Six-Year-Old Injured In Bicycle Accident

A six-year-old Booneville girl, Consuela Pierce, received a minor skull fracture Monday afternoon when she collided with a pickup truck while riding a bicycle on August Circle.

According to police reports, the young girl was riding down the sidewalk when the pickup turned into a driveway in the path of the bicycle. The bicycle struck the side of the truck, throwing the girl onto the truck's hood.

'Inattention' was listed on the police report as the cause of the accident.

Consuela, the daughter of Regina Pierce of Booneville, was taken to the Booneville hospital and later transported to the North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo.

The driver of the pickup was listed as James T. McKinney of Route 3, Booneville. No tickets were issued in the incident.

Two additional indictments returned by the Prentiss County Grand Jury during June were made public this week. One indictment still remains secret until the person named is taken into custody by law officers.

The grand jury returned a charge of receiving stolen property against Bill Owens of Booneville. Owens is accused of receiving merchandise stolen from Jane's Shoe Shop in February.

Kenneth Dalton Robinson of Booneville was charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of a 1979 Ford pickup owned by Jimmy Clark.

Businesses To Close

Monday For Holiday

A number of local businesses will be closed Monday to take a long 4th of July weekend.

Among the stores that will remain closed Monday are Goddards, Sadies, Dickerson's Furniture, Wright's, Booneville Hardware, Shackelford's Shoes, The Villager, The Grace Shop, Floyd's Drugs, Main Street Fashions, Russell's Jewelry, The Clothes Rack, Home Sewing Center, Fidelity Federal, and Color Tyne.

Businesses that plan to open Monday include Win-Way, Fred's, Perry's Carpets, Gray's and Wal-Mart (9 a.m. to 6 p.m.).

Some May Receive Fewer Food Stamps

There may be some changes in food stamp benefits for some Prentiss Countians, according to the Prentiss County Food Stamp Office.

An increase in Social Security, SSI, VA and railroad retirement benefits scheduled for July could result in decreased food stamp allotments for some households. All food stamp households containing these types of income will be reviewed during the months of July through October.

Written notice will not be provided to reflect the changes, according to the Welfare Department. However, food stamp recipients may contact the county welfare or food stamp office if there are any questions.

Brinkley Trial Postponed

Roberts Murder Trial Now Underway

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

During the first day of testimony in the murder trial of Jessie Eugene Roberts, two of the prosecution's witnesses testified the defendant told them different stories concerning the shooting in which Ruby Melton Roberts was killed.

Roberts, 49, of Route 1, Marietta, was indicted in February on a murder charge in connection with the Dec. 18, 1981, shooting of his wife, Ruby Roberts.

Mrs. Roberts, 46, died at her home south of Marietta after she was shot once in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The State's first witness, Bobby Griffith, a former trusty at the Prentiss County jail, testified that Roberts called the sheriff's office to report the shooting, Roberts said his wife had shot herself. Griffith answered the phone when the call came in.

However, Prentiss County Deputy Sheriff Carl Sartin testified, that Roberts told him he had returned from a grocery store in Kirkville and found his wife had been shot.

According to Sartin, Roberts said he picked up the gun thinking someone still might be in the house, but then decided there wasn't and placed the gun behind a bedroom door. The gun was sent to the State Crime Lab but no fingerprints of significance were found on it, Sartin said.

Sartin said an absence of fingerprints could be because the person holding the gun was wearing gloves, or because there was oil on the weapon. Moving the fingers could also distort the fingerprint, he said.

The deputy told the jury he smelled alcohol on Roberts that night. A lab report on Mrs. Roberts showed the alcohol content of her blood to be 0.12 percent, Sartin said. To be charged with DUI, the alcohol content of blood is 0.10 percent, he said.

During cross examination defense attorney James Godwin asked Sartin if a motive had been found for the alleged murder. "When a crime is committed you always look for a motive," Sartin said. "But I haven't come up with an iron-clad motive."

All of Tuesday morning was spent selecting the jury which consists of nine men, three women, and two alternate women jurors. The jury was sequestered Tuesday night.

Prosecution attorneys, DA John Young, Assistant DA Richard Bowen, and County Attorney John Hatcher, said they expected to call five more witnesses to testify. Defense attorneys, Godwin and George Via, said they expected to have about the same number of witnesses to testify. The case was expected to conclude Wednesday.

In other court action, the murder trial of Harold Lloyd Brinkley was postponed to the next term of court because of Roberts' trial.

This is the second time Brinkley's trial has been postponed. The first trial was postponed when one of his attorneys, John Farese, had a conflict of trial dates.

Brinkley, 52, is charged with murder in connection with the Nov. 10, 1980 shooting of his wife, Margaret Brinkley.

Fourth Of July Parade Comes Early This Year

Booneville's annual neighborhood 4th of July parade will be held on July 3 this year. . . and for the first time, it will have a grand marshal.

Since the 4th falls on Sunday, parade organizers Mr. and Mrs. Will George felt many people would prefer to spend the day in church or with their families. So the parade has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday, a day earlier.

The parade has become somewhat of a tradition in the Georges' neighborhood. It began eight years ago when two of the Georges' daughters, Cindy and Kristy, and two neighborhood friends, Claire Lamb and Lori Bolen, decided to organize their own when they realized there was no 4th of July parade scheduled in Booneville.

The first one was a simple affair, with a handful of neighbors marching through the streets of the neighborhood. But somehow over the years the idea caught on, with more and more people participating each year, including many who do not live in the neighborhood.

This year, Sallie Kate Chase, a retired teacher living in the neighborhood, has been given the honor of being named the first grand marshal of the parade. Kristie George and other neighborhood children have presented her with her own American flag to fly during Saturday's parade.

Approximately 100 people - young, old, and in-between - have participated in the parade during each of the past two years.

This year's parade will follow the same route as in the past two years. After lining up on Seventh Street, the parade will turn west on College to Ninth, go north on Ninth to Washington, go east on Washington to Fifth, and follow Fifth Street to Foster Park where lemonade and refreshments will await participants.

There is nothing formal about the parade - participants gather at the Georges' residence on Seventh Street, dressed as they wish. Some bring musical instruments, many bring flags, and some bring only themselves. But all come to have a good time and celebrate the birth of the nation.

"Anyone who wants to show their patriotic spirit" is welcome to participate in the parade. The festivities usually last about one and a half hours.

New Auto Tag Laws Take Effect Today

Several changes which were made during the 1982 session of the Mississippi Legislature in the state's laws pertaining to automobile tags take effect today, July 1.

Under the new provision of the law, owners of new vehicles will be assured of at least 12 months operation on the first tag purchased.

New or used vehicles acquired from dealers must be registered within seven working days following the date of purchase. According to A.C. "Butch" Lambert of the State Tax Commission, the tag for these vehicles will be issued for the remaining days in the month of purchase plus 12 months thereafter. This contrasts with the old law whereby the tag was issued for the month of purchase plus 11 additional months.

Renewals will be issued for a 12-month period.

Persons purchasing automobiles from individual owners (non-dealers) are required to register them with the county tax assessor within five working days after the date of purchase.

By presenting the current tax receipt and license tag, credit for the unused portion of taxes will be allowed and the new tag will be issued for 12 months. This is a change

Grand Marshal

Sallie Kate Chase (top) has been named grand marshal of this year's 4th of July parade, held annually by friends and neighbors in the Seventh Street neighborhood. Presenting Mrs. Chase with her own flag to fly on Independence Day are (from left) Luke Hankins, Molly Cole, Barbara Browder and Kristie George. This year's parade will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 3.

PREPARING FOR RETIREMENT - Mrs. Claire T. Ross, Prentiss County Home Economist for the past 19 years, officially retired Wednesday. A successor for Mrs. Ross' position has not yet been named. (Photo by Angela Smith)

Claire T... Retiring After 19 Years

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

After serving Prentiss County for 19 years as Extension Home Economist, Mrs. Claire T. Ross is retiring. Her retirement became effective yesterday, June 30.

Prior to coming to Booneville, Mrs. Ross, a Jackson, Miss., native, was employed at Corinth Junior High School for eight years as a home economics and science teacher, at Alcorn County County Electric Power Association and Farmers Security Administration (now FmHA).

Her title was Home Demonstration Agent until 1965 when the title was changed to "Extension Home Economist." Mrs. Ross replaced Imogene Eaker. Although it was almost two decades ago, "they still remind me sometimes about things that Mrs. Eaker used to do," Mrs. Ross said. "She was hard to follow."

Mrs. Ross graduated from Mississippi University for Women and did graduate work at Ole Miss. She and her husband, Curlee, are the parents of two children, Ann Caver and John Ross. They are also grandparents of a nine-week-old granddaughter, Maggie Caver.

Under Mrs. Ross' leadership a wide variety of program opportunities have been established for families in Prentiss County. Among the most successful of these programs are "Weight-Off-Wisely," an interior design class, the Prentiss County Mini-Fair, and the Community Appearance Drive.

The mailing list of her monthly newsletter "Notes and Quotes" has grown from less than 100 to over 1,000. Besides writing her

Signs Get New Look

Highway traffic signs in Mississippi are taking on a new look with the introduction of service symbol signs across the state.

The new signs emphasize white pictorial silhouettes on a blue background and inform motorists of services offered in particular areas.

According to Don Long, state traffic control and safety engineer, the change will be gradual. Symbol signs will replace word message signs as the need arises. The new signs will be 22 feet square, compared to 41 feet square in the old signs. Long said the highway department should save $4,400 per year with the use of the new signs.

