Alcorn Murder Suspect Still At Large

Alcorn County law authorities are still searching for a suspect in the murder of a Rienzi man, Earnest C. Moore.

Moore's body was found floating face down in the Tuscumbia Canal, less than a mile from his home east of Rienzi, Jan. 3.

Moore, 45, had been shot once in the chest with a small caliber weapon, according to Morris Smith, investigator for the Alcorn County Sheriff's Department.

Warrants have been issued for Moore's son, Michael Anthony Moore, Smith said.

Moore, 24, was reportedly sighted Saturday on a motorcycle south of Biggersville, Smith said. However, law authorities have been unable to locate the suspect, he said.

County Power Off Monday

Prentiss Countians were without electricity for about 25 minutes early Monday morning.

TVA was making some power changes when they evidently ran into some complications, according to Robert Dodson of the Prentiss County Electric Power Association.

The power was scheduled to be turned off for two minutes at 5:30 a.m. Monday -- but the power outage lasted for about 25 minutes before returning back to normal.

Tuesday Closings Were Premature

Hail and sleet at the southern edge of a winter storm that hit Corinth early Tuesday morning prompted premature decisions to close area schools and cancel many scheduled activities, including a number of basketball games.

But, although the National Weather Service in Tupelo had forecast a two-inch snow accumulation for the area, and U.S. 72 was reported to be iced over and hazzardous, Prentiss County received only a trace of precipitation, and streets and roads were clear by Tuesday evening.

Booneville City and Prentiss County schools were reported operating on normal schedules on Wednesday.

Sheriff Finds Car Part Under Bridge

Sunday afternoon Sheriff W.V. Horn found a partial piece of a compact car that had been shoved under a bridge in Crabb bottom, southeast of New Hope.

He said the part of the car he found had been thrown on the ice underneath the bridge. The water there is from 15-20 feet deep.

No vehicle identification number was found on the automobile, he said.

In other news from the sheriff's department, Horn said the Board of Supervisors had inspected the jail and discussed with him the things he hopes to have done.

Horn said he wants to give the jail and sheriff's office an overall "face lifting" -- changing carpets and painting the jail.

Allain Sworn In- Pledges Cooperation

With the temperature at 38 degrees and with rain beginning to fall, former attorney general Bill Allain took the oath of office Tuesday on the south steps of the state capitol in Jackson. His first act as governor -- that the ceremonies be moved inside -- was widely approved by those attending the ceremony.

"It will be recorded by history that the first request to the Legislature by Bill Allain was unanimously approved," the new governor joked.

In his inaugural address, Allain pledged to put aside past differences with the legislature and to try to work with them.

"Let me put to rest here and now, and for all time, any speculation... that past relationships in other capacities will result in confrontation between the governor and the Legislature," he said.

As attorney general, Allain went to court in an effort to remove 36 powerful lawmakers from governmental boards.

Mississippi Chief Justice Neville Patterson administered the oath of office to Allain.

County Courthouse Closed Monday

The Prentiss County Courthouse will be closed Monday, Jan. 16, in observance of Robert E. Lee's birthday.

Greene Wants Firm Policies Established

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Though actually a Prentiss Countian, prior to being elected Prentiss County superintendent of schools J.W. Greene was a teacher and administrator in the Itawamba County schools. He was principal at Houston Elementary School and Mantachie Attendance Center. More recently he was assistant principal at Fulton Grammar School.

Greene's experience has given him some definite ideas about how a school system should be run. And he is not afraid to make them known.

"I feel that we must have established policies that our principals can go by, approved by the board. And they must be policies that they will stand behind in the schools and on the buses. I'd like to see uniform policies throughout the county," Greene said.

"I'd like to make as few of those as possible. But those that we do make, I'd like to see us stick to strictly. I think that's good business for the teachers, the students, the principals and everybody concerned, as well as the board.

"That is my first and major objective," Greene said. "Then, secondly, I would like for each principal and teacher to feel like they can do their job without interference. I ran for superintendent of education to try to help improve education, and not necessarily to try to get anyone out of a job, or fire anybody.

"But to do this, we as administrators, teachers and school board members must become closely

Foreign Imports Could Hurt Local Shoe Industry

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Publisher

Although many factories across the nation folded under the economic pressures of 1983, it was a good year for Brown Shoe Company in Booneville.

The local shoe manufacturer not only maintained production, it even managed some increases.

Unfortunately, there now lurks on the horizon a shadow that could dim the bright outlook for the Booneville factory.

According to plant manager Alton Phillips and assistant manager Danny Nave, the problem is imports -- quality shoes imported, mostly from Taiwan and Korea, for less than it costs to make them here.

In June 1981, government-established quotas with Taiwan and Korea were eliminated. As a result, according to Paul Crane of Footwear Industries of America, imported nonrubber footwear has jumped from 375 million pairs in that year to an estimated 560 million pairs in 1983.

Meanwhile, domestic production has fallen from 372 million pairs in 1981 to an estimated 320 million in 1983, accompanied by a loss of approximately 25,000 jobs nationwide.

Imported shoes now account for an estimated two thirds of the U.S. market.

"In 1983, the entire American shoe industry produced 320 million pairs of shoes; 560 million pairs were imported," assistant plant manager Nave pointed out. "If something isn't done, one of those figures is going to be higher and the other lower."

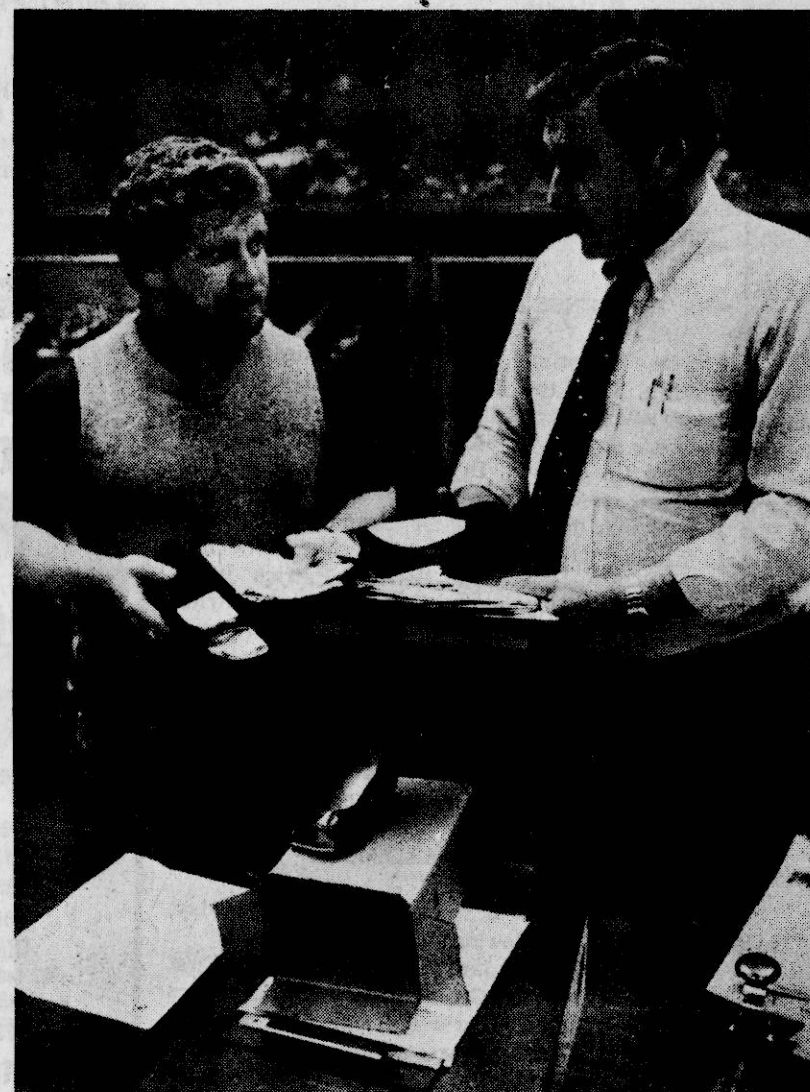

The shoe industry was established in Booneville in 1955 by Brown Shoe Company of St. Louis, Mo. At the present time the Booneville plant is doing very well, Nave said. With about 400 employees, its annual payroll is almost $1 million and it produces approximately 5,500 pairs of shoes each day.

"But that can change overnight. . . I've seen it happen," Nave said, indicating that Brown Shoe Company might have to cut back in production or even close some plants if something is not done to limit imports.

In an effort to prevent this from happening, Brown Shoe has joined with the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union and the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union in calling for the re-establishment of import quotas.

A campaign called "Shoes to Washington" is now underway to bring attention to the situation. The management and employees of the local plant are

Missing Files Returned To Sheriff's Office

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

Some files that had been missing from the sheriff's office were returned by a former deputy Thursday night of last week, according to Prentiss County Sheriff W.V. Horn.

Upon taking office on Monday of last week, the new sheriff and his deputies were unable to locate files from the former sheriff's administration.

Horn said he was not at the sheriff's office when former deputy Jim Ross returned some of the files last week. The returned files contained complaint reports and automobile accident reports.

Former sheriff John McCauley said Tuesday that he had instructed his deputies to take files concerning their cases with them so that they could review them before the cases are heard during the February term of circuit court.

"I told them to keep the files in safe keeping until the cases are disposed of in court," McCauley said.

Ross said that after he had found the case files he needed, he then returned the files containing the complaint reports and accident reports. He noted that all the former deputies have kept the files concerning their cases which will be heard in court. There are about 28 of their cases yet to be tried, he said.

McCauley said he has requested that Horn ask a state investigator to look into the situation to determine whether or not any files were missing other than those he had instructed his officers to take. If some were found to have been taken before he left office, McCauley said he would press charges himself against those responsible.

Thus far, Horn says he has not had time to make an inventory report about the files for the board of supervisors. Some files are thought to still be missing.

ARC Approves $1/4 Million Grant For New Sewage Facility

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

According to a spokesman for Cong. Jamie Whitten's office, the Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $250,000 grant requested by the city of Booneville.

The grant approval was the one remaining block to construction of the city's new $6,132,420 sewage and waste water treatment facility. The city was awarded a $4.4 million grant from the Environmental Protection Agency in Dec. 1983, and had already received loans from the Farmers Home Administration and the State of Mississippi in the amounts of $889,600 and $554,320, respectively.

Mayor Charles Crabb said he was extremely happy to learn of the ARC grant approval. He said construction bids on the project are scheduled to be opened on Feb. 2. And he estimated that construction on the project could begin as early as April.

"The new facility will be able to handle two million gallons of sewage per day, and will eliminate the need to empty sewage into area streams," Mayor Crabb said. "Also, we have many people in subdivisions in the city who have been waiting for some time to be hooked onto the city's sewage system. Once this new facility is finished, we will finally be able to add them to the system.

"I want to express my sincere appreciation to all the agencies and individuals who have made this possible, including Sens. Cochran and Stennis, Cong. Whitten, the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District, Porter Roberts and his staff at the ARC office in Tupelo, the EPA, and local officers at the FmHA," Mayor Crabb said.

Shoes

writing letters to area representatives in Washington, calling for legislation to provide "import relief."

"We do not ask that imports be eliminated," a sample letter states. "We ask for the industry to be allowed its fair share of the market."

To further dramatize the situation, Brown Shoe is taking a pair of shoes, removing one of the shoes and cutting the toe out of the other. The toe-less shoe which remains thus symbolizes the industry's loss of 64 percent of its market to imports -- one shoe per pair, plus 14 percent of the remaining shoe.

One of these toe-less shoes, along with letters written by management and employees, is being sent to area representatives in Washington -- Senator Thad Cochran, Senator John Stennis, and Congressman Jamie Whitten.

The campaign, sponsored by Footwear Industries of America, is being coordinated so that packages of toe-less shoes and letters from all over the United States will reach the Capitol on Jan. 20. It was felt the campaign would make a greater impact if the packages all arrived at or near the same time.

