21 Cases Set For Trial In Circuit Court Next Week

A manslaughter trial and the re-trial of a murder case that ended in a mistrial during the February term are among some 21 criminal cases scheduled to be heard next week in the second week of the June session of Prentiss County Circuit Court.

Bobby Ray Morrow, 34, who was indicted in October 1980 on a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his third cousin, Buddy Baggett, is scheduled to have a second trial Tuesday, June 23.

In the February term of circuit court a six man, six woman jury was deadlocked for five hours in its attempts to reach a verdict in the first hearing of the Morrow case. Judge Tommy Gardner declared a mistrial in the case and it was scheduled for re-trial in this session of court.

The manslaughter trial scheduled for next week comes as the result of a February ruling by the Mississippi Supreme Court which reversed an earlier murder conviction of James Lowrey (Larry) Edge and remanded him for a new trial on the charge of manslaughter.

Edge, 36, was convicted in a jury trial in the October 1979 term of Prentiss County Circuit Court of the shotgun slaying of another Prentiss County man, John Wayne Murphy, 39, at Elder's Lake on the night of Oct. 24, 1978.

In overturning this conviction in February of this year, the state Supreme Court also said that when the new trial on manslaughter is held, a change of venue to another county should be granted if requested by Edge's attorney.

As of Tuesday, Edge's manslaughter trial was still on the court docket for next Thursday in Prentiss County Circuit court.

Other cases scheduled for trial next week include the following:

Curtis Gamble, 31, of Route 6, Booneville, is scheduled for trial on a charge of burglary in connection with a break-in at Barron's Grocery on East Church Street.

County Grand Jury Returns 9 Indictments

Nine criminal indictments naming 11 persons were returned by a one-day session of the Prentiss County Grand Jury Monday.

Although Prentiss County Circuit Clerk Travis Cox has not yet released the names of those charged, the indictments included charges of attempted burglary, grand larceny, burglary and larceny, possession of a controlled substance, and jail break.

The names of those charged are being withheld pending the location by the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department of all those named in the indictments.

Ordinarily, the Prentiss County Grand Jury does not meet during the June session of Circuit Court, Cox said this week, unless there are enough cases on hand to make it feasible for them to do so.

Since the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department had enough cases to warrant it, the February term Grand Jury was recalled for a one-day session to consider those cases, Cox said.

The Prentiss County Grand Jury normally meets in February and October.

NEMJC Secretary Wins National Honor

Mrs. Lynn M. Vuncannon, Executive Secretary to the President at Northeast Mississippi Junior College, has been named National Educational Office Employee of the Year by the National Association of Educational Office Personnel.

Northeast Junior College President Harold T. White received a phone call last Thursday from the chairman of the awards committee in Pennsylvania telling him Mrs. Vuncannon had been awarded the national honor.

Mrs. Vuncannon, a resident of Route 3, Rienzi, has been employed at the college for a total of 12 years. She has been secretary to President White for eight of those years.

Prior to being named National Educational Office Employee of the Year, Mrs. Vuncannon was first selected to represent her local organization, the Northeast Mississippi Association of Educational Office Personnel.

From there, her name and application were submitted to the Mississippi Association of Educational Office Personnel. After being named State Educational Office Employee of the Year in March, she advanced to competition on the national level.

Mrs. Vuncannon won the national title over nominees from 26 other states. She will be presented a plaque at the national organization's awards luncheon this July in Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Vuncannon is a native of Prentiss County. She graduated from Thrasher High School and attended Northeast Junior College.

She is married to Ray Vuncannon and they have a daughter, Denise.

She said Monday that not only was she surprised to win the national honor, she was "shocked."

However, it came as no surprise to her boss. "She is being recognized for all those outstanding characteristics that we have known about for a long time," President White said.

"In addition to being a very intelligent lady with integrity and imagination, she has an outstanding personality, is attractive, well groomed, professional and very committed to the service of this institution," he said.

He described her as "an outstanding ambassador of goodwill for Northeast."

In addition to this latest honor, Mrs. Vuncannon also achieved another accomplishment last year.

After taking a 25-week course on the Certified Profession Secretary (CPS) examination, she wrote the exam in May 1980 and was one of only six in the state who received certification at that time.

There are only 66 Certified Professional Secretaries in the state.

Mrs. Vuncannon is the second person in Mississippi to receive the National Educational Office

Chickasaw Counties Sue For 16th Section Lands

The Prentiss County School District, along with school districts in 16 other North Mississippi counties, are taking President Ronald Reagan and other state and federal officials to court.

School districts in these 17 counties, which lie in a section of the state known as the Chickasaw Cession, have filed a joint lawsuit in federal court asking for changes in the way the amount of 16th section revenues is determined for Chickasaw counties.

The lawsuit stems from an action taken over a century ago when the state of Mississippi sold to private individuals the 16th section lands in the Chickasaw Cession.

When Mississippi was admitted to the Union in 1817 the U.S. Congress had set aside these 16th section lands in each county to be used for the maintenance of the public schools.

However, in the 1830's when the lands were sold as part of the Treaty of Pontotoc Creek, the counties lost the use of the lands. The state set aside "lieu" lands in 1836 to compensate for the lost 16th section lands, but just a few years later the state also sold these lieu lands.

Since 1892, each county has been paid 36 cents an acre per year for these lands lost. In most of the counties involved in the lawsuit, this amounts to between $3,000 and $4,000 per year.

There is a vast difference in the amount of money received by those counties in the Chickasaw Cession and those counties who did not lose their 16th section lands.

For example, Jasper county still has its 16th section lands. In 1979 Jasper received the largest revenue in the state from its lands, almost $1.5 million.

In comparison, Supt. Lex Cain said Tuesday that Prentiss County receives only $2,600 per year. "And that $2,600 has to be divided with the Baldwin School System and, now, the Booneville School System," he said.

B.H. Papasan, superintendent of the Tunica County Schools, has been the leader in the battle to correct this condition which he calls "unfair, unethical and illegal."

Papasan has tried for 10 years to find a solution to the problem. The last attempt, he said, was a bill introduced in the 1981 legislature session. However, that bill died in committee.

On Friday, June 12, attorneys representing Papasan, the Prentiss County School District, and about 19 other school districts filed the federal lawsuit.

Named as defendants are President Ronald Reagan, the United States, the State of Mississippi, Gov. William Winter, and other federal and state officials.

However, Papasan

stresses that the lawsuit in no way asks for the return of the 16th section lands, which are now, and have been for some time, in the hands of private individuals.

"We don't want to grab lands," he said. "This is not land reform litigation."

What the lawsuit does ask is that the state and federal governments provide an

'Udderly' Refreshing!

KEEPING COOL - Somebody forgot to tell the weather that June is Dairy Month, a time to take it easy on the cows. As the temperatures hit the 90's last week, this group of bovines on Meadowcreek Road gathered under shade trees and waded in a pond to keep cool. Add a few sunshades, some beach blankets and a couple of coolers of soft drinks and the gathering wouldn't be too much different from some human swimming parties!

SS Eligibility To Be Re-Examined

Many people living in Prentiss County and receiving social security disability payments will have their cases re-examined in the near future to make sure they continue to be eligible for benefits, according to Hugh Tigrett, social security district manager in Tupelo.

Social security is required to review most disability cases at least once every three years starting in 1982 because of the 1980 disability amendments. The reviews are conducted to determine if a person is still disabled, Tigrett said.

As an important first step in making the required reviews, social security is significantly increasing the number of continuing disability investigations it makes, he said. About 350,000 cases will be reviewed during the remainder of this fiscal year. Next year, over 500,000 cases will be reviewed.

The initial cases to be reviewed will be selected based on studies which show those cases most likely to result in recovery, Tigrett said. These first investigations will provide more data which should indicate other types of cases that should be reviewed soon.

Social security disability benefits can only be made to people who have a severe physical or mental impairment expected to prevent them from working for at least 12 months or more or to result in death, he said.