By design, symbol signs are easier to maintain because stock supplies can be kept on hand. Also, services can be posted separately rather than making a new sign every time a service is added.

Claire T.

newsletter and weekly newspaper column, she has a daily radio program on WBIP - which she's had for 19 years.

Due to her radio program, "Hints for the Housewife," Mrs. Ross probably has one of the most recognizable voices in Prentiss County. She said from time to time people in the grocery store come up to her and say "You're Mrs. Ross aren't you?...I thought I knew your voice!"

She laughingly recalls the time when the husband of one of her club members recognized her voice. "As I was introduced to him he said, 'Oh, I've listened to you lots of times on the radio, but I didn't think you were as old as you are!'"

She isn't 100 percent certain, but she believes the radio program is also responsible for people calling her "Claire T." "Of course, Claire T. Ross is my official name but somebody started calling me Claire T. and it's stuck. Now even my relatives call me Claire T." The "T" in her name stands for her maiden name, Tuxford.

When Mrs. Ross began her job, the home demonstration agent's office was located in the basement of the post office. Her kitchen consisted mostly of a hotplate.

Once she was teaching aides how to prepare an inexpensive yet nutritious meal, potato soup. She made the potato soup and put all the ingredients in an electric casserole, which is similar to a crock pot except it cooks faster. She plugged the casserole in and left it in the storeroom.

Then girls from home economics and 4-H, Mrs. Ross and her secretary began planning schedules for the weeks ahead. "I noticed my secretary wasn't paying attention and seemed to be listening to something," Mrs. Ross recalled.

"Pretty soon I heard it and then we began to get a whiff of it. I'd left the casserole turned on too high and potato soup was spilling over into the projector, a drawer of stencils and on the floor. I think they even smelled scorched potato soup upstairs in the Post Office!"

As Extension Home Economist, she has received many phone calls from people requesting information on such subjects as stain removal, landscaping, and planning budgets.

One phone call that stands out in her mind is one she received one Saturday at 5 a.m. from a woman who said, "My children are coming home in two weeks and my cantaloupes are already ripe. Where can I keep the cantaloupes from spoiling?"

Although early in the morning, Mrs. Ross thought quickly and told her to put them in a cool place - under the house. The woman called her again later to tell her the advice had worked.

"I've tried to serve people and help anybody who needed help. The true philosophy in Extension is that you try to get people to help themselves," she said.

Last October Mrs. Ross received a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists. Following that, her homemakers and the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors honored her with a surprise dinner. The homemakers gave her a silver bowl and the supervisors presented her with a plaque.

Mrs. Ross admits that now that her retirement is here she has "butterflies in her stomach." But she will continue to work with the Needlecrafters Club and other projects. She also expects granddaughter Maggie to occupy a lot of her time.

And she plans to do work around the house. "My house needs having things done to it that I've been telling people that they ought to do!"

New Auto

from the old system whereby the purchaser continued to use the seller's tag until its expiration.

In an effort to simplify calculations, the road and privilege tax has been set at $15 annually for all automobiles, regardless of size or age. The annual tax for motorcycles is set at $8 and all trailers will be $10.

Truck tags are unchanged, but special tags, such as amateur radio operator's tags and antique car tags, have been increased.

Applications for substitute tags must be accompanied by a copy of a report of loss or theft made to the appropriate law enforcement official.

The new law also reduces - at least initially - the penalty assessed for failure to buy a new tag before the expiration date of the old one.

The mandatory penalty of 25 percent for failure to purchase license tags on time has been reduced to 5 percent for the first 15 days of delinquency and 5 percent for each additional 30-day period of delinquency or part thereof up to a maximum of 25 percent.

This new penalty applies to privilege and ad-valorem tax.

Prentiss County Unemployment At 9.4 Percent

After a slight drop the previous month, unemployment rose slightly in Prentiss County at mid-May.

Charles Smith, manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service, estimated the number of unemployed in Prentiss County to be 1,020, or 9.4 percent of the civilian labor force. This compares to 9.1 percent in April and 9.0 percent in May 1981.

The number employed was estimated at 9,850 at mid-May, 100 above the previous month's estimate and 20 above the same month a year ago. The civilian labor force, a combination of employed and unemployed, rose to 10,870. In April it was 10,730, and 10,800 in May 1981.

Manufacturing employment in Prentiss County edged up slightly at mid-month to 2,740, 40 above one month ago and 70 below one year ago. Non-manufacturing employment, at 3,570, followed the same trend.

In the four-county area of

An estimated 42,930 workers were employed at mid-May, compared to 43,240 in April 1982 and 45,930 in May 1981.

Alcorn, Prentiss, Tippah and Tishomingo, the civilian labor force totaled 48,870, a decline of 10 from the April estimate and 990 below the estimate for one year ago.

There were 5,940 persons unemployed in May, an increase of 300 from April and an even larger increase of 1,230 from the May 1981 estimate. The rate of employment during May was 12.2 percent of the civilian labor force, compared to 11.5 percent last month and 9.4 percent last year.

Overall establishment based employment in the four-county area experienced considerable decline over the month and year. A total of 14,460 workers were employed in manufacturing at mid-May, a drop of 150 from the April estimate and 1,110 below that of May, one year ago.

Nonmanufacturing employment was 18,370, compared to 18,730 one month ago and 21,330 one year ago. Monthly comparisons show government workers experiencing the major loss, while yearly comparisons indicate major losses in construction, transportation and public utilities, and government.

Fourth Is One Of Deadliest

Mississippians are about to plunge into one of the most dangerous holidays for traffic deaths, according to the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol.

Patrol Chief Donald Butler said for five of the last ten years the Independence Day weekend ranked first or was tied for first in the number of traffic related deaths when compared to other annual holidays.

The holiday officially begins at 6 p.m., on Friday, July 2, and ends at midnight Monday, July 5, Butler said.

Butler said that at various times during the 78-hour observance special enforcement details will be stationed on interstate and two-lane highways to assist motorists and curb violations.

Each of the patrol's nine districts have planned stepped up enforcement on heavily traveled highways and citations will be issued for expired inspection stickers, expired driver licenses, and expired license plates the Chief said.

The Fourth of July holiday period proved to be the most fatal of all holiday observances during the years of 1972, 1976, 1978, 1980, and 1981. Nineteen persons were killed in 1972, and 1978, while 13 died in 1976 and 1980.

Last year 18 people were killed in 14 accidents with failure to yield the right of way and drunk driving being the leading and second leading cause, respectively.

Accidents occurring on the day of the Fourth resulted in the most fatalities with nine of the 18 taking place that one day.

The average age of the 18 people killed was 35-years-old.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, I read in my Bible where Paul said for elders to be ordained in every city. Can a church be scriptural without elders?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: Yes, a congregation can be scriptural without elders. I read in my Bible of churches without elders. I also read of churches with qualified men serving as elders. But I do not read of one church with unqualified men serving as elders. You may read about the qualifications of elders in 1 Tim. 3 and Titus 1. If a congregation has men who meet these qualifications they should be serving as elders. However, if a congregation is new it might take some time for men to become qualified for this office. During this time it can be scriptural without elders. The problem in many places is when the time has come that men should be qualified for this office they have failed. They have failed to develop spiritually to the point they could serve as elders. Some churches want elders so much they place unqualified men into this office. This is a serious mistake. If certain men as individuals fail to qualify, they individually will have to answer to God for this failure. But this within itself does not condemn the church as a whole. It would be far better to have no elders at all than men trying to serve who do not have the Bible qualifications.

church, civic and social programs of the community, and other activities of the station.

Station manager R.J. "Piggy" Bonds accepted the trophy for WBIP-WBIP FM at the convention.

"Not only is it an honor to be awarded the title of Mississippi's outstanding radio station, but to be the first station ever awarded the prize is even more significant," he said.

Bonds will serve as a member of the selection committee to choose next year's outstanding station from over 150 radio stations which are members of the MBA.

Praising his employees, Bonds said that winning the award was the result of a team effort by the entire radio station staff and thanked them for their dedication in making WBIP "the number one radio station in the state of Mississippi."

"Most of all, what makes a radio station great is the dedication of its listeners," Bonds said, "and WBIP-WBIP FM has the most wonderful listeners in the world."

EYE OPENER

By Dr. Walter C. Simpson

IN "PURSUIT" OF GOOD VISION

For eye specialists, the term "fixation" means focussing our eyes on an object which we wish to observe and comprehend. The skill of fixation begins to develop in early infancy and it is important that it be continuously sharpened in later years.

In a vision expert's terminology, fixation movement of the eyes is called "pursuit," because the patient is expected to track or "pursue" the changing direction of a moving object—like the rise and fall of a yo-yo toy.

Another eye word—"saccades"—is the sudden movement of the eye to shift focus quickly from one plane to another. A child must perform this momentary shift when switching from a text book on the desk to a chalkboard many feet away.

When a child has difficulties with "pursuits" and "saccades," it is unlikely that parents will notice. But a vision specialist can quickly spot the problem and prescribe for it.

Teen Pregnancy Rate Causes Concern

From NORTHEAST PUBLIC HEALTH DISTRICT II

A Teen Initiative Project was established by the Mississippi State Board of Health approximately three years ago because of a growing concern over Mississippi's high rate of teenage pregnancies.

Teenage pregnancy has risks which affect not only the mother, but also her baby, her parents, the baby's father, his parents and society as a whole. These risks include medical, emotional, social and economic problems.

