Any person may request the Commission to hold a public hearing on this application, the spokesman said. To do so, the request should be submitted in writing to the Mississippi Health Care Commission, 2688 Insurance Center Drive, Jackson, MS 39216. Pedestrian Killed On Christmas Eve

Mrs. Ora Gilley Gann, 81, was fatally struck by two cars in front of her home in the Altitude community on Christmas Eve night as she was walking across the road.

The accident occurred about 5:15 p.m. on Hwy. 364 4½ miles east of Booneville, according to Highway Patrol Trooper Mark Pitner, investigating officer.

The driver of the first car which struck Mrs. Gann told Pitner that Mrs. Gann "was right in the road" in front of him when he saw her.

Pitner said the accident occurred in a sharp, downhill curve. Rainy weather had caused the road to become slick, he said.

The accident is still under investigation to determine the identity of the second driver of the automobile which struck Mrs. Gann, Pitner said.

No charges of any kind have been placed and Pitner said he doesn't believe there will be any charges placed concerning the accident.

Pitner said he appreciated the help of the Prentiss County Sheriff's Department and the North Mississippi Ambulance Service.

Services for Mrs. Gann were held Sunday, Dec. 26, at 2 p.m. at McMillan Funeral Home Chapel with C.D. Edge and Johnny Sexton officiating. Burial was in Booneville Cemetery.

Mrs. Gann was the widow of Hollis Gann. She was a Freewill Baptist and a retired factory worker.

She is survived by a son, Paul N. Gann of Booneville; a daughter, Reba Stegall of Booneville; four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Cause Of Fire Still Undetermined

The cause of a fire which totaled the James Haire residence on Walden Road Monday of last week is presently listed as undetermined, according to State Deputy Fire Marshall Mike Ivy.

Ivy was called in to investigate the fire because of suspected arson. Some 15 minutes prior to the fire at the Haire residence, a man was reportedly seen running from the house, Ivy said.

No incendiary items, such as gasoline, were found at the scene of the fire, Ivy said.

"We couldn't find a specific point of origin for the fire," Ivy said Tuesday. "The fire appeared to have started burning from the attic area."

The case will be closed unless additional information is obtained. Otherwise the cause of the fire will continue to be listed as undetermined, Ivy said.

Corinth Auto Dealer Found Murdered

An Alcorn County auto dealer was found murdered early last Thursday afternoon in his business office, apparently the victim of suffocation at the hands of a burglar.

Vernon Gurley, described by investigators as being in his mid-to-late 60's, was discovered dead on the floor in the trailer which served as an office for his used car business on U.S. 72 West in Corinth. The victim was bound and silver duct tape covered his mouth and nose.

Authorities speculated the tape blocked Gurley's breathing. Alcorn County Coroner John Paul Anderson said death was probably caused either by suffocation or heart attack. He said Gurley had been dead for several hours when his body was discovered by a family member Thursday. An autopsy was to be performed on the body.

Investigators reported that there was no wallet on the body and that the office's safe was open. Although there were no marks on the body, sheriff's officers reported there could have been a "small struggle."

Authorities noted similarities between this burglary and two other robberies last month in Alcorn County.

Flooding Damages Roads And Bridges

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Editor

Prentiss Countians may have dreamed of a white Christmas, but what they got was a hot, wet one.

As temperatures ranged in the upper 60's and lower 70's, more than 11½ inches of rain fell on Prentiss County over the Christmas weekend, causing minor flooding in many areas and damaging secondary roads throughout the county.

The heavy rains were also blamed for a brief power outage Monday afternoon when a TVA transmission structure washed into Twenty-Mile Creek southeast of Baldwyn. Electric power was restored to most of the county within 17 minutes by switching to an alternate service line (see related story this page).

The levee of at least one local lake gave way under all the water Christmas night, sending a wall of water - and fish - cascading through a wooded area located off Old Marietta Road.

In his freezer, Sid Stevens, a student at Mississippi State University, has a 12-lb. bass that he picked up in the woods after the levee of his father's lake broke some time before dawn Dec. 26, spilling water and fish through the woods. Stevens said his father, Cleovis Stevens, plans to rebuild the levee of the lake located behind his house on Old Marietta Road.

Some customers of the Wheeler-Frankstown Water Association were without water from Sunday through Tuesday when high waters prevented repair of a water line which had been washed out in Cox's Bottom just South of Booneville. Service was restored Tuesday afternoon.

Prentiss County supervisors had their crews out as early as Sunday in an effort to keep county roads passable. But sections of some roads were still underwater Tuesday afternoon, making it impossible to fully assess the damage.

Repairing The Damage

Prentiss County supervisor Larry Barron (upper right) and a crew from the first district work on repairing the approach to a bridge which was damaged over the weekend. Pointing out the dangers of such an action, Barron said several cars drove over this bridge even after the work crew put up a temporary barrier of brush and shrubs. A load of gravel was eventually dumped in the center of the bridge to prevent additional traffic from crossing. This bridge was typical of several in the county which were damaged by the flood waters. (Photo by Ken Christian)

Rainy Weather Downs TVA Transmission Line

A brief power outage in Prentiss County Monday afternoon was a direct result of heavy rains over the weekend, according to the Prentiss County Electric Power Association.

The power outage which affected all of PCEPA's 10,212 customers was caused when a TVA transmission structure was washed into Twenty-Mile Creek southeast of Baldwyn at 12:05 Monday afternoon.

Also affected by the outage were Tombigbee Electric Power Association customers around Guntown, Sakillo, and Tupelo.

According to PCEPA manager Ronny Rowland, PCEPA service personnel had the customers served from the Booneville substation switched to an alternate line from Rienzi in about 17 minutes.

Customers served from the Baldwyn substation were without power for about an hour and 19 minutes because TVA personnel had to come from Tupelo to Guntown to energize the alternate line from Guntown to Baldwyn, he said. When the TVA personnel arrived at Guntown, a high voltage circuit breaker would not work, requiring additional time to bypass the circuit breaker.

TVA repair crews worked through the night Monday to replace the transmission structure which washed into Twenty-Mile Creek. They completed the repair at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday, according to assistant operating superintendent Wayne Rixie of TVA's Tupelo District.

Rixie said TVA had trouble with five transmission lines over the weekend because of wet weather and lightning.

Rowland reported no problems out of the ordinary over the weekend for the PCEPA system itself.

Jumpertown Mayor's Truck Stolen From Church Lot

Jumpertown Mayor C.D. Windham says he believes the theft of his pickup truck from a church's parking lot Sunday night is connected with recent events that have occurred in Jumpertown.

Windham's 1978 Ford pickup was stolen while he and his wife were attending a Christmas program at Lamb's Chapel Church in Jumpertown.

The Jumpertown board of aldermen voted 3-2 on Dec. 14 to fire Deputy Town Marshal John Tullis after receiving complaints of harrassment from citizens attending the special board meeting.

Following the vote to fire Tullis, Town Marshal John Moore resigned, leaving the town with no law enforcement agency of its own.

Windham and other county officials have said they believe the move to get rid of Tullis and Moore stemmed from those who do not want law enforcement in Jumpertown.

On Sunday night, Dec. 19, the city's backup patrol car was burned while it was parked at the Town Hall. The fire was determined by investigation to be arson.

Tullis' car was also stolen and burned while he was serving as deputy marshal. Windham said he believes his pickup was stolen because people know he is strictly for law enforcement.

Doctor To Open New Clinic

Dr. David Chase, board certified in Internal Medicine and board eligible in Pulmonary Medicine, plans to open a clinic in Booneville on Jan. 15.

Dr. Chase will be practicing Pulmonary Medicine and Critical Care Medicine. His clinic will be located on Washington Street, across from the hospital, with clinic hours from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Although this will be Dr. Chase's first clinic in Booneville, he is not unfamiliar with the medical community here. For the past six years, Dr. Chase has served at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Booneville as emergency room physician. For the past year he has consulted with the hospital's medical staff as requested on cases related to pulmonary and critical care medicine.

A native of Booneville, Chase is a 1970 graduate of Booneville High School. He attended Northeast

Year-End Review

1982: It Was 'Almost' A Good Year!

Although quite a few projects reached logical conclusions in 1982, there were also a number of things that "almost" happened during 1982.

We almost saw Booneville's Police Chief resign. We almost learned the results of an investigation of three police officers and one former officer. We almost saw construction begin on a $5.1 million expansion and renovation project at the local hospital. And we almost saw a school bond issue pass for a new high school in Booneville.

And, although the year ends with a number of these projects and others still unresolved, it is certain that efforts will continue in 1983 to bring some of them to fruition.

