Two File For Rienzi Offices

Two people have filed qualifying papers to seek the office of Rienzi mayor and alderman, according to Rienzi Town Clerk Michelle Thomas.

Smith Benjamin has filed to run as Mayor and Mrs. Louise Geno has filed to run as alderman.

Monday, Oct. 17, is the last day to qualify for those positions.

The special election will be held Thursday, Oct. 27.

The post of Rienzi mayor became vacant after Danny Lowrey resigned Sept. 22. Lowrey will assume duties as county attorney in Alcorn County in January. He said last week he foresaw possible conflicts between the offices of county attorney, mayor, and his private law practice.

NMPDD Board Appoints Director

According to John Hanley, present director of the Aging Division for the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District, the NMPDD Board voted to hire a new executive director at its Oct. 3 meeting.

The new director, Eugene Taylor, is presently Tippah County Superintendent of Education. Taylor replaces Charles Spearman, whose resignation was accepted by the Board at its Sept. 12 meeting.

Spearman had resigned following an Appalachian Regional Commission audit of the NMPDD.

The Board had appointed Spearman's administrative assistant, Ms. Sadie Hardin, as interim director pending its choice of a new permanent director.

"Mr. Taylor will probably start work most any time," Hanley said.

Reappraisers Canvas Communities

Reappraisers are still canvassing in the Blackland and Altitude communities, according to Prentiss County Tax Assessor-Collector Danny Childers.

The reappraisal information that will be requested from homeowners will include measurements of the house, number of baths, type of heat, floor materials (carpet or vinyl) and material on walls (paneling or sheet rock).

If the homeowner is not home when the appraisers arrive to get the information, the house will still be measured, and a pre-printed, stamped card will be left for the homeowner to fill out and mail.

Those gathering the reappraisal information will have an identification card.

It will not be necessary for them to go inside the house.

County Receives 'In Lieu' Monies

Prentiss County has received $3,209 in federal funds for "payments in lieu of taxes" for fiscal year 1983, Congressman Jamie Whitten has announced.

The Department of Interior funds, which are distributed to local governments to help offset the loss of income from non-taxable federal property such as National Forests, are payment for 4,541 acres of federal land located within the County.

Congressman Whitten, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee which provides funds for the program, said that the payment helps the local governments make up for the loss of revenues that tax-exempt federal property causes.

Elderly To Receive Prescription Discount

Elderly citizens in Prentiss County are eligible to receive a 10 percent discount on their prescription drugs at most drug stores in Booneville.

The 10 percent discount is to be made to all the elderly on prescription drugs on cash purchases or cash within 30 days.

The 10 percent discount began Saturday at the following pharmacies: Foodway Pharmacy; Hills Discount Drugs; Smith Drug Company; Davidson Discount Pharmacy; Booneville Discount Drugs; Cox-Blythe Drug Co., and Floyd Drug Co.

The discount was brought about by efforts of the Public Affairs chairmen of the Prentiss County Retired Teachers' Association who approached the pharmacists in Booneville recently concerning the discount.

Overcrowding At Thrasher School Causes Concern Among Parents

By ED WOODWARD
Staff Reporter

A number of Thrasher parents are expressing their concern over what they say are overcrowded classrooms at their elementary school.

One of those parents is Mrs. Aaron Mize, who has a child in the 5th grade at Thrasher. "I understand they have 55 students in the 5th grade. And it breaks my heart, because I hear in the news, and read in the papers about all these schools that have modern technology, and computers, and all that. And our children are stacked in a classroom like little toothpicks," Mrs. Mize said.

"I understand they are separated once a day for their reading class. But the rest of the day they are all together in one room," she said.

Mrs. Mize said she has talked to Prentiss County Superintendent of Education Lex Cain, and to Dr. Ralph Brewer, chairman of the Department of Instructions at the state Department of Education in Jackson.

"Mr. Brewer told me there are supposed to be no more than 27 students in a classroom. And he called Mr. Cain, and told him I had called. And Mr. Cain told him they were working on it," Mrs. Mize said.

She said when she contacted Cain during the first week of school, he said he was not aware of the problem, but that he would "check into it, and work on it."

But, she said Monday, it has now been three weeks since she spoke to him, and the problem remains the same.

Mrs. Mize's attitude is not one of complaint, but of concern as to what she and other parents can do to alleviate the situation.

"We have some good teachers at Thrasher. But common sense tells us that no teacher can teach and control 55 students in a classroom," she said.

Mrs. Mize said the explanation given to Brewer by Cain was a lack of money for hiring another teacher. "He said there were no state funds, or local funds," she said. "But, when state law sets a maximum of 27 students to a class, I don't know how they can get away with 55. That's a very good question."

Mrs. Mize admitted that she is the spokesperson for an "unorganized" group of parents. "Everybody is just wringing their hands, and trying to help their children, and wondering what to do... and not coming up with any answers," she said.

Asked how she felt the situation is affecting the students, Mrs. Mize replied, "My child has always liked school, and has always been ready to go. But she has been very upset this year, because there are a lot of discipline problems in the classroom."

She said, though grade cards have not yet been

New Action Taken

Thrasher Principal Harold Padgett said Wednesday morning that the overcrowding problem has been solved. The new action was apparently spurred by The Banner-Independent's investigation into the situation.

According to Padgett, the three overcrowded classes have been further 'departmentalized' with the result that the average number of students per class is now "no more than 24."

"They (the state Department of Education) had told me I could departmentalize. But, at that particular time I didn't ask. I just departmentalized," Padgett said.

"And what we came up with is six sections of kids. And we're shifting classes, which is going to mean they'll have two study hall periods... which I don't like, but it will meet state specifications," he said.

Padgett said the negative point is that the students will have to go to the high school for their study hall periods. He said the students will now have seven periods - five teacher periods, and the two study halls, with a teacher having to teach each subject twice, rather than once to a full class.

Bug Hunt At NEMJC

Last Thursday afternoon was the perfect time for Jim Lamb's zoology class at Northeast Junior College to accompany Northeast Mississippi Museum Director Doug Fleury on an insect collecting expedition on the Northeast campus. As part of their zoology course, the students were supplied with equipment and collecting strategies. Some 54 students collected insects such as bumblebees, wasps and butterflies. Most of these are mild-mannered insects - until they are caught. However, all the angry wasps and bumblebees were transferred to containers without any accidents. Pictured are Debbie Wright and Glen Spencer as they ready an insect to be placed in a container and John Fields, armed with net, stalking unsuspecting insects. (Photos By Angela Smith)

In Lottery

Local Low Power TV Station Gets FCC Approval

Booneville's low-power television station is closer to reality with the Federal Communications Commission's awarding of broadcast permits for 23 such stations in a lottery drawing last Thursday, Sept. 29.

Among the licenses awarded in the lottery was one to Free State Broadcasting Inc., for operation of Channel 53 in Booneville.

In January 1983, Vincent

Casey, a Laurel, Miss. businessman and general manager of Free State Broadcasting Inc., told The Banner-Independent of his company's application to the FCC for a permit to construct a low power TV station in Booneville.

At the time, Casey cautioned that there was no way of predicting when approval would come, saying, "That's between the good Lord and the FCC."

He said the FCC had a backlog of applications for low power TV stations, causing approval to be long in coming.

The FCC's answer to that backlog was a lottery drawing to select 23 stations from among 78 applicants in 16 states.

Using a plexiglass barrel used by draft officials during the Vietnam War, the FCC decided in 50 minutes what could have taken years of hearings. And Booneville's Channel 53 was one of the applicants winning the luck of the draw.

According to Barbara A. Kreisman, head of the FCC's low-power TV branch, her agency and Congress see low-power television as a special opportunity for minority groups and individuals without other media interests to enter broadcasting.

A low-power station, with a range of 10 to 15 miles, serves a smaller area than a conventional TV station, and is much cheaper to build. One can be put on the air for $100,000, or less, rather than the millions of dollars required for a conventional station.

At the time of application, Casey said Channel 53 would operate with a transmitter power of 100 watts. He declined to discuss programming, saying only that his company had "secured 18 hours of programming."

"We have committed for it, and it will be entertaining. And, we are going to be community minded," he said.

As of press time, Casey could not be reached for comment on the awarding of Channel 53's license.

Education

'At Some Point, We Lowered Our Standards'

The following is the first in a series of articles in which principals in Prentiss County take a look at the education system.

By ED WOODWARD
Staff Reporter

"Education is a topic that we've been discussing in Mississippi for years - not just for the last year or so," said Booneville High School Principal Mac Curlee.

"And I think when the (State) legislature passed House Bill Number Four, Mississippi stepped to the forefront as far as taking some steps to upgrade education, and being more positive about education in seeing the long range results of what a good, sound education can do for a person, and what it can do for the state," Curlee said. "So I feel that House Bill Four is going to bring about some changes in Mississippi in education that we haven't seen in quite a while...some needed changes."

Curlee admitted that the legislation is going to require work from everyone - teachers, administrators, students, and parents - if it is going to accomplish what Gov. Winter is striving for.

And he agreed that one of the biggest challenges presently facing Mississippi educators is student motivation.

"It's a problem. With some students you don't have any problem as far as motivation. But I would say the largest percentage of teachers worry about how to motivate students," he said.

"There are a lot of ways you can reach kids. You just don't know which way will work. It might be athletics. It might be band, or chorus. You just don't know when you get a kid here what interests he's going to have.

"There are some kids whose only reason for being in school is that they enjoy playing football, or basketball. There are some kids who enjoy band. For different reasons, there are a lot of things that we have going on here - extracurricular activities - that can be a kid's only issued, the effects are showing in her daughter's daily grades. "Her math grades are very, very low. And I called the teacher, and asked her exactly what I could help Angela with. And she told me. And I sit up at night, and help her with her work.

"I'm not interested in the politics of it. I'm just interested in our children having a good education, which I know that they cannot get under these circumstances," Mrs. Mize said.

Mrs. Stanley Burns has three children at Thrasher Elementary, one in the 4th, one in the 5th, and one in the 6th grades. And she said all three classes are overcrowded.

"There are 45 in the 4th grade, and 44 in the 6th grade," she said.

Asked what problems her children were having at school, she said, "It's just the overcrowding more than anything. I think it's making the teachers ill with the kids. And I don't think they would be if they had smaller classes."

Mrs. Burns said she had contacted Supt. Cain's office, expressed her concern, and offered her assistance. "I told them I would do anything I could, volunteer work, or anything to take some of the load off the teachers, and off the children, too," she said.

"My children are not happy with the situation. They're used to about 25 to 28 kids in their class. And they're just kind of jammed up back to back. And they just don't have much room to move around," Mrs. Burns said.

"We have as good teachers as can be found anywhere in the state of Mississippi. And Thrasher has a good school. But it's just too crowded right now. And I would like to see something done about it, because it's making it hard on the teachers, and the children, and the parents, too," she said.

Mrs. Barbara Robinson's youngest child attends 5th grade at Thrasher. She said he is getting no individual instruction.

"He'll say, 'Mom, I don't understand this. She doesn't have time to show us like I need to be shown.' He understands that. And I've noticed I can ask him something about his homework, trying to help him, myself. And he says he doesn't understand it," Mrs. Robinson said.

"And I ask him how the teacher goes about explaining it. And he says she doesn't have time to explain it."

"There are 50 kids in his class. There were 55, but five have dropped out. And she (Ms. Mary Ann Ward) tries to go around and show the kids a problem individually, because some of them learn harder than others. But she has less than a minute to work with each child," Mrs. Robinson said.

"And this teacher is extra good, because my other kids had her when the classroom wasn't crowded. Ms. Ward is the best teacher here in my book. And I'm sure it's upsetting her," she said.

"But my son is just not getting what he needs to get out of school."

Mrs. Robinson said some parents have contacted unopposed superintendent of schools candidate J.W. Greene about the situation. "And he said he will do anything he can, and try to help us, once he is able," she said.

"But I can tell the difference in my son from when my kids were in Ms. Ward's class when it wasn't crowded. He's just not getting what he needs," Mrs. Robinson said.

"And it bothers me. I'm sending him to school because I want him to get an education. I don't want him to just pass through. If a child doesn't get an education, he doesn't have a chance in life.

"And I've asked people, 'What can I do?' because, ever since my oldest daughter was in the first grade, I've done everything I was ever asked to do to try to help the school. And this is a situation that has really got me bothered... bad," Mrs. Robinson said.

"We're offering to help," she said. "We've even offered to meet with the school board. But we were informed today (Oct. 3) that the school board had a meeting today. But we weren't notified. None of us knew about it. And we asked when the next meeting would be. And Mr. Cain said it won't be until Oct. 17."

"Anything can happen between now and Oct. 17. We need something done now. There is already a dangerous discipline problem," Mrs. Robinson said.

"I just think it's bad," said Mrs. Eloise Bearden, who has a daughter in the 5th Grade at Thrasher.

"I know she's not getting the attention that she's used to," Mrs. Bearden said. "But I know the teachers don't have time to give an individual student attention. I have talked with them. And they say they do not have the time."

Mrs. Bearden said her daughter is "barely passing... And I know she could do better. But she needs extra attention because she's a shy child."

Asked if the combination of her shyness and the overcrowded classroom was making her daughter uncomfortable, Mrs. Bearden said, "I think it would make anyone uncomfortable the way they're crowded. They're just packed in the classroom."

"I think it's terrible. And I think they need to do something about it," she said.

Mrs. Bearden said she had talked with Thrasher

Principal Harold Padgett, and Elementary Superintendent Dr. Neola Cleveland about the problem.

"Mr. Padgett said it is because so many kids stayed out of school last year that they lost teachers," she said.

Thrasher Principal Harold Padgett confirmed to The Banner-Independent that the overcrowding was the result of the school's losing teachers.

He said that part of the problem - the illegality of having over 27 students to a class - had been solved by "departmentalizing" the three overcrowded classes (rotating the students to four different classrooms, rather than keeping them in the same room all day).

The requirement then changes from a maximum of 27 students per class to a maximum of 150 students per teacher per day, Padgett explained.

Padgett confirmed that there are 45 students in the 4th Grade class, and 44 in the 6th Grade, but said the student population in the 5th Grade is currently 49.

When informed that several concerned parents were offering volunteer assistance to help alleviate the problem, Padgett said he had not been aware of the offer, "but I'll be happy to have their help," he said.

When contacted by The Banner-Independent, Supt. Cain said: "We have talked with the state Department of Education, and they say, 'Do the best you can.' And that's what we're doing."

"I asked for a teacher unit. And they said they could not give it."

Cain then suggested that The Banner-Independent not pursue the situation. "I think you're getting yourself involved in some stuff that won't help The Banner-Independent, or the community, either. They (the concerned parents) have called in. And I told them the board would meet with them," Cain said.

When told that Mrs. Robinson had said the parents had asked for a meeting with the board, but had not been informed of the Oct. 3 meeting until after the fact, Cain said: "They had not asked me. When they called me yesterday (Oct. 3) was the first time I knew that they wanted to meet with the board. And I told them we had just got out of our meeting.

"Had we known it, we would have met with them yesterday. But I didn't know it," he said.

