2.6 Million Budget Approved

Supervisors Adopt Dual Millage Rate

By ANGELA SMITH Staff Reporter

The Prentiss County oard of Supervisors has pproved a $2.6 million eral budget for fiscal ear 1981-82 that includes, ossibly for the first time ver, two different millage ates for the county.

Supervisors have aproved millage rates of 93.50 or Districts 2 and 5 and 95.50 or Districts, 1,3 and 4.

This means the tax rate for: land owners in Districts 2 and 5 is $9.35 for each $100 of assessed property valuation. In Districts 1, 3 and 5, the ratte is $9.55 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

J.P. Davis, president of the board of supervisors, saiid Monday the difference in the millage rates is due to repayment of disaster loans daiting back to 1972.

"It's time to start paying back the loans now," Davis

He said this is the first time, at least in the memory of the supervisors, that the county has had two different millage rates.

Last year's total budget was $2,849,408. This included $125,995 in CETA funds which were unavailable this

The millage rate last year was 93.25, meaning that the 21/4 mils in Districts 1, 3 and 4 and 1/4 mil in Districts 2 and 5.

This year supervisors added two mils to cover expenses for property reappraisal which is to be completed by 1983.

The budget shows a total of $1,008,630 in disbursements from the county's general fund, a decrease of $135,681 as compared to last millage rate has been raised year's budget of $1,144,311. The supervisors allocated a total of $944,300 as road work and bridge funds for the five districts as compared to $1,031,975 in the 1980 budge. The 1979 budget was $952,420.

Allocations for the districts were: District 1, $185,960; District 2, $178,960; District 3, $181,460; District 4, $161,960; and District 5,

The differences in the figures on the road work budgets in the five districts are due to a carry-over from one year to the next, Davis

"If the district didn't spend as much money as was allocated last year, the money is carried over into the next year," he said.

Road Work Shops are currently being built in Districts 1 and 4 to house road work equipment. The budget shows District 1 with $18,156 and District 4 with $11,186 left to spend on the $36,000 project.

Work is epxected to be completed on both shops in about six weeks, Larry Barron, First District Supervisor said Tuesday.

Budget increases were approved for the Sheriff's Department, the Tax Assessor-Collector's office, county fire protection, sanitation costs, hospitals, justice courts, juvenile court, regional library, county pauper's fund, circuit and chancery court expenses and civil defense.

Reduced budget allocations included the Chancery Clerk's office, Circuit Clerk's office, maintenance of buildings

LISTENING TO PROBLEMS—State Commissioner of Insurance George Dale (left) listens as Shirley Henderson describes a personal insurance problem at the Booneville City Hall last week. Dale spent most of the day in Booneville. He spoke to a law enforcement class at Northeast Junior College Thursday morning, was guest speaker at the local Lions Club meeting at moon, and then met with local residents Thursday afternoon to help them with their own insurance problems. One of the Commissioner's responsibilities is to see that insurance companies perform in accordance with state law. This means he often has to conduct investigations of companies and-or agents against whom complaints have been filed.

Local Attorney Asks For Support Of Usury Law

Booneville attorney Donald Franks is asking U.S. Rep. Jamie Whitten (D-Miss.) to support a national usury law which would limit interest rates to a fixed percentage rate yearly.

"The remedy for the unprecedentedly high int rest rates has been languishing in your back yard for almost two years," Franks told Whitten in a letter on Sept. 14. He referred Whitten to a bill authored by Rep. M.G. "Gene" Snyder (R-Ky.) which would restrict the interest rates on all loans ove $300 to 10 percent yearly. The bill was introduced in the U.S. House two years ago, but has now been allowed to expire.

Franks indicated to The has never, and in my week that he feels such a step in getting a grip on the nation's economy.

He said that Rep. Snyder told him that as much as 90 percent of the money borrowed in the U.S. is borrowed by the U.S. government. Paying the high interest rates on this money just contributes even more to the nation's budget problems, Franks indicated.

"Traditionally, it has been necessary to restrain the greed of money lenders by the strong arm of the law," Franks said in his letter to Whitten. "Anything less than the penalty of the law

Insurance Commissioner Says

Many Factors Affect Insurance Rates

By KEN CHRISTIAN Editor

Uninsured motorists in the state are causing a problem for those motorists who do purchase such insurance. State Commissioner of Insurance George Dale told members of the Booneville Lion's Club last Thursday.

"When I first went into office (in 1976) 33 percent of the drivers in the state didn't have liability insurance," Dale said.

Instead of improving over the years, this figure has gotten worse. He said 44 percent of the state's drivers did not have at least liability insurance last year.

Muscadines

Reaping The Fruits Of His Labor

By KEN CHRISTIAN

When most people think of muscadines, they think of the native kind that grow wild throughout the state. However, to at least one Prentiss Countian, muscadines are a crop to be harvested and sold, just as other farmers harvest and sell their soybeans and cotton. Goodwin Glenn

Booneville currently has three acres of muscadines growing on a section of his land in the Little Brown Bottom, located about one mile north of the New Site Post Office.

Goodwin started his vineyard three years ago, but this is the first year for him to reap a harvest.

For the first two years of growth, the vines must be kept from bearing a crop by physically removing the berries as they appear. This enables the vines to build strength, Goodwin said.