Betty A. Miller, Health Educator with the District II, Mississippi State Board of Health, is available to work with schools, churches, civic groups, parent groups, and other community organizations. Programs that deal with adolescent pregnancy, teen sexuality, decision-making skills, sexually transmitted diseases and rape are a few of the topics that can be covered.

A mother-daughter and father-son workshop is also available. The parent and adolescent go through a session together that covers emotional and physical changes of the adolescent.

This workshop is designed to open the lines of communication between parent and child about a subject that is oft times hard to discuss.

For more information, contact Mrs. Miller at 842-4966 or at the Mississippi State Board of Health, P.O. Box 199, Tupelo, Miss. 38801.

Miss Gifford Named State Song Leader

Tracey Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gifford of Thrasher, was elected state song leader for 1982-83 at the Mississippi State 4-H Club Congress last week.

Tracey was also named to the 4-H Awareness Team for 1982-83. She will attend the 4-H State Convention in August in Jackson and the 4-H Awareness Workshop for three days in July.

Awareness team members will be available to speak to various groups, promoting 4-H in Mississippi.

Street Opinion

QUESTION: What is your opinion of the outcome of John Hinckley's trial?

LYNN ROBERTS of Iuka: "I'm just disgusted. The shooting was premeditated and damaged so many other lives plus putting this country in jeopardy. What if the President had actually died at that time? I think the law should be changed -- the jury was locked into what they had to say. I know we have legislators that are capable of rewriting laws so that they are to the best interest of the public and they should rewrite them."

BRENDA PALMER of Route 1, Rienzi: "I wasn't pleased with the outcome of the trial. It wasn't only the president he shot -- more people were involved. To me, James Brady's life was ruined. I think that it's outrageous that most probably he will be out in the streets in a short length of time."

M.V. PADGETT of Route 3, Booneville: "I really think he ought to have been stuck with it myself and have been punished for life."

CINDY McDOUGAL of Route 6, Booneville: "I think, had he not been from a wealthy family, the outcome of the trial might have been different. I also think the jury was confused from all the different testimony of psychiatrists. I think the law should be changed so that a person can be found guilty by reason of insanity instead of innocent by reason of insanity."

JAMES RORIE of New Site: "I think it was the greatest miscarriage of justice there ever was. There's no proof beyond a shadow of a doubt that he was insane. I don't think he was insane and I think he should have been sentenced to life imprisonment."

WILNA PIPPIN of Route 4, Booneville: "I think they should have sentenced him because he tried to kill our president and he hurt others, too."

Reflections

By Ken Christian

Editor

IT STARTED FIVE months ago when the story first appeared in the Memphis Commercial-Appeal. Four Booneville Policemen had been accused of stealing items from a Booneville variety store after they discovered it unlocked while on patrol one night in 1979. Two of the officers involved -- one of whom is no longer on the police force -- reportedly told another officer that they had taken items from the store. These two men, both white, are also reported to have named two other officers, both black, as co-conspirators in the incident. Although no names were ever released by officials in the case, both black officers eventually came forward to protest their innocence and to demand that their accusers either press charges against them or apologize for damaging their reputations as police officers and citizens. But that never happened.

IT IS NOW five months later, and we -- the citizens of Booneville and Prentiss County -- are apparently no closer to learning what actually happened on that night in 1979 than we were five months ago.

From the beginning, the situation has been handled poorly by the officials involved.

During their regular board meeting on Feb. 2, the Booneville board of mayor and aldermen voted (during executive session) to turn the evidence in the case over to the district attorney for investigation.

However, it was the latter part of March before District Attorney John Young acknowledged that his office had been contacted by city officials asking him to look into the incident. At that time, Young said his office would investigate the incident and that, if the evidence warranted, it would be turned over to the Prentiss County Grand Jury for their consideration.

During the week of March 16, assistant district attorney Richard Bowen told the Banner-Independent he expected the investigation to be completed before the next term of the Prentiss County Grand Jury and that whatever evidence he had would be presented to the grand jury the next time it met.

Well, the Prentiss County Grand Jury convened for one day during June. And, although the grand jury meets in closed session, as far as we can determine, no evidence was presented concerning the case involving the Booneville police officers.

IT'S TRUE THAT this case may not seem as important as a murder case, or a car theft case, or some of the other crimes the district attorney's office is called upon to investigate -- at least on the surface. After all, even if the accused are guilty, they would probably only be guilty of a petty crime, not something of earth-shaking magnitude.

But, remember, this case involves police officers who have been accused of breaking the law. And while admittedly it may not always have been so in the past, aren't law officers expected to be above reproach?

How can an officer who has been publicly accused by another officer of breaking the law hold the respect of the public so that he can carry out his duties?

On the other hand, if guilty, how can an officer be allowed to continue to arrest others for crimes that he himself may have committed?

Something needs to be done. The officers accused of wrongdoing need to be either cleared or indicted. The situation should be resolved, one way or another. . . . And ignoring it and hoping it will go away is not the way to do it.

Although two state investigators made a show one day of investigating this case, I have yet to see any evidence that a serious investigation is going on. If there were not police officers involved, would the investigation have been allowed to continue this long? I doubt it. Something would have been done by now. So why the delay?

After all, we're all equal under the law -- or are we?

State GOP Hopes To Gain Congressional Seats

By BILL MINOR
Columnist

JACKSON, Miss.--The Mississippi Republican Party's first woman state chairman, Ebbie Spivey, may be able to do what her male predecessor couldn't: get the Cochran-Lott factions to stop feuding so the party can consolidate its political gains.

Spivey, the attractive 43-year-old Canton housewife and parttime school teacher, was elected two months ago to replace moderate Mike Retzer in what arch-conservatives charged was a coup engineered by Retzer, Sen. Thad Cochran, and the former State GOP Chairman Clarke Reed.

Actually, it was just that, but the shift to Spivey has turned out to be fortuitous for the State GOP, which has always had a proclivity for committing suicide when it appeared to be on the brink of success.

With her enthusiasm, brightness and charm, Spivey has caused the factions in the party to cool their emotions and concentrate on this year's Congressional elections, in which the GOP has fielded its most formidable lineup of candidates ever.

"Since Ebbie has been in there," said one party oldtimer, "we've put internal warfare on the back burner and, for a change, we're getting everybody to work behind our candidates."

The Republicans sense that they may wind up winning three of Mississippi's five seats in the U.S. House and a second seat in the U.S. Senate this November.

Trent Lott, of course, is a shoo-in in the Fifth District, and now the GOP's bright new horse in the Second, Webb Franklin, emerges as the favorite there with the exit of incumbent Rep. David Bowen. Liles Williams has been given a tougher district to whip Rep. Wayne Dowdy in their celebrated rematch, but Williams has come on as a more aggressive, broader based candidate, and with a black independent in the race, the GOP believes he'll win.

Haley Barbour's battle to unseat aging Sen. John Stennis is still considered a long-shot by knowledgeable Republicans, but they are optimistic the age issue will strengthen Barbour's chances as the campaign develops.

Spivey admittedly was surprised when Retzer made his unexpected decisions to step down in April, and suddenly the focus turned on her to replace him. "I agreed to take it at least two years, anyway, and then we'll see," says the dark-haired Spivey, who had been secretary of the GOP executive committee for several years.

Luckily, Spivey had not been caught up in the personality clashes in the committee between the forces intensely loyal to Lott, and the pro-Cochran forces led by Retzer and Reed. Even though her selection as Retzer's replacement was delivered to the Lott forces as a fait accompli before they had a chance to organize any opposition, there has been no outward show of resistance.

"They couldn't attack her because of her loyalty and faithfulness to the committee, and the fact she was the first woman to have the job," said one GOP insider.

At the time Spivey was named, it was thought Mississippi may be unique in this part of the country in having a woman chairman. Meantime, Tennessee and Oklahoma have named women to lead the state party, and Kentucky had done it shortly before Mississippi.

Significantly, the job of GOP chairman in a number of other states, even some in the South, is a fulltime paid position, with some salaries running as high as $60,000 a year.

The coup which put Spivey in office was largely run by Reed, with Cochran doing backup work by telephone, over a weekend when Retzer had taken off for a business trip to San Francisco after dropping the word he planned to resign at the committee meeting several days later.

All but nine of the 30 votes on the committee were lined up for Spivey, carefully steering around the members of the committee aligned with Dr. James Moya of Laurel, a longtime Reed foe who has aspired to be chairman of the party for years.

Moya engineered an abortive move a month after Ronald Reagan was elected in November 1980 to unseat Retzer, circulating what pro-Retzer forces called the "secret affidavit" which 10 members from the Fifth and Fourth Districts signed.

Although Rep. Lott disclaimed having any role in the effort to unseat Retzer, a former staffer of his, Jim Johnson, was the key person circulating the petition and reportedly was slated to get a top paid job in the party if the coup succeeded.

Lott continues to be the darling of the arch-conservatives on the state GOP committee and throughout the party ranks. The moves aimed at Retzer and his forces, say insiders, "are really aimed at Cochran...he is their real enemy."

That anti-Cochran feeling, say these same insiders, stems from the fact Cochran is sitting in the catbird seat when it comes to a showdown in the exercise of patronage power.

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

Staff Reporter

If it had been possible for John Hinckley's trial to have been held in Booneville would the outcome have been any different?

I've heard Prentiss Countians say Hinckley's trial was a "shame and disgrace." I agree, for it certainly doesn't seem fair for a man to try to kill the President of the United States, severely damage the lives of others, and be found innocent by reason of insanity.

While this trial may bring on enough outrage for laws to be changed, will jurors themselves change?