A grass fire occurred at Kenneth Jones' residence on Meadow Creek Road Oct. 3.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, could you help me with "Gog and Magog" in Revelation? I have heard preachers say this refers to a Russian invasion.

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: If a preacher told you that Gog and Magog referred to a Russian invasion, all I have to say is he could not prove it if his life depended upon it. I cannot tell you EXACTLY what these words refer to. Actually, the words "Gog and Magog" are probably a combination of one word. "Gog" is used three times in the Bible. In (1 Chron. 5:4) it's used to designate a Reubenite. However, in (Ezek. 38:14) "Gog" symbolically represents a mythical ruler who opposed God's people. This is also true in Revelation 20:8. Some think the name "Gog" came from "Gyges" the king of Lydia (7th century before Christ). Others think the name came from a place called "Gagaia" said to be the home of barbarians. So as you can see we do not know the origin of the name itself. It is sheer speculation. The context in the above scriptures will show you that in both Ezekiel and Revelation "Gog and Magog" were enemies of God's people who were defeated. Just as the beast in Revelation was symbolic of the Roman empire as it persecuted God's people so "Gog and Magog" personify the spiritual forces of heathenism launched against the church. They do not represent any particular nation but any force against the church. When any preacher tells you he knows exactly what they represent you may rest assured that he has jumped into the field of speculation.

$375,000 Economic Development Grant Approved For NMPDD

By ED WOODWARD
Staff Reporter

The Federal Economic Development Administration has approved a grant of $375,000 to the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The grant, one of seven for Mississippi projects totaling $2.1 million, was announced recently by Sen. Thad Cochran's office.

According to John Handy at the NMPDD's Booneville office, the District will use the funds for economic development in the area through a revolving loan program.

"It is basically a continuation grant for our revolving loan fund. And it is used for anything having to do with economic development, whether it be a factory, or a business...anything that can create jobs," Handy explained.

"That's the main objective of the program, to create jobs," he said.

The approval of the EDA grant comes less than two weeks after recertification of the NMPDD was jointly approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the state Office of Federal-State Programs.

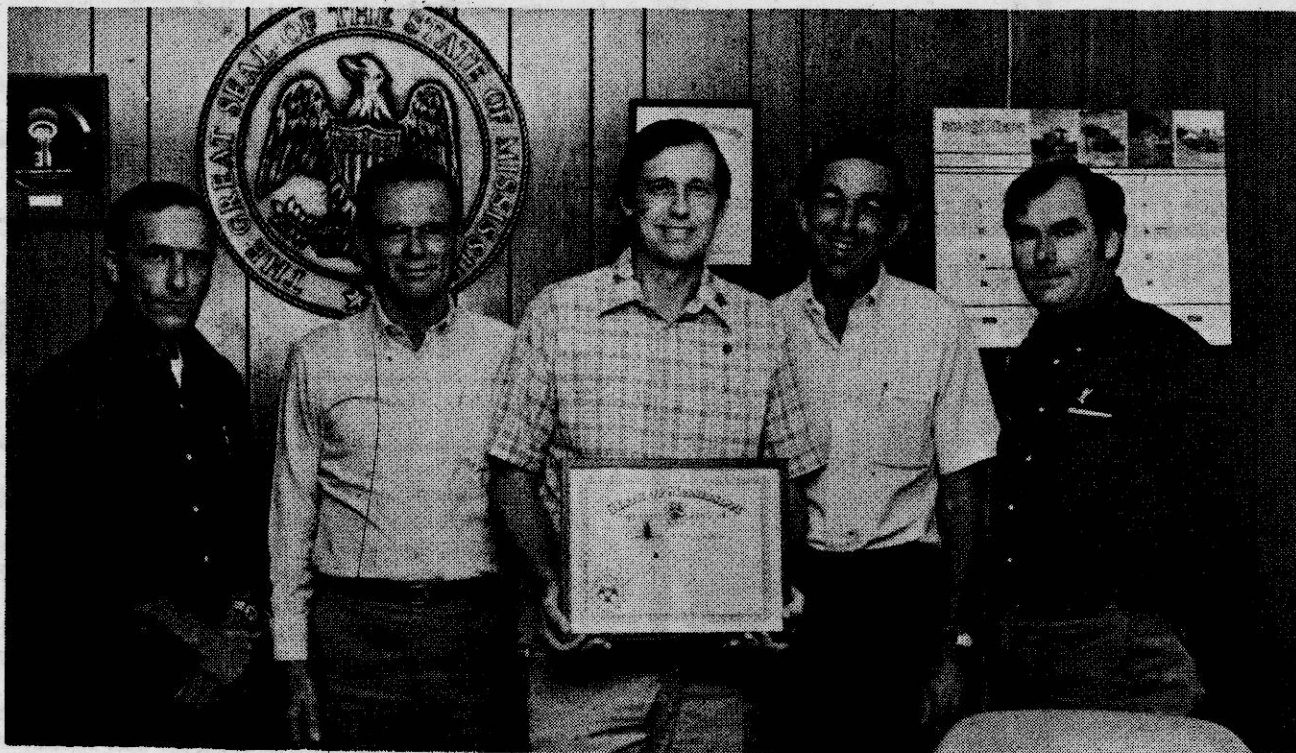

That recertification had been withheld pending the District's compliance with several conditions laid down by both the directors of the two agencies.

One of those conditions was the resignation of former NMPDD Executive Director Charles Spearman, who had been the center of a controversy prompted by an ARC audit of the District earlier this year.

Spearman's resignation was officially accepted by the NMPDD Board of Directors at a Sept. 12 meeting. And the Board voted to advertise for a replacement.

Spearman's administrative assistant, Ms. Sadie Hardin, was appointed interim director pending the hiring of that replacement.

Northeast Homecoming Activities Announced For Oct. 15

Northeast Mississippi Junior College will play host to alumni, friends and students during Homecoming activities Saturday afternoon, Oct. 15.

The action gets underway at 3:30 p.m., in the Frank Haney Union where members of the 1953, 1963, 1973 and 1983 classes will gather for reunions. It is not necessary that you be a graduate of these classes to take part in the reunions.

For the returning alumni, there will be guided tours of the campus' most recent addition, the Gaye Roden Carr Aquatic Center, and a special art exhibit, provided by the Department of Art, will be displayed in the union.

The Alumni Business Meeting at 4:30 p.m., should be high on the list at attendance. In addition to the drawing for 1100 give-aways to three lucky life-time members, doorprizes will be given away at the conclusion of the meeting.

The country-western faculty and students will provide entertainment alumni in a rousing pep rally and parade to Keenum Stadium. Plenty of free pom-poms and balloons will be distributed to boost the Tiger fans' spirit.

The 1983 Homecoming WQueen and her court will be presented, prior to the 7:30 p.m., kickoff when the during the fish fry on the east lawn of the Union from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Following the meal, the Northeast cheerleaders and Tiger Band will lead the Northeast Tigers meet the Bobcats from Jones Junior College.

Immediately after the game, the young at heart are encouraged to attend the second annual Alumni Homecoming Dance in the Tiger Den. Music from the '50's, '60's, '70's and '80's will be presented by the Paul Rainey Band from New Albany.

To make reservations, contact Mrs. Edna Drewry, secretary for Alumni Affairs by calling 728-7751, ext. 298.

Fourth Annual Career Night Next Tuesday At BHS

Booneville High School will host its fourth annual career night program on Tuesday, Oct. 11.

This year promises to be the biggest and best program in the school's history, according to Linda Clifton, B.H.S. Counselor.

Some 34 displays from colleges, industries, organizations, vocational schools, business, and various branches of the armed forces will be on hand to discuss with students and their parents opportunities available upon graduation from high school, she said.

Festivities will begin at 5 p.m. with a bar-b-que supper sponsored by the annual staff. The Ole Miss "Connection" will perform in the gymnasium from 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. The Navy Rock Band from Millington, Tenn. will perform beginning at 6 p.m. and close at 7 p.m. when career booths open.

Conference tables will be available for students and parents to talk with the representatives on an individual basis. Institutions expected to participate in career activities are: U.S. Army, Mississippi College, U.S. Navy, Memphis State University, The University of Mississippi Medical Center, Blue Mountain College, Mississippi Valley College, Mississippi

University For Women; William Carey College, Belhaven College, Mississippi State University, Jackson State University, The University of Mississippi, Prentiss Manufacturing Company, Baptist Memorial Hospital, First Citizens National Bank, Park Lane Furniture, The National Guard, AFROTC - The University of Mississippi, U.S. Marines, U.S. Air Force, Delta State University, Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Freed-Hardman College, IBM, The University of North Alabama, The Coming Attraction, Advance Management Systems, TVA,

The Soil Conservation Service, McClendon Cheese, Union University, The Corps of Engineers, and North Mississippi Barber College. Booneville High School will also be hosting an open house from 7:15 p.m. to 8 p.m. for parents who would like to talk with teachers.

All Booneville High School Students and their parents are encouraged to participate, Mrs. Clifton said.

11 Criminal and 9 Civil Cases Set For October Circuit Court Term

An arson case and a case of simple assault on a law enforcement officer are among the 11 criminal cases that are scheduled during the October term of Prentiss County Circuit Court Oct. 24-28.

Nine civil cases are scheduled Oct. 17-21 during the first week of court with Circuit Court Judge Neal Biggers presiding.

Circuit Judge Thomas Gardner will preside over the criminal cases during the second week of court.

Sentencing is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 28.

Jerry Shook of Route 3, Booneville, faces trial on a charge of simple assault on a law enforcement officer. This charge stems from an Oct. 8, 1982, incident in which he allegedly struck former Prentiss County Deputy Joe Shackelford about the head and face. This is the first trial scheduled for Monday, Oct. 24.

Carl Edward Trout of West Wheeler Drive, Booneville, and Jackie Dale Holland of Route 6, Booneville, face trial on charges of burglary and larceny. They allegedly stole a check writing machine and one book of blank checks from Perfect Cut Manufacturing in Blackland on Jan. 9, 1982.

Holland and Trout also face trial on Thursday, Oct. 27, on charges of uttering a forged instrument at Walden Rowland's Big Star on Jan. 12, 1982.

Tuesday, Oct. 25

Kenneth Dalton Robinson of Booneville faces trial on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the April 1982 of a 1979 Ford Courier pickup belonging to Clark Motor Company.

Earl J. Owens of Route 4, Booneville, will face trial on a burglary and larceny charge in connection with the theft of a banjo from Davis' Barber Shop in April 1982. On Thursday Owens also faces trial on a grand larceny charge. This charge stems from a stolen check drawn by the Mutual of Omaha Insurance Co. in the amount of $104 made payable to Jeffrey Sanford. James Frank Taylor is charged with attempting to acquire possession of a controlled substance (Pentazocine) at Booneville Discount Drugs in July 1982.

Wednesday, Oct. 26

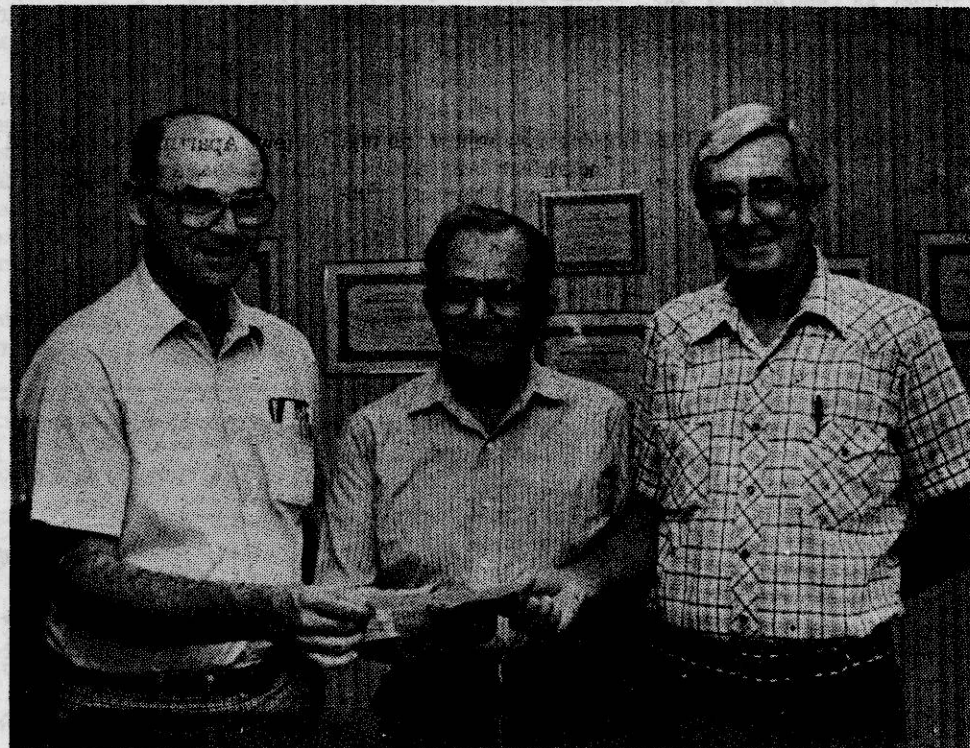

The first two cases set for trial Wednesday involve O'Neal Turner and Linda Lawson.

The other case scheduled for Wednesday is that of Gary Ross of Route 3, Rienzi, who is charged with manufacturing marijuana. Thursday, Oct. 27

Earl J. Owens faces trial on a charge of grand larceny.

Carl E. Trout and Jackie D. Holland face trial on a charge of uttering a forged instrument.

Turner also faces a charge of arson in connection with the same incident. Roe Daniel "Pete" Murphy of Lee County was originally charged with the pair in connection with the incident. However, the charges were retired to the files against him because he pleaded guilty to a charge in Lee County Circuit Court.

The following cases are also scheduled to be heard:

QUESTION: Would you vote for a woman for president?

LAURA CARTWRIGHT of Route 2, Booneville: "Of course I would. Women are just as capable as men and might even do a better job."

WILLIAM COOK of English Avenue, Booneville: "It would depend on the woman and her qualifications. If she was qualified I would vote for her. I wouldn't rule her out just because she was a woman."

LANETTE WOLD of OM Marietta Road, Booneville: "If a woman has the qualifications and the leadership ability for the Presidency, then I would vote for her. No vote should ever be cast on race, color, or sex - only on ability."

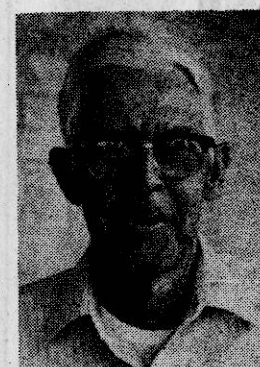

LOIS EATON of Route 2, Booneville: "Yes, I believe if a woman is qualified she would make a good president. I believe a woman would be sincere and honest."

VERLON PADGETT of Route 2, Tishomingo: "No. The Bible says if a woman wants to know anything to stay seated and ask her husband. So how could she be president and not speak in public? I'm 72 and I've never voted for a woman and I'm not planning on it now."