The Thousand Oaks Winery, located about 5 miles east of Starkville on old Hwy. 82 and owned and operated by Bob Bergin and Russell Jones, has contracted with Goodwin to buy his crop this year.

Muscadines

At the winery, the Prentisss County-grown berries willl be turned into one of the 1:9 different varieties of winess currently being produced by Thousand Oaks.

WINE MAKING IS & relatively new industry to the state of Mississippi. It iss only since the Native Wine law was passed a few years ago that it has been legal to commercially produce wine in the state.

When the state legislature passed the Native Wine Law, they were looking for another crop for the smaller farms, since the larger farms were dominating soybean, cotton and other conventional crops, Jones said last week while im Prentiss County to check Goodwin's crop.

Since the legislators knew muscadines can be grown im the state, they asked Mississippi State University to study various uses for the grapes. One of thee outgrowths of the program wa the establishment of a winemaking course at thee

Bergin, Jones' partner im being purchased from the business at Starkville, was one of the first graduates with a degree in winemaking, from MSU.

ALTHOUGH THE Thousand Oaks Winery has only been in operation for about four years, it has the capacity to eventually produce about 25,000 gallons of wine per year. Last year the operation produced some 13,000 gallons.

In 1978, Thousand Oaks produced the first wine made in the state with Mississippi-grown grapes since prohibation, Jones

Located on about 26 acres of land, the winery, one of only four in the state, has its own vineyard with about 12 acres of muscadines and 14 acres of bunch grapes.

State law allows the winery to pruchase grapes from outside the state, but only an amount equal to what the winery itself

However, the law allows the winery to purchase all the Mississippi-grown grapes it wants. The grapes

Goodwin are the first grapes Thousand Oaks has purchased from a vineyard in Mississippi, Jones said last special singers.

"We have never had a grower in the state of Mississippi before," he said.

RAISING THE berries is more work than the uninitated may think.

In addition to keeping the vines free of berries for the first two years of growth, the vines must be physically "trained" to grow down the trellis system of the vineyard.

"You want to work each vine every two weeks when the vines are young and you're training them,"

Then, of course, like any grower, the grape producer must be on the lookout for disease and insects. But Jones says one of the worst problems with raising the berries is what he calls "finger blight"-the theft of the berries by passersby.

Once the problems are overcome and the vines are fully grown and trained, Jones says a well-kept muscadine vineyard should be able to produce as much as 8-10 tons of muscadines per acre. The bunch grapes produce 6-7 tons per acre, he

In winemaking, the time the berries are harvested is critical. The winemakers want the berries to have as high a sugar content as possible, so they are allowed to remain on the vines as long as possible.

With bunch grapes, samples are taken continually to determine excactly when to harvest them. However, Jones says, "muscadines let you know when they're ready. They start falling off the vine."

Jones used a refractometer to test the sugar content in Goodwin's berries last week. He said he thinks it will be another 5-6 weeks before they are ready to harvest. During that period. Goodwin will have to give them almost constant at-

GOODWIN SAID became interested in raising grapes while he was living and working in Jackson. He was working with the state government when the wine law was passed. Goodwin said he is a good friend of former Sen. Bill Bergin, the father of the owner of Thousand Oaks. Bergin had a vineyard and Goodwin visited it.

"I saw it would be a good crop," he said. "I bought my vines about two weeks later."

On his three-acre vineyard, Goodwin currently grows two of the varieties of muscadines. He has the Jumbo muscadine, which is purple in color, and the Carlos muscadine, a bronzecolored berry.

Being his first year to harvest, Goodwin hopes to sell 5-6 tons of the berries this year. That should increase to maybe 8 tons: next year, he said.

He is so pleased with his operation that he is planning to add more vines. He said he hopes to have 10 acres of muscadines growing by next

Unfortunately for Goodwin, he will not be able to purchase locally amy of the wine made from his grapes, because it is illegal to sell wine in Prentiss County.

However, people in other parts of the state will be able to sample his wares: Thousand Oaks-produced wines are sold in stores in Jackson, Columbus, Hattiesburg and Tupelo.

SUGAR CONTENT—Russell Jones of the Thousand Oaks Winery measures the sugar content of muscadines growing in Glenn Goodwin's vineyard near New Site. Jones said that, although the yield is down somewhat in the state this year, the sugar content in the berries is exceptionally high. He said Goodwin's muscadines should be ready to harvest

BIBLE QUESTION BOX QUESTION: Mr. Hogland,

ANSWER: No, it is not possible for the word "eis" to mean "because of." Another word is used in the Greek for because of" and that word is "dia". The word "eis" is always prospective and never retrospective. The phrase 'for the remission of sins" modifies both verbs. If baptism is "because of" the remission of sins so is REPENTANCE. Very few people would argue that one must repent because his sins are already forgiven! Another passage which will help you is Matt. 26:26. Jesus shed his blood "For the remission of sins." Now, this phrase is identical with the one in Acts 2:38. Actually, it is the same in both the Greek and English. When Jesus said He would shed his blood "for the remission of sins" everyone should understand that he did not shed his blood because of" the remission of sins. If that be true we were forgiven before he shed his blood. When Peter told the people on the day of Pentecost to "Repent and be baptized" he was answering a question they had asked about

"I am unalterably opposed to the storage of high level nuclear waste in Mississippi," Winter said during the meeting. "I also oppose the use of our air, land and seagoing transportation facilities for the transport of such material."

