Legislative Coffee

At Bank Of Miss.

The Prentiss County Development Association's annual legislative coffee will be this Saturday at the Bank of Mississippi in Booneville.

PCDA executive director Doug Mansell said coffee and doughnuts will be served at 9:30 in the lobby of bank. Area legislators Billy McCoy and Tim Ford of the Mississippi House of Representatives and Bill May of the state Senate will speak at 10 a.m.

All three have indicated they plan to be on hand Saturday, Mansell said.

"The general public is invited to attend and listen to a legislative report from each of the area legislators," Mansell said.

The public will be given the opportunity to ask questions, he said.

Spelling Champ To Compete In Memphis

Prentiss County's Spelling Bee champion, Tammy Owens, plans to travel to Memphis tomorrow for competition in the Mid-South Bee.

Tammy will compete with other Mid-South students on the Memphis State University campus at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Tammy, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Green of Route 3, Rienzi, is a seventh grade student at Jumpertown school. She competed with 24 other Prentiss County seventh and eighth graders on March 25 to win the Prentiss County Spelling Bee.

She spelled "parfait" and "illumination" to win the championship. It was her first time to enter the spelling bee. Mrs. Joyce Green is Tammy's sponsor from Jumpertown.

In addition to winning the spelling bee, Tammy has received other scholastic awards. Her favorite hobbies are reading, basketball, softball and cross stitch.

New First Graders To Be Given Test

The administration at the Booneville Elementary School plans to give the Metropolitan Readiness Test to all children who will be in the first grade at that school next August.

All children who are presently attending Headstart, Oaks' Kindergarten or Phillips' Kindergarten will be given the test at those locations, a school spokesman said.

Parents of eligible children who do not attend one of these centers should have the child present for testing at 8:30 a.m. Saturday April 23 at Room 4 of the Booneville Elementary School for testing, a school spokesman said.

"The purpose of the test is to enable planning for beginning your child's educational program," he said.

1st Grade Registration Set At Hill's Chapel

First grade registration for the 1983-84 school year will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 26, at the Hill's Chapel Attendance Center.

Children must be six years old by Sept. 1, 1983, to be eligible to enter the first grade next year. At the time of registration, parents should have with them a certified copy of their child's birth certificate and a blue slip verifying the child's immunizations.

First grade students at Hill's Chapel will not attend classes April 26 due to the registration.

Two More Qualify, One Drops Out

Two candidates have qualified since Wednesday of last week to run for political offices in Prentiss County and two candidates have withdrawn from the election. There are now 67 candidates who have qualified to seek election to various offices in the August primaries.

Danny McAnally has qualified for the position of 5th district supervisor. He is challenging incumbent William L. McKinney.

Gerald Chapman is the 5th candidate to qualify for the 2nd district constable's post.

Jimmie (Cunningham) Whitehead officially withdrew from the tax assessor-collector's race Tuesday. There are two candidates in that race now.

Charles (Chuck) Eldridge told The Banner-Independent Tuesday that he plans to withdraw from the coroner's race, which will leave only one candidate in that race - incumbent James Horn.

Booneville Hospital Cuts Staff By 21

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Editor

Baptist Memorial Hospital in Booneville reduced its staff by 21 people Tuesday, laying off 19 full-time and two part-time employees.

The layoffs, effective immediately, were among ancillary staff members who worked as nursing assistants (nurses' aides) and among workers within the maintenance and laundry departments, hospital administrator John Tompkins said Tuesday.

Seniority was used within each job category to determine who would be laid off, he said.

Although some nursing assistants who had worked at the hospital for a number of years were let go, Tompkins said the nursing assistant program is "definitely not" being phased out by the hospital. Hospital employees were notified of the layoffs in groups throughout the day Tuesday as they came to work. Those laid off were given no prior notice, but will receive two-weeks' severance pay, Tompkins said.

The administrator said the Booneville hospital has been overstaffed for a number of years. When Baptist Memorial leased the hospital in January 1982 a recommendation was made then to reduce the staff, he said.

However, he said, the hospital decided to postpone any layoffs at that time, letting reduction come about by attrition - as old employees left on their own, fewer new ones were hired.

Tompkins said this attrition over the past year served to lessen the impact of Tuesday's layoffs.

The administrator pointed out that regulations surrounding "federal reimbursement mechanisms," such as Medicare, Medicaid, etc., are requiring hospitals to be more cost efficient than has been the case in the past.

Tompkins said the $5.9 million construction and renovation project scheduled to begin in June at the hospital has no relation to the layoffs. The layoffs did not come about as a result of the planned construction, he said, and they also will not prevent the construction from continuing on schedule.

Since the reduction affected only those areas that were overstaffed, the quality of patient care at the hospital will not be affected, he said.

Prior to the layoffs, the hospital had 214 full-time and 29 part-time employees, Tompkins said.

No further layoffs are planned by the hospital, he said.

Cooling Her Heels!

A young walker pauses a few minutes Sunday at the "watering station" located about half-way around the 12-kilometer route of the local March of Dimes' WalkAmerica. After a couple of adjustments to her tennis shoes, the young walker was up and on her way again. Some 150 people helped raise $2,600 during the walk. More pictures of the Superwalk appear on Page 8 of today's Banner-Independent. (Photo by Ken Christian)

Unemployment Rate Takes Downward Turn

After several months of climbing, the unemployment rate in Prentiss County has finally taken a slight downward turn.

Latest unemployment figures from the Mississippi State Employment Service in Corinth show 13.7 percent of the civilian labor force in Prentiss County were out of work.

This amounts to about 1,490 individuals, according to Charles Smith, manager of the Corinth MSES office.

In February 15.4 percent were unemployed and 10.3 percent in March 1982.

The labor force for the county, estimated at 10,860, also experienced a decline of 100 from last month, but was the same as that of one year ago.

The number employed rose by 100 from one month ago to reach 9,370. One year ago 9,740 county residents were employed.

Manufacturing employment in the county, estimated at 2,600, experienced only a minimal decline from last month.

An estimated 3,570 people were employed in non-manufacturing jobs, only 10 below the previous estimate, but 40 below one year ago.

Smith said the four-county area of Alcorn, Prentiss, Tiptah and Tishomingo counties registered a labor force of 46,230 at mid-March. This is a drop of approximately 490 from last month and approximately 1,350 from March last year.

The number of people employed in the four-county area rose to 39,550 in March. This is an increase of 320 over the February figure, but 2,080 below the March 1982 figure.

Unemployed workers totaled 6,680 at mid-March, down by 810 workers from last month, but up by 730 workers from March 1982.

The area's rate of unemployment was estimated to be 14.4 percent, down from 16 percent last month and 12.5 percent one year ago.

There was an estimated total of 14,000 manufacturing jobs in the area by mid-March, a drop of 120 from February and 780 below the March 1982 estimate.

The number of people in non-manufacturing jobs fell to 16,620, 50 less than the February figure, but a substantial 2,000 below the figure for March 1982.

African Violets 'You Can't Have Just One!'

Nellie Pharr And Friends

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

Nellie Pharr probably has more African violets in her home on Boone Street than anyone in Prentiss County. She has 606 African violets and about 130 different varieties.