The following is a month-by-month account of Prentiss County's top news stories of 1982.

January 1982

Prentiss County became the 14th community in the state to successfully complete all the requirements of the "Key Community" program on Jan. 22. Gov. William Winter presented Prentiss County with the award at the annual banquet of the Prentiss County Development Association.

Miss America 1982, Elizabeth Ward, was in Booneville in January to crown the winner of the Most Beautiful title at Northeast Junior College - Connie McCombs of Tupelo.

Ice and several inches of snow blanketed Prentiss County during much of the month.

February 1982

After serving only seven months of his first four-year term as Booneville Police Chief, John O. (Bobby) Lambert told Police Commissioner Charles Steen that he had had enough and was quitting. But the following day, Lambert told the board of aldermen that he had reconsidered and would not resign. During the regularly scheduled February board meeting, Lambert's attorney, Donald Franks, told the board Lambert had resigned because "He says he does not have the proper backing of the mayor and board of aldermen and police commissioner." Franks also said Lambert said he did not have control of those who work under him. "If he doesn't have control of and can't discipline them, he has no authority."

Three Booneville Police officers and one former police officer were accused of taking merchandise from the Win-Way Store in Booneville on a night when they found the door of the establishment unlocked. The incident was supposed to have occurred in 1979. At their February meeting, the Booneville Board of Mayor and Aldermen decided to let the District Attorney's office handle the investigation.

Flooding

flooding occurs, districts one, four and five received the heaviest damage to roads and bridges. Districts two and three also received damage, but not as much as the other districts because they do not have as much low lying land.

Jimmy Moore, second district supervisor, reported a bridge out in Week's Bottom in the Osborne Community. Most of the other damage in his district was of a less severe nature, he said.

Third district supervisor J.P. Davis reported a bridge out in his district also. He said there are about seven other places on the roads in his district that suffered damages due to the rains. Davis said he had crews out Sunday to begin repairing the roads.

"Things are pretty bad," fifth district supervisor William L. McKinney said in describing the roads in his district.

He said two bridges are badly damaged and three more suffered slight damage. Four roads in the fifth district were still closed at noon Tuesday, but McKinney said he hoped to have one of them opened by that afternoon.

The hardest hit area,

McKinney said, was in the Hill's Chapel area, the Martin Creek Bridge, the line between the fourth and fifth districts.

He could not make an estimate as to how much it would cost to repair damages, other than that "it will be expensive," involving a lot of time, labor and materials. He estimated that it would take about 150 loads of gravel to complete the work.

McKinney reported Tuesday that the ridge roads were still in good shape, but that if there should be a hard freeze and then a thaw, "they would be so soft you couldn't get through them."

First district supervisor Larry Barron still had not been able to get into some areas in his district Tuesday to assess damages. Portions of the Hatfield Bottom near Thrasher were still under water, making it impossible to determine the damage to some bridges.

One road in Barron's district near Golden J Farms was totally closed when flood waters washed out a huge three-section culvert, breaking up a concrete headwall. Two of the three sections of the metal culvert were washed several hundred feet down stream by the water.

Barron also reported that a number of other bridges received varying degrees of damage over the weekend.

"There are several places you still can't get through, now," supervisor H.B. Lindsey said of the fourth district Tuesday. "We've been fixing them as fast as we can. We're trying right now to get the main roads fixed."

Lindsey said that, because of the traffic, the most severe problem in his district was probably east of Marietta where an abutment had washed out from under a bridge.

But, like Barron, Lindsey said, "I've got other places I haven't even been able to see yet." He said water was still up in a section of Roaring Hollow when he last checked it and he did not know the condition of the roads and bridges there.

"It's tough," he said. "There's a lot of damage. I couldn't give you any kind of a dollar figure, but it's going to take a lot of work just to get things back to the shape they were in before this happened."

In addition to causing the damage, the rains have also made it difficult to get repair materials. "It's so wet, we can't dig gravel out of the pit like we need to," Lindsey said.

"I feel like maybe by the end of the week, we'll have all of the roads that are damaged opened enough that people can get through them," he said, adding that "it may just be a one-lane drive" for the present.

Because of the varying degrees of damage in the five districts, estimates by the supervisors as to how long repairs will take range from one week to a month.

He noted that when it was stolen there were automobiles valued at $10-12,000 parked at the church, but it was his pickup that was stolen.

Windham said he usually did not lock his truck while at church, but he did Sunday night. "One time out of 10 - I don't know why - I asked my wife to lock her door and I locked mine," he recalled.

The mayor said he is sure that whoever took the truck did not start the engine at the church.

Although this latest incident has left him hurt badly, Mayor Windham says he will "continue to be right in there for law enforcement."

Natchez Trace Receives Funding

Congress has passed and President Reagan has signed into law a Department of Interior appropriations bill containing 1983 funding for Natchez Trace Parkway construction and other projects and facilities in Mississippi.

Sen. Thad Cochran (R-Miss.), a member of the Appropriations Committee, said he is pleased the measure provides $9 million for 55 miles of construction on the Natchez Trace.

Construction on the Parkway is currently underway in Prentiss and Tishomingo counties in Northeast Mississippi.

"This parkway needs to be completed as soon as possible," Cochran said.

Also in the bill are funds to continue operating the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service fish hatcheries at Meridian and Tupelo.

The measure provides $30 million for research in fossil energy through a program at Mississippi State University and $26 million for a nationwide program of historical preservation of landmarks and structures, which helps promote tourism and economic development.

The bill also includes funds for payments to state and local governments in lieu of taxes on national forest lands and U.S. wildlife refuges.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

WARD HOGLAND

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, I have read in the old testament where Michal had no children and yet in another place it says she had five sons. Could you explain this?

ANSWER: It is true that in 2 Sam. 6:23 we are told, "Therefore Michal, the daughter of Saul, had no child unto the day of her death." Then, in 2 Sam. 21:8 we are told of "The five sons of Michal, the daughter of Saul." It is true that Michal had no children of her own. However, the marginal reading of 2 Sam 21:8 is "The five sons of Michal's sister, the daughter of Saul." It seems that after the death of her sister, Michal took her sister's children and reared them as her own. This is a common practice today for a person or family to take orphan children and rear them as their own. So the answer to your problem is that Michal took her sister's five sons and they are known in the Bible as "her" children. May I suggest that when you think you have found an apparent contradiction in the Bible that you study the context closely.

Excise Tax To Increase

South Central Bell district manager T.H. Bailey, announced this week that the current 1 percent Federal Excise Tax on local telephone service will rise to 3 percent beginning Jan. 1.

Bailey said that the telephone excise tax increase is part of a package adopted by Congress in August 1982 that boosts taxes by $98.9 billion over a three-year period. The tax will be 3 percent through 1983, 1984, and 1985. It then would be abolished, unless Congress acts again.

The telephone tax was imposed by Congress during World War I as a "temporary" measure, Bailey said. Although repealed briefly after the war, it was reinstituted during the depression and at one time rates were as high as 25 percent on long distance calls and 15 percent on local service.

For nearly 20 years prior to 1972, the excise tax was 10 percent for most local and long distance telephone services. In 1973, and each year thereafter until 1981, the rate was reduced one percentage point as part of a plan to phase it out entirely.

For Prentiss County

Jobless Rate Shows Slight Increase

Prentiss County's jobless rate edged up at mid-November to include 11.5 percent of the civilian labor force.

This compares to 10.9 percent in October and 8.7 percent in November 1981.

The number of Prentiss County residents working at Mid-November numbered 9,430, according to Charles Smith, manager of the Mississippi State Employment Service office in Corinth. This is 190 below the previous month's estimate and 210 below that of one year ago.

The civilian labor force was estimated to be 10,650, or 150 below the mid-October figure but 90 above the figure of November one year ago.

Manufacturing jobs in the county were estimated to be 2,730, compared to 2,810 in October and 2,860 in November 1981. Non-manufacturing jobs numbered 3,540, the same as the previous month and only 40 below that of one year ago.

Smith said the civilian labor force for the Corinth area totaled 46,880 at mid-November. This represents a drop of 620 from the October estimate and 800 below the estimate for November 1981.

The number of employed workers in the four-county area of Alcorn, Prentiss, Tippah and Tishomingo counties dropped to 40,840 in November. This shows a drop of 540 when compared to October's figure and 160

An estimated 6,040 persons were unemployed at mid-November. This is 80 below the previous estimate and 640 below that of one year ago.