"We have a large number of people living in the area tihat is now being explored for the possible storage of muclear waste and their safety is my foremost concern," he said. The federal government is undertaking site characterization studies of the Lampton, Cypress Creek aind Richton Salt Domes in Mississippi.

Winter told Mississippi's congressmen that "it is ewident that Mississippi's salt domes are inappropriate sites for nuclear waste disposal. They are located in populated areas and could affect the ground water flow to other very lairge concentrations of our pæople."

Winter also noted that the Cypress Creek Dome is lo-cated in the middle of an artillery firing range for military units being trained

Committee Holding Hearings

The Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment began holding public hearings Tuesday on legislative reapportionment. Hearings will take place at several locations thorughout the state during the month. In November, a second round of hearings will take place after a tentative plan for reapportionment has been formulated.

Hearings will be held today, Sept. 17, from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the County Court Building in Hattiesburg, the Lafayette County Courthouse in Oxford, and the Leflore County Courthouse in Greenwood.

On Friday, Sept. 18, from Supreme Court, it was based 1-3 p.m. a hearing will be held in the Lee County Library Auditorium in Tupelo.

These hearings will be the first step toward drawing a plan that will satisfy both the one-man, one-vote rule and 1980 federal census figures in 174 districts.

Currently the Legislature uses a 1978 reapportionment scheme, the product of a lengthy court battle that resulted in single-member districts and the election of 17 black legislators.

Although it was approved court in Washington and later affirmed by the on the 1970 census.

Since the plan was approved, only about 20 of the state's 82 counties have remained steady in population and a 13.7 percent statewide population increase during the last 10 years has not been evenly distributed.

A plan must be adopted by legislators that leaves all House districts with approximately the same number of people and all Senate districts with about the same number of people.

Any plan's population by a three-judge federal deviation must be below 5 percent to be considered seriously by the committee.

Cochran:

Interest Rate Crisis Is Immediate Problem

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) says the "interest rate crisis is the most immediate economic problem facing the nation." His comments came as he joined his Mississippi colleague, Senator John Stennis (D-Miss.), in cosponsoring legislation creating a national terest rate commission.

"It is obvious that high interest rates are undermining the President's economic recovery effort," Senator Cochran said.

The bill, S. 1598, would establish a 15-member National Commission on Interest Rates ,to develop and recommend to the President a plan to help reduce interest rates.

"Families and businesses are being devastated by the current level of interest rates," Cochran said.

"Small businesses, farmers, the homebuilding and automobile industries are pariticularly hard-hit, but the impactis effecting practically everyone."

He said that "since interest rates at the prime level reached 21 and a half percent last December, and have hovered, around 20 percent since then, economic activity in many areas is being choked to death."

The Senator said that 'stability of interest rates at a more reasonable level is urgent." He said the legislation also would give the Senate an opportunity to study closely the role of the Federal Reserve Board and other federal agencies in establishing and implementing natinal monetary policies.

JAMES WILSON of Route 3, Rienzi: "It's hard to tell what the effect will be. I can't tell if it'll hurt or help. I think the social security cuts will hurt the older people."

MARY RENO of 109 Brewer St.: "I think the effect will be great. I think we're going to see a big difference in the way momey is being spent, blown and thrown away. R.B. JONES of 100 Cedar St: "I think it'll have a bad effect on the economy. We're taxed to death already. They'll cut money in one place and then take twice that much money in another place. Reflections By Ken Christian

Oops! I Goofed (Again)!

I owe an apology to Ray Holloway of the Booneville Blue

The caption under a photo on page one of last week's paper read: "... Ray Holloway (14) is brought down by Fulton players, but not after a yardage gain." Somehow, the word "until" was left out. The caption should have read: ". . . but not until after a yardage gain."

As if it were not bad enough that the error was there for everybody to see in boldface type on the front page, I just happened to run across something Thursday that really rubbed it in.

I discovered a list of 13 rules for writers. One (or all?) of them seemed to have been written especially for me.

The late Ernest Tucker, a former editor of the old Chicago American, is believed to have made the list originally for the writers at his paper. Not only do they get the point across, they do so in a manner that makes them even more effective. I am listing them here, just in case they may benefit others. They are:

(1) Don't use no double negatives.

(2) Make each pronoun agree with their antecedents.

(3) Join clauses good, like a conjunction should.

(4) About them sentence fragments. (5) When dangling, watch your participles.

(6) Verbs has got to agree with their subjects.

(7) Just between you and I, case is important. (8) Don't write run on sentences when they are hard to (9)Don't use commas, which aren't necessary.

(10) Try to not ever split infinitives.

(11) It is important to use your apostrophe's correctly. (12) Proofread your writing to see if you any words out.

(13) Correct speling is essential.

When I showed these to Pigskin Pete, our furry football prognosticator, he wanted to know, "What's wrong with

Another Delay

If you've been wondering why the warning lights have still not been installed at the ICG railroad crossing on the Highway 30 Bypass, the reason is that there has been another delay.

Earlier this year (in May) ICG officials set the month of August as a tentative date for the installation of the flashing lights at the crossing. But here it is September and still no warning lights.