People found no longer disabled during the case reviews will have the opportunity to appeal the decision, Tigrett said.

More information about social security disability requirements can be obtained at any social security office.

Mushrooms May Be Contaminated

The Mississippi State Board of Health is urging local consumers to check for contamination any canned mushrooms they may have purchased recently.

U.S. Food and Drug Administration officials have learned that four-ounce cans of mushroom stems and pieces processed at Oxford Royal Mushroom Products Inc. of Kelton, Pa., are potentially contaminated.

FDA testing showed that some cans produced at the Kelton plant contained botulinum toxin, which can cause botulism, a

For Aged, Blind, Disabled

Medicaid Commission To Handle Applications

After July 1, the Department of Public Welfare will not handle Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind or disabled. It will be handled by the Mississippi Medicaid Commission in accordance with a new state law.

The Mississippi Legislature in 1980 adopted Supplementary Security Income (SSI) criteria for determining Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind and disabled.

After July 1, county welfare departments will only process Medicaid eligibility for aid to dependent children recipients and foster care, a state Medicaid Commission spokesman said.

Aged, blind or disabled persons receiving Medicaid cards from the Department of Public Welfare will receive notices after June 15 advising them if they will continue to be eligible.

Aged, blind or disabled persons receiving Medicaid cards from the Department of Public Welfare will receive notices after June 15 advising them if they will continue to be eligible.

Those Medicaid recipients will also be notified of the appropriate Medicaid regional office they should contact if they have any questions concerning their eligibility.

The Medicaid Commission will open Medicaid regional offices on July 1 to handle Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind or disabled persons who do not receive SSI.

These offices will be located in Tupelo, Columbus, Meridian, Greenwood, Greenville, Jackson, Hattiesburg, Vicksburg and Gulfport. The regional offices will work with persons in those areas.

Under the new law:

—All persons who receive SSI will automatically be eligible for Medicaid.

—Aged, blind or disabled persons in institutional care facilities (nursing homes or long term hospitalization) may be eligible if determined financially needy.

—Persons who would be eligible for SSI if Social Security cost of living increases which caused them to exceed the financial need standard were disregarded.

Non-SSI aged, blind or disabled persons who wish to apply for Medicaid must contact the Medicaid Regional Office serving the area in which they reside.

For Repairs

Trace Parkway Closes

Superintendent Jim Bainbridge this week announced the temporary closing of 14 miles of the Natchez Trace Parkway in Tennessee from Tennessee Highway 99 north to Tennessee Highway 50, effective Tuesday, June 16.

He said the closing was necessary for the immediate repair of the rock wall on the southeast side of the parkway in the area of Jackson Falls. Bainbridge said the rock wall at Jackson Falls had shifted and dropped five feet this spring.

In order to prevent further damage to the parkway and the loss of a portion of the adjacent hiking trail down to Jackson Falls, it will be necessary to make immediate repairs by removing a part of the rock wall, adding a stabilizing foundation, and then relaying part of the wall.

"We are sorry for any inconvenience that this temporary closing will create and ask the cooperation of all motorists traveling this Tennessee section of the parkway," Bainbridge said.

Bainbridge emphasized that the repairs are expected to be completed within approximately three weeks with the parkway then being open to travel on this most recently completed section.

annual income to Chickasaw Cession school districts in an amount equal to the income they would reasonably expect to earn from the original 16th section lands or the lie in lands if they were still owned by the counties.

The lawsuit also asks that the defendants compensate the schools for all the income they would have received from 1832 until the present if they had been receiving the income from the original 16th section lands or the lie in lands, plus interest.

Because of the loss of these lands, "the children in these schools have seen the children in other school districts in Mississippi which have income from 16th section lands enjoy financial resources and receive educational opportunities greatly in excess of those provided in the Chickasaw Cession counties," the lawsuit states.

The 17 counties involved in the lawsuit include Alcorn, Benton, Chickasaw, Calhoun, Clay, DeSoto, Itawamba, Lafayette, Lee, Marshall, Pontotoc, Prentiss, Tate, Tippah, Tishomingo, Tunica and Union, Papasan said.

Mushrooms

sometimes fatal food poisoning.

At the present time, no illness or death has been associated with consumption of any mushrooms, FDA and State Board of Health officials said.

State Board of Health sanitarians and FDA officials are checking with all grocers statewide who might have the potentially dangerous mushrooms.

A spot check in Corinth revealed that one store there had the brand in stock earlier. They no longer have that brand, and they told Health Department officials they did not know if any were sold.

A spokesman for the Prentiss County Health Department said Tuesday that no contaminated mushrooms have been reported here.

Board of Health officials say consumers should check their shelves and return any potentially contaminated cans to the grocer.

These cans can be identified from the code on the lid. If the second character on the top line of the code is "K," and if the bottom line contains "P1," "P2," "LP1," or "LP2," the product should be considered contaminated and returned to the place of purchase.

Only four-ounce cans are included.

The mushrooms have been marketed nationally under almost 50 different brand names, including Brandywine, Food Club, Kroger and Oxford Royal.

Generic labels simply called "mushrooms, stems and pieces" were distributed through Win-Dixie and Jitney Jungle stores, the FDA said.

The manufacturer is conducting the voluntary recall from the retail and wholesale markets.

Additional information can be obtained from Greg Geno, sanitarian at the Prentiss County Health Department, or from Edsel J. Hart, recall director in FDA's Nashville District office, at 615-251-5851.

Employee of the Year title. Jane Goodsen, secretary to the State Superintendent of Education, received the award in 1976.

This year also marks the second time someone from Mississippi will be installed as president of the national organization. Catherine Sullivan of Itta Bena will be installed at the National Convention in Baltimore, Mrs. Vuncannon said.

Mrs. Vuncannon credits President White with having much to do with her achievement in being selected to the national honor.

"It was President White's idea and through his encouragement that the local organization (Northeast Mississippi Association of Educational Office Personnel) was formed," she said.

White also sponsored the Certified Professional Secretary course for those at Northeast who wished to upgrade their abilities, she said.

Mrs. Vuncannon has been a member of the National Association of Educational Office Personnel for five years.

Correction

In an article two weeks ago in The Banner-Independent on the "Miracles" of the Baddour Center in Senatobia, Larry Vuncannon was incorrectly listed as president of the Northeast Mississippi CB Club, which sponsored a recent performance of the

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, I read in Rom. 8:26,27 that the Spirit makes intercession for us, could you help me with this passage?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: I will do my best to help. Intercession is from three sources. Our brethren are taught to make intercessions for us; "That supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgiving, be made for all men" (1 Tim. 2:1). Simon, asked for the prayers of brethren (Acts 8:24). The sick were to seek the prayers of the elders in their behalf (Jas. 5:14). Paul asked for the prayers of his brethren in preaching the gospel (Eph. 6:18). We have another intercessor that is even more assuring. Jesus Christ is our advocate with the Father (1 Jno. 2:1). The Bible tells us that he appears before the face of God for us and is also touched with the feeling of our infirmities (Heb. 9:24). The third intercessor is the Holy Spirit who is mentioned in your text. The text tells us that many times we may not know how to pray as we ought. The Spirit seems to help us in presenting to God our needs and desires. Jesus Christ is our advocate (paraclete). The Spirit is our other comforter (paraclete) advocate, helper (1 Jno. 2:1).

Famous Country Singer Pays Unexpected Visit

Last Thursday wasn't what you could call an ordinary workday for Sandra King, an employee of Kentucky Fried Chicken in Booneville.

Shortly after the restaurant opened, around 11 a.m., two customers pulled into the parking lot from U.S. 45 in a silver Mercedes.

On the front of the car, in the holder for the front license plate, there was a tag with the picture of a possum on it.

A man and a woman got out of the car and came inside, stopping at the counter to place their order.

A glimmer of suspicion crept across Sandra's mind. Thinking she possibly recognized him, yet afraid to come right out and say it, she asked the man, "Who are you?"

At first he joked around with her. "I'm Tom T. Hall," he said laughing.

