LPTV Application Filed For Booneville

A Laurel, Miss., firm has filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D.C., to build a new Low Power Television Broadcast Station in Booneville.

Free State Broadcasting Inc. of 513 N. Sixth Ave, Laurel, filed the application for a construction permit on May 22 of this year. As required by FCC regulations, the company is publishing a public notice of the filing in this week's Banner-Independent.

If constructed, the station will reportedly operate on Channel 53 and will have a transmitter power of 100 watts.

The Banner-Independent was unable this week to contact anyone at Free State Broadcasting who would provide additional information about the construction permit or the TV station.

Police Chief Urges Holiday Caution

Booneville Police Chief Bobby Lambert advised local shoppers this week to take a few extra minutes this holiday season to protect themselves and their property while they are doing their Christmas shopping.

Chief Lambert said that packages laying out in plain sight are an open invitation to thieves and it only takes a few minutes to put the packages in the truck of the car where they will be out of sight.

The police chief also asked that neighbors help keep an eye on each other's property, especially when one of the neighbors is away from home. This will help cut down on break-ins and will help the police catch the burglars if a break-in does occur, he said.

Anyone seeing suspicious activity around a neighbor's house or car should report it immediately to the police department if it occurs in the city or to the sheriff's department if it occurs outside the city limits.

No New Action Taken On School Issue

Nothing definite has been decided as to what step will be taken next to upgrade the facilities of the Booneville Municipal Separate School District.

According to Supt. Robert Griffin, during their regular monthly meeting this week the city school board discussed the $2.2 million school bond issue which failed to pass in last week's special election, but did not take any action as to if or when another election would be sought.

Although a majority of those voting in the election voted in favor of the bond issue (679 for, 654 against), the tally fell short of the needed three-fifths majority by 124 votes.

Last Chance For Letters To Santa

With less than two weeks remaining until Christmas, boys and girls in Prentiss County do not have much time left to let Santa know what they want for Christmas.

In order to give boys and girls an opportunity to have their letters published in next week's Christmas edition of the newspaper, The Banner-Independent is extending its deadline for receiving letters to Santa by one day.

Although the deadline was originally set for today, any letters received through tomorrow (Dec. 17) will be included in next week's Christmas edition.

Early Publication Next Week

Expect to get your newspaper a day early next week.

Although Christmas is not until the following Saturday, the Banner-Independent will be published a day early next week in order to give local advertisers an extra day to promote their Christmas specials and also to give employees of the newspaper an extra day off to enjoy the holidays with their families. The Banner-Independent office will be closed Friday, Dec. 24.

All deadlines will be moved up one day next week only. All news items for next week's paper should be turned in no later than noon Monday, this includes engagement announcements, wedding stories, correspondent's columns, items for "What's Going On?," and all other news items.

The deadline for placing a classified ad in next week's paper is 3 p.m. Monday.

The regular publishing schedule and deadlines will resume the following week.

Government Offices To Close For Holidays

The Prentiss County Courthouse will close at noon Wednesday, Dec. 22, in observance of the Christmas holidays. The courthouse will be closed all day Dec. 23-26 and will reopen on Monday, Dec. 27.

Booneville City Hall will be open until noon on Thursday, Dec. 23, and will be closed on Christmas Eve. City Hall will reopen Monday, Dec. 27.

Candy From Santa

Riding on a county fire truck, Jolly Ole' St. Nick brought up the rear of the parade Sunday afternoon, throwing candy treats to the boys and girls at the annual Christmas parade in Jumpertown. Originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon, the parade was postponed until Sunday because of bad weather. For more pictures of the traditional parade, turn to Page B1. (Photo by Ken Christian)

Seek Complaints From Public

Mayors Meet To Discuss Cable System

By ED WOODWARD
Contributor

City officials of Baldwin, Booneville, Guntown and Salttillo have joined forces in preparation for a joint meeting with the local management of Heritage Cablevision in an effort to obtain improved cable service for their communities.

Mayors Merle Rowan of Baldwin, E.E. "Trapper" Heering of Guntown, and Gene Heering of Salttillo held an initial private meeting on Dec. 6 to discuss problems they claim to have with the cable system. Mayor Charles Crabb of Booneville was invited to the Dec. 6 meeting, but was unable to attend because of a prior commitment.

Mayor Crabb, however, has expressed his willingness to meet with the other mayors and said he did plan to attend the second meeting, scheduled for sometime this week.

The meetings being held be the mayors are in preparation for a joint meeting they plan to have later with William E. "Skip" Pratt, local general manager of Heritage Cablevision. Heritage owns the cable TV system in each of the communities involved.

"What we want to do first is gather information from cable subscribers in our respective communities," said Mayor Rowan. "Then we will get together with our boards and go over our complaints and see what we actually need to do."

Then we (the mayors) will meet together again and combine our complaints," he said.

"WE ARE IN favor of joining with the other cities in this, because Heritage was supposed to do some things for us that they haven't done yet," Mayor Crabb said.

"They wrote me a letter the other day saying they were in the process of getting it done, but they haven't done it yet. And I'm at the point right now where I'm kind of tired of fiddling around with them," he said.

"I'm going to get with my board and see how they feel," he said. "And I'm sure they are going to be in favor of this coalition. I know they want to do something to get this problem alleviated. I feel we'll have more clout if we stick together on this."

Crabb said he and the Booneville board held one meeting with Heritage officials earlier this year.

"They promised to do some things for us. And they have helped our service some. But they promised to add a microwave channel, and, to my knowledge, it hasn't been put in yet. We get Memphis channels, but Channel 3 is so bad you can't see it," he said.

"I WAS UNABLE to attend the last meeting (of the

Jumpertown Fires One Marshal, The Other Quits

In a specially called session Tuesday night, the Jumpertown Board of Aldermen voted 3-2 to fire Deputy Town Marshal John Tullis. Town Marshal John Moore resigned following the vote, according to Jumpertown Mayor C.D. Windham.

"Moore had told the board if they fired Tullis he would leave, too," Windham said Wednesday morning.

The motion to fire Tullis was made by Alderman O.S. Moore Jr., according to Windham. Also voting to fire Tullis were David Yates and Earnest Burns. Voting against the motion were Orman Bridges and J.C. Young.

The motion was first made to fire both men, Windham said, but the board's attorney, Tommy Cadle, had them alter the motion.

The action came about as a result of the board hearing complaints about the town marshal and the deputy marshal harassing people, Windham said. "Most of the complaints were false," he added.

"The biggest thing I know of is that a bunch of people out here didn't want law enforcement and they were raising up about the job our marshal and deputy marshal were doing. That's where it all stems from," Windham said.

Approximately 50-60 people attended the meeting, Windham said. About one-tenth of the people there did not reside in the city limits, he said. The board voted in closed session.

The events Tuesday night "stunned" Windham, he said. "I'm strictly for law enforcement. You can search Mississippi over and I don't think you'll ever find a man that will do the job John Moore did."

"I've already had a call asking me if we could get them back if we could get one of the aldermen who voted against Tullis to change his mind. I told them

Special Rule Prevents Tenn-Tom Floor Fight

A slick maneuver by Rep. Jamie Whitten and other supporters of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway Tuesday avoided a floor fight in the House over funding the canal for next year.

Whitten is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee that drafted a stopgap spending bill which was brought to the floor under a rule forbidding amendments to the section applying to the Tenn-Tom project. The bill, called a "continuing resolution" spending bill, contains $184 million to continue work on the 234-mile canal.

The rule allowing the bill to be introduced without amendments to the Tenn-Tom funding section was granted by the Rules Committee and was approved by the House 223 to 163.

The rule did permit votes on amendments to certain sections of the bill, but not the part providing funding for the waterway.

Although a number of foes of the waterway were disgruntled over the decision, it is not unusual for the Rules Committee to grant restrictions, particularly in the hectic final days of a session.

Remembering His Christmases Past

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

Christmas customs have changed somewhat since Sam Ed Strange of Rienzi was a youngster. Since he will be celebrating his 88th birthday on Jan. 27 he has quite a few Christmas memories.

Before retiring he worked as a carpenter and a farmer. He has four daughters, Mary Effie Massey, who lives with him, Prudence Storey and Katherine Palmer, both of Pisgah, and Maxine Burnett of Rienzi. Sam Ed's wife died in 1976.

At one time he wrote "Crossroad Items" for the Booneville-Banner.

Sam Ed has lived in the Rienzi area since 1942. He was born in Tippah County in 1895 but he grew up in Jumpertown.

He remembers spending many Christmas Eves "serenading" his neighbors in Jumpertown.

"Serenading was the way we used to celebrate Christmas," Sam Ed says.

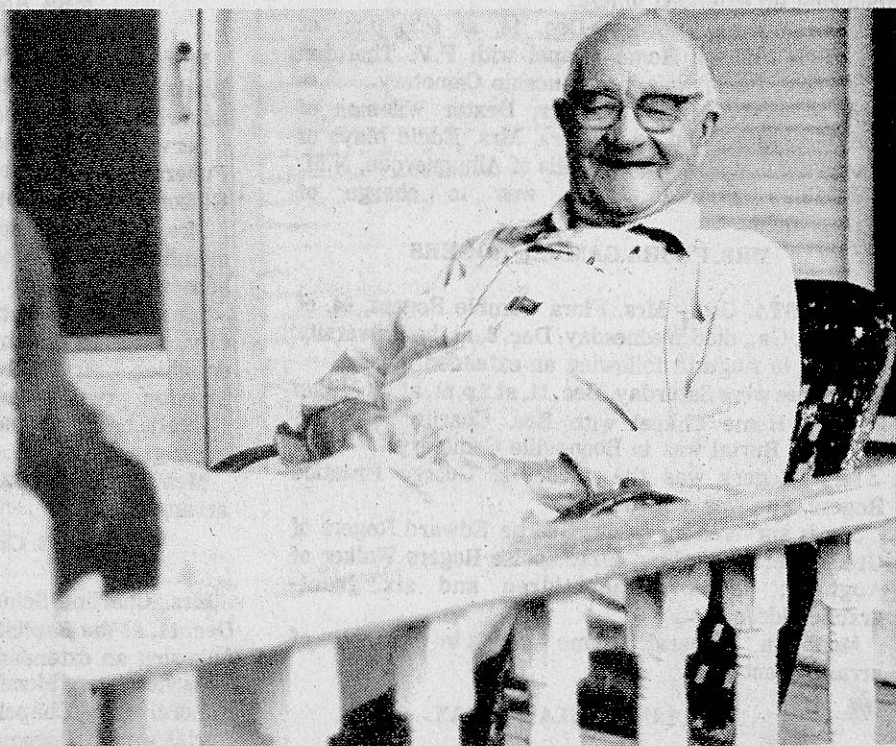

"On Christmas Eve a bunch of young folks and grown folks, too, would go out serenading. We'd be blowing horns, ringing bells, banging dishpans, singing and hollering. We'd go to a neighbor's and march around their house.

"Usually when we made the second round somebody would invite us in and we'd eat popcorn balls made with sorghum molasses," he said. "Then we would make music. If any young folks were at that house they would go with us to the next house. Serenading lasted practically all Christmas Eve night."

Serenading also involved playing pranks, Sam Ed mayors), but I do intend to attend the next one and we'll see what we can work out," Crabb said.