Shortly after the innocent by reason of insanity verdict was announced, I heard a juror tell a television reporter she really believed Hinckley was guilty. However, because of pressure from other jurors and because she wanted to wind up the case and go home, she voted with the rest of the jury.

Feelings like that are nothing new. It happens everywhere -- even in Prentiss County.

Two separate Prentiss County court cases come to my mind. In each instance, after the respective trials were finished, members of the jury told me they voted against their convictions simply because they wanted to "hurry up and go home."

One person felt particularly bitter about his decision. In essence he said, "I'll never complain about law authorities again. As long as people like me turn the criminals loose, I wouldn't blame the law for not wanting to arrest them." Although the man lost sleep over his decision, it was too late. The verdict was in.

The Sixth Amendment of the Constitution guarantees "the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury..." When I was in high school I was taught that it was every citizen's duty to serve on a jury.

However, it is readily apparent that not every citizen wants to serve on a jury. They give excuses of having to work, or being on vacation. While everyone wants to complain about the laws that govern us or what happens in court, many people don't want to get involved.

As a matter of fact, you are reading a column written by one such person who begged off from jury duty. Therefore, as I point my finger at those people who decide to take no part in our court system, I am also talking to myself. If we as citizens shrug off jury duty, we shouldn't yell quite so loud when a jury returns a verdict we disagree with.

Thought For the Week:
"Yesterday's Cross"

The cross that pressed so heavy
Is light and sweet to-day;
It lost its weight this morning
When Jesus came my way.

The cross that looked so dreary
A day or two ago
Has, with His presence,
Brightened,
He helped me lift it so.

It now is light, a feather
I laugh amid my tears,
And raise, with Him, my burden--
All flown my anxious fears.

The cross that weighed so heavy,
The tears that fell so fast;
Are changed to glorious rainbow
In skies, all blue at last!

Bernice Chase and her granddaughter Lisa recently enjoyed a trip to Michigan City, Ind., for a few days. Michigan City is where Bernice grew up before coming to Booneville. While there she visited with her three sisters and their families, and on Saturday night she enjoyed being reunited with her former classmates at their 50th year class reunion. I'm sure that was an exciting night.

Congratulations to Mrs. Leta Stockton and Mrs. Carolyn Whitehead on passing state board. They are now licensed practical nurses.

Mrs. Elvia Moorman has been in the CCU at the local hospital. On Sunday she was reported to be some better and had been moved out of the CCU. I hope that she will soon be out of the hospital and home again soon. Her many friends at Carter's Chapel Church have been missing her at services and continue praying for her.

Bro. L.D. Willis of Cherokee, Ala., was a visitor at Carter's Chapel Church of Christ recently. He brought with him slides from his missionary work overseas. It made us see just how much more we as Americans have than some of the poorer counties. Even our times of hardships our cup runneth over compared to the daily lives of others. We should appreciate and recognize the many blessings that we enjoyed daily and most often take for granted. But we should more importantly recognize that they are blessings, many of which we are not worthy of. But for some reason the Lord sees fit to continue sending them. It just goes to show that God has not given up on the human race yet. News is short this week.

Actually I had almost given up with this column, but I received a call from the Banner and received a little word of encouragement to continue with it. So once again I ask your cooperation in telling me what's going on at your home.

I cannot contact each of you personally so it's up to you to let me know. Many of you have expressed disappointment because this column has been absent a few weeks and I appreciate it. But this column is for you and about you, so you are the only one who can keep it going.

So I expect to hear from you next week. My number is 8-9563 at night; 8-4731 or 8-7019 will reach me during the day. My address is Route 6 Box 124. Don't forget to send your favorite recipes!

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian
George E. Allen Library

Tricks of magic, stories of great kings, queens and heroes, myths of ancient times -- all these figure in the fun activities for young people beginning at the library next Tuesday, July 6, at 10:30 a.m.

The summer reading program will continue on each Tuesday through Aug. 3 for five weeks of happy work and play.

Two sections, one for ages

3-6, and another for young people aged 7-14, will be taking place at the same time. Leaders in both groups are trained and experienced in making this hour each week rewarding.

Mrs. Cathy Pippin, whose work at the Northeast Junior College is in the area of child development and whose preschool daughter is a regular library patron, will conduct activities for the younger group.

A team from the Northeast Regional Library, headed by William McMullin, will work with the older group. Mr. McMullin has many interests himself and his enthusiasm and knowledge increase the pleasure of those who work with him.

A record of the books each registrant reads will be kept and each will be encouraged to set a goal of a number of books to be read during these five weeks. Whatever self-determined goal is reached will be rewarded with a certificate, but no contest is planned unless that idea comes from the participants.

The Woman's Club of Booneville will again help with this program, furnishing refreshments and lending assistance in every area. You may have already seen our dragon, the work of Tommy Walden whose art will continue to add vivid touches of imagination.

The Mississippi Library Commission has focused their aids, bookmarks, games and handicraft on the theme "Mystical, Magical, Mystical Months." It's happy magic at its best, and we invite all young people to be a part of it.

See you Tuesday, July 6, at 10:30 at the library!

McVay REUNION -- The family of Jasper McVay surprised him with a family gathering Sunday, June 27. Mr. McVay, a victim of cancer, will enter the Tupelo hospital Friday. All of his brothers and sisters were present except one brother who could not attend because of illness. Pictured are (l-r) Earnest McVay, Vera Knight, Lena Wilemon, Jasper McVay, Betty McVay, Ester Johnson and Gertrude Huguley. Not pictured is Herman McVay.

Janet Dickerson To Speak At First Baptist

Miss Janet Dickerson will speak at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 4, at the First Baptist Church of Booneville about her recent missionary experience in Yemen.

In 1980 Miss Dickerson was appointed as a Journeyman to serve two years as a nurse with Chief Physician James Young of the Baptist Hospital in Yemen. She is a 1973 graduate of Booneville High School and a 1977 graduate of the University of Mississippi School of Nursing.

Prior to her appointment as a Journeyman, Miss Dickerson worked for three years as a pediatric nurse at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, N.C.

"We are so proud that God has used one of our fine young adults in such a wonderful way," said Dr. Bill Duncan, First Baptist's new pastor. "She will be showing some of her experiences and informing us of our Baptist work in this critical part of the world. Everyone is urged to attend the special service and remain for the church-wide fellowship after the evening service."

Miss Dickerson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dickerson of Booneville.

Friends Since Childhood

And Now, Why Not A Master's Degree

Good friends share a lot of things -- joys and sorrows, good times and fun, and serious things, too.

Katherine Jolley Kiestler and Regenia Furtick Rickman, close friends since childhood, shared another experience Saturday, May 29.

On that day, both graduated from Union University in Jackson, Tenn.; both received bachelor of science degrees in elementary education; and both graduated with honors -- Regenia, cum laude, and Kathy, magna cum laude.

"We have been good friends since we were 10 years old," Kathy said. "And we attended every class together in college."

Regenia added.

After graduating from high school, both Kathy and Regenia temporarily interrupted their educational careers.

Kathy married James Kiestler and had one daughter, Vanillife. Regenia married Larry Joe Rickman, and became the mother of two children, Todd and Mitzi. Both families live in Selmer, Tenn. (Regenia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Furtick of Rienzi.)

They say they didn't plan to take all their classes together. "It just worked out that way. . . We've done a lot together, but this is the best," they agreed.

Kathy Kiestler And Regenia Rickman

Kathy and Regenia hope to continue their education and work toward their master's degrees. And, just maybe, they will do that together, too!

Bear Creek Expects 30,000 Visitors Annually

Scenic Bear Creek Riverway in northwest Alabama is officially open to the public although development of access sites will continue through the summer, according to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

TVA has purchased rights for the public to float the 24-mile segment between Upper Bear Creek and Bear Creek Reservoirs, to portage dangerous stretches, and to picnic, swim, or sunbathe in other areas along the streambanks.

Project manager Dick Austin said the purchases were necessary because under Alabama law the streambed as well as all surrounding property is privately owned. The purchases were financed with federal funds.

Along a three-mile stretch of Bear Creek from Upper Bear Creek Dam to Highway 241, the public is now intitled to float, fish, and swim, but cannot land on the banks except in an emergency or to portage Upper Factory Falls, Austin said.

From Highway 241 downstream, the public is allowed to temporarily land on the banks for recreational activities such as picnicking within 50-foot wide strip of the bank on either side of the creek, said Austin. (TVA has purchased a wider easement but only for scenic protection and not for public access.)

