Prentiss Lawmakers On Choice Committees

Committee appointments for the state Senate and House of Representatives were announced last Thursday.

District III State Representative Billy McCoy was appointed vice-chairman of the House transportation committee. McCoy was also appointed to three other important House committees, appropriations, elections and education.

Freshman Senator John White also received several important committee appointments. White was appointed vice-chairman of the Joint Panel to Investigate State Offices. He was also appointed to the Tennessee-Tombigbee Bridge Advisory Committee, and the agriculture, corrections, judiciary, local and private, ports and industries and university and colleges committees.

Alcorn Murder Suspect Turns Himself In

Michael Anthony Moore, 24, a suspect in the murder of his father, Earnest C. Moore, 45, of Rienzi, turned himself in to Alcorn County law authorities Saturday, Jan. 14, at noon.

The elder Moore was found floating face down in the Tusculum Canal, less than a mile from his home east of Rienzi, Jan. 3. He had been shot once in the chest with a small caliber weapon.

Alcorn County Sheriff Bill Gant said Moore would either be charged with murder or capital murder. A date for Moore's hearing had not been set as of Tuesday morning.

Sheriff Gant said that Moore had confessed to the shooting. Alcorn County sheriff's investigator Morris Smith had said earlier that a motive for the shooting was not clear but that Moore and his father had a history of fighting with each other.

Moore had been traveling throughout the southwest portion of the United States before he turned himself in, authorities said.

TVA Director To Answer Toll-Free Calls

TVA Director Richard Freeman will answer telephone calls from the public on the agency's toll-free Citizen Action Line on Monday, January 23, from 10 to 11 a.m. The toll-free number for Mississippi residents is 1-800-251-9242.

TVA began the Citizen Action Line in October 1978 so that the public could obtain answers about TVA activities and offer comments and suggestions on agency programs. Calls are normally answered by specially trained information coordinators, but TVA management personnel frequently take calls as one of several ways they keep in contact with public comments and concerns about TVA.

Pay Goodfellow Pledges At Any Bank

According to Mayor Charles Crabb all pledges made to the Goodfellows organization during their Christmas fund drive have not yet been paid.

"Several people have not yet paid their pledges," Crabb said. "We would appreciate it if those who have not yet done so would make their payment at any of the local banks, and be sure their names are on the deposit slips so we'll know to give them credit."

"We know it is just an oversight. They've forgotten it, and this is just a reminder," Crabb said.

Former NMPDD Director Pleads Guilty In Federal Court To Mail Fraud

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

In what appears to be a "plea bargain," Charlie D. Spearman, former executive director of the Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District, has pleaded guilty to mail fraud in U.S. District Court.

Spearman waived indictment by a federal grand jury and pleaded guilty to one count of mail fraud before Judge L.T. Senter in Aberdeen Monday. He had resigned his post with the NMPDD in September 1983 after an audit of the agency by the Appalachian Regional Commission and a subsequent FBI probe.

In exchange for his guilty plea, federal authorities have agreed to not prosecute Spearman on other charges resulting from the audit and FBI investigation. Though Spearman's sentence remains the prerogative of Judge Senter, he could receive a $1,000 fine, a five-year prison term or both. He could also be ordered to make restitution of more than $8,900 to the NMPDD.

A 13 page list of details filed by U.S. Attorney John Hailman details evidence the government had against Spearman. It includes nearly 80 false claims made to the government for money given to him.

According to the report, between 1978 and September 1983, Spearman attempted to defraud the ARC by submitting fake financial reports for travel expenses, document composing and duplicating services.

The report apparently also implicates Northeast Mississippi Junior College Administrative Assistant Dr. James Rhodes. It states that Spearman wrote Rhodes a letter on NMPDD letterhead agreeing to pay Rhodes' office $100 per month for unused composing and duplicating services from May 1, 1978 to April 30, 1979.

Responding on college stationery, Rhodes agreed to the arrangement, the report said.

The scheme, detailed in the report, was for Spearman to "write checks on the district's account to Rhodes for non-existent composing and duplicating services by the college, and that Rhodes would and did then cash the checks and return the proceeds by cash or check to Spearman for his own use."

The report then says that, in May 1979 Spearman gave Rhodes a $1,200 check, which Rhodes deposited to his personal account. Rhodes then wrote a check to "cash" for that amount and gave the money to Spearman.

In 1979, the composing and duplicating service fee was increased to $150 per month, and the money was put into a "secret account" and returned to Spearman by way of $600 in cash and a $1,200 payment on Spearman's Sears account, the report states.