Most of the colorful African violets are on shelves in her living room. Some are placed in the den and bedroom windows.

"Most people are shocked when they see all my violets," Mrs. Pharr says. "They say, 'I've never seen anything like them!'"

Mrs. Pharr had about 60 African violets when she and her husband, G.T. lived in Virginia. But she had to give them up when the Army transferred him overseas. They lived in France for three years.

Mrs. Pharr was an army nurse in World War II. She and Pharr met and married in the Philippine Islands. Mrs. Pharr is a native of Winsboro, La., and her husband is a native of Marietta.

The Pharrs moved to Booneville in 1965 where he worked as superintendent of the Booneville Gas and Water Department from 1965-1972. He is now beginning his fifth year as minister at Carter's Chapel.

Mrs. Pharr worked as a RN at the Booneville hospital for eight years. She retired in 1975 due to health reasons.

They have four children and eight grandchildren.

Her hobby of growing African violets began in 1971 when her son, Dwight of Iuka, gave her two African violets as a gift.

From there she says she went "wild" collecting more African violets.

"There's a saying that no one has just one African violet. It's like a disease - you can't just have one," she smiles.

Her violets range in colors from white, lavender, pink, red, peach - even green.

"Some people tell me they know someone who has a yellow African violet. But I'm a member of the African Violet Society and they say no one has come up with a yellow one yet."

Since she has so many African violets, there are always some blooming. The shelves, which were built by her husband, have grown Luther Gibson of 202 N. Lake St., Booneville, reported the theft of a garden tiller valued at $275 on April 15.

A break-in was reported at OK Tire Store on East Church Street April 14. Three tires were reported missing.

The left front glass window at the Savings Gas Station on Hwy. 45 was broken out late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning of last week. Nothing was reported missing.

Violets

lights on them. Consequently some varieties of her violets have been blooming continuously for two years.

Mrs. Pharr puts in a lot of work to keep her violets beautiful. She checks them about every day to pinch dead blooms off and also keep an eye out for insects.

"I'm the same way with my violets like I was with nursing. It's better to prevent something than treat it after it happens."

Mrs. Pharr puts from 1-15 leaves in baby food jars filled with water to root them. She has been selling the plants for about two years so she can buy more supplies and new varieties of violets.

She claims not to "fool with other plants much," but she has several other types of plants in her home such as a huge airplane plant.

"When people bring me cuttings, I don't turn them down," Mrs. Pharr said.

She offers advice to other African violet enthusiasts: "The smaller the pot, the more blooms."

"Cleanliness can't be stressed enough," she said.

She uses a damp sponge to get the dust from the leaves. "The plant can't breathe if its pores are clogged." Since

African violets originally came from Africa where it was damp, she says the plants like to be sprinkled with water.

She prefers having the violets in plastic pots because they don't have to be watered as often as if they were in clay pots. She waters them from the top.

Humidity is very important to the violets. The room temperature should not vary more than 10 degrees day and night.

Her favorite violets are the ones which grow hardy, bloom often and are healthy as a general rule.

"The different varieties are like people. Some are hardy and bloom vigorously. Others don't bloom much but it's because they're just a certain type of variety."

And, she adds, "Each variety has an individual lifestyle."

When Mrs. Pharr is home

taking care of her plants, very rarely do any of them die. But if she and her husband are gone a few days to visit relatives in Nashville or Louisiana, three or four of the plants die.

"There won't be many people who believe that, but it's the truth," she says.

There are thousands of varieties of African violets. And while she doesn't want them all, she said she has had it in mind to have 200 different varieties.

She probably will, too. Because she recently ordered leaves of 100 new varieties.

One of the best parts about having so many African violets is having people stop by to see the violets. It provides an opportunity for making new friends, she says.

"Anyone who loves them is welcome to come see them and look at them."

Williams Management Area Included

Wildlife Management Areas Are Designated

Weyerhaeuser Company and the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation have entered into cooperative agreements to include nearly 11,000 acres of Weyerhaeuser-owned Mississippi forest land into four wildlife management areas, according to an announcement from the company.

Tracts involved in the cooperative management agreements are located in nine blocks scattered throughout seven counties in north and central Mississippi. They include:

- the John Bell Williams Game Management Area, a 1,200 acre block in Prentiss and Itawamba counties;
- the Choctaw Wildlife Management Area, 339 acres in two blocks located in Oktibbeha and Winston counties;
- the Chickasaw Wildlife Management Area, 874 acres in two blocks in Chickasaw county; and
- the Calhoun County Wildlife Management Area, 8,348 acres in four blocks located in Calhoun and Yalobusha counties.

The timberland, currently under professional forest management to grow renewable crops of trees, includes both pine plantations and mixed natural pine and hardwood stands.

"Under these five-year agreements, our company will continue to grow timber on this ownership while the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation simultaneously helps manage these tracts for improved wildlife habitat," explained J.C. Jessup Jr., vice-president of the firm's Mississippi-Alabama Region, headquartered in Columbus.

"No monetary consideration was involved in providing these lands for wildlife management areas, and they will remain open to the public for hunting, fishing, hiking and other outdoor recreational uses -- under the supervision of the Department of Wildlife Conservation -- throughout the term of the agreements," he said.

Under the agreements, the wildlife agency will assign professional wildlife management personnel to look after these lands; help prevent illegal timber cutting, destructive grazing, trespass, and wildfire; establish game food plots; help control predators; regulate public hunting and fishing to assure compliance with state and federal game regulations; and otherwise preserve, protect and propagate fish, game and wildlife.

"The Department of Wildlife Conservation is glad to have this opportunity to work with the company (Weyerhaeuser) in providing additional hunting and outdoor recreational opportunities for the sporting public in these areas of Northeast Mississippi," said Lewis Bays, director, Bureau of Fisheries and Wildlife.

Weyerhaeuser, headquartered in Tacoma, Wash., owns -- or has under long-term lease -- and manages approximately 700,000 acres of timberland in Mississippi and Alabama. About 60 percent of these lands are in Mississippi, according to a company spokesman.

The company has been growing trees and manufacturing forest products in the two-state area since 1957.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX.