In support of the Booneville shoe factory, Mayor Charles Crabb has also written to Congressman Whitten and Senator Cochran.

"I just want you to know of my concern on this and ask that you and your colleagues seriously consider assisting in legislation to help keep our American labor force off the unemployment roles," the mayor wrote. "... should the import business continue, it could cause us serious problems."

The mayor and board of aldermen have drafted a resolution supporting legislation to limit imports of shoes into the U.S. Copies of this resolution are to be included with the shoes and letters in the packages being sent to the Washington representatives.

Plant officials say that, if the import situation continues, Brown Shoe will undoubtedly have to shut down some of its plants -- and the Booneville plant could be one of them.

"We have entire families working here -- mother, father and kids," Nave said.

"It wouldn't be as bad on the younger people having to find new jobs, but when you've worked here for 20 years, it's hard to start over."

associated with an open line of communication. We must be able to understand what each of us wants to do. Then, once we establish the fact that we are all after improvement of education, we've got to move on with our business," Greene said.

Greene said he has already run into instances of lack of communication. "For example, I had an application the other day for a student to be transferred to the Booneville district. And I have no objection to that if they have a reason. But there was no reason on the application."

"I called the principal and explained that I could not recommend the transfer to the board without a reason. And it was the first the principal had been aware of it. So I gave him the name of the student. He pursued it, and called me back in a couple of hours."

"He and the parent had the problem worked out. There was no need for a transfer," Greene said. "In that case, the parent had talked with someone else and not the principal. But, then, there are other cases where the problem can't be worked out. And we did transfer one student."

"But I think we're on the threshold of a change in education that we never had any idea would come about in Mississippi," he said. "And I think the only way to do it is to start preparing ourselves now, because it's going to be a drastic change for us, as well as the teachers and the community."

"Of course, the teachers for the past several years have been writing a program called AIM. And I think the program was, in the beginning, probably taken a little lightly because they thought it was just something somebody wanted, and it would never amount to anything."

"In fact, I became so discouraged with it myself that I made the statement one time that I wouldn't have anything else to do with it. And, unfortunately, the administrator over me did not disagree with me. But, as time has progressed, and I've seen the legislation come through and read most of it, I can see where AIM and House Bill 4 (The Education Reform Package) will go hand in hand. They will be woven together," he said.

"I see where, in the future, teachers are going to be performance tested, and possibly paid accordingly. And I see where the teacher who is not producing is going to have to start producing or be replaced. And what I'd like to do now is start finding those teachers who are not producing by evaluating any way that we can and finding those weak spots, and having workshops to try to help them gain the knowledge and the wisdom they need to start teaching the things that need to be taught. And maybe I won't have to replace anybody."

"But, then, if we can't, we'll have to take a look at replacing some people," he added. "In any area we look at, things need to be looked into, and evaluated and we need to decide the best procedure policy on it."

"And we need to all try to work together as a whole county, and not just as a school. If we are to withstand the changes that are going to take place in the next few years, we'll have to work together," Greene said.

"We are producing kids...not only in Prentiss County; but all over the state of Mississippi, who are just absolutely not educated," he said. "When you walk out here, and you talk to young people who just got out of the 12th grade, and they start to write a check, and they're embarrassed because they either don't know how, or they can't spell or even write well enough, this is an indication of poor education."

Greene said he is confident Prentiss Countians want to improve education. "The board of education wants to help me solve these problems. And the board of supervisors has been overwhelmingly interested in letting me know that they're ready to help in any way they can."

"So, the way I see it, if an administrator has the board of education and the board of supervisors with him, if he can't do something then he needs to be replaced," said J.W. Greene.

"Sincerely, that's the way I feel. And I may not be the man who can do it. And, if I'm not, then I should be replaced. This county doesn't owe me a job or a salary unless I deserve it. And if I don't improve education here, I don't deserve it."

"That probably doesn't ring true, I know. It doesn't sound like a politician," Greene said, shrugging. "But it's still the way I really feel. And I intend to do my best to achieve those goals."

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

WARD HOGLAND

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, are we under any kind of law? The reason I ask is because I have read from Paul that we are not under law but under grace.

ANSWER: We are not under a system of law such as they had in the Old Testament. When Paul said, "Ye are not under law" (Rom. 6:14) he was talking about the law of Moses in the Old Testament. It is error to say we are not under any law. If we are not under any law there could be no transgression. Paul says in Rom. 4:14 "Where there is no law there is no transgression." It would be indeed foolish for one to argue that we have no "transgression" today. Furthermore Paul tells us we are under the LAW of Christ (1 Cor. 9:21). The reason many people get confused on this subject is they do not read all the Bible says on LAW. One must realize that we not only have the LAW of Moses in the Bible but also the LAW of Christ (Cor. 9:21) and also the perfect LAW of liberty (Jas. 1:25). In Romans 3:23, Paul tells us "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Now since sin is a transgression of the LAW (1 Jno. 3:4) it follows as day follows the night that we MUST be under some kind of LAW!

Justice Courts Operating Under New System

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

According to Prentiss County's two justice court judges, Dexter Cadle and Gene Prentice, whose office is now open on the second floor of the courthouse, there have been many changes in the justice court system. And they are afraid the average person may not be aware of these changes.

"It has changed completely," Judge Cadle said. "Instead of a district office, it is now a county office staffed by two judges and a clerk."

Cadle said justice court judges no longer operate on a fee system. They are now salaried. And there are minimum education requirements which did not exist prior to 1984.

"Judge Prentice and I both attended the judicial college sponsored by the Mississippi School of Law and taught by professors from the Ole Miss law school in Oxford," he said. Cadle has attended four such sessions, while Prentice said he has attended three.

Both Cadle and Prentice were judges under the former system with Prentice serving one prior term of office and Cadle three.

Though under the old system each judge had jurisdiction only in the particular district in which he was elected, Judges Prentice and Cadle were elected by all county voters, and they both have jurisdiction over the entire county. "We serve on a rotating system," said Judge Prentice.

"We have a court clerk who has been hired by the county. She collects all fines, fees and assessments, schedules our cases on a rotating basis and keeps all the records," he explained.

"The actual duties of a justice court judge, now, under the new system, is to go in on court dates twice a month, hear the cases that have been prepared and docketed by the court clerk, and sign the docket," Cadle said.

"It used to be you didn't have to have a high school education to be a JP. But now you have to have a high school education or the equivalent, plus the required training," said Prentice.

Both judges admitted there have been problems involved in the changeover from the old system to the new. "We've had problems, and we're still having problems. But we have to just take it day by day and work those things out," Cadle said.

"We've had changes in our assessments (fines)," Prentice said. "It's a completely new system. The fines are greater than they were."

"And we now have the same authority as a circuit judge or a chancery court judge have in their courts. And any decision Judge Prentice or I render in our court is subject to appeal to a higher court," Cadle said.

All misdemeanor offenses are tried in Justice Court, as well as civil cases involving unpaid debts under $1000, Prentice explained.

"And, as far as felonies are concerned, they start in our court with the preliminary hearing," Cadle said. "Then, if there is probable cause in our opinion, we can bind that person over to the action of the Grand Jury."

"But we'd like for the people to know that it is now a county-wide office, and Judge Prentice and myself are both available to all the people in the entire county," he said.

Both men stressed that anyone having business with the Justice Court should now go to the new office in the courthouse or phone 728-8696 during regular business hours.

Judge Cadle and Judge Prentice said they are also still available in emergency situations 24 hours a day, as they were under the old system, though they now may be available alternately.

But, again, both men stressed that their jurisdiction now covers the entire county. And under the new system, Judge Prentice can have jurisdiction in Thrasher while living in Baldwin, and Judge Cadle can have jurisdiction in Baldwin, though living in Booneville.

And, they explained, all traffic violations, including DUI, not under city jurisdiction, will now be taken care of in their office at the courthouse, and heard by both on a rotating basis.

Lance Corporal William D. Riddle

Local Marine Recovering From Beirut Wounds

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

The Fleet Home Town News Center release says only that Marine Lance Cpl. William D. Riddle, son of James W. Riddle of the Hills Chapel Community, has returned home after a six-month deployment to Beirut, Lebanon. It makes no mention of the fact that Bill Riddle left his controversial Middle East assignment prior to the end of the six months, or why.

Riddle was back in Prentiss County recently visiting relatives and friends. And he revealed the purpose of his current leave - recuperation. He was wounded in both legs while in Beirut.

Riddle, 20, has been a Marine for a year-and-a-half. And five-and-one-half months of that time was spent in Beirut as a member of the 1st Battalion, Eighth Marines.

Asked what he had expected when he first learned he was going to Beirut, Cpl. Riddle said, "Just a lot of guard duty." It was May 1983 when he arrived. And the U.S. Marines had not yet become regular targets.

"We were the third or fourth group to go over there. But, before August we weren't being shot at," he said. "We were just doing patrols through the city. There wasn't anything exciting going on until about the 28th or 29th of August."

Though Riddle was stationed at Beirut Airport, he was not living in the barracks when the shelling and sniping began. "I had lived there in July. But they moved us around so we wouldn't get too bored. By August, we were at the southern end of the runway, about three miles from the barracks." He grinned. "We had nice sunsets and a good breeze."

"It was a little noisy. But, at the time we were there the planes didn't come in much. You could hear the shells, though, from the ships, and the shells coming in on us," Riddle said.

He said, after a while, just like living next to a railroad track, he ceased to notice the noise of the shelling. "But it is different, and it's exciting to hear the shells and see the explosions. I enjoyed it."

Riddle smiled and shrugged. "But I guess I am kind of crazy," he said, explaining that, as on M-A-S-H, being stationed where you are being shot at gives one a strange sense of humor. "You don't think about the fact that you could die, because, for one thing, you're trained differently, so it doesn't matter. And, also, you're having fun because you know that our artillery is going in on them. You know that, if they're firing at us, we're firing back. So, you don't really think about it till everything gets quiet a couple of hours later," he said. "It was just part of the excitement that I joined the Marines for, really," Riddle said, explaining that his assigned job is anti-tank assault.

"We carry a rifle, and we carry a drag-around, which is a missile that will go 1000 meters, and will blow up any tank in the world," Riddle explained that a "drag-around" is a larger version of the Law's Rocket featured in the Clint Eastwood movie

The Enforcer. "The Law is the littlest anti-tank weapon we have," he explained.

Riddle said he did not hear the shot that wounded him until after he was hit. "I was hit by a 7.62 slug. It went in (He pointed to the outside of his right thigh, just below the hip bone)...out (the inside of the right thigh)...in (the inside of the left thigh)...and out (the outside of the left thigh)," he said. Fortunately, though there was extensive muscle destruction, the bullet missed both thigh bones.

"I was riding in a jeep, and I was sitting behind the driver. We heard rifle fire, so we took off to go back to headquarters. We turned to go west. And I felt just like a thump in my leg. Then we heard a rifle crack. And I looked down, and my leg was bleeding," Riddle said. The incident took place in October.

Riddle said he is still numb above the knee in one leg. And, though he admits he would return to Beirut if ordered to, he now expects he will be given a medical discharge and a disability.

If this happens, he intends to go to college and major in law enforcement, he said.

SCB Seeking Injunction To Protect Data Files

South Central Bell has announced that it is filing suit in Hinds County Court for an injunction to protect market information and competitive sales data that it has furnished to the Mississippi Public Service Commission.

This information was among that requested by the MPSC, intervenors and others in connection with the upcoming hearings on South Central Bell's recent rate restructuring request. The company filed for the restructuring on Nov. 18, 1983.

"We have furnished voluminous amounts of information to the Commission," explained J.N. McGowen, vice president for South Central Bell's Mississippi operations.

"All of the data we originally filed and all but a small amount of data that has subsequently been requested by the Commission and others are being made public. However, we are asking the courts to restrict that small amount of data to the Commission's use only because it could only benefit our competitors if made public," he added.

