Agreement Reached

City Will Continue To Answer Fire Calls Outside City Limits

A serious problem concerning fire protection for residents of Prentiss County developed recently as a result of federal spending cuts, but thanks to the cooperation between Booneville and Prentiss County officials a solution has been worked out.

Prentiss County Board of Supervisors President J.P. Davis and Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb announced Monday that an agreement has been reached between the city and the county whereby the city will continue to provide fire protection service outside the city limits of Booneville.

For the past four months, the county has stationed a quick response truck and three firemen at the Booneville Fire Department to respond to rural fire calls.

The three firemen, who are paid with Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds, will have to be released April 17 when the county's CETA program is terminated, leaving the county with no full-time fire fighters.

Under the agreement reached between the city and the county governments, the county will continue to provide and maintain the quick response vehicle at the Booneville Fire Department and city firemen will answer calls outside the city.

Presently, when a report of a fire comes into the Booneville Fire Department, the county firemen stationed there are dispatched to the scene of the fire immediately in the quick response truck. They then attempt to keep the fire under control until one of the county's larger trucks, manned with volunteers, can arrive to help battle the blaze.

Apparently, the only difference after April 17 will be that the quick response vehicle will then be manned with city firemen instead of the county CETA firemen.

"It's a great relief to us to receive this kind of cooperation from the city," Davis said. "The loss of these CETA-paid firemen would do great damage to our fire protection program, and we simply couldn't find anywhere in the budget to get the money to pay them."

"We still have budget problems," he said, "but this was one of the areas of greatest concern because it affects the safety of our citizens. It (the agreement) is a great relief to us."

The end of the CETA program means the county will also lose two firemen who are paid through that program and are stationed at the county's fire stations in Jumpertown and Marietta. Except for these CETA program employees, the county operates with volunteer firemen at all five of its fire stations.

"Fire protection is very important to all of us, and we want to cooperate in any way possible to provide fire protection service to everybody in Prentiss County," Mayor Crabb said in regard to the agreement with the county.

Many Employees Retained

CETA Cuts Will Cost Booneville $118,000

Federal budget cuts are already being felt here in Prentiss County.

CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act)

funds to the city of Booneville were cut off March 13, and that meant a loss of approximately $118,000 from the city's annual budget, according to Mayor Charles Crabb.

As was reported last week, the end of the county CETA program on April 17 will cost Prentiss County as much as $14,000 per month.

During the CETA program's existence, Booneville has had as many as 23 employees under the program. It had 16 in January plus one open slot which was not filled because the city had been told the program would come to an end March 13, Crabb said.

"The loss of the funds will definitely hurt us," he said. "You can't take almost $200,000 out of an operating budget the size of Booneville's and not feel its effect."

But Crabb says he feels the city has been fortunate to retain approximately 75 percent of its CETA employees after their 18 months on the program were completed.

"We have at least seven firemen, two policemen, two street department employees and one records clerk who were being trained under the CETA program and will be retained by the city," the mayor said. "So we feel the program has helped us tremendously in the past by sharing our training costs."

"We will have to make cuts," he said, "but we hope several minor cuts can be made in many different areas so that no area of service will suffer an extreme hardship."

During April

City, County Salute Industry

J.P. Davis, president of the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors, and Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb signed a joint city-county proclamation last week, proclaiming April as a "Salute to Industry" month.

Made in cooperation with Gov. William Winter, the proclamation recognizes that local industry merits special attention for its enormous contribution to the area's continued economic growth.

Davis said the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors think it appropriate that a special month be set aside to recognize our industry—"particularly those companies located here in our own county."

Crabb said he encourages all Booneville businesses and civic groups to join in the statewide effort "and say thank you to our industries for providing jobs, payrolls and family incomes."

Perry Henderson, of Roger's LP Gas Company, and James C. (Jack) Kendrick, of Kendrick Auto Repair, qualified this week to run for a position on the Booneville Board of Aldermen in the municipal election set for May 12.

With only one week remaining until the April 10 deadline to qualify, Henderson and Kendrick made a total of nine candidates seeking the city's five aldermen-at-large positions.

All five incumbent aldermen—Bluford Allen, Jack Arnold, Wade Lambert, Charles Steen and Norman Young—have qualified to run in the election.

Willie D. "Dicey" Jumper and Jimmy Jones are also seeking an alderman post and have qualified to run. In the election of the chief of police, incumbent W.W. Stacy is being challenged by R.C. Calton and Johnny Lee Nichols.

The present mayor, Charles Crabb, is the only candidate to have qualified for that post.

Those city residents who wish to vote in the May 12 election have until next Friday, April 10, to register to vote. Voters must be registered with both the city and the county.

Charity Ball

Retired Businessman Named Outstanding Citizen

Retired Booneville businessman Stewart Vail was named Prentiss County's Outstanding Citizen of the Year Saturday Night at the Booneville Junior Auxiliary's fourth annual Charity Ball held in the American Legion Building.

"Booneville and Prentiss County are the richer for having Stewart Vail as a contributing citizen," said Junior Auxiliary president Mrs. Margaret Floyd in making the presentation. "His civic, educational and religious concerns have led him to touch many lives."

Vail is the fifth local citizen to be so honored since the tradition was started in 1977 when the Prentiss County Development Association honored the late Marion W. Smith, former Booneville mayor and banker.

Others to have received the award are retired Booneville businessman Emmons Turner Jr. in 1978, Mrs. Mabel Nelson of the Prentiss County Health Department in 1979, and Booneville educator Mrs. Louise W. Peeler last year.

Vail was chosen for the honor by the Junior Auxiliary from a list of candidates nominated by various organizations and individuals in Prentiss County. The Rotary Club submitted Vail's name for consideration.

Born in 1912 in Montpelier, Miss., Vail graduated from the Clay County Agricultural High School at Pheba, Miss. He paid his own way through Mississippi State University, graduating in 1937.

He taught school at Harpersville Agricultural High School for two and one-half years. While in there, he achieved what he calls his "most important accomplishment"—marrying the former Ruth Sanders. They have been together for the 41 years since.

Leaving the teaching profession, Vail began a career as a county agent with the Mississippi Extension Service in New Albany. During the next 15 years, he served as county agent there and in Pontotoc and Clarksdale. During this time, he also received his master's degree.

In 1952, he received the Distinguished Service Award from the National County Agents Association at the national convention.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, I get confused over the word "Law" in the Bible. It seems that at times we are under law and at other times we are not.

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: You are exactly right. One must study the text to see what "law" the Holy Spirit is talking about. For example, the Bible tells us that we are not under the "law" of Moses (see Col. 3:16; Gal. 5:1-4). However to show you we are under the law of Christ permit me to give you the following passages for your study. (a) The law of Christ (Gal. 6:2.); (b) Under law to Christ (1 Cor. 9:21.); (c) Law of Spirit of life (Rom. 8:2.); (d) Perfect law of liberty (Jas. 2:12.); (e) The law of liberty (Jas. 2:12.); (f) Sin is transgression of law (1 Jno. 3:4.); (g) The law of faith (Rom. 3:27.); (h) The law of God (Rom. 7:22, 25.); (i) I will put my laws in their minds (Heb. 8:10.); (j) I will put my laws into their hearts (Heb. 10:16.) You will observe the above passages tells one he must obey the law of Christ. It is true we are not under the "Law of Moses" but we are under the perfect law of liberty. I hope this will in a small way help you to understand the differences in the word "law" as it is used in the Bible.

Pleads Guilty To Rape

Holland Sentenced To 20 Years

A former Prentiss County man, charged with raping an 18-year-old Corinth woman after he escaped from the state prison in Parchman, was sentenced to 20 additional years in prison last week in Somerville, Tenn., after he pleaded guilty to the charge.

James Earl Holland was being held on a variety of charges stemming from his Dec. 17 escape from the Mississippi State Penitentiary, but plea bargaining left him convicted only of the rape of the Corinth woman.

District Attorney General Mike Whitaker said the 20-year rape sentence will run consecutive to the sentences in Mississippi.