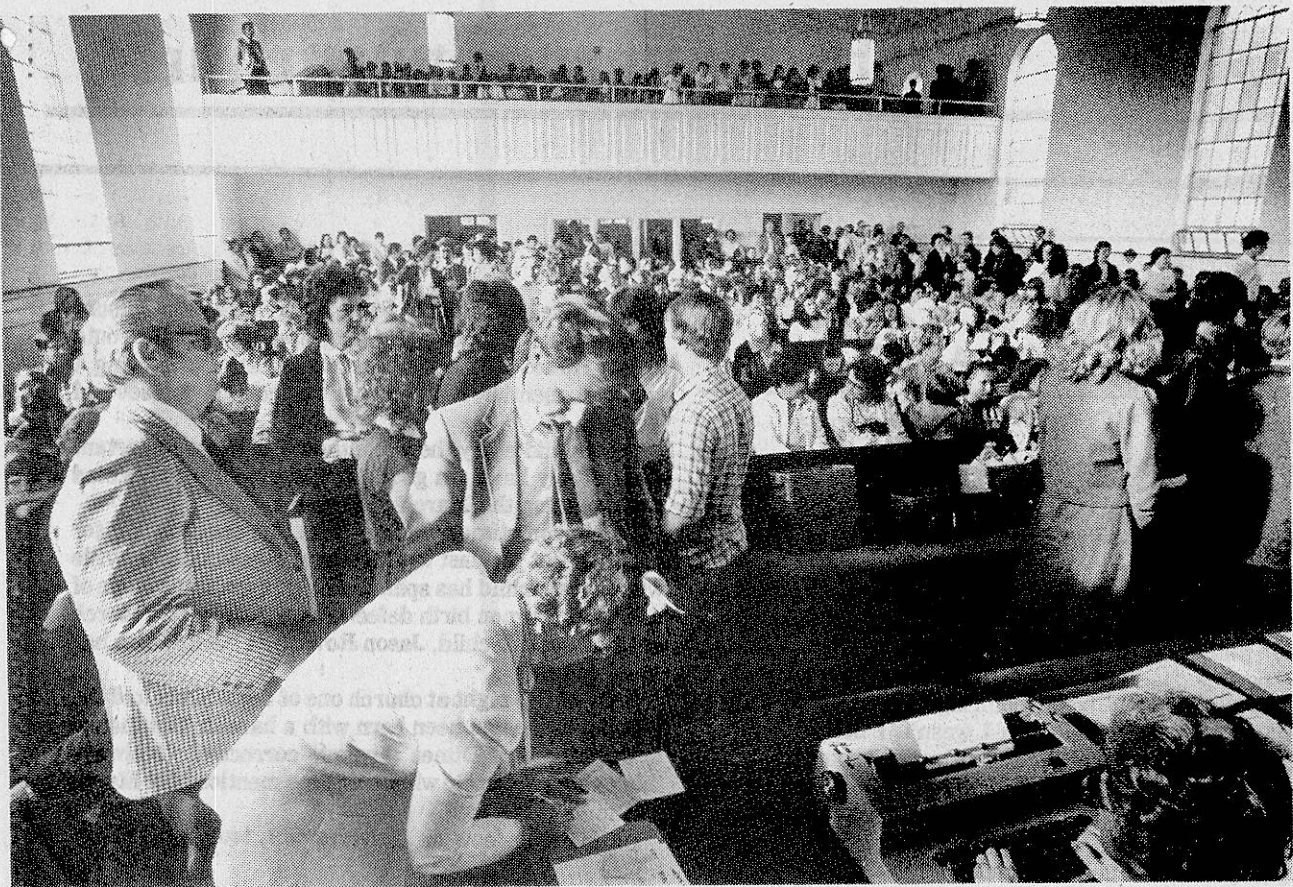

WARD HOGLAND

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, does the Bible say that Judas was a devil from the beginning?

ANSWER: No, the Bible does not say this. In John 6:70 the Lord said, "Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?" This is a far cry from saying, "One of you was a devil from the beginning." This is taught by some because they do not want to admit that Judas was ever saved. However, if one reads the Bible he will observe that Acts 1:25 says "Judas by transgression fell." One could not fall from some place he had never been. The Bible also says, that Judas was a disciple (Matt. 10:1); that he was ordained (Matt. 3:4), he was given power (Matt. 10:15). Thus, it can be observed that Judas was indeed saved but sold out to the devil. He did this of his own will. God did not force him to make the decision. So it is with all of us. We can be saved on the simple terms of the gospel. That is faith, repentance, confession and baptism. However, if after we are saved we choose to serve the devil we may do this. Judas is a splendid example of one who fell from grace. Judas never did repent of his sins and as far as the Bible teaches will be lost forever.

WEST BOONEVILLE CHURCH OF CHRIST

BOX 15 -- HWY. 4, WEST -- BOONEVILLE, MISS.

FULL HOUSE - The sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Booneville was practically 'bursting at the seams' Monday afternoon as 287 youths converged on the Booneville church for the North Mississippi State Bible Drills. Including parents, pastors and church people from all over North Mississippi, a total of approximately 700 people crowded into the First Baptist Church as teams were drilled on their knowledge of the Bible.

For NE Summer Term

Dorm Housing Will Be Available

Students at Northeast Junior College this summer will have the option of living in a dorm, if they so desire, rather than being required to commute to class as in summers past.

Northeast is now accepting housing applications for the summer term, according to Donnie Sweeney, director of student activities at the college.

"We see a definite need to offer this service," he said. "Many of our students, for one reason or another, wish to earn credit during the summer months, but often times find that commuting five days a week is not feasible."

Two types of arrangements are available in dorm housing: suites with two bedrooms and adjoining bath or a single bedroom with private bath. Sweeney said priority will be given on a first come, first serve basis.

"Every effort will be made to meet the student's request, but it is only logical that those applications which arrive first will be attended to first," he said.

Room and board for each of the two five-week terms is $287.50. This includes room rent and two meals per day. It also entitles summer students to free access to the recreational facilities, such as the swimming pool, tennis courts and Burgess Activity Center, Sweeney said.

Applications for student housing are available at the Office of Student Activities in Estes Hall or by writing the Director of Student Activities, Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, MS 38829.

At George Allen Library

Insect Exhibit To Be Featured

The bug man is coming. On April 29, Milan Bushing, curator of invertebrates at the Cincinnati Zoo will be at the George E. Allen Library in Booneville.

Bushing will present a program about his work in building and maintaining the largest living insect exhibit in America, according to Doug Fleury, director of the Northeast Mississippi Museum Association (NEMMA) in Corinth.

Bushing annually visits Northeast Mississippi as a "thank you" to the scores of NEMMA volunteers who supply his exhibit with large insects, Fleury said.

For several years now, NEMMA has sponsored a summer "bug hunt" for young collectors. During June and July, these hunters turn in certain insects for points. The insects are shipped to the Cincinnati Zoo, the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, and the Portland Zoo in Oregon. "Cincinnati gets 90 percent of our catch," Fleury said. "They have a world-wide reputation for captive breeding, so we send them a surplus they can trade to other zoos and museums around the world."

So far Mississippi insects are on display and are being bred in two German zoos - in Dusseldorf and Stuttgart, Fleury said. The curator of the Insektarium in Dusseldorf has sent a letter of appreciation to NEMMA's volunteer collectors.

Bushing's presentation at the George E. Allen Library will be at 7 p.m. It will be the last stop of a five-day swing through Northeast Mississippi.

Bushing will present school programs in Tupelo, Corinth, Kossuth, New Albany and Thrasher. In addition to the presentation at the Allen Library, two other evening programs will also be open to the public: April 26 at Tishomingo State Park and April 28 at the Chamber of Commerce in Corinth.

World Mission Conference Starts Saturday At Local Churches

The Prentiss County Baptist Association will sponsor a World Missions Conference April 23-May 1 in many of the local Southern Baptist churches.

Eight missionaries will be the featured speakers throughout the conference.

An opening rally is scheduled at the Calvary Baptist Church at 7 p.m. April 23.

Foreign missionaries include the Rev. and Mrs. Hoyt Cobb, Holmes Carlisle, and Mr. and Mrs. Lorene Lumpki, stationed within the continental United States.