"One thing we want is an increase on our franchise tax," Crabb said. "Ours has been two percent since the beginning. We want to go to three percent like New Albany did (Heritage also owns the New Albany cable system).

"But the main thing we're concerned about, even before the increase, is to get some service," Crabb said. "That's what we told Pratt. Service is the main thing we're interested in."

Crabb said Booneville has had "a rate increase or two," but the service has not improved in proportion to the increases.

"I imagine an increase is the next thing he (Pratt) is waiting to hit me with," Crabb said. "But he knows they haven't done too much for us and I guess he's a little hesitant to do that."

"But I think they (Heritage) are just holding off as long as they can in adding our microwave channel. And, if they don't do something by the time we have this next meeting with them, I'm going to be ready to do something about it," he said.

"If anyone in Booneville has any specific complaints about their cable service, I'd appreciate it if they would tell me about them," Crabb added.

MAYOR ROWAN confirmed that the Baldwin board of aldermen recently approved a 50-cent per month rate increase requested by Heritage in November.

When it was suggested that this might have been used by the city of Baldwin as a bargaining point in the planned negotiations with Heritage, Rowan admitted that "... we couldn't have kept them from implementing the increase. There is nothing in our franchise that says the board has to approve a rate increase. He (Pratt) did not really have to ask us first. He could have put it into effect any time he wanted to."

"So, we decided that, if we gave a little on the increase, that we would have a better opportunity to bargain with him on these other things," Rowan explained.

"But, unless we stick together, we are all at the mercy of the cable system," he said. "There's no question about that because they could drop Baldwin. Or they could drop Booneville. Or they could drop Guntown or Saltillo. But they aren't going to drop three or four of us at one time."

"If we all stick together, we've got something to bargain with. But, individually, we can't kick too much."

UNLIKE OTHER public utilities, cable systems do not come under the control of the Mississippi Public Service Commission.

The only Federal Communications Commission requirement for cable companies is an annual proof of performance test.

There is no control in regard to rates or service to subscribers unless an individual community has included such control in its franchise with a cable company.

Baldwyn has a clause in its charter with Heritage which requires at least two microwave channels be included among stations offered to subscribers. It was this clause that Pratt asked the Baldwin board to repeal earlier this year, prior to Heritage's relocation of its tower and receiving equipment to Guntown.

However, few of the 22 cities served by Heritage in Mississippi have any such requirement in their charter. Some have no contract at all with the utility.

"I WILL HAVE to admit that the cable service is now better than it has been," Rowan said. "But they are not tying on subscribers like they should. They are not making it available here like they promised us they would, and that's one of the biggest complaints we have."

Heritage, which also serves Aberdeen, recently added approximately 300 subscribers in that city. At approximately the same time, 17 new subscribers were added to the Baldwin system, according to Rowan.

"And I feel like they have a large enough investment here now that they are not going to have to go along with us on our requests," he said. "We're not going to get everything that we ask for, but we'll get some of it, I'm sure."

Rowan said the mayors of the four cities will hold several more meetings, and the cable system will be primary subject of discussion at future board meetings, before a combined meeting is held with Pratt.

"If anyone has any particular complaints about cable service, I would like to know about them," he said. "There will be plenty of time for us to listen to complaints, because the meeting with Pratt will not take place until after the first of the year."

MAYOR GENE Heering of Saltillo and Mayor E.E. Heering of Guntown are also asking that residents with complaints about cable service contact them.

In November, both mayors received letters from Pratt stating Heritage's intention to increase the cost for additional hookups (the rate increase requested from Baldwin had already been initiated in Guntown and Saltillo, despite the fact that all three communities are technically on the same cable system). Neither community has yet acted on the request.

"It's to take effect the first of February," said Saltillo Mayor Heering. "We hope to get with him before then, but there is really no way we can stop him if he wants to raise rates."

Guntown Mayor Heering also admitted that his town had no control over rates charged by Heritage "... but we have several different things we want to get straight with them," he said.

"We want better service," he said. "I guess Baldwin has more problems than we do about getting more subscribers hooked up, but we have a lot of people here who aren't hooked up, too, and they're not making too much headway about hooking others on."

"WE STILL have some cable here in town that is lying on top of the ground," Mayor Rowan said. "It's not on poles, or buried. They just strung it on the ground. There was a world of it until Heritage took over the system and we've gotten them to remove some of it, but there are still several areas where it's just lying on top of the ground."

"I've put up with it up to now," Rowan said, "but I finally told my street superintendent to just go ahead and cut through it. We've been moving it while we work, then putting it back. Not anymore."

Rowan said Baldwin has not billed Heritage for the extra work "... but we should. It's not our responsibility. And he (Pratt) bills everything. But I think if we cut some of it, he'll probably start doing something about it."

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, I have been told that the Bible spoke of the earth being round or spherical years before science discovered this fact, is this true?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: The first arguments known to have been set forth for a spherical earth were by the famous Greek, Aristotle, about 350 B.C. He observed that ships disappear over the horizon, and a circular shape is seen on the moon during its eclipse. However, very few people believed the earth was round. Most felt it was flat. Almost 3,000 years ago Solomon said of God, "He inscribed a circle on the face of the deep" (Prov. 8:27). Some 300 years later Isaiah wrote, "It is He that sitteth above the circle of the earth" (Isa. 40:22). The Hebrew word for "circle" connotes "sphericity" or "roundness" and the word "deep" refers to the deep bodies of water, and the word "earth" in some contexts includes not only the dry land but the whole world (Gen 1:10). One must keep in mind the Bible is not a book of science but when it refers to science it is always scientifically accurate. The reason Solomon and Isaiah were able to tell us the earth was round is that they spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit (2 Pet. 1:20). There is no conflict between scientific FACT and the teaching of the Bible. It is the THEORIES of science which conflict with the Bible.

It's Christmas At The Vails' On Wildwood Drive

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

It looks like Christmas at Ruth and Stewart Vail's home on Wildwood Drive. Mrs. Vail has always enjoyed decorating her home at Christmastime and this year is no exception. . . especially since the Vail's three children, Charles of Senatobia, Carol of St. Louis and Danny of Memphis, and their families will be home for the holidays.

The Vail's home is decorated on the outside as well as the inside. In their spacious front yard are three wooden deer with red bows tied around their necks. One of the deer was given to the Vails by Holley

Davis of Booneville. The other two were built by Stewart with some help from Holley.

At night passersby will see a blue star shining from the top of the Vail's chimney, single red candles glowing in the windows and a wreath with twinkling lights hanging on the front door.

A garland of greenery outlines the outside of the front entrance.

"I like to have a little Christmas in every room, even if it's only a vase of red flowers," Mrs. Vail says as she guides visitors through her home.

A Madonna scene graces the etagere (a French whatnot table) in the hall which faces a red poinsettia. A white candle illuminates the Madonna which is surrounded by Magnolia leaves and red berries. A red velvet bow and silver bells rest at the top of a garland streaming down from the top of the etagere.

"The children would think it wasn't Christmas if we didn't have the Madonna scene," Mrs. Vail says smiling.

In the living room hanging above the piano is a Christmas jewelry tree that the Vails made. The shape of the tree, outlined with a gold chain, has sparkling costume jewelry as ornaments and is highlighted with tiny, colorful lights.

Also in the living room is a bowl of jeweled fruit Mrs. Vail made by covering plastic fruit in sequins using the traditional Christmas colors.

A red velvet tablecloth with printed velvet on top trimmed in gold covers the dining table. Mrs. Vail made the tablecloth herself.

It has become a family custom for Mrs. Vail to write a letter to Santa on the side of the refrigerator asking the jolly old elf to visit the Vail's six grandchildren. Pictures of the grandchildren are included in the letter to Santa which adds about the grandchildren, "They have been good."

One of Mrs. Vail's favorite Christmas items is the Christmas dishes given to her about 32 years ago by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baddour. "I've never had anything I enjoy more," she says. "I pull them out the day after Thanksgiving and use them til the day before New Year's."

For an extra festive touch to holiday desserts, Mrs. Vail includes a tiny red candle and sprig of holly on the dessert dish.

On the back door opening into the den hangs a grapevine wreath that has two redbirds and a birdnest with a little egg in it. The wreath remains on the door throughout the year and as the seasons change, so do the birds. When spring arrives Mrs. Vail will put yellow birds on the wreath.

Although there are many beautiful Christmas decorations throughout the Vail's home, the center of interest has to be the 13-foot tall cedar tree in the den beside the staircase.

The gold star atop the tree touches the top of the vaulted ceiling. Various ornaments, many hand-made by Mrs. Vail, adorn the cedar branches amidst the seven strands of twinkling lights.

This year the tree was decorated by Stewart and the Vail's nephew, John Dubard of Mississippi State. Some of the more unusual ornaments on the tree are sand dollars with poinsettias painted on them. They were given to the Vail's by a friend in Florida.

Some of the ornaments are 40 years old, Mrs. Vail says, and were used on some of the couple's first Christmas trees. The Vail's will celebrate their 43rd wedding anniversary in March.

Mrs. Vail points out that they have never spent much money on ornaments - she prefers making them.

Above the wood heater in the fireplace hangs a wreath of fruit with green and red bows. There are 16 stockings hanging at the fireplace that Mrs. Vail has made over the years for the children and grandchildren and the Vail's friend, Charles of Columbus.

Even the family's cat has a Christmas stocking.

Holly garlands with red bows cover the stairway next to the Christmas tree.

The magic of Christmas is very evident at the Vail home - both the religious and traditional aspects of the holiday.

Mrs. Vail's friends agree that she definitely goes "all out" for Christmas.

But, as Mrs. Vail says, "You get out of Christmas what you put into it."

At Radio-thon

Local Couple Donate $850

During the cerebral palsy radio-thon on Dec. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bonds of Booneville presented a check for $850 to John (Red) Raspberry of the Regional Rehabilitation Center in Tupelo.

The check represented the proceeds from the sale of more than 60,000 aluminum cans the Bonds had collected this year.

They started the scrap aluminum drive two years ago as a memorial to their daughter, Kathy, a CP victim who died Dec. 7, 1980. Since that time they have donated almost $1700 to the center in Kathy's memory.

"We have a lot of help," Mrs. Bonds said. "Friends, neighbors, people we don't even know save cans and bring them to our home. Many businesses and local plants help, too. And sometimes people just leave bags full when we aren't home and we never know who it was."

This year's drive netted more cans than last year, but the price of aluminum was down slightly and the cash proceeds were about the same.

"We want to thank everybody for their help in this worthy cause," Mrs. Bonds said. "We also want everybody to know that we are continuing the program this year, and would be grateful for everybody's continued help for this worthy cause."

It was reported that Rep. Bob Edgar (D-Pa.) and Rep. Joel Prichard (R-Wash.) had planned to offer an amendment to cut the $186 million to $86 million. They were reported to be prepared to argue that users and state and local governments should pay the rest.

The project is estimated to cost $1.8 billion, of which about $1.4 billion will have been spent by the end of 1982.

Another fight on the project is possible when the stopgap spending bill reached the Senate.

Amendments can be made to the bill there, but supporters of the waterway in the Senate say they believe they have enough votes to turn back any challenge.