"He owes 50 (years) in Mississippi," Whitaker said. Plans were begun immediately to extradite Holland to Mississippi, where he will face additional charges of kidnapping and escape following his reported escape in December from the Parchman prison. He was serving a term for conviction on kidnapping and armed robbery charges when the escape occurred.

By pleading guilty to the rape charge, charges of aggravated kidnapping, escape, and assault and battery were dropped in Tennessee, Whitaker said.

In his escape from the Mississippi prison, Holland is alleged to have held the wife and child of a security guard hostage, eventually leaving them handcuffed to a truck in Prentiss County.

Holland then reportedly fled on foot and allegedly kidnapped an elderly couple, forcing the man to drive him to Rienzi. From there he is reported to have walked along the ICG railroad tracks to Corinth where he discovered two teenagers parked near the TVA power plant behind a restaurant on U.S. 72.

The escapee reportedly forced the couple to drive him north. He is said to have held a .357 magnum, believed to have been taken from the security guard's house, on the young couple.

The journey northward eventually covered seven states and ended in west Tennessee where Holland reportedly released the Corinth youths without a skirmish.

Law enforcement officials said they were able to apprehend Holland because the Corinth girl managed to slip a note to a service station attendant.

County Unemployment Hits 12.4 Percent

The unemployment rate in Prentiss County continues to climb, having reached 12.4 percent during February, according to the latest figures from the Mississippi State Employment Service in Corinth.

The unemployment figure for the county during January was 10.3 percent, the highest in over a year. The county's unemployment rate in December 1980 was 8.6 percent, 8.2 percent in November, and 7.2 percent in October 1980.

Statewide, the unemployment rate rose to 8.8 percent in February, an increase of one-tenth percentage point compared to January's 8.7 percent jobless rate. In February 1980, the unemployment rate was 6.9 percent for the state. The national unemployment rate for February 1981 was 8.0 percent.

In the other three counties served by the Corinth office of the State Employment Service, the unemployment rate for February was 16.7 percent in Alcorn County, 8.2 percent in Tippah County, and 9.3 percent in Tishomingo County. Forty-one of the state's 82 counties showed an increase in their unemployment rates for February, while 36 reported decreases.

Spirit Of Cooperation Provides Answer To Problem

The recent notification of the end of funding for the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program caused a potentially explosive situation to develop in Prentiss County.

The CETA program has provided funds through which the county hired three firemen and stationed them at the Booneville Fire Department to respond to fire calls outside the city limits of Booneville.

With the end of the CETA program on April 17, the county will no longer have any full-time firemen to answer these calls. They will have only volunteers who, because they must work at other jobs to make a living, usually cannot respond as quickly to a fire call.

Since it is not the city's responsibility to answer calls outside the city limits, county fire protection could have suffered.

Those who remember the problems our neighboring county, Lee, had about a year ago when the Tupelo Fire Department stopped answering calls outside the Tupelo city limits, can see what could have developed here.

But, thanks to a good spirit of cooperation between the county government and the city government, Board of Supervisors President J.P. Davis and Mayor Charles Crabb were able to sit down and work out an agreement acceptable to both the city and the county.

This spirit of cooperation, good will and common sense between our public officials is to be commended. We hope they and other official bodies continue to act in the same reasonable manner.

Legislative Letter

By Tim Ford
Representative District 18
Lee and Prentiss Counties

Late Sunday evening the House and Senate agreed on a conference report that combined portions of the highway bills that originated in each House. The Senate had previously passed three bills dealing with the matter, whereas the House had passed one comprehensive bill.

In a previous article, I set out the provisions of the House bill, a bill that dealt mainly with revamping the State Highway Commission, putting emphasis on maintenance and establishing a stabilization measure to ensure adequate funding for the Highway Department.

The conference report that was adopted, agreed to establish maintenance on the highway system as first priority for use of all monies. The Highway Department will submit to the legislature an annual plan for maintenance, construction and reconstruction before any appropriation could be made.

Presently, the legislature has no control over where money is spent on highways. The three state Highway Commissioners have been dividing the funds equally among the districts.

Under the present proposal, funds will be used and spent where the priorities demand. U.S. Highway 45 has been a top priority since the late 1960's. The variable gas tax has been completely removed from the bill.

The revenues for state aid roads within the counties will be capped at $46 million and it is anticipated that this will happen in about fiscal year 1983.

The county unit system would be mandated and become effective Jan. 1, 1984, provided, however, that any board of supervisors could, by resolution adopted and entered on its minutes on or before July 1983, and every four years thereafter, come out from under the provisions and still continue to receive state aid money.

Last week in my article, I said that the housing finance bill to provide housing for low and moderate income families at lower than conventional interest rates would not pass this year. A provision was passed to allow the bill to go into effect if the sale of bonds reached such a low interest rate that home buyers could obtain housing interest rates at 11 percent.

The bonds will have to sale for 10 percent or lower to trigger the implementation of the bill. At present, such bonds are selling for 14.5 percent and 15 percent (15 percent).

Senate Report

By Bill May
Senator District 5
Itawamba, Prentiss and Tishomingo

In writing weekly legislative reports, I seldom dwell on the many rules of procedure we have to deal with, because I know the people are not interested in the many technical rules and political maneuvering involved in the political process, but are interested in results.

I know no way, however, to make an intelligent report on the condition of things in the Legislature at this point without talking about the process which has brought these conditions and issues about. A brief summary of what has happened follows.

Since the Legislature started the current session last January, bills have been passed by the House and amended in the Senate, and Senate bills have been amended by the House. These bills after being amended went back to the chamber (or house) where they originated for concurrence in the amendments.

In some cases, there has been a simple concurrence in the other house's amendments and the bill has been sent to the Governor. A typical example of this is the truck weight bill. The Senate concurred in House amendments.

However, in most cases on bills of any importance, the house in which the bill originated has refused to concur in the other house's amendments, and the bills have gone to special six-member conference committees, with three members of the Senate appointed by the Lt. Governor and three members of the House appointed by the Speaker of the House. The only function of these special conference committees is two work out a compromise between the House and Senate on these bills.

As you might expect, this process causes a large number of bills to bottle-up for final action at the end of each session. The current session seems to have had an unusual number of bills in conference committees. There are at this writing approximately 107 appropriation bills and approximately 65 general bills in conference committees.

Next week, which should be the last week of this session, will be one of mostly meeting on conference committees and waiting for other committees to report. This, it seems to me, is one of the most tedious and unpleasant duties of all legislative functions.

A good example of how this process works is the situation with House Bill No. 542, which is the bill to extend the life of the Department of Corrections. Our present law was enacted in 1976 with an automatic repealer on July 1, 1981. This makes it necessary either to pass a new law or to extend the present law for at least one year.

The highway funding bill and the justice court bill are also good examples of how this process works. Unless the differences between the House and Senate can be resolved in the conference committees on these bills in the next few days, we will be faced with the proposition of either extending the session or possibly being called back into special session.

Sometimes I wish I could improve this system, but the process has worked reasonably well over the years, and I, for the time being, will work with the system and try to make the system work for the people.

Reflections

Reflections

By Ken Christian

The split second reactions of Secret Service agents Monday afternoon when President Reagan was shot is a good indication of just how highly trained this special force is.

Having watched four different video tape replays of the shooting—from ABC, CBS, NBC, and CNN—the thing that stands out most vividly in my mind is the image of one of the Secret Service men leaping past the cameras to land squarely on the gunman.

This agent apparently did not even take the time to think whether he himself might be injured. He simply hurled himself at the gunman instinctively.

Anyone who has ever attended a Presidential "event" can't help but come away from it with an admiration for the professionalism of these agents.

However, there is one question in my mind. How did the gunman manage to gain admittance to the press area?

Unless you've ever tried to do it, you probably don't realize just how difficult that is.

In order to get press clearance for the three Presidential appearances I have attended, I had to phone Washington (or a regional campaign headquarters) several days before the scheduled event. I had to give my name, address, social security number and telephone number. The Secret Service then ran a security check, making sure I had no criminal record before issuing the press pass.