On Dec. 22, 1983, the Commission granted a protective order that instructed the company to mark the documents "private" or "confidential" and provided that they would be kept confidential and not be made part of the public record.

On Dec. 30, 1983, the Mississippi Publishers Corporation requested access to the documents, citing the Mississippi Public Records Act of 1983. Mississippi Publishers renewed its demand for access to the documents on January 3.

The Commission cancelled its protective order on Jan. 3, and on Jan. 4, notified South Central Bell that it would release the documents to Mississippi Publishers Corporation unless South Central Bell obtained a court order protecting the documents as confidential.

"We are not asking for any more consideration than any other competitive business would under these circumstances," said McGowen.

"We believe the court should rule on the confidentiality of these documents before they are released," McGowen said. "If they are released before a ruling, the damage is done even if the court later agrees with us," he added.

McGowen said the company is operating in a unique situation because part of its business is regulated and part is competitive.

"There are private vendors who compete with us for long distance service and vendors who sell equipment that directly competes with some of our central office services," he said.

"We have invested a tremendous amount of money to provide telephone service in Mississippi," McGowen said. "When we lose sales revenues to competitors, we lose revenues critical to the support of our investment," he added.

McGowen concluded, "We are furnishing the information that the Commission has requested to carry out its regulatory function as mandated by the Mississippi Legislature. However, we must protect our ability to sell and compete so that we can continue to operate our business soundly and to provide good service."

Talk 'O The Town

Street Opinion

QUESTION: Do you think Jesse Jackson has a chance to be elected President?

CAROLYN LAMBERT of Route 6, Booneville: "There's a lot of different opinions about it. I don't believe he will be elected president. It looked like sort of an embarrassment to the President that someone else brought the prisoner of war back. It was nice that Jackson did it but it looks like it should have been something the President should have done."

SYBIL WARDLOW of Route 3, Rienzi: "No, I don't think so. I don't think he should have gone to Syria. I think the President should have gone."

EULA TENNISON of Continental, Ohio: "I believe he would make a good president but I don't think he would be elected. I think it was a good idea that he went to Syria because he brought the soldier back."

JOE RICHEY of Route 3, Booneville: "No, I don't think so. I hope not. I don't think he should have gone to Syria. It should have been the President or some of his people."

BETTY FOSTER of Sunflower Street, Booneville: "Yes, he should be elected. For one thing, with the President we have now, the prisoner would still be in Syria."

M.F. GLOVER of Lake Street, Booneville: "I don't think so. One reason he's black. I don't know whether his going to Syria was best for the country or not. But he did bring the boy home."

Ponderings

By Angela Smith
Staff Reporter

I am hungry as I write this. That is because I am "dieting."

After months of feeling fat, I have finally decided to do something about it. Besides, several of the other employees at the Banner are dieting. Knowing that they, too, are starving gives me strength.

My idea of a balanced diet is holding a hamburger in both hands. Just kidding. I know that to lose weight sensibly one still needs to eat nutritious foods and not really 'starve.' My problem isn't that I'm not eating the 'right' foods. My problem is that I eat too much of the right foods. In fact, I've been eating enough for several people.

My diet procedure is rather simple. I don't eliminate any food from my diet. I just cut out my second and third helpings.

Sometimes when one of my friends at the Banner is dieting, she will drink a nationally known diet drink. It is a chocolate flavored mixture she mixes with water.

I have never mixed dirt with water and drank it, but I believe if I did it would taste very similar to her diet drink. Naturally after tasting something like that, it makes a person lose his appetite.

Thus far I have been on my diet one week. This has been one of the longest weeks of my life.

It isn't fair that losing weight isn't as easy as putting it on.

My goal is to lose 10 pounds and not to regain it. If and when I lose my 10 pounds, I will tell you. Then you can offer to buy my lunch complete with cheeseburgers, pizza, French fries, steak, spaghetti, salad, tacos, baked potato and dessert.

This Weather

Please don't get mad at me, but the rain, snow and sleet we had Tuesday was my fault.

I washed my car Saturday morning. That's right. After four months of riding around in a dirty car, I finally gave in and washed my car. And since I washed my car it was only natural that it rained.

For three days it could no longer be said that I owned the dirtiest car in Prentiss County. But after Tuesday's weather, the title once again belongs to me.

Eyes On Mississippi

Can Legislators Avoid Ethics Question Any Longer?

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. -- If there isn't one crisis facing the Legislature, there's another. Now it's the ethical crisis... or, what are we going to do about Section 109 of the 1890 Constitution?

Section 109 is a tough old provision that established the concept of conflict of interest in Mississippi's basic law. It says that no lawmakers or any other member of a public body shall be interested "directly or indirectly" in any contract authorized by the body of which he is a member.

This was the way those oldtimers had of saying that there shall be no profiteering by public officials from their own acts.

Of course, Section 109 was ignored or openly violated by state legislators, county supervisors and many other officials in Mississippi for a great many years. It wasn't until after Watergate that state legislators even began to show the slightest interest in the question of ethics.

Then they were shaken by the 1978 federal conviction of powerful Sen. Bill Burgin for alleged influence peddling in a federal welfare contract for which the state had provided part of the funds.

They were shaken even more a year later when Sen. Nap Cassibry became the first legislator ever convicted of conflict of interest under Section 109 and statutes pursuant to the constitutional provision.

When the State Supreme Court upheld the Cassibry conviction and made clear that a lawmaker could not absolve himself from violating Section 109 even if he abstained from voting on a proposition from which he later benefited, the Legislature knew the constitutional provision was a loose cannon on deck.

The 1983 Legislature took a flying tackle at trying to tie the cannon down and give more leeway in the State Ethics Law. But, the State Ethics Commission said, the amendments to the ethics law actually violate Section 109.

Now the Legislature is under the gun from the Supreme Court and the Ethics Commission, both of which have decided to strictly construe Section 109 in relation to potential conflicts of interest.

The Ethics Commission ruled in October that Rep. Bennett Malone of Carthage could not take a job with a tri-county home health agency without risking an ethics violation after the lawmaker voluntarily sought an advisory opinion from the commission.

This has served as a catalyst for the Ethics Commission to since declare unless the Legislature resolves the question constitutionally by July it will hold that lawmakers' wives can't even hold jobs as schoolteachers without violating Section 109.

Such a rigid interpretation of conflict of interest could put some 50 to 60 members of the Legislature out of the legislative body, and would have untold effect upon political bodies in the state's counties and cities.

Actually, the members of the Legislature have seen all of this coming since 1981 when the Cassibry case was decided by the Supreme Court, but the lawmakers have never been able to come up with any solution that would fly.

If the lawmakers try to go to the people with an amendment of Section 109 that would leave the barn-door wide open for corruption, there's certain to be a strong statewide campaign waged by citizens' groups to defeat it.

Or if the Legislature tries to put loopholes in the State Ethics Law as it did in 1983, it will face not only public criticism, but also the apparently tough attitude of the State Supreme Court as to the meaning of Section 109.

Some lawmakers would simply like to abolish the Ethics Commission and get rid of one of their headaches, but that doesn't seem likely to happen in the face of rising public concern about corruption and favoritism in political office.

Common Cause, the citizens group which has pushed for stronger ethics laws, has tried to encourage the Legislature to amend

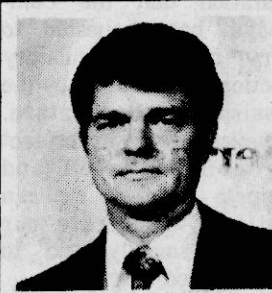

Section 109 in order to adopt it to present circumstances and not unduly restrict participation in elective office.

Even the Common Cause recommendation, the Ethics Commission believes, would encourage a long list of exceptions being put into the constitutional provision and would make it unworkable.

The Ethics Commission meantime is working with the idea of making the Commission a constitutional agency with powers to enforce a State Code of Ethics relative to conflict of interest.

Also, the commission wants to change Section 109 to separate "direct" from "indirect" pecuniary interests in any proposal before a public body, but require members having either to declare such interests in advance of discussion or action on the proposal.

But the question remains: can the Legislature, which has tried to duck or side-step the ethics crisis the past two years get by with inaction one more time without risk of having the roof fall in on many of its members?

Legislative Report

By Billy McCoy
Representative District III
Prentiss And Alcorn Counties

The 1983 Mississippi Legislative Session began Tuesday, Jan. 3, with more first day proceedings than normal for the past several terms. The effort by 26 House members to change the long standing parliamentary rules of the house certainly made this opening day of the new term a memorable one.

The House of Representatives conducts its affairs based on a number of rules, which determine selection of Committee chairmen and vice chairmen, which Committees members will serve on, method of referring bills to the respective Committees, means of conducting debate on bills, etc.

In the Mississippi House of Representatives, the Speaker is the Chief Presiding Officer, and under our rules, has the power to appoint Committees and their vice chairmen. He also assigns bills to the respective Committees for their study and decision as to whether the bills should be considered by the entire House membership.

In 42 of the 50 states, their Speakers have bill referral authority similar to that of Mississippi's Speaker. In 38 states, the Speakers have sole authority to appoint Committee members as does Mississippi's. In 43 states, the Speakers appoint Committee chairmen, as does Mississippi's.

The major change sought by the Rules Reform Representatives would have been to elect the Rules Committee. Each Congressional District would have been allowed two members elected from the House members within that district. The Rules Committee would have in turn appointed the Committees and the chairmen vice chairmen.

There were six major changes offered in one package. Representatives had to vote yes or no on the entire substitute proposal. As the substitute was presented, we could not vote separately on the proposed changes. Even though the proposal was defeated by a large margin, I believe some of the proposed changes will in time be adopted.

I voted against the combination of changes mostly because of the shift in power to a Rules Committee of ten members, of which I could vote for only two. Especially do I feel the rural counties of Mississippi would lose under this situation. Very simply, eight of the ten Rules Committee members would have no reason to respect the wishes of a single representative as to his desires for Committee assignment.

Next, I and my district have been treated fairly by the present House Leadership. I have been given responsible Committee assignments and ample opportunities to work in the day to day House proceedings. Most of all bills of a local nature affecting Alcorn and Prentiss Counties have been adopted and all general bills I have presented have been given fair hearings.

Everything has not been "Roses"; nor will it ever be under any system. There have been many moments of frustration, but the House Rules are there for one and for all alike. They can work for or against desired legislation. Success in the Mississippi House of Representatives depends on many factors - the rules and the knowledge and use of them is but one of these factors.

I begin a new term totally dedicated to Alcorn and Prentiss Counties. Please contact me at any time on any matter pertaining to good government.

'You'd Better Print This!'

By Ed Woodward
Managing Editor

Occasionally we receive a letter that stimulates discussion around town. The one we printed last week was such a letter. Both Ken and I have received quite a few comments.

I have been asked how I could have the nerve to print a letter that said such things about me. But, actually, I am not overly concerned about people saying derogatory things about me in letters. If they want to argue with me, disagree with me, or even read my pedigree in a printable way, I encourage it. It shows me they are reading this paper.

They can say all the nasty things they want to about me. There is no danger of my suing them for saying it or this paper for printing it. But saying nasty things about other people is another story. There is a point where we must draw a line or two to protect ourselves because, believe it or not, we can be sued for what other people say in our paper, even though it is difficult for a public person to win a libel or slander suit, and most simply won't bother.

We do solicit your views and opinions. But we have to place some requirements on letters to the editor. First of all, the letter must be signed, and you must include your address and telephone number - the latter so we can contact you to verify that you really did write the letter.

I constantly receive letters that begin: "You'd better print this," or "I bet you don't have the nerve to print this." And, unfortunately, we can't print them because they are unsigned. Presumably, the character who didn't have the guts to sign his letter then proceeds to tell everyone that he wrote us a letter and we didn't have the guts to print it.