'Talk O' The Town'

Street Opinion

QUESTION: What do you think of the results of last week's school bond election?

LAVERNE THOMPSON of 508 Jacinto Road: "I was disappointed in the results. I think more people should have voted for it. If the election is held again I don't know if it will pass but I hope it will."

JAMES BETHAY of Wildwood Drive: "I was disappointed in the fact that it didn't pass. It's a sad day when the people turn their back on progress, especially when it comes to education for our children. If the election is held again I think the bond issue has a good chance. That's been the history of other communities."

LEIGHTON MILLER of North Third Street: "The results surprised me. I thought it would pass. At some point in time I think the bond issue will pass."

FAYE WILLIS of Bryant Street: "I was rather disappointed that it didn't pass. I do hope in the future we'll be able to get new school facilities. I hope we'll be able to get our viewpoint across to the ones who voted against it."

R.C. GREEN of Franks Road: "I do not like it. I think it should have been passed. The future of the children means more to me than anything else. I think if more people would visit the schools and see their conditions they would understand why we need something done."

JOEY MERRILL of Ninth Street: "I think it should have passed because the schools are in really bad shape. The buildings are in such bad condition it's dangerous for the students. I'm a senior but I'd like to see the students attend a better school than I did."

Where The Lights Are

Not quite in the Christmas mood yet? Then take a tour of Booneville and Prentiss County in search of Christmas lights.

Folks in the Tuscumbia community have come through again this year with their traditional Christmas decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Stites have their yard and house covered in beautiful lights. They have added even more lights than last year.

F.L. Cosby, who lives across the road from the Stites', always has a beautiful yard to see at Christmastime. This year Santa Claus is standing beside the sleigh pulled by reindeer including Rudolph with his red nose.

Johnny Cummings' home on Hatchie Street also has lots of Christmas decorations as do other homes on Hatchie Street.

If you enjoy looking at Christmas lights you will want to drive down Davis Street, Foster Park, Third Street, Fifth Street and Osborne Creek Road.

Candy Canes

Did you hang a candy cane on your tree this year?

There is religious symbolism in the candy canes. It is so old as a symbol we have nearly forgotten its origin.

The shape of the candy cane represents the crooks of the shepherds who kept watch the night of Jesus' birth.

Sometimes green stripes are added to the red and white striped canes. The white represents purity and the red symbolizes the Holy Spirit. When present, the green stripe symbolizes new life and the birth of Jesus.

Appointment Could Have Long-Term Impact

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. — Gov. William Winter's upcoming appointment to the State Supreme Court to replace retiring Justice R.P. Sugg on Jan. 15 is being viewed in some quarters as a key opportunity for Winter to make a significant impact on the course of affairs in Mississippi for years to come.

This will be Winter's second appointment on the state's highest court since he became governor. Last year, Winter, made history by putting the first woman on the court — Justice Lenore Prather — to replace ailing L.A. Smith.

His chance to put another justice on the nine-member court comes at a time when the Supreme Court is apparently at a very important juncture in finding its philosophical direction and shaping social and constitutional history in this state.

The key need of the court right now, say close observers of the court, is for intellectual stimulation and aggressive input from someone in touch with contemporary issues.

While Sugg has been one of the pillars on the court, he had been a member of the bench the last 12 years and reportedly was burned out from being the court's workhorse. He also is known to have become upset by the internal bickering which took place last year in the monumental fight with the Legislature over civil rules of procedure.

The court has traditionally been conservative in plowing new ground on issues which reflect changing public interests, but in the past year or so it has shown some tendencies to react to contemporary problems.

One instance was its landmark ruling mandating statewide equalization of property assessments based on "true value" of real property. That issue is far from over, however, since the court's deadline of July 1, 1983, for all counties to have equalization property values and assessments appears in for widespread non-compliance.

A major constitutional question also faces the court sometime next year in the monumental test of the separation of powers in state government between the legislative and executive branches.

The issue, of course, will revolve on the lawsuit brought by Atty. Gen. Bill Allain contending that 36 legislators are serving on executive branch boards and commissions in violation of the constitution. How the Supreme Court rules on that will have a lot to do with next years election for legislative seats, and will also have a great bearing on the executive power of future governors.

The Supreme Court is fresh from having its own confrontation with the Legislature over which has the power to prescribe civil rules of procedure in state courts. Over the angry protestations of the Legislature, the court took the matter into its own hands and adopted the rules.

When the Legislature tried to strike back, the court held its ground, but by a narrow margin which reflected a 5 to 4 split. That tenuous majority has managed to stand up, and apparently was strengthened by Winter's appointment of Justice Prather.

Reportedly, Winter made certain before he selected Prather that she would side with the court and not the legislature on where the rule-making power rests.

From the standpoint of Mississippi consumers, the Supreme Court will be the final arbiter on whether or not they will be paying as much as $320 million in higher utility rates next year. Rate increases by electric, telephone and gas utilities are already in the process toward eventual review by the high court.

A leading candidate for the court vacancy, this column has learned, is James L. Robertson a brilliant 42-year-old Greenville attorney who is now teaching law at the University of Mississippi. Robertson, who has never been on the bench, has the rare combination of broad practice in both state and federal courts. He is known as an aggressive, prolific practitioner.

Considered one of the outstanding legal scholars in the state, Robertson has unusual credentials as a public interest advocate. He was, significantly, the leading legal architect in the statewide property equalization lawsuit.

An irony of Robertson's career occurred back in 1961 when he was a candidate for editor of the Daily Mississippian when then Gov. Ross Barnett and the white Citizens Councils intervened in the race to back him against his opponent, a young journalist whom the CC branded as a "secret integrationist."

Robertson not only turned out to be far more liberal than the segregation forces wanted, but several years later he was the legal force in breaking the "speaker ban" policy on the Ole Miss campus after Charles Evers had been barred from speaking.

Another top contender on Winter's list is said to be Circuit judge Neal Biggers of Corinth, a highly regarded member of the state bench who is in his latter 40's. Biggers had been a top law graduate at Ole Miss back in the early '60s after earlier studying at a Presbyterian divinity school.

Biggers was known to have been one of the top finishers in the list of prospects recommended to Winter by his judicial review committee when he selected Justice Prather.

SEAM Concerned Over Salary Funds Distribution

The State Employees Association this week voiced concern that funds available for salary increases for teachers and state employees may be unevenly distributed by the legislature as a result of Gov. William Winter's recommendation and the special legislative session's consideration of education issues, according to John H. Voss, legislative lobbyist for the association.

"Our major concern is not the individual consideration being focused on the financial needs of teachers," said Voss, "but that the legislature will bear in mind throughout this special session the need of all employees directly paid by the state and will make a fair and equitable distribution of funds available for salary increases."

The governor has recommended a 10 percent increase for teacher salaries.

"State employees as a whole support the improvement of the state's educational system," Voss said, "but in doing so, the legitimate needs of others dependent upon public funding cannot be overlooked. It must be remembered that the salaries of teachers established by the legislature are normally supplemented on the local level, whereas state employees receive only the salary directly appropriated by the legislature. They have no other source to turn to."

The strategy employed by SEAM in attempting to obtain a salary increase for state employees has differed from that used by teachers groups.

During the 1982 session, teachers marched on the capital in an open effort to influence legislators to grant a pay raise. Basically the march was unsuccessful. No salary increase was given by the legislature in 1982 to either teachers or state employees.

The lobbying effort of SEAM has been more restrained, Voss said. "I became convinced fairly early in the 1982 session that the state simply did not have the money for a reasonable salary increase for state employees. I accepted the statements of legislative leaders on that point and did not forcefully push the issue."

"Instead, SEAM focused on getting non-monetary legislation enacted," Voss said. "Our major effort prior to the 1983 session has been to communicate to each legislator that state employees do understand the financial plight of the state and will structure their salary increase requests in keeping with the ability of the state to fund those increases."

"We have been advised by legislative leaders and Budget Commission officials that state employees and teachers alike would probably receive a six or seven percent increase in the 1983 session, however the association is going to be lobbying for a 10 percent increase. Considering the fact that other legislation which SEAM will sponsor will in fact save the state money, I think it would be highly unfair to reward the understanding and patience of state employees with anything less than an equal percentage of increase in salary appropriation," Voss said.

Most everyone was pleasantly suprised to awake Sunday morning and find that a small accumulation of snow had blanketed the ground during the night. Although the weatherman had predicted that the rain would turn into snow before ending, no one really expected it due to the unreasonably warm weather that we have been having lately.

There seems to be something about snow that brings out the Christmas Spirit in most everyone. As the song goes "I'm dreaming of a white Christmas...with the treetops glistening and children listening to hear sleighbells in the snow." It really is beginning to look a lot like Christmas.

A Poem

'Twas the night before Christmas
And here on Dry Creek
The women had been cooking for over a week
Chicken and turkeys and all the ducks too
Were hid in the woods afraid of the stew
Now J.D. and Mamie were snuggled in bed
With memories of the past dear in their heads
Junior and Sue and ole Rodney too
Were waiting and hoping

St. Nick would come thru Lorene and J.R. were wrapped up down thar Wishing that Santa would bring a new car

Now Homer and Velma and Mr. Grady too Were wrapped in their nightgown Wishing Christmas was through

Wayne and J.D. were trimming the tree With lights and frosting for the family to see

Patsy and Danny were trimming theirs too And knowing that Christmas would bring something new

Norman and Judy in their tidy white house Knew Santa would come as quite as a mouse

With a new dress for Rhonda and a new make up kit

A new bat for Lannie and a first basemens mitt Ernestine and Duane had hung up their socks

Checked all the windows and then the door locks Were tucked in the bed with covers up tight

When Duane reached over and grabbed for the light Pon my word and bless my soul

I just remembered, my socks got a hole" Terry and Gay, Monica and Matt

Had just finished dinner Feeling real sleek and fat Watching T.V. about Santa and elves

Happy and satisfied content with themselves And up on the hill Mamma Jewel spent the night knowing she'd see the stars precious light

She'd seen it before and knew the story it told Of one mans life that was so cheaply sold

The message it brings is same now as then Peace on Earth and good will to all men

And way over yonder with the dogs in back Was Odene and Lena in their old brick shack

The tree was up and stockings were hung The family had been there and carols had been sung

Women's Club Has Christmas Meeting

The Christmas Meeting of the Booneville Woman's Club was held on Thursday, Dec. 9, at 3 p.m. at the Chris-Cliff Farm, the home of the Merrill T. Cartwrights.

Serving with Mrs. Cartwright as hostesses were Mrs. Robert Griffin, Mrs. J.W. Hollandsworth and Mrs. Hal Hughes. Thirty-two members attended. Dr. Neola Cleveland, president, presided.

The mail box at the beginning of the drive-way leading to the home was tied with a red velvet bow and a matching bow centered the grapevine wreath at the entrance gate.

A large wicker basket of fruit, signifying a very special welcome from the hostesses, was placed near the steps leading to the living room door which held a handmade Della Robbia wreath. Here, Mrs. Cartwright greeted the guests.

Mrs. Hollandsworth directed the members to the round refreshment table covered with a gold net cloth ornated with red sequined candles and felt poinsettias and centered with a Revere bowl holding an arrangement of red carnations. Mrs. Griffin presided at the silver service and poured coffee and spiced tea. Mrs. Hughes served a Christmas salad and miniature green Christmas tree mints.