ARVID WROTEN of Route 5, Booneville: "No, I won't. I don't believe a woman is the person to serve. The Bible says the man is the head of the house."

Ponderings

Banner photographer Suzann Sims and I covered our first fire Tuesday night. Almost.

Here's the way it was. Our publisher-photographer Ken Christian was at a meeting in Atlanta Tuesday night when we heard on the police scanner that there was a fire on B-wing at the hospital. Then we heard the sirens screaming as the firetrucks rolled out from the fire department.

Neither Suzann nor I had ever been to a fire, unless you count burning garbage. So being the well-intentioned photographers we are, we decided we had better rush to the hospital to make pictures since Ken wasn't here.

The first problem we encountered was deciding which would be the quickest route to the hospital. We finally solved that, because our office is only about three blocks away.

Once we arrived there, Suzann had to put film in her camera. Luckily for once, my camera was already loaded. I think.

As I waited for Suzann to put film in her camera, I looked up and thought I saw the fire in one of the rooms. "Look Suzy," I yelled, "I can see the fire in that room!" The room did have a pinkish, orange light in it. But I also noticed that people in the surrounding rooms just stood and watched us as we entered the hospital.

I'm going to tell the truth for once. I'm not very familiar with the layout of the hospital. Sure, I've been in it, but when we went in the back, my directions became all turned around.

When we first went in, we found ourselves in front of an elevator. A sign near the elevator warned us not to use the elevator in case of fire. At times like that, always abide by signs.

So we climbed the stairs, which was either very brave or very dumb of us considering we didn't know where the fire was. For all we knew, we were walking into another "Towering Inferno."

After we climbed the stairs, we found a nurse and asked her to direct us to B-wing. "Go right through the fire doors," she said.

Suzann and I just looked at each other. But we figured it must be appropriate for one to go through fire doors when looking for a fire.

We located B-wing where we saw firemen, but no smoke, at the end of the corridor. As we started down the corridor, a nurse met us before we even got halfway and told us that we couldn't go any further because they were having a fire drill.

So Suzann and I followed her orders and left. After all, there is an unwritten photographer's rule which states "Always mind nurses or they might give you a shot."

As we got in the car, I looked up once more at the hospital rooms, and I could still see that pink, orange light that I thought was a fire in one of the rooms.

When we got back to the office, I called the fire department and was told that the fire alarm at the hospital evidently had faulty wiring.

Whatever reason for the firetrucks being at the hospital, Suzann and I were glad there wasn't really a fire. In fact, we decided that Ken can make the fire pictures - just like he's been doing.

An "almost" fire was enough for us.

Eyes On Mississippi

Long-Range Effects Of Legislative Underfunding

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. - Some here are concerned that Mississippi is perilously close to a breakdown in basic services provided by the state government because of under-funding of agencies and institutions by the Legislature for three successive years.

What makes the picture even more alarming is the prospect of further cuts in state services will have to be made before the end of this year as state revenues continue to lag behind estimates adopted by the Legislature when it approved the 1984 fiscal year budget.

Those estimates were predicted upon a 7 percent growth factor for the year, with an upturn starting in the third quarter of 1983.

Rather than an upturn, the key revenue producers - the sales and income taxes - have not even come up to last year's figures.

Everybody connected with the Legislature continues to blame the recession for keeping Mississippi's economy in the doldrums and state revenues down. If this were the first time we had this scenario, it might be different. But this is a rerun of the same one we have seen since 1980.

The Legislature went home in 1981, 1982, and again this past spring, each time patting itself on the back for having funded state government and balancing the budget. It did neither.

Unless Gov. William Winter as chairman of the State Budget Commission had not cut some $250 million across the board from appropriations approved by the Legislature the last three sessions, the state would have been running tremendous deficits.

Even before the cuts in appropriations, the last three budgets were "bare bones" budgets, providing only minimal services in most agencies. Now, practically every state department is understaffed, and the state is down to minimal services, particularly in those services to the poor and the handicapped.

More than 3,000 permanent jobs in state agencies which have become vacant since 1981 have not been filled, and hundreds of parttime workers formerly used to supplement regular workers can no longer be hired.

A startling fact is that since last February, no state employee has been able to get a promotion or transfer to a better job in another department under a freeze imposed by the State Personnel Board on reclassification or reallocation of jobs.

The old American incentive of striving to get ahead, therefore, doesn't exist right now in Mississippi state government.

From the beginning of the downside in the economy, coupled with the cuts in federal funds allotted to Mississippi (since the state was so heavily dependent upon federal funds) under the Reagan administration, it became evident that additional sources of revenue would have to be provided by the Legislature to maintain services at an adequate level.

In view of the present precarious state of services, a strong case of irresponsibility can be made against the Legislature, which has adamantly refused to face up to the need for additional taxes.

But all the blame cannot be placed on Legislature, because in our system of government, the executive branch is supposed to provide leadership and impetus to the legislative branch to look after the public weal.

Winter has not proved to be a strong leader in getting the lawmakers to acquire their obligations and provide revenues which would prevent erosion of state services.

Winter, for instance, was aware as early as his first year in office in 1980 that the three-step income tax cut voted by the Legislature in 1979 would drain needed revenues from his administration. He mildly advocated that the second and third years of the tax cut be rescinded, but he declined to make a fight for it in the Legislature.

Again, the 1983 session, Winter foresaw a shortfall in funding the current budget during the first six months of the fiscal year. But he did not hold the lawmakers feet to the fire, accepting instead a "smoke and mirrors" compromise revenue idea that has not worked.

What the state is now facing, says State Treasurer Bill Cole, is the need for $150 to $200 million in new taxes next year to pull the state budget out of the hole and bring funding of governmental services back to a decent level.

The feeling of Cole and some others is that Mississippi is in the throes of a restructuring of its economy which will not be alleviated to any great degree when the recession is over.

That concept evidently is being embraced by Bill Allain, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee and strong favorite to win the governor's office in November.

When Allain named his former Democratic opponent, farmer-businessman Mike Sturdivant, to head a "council of economic advisers," it was geared to dealing with long-term solutions of state revenue problems, rather than the quick-fix which the legislature has been using with poor results.

Ag Affairs

Government By The Inch

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi
Farm Bureau
Federation

Leave it to newspaper folks to measure state and national governments by the inch, but that is exactly what the AG AFFAIRS column has done this week.

We haven't pored for long hours over print-outs of the federal government budget designated for Mississippi, nor the state government budget for the various departmental functions.

Instead, we've gone to the blue pages of the telephone book to measure the inches it takes to direct people to offices with phone listings in the telephone book, and find that it is a pretty good yardstick to the comparative size of government agencies serving us taxpayers.

Starting out with federal offices listed in the Jackson directory, USDA takes 12.25 inches of the vertical listings in the federal government "blue pages" to put the public in touch with each of their office holders. And that's the biggest. No quarrel with that since agriculture is the leading industry of both this nation and state.

Second in federal telephone listings in Mississippi's capital city is the defense establishment which includes its various branches of military service with 8.75 inches of listings.

Then come in diminishing order U.S. Housing & Urban Development with 3.75 inches, followed by the postal service with 3.5, and transportation with 3. Strangely the treasury department contains its operations within 2 inches of telephone listings while the weather service takes 1.5, the veterans programs 1.25, the justice department a mere 1 inch of listings, the FBI only 2 lines occupying .25 inch and - almost in small print, the secret service with a one line listing of a single telephone. This seems to support a premise that the U.S. government is fairly open and not very secretive.

The telephone book's blue pages of state government follow a different pattern, reflecting the differing natures of responsibility of federal and state governments.

State government's biggest telephone lister are the health functions with 16.25 inches of telephone listings, followed closely by the education folks with 15.25 inches when you lump vocational rehabilitation and schools for the blind and deaf in with larger functions of education.

That Mississippians enjoy getting down the road is attested to by almost 10 inches of phone listings for the highway department, with those who attend to their safety next on this "totem pole" of 6.5 inches for the public safety department, or highway patrol.

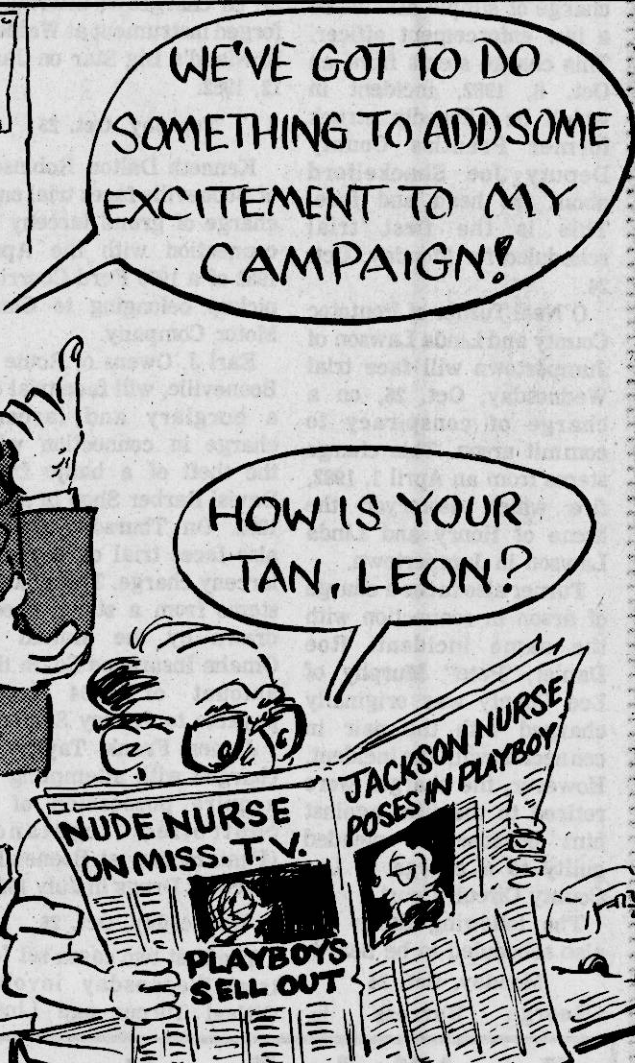

The state tax commission does the next largest business with the phone company with 6.25 inches, following ironically if not logically by the employment commission.

The agriculture and commerce department comes next in state government phonewise, with 4.5 inches of listings followed by the department of natural resources with 4.

The governor's office and his special programs require 3.5 inches of phone listings, while the military establishment takes the same.

All other state functions take smaller listing spaces, including a number of one-liners.

That Yankee From Yonder

By Ed Woodward

For once, Mississippi may have a head start on the rest of the country.

By passing Gov. Winter's education package at last December's special session, the State Legislature initiated many of the reforms already called for in the plethora of studies that are suddenly indicting the education systems across the entire country.

Unfortunately, many of these reforms will cost money. And the legislature has yet to figure out where that is coming from. But, with federal cutbacks becoming a way of life, Mississippi is not the only state facing that problem.

And a study funded by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian has recently come up with a step by step plan for implementing Mississippi's Education Reform Act.

But, that report, soon to be published under the title, "An Opportunity For Excellence," places the majority of the responsibility for that implementation right in the laps of local educators, saying, "Improvement in public education will depend upon what local school boards, teachers, and administrators are able and willing to do to ensure that quality education is available to all children."

The report continues by giving the state the responsibility of guiding "that process by setting standards, providing the required leadership, motivation, and technical assistance, and raising the needed financial resources."

What do Prentiss County educators feel must be done? And what are they already doing? What specific local problems do they face? And how do they think those problems should be handled? And how did education manage to degenerate to its present state in the first place?

In search of the answers to these questions, and suggestions on the best ways to implement education reform on a local level, we interviewed the six Prentiss County High School Principals - Mac Curlee of Booneville High School, "Red" Shelton of Baldwin High School, Jerry Kuykendall of Jumpertown, Larry Morgan of New Site, Harrell Padgett of Thrasher, and William F. Frazier of Wheeler.

Each has his own local problems, past, present, and future. And each has his own solutions for coping with them. And all have interesting, and provocative explanations for the present state of our education system, and how to set it right.

The interviews will be published in six installments, beginning this week with Booneville High School Principal Mac Curlee.

We at The Banner-Independent would appreciate hearing your reactions, and your comments, as well as any ideas you may have on the subject of education, in Mississippi, as well as nationally.

Anchor Club Installs Officers At Poolside Luau

The Luau Installation of the 1983-84 officers of the Anchor Club at Booneville High School was held at the poolside of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lambert on Highway 30 East, Thursday, Sept. 29, at 6:30 p.m.

The event was hosted by the Pilot Club of Booneville.

The Anchors were greeted and presented leis by Mark Walden and Robbie Rogers, president and vice-president of the Booneville High School Student Council.

Mrs. Ann Prichard, president of the Pilot Club, presided. Mrs. Lee Davis, Anchor Area Leader of the Pilot Club, welcomed the guests who included the mothers of the Anchor Club members and the following Booneville High School faculty members: Mrs. Kathryn Houston, Mrs. Bennie Sue Williams, Mrs. Gail Worley, and the faculty Anchor Club advisors, Mrs. Sarah Hunt Martin and Mrs. Lee Griffin.

Mrs. Louise W. Peeler, past governor of the Louisiana-Mississippi District of Pilots International, was the installing officer.

The theme of the installation was "Great Dimensions - For Anchor Service."

The installation table held a large wooden anchor emblem and an atlas of the world. Mrs. Peeler challenged each officer to establish specific goals and to perform her duties with dignity.

At the conclusion, Debbie Garvin, president, connected the green and gold ribbons attaching the anchor emblem and the world atlas to signify that the Anchor Club is an international service club.

The following officers were installed: Debbie Garvin, president; Rose Anne Green, vice-president; Jennifer Jones, secretary; Jane Brown, treasurer;

Cindy Huddleston, reporter; Annett Koon, program chairman; Carmella Gardner, senior director; Lori Deaton, junior director; and Maria Cartwright, sophomore director.

Michelle Downs, Jennifer Jones, Lara Mansell, Annett Koon, Debbie Garvin, Candi Lambert, Robin Davis, Lisa Roy, Lori Wiseman, Kelly Scott, Cindy George, Vicki Calamese, Cheryl Robinson, Amanda McElroy

From Oct. 17-21 local club members will be DJ's at radio station WBIP from 1:30 until 5 p.m. each afternoon. On Oct. 21, B&PW members will host a breakfast at Northeast Junior College for their employers. Pictured are (front, l-r) Lanette Wold, R.J. Bonds, Pam Crossett, (back, l-r) Peggy Vernon and Norma Michael.

Events Planned For National BPW Week

National Business and Professional Women's Week is Oct. 17-22. The Booneville B&PW Club has planned several events in conjunction with NBW week, according to Peggy Vernon, chairman.

"During B&PW Week our club members will be involved in a series of events to better ourselves and our community. We have so many outstanding members in our local club that we need to call attention to many of the worthwhile contributions they make as individuals and as club members," Mrs. Vernon said.

Marjorie Franks, Anne Floyd and Dawn Davidson will be broadcasting a devotional on radio station WBIP Sunday afternoon, Oct. 16.