So, before we can print your letter it must be signed, and we must have your permission to print your name with it. Once we did withhold names on request. But we received so many complaints about printing such letters that we discontinued the practice.

So, if you have an opinion about something that is going on, or something you've seen in the paper, we encourage you to write us, as long as you do not include libelous or slanderous comments about someone other than myself (I can't speak for the other employees in this regard). But, please remember, unless you sign your letter and allow us to print your name with it, you can't expect to find it on the next editorial page.

You needn't be afraid to let people know you have an opinion. You're entitled to one. And you shouldn't worry that someone might get mad at you. Someone gets mad at me every week. It goes with the territory. It also helps to reassure me that I am doing my job. If I wasn't, probably nobody would get mad at me.

Mansell: 'We're basically a county chamber of commerce.'

1983 'Home-Run Hit' Year For PCDA

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Doug "Moose" Mansell, executive director of the Prentiss County Development Association is proud of his agency's track record and positive about future accomplishments. But he is concerned about promoting individual involvement and finding funds for the agency's necessary operating expenses.

Going into 1984, basking in the glow of 1983's impressive accomplishments, Mansell has not even the funds to hire a secretary. He must rely on what assistance he receives from a VOT employee and volunteers.

"In 1973 the PCDA was created to promote economic and industrial development in our county," Mansell said. "Since that time, two industrial parks have been developed - one in Booneville, and one in Baldwin. They were completed by the latter part of 1980, and are jointly owned by the cities and the county.

"Now it is 1984, and both parks are practically filled up. So, since the parks have been fully completed and available with all facilities, in three years they are almost filled up with existing industry and new industry moving in.

"Since 1979 the development association has also been somewhat active in getting some small grants for our community," Mansell said, estimating a total of $375,000 in federal grants to Prentiss County communities in the last four years.

Mansell pointed out that community development is not confined just to bringing industry into the area, but includes promoting the things that attract industry, such as recreation, education, religion and the arts. "It all peaks for new business and new industry. So you have to create a climate that would be pleasant to these people moving in," he explained, pointing out that the PCDA has been instrumental in the development of several community parks in the county.

"We have also been active with the volunteer fire departments through the Mississippi Forestry Commission getting small grants to help buy equipment. And we have helped law enforcement in buying communications equipment. We're involved in creating recreational programs for youth, and we assist the agricultural program," Mansell said, stressing that each of these is a consideration of industry when looking for a place to locate.

"We have almost as much to offer as the big towns do. We just don't have as much of it," Mansell said. He said he felt 1983 had been Prentiss County's most productive year for industrial development. "There will be by the latter part of 1984 over 1,058 jobs created by industries enticed into the county in 1983. And I think that's a pretty good record," Mansell said. "It's just been one of the most productive years we've ever had."

"The Development Association may not have assisted with all of these expansions. But we feel like we have played the major roll in creating an atmosphere that has influenced the decision to expand throughout the county," he said.

"Attracting industry is a very, very competitive game. And the overall cooperation of the two governments - city and county - has played a major roll in the industrial development we have had."

Asked about future plans for the agency, Mansell said, "We'd like to continue with our community programs to influence more recreational programs, especially with the waterway coming in. There's a wide-open area down there to be developed that will work to the benefit of this county. "Also, we're continually working with the agricultural program. We feel there is a need for a county-wide farm and dairy show," he said. "Agriculture is a big industry in this county. And it has to start there. You have to have the support of the people. We can only augment that."

"Increasingly, people are beginning to use this office to get information about the community. We're basically a county chamber of commerce," Mansell said.

"We receive quite a bit of help, both financial and volunteer. But we need a lot more," he said. "We really need to become as self-supporting as we possibly can."

"We felt like the development association really needed to be part of a home-run hit. And we feel like 1983 has been that home-run hit," Mansell said.

New Services Planned By Heritage

According to Heritage Cablevision Marketing Manager Barney Bramlett, the cable company is planning additional services for Booneville subscribers.

"In the very near future, as soon as all the specialized equipment has come in and it can be installed we will be adding what we call a tier," Bramlett said.

"It will be a four-channel tier, and will include four channels we have had many requests for," he said. "Some of the channels we are looking at are Nickleodeon-Arts, which has children's programming during the day, and plays, concerts and other arts oriented programming at night, WGN, Chicago's superstation, the Cable Health Network, which is a fairly new station that covers all areas of health from jogging to just about everything, and USA, which is a 24-hour sports station similar to ESPN that also shows movies.

"We're looking at several stations like that," Bramlett said. "We are confined to one satellite at this time. But there are several selections we can look at."

Bramlett said that the new service, which will probably be available by April or May, will be offered as a four-channel package additional to basic service.

"We are also going to add an additional pay service, a complement to Home Box Office, which will be Cinemax. It's a 24-hour movie only service," Bramlett said.

He said subscribers would have a choice of either HBO or Cinemax, or both services for a special rate.

Bramlett said additional information on the new services would be released as plans are finalized, but he invites anyone wishing further information to write him at Heritage Cablevision, P.O. Box 71, Booneville, MS 38829.

"I will do my best to answer all inquiries as quickly as possible. But please do not phone for information on these new services. Send a letter to my attention," he said.

Depository Libraries Offer Varied Services

When some people hear the words, "federal depository," they may think of a bank. Though they may be somewhat correct, this depository is most often known as a Federal Depository Library.

According to Barbara Smith, recorder of documents for the Mississippi Library Commission, there are twelve depository libraries in Mississippi. These libraries participate in the Depository Library Program established by Congress to allow free access to Government publications.

Services offered through the program include Government referrals, interlibrary loans and assistance in locating information. Subjects in a federal depository range from astronomy and zoology to scuba diving and the arts.

The federal depository libraries in Mississippi include the Mississippi State Law Library in Jackson; Mississippi State University; Alcorn State University; the University of Mississippi Library and Law Library; Millsaps College; Mississippi University for Women; Delta State University; Jackson State University; the Mississippi College Law Library; the University of Southern Mississippi.

The Mississippi Library Commission also serves as a federal depository library. The state agency works with and through other depository libraries in Mississippi to insure that the public has ready access to federal documents.

For more information on this program, contact one of the state's twelve depository libraries.

USDA May Impose Limits On 1984 PIK

The number of acres a wheat farmer can enroll in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's 1984 payment-in-kind program will be limited so that no farmer will receive more than $50,000 in benefits, according to USDA official.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said payment limitation is a ceiling imposed by law on the total amount of payments a farmer can receive for participation in USDA's production stabilization programs.

Generally, a farmer can receive no more than $50,000 a year. However, price support loans, special disaster assistance and/or cost-sharing for approved, enduring conservation practices are not subject to the $50,000 payment limitation," Rank said.

"Because the 1984 wheat loan rate was reduced from the statutory $3.55 per bushel to $3.30 per bushel to maintain our domestic and export markets, a portion of the deficiency payment rate may not be subject to the $50,000 payment limitation," Rank said.

"The amount of deficiency payment rate exceeds the difference between the old $3.55 loan rate and the $4.45 target price. This will ensure that the total returns to participating farmers will be the same as if the adjustment in the loan level had not been made," he said.

Rank said a proposal to make the necessary changes in the PIK program regulations will be published soon in the Federal Register and that final action on the changes would be completed before the sign-up period for the 1984 program ends Feb. 24.

Spina Bifida Program Is Explained To Pilots At Monthly Meeting

MRS. YOUNG IS PILOT GUEST SPEAKER - Mrs. Ann Young (2nd from left), president of the North Mississippi Spina Bifida Hydrocephalus Association, was the guest speaker at the Jan. 5 Pilot Club meeting. Mrs. Young is holding her son, Thomas, who has spina bifida. Also pictured are (l-r) Ann Prichard, president; and Hilda Campbell, community service area leader.

The Pilot Club of Booneville held a joint business and program meeting Thursday, Jan. 5, at 7 p.m. in the Marion W. Smith Room of the George E. Allen Library.

Mrs. Ann Prichard, president, presided. Mrs. Mabel Nelson gave the invocation and Mrs. Bertha Yarber led the pledge of allegiance.

The program was under the direction of the Community Service Area with Mrs. Hilda Campbell as area leader and the local Pilot International Foundation Committee with Miss Sherry Bowen as chairman.

Other area members include Mrs. Linda Eubank, Mrs. Eileen Fulper, Mrs. Clarene Goddard, Mrs. Jo

Henderson, Mrs. Dollye Hodges, Mrs. Annie Lee Kemp, Mrs. Mabel Nelson, Mrs. Sylvia Salts, Mrs. Bertha Yarber, Mrs. Avenell Cunningham, Mrs. Ouida Jumper, Mrs. Quay Michael, Mrs. Nelwyn Murphy and Mrs. Louise Peeler.

Mrs. Campbell introduced Mrs. Ann Young, the guest speaker, who is serving as the charter president of the Spina Bifida Hydrocephalus Association of North Mississippi. This organization has 22 members.

Mrs. Young, a registered nurse at the Baptist Memorial Hospital, told the group that spina bifida is the number one birth defect and the association has two main objectives: (1) to make the public aware of this condition; (2) to attempt to get a clinic established in Tupelo.

Mrs. Young explained that part of the monies donated to the National Easter Seal and March of Dimes drives are allocated to the Spina Bifida Association.

She said that the Spina Bifida team composed of the hospital personnel, community representatives and the afflicted child's family work together to help all children in this group. For the future it is hoped that the category designated as hospital may move into the field in the form of mobile teams or community health centers, she said.

Miss Earline Woods, assistant internal affairs coordinator, was recognized as the Pilot of the Month by Mrs. Eileen Fulper.

During the business meeting, plans were discussed for the Pilot Club of Booneville to host an officer's training workshop in March to be attended by officers from seven Pilot Clubs in Northeast Mississippi.

Mrs. Nelwyn Murphy, Mrs. Eudora Kemp and Mrs. Robbie McDaniel were elected to serve on the club's 1984 nominating committee with Mrs. Annie Lee Kemp and Mrs. Ortha Long to serve as alternates.

Special guests for the program meeting were Mrs. Young's children, Thomas Young, Lisa Young and Lee Ann Hodges.

Refreshments were prepared and served by Mrs. Eileen Fulper, Mrs. Dollye Hodges and Mrs. Darlene Fulper.

EYE OPENERS
By
Dr. Walter C. Simpson

BABY'S VISION IN HIS FIRST WEEKS
FROM BIRTH an infant's eyes are constantly changing, and they need the kind of stimulation in surroundings which parents can easily provide.
In the first weeks of life, keep a dim light on in the nursery after dark so that, when baby's awake, he or she will have something to look at. Move the crib around the room so that light will come from different directions. Or shift the infant's position in the crib so that light attracts baby's attention from different sides.
The timely introduction of a rattle will help teach a child to follow sound with the eyes. The game of "pat-a-cake" teaches visual lessons, too.
During your baby's first months, modify the nursery environment to help visual skills develop.

ANNUAL REPORT

People Serving People

The Baptist Tradition

People serving People. That was the focus of the Baptist Memorial Care System in 1983. That people-oriented principle also was evidenced in Baptist Memorial's improvement program in 1983 to extend quality health care into Mid-South communities and to make Mid-Southerners more aware of the importance of good health through illness prevention.

It was this same concern for people that prompted Southern Baptists in Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee to bring Baptist Memorial Hospital into existence in Memphis on July 20, 1912.

That concept of a Christian ministry now is the foundation of a health care system that embraces Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis and eight affiliate hospitals. They are in Forrest City, Hardy and Corning, Ark.; Booneville, Miss.; and Covington, Ripley, Union City and Huntingdon, Tenn.

The health care system was organized in 1981 to bring quality health care at a very reasonable cost nearest the homes of patients in the Mid-South.

While health care costs climbed nationally, the cost per patient day at Baptist Memorial, Memphis in 1983 remained the lowest in the United States for hospitals with 1,000 beds or more.