The program was held in the den, which featured a white flocked Christmas tree decorated with many hand-made ornaments and small twinkling lights. Red Christmas stockings imprinted with the names of the Cartwright family graced the woodbox on the fireplace. Seasonal poinsettias helped to carry out the Christmas theme throughout the house.

Mrs. W.B. White and Mrs. Emmons Turner Jr., led the members in the pledge of allegiance and the club's collect.

During the business session the club, members made a monetary Christmas contribution to be sent to the Club's Golden Age Friend at the Old Ladies Home in Jackson.

The members also voted to send a telegram to the legislators who represent Prentiss County urging them to support Governor Winter's proposed Educational Program.

Mrs. George Oakley, program director, gave the history of the Christmas Carols. She stated that the first carols came from secular and pagan sources, and the word "Carol" originally meant a circle dance. Then words were added to the music. Carol further developed through their connections with the mystery plays of the Middle Ages. These were dramatizations of Biblical scenes, usually presented as a part of major church festivals.

Today, carols are usually described as "hymns of joy" which are sung at Christmas time. The first Carols came from England. Some of them included, "The First Noel," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear" and "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen." Examples of carols of American origin include "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "We Three Kings of Orient Are," which has acquired an international reputation. Mrs. Oakley noted that "Silent Night" was the most international of all hymns.

Mrs. W. Taylor Smith read the Poem, "Christmas Card Friends" by Laura Norman.

At the conclusion of the program the members joined in a sing-along of Christmas carols accompanied by Mrs. Oakley on the piano.

CHRISTMAS TUNES - Mrs. Virginia Oakley entertained the Booneville Woman's Club with Christmas carols during the club's Christmas meeting at Mrs. Merrill T. Cartwright's home on Dec. 9.

YOU LOSE EVERY TIME

Don't kid yourself, you never get something for nothing. Store losses from shoplifting have soared to the point that steps have been taken to make certain violators are prosecuted.

There is nothing more pathetic than the "JUST CAUGHT" shoplifter. He has had it and he knows it. A record for shoplifting will always stay on your back even after your jail time is served.

Apply for a new job and your shoplifting record will rear its ugly head every time. The road to success is not an easy one, so don't put unnecessary obstacles in your path.

Ham Is A Popular Meat For The Holiday Season

By WANDA L. ROBINSON
4-H Program Assistant

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Vegetables - Irish and sweet potatoes, cabbage, lettuce, celery, carrots, onions, turnips, dried beans and peas, rice, canned vegetables

Fruits - Bananas, apples, grapes, oranges, tangerines, grapefruit, canned peaches, fruit juices

Beef - Store specials

Pork - Store specials

Poultry - Fryers, turkeys and parts, chicken hens, eggs

Dairy - Milk, cheese, sour cream, cream cheese

Other - Liver, bologna, franks, tuna, frozen seafood specials, store specials on staple grocery items

Ham is usually a popular meat for the holidays. Most hams available these days are the water-added, fully cooked type, varying in cost, depending on cut and style you chose. Canned hams, boneless wrapped hams, smoked hams are generally more expensive by the pound and by the serving than fully cooked, water-added types. Some of the variation in the cost of quick-cured hams is due to differences in moisture content; but style, cut and brand also affect price.

Fully cooked and cook-before-eating hams differ in cooking time in the processing plant, but all quick-cured hams are cooked long enough during processing to make them safe to eat. Fully cooked hams may be eaten with no further cooking or may be baked about 10 minutes per pound. Cook-before-eating hams, advertised or labeled as smoked hams or cured hams, are partially cooked during the curing and smoking process but require further cooking to develop desired flavor and tenderness usually 18 to 20 minutes per pound for whole hams.

Fully cooked and cook-before eating hams are alike in the amounts of moisture they contain at the end of processing, but they usually differ in moisture content at the time they are served. Modern hams are cured by a combination of salting and brining. As much moisture (in the form of brine solution) is pumped into the fresh ham as will be removed during processing. Hams that contain no more moisture after processing than they had before brine was added are labeled cured smoked, or fully cooked, with no further qualifying statement. Because cured or smoked hams are home-cooked about twice as long as fully cooked ones, moisture content at serving time is lower for cured or smoked types than for fully cooked ones.

The "water added" statement found on many fully cooked hams is meant to call attention to the amount, rather than the presence, of water. Processors who choose to add more moisture to their hams than is removed during processing may do so, but the label must carry the words, "water added." Even then, weight of the finished product may not exceed weight of the fresh ham by more than 10 percent. For example, a ham that weighs 10 pounds before curing must not weigh more than 10 pounds after curing unless it carries the explanatory statement. A ham that carries the "water added" statement might have weighed 10 pounds before processing and weigh 11 pounds after it is processed. Hams that contain more than 10 percent added moisture weight must be labeled "imitation."

Traditional hams have bone the full length of the ham. Their meatiness varies from one brand to another. Some have the skin removed and some do not. Their average yield per pound is four servings of about three ounces each. Semi-boneless hams are a variation of traditional hams and yield 4-12 to 5 servings to the pound. At each end of the semi-boneless ham, bone is removed to the joint, leaving only the long bone in the center. Boneless hams may be purchased in a wrapper or in a can. Wrapped boneless hams yield 5 servings to the pound of purchased weight; but canned hams yield only four, because the net weight of canned hams includes the congealed juices in which these hams are packed.

Half hams yield the same number of servings per pound as whole hams of the same type if the butcher has not removed center cuts. Usually shank or butt portions are not the good value they appear to be because they are ham ends with center cuts removed. Yields vary, but an estimate of 2½ servings per pound is usual for shank or butt portions from hams with bone. Portions of boneless and semi-boneless hams yield about the same number of servings to the pound as half or whole hams of the same type and style.

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian
George E. Allen Library

The same but different too? Yes, That's "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," with large and colorful pictures. "The Stories Julian Tells," by Ann Cameron, is imaginative also. Julian has a talent for getting into trouble - and good luck getting out of it. He has a little brother, Huey, who shares the mischief and magic his imagination creates.

Other new children's books are "The Gingham's Backward Picnic," "The Little Lost Mermaid," "Birthday in the Fun Palace," "The Lonely Ghost," "Bad Belinda Bee," and a new version of "Annie."

A beautiful gift very appropriate to this season and made in honor of Miss Jessie Presley is "The Children's Bible."

Christmas vacation from work and school gives some an opportunity to travel. "Fodor's Caribbean and the Bahamas, 1983," should be very helpful if that is your destination. If you're hoping to see what our national capitol looks like at Christmas and share the excitement of activities there, perhaps going on to Williamsburg, there are guides to these areas. We wouldn't want to leave out those to our own Mississippi.

The library will be open for your Christmas vacation use except on Dec. 23, 24, 25 and Jan. 1.

Reed Named Board Chairman For First Citizens National Bank

Tupelo businessman Jack Reed has been named chairman of the board of directors of the First Citizens National Bank, according to an announcement this week from the Tupelo-based bank.

Reed will replace Guy Mitchell Jr., who reached mandatory retirement age this year.

YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR OF CHIROPRACTIC IS CONCERNED ABOUT THE GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY BEING PLACED ON EDUCATORS.

Every year, thousands of health problems in students of grade and high school level are first recognized by their teachers. Likewise, coaches and physical education instructors often detect health irregularities which might interfere with a child's physical performance and learning ability.

Part of their jobs? Not really. It's that extra sense of dedication that makes these already overworked public servants give children that extra attention. The "school guardian" is responsible in many cases for the detection of potential health problems and the funneling of children to proper health authorities.

What most people don't know is that most health problems are far too complex for the teacher to note. And with a busy schedule, the educator can't be expected to have the time to screen problems that are beyond his or her scope of training, no matter how conscientious the teacher may be. The result: many children have health problems that retard their ability to learn or engage in sports effectively.

Here's what you can do: Parents should be urged to take more responsibility for their children's health.

• Parents and teachers should be alert to such things as changes in energy level, postural changes, moodiness, listlessness or any unusual signs that signal a problem that will impede learning. One of the observable signs is lack of interest in school activities.

• The structural balance of the child's body should be considered. The school teacher will no doubt note the child's posture, but that does not always indicate the structural integrity of the body. Comprehensive chiropractic examinations, including examinations of the spine, pelvis, neck and limbs should be recommended to avoid developmental problems.

• Incorporate posture awareness programs into your class projects. Write for suggestions and materials.

Some of the ways to do business with us are changing.

But we're still as close as your phone.

The telephone industry is changing—reorganizing. That means more options for you. And some changes in the way you do business with us. If you've done business with us lately, you may have gone to one of our retail outlets. Now, if you need help with phone service, call us first.

Call a South Central Bell service representative if you want to:

- order new phone service.
- change your existing service.
- disconnect your service.
- ask a question about your bill.
- exchange or return sets purchased or leased from South Central Bell. (We cannot exchange or take back sets purchased or leased from other suppliers.)

Call South Central Bell's repair service if you have trouble with your service or with a phone set that is leased from South Central Bell. (For service or repair of phone sets that you own—whether they came from South Central Bell or another supplier—you should follow the warranty instructions or other maintenance arrangement made at the time of purchase.)

You'll find the phone numbers for your service representative and repair service in the front of the South Central Bell phone book. When you call us, in many cases we'll be able to complete your business or solve your problem while you're on the phone. In other cases, we may offer to mail equipment or parts to you. Or you may be referred to a phone company service center to complete your transaction. If so, we'll tell you where the nearest one is and when it's open.

Some things won't change. During 1983 South Central Bell will still provide you with dependable local and long distance phone service. We'll continue to be responsible for phones that residence and business customers now lease from us. And we'll continue to lease telephones (and to sell some selected phones) as long as they're available from inventory. (With regulatory approval, we do plan to offer single-line residence and business customers the option of buying telephones that are now leased from us.)

There'll be more changes in the telephone industry in the coming year or so as South Central Bell and other Bell operating companies are separated from AT&T and reorganized into regional companies. This change in organization, to take place in 1984, will affect significantly how you get and use telecommunications services.

But no matter how things change, South Central Bell is committed to seeing that certain things remain the same. We'll still have good, dependable people and the same goal: providing you with the best, most advanced telephone service at reasonable rates.

We'll keep you informed. But in the meantime, if you have any questions about the changes in the industry or about how to do business with us now, call 1 800 555-5000, toll free, 10 a.m.-11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. Or write for a free brochure, "Let's Talk About Change."

Baddour Center Receives National And Worldwide Awards

Baddour Memorial Center, a residential facility for mildly and moderately retarded adults, in Senatobia, was recently recognized by the American Association for Mental Deficiency as runner-up for the Richard B. Dillard Distinguished Service Award.

This award, given to agencies serving the mentally retarded in the Southeastern United States, is presented annually to an outstanding agency proving extremely high quality services for its resident population.

In addition to this recognition by the AAMD, BMC was recognized by the Health & Welfare Division of the Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church as "1982 Agency of the Year."

Chosen from all United Methodist-related agencies throughout the world, Baddour Center was awarded this prestigious honor at the Division convention held in Louisville, Kentucky, earlier this year.