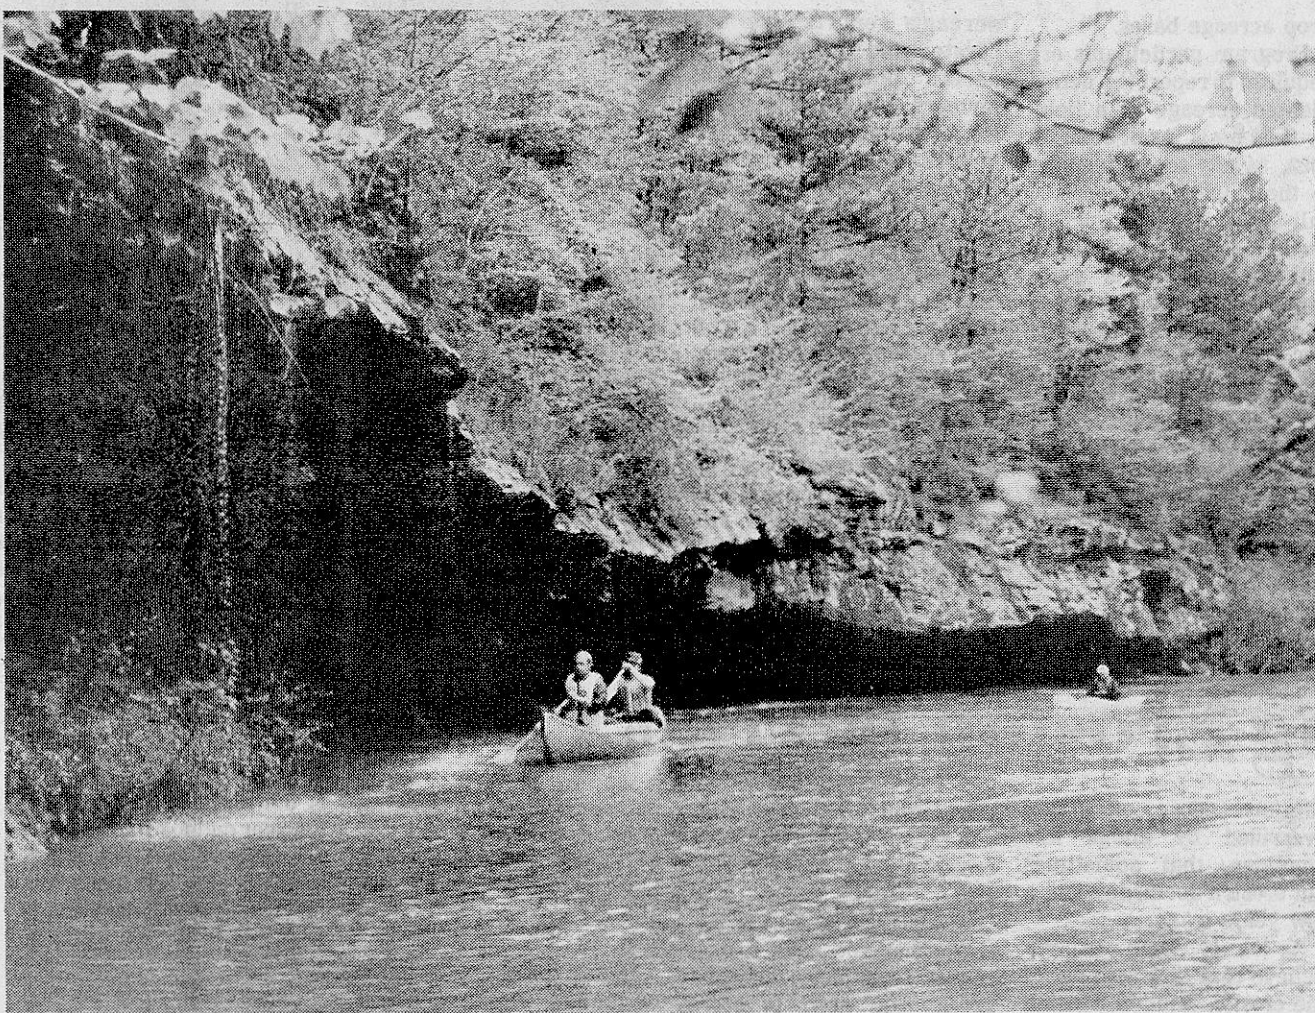

No camping is allowed at present anywhere on the streambank.

The following access points have been established for the scenic riverway.

-- On the left bank downstream of the Highway 5 bridge just south of the town of Bear Creek.

-- On the right bank downstream of the Highway 241 bridge at Mill Creek.

-- On the right bank downstream of the Old Jackson Highway Bridge at

The Scenic Beauty Of Bear Creek

Rock Quarry Branch.

-- On the left bank upstream of Military Bridge.

-- On the right bank downstream of Scott Bridge on Highway 187 northeast of Hodges.

Despite a previous lack of legal access, Bear Creek has long been a magnet pulling many canoeists and john-boaters from as far away as Nashville and Birmingham. Although no estimates of these visits are available, the formal development of the floatway is expected to attract up to 30,000 visits a year, Austin said.

Bear Creek's primary attraction is its scenic beauty. It flows through a gorge with 50- to 100-foot bluffs where mountain laurel, azaleas, hemlock, and wildflowers grow in profusion. Because the gorge apparently restricted easy access to the timber, much of the forest along the banks appears never to have been cut.

Quite, observant floaters may see great horned owls, green herons, muskrats, and wood ducks among the wildlife species that commonly make their home along the creek. A black bear was recently sighted by TVA personnel.

A number of waterfalls that empty into Bear Creek are visible from the creek, and others, blocked from view by huge hemlocks and poplars, can be heard echoing against the walls of the bluffs.

The entire stream is easily navigable except for Upper and Lower Factory Falls--locations where factories once produced cotton yarn. Upper Factory Falls, located between mile 112 and 113, is Class IV whitewater, Austin said.

"Class IV means very difficult going and whitewater experience is absolutely necessary," Austin said. "For this reason, we purchased the necessary rights on the left bank for floaters to portage the falls."

Lower Factory Falls, near mile 109, is rated at Class VI, which means it cannot be attempted without risk of life, Austin said. "Portage rights have been purchased on the right bank."

Just above the lower falls are Class II rapids of medium difficulty which should be scouted and even portaged depending on waterflow and experience of the floaters involved.

"It's not at all unusual for those who run this Class II stretch to be forced to pull to the right bank below the rapids to empty the water taken on," Austin said.

Because camping is prohibited along the banks, TVA plans to develop a primitive camping area at the Rock Quarry Branch Access Area. In addition, there are numerous developed campgrounds around the Bear Creek reservoirs and motels are located in nearby towns.

A Bear Creek Water Use Permit issued by the Bear Creek Development Authority is required to float the stream. The permits are available at local hardware and sporting goods stores and at bait and tackle shops throughout the area, and cost $1 for daily permits and $7.50 for annual permits.

Prime times to float the stream are weekends and holidays when the local authority guarantees minimum flows as long as there is no conflict with maintenance of reservoir levels for water supplies and flood control. Floaters must bring their own boats because rentals are not yet available.

For more information write Streams Project, TVA, Norris, Tennessee 37823, or the Bear Creek Development Authority, Post Office Box 670, Russellville, Alabama 35653. The development authority's telephone number is (205) 332-4392.

Misuse Causes Most Fireworks Injuries

Every Fourth of July, children ask the same old questions, and parents grapple for some new answers and reasons why fireworks are off limits to youngsters.

"You're spoiling our fun. What harm can a firecracker do anyway?"

"When you were a kid, you did everything you wanted. What's wrong with fireworks? Why can't I have fun like you did?"

Before surrendering to their pleas, parents might want to explore some evidence of why fireworks can be dangerous:

--It was May, 1976, in a New Jersey high school. A prankster had tossed an illegal fireworks device into a glass cabinet in a corridor. Seconds later, two teenage girls passed within three feet of the cabinet, as the device exploded. One girl died when glass cut her jugular vein.

--Having fun was the reason two boys gave for setting off a firecracker in a tree stump in Walnut Creek, Calif., in June, 1979. When firemen finally put their hoses away, two persons were hospitalized and three homes gutted; damage was put at $330,000.

--In the aftermath of new year's celebrations in January 1980, some children on the island of Kauai, Hawaii, gathered pieces of firecrackers and put them in a small glass bottle. One lighted the powder. A three-year-old girl died and six companions were hospitalized for injuries from the explosion.

Bystanders are often innocent victims of explosions. On July 4, 1980, an 18-year-old Bremen, Indiana, man died from a fireworks accident. . . a four-year-old East St. Louis, Ill., boy was killed when a roman candle misfired in a home fireworks' celebration. . . and on the preceding day, a Montana man died when a mortar shell exploded.

Many thousands of fireworks' displays on Independence Day are uneventful except for the festive holiday spirit that results from "the bombs bursting in air." Cities, towns and villages across the nation stage the displays because residents are less inclined to set off their own fireworks after having their fill of the public celebration.

In spite of this, untold American risk life and limb every year in an effort to create their own explosive devices. On July 3, 1979, three people died when homemade fireworks explosions ripped through the structure. A few days later, a 16-year-old Texas youth died when his homemade firecracker exploded.

What is being done to combat these fireworks related injuries and deaths?

Working cooperatively, agencies at the local, state and federal level are enforcing prevailing laws governing the sale of illegal fireworks, and stepping up inspections of contraband fireworks exported to the U.S. or manufactured domestically by unlicensed firms.

Some states have closed their borders to fireworks of any kind. Fifteen states have banned everything except the caps used in toy cap pistols; 14 states allow caps and sparklers, but prohibit everything else. The remaining 21 states have differing laws, but they essentially ban all fireworks except those which meet the requirements of the federal government.

Product abuse appears to be the most frequent cause for fireworks injuries. The Consumer Product Safety Commission's study in 1979 showed that over 60 percent of the injuries from legal or illegal fireworks were due to product misuse, not product malfunction.

Furthermore, the malfunctioning fireworks were, for the most part, banned fireworks under the federal law. In those cases where malfunctioning legal fireworks were involved in accidents, the injuries were minor and did not often require hospitalization.

AERIAL PHOTOS AVAILABLE

Aerial photos can be ordered through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office. County ASCS personnel will make the order forms available to interested persons and will also assist in identifying photograph numbers.

These photos, showing a producer's land, can be ordered in various sizes and scales. A 24x24 inch enlargement in a 660 scale will show 4 sections of land and fringe areas. A similar enlargement in a 1320 scale will show 20-25 sections. An enlargement of this size will cost $8. The aerial photography in Prentiss County was taken in 1980.