These guests will speak nightly throughout the week in local churches, reporting on the work of Southern Baptists in various areas.

Throughout the week, additional rallies will be held each day at 10:30 a.m. in designated local churches. The public is invited to both the day and the night services.

During the first half of the week, April 24-27, the missionaries will speak at Chandlers Chapel, Crestwood, East Marietta, Mt. Olive, Oak Hill, and Wheeler Baptist churches.

From April 28 through May 1, the Baptist churches at Calvary, Pleasant Grove, Fairview, First Baptist, Piney Grove, Thrasher, and Tuscumbia will play host to the missionary speakers.

Local Baptists are expecting large crowds nightly as the local churches hear the first-hand reports from the missionaries.

"The public is invited to attend the opening rally at Calvary on Friday night, before listening to the various reports from the missionaries at the church of their choice," said a spokesman for the Prentiss Baptist Association.

For more information, contact any of the local Southern Baptist churches, or phone the Prentiss Baptist Association office at 728-6132.

State Unemployment Rate Drops

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped to 11.6 percent in March, a decrease of eight-tenths of a percentage point compared to February's 12.4 percent jobless rate, according to Mississippi Employment Security executive director O.H. Simmons.

Last year's March unemployment rate was 10.7 percent.

The 11.6 percent unemployment rate for the state was higher than the 10.8

percent national rate for March. MESC figures showed 121,700 unemployed and 930,300 employed out of a civilian labor force of 1,052,000. The initial unemployment insurance claims totalled 21,880 in March.

Sixty-two of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in March. Of that number, four counties had unemployment rates in excess of 20.0 percent.

The counties having the highest unemployment rates in March were Sharkey, with an unemployment rate of 21.6 percent; Winston, with 20.4 percent; George, with 20.2 percent, and Greene, with a n unemployment rate of 20.1 percent.

Issaquena, Rankin, Lafayette, and Carroll counties had the lowest jobless rates in March. Issaquena had a rate of 4.4 percent, Rankin had a rate of 6.3 percent, Lafayette had a rate of 7.5 percent, and Carroll had an unemployment rate of 7.6 percent.

'Talk O' The Town' Street Opinion

QUESTION: Do you think there was a pressing need for the new DUI law passed by the legislature this year?

JOYCE MAUNEY of Route 3, Booneville: "I think what they're trying to do is good. Maybe this will cut down on alcohol related accidents. People need to think seriously about whether they should drive after drinking."

LIZ FLOYD of Route 4, Booneville: "Yes, I do. There's just too much drunk driving. We need stricter laws."

FRANCES HUGHES of Route 6, Booneville: "I think it was a good idea. Maybe it will keep drunk drivers off the road. That will save lives."

AUDREY McDONALD of Sunflower Street, Booneville: "Yes, I do. They need a stricter law because the one now isn't really that good. But I don't think the law will cut down the accidents occurring from drunk driving. There's too many people who will keep driving and drinking."

VIOLET COLE of Route 5, Booneville: "Yes, by all means. There's too many wrecks and lives lost caused by people driving under the influence of alcohol. I think they should have passed a stricter law a long time ago."

TAMI CHILDERS of Route 7, Booneville: "Yes. There's too many lives lost on the road caused by people driving under the influence of alcohol. If the laws had been made stricter before this it might have saved a lot of lives."

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

Staff Reporter

At last I have the opportunity to put some ugly rumors to rest concerning the 7 mile walkathon held Sunday for the March of Dimes.

- It is not true that Mary Hendrix and Cliff Long had to carry me across the finish line. I begged them to but they wouldn't.

- It is not true that I tried to flag traffic down to give me a ride. I didn't have the strength to raise my arms.

- It is not true that I offered to give my autograph to the bystanders watching us walk. But only because I didn't have a pen.

Actually completing the 7 mile walk was easier than I imagined. In addition to braving blisters, I also faced the possibility of having rocks thrown at me. It had been whispered at the office that children would be hired for that purpose.

I also feared that one of The Banner-Independent birds might fly above me during the entire walk leaving a calling card in my hair like it does on our cars.

Happily, I completed the walk without a major catastrophe occurring. The closest I came to being injured was when Cliff attempted to walk backwards down the bypass. He almost stepped on me.

My friends have been inquiring if I am sore after walking 7 miles. I told them I wasn't. I lied.

Some of my sponsors seemed to be disappointed that I completed the walk. Some actually thought I would give their donations back if I didn't. Maybe they will be happy to know that I have a blister on my foot.

There has also been a rumor circulating concerning my blister. Of course I haven't been charging people admission to see my blister.

I really should mention Mary.

Mary was a good walking partner. The walk didn't seem to tire her out a bit. Since it only took us two hours to complete the 7 miles, she suggested we walk the route again. However, I talked her out of it by promising I wouldn't mention her again in my column for several weeks.

I really did enjoy the walkathon. But more important than simply having a good time, the walkers collected donations for the March of Dimes.

I think sometimes we may take this organization for granted. But just last week I met a woman in Booneville whose grandchild has spina bifida or open spine - one of the most common birth defects. Last year's state March of Dimes poster child, Jason Rowsey of Rienzi, also has spina bifida.

And Sunday night at church one of my friends told me that her uncle had been born with a harelip. But thanks to the March of Dimes this was corrected. "I always think about my uncle when someone mentions the March of Dimes," she said.

I think from now on I always will, too.

Eyes On Mississippi

Senate Flounders, House Faces Facts

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. - The Mississippi Legislature finally folded its tent last weekend, perhaps for the last time in its four-year term, to await the verdict of its constituency.

This was the first legislative body in state history elected entirely from single-member districts, mandated by the federal courts to broaden the base of the state's representative government.

However, after four years, it seems apparent to this writer that the experiment in democracy still has a long way to go to prove it can work effectively as an instrument of parliamentary government.

Some have observed that the new system has produced a Legislature that is more like Mississippi really is, rather than what it wants to be. Certainly one often got the feeling that the Legislature was like an over-sized county board of supervisors, bickering over a lot of little parochial questions, unable to grasp the broader picture.

As lawmakers departed for their homes, they seemed as confused and lacking in consensus as they were when they arrived here in 1980.

Looking back, their one brief moment of rising above mediocrity came in the "Christmas miracle" special session in December 1982 when they enacted the broad blueprint for a quality education program, bringing national acclaim upon Gov. William Winter and the state.

Some of the luster, however, was taken off the educational reforms when some lawmakers fumed at the 1983 session that the December actions only made funding state government more difficult.

There was a remarkable difference in the quality of legislative talent elected to the House and the Senate from the smaller, closer-to-home districts. Proportionately the 122 member House had far more capable people than the 52 member Senate.

Forty or 50 House members, most of them younger and more independent in their thinking than their predecessors, formed the brightest cadre of lawmakers to arrive at the State House in sometime. While they didn't topple the Old Guard leadership of Speaker C.B. Buddie Newman, they brought about a change in Newman, causing him to share his power.

The Senate, meantime, floundered for four years. Once the Senate was looked to in the Mississippi Legislature as the stabilizing force which could act swiftly and decisively in dealing with major problems. Not any more.

