be found and produced, United Gas personnel are at work, seeking to bring portions of this new gas into our system serving the Gulf South.

This responsibility takes our people from Mexico to Alaska, from the Rocky Mountains to the Gulf of Mexico. It takes thousands of man hours and hundreds of millions of dollars, new ideas, ingenuity, and the know-how of an experienced company.

That's the way we do things at United Gas — where the search for new energy never stops.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK :

A Modern Parable On Who Lost The Game

Hebrew 10:25a—"Not forsaking the assembling of themselves together..."

Behold a baseball team went forth to play a game of baseball. Just as the umpire was saying "batter up" the catcher for the home team arrived and took his place. The center fielder did not arrive until the end of the first inning. The first baseman did not arrive until the second inning. The third baseman did not show up at all, but later sent his regrets and said that he had to go to a chicken dinner at Aunt Mary's. The second baseman likewise failed to come to the game, having been up late the night before and desired to spend the day in bed. The left fielder felt he needed to visit another ball game across town. The shortstop was present but left his glove at home.

Verily, when the pitcher went into the box, he looked around for his teammates, and lo, his heart was heavy, for their places were empty. But the game was announced and the spectators were there in the stands, and there was nothing to do but pitch the ball and hope for the best. The pitcher tightened his belt and stepped into the box and did his best to put the ball over the plate. But he was not at his best...for he had to serve as pitcher, second baseman, and third baseman. There were loud boos from the stands while the home team was badly beaten. When the absent members of the defeated team heard that their team lost...a decision was made to get a new pitcher. But who lost the game?

By the way...if the above resembles anyone you know...See you in Church.