Last month Mayor Charles Crabb checked with ICG officials on the status of the project and was told that there has been a delay in obtaining some of the materials for the lights. He was told that the lights should be installed at the crossing around the first of November.

Nuclear Waste Could Cause 'Boom'

By BILL MINOR Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.-Back 18 years ago, I, along with a small contingent of reporters and government officials, gathered in a Lamar County pasture to "watch" while a nuclear device was detonated far below the ground surface in the Tatum Salt Dome.

The idea of setting off an atomic bomb in a salt dome in Mississippi had been concocted by a triggerhappy nuclear scientist named Andy Suttle, hired by Gov. Ross Barnett to head up what was later to become the Mississippi Research & Development Center.

But the Atomic Energy Commission, which ran the nation's nuclear show back then, had gone along enplosions by the Russians.

Dr. Suttle spun dreams of how the state's salt domes around the country. could become the storage for the domes. It was based on the premise that the salt mass was ideally suited for containment of radiation.

Remarkably, we were told the nuclear device was detonated in the Tatum Dome, a person could go down into the cavity without danger of radioactive contamination. (This writer made a reservation then to become one of the first to descend into the dome. Luckily, there was no money-back guarantee.)

What happened in the Tatum Dome back in the early 1960's evidently was prelude to what now has emotional confrontation between Mississippi and the United States government.

This time, our resistance thusiastically with the to the federal power is not scheme as part of its over racial integration. It's program for detecting un- over the seeming federal derground nuclear ex- insistence on using a South Mississippi salt dome to store nuclear wastes from

So intense is the a tremendous amount of emotionalism becoming that steam energy created by even Gov. William Winter, setting off nuclear devices in not usually an emotional person, is getting very much worked up over it.

The feeling is that Mississippi is to be made the dumping ground for what then, within five years after nobody else wants, and we're tired of being dumped upon. Understandably, since Mississippi has gotten short shrift on many of the classier benefits of the federal deal.

The situation brings to mind the dilemma over deployment of the MX missile, wherein some of the biggest hawks in the Congress are all for the MX, anywhere except in their home states.

So now, Mississippi is become another great mustering all of its rather thin political power in Washington in a valiant attempt to block the federal effort to use salt domes in this state as a national depository for high level nuclear disposal.

> Hopefully, goes the plea of Mississippi people Congress, and Gov. Winter, the state will be given some veto power.

Informed persons in the field say, however, that the political opposition and the emotional resistance on the part of the state's citizenry will go only so far, and that the time for reasonable debate is over, the Congress is going to make a very firm and final determination where the national nuclear despository is going to be located. From that decision there will be no

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

I am in the Rubik's Cube Zone.

There are no doubt others like myself caught in the Rubik's Cube Zone, because store clerks say the colorful little cube was a popular Christmas gift last year. My journey into the cube zone began innocently enough last year when Banner-Independent publisher Paul Miller handed me a Rubik's Cube and asked if I could solve it. He couldn't and neither could I. He didn't seem surprised when I couldn't figure out the cube. And I wasn't surprised when he couldn't solve the cube.

Afterall, a publisher just doesn't have time to unscramble a Rubik's Cube. He has more important things to do...like entertaining

Pigskin Pete when he's in town! At first glance the cube looks relatively uncomplicated. The cube has six sides, six colors and 27 smaller sub-cubes with eight corner pieces with three colors, 12 middle edge pieces with two colors and six centers with one color each.

The cube was invented in the mid 1970's by Erno Rubik, a Hungarian professor of architecture and interior design, who no doubt had a lot of students he didn't particularly

You see, Rubik supposedly designed the cube as an aid for his students in recognizing spatial relationships in three dimensions. Needless to say, he was a really popular guy after that homework assignment.

And so, after driving his class crazy with the cube, he decided to share with the world the wonderfully complex little cube, while in return the world shared it's money with the cube's inventor.

There are supposed to be over 3 billion combinations on the way to solving the cube. Now I have not personally counted that many combinations, but it sounds like a good

Sometimes I think I've tried that many combinations, but of course I must be doing something wrong since my Rubik's Cube remains unsolved.

I thought it was interesting when a couple of weeks ago a boy was shown on the news who solved the cube in 29 seconds. Actually I thought it was disgusting, the little rat.

Last week I finally decided if I was ever going to solve the Rubik's Cube I would have to have help. So I purchased a little book entitled,"The Simple Solution To Rubik's Cube." The author of the book claims the book is guaranteed to solve the cube in an "easy 5-step method." And, too, his solution supposedly "allows for error." Ah...there's the catch. His solution evidently doesn't allow for more than one error. And I have a habit of making at least two errors in anything I undertake ibecause I don't want a lonely error lurking around. Sadly it looked as if my Rubik's Cube would be worn out by the time I figured out the first "simple" step explained and diagrammed in the book.

Therefore I have taken it upon myself to devise for others in the Rubik's Cube Zone a "simpler of the simple" solutions to solving Rubik's Cube.

This solution consists of only three moves and is guaranteed to take less than 29 seconds. And the best part iis, you can make as many errors as you want.

Angela's Solution:

Pick up the cube; walk to the nearest open widow and throw that little sucker as far as you can!

Home Economist's Notes

Marinating Adds Tenderness

By CLAIRE T. ROSS Extension Home Economist

Marinating Meats

Use a marinade to add flavor and make less expensive cuts of meat more tender. Cuts of meat such as a blade roast or steak, an arm roast or steak, a round steak, a flank steak and fresh brisket come from more heavily exercised parts of the beef animal.