That wasn't who she had in mind when she thought she recognized him. "No you're not. Who are you?" she asked again.

Still joking with her, he said, "I'm ashamed you don't recognize me."

"Well, I think I do, but I'm not sure," she replied. "OK," he finally admitted, "I'm George Jones."

And that was who she thought he was from the start.

As it turned out, the country and western singer was passing through Booneville en route to Florence, Ala., the home of his traveling companion. (No, the woman was not Tammy Wynett, his former wife, Sandra said later.)

After getting their order, Jones and the woman sat in a booth in the restaurant to eat, staying for about 20-30 minutes, Sandra said.

During this time, she talked to them and even got Jones' autograph.

"He looked just like himself," Sandra said, "just like he looks on TV."

While the couple were eating, several customers came and went, but none paid much attention to Jones, Sandra said.

"Two ladies came in and kept looking at him like they might recognize him," she said, "but they wouldn't say anything."

When Sandra first told the restaurant manager, Tom Dodds, who was back in the kitchen, that George Jones was out front, he didn't believe her.

"Get me his autograph," he kidded her.

But, since he could hear Jones talking, he did admit that the voice sounded familiar.

"Of course it's familiar," Sandra said. "you've heard it on the radio."

Sandra said Jones did not know the name of the town where he had stopped to eat. "He said he had been driving for about 20-30 minutes looking for a Kentucky Fried Chicken place."

Sandra said when she told him he was in Booneville, he said, "Yeah, you've got a good radio station here that plays country music."

Although Jones was "so nice," Sandra admits she was a little embarrassed to ask him for his autograph. But she finally did, getting one for herself, one for the manager and one for another employee, Mary Jo Spencer, who had not yet arrived for work.

Mary Jo, who Sandra said is a big fan of his, arrived just as Jones and his companion were leaving.

"I kept motioning for her to look at him," Sandra said, "but she never did. She was so disappointed when I told her about missing him."

But, Mary Jo didn't come away empty handed.

Not only did she get the autograph Sandra had obtained for her, she also took home with her the cup Jones drank from!

THE FAMILY OF GEORGE BULLARD WOULD LIKE TO TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY TO THANK EVERYONE—FRIENDS AND FAMILY ALIKE

—For their kindness and consideration at a time when other people's reaching out to touch and comfort you means even more than usual.

The flowers, cards, food, and words of comfort seemed to soothe our aching hearts and remind us how much the concern of others really means to us.

The kind and encouraging words of Bro. Luther Gibson, Bro. Eddie Ramond, and Bro. Elwyn McCutcheon helped to lighten the load of many hearts which seemed to be burdened beyond endurance. Their strength and spirit in our time of despair will always be remembered and appreciated.

Our special thanks to McMillan's Funeral Home and the people there whose friendship and willingness to serve was felt by all.

Again we would all like to express our heartfelt gratitude to everyone who helped in any way our saying farewell to this warm and gentle man whom we loved so deeply and will miss so dearly.

For Notary Publics

New Procedures Developed

Secretary of State Ed Pittman said last week his office has developed procedures for implementing the provisions of the new Notary Public Law which was passed by the 1981 Session of the Mississippi Legislature.

The new legislation changes the jurisdiction of notaries public.

Under the former law, notaries could act only within the boundaries of their respective counties of residence.

Pittman said that after July 1 a notary would be able to be commissioned to serve not only in his county of residence but in any or all adjoining counties.

Pittman also said that, in order to protect the public, the notaries' bonds have been increased to $3,500 for single county notaries and $5,000 for multi-county notaries.

Bill Sets Guideline For School Bus Purchases

By SEN. BILL MAY
Itawamba-Prentiss-Tishomingo Counties

H.B. No. 78 (Conference Report adopted): Before the commencement of litigation against the State Board of Education relative to the board's authority to fix prices for the purchase of school transportation equipment, the State Board established specifications and prices from the lowest and best bid received for each category of bus body.

Local school districts could purchase bodies from any dealer at this price without the necessity of advertising, and could purchase bus chassis at an established percentage (20 percent) below the local dealer price.

If properly invoiced, local school districts could also purchase buses as complete units without advertising.

Under the suit of The State Board of Education v. Bus Supply Company Inc., filed in 1978, the lower court held that the State Board could not arbitrarily fix prices for any type of transportation equipment, including chassis, complete bus units and service vehicles.

The Supreme Court reversed this decision in July 1980, ruling that the State Board of Education shall take bids on all transportation equipment and award the bid statewide to the lowest and best bidder. Local school districts opposed this because they cannot purchase chassis or equipment that they need locally.

Under House Bill 78, the State Board of Education advertises and takes bids for the sale of school bus bodies and buses sold as complete units and establishes prices therefor based upon the lowest and best bid.

Local school boards may purchase same from only those companies submitting bids at the established price, without the necessity of additional advertising.

All persons submitting bids and participating in the process shall be subject to the approval of the State Board in order to allow regulation of unsound companies. The State Board may reject any and all bids submitted.

Subsection (3) of Section 1 inserts, the "3 percent" law dealing with the purchase of motor vehicles from local dealers. This provision allows local school districts to accept lowest and best bids from local dealers for school bus chassis or service vehicles at 3 percent greater than dealer cost.

The State Board must approve all such purchases to assure compliance with specifications.

Subsection (4) writes into the law the current State Board regulations relative to the purchase of used school buses and service vehicles. The purchase price may not exceed their fair market value as determined by three experienced appraisers chosen by the parties involved.

The State Board approves applications for such purchases but has no control over the prices.

Subsection (5) authorizes school districts to sell school buses or service vehicles to another school district subject to prior approval of the State Board.

Do Allies Carry Fair Share Of Defense Burden?

By CONG. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

The relationship between the U.S. and its allies in Western Europe and Japan pretty much depends on the perception that the benefits of the alliance are worth the costs involved.

That's been part of U.S. relations with NATO countries for almost 30 years, but it has only recently become a prominent consideration in U.S. policy toward Japan. In the area of international defense, the issue is an important one.

The simple fact is that by almost every standard of measurement, the U.S. spends more on defense than does any of its allies.

While Americans realize the importance of not only national defense but also the physical security of Western Europe and Japan, some have begun to question whether the allies are carrying their share of the burden.

When these nations were relatively weak economically, the discrepancy in defense spending was tolerable, especially in the immediate post-war period when massive reconstruction efforts, supported by the U.S., were underway.

Now, the question is being asked in Congress and elsewhere of whether the allies have been benefiting economically from the security umbrella provided by the U.S. while not doing enough militarily.

The allies, of course, argue that they have been increasing their relative share of the burden over the years and continue to do so. They also say a variety of factors make simple measurement of their contributions misleading.

But there are some fundamental differences on the nature of the threat. Most Europeans and Japanese do not view the Soviet threat with the same degree of concern as do American observers.

The Reagan administration's policy is still emerging, but I think it

Reflections

By Ken Christian

"Negative influences? What negative influences?"

More than one reader wanted to know that last week when they read in The Banner-Independent that a major manufacturing company had decided not to locate a proposed new plant here in Prentiss County because of "too many negative influences in the (neighboring) towns of Corinth, Tupelo and Ripley."

Unfortunately, we don't know the answer to those questions either. In fact, we would very much like to know "why" ourselves.

But, in his letter to Mayor Charles Crabb, Vernon D. Gabe, director of Corporate Real Estate for the Gates Rubber Company of Denver, Colo., did not elaborate as to what these "negative influences" might be.

And telephone conversations between local officials and Gates officials have not produced satisfactory reasons for the company's rejection of Booneville.

Don't misunderstand. We feel the company has a perfect right to locate its new plant wherever it wishes. But, we'd like to know what the problem was here so that we can work on correcting it and preventing the same thing from scaring off any other industries that may look at our town and county in the future.

There has been much speculation and there are still many rumors going around, none of which have been verified, to the best of our knowledge.