The BMC staff has developed many innovative and successful programs for the mentally retarded. Among these is its highly productive and competitive Vocational Services Division.

Providing meaningful employment and developing people are two of the main goals of this Division. Resident's salaries are commensurate with their production capabilities.

The Vocational Division consists of several departments: Silk-screening, manufacture of commercial pallets and bed pillows, horticulture, plastic capsule assembly, and crafts.

The average rate of production for the BMC residents is approximately 53 percent of what "normal" people can do in the same type jobs. The average production rate for other mentally retarded persons in similar employment, however, is only 25-30 percent of "normal" production.

Gross sales for 1982 have exceeded $850,000 thus far, reflecting a 30 percent increase in sales over 1981.

BMC is currently serving 91 residents from 17 states, including two residents from Booneville.

Time To Plan Tree Planting

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

The tree planting season is almost here and a lot of our Prentiss county landowners will be planting pine trees to improve income, water quality, wildlife habitat, land values or just for natural beauty. Whether you actually plant the trees yourself or hire it done, it's important to be familiar with the tree planting process. Here are some key points I'd like to point out to you on this subject:

Planting Period
In most circumstances trees are planted from about December to mid-March. NEVER when the ground is frozen.

Storage
Keep storage time to a minimum unless the seedlings are refrigerated at controlled temperatures. Protect from the sun, wind, artificial heat or freezing. If stored temporarily, allow for ventilation on all sides of the seedling containers - store in the shade. Mend any holes with tape if seedling bags or bundles get punctured.

Handling Seedlings
After removing the first seedlings close the bundle to protect any remaining seedlings. Carry seedlings in a bucket or tray filled with wet sawdust or mud slurry. Avoid excessive root pruning, or better still, don't prune at all.

Actual Planting
Plant approximately 800 trees per acre, unless you are planting strictly for a windbreak, erosion control, etc.

Plant vertically with roots spread out. Avoid "J" rooting which inhibits root development and chances of survival. Plant with root collar at ground level. Roots will be exposed to elements if planted too shallow. Planting too deep will also retard development.

Ground should be packed around each freshly planted seedling. (There should be some resistance when an attempt is made to pull the seedling from the ground.)

After the first year, survival of 500 trees per acre or better is adequate. If less, consider spot planting or replanting. Depending on conditions, survival of less than 500 stems could result in a good stand. For example surviving trees may be healthy, vigorous, and well-distributed over the planting site.

If you're not planting trees this year but think you might be interested in it next winter, give me a call and let's talk about it. For sure, you'll need to order your seedlings plenty early. Our annual supply sure goes in a hurry! -- especially the hardwoods.

For further information, call 728-6835 or come by our office located at 103 College Street, between John Hatcher's office and Dickerson's Furniture.

Lamb's Chapel Is J'town Parade Trophy Winner

A total of 25 vehicles - including 13 floats - participated in the 1982 Jumpertown Christmas Parade Sunday afternoon.

The parade was originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon, but was postponed until 2:30 p.m. Sunday due to bad weather. A snowfall Saturday night left the ground covered with a light snow to add to the holiday spirit for the parade Sunday.

The best overall trophy went to Lamb's Chapel Church.

Cardinal Cafe took the first place trophy in the business division. Community Grocery was second. In the organizations' division, Jumpertown Head Start won first place, with the Jumpertown Baptist Mission taking second.

Ma Janie Eaton won first place in the individual's entries division. Benny Eaton was second.

Ribbons went to Lamb's Chapel Church, best community float; Jumpertown 4-H Club, best Christmas spirit; and to Wesley Fence Company, most original.

"We had a real good turnout," said a spokesman for the Jumpertown Booster's Club. "We thank the community for coming out to see it and the people who worked on it. Without them, we wouldn't have had a parade."

FEEDING INDEX RESUMES

Cattlemen in Prentiss County are now able to pinpoint feed requirements in harsh winter weather. A winter feeding advisory issued by the National Weather Service and the Extension Service resumes in December.

The advisory consists of a daily feed index to inform cattlemen of the percentage of extra feed needed over the base ration in cold weather. Cold, wet weather results in higher index numbers and means unsheltered animals will need more hay and energy supplements.

The index numbers are easy to apply. For example, if each animal normally eats 20 pounds of hay per day, but the feed index is 30, then each animal will need 30 percent more hay, or six pounds in this case (20 x .30 equals 6). If the index falls back to zero, resume feeding the normal 20 pounds.

Cattlemen will be given the index trend up to four days in advance. This will help producers to gradually increase or decrease rations over the time period and also plan feed and labor requirements. The index will help reduce overfeeding and wasted hay by providing cattlemen with a more accurate method of feeding correct amounts. Successful use of the index depends on knowing the maintenance ration for the herd. This information is available at the county Extension office.

Listen for the index on weekdays during noon on NOAA Weather Radio and on numerous AM and FM stations including affiliates of the Mississippi Agri-News Network.

PAUSE THAT REFRESHES

All of us associated with agriculture have plenty to think about these days. Farmers, in particular are faced with very low crop prices. The thing that's staying on their minds is how to survive another year of low prices.

The holiday season is a good time to push aside all these worries and look at the good side. If we look at things positively, we realize we all have so much to be thankful for.

The Christmas season message is one of renewal and a spirit of optimism. The feeling is one that should have a lasting influence both in our lives and in the lives of those we influence.

This Christmas, take a pause from life's problems to count your blessings. Take a break from worrying about low crop prices, paying the bills and all of life's problems. The effect may surprise you.

All of us at the Prentiss County Extension office wish you a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

COTTON FARMERS GET DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

Large cotton stocks and extremely weak domestic and export demand have resulted in low market prices for the 1982-83 season. Although this year's 11.8 million-bale upland cotton crop is expected to be 24 percent below the 1981 harvest, the weak demand is likely to result in a further increase in cotton stocks this year, USDA officials said. Market prices for upland cotton have remained below the 1982-crop federal target price of 71 cents per pound, making this year's farm program participants eligible for about $500 million in cotton deficiency payments. The farm price that is compared to the target price is an average of producer prices for each month of the 1982 calendar year weighted by the estimated monthly sales. The deficiency payment rate is the difference between the target and the higher of the national loan rate or the average farm price, and applies to the planted acreage and payment yield.

Farmers in Prentiss County will receive 70 percent of their cotton deficiency payments in December and the balance in February. Every eligible producer will get the calculated national deficiency payment rate, regardless of his selling price. The farm program participants also will receive partial payments for corn, grain sorghum and rice, and total payments for wheat and barley.

Mississippi cotton producers expect to harvest 1,050,000 acres this year and produce 1,800,000 bales, according to USDA's November crop production report. In 1981, 1,200,000 cotton acres were harvested and 1,565,000 bales produced.

The report forecasts the average upland cotton yield this season at a record 604 pounds an acre, 62 above last year. As of early November, cotton export commitments were around 3.1 million bales, 1.2 million below a year earlier.

PROTECT DIVERTED LAND FROM EROSION, ASCS SAYS

Provisions of 1983 farm programs require that cropland taken out of production be devoted to conservation uses to protect it from wind and water erosion.

As part of the agreement, this diverted land cannot be harvested and it cannot be grazed during the six principal growing months of May thru October.

To meet the conservation use requirement, farmers can plant no more than 80 percent of the base acreage for harvest. For farmers planting the full permitted acreage, the remaining 20 percent must be devoted to approved conservation uses such as annual, biennial, or perennial grasses and legumes, volunteer stands other than weeds, small grains and crop residue from use of no till or minimum till practices.

The 1983 programs also authorize farmers to establish permanent conservation practices on land taken out of production. The permanent conservation practice is eligible for cost-share payments through the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Land designated as conservation use acres must be eligible land which meets certain size and width measurements, and land that was planted to row crops or small grains in two of the last three years.

Farmers who comply with acreage reduction and conservation use requirements will be eligible for crop loans, deficiency payments and land diversion payments. Applications for the 1983 programs may be filed at the local ASCS office.

Now that most of our crops are harvested, you might want to take some time to think about what projects you want to undertake to improve your farm this fall. Look around your field, and see those washed out places, the ones that you had trouble crossing because they were washed out much deeper than last year. One way to repair these washouts is to install a grass waterway. A grass waterway is a natural or man made waterway shaped to required dimensions and vegetation for safe disposal of runoff from a field, diversion, terrace or other structure. Your first thoughts of a grass waterway may be that you do not want your field cut up with this permanent grass. But crossing a well constructed water way with gently sloping sides is much easier than trying to cross those gullies that if left alone will only get larger and larger.

The waterway is easy to cross with equipment and will carry the flow of water without erosion of the channel. The satisfactory performance of a grass waterway depends on it having the proper design, the proper shape, and the proper preparation of the area to provide for better vegetation growth. In establishing grass waterways choose good sod-forming grasses with deep dense root systems that are well adapted to your soil and site. The most widely used grasses in Prentiss County are tall fescue, bahiagrass and bermudagrass.

A grass waterway is not a wasted area in your field.

Not only is it an essential part of the soil and water conservation treatment of your farm but you use it for pasture and hay production. It can also be used for wildlife habitat, homes for quail, rabbit, and other small animals.

Your waterway will need special attention while the grass is getting started. After each rain look it over and fill and smooth all washed places. Do not run equipment over the waterway any more than is necessary, and keep out livestock until the grass is well established.

Good grass waterways are very important in controlling erosion on farms in Prentiss County. If you would like information and design of the waterway, contact the Soil Conservation Service located in the North Mississippi Savings and Loan Building or call 728-3544.

Booneville Girls Take First In Tournament Of Champions

By CLIFF LONG
Sports Writer

BOONEVILLE's Blue Devilettes and Hickory Flat's Rebels took first place honors in the Baldwin Tournament of Champions last Saturday night.

Sixteen teams - eight boys' and eight girls' - participated in the five-day event.

After defeating Hickory Flat's and Biggersville's girls teams on previous nights, Booneville advanced to the finals against Baldwin.

The Lady Bearcats beat

Saltillo and Shannon to capture their spot in the finals.

Baldwyn lost to Booneville by a one-point deficit after Bearcat Mellisa Harvell walked with the ball after mistakenly hearing what the referee's whistle.

With one second on the clock, Booneville was given possession. The final score was 39-38. The Devilettes have an 11-0 record on the season.

Booneville's high scorer was Kushinge Sorrell, who contributed 26 points to the Devilette cause.

Mellisa Harvell was the Baldwin pacer with 15 points.

HICKORY FLAT's Rebels handled Baldwin's Bearcats 74-52 in the men's finals. The Rebels, led by Jeff Beasley with 27 points, had an easy time of it as they did with Shannon and Booneville's boys in previous rounds.

Baldwyn defeated Okolona and Wheeler to advance on their end of the bracket.

High scorers in the final game for Baldwin were Fred Harvell with 19 points and Anthony Price with 15 points.

IN OPENING Round matches on Tuesday night, Booneville's girls defeated Hickory Flat, 58-31. Kushinge Sorrell had 28 points in the ball game.

In boy's action, Hickory Flat hammered Shannon, 58-35.

Baldwyn's girls defeated Saltillo by a wide 53-11 margin. Renita Speck and Tina Bender each had 10 points for the Lady Bearcats.