Responding to the growing concern of business and industry for health care alternatives for employees, Baptist Memorial began offering a series of programs known as Health Plus. They include:

AWARE: An industrial screening program designed to help meet standards set by OSHA in relation to audiometric testing, hearing conservation, toxicology and pulmonary function studies.

CONCERN: An employee assistance program designed to improve performance and productivity of employees and reduce the high costs of stress-related problems. The system includes problem assessment, short term counseling, referral, and follow-up.

SHARE: An occupational health program for industry involving on site part-time nursing directed toward improving productivity by helping employees stay healthy and on the job, and getting them back to work as soon as possible when they are out for sickness or injury.

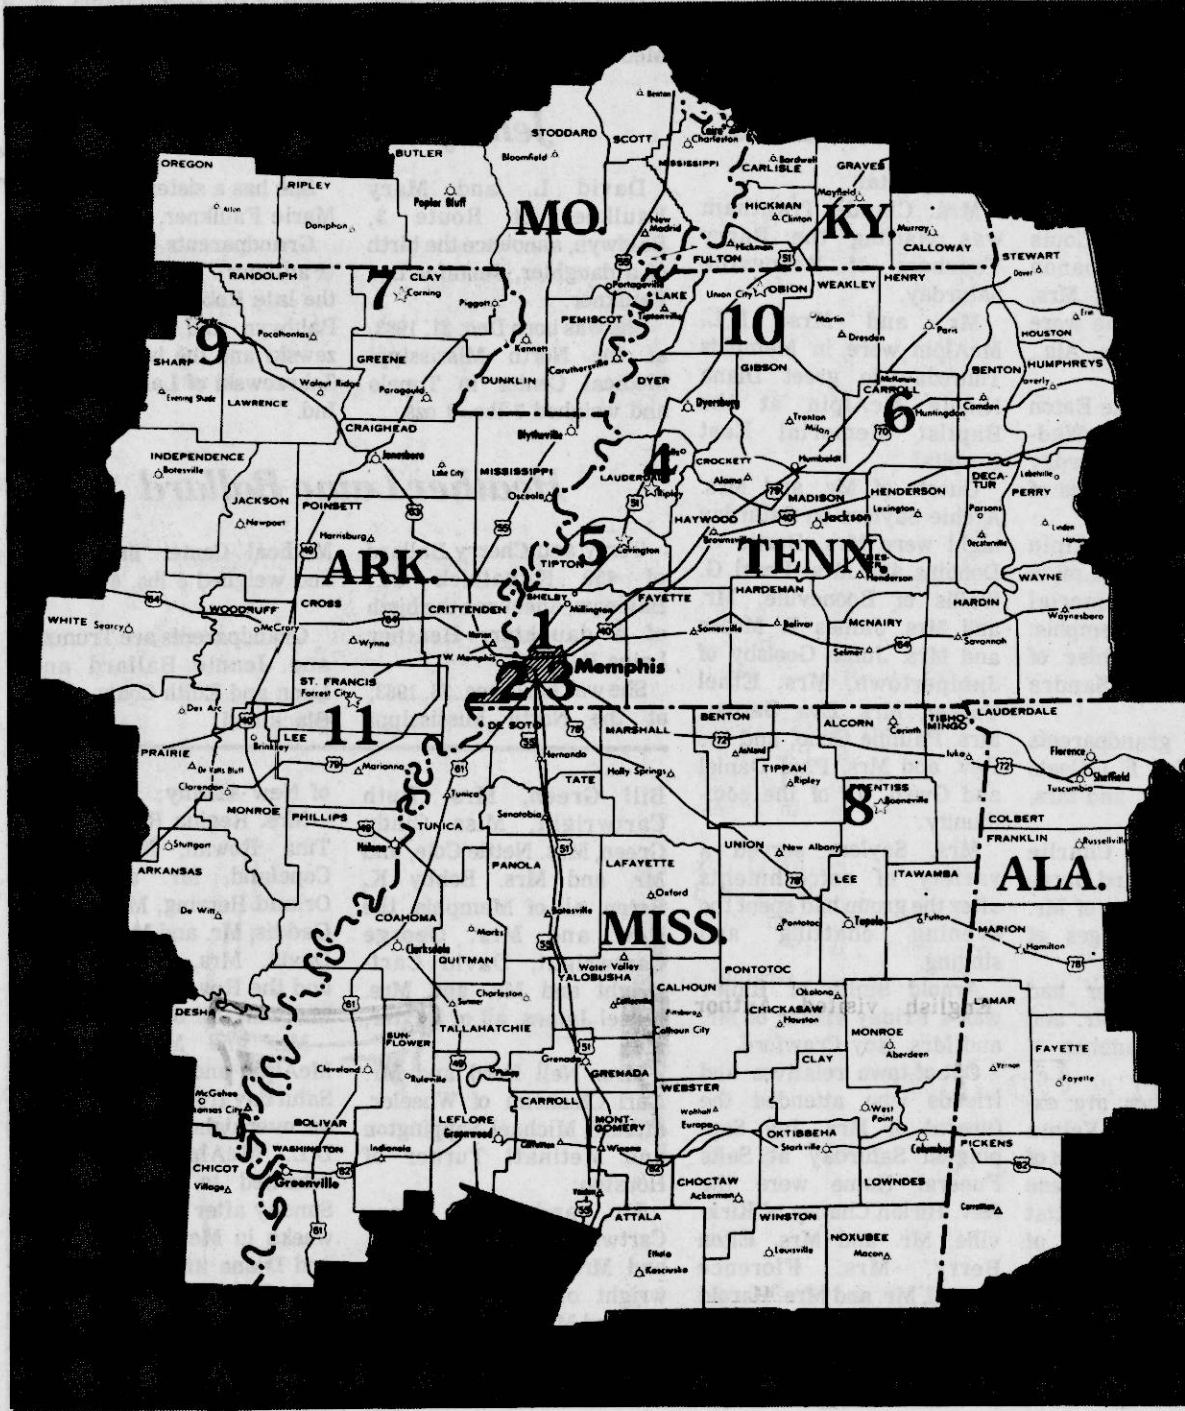

On the drawing boards are three additional programs. They are:

COMPTRAC: A workers compensation tracking program for business and industry designed to follow each incident through the treatment process. The system involves keeping employees constantly informed on the status of each injured or ill employee and assumes that each case is handled in an expedient, convenient, and cost effective manner.

WELLNESS: A plan for employers who want to keep their employees in good health through illness prevention activities. The program includes instruction in exercise, nutrition counseling, smoking cessation and stress reduction classes, and a computerized health risk appraisal.

SPORTS MEDICINE: A program giving specialized medical and rehabilitation attention to recreational and professional athletes injured in sports activities. The sports medicine center features physician coverage and resembles a doctor's office except that there is also a full range of rehabilitation equipment and staff available to treat and rehabilitate the athlete. Emphasis is placed on safely returning the athlete to the sport he or she enjoys.

With mounting stress-related problems, called by some the disease of the 1980's, Baptist Memorial in 1983 began the first hospital-based formal biofeedback service in Memphis. It teaches people how to control stress.

At Baptist Memorial Hospital-East, a center for evaluating and monitoring infants at risk of having Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) opened for physician referral. The service is for certain premature babies, for those siblings of SIDS victims, and for babies who have near misses.

An outpatient diagnostic clinic offering the newest screening method to detect cancer of the breast without exposure to X-rays was also inaugurated at Baptist Hospital-East.

At Baptist Memorial's Regional Rehabilitation Center, new outpatient treatment facilities were opened for children who received thousands of treatments for a dozen different disorders ranging from muscular dystrophy to clubfoot to hemophilia.

To cope with the rapidly changing field of medical electronic technology, Baptist Memorial added a clinical engineering department to ensure quality control and keep maintenance costs in line.

In the area of education for patients and staff, Baptist Memorial became the first hospital in the Mid-South to link up with a national television network for medically oriented programs via satellite. The hospital plans to offer its own programming to network affiliates throughout the country.

Through an ambitious educational program, Baptist Memorial sponsors more than a dozen medically related seminars annually, using national and internationally known specialists.

The hospital continues to operate 10 educational programs with a student body of 712, including 492 in nursing, 138 residents and 17 interns.

Baptist Memorial was also active in 1983 in conducting community education programs on the importance of good health and the progress of modern medicine.

Here are some examples:

HEALTH FAIR: As a major sponsor of the first annual Channel 3 Health Fair, Baptist Memorial helped bring free health screenings to 15,000 persons and blood chemistry tests to 7,000 at 30 sites in West Tennessee, North Mississippi, and East Arkansas.

This 11-county community service effort to increase the awareness of a healthy lifestyle involved 3,000 volunteers and the services of the Memphis Chapter of the American Red Cross, WREG-TV and the National Health Screening Council.

The 1984 health fair is planned for April 7-14 at a minimum of 50 sites in the Mid-South.

HEALTHTALK: Responding to a growing public appetite for information about health care, Baptist Memorial offered 52 weekly radio programs on topics ranging from managing pain to eliminating pimples. The programs on WVEE radio featured members of the medical staff of Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis, and other medical specialists in the Memphis community who answered personal health questions of the radio audience.

A LEADER IN WORLD MEDICINE: The Mid-South was introduced to some of the most modern medical technology in the world at Baptist Memorial Hospital through a series of televised information capsules describing treatment procedures made possible by expanding technology and a medical staff of 1,060 physicians.

ADOPT-A-SCHOOL: To make young Americans more aware of the importance of good health at an early age, Baptist Memorial Hospital began a partner relationship with Memphis' Manassas High School. Through this program, the staff of Baptist Memorial makes its expertise available to the student body in a wide range of projects.

As the nation's largest private hospital with 2,068 beds, Baptist Memorial, Memphis admitted 59,351 patients in 1983, provided emergency services to 39,675, and performed 4,558,460 laboratory procedures.

Surgical procedures totalled 36,741, X-ray examinations, 209,512, and births, 5,108.

While adding all these new services, facilities and innovative programs, the Baptist health care system was also responding to the needs of the indigent of the Mid-South.

Almost $13 million was spent on direct charity care at Baptist Memorial-Memphis alone. That didn't include another $48 million in uncompensated care.

Yet these expressions of progress in 1983 are child's steps as the health care system prepares to respond to the demands for even better health care in the Mid-South in the 21st century.

County Agent's Notes

By
CLIFFORD J. HAMPTON
County Agent

These winter months are a perfect time for Prentiss Countians to transplant trees. Deciduous trees are usually dormant until March.

Transplanting involves moving trees that are already established in one location to another.

When removing the chosen tree from its original environment, be sure to get enough of the root system so the tree will survive when transplanted.

A good rule of thumb is to have the root ball correspond when the above ground portion of the tree. The size of the dirt and roots should equal the diameter of the branches of the tree.

Once you have dug the root ball, place the dirt and roots in a bucket or burlap bag to prevent the roots from becoming too dry.

When replanting the tree, dig a larger, deeper hole so mulch or sawdust can be added to allow roots to expand and develop. Cover the top of the area with a peat moss top soil mixture and water the tree well.

During the first year after transplanting, water the tree frequently, especially in dry spells. You may also wish to anchor the tree against wind damage.

Before you actually transplant the tree, consider your yard, home and power lines. Then anticipate the size of the tree in the future.

Select appropriate trees that will compliment your home.

Avoid planting shallow-rooted trees, such as the cottonwood, near sidewalks or pipelines. Taller species should not be planted near power lines or too close to homes.

The winter season is a good time to prune plants before growth starts in the spring.

This first pruning helps to bring into balance the top of the plant and root system. It also stimulates lateral bud development from which you can later select good scaffold branches.

When pruning, cut off only enough branches to accomplish a definite purpose. A main purpose of pruning young, non-bearing trees is to shape the tree so that scaffold branches will be well distributed.

You might also prune plants to control the size, improve the shape and train plants, remove dead, diseased, or abnormal plant tissue or to help in transplanting.