They contain more connective tissue and are less tender. Soaking these cuts in a marinade that contains an acid such as vinegar, fruit juice or wine breaks down the connective tissue. Then you can grill or broil just as you do temder steaks.

Meat marinades usually cointain seasonings and oil in addition to the acid. Popular seasonings include onion, garlic, thyme and basil. The choice depends on the specific flavor desired. Oil is used to help hold natural juices in the meat so it does not lose its; own flavor.

Prepare enough marinade to cover the meat. Allow about 1/2 cup marinade per pound of meat. Cubed meat is soaked two to three hours; a larger cut is soaked 12 hours or overnight.

Marinating too long may mask the flavor of the meat. The marinade container should be glazed ceramic, should be just large enough to hold the meat.

Foods marinated an hour or longer must be kept in the refrigerator.

Caring For Ovenware

You may have both glass and glass-ceramic ovenware and range top utensils in your kitchen cupboards. the two materials are very serviceable, but they do need to be treated somewhat differently. There is also some difference in the treatment of ovenware and range top utensils.

If you can find the manufacturers' instructions, refer to the recommendations for use and care of each utensil. Different manufacturers may have specific suggestions.

Be sure your glass casserole can go from the freezer to the oven before trying it out. Some glass ovenware can do just that. There is no question about glass ceramic casseroles. They withstand drastic temperature changes. Severe temperature changes, however, may break some glass.

Most heat resistant glass ovenware can be used for baking foods, for storing foods in the refrigerator or freezer, and in the microwave oven. Most can be washed in the dishwasher or by hand. To clean it, use baking soda, nonabrasive cleaners, plastic or nylon Manufacturers recommend using lower heat settings to start and continue cooking as a means of preventing food sticking, socrehing or boiling over. It makes cleaning a lot easier.

Some churchmembers are like wheelbarrows; they go only when they are pushed.

If absence makes the heart grow fonder, think how much some people must love the Church.

Church Youth Attend Conference

A group of youth and adults from the Martin Hill Free Will Baptist Church recently attended the National Youth Conference in Louisville, Ky., and participated in National Bible competitions there.

The conference was a part of the annual meeting of the National Association of Free Will Baptists.

Representing the Martin Hill Church and the Mississippi State Association in national competition in Bible Tic-Tac-Toe were Benny Nix, Gena Griffin, Karl Sexton and Mark Walden.

After defeating teams from several states, the Mississippi team lost first place honors to the neighboring state of Alabama.

The second place honor earned by the Martin Hill team is the closest to a national title that a Mississippi team has reached in the nearly twodecade history of the competition, a church spokesman said.

David Sexton from Martin Hill represented Mississippi in the National Sword (Bible) Drill Competition for youth in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

According to pastor Johnny Sexton, several young people from Martin Hill are already beginning intensvie study and training for the 1982 competition which will be held in Dallas, Texas, next July.

Coaches for the Martin Hill youth are Kim Jones, Kathy McElroy, Terry King, Jackie Whitley Jr. and Rhonda King.

TIC-TAC-TOE WINNERS-Representing the state of Mississippi in national Bible Tic-Tac-Toe competition at the annual meeting of the National Association of Free Will Baptists in Kentucky are Gena Griffin (seated) and Benny Nix, Karl Sexton and Mark Walden of the Martin Hill Free Will Baptist Church.

Earn up to $2,000 interest tax-free, with an All-Savers Certificate.

Uncle Sam is pretty good at collecting income taxes.

But effective October 1st, The People Place has a way to beat him at his own game.

It's called an All-Savers Certificate. You can have one of these oneyear certificates with a minimum deposit of $500. In fact, if you have a 6-month Money Market Certificate, you can transfer it without penalty to an All-Savers Certificate.

The annual yield of All-Savers Certificates from The People Place is 70% of the yield to maturity of 52-week U.S. Treasury Bills at the latest monthly auction.

Right now, that's 12.61% interest. No matter how this interest rate is compounded or paid by financial institutions, at The People Place you get the highest yield allowed by law.

But here's the best part.

The first $1,000 you earn is tax-free. (For couples, make that $2,000.)
That means that your effective annual yield is much higher than 12.61%. Because you don't have to pay taxes on it.

In fact, if the two of you make $30,000 a year, it'll be as much money in your pocket as if you were earning approximately 18% annual interest.*

And it's a lot of taxes you won't pay.

Come by any office of The People Place. Let us show you exactly what an All-Savers Certificate could mean to you.

Offices in: Amory, Booneville, Guntown, Hatley, Plantersville, Pontotoc, Saltillo, Shannon, Smithville, Tupelo, and West Point

Substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal.

* Based on the 1982 tax tables.

Pasture Improvement Month Set

By TONY THOMPSON District Conservationist

USDA Soil Conservation Service

September is "Pasture Improvement Month" in Prentiss County and the special observance got off to a solid start last Tuesday, Sept. 8. That's when the 1981 Prentiss County Pasture Study and Tour was held on Ray Johnson and son's "Golden J Farm," just south of Booneville.

Over 60 folks, most of whom grow grass for beef and dairy production, were on hand to hear five speakers stress the importance of good management and give tips in this direction.