One of the most persistent rumors (and we emphasize that it is a rumor) is that Gates was discouraged from coming here by another nationally known company who at one time had a factory in Tupelo, a factory that is no longer in operation there.

If such is the case, then unfortunately there may not be much we here in Prentiss County can do to prevent the same company from discouraging other companies thinking of locating here.

That means that we, as Prentiss Countians, will just have to make it so attractive here for any future prospective industries that they will overlook those "neighboring influences" and want to locate here anyhow.

And to do so will take a concerted effort on the part of all Prentiss Countians.

Eyes On Mississippi

'And In This Corner ...'

By BILL MINOR

Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.—Some wags are suggesting that a good way to solve the state's present fiscal problems is to stage a boxing match here in the Mississippi Coliseum between Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner and House Speaker Buddie Newman, and put the proceeds in the state treasury.

Naturally, Newman would have as his second Rep. H.L. Sonny Merideth of Greenville, who seems to have taken over the role of Newman's chief apologist as well as becoming the self-appointed media critic for the Legislature.

There would be lots of volunteers from state employee and teachers groups, among others, who would willingly serve as seconds for the burly, bass-voiced Joiner if the match with the wily Speaker ever took place.

For the past month or two, Joiner has been taunting Newman from the podium whenever he makes a talk in his Southern Highway District, characterizing the House Speaker as a Svengali who pulls the strings for all devilement up on Capitol Hill, more especially the new highway act of 1981.

The most memorable remark, of course, was Joiner's initial observation down at Gloster that Newman was an "arrogant runt" who runs the House like a dictator. Later, Joiner took back the "runt" part of the remark, but let stand the "arrogant" part.

Newman modestly described himself in a rejoinder to Joiner as "just a meek little old country boy trying to do the job I was elected to do," and nothing like the wielder of raw power that he has been pictured by some, the latest being the Southern district Highway commissioner.

Quick to the rescue of Newman came Sonny Merideth, now Newman's chief lieutenant in the House palace guard. Merideth had been the loser of the little power struggle for the speakership of the House back in 1974 when then Speaker John Junkin fell ill. (Merideth now insists he willingly acquiesced to Newman's desire to be Speaker during a summit meeting of four aspirants for the job back then, on the premise Newman was the "best choice.")

Since A.C. (Butch) Lambert moved over to the State Tax Commission, Merideth had become Newman's top floor leader, and, moreso, his main braintrust. The tobacco-chewing Greenville lawmaker meantime has taken over the role of the righteously indignant spokesman anytime the legislature is criticized.

Some speculation therefore has begun to arise that Merideth has positioned himself to finally realize the ambition of being Speaker of the House should Newman ever step aside, which now seems a remote possibility.

The Joiner forays against Newman, while perhaps crudely done, have nevertheless served to focus unusual public attention on the individual power exercised by the stubby House Speaker. Several groups such as the teachers and state employees associations, and some others who have felt frustrated by the Newman influence, are now said ready to do battle to topple the Newman regime in the House.

There is already some movement underway to encourage a significant number of House members who have shown tendencies of being independent from the Newman bloc to organize their forces and unseat Newman.

How great is Newman's power in the legislative branch of the state government? How much does he really control what passes or doesn't pass in the Mississippi House?

Few outside the confines of the power center around Newman really have any idea, because Newman plays his cards so close to the vest. But the evidence seems to be strong on the side of the theory that what Buddie wants, passes, and what Buddie doesn't want, doesn't.

This is clearly implied even in Newman's relations with Gov. William Winter, which are outwardly cordial. But, as in the 1981 session of the legislature, when it came down to whether or not Mississippi would have public kindergartens, something Winter really wanted, and Newman didn't, kindergartens, quietly died in House committees.

There is growing belief here that Winter's detente with Newman will inevitably have to come to an end since they basically represent different philosophies on such key matters as public education. Stronger public schools in Mississippi is Winter's chief administration goal, while Newman comes from a legislative background that once was seeking ways to abolish public schools.

The end of the Winter-

Newman understanding very likely will come over the issue of raising taxes, especially oil and gas severance taxes, the area where Newman has been particularly protective. Winter has been studying Mississippi's severance tax as compared with Louisiana's and privately determined this state is justified in upping the rate on oil and gas which have remained the same for 36 years.

Newman's recently expressed attitude toward dealing with the state's fiscal crunch by freezing or cutting teachers and state employees' salaries, foretells a struggle in state government that could reshape the dimensions of the speaker's power.

A-Memorial?

By GARY SCHMITT
(c) 1981, Public Research,
Syndicated

Another Memorial Day has come and passed. Or, more accurately, another Memorial three-day weekend has come and gone.

Turning civic holidays into days designed for private apolitical pursuits now seems to be an American pastime. Indeed, if the TV news people were not there to cover the local wreath-laying it is doubtful whether there would be any public perception at all of the original intent of the day.

Like Lincoln's and Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day has bitten the dust.

It is not surprising, then, that the newest proposed capital monument, the Vietnam Memorial, should be of the same a-political genre.

Under the aegis of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, a jury composed of two architects, two landscape architects, three sculptors and one design critic met in early May to select a design for a memorial which would commemorate those who had died in the Vietnam War. Our of some 1,400 entries the jury chose a design submitted by Maya Ying Lin, a 21-year-old Yale undergraduate.

Her proposal for the memorial is for two, black granite walls to be wedged into the earth to form a stark, V-shaped retaining wall. Plans are for the memorial to be built on two acres in the northwest corner of the Washington Mall.

With contoured ground surrounding it, the monument will affect the visitor with something akin to the feeling that he has just "stumbled upon it." According to Lin, the monument is meant to appear as an unexpected, black "rift in the earth."

The structure's color and its sinkhole character will be in striking contrast to the white, upright monuments toward which the wings of the Vietnam Memorial will point--the Washington Memorial and the Lincoln Memorial.

Never appearing over the horizon of the Mall, the monument's dominant theme seems to be: "Out of sight, out of mind." Or, when in sight: an abyss.

On the black granite walls the names of the 57,692 men who died in the war will be carved.

The names are not to appear in alphabetical order. Instead, they are to be etched into the stone in a chronological sequence, the sequence in which the individuals died.

The list will begin on one wall at the vertex of the 'V', go to the end, pick up on the end of the other wall and end at the vertex. This facet of the design has been described as indicating that the "war's beginning and end thus meet. The war is 'complete.'"

But, if course, it is not complete. How can the memorial be complete and make no mention at all of Vietnam? The listing could be of traffic fatalities for all the untutored observer might know. Undifferentiated pathos appears to be the object.

The mere listing of the names and the absence of any specific reference to the war is consistent with the Fund's charge to the jury to select a design that would make no political statement about the war.

The memorial was to be at once a-political and soething which "best honors the memory..." Yet is the bare fact that one has died, removed entirely from the context in which it happens, something to honor? After all, we all do die sooner or later.

The assumption undoubtedly lurking behind the instruction given the jury is that the war was simply a waste. To quote the words of former president Jimmy Carter, it was an effort of "intellectual and moral poverty."

The tragedy was not that the war was lost but that it was ever begun. Those who died, died without reason.

The Vietnam Memorial will be, in the final analysis, a monument to victims. It will not be a monument to men who died for an unsuccessful yet essentially correct cause.

It is no small irony that this selection, with its victim motif, should occur only a few short months after the fanfare directed toward the American hostages who were held in Iran.

The latter were truly victims and yet they were treated as heroes. We should be capable of seeing the difference.

Lin's design robs the dead of the context that gives meaning to their deaths. Her design, minimal in nature, reflects a minimal understanding of war and of memorials that follow them.

It is not true, as one of the jurors stated, that a "confused world needs simple answers." To abstract the soldiers' deaths from the war only serves to minimize the sacrifices that they made.

The historical truth that the Republic of South Vietnam was finally overrun by a resolute and malevolent enemy from the north hardly substantiates the claim that the war and the deaths that occurred were simply meaningless.