The unemployment rate for November remained at 12.9 percent, the same as the October figure. However, the November 1981 figure was estimated to be 14.0 percent, a decline of 1.1 percent.

There were 14,340 people employed in manufacturing group, Smith said.

Nonmanufacturing employment was at 17,690 at mid-November. This is a drop of 120 from the October figure, but 1,220 above the estimate for November one year ago. This large yearly decline was due largely to an increase in the Electrical Machinery

MEC Says State Aid Road System Needs Updating

Mississippi's State Aid Road System, created more than 30 years ago to strengthen the state's economy through improvements in rural roads, is coming under fire from the Mississippi Economic Council as being in need of updating.

The MEC says a study it conducted into the State Aid Road System found that parts of the program, established in 1950, should be revised because of changes in Mississippi transportation patterns over the last 30 years.

"It has made a significant contribution to the economic development of Mississippi," the report concluded. "However, like many programs planned and designed for another era, the State Aid System requires review and evaluation to assure that the intent of the system's architects continues to be fulfilled and that principles of quality, fairness, and equity be maintained."

Indianola business owner W.W. Gresham Jr. directed the work of the study committee. Monticello manufacturing executive Howard Hinsley chairs MEV's transportation committee.

The report noted that in its 32-year history, the State Aid Program has been credited with providing "the backbone of Mississippi's highway transportation program, one which links rural-based segments of the economy with the new network of federal and state highways."

As of fiscal 1981, the report said, the program had accounted for $675.76 million in State Aid construction on 5,214 projects covering more than 10,000 miles of roads and bridges.

Because of changes in traffic patterns in rural and urban areas, the MEC recommended that the program undergo a review so that its legislative intent continues to be met.

In addition, the MEC recommended that the program's funding formula be changed to reflect changes in traffic activity in Mississippi.

MEC recommended that:

1) The designation of roads in the State Aid System continue to conform to the criteria for route selection required by the Legislature.

2) State highways which are returned to county jurisdiction by virtue of their replacement by new highway construction be included by legislation in the State Aid System, provided they meet State Aid criteria.

3) The Legislature assign final responsibility for approval of State Aid routes to the State Highway Commission, with the approval based on recommendations from the State Aid engineer and county officials.

4) The formula for allocation of state funds to the counties for the State Aid System be revised on the following basis: one-third in the ratio that the county's rural population bears to the total rural population of all of the counties, one-third in the ratio which the area of each county bears to the total area of all counties, and one-third in the ratio that the county's maintained road mileage bears to the total county-maintained mileage in all of the counties.

5) At least 50 percent of all state financial aid to counties for road purposes be designated for construction on the State Aid Road System until each county brings all State Aid mileage up to standards.

6) The Legislature examine the State Aid Road System on a continuing basis, evaluating the need for state assistance for county roads, evaluating the effectiveness of state funds, and assuring distribution of State Aid mileage and revenues among the counties on the basis of equity and need.

NABERS RECEIVES AWARD - Houston Nabers (center), a mail carrier for 38 years, was awarded a plaque from the National Safety Council on Dec. 22 for driving 1 million miles or 25,000 hours on the mailroute without having a preventable accident. Nabers was the mail carrier on Route 2 from 1962 until he retired in October. The award was presented to Nabers by J. Wayne Poole (right), Tupelo Sectional Center Manager Postmaster. Poole also presented Booneville Postmaster Jack Wright (left) with a 25-year pin for his 25 years of government service.

Educational Radio Station To Locate In Booneville

The Mississippi Authority for Educational Television has been awarded construction permits by the Federal Communications Commission for an eight-station public radio network in Mississippi.

In order to conserve expenses the radio transmitters will be located on the same sites as ETV's present television transmitters: in Jackson, Oxford, Meridian, Mississippi State, Booneville, Biloxi, Greenwood and Bude.

Although various community groups will be organized by ETV for local programming input and exchange, Mississippi's ETV's statewide public radio network is not connected with any other organization or radio station in Mississippi nor is it seeking public donations, an ETV spokesman said. An independent group, J.C. Maxwell, is planning its own public radio station, which has been licensed for construction in Jackson.

The first station in the network is expected to be operational within 12 months, according to F. Lee Morris, executive director of the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television.

The activation of the first station is dependent on factory deliveries of equipment and the installation of the equipment, Morris said.

"Public radio, like public TV," said Morris, "will add a dimension of broadcasting service that has been unavailable to the majority of Mississippians."

"We plan to offer good music, special programs for the blind, public affairs broadcasts, specials on government, programs of interest to minority groups and a variety of cultural programs," he said. "We've been at the forefront of education television for more than a decade, and now we hope to operate a very strong public radio network, too," Morris said.

Mississippi's public radio network is expected to be on the air seven days a week, 19 hours a day, or 133 hours a week.

Much of the programming will be locally produced, but the bulk of the day's programming will come from National Public Radio, a network that provides approximately 115 hours of programming a week to its 273 member public radio stations. This programming includes two of NPR's most popular offerings, the award-winning "All Things Considered" and "Morning Edition."

Another programming feature is a special service for the blind including readings from major newspapers and magazines. A special adaptor is required for this service so that regular programming can be tuned in when the adaptor is not in use.

There are other programming sources also, such as the Southern Educational Communications Association of which Mississippi ETV is a member.

"Since we already have the land, buildings, towers and microwave system," said Morris, "our radio network can be implemented with a very cost-effective approach."

In addition, ETV's present staff members will absorb some of the responsibilities of the new radio network, another cost-effective measure, Morris said, and the agency will initially hire only about 18 people.

A Christmas Snake

John Oakley, 15, of Booneville found an unexpected Christmas present under the Christmas tree. Actually it really wasn't a present. It was a snake. A baby chicken snake.

The Oakleys had opened most of their presents and John was under the tree looking at the remaining presents that were to be delivered to other people.

He'd begun pulling out presents when he saw a little black spot on the floor.

"I didn't pay much attention to it," John recalled. "I started to pick it up and I realized it was a snake!"

The Oakleys didn't relish the idea of spending Christmas with a snake even if it was just a baby snake. So John's father, George Samuel, killed the snake with a golf club.

John's mother, Lana, says when John told her there was a snake under the tree she thought he was pulling her leg.

But she looked under the tree and sure enough -- there was a little snake about a foot long.

The Oakley's have been speculating how they came to have a Christmas snake. Mr. Oakley doesn't think the snake came in with their spruce Christmas tree. He seems to think the snake just wound up in the house on its own -- some way or other.

But I have my own ideas.

I remember that Jason Walden wrote a letter to Santa Claus and requested a snake for Christmas. Who knows. Perhaps the snake accidentally escaped from Santa's bag of gifts before Santa got to Jason's house.

'New' Capitol Is Source Of State Pride

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. Somehow, good fortune always seems to have smiled on the history of the magnificent neo-classical revival building on Mississippi Street here which Mississippians have lovingly come to call the "new" Capitol.

The story goes that when the state leadership around the turn of the century decided that what is now known as the Old Capitol was cramped and about to fall down and a new State House was badly needed, the state couldn't afford it. But a hard-nosed state revenue officer named Wirt Adams came to the rescue by collecting $1 million in back taxes from the Yazoo and Mississippi Railroad (later the Illinois Central), enough to finance the building.

At a completed cost of $1,093,641, thought by many of the oldtimers to be an awful lot, the building soon was to be considered a real bargain because of the style, and the elegant materials the state was able to get into the building.

Three-quarters of a century later when the Capitol needed its first major renovation to preserve its grandeur and make accommodations to modern-day functional needs, again the state didn't have the money to do it first class. This time, the federal government came to the rescue.

The price tag for the now completed renovation came to $19 million (compared with $5.5 million when first proposed back in 1973) and all but $1 million of it came out of federal revenue sharing funds. Significantly, that was the last federal revenue sharing money, because it was cut off to the state two years ago.

Not only is the newly redone Capitol a preservationist's dream, it is a prize among state capitols which Mississippians can savor with great pride and inspiration. As 1983 dawns with such a dismal economic outlook for so many Mississippians, the Capitol is perhaps the brightest spot around.

The majesty of the refurbished State House has already demonstrated in the brief special session of the legislature on education reform that it can make even a pedestrian bunch of lawmakers act like statesmen.

An improved decorum and demeanor of the legislators was quite apparent in the special session compared with the raunchy language and sloppy habits back in barnlike atmosphere at Central High which was the legislative home since 1980.

It must be recalled that 50 percent of the Legislature is made up of first-termers who had never served in the elegant old building. It must have been a cultural shock, because even the Senate "country caucus" seemed quite subdued.