If you select scaffold branches properly, you can eliminate weak, narrow crotches and avoid future breakage under heavy fruit loads.

Proper selection of young scaffold branches will also reduce the large pruning cuts in future years. This reduces the entrance of insects and decay organisms through pruning wounds.

For more information on transplanting trees and pruning plants come by our office on 404 East Church St., or call 728-5631, or 728-7092.

ASCS News

By C.E. CALVERT
County
Executive Director

Applications for agricultural conservation program practices in Prentiss County may be filed from Jan. 16-27 at the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Requests for cost-share assistance should be made during this period. Farmers may apply for the ACP program at any time. However, the request will be considered after the sign-up period. This will allow us to review all of the conservation problems in the county when approving cost-share requests.

ASCS encourages farmers to correct their most critical conservation problems and, where needed will share the cost of installing the practices with farmers. We have an obligation to protect soil and water resources for the benefit of farmers and the public. The ACP endeavors to meet this obligation. Cost-share rates will remain at 75 percent of the farmer's cost for the most critical problems.

Cost-sharing requests will be approved on practices which obtain the most conservation. As in the past, all requests will be evaluated as to the loss of soil and/or water, and the amount that can be saved by performing the practice which has been requested. Priorities will be established and cost-share funds approved on practices which will obtain the most conservation for the dollars spent. We have a responsibility to accomplish this goal and the sign-up period will allow us to do this.

Despite the more than 80 million acres diverted to conservation uses under the 1983 payment-in-kind and other acreage adjustment programs, soil erosion remains a major problem. It is important that farmers maintain good soil and water conservation practices such as those offered under the ACP on their farmland and on their conservation use acres. ACP practices were installed on more than 800 acres of Prentiss County farmland during fiscal year 1983.

The sign-up from Jan. 16 thru Jan. 27, will include the annual ACP, Long Term Agreement and the Forestry Incentives Programs. Landowners must file an application during the sign up if they want to participate in the Long Term Agreement and Forestry Incentives Program in 1984.

Only applications filed during this period will be considered for cost-sharing. We recommend that any agricultural land owner desiring further information concerning the Forestry Incentives Program should contact the Mississippi Forestry Commission in Booneville or the ASCS office for further details. Producers interested in the Long Term Agreement of the annual ACP should contact the Soil Conservation Service or the ASCS office for further details on these programs.

Soil Conservation Report

By ED CALVERT
Soil Conservationist
Booneville
Field Office

Forestry is by far the most dominant land use in Mississippi with 16,504,800 acres, or 55 percent of the total land area. Forest products, soybeans, and cotton are the three largest money crops in the state. The harvest value of timber in Mississippi has averaged nearly one-half billion dollars per year for the past five years. Timber-based industry in Mississippi ranks in the top ten in the nation in "value added" to the economy from timber cut.

The South will be expected to produce more than one-half of the nation's wood product needs by the year 2000. Mississippi timber owners stand to benefit substantially if their timber stands are managed properly now. The largest challenge and greatest opportunity for Mississippi forestry lies in the usage of the Forest Resource Development Program (FRDP) and Forestry Incentive Program (FIP).

The FRDP was enacted to provide financial assistance for certain forestry improvement practices. Its purpose is primarily to increase timber production. It is administered by the Mississippi Forestry Commission. The FRDP program provides cost-share assistance to eligible landowners for certain forestry improvement practices.

The two major forestry practices are: (1) planting trees for the production of forest products and game development, (2) Improving a stand of trees for production of forest products and game development. Information requirements and limitations can be obtained from the Forestry Commission at 728-6835.

The FIP program is another cost-share program by the Forestry Commission, but with one change in that this program is funded by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). The purpose of this program is (1) to establish a stand of forest trees for timber production purposes, and to preserve and improve the environment, (2) to increase timber growth and quality on sites suitable for the production of saw-timber and veneer logs.

Both programs, FRDP and FIP, have policies that describe what practices are available through cost-share money. Information on these policies and the cost-share rates can be obtained by contacting the Forestry Commission at 728-6835, the ASCS at 728-3451 or the Soil Conservation Service at 728-3544.

4-H News

By WAYNE LAND
Extension 4-H
Youth Agent

Besides providing learning experiences for individual members, 4-H clubs should also become involved in community service projects.

While youth in 4-H clubs learn skills from project work, they are also responsible for teaching the community more about 4-H. One of the most effective ways of making 4-H more visible is through the 4-H community involvement program, Community Pride. Chevron U.S.A. Inc. provides recognition for clubs that do outstanding work in each county and funds for mini-grants to assist clubs in carrying out needed community projects.

One example of a Community Pride project is the construction of a recreation and nature study area. This project is already underway in one Mississippi county according to Jim Yonge, Extension Service 4-H youth development specialist.

The area could contain a playground, picnic tables and grill for cook-outs. The focal point could be nature trails for forestry and horticultural study. A stream that would run through the park or a small pond could be developed. The part could even be expanded to include camping and fishing areas.

The Mississippi 4-H club that is participating in the project visited seven parks to get ideas from their plan. They got assistance from the Extension Land Use Center in developing the plan.

Participation in the project does not have to exclude the community. Help could be secured for construction for buildings and ponds and clearing land. Fund raising efforts can be supplemented with a Community Pride Grant.

Success in the program is measured not only by what is accomplished but by the learning that takes place in the process. Youth in 4-H learn how a community functions and the impact the community has on their lives. They learn how to work individually and in a group for a common purpose.

Timberline

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

Truck loads of pulpwood are a familiar sight to most Prentiss Countians, but few of us realize the many useful products manufactured from this load of wood.

The average truck load of pulpwood will yield varying amounts of products as follows: 20 1/2 million toothpicks; 3,000-6,000 lbs. of paper, depending on the manufacturing process used; 2,825 one-pound books; 183,000 envelopes; 13,000,000 postage stamps; 1,380,000 personal checks; 269,610 sheets of typing paper; 3,600 copies of the National Geographic Magazine; and 8,100 copies of an average daily newspaper.

The next time you see a truck load of pulpwood, think of it not just as wood, but as raw material for manufacturing more than 5,000 useful products needed by our society.

Did you know too, that the stumpage dollars paid to the landowner from whose land the pulpwood was harvested turn over about nine (9) times in our State's economy? By this I mean that in addition to the money the owner received, the logger, equipment sales people, gasoline stations, banks, etc. also will get "value added" because these trees were solid, cut, transported, processed, and manufactured.

We've got a lot of wooded acres in this county that could provide added dollars to all our pocketbooks "on down the road," if we'll just get them into a more productive condition. Call us if you want a free assessment of the situation in your timberland. We want to help.

Fat is a major source of excess calories in our diets. The following suggestions will help you reduce calories without changing the taste or appearance of your original recipes:

Discover the wonders of yogurt. At 150 calories a cup, plain lowfat yogurt is the perfect substitute for sour cream (493 calories a cup) or mayonnaise 1600 calories a cup). Use it in dips, on baked potatoes, or in salads. Try it as a sauce on fish.

Mustard is another versatile food. Use it in place of mayonnaise on turkey or chicken. Or mix it with yogurt in the above sauces. Splurge and buy a bottle of exotic mustard. Eat it as a snack by using it as a dip for fresh vegetables.

Cottage cheese seems to be a dieter's standard food. Use lowfat cottage cheese (180 calories a cup) in recipes to replace ricotta cheese (428 calories a cup). Mix with fresh herbs and stuff into a tomato or zucchini or scoop into half a cantaloupe and top with fresh strawberries for a light summer lunch.

Lowfat milk seems to be the perfect compromise for anything from milk to heavy cream. Besides using it in its natural form, create a quiche or disguise it as a low-calorie banana shake. Mix in blender one banana with half a cup of low-fat milk (or skin) and six to eight ice cubes. Blend. Pour into two parfait glasses and top with wheat germ and cinnamon. Sip with a straw. This treat satisfies any sweet tooth and contains only 75 calories per serving.

The variety of roles lemon juice and vinegar may play are infinite. At three calories per tablespoon, these are good choices to splurge on. Squeeze fresh lemon on fish, chicken, vegetable or salads. Try mixing with tamari sauce to create a tasty, low calorie marinade. Replace the guilt of sour cream by adding vinegar to a baked potato. Top with fresh pepper and chives. Experiment and come up with your own concoctions.

Eggs cause a lot of concern. Some people worry about the cholesterol content of eggs while enjoying their versatility, economy, nutritional value, and low calorie cost. To eliminate some apprehensions, replace one whole egg with two egg whites. Each egg white contains only 17 calories and no fat or cholesterol. The yolk is the culprit, with 59 calories, 312 milligrams of cholesterol and 5.7 grams of fat. Even omelets may be prepared like this.

Make friends with vegetables. This category of food contains such great variety a dieter never has to be bored! Vegetables are low in calories, high in vitamins, minerals and fiber, very filling and fun to eat. Vegetables may be used as appetizers, entrees, salads, soups, side dishes or snacks. They may be the main ingredient in a recipe or a complement to another food.

Try a simple zucchini soup: chop three large zucchini and boil for six minutes. Remove from water (save to add in case soup is too thick) and blend with garlic, fresh dill and tamari sauce. Top with yogurt. Serve hot or cold. Ratatouille is another delicious vegetable dish. Saute one large onion in a tablespoon of oil. Add any combination of broccoli, eggplant, peppers, celery, zucchini, carrots and mushrooms.

Simmer in one can of chopped tomatoes for twenty five minutes. Eat hot or cold. Sprinkle with cheese on rice, or add to an omelet or quiche. Place on top of a tossed salad or between two slices of bread as a sandwich. Of course, ratatouille may be eaten alone.

Vegetables can also help reduce the meat bill. Eggplant and mushrooms exhibit a meaty texture and flavor when cooked. Both are good extenders or even occasional substitutes for chopped meat or chicken. Pound for pound for you'll save 650 calories, 295 milligrams of cholesterol, and 45 grams of fat. Use either of these vegetables in lasagna or moussaka recipes.

Vegetables may also be used as "fillers" in recipes. Add extra vegetables to recipes they are already ingredients in or include some guest vegetables without a written invitation. For example, combine extra mushrooms, onions and peppers to chicken cacciatore or incorporate treated vegetables of your choice into your favorite meat loaf recipe. Stuff chicken, fish or veal with mushrooms and spinach or mix cottage cheese and yogurt with shreds of peppers, carrots and cucumbers. The choices are never ending. This trick adds bulk to each portion size and simultaneously lowers the caloric content. Let creativity be your guide!

For a perfect dessert or even a light supper, mix together a variety of melons, berries, grapes, apples, kiwis, oranges, pineapples, peaches and nectarines. Top with plain yogurt or cottage cheese, wheat germ and cheese, wheat germ and cinnamon, or fresh mint and lemon juice. Try blending bananas, berries and orange juice with plain yogurt for a terrific cold fruit soup. Top with floating rose petals to add elegance.

Making baked apples or applesauce is an easy as pie -- but nowhere near as fattening. Core four large apples and pour one small bottle of diet cream soda or black cherry soda on top. Sprinkle cinnamon on top and bake for 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Eat hot or cold. For applesauce, chop six apples (leave skin on) and cook over medium heat with one to two cups of water for 15 minutes. Raisins, strawberries or canned pineapple are strikingly different additions. It's delicious mixed with cottage cheese and topped with wheat germ for breakfast or lunch.

Mississippi
Farm Bureau
Federation

When a farm couple from near Cambridge, England, visited a Rankin county farmer and his family both families generally agreed that there appears to be more of a gap between town and country folks on both continents than between farm families that live and work on farms half a world apart.

Don and Janet Darke of England took advantage of Mrs. Darke's Christmas vacation from her job as a school teacher and came to the southeastern U.S. for a closer look at agriculture, the out-of-doors and lifestyles here. On New Year's eve they were hosted by the Joe Patrick family who showed the Brits how they produce beef cattle and rowcrops American style, as well as how they live on an everyday basis.