A luncheon and style show for BPW members and guests will be held Thursday, Oct. 20, at Northeast Junior College. Lil Gaines of the Villager will be showing styles in tune for working women.

A breakfast will be held at Northeast Junior College Friday morning, Oct. 21, for BPW members and their employers. "This year each BPW member will be taking her boss to breakfast at NEMJC. This will be a turn around and way of saying 'thanks' for the consideration given in the past along with knowledge that the community will improve in part thru some of PBW effort," Mrs. Vernon said.

On Saturday, Oct. 22, the BPW club will have a yard sale across from Wal Mart. Proceeds from this sale will be used to purchase equipment for Aletha Lodge Nursing Home. "Our local club has adopted many of the nursing home residents that have no close family. We provide bingo prizes and necessities for those who have no help. We even quilt scraps for the women," Mrs. Vernon said.

From Oct. 17-21, local BPW club members will be DJ's at radio station WBIP from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. BPW DJ's will be playing band music from the 40's and 50's.

In addition to their club work, the BPW club also provides funds for the upkeep and maintenance of the Mini Park in downtown Booneville.

The club also sponsors the Queen of the Forest Contest which will be Oct. 29, at Seth Pounds Auditorium on Northeast Junior College campus.

Former Blue Bell Workers Hold Annual Meeting

A group of former Blue Bell employees met at the Booneville Community Center Saturday, Oct. 1.

The group plans to meet again next year on the first Saturday in October. Anyone who has ever worked at Blue Bell, and who is not presently working there now, is invited.

Those attending this year were Allegra Gentry, Kathleen McNutt, Louise Holloway, Mae Oaks Mink, Evelyn Fugitt, Mattie Bell Huddleston, Zelma White, Georgia Geno, Grace Orff; Ruth Potts, Pauline Lovell, Maxola Bonds, Lois Stringer, Grace Walden Ashby, Rozie Walden Chase, Gertrude Deaton, Gladys Wingo; Eudell Phillips, Lena Mae Hare, Nellie Phillips Nichols, Julie Cox, Avery Lester, Edna Wingo, Mary Lou Honeycutt, Pauline Jones, Janell Eaton, George Dillon, Ara Fulghum, Myrtle Floyd, Myrtle Justice; Mammie Nichols, Syble Houston Moore, Ruby Guy Michael and Doris Phillips.

Northeast To Sponsor European Tour

"The next best thing to heaven," is the way Mrs. Frances Russell describes the 17-day tour of Europe, which is being sponsored by Northeast Mississippi Junior College. Limited to only 30 people, the tour is set to begin June 14th.

In addition to visiting the beautiful countries of Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and the Principality of Liechtenstein, members of this tour group will have an opportunity to attend the anniversary performance of the Passion Play.

The re-enactment of Christ's entry into Jerusalem, the Crucifixion and Ascension is the fulfillment of a solemn vow made by the elders of Oberammergau in 1632, when the tiny village was gripped by the dreaded plague that was spreading across Europe. After a fifth of the villagers had died, the elders promised to re-enact the Passion of Christ every 10 years if their village was saved from otherwise certain extinction. From that moment on, no further mortality occurred in the village was spared from the Black Death.

In 1634, the villagers performed the first play and every 10 years since, their descendants have devoutly continued this tradition. Since 1700, it has been performed on each year that ends in "0" - the only exceptions being due to war.

The special 1984 performance will celebrate the 350th year since the first enactment. Therefore, next year no trip to Europe will be complete without the opportunity to see the play set 3,000 feet up in the grandeur of the Bavarian Alps.

Having traveled in this area of Europe twice before, Mrs. Russell said other selected points of interest include the Garden of Tivoli just outside Rome, the Vatican City including Saint Peter's Basilica, the Sistine Chapel and the garden. The group will also sail across to the beautiful isle of Capri and see the ruins of the ancient city of Pompeii, she said.

"Because of the demand for tickets to the play and for airspace, the tour company is allowing only two weeks for us to respond," Mrs. Russell said.

For additional information, or to reserve your place, contact Mrs. Russell at 728-7751, ext. 344 between 2 and 3 p.m., each day or 287-6525, after 4 p.m.

Northeast To Repeat Color Analysis Class

class is limited to only eight, participants must pre-register prior to Oct. 13. The registration fee is $45 per person.

Using the four seasons color analysis, Mrs. Bryant determines which colors are appropriate for the individual based upon hair color, eye color and the undertones in the individual's complexion.

In addition to receiving a swatch packet complete with the individual's appropriate colors, each participant will learn expert makeup application techniques and how to inexpensively create an exciting and personally styled wardrobe.

For additional information or to pre-register, contact the Division of Continuing Education at 728-7751, ext. 296.

FIFTY YEARS TOGETHER - Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Burns of Marietta will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 16, with a reception in their home from 2 until 4 p.m. Hosting the reception will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Trollinger, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Burns, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burns. All friends and relatives are cordially invited to attend.

JTPA replaces CETA At Northeast

This week marks the beginning of a new era for the Northeast Junior College Extension Center in Corinth.

Since April of this year, the CETA programs which were already in progress have been completed, and as of Monday, Oct. 3, six programs, approved under the new Job Training Partnership Act, have begun. Three others to be taught on the parent campus are presently undergoing review by the Statewide Private Industrial Council.

Noting the end of CETA, P. Hale Aust, director of the College's Vocational Technical Division said, "CETA did a lot of good. It provided valuable services to many people."

Changed from the Corinth Manpower Center to an official extension center of the College in early spring, Aust said, "This is the beginning of what we hope will provide other post secondary learning experiences for the Corinth area."

JTPA, a partnership agreement between various federal, state and local government agencies is designed to assist the area's economically disadvantaged, Aust explained.

The local Employment Service Office is responsible for recruiting program participants and for placing them in jobs once they have completed the training," he added.

Classes which started Monday are machine shop, secretarial skills and office practices, nurse assistant, residential construction, industrial maintenance and practical nursing.

Applicants suggested by the Employment Service must, under JTPA regulations, meet entrance requirements of the program at Northeast.

For additional information, contact W.O. Nelson, NEMJC Extension Center, Manpower Road, Corinth.

Bingham-Dodds Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Thirmon Bingham of Booneville announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Tammy Renea Bingham, to Bruce Wilburn Dodds, son of Helen and Hershall Dodds of Thrasher.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Dalton and Edna Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. E.R. Bingham of Kilmichael.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Crowe of Rienzi and Mrs. Dora Dodds and the late Will Dodds of Thrasher.

Miss Bingham is a 1983 graduate of Booneville High School and plans to attend Northeast Mississippi Junior College in the spring.

Dodds is a 1983 graduate of Thrasher High School and is now employed with Bingham Systems in Booneville.

The ceremony will take place in the banquet room at the Hilton Inn in Tupelo on Saturday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m.

No local invitations are being sent. All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

Deadline For Family Histories Is Oct. 15

The deadline for reserving a space for family histories in The History of Prentiss County is Friday, Oct. 15.

Those interested may reserve a place free for both their mother's or father's side of the family.

To make reservations by Oct. 15, call the George E. Allen Library at 728-6553 or one of the following members of the Prentiss County Historical Association: Eudora Kemp, Walter Nunley, Marie Pounds Gullett, Kathryn Houston, Louise Peeler, Bill White, Martha White, or Avanelle Cunningham. Baldwin residents may call Thomas Wallis.

The Prentiss County History books will be printed on archival, long-life paper which the U.S. government says will last hundreds of years, according to the committee.

The following list of families reserved in the book is part of the complete list of reservations to date:

ASCS Report

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

Severe drought conditions in Prentiss County prompted USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to give farm program participants special permission to harvest hay or forage from their conservation use acres to feed their livestock in addition to grazing their livestock on these acres.

Conservation use acreage includes diverted acreage for which payment is made, the unpaid acreage reduction acres and acres removed from production through the payment-in-kind program. Grazing and haying is restricted to the use of harvested hay and forage for the individual farmer's own livestock to minimize the adverse economic impact on commercial hay producers.

It will provide some relief to livestock producers who are participating in our acreage reduction and payment-in-kind programs.

The program participants are not allowed to let other farmers use their conservation use acreage. The emergency provisions apply only to their own livestock on their own land.

Farmers interested in conservation use acreage haying and grazing should notify the county ASCS office. Producers who have registered to graze their conservation use acreage must also sign a register to harvest those acres.

Cotton For PIK

Cotton producers in Prentiss County who are eligible to receive their payment-in-kind from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks will have to obtain price support loans on their 1983 production to satisfy 40 percent of their

Rienzi Lions Sponsor St. Jude Bike-A-Thon

The Rienzi Lion and Lioness Clubs will sponsor a Wheels for Life bike-a-thon in downtown Rienzi Saturday, Oct. 15, at 9 a.m., for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Riders participating in the bike-a-thon are asked to enlist sponsors to donate a sum of money for each mile completed. Sponsor forms are available at any of the stores in Rienzi.

The St. Jude organization will provide a St. Jude T-shirt for riders who raise as much as $25, and a barrel tote bag for riders who raise $75 or more, according to Bro. J.H. Moore, president of the Rienzi Lions Club.

Walkers and joggers are also invited to raise funds for the research hospital and participate in the event, he said.

Lioness President Cordelia Calvary says local businesses have donated prizes to be distributed among the participants who raise the most money in their category for St. Jude Hospital.

Group divisions will be determined according to riders, walkers and age. Prizes will be given to the top five in each group, she said.

Prizes or money donations have been made thus far by the following businesses: A.C.E. Furniture, J.R. Hakar Mfg. Co., Smith Drug Co., Curlee's Store,

Crowe's Grocery, Rinehart's Service Station, Connor's Beauty Shop, Cude's Grocery;

Marie's Sandwich Shop, Rienzi Feed Mill, Bishop's Grocery, P&G Enterprises, Westvaco Corp., Dixie Air and Sheet Metal, Tri-County Industries, Massey Seed & Fertilizer Co., City Cafe, and City Beauty Shop.

The grand prize will be a wing-back chair from Prestige Mfg. Co.

"We will also need volunteer workers to help with refreshments for the riders and walkers, and to help keep score of the number of miles ridden by each rider in the bike-a-thon," Bro. Moore said.

Those wishing to make donations, or for more information call Bro. Moore at 462-7172 or Mrs. Calvary at 462-5295.

There's a bountiful harvest that everyone in town shares

When you, your family and friends shop locally, you contribute to the well-being of our business community and our entire town. Part of every dollar you spend locally is returned to our town in the form of taxes and charitable contributions.

Local firms support our community via their taxes and they support local worthwhile organizations by their charitable contributions. When you shop out of town, you support someone else's town...not your own.

So before you take that out-of-town shopping trip, think about shopping locally first. Think about supporting the local businesses that support your community.

Gaye Roden Carr Aquatic Center Dedicated

ticipating in the ceremonies were (l-r) President Harold T. White, Mitchell Hurt, Emmett Carr, Jason Carr, Melody, E.O. Roden, Mrs. E.O. Roden, Rosemary Carr, Bob Yarber and Troy Holliday.

Signaling the private sector's expanding role in the support of publicly-funded colleges, Northeast Mississippi Junior College dedicated its newly constructed Gaye Roden Carr Aquatic Center Sept. 29. The center was built in memory of Gaye Roden Carr and funded through contributions of her family and friends.

Contributors to the center's construction were Mr. and Mrs. E.O. Roden, the late Mrs. Carr's parents, her husband, Emmett Carr and their children, Melody, Rosemary and Jason. Also contributing were Mrs. Carr's uncle, Zane D. Roden, friends of the Roden family, and affiliated enterprises of Mr. and Mrs. E.O. Roden.

NEMJC President Harold T. White stressed the growing importance of private sector involvement in higher education in his pool-side address and praised the contributors for their responsiveness to the needs of NEMJC students. He said such contributors make it possible to nurture the positive attitude necessary to provide the high-quality education for which Northeast is known.

"The positive attitude fostered by Northeast Junior College has enabled us to reach out and bring in $220,000 from the private sector," White said.

"Through this and other means, we're continuing to try and make Northeast the star that shines brightest and shows the way for other institutions of higher education."

The heated, eight-lane pool is 25 meters long and contains auxiliary space for dressing rooms, lockers, office space, restrooms and classrooms.

"The Aquatic Center is a tremendous asset to the College," White said. "Doubling as a recreational and instructional facility for the College's physical education department, the center has enhanced student and faculty life on the Northeast campus."

Commenting on the need for the Aquatic Center and other facilities like it, White said, "We at Northeast dreamed of the day we could secure this much needed addition for our campus, and today, because of the vision and extreme generosity of these exceptional people, that dream has become a reality."

Booneville Happenings

By MRS. GORDON MCGEE
Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goff, Marty and Keith of Grenada spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M.D. Goff and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Franks.

The Rev. and Mrs. C.L. Potts had a welcome visit from their son, Dean, and his wife and of course the special granddaughter on Sunday, Sept. 25. On returning home to Horn Lake the Potts had the misfortune of hitting a deer. No one was hurt but it was truly a scary accident.

A good crowd of the retirees of the Booneville Garmet Co. met Saturday, Oct. 1, at the West Side Community Center. They all brought a covered dish and had a great time of fellowship. The group was so happy to see George Dillon there for this gala event. He gave the prayer of thanks at the dinner. They all are looking forward to the first Saturday in October in 1984 when they will meet again. Dr. Bill Duncan of First Baptist Church in Booneville is preaching in a revival at West Side Baptist Church in Corinth this week.

Mrs. Hershel Stephens has had surgery in the Baptist Hospital in Memphis. She is some better at this writing. Prayers are requested for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Obrey Brown of Rone, Ga., have been visiting Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Price Wilemon.

October is a busy month for the people of First United Methodist Church. The first Sunday in the month will begin the Lay Academy. On Oct. 2, Dr. John Humphrey Sr. will share his knowledge of the Methodist Church with the upper youth and adult Sunday School classes at the 10 a.m. service in the fellowship hall.

This special enrichment study will include history, beliefs, and organization of the First Methodist Church. Even if you don't attend, they want you at these sessions.

Saturday, Oct. 1, Mrs. Bessie Huddleston, Mrs. Alma Yates of Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Huddleston and Mrs. Bertha Hutchens of Corinth, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Huddleston and Mrs. Christine Huddleston all met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Moreland in Wheeler for lunch and a family get-together. They reported a good time of fellowship and plenty of food.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lusby, Courtney and Whitney, visited their parents and grandparents in Aberdeen the weekend of Sept. 25.

The Rev. Joe Pack Arnold and Clovis Bolton attended the meeting of the Presbytery of St. Andrew at Southaven Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, Oct. 4. Homecoming at First United Methodist Church will be Oct. 16. There are many important things planned for this special day - don't miss it.

If you have someone you want to receive a letter about this day, please call Mrs. W.M. Murphy and she will see that that former member, friend or relative gets the word. The Rev. E.S. Furr will be the guest speaker. He is a former pastor of First United Methodist Church in Booneville.

Teacher's Appreciation Day will be Oct. 19. Charles Mullinix of Tupelo will be the speaker at the banquet. This annual event honors special teachers and workers of the Methodist Church.