Despite the euphoria over how well the renovation came out, controversy still manages to find its way into the halls of the grand old building. Even before the project could be started it had hit a snag because the Legislature wanted to take over practically all the space, and that didn't set well with Bill Waller, who was then governor.

Waller brought the project to a screeching halt in 1973 when the lawmakers tried to relegate him to a ceremonial office. He pulled out an obscure provision in the state constitution which said the governor and treasurer must approve of any contracts to purchase materials for alterations, and that stopped it.

Now that the project is done, the governor's office is again a rather touchy subject. It seems that Gov. William Winter's wife, Elise, didn't like what the interior decorator had done in the selection of furnishings and other appointments of the governor's office so she proceeded to pitch them out and select her own.

Apparently this change of plans came rather late after a lot of work had already gone into making the furnishings, among them a $15,000 carpet which was precisely designed to pick up the pattern of the mosaic tiles in the office floor. At last report, the state was going to have to fork out $4,000 to pay the carpet manufacturer for his loss.

Then there is still the matter of the bronze statue of the late Sen.-Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, whose location has temporarily been decided by Gov. Winter... and Mrs. Winter... but more is expected to be heard later.

The controversy over the squat statue of the oldtime racist politico of course stems from the fact it occupied a position front and center in the rotunda from 1962 until the Capitol was closed for the renovation in July 1979. This was at the decision of then Secretary of State Heber Ladner, a Bilbophile of the first order, interpreting a 1948 legislative resolution declaring it should have a "prominent location" on the first floor.

When it was originally unveiled in 1955, the statue -- paid for entirely by private donations, with no state money -- was placed in the Hall of Governors at the east end of the building. That space was taken over in 1962 by a new computer unit, and all the paintings of ex-governors were relocated down the main hallways on the first floor -- except Bilbo, whose statue was put by Ladner in the middle of the rotunda, to be seen by all visitors entering the first floor.

Just before the Capitol was reopened, Winter marched into the building and had workmen place it back in the niche at the East end of the building where it was originally. Later, Mrs. Winter had workers move it further back in a more inconspicuous place.

But nothing, not even the minor flaps that surround the grand old building can take away from the fact the "new" Capitol is a pride of this land, and every citizen should make a pilgrimage here to partake of its beauty and majesty.

Blessed Event Brings Life's Two Greatest Thrills

A Special Delivery
By BARBARA HOLLAND

To a teacher, one of life's greatest rewards lies in knowing that her students have left her classroom to become productive, functioning adults.

Rarely is a teacher able to see her former students put to the test as I saw my one-time student, Pattie Ward. Pattie, who graduated from Jumbertown High School and my English classroom in 1978, is now working as a Registered Nurse in the Obstetrics Unit at North Mississippi Medical Center, and is a very competent medical professional. I know from first-hand experience.

On Dec. 2, at 1:37 a.m., Pattie delivered my second baby without the aid of any attending physician. Only one other nurse and my husband, Doug, assisted.

Since my first child, Carmon, had been born after only a three-hour painless labor, I had expected a brief labor period for my second child. My obstetrician had cautioned me to leave for the hospital at the first indication that labor might be beginning, since the hospital is a 45 minute drive from my home in Booneville.

We had thought the baby would be born sometime around Nov. 18, but by December first she still had not arrived. The doctor had told me on Monday of that week that he could induce labor and deliver the baby at any time.

she was thought to be one day short of two weeks overdue, the worries and concerns that something might be wrong as well as the ordinary depression felt by a woman "great with child" were becoming more than I could bear.

I decided that I would go ahead and let labor be induced and the baby delivered. Because my doctor was off for the day and out of town, then at church choir practice, I was not able to reach him until about 10 o'clock that Wednesday night.

When I told him I had given up on ever going into labor naturally, he suggested that I come to the hospital early Friday morning, since that was his day to work at the hospital all day and he could monitor me more closely.

Still depressed, I told my husband while he was watching the 10 o'clock news that I was very uneasy about artificially bringing on labor. He replied that perhaps the baby would come before Friday on its own. With that, I went on to bed.

When Doug came to bed about 11, he asked how I felt. I told him that I had had a different sensation in my back three times, but my mind was probably conjuring them and they would most likely go away. We timed the twinges and discovered that they were five minutes apart.

I insisted that my husband not call the doctor again, since this was probably my imagination. Anyway, he could sleep for 30 or 45 minutes while we were traveling. We telephoned the hospital to tell them we were coming in. I knew that the contractions would either go away or become more frequent as time passed.

We arrived at the hospital at 12:15. By this time, I knew I was in real labor. My contractions were about three minutes apart. When I arrived in the maternity ward, I was surprised that Pattie Ward, whom I had taught as Patti Jumper several years before, as the nurse in charge.

Because there were so many other patients in labor, I was placed in a recovery room temporarily. The medical staff began the process of preparing me for delivery.

After a while, an anesthesiologist came in to administer the prescribed epidural anesthetic. Patti assisted him while he instructed me to lie on my side and be very still. He told me I would feel pressure as he inserted the catheter into my spine.

Indeed I did feel pressure and a strong desire to push. From my reading, I knew I was moving to the second stage of labor -- the time for the baby to be born!

Patti instructed me to blow to keep from pushing. I asked her if the urge to push was from the spinal pressure. She answered calmly, "No, the baby is coming!"

I questioned, "Where is the doctor?" She answered the standard reply, "He's on his way."

Then she set about the business of delivering the baby, making it all look very routine. Within a few seconds, I was holding a beautiful baby girl -- eight pounds, five ounces, and perfect in every way. Patti had delivered her, separated her from her mother, cleaned her, then handed her to my husband and me for a look.

Just about that time, the doctor entered the recovery room where Liza had been born. His comment, "I thought you said you had given up on ever having this baby."

My reply was, "I told you it would be fast."

He checked the baby and me and found that everything was in order. I was still shaking my head in disbelief, and my husband had not stopped snapping pictures.

I said earlier that the greatest reward a teacher can receive is to know that her students have become competent adults. There is one feeling that is even better -- the ecstasy of watching and participating in the birth of your own healthy child.

I still can't believe how lucky I was to have these two once-in-a-lifetime events combined through the birth of my precious daughter, Liza Arlene!

Inflation went down, but unemployment went up ... What a crying shame!!
No one knows who won the football strike, ... but the fans lost the game!
Stennis went back to Washington, D.C. ...
... Geritol, and all!
And E. T. is still waiting for that long distance call!
With Social Security going broke, I'm scared to quit in 1983 ...
But if Bear Bryant can retire ...
It's good enough for me!

Bell Practicing Energy Conservation

Like other businesses faced with increasing costs of operation, South Central Bell is constantly seeking ways to trim its energy bills. And its efforts are paying off.

According to J.N. McGowen, Mississippi vice-president, the company's energy conservation activities in Mississippi have resulted in a total cost avoidance of over $9.5 million during the past four years.

"In 1982, we will consume less energy in Mississippi than we consumed in 1974," McGowen said. "That is an excellent record, of which we are very proud."

To reduce energy consumption in a business which uses hundreds of buildings and vehicles requires a combination of good energy management and innovative programs.

For example, turning off heating boilers and water heaters and removing gas-fired furnaces provides immediate savings. In addition to reducing energy consumption, there is also a savings associated with lower maintenance cost for the equipment, since it is not in operation 24 hours a day.

"Strict management of the heating and cooling limits of 65 and 78 degrees is an important part of our energy control efforts," McGowen said. "We also adjust temperatures on the weekends and at night to 55 degrees for heating and 85 degrees for cooling."

"When we decide that a particular building is a wasteful energy user, we analyze the problem thoroughly," McGowen said. "Quite often we can correct the situation simply with door or air conditioning system seals. Occasionally, we find that building requirements have changed and air conditioning is no longer necessary."

"Other improvements include timers for blower motors and thermostats for window air conditioning units," he said. "Many times a small investment in energy management yields a large return in energy savings."

Smaller, standard transmission-equipped vehicles are also contributing to the company's cost reduction program. Expenses are also being trimmed through the use of propane fuel in addition to regular gasoline. Thus far, 16 percent of the company's 2,379 vehicles have been converted to propane.

McGowen added that the company is equally concerned about the conservation attitude of vehicle operators.

"We constantly review our people on proper driving techniques which helps them drive safer and also makes them more conservation conscious," he said.

"We realize that increases in energy costs are projected to continue," McGowen added.

"Therefore, our company will continue its conservation efforts and will comply with both company and government guidelines. In fact, we plan to exceed basic guidelines in order to maintain our position as a leader in energy conservation."