Without a doubt, the way in which the war was carried out and the way in which it ended were tragic. Yet that fact should not overwhelm and certainly cannot invalidate the moral conviction that guided the American attempt to contain the advance of communism and totalitarianism.

In light of the events which have transpired in Indochina since 1975 that conviction should only be stronger. The Vietnam Memorial should reflect that conviction. It should not minimize the deaths by being a-political, by being a memorial.

In a candlelight ceremony on Saturday, May 16, Janet Susan Dillon and John Jesse Meinardi were married at the First United Methodist Church in Booneville.

The Rev. Charles Potts performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Aaron Dillon of Booneville and the late Mr. Dillon. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meinardi of Rienzi.

Mrs. Greg Roberts of Corinth registered the guests as they entered the church foyer.

Centering the choir loft in the church sanctuary was a candle tree with long white tapers and greenery. Smaller candelabra and palms were placed on each side.

The nuptial prelude was presented by Sam Galloway III, organist, and Doug Holland, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her paternal uncle, Gene Roberts, of Corinth.

She wore a formal princess-lined gown of sheer white organza, trimmed in Alencon lace and seed pearls. The gown featured a high neckline and a sheer bodice insert, embroidered and adorned with pearls.

Her cathedral veil of imported illusion was gathered to a wide-brimmed picture hat of organza, appliqued with lace to match the gown and trimmed with white spring blossoms.

The bride's hat was designed by Mrs. Joe Anderson of Booneville.

The keepsake silk bridal bouquet was of apricot roses, baby's breath and stephanotis, and featured long satin streamers tied in love knots.

Mrs. Duane Bullard of Iuka served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ricky Ross and Mrs. Judy Tucker, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Hal Richburg of Meridian.

Miss Tara Tucker, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. All of the bride's attendants wore similar gowns of apricot quana and carried white mum nosegays.

Miss Creacy Box of Fairhope, Ala., cousin of the bride, was flowergirl.

Mr. And Mrs. John Meinardi

Nathan Aaron McVey, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

The groom's father was best man. Groomsmen were Phill Worley and Dennis Worley, cousins of the groom, and Ricky Ross, brother-in-law of the bride.

Randy Trantham, cousin of the groom, was junior groomsmen.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of sky blue shantung. The mother of the groom wore a formal gown of seabreeze green chiffon. Both wore white orchid corsages.

Mrs. Jesse Horn, maternal grandmother of the groom, wore a street-length, light blue floral print dress, adorned with a corsage of white orchids.

The Reception

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Joseph Hurst and Mrs. W.V. Horn, hostesses.

The bride's table featured a classic three-tiered wedding cake adorned with sugar bells, sonja roses and gypsophilia.

Mrs. Jane Cox Davis of Memphis and Mrs. Mike Marcelle of Russellville, Ala., served at the bride's table. Miss Mitzi Windham of Russellville, Ala., served the punch.

The groom's table featured a tiered chocolate cake, decorated with frosted grapes. Mrs. Oliver Downs and Mrs. Milton Anderson presided. Miss Cathy Chaffin and Miss Lorie Trantham were tea girls.

For traveling, the bride wore a navy blue and yellow jump suit.

The couple are now at home in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Pre-Nuptial Dinners

On Friday, May 16, the groom's parents honored the bride's party and guests with a rehearsal supper at the Town Motel.

The home of Mrs. Earl Dobbins was the setting for a pre-nuptial dinner party, hosted by Mrs. Joe Kingsley and Mrs. Dobbins. The dinner honored Miss Dillon and Mr. Meinardi, and Miss Cissy Galloway and Phil Worley.

Home Economist's Notes

By CLAIRE T. ROSS
Extension Home Economist

One sure sign of summer is the delicious aroma from the charcoal grill. Outdoor cookery, a favorite American pastime, has grown to include not only familiar steaks, but also, roast, vegetables, bread and dessert all prepared on the grill in the backyard or at the campsite.

Regardless of how simple or elaborate you desire your outdoor meal, a few guidelines on selecting and preparing the meat are helpful.

Shop around for the best buy in meat cuts for grilling. Two favorites are beef and pork, so look for any possible sales on beef steaks and pork chops.

When you find a good buy, stock up on these items if you have freezer space available. Also don't ignore the economy cuts.

Beef chuck steaks are delicious when marinated. Marinating has a tenderizing effect and the chuck can be grilled to perfection. Grilled pork blade steaks are also very tasty.

Take advantage of roasts such as a beef sirloin top roast, rump roast or pork butt roast. These are delicious when used for shish kabobs. Just cut the meat into cubes and marinate, with the vegetables, in the refrigerator for several hours.

Alternate the meat with such items as zucchini squash, cherry tomatoes, green pepper, onion, mushrooms, small pre-cooked potatoes or pineapple. Just baste with the marinade or your favorite barbecue sauce while cooking. If you choose a barbecue sauce with high sugar content, wait until the end of the cooking time to apply, because it has a tendency to burn easily.

Pork needs a low to moderate temperature for cooking with about two inches between coals when broiling chops and steaks. With beef a moderate temperature is recommended, too low a temperature will not cook steaks as well.

Before putting meat on the grill, be sure that you have a nice even fire. Charcoal should be evenly covered with grey ash before you begin.

One of the best menus for any cookout is one built around hamburgers. Not just plain burgers, but Double Cheese Surprise Burgers. Each serving has two juicy hamburger patties, well-seasoned with butter, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce, then sandwiches with a double helping of cheese.

A slice of Cheddar is heaped with crumbled Blue cheese for extra zest, then catsup goes on to give spicy tomato flavor.

The burgers can be prepared in advance and stored in your freezer until time to leave home, or you can put them right in the picnic cooler and head for the wide open spaces. They'll cook up juicy and delectable on the charcoal grill.

For a real meat and potato meal, serve your Double Cheese Surprise Burgers with sweet and sour fried potatoes. They'll remind you of German potato salad or old-fashioned hashed-browns. Onions and green pepper are sauteed in butter, then you add cooked sliced potatoes and brown these in butter, seasoning with salt and pepper. A touch of vinegar and mustard goes into the skillet after they're well browned.

Complete this outdoor feast with green onions and other relishes, tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese, and plenty of refreshing milk. For dessert cut big slices of juicy ripe watermelon.

Outdoor cooking is no longer a special event reserved for weekends and holidays; it's a regular habit with many American families. Since you're cooking out more often, you need a variety of recipes planned for outdoor cooking and serving.

Instead of the usual hot dog and hamburger routine, branch out into some new foods. Chicken lends itself to many appetizing charcoal-grilled recipes, many of the variations of the basic butter-broiled chicken.

Combine butter with some zesty seasonings to make Charcoal Butter Grilled Chicken. Chicken, butter and flavor-uppers are snugly wrapped in foil so all the savory juices are retained.

Try various flavor blends like an herb mixture with thyme, marjoram, onion and lemon, or a zippy curry combination. East meets West in an unusual partnership of soy sauce, Parmesan cheese and onion. Convenient dried onion is used to save time and tears. Butter adds its own superb natural flavor and brings out the best in tender chicken.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Vardaman Padgett will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 21, from 2 to 4 p.m. at their home. The reception will be hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Harrell V. Padgett, and Mrs. Janie Padgett McCall. No invitations are being sent, but all friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Dr. Ream Is Named To Chiropractic Symposium

A Booneville chiropractor has been selected as a participating doctor in Practice Consultants Inc., a group that regularly conducts symposiums in Atlanta, Ga., on chiropractic work.

Dr. Michael J. Ream, who has been a probationary associate member of the group for the past several months, was notified of his acceptance to the group just prior to a June study session.

While a probationary member, Ream submitted patient clinical data for the Atlanta group to evaluate.

Dr. and Mrs. Ream and staff traveled to Atlanta this past weekend to attend their first study session.

Practice Consultants regularly conducts three-day symposiums in Atlanta involving an on-going educational and research program in advanced phases of chiropractic work, oriented toward instruction members in becoming better qualified "family doctors," Ream said.