To pick up the pass, I had to arrive at the location of the Presidential appearance several hours before the President was scheduled to arrive. And, even after all this, the press pass was only good for a specific roped-off area near the podium.

The national press (often called the "traveling press" because they are the reporters and photographers who travel with the President on all his trips) had their own separate roped-off area—and it would always be in a more favorable position than given the "local" press.

Each press member was given a color-coded tag to wear around his neck or hanging from his belt. And—at least prior to the arrival of the President—at no time would you be allowed in certain areas without the correctly colored tag. If you tried it, you got a polite, but firm command from one of the Secret Service agents to get back where you belong.

Of course the Presidential appearances I attended (seeing Carter twice and Reagan once, before he was elected) were pre-planned public appearances. That was not exactly the case Monday when Reagan was shot.

Monday, the press was located near a side door of the Washington Hilton Hotel, basically just to photograph the President as he left after speaking to a labor group.

As I understand it, even in this situation there was a roped-off area for the press. But apparently the Secret Service also allowed the public to come into this area.

There was a similar laxity when President Carter visited Tusculum, Ala., last year during his campaign. Before he actually arrived, security was very tight. But after Carter arrived, it loosened up considerably.

The local press were in a roped-off area about 50 yards from the President. Between us and the President were two other roped-off sections, one for handicapped persons and another for state and local party VIPs and their families.

Once Carter began his speech, I took several photos from the press area (standing on a chair). Then, noticing the Secret Service was not watching, I stepped across the rope into the VIP area. I walked to within about 30 feet of Carter and took several more photos.

I talked to a reporter from the Florence Times-Daily who told me he had been within about 10 feet of Carter. So, trying to act as if I knew what I was doing, I stepped across the one remaining rope between me and the President and walked up close enough to almost reach out and touch him.

I took several photos from that position, even taking the time to change lenses on my camera to give me a variety of shots. I ran out of film in my camera and even took the time to change rolls.

After I had taken all the photos I wanted of President Carter from that position, I took a few of Mrs. Carter, Amy, and even Gov. William Winter and former Gov. George Wallace who were on the platform with them.

As I turned and walked away from the front of the stage, one of the Secret Service agents came up to me and said, "You can't go up there. You'll have to stay behind the rope."

I said "Ok." And, having gotten the photos I wanted, I walked back to the press area.

GOP To Hold Smith 'Conversion Party'

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—The Mississippi Republican Party is planning a big "born again" ceremony at Hattiesburg May 9 to welcome the latest Democratic convert to the GOP, State Sen. David Smith, the handsome, 30-year-old arch-conservative who represents a big rural district down that way.

Smith's defection from the Democratic Party will bring to six the number of declared Republicans in the 52-member Mississippi Senate, with at least two more expected to join the fold.

Steaks and the top brass in the Mississippi Republican Party are on the menu for the Smith conversion dinner, it is said. U.S. Sen. Thad Cochran and Cong. Trent Lott, the House Minority Whip, are both supposed to be there, together with state GOP chairman Mike Retzer and others, in what could turn into something of a unity feast.

The affair is being held at the Hattiesburg Coca Cola plant run by R.S. Dick Thomson, a behind the scenes GOP wheelhorse who was a key figure last year in trying to engineer the purge of Retzer and Clarke Reed from the state Republican hierarchy. Thomson, however, takes no credit for bringing Smith into the GOP fold.

GOP sources say Smith initiated the idea of switching parties since he was hardly politically attuned to the Democratic Party under whose banner he had run against a GOP opponent in 1979. He went to a Republican colleague in the Legislature, confided his interest in joining the GOP, and local Republican leaders carried the ball from there.

Smith is not exactly a luminary in the state Senate, where the overall intellectual quality, most close legislative observers agree, has slipped to a new low in the present group. So the acquisition of Smith by the GOP is not altogether a coup of the "best and brightest" in the Mississippi Legislature.

But the young lawmakers, with movie actor looks and a sort of Gary Cooper aw-shucks drawl, evidently has some things going for him that some around the legislature have missed. Primarily, it seems that Smith is quite politically ambitious, and his impending conversion to the GOP fits into his plan for furthering those ambitions.

Looking ahead, there is a good likelihood that the Fifth Congressional District will be seeking a replacement in two years for incumbent Trent Lott, when the latter is believed planning to shoot for the United States Senate seat John Stennis is supposed to abandon.

The presumption is that the Fifth District would remain in Republican hands, and therefore being a Republican state senator from that district would have certain advantages for being Lott's heir-apparent.

Smith actually is sitting in an ideal spot, since the State Senate district he represents encompasses all of two, and a good part of two other, counties right in the heart of the Fifth District, and all of it rural. His district is all of Forrest county outside of Hattiesburg, all of Perry and Stone counties, and two-thirds of Harrison County that lies above the coastal strip.

Former State Sen. Charles Pickering of Laurel, who is due to get something out of the Reagan administration for past Republican Party loyalty, has been prominently mentioned as the possible GOP successor to Lott in the Fifth. But now, because of the population growth of the coastal counties, there's speculation Jones County will be taken out of the district in the congressional redistricting by the legislature.

Smith had come into the Senate in a special election in 1977 as a 26-year-old, mistakenly thought to be more in tune with his moderate colleague at that time, Sen. Carroll Ingram of Hattiesburg. The first test of Smith's leanings came over a major push to get the Equal Rights Amendment out of the Senate Constitution Committee, and he was expected to be the swing vote to break the logjam.

First Lady Rosalynn Carter called him on the telephone urging him to help get ERA on the floor of the Mississippi Legislature for the first time. ERA backers in Mississippi were encouraged by Smith's smiling noncommittal after the call. Then he turned around and voted against ERA, probably killing it for the last time.

Smith again emerged last year as one of the chief foes of the Mississippi Judicial Council, the legislatively-created agency aimed at reforming the state's antiquated court system. Because Smith didn't like one of the judges on the council, he along with several senators was instrumental in scuttling the agency.

Again, the young Hattiesburg senator has been one of the handful of adamant foes of Open Meetings and Public Records bills in the current session of the legislature.

So, Mr. Smith goes Republican. And, he apparently hopes the end of the story will read: Mr. Smith goes to Washington.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK—Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb (left) presents a proclamation declaring April 5-11 as National Library Week in Booneville to Mrs. Lee Davis, librarian at the George E. Allen Library. Also on hand for the presentation was Mrs. William Preston (right), president of the Friends of the Library and chairman of the local National Library Week Committee. Mrs. William Winter, wife of the governor, is state National Library Week Chairman. Kermit the frog and Miss Piggy are mascots for the week.

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian

Next week, April 5-11, is National Library Week. Its aim is strengthening the relationships of libraries with the public by improving channels of communication, by developing means of assessing user needs, and by making the value of information services more apparent.

For Mississippi, our First Lady, Mrs. William Winter, is chairman of the steering committee.

You will notice downtown posters to remind you of this event. These posters were made by young people as part of a contest in the elementary and middle schools.

Pupils chose to do some original writing or art work, or to make posters. These will be exhibited at the Allen Library on Sunday afternoon, when the boys and girls, their parents, and friends are invited to look at them any time after 3 p.m. The date is April 5 and the address is Highway 45 and Church.

On Monday, ladies of the First Baptist Church will set up a quilt for quilting and throughout the week you may look in on their "quilting party" while they are working, as well as admire some beautiful examples of the finished product on display.

For preschoolers, Mrs. Sandra Ford's children's Literature classes of the Northeast Junior College will present "The Three Pigs" and "The Three Bears" in puppet plays beginning at 9 a.m. on Tuesday. These games and music are open to all, even to a stuffed animal or doll friend, a child may want to bring along.

On both Tuesday and Wednesday, from 11:30 - 12:30, a film on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway from the North Mississippi Environmental Education Consortium will be shown. This is a very interesting film, planned for showing at the lunch hour so that you can bring your food, be served coffee, and learn more of this project which is important to our area. Environmental careers, materials and National Wildlife kits will be available.