McGowen noted that the company will be implementing several new recommendations next year which will reduce energy consumption even further.

Handicapped Students At Northeast Prepare For Nativity

Handicapped Present Special Christmas Program

The hearing and visually handicapped classes at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College presented a special presentation of the birth of Christ last week.

The blind and deaf children painted the backdrop, came up with costumes and presented their own interpretation of the nativity.

According to Mrs. Cathy Etheridge and Mrs. Angie Via, teachers of the special classes, both classes developed a better understanding of the real meaning of Christmas.

"The students understand better that Christmas is not only Santa Claus and presents, but also a religious holiday," Mrs. Via said.

Braille and sign language was used in the play.

Located at Northeast Junior College, the hearing and visually handicapped classes serve 11 different school districts in Northeast Mississippi, with the Prentiss County School System serving as the fiscal agent.

Students in the classes include Todd Alexander, Nancy Wood, Kevin Ford, Arnita Alexander and Ken Broadway, all from Corinth; Jody Stanford and Paul Zyla from New Albany; Sharon Perry from Ripley; Ronald Wingo from Iuka; and Scott Pannell from Booneville.

After the play, Santa Claus distributed gifts to the students. The Booneville Junior Auxiliary provided refreshments for the students and their parents.

Whitten Praises Passing Of Continuing Resolution

Congressman Jamie Whitten, Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, says he is highly gratified that President Reagan signed the Continuing Resolution last week.

Whitten was the author of the Continuing Resolution which makes funds available for the operations of all departments of government until the regular bills are passed by the Congress. Then they come out from under the Resolution.

Whitten said the conference with the Senate lasted from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday morning.

"We had to deal with 103 Senate amendments and I feel that we came out fine," he said. "The bill reduced military spending by more than $18 billion, and included funds only for research and development of the MX missile but not for construction."

Whitten said not only was this weapon questionable to many people in the military but that the funds were not necessary at this time.

The expiration date of the Continuing Resolution is Sept. 30.

"This will enable the Appropriations Committees to begin their hearings on the funds for next year early in the new Congress without having to deal with two years' appropriations at the same time."

Whitten said one of the effects of the extension to Sept. 30 is that there will be no necessity for voting on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, but that the Corps of Engineers can proceed at the present rate until Sept. 30.

"The project, very important to our area and to our state, will be about 82 percent complete and the work that can be done by Sept. 30 should mean virtual completion."

"The 103 Senate amendments in most cases were adding legislation and were not germane to the subject matter. House rules prevent that and we were able to get out about 98 percent of the Senate additions."

Whitten said that on Dec. 21 he introduced Part II, the Jobs section, which consists of projects for which justifications had been made to the Appropriations Committee but which had not been funded.

I'm sorry the children of Namon Eldridge Wheelington had the notice put in the paper about not helping make the funeral arrangements, but it was HIS REQUEST to be buried in Arkansas. I carried out HIS REQUEST. If he had not requested this, I would have buried him in Mississippi.

Santa was good to most everyone again this year - proving once again that the spirit of Christmas still lives despite the economy. Pacman fever has hit our home and several others around the area. Believe me, it really can drive you crazy! If the constant beeping sound of Pacman eating the wafers doesn't drive you nuts, just try to maneuver the little circle around the maze. For a while it just refused to go the way that I pointed it, but after several hours practice I finally got the hang of it. But my nine year old daughter can still beat me at the game. Grandpa didn't do too well at the game either. Even he caught the fever! Happy birthday wishes for the week of Dec. 26-Jan. 1 are sent to Dicky Fugitt, Hilda Stanford, Ruth Carroll, Alice Green, Pearl Johnson, Cephus Phillips, Peggy Tennison, Duane Burcham, James H. Taylor, Vivian Nunley, and Catherine Farr. Most everyone around Altitude reports that they have had enough rain and would like for it to stop, but the weatherman predicts more rain. On Sunday morning, the fields looked like lakes along side of the road, the ditches were overflowing backing water up in yards and over roads. Many even found themselves with unwanted water in their homes. We didn't have a white Christmas but we sure had a wet one. Imogene Taylor was glad to have her sister Lyla Owens and daughter Louise Underwood, Anthony, Kristy and Joseph of Tusculumbia, Ala., for a visit. Milton Mathis is still hospitalized at the Corinth hospital at the time of this writing. Also Mrs. Clester Mathis's sister, Louise Turville, is in critical condition in the Tupelo hospital. Friends of the Mathis family would like them to know that we are all thinking of them during this time. Mrs. Elvia Moorman was able to be back with us for church services on Sunday morning. We're glad that she is feeling better.

Lucille Phillips has returned from a visit in Dallas, Texas, with her daughter, Betty Pennington and husband Harry. Lucille and Betty visited in Waco, Texas with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jones and in Austin with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hare. Harry joined them in Harlingen, Texas, and then they went to Padra Island on the border for an overnight stay. Harry and Betty Pennington visited in Arkansas with his parents for the holiday and then on to Vicksburg to visit relatives there. Ellen Martin of Sherman, Texas, underwent surgery in Dallas on Dec. 14, to correct injuries from an earlier accident. Lucille Phillips and Betty Pennington were with the family during the surgery. They report that it went very well. Ellen is the daughter of R.W. Martin. We are all saddened by the accident which took the life of Mrs. Ora Gann on Christmas Eve. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to her family and loved ones. Also our sympathy is extended to Mrs. Cutie Mae Arnold and family on the death of her father, Mamon Wheelington who passed away recently. Mrs. Debra Limerick and husband of Planto, Texas, were home with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brown for the holiday. Cindy Brown and Ashley of Tupelo were overnight guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dunaway and family on Thursday night. Chris Wroten of Tupelo, Jennifer Dunaway, Pat, Steve and Bryan were overnight visitors on Thursday night in the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Burns. Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes on Christmas Day were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Boren and Melissa of Sanford, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown, David, Debra and Chris, Mr. and Mrs. James Boren, Eric, Rodney, and Timmy, Mr. and Mrs. John Boren, Bradley and Larry, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wheelington, Jessica, J.E. and Joshua, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Floyd, Michael, Melissa, Nathan and Jeff, James Lee Miles

In spite of all the rain, Christmas was simply great. Money may not have been as plentiful as it usually is but looking under various Christmas trees you wouldn't know it. But in spite of all the happiness there was some loneliness around. The Rev. Bill Ragins is in intensive care at Baptist Memorial Hospital. We ask everyone to say a special prayer for him and his family. The Rev. Walter McGaha died from a heart attack last week. He was the pastor of Synagogue Church. Our deepest prayers and sympathy are extended to his family. Robert Burress was home for the holidays from Dayton, Ohio, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Burress. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christian and family from Youngstown, Ohio, have been visiting his parents and grandparents. We welcome all our visitors back home for the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Miller from Detroit have been visiting their parents. The Christmas program on Christmas Eve night was great. All the children responded great and they also enjoyed doing it. Happy anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moment. Wishing everyone a very prosperous New Year. . .

Old Man Winter arrived early this year giving us a picture of a "winter wonderland" the second weekend in December. Everyone was glad to see Mrs. Edna Mayo at church services on Sunday, Dec. 19. Belated sympathy is extended to the relatives of Gerald Green, Atkins Childers and Brewer Moore. Funeral services for Hope Elaine Mann Holder were conducted Dec. 12 at Spry Funeral Home in Sheffield, Ala. My heartfelt sympathy is extended to Hope's relatives, especially to her mother, Mrs. Fay Mann (my sister), to her brother, Donny and to her sister, Mrs. Carolyn Austen and family of Sheffield, also to her brother, Roger Stephen Mann of San Francisco. Word came recently of the death of Carlton Pounds, who with his brother, Monroe, was in a nursing home in Red Bay, Ala. Condolences go to his relatives. Congratulations to Refus and Joy Page whose little son was born Sunday, Dec. 19, in the North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo. He has been named Jeremy,

I have been thinking of some gifts that would be good for now or anytime and they don't have a price tag. They are a sunny smile, a cheerful "hello," a hearty handshake, a helping hand and a forgiving spirit. We were happily surprised Tuesday night when Kathy Ballard and a group of 4-H'ers came and sang Christmas carols in front of our house. Thanks Kathy! The Meaning of Prayer A breath of prayer in the morning Means a day of blessing sure; A breath of prayer in the evening Means a night of rest secure. A breath of prayer in our weakness Means a clasp of a mighty hand; A breath of prayer when we're lonely Means someone to understand; A breath of prayer in our sorrows Means comfort and peace and rest; A breath of prayer in our doubtings Assures us the Lord knows best; A breath of prayer in rejoicing Gives joy and added delight For they that remember God's goodness Go singing into the night. There's never a year nor a season That prayer may bless every hour. And never a soul need be helpless When linked with God's infinite power. Frances McKinnon Morton Happy holidays to all!