The present body, containing over on-half greenhorn new senators, was a disaster area for progressive legislation. Leadership in the Senate was totally absent, except perhaps for the rear-guard "Country Caucus" which rose up for a time to block prison reforms and tried to imprint fundamentalist beliefs on school textbooks.

In this Senate vacuum, Sen. Ellis Bodron of Vicksburg, the owlish veteran of many legislative wars emerged in the role of chief obstructionist of the Winter administration programs, embittered still because he could not stop the education steamroller last December.

In the end, even Bodron was turned upon by angry rural senators who claimed their leaders had let them down by allowing the crunch for new taxes to come down to the final days as they prepared to go back and face the voters.

It was four years of government by postponement, something which is not new, in dealing with the realities of fiscal management in a recessionary era and a doubtful economy in the future.

For the past two years, the lawmakers had overappropriated by some $175 million against revenues that did not exist. When they went home last week, their only solution to budgetary ills for the rest of fiscal 83 and for fiscal 84 was a quick-fix which could very well be no fix at all.

In the chaotic two-week extended session, only the House could pass a realistic tax bill to assure the solvency of state government. The Senate would never come to grips with the fiscal crisis except to reach for the over-burdened sales tax.

It had been the Senate that forced through the half-cent increase in the sales tax in December as the funding measure for the school reforms, conveniently putting off its effective date until elections are over.

Now the half-cent sales tax, while done in the name of education, is going to have to carry a great deal more of the fiscal burden of state government than education starting next year.

Perhaps the most significant new bloc of votes to come out the single-member district system is the 15-member black caucus in the House. It proved to be a force to be reckoned with during the extended session by blocking any attempt to raise the sales tax.

In the final days of the session frustrations ran so high that fist-fights broke out in legislators' private quarters around the Capitol. Unfortunately, some of the better lawmakers have become so fed up with it all they aren't coming back.

Letters

The New Post Office Must Serve Everyone

Dear Editor,

It has come to my attention that a petition has been circulated "To Whom It May Concern" pertaining to the proposed new Postal Facility at Booneville.

In an effort to make sure that the entire populous of the delivery area of the Booneville Post Office receive the facts about this matter, I write this letter to the editor.

First of all, I want to make clear that my responsibility as Postmaster is to serve ALL customers of the Booneville Post Office, giving everyone the best possible service. I have done this in the past and I will continue to do so in the future.

A new Postal facility is in the direction of better service to all. The building we now have is not adequate for all people.

We have several handicapped persons who can not use the present building. The new building will accommodate those who have not had the privilege of access to the Post Office in the past.

Many would like to rent a Post Office box, but they can not since we do not have any to rent. All boxes stay rented and we have a waiting list. This will not be the case when the new building is constructed.

We do not have adequate working space since we have only 2,744 square feet of workroom area. The proposed workroom space is approximately 4,500 sq. ft.

The ramp and parking space in the rear of the present building is a hazardous situation. The parking for customers now is next to an impossible situation. Many accidents occur with present parking for customers.

The petition states that there is sufficient land adjoining the present Post Office lot to accommodate the requirements for the new Post Office.

Consideration has been given to the adjoining property and the space there is approximately 16,875 sq. ft. We now have 11,500 sq. ft. of ground space. Put this with the adjoining property gives approximately 28,375 sq. ft.

We have made a thorough study toward this matter and the space requirements for now and the new 25 years in the future is 50,000 sq. ft. to build a new Post Office building.

We have advertised for sites within the published area of consideration. The closing date for this was

March 31, 1983. At this time, consideration is being given to all offers that were submitted and it is anticipated that a site will be selected from those submitted.

I have made it known in the past and I want to do so at this time, to emphasize that I will welcome every opportunity to discuss with any person or group of people the proposed new Post Office building.

Thanks to you for using this means to present this information to all customers of the Booneville Post Office. Sincerely, Jack Wright Postmaster Booneville, MS

Local UDC Meets

The D.T. Beall Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy met in the home of Mrs. Jolene Curlee on Washington Street April 13, at 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Allie Miller Isbell greeted the guests as they arrived. She and Mrs. Sallie Kate Chase were co-hostesses.

Mrs. A.L. Tidwell opened the meeting with the UDC ritual and the flag chairman led the chapter in the pledge of allegiance to the U.S. flag and also the salute to the confederate flag.

Mrs. Tidwell gave an interesting report of the recently attended District Meeting held in Tupelo.

During the social hour the hostesses served a dessert plate and coffee.

Ten members were present.

Correction

The engagement announcement of Cynthia Jones and Phillip Rollins in last week's paper should have said:

Miss Jones is a graduate of Brewer High School. She received a Bachelor of Science degree in social work from the University of North Alabama and a Master of Social Work degree from the University of Alabama. She is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority, Delta Tau Kappa social science honorary, and the National Association of Social Workers. She is employed as a social worker at the Falkville Nursing Home, Inc. in Falkville, Ala.

Correction

There were two mistakes in the recipes in last week's paper - which you may have found if you tried making strawberry pie or coconut cake.

The Shoney's Strawberry Pie recipe needs 2 heaping tablespoons of cornstarch to make the filling thicken.

The Coconut Pound Cake recipe should have included 3 cups sugar in the list of ingredients.

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian
George E. Allen Library

Seven classes from several schools were guests in the George E. Allen Library on Monday, April 18, the first day of National Library Week, for a very special reason, to meet our visiting artists. They were inspired and enchanted by this exhibition of beauty, skill and ingenuity. The variety of styles and subject matter created a wide appeal for these and other visitors throughout the day.

Among the art decorated pieces to make viewers exclaim, "Why can't I think of things like that?" was a wall piece made from a saw, a carpenter's tool, but now a very different item. Mrs. Vivian Spencer brought this and other unusual pieces along with several canvases.

Mrs. Nancy Pannell, who displayed several large canvases depicting familiar scenes in lovely subdued colors, also brought items that caused visitors to say, "I'd like one of those." A most recently finished coat rack, beautifully cut and decorated, drew attention.

Floyd Turner, besides his paintings, brought an example of his craftsmanship as a taxidermist, a pair of blue birds.

Young people chatted with him about the blending of colors to their exact needs.

Mrs. Joangelle Gaines sent four delicately defined and appealing paintings in lovely colors.

She says of herself, "I am an extension of my yesterdays," referring to her early years in the Liberty Community and her background from the Purvis and Henry family. Her adult viewers identified with her.

These four artists live in or around New Albany.

Barry Kidd, a senior student at the University of Mississippi who sent two paintings, one a portrait, is from Ripley. The strength showing through his works makes clear the reason for his fine reputation.

Mrs. Grace Counce of Booneville has on display four of her recently finished paintings, all outdoor scenes familiar to our own Mississippi way of life, which will remain in the library for a short while and to which we will add a case exhibit belonging to her.

Mrs. Lester McCreary has added new pieces to the miniature furniture being enjoyed so much by our patrons of all ages.

In our tall glass case is a collection of early American glassware from Mrs. Marjorie Hester's family heirlooms.

Outstanding among these is a tapestry scene with clear outlines and colors but over 100 years old.

More than 100 preschool children were entertained and involved imaginatively in the antics and activities planned for their pleasure by Mrs. Sandra Ford's class in child care and development at the Northeast Mississippi Junior College. We hope to make this an annual event of National Library Week.