On Wednesday night, Shannon and Okolona were matched in girls' action. Shannon rolled over their opponent by a 57-29 margin.

Paced by Victor Gardner's 31 points, the Booneville Devils were unstoppable against the Biggersville Lions. Booneville won their opening match, 57-42.

With the help of Anthony Price's 24 points, Baldwin was able to handle Okolona, 66-66.

Wheeler's girls were put out early as Biggersville pulled away to a 73-39 win over the Eaglettes. Tangie Miller had a large majority of Wheeler's points with 25. Glenda Stafford had 20 for the Lions.

Wheeler's boys had a tough time with Saltillo on Thursday night. Led by Lee Tate's 26 points, Wheeler won the game 67-66. Jerry Hollins got 18 for Wheeler.

In semi-final girls' action, Baldwin advanced to the finals by defeating Shannon, 45-32. Mellisa Harvell scored 13 for Baldwin.

Booneville advanced on Friday night with a 62-47 win over Biggersville. Kushinge Sorrell had the hot hand for the Devilettes with 31 points. Sovena Harris also added 18 and Deidra Calamese 10 for Booneville.

In boys' semifinals action, Baldwin advanced in an exciting 71-70 finish over Wheeler. Anthony Price scored 29 for Baldwin and Fred Harvell, who hit a clutch free throw at the end of the game, scored 20 for the Bearcats.

Jerry Hollins led all Wheeler scorers with 16 points, while Lee Tate bagged 13 for the Eagles.

Booneville couldn't hold down the hot shooting of Hickory Flat in their semi-final matchup. Victor Gardner and Scott Downs had hot hands for Booneville, but Gardner's 15 and Downs' 10 were not enough to stop the Rebels. The final score was 66-42.

Blue Devils Split Week's Two Games

The Booneville Blue Devils split two wins with the Alcorn Central Bears here Tuesday night.

In girls' action the Devilettes of Booneville had some trouble with Central's Lady Bears, but in the end the Devilettes scored a 45-42 victory over Alcorn Central, giving the Lady Bears only their third loss of the season.

Kushinge Sorrell paced the 12-0 Devilettes with 24 point performance. Sovena Harris added 10 for Booneville.

Wendy Williams was the only Central performer to hit double figures. She had ten points. Central posted a 25-23 halftime lead.

In boys' action Central dominated shooting from the floor late in the game to pull away from a halftime deficit of 27-23. At the end of the Central shooting exhibition, the Bears had grabbed the victory by a 58-46 margin.

Larry Mackin paced Booneville in the scoring category. Mackin had 14 points. Bernard Anderson also had a fine performance with 12 points. Central's Jay Cohn led the Bears with 18 points, while Dewayne Snyder had 14.

Roundball Roundup

Rebels, Royals
Improve Records

Receiving some welcomed Christmas gifts early, the Thrasher Rebels and New Site Royals had impressive weeks in the Prentiss county cage circuit. Between the two clubs, a 4-1 mark emerged as they closed some ground in the standings on front-running Jumpertown and Wheeler.

On the girls side, a single win was the best of any of the entries. However, the Christmas break will go into effect after this week's games, giving each club some sorely needed rest.

JUMPERTOWN (B)

Despite a break-even week, Cardinal mentor Guyton Wilkerson was disappointed in his club's showing. "I think we had a little letdown after winning our own tournament. I know we didn't get a team effort in the Walnut Tournament."

For their trouble, the Cards stopped host Walnut in the opening round, 60-44, before losing to pesky Corinth in the semifinals, on a last second shot, 61-59.

The girls, despite improved play, dropped their third one-point decision of the season, 42-41, to Walnut. The Lady Cards rallied from a 13-point halftime deficit, but could not pull off a win.

For the ladies, Myra Green tossed in 16 markers, while Tracie White added another 11 points. In boys action, Perry Perrin continued to pace the Cards with 29 and 21 points, respectively. Ricky Burress added a dozen more points on each night.

Jumpertown will seek to rebound by hosting Walnut on Tuesday and Pine Grove on Thursday. A visit to Burnsville on Saturday night will complete the first half of the season for Jumpertown.

The torrid start has earned Jumpertown's boys some recognition in the state polls from Jackson. Overall, the Cardinals have one of the top five marks in North Mississippi at 16-3. "We still need to work harder to get better," reminded Wilkerson. "Because everybody else should be getting better, too."

NEW SITE (BB)

Enjoying their second sweep week of the year, New Site edged closer to the .500 mark for the season. Mackie Smith's Royals blew out Tremont, 75-49, before repeating the act against Smithville, 70-29.

The Lady Royals had a break-even week, featuring a double overtime decision over highly-regarded Smithville, 36-34. However, Tremont took a 48-43 win in their first appearance of the week.

Mark Barnes led the Royal offensive thrust on both nights. But, Richard Shook and Charles Reece added double figure efforts to help swell the New Site offense.

Chris Frost and Patsy Sims provided the firepower for the New Site ladies. The double overtime win gave the Lady Royals a pair of wins involving overtime wars this season.

New Site visits Thrasher on Friday night before the Christmas break. "We're not planning any drastic changes over the holidays," admitted Smith. "We will take some rest and continue to work on our basic offense and defense."

THRASHER (BB)

Featuring the busiest week of any county school, the Thrasher Rebels took two of three contests to move above the .500 mark. Although the Lady Rebels played well, according to Phil Worley, the club dropped two of three contests.

The Rebels destroyed Biggersville, 80-43, before dropping a tough match with hosting Belmont, 72-64. Bouncing back, Thrasher stopped Corinth, 70-61 to move to 11-10 for the campaign.

Thrasher's girls fell to a good Biggersville club, 42-34, before losing to a better Belmont five, 51-31. The Lady Rebels salvaged the week with a 46-37 verdict over a Corinth team, good enough to visit the North Half last season.

Jessica Goddard, Ann Chambers, and Lisa Garner led the Lady Rebels in their offensive punch during the week. On the boys side, balanced scoring prevailed, although Calvin Davis emerged as the high scorer in two games.

"I thought we played three pretty good games in a row," commented Worley on his girl's showing. "In fact, I think we are playing better overall, even though we were outgunned with Belmont."

Jacky Rowsey, Rebel boss, was encouraged by his team's play. "With the exception of one quarter at Belmont, I thought we played better this week."

Thrasher hosts New Site on Friday before going to Delta State to battle West Lincoln on December 22.

WHEELER (B)

The Baldwin Tournament of Champions provided the week's fare for the Wheeler clubs. The Eagles split a pair of games, while the Lady Eagles were eliminated in the first round.

Biggersville stopped the Lady Eagles in a 52-37 match, despite 22 points from Tangie Miller. On the boys side, Wheeler clipped Saltillo in a 67-66 heartstopper before falling by the same margin to Baldwin, 71-70, in the semifinals.

Lee Tate threw in his 25th and 26th points with :02 left to give Wheeler their win over Saltillo. However, Baldwin held on the next night to keep the Eagles from defending their boys title. Four different men hit in double figures in the losing cause: Willie Miller, Michael Chandler, Lee Tate, and Jerry Hollins.

Wheeler, now 14-7 for the year, despite the loss of every starter from last year's club, will go on the road in their final action before Christmas. West Union provides the Tuesday night opposition before a visit to Baldwin on Friday night.

"We're going to take the time off when the break comes," admitted Sam Richey, architect of the Eagle fortunes. "We haven't had a break this year, yet. So, we're going to get away from it for a few days."

The Lady Eagles, the only county club with a .500 mark, will follow suit. Both clubs will return to action in January, with immediate play in the County Tourney.

The December flood which has brought damage to many Mississippi households is now having some effect on the state's wildlife.

Department of Wildlife Conservation officials in Jackson reported Thursday that deer and other wildlife in portions of the state's Delta area and other spots along the Mississippi River have been driven from flooded woods and fields seeking higher ground. Hunters are being notified that shooting game animals driven from their native habitat under such conditions is a violation of the law.

"We want to make sure that hunters know that it is unlawful to hunt, trap, take, frighten, or kill game or furbearing animals forced out of their natural habitat by high water," chief of wildlife enforcement Philip Strong said.

"In areas that are flooded, the game and furbearers must be allowed to return to their natural habitat by receding waters before hunting in these areas can resume."

Strong emphasized that citations written to anyone violating this law would be at the discretion of county wildlife enforcement officers.

"As most sportsmen know, the intent of this law is to give adequate protection to animals like deer, rabbits, quail, and others, and this is what we propose to do," Strong said.

Wildlife officials also reported Thursday that the 59,000-acre Delta National Forest and all interior holdings, located in Sharkey and Issaquena counties, have been closed to all hunting except waterfowl hunting. This includes the Sunflower Wildlife Management Area within the forest.

The recommendation was made to the agency by game division biologists and enforcement personnel who have surveyed the area on land and from aircraft.

Officials say that waterfowl hunting in the closed areas will not be affected by Thursday's action. The state's first duck season will get underway Saturday, Dec. 11.

Agency executive director Lon Strong said that law enforcement personnel and biologists are continually monitoring the situation affecting wildlife, which has been caused by the rising waters of the Mississippi River in the lower Delta and other areas.

Sam Ed

said. On one occasion the serenaders took the wheels off a neighbor's wagon. And it wasn't unknown for someone who had carried blocks of wood to his yard to split for firewood to find his wood scattered across the road in the woods.

"We didn't do anything to cause injury, we would just have fun," Sam Ed grinned.

Of course lots of times folks would be expecting the serenading. "They'd have a rope or wire strung up around the house and you'd trip when you started around the house."

Serenading wasn't restricted to just Christmas Eve. "We always serenaded a new married couple, no matter what time of the year," he said. "Now folks would get shot for serenading."

Another Christmas custom that has changed is the shooting of "big guns," Sam Ed says.

"People would take an anvil, turn it flat on its back, fill in the hole with gunpowder and put a fuse in it. Then they'd set another anvil on top and light the fuse. Talk about a racket," he said. "On a cold, frosty night you could hear that sound a long way."

Trimming the tree has changed, too. Sam Ed remembers that in those days Christmas trees weren't put up until two or three days before Christmas. But the cedar tree wasn't decorated until Christmas Eve.

"That was one of the joys of Christmas — when the whole family decorated the tree," Sam Ed said.

All the decorations would be handmade. There would be strings of popcorn and possibly aluminum foil which had been saved for the occasion.

On Christmas Eve the children would hang their stockings up by the mantle. "We would usually get an apple, an orange and a few nuts," he recalled. "The girls sometimes had a little doll in their stocking on Christmas morning."

Sam Ed noted that it now sometimes seems as if families don't spend as much time together during the holiday as they once did.

"Families would go spend the night with their relatives during Christmas week. It's not like now when they just visit a few hours on Christmas Day."

But the best Christmases he remembers, Sam Ed says, was when his four daughters were babies. Those times, he says, were the happiest times of his life.

Jumpertown

I didn't think so."

When Moore left he said he had another job waiting on him in Burnsville, Windham said.

Moore was hired Sept. 15 and received a salary of $800 a month, Windham said. Tullis, a former dispatcher at the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department, began working at Jumpertown about a month ago.

Tullis, who was under bond, received no salary, but was working for the experience to aid in his police schooling, Windham said. He added that "We compensated him in a round about way by replacing some of the clothing that had been in his car when it burned." Tullis' car was stolen and burned several weeks ago.