Some of the ways to do business with us are changing.

But we're still as close as your phone.

The telephone industry is changing - reorganizing. That means more options for you. And some changes in the way you do business with us. If you've done business with us lately, you may have gone to one of our retail outlets. Now, if you need help with phone service, call us first. Call a South Central Bell service representative if you want to: - order new phone service. - change your existing service. - disconnect your service. - ask a question about your bill. - exchange or return sets purchased or leased from South Central Bell. (We cannot exchange or take back sets purchased or leased from other suppliers.) Call South Central Bell's repair service if you have trouble with your service or with a phone set that is leased from South Central Bell. (For service or repair of phone sets that you own - whether they came from South Central Bell or another supplier - you should follow the warranty instructions or other maintenance arrangement made at the time of purchase.) You'll find the phone numbers for your service representative and repair service in the front of the South Central Bell phone book. When you call us, in many cases we'll be able to complete your business or solve your problem while you're on the phone. In other cases, we may offer to mail equipment or parts to you. Or you may be referred to a phone company service center to complete your transaction. If so, we'll tell you where the nearest one is and when it's open. Some things won't change. During 1983 South Central Bell will still provide you with dependable local and long distance phone service. We'll continue to be responsible for phones that residence and business customers now lease from us. And we'll continue to lease telephones (and to sell some selected phones) as long as they're available from inventory. (With regulatory approval, we do plan to offer single-line residence and business customers the option of buying telephones that are now leased from us.) There'll be more changes in the telephone industry in the coming year or so as South Central Bell and other Bell operating companies are separated from AT&T and reorganized into regional companies. This change in organization, to take place in 1984, will affect significantly how you get and use telecommunications services. But no matter how things change, South Central Bell is committed to seeing that certain things remain the same. We'll still have good, dependable people and the same goal: providing you with the best, most advanced telephone service at reasonable rates. We'll keep you informed. But in the meantime, if you have any questions about the changes in the industry or about how to do business with us now, call 1-800-555-5000, toll free, 10 a.m.-11 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday. THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A Time To Forget

... forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before. Philippians 3:13

Adapted From Our Daily Bread By Dennis J. Dehaan

The dawning of a new year provides an excellent opportunity to wipe the slate clean and make a fresh start. Those who know the Lord are able to do this in a way that has special meaning. Having confessed their sin (forgetting what is behind), they can face the future (reaching to the things that are before), determined to attain new heights of spiritual victory. Remembering God's faithfulness and forgetting past mistakes can make entering the new year a time of joyous anticipation.

With this in mind, the great preacher of the 19th century Henry Ward Beecher said: "We have passed through one more year. One more long stage in the journey of life, with its ascents and descents and dust and mud and rocks and thorns and burdens that wear the shoulders, is done. The old year is dead. Roll it away. Let it go. God, in His providence, has brought us out of it. It is gone; or rather its evil is gone; its good remains. The evil has perished, and the good survives. And now we stand on the beginning of the next, the new. By (God's) grace we have been what we have been; and by His grace we shall have our experience in days to come."

Yes, we should leave the failures of 1982 behind us. Having confessed our sins to the Lord, let's accept His forgiveness and press on to higher ground. As we move into 1983, we should pause and remember God's faithfulness and blessings during the past 12 months. But as far as our shortcomings are concerned, let's make the beginning of the new year a time to forget.

Soil Conservation Practices Aid Wildlife

By TONY THOMPSON
District Conservationist
Soil Conservation Service-USA
Booneville Field Office

Many landowners and farmers have never planted a wildlife food plot, erected a wood duck nesting box or flooded a field for ducks. Yet most landowners and farmers have the opportunity to benefit wildlife through soil protection and other conservation practices they apply on their land.

Any practice which reduces oil erosion benefits wildlife. As topsoil is lost, productive land for wildlife food and cover is reduced. Soil that erodes into streams or lakes damages the quality of that habitat. Soil conservation practices such as terraces, overfall pipes and grassed waterways are not thought of as wildlife practices but they directly benefit wildlife by protecting the soil and reducing damage from erosion.

By leaving crop residue on the ground through the winter, food and cover is available for wildlife during the cold winter months. Deer, quail, rabbit, and dove benefit from soybean or corn residue being left on top of the ground. This practice not only provides a source of food but also greatly reduces soil erosion from these fields. Crop residue can be left on thousands of acres of land in Prentiss County whereas planted wildlife food plots are small and localized.

Many forestry management practices also benefit wildlife. Control burns can improve food and cover for deer, turkey, quail, and rabbit. Proper harvesting of timber also increases deer food and cover and provides excellent rabbit and quail habitat. Fire lanes can double as wildlife strips that cross many miles of woodland and provide excellent "edge" habitat. Many fire lanes planted to a winter green such as wheat, oats, or clover are heavily eaten by deer and turkey.

Wildlife benefits can be the result of doing something to the land, but many times they are the result of not doing something. The farmer that protects a strip of cover along his fence rows and ditch banks reduces soil erosion and provides wildlife food and cover as well. Using odd corners of fields for wildlife cover is an old idea that is still as important now as it was years ago when the idea was first promoted. Wildlife depends on the availability of food habitat.

Many Prentiss County landowners and farmers should take a well-deserved pat on the back for benefiting wildlife through their conservation efforts to control erosion and improve their farmlands and forestlands. Wildlife is a direct product of the land and its use. Wildlife populations of today and the future, will benefit from the proper use of land and the protection of our soil resources.

Flooding Damaged Area Wheat Acreage

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

FARMERS URGED TO REPORT WHEAT ACREAGES DESTROYED BY FLOOD

The recent rains have resulted in flooding conditions in some areas of the county. Farmers who have lost wheat due to flooding or other natural disasters should contact their local ASCS office promptly.

It is highly important for wheat producers to report any such failed acreage promptly in order to receive credit for history purposes, and in order to insure that eligible acreages be credited for program purposes.

Generally favorable weather conditions for planting prevailed throughout the county during the normal planting period. However, any farmer who failed to get his entire acreage planted due to flooding or other conditions, is encouraged to visit the ASCS County office and report this condition.

Wheat acreages which were planted by the normal planting date can be credited for both history and program purposes.

However, a determination must be made that any such reported acreage was planted in the normal manner, by the final planting date which is established, and was in fact destroyed by natural disaster.

In order for the County Committee to make these determinations, it is important that producers report to the county office promptly the flooding or other conditions which caused the loss.

CCC ASKS FOR COMMENTS ON SALES POLICY FOR 1982-CROP LOAN PEANUTS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation is seeking public comment to help determine the domestic crushing and export sales policy for the 1982 crop of loan collateral quota and additional peanuts, a CCC official said today.

CCC Executive vice-president Everett Rank said that since 1974 export sales of loan peanuts have been made at no less than the applicable quota or additional loan rate, plus costs. Also, he said, peanuts sold for export crushing have had to be fragmented before export to prevent them from entering the edible market.

The minimum CCC export sales price for the 1982 crop of additional edible peanuts was established at $475 per ton last February, Rank said.

Since 1976, loan collateral peanuts have been sold at competitive bid prices for domestic crushing. If the sales price was less than applicable quota or additional price support level, plus costs, the use of the oil produced from these peanuts was restricted to domestic markets.

Details of the proposal are scheduled to appear in the Dec. 8 Federal Register. Written comments on the CCC sales policy will be accepted until Jan. 7 by the director, analysis division, USDA-ASCS, room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C., 20013. All comments will be available for public inspection during business hours in room 3741 of USDA's South Building.

Roundball Roundup

Championship
Up For Grabs

Cliche' or no cliche'; it is true. Any of the boys teams could win the Prentiss County Tournament. Honest.

One of the most balanced fields to play in a county tournament should provide thrills-a-plenty in the Bonner Arnold Coliseum next week. Jumpertown and Wheeler, by virtue of their records, will enter the fracas with the top seeds. However, the talent and contrasting styles of each team make picking a winner hazardous to your health.

Obviously, the team that wins will have to play well, get a big break when they need it, and stay healthy. Outside of the obvious, there are certain factors the average fan can look for in their favorite team if they are realistic about winning the tournament.