We remind young people of elementary and middle school age of another annual event to which they are invited on Saturday, April 23, at 2:30 p.m. in the Marion W. Smith Room at the library. This is our party for them and their parents and friends at which prizes will be awarded to contest winners in each grade for posters, poems, and compositions related to library interests.

Mrs. Cathy Pippin of the Junior College staff has been such an able and enthusiastic chairman this year for National Library Week that it is reaching and pleasing many people in our area who join our library staff in expressing our deep appreciation to her.

Yet to come this week is the visit of Jim Miller to the library on Thursday, April 21, between 3-5 p.m. This will make it possible for many fans of his to talk with him about his football career as a San Francisco 49er and other experiences - to get autographs also if they wish.

W.M. Hudspeth of the Tupelo Social Security Office will be in the library Friday from 10 a.m. to noon to advise and consult with individuals or groups who are either studying the system or otherwise preparing for this part of their future.

"Go for it - use your library!" is this year's National Library Week slogan. Make it an ongoing reality.

March of Dimes Superwalk

Volunteers raise dollars -- and blisters!

Approximately 150 walkers turned out Sunday, raising some $2,600 for the March of Dimes in Prentiss County's second annual Superwalk.

Although this amount is down from last year's figure of $3,700, Superwalk coordinator Janis Johnson says some money is still coming in from those who took donations but were unable to participate in the walk for some reason.

Mrs. Johnson says she has several smaller walks planned for some of the younger children which should also help increase the figure.

With 45 people participating, Blue Bell Manufacturing (Wrangler) was the largest team in Sunday's walk. Blue Bell also raised the most money, turning in $1,239.73.

The Wheeler FHA raised $177.45 in the Superwalk.

In the schools' category, Booneville High School turned in the most money, $403.45.

Among individuals, Angela Smith turned in $155.26 to be tops in the girls' category and Anthony Pettigo took top honors in the boys' category with $146.73.

With $92.12, Dawn Wilhite was second among the girls. John Letteri's $131.10 put him in second place among the boys.

Trophies and prizes in each of the categories will be presented at a skating party next Monday night at Dixieland Skating Center.

The party will be from 7 to 9 p.m. It will cost $1.50 per individual to skate.

Prentiss County Health Fair Screens 450

Approximately 450 Prentiss Countians participated in the Health Screening Fair last Friday at the Booneville West Side Community Center.

The fair was co-sponsored by Memphis TV station WREG-TV Channel 3, Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, the Memphis Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the National Health Screening Council for Volunteer Organizations.

People were standing in line waiting to get in when the doors opened at 9 a.m. and a steady stream of traffic flowed through the community center all day.

John Tompkins, administrator of the Baptist Hospital in Booneville, said it is hoped the health fair can become an annual event in Booneville.

Both he and Frances Green, coordinator for the health fair, said they learned a lot from this fair which should help to improve next years.

"We hope to have more equipment on hand next year to make things move more efficiently," Tompkins said.

There was a bottleneck at the pulmonary function testing station that caused a delay in getting through the tests.

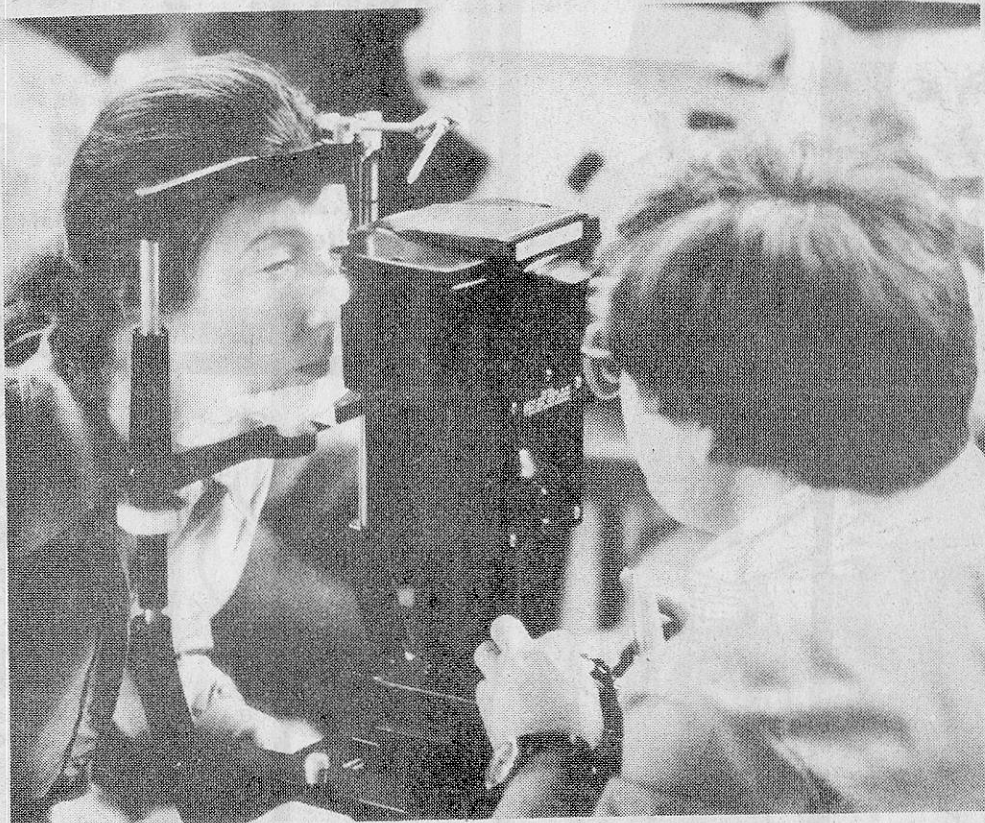

Other tests offered free of charge to participants in the health fair included screenings for weight, height, blood pressure, vision, glaucoma, anemia, and oral cancer.

Additional blood chemistry tests were offered at a cost of $8 to cover lab expenses.

Tompkins expressed his appreciation to all those who helped make the health screening fair a success.

‘The Music Man Opens Tonight At NE

Actors, actresses and director, alike, at Northeast Junior College are employing the "think system" developed in Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" as final preparations are made for tonight's opening of the hit Broadway show.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday in Seth Pounds Auditorium.

"The Music Man," for which he wrote both book, music and lyrics, was Willson's first Broadway venture. From beginning to production, the task required a six-year struggle and 38 rewrites. In repayment for Willson's patience and perseverance, "The Music Man" became one of the five longest running musical plays in Broadway's history.

In addition to numerous theatrical awards "The Music Man" captured, the film version, produced by Warner Brothers, resulted in an Oscar from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for its music.

Set during the turn of the century in mythical River

City, Iowa, the story line revolves around con artist Professor Harold Hill's philosophy that children should be protected against evil.

Tickets are $4 per person and may be purchased at the College Business Office.

Credits Offered For Summer Workers

Summertime is almost here, and that means young people will soon be out looking for summer jobs.

In an effort to help improve the youth employment picture by giving employers an incentive to hire young people, the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 established a new target group in the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit (TJTC) program - qualified summer youth employees.