Speakers included Dr. Lamar Kimbrough and Dr. Bill Swoope, both with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service; Lou Shults, district manager with the Purina Feed Company; Richard Dyer, amimal performance; field representative with the (7) Use performance A m e r i c a n A n g u s tested and proven herd bulls Association; and Dave in your cattle breeding Sainders, grassland conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

Some important tips provided by the specialists included:

(1) Establish forage plants that are adapted to your farm's soils and will hellp meet your management objectives;

((2) Use improved forage varieties for growth vigor and nutrition;

(3) Soil test pastures and apply fertilizer and lime according to recommendations- fall is a good tirne for this; (4) Add legumes such as

A tour of the Golden J Farm pastures found permanent sods of coastal bermudagrass, mixed dallisgrass- common bermuda- clover, and a tall fescue- common bermuda combination. According to farm records, the 90 acres making up these pastures have carried over one cowcalf unit per acre and provided two high yielding cuttings of hay thus far this

The Johnsons attribute this high yield of the type forage they're growing, especially the coastal bermudagrass, their heavy fertilization program, and rotational grazing. They intend to overseed all their bermuda pastures with ryegrass and crimson clover this fall to provide

The overall program was planned and co-sponsored by the Prentiss County Soil and Water Conservation District Commissioners and the Prentiss County Cattlemen's Association.

Disaster Payments Available

By C.E. CALVERT County Executive Director ASCS

ASCS Payment Limitations Announced

Many farmers in this area are raising questions about the possibility of payments under the farm program. The current farm program affords protection to participating farmers who grow such crops as rice, wheat, cotton, and feed grains.

"Disaster" payments may be made to producers who suffer partial or total crop failure due to natural disaster. Deficiency payments may be made to producers when the nationwide prices of program crops fall below the target price levels for the required length of time.

Many farmers are watching the wheat and cotton markets with concern. Continued depressed markets could result in "deficiency" payments. Areas of extreme drought conditions have caused concern about the possibility of low yields on some farms, which might result in "low yield" payments being made.

"Payment limitations" are in effect in the event low yield and-or deficiency payments become ap-

> Wheat Crop To Be All-Time High, USDA Says

Th 1981 wheat crop is expected to reach an alltime high of 2.75 billion bushels, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report. The production would be 16 percent more than last year's 2.37 billion bushels.

USDA officials attribute the increase to a record 88.8 million acres of wheat planted by farmers and to prospective record spring wheat yields.

Harvesting of the second successive record wheat crop is not expected to change the tight "free stock" situation. Total wheat supplies for the season are forecast at 3.74 billion bushels, 14 percent more than last season.

Wheat prices for 1981-82 will depend primarily on export sales, use of the loan and reserve program, and the impact of wheater on world grain crops, the report stated. Farm prices for 1981-82 are forecast to range from $3.70 to $4 per bushel.

With large exportable supplies, the U.S. could ship overseas a record 1.775 billion bushels of wheat in. 1981-82. Wheat shipments may increase to Egypts, Algeria, and Morocco and will remain high to China, Japan, and Brazil.

1981-crop wheat under loan is eligible for immediate entry in the grain reserve. Farmers who place the crop in the reserve are entitled to receive $3.50 per bushel plus prepaid annual storage payments of 26.5 cents a bushel. The current interest rate on wheat loans is 14.5 percent.

USDA officials say farmers increased their holdings in the wheat reserve program by 110 million bushels during 1980-81. As of Aug. 12, the reserve totals 375 million bushels and is made up of placements going back to the 1976 crop. The law permits a maximum wheat reserve of 700 million bushels.

Management program in this four-county area.

The Conn operation consists of 100 acres of what, 320 acres of soybeans and 80 acres of grain sorghum. They also have a hog operation consisting of 30 sows in a farrow-to-finish operation.

Alcorn County Agent Robert Wolfe describes the Conn operation as "outstanding."

"The Conn family accomplishments in this program have been excellent," Wolfe said. "The management techniques they have demonstrated have not only helped improve their operation and increase their income, but have had a positive effect on many other farms in the county. We are real proud of the family and their accomplishments." Roger Conn graduated from Mississippi State University in 1973 with a degree in Industrial Arts. He taught school for a year before deciding that his life's ambition was in agriculture.

In 1974 the family took over the operation of Roger's father and started farming full-time. That first year they had a few head of enrolled in the Resource beef cattle and grew soybeans and corn.

"After joining the Resource Management pirogram, the first thing we did we was sell the cows," Roger Conn said. "We then started looking for other means of cash flow rather tihan justa bean market. We sielected hogs and have been pleased with results to Conn, with the help of his Dad, built his own farrowing and finishing houses for the operation. He switched from corn to grain sorghum because the crop is more tolerant to dry weather.

"We planned for a 50-sow operation plus soybeans and grain sorghum," Conn continued. "I have been to 50 sows a few times, but we keep culling the low producers and will average about 30 sows year-round. We wean about eight pigs per litter and feed the grain sorghum with a supplement in the finishing operation."

Conn says the program has given the family confidence in themselves as farm managers.

"I used to worry about my crops and yields but not anymore," Conn said. "If a person will follow the recommendations of the Extension Service and TVA, he should be able to make a good crop. We have to depend on all the services available to succeed today."