JUMPERTOWN (B)

The 1982 half of the season was a banner one for Guyton Wilkerson's crowd-pleasing Cardinals, roaring to an 18-3 start. Unfortunately, the tourney's top-seeded team has not fared well in the Prentiss County Tournament, traditionally. Cardinal fans are hoping that 1983 will be the year.

Providing that 1983 is the year for Jumpertown to break through, then several things must happen to improve their chances. First, and perhaps foremost, the Cardinals will have to set their pace. What is their pace? Fast or faster.

Secondly, the Cards must get balanced scoring. Invariably, when Jumpertown puts four starters in double figures, they win. Fortunately, Jumpertown's five starters are capable enough in their own right to hit double figures on any given night. However, look for Perry Perrin, an underrated forward, to score several key buckets.

Finally, Jumpertown must continue to be stingy defensively. Their offensive flash conceals a defense that has been effective enough to provide a lot of easy baskets for the Cards. This is a characteristic of any good team and Jumpertown has exploited it well thus far. That pattern must continue if the Cards are to win the title.

NEW SITE (BB)

Forget the record, New Site has a shot to win all the marbles. It's a tall order, to be sure, but Mackie Don Smith's Royals could punch three teams lights out on their way to the 1983 title.

It would be an upset to be sure, but if the following factors take place, then New Site could be right there at the finish. First, the Royals are a very capable team when they can control the tempo, or pace, of the game. Their pace? Slow or slower.

The Royals will take a fastbreak when it is given to them, but for the most part, New Site likes to play a half-court game. Unlike Jumpertown or Thrasher, the Royals won't need to share the offensive load as much. But, Mark Barnes must get some offensive help from teammates in addition to his average of 20 points-plus a night.

Finally, despite their small stature, a physical contest should help the Royals. New Site is a gritty bunch that takes no gruff from anybody. If they can stay healthy, shoot the ball well, and control the tempo, then the Royals will be a big headache for any team in the county war.

THRASHER (BB)

Looking for a tourney darkhorse? Search no longer. Jacky Rowsey's bunch could be the team you are looking for. After a horrid start, the Rebels have been a much better club since the first of December.

Thrasher has shown ability to play a fast or slow tempo, but they must be the ones controlling the flow to win the contest. Unlike other county clubs, the Rebels are fairly adaptable.

Secondly, the Rebels must avoid the mental and defensive lapses that have proved so costly to them this season. There has been improvement in this area, too. As this continues to get better, then so should the Rebel won-loss sheet.

Finally, Thrasher must get good shot selection. More than once, Rowsey has seen his club take too many tough shots. If the Rebels get the good shots, then any club in the tournament is going to have a tough time shutting down a high-octane offensive punch of Danny Ramsey, Calvin Davis, and anybody else you want to add. Like Jumpertown, the Rebels have a multitude of offensive weapons to cut you up.

WHEELER (B)

This decade hasn't seen a boys champ in the tournament spelled any other way but Wheeler. The good news for Wheeler fans is Sam Richey has another club that received one of the tourney's top seeds.

This is a young and exciting Eagle team, which thrills fans and ages coaches. The Eagles can do a lot of things to hurt you on both ends of the court.

As opposed to the slower-paced teams in the tournament, Wheeler wants to play a full-court game. In other words, pressure on offense and pressure on defense regardless of the position of the ball on the court.

Wheeler is very capable in a half-court game too, but prefers the faster style if they can get it. Offensively, the county's tallest player, 6-5 Jerry Hollins, and slick forward Lee Tate give Wheeler a strong one-two punch.