The international visit and experience was the result of a phone call from Darke in England to the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation seeking assistance in planning a visit to a Mississippi farm on New Year's eve. Joe and Tim Patrick agreed to host the international visitors on their farm southeast of Jackson.

The following day the Darkes additionally were taken in tow for a visit with a rural church congregation, a hike through the countryside with a guide to the trees, birds and other outdoor features of the area and treated that evening to some down-home southern cooking -- including corn-bread, crowder peas, and buttermilk.

Surprisingly to the Mississippians it was the first time the English farm couple had ever tasted any of the foods just mentioned. Yet, after the first taste, they readily enjoyed each and telephoned from a neighboring state the next evening to mention among other things that they had ordered buttermilk at a restaurant that day.

Earlier the Patricks had taken the visitors to a fishhouse for a catfish supper where they watched Mrs. Darke's early skepticism about eating catfish turn to delight after the first taste.

The English farmer is a slim, brown-haired, good natured father of four children who pointed out that farmland taxes in England are about four times higher than in Mississippi. However, he conceded that the British government subsidizes British farm commodity prices high above international market levels so that efficient farmers in that country are faring reasonably well.

Darke's major crop is a high protein pea which is inedible for humans but which is grown as feed for racine pigeons. Pigeon racing is a popular sport there with bets placed on the pigeons that fly back to their home coops in the shortest time. The Britisher also grows soft wheat, rape seed and other cereals. As a sideline he blasts ditches, and his wife teaches commercial science in high school.

During his tour of Mississippi farmlands Darke observed that U.S. farmers appear to be more lax in such managerial skills as weed control and soil erosion. He added that since land is considerably more scarce in England and since population is much denser on the land, British farmers must be very careful in their treatment and utilization of each acre.

While touring the headquarters of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation Darke observed file photographs of B-17 bombers through county Farm Bureau war bond drives during World War II. He recalled that as a lad he watched U.S. Flying Fortresses fly over his farm on the way to bombing raids over Germany and later returning.

Next he observed that back then in his farm clothing he seldom was noticed or spoken to by the U.S. soldiers he encountered about the countryside, who then seemed to have other things on their minds.

But this New Year's eve and day Don and Janet Darke experienced especially warm hospitality and friendship from Mississippians, which caused them to term their Mississippi experience the highlight of their winter trip to the United States.

Easter Seal Society Now Offering Free Dial-A-Hearing Test

Today, more people are handicapped by hearing loss than those having heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and blindness. Deafness is the most common physical disability! More than one out of ten people suffer from hearing loss. Early detection of a hearing problem is vital, if hearing is to be saved.

For those who suspect a hearing loss, the Mississippi Easter Seal Society presents a quick, easy way to test your hearing in the privacy of your own home with the Dial-A-Hearing test. The Dial-A-Hearing test is intended for early detection and screening purposes only. It is not meant to take the place of a physician's or audiologist's examination but to simply alert people to the need for an examination.

The test will allow one to find out if one is experiencing a hearing loss without expense, and it will help one in deciding the next step to take. The Dial-A-Hearing test will test the listener with four beeps -- two different tones and two sound levels. If the listener fails to hear these beeps, they will be advised to consult a physician or audiologist for a complete evaluation.

If you feel like you're missing parts of conversations or if it sounds as if people's words are muffled, then the Dial-A-Hearing test is for you. To take your free test, dial 981-9646.

NEMJC Industrial Services Sponsors Housekeeping Program

Representatives from Mississippi and Alabama health care facilities recently participated in a program sponsored by Northeast Mississippi Junior College and the State Department of Education designed to provide them with instruction in professional housekeeping.

Participants gained 30 hours toward completion of the 320-clock-hour program. Under the direction of instructor Nena Holder, students are learning new skills and techniques for improved housekeeping in their respective facilities. The program is affiliated with the National Executive Housekeepers Association.

NEMJC Industrial Services Director Duane Bullard said the health care facilities who sent individuals for the program recognize the need for such training in their institutions. "Professionals skilled in the maintenance and cleaning of hospital rooms, beds, kitchen areas, etc. are badly needed in Mississippi and around the South," Bullard said. "The individuals in our program are in supervisory capacities and basically no training has been provided by their institution."

"We're providing this service through NEMJC and the State Department of Education through Industrial Services to better promote and train qualified individuals," Bullock said.

Thrasher, Booneville Win County Tournament

The Booneville Blue Devils and the Thrasher Rebels captured the first place trophies in last week's Prentiss County Tournament, held at NEMJC's Bonner Arnold Coliseum. The Devils won in a very low scoring 38-21 game over last year's defending champs, Baldwin, to claim top honors.

With a first half score only nine to seven in their favor the Devils knew it would take much more to defeat the fine Baldwin ball-club. So, Booneville jumped out in the third quarter showing the Lady Bearcats a much better offense and defense than they expected. The Devils finally widened the margin after forcing Teena Bender and Tricia Nelson to foul out.

Kunshinge Sorrell had 17 and Soveina Harris 11 to lead the Booneville victory. Remarkably, no Lady Bearcats made the double-figure column.

In the boys' championship game Thrashers' Bill Windham blocked Anthony Price's last second shot from a jump ball. And, although Baldwin controlled the tip, the missed shot gave Thrasher the ball and the win.

Calvin Davis led the Rebel charge with 12 points. Danny Ramsey and Paul McCutchen had 10 each.

Anthony Price led the Bearcats scoring with 18 points. Barry Prather added 11 and Jim Palmer 10 to the final tally.

In the first night of action on Tuesday the Wheeler Lady Eagles eliminated the Thrasher Rebelettes 46-42 in a very fine match-up.

Tangie Miller led the high flying Eagle attack with 32 points. Marie Miller with 13 points and Ann Chambers with 11 were the Rebelettes' high scorers.

In the second game Calvin Davis hit one of two very important free throws with only three seconds left to give Thrasher a 51-50 victory over the Booneville Blue Devils.

Danny Ramsey's 12 points led the Thrasher scoring. Calvin Davis and James (Bond) Leslie had 11 each. Booneville's high scorers were Clay Johnson with 24 points and Tim Jumper with 12.

In Wednesday night action the opening game featured the Booneville Devils against Jumpertown's Cardinales. The Devils took the victory in a 65-27 blowout.

Kunshinge Sorrell led the Devils' high scoring with 22 points. Susan Smith did not quite make it to double-figures, but was high scorer for the Cardinales with 5.

In the second game of the evening it was the Baldwin Lady Bearcats eliminating the Wheeler Lady Eagles 56-45.

Tangie Miller led Wheeler with 35 points. Teena Bender led for Baldwin with 17.

The nightcap saw the New Site Royals losing to Baldwin 54-48 after a very close fourth quarter.

Baldwin high scorers were Anthony Price with 17 points, Mark Michael with 12 and Jim Palmer with 10.

For the Royals Mark Barnes led the scoring with 16 points and Richard Shook contributed 12.

In Thursday night's action the Booneville girls came back from a very close first quarter to win 62-46 over the New Site Lady Royals.

Booneville's attack was led by Kunshinge Sorrell with 30 points and Soveina Harris with 14. The Lady Royals were led by Katie Caveness' 15 and Tammy Thorton's 12 in the losing effort.

In the second game it was Thrasher winning over

Jumpertown 66-48.

Calvin Davis scored 17 points to lead the Thrasher victory. Paul McCutchen added 15 and James (Bond) Leslie 13. Tim Grizzard was the leading J'town high scorer with 12 points. And Ricky Burress contributed 10.

In the closing game of the evening Baldwin defeated the Wheeler Eagles 53-50 in a very exciting game.

Mike Chandler sank 16 points, but not enough to give Wheeler the win. William Lowery made 13 points and Tony Tate added 11 to the tally. The Baldwin victory was led by Anthony Price with 23 points and Mark Micheal and Jim Palmer with 11 each.

All-Prentiss County Players Picked After Tourney

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

Booneville and Baldwin girls and Thrasher and Baldwin boys all placed three members on the 1984 All-Prentiss County Tournament team during the recent county tournament.

Booneville's Kunshinge Sorrell, Michelle Young, and Soveina Harris made the all-star team along with Teena Bender, Tricia Nelson, and Sherry Michael from Baldwin.

Also on the girls' squad were New Site's Katie Caveness and Tammy Thornton, and Ann Chambers and Marie Miller of Thrasher.

Jumpertown's Angela Welch and Wheeler's Tangie Miller also made the all-county team. Miller averaged 33 points in two games during the tourney, while Sorrell averaged 23 points in three games.

Baldwin Bearcats' Anthony Price, Mark Michael and Jim Palmer headed the boys' squad along with Calvin Davis, Paul McCutchen, and James Leslie from the champion Thrasher Rebels.

Mike Chandler and Willie Miller of Wheeler and Clay Johnson and Tim Jumper from Booneville also made the team. New Site's Mark Barnes and Jumpertown's Riekey Burress rounded out this year's team.

Price led all scorers, averaging 19.1 points in three games.

In last week's Roundball Roundup Kip Loden was incorrectly identified as being a Mantachie player. Loden actually plays for New Site.

Ward Predicts Six Bowl Upsets To Become Prog Champion

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

Northeast Mississippi Junior College Athletic Director Bill Ward used the upset route to capture The Banner-Independent's recent college football bowl prognostications championship. Ward correctly picked 60 percent of the game results, or 9 of 15, to win the first annual title.

Leighton Miller, who finished in last place in the regular season prognostications, finished second in bowl predictions picking 53 percent correct, or 8 of 15 games.

Manfred Saylor won the regular season title setting a blistering pace of nearly 70 percent, but dropped from his average on the bowl predictions. Saylor only picked 7 of 15 games correctly, leaving him at 46 percent.

Doug Jumper, the prognosticator who finished behind Saylor in regular season picks, tied with Saylor on bowl picks with 46 percent, or 7 of 15 games.

In capturing the top spot Ward picked six upsets, the ideal of the season for all games. Saylor stuck to the favorites in the bowls, causing his average to drop nearly 30 percent. However, Saylor will still reign as overall champion for 1983.

Where do I get local phone service?

On January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies were separated from AT&T.

But as part of a holding company called BellSouth, we're still your phone company. And divestiture will have little immediate effect on your basic local home or office phone service. In fact, you can choose to keep your service just as it is.

South Central Bell still provides local telephone service for your home and your business. Call on us to order new phone service, to transfer existing service, to add new lines, or to order new sets and equipment.

How to get special services.

South Central Bell still offers convenient services such as Touch-Tone dialing, Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Speed Calling and Three-Way Calling (available in some areas).

And new services (available in some areas) such as PrestigeSM Service that gives expanded calling capabilities to business and residence customers with more than one line. And ESSX Service that uses advanced electronic switching service technology to give businesses PBX features.

Options let you keep costs down.

One change you've probably heard about is that local rates will go up. Competition and deregulation in the telecommunications industry mean an end to local service subsidies from long distance and other competitive services. That means local phone rates must increase to reflect more of the true costs of providing local service.

Local Measured Service options (available to homes and businesses in many areas) can help keep local service charges down. Local Measured Service is especially attractive to people who don't use the phone a lot to make local calls and for people who can't, or don't wish to, pay for Premium Flat Rate Service.

Coping with change.

We're doing everything we can to see that the changes brought about by divestiture and increased competition are as easy for you as possible. And nothing will affect the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

If you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center, toll free, 1 800 555-5000, 8 a.m. till 8 p.m. CST, Monday through Friday.

We're still your phone company.

NEMJC Roundballers Face Coahoma & Holmes Next Week In Divisional Contests

The Northeast Mississippi Junior College and Lady Tigers will resume play when they face Coahoma Junior College on the road Saturday and Holmes Junior College at home Monday, Jan. 16.

Taking the holiday break with a 7-2 record, coach Ricky Ford's Lady Tigers will play the biggest team they've met all year in Coahoma.