Bill Stutts, a junior at Miss. State, was home visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stutts, Nancy and Bob, this past weekend.

Mike Marcelle and Matt of Muscle, Shoals, also were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Downs and Terry.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Amanda Walden Williams. She died last Saturday at the Aletha Lodge Nursing Home and was buried Sunday in the Jacinto Cemetery.

Oct. 30 will be "Mission Saturation Event." Dr. and Mrs. John Schaefer of Sarasota, Fla., former missionaries to Nepal plus mission work projects in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America, will be guests of First United Methodist Church on this weekend.

Other than the Sunday School hour the Schaefer's will be attending the meetings of the men's club, administrative board, council and ministry, the meeting of the United Methodist Women, a youth meeting, and worship services on Sunday morning. Don't miss the excitement of this very special weekend.

Oct. 24-28 the Rev. C.L. Potts and other ministers will attend a Billy Graham School of evangelism in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Elizabeth Rambo is in the Baptist Memorial Hospital here. We hope that she will soon be able to return home.

The Rev. Larry Hill and his wife, Bonnie and several members of the First Pentecostal Church attended the 59th annual conference in Louisville, Ky., last week. Some of the highlights of the week were testimonies from members of the families that were held hostage in Soviet Russia.

Jerry Wallace's sister-in-law, Jo Ann Brown, a missionary, is visiting here from St. Troy.

The Rev. Dewey Wallis is still confined to the hospital here in town. His room number is 205. Let's remember him in our prayers.

Mrs. Dewey Chaffin and Mrs. Gwin Chaffin of South Prentiss visited Mrs. Chessie Prentice on Saturday night. Mrs. Dessie Tolar of Baldwin and Mrs. Prentice visited Mrs. Minnie Mooney of Booneville on Friday.

Guests of Mrs. Mildred Baxter on Tuesday and Wednesday were her daughters, Betty Cockrell and Lynn Baxter of Baton Rouge, La. Donna Pannell and Dustin and Dedra Hall of Saltillo and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy McCarley and Joey of Tupelo were weekend guests.

Mr. and Mrs. David DeVaughn, Brad and Tracy of Booneville were Sunday dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. DeVaughn. In the afternoon they all attended the Boren family reunion at Alpine community park and enjoyed singing and fellowship with relatives and friends.

Sunday was a beautiful day. Bro. Wallis preached a sermon at the 11 a.m. worship hour titled "God's Looking For A Man." Sunday night services were good, also.

Mrs. Essie Merryman and Mrs. Mary Jane Harling visited Mrs. Alma Duncan and Mrs. Mary Wardlow of Baldwin Sunday afternoon. Guests of Mrs. Verda Mae Stubblefield last week were Mrs. Mary Lou Purvis, Ann McCostlin of Baldwin and Mrs. Mary E. Tyus of the community.

We extend our sympathy to the Will Holmes family. May the love of Jesus comfort your hearts is our prayer.

Mrs. Mary E. Tyus visited her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Stevens of Booneville on Friday. She along with Chessie Prentice attended the singing at Parker's Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Bettie Key, Johnney Key, Mrs. JoAnne Sides and Mary, and Mrs. Joyce Chism and Terry enjoyed Sunday night supper with Mrs. Irene Wallace and girls of the community.

Mrs. Verda Mae Stubblefield was honored with a birthday supper on Monday, Oct. 3, by her "adopted daughters." They came with food, gifts, and love and best wishes. Those attending were Maxola Bonds, Peggy Echols, and Bobbie Sanders who's birthday was honored. Also attending were Lessie Ree McCombs of Burton and Lottie Barnett of Baldwin, who come took pictures and enjoyed birthday cake.

DELTA STATE STUDENT TEACHERS - These four students from central Mississippi will soon begin their student teaching in area schools. They are (from left) Pam Johnson of Booneville, Rusty Otts of Kosciusko, Morrienne Murphey of Tippo, and Lydia Watson of Grenada. Order up a CD any way you want it.

Most banks tell you how long to invest your money—91 days, six months, three and one-half years. At First Bank, you tell us. With our new First Bank Investment Certificates, you name your term—anywhere from 32 days up.

$1,000 minimum.

The minimum investment is only $1,000. And the sky's the upper limit. The longer you invest your money and the more you invest, the higher your interest rate. But you always earn current market interest.

Earn more interest.

Let's say you're planning a major expenditure in two months—a new kitchen or school tuition perhaps. Order up a 61- or 62- day Certificate and you'll earn guaranteed high interest up until the very day you need your money. A lot higher interest than if you kept your money ready and waiting in your checking or regular savings account.

Wheel and deal. No risk.

Because First Bank Investment Certificates put you in control, you can put together a solid investment portfolio. Invest some money short-term, so you're ready to take advantage of an upswing in interest rates. And invest some long-term, as a cushion in case rates do fall temporarily. Anyway you want it.

First Bank Certificates are safer than stocks, bonds, oil wells, and many other investments because your money's insured safe by the FDIC.

Compare rates.

First Bank Investment Certificates let you maximize your earnings. Because the more you invest and the longer the term, the higher your rate. Rates change weekly. And, as with all CD's, there is a substantial penalty for early withdrawal.

Saturday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Fugitt and Deanna were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Windham and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hare. The Fugitts hosted a cookout on Saturday night to welcome home Randy Floyd who has just returned from a three weeks stay in Germany with the National Guard. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Randy Floyd, Brandi and Misty, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Childers and Mrs. Brenda Taylor.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Fugitt on Sunday were Mrs. Estelle Taylor and grandson Jeff Taylor. Enjoying Sunday dinner with Mrs. Bernice Chase were Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Chase and Scotty of Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Johnson. Visiting later in the day were Mrs. Troy Scott and Angie Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Dunaway, Jason and Adam of Saltillo were Saturday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dunaway, Jennifer and Brock.

I recently had a visit from Jim Smith of Louisiana who was in our area visiting with friends and relatives. He came by to tell me how much he enjoyed "Altitude News" and just hearing the news from home. I very much appreciate him taking the time to let me know and hope that he will continue to be a regular reader.

Jess Burcham is home again after spending a few days in the hospital.

Mrs. Elvia Moorman is still in the hospital, but is very much improved. We are all very happy to hear that she is better, and hope that she will soon be back among her family and friends.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday for Charlie Newborn. Sympathy is extended to his loved ones.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Frankie Cole and family visited a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cole and other family members. The Coles were enroute from South Carolina to Frankie's new position in Oklahoma.

Alberta Stone and daughter of Michigan visited in Altitude on Sunday with family and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Newborn and boys of Alabama were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ides Rutherford.

Nena Holder recently spent a couple of days in Memphis with her daughter Mrs. Wanda Hartman.

Those having birthdays Oct. 2 thru 8th include Misty Duncan, Tammy Morgan, Ann Taylor, Spencer Taylor, Sam Holder, Oren Hare, Ray Hearn, Tracy Riddle, Brenda Wiginton, Debbie Timbes, Shirley Nicholson, Maurice Gann, and Pat Davis. Happy birthday wishes to all.

Garland Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Green celebrated his fourth birthday with a party on Friday night. Enjoying cake and refreshments with the Green family were Mr. and Mrs. David Riddle, Peggy Griffin and Gena, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Cromeans, Shane Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Duncan, Misty and Tiffany, Jana Johnson, Glen and Tracy Riddle.

Bradley and Garland Green went to Memphis on Thursday for a check up on their ear problems at LeBonher Childrens hospital. Bradley received a good report and was released from the doctors care while Garland remains under treatment. We hope that he will soon have is condition all cleared up.

We are glad to have Mrs. Pearl Cole, Mrs. Charlene Prater, Mrs. Sherry McCoy and Jason attending worship services with us at Carter's Chapel.

MISS PRENTISS COUNTY ATTENDS TVA ANNIVERSARY - Miss Prentiss County, Ladye Love Long, sponsored by the Booneville Junior Woman's Club, and Gov. William Winter presided over the events which took place at J.P. Coleman State Park, July 20, to celebrate T.V.A.'s 50th anniversary. Miss Long sang the National Anthem, accompanied by the Navy band. She also cut the ribbon allowing some 8,000 persons to tour the floating exhibit throughout its five day stopover. Also pictured is Chilly Dean (right) TVA director.

STOCKTON PRESENTS CHECK - Upon presenting a check for $25,000 to the Northeast Junior College Development Foundation, Truitt Stockton (center), president of S and S Construction, discusses the increased need for vocational-technical training with College officials, Bob Yarber (left), vice-chairman of the board of trustees, and President Harold T. White. The gift will be used to fund scholarships for future vocational-technical students interested in pursuing a career in the construction field.

Northeast Recieves $25,000 For Vo-Tech Scholarships

Truitt Stockton, president of S and S Construction in Corinth, became the most recent contributor to the Northeast Junior College Development Foundation, when he recently presented a check for $25,000 to College President Harold T. White.

The money will be used to provide scholarships to area youth interested in pursuing a career in the construction field, White said. Northeast offers a variety of programs through its vocational and technical division which prepares students to enter this area of the work force.

In a letter addressed to the college, Stockton gave credit for his own success to vocational-technical training. "The little success I have attained in life, I owe to a large extent to the vocational-technical training I received in my early adulthood," he said.

Stockton called upon others to assist deserving students of the area when he said, "It is certainly of utmost importance that the people of our area do all we can to promote the development of our local talent to provide the services we require."

Pledging his continued support to the college, Stockton praised Northeast for providing many valuable services to the area.

The Development Foundation, established in 1969 to promote and support the educational performance of Northeast, is a non-profit corporation.

ON LEGALIZATION OF ALCOHOL

The Pastor and Deacons of East Booneville Baptist Church would like to express to the people of Booneville and Prentiss County our concern over and deep opposition to the forthcoming liquor referendum.

We believe that inaccurate statements have been made regarding the profitability of liquor sales to the people of our county. Public and private consumption of alcohol only destroys; it has never in any society shown itself to have any redemptive value as a beverage. The abuse of alcohol, which always occurs when it is available, is a primary cause of crime, the beating and even killing of children, traffic fatalities, broken homes and loss of income to families. Rather than a boon to the economy, the sale and consumption of alcohol is an immoral practice that is condemned in Scripture and brings a reproach upon the population.

The fact that so much damage occurs from alcohol consumption and sale clearly shows that it is a moral, not simply an economic issue. However, it is also an economic issue. Local businesses will be affected as dollars spent in their stores would go to the liquor stores. Insurance rates would increase as would the amount of money spent on hospital care, loss of job time, thus loss of income to families, where innocent children will suffer due to parental improprieties, and neglect.

Beyond all of that, it is tragic that we are being asked to founder in the raising of children. It is more important to some to raise a son who can "hold his liquor" than it is to raise a child who will keep himself pure. The fact that alcohol is legal in other places does not make alcohol right. Abortion is also legalized, but that does not make it justified.

Our prayer is that people will open their eyes and see that the only ones who will benefit from the sale of alcohol are those who get rich selling it. It will not increase the income of the county; only take away from one form of business and give it to another. Those who sell it and those who buy it may enjoy the pleasures of riches and sin for a season, but they will most certainly, as will we all, "appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad." (II Corinthians 5:10)

We urge each of you to a clear conscience before God. Vote NO to the legalization of alcohol in Prentiss County.

COLLARDS, MUSTARD, AND TURNIP GREENS

Collards, mustard and turnip greens have varying pasts, but all have been a valuable food source for mankind since prehistoric times.

Mustard greens originated in the far eastern countries of India, Burma and China. Collards and turnip greens are known to have been cultivated around the Mediterranean and in Asia Minor. These greens have long been a staple of the wandering tribes in those areas, and it is uncertain in which of these regions they were first grown.

They were introduced to the United States during the 16th and 17th centuries. Turnip greens were first brought to Canada by European travelers and were later planted in Virginia and Massachusetts. British voyagers carried mustard greens and collards to the American colonists. Greens soon became quite popular in Southern states.

In the United States, greens are principally grown in the South, but Arizona, California, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey also contribute to commercial production. Since the greatest qualities of collards, turnip and mustard greens appear on the market in the fall and winter months, they are also called winter greens.

Few vegetables contribute more to health than collards, mustard and turnip greens. A generous serving of these winter greens provide more than 100 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) for adults of both vitamins A and C.

Vitamin A helps keep the lining of the respiratory, digestive and urinary tracts in good condition. It also helps eyes adapt to changes in light. Vitamin C helps strengthen the walls of blood vessels, promotes the healing of wounds and aids the body in resisting infection.

In addition, greens provide large amounts of iron and calcium. Iron combines with protein to make hemoglobin, the red substance of blood which carries oxygen from the lungs to the brain, muscles and other organs. Iron also aids cells in using the oxygen in transports. Calcium is needed to build strong bones and teeth. It helps blood to clot, and nerves, muscles and heart to work properly.

All of these vitamins and minerals, supplied by collards, mustard and turnip greens, work as a team to keep the body healthy and happy. Greens also aid digestion by furnishing bulk and roughage to the diet.

When preparing greens, be nutrition conscious. Conserve these abundant nutrients by discarding only leaves that are badly bruised, wilted or yellowed. The outer, deep-colored parts of greens contain substantially more nutrients than the inner part. The leafy, outer parts of collard and turnip greens have much more vitamin A than the stems and midribs. The leafy blades of collard greens have 30 times as much vitamin A as an equal weight of the midrib. Turnip greens have more than 20 times as much vitamin A in the thin leafy part as in the midrib. The leafy part of greens also contain the highest concentrations of vitamin C and iron.

Greens are not only nutritious, they add color and variety to meals at easily affordable prices.

Select only the freshest greens. The best quality greens should be crisp, young and have a good green color. Healthy mustard greens often display a slight bronze tint. This is normal. Some are naturally light green. Small, yellowish-green undeveloped heart leaves are natural and should not be considered undesirable.

Always avoid greens that look wilted, flabby, course, very large or yellowed. Wilting or yellowing of the leaves indicates old age or other form of damage. Coarse leaves are generally tough and stringy and cause waste.

Examine the leaves for insect damage. Aphids commonly attack greens. These pests are often hard to see and equally hard to wash away. Worm injury may also be found in collards.

Buy fresh greens at the height of the season for the best quality. Greens are available in largest quantities from late fall through winter. When large quantities of greens flood the market, retail stores often reduce prices on the most plentiful frozen and canned items in order to make room for new stock. This is a good time to purchase the produce of your choice in quality.

Always sort fresh vegetables before storing. Bruised or soft greens should be used immediately or discarded. Do not store them with sound vegetables.

Greens will maintain their crisp freshness if stored in covered containers or plastic bags and placed in the refrigerator. This also protects other foods from picking up their strong odor. If you wash greens before storing, drain them thoroughly. Too much moisture will hasten their decay. To enjoy greens at their best, use them within three to five days of purchase.

When buying large quantities of frozen greens, check the temperature of your freezer. If the temperature of the freezing compartment is above 0 degrees F, plan to use frozen vegetables within a few days. Commercially frozen greens may be stored up to eight months. Home frozen greens will maintain high quality as long as eight to 12 months.