A.C. Davis, with TVA's Division of Agricultural Development, said progress is measured by the kind of job families do with the resources they have to work with, not by the bigness of the operation.

"Families are selected because of the size farm

For those of you who missed our social Saturday night, you missed a lot of food, fun, dancing and a good band. We appreciate those of you who came, including our visitors. We will be looking forward to next month.

On the Labor Day weekend, I said we had a lot out for the weekend, but what I didn't tell you was what to do in case you are on the lake and your boat motor

You paddle to the edge of one of you, like the "Telephone Man," gets in front and the "Termite" gets behind to push. Then you start the long trip up and around the hills and hollows to the camp site. But wait, I forgot one thing. What do you do if you see something with just a small towel around it? Just keep on walking and pushing. Better luck next time boys it must have been fun.

We even had a couple out for the first time in some long years, and then we hear that the "Telephone Lady," even talks in her sleep. You should be very careful about who you talk about. The poor children get hollered at even when Mama is a sleep!

Our hearts were saddened over the weekend to hear that the house of the "Lame Ducks" and "Granny's" daughter burned. She lost everything they had. If any one would like to give her a gift of love it would be appreciated. We will be carrying gifts to the meeting Tuesday night for her.

We would like to say happy birthday on Monday to the "Little Bird Hunter," Little wrecker (Girl," on Wednesday, and a happy anniversary on Monday to the "Little Wrecker." We hope each of you have a good day.

This is my last column of the year. The "Lady Blue Surf," starts writing again next week. I would like to thank you for your support this last year. This job is time consuming, but we have had a lot of fun. Please give the "Lady Blue Surf" your news and comments.

Hope you will go to the church of your choice, but go. God bless each of you.

NE Tigers Waltz To 54-18 Romp Over Coahoma

By LEE GENTRY Sports Editor

Led by Ripley speedster chillip McDonald who scored two touchdown and rushed for 136 yards and a powerful Tiger offense that gained 509 yards, the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers won their first game of the 1981 season with a 54-18 romp over Cohoma's Tigers in action at Baldwyn's Latimer Park. "We really got after them," Northeast head coach Bill Ward said. "Our offensive line really played well and we excelled real early in the opening quarter but never came close after that. Northeast opened it up to 28-12 at the intermission;

Signal caller Buddy Hall directed touchdown after ttouchdown including the 25 ward pass to end Monty Hamilton.

Tiger placekicker Kenny Mathis added six straight extra points.

"We were real pleased with our whole effort," Ward said but we really have our work cut out for us this week against Jones."

The Tigers will march on Jones Saturday night at 7:30 and will be trying to repete their win from a some revenge from a later defeat at the hands of Jones in the State Playoff at Tiger

The Northeast squad are 1-1 on the 1981 season and are tied with Itawamba for first place in the North division with a 1-0 record. "Jones is a good football team," Ward said. "They do a lot of things well with the ball and we'll have to be on our toes to handle them."

The Tigers will travel to Jones this week and follow with another road contest next Thursday night before returning home Oct. 3 in the new Tiger Stadium.

Ducks Unlimited Banquet Slated For November 12th

The Prentiss County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited has announced that its 2nd annual banquet will be held at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College on Nov. 12, 1981 at 7:00 p.m., Chapter Chairman, Doug Mansell feels the fund-raising function should be marked on the calendar by anyone who is interested in the future of North America's waterfowl.

Banquets much like our chapter event held throughout the country last year contributed towards Ducks Unlimited's national fund-raising effort which rasied 25 million during 1980 alone. But what's even more important to realize," said Mansell "is that this mational fund-raising total must increase this year if the North American waterfowl habitat race is to be won."

DU's sportsmen conservationists founders discovered through surweys conducted forty years ago that seventy percent of North America's waterflowl production occurs in Canada. They figured out back in 1937 what holds ttrue today. Since Federal duck stamp dollars cannot the spent beyond U.S. borders, sportsmen funds earmarked for waterfowl conservation are not getting to the places where the great percentage of production takes place.

But through Ducks

Unlimited's efforts, over $100 million has been ditional acres of habitat must be reserved in order to stablize North America's waterfowl population. When you consider that habitat today is diminishing due to agricultural and developmental pressures, and that DU is the only nonprofit conservation organization involved in the Canadian waterfowl habitat race, you can begin to see the significance attached to the organization's fund-raising

Maintaining Your Mental Health

How Can Alcohol Be Treated?

From TIMBER HILLS MENTAL HEALTHI SERVICES

Tenth in a series of articles on alcohol and alcoholism

For too long, most people thought than an alcoholic person had to hit "rock bottom: before he could either accept or benefit from treatment. Today we know that many alcoholic persons are intensely relieved to learn that their alcoholism is an illness, and that it is treatable. Like other illnesses, the earlier alcoholism is diagnosed and treated, the better the chaince for recovery.

The treatment used for alcoholism is as varied as the easons for alcoholic drinking, and programs which individualize the treatment approaches to the patients's needs offer the best results.

Psychotherapy and counseling may be used to provide long-range help. Although consiiderable success has been reported in nonmedical, social setting withdrawal from alcohol, in the case of acute alcoholism or acute intoxication, hospitalization may be required for a short period of time to safely rid the body of alcohol and to help the body adjust to doing without this drug.