Windham said he feels that if the board of aldermen can "find the right man" another town marshal will be hired. But at this point, he said, they aren't looking for a marshal because the board has not had time to organize following the meeting Tuesday night.

ORDER
WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of Prentiss County, Mississippi meeting in regular session on the 6th day of December, 1982, finds as follows:

WHEREAS, this Board has by previous action levied millage for the purpose of maintaining the Northeast Mississippi Hospital and also for the purpose of retiring outstanding general obligation bonds of the County which were issued for the purpose of construction projects for the hospital; and the Baptist Memorial Hospital of Memphis, Tennessee having assumed these indebtednesses and assumed the responsibility for maintenance of the aforesaid hospital, there has developed a surplus in the hospital maintenance fund, as well as the general obligation bond retirement fund, and;

Pursuant to Section 27-105-367, the Mississippi Code of 1972 as Annotated and Recompiled, the County desires to transfer these funds to the areas where the need is greatest. That said statute requires that notice be published in the County paper for three (3) consecutive weeks and that after a period of thirty (30) days if no petition is filed signed by twenty (20) percent of the qualified voters of the County, then said transfer shall be effective.

Motion was made and seconded that the above referenced transfer from Hospital Maintenance Fund and from the General Obligation Bond Fund be made and that the intentions of this Board to transfer be published for three (3) consecutive weeks in the Banner-Independent and that after a period of thirty (30) days from the first publication that the transfer be effective.

A vote was taken with all 5 Districts present and motion carried unanimously.

The First Bank Money Market Fund

20% interest and your money's right where you want it.

1. Money market interest on all your money.
2. Withdraw any amount anytime.
3. Telephone transfers.
4. Additional deposits anytime.
5. No sales commissions.
6. Insured safe by F.D.I.C.
7. 20% interest through January 3, if you invest before December 31.

Now you can get a better money market fund at home. At First Bank. And if you invest now, you can get 20% interest through January 3. That's substantially more than the average money market fund pays.

Insured to $100,000.

First Bank's Money Market Fund is better than those out-of-town funds, run by investment companies, for a lot of reasons.

No. 1—Your money is insured to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

No. 2—You pay no sales commissions.

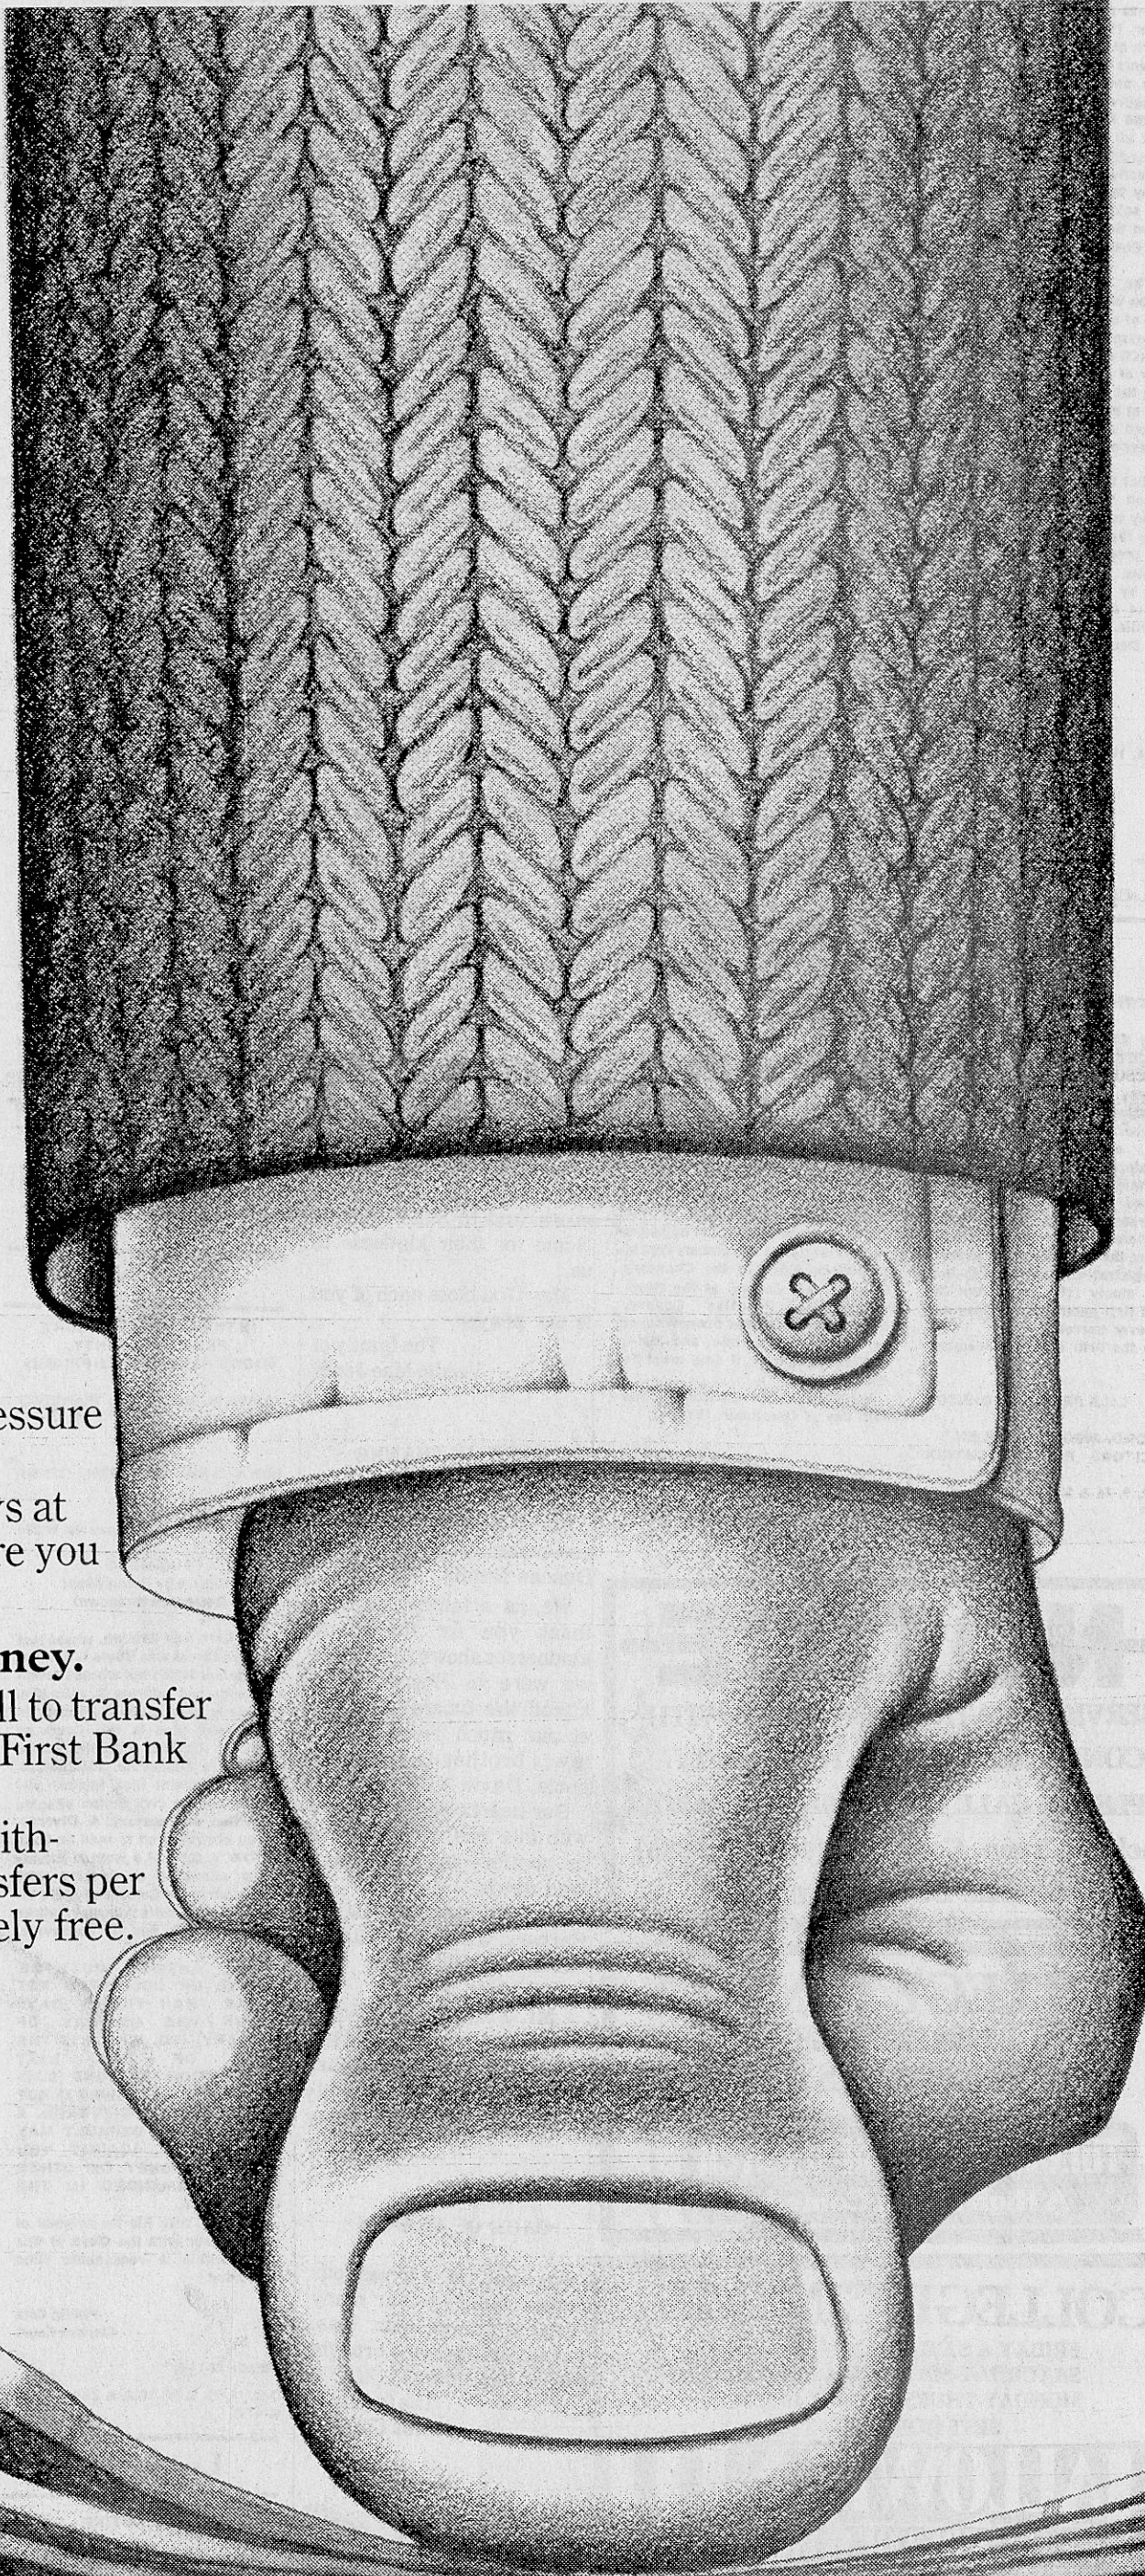

No. 3—There are no high-pressure sales people to bug you.