All business people of our area are cordially invited to drop by the library for coffee between 9 a.m. and noon on Thursday.

An unusual treat for almost any age is "Star Gazing in Your Own Backyard." Doug Fleury, director of the Northeast Mississippi Museum Association, will present the program featuring an opportunity to use his stargazing equipment.

(Note to Boy Scouts: Fleury works with your organization and this program will count toward your badge advancement.) The time is Friday at 6:30 p.m.: the place, George E. Allen Library.

Jim Lamb of the Science Department staff at the Junior College plans a live animal show at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Some of his animals may surprise you! Boys and girls of many ages will enjoy this.

It will be followed by a bubble-blowing contest. Find a non-sticky kind of gum!

Collectors and local historians will be attracted to the arrowhead collection of E.J. Goddard. The library has two glass enclosed showcases. The other will hold the fine wood-carved pieces of Mr. Raymond Raddick.

Other displays and events await you during this National Library Week at your library.

Happy Birthday wishes also go out for Benny Taylor, Theron Johnson, Gary Johnson, and Shane Starling on March 30, David Riddle, and Lena Smith on March 31, Dianne Bearden and Angie Moorman on April 1 and Darlene Wilson on April 3.

Happy Anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Beard and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Morgan on April 1.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to Mrs. Jewel Johnson who has been in the hospital.

Sunday visitors of Bernice Chase were Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Chase of Baldwin. Visiting with Bernice on Saturday were Mrs. Kara Chase and Tara of Brandon. They drove Bernice to the local hospital to visit with her son, Dr. David Chase.

Dr. Chase who works at the local hospital every so often, is so busy that he hardly has time to visit, so Bernice goes there to visit him.

Lucille Phillips and Travis Riddle visited with the Theron Johnson family on Saturday night. Sherry Johnson was rushed to the local hospital with possible kidney stones. Her illness is not confirmed at this writing.

Also reports have come that Dennis Johnson is slowly improving in the Tupelo hospital following his accident.

Quin Nicholson and J.B. McAnally were involved in a boat wreck while fishing on the back waters. Both were hospitalized in Tupelo for a few days. J.B. received a broken shoulder in the accident. Family members were hoping to have him released from the hospital earlier this week.

J.B. McAnally's son, Loyal Dean, was also confined in the Tupelo hospital. He was to have surgery on Monday.

Mrs. Ruby Davis has been missed at Carter's Chapel church services for a couple of weeks. She is in the local hospital.

Others who are still confined in hospitals at the time of this writing are David Riddle, Ann Stevens, and Ruth Harling in the local hospital and Nancy Bryant in the Corinth hospital.

Mrs. Katie Mercier has been released from the Iuka hospital and Walter Newcomb is home from Tupelo.

I would like to send best wishes for a speedy recovery to all our friends and acquaintances who are feeling badly. May you soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Carroll were Sunday dinner guests of Vivian Holder. Ophelia Waddell joined them for a while on Sunday afternoon.

Elvia Moorman enjoyed spending the day Sunday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wilodene Horn. Lucille Phillips and Dumar Lambert visited, with Elvia in her home on Thursday.

Jennifer Dunaway was an overnight guest of Cindy Underwood on Saturday night. They enjoyed a basketball game between Martin Hill and other church teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Burns and Jennifer Dunaway enjoyed a fish supper in Corinth on Sunday night with Nelodene Wroten and Chris, J.D. Burns and Johnny Wayne Burns. Cindy Brown and Ashley were unable to be with them as they returned to Florida on Saturday.

The Lucian Puckett family of Iuka were Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Foster and other family members. Four-year-old Jason Puckett is recovering well after an emergency operation for appendicitis about three weeks ago.

Lana George and Desiree also visited the Fosters Saturday. Lana is glad to be out of the Baldwin hospital.

Nena Faye Holder and

Bernice Janeway attended church services in Whitehaven on Sunday and then went on to visit Mrs. Holder's daughter, Wanda Hartman, in Memphis.

Our regrets to the family of Steve Brown, 15-year-old son of Dwight Brown, who has been missing for several days. I received reports that as of Sunday there had been no word as to his whereabouts. Steve is the grandson of J.L. Brown of the Burton area and Odus Brown of the Hills Chapel Area.

Our thoughts and best wishes are with the Brown family during this time. We hope that Steve is soon found and everything turns out alright.

A missing child has to be a terrible ordeal for any parent. We are all praying for an end to the situation in Atlanta soon. I think this has put us all on edge and perhaps has made us more aware of the dangers that threaten our children.

Johnny Burns of Golden was an overnight guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Burns, on Friday night.

For the beef and potato eater, here is a recipe that's sure to please.

Family Seminar To Be Friday

A seminar on home and family preparedness will be offered without charge Friday, April 3, at the Cultural Hall of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints on George E. Allen Drive.

"Very few things in this life are sure and certain," a church spokesman said. "One of these certainties is that situations and life styles change. People change, governments change, climate and other environment-related factors are altered. Economic conditions can bring temporary distress to a family."

The home and family preparedness seminar will suggest ways in which a family can increase its chances of survival in case of disaster, whether natural or man-made, the spokesman said.

"Most people in this area are aware of the threat of tornadoes and violent thunderstorms, for nature gives yearly reminders," he said. "Some people, however, fail to realize that our community is not entirely safe from earthquakes; in fact, an earthquake fault of great magnitude runs along the Mississippi River."

Natural disasters are not the only threats to personal and family survival, the spokesman pointed out.

Economic disasters, such as inflation and depressions can wipe out jobs and investments.

"In the Great Depression of the 30's, millionaires suddenly found themselves paupers," he said. "Some, unable to adjust, actually committed suicide."

Printed brochures with suggested measures for maintaining a preparedness program in the home will be distributed at the seminar.

"Thought for the week:

"Prayer For A Day's Walk"

God let me find the lonely ones
Among the throng today
And let me say the word to take

The loneliness away:
So many walk with aching hearts
Along the old highway

So many walk with breaking hearts,
And no one understands;
They find the roadway rough and steep
Across the barren lands;
God help me lighten weary eyes,
And strength nerveless hands.

God help me brighten dreary eyes,
And let my own grief be A sure reminder of the grief
Of those who walk with me.

When words fail hands fail-let me go
In silent sympathy.

Seminar To Feature TV Talk Show Hostess

"Opportunities, Challenges and Solutions" has been selected as the theme for the second annual "Women in the 80's" seminar at Northeast Mississippi Junior College, according to Debbie Strickland, program coordinator.

Featuring Marge Thrasher, hostess of WHBQ TV's daily talk show "Straight Talk with Marge Thrasher," the two-hour seminar will be 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Mississippi Room of the Frank Haney Union. There is no pre-registration or fee for attending.

A much-sought after speaker at positive thinking rallies around the country, Ms. Thrasher will be speaking on the subject "Growing as a Secure Woman."

Quite compatible with her topic, Ms. Thrasher is president of her own promotions agency, Marge Thrasher and Associates Inc., is a TV spokesman for many local, regional and national firms, and serves as the first woman appointed to the Memphis Area Transit Authority.

In addition, she was given the National Catholic Communications Award, received the Outstanding Public Figure Award from Phillips College and Dyersburg College, was named Public Citizen of the Year by Professional Social Workers and was selected one of the Outstanding Women Who Work in Memphis.

Juggling a growing career and family of four children, Ms. Thrasher, the wife of Dr. Charles White, a Memphis plastic surgeon, says that the key for one's self-improvement lies within the realm of successful communications.

The seminar, which drew some 200 participants last year, is designed to be of interest to all ages.

Added features include entertainment by the

MARGE THRASHER

Northeast ensemble and the showing of fur coats made from animals native to Mississippi. The showing is presented by Ralph Redditt, chairman of the Mississippi Beaver Cooperative's board of directors.

For additional information, contact Ms. Strickland on the Northeast campus by calling 728-7751, or (toll free within the college district) 1-728-7759, ext. 315.