Each symposium contains new facets of chiropractic care for the whole family as well as detailed study of the latest methods of treatment, he said.

Dr. Ream and his staff will be making regular visits to Atlanta, which he says he feels will enable him to render better service to his patients.

Thought for the week: "I'll Thank Him Once Again"

My God has done so much for me,

I can never repay,
That when I try to give Him thanks,
I know, not what to say.
When I'm so low I cannot stand,

He makes my spirit soar,
For this I bow my lowly head

And thank Him just once more.

I thank Him for each drop of blood

He shed on Calvary's tree,
The crimson drops fell to the ground,

Oh, God, was that for me?
It was for me and everyone,

For this I bow my lowly head

And thank Him once again.

I dare not walk away from God

And His protecting power,
For He might call time to an end

And come at any hour.
And so I'll watch and wait for Him

Till time on earth shall end,

Then at His feet I'll bow my head,

And thank Him once again

Despite Food Scares

Balanced Diet Best For Health

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation

Needless Food Scares

Stanley obviously looked hungry as he pulled the chair back for his amply endowed spouse. Once seated, he scanned the menu eagerly and ordered breakfast with a glint in his eye. Doomie spoke briefly to the waiter and sent him scurrying to the kitchen. Stan wrapped long fingers around a glass of water and downed it in a gulp. Doomie frowned.

A head of steam pursued the reappearing waiter, and Stan's eyes animated as the vapors of a hearty breakfast accompanied the fare. He plunged a spoon beneath a napkin covered dish and deposited a generous heap of scrambled eggs on his plate. A deft movement alongside piled a heap of tantalizing, fried bacon stripes. Side dishes of well-buttered toast with hints of burnishing on the outer rims then appeared next to a tall glass of milk. Stan metabolized.

"You ordered wrong!" Doomie's words knifed through to Stan as the first forkful of eggs halted in mid-air. "Cholesterol, nitrites, butterfat—you blew it, Stan! The way you eat, it's just a matter of which gets you first—cancer or heart attack..."

Poor Stan. No wonder he's so thin. Incursions like this into the life styles and eating habits of millions of Americans have frustrated a broad cross-section of America today, and fictitious Stanley has a lot of very real counterparts across this nation that are suffering from ill-founded food scares.

During Farm-City Festival Week, the last week of April, American farmers want the millions of American consumers who have been harassed by misleading and ill-advised food scare news to know that Americans today are living longer and eating the most wholesome food obtained at the best prices of any people in any place on the globe at any period of time.

Each item in this fictitious breakfast—eggs, bacon, milk, butter and bread—have had their day in the scare media while other doomsies get carried away with their doomsday fantasies. Finally the nitrite scare is disproven. It has been accepted that for an average human to be harmed by the nitrites used to cure and safeguard meats, he or she would have to eat 15,415 pounds of cured bacon to come up to the ten parts per billion of nitrosamines experimenters say would produce tumors in rats. And further, if nitrites were banned from cured meats, every consumer would then face the more likely botulism sickness.

The bacon industry contributes $500 million in basic business reflected through a chain of production, distribution and marketing.

As food faddism swept the nation it tried to sweep eggs too under the rug, claiming that eggs, milk and butter contributed to cholesterol buildup in the circulatory system and hence was bad.

Though scientific evidence today does not join in the indictment of eggs, milk, and butter, still some doomsies continue to frighten the world even though consumers obviously are better off eating balanced diets that include eggs, milk and animal fats.

In short, the balanced diets and nutritionally sound foods advocated by most legitimate health authorities down through the years still appear to be the best intakes for human health.

And just as athletes the world over continue to post new records in running, jumping or whatever—the human life span continues to be extended, largely because of constantly improving quality and quantities of food.

Cochran Bill Would Aid Small Businesses

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is sponsoring a bill to lighten the regulatory burden on small business.

"One of the greatest problems faced by small businessmen and women is the maze of regulations which confronts them," the Senator said in announcing introduction of his bill.

"These regulations stifle the formation and growth of small businesses in a number of ways," he continued, "including the cost of compliance, the time which must be devoted to deciphering the rules, and the difficulty in determining their applicability."

"One solution to this problem is a reduction in the number of regulations. Another approach is to supply better information about applicable regulations," he said.

The Senator said his bill, entitled the Small Business Regulatory Act of 1981, would require each federal agency to specify in the Federal Register those industries and businesses which would be affected by new rules or regulations.

him, or he could contact the information center," Cochran said. "This bill requires for the first time that agencies identify those subject to their rules."

"It is designed to ensure that small businesses be able to conduct their planning in a coordinated and rational fashion in reliance on accurate regulatory information," he said.

County Executive Director

July 15 Final Date
For Reporting Planted
Acreages

The final date for farmers planting certain program crops to file acreage reports at county ASCS offices is July 15.

Any farmer who plants cotton, rice, corn, peanuts, or grain sorghum, should file an acreage report. Farmers are urged to file their acreage reports just as soon as possible after planting is finished. Do not wait until July 15.

Timely and accurate acreage reports are required for eligibility for program benefits such as disaster and deficiency payment, if applicable. Upland cotton and rice producers must report their cotton and rice acreage in order that future payment yields can be established for the farm.

In order to be eligible for a disaster payment under the cotton, rice, feed grain or wheat programs, producers must file an acreage report of the affected acres while the evidence of the disaster is still apparent and before the acreage is put to another use.

Farmers having questions about disaster provisions, acreage reporting, or other program matters, should contact their local ASCS office.

1980 Cotton Acreage
And Yields Reported
For Mississippi

Data just released by the crop reporting service gives final 1980 plantings and yields of cotton in Mississippi. Total 1980 planted acreage was 1,150,000 with 1,125,000 acres harvested. Total yield for the state was 143,000 bales, for an average of 488 pounds of lint per harvested acre.

Sunflower County led the State in 1980 plantings with 128,000 acres. Sharkey County was the leader in yield per acre with an average yield of 742 pounds per harvested acre. Here in Prentiss County, the 1980 harvested acreage was 1922 acres for an average yield of 432 pounds.

Soybean Supply Totals
1,033,552,000 Bushels

Mississippi's soybean supply totaled 29,053,000 bushels on April 1, 1981, 16,363,000 bushels less than one year ago and 5,353,000 bushels more than two years ago, according to a report from the United States Department of Agriculture.

14,784,000 bushels of soybeans are stored on Mississippi farms and 14,269,000 bushels are stored off the farm or commercially.

Farmers are expected to average about $7.55 a bushel for soybeans this season, 20 percent more than last season, according to the report. However, in recent months, prices have declined, falling from a peak of $8.18 per bushel in November to $7.10 in March.

Soybean meal prices are also well above a year ago and are likely to average 20 percent more than the previous season. Soybean oil prices are forecast to fall below last season and average 23.5 cents per pound.

Despite a less favorable soybean corn price ratio this spring, the Nation's farmers indicated they planned to seed 69.8 million acres of soybeans, less than 1 percent below last year.

An increase in double-cropped acreage is likely, cushioning the decline. However, with improved moisture conditions, farmers could plant more corn and reduce soybean acreage more than indicated.

U.S. soybean stocks on April 1 totaled 1.03 billion bushels, 13 percent less than a year ago but 17 percent more than April 1, 1979. Of this total, about 52 percent were stored on farms. The USDA report showed that soybean exports totaled about 457 million bushels during this period.

Maintaining Your Mental Health

Death: Some Considerations

From TIMBER HILLS
MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

The subject of death is one that has interested man since the beginning of time. The information, ideas and literature about death is extensive and complex.

Why do we want to talk about death, grief and funerals? Because everyone's doing it! Dying, that is.

It can be logically stated and scientifically supported that from the moment of birth every human being is engaged in the process of living, as well as dying. Whether one can accept this point of view or not, and in spite of the fact that death is a universal part of living, death is a subject that is generally avoided in our society.