In 1980 the charges were again increased, to $200 per month. And, the report said, in January 1981 Rhodes billed the NMPDD $1,700, with payment made into the secret account, another check to "cash" written by Rhodes, and the money turned back to Spearman.

Another scheme involving false travel vouchers was also detailed in the report. Spearman submitted false vouchers for non-existent trips and fake expenses for reimbursement from ARC funds. The report said the vouchers were submitted in the names of NMPDD board members without their knowledge. Vouchers totalling $2,178 were submitted in the names of board members Leon Cook, Bonnard Eaton, Jimmy Moore and Max Whitehead for 19 trips to Jackson and Washington, D.C.

According to the report, between 1978 and 1981, 12 fake travel vouchers totalling $536 were submitted in the name of NMPDD employee R.C. Anderson, six vouchers totalling $263 were submitted in the name of employee Linda Huddleston and 16 other vouchers totalling $587 were submitted in various em-

Pennsylvania Firm Buys Local ICG Line

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

The Illinois Central Gulf Railroad announced at a press conference in Meridian Thursday, Jan. 12, that it plans to sell a portion of its lines serving an area roughly similar to that which will eventually be served by the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

Included in the more than 700 miles of rail lines to be sold by the ICG will be the Corinth to Prichard, Ala., line -- a main line that passes through Prentiss County, serving both Booneville and Baldwyn.

The lines will be sold to L.B. Foster Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa. Foster is a Fortune 1000 company that provides rail, tubular and construction products and services for railroad, energy, industrial and construction markets. The company has 29 offices and 25 plants and warehouses throughout the country.

Warren K. Kearns, L.B. Foster Co. president, said the sales agreement calls for the creation of a new company to manage the purchased railroad lines. He said Foster plans to utilize Kyle Railways Inc. to operate its railroad.

Kyle is an experienced operator of shortline railroads headquartered in San Diego, Cal. They are a holding company for 13 shortline railroads operating in nine states, Kearns said. Of these lines, nine are freight operations, two carry both freight and passengers and two are passenger lines.

Kearns said that the formation of the new company and the acquisition of the ICG lines signal Foster's entry into the railroad business.

"As a result of recent deregulation of the nation's railroads, large Class I railroads are consolidating their lines," Kearns said. "Some of their branch lines, experiencing difficulties in operating competitively and profitably, are now in jeopardy. We believe we can fill the need to keep these lines in service and operate them profitably. This, therefore, forms another very attractive growth area for L.B. Foster."

"We are committed to establishing a strong freight rail system in East Mississippi. A healthy rail system can attract new business and create new job opportunities in the eastern part of the state," Kearns said. "We believe regional railroads can serve a valuable, important role in our nation's economy," he said. "This is especially true in an area like East Mississippi, where there is a sound, basic business on which to build. We are optimistic about success. The job is feasible. It can be done," Kearns said.

L.B. Foster is already the largest non-mill source of rail, trackwork and rail accessories in the world, supplying prime rail, relay rail, trackwork and accessories to major railroads through its Trackwork Division, headquartered in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Illinois Central Gulf is the 10th largest U.S. railroad. It is a major north-south freight line, extending from the Great Lakes area south to the Gulf of Mexico with approximately 7000 miles of track in 12 states.

ICG was the figurehead railroad in the railroad industry's coalition with environmentalists attempting to halt construction on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway.

Reflections On The Golden Age Of Railroading ...

A Retired Railroad Engineer Remembers

(Editor's Note: The following was taken from an article written by George Dillon of Booneville. Dillon grew up near the railroad and it has been a major influence in his life. He retired as a railroad engineer in 1978.)

By GEORGE DILLON

THE CLOSED DOORS of the old Booneville railroad depot stand as mute testimony to our changing times.

Once through these doors passed the food we ate, the clothes and shoes we wore, and the luxuries we desired so much.

But not so any more. That was the way of an earlier era, the victim of a changing world.

Today there's nothing behind those closed doors that relates to railroading.

No more the rat-a-tat-tat sound of Les McCullar's telegraph instruments as they rattle out a message to him (but certainly not to me).

No more the activities of the porter, Luther McGee, as he goes about cleaning the waiting rooms, sweeping floors, building fires, opening and closing boxcar doors, and checking the freight.