The usual procedure is to give the patient medicines that will prevent convulsions, and produce a healthy appetite and sound sleep. High strength vitamins and a diet rich in nutrients are prescribed.

Medical treatment for other health problems is usually started during the same period when withdrawal is being handled. Once the patient receives special care for his physical ailments, stops using alcohol, and starts eating properly, the progress of most alcohol-related illnesses can be halted. In many cases, body organs that have been injured begin to heal themselves.

To discourage patients from meturning to alcohol, some physicians prescribe the drug,, dilsulfiram (Antabuse). The patient takes this medication daily, knowing that if he also drinks the combination of alcohol and Antabuse will produce a violent headachie, nausea, and other discomforts.

Antabuse alone is not a sufficient treatment for alcoholism, but in combination with other types of treatment, it can be helpful. It can "buy time" for an alcoholic patient when he has an impulse to drink.

The primary goal of treatment is to help the person overcome his dependence on alcohol and develop a lifestyle not revolving around itts use. Experience to date has been that the chances of improvement seem greatest if total abstinence is the goal. As many as two-thirds of the people who seek help recover form alcoholism, a figure that compares favorably with the results of treatment for other psychological or behavioral problems.

Counseling offered by specially trained, non-degreed alcoholism counselors-often persons who have recovered from alcoholism themselves--is one of the most frequently used forms of treatment, and has been very effective.

Psychotherapy is generally conducted by trained professionals--psychiatrists,, psychologists, or social workers--and can be used to treat alcoholic people individually or in groups. The goal of psychotherapy is to help the patient handle his problems better. A vital part of the treatment program is to offer the alcoholic person someone he can depend on as he gets ready to tackle life without his old crutch, alcoholl.

Another type of therapy gaining acceptance in alcoholism treatment is family therapy, which may involve just the husband and wife or the entire family.

One of the oldest and largest programs available today for treatment of alcoholism is Alcoholics Anonymous. AA is a voluntary fellowship of alcoholic people whose sole purpose is to help themselves and each other get sober, stay sober, and mend their lives. Membership is open and free of charge to anyone who needs help with an alcoholism problem.

AA depends primarily on a spiritual approach and the unselfish devotion of recovering and recovered alcohlic members to each other. The person joining AA admits that he is powerless over alcohol. Working on a day-byday basis, he places his faith in a power greater than himself and knows that, day or night, he can call on a fellow AA member for support if he feels his determination not to drink is beginning to weaken.

Al-Anon Family Groups have been set up for the wives, the husbands, and the friends of alcoholic persons. Alateen helps the children of alcoholic individuals understand drinking problems and also helps them cope with related difficulties at home and outside the home. Membership in these organizations is open to all, whether or not the alcoholic friend or relative is receiving help from Alcoholics Anonymous or another source. Al-Anon and Alateen are fellows:hips separate from AA.

Because the factors involved in each individual's alcoholism are, in a sense, as unique as the individual him:self, different people may require different types of treatment. But whatever methods of therapy are used, their goal is the same: to enable alcoholic people to change their feelings, attitudes, and oehavior in the direction of more effective and rewarding patterns of living.

Alcoholic people often use alcohol as a means of dealing with whatever is hurting them for whatever cause, whether it is a physical, psychological, or social problem. All forms of treatment are ultimately aimed at substituting, for the destructive use of alcohol, more positive means of coping with life.

The new '81 models on the lot looked mighty sharp, but I couldn't believe it when I ambled over to see what the price tags said. What they said was who manufactured the vehicle and how much money you'd save over a year on better gasoline mileage-and a few other bits of trivia. But no prices-either for the vehicle or the so-called extras.

A salesman walked up and I inquired if they didn't put price tags on 'em any more. He implied he had been selling trucks for a long time and he had never known of the time that they listed the Mississippi farmers buy a lot of pickups. They also sell a lot of food and fiber for overt prices and when these: products go on sale in their retail outlets, buyers don't. have to be frustrated over how much to pay. They are: priced and tagged for the public convenience.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

By Charles L. Potts

Help Lord . . . The Devil Is After Me

(Fourth Article Dealing With Personal Loss)

You recall our original text in I Thess. 4:13, "Grieve not as those who have no hope." The Christian faith has never said that a truly religious person does not grieve. What it has said..is that there are good ways and bad ways to grieve..and that what a person considers most important in life will definitely affect the way he grieves.

To misunderstand the emotional and psychological impact of grieving will surely cause one to think the devil is at his door. It is now possible to predict some of the things that will happen to us when something or someone of great importance is taken from us. Hurt and grief taken on several forms...certainly this includes death, but we can observe the same process at work in many other kinds of losses as well. An example in question would be a family that has been transferred three times in the last five years. The children are just beginning to make a few friends...and, you guessed it..they are to move again. The children are thrown into turmoil...they get sick from the instability and the loss of their friends once again. Or think of the problem of divorce. This experience creates grief iin the hearts of those who have now lost someone who once was dear to them. It's like a liviing death to see one who has been loved ... now turn their back on you. Retirement is another form of grief. Many leave their jobs with a heavy heart. having almost lost all reason for living.

While you can think of other losses that hurt..health, wealth, job, etc..the one thing that must never be forgotten is that God is helping you. He is at work through your mind, body, and soul to bring you through.