This new tax credit can be a real money-saver for Mississippi employers, says O.H. Simmons, executive director, Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

Through TJTC, an employer can get a tax credit of 85 percent on the first $3,000 paid to an eligible summer worker. This could amount to a savings of up to $2,550 for each eligible summer youth hired.

Simmons says many of the state's employers have realized a "bottom line" savings in their tax bills by using the credits available through TJTC in the past, and this new target group promises even more savings.

According to Simmons, if only 1,000 young people were hired through TJTC this summer, the Mississippi businessmen who hired them could reap up to $2,550,000 in tax credits.

Under the program, a qualified summer youth employee is someone who starts to work after April 30, works any 90-day period between May 1 and Sept. 15, had not previously worked for the employer, and is certified by the Mississippi

State Employment Service (Job Service) prior to starting work.

Employers interested in finding out more about the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit (TJTC) program should contact their local Employment Service office.

BED-WETTING
Many children are punished for bed-wetting when this condition is actually beyond their conscious control. Medication may help temporarily, but the chiropractor realizes that the muscles guarding the opening from the bladder are weakened and may be the cause of this problem. Through careful, gentle spinal adjustments, normal nerve supply is restored to these muscles. Removing nerve interference or irritation will allow healthy tissue and muscles to function properly as nature intended -- without medication.

Aircraft Important To Forestry Programs

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

When most people think of planes in connection with forestry, they envision a World War II relic making spectacular "bombing" runs with water or other liquid substances on a raging forest fire in rough mountainous areas somewhere out West.

During infrequent threats from the dreaded southern pine beetle, the Commission planes are the primary mode of surveillance.

By keeping a close watch for faded color in pine foliage, location and size of beetle infestations can be spotted and dealt with much sooner than if ground checks alone were employed.

When fire danger dictates, fire patrol missions are flown daily to supplement the agency's extensive fire tower system in a constant surveillance for smoke on the horizon.

When a fire is spotted, the pilot radios its location and size to a dispatcher in a tower or ground based station who then coordinates movement of the firefighting crew.

If access to a fire is difficult, the pilot can direct crews from the air.

With aerial surveillance we can get to a fire and suppress it much faster than if we had to rely entirely on ground direction. Also, sometimes we are forced to make a decision about which fire to put out first because of limited crews and equipment.

In this situation, aerial detection helps us place priorities by telling us which fire is likely to do the most damage.

Even though a tower-person can get to a fire and see only above the tree tops and cannot determine with certainty whether the burn is in, say, a young tree plantation, where damages would be devastating, or in an empty field where damages would be minimal.

After a forest fire, aerial observation can also help determine extent of the burn and of its damages.

We have even had occasion to learn the identity of woodburners by seeing them from the air in the act of setting fires and following them as they returned home.

Both fixed-wing planes and helicopters are now being used in Mississippi for chemical applications to control undesirable underbrush in preparing a site for reforestation, much as planes are used to dust cotton or other row crops.

Also, in reforestation, helicopters can direct-seed up to 1,000 acres per day, an area which would require a full planting season's work if a landowner were planting young seedling trees.

In recent years, experiments have been conducted using aircraft for fertilizing young plantations as well as for seeding them.

Helicopters have increasingly been used to remove harvested logs from areas otherwise inaccessible, although this method has not been used extensively here in the Magnolia State yet.

Aerial photography is playing an important forestry role, too. Photographs have become prime aids to resource planning for future forestry practices because they reveal, much more easily and accurately than even a good ground survey, the acreage needing planting or harvesting. They are likewise effective in making preliminary damage surveys following windstorms, etc.

The Forestry Commission doesn't normally use aircraft to apply fire-suppressing substances, but we now have several huge water buckets that can be used in extreme emergencies under a cooperative arrangement with the Mississippi Air National Guard.

Some forest industries in the state are currently experimenting with the aerial application of fire to do prescribed burning.

Thus it may be that there's much more to come in the use of aircraft to help perpetuate our state's great renewable forest resource.

Excess Acreage Deadline Is May 11

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

MAY 11 FINAL DISPOSITION DATE FOR WHEAT

Wheat in excess of the permitted acreage on farms participating in the 1983 Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) and on farms enrolled in the ARP and Payment-In-Kind (PIK) Program must be destroyed by May 11, 1983.

Wheat on the farm in excess of the permitted acreage after this date will cause the farm to be out of compliance. Also, wheat growing on acreage designated as conserving use acreage after the May 11 date, will result in the acreage being ineligible, thereby causing the farm to be out of compliance.

The May 11 final disposition date this year represents a change from last year when wheat was required to be destroyed by the time the grain heads reached hard dough stage.

Participants should check with their local ASCS office concerning the eligibility of land designated as conserving use acreage under the ARP and PIK programs.

CONSERVATION USES MUST BE APPROVED

Prentiss County farmers enrolled 73 percent of their crop acreage bases in the 1983 acreage reduction, land diversion and payment-in-kind programs to help reduce excess crops and strengthen farm prices. The land taken out of production will be devoted to conservation uses.

Based on program enrollment data, farmers will be required to put 3750 acres into conserving uses. The eligibility of this land for conservation use acres is determined by the county ASC committee.

To protect the diverted acres from soil and water erosion, farmers are required to establish a vegetative cover or conservation practice on the land.

The cover or practices also must be approved by the county ASC committee, and by the district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

The approved conservation uses include annual, biennial, or perennial grasses and legumes, volunteer stands, other than weeds, small grains and crop residue from use of no till, or minimum till. Other cover or plantings, particularly those benefiting wildlife, may be developed, as long as the practice meets the erosion control standards approved by SCS.

Farm program participants may want to consider devoting the land taken out of production to a permanent vegetative cover or practices such as trees, sod waterways, filter strips and windbreaks.

If the cover or conservation practices are maintained, the land will be eligible for designation as conserving use acreage. Acreage reports are used to determine compliance with farm programs. They also serve as a basis for the 1984 program base acres for farms. Program participants are required to report their actual planted acreage on a field-by-field basis to be eligible for program benefits.

It is also important for non-program participants to report their acres because the 1984 base acres will be based on the certified 1983 acreage.

To verify that acreage reports are accurate ASCS randomly checks farms and also provides aerial photographs for farmers to identify their fields.

Farmers who have not certified their fall-seeded crops are urged to do so as soon as possible. The county ASCS office is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

shared under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Oakley Gets Eighth Homer As Booneville Slams Kossuth

By CLIFF LONG
Sports Writer

Booneville's baseballers won a dominant game over Kossuth Tuesday after dropping a big district match-up at Iuka on Friday. In Tuesday's game at the city park, the Booneville boys swung for the fence and found success as four Blue Devils went on round trips. Greg Oakley began the surge with his eighth home run of the year to begin a scoring stretch that found Booneville on top 12-2 in the end. Other Blue Devil sluggers who found the marks were Mark McCreary, Carlos Hastings, and Jody Presley. Blue Devil batters accounted for 10 hits in the game. Defensively pitcher Rod Coggin won his third straight district game in the fashion of 12 strikeouts and a two-hitter. Coggin also had a hot bat, going 2-for-3 on the afternoon. On Friday of last week, Booneville traveled to Iuka to break the tie for the district lead. Iuka won the game 5-4 in the bottom of the eighth inning thanks to two Booneville errors. Mark McCreary was charged with the loss despite a solid pitching effort.