"Coahoma has three girls that are 6-1," Ford said. "You can bet they'll be playing a 1-3-1 zone and force us to shoot from outside to score. Then they'll have the home-court advantage, and the crowd really gets behind their team at Coahoma."

In the Holmes game, Ford expressed concern that the Lady Bulldogs had an extra week to get into shape. He said the opposition also has a weapon by the name of Lela McDonald, a sophomore who leads the region in scoring with 32 points per game.

"We'll probably put Vanessa Groves on McDonald," Ford said. "She's scoring about 14 points a game, but more importantly, she's a good defensive player."

Ford said the weakest position for the Lady Tigers right now is guard. Though Ruby Tyes has taken the floor for injured Melissa Harvell and delivered well, Ford said a strong press could hurt his team badly. But if Groves can hold McDonald, Ford thinks his chances of beating 10-2 Holmes are good, especially with the crowd behind his Lady Tigers.

Northeast's men's head coach Richard Mathis, pleased with his team's performance in the last three games before the break, said his major concern in the Coahoma game is that after almost a month off from practice, getting in shape will be a problem.

"Not only do we not have adequate time to get back into shape, we're really kind of banged up," Mathis said. "Marlon McGaughy, Terry Ballard and David Robbins all have turned ankles and we have some other nagging injuries that should hamper us."

In Monday's game against Holmes, the Bulldogs will have a headstart on the second half of the season, having played four games since coming back from the holidays. Holmes 7-5 record matches up to Northeast's 9-3 mark, but the Bulldogs have compiled a 3-0 North Division mark as opposed to the Tigers' 1-2 record.

"Holmes has two outstanding players who score about 20 points a game,"

Mathis said. "Charles Partlow and Johnny James Jr. are both 6-3 and are good players. I also heard that Holmes picked up a 6-5 player at Christmas who is supposed to help them out."

Mathis said he hopes his team's defensive game will be up to par by Monday in order to control the tempo of the contest and avoid a "run-and-gun affair."

"What I really want to stress it that from this point on, everything counts. It's going to take at least a 9-5 record to make it to the playoffs as the number-three team from the north," Mathis said. "We've just got to get these wins."

Auburn Is SEC Surprise Team

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

The Auburn War Eagles have been the surprise of the Southeastern Conference in the early part of the season as they have compiled a perfect 3-0 record against SEC foes.

Kentucky's Wildcats, ranked tops in the nation by several polls, follow the War Eagles with a 2-0 record. However, Kentucky is undefeated in regular season action while Auburn has suffered three setbacks.

L.S.U. and Vanderbilt are tied for second place, both sporting 2-1 conference records. Three teams are tied for third place, Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee, all bringing in 1-1 records.

After controlling the SEC cellar for the past several years, Florida shows a 1-2 record, good enough for fourth place. And neither Ole Miss nor Miss. State has picked up a victory in the tough SEC so far this season.

This week's conference action will feature the two top teams battling for the Number One spot with Kentucky traveling to Auburn tomorrow night to face the War Eagles. Saturday night, L.S.U. will host Ole Miss, Tennessee will travel to Starkville to face the Bullies and Alabama will host Georgia in other conference match-ups.

Church League Action

The area church league saw plenty of action in the past week starting with First Methodist taking a 43-39 win over the East Booneville club. Jimbo Goddard led the Methodist team with 18 points. For East Booneville it was Mitch Barrell scoring 14 points.

Gaston won over First Baptist 50-44 with Pat Lauderdale leading Gaston with 15 points, and Giles McDaniels and Greg Oakley each scoring 10 points for the First Baptist squad.

East Prentiss easily defeated the Church of Christ 40-20. Doug Crow and Carl Shackelford paced East Prentiss with 20 points each. Ricky Green was the lone high scorer for the Church of Christ with 12 points.

Martin Hill Academy Competes In Invitational Tournament

The Martin Hill Christian Academy Ambassadors defeated powerful New Albany Christian School by a slim margin of 67-66. Karl Sexton was high point man with 33 points. Trent Taylor scored 17 and David Sexton 13.

Martin Hill was invited to Nashville, Tenn., for the Free Will Baptist Invitational Tournament.

Others participating were Heritage Temple from Columbus, Ohio; Shenandoah, Baton Rouge, La.; Spring Valley from Cleveland, Ohio; Woodbine from Nashville, Tenn.; Van Buren, Ark.; Grace from Rocky Mount, N.C.; and Florence from Florence, Ala.

The Heritage Temple

Hawks defeated Martin Hill in the first game 76-50. Karl Sexton was high point man with 36 points, Trent Taylor had 11. Martin Hill then defeated the Shenandoah Eagles 78-27. Karl Sexton scored 23, David Sexton 18, Brian Smith 12, Trent Taylor 11, Gene Guber 8, and Billy Blakney 6.

In a hard fought contest Florence, Ala., defeated

Martin Hill 59-55. Karl Sexton went down with an injury that probably kept Martin Hill from victory. He scored 23 points, David Sexton 16, Trent Taylor 9, and Brian Smith 6. Sexton received a trophy for being voted to the all tournament team. He was the only player from Martin Hill to make the all star team.

1983 Go-Cart Racing Finals Held In Downtown Booneville

By RONALD HAWKINS

After four weeks of hard work and long hours the T-N-T Speedway finally completed the 1983 go-cart racing season. The speedway, which is owned by Jerry and Keith Trimble, was closed by mud and ice on the final day of competition. So downtown Booneville was the scene for the New Year's Day races.

In the Stock Class, Junior Burns captured the top spot with 4,500 points. Burns drove a car sponsored by Bingham's Systems of Booneville. Second place went to Randy Calvery, who finished with 3,675 points.

Jerry Livingston took top honors in the Sportsman Class with 2,800 points. Also in the Sportsman Class, Kenny Wheeler took second place with 2,400 points.

Wheeler also drove a Bingham sponsored car. Because of the mud and ice on the T-N-T track, the situation looked grim for the closing of this year's season. However, thanks to the city of Booneville, the racers were able to convert the triangle between the People's Bank and Bank of Mississippi into a temporary track, and the race went ahead on schedule.

The owners of the T-N-T Speedway would like to say a special thanks to everyone who helped to make the past year a success, including those who gave special efforts to ensure the final week of competition, and especially to Booneville city officials. Without their help, there would have been no finals.

AN 8-POINTER -- Claude Kennedy (left) of Route 5, Booneville, killed this 8-point deer Jan. 6, at Duck Hill. Also pictured is Kennedy's son, Alan. Also joining the deer hunt was Billy Maddox, not pictured.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

This week's Player of the Week is Willie Miller from Wheeler High School. Willie is a 5'11" sophomore who has led the Eagles to an impressive 18-4 record. He is presently averaging 14 points, 7 assists, and 5 steals per game. Willie has extreme quickness, and this enables him to be an excellent defensive player for Coach Sam Richey's Eagles. Richey described Miller as "an all-around player who shows no weakness on the floor."

By LADY BLUE SURF

Our hearts were all saddened by the death of our dear friend, Hilltopper, Harold Livingston. Our sympathy goes out to all the family. Double G is in room 1160 in Baptist Memorial In Big M. He underwent surgery Thursday. Texas Ruby has not been feeling well. Snowflake has been in the Baptist Memorial Hospital in Booneville for a week. He was to travel to Birmingham Monday and undergo open heart surgery on Wednesday. Butterbean Lady has also not been feeling well. Bull has a new car and it even has a horn on it. Our social was Saturday night. We had plenty of good food and everyone enjoyed the fellowship. An officers meeting will be held tonight, Jan. 12, at 7. Lady Edd's son and wife from Cicero, Ill., were visiting here over the weekend. They also visited Snowflake and family. A business meeting will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7 p.m. at the West Side Community Center. Important items will be discussed. The roadblock for the Hilltopper family will be Saturday, Feb. 4, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Those who can work are urged to let Blue Surf know when you will work. Since the weather may still be cold, members will possibly work in hour or two hour shifts. Until next week, stay well, be happy and attend the church of your choice.

PCEPA Predicts Higher Bills Due To Cold Weather

Old timers, the weather bureau, and others agree, - temperatures for the last two weeks in December dipped to, and remained at, record lows. And the record cold temperatures will mean increased heating bills for most people in our area, according to Ronny Rowland, manager of Prentiss County Electric Power Association.

"Electric bills for most electric heating customers are sharply higher this billing period because of the much colder weather," Rowland said.

"Even with normal weather, December bills are usually higher than November because of holiday activities. Many people open up unused rooms to accommodate visitors and for entertaining. There is usually an associated increase in hot water use, cooking, and lighting. This, added to greater heating needs, will mean the highest electric and utility bills ever for many customers," he said.

Rowland urged customers to plan their current budgets in anticipation of the high bills. "No one wants to be the messenger of bad news, but we do want to try to prepare people," he added.

Rowland also urged customers who have not done so to request a free home emergency survey. This can be done by calling the Prentiss County Electric Power Association office. A trained energy advisor will make an on-site survey of your home and make recommendations for weatherization improvements needed. Electric heating and cooling customers will probably be eligible for interest-free loans. Measures eligible for financing include insulation, storm windows, weatherstripping, and caulking.

South Central Bell's Rehearing Request Granted By PSC

The Mississippi Public Service Commission has granted South Central Bell's request for a rehearing and temporary stay of a Dec. 21, 1983 Commission order. That order would have granted to AT&T Communications a certificate to provide intrastate intraLATA WATS and 800 telecommunications services in Mississippi.

"The Commission's order, as it stood, would have deprived South Central Bell of all of its present Mississippi WATS customers resulting in a net revenue loss of approximately $8,000,000 to our company," said J.N. McGowen, vice president for operations in Mississippi.

"We are glad that the Commission is going to rehear and reconsider its December order," McGowen said.

NEMJC Counselor Honored By Association

Northeast Mississippi Junior College student counselor Virginia Wilson was honored recently by the Mississippi Personnel and Guidance Association when she was chosen as the organization's Post-Secondary Counselor of the Year for 1983.

Virginia Wilson

She was also a counselor at Belmont High School for four years and Wheeler High for four years before joining NEMJC, where she has served for the past 13 years.

"We're extremely proud of the fact that we have Mrs. Wilson with us as well as being proud of her getting the recognition she well deserves," Sweeney said.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

THE '84 EXPERIENCE

1 Cor. 13:4-5

By Charles L. Potts

THE CHOICE IS YOURS . . . a perfect new year . . . or a perfectly miserable New Year. It seems to hang on ones attitude about other folks. One can enjoy pure misery if he expects appreciation for everything he does. Also you can add significantly to your misfortune if you adhere to the following: Listen to everything people say about you and always be suspicious, jealous, and envious of others. Be sensitive to slights . . . keep a chip on your shoulder and never forgive a criticism. Trust no one but yourself . . . demand consideration and respect and be sure to fuss and sulk if people are not grateful to you for favors shown. By all means never forget that service you have rendered and let no one else forget it either. Now, if the foregoing are not sufficient to produce a miserable '84 . . . add a touch of selfishness and self-centeredness to your life. Always shift the blame for your mistakes to circumstance or to the other fellow . . . but pass the buck unless it favors you.

Now . . . just in case you have agreed that this is the path of misery . . . and have decided upon preference to be otherwise . . . hear the WORD OF GOD. "Love is very patient and kind, never jealous or envious, never boastful or proud, never haughty or selfish or rude. Love does not demand its own way. It is not irritable or touchy. It does not hold grudges and will hardly ever notice when others do it Wrong." Along with this Biblical injunction...learn to laugh, to mind your own business, to tell a good clean story, to say kind things, to love other people, and to place yourself in the others person's position before passing judgment.

Learn to turn grumbling to encouragement and kind words. Remember to make 1984 your very best year and to insure such make it your business to learn the great lessons of the Bible . . . and walk with God.