Our youth-oriented culture, which emphasizes the progress of science in over coming sickness and death, helps us deny the reality of death for ourselves and our loved ones. It also prevents many from preparing for death by facing and dealing creatively with the grief and loss that we experience whenever there is a significant change in our lives.

Secular, as well as religious authorities, agree that the people best prepared to face death, or grow through an experience with loss and grief, are those whose religion or philosophy of life promotes human relationships and give a purpose and meaning to life. These people have an identity beyond their own self and their own concerns.

People are often alarmed by feelings of anger that accompany their grief when someone dies. Many are frightened because they have been taught to believe that anger is a bad or wrong feeling. Religious people may find themselves blaming God for the loss.

Such feelings in themselves are not wrong. Anger arises because it seems to the griever that he or she has been unfairly deprived. They may feel unfairly abandoned by the loved one, and are fearful of coping in life without the presence, support and love of the lost person.

In both a symbolic and a real way, they have lost part of their own life. They are deprived and separated from a relationship which had given identity, meaning and purpose to their life.

Often, unresolved anger with the dead person will be transferred on to people closest to them or transferred onto the doctor, nurse, or others who have taken care of the person who died.

If you know someone in this situation, you render a great service to them when you patiently hear them out, even if they appear to be irrationally angry. Don't try to make them suppress or deny their anger. In a normal grief process, their feelings will soon pass as part of the healing process. If not, professional help should be sought.

When someone dies, family members or others close to them may feel guilt as well as sadness for several reasons.

When we live closely with others, no matter how much love is shared, it is impossible not to offend, hurt, or anger each other sometimes. At the time of death some of these feelings may not be resolved. Because the bereaver can no longer resolve these feelings through reconciliation, guilt feelings may result.

Another reason for guilt feelings may be that death has come after either a long or even short period of intense suffering. This puts tremendous strain on the emotional and physical resources of the family members. Then when death comes, the family may consciously or unconsciously feel relieved. They may feel guilty for feeling relieved even though this is a natural response.

There are others, who, when they experience helplessness in the face of events they cannot control, need to blame others or themselves. The grieving person should be allowed and encouraged to talk about feelings of guilt.

Even if the guilt appears to be unrealistic, the griever needs to find a sympathetic and understanding ear. A clergyman, a professional counselor, a sympathetic, sensitive, and concerned relative, or friend can help.

Perhaps the staff at Timber Hills Mental Health Center can help.

For information about services available at Timber Hills, phone 728-3174 or visit the office on the Highway 30 By-Pass in Booneville between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. After hours and on weekends, phone toll-free 1-286-9209 for emergency counseling services.

One-Color Scheme Adds To Beauty Of Flower Garden

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Everyone has a favorite color, so why not enjoy it all summer in a one-color flower garden?

"By selecting different flowers of the same color family and arranging them by height and foliage textures, a one-color garden can be eye-pleasing to everyone," says James Perry, horticulturist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Most flower colors come in a wide range of shades, from dark to light, and varying hues in between. "Careful selection can create a single-color effect in shades of rose, blue, yellow, white, pink and coral," Perry adds.

To create your one-color flower garden, select your favorite color and then begin thinking about different plants available in this shade. "A blue garden could include petunias, ageratum, pansies, salvia, verbena and delphinium."

"The larger the bed, the greater the number of different flowers and color shades which can be included," Perry says. "Smaller beds will be more attractive with fewer color and plant differences."

Height differences also can add to the creation of an attractive single color display. "Rather than lining up your plants with the tallest in the back, place tall varieties in the center, and plan a gradual height decrease to the small border flowers. By doing this, your single-color garden will be attractive from all angles."

Corps Of Engineers To Hold Series Of Planning Sessions

The Mobile and Nashville Districts of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will hold a series of public planning sessions in Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky this month as part of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Corridor Study.

The Corridor Study is a planning service intended to assist local officials in 51 counties likely to be affected by the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway which the Corps is constructing.

The purpose of the upcoming planning sessions is to present the findings of a recently completed study which identified the needs of disadvantaged people within the study area. This information will be available for use by local officials in planning for future economic and social development.

Corridor study manager Joe Birindelli urged interested individuals to attend the sessions and make known their opinion of the study and its findings.

The sessions will be held as follows:

—Thursday, June 18, 6 p.m., Tuscumbia Utility Co. Auditorium 202 East 6th Street, Tuscumbia, Alabama.

—Monday, June 22, 6 p.m., Hardin County Court House Building, Main Street, Savannah, Tennessee.

—Tuesday, June 23, 6 p.m., Pennyrite Development Office, 609 Hammond Plaza, Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

—Thursday, June 25, 6 p.m., Prichard Municipal Complex Auditorium, Prichard, Alabama.

—Monday, June 29, 6 p.m., Eutaw Activities Center, Eutaw, Alabama.

—Tuesday, June 30, 6 p.m., West Point High School, West Point, Mississippi.

Do Allies

would be safe to say the administration will try to convince the allies to improve their defense efforts.

Some progress has already been made in this area, as has some progress been made in finding ways to reduce the cost of U.S. forces stationed abroad.

While Congress cannot "require" the allies to increase their defense efforts, it can encourage the administration to increase pressure on them to do just that.

Often, the approach used is through appropriations measures or some means of expressing the sense of the Congress that the allies should contribute more to Western defense efforts.

Of course, these policies must be designed with an eye on specific circumstances in the allied countries and, at the same time, an eye on enhanced protection of U.S. interests.

Now is the time to begin preparation for stocking or restocking ponds with fish. If there are rough or wild fish in the pond, they should be killed and removed. Also, all undesirable waterweeds should be removed.

These two things can be accomplished by draining the pond or using recommended chemicals. The Soil Conservation Service will provide information and on-site assistance with fishpond management problems.

The Soil Conservation Service will also provide assistance with stocking farm ponds. The type of fish available for stocking or restocking are bluegill and redear bream, large mouth bass, and channel catfish. These can be stocked in combination or as most people prefer—channel catfish alone.

The deadline for placing applications for fish with the SCS office is July 1. Only new ponds or old ponds that have been renovated are eligible for fish.

Once we receive your request, we will send it to the fish hatchery to get your name on the schedule. The pond owner will receive a notice through mail from the fish hatchery telling you where and what time to pick up your fish.

It is important that you be on time at the pick-up location, since the fish truck is on a schedule to deliver fish to many locations.

For more information on fishpond stocking, contact the Soil Conservation Service at 107 College Street or call 728-3544.

County Agent's Report

By W.H. HADEN
County Agent

Each year June is designated as "Dairy Month." This is the 45th year as a nationwide salute to the Dairy Industry.

In Mississippi, a tribute to the Dairy Industry is proper and fitting as dairying ranks seventh in the total value of farm production. The entire dairy industry has made tremendous strides in providing the consumer with highly nutritional products.

Last year, a little over 1,000 dairy farmers produced 813 million pounds of milk. Although the number of dairy farms have decreased, those remaining are increasing in volume. The dairy farmer is continually increasing milk output per cow in an effort to lower his overall cost of production per unit.

Twenty years ago, the average production per cow amounted to a little over 3,300 pounds. Last year, the average production per cow amounted to almost 8,300—over 2½ times more.

Likewise, the number of dairy cows have declined. The average number during 1960 was about 99,000 head.

The economic importance of the dairy industry to the State of Mississippi is of major importance. Dairy farmers, milk processing plants, and other engaged in the distribution of milk and milk products generate over $333 million worth of economic activity to our state's well being.

The sale of milk by Mississippi dairy farmers totaled over $111 billion last year and ranked seventh as a major source of agricultural income.

Additionally, there are 71 firms engaged in the processing, manufacturing and distribution of milk and milk products in the state. The average monthly employment of these firms are about 2,000 people with an estimated annual payroll of over $21 million.

The uniqueness of the dairying industry deserves some special consideration. Farmers that produce milk for market must milk their cows at least twice each day. Therefore, the typical day finds the dairy farmers at the barns many hours before daylight and his day ends after dark.