Girl Scouts Entertain Fathers At Father/Daughter Banquet

Girls of Booneville Neighborhood Girl Scouts entertained their fathers with the annual Father-Daughter Banquet Saturday evening, March 28, in the Booneville Community Center.

Not all troops did participated because of conflicts, but the usual atmosphere of excitement was present as each girl accompanied her father or guest to her troop's table.

The tables were decorated with spring flowers and items of decor from yesteryears.

Cadette Troop 82 presented the opening flag ceremony, using the "Four Freedoms" ceremony. Everyone joined in singing the grace, "God our Father."

After the meal, members of Senior Troop 172 gave the welcome, first in Japanese by Anna Yamada and then interpreted by Kristy White. These girls then introduced troop leaders, assistants, and other volunteers present. Seniors Annette Koon, Kathy Gullett, and Lola Johnson helped with introducing the program.

Brownie Troop 60 presented "Oldies but Goodies," three songs from years past. Each girl was dressed in a long skirt with matching bonnet.

Brownie Troop 313 gave a poem about "picking cotton with my daddy" and then sang "Dixie." Each girl was dressed in jeans, straw hat, and wore a cotton boll tied with red ribbon.

Junior Troop 61 had everyone in stitches as they presented a "Laugh-Out Skit." The audience was never able to decide whether they were "putting on" or really that tickled," it was reported.

Junior Troop 111 brought memories of the 50's as they pantomimed to a record of that era. They carried out the theme in their long, full felt skirts with poodle appliques and bobby sox.

Junior Troop 55 presented "Clementine," a song and skit. Their shoes really were "number nine," and all were dressed to carry out the theme. They even had the ducks to lead to water.

Mrs. Opal Anderson, neighborhood chairmah and also cookie chairman this year, gave a report of cookie sales and made the awards. Many girls received patches for selling more than 50 boxes; many received awards for selling 75 or more; and some received awards for selling more than 100 and even 200 boxes.

The entire neighborhood sold 734 cartons which was an increase over last year. The three troops at Hill's Chapel were responsible for part of these sales.

The evening ended as some of the girls from Cadette Troop 82 presented an instrumental "Taps."

Taxpayer Must Prove Innocence

An Internal Revenue Service audit can be a terrifying experience, but the anxiety can be lessened by dealing with the auditor on an individual basis and by having well-kept records. That's the advice of Dr. William D. Wallace, assistant professor of accounting at Ole Miss.

Wallace is a CPA with considerable experience in public accounting and co-author of an article in "Mississippi's Business" titled "IRS Audit Function." He wrote the article with Ole Miss graduate Charles Cauthen of Memphis.

"In an audit situation it is up to the taxpayer to prove his innocence and the best way to do that, before the audit even begins, is by keeping good records," Wallace said. "The more you can prove of what is on the return, then the better off you are."

He said most taxpayers assume the purpose of an audit is to make sure enough tax has been paid, but that audits also ensure that the taxpayer does not pay too much tax, and in many instances result in refunds.

"We should not be afraid of audits because it really is just individuals dealing with individuals," Wallace said. "After all, if you can prove your return, you have nothing to worry about."

Many people do have something to worry about during an audit process because of lack of knowledge or in some cases deliberate fraud, he said. He recommended that those with limited knowledge in preparing returns consult a professional preparer, while those who have deliberately lied on tax forms should seek legal counsel.

"It is very important for the taxpayer to know how to act once an audit is underway. The first thing to do is to seek help from an accountant or lawyer to make sure that all records are available and in order," Wallace said. "Then the taxpayer must examine the return and prepare for questions from the agents. 'The taxpayer should remember during the audit never to volunteer any information. Be honest and straightforward but don't volunteer anything they don't ask for.'"

Harsh or misleading treatment of the agent during the audit is one of the most serious mistakes a taxpayer can make, he said. "There have been cases where the taxpayer wears old, grubby clothes or turns off the air conditioning during the summer to try and throw off the agent. This sort of thing does no good at all."

Only one examination can be performed for each taxable year unless there is evidence of fraud, malfeasance, collusion, concealment or misrepresentation of a material fact, Wallace said.

Hill's Chapel, Wheeler Hold Hypertension Surveys

The staffs of Hill's Chapel and Wheeler schools, including the Headstart staffs at each school, participated Thursday, March 26, in a hypertension (blood pressure) survey conducted by MAP health service specialist June Walden and social workers, Mrs. Bea Castleberry at Hill's Chapel and Miss Betty Sue Smith at Wheeler.

Students at Wheeler school also participated in the survey.

"There is a prevalence of high blood pressure in Mississippi," Mrs. Walden said. "This type of community service can be a preventative measure against hypertension with proper diet and medication."

Each interest rate specified in a bid must be a multiple of one-eighth of one percent (1/8 of 1 percent) or a multiple of one-tenth of one percent (1/10 of 1 percent).

The Bonds will be executed and delivered pursuant to the authority and provisions of Sections 37-29-107 through 37-29-117, Mississippi Code of 1972, and will constitute a lien upon and be payable solely from the revenues derived and to be derived from such fees, rentals and other charges to be paid by students, faculty members, officers or employees, using or being served by any dormitories, dwellings or apartments, or other projects or facilities operated at the College, and not currently pledged.

As between acceptable bids complying with this Notice of Bond Sale, the Bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder whose bid offers to purchase all of the Bonds at such rate or rates of interest as will produce the lowest net interest cost to the College, and comparison of the lowest net interest cost will be made by taking the aggregate amount of interest to accrue on the Bonds from the date of sale, to their respective maturities, at the rate or rates named, and deducting therefrom the amount of the premium, if any, specified in the bid.

Proposals to purchase the Bonds should be addressed to the Board of Trustees, Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, Mississippi 38829 should be plainly marked "Proposal for Housing Facility Revenue Bonds" and should be filed with the Secretary of the Board of Trustees on or prior to the date and hour hereinabove named.

If the successful bidder fails to purchase the Bonds pursuant to his bid and contract, the amount of such good faith check will be retained by the College and covered into the proper fund as liquidated damages for such failure. Bids submitted on behalf of the United States Government or any agency thereof need not be accompanied by a guaranty check.

The purchaser shall pay interest, accrued on the face amount of the bonds, at the rate borne thereby, from the date of the bonds to the date of payment of the purchase price.

The College reserves the right to reject any and all bids submitted. The Bonds are offered subject to the unqualified approval of the legality thereof by the law firm of Watkins, Ludlum & Stennis of Jackson, Mississippi. Delivery of the Bonds will be made of the purchaser within sixty (60) days after the date of the sale of the Bonds, at a place to be designated by the purchaser without cost to the purchaser.

It is the opinion of bond counsel that the interest on the Bonds will be exempt from federal and State of Mississippi income taxes under existing statutes as presently interpreted and construed.

MAINTAINING YOUR MENTAL HEALTH

'If He Loved Me He Wouldn't Act That Way!'

FROM
MENTAL HEALTH CENTER

"If Joe cared anything about me, he would have been more sympathetic when I had a headache last week." "If Jane really loved me she would have been more understanding when I was having all that trouble on the job last month."

These are the kinds of complaints that marriage counselors hear very often in the course of their working day.

The fact is that Joe might have been very sympathetic...in his own way or that Jane may have tried to convey understanding in a way her husband failed to comprehend. Everybody just got their signals crossed.

Perhaps Joe, who saw that his wife was depressed and miserable, tried to cheer her up by telling her all the latest office jokes, or by tuning in her favorite TV show. What she wanted him to do was to offer to cook dinner and get her an aspirin. She took his apparent cheerfulness to mean lack of sympathy for her headache.

Jane may have started to talk about their planned vacation, when she saw that her husband was unhappy about his job. She thought that she might divert him from his troubles and give him something to look forward to. The husband may have interpreted her action as lack of concern for his job problems...he wanted her to tell him that, of course, the boss was all wrong, and he would certainly be missed...should be ever decide to quit.