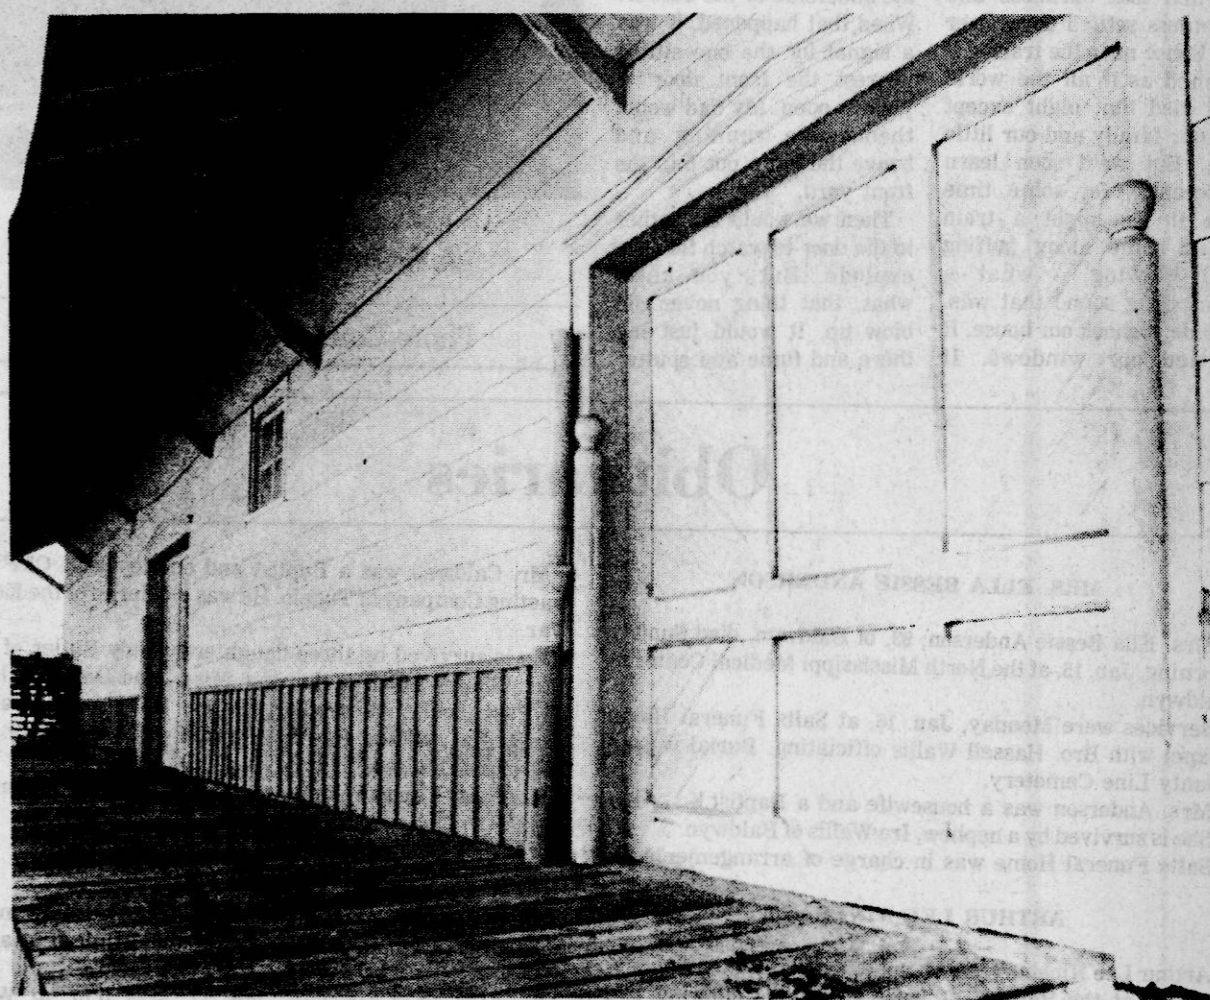

No more the presence of those waiting for the passenger trains -- which never seem to come.

No more the waiting of the two taxi competitors -- Willie Bryant and Oscar Mayo -- with their Model A gas tanks filled to the brim, ready for that far away trip to Cairo, Marietta, or the Tippah hills.

No more the waiting of the Prentiss and the Holly hotels, ready to provide the weary traveler a place to rest and wait for morning to come.

These things are gone. They were the ways of a wonderful former era, the victims of a changing world. These things are no more -- but Luther McGee is still around. He is now 85, in fair

Downed Pine Tree Causes Power Outage Thursday

Ronny Rowland, manager of Prentiss County Electric Power Association, reported that the power outage last Thursday at 12:19 p.m. was caused by a pine tree which someone cut and let fall into TVA's 161,000 volt transmission line.