Milk if not handled properly is an ideal source for bacterial growth. As a result, milk must be refrigerated at the farm and this refrigeration must be maintained until the ultimate consumption. Through the biological

4-H Club News

Overview Of The
4-H Horse Program

The 4-H Horse Program is the most popular activity in 4-H with a growing enrollment of approximately 5,000 in Mississippi. It offers many opportunities for young people who have an interest in horses.

The goals of this 4-H Horse Program are to help 4-H members to:

(1) Develop leadership, initiative, self-reliance, sportsmanship, and other desirable traits of character.

(2) Experience the pride of owning a horse or pony and being responsible for its management.

(3) Develop an appreciation of horsemanship as a healthy and wholesome form of recreation.

(4) Learn skill in horsemanship and an understanding of the business of breeding, raising and training horses.

(5) Increase knowledge of safety precautions to prevent injury to themselves, others and their mount.

(6) Promote greater love for animals and a humane attitude toward them.

(7) To be better prepared for citizenship responsibilities through working in groups and supporting community horse projects and activities.

There are many activities within the local club for 4-H horse program members to participate in throughout the year. However, all of the activities that can be carried on to the state level are held during the summer months. These state level activities are conducted in the form of contests and consist of five major areas. Two of these are listed below.

(1) HORSE SHOWS—More 4-H'ers participate in this area of the horse project than any other. Although 4-H horse owners participate in many horse shows throughout the year, the number of 4-H Horse Shows are limited.

The 4-H Shows open for competition are: Northeast District Horse Show, Louisville, July 10-11; and Jackson Horse Show, July 16, 17, and 18.

The 4-H horse shows are divided into two divisions for competition:

(A) Halter Classes, Quarterhorse, Grade Western, Appaloosa, Paint Yearling, Saddle and Gaited, and Ponies.

(B) Performance Classes, Showmanship, Padded Saddle Horse Pleasure, Saddle Pony Pleasure, Racking Horse, Pony Pleasure, Western Pleasure, Western Riding, Western Horsemanship, Trail Class, Reining, Bridle Path Hack, Pole Bending, Barrel Racing, Quadrangle Stake Race, Calf Roping and Breakaway Roping.

Awards will vary with each show, but usually consist of ribbons, rosettes, and trophies.

(2) HORSE JUDGING—Many 4-H boys and girls who want to learn more about horses participate in this activity.

Horse judging is a great way of learning. It teaches: the procedure for making a decision; communication through oral reasons; the development of self-confidence; the ability to think on your feet; and the art of selecting a good horse.

Juniors judge two classes—one halter and one performance—and give two sets of reasons. Awards for juniors will be trophies and ribbons.

Seniors judge four classes—two halter classes, one western pleasure and one reining class—and give two sets of reasons, one set on halter class and one set on performance class.

Awards for seniors will be trophies and ribbons with an educational trip for the first place team.

If you are interested in participating in the district or the state horse shows, call 728-5631 for more information.

Tupelo To Host Dizzy Dean World Series

State baseball champions from nine states will clash in Tupelo July 27 through Aug. 1 in the 1981 Dizzy Dean Junior World Series.

The double-elimination tournament will be played at the Tupelo High School Athletic Complex with 15- and 16-year-old teams from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Maryland, South Carolina, Tennessee, North Carolina and Mississippi participating.

"This will bring more than 1,000 people into Northeast Mississippi," L.M. (Nob) Peek, district director of the 15- and 16- year-old Dizzy

Dean program, said. Peek, who is also the coach of Tupelo's Mutual of Omaha team, said the Tupelo team is guaranteed a place in the tournament because of its role as host.

Peek said each state will hold a double-elimination tournament the week of July 20 and the winners will represent their state in Tupelo. He said there was a good chance another Northeast Mississippi team would win the state championship and represent Mississippi in the tournament.

Peek said the teams would be housed at Itawamba Junior College in Fulton. A bar-be-que is planned for players and officials July 26 when the tournament brackets will be drawn up.

Peek said tournament sponsors and parents will be soliciting donations and volunteers to make the event "successful" and that any profit made from the World Series would be given for improvements to the Tupelo Athletic Complex.

"We're doing this basically for the kids and to give baseball a shot in the arm in this area," Peek said.

He said the projected expenses for the tournament are estimated at $8,871, which includes room and board, programs, trophies, baseballs, umpires and bar-be-que.

"We will have a Dizzy Dean tournament for area teams July 1-4 to help raise money for the World Series," Peek said. "We are trying to get some help from the Community Development Foundation. This is a very worthwhile event for Northeast Mississippi and I hope we can get the help we need from everyone."

Arts Council To Sponsor Fair At Corinth

CORINTH—The first Downtown Arts Fair, sponsored by the Corinth Area Arts Council, will be from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Friday, June 26.

According to Mrs. Rosemary Williams of the Arts Council, the event will have a New Orleans' Jackson Square flavor, with plenty of art, music and food.

Artists' works and demonstrations by the new Art Association will be shown and sold in the downtown area during the day.

A sidewalk cafe will be arranged under a canopy on the street at the Coliseum Civic Center on Taylor Street, where paintings and other art work donated by the artists will be for sale to benefit the Coliseum renovation fund.

Volunteers will sell box lunches consisting of ham and cheese sandwiches, fresh fruit salad, chips and fudgecake and cokes.

An old fashioned barbeque, complete with homemade ice cream and cake will be served for supper between 6 and 8 p.m. Tickets for the supper, available at the Corinth Chamber of Commerce, must be purchased by 5 p.m.

Wednesday, June 24.

Free entertainment will also be held in the cafe area.

At noon, banjo strummers Sandy Williams, Kenneth Williams and Hoot Wilder will play. Buddy and Kay Bain will perform from 1 until 2 p.m. and Joe Garrett and his bluegrass fiddlers will entertain from 5 until 6 p.m.

The Fontaine Trio, a string group from Memphis, will play classical and old favorites from 6 until 8 p.m. for the supper hours.

More entertainment is expected to be added for the afternoon in various parts of the downtown area.

"We hope you will mark this date on your calendar to come to this old fashioned fun day in historic downtown Corinth to enjoy the art, crafts, music and good food," Mrs. Williams said.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

By C. D. Edge

You Have No Choice

Many of you think today that you are free to choose any religion. You think that you can go to any church you please or reject them all. You think there is no penalty involved. Actually, you have no such option. God has planned only one way of salvation, and everyone is required to accept it.

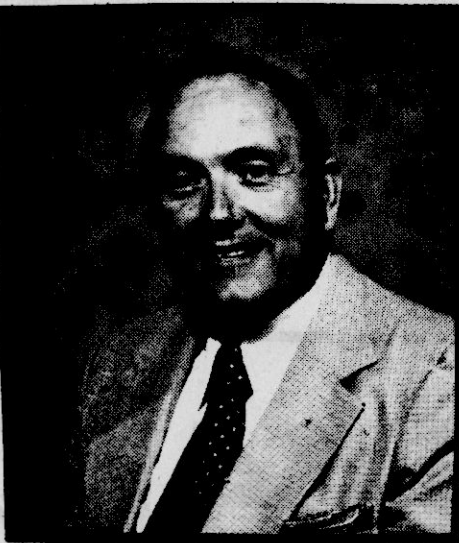

ACTS 17:30--GOD COMMANDETH ALL MEN EVERY WHERE TO REPENT.

God cannot and will not tolerate sin and so He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to die for man's sin. He now requires that everyone believe in Jesus and receive His merits and blessings in childlike faith.

You are in no position to dictate to God. Those who reject God's way are not in some neutral position. Unbelief will cut off the greatest joys of this life and bring only pain and judgment.

God wants all to be saved. He loves you. He urges all of you to turn from sin and to act on the good News of the Gospel today. Jesus said in Mark 1:15--REPENT YE AND BELIEVE THE GOSPEL.

My friend YOU HAVE NO OTHER CHOICE.