Store unopened canned vegetables in a cool, dry place. It is wise to use canned vegetables within a year of purchase. They lose quality if stored too long, but remain safe to eat indefinitely if the seal has not been broken. Canned vegetables should be used within two days after opening.

Collards, mustard and turnip greens have been a favorite in the South for generations. They are traditionally served in "pot likker." This is a thin broth obtained from boiling salt pork or ham in a small amount of water. Any water in which greens have been cooked will have its share of vitamins and minerals, as well as flavor. Save any excess water and add it to sauces and gravies.

Greens can also be prepared in many other delicious ways. Turnip greens are excellent when cooked in any of the methods used for spinach. Try baking it with bacon or serve it boiled or creamed.

The young, tender leaves of mustard greens can be used in salads either alone or mixed with other salad greens and ingredients. The mature leaves are better suited for cooking. They can be prepared as you would spinach or can be used as pot herbs and added to soups and stews.

Collards add a new dimension to meals. Fry pieces of bacon or salt pork in a skillet, then add cleaned and shredded collard leaves. Cover and simmer until tender and serve with lemon slices or vinegar.

When preparing greens, allow 2 1/2 lb. for four servings. Rinse leaves in cool water, drain and place in the refrigerator. When ready to cook, cut off roots and remove any damaged leaves. Strip leaves from stiff, thick midribs. Wash leaves thoroughly in cold running water to remove sand.

To insure the best flavor, color, texture and food value in vegetables, cook them only until they are tender. To shorten cooking time, coarsely shred greens.

Timberline

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

A word that you will here members of the forestry community speak of is site preparation or "site prep." This is a term that implies a simple definition, but involves so many different techniques and methods that it becomes very confusing as to what site preparation really is.

Basically site prep means just that - preparing or readying an area for tree planting. It involves basically three different methods here in Prentiss County - roll chop and burn, burn and inject, and prescription burn alone. In this week's column I'll discuss the roll chop and burn method.

Roll chop and burn is the most effective and most expensive method of preparing an area for tree planting. It is most often used on areas that have been cut-over and left to grow up in poor quality hardwoods, or any other area that has a dense cover of shrubs, vines, and scrub hardwoods. Whenever possible, the first step is to have all merchantable timber removed from the area. Next, usually in the months of June, July, and August, a crawler tractor pulling a large metal drum filled with water is driven over the area or "site."

The drum has sharpened blades on it 6-8 inches apart that crush and chop the brush down to approximately a 1-2 foot layer. This is allowed to dry for 2-3 weeks and then is burned during hot weather (generally before the first frost).

Why is this method used?

The chopping causes the brush to become packed and also severs brush or uproots it causing it to "brown up" and dry out. This dry, packed brush burns very hot and as a result clears the area and will kill any living trees or brush that would compete with planted pine seedlings for growth.

Chopping works well with both tree planting and seeding. Soil erosion is minimal since track-type crawlers are used and some form of cover remains on the site at all times.

Chopping costs are expensive, usually ranging from 60-75 dollars an acre with about 6 dollars an acre on top of that for the cost of burning. These amounts can be offset by government cost share payments of 50 percent of the chopping cost (up to $37 an acre) and $2 per acre for the burning. All told, including cost share payments, it costs about $70-$80 per acre to chop, burn and plant an area. This sounds expensive, and it is, but research studies have shown that pine plantations, through thinnings and final harvest can return 10-12 percent on the initial investment.

Next week we will talk about some other less expensive site prep alternatives. If you have some land you would like to put into pine trees, give us a call at 728-6835 or come by our office located at 103 W. College St. If you have a limit on the amount of money you can spend on site prep we can probably tailor a suitable reforestation method to it.

Library Notes

By LEE DAVIS
Librarian
George E. Allen Library

Do give yourself the pleasure and gentle refreshment this week's art exhibit at the George E. Allen Library afford you. Watercolors, acrylics and oils in a wealth of subject matter have been placed in the Marion W. Smith Room and the library reading room by members of the organization SAM, a local artists' organization.

As you know, whatever your momentary desire and taste for fiction may be, there are books that meet that need, but it isn't always an easy matter to locate them. Allen Library patrons have expressed a preference for shelving novels of the same type together.

Therefore we have shelves of Westerns, Science Fiction, Romances, and of course, Mysteries which include the Gothics. Novels that do not fall into one of these categories are then shelved together.

A light and entertaining series of novels written by Dorothy Gilman "stars" Mrs. Pollifax. She is a devoted middle-aged member of the New Brunswick, New Jersey, Garden Club who also happens to have a brown belt in karate and who does a little freelance work for the CIA. Under her innocuous appearance and manner hides a keen wit, a sharp intellect and a very kind heart. The newest adventure for Emily Pollifax and readers is entitled "Mrs. Pollifax on the China Station." This time she poses as a tourist on a tour of Marco Polo's legendary Silk Road through China. Priceless archaeological treasures are viewed. Another prize sought by the Americans - and the Russians - a political prisoner whose knowledge each country would find invaluable, is the real target of concern and center of suspense.

All during the first week of November the friends of the George E. Allen Library will offer books for sale at low cost. Profits will provide funds for library equipment. Such things as our 35mm projector and record player have been bought in this way. If you have publications you would like to contribute for the sale, the library would appreciate receiving them.

QUILTS ARE IN - Mrs. Priscilla McElroy (left), cultural arts chairman of the Prentiss County Extension Clubs, and Mrs. Rubye Davis, committee member, admire quilts that will be on display at the George E. Allen Library Wednesday, Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. The public is invited to view the quilts, see quilt samples, and select free quilt patterns. Extension Club members will be on hand to give demonstrations on lap quilting, candlewicking, macrame, making padded picture frames and stenciling. (Photo By Angela Smith)

Booneville Schools Menu

Oct. 10-14 Is National School Lunch Week

National School Lunch Week is Oct. 10-14. This year marks the second year of the National School Lunch Week five year theme of "School lunch America's No. 1 energy source."

The subtitle is "Programmed for power." This year school food service professionals in Booneville and across the country say they intend on proving that school lunch really is a powerful program.

The 1983 Universal Menus consists of power source burger, print out potatoes, vegetable chips, apple bytes, and basic milk.

Monday, Oct. 10 (Columbus Day) the Elementary students will have "Lunch in a Boat." Students will get to keep the boat.

The menu that day will be ship ahoy (ham and cheese), deck planks (French fries), fruit mate fruit (apple), Columbus cookies, and new world milk.

45-0 Shutout

Bearcats Continue On The Winning Trail

Keeping their winning streak alive, the Baldwyn Bearcats shutout the Mooreville Troopers 45-0 last Friday night to bring their season record up to 5-0.

"We played pretty good," Coach Hubert Tucker said about the game. "I was pleased with the way we played. Our defense and offense played really well."

"We made mistakes, but we're trying to correct them," he added.

Jimmy Tyes got the scoring underway for Baldwyn, going across the goal line in the first quarter after a 13-yard run. Stan Scott kicked the point after touchdown.

In the second quarter, Anthony Price scored on a 29-yard run. A two-point conversion pass play from Greg Tucker to Anthony Price boosted the score to 15-0.

Baldwyn scored again in the second quarter on a 26-yard pass play from Tucker to Stan Scott, who also kicked the extra point, making it 22-0.

A 37-yard pass play from Tucker to Kevin Cole resulted in six more points in the second quarter. This time the conversion attempt failed, leaving the score 28-0 at the half.

In third quarter play, Price scored on again, this time on a 6-yard run. Scott connected again on the PAT.

Fred Harvell scored on a 4-yard run in the fourth quarter, with Scott once again adding the extra point.

Later in the fourth quarter, Scott put the final score on the board with a 35-yard field goal.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 Baldwyn will play host to Booneville in a matchup which Coach Tucker says will produce an exciting game, despite the fact that Booneville has yet to get in the victory column this season.

"Last year Booneville beat us 21-14," Tucker said. "We're going to try to turn that around this year."

The inter-county matchup between Booneville and Baldwyn always produces an interesting game.

"Booneville is definitely a big rival," Coach Tucker said. "We're not looking past anybody. We just play one game at a time."

Jones: 'They are the best in North Mississippi'

Tigers Maul Devils 41-0

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

Booneville Blue Devil football coach Wayne Jones stated that "they are the best team in North Mississippi." Several Booneville fans said that they had "never seen anything like them."

Both parties were referring to the Ripley Tigers after they beat home-standing Booneville 41-0 last Friday night.

Jones felt that his team played well, considering who they played against. "They (Ripley) should have no trouble the rest of the year," Jones said. "They should win our district with ease."

However, Ripley did show some sign of weakening against the Blue Devils and coach Jones knew it. "We made a lot of mistakes in the game," he said. "They are a senior ball team and they have a lot of experience. They really capitalized on our mistakes!"

Ripley tailback Ken McDonald, one of the premiere rushers in the state, rushed for 128 yards in just one half to lead Ripley, and scored three touchdowns in the victory.

The Tigers scored on their first possession when fullback Nicky Smith, the forgotten one in the Ripley backfield, broke loose and scooted 51 yards for the six points.

The only weakness evident of Ripley was their kicking game, as this and one other PAT were wide.

On the Tiger's next possession, quarterback Mitch Lewellen hit split end Jeff Butler for the touchdown, and McDonald got the two point conversion to give Ripley an early 14-0 lead.

Ripley wasn't finished with its scoring in the first quarter yet, as McDonald bolted into the end zone from the 3 yard line with 16 seconds remaining in the quarter. Ken Nance's extra point gave Ripley a 21-0 lead after one period of play.

Ripley took advantage of a Blue Devil fumble in the second quarter, as none other than McDonald scored the 12 yard touchdown and the Tigers led 27-0 at the half.

Ripley coach Larry Cole started subbing early in the second half, but not before McDonald could pick up another touchdown on an 11 yard run, as Ripley started to blow the game wide open.

However, the Tigers could only manage one more score as second-team quarterback Willie Watson plunged into the end zone with 4:46 left in the game to end all scoring.

Ripley's defense limited the Blue Devils to only 30 total yards, and on unbelievable minus-3 yards rushing. The Tiger's offense collected 238 yards of rushing, but could only manage 12 yards passing.

Coach Jones feels that his team will be ready to play when the Blue Devils travel to Baldwyn tomorrow to face the Bearcats in the county-rival game.

"We are bruised up a bit from last week, but nothing serious," Jones said. "We probably will be more prepared this week than any other. We feel that we can play with Baldwyn," he said.

Kick-off for the traditional rivalry at Latimer Park in Baldwyn is set at 7:30.

Okolona Chieftains Thrash Rebels In Penalty & Fumble-Plagued Game

By BUTCH CALDWELL
Sports Writer

Scoring three times in the first half, the Okolona Chieftains chilled the Thrasher Rebels in a penalty and fumble-plagued contest at Baldwyn's Latimer Park Friday night, Sept. 30.

Okolona got things under way with Robert Elliott scrambling around right side from 15 yards out. But the PAT was wide, making the score 6-0 with two seconds left in the First Quarter.

Thrasher came storming back to even things up when Dwight Shinault took left end, and rambled 69 yards for a TD. The point after was no good. And the score stood tied at 6-6 with 10:58 remaining in the First Half.

At the 7:03 mark in the Second Quarter Okolona's Wayne Foster gathered in an Okolona punt, and raced 60 yards for a touchdown, pulling the Chieftains ahead again. The 2-point conversion try was stopped, leaving the tally at 12-6.

Then, in the last minutes of the First Half, Elliott scooted around right end for his second TD of the night, and added his own 2-point conversion to give Okolona a 20-6 margin at The Half.

Period Three was scoreless, with The Chieftains mounting two early drives, but losing both with fumbles on The Rebels' 4 and 15 yard lines.

With time running out in the final quarter, Okolona took advantage of a short Thrasher punt, moving the ball 14 yards in 6 plays, then sending Anthony Miller in on a 1-yarder. The 2-point try was no good, leaving the final score at 26-6, and giving Thrasher a 2-3 record midway in its Freshman season.

"We got our brains beat out. They just manhandled us," said Thrasher Coach Jackson.

"But," he added, "we are going to do our best to regroup."

The Rebels sustained a number of key injuries in the contest, including punter Junior Tennison, who left the game in the Second Quarter with a knee injury.

This coming Friday night, Oct. 7, Thrasher travels to Alcorn County to challenge Alcorn Central.

Ole Miss Trainers Help Keep Players Safe From Injury

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

I recently had a chance to experience something that not many people can enjoy or appreciate.

Last week, I was invited to be a guest trainer with the University of Mississippi football team in their game with the University of Southern Mississippi at Oxford.

This was a new experience for me because I would be right with the players and coaches and I would be able to see what really happens before a college football game.

Michael Wright is currently a trainer for the Ole Miss football team and he is also from Booneville. With the help of Michael and head trainer Leroy Mullins, I was asked to come down and see how things are done.

The first order of business before the game on Saturday was to wake up the players. I believe there is nothing harder than trying to wake up 66 football players on a Saturday morning.

Rebel coach Billy Brewer is famous for conducting workouts before the game and that was what we did next. The team, coaches, and managers and trainers all walked down to the practice field behind the athletic dormitory for a light workout.

After the workout, it was time for the pre-game meal, which consisted of eggs, bacon, sausage, pancakes, and just about any other breakfast item you can think of. My mother wonders how she can ever manage to feed my brother and me, but it would take all the grocery stores in Booneville to feed this bunch of football players.

Next came really the most important part, taping the players in preparation for the game. The trainers at Ole Miss really do an excellent job in keeping their players safe from injury, as I found out.

There really wasn't much to do after the taping because it was time to travel to the field house to get ready for the game.

During the game, situations arose where the trainers were called upon to do their duty, and they performed well.

Although the Rebels didn't win, they can honestly say that they have an excellent staff that keeps them healthy and ready for the next game.

14-13 Squeaker

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers used two fourth-quarter touchdowns by David Goode on passes from quarterback Jeff Dilworth to come back and beat East Mississippi Junior College last Saturday in Scooba.

Tiger head coach David Carnell felt that his team didn't play well at first, but broke out of the jinx later in the game. "They stopped our running game and really kept us from doing anything early in the game," Carnell said. "We knew that we could pass on them, so after we started passing, it opened all other parts of our game up."

Northeast stays on top of the North Division with a perfect 3-0 district mark, with the victory.

When Carnell stated that the passing game is what opened things up for the Tigers, he was right. Quarterback Dilworth connected on 12 of 26 passes for 148 yards and the two touchdowns to Goode. East Mississippi could only manage 78 yards passing as the tough Tiger defense again rose to the occasion.

The Tiger defense, led by Northeast Now Leads Division

The Northeast Tigers, under the direction of first-year head coach David Carnell, elevated themselves to the lead position of the North Division race with their Saturday, Oct. 1 win over East Mississippi.

The Tigers are unbeaten in division play with wins over Holmes, Coahoma and East Mississippi to their credit. Northeast is 0-2 in nondivision play, giving them a 3-2 overall record.

Northwest was leading in the North Division race until the win by Northeast gave them the edge over the Rangers' 2-0 division record. Northwest has a 2-1 non-division record, giving them a 4-1 overall mark.