And No. 4—Your money stays at home, under your thumb. Where you can withdraw it easily anytime.

Easy access to your money.

In fact, all it takes is a phone call to transfer money from your Fund to your First Bank checking account.

You can make a total of six withdrawals or transfers per month absolutely free.

High interest on all your money.

First Bank's Money Market Fund is better than most bank funds— in-town and out-of-town. Because the minimum investment is only $2,500. And because as long as your daily balance is at least $2,500, you earn high money-market interest on all your money. Not just on the amount over and above the minimum.

Any day your First Bank Fund balance is below $2,500, you earn the same as you'd earn in a N.O.W. account.

Money Market Funds for businesses, too.

The First Bank Money Market Fund is designed especially for individuals. But First Bank also has a fund especially for businesses. The minimum and some terms are different. Call or come in your nearest First Bank for full details.

Invest before December 31.

It's convenient to invest in the First Bank Money Market Fund. Just visit the First Bank near you. But don't delay. You have to invest before December 31 to earn 20% interest through January 3.

You can search the world over, but you can't find a better money market fund than the one in your own backyard. The First Bank Money Market Fund. At First Bank. Naturally.

37 New Troopers To Join Force Saturday

There will be 37 additional state troopers on Mississippi highways soon.

Sidney B. Berry, Commissioner of Public Safety, has announced that 36 men and one woman will be sworn into office as new Highway Patrol officers.

The swearing in ceremonies will be part of graduation exercises for the Highway Patrol cadets at 10 a.m., on Wednesday, Dec. 15, at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy.

Berry said the graduates will assume duty assignments Saturday, Dec. 18 and have been stationed in patrol districts with a shortage of enforcement personnel.

The 37 additional troopers will bring to a total of 589 the number of sworn officers on the patrol, he said.

The average age of the graduating class members is 25.3 years. Nine of the 37 hold four-year college degrees, and 16 others have attended college.

Fifteen of the cadets were previously employed by sheriffs' offices, police departments, emergency medical service agencies or investigatory organizations.

Berry said 457 persons applied to be considered as members of the upcoming graduating class and of that number 197 applicants were interviewed and 76 were invited to attend training. In August 1982, 73 cadets reported for training. Thirty-seven have qualified for commissions as troopers.

Berry said class members and guests will be addressed by Governor William Winter. Responding on behalf of the cadets will be Marvin E. Curtis, Jr., of Vicksburg, class president. Cadet Quinnie Shumbert of Fulton will deliver the invocation and benediction.

This is the 41st Highway Patrol cadet class to graduate since the agency was created in 1938. Twenty-three classes have trained and were graduated from the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy since it began operations in 1966.

Berry said anyone interested in attending the graduation ceremonies is cordially invited to do so.

Local Students In Ole Miss Band

Two students from Booneville - Bill Loden and Lynne Russell - are members of the 1982 "Pride of the South" Marching Band at The University of Mississippi.

The Ole Miss band is comprised of 275 students from 24 states, West Germany, Mexico and Uruguay.

The band performs at halftime of the Ole Miss Rebel football games, and this year they performed before a national television audience during halftime of the Ole Miss Tulane game in Jackson.

How Do You Handle An Obscene Telephone Call?

By
COLUMBUS B. HOPPER
Department of Sociology
University of Mississippi

(The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author.)

Only the sound of heavy breathing is heard.

"Who is this? What do you want?" she asks. The caller doesn't say who he is, but he does tell her in vulgar and menacing language exactly what he wants.

Angered and frightened, she hangs up. In a few minutes, the telephone rings again.

An obscene phone caller is at work.

Such incidents occur in Mississippi households every day. There are no exact figures, but in one sample of Mississippi women, two-thirds had received at least one obscene call. Almost every woman who has a telephone will receive an obscene call sooner or later.

The problem in Mississippi is not unusual. Nationally, the Bell System investigates one million calls each year and that number represents only cases of extreme harassment. Only an estimated 7 percent of the victims report the calls to either the telephone company or to the police, and only a small proportion of the reported calls are invested.

Occasionally, women make obscene calls, and men sometimes call other men, but the great majority of the calls are made by men to women. The caller seeks to gain sexual pleasure by creating some emotion — hostility, fear, or confusion — in his victim.

Some identified callers turn out to be estranged husbands, rejected suitors, business enemies, or lecherous neighbors who even try to view their victims through binoculars while talking to them.

Another typical caller is a man, under 30, who is otherwise successful, respected, and law-abiding. He may call indiscriminately until he gets an answer, or methodically discover a victim whose number is then recorded in a diary.

Although there are exceptions, most obscene callers do not pose a real threat to their victims. Rather than being feared, obscene phone calls are best understood as a manifestation of impersonal sex which has been increasing in America.

In impersonal sex, the participants do not wish to be truly intimate. They are, instead, oriented toward self-gratification and use others as temporary sex objects.

The typical caller is timid and lonely. He has feelings of inferiority and attempts to gain a sense of power by stimulating strong reactions in others. A telephone allows him to confront another person without being face-to-face.

"Callers seem to be of two types," one young Mississippi woman reported. "The quiet callers say nothing, breathe heavily, or whisper short messages." Others begin by asking for a person who doesn't live at my address. They work up the courage to become obscene on the third or fourth call.

Some talkative callers sound friendly and give the impression of being someone you know but just can't place. His obscene comments come after several minutes of conversation."

What should you do if you receive an obscene call?

Telephone officials and police say hang up immediately. One study found that 37 percent of the victims talked back. Listening to or talking back to the caller encourages him. It is what he wants.

Try not to reveal any emotion. Be routinely business-like.

Do not tell unknown callers your name.

Do not put your telephone number on bulletin boards or other public places.

Instruct children and baby sitters to hang up on unfamiliar callers.

Be wary of telephone surveys. Be especially abrupt with persons who begin by asking the kind of clothes you prefer or other personal information.

Listing a telephone by initials instead of a first name and initial is not as effective as it once was for a woman living alone.

Most authorities believe the "self-help" method is simplest and most effective in ordinary cases. However, the police and telephone officials are able to help with persistent callers. In fact, they encourage you to report threatening calls.

In order to identify the caller, they will require you to keep a record of the exact time and date of calls. They will want you to note voice traits and background noises that will help identify the caller.

The telephone company can remove the phone of persons guilty of harassing others. The police can restrain those guilty of threatening others.

While one should not take obscene calls lightly, it is some comfort to remember that most men who make the calls are not dangerous. Being aware of the high probability of receiving an obscene call is the first step in coping with one calmly without feelings of anger, fear, and humiliation.

NEMJC Officials Attend School Planning Conference

Northeast Mississippi Junior College administrators George W. McGreger, director of educational media and purchasing, and Ralph Johnson, director of buildings and grounds, were participants in a recent conference on "School Planning Trends in the 80's" held recently at The University of Mississippi.

The conference was a special service project of the Ole Miss Department of Educational Administration, Counseling, Psychology and Higher Education, the School of Education and the university's Division of Continuing Education.

During Holidays

Tragic Home Fires Can Be Avoided

The holiday season is potentially a very dangerous one. Precautions against fire and adherence to general safety rules are of the utmost importance when Christmas preparations are being made, reminds the Mississippi State Medical Association.

Fire is the greatest single contributor to Christmas tragedy. The dangers of fire in the home are compounded during the holidays due to the presence of trees, trimmings, lights, candles, and paper decorations which would not normally be in the home.

The primary causes of home fires during Christmas are lighted candles, fireplaces, trees which become too dry, and faulty electrical connections. Common sense and adherence to a few basic safety rules can drastically reduce the number of home fires.

The following guidelines should be used to assure a safe and merry Christmas:

- Make an emergency plan to use if fire breaks out.
- Have telephone numbers of fire and emergency squads handy.
- Keep matches, lighters, and candles out of the reach of children.
- Never burn candles in the middle of dried flower arrangements, cut pine, balsa or holly.
- Never burn evergreens in a fireplace, as dry greens burn like tinder and can flare out of control, sending sparks flying about the room.

Special precautions should also be taken with the Christmas tree because chemical coatings or sprays cannot be relied upon to flame-proof it. A fresh tree will stay green longer and be less of a fire hazard than a dry one. A fresh tree is green.

Its needles are hard to pull from its branches and do not break when bent between your fingers, its trunk is sticky with resin, and a shower of needles does not fall to the ground when it is shaken.

The tree should be placed away from fireplaces, radiators, and other heat sources. It should also be out of the way of traffic and not block any doorways.

The tree, after two inches of its trunk is removed, should be mounted in a sturdy, water-holding stand with wide-spread legs and fastened to the walls or ceiling with thin guy wires which will be nearly invisible. The base should be kept full of water while the tree is indoors because heated rooms dry trees out rapidly, creating fire hazards.

FmHA Loan And Grant Obligations Announced

Talmadge L. Finch, district director of the Farmers Home Administration, has announced the 1982 Fiscal Year loan and grant obligations for his district, which is made up of Alcorn, Benton, Marshall, Prentiss, Tippah and Tishomingo counties.

The obligations include loans for operating purposes, $3,303,120; emergency loans, $9,591,020; farm ownership loans, $912,060; individual Soil and Water loans, $47,590; individual housing loans and grants, $5,614,010; rural rental housing loans, $2,762,600; and water and waste loans and grants, $522,000. These figures represent a total of $22,752,400 that was injected into the economy of the six Northeast Mississippi counties during last fiscal year, Finch said.

Although the Farmer Home Administration has grown and taken on several new lending programs over the past few years, Finch said the agency's primary concern is still to serve the people living in the rural areas of Mississippi.

A local FmHA office is located in each of the six counties and the District Office is located in Booneville.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Charles L. Potts

Christmas Comes Again

"For Unto You Is Born . . . A Saviour . . . " Luke 2:11

Charles L. Potts, Pastor
First United Methodist Church
Booneville, Miss.

Well . . . what about Christmas at your house? The Season is always exciting. . . I like to "cut a tree" . . . other folks I know would rather buy a tree. . . and that's OK. For some homes the children will be jumping around wishing Santa would hurry and arrive. The tree lights and decorations will change the feeling, and the good smells from the kitchen will make us know St. Nick is on his way. Others will prepare. . . but not with the same zest and thrill of a past day when the pattering of feet was there. . . and others will find their own quiet. . . and personal way to celebrate. It's a time of joy and sadness. It will once again be a time to pause and know the real meaning of Christmas is the Hope God gives us. However we do so

. . . all will, in some way, be reminded that God broke into history at Christmas time. . . to tell us He still loves us. Naturally, we will remember those who were with us in former days. We will miss them. . . and maybe dry a tear or two. Also our minds will think of others who will have no twinkling lights on a tree with packages all around. Some people are sick and old. These are the people we should think more about. . . for while we may be laughing. . . they may be lonely and sad. So let's do like God this Christmas and try to make somebody a little happier and bestow that Hope and Peace that God in Christ gives.