In both cases Joe and Jane had some very specific ideas about how they wanted love and sympathy conveyed...and they were not prepared to accept any other token of affection. They were also not prepared to explain to their spouses what they expected by way of sympathy and understanding. As a result, their partners, who found their expression of affection rejected, became angry and resentful, and a whole cycle of conflict and misunderstanding had started.

A counselor is often able to help a troubled person to trace some of his annoyance down to its source. Why did he interpret Jane's action as lack of concern, when to an uninvolved observer they clearly indicate a desire of help? Why does he have such strong pre-conceived notions of how love and sympathy must be shown?

With the help of the counselor Joe or Jane can discover that no one meant to hurt their feelings...that, indeed, their spouse was trying to help in his own way. They learn also to understand that it is important to be able to recognize and accept love and affection in the way that it is actually given...not in the way in which it is imagined.

One of the most important results of counseling can be this untangling of crossed signals. If Joe and Jane are able to recognize signs and tokens of affection that are characteristic of their spouses, they will often find these more precious than the ones that they imagined to be appropriate.

For information about services available at Timber Hills Mental Health Center phone 728-3174 or visit the offices on the Highway 30 By-Pass in Booneville. After hours and on weekends phone 1-286-9209 toll free for emergency counseling services.

Refunds Take Ten Weeks

Taxpayers filing their 1980 federal income tax returns and claiming a refund should wait at least 10 weeks to contact the Internal Revenue Service about a delayed refund, the IRS says.

Generally, taxpayers who file returns early in the year should received refunds in less than ten weeks, unless their return was incorrect in some manner, according to the IRS.

Those taxpayers filing returns after April 1 should not contact the IRS about a refund until after June 15.

EUROPE 81— Marty McLendon (left), instructor of art at Northeast Junior College and coordinator of the Europe 81 tour, discusses plans for the 15-day tour of European cities with students, Gay Armstrong, of Booneville, and Allan Byram of Iuka. The college-sponsored tour, which includes visits to Paris, Geneva, Milan, Florence and Rome, will be June 3-17.

European Tour Offered

Fifteen days of travel through the European countryside can be yours for $1450 per person through the Northeast Junior College-sponsored tour, "Europe 81," June 3-17.

Offered through the school's art department, the tour will include visits to Paris, Geneva, Milan, Florence and Rome, following departure from New York City by way of Memphis.

Because of the nature of the tour, participants may take the option of gaining three semester hours of credit in Art 2723 by registering with the college and paying the necessary tuition fees. Art History II is a careful study of the Renaissance in Modern Art.

Points of interest within the European cities to be visited include such landmarks as the Grandiose Cathedral, embellished by Brunelleschi, Della Robia and Michelangelo; Giotto's Bell Tower; and, the Gallery of Fine Arts, which houses Michelangelo's celebrated statue of David.

There will also be stops in Rome at the Cistern Chapel, which houses Michelangelo's "Last Judgment"; the Arch of Titus; St. Peter's Basilica, the largest and most famous church in the world; and the ruins of the Roman Forum.

The price of the tour, which includes round trip air fare from Memphis to Paris, ground transportation, hotel accommodations and some breakfasts, can be paid in installments with the first deadline for payment set for April 10.

Because the number of spaces is limited to 16, interested persons should contact Marty McLendon, coordinator of the Europe 81 tour, by calling 728-7751, or (toll free within the college service area) 1-728-7759, ext. 229.

CB Club News

By THRASHER STAR Correspondent

I guess some of you didn't get to read our news last week. I am sure they just didn't have room or the "Yo Yo," did not get it there before the deadline, but it was written.

Hope all of our CB'ers are on the mend, the only one I know of who is in the hospital is the "Fig Leaf."

I heard by the grape vine that "Lady Q," is doing well. Her last report in Memphis was very good. She has been able to attend church and that will help her to feel better.

We would like to wish the "Teenage Skunk" a happy birthday on Sunday.

"Lady Bedsprings," says the "Bed Springs Man," is doing real well. In fact, he went to both the morning and evening worship service at church Sunday.

We are glad to know he is doing well, but I hear he put his cigarettes down. Guess what? He chews now!

Hope all of you have your gifts in for the jamboree. Don't forget to tell everyone about our jamboree.

Hope each of you will do your part to help make it a success. Make April 11 and 12 red letter days on the calendar.

Hope each of you have a good week. Go to the church of your choice, but go.

Secretarial Profession

It Is No Longer Strictly For Women

Prentiss County students who were told they were going to hear a lecture from a legal secretary from Atlanta, Ga., may have gotten a surprise Monday when they walked into the classroom. This particular secretary is a man.

"Countless men in past history disproved the fallacy that men should not be secretaries, that the secretarial profession is strictly for women," he told the students. "And, many men today are still finding and holding satisfying positions in this outstanding profession and will, I predict, in the future," he added.

Ralph A. Dowling, a legal secretary in Atlanta, Ga., spoke to students in the Business and Office Department of the Prentiss County Vocational Technical School Monday. He spoke to all classes of the Intensive Business Training and Cooperative Vocational Office Training programs throughout the day.

In addition, students from Hill's Chapel Attendance Center and Thrasher High School were attended one of his lectures.

Dowling is employed by attorney David J. Harris in Atlanta, as part of the 59-attorney division of Smith, Cohen, Ringel, Kohler and Martin.

He has written articles for the magazine, "Today's Secretary," and for the business teacher publication, "The Balance Sheet."

He has been a secretary for 25 years, working throughout the United States, in the Air Force and in the Bahamas. "Male secretaries work in and out of offices all over the world with dynamic business people in law, transportation, medicine, government, entertainment, oil, publishing, education, shipping, science—they are few in number, but they are everywhere," Dowling said.

"They have found not only job satisfaction, but adventure and fortune, some instantly and some after a long search," he said.

Dowling's visit to the Business and Office Department was as a part of the Grant for Sex Equity at the Prentiss County Vocational Technical Education.

SCOUTSHOW—Troop 37, sponsored by the First United Methodist Church in Booneville, explain how they constructed the signal tower which won them a blue ribbon in the Yocona Area Council Scout Show held last weekend in Tupelo. Terry Chism Named Distinguished Student

For the second year in a row, Terry Wayne Chism, the son of Mrs. Joyce Chism and the late Buck Chism of Baldwin, has been selected to represent Wheeler High School in The Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

His membership will be announced in the 1981 edition of The Society of Distinguished American High School Students, which will include his school biography.

In a letter to Terry's mother, L.B. Siegelman, executive director of the national honor society, said, "This is an exceptionally high national honor. Only a few students are nominated more than once during their high school career."

"For two years he (Terry) has demonstrated academic excellence and leadership in extracurricular or civic activities necessary to receive this award," Siegelman said.

Terry is the grandson of Mrs. Betty Key and the late Guy Key of Baldwin, and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Chism of New Albany.

He is also a member of the Beta Club, FFA and the 4-H Club.

Feeder Pig Sale At Booneville April 9

One of four feeder pig sales planned in the state during April will be held Thursday, April 9, in Booneville, according to Dr. James W. Shannon, Extension livestock specialist.

The other three are to be held at Waynesboro on April 7, at McComb on April 15 and at Laurel on April 21.

Shannon said that all sales regulations set up for these events must be met. Pigs for sale must be farrowed and raised on the particular farm and moved directly from that farm to the sale, he said.

The pigs consigned to a sale must be inspected for health and thriftiness by an authorized inspector within 10 days before the date of the sale, he said. A certificate of inspection must be presented to the sale inspector before unloading.

All pigs are inspected upon arrival at the sale, Shannon said. No cull pigs or pigs from herds that have been fed garbage will be accepted. Male pigs must be castrated and properly healed by sale day, he said, and all pigs must have tails docked.

Pigs may be ear-tagged to maintain records as to herd of origin.

All Mississippi feeder pig sales are approved sales, Shannon said, meeting the market standards of the federal Code of Regulations. Pigs are sorted into uniform groups according to grade, weight and quality by personnel of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

Cut off time for receiving pigs on sale day is 11:30 a.m. Pigs not on the yard by that time will be sold ungraded.