IJC follows Northwest in the number-three spot with a division record of 2-0, a non-division mark of 2-1 and an overall record of 4-1. Mississippi Delta Junior College is number four this week, with a division record of 1-1, nondivision record of 0-3, and an overall of 1-4.

East Mississippi is fifth with a 0-3 division mark, a 2-0 non-division record, and a 2-3 overall record.

Wrestling Card Set At Northeast

Professional wrestling returns to the Northeast Junior College at 8 p.m. Oct. 14.

According to NEMJC Athletic Director Bill Ward, the matches will be held in the college's gymnasium. The card will feature a World Tag Team match between The Fabulous Ones and the Assassins and a 15-man battle royal in which the winner will receive $1,500.

A number of well-known wrestlers will be on the ticket, Ward said. The final matchups will be announced next week.

Advance tickets are available at The Chicken Hut in Booneville and are $5 for adults, $3 for children.

County Agent's Report

By
CLIFFORD J. HAMPTON
County Agent

Relation Between pH and Lime Requirements

The pH of a soil indicates the degree of acidity, not the amount of acidity. Pressure is like pH; it is not a measure of quantity.

Two sandy soils with the same pH and organic matter level will require about the same amount of lime to change the pH one unit. However, a clay soil will require more lime to change the pH one unit. A high organic soil will also require more lime than a low organic matter soil. The amount of lime required will increase as the clay or organic matter increases. All limestone values are expressed as neutralizing value or calcium carbonate equivalent (CaCO₃). The common liming materials have different neutralizing values. Type of material, fineness of grind, and distribution in the soil are all important to rate of reduction in soil acidity.

Liming Materials Differ in Their Speed of Reaction with the Soil

Hydrated lime (Ca(OH)₂) is a strong base. It is similar to household lye. It reacts quickly with the soil acids. Unfortunately, it can also partially sterilize the soil.

Burned lime (CaO) reacts with the soil moisture (H₂O) to form hydrated lime (Ca(OH)₂). Burned lime also reacts with the carbon dioxide (CO₂) of the soil to form calcium carbonate (CaCO₃). The effect can be the same as for hydrated lime.

Dolomitic limestone blocks are used for building purposes because it is water insoluble and resists weathering. However, finely ground dolomitic limestone contains calcium and magnesium as neutralizing materials. Calcitic limestone contains only calcium as a neutralizing material.

Ground hard rock calcitic and dolomitic limestone are water insoluble. Their availability depends on the carbon dioxide content of the soil forming soluble bicarbonates.

The carbon dioxide content of the soil is related to the biological activity (bacteria, molds) and the amount of root growth. Therefore, the fastest reaction of limestone with the soil is during the warm summer months. It is best to spread lime evenly and mix it thoroughly with the soil.

Bulk Limestone

Bulk limestone can be delivered to the farm at the lowest cost. The same minimum standards for grinding applies to both wet and dry ground limestones. When the material is wet, it is more difficult to spread uniformly than the same product in a dry form.

Mississippi Lime

The marls (calcium limestones plus impurities of Mississippi run together and cannot be spread when wet. Mississippi soft limestone is water soluble and reacts rapidly to correct soil acidity. It does not require the fineness of grind as do hard rock limestones.

Overliming May Cause Deficiency Symptoms

Overliming can result from failing to recognize the need for mixing the ground limestone with the soil. Limestone applied on the surface and plowed down gets very little mixing with the soil. If limestone is not mixed with the soil, a test may show that lime is still needed. Overliming occurs when the second application is made, and both applications are mixed with the soil by later tillage operations.

Overliming may develop recognizable symptoms on sensitive crops such as soybeans, corn, and small grain. Zinc, boron, and other heavy metals are likely to be deficient where soils are overlimed.

How to Mix Limestone With the Soil

Research shows that there is a need for good contact of the limestone with the soil acids. The results showed that two operations with the rotary tiller were necessary to mix the soil uniformly to a six-inch depth. The spring tooth harrow and disk harrow did not mix the material with the lower part of the tilled section. The disk harrow did not distribute the material uniformly.

Moleboard plowing left most of the material in the lower part of the tilled section. The results indicate that this irregular mixing could be avoided to a certain extent by applying half the material before disking and plowing and the remainder before final harrowing. The soil cross section patterns indicate the use of a deep spring tooth harrow such as a field cultivator could give fairly good soil mixing in both top and bottom zones of a plow furrow.

Hydrated lime and burned oyster shells will react quicker than ground limestone. The drastic action of these strong bases makes their use questionable. When a soil is adequately limed with a calcitic lime the soil magnesium may still be low. If so, this would require the use of relatively expensive water soluble magnesium resources to the soil or as a supplement in livestock feeding programs.

Get your soil tested now for your 1984 planting.

For more information on liming soil, com by the county Extension office on 40 East Church St. or, call 728-5631.

Soil Conservation

By ED CALVERT
Soil Conservationist
Booneville Field
Office

Pastures and hayfields in Prentiss County have suffered badly this year from the dry weather. Many local cattle operations will be hard pressed to provide winter feed. This year especially, a good winter pasture program will be of vital importance.

Two ways of providing good forage this winter will be the overseeding and/or sodseeding of a portion of the permanent summer pasture sod with ryegrass.

Overseeding: Overseeding ryegrass on grazed down permanent pasture sods of bahiagrass, coastal and common bermudagrass comprises the major acreage of pasture that fits this program.

If ryegrass is planted into sod higher than three inches, results can be poor. All excess grass must be grazed off or clipped down closely by late October. One of the best methods to plant ryegrass is to run a spring-type pasture renovator or disk over the pasture, seed 40 pounds of ryegrass per acre, harrow to smooth and then cultipack for quick germination.

Ryegrass overseeded around Oct. 1 or later should be fertilized at planting time with 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre in order to get maximum growth before cold weather sets in.

Another 200 pounds per acre of ammonium nitrate should be put out in mid February. These overseeded areas must be heavily grazed in April and early May to keep the ryegrass from growing up and setting the permanent grass back.

Sodseeding: The planting of an annual crop in pasture sod with a drill type seeder than only disturbs the area planted is called sodseeding. It saves time and labor as the seeding and fertilizing job can be done in one trip over the field. A special value of sodseeding in permanent pastures is that these areas can be grazed when the ground is wet.

Sodseeding is excellent for use in heavy clover areas allowing the interplanting of ryegrass from October to mid-November.

Cereals such as oats, rye, or wheat can be sodseeded in combination with ryegrass. It will usually not pay to include cereals in later plantings (after Nov. 1) as these crops get their best growth production in early fall.

When planting seed, plant 100 pounds of cereal and 25 pounds of ryegrass or 35 pounds of ryegrass alone.

Sodseeding ryegrass will follow the same fertilization, grazing, and managing criteria as overseeding.

For further information on developing your winter grazing you can contact the Soil Conservation Service office at 107 College St., or phone 728-3544.

Booneville Man Recieves Ph.D In Beef Management

David Prichard received his Ph.D. in Beef Cattle Management and Breeding from the University of Florida on Aug. 6.

Attending the ceremonies were his wife Caren and infant daughter Christiana. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Prichard of Booneville and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lollar of Mantachie.

A former Eagle Scout and a 1974 graduate of Booneville High School, Dr. Prichard attended Northeast Junior College. From Mississippi State University, he received a B.S. with distinction from Animal Science and a M.S. with special distinction in Ruminant Nutrition. Graduating with honors from the University of Florida, his dissertation was titled "Effects of Creep Feeding, Zeranol and Breed Type on Beef Production."

While at the University of Florida, Dr. Prichard was a teaching and research assistant, guest lecturer, and assistant coach of the Livestock and Meat Animal Evaluation Teams. He was the 1992 recipient of Florida Citrus Processors' Graduate Scholarship. From 1980 to 1983, he had fifteen research articles published.

Presently, Dr. Prichard and his family reside in Tallahassee, Fla., where he manages a Polled Hereford operation.

EYE OPENERS

By
Dr. Walter C. Simpson

FOR CONTACT LENS WEARERS

Here are some tips for wearers of contact lenses.

DON'T swim with soft lenses. They can absorb chemicals.

DO, if you drive a lot, take along an extra pair of lenses.

DON'T go to bed with lenses in - unless your prescription is for extended wear lenses.

DO, if you play racquet sports or ball games, wear safety glasses over your lenses.

DON'T use aerosol deodorants or hair sprays after inserting lenses. If possible, avoid sprays altogether.

DO insert lenses BEFORE putting on face or eye makeup. Water-soluble eye makeup is best with contacts.

DON'T touch the inner surface of the lens - the part which contacts the cornea.

DO see an eye doctor if your eyes develop pain, blurred vision or any lasting irritation.

Presented as a public service by Dr. Walter C. Simpson, Optometrist, 118 Main St., Booneville, Miss. Phone 728-3553.

Prentiss Farmers Participate in State's HOT Program

Prentiss County is part of a statewide Hold Our Topsoil (HOT) program aimed at cutting soil erosion in half during the next three to five years.

The present rate of soil loss on cropland in Mississippi is 10.6 tons per acre year. This compares with about 17 tons of topsoil lost annually from cropland in Prentiss County.

The HOT program was launched earlier this year when Governor William Winter appointed Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross chairman of a Steering Committee to conduct the program. Committee members represent 19 state and federal agencies and organizations interested in soil conservation.

HOT leaders in Prentiss County include Charles

Calvert, county director, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS); Al Garner, acting district conservationist, Soil Conservation Service (SCS); William H. Holley, county director, Prentiss County Farm Bureau; Robert Thornton, County Forester, State Forestry Commission; and Clifford Hampton, County Agent, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Prentiss County will participate with counties on October 11 in a statewide field day to be held on two adjoining farms near Bolton in Hinds County. Participants can view soil-saving practices on cropland, pastureland, woodland and wildlife areas. Soil-saving demonstrations, such as pond building, will be conducted during the day.

Pharr Mounds, Bay Springs Highlight Parkway

BY ED WOODWARD
Staff Reporter

A few minutes after you enter the newly opened Prentiss County portion of the Natchez Trace Parkway from State Route 371, near Marietta, you will find a parking area with a pavillion overlooking a large open expanse of land bordered on two sides by forest.

Prominent at various spots on this grassy expanse are the Pharr Mounds, ranging in height from 18 feet down to two feet.

Four of these mounds were excavated by archeologists in 1966. And evidence was found to indicate that they were burial mounds constructed during the First and Second Centuries, BC, by Indians of what is known as The Hopewell Interaction Sphere.

The Hopewell Indians, while based primarily in what is now Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, exerted their influence on many other areas of North America through trade. They were among the same "Mound Builders" who constructed the well-known Serpent Mound of Ohio, an earthrowk that when viewed from the air depicts a serpent swallowing an egg.

Though not all Hopewell mounds were used for burial -- some, it has been discovered, were merely garbage dumps -- the Pharr Mounds were used for ceremonial burials. And excavations have produced pottery shards, pipes, and other artifacts, as well as evidence of cremated bodies.

In addition to the Pharr Mounds, the Prentiss County section of the Trace, which winds northeast from the intersection of Routes 370 and 371 until it crosses the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway into Tishomingo County within sight of the Bay Springs Lock and Dam, offers beautiful scenery, a picnic area, and a fishing area.

Approximately one mile from the Route 371 entrance is a nature trail constructed by the Youth Conservation Corps where visitors may leave their cars for a few minutes to wander on foot and commune with nature.

Just southwest of the Pharr Mounds, the roadway passes through Brown Bottom, where a parking area has been provided for those who want to try their luck at fishing.

Then, for the next few miles, the traveler can drive through the wooded Northeast Mississippi hills, and enjoy the scenery.

At one point, it is even possible to spot a large herd of goats grazing on a hillside, oblivious to the traffic, but still camera shy, should a car stop.

Though not actually in Prentiss County, the nearly completed Bay Springs Lock and Dam seen from the bridge over the Tenn-Tom is a sight worth the trip.

And, to round out that trip, a picnic can be held in the small park on the west bank of the Waterway before traveling on to the Route 4 exit from The Trace, and turning west for an even more spectacular view of the lock and dam.

Whether your interests are nature, history, fishing, or just relaxing, exploring the newly opened Prentiss County section of the Natchez Trace Parkway can be an enjoyable weekend afternoon outing for everyone in the family.

Troopers Begin Statewide Battle Against Litter, Speeding

Mississippi's state troopers have been ordered to be on the lookout for motorists who are littering the highways.

Col. Donald Butler, chief of patrol, said the Highway Patrol has been receiving an increased number of complaints from individuals and citizen's groups about the amount of trash dumped along roadways.

"Mississippi has tough laws against littering and the Highway Patrol is going to increase its effort to enforce them," Butler said.

Litterers can be fined up to $500 for throwing paper, cans, glass or other trash from automobiles. Anyone convicted of littering can be required to pick up litter on both sides of a highway for a distance of up to five miles.

"Our troopers have been ordered to stop and issue citations to the drivers of automobiles who allow trash to be thrown from the cars or trucks they are driving," the chief said.

"It is sad that the state must spend nearly one-half million dollars per year to pick up trash along the road, especially since the state budget is so tight.

"We must remember that about one and one-half million tourists will be driving through our state for the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans and will form lasting impressions about Mississippi based on what they see from their vehicles.