Producers interested in obtaining an aerial photo of their farm should contact the office for further information.

USDA SEEKS COMMENT
ON CONSERVATION AND ENVIRONMENTAL PROGRAMS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has called for public comment on proposals for conservation, emergency conservation and water bank programs administered by USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

According to ASCS Administrator Everett Rank, the deadline for receiving comments is Sept. 9. Rank said USDA will hold a public meeting here Sept. 9 to discuss recommendations by state and county conservation review groups on these three programs.

Conservation review groups - formerly known as program development groups - were formed to help USDA carry out rural conservation and environmental programs, Rank said. These groups have the responsibility for developing recommendations on program changes, changes in administrative procedures, policy guidelines and evaluations of program effectiveness and operating arrangements, he said.

Rank said conservation cost-share assistance is offered to encourage eligible farmers to voluntarily perform soil and water conservation, pollution abatement, emergency conservation and wildlife measures. Under the program, USDA shares the cost of such work with farmers who ordinarily would not or could not perform needed conservation practices without the federal assistance, he said.

Because of space limitations, persons interested in attending the meeting should make reservations, Rank said. To reserve space and for additional information contact the director of the conservation and environmental protection division, ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013, phone (202) 447-6221.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. in room 4960 of USDA's County Building.

ACREAGE REPORTS
DUE JULY 15

Prentiss County farmers who have not filed an acreage report with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service have until July 15, 1982, to do so.

The acreage reports will be used to determine compliance with farm programs and to protect 1983 crop acreage bases.

Program participants are required to report the actual planted acreage on a field-by-field basis. As of June 28, 1982, twenty-seven farmers in the county had reported fall-seeded and spring-seeded crops. These farmers will be eligible for price support loans, target prices and other program benefits.

Farmers who did not sign up for the acreage reduction program also could benefit by certifying their planted acres because the 1983 base acres will be based on the certified 1982 acreage.

ASCS will randomly check farms to verify that the acreage reports are accurate and also provide aerial photographs for farmers to identify their fields. To be sure reports are accurate and avoid unnecessary worry over the loss of program benefits, farmers may request measurement service. The cost is reasonable and the measurements are guaranteed for the crop year.

All farmers are urged to file an acreage report with our office before the July 15, 1982, deadline. The office is open between 8:30 A.M. and 4:30 P.M., Monday through Friday.

County Agent's Report

Stopping Erosion Is Tricky Business

By W.H. HADEN
County Agent

The new focus on soil erosion and conservation is no accident. According to the Soil Conservation Service, Mississippi farmers are losing 64 tons of topsoil each year, and that figure is rising.

Across the nation, it's estimated that between 4 and 6 billion tons of topsoil are removed each year by erosion. That figures into an average loss of about 5 tons per acre each year.

Just how to go about stopping these kinds of losses is a question where common sense often get overruled by things like emotions, that sometimes put erosion doomsday just a few years away.

A lot of farm experts believe that at least part of the erosion solution is using minimum tillage or no-tillage practices. These production practices are already being used by many farmers in Prentiss County.

Reduced tillage or no-till farming saves equipment, time, labor, fuel and money as well as soils. But these benefits don't come without some demands and risks on the part of farmers.

The big problem farmers have with conservation tillage is fitting the best program to the land, the crop and to the weed situation without cutting yields. Even so, conservation tillage is on the increase because it gives farmers an opportunity to cut costs at the same time they control erosion.

The Prentiss County Extension office is always ready to help farmers choose conservation practices and develop crop production programs that will reduce erosion and keep crop yields up.

DON'T TAKE
PESTICIDES LIGHTLY

Whether you have a one-row garden or a thousand acres, you need to store pesticides in a safe place to avoid tragic accidents.

One of the best ways to keep pesticides safe is in a locked cabinet or room in their original container.

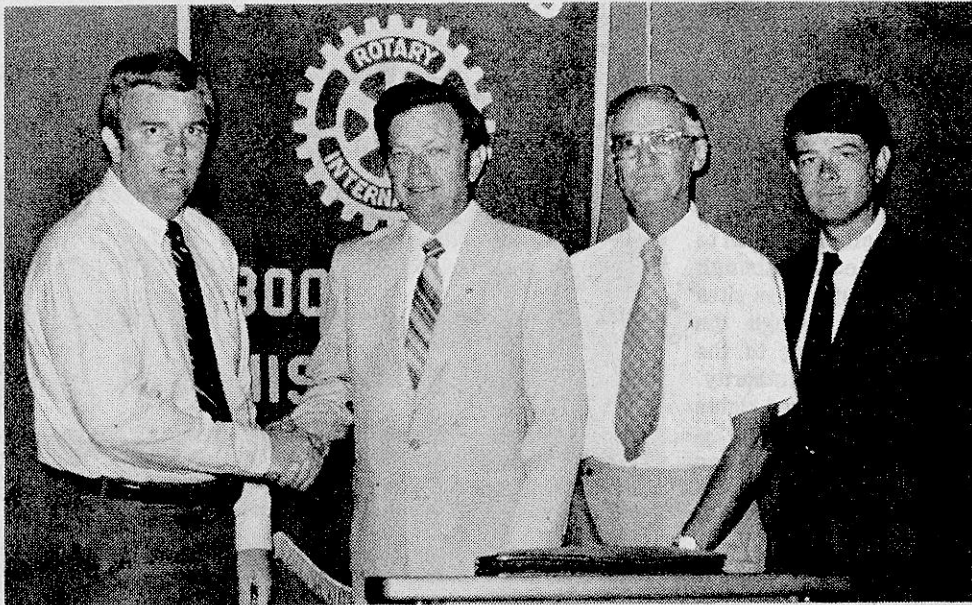

Don't put pesticides in a soft drink bottle, milk jug or similar container. That's just inviting trouble. And never store them near food or medicines.

To lessen the danger of pesticide misuse, keep labels intact on all pesticide containers. Labels have important information about the product's use and what to do in case of an accident.

LAND PRICES DROP

Across the country, high interest rates, high production costs and low crop prices are depressing farmland values. It's no different in Mississippi and Prentiss County.

Land values in the state have dropped more than 4

Sections Of Natchez Trace
To Close For Repairs

Natchez Trace Parkway Superintendent Jim Bainbridge this week announced temporary closing of the parkway bridge across Mississippi Highway 467 at milepost 79.0 near Raymond, effective Tuesday, June 29.

Bainbridge said the closing was necessary for the immediate repair of the north abutment and span of the bridge. A signed detour will be provided for both northbound and southbound traffic.

The detour will involve traveling through Raymond, with travel on 3.3 miles of Mississippi Highway 467 and 3.4 miles on the Williams Airport Road, both major roads in the area.

Bainbridge stressed the need for safety in using the detour, especially in traveling near and through Raymond.

"We are sorry for any inconvenience that this temporary closing will create and ask the cooperation of all motorists traveling this Mississippi section of the parkway," he said.

He emphasized that the repairs are expected to be completed within approximately three months and that the parkway would be reopened as quickly as possible to eliminate the detour.

Know When, How To Market Timber

By DAVID SUMMERS
Soil Conservationist
USDA Soil
Conservation Service
Booneville Field Office

The aim of forestry is to grow the most valuable crop of timber on a given area in the shortest time and to convert this timber into the greatest amount of cash. Lack of proper marketing may cost the timber owner his normal profit from a timber sale. Therefore, it is important to know what to sell, when to sell, and how to sell.

As a rule, the larger the timber the more valuable it is. Large size saw timber and large poles are worth more than small ones. Allow trees to grow larger and sell them for the highest price. However, in order to do this you may have to improve your stand by cutting some trees before they reach maturity in order to allow the remaining timber to grow to its potential.

Crop failures, high timber prices and land clearing are the three major factors that cause most farmers and other timber land owners to sell timber. Crop failures make farmers conscious of their timber because they can get ready cash to tide them over to the next crop.

High timber prices also creates an urge to sell timber. In the past, price peaks have been seven to ten years apart. If you take advantage of these peak prices, timber can be sold at the highest profit. Holding timber for a few years in order to secure top prices in good business. However, if timber is badly damaged by fire, insects or disease, prompt cutting may be needed to prevent total loss.

If you decide to sell timber, there are several methods you can use in finding the best buyer. They are: advertising in newspapers and lumber journals or by public posting of timber for sale; visiting manufacturers, logging contractors, and stumpage buyers; and, receiving counsel and advice from others who have sold their timber.

Regardless of when or how you sell your timber it is always advisable to determine the amount and value of the timber. Your county forester or forestry consultant can help with this matter. For more information on marketing timber, come by the Soil Conservation Service in Booneville or call us at 728-3544.

Maintaining Your Mental Health

Why Doesn't He Help Me?

From
TIMBER HILLS
MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Joe is a great amateur carpenter. Whenever a shelf comes loose, or a window sticks, or a table leg breaks off anywhere in the neighborhood, good old Joe is right there with his hammer, nails and saw. Anywhere in the neighborhood except at his own house, that is. Joe's wife has been complaining bitterly that she has more loose shelves, stuck windows and broken table legs than all of her friends, neighbors and relatives put together...and Joe somehow never has the time to fix anything at home.

Joe's puzzled wife may ask a counselor: "Why does my husband knock himself out doing things for casual acquaintances, when I just can't persuade him to do the same things for me and the children?" There may be different reasons for this, but one of the most frequent is that Joe cares desperately about what other people think of him, and will do almost anything to make them like him...including allowing himself to be exploited.