DOWN THE DRAIN—Prentiss County Sheriff John McCauley (left) and three sheriff's department employees are shown pouring out 35 to 40 cases of beer and two cases of whiskey confiscated by the sheriff's department. Some of the beverages are poured out on the road when it is taken, but these now-empty cans represent a large part of what has been taken since McCauley took office in January, 1980.

Sheriff Empties Cans, Bonds Claim Them For Charity

When Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bonds started collecting aluminum cans for charity a few months ago, they never dreamed that area beer drinkers would be making a sizeable contribution to their cause—and neither did the beer drinkers.

But that is what happened last week when Prentiss County Sheriff John McCauley decided it was time to dispose of the 35 to 40 cases of illegal beer he had accumulated since he took office in January 1980.

When the sheriff's department poured out the beer, they were left with almost 1,000 empty cans they had no use for. But the Bonds were happy to help him dispose of the cans.

When Mr. and Mrs. Bonds' 23-year-old daughter, Kathy, died with cerebral palsy last December, they decided to collect and sell scrap aluminum with the proceeds to go to the Regional Rehabilitation Center in Tupelo.

The center serves an eight-county area of north Mississippi by providing cost-free therapy of all types to the mentally and physically handicapped. There are currently more than 100 Prentiss Countians being served by the center.

The center receives a government allocation but depends heavily on contributions made through its annual radio-thon to maintain the services it renders. The radio-thon is held the first Sunday of December, and is carried on a regional network which includes station WBIP in Booneville.

The Bonds have made two sales of the scrap aluminum since they started their collections about two months ago. The first sale netted $35.08 and the second was for $46.81. They have opened a special bank account for the funds and will let the money accumulate until the radio-thon in December.

"It takes about 23 cans to weigh a pound, and we are now getting 31 cents a pound for it," Ms. Bonds said. "We can also use other scrap aluminum—old dishpans, pots and pans—anything made of aluminum."

"We will be collecting the cans until the radio-thon in December," Mr. Bonds said, "and anyone who would like to help, may bring their cans to our home at 502 South Lake Street. Or if they wish they can call us at 728-7860 and we will pick up the cans."

Plan Storage Space

Spring is a good time to take stock of storage needs. Clean out closets, drawers and cabinets. Wash interiors and contents.

Repaint where needed and add new shelf and drawer paper or vinyl covering. Rearrange items for convenient use. Consider better use of storage space with space-saving accessories.

The Soap and Detergent Association offers the following guidelines to meet storage needs.

Sort Items For Storage

Begin by separating items no longer needed. Discard broken or worn out things and donate usable articles to charitable organizations or plan a neighborhood garage sale.

Donations should be clean and in good repair. Package items such as games so that parts aren't lost.

For items to be stored, keep in mind four questions. Who will use it? How often? Where? What kind of storage is required?

The answers will suggest where and how to store the item. The answers can also suggest potential storage convenience.

For example, a lower clothes rod can be hung from the regular clothes closet rod. This puts clothing within the reach of a young child or saves space as a slacks or skirt rack with room above for blouses and shirts.

Sort according to frequency of use. Set up a usage scale ranging from several times daily to daily, weekly, semimonthly, monthly, seasonally, once a season.

There should also be a category for things saved but rarely used, such as mementos, cancelled checks and tax returns.

Practice strict safety when storing household chemicals. Be sure all medicines, cleaning supplies, cosmetics and other nonfood items are in original containers that are clearly labeled.

Storage convenience may have to be somewhat sacrificed if there are young children in the household. For example, instead of keeping cleaning supplies under a sink, place on a high shelf or cabinet out of reach of the tots. Cosmetics should not be left out on a dressing table or countertop.

Place Items Where They Are Used

Setting the table is quicker if dishes are stored near the table. However, it may be preferable to store in cabinets near the dishwasher and/or sink. Pots, pans and spices are needed at the range.

Frequency of use again comes into play. Relegate less used items to secondary positions and seldom used things to less accessible storage areas.

If stored in boxes, label them for easy identification. Duplicating supplies can save time and steps, especially in a large home or a two-story or multi-level home.

For more on storage tips, call this office at 728-5631.

Hand Wins Pole Vaulting Title

Devillette Tracksters Rank High At Tupelo Meet

TUPELO—Booneville's Ryan Hand, the State's number one ranked pole vaulter, claimed top honors here Saturday with a jump of 12 feet even in class A competition of the Daily Journal Relays.

Hand's performance along with a first place finish by Booneville's girls 880-yard relay team highlighted Booneville's track and field performance in Saturday's Annual event.

Booneville's tracksters, under the direction of coach Riley Presley, finished with 47 total points. The girl squad finished second in the Class A division with 30 points finishing behind Pontotoc who registered 59 total points while the boys collected 17 points behind top seeded New Albany in Class A who had 53 points. Booneville's girls 880-yard team composed of Tina Gardner, Dianne Harris, LA Harris and Vanessa Groves, clearly led the field in the 880 event and registered a 1:54.0 time to claim the top honors.

TIMBER TIPS
 by Lanny Autry
 Many owners of timberlands are hesitant to harvest even a portion of their timber crops because they fear that the beauty, or the value to wildlife, or even the economic value of their timberlands will be destroyed. These owners fail to realize that a properly timed and properly conducted timber sale can be of great value to the remainder of the timber stand and increase the types of food available for wildlife.

Applications Arriving For Northeast Coaching Jobs

Northeast Mississippi Junior College athletic director Bill Ward said Tuesday that applications were beginning to come in heavy now for the two vacated coaching positions now open at Northeast.

Both the girls and boys basketball coaching posts are now vacant after both boys coach Noel Akins and girls mentor Millard Lothenore resigned their positions last week.

Lothenore will remain at the college as girls softball coach a spot now instated at the institution, while coach Akins says his plans are indefinite at this time. He said he hadn't fully made up his mind about his coaching future.

Ward said several coaches had contacted him about the positions including a number of local coaches as well as several out of state coaches.

Ward said the college would start screening the applicants shortly, looking over resumes, etc., and then a committee would screen the applications down to some two or three applicants where the decision would then be made on these.

Bob Weltlich To Speak At Booneville High School Basketball Banquet

University of Mississippi head basketball coach Bob Weltlich will be the guest speaker at the Booneville High School Basketball Awards Banquet to be held April 16th at the Booneville High School Cafeteria.

Weltlich, who coached this year's Ole Miss Rebels to the NCAA Tournament is one of the most sought after speakers for these type event.

Coach Weltlich, named last year's Southeastern Conference Coach Of The Year, has made numerous trips to North Mississippi to make guest appearances and also toured this area during this year's basketball season on scouting trips.

Coach Weltlich came to Ole Miss in 1977 after assisting Indiana head coach Bobby Knight to the 1976 National Championship.

The Ole Miss head coach, a graduate of Ohio State University, has completely turned the program around since his tenure began at Oxford. Leading the Rebels to their first post season appearance last year in the NIT and then again this year to the NCAA, he has recorded some 65 victories and has a 464 percent winning average among former Ole Miss coaches, ranking third in that department.

Coach Weltlich led the Ole Miss squad to the past two winning seasons, 17-13 last year and 16-14 this year, their two best in recent years.