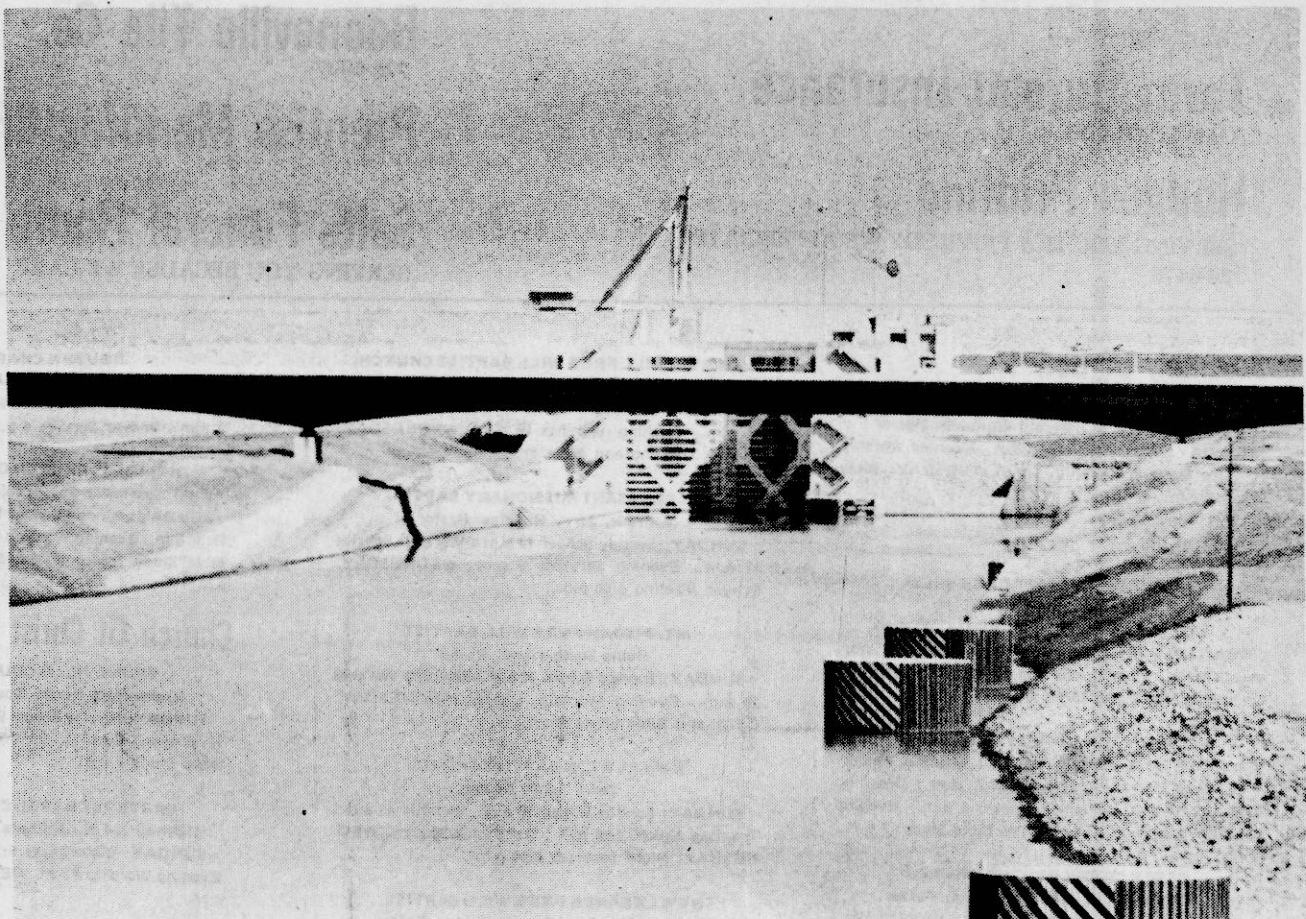

"We should all take enough pride in the appearance of our state to dispose of litter in a proper and lawful manner," Butler said.

The chief reported that troopers will be cracking down on speeders in coming months. He said spot checks have shown that the average speed on state and federal highways has continued to climb through the summer months.

"Although our troopers have been concentrating on drunken driver arrests, we are not going to neglect speeding drivers.

"We will be issuing an increased number of speeding tickets for the remainder of the year," Butler predicted.

Births To Teenagers Are High, Particularly In Mississippi

From
Mississippi
Department of Health

The high cost of teenage pregnancy and parenthood drains everyone's pocket-book -- and the number of teen births in Mississippi is particularly high.

Nearly one-fourth of all the babies born in Mississippi in 1982 were to teenage mothers, girls from 10 to 19 years old. Statewide, these children gave birth to 10,047 babies -- that averages about 27 new pregnancies every day.

The consequences of teenage pregnancy are almost all negative. Infants born to teen mothers are twice as likely to die as those born to mothers in their 20's, and teen mothers face considerably greater risk of maternal death and disease. The babies risk serious birth defects and childhood illnesses.

But family planning maternal child health staff with the Mississippi State Department of Health know that these concerns are only part of this costly, complex problem.

The teenage mother faces greater obstacles in education and limited opportunities to gain career skills. The greater probability of separation or divorce increases the likelihood of the mother's bringing up the child in a home without a bread-winning father. Cases of child abuse and neglect increase among very young mothers. Families headed by a young mother are also more likely to be poor.

The personal tragedy is tremendous -- no matter what her economic, ethnic, social, or religious group. And the trouble doesn't stop at the girl's doorstep. More than one-third of the Mississippi babies born to teenage mothers need public assistance. These babies cost the public more than $1 million for their first year of life alone.

The Mississippi State Department of Health Family Planning Program helps teens and parents providing counseling, sex education, and contraceptives. Health educators offer community and school-based programs on human sexuality for both teens and parents. They involve pastors, school counselors, and parents in the teen decision-making process.

The agency protects teens' confidentiality but encourages parental involvement in the decision-making and actions of the teen dealing with sexual activity.

"Teens must learn more about themselves, their bodies, and human sexuality," said Doris Barnette, director of the Family Planning Program. "They must learn that being sexually active should also mean being sexually responsible."

"Parents can help their children develop a sense of self-worth and equip them to make grownup choices," she said. "Most of all, parents must communicate and listen, be around when they are needed, be open and honest, and show they care. Discussion groups, seminars, and classes may give parents the skills required to talk to children about sex.

"Knowledge about sexuality, far from making young people sexually promiscuous, can give them the confidence to resist premature or exploitive sexual experiences and protect themselves from pregnancy, when and if they do become sexually active," she added.

Teenagers need guidance to develop values and assume responsibility for their actions. They also need a setting in which they feel free to discuss their problems and concerns, plus assurance that it is all right to say "no."

For family planning services or more information, teens or their parents can contact their physician or county health department.

Highway Patrol Will Conduct Operations Between 1 & 6 A.M.

The Highway Patrol will conduct operations between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. sporadically throughout the state of Mississippi, according to Col. Donald Butler, patrol chief in Jackson.

Manpower and budget considerations have prevented an early morning patrol for several years, a fact that was widely publicized recently following State Budget Commission hearings.

"For obvious reasons, we have not advertised the fact that our troopers were not assigned to regular patrols during these hours," Butler said.

"Now that this difficulty has become public knowledge, we feel it necessary to swap schedules around to provide periodic 24-hour patrolling," he said.

Butler said the 24-hour schedules will not be in effect in all parts of the state at the same time and that these schedule changes will not be in effect every day.

"Commanders in each of the Highway Patrol's nine districts have been ordered to develop special schedules which will allow for periodic 24-hour patrols.

Butler said early morning patrols conducted in the Brookhaven District since the Budget Commission hearings have resulted in the capture and arrest of a man believed to be involved in an attempted murder and robbery and, in an unrelated matter, the seizure of 81 pounds of marijuana being transported through the state. Two men have been charged in connection with the marijuana seizure.

"We know that the belief that the Highway Patrol was not operating during the hours of 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. was a temptation for individuals engaged in criminal activity.

"We believe that the knowledge that we will be periodically patrolling during those hours will create apprehension among any willful violators and will give the motoring public a sense of security and confidence that the Highway Patrol is on duty," Butler said.

Prentiss Co. Announces Answer Center Number

As the break-up of the Bell System -- still set for January 1 -- moves closer, more and more South Central Bell customers are wondering how the divestiture-related changes will affect them.

To help its customers better understand what's going on in the complex telephone industry, South Central Bell has opened the "Bell Answer Center."

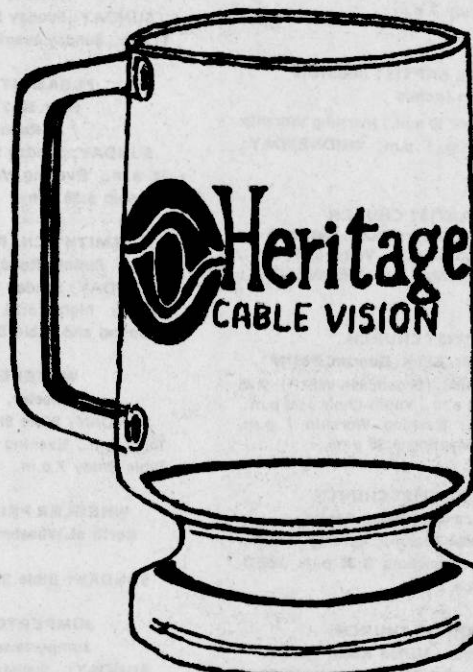

By dialing 1-800-555-5000, a toll-free number, anyone in South Central Bell's five-state area can reach the Bell Answer Center and get answers to questions about the upcoming divestiture and some of the changes which will result.

"We know that many of our customers are uncertain about how the divestiture of South Central Bell by AT&T will affect their individual telephone service," said Tom Bailey, District Manager. "That's why we opened up the Bell Answer Center -- to give people a place to call for some straight answers."

Bailey said South Central Bell has some 20 well-trained representatives now fielding calls in the center, located in Louisville, Kentucky. The center's personnel are prepared to answer about any conceivable customer question -- in a straightforward, down-to-earth, in-depth manner, he said.

The Bell Answer Center is scheduled to remain open until March 31, 1984.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A Glimpse Of That Better Place

By C. D. Edge

John 14:2 Says: 'In My Father's House Are Many Mansions.'

Just one glimpse of Heaven would be all you would need, friends. No one that saw that beautiful place would ever want to return to the suffering and pain of this earth.

This story is told of a boy that had a sister who was sick and dying. He dreamed that a leaf from the tree of life in Heaven would heal her. In his dream he approached the GATE OF GLORY and made his desire known to the angel at the gate. The angel suggested to the boy that even if his sister was healed she would still suffer trials and disappointments and probably be sick again while on earth. While he talked with the boy the angel opened the gate of Heaven just a little so the youngster could see just a little inside. The boy could scarcely believe his eyes. Everything was wonderful and beautiful beyond description, so that after just a glimpse the boy said - FORGET THE LEAF, MAY I COME IN WITH HER?

There is an old verse written about one who has gone on to Heaven -
I WOULD NOT HAVE YOU GRIEVE FOR ME TODAY
NOR WEEP BESIDE MY VACANT CHAIR;
COULD YOU BUT KNOW MY DAILY PORTION HERE
YOU WOULD NOT, COULD NOT, WISH ME THERE.

THE COVER:

Carl Lewis, An Ole Miss Rebel Leader

By RONNIE CALDWELL
Mississippi
Sports Page

Ole Miss defensive end Carl Lewis is many things to many people.

To his coaches, Lewis is spirited and aggressive. To opposing defenses, Lewis is almost crazed. To his Ole Miss defensive mates, Lewis is a desperately needed leader.

Who is this Carl Lewis? "I just try to play with a lot of want and desire," said the 6-2, 226-pound senior from Millbrook, Ala. "I like being excited when I play football and I want everyone on our defense to be excited."

However, in the opening games of the 1983 season for Ole Miss, there was not a great deal to be excited about. After the first three losses of this season, the Rebel defense had allowed 104 points or an average of over 34 per outing.

Rebel head coach Billy Brewer as well as his defensive assistants said that Ole Miss badly needed leaders, "take-charge players. Enter Carl Lewis."

Lewis had seen action in his previous years at Ole Miss primarily on special teams, but his participation at the end spot had been limited. He made his move on the position last spring and was the leading tackler in the annual Red-Blue scrimmage with seven.

Lewis continued his defensive progress in the Rebels' sluggish start by accounting for 13 stops in the first three games. Against Arkansas, Lewis was a big difference defensively with five tackles and two quarterback sacks.

"I felt pretty good about my performance, but the Arkansas game (a 13-10 Ole Miss win) was the best by far," explained Lewis. "We all decided to play with more excitement and enthusiasm against Arkansas."

That enthusiasm is sparked by Lewis, the number 48 is all over the field. That's just his style. "When you get excited, it seems like good things happen on defense," he said. "At the first of the year, we were not communicating as well as we should have. You have to get all 11 people involved on defense and, it helps to get the crowd behind you, too."

Lewis' coach, Billy Brewer, could not be more pleased with that type of attitude. "We have to fight and scrap for an entire 60 minutes of a football game," said Brewer. "Our senior leadership has really helped us through some tough times."

Lewis is one of those spirited senior leaders, unless you are across the line of scrimmage. In that case, other labels might apply.

MISSISSIPPI TEAMS AND FOES

Mississippi State will take the measure of the USM Golden Eagles by six. Georgia will beat Ole Miss by three.

Alabama will go to Penn State and come away with a point win.

Manfred Saylor Continues To Lead Prog Chart

Doug Jumper, Bill Ward, Manfred Saylor, and Leighton Miller all picked 12 of 14 games correct last week for an 85 percent average for top honors in this weeks Banner-Independent prognosticator chart.

Saylor managed to hold onto his yearly lead as he has now raised his yearly average to 83 percent. He has picked usually 12 or 13 games correct each week in holding onto his lead.

Doug Jumper, who correctly picked the Northeast Junior College and the East Mississippi game last week scorewise, is running a close second with a picking accuracy of 79 percent.

Bill Ward and Leighton Miller are still in a deadlock for third place on the year with an accuracy rate of 76 percent.

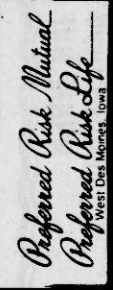

Last week's guest picker, Booneville High School principal Mac Curlee didn't fare too well only picking 10 of 14 games, at a 71 percent rate.

This week's guest picker is WBIP sports announcer Lee Gentry.

Georgia Chews Up Mississippi State, 20-7

The Mississippi State Bulldogs ran into a buzzsaw this past weekend in Athens, Georgia, in the form of the Georgia Bulldogs as the Athens Conines took the upper hand 20-7.

The Battle of the Bullies proved to be no match as the Georgians rolled to the easy victory. Georgia opened up the scoring and never trailed as 82,122 looked on "between the Hedges."

Georgia kicker Kevin Butler opened the scoring on a 52 yard field goal and later in the half, Georgia added another score when Keith Montgomery scored the first of his two touchdowns on a one yard run.

Georgia's Montgomery and Butler did all the scoring again in the second half as Georgia quarterback John Lastinger hit Montgomery on a 9 yard scoring strike and Butler added a 27 yard field to make the final score 20-7.

Georgia tailback Barry Young, the replacement for Herschel Walker, picked up 82 yards on 8 carries to lead his team to victory.

North Alabama
Defeats Delta State

Clarence Johnson scored four touchdowns to spark North Alabama to a 53-38 football victory over Delta State Saturday night in a battle of undefeated Gulf South Conference powers. The Lions jumped out to a 12-0 lead in the contest and fought off a late Statesmen surge after Delta State had closed the gap to 32-27 at the start of the fourth quarter. North Alabama scored 20 unanswered points in the final quarter. Delta State quarterback Scott Butler passed for four touchdowns, including passes of 23, 23, and 28 yards to Kyle Finney.

Ole Miss Falls To USM

The Southern Mississippi Golden Eagle's used a tenacious defense and a powerful offense to upset the Ole Miss Rebels, last Saturday in Vaught-Hemmingsway Stadium at Ole Miss, 27-7.

That powerful offense was led by Golden Eagle quarterback Robert Ducksworth, who passed for over 200 yards in the victory. Ole Miss threatened first in the game, but when Rebel quarterback Kent Austin tried to pass to tailback Buford McGee, but Eagle cornerback James Cooper croneback James Cooper caught the pass after it was tipped by McGee and raced 38 yards for the score.

Southern again drew blood early when Steve Clark connected on a 33 yard field goal as the Eagles began to pull away. And when wide receiver Lewis Lipps scored from 28 yards out on a reverse, the party was over. Ole Miss did manage to score before halftime as Austin hit tightend Ken Moffitt on a 5 yard scoring strike, but the Rebels could do no further damage. Southern added two other scores late in the game to give them the 20 point victory.