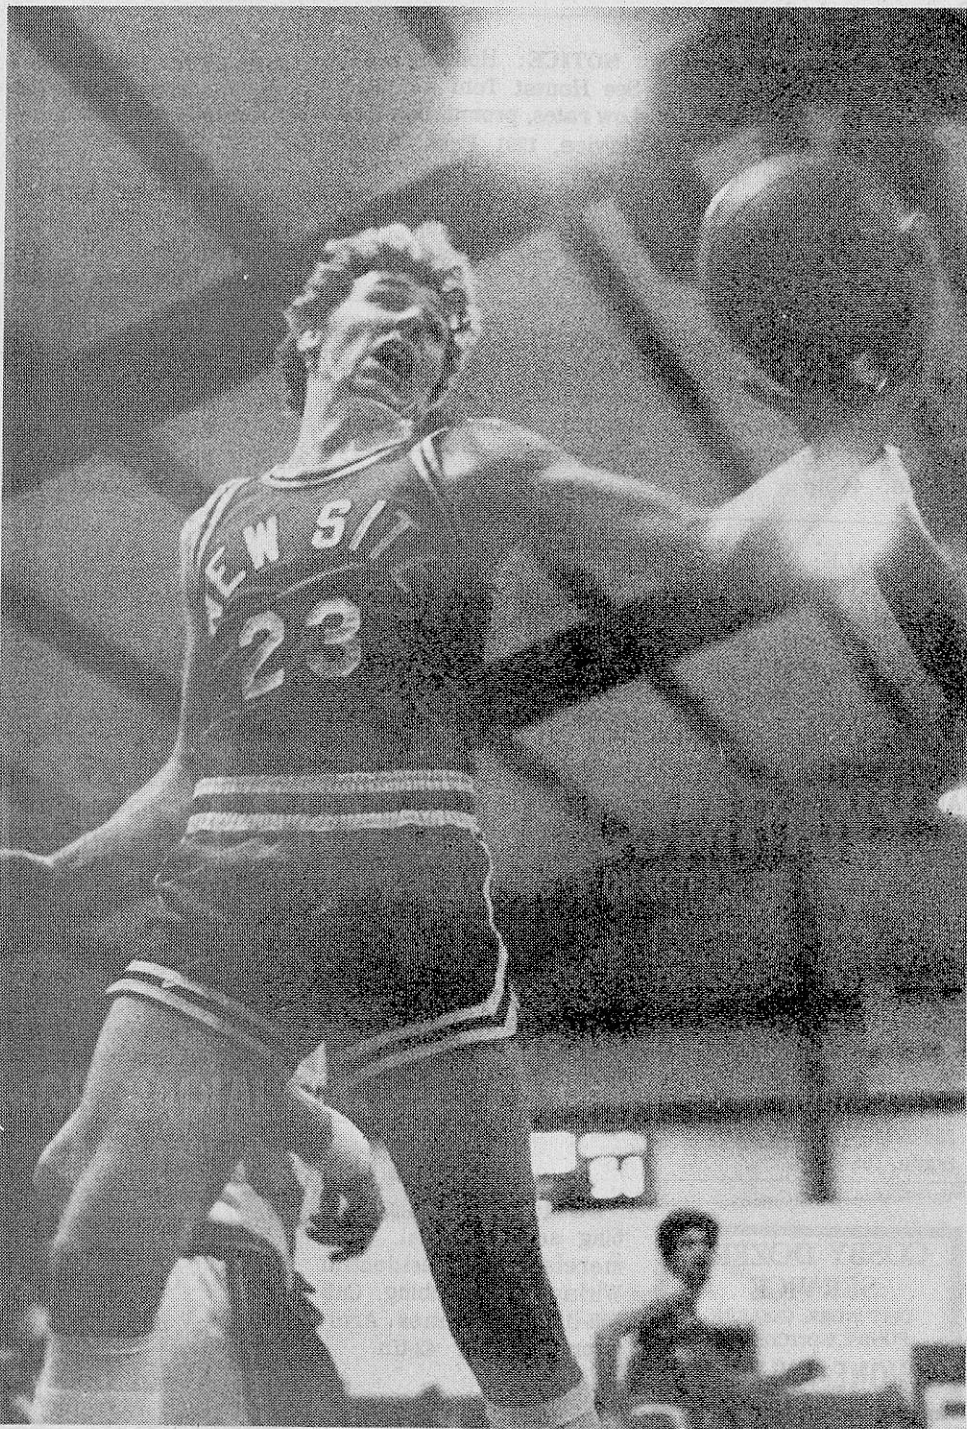

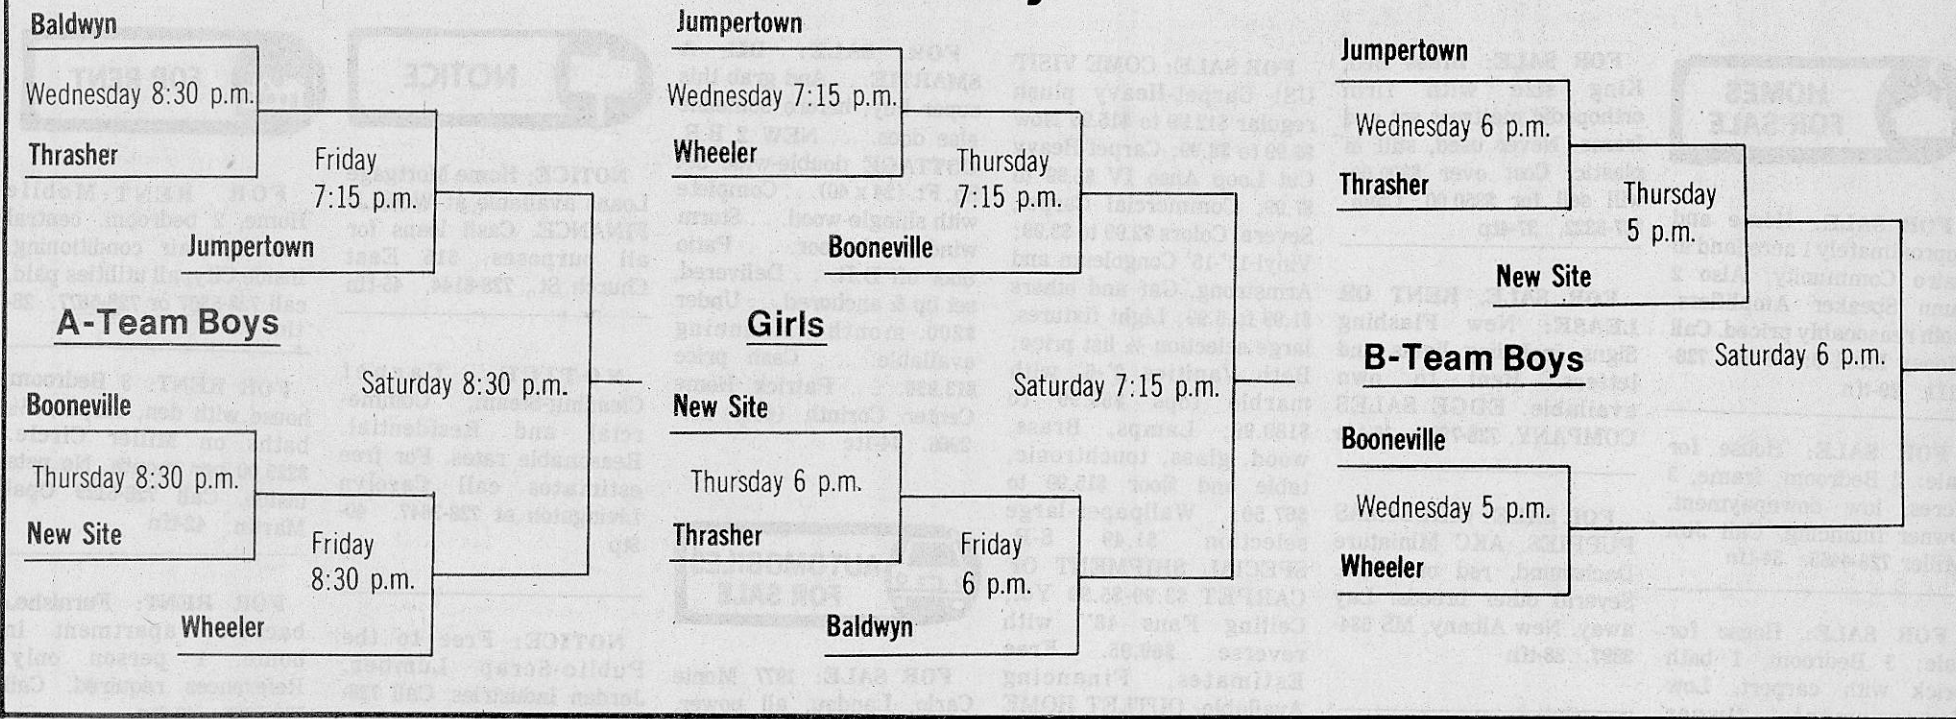

However, if the Eagles continue to get balanced scoring and improved rebounding, then there is no reason to think that Sam Richey's club won't repeat as title holders. Rebounding and defense are the key factors in any game involving Wheeler. If they do both of those phases well, then the Eagles are bad news for any opponent.

The final factors to consider are the tournament surroundings at Northeast. The crowds are expected to turn out in force, providing more noise than normal.

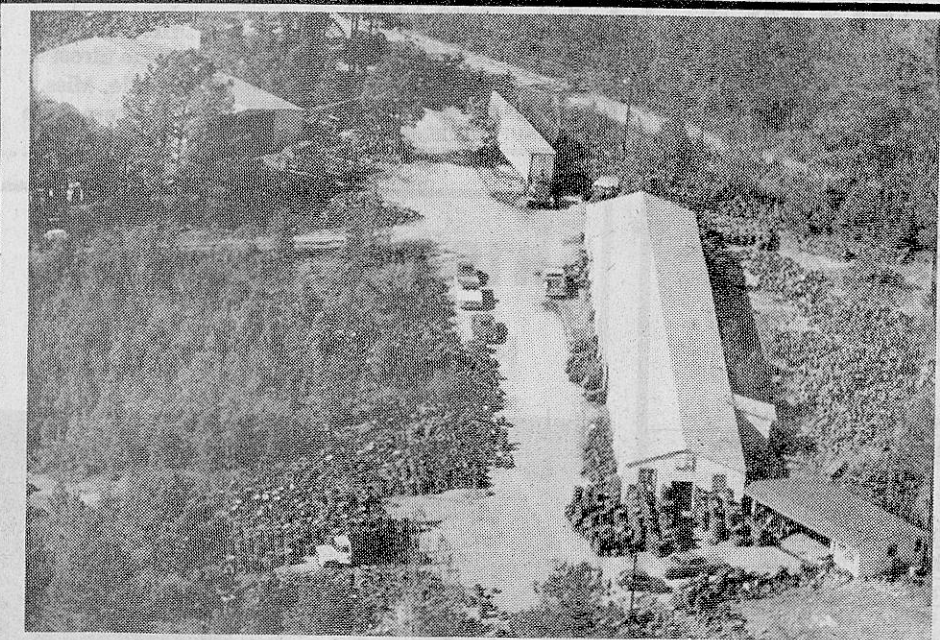

Remember that Northeast has a longer floor than high schools. This should favor the teams that prefer a quicker pace and play man-to-man defense. Finally, the ends of the court are open and the lack of a background has been known to hamper some shooters.

Baldwyn and Booneville, the only schools in the action from outside the Prentiss County School System, figure to have a good shot for the crown, too. So, now that you know everything there is to know, you pick a winner. Lotsa' luck.

ON THE REBOUND - New Site's Mark Barnes pulls in a rebound during action earlier this season. The New Site Royals will be one of six teams facing off in the annual Prentiss County Tournament beginning next Wednesday night in Bonner Arnold Coliseum at Northeast Junior College. Also in the lineup are Baldwyn, Booneville, Jumpertown, Thrasher and Wheeler. The tournament is sponsored by the Booneville Jaycees. (Photo by Ken Christian)

Three Conference Teams
In Top Ten Nationally

The new basketball season is off to a fast start in the Southeastern Conference with none of the ten teams showing a losing record at the Christmas break.

As of Dec. 21, three of the teams were undefeated and ranked in the national press services' top ten. Kentucky lost to Indiana Dec. 22, but remained in the No. 4 spot in the current UPI poll. Alabama and Tennessee were also undefeated and were rated No. 6 and 8 respectively.

Ole Miss was 7-1 at the holiday break, Vanderbilt 6-2, State and Auburn 5-2, and LSU 6-3. Florida was even at 4-4.

This week seven SEC teams play in four-team tournaments, and the other three play single games. Vanderbilt is host of the Music City Tournament Dec. 27-28, Dec. 28-29 Alabama plays in the Winston Tire Classic at Los Angeles, Auburn is at Salt Lake City to participate in the Utah-Hilton tourney, Florida is in the Gator Bowl Tournament, Tennessee goes to the Las Vegas Classic, and Miss. State is in the Sugar Bowl Tournament. Georgia is in the Cotton States Classic Dec. 29-30.

Ole Miss also hosts Memphis State, Kentucky plays Kansas at Louisville and LSU hosts St. Francis on Dec. 30.

Conference action begins Monday, Jan. 3 with all ten teams scheduled to play conference games. The schedule is:

Alabama at Florida
Georgia at Tennessee
LSU at Vanderbilt
Ole Miss at Kentucky
Miss. State at Auburn

The Ole Miss-Kentucky game also opens the conference television program.