Booneville scored two runs in the fifth inning to send the game into extra innings. Oakley had a home run in the game as he went 2-for-3 on the day. Larry Mackin was also 2-for-3. Booneville has three more district games left, including a home match with Iuka Monday.

The Blue Devils are second in the district with a 4-1 record. Iuka is 5-0 in the district. Booneville is three games ahead of the third place team, so a few more wins will clinch them a place in the North-half playoffs. The Blue Devils play Ripley at the city park today at 3:30.

Coach Should Be Hired Soon

By CLIFF LONG
Sports Writer

Booneville High School should fill their vacant spot on the Blue Devil coaching staff very soon, according to Superintendent R.D. Griffin. Upon the dismissal of Charles Gullett earlier this year, the head football position was opened for applicants. Griffin said that he hopes to fill the position at the upcoming board meeting on May 10. A total of eight men have applied for the post and seven of them have already been interviewed. Griffin said these seven had all visited the campus of Booneville High School individually over the course of the last few weeks. Although Griffin withheld the names of the applicants, he did give some general information about the lot. Griffin said that besides some local applicants, there are men under consideration from Central and South Mississippi and one from outside the state. Griffin said he was also pleased with the talent and "caliber of the applicants." The experience of the applicants is in a range of up to 10 years, according to Griffin. Griffin said that, in the question of salary, Booneville would "try to be competitive within the area within the limits of the budget." Griffin explained that the school system wants "someone that will be here a while and continue to build our program."

Coupons Boost Food Sales And Help Consumers Save Money

By WANDA L. ROBINSON
4-H Program Assistant

To shoppers, coupons offer a chance to snip nickels and dimes off prices. But, to the U.S. food industry, coupon advertising is a billion dollar a year effort to capture customers.

Ninety billion food advertising coupons were issued in 1980. One out of 20 of those were redeemed at a total value of about $1 billion, according to a study by economist Anthony E. Gallo of USDA's Economic Research Service.

About 3.3 cents of every $10 spent by the consumer goes to cover the gross cost of coupons. However, there is no hard evidence that food prices would drop in the absence of coupons, because manufacturers would shift to other types of advertising.

While consumers can save money, food manufacturers find that coupons cost but they also help boost sales by:

-- Lowering the retail cost for the item, after the coupon value is subtracted from the price. This undercuts competition.

-- Increasing consumer awareness of the product.

-- Improving shelf space and position in stores.

The effectiveness of coupons appears to be drawing more attention in the food industry. The number of coupons issued jumped from 10 billion in 1965 to 90 billion in 1980.

This impressive growth, however, needs to be viewed within the total food promotion picture. Coupons still comprise the smallest portion of the four major types of food advertising and promotion.

Television and radio accounted for 41 percent of food advertising expenditures in 1979, newspaper and magazines took 24 percent, consumer premiums such as trading stamps accounted for 24 percent, and coupons took 11 percent.

Dollar outlays for coupons would be far higher if redemption rates kept pace with the increase in numbers issued.

Not all coupons redeemed at food stores are for food products. In fact, only 3 out of 5 coupons redeemed were for food. Such nonfood items as household supplies, pet food, tobacco, and general merchandise accounted for 39 percent of coupons redeemed.

Among food items, coffee and highly processed products such as breakfast cereals, cake mixes, and prepared foods were the most common among redeemed coupons.

Not surprisingly, highly processed - highly couponed - foods also tend to be the most highly advertised in broadcast and print media. Thus, couponing is often part of a broader advertising strategy to promote a given product.

Couponing creates consumer demand for a specific brand, pressuring the retailer for prime shelf placement. Shelf space struggles aren't the only problem that coupons present to retailers. Store-brand products, which are usually priced about 20 percent below national brands, lose their crucial competitive advantage unless the retailer trims prices during couponing campaigns by national brand rivals.

Retailers also promote coupons, but often with a different objective. While manufacturers issue coupons to sell a given product, retailers use them to lure customers into the store - as well as to promote store-brand products.

In-ad coupons are a common form of retailer couponing. Coupons often for store-brand products, produce, and fresh meats - are printed inside a store's newspaper ads. If national brands are thus promoted, the manufacturers usually reimburse at least some of the cost and may provide advertising formats.

Parallel Terraces Help Save Soil

By DON JONES
Soil Conservation Technician

USDA-Soil Conservation Service
Booneville Field Office

Most of the land in Prentiss County is rolling, so we need to do something to keep the soil in place. One of the solutions during the past few years has been to install parallel terraces with pipe-outlets. But you can't just install pipe-outlets and establish terraces and expect them to do their job. You've got to restore the topsoil fertility, where disturbed, and maintain the terraces and pipe-outlets.

After terraces are constructed, you need to apply double rates of lime, phosphate, and potash on the areas that were deep cut and bring the rest of the field up to soil test recommendations. Once you get the topsoil built back, the field is usually in pretty good shape.

Then it's just a matter of maintaining the fertility needs of whatever crop you are growing. You would also need to clean out the dirt and other sediments that settle in around the pipe-outlet. Once a year is usually enough.

One would also need to maintain the original height of the terraces as he plows or does other field work, so that the terrace does not gradually wear down.

The idea of the parallel terrace and pipe-outlets is to slow the water run-off, thereby reducing soil losses and with farm land selling for $1000.00 per acre or more we need to keep our soil in place.

This new concept of parallel terraces and pipe-outlets are catching on in Prentiss County. We now have ten (10) sets built, completed and maintained here in the county.

If you would like more information about pipe-outlet terraces, come by the Soil Conservation Service office.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Larry E. Hill

Romans 13:13 "Let us walk honestly, as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying."

Today's thought on honesty examines one of the most difficult but essential virtues of a Christian's life. Perhaps nothing presents a greater challenge than to be totally honest in thought, word and deed; honesty provides the acid test of a Christian's convictions and commitments.

Examples of dishonesty in our contemporary world abound in all facets of society, from the top echelons of government, business, and institutions to the lowest. Even a casual observation reveals the prevalence of dishonest practices in the every day secular routine of living. But, when a sinner comes to God, the spirit of honesty must struggle through the twisted growth of years of deceit.

Did not Ben Franklin say: "Honesty is the best policy?" But the Christian's view of honesty must be greater than that of a policy. Honesty to the Christian must involve the soul. For this has to do with his conscience, will and heart.

Honesty must begin in the heart, for unless a person is honest with himself he cannot hope to be honest with others. It is from the heart that thoughts of evil originate, and from these thoughts come evil deeds.

One of the meanings of honesty is fairness in dealing with others. While this includes political, social and religious interaction, it especially applies to the matters of business transactions. What the Christian should know is that God will not tolerate dishonesty in his dealings with others.

Dishonesty is common to all cultures and nations, but the person wanting to be saved must be delivered from the satanic power of deceit. He must renounce fraud and business schemes that emanates a greedy heart. He must not lie, steal, cheat or live the life of a hypocrite. God has called him to be a holy vessel to carry an image of honesty to a lost world! May God bless you and may his spirit shine through us!