Doesn't Joe care what his wife thinks about him, when he is so eager to please people who are almost strangers? The chances are that he does...but he feels relatively secure about his wife. After all, she married him, so she probably likes him in any case. He thinks that he can count on her affection and doesn't have to put himself out to win it again and again...as he does with neighbors and acquaintances.

Timber Hills counselors see many Joes who worry terribly about what other people think about them, and who feel, underneath it all, that they must be Mr. Good Guy all the time in order to be liked at all.

Of course, there are a few other possibilities as well. Joe may be angry at his wife for something she did or failed to do, so that by refusing to do anything around his own home while being terribly obliging to all the neighbors, he may be punishing her. Then there's the possibility that Joe's wife is driving her husband to be the neighborhood handy man. She may never be satisfied with his work, while the neighbors are lavish with their praise for every little thing he does.

Often a counselor working with Joe and his wife has to help them both find out what is really going underneath all that tension and disagreement. Perhaps Joe needs to realize that he is a worthwhile person on his own, and that he doesn't have to win a perpetual popularity contest. Joe's wife may come to understand that, perhaps, her husband needs reassurance rather than criticism. When both understand what is going on between them, perhaps he will be able to say "No" to requests for free carpentry and other kinds of favors.

For information about services available at Timber Hills Mental Health Center phone 728-3174 or visit the offices on the Highway 30 Bypass in Booneville. After-hours and on weekends phone 1-286-9209 toll-free for emergency counseling services.

Mosquitoes Cost State

$13 Million

For Mississippians, mosquitoes can mean more than just an uncomfortable itch. In 1980, the average annual loss by these pests to livestock and household owners in Mississippi and cost of control was an estimated $13 million.

"Mosquitoes have a very pronounced effect on human and animal health and welfare," said Dr. Pat Harris, a pest management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"They cause discomfort and irritation by their bites and are carriers of several diseases such as malaria, yellow fever, dengue, filariasis, encephalitis to humans and horses and heartworm to dogs," Harris said.

Mosquitoes need water to develop. No natural collection of water occurs without mosquitoes using part of it. Only the females bite and require a blood meal before they can lay fertile eggs. These eggs may be deposited on the surface of water, on the sides of containers, on the ground close to water, or on rafts on water.

Fertile eggs will usually hatch in two or three days.

"After hatching, larvae or wigglers must live in water usually for four to ten days," Harris said.

"They then enter the pupal stage in water, taking about 14 days to emerge as adults. Uncontrolled adult mosquitoes may live for one to two months and fly from one to 20 miles for blood meals," He said.

Still water harbors mosquitoes and moving water does not. Anything that holds water such as cans, bottles and old tires should be removed or destroyed.

Trash in city sanitation dumps should be buried. Catch basins and ditches should be located and larvicides should be applied.

"Larvicide application is the most effective method of mosquito control," Harris said. "The more larvae controlled, the fewer adults it will be necessary to control."

COOPERATIVE
EXTENSION SERVICE

There was a time when man farmed his land and fed his family without the use of a tractor. There was also a time when a farmer managed and sold his crop without the use of a computer. Those times have come to an end.

"The microcomputer is a piece of technology that will soon be virtually as indispensable as a tractor," says Dr. Charles Walden, and economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"There are 300 to 400 microcomputers being used by farmers and agribusinessmen in Mississippi," Walden said. "We expect that number to double or triple in the next 18 months."

"Within five years, a majority, perhaps as much as 75 or 80 percent of all the production in Mississippi will be using some fashion of a small computer," he said.

Farmers are using microcomputers to make management, production and marketing decisions. They are building budgets, storing and maintaining records and establishing sound financial management practices.

"Microcomputers are reliable, fast accurate and versatile," Walden said. "They can be used on almost all parts of the farming operation from what, when and how to plan, how to sell and how to rearrange farming organizations to be more efficient and more profitable."

"It's a powerful tool. Perhaps one of the most powerful tools to arrive on to the farm since farm machinery and gasoline powered engines," Walden said.

Initial costs for microcomputers are about $3,500 and rarely exceed $5,000. "When you look at the price of farm equipment today and consider the job that a computer can do, it is a fairly cheap price," Walden said.

The level of satisfaction for computers has been high. Farmers in the state have indicated that the payoff has been quick, almost immediate in some cases. "Our estimates tell us that a good time period for breakeven on the actual investment of these computers is between 18 and 30 months," Walden said.

"For example, a farm record system program, can replace a private service, which can cost a farmer anywhere from $400 to $2,500 a year."

The problem many farmers are facing after purchasing the computer is finding and being able to afford to buy the programs. In computer language these programs are called software.

"It is almost always the case that the software will cost more than the hardware if a farmer has to purchase it," Walden explains.

"This is true whether he purchases prewritten programs from hardware and software dealers or hires a programmer to custom write programs for his computer."

"In either case, a full set of programs for a typical farm today would cost many times the price of the original hardware."

This is where Mississippi State University has tried to come in and supply original research and development for farmers. Staff members from teaching, research and Cooperative Extension at MSU are all developing software to fill in the gap until private businesses can supply the necessary software at a competitive price.

As the software is developed, it is readily turned over to farmers free of charge. About 30 programs are now available.

There are three general types of computer programs:

-decision aids such as a managerial package or whether to buy or sell equipment.

-data base systems where the farmer keeps a large volume of numbers and statistics with respect to different areas of farming or problems within farming.

--"tutorial programming," written to teach a particular subject matter or address a particular problem.

"Of these three areas our major emphasis at MSU has been in the decision aids," Walden said. "We are giving some attention to the data base systems with respect to chemicals and certain dairy records. We will soon begin a pilot project with one of the large computer companies to evaluate tutorial type programming on microcomputers."

The programs are distributed by the Extension Service through county agent offices. Most programs are currently available on the Radio Shack Model II and Model III microcomputer units. Most major programs will soon be available on the IBM personal computer as well.

Future programs will be developed to be as machine independent as possible.

"The most predominant brands of microcomputers being used in agriculture are the Radio Shack and Apple Corporation computers," Walden said. "The IBM Personal Computer has just come on the market and I suspect it will become quite popular."

"I strongly encourage farmers to give immediate consideration to the adoption of computers in one form or another into their farming operation," Walden said. "This is an extremely powerful piece of equipment that can assist farmers in becoming more competitive and increasing their efficiency."

"All indications here in Mississippi and throughout the nation as far as I can read them is that we're going to computerize farming in this country," he said.

"Those who do not or who decide to wait until next year or the year after are going to be at a disadvantage," he said.

IT'S A HIT! - Monday afternoon's rain may have cancelled the games at the city park for the day, but it didn't dampen the players' spirits. Action resumed Tuesday night. Here a player for the New Orleans Fried Chicken Tee-Ball team prepares to let one fly in action Tuesday night.

Rain Limits Action At West Side Park

By CLIFF LONG
Sports Writer

Thanks to a mild rain Monday night, action at the West Side Park was limited. Only seven games were played in the seven days from June 22 to June 29.

Four games were played this past week in Tee-Ball action.

On Tuesday night of last week, Bank of Mississippi defeated the Booneville Jaycees, 27-14. The win gave Bank of Mississippi a 2-4 record. The Jaycees are still looking for their first win.

In the second game, Rotary took Farmers' & Merchants' Bank in a close one, 13-12.

On Thursday night, Rotary won again, this time over New Orleans Fried Chicken, 12-8. These two straight wins shot Rotary into second place in the standings, just one game behind Civitan, who has played two more games than Rotary.

Thursday night's second game matched Farmers' & Merchants' Bank against Civitan. In a close game that went right to the end, Farmers' & Merchants' pulled it out, 14-13.

YOU'RE SAFE! - A Bank of Mississippi player stretches for the ball in action Tuesday night at the West Side Park, but to no avail. The New Orleans Fried Chicken player beat the ball to the plate. Despite cancellation of games Monday night due to rain, action at the city parks around Prentiss County remains hot and heavy.

In Ripley Golf Tourney

Williams, Ferrell Are Winners

Greg Williams and John Ferrell of Booneville took top honors in the Pine Hill Golf and Country Club Fourball Golf Tournament this weekend in Ripley.

Leading from beginning to end, Williams and Ferrell had 65-67-133 for the two rounds, one stroke better than the second place team of Skip Miles and Jim Spencer of Fulton.

Mies and Dave Senter won the Ripley tournament last year.

D. Spencer and D. Caldwell of New Albany led the first flight at 139, followed by Clarence Stanford and Charles Braddock in third at 139.

S. Grisham and S. Grisham led the second flight, with J. Warren and B. House second. James Kiddy of Ripley and Richard Strickland of Atlanta, Ga., led the third flight at 144, followed by Jerry Baird and Maury Hill of Ripley.

Ripley's Jim Miller and Richard Hamilton were first in the fourth flight, with Jim Hopper of Ripley and Charles Lewell of New Albany in second.

Manfred Saylor and Richard Mathis of Booneville were first in the

Little League

Brown Shoe Is Undefeated

By CLIFF LONG
Sports Writer

Only three games were played this week in Little League action due to the cancellation of Monday night's game on account of rain.

Brown Shoe was the big story, with Coach Howard Barry's team holding on to first place with a 6-0 record.

In the game on Tuesday of last week, Cox's Best Way was a 16-8 winner over last place Kentucky Fried Chicken. Marty Michael pitched the winning game for Cox's and also hit the game's only homerun. David Downs picked up the loss for Kentucky Fried Chicken.