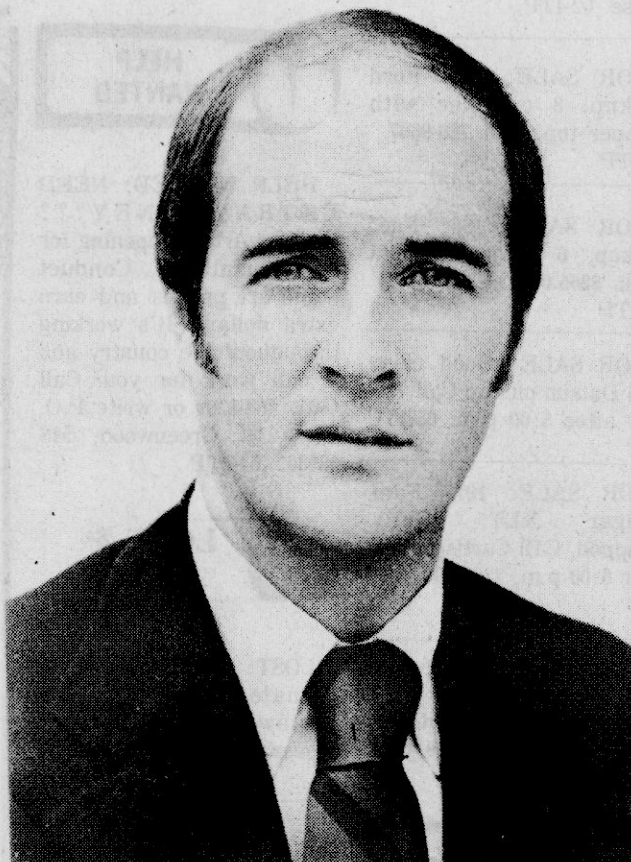

Weltlich appearance will highlight this year's round-ball banquet which will present awards to Booneville High School basketballers for their outstanding performances during the season.

A host of awards will be presented in the basketball circuits including most valuable player, best of-feniseve players, best defensive players, etc.

Booneville High School head basketball coach Rickey Ford will be on hand to present the awards to his athletes along with other coaches in the athletic department and Booneville High School principal Mac Curlee will serve as emcee.

Curlee said tickets to the April 16th banquet will be $3.00 and will be sold at the school and businesses around town.

Cards Of Thanks

We wish to express our gratitude to our friends and relatives for the food, flowers, cards and sympathy which was shown to us in the loss of our loved one, Mrs. Lillie Mae Johnson. We thank the nurses on A-wing, CCU, Dr. Galloway and Salts Funeral Home for their care and services. A special thank you to Bro. Gene Gilbert for the words of comfort.

The Children of Lillie Mae Johnson

TO MOTHER

I've tried to write a poem to you for such a long long time. To say how much I love you and put it all in rhyme. But it is hard to find the words that adequately express Your loving smile, your clear blue eyes, and your kind thoughtfulness. You've been a wonderful mother, and I thank you, oh so much For the many things you've done for me and for your inspiring touch,

For you've encouraged me and spurred me on when the way seemed dark and drear, And I'm so thankful unto God for you, Mother dear. The first buttercups that bloom in the spring Remind me of the joy you bring. The full blown rose in the summer season Makes me think of your wisdom and reason.

The autumn leaves of red and gold Bring back memories I'll cherish and hold. Your sweet voice echoes in the trill of the bird, And in the murmuring trees, your guitar is heard. Your life is as pure as the winter's first snow, I'm proud of you, and I want you to know That I'll always love you and hold you in my heart, And if wishes came true- We'd NEVER part.

This poem was written in 1960 by Mrs. G.W. Googe, Jr. of Jackson, Tenn. to her mother, Mrs. Luna Morton of Booneville. Mrs. Morton died March 30, 1974.

County Agent's Notes

By W.H. HADEN
County Agent

Choose Varieties Carefully

What do you look for in a soybean variety? Obviously, yield is a major consideration. But other factors should influence your decision.

First, consider your soil's capabilities and problems. Then select the varieties that fit your farm situation best. Look for varieties that have pest resistance, resist lodging and don't shatter.

Study yield performance at research stations similar to your own soil and location. Look at several years' research; don't depend on one year's results.

You'll want to check on herbicide reaction, too. Some varieties are sensitive to Lexone or Sencor.

Don't abandon known varieties that are yielding well. Gradually switch to new ones that research has shown to have more advantages.

Planting different maturing varieties will lengthen the harvest season and let you harvest more acres per combine. It also gives you some insurance against unfavorable weather.

A good guideline is to plant 30 percent early, 50 percent mid-maturity and 20 percent late maturity varieties.

No matter what varieties you plant, you won't get the best results without lime, fertilizer and good management.

Food For Thought

You might want to keep the following information handy for your friends who live in town:

Agriculture is the nation's number one employer. It employs more than 15 million people, from growing food and fiber to selling it at the supermarket. It accounts for one off every five jobs in private enterprise.

Agriculture is the nation's number one inflation fighter. Farm productivity growth was five times greater than non-farm industry in the past five years. One farm worker supplies enough food and fiber for 68 people.

Agriculture is the nation's number one exporter. Agricultural exports were a record $40 billion in 1980, by far the leading positive factor in the U.S. balance of trade. These exports make it possible to pay for imports like oil, automobiles and electronics.

American agriculture is the most efficient in the world. According to the latest figures, we're spending 16.5 percent of our income for food. Russians spend 45 percent; West Germans, 27 percent; Japanese, 28 percent; British, 31 percent; and Italians, 35 percent.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED—"Mesh Ladies" from the Mississippi University for Women at Columbus entertain Prentiss County seniors last Friday during Senior Day which was held at Jumbertown School. The approximately 150 seniors in the county schools were able to meet and discuss their futures with about 20 different colleges, businesses and vocational schools. Refreshments were also provided.

Cochran Favors Taxpaying Bill

Sen. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) has announced that he is sponsoring legislation that will enable all taxpayers to deduct their charitable contributions, whether or not they itemize their other deductions.

Unfortunately, our present income tax code often discourages charitable giving," Sen. Cochran said. He said because most taxpayers, especially in the lower and middle income brackets, use the "standard deduction" instead of itemizing, they cannot deduct their contributions and therefore lose their incentives for charitable giving.

The Senator said that "economic conditions require federal budget cuts that will surely impact many of our social services. Voluntary organizations must, therefore, depend on citizen's contributions to expand their effectiveness."

"We need to re-establish the fundamental principle that money given by an individual for charitable purpose is money that should not be taxed," he said.

Cochran sponsored similar legislation during the last Congress when the bill received widespread support and was approved by the Senate Finance Committee as part of a tax-cut package. However, time did not permit consideration by the full Senate before the 96th Congress ended.

S. 170, the charitable contributions bill, will amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, if passed.

Correction

Wins 1st, Not 4th

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Banner-Independent that Wesley Burcham of Booneville High School received fourth place in the Chemistry category, Class 5, of the Northeast Regional Science Fair.

Wesley actually received first place in that category. Mitzi Tennyson received fourth place.

The Banner-Independent regrets the error.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: — BEAR FRUIT —

By Charles L. Potts

"I am the true vine, and my Father is the vinedresser. Every branch of mine that bears no fruit, he takes away, and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes, that it may bear more fruit.....abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit by itself, unless it abides in the vine, Neither can you, unless you abide in me. I am the vine, you are the branches. He who, abide in me, and I in him, he it is that bears much fruit, for apart from me you can do nothing.....By this my Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit, and so prove to be my disciples."

Have you ever planted something, watered it, weeded it, and waited for its fruit, only to be terribly disappointed? If so you might have asked, "What good are plants that fail to produce?" After all, what is an apple tree without apples? A pear tree without pears...or a grapevine without grapes?

Jesus spoke of the importance of fruit in our Scripture. He tells us it is "much fruit" that glorifies the Father, and it is "much fruit" that reveals our own discipleship. In other words, if a test could be used in measuring our discipleship...it would have something to do with the number of people who see, hear and taste the quality of Jesus' life in us, and as a result they respond to Jesus and become disciples. How are we doing? How are you doing?

We recall that the branch by itself can do nothing. Only as we abide in the true vine...and are daily vitalized by the flow of his fruit producing Spirit can we lead others to experience the same. Evangelism then becomes the end product of God's own life. His Holy Spirit - flowing up through Jesus and out through us to others....if we maintain our own intimate relationship with Christ.

God stands ready to prune us into more effectiveness if we are willing. Let the Lord's own words speak for themselves as we give a quiet moment to their power:

-every branch that bears no fruit, he takes away

-every branch that does bear fruit he prunes

-abide in me, and I in you

-apart from me you can do nothing -bear much fruit, and so prove to be my disciples."