In Tuesday's nightcap, People's Bank outscored Kellwood, 15-10. Tracy Cox was the winning pitcher and Eric Morrow was charged with Kellwood's loss.

Thursday night, first place Brown Shoe was matched with second place Sonic Drive-In. Sonic gave it a good shot, but Rick Nanny's fast ball put a stop to their hopes for a victory. Nanny was Brown Shoe's winning pitcher. Brad Fugitt collected the loss for Sonic.

LITTLE LEAGUE STANDINGS THROUGH MONDAY, JUNE 28

Brown Shoe	6-0	Cox's Best Way	3-3
Sonic	5-2	Kellwood	1-6
People's Bank	4-2	Kty. Fried Chicken	0-6

Correction

The score of the Bank of Mississippi-New Orleans Fried Chicken game played on June 21 was given incorrectly in last week's paper.

In a game that was tied at the end of regulation play, New Orleans Fried Chicken eventually won the game 14-13 in overtime. The Banner-Independent incorrectly reported last week that Bank of Mississippi won the game.

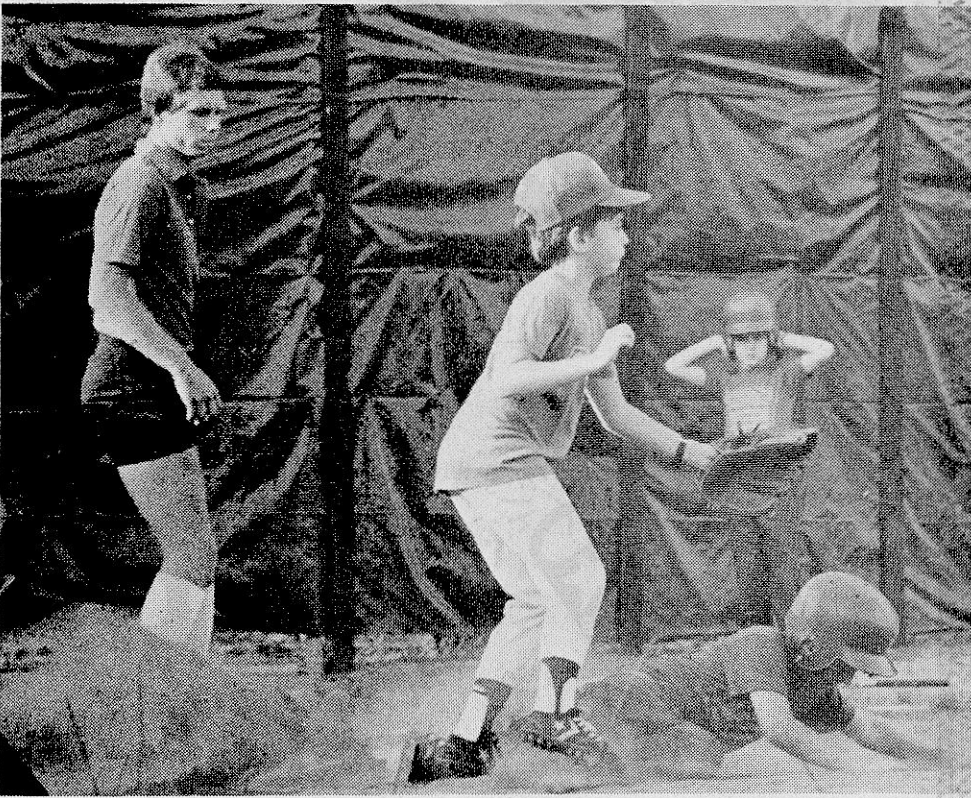

The Tee-Ball standings in last week's paper were also incorrect.

The Banner-Independent regrets the error.

VA Pensions Increased

More than 600,000 veterans and their survivors in Mississippi and elsewhere will be getting larger Veterans Administration pension checks next July 1 as the result of a 7.4 percent increase in the government's cost of living index.

Some 1.9 million VA pensioners are affected in some way by the cost of living index.

Pensions are paid to veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service. They are paid also to survivors of veterans who are in need. Unlike compensation paid to those disabled because of military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources.

The 600,000 who will get increases this month and payable July 1 are those who are receiving benefits under the "improved" VA pension plan inaugurated by Congress in 1979.

The plan links VA pension rates to adjustments in social security payments. Before the change, an individual's pension was subject to reduction each time social security increased.

Pensions for veterans and survivors under the "old plan" remain fixed and payable at the rates in effect in 1978. But those rates are protected against reductions that would otherwise result from cost of living increases in their income from other sources.

"Old Plan" recipients may request transfer to the "improved" plan at any time.

With the new increase, a veteran with one dependent and no other income will receive $6,980. But each additional dependent will add $903 per year.

For further information, telephone the Jackson VA Regional Office toll free at 1-800-682-5270.

Cheerleader Camp Scheduled

The National Cheerleaders Association, the largest and most respected spirit organization in America, will present one of their 10 summer Superstar Spirit Camps on the Northeast Mississippi Junior College campus July 6-10.

The camp, is designed for pom pom squads, cheerleaders, dance drill teams, songleaders, mascots, gymnasts, advisors and coaches.

NCA clinics emphasize teaching students physical skills, cheers and chants, as well as moral and leadership responsibilities necessary to be effective school leaders.

Daily classes designed to improve ability levels in tumbling, pyramids and partner stunts with emphasis on spotting and safety techniques and correct mounting and dismounting procedures are offered.

Also provided will be training and insight into the total picture of spiritleading, including squad moral and unity. Among programs designed especially for this area are communications exercises for dealing with intersquad problems and a special "captain's corner" for all head cheerleaders.

For beginning squads who need step-by-step training, a rookie workshop is scheduled. For more skilled squads, advanced pyramid coaching will be provided.

The Advisors Workshop and Sponsors Workshop programs of special morning and evening classes concerning the needs of these two groups will be offered again this year. A participant in either may receive three hours of Continuing Education Units (CEUs).

Attendance costs for the week-long camp, including meals and accommodations are $84 for resident campers, $39 for commuting campers, $57 for resident advisors and $10 for commuting advisors.

For more information, contact the NEMJC Office of Continuing Education at 728-7751, ext. 249.

State Unemployment Up

Mississippi's unemployment rate rose to 10.0 percent in May, an increase of .4 percent when compared to April's jobless rate of 9.6 percent, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission executive director O.H. Simmons.

Last year's May unemployment rate was 7.9 percent.

The 10.0 percent unemployment rate for the state was higher than the 9.1 percent national rate for May. MESC figures showed 107,200 unemployed and 968,400 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,075,600.

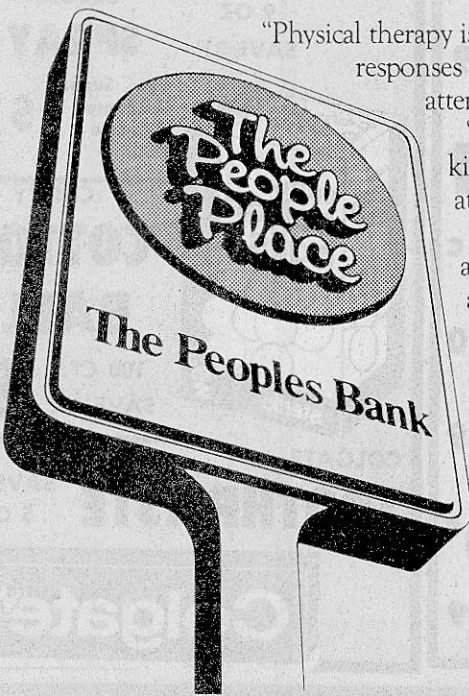

Initial unemployment insurance claims in May totaled 24,949.

Forty-nine of the state's 82 counties had employment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in May.

The counties having the highest rates were Tate (18.8 percent), Jefferson (18.6 percent), and Neshoba, Perry and Wayne counties (each with 17.0 percent).

Issaquena (3.8 percent), Rankin (4.4 percent), Oktibeha (6.3 percent) and Yalobusha (6.3 percent) had the lowest jobless rates in May.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Prayers God Cannot Answer

Adapted From Our Daily Bread By Herbert Vander Lugt

God cannot give us what we ask if our request runs contrary to His character. He is perfect in purity and holiness, and therefore He cannot make true what is false, nor make right what is wrong.

Perhaps you've heard the story of the little girl who rushed home from her geography examination, looked at the map, and then dropped to her knees. Earnestly she prayed, "Dear God, please make Boston the capital of Vermont!" Now, I don't think the Lord was offended by that childish appeal. But I know He didn't do what she asked. Boston is not in Vermont, and never was. Her test answer was wrong because she hadn't been prepared, and the Lord couldn't conspire with her to make it right--any more than He could make 2 times 2 equal 5.

In Numbers 23, we read that Balaam asked the Lord to let him die like righteous people and go to the same place they go. But the prophet remained unrepentant, and to grant his request would have violated God's integrity. It would be like answering the prayer of someone who asks for success in a dishonest business deal. We see a similar problem in today's Scripture. If Jesus had made James and John His No. 1 and No. 2 men in the kingdom, as their mother had asked, He would have been showing partiality. And this He cannot do.

God never violates His holy character in answering our prayers. Omnipotence does not include the power to do wrong. Therefore, let's come to Him with pure motives and an earnest desire to obey Him. This will keep us from making requests that He cannot answer.

This page is possible through the request and cooperation of interested ministers in our area. It is brought to you through the support of the businesses listed below.