This transmission line supplies power to all of PCEPA's 10,300 customers through two power substations at Booneville and Baldwyn and it also supplies power to several thousand Tombigbee Electric Power Association customers in Guntown, Kirkville and Marietta areas.

Prentiss County Electric Power Association employees helped restore power to their customers by opening and closing TVA's switches at four different locations on TVA's transmission lines. Power was restored to Booneville at 12:32 and to Baldwyn at 12:50. The tree was found on the transmission line near the Mt. Pisgah road by a local resident.

Manager Rowland requests that tree cutters be extra cautious when cutting trees near power lines not only for the tree cutters safety but for the safety and wellbeing of all the electric customers.

During this outage power was off to the hospitals, police and sheriff offices, fire departments, emergency vehicle service, schools, and several residents who have kidney machines, oxygen equipment, and life monitoring equipment in their homes. Also, several industries, which heat a raw material such as plastic to very high temperatures with electricity, work frantically to clean the hardening material out of the machines after each power interruption.

Also, many businesses and industries have computers which have to be reprogrammed after each power interruption.

since well before the Civil War, and actually bought up waterway routes and relegated them to disuse until the practice was outlawed by a clause in the Panama Canal Act which specifically prohibits railroads from owning inland waterways.

The railroads then continued their battle in the courts, finally forming a coalition with an environmental group known as CLEAN (The Committee For Leaving the Environment of America Natural) headed by Dr. Eugene Clemmer, a Mississippi State University marine biologist, concentrating on efforts to stop construction of the Tenn-Tom.

They withdrew their support of anti-waterway court action a few months ago, paving the way for projected completion of the Tenn-Tom by mid-1985.

Coincidentally, the lines being sold by the ICG serve roughly the same area that will be served by the Tenn-Tom. The lines involved are: Corinth to Prichard, Ala., - the mainline route paralleling the waterway - and Corinth to Middleton, Tenn., Artesia to Tuscaloosa, Ala., Woodland to Middleton, Tenn., Ackerman to Laurel, Fentress to Aberdeen, Union to Walnut Grove and Tuscaloosa, Ala. to Fox, Ala., seven regional lines feeding that mainline.

Reaction from area officials, while of the "wait and see" variety, was generally optimistic.

Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb who attended the Meridian press conference, said, "My concern was if it was being sold just simply for salvage purposes. And they (Foster) have told us emphatically that it was not for a salvage operation...that for the money they paid they couldn't afford to do something like that. And I understand it sold for between $26 and $30 million," he said.

"And the ICG has told us that this smaller company could operate at less expense than they could," Crabb said.

He said the mayors from the area served by the lines the ICG sold felt better after they attended the meeting.

"We don't feel like they would spend that kind of money on something they were going to salvage. So, I believe them...I want to believe them. And I feel that if this be factual they will want to render service to us," Crabb said.

Baldwyn Mayor Merle Rowan said he hopes the new owners of the railroad will be more cooperative with the communities they serve. "I'm hoping they'll improve it," Rowan said. "When the ICG built the line up through Baldwin they built it way up above the streets, and they didn't want to do anything about it.

"We finally convinced them they'd have to pay half on the paving to lift the streets up to it. But they didn't want to.

"I'm hoping things like that will improve with the new owners," Rowan said.

Prentiss County Development Association Executive Director Doug Mansell said, "A railroad in a community is a major incentive in soliciting industry. Closing of the ICG lines would have certainly dampened Prentiss County's possibilities for future development. And as long as we have a working railroad through the community the future looks encouraging.

"With both rail transportation and the waterway we are in a good position to attract new industry," Mansell said.

J.P. Davis, president of the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors, said he feels the sale "is a good thing because they (Foster) are sure that they are going to operate it and that insures the fact that we will have a railroad in the future."

Golden Age

health, and living with his wife Zephia at 305 Sunflower, thrilled to talk about the old depot and of days gone by.

I HAVE LIVED long enough to have seen a lot of the old and some of the new.

I remember distinctly the period of time in the early 1920's, shortly after the ending of World War I. There was peace among nations for World War I was fought to end all wars, they said.

There was no radio and only a few telephones. There were few good roads, for the T-Model Ford had not yet come. Rural electrification was still years away.

There were few places to go and no way to get there - but there was home, where the family was together, sharing their love, joys, fears and anxieties.

There were two things we had plenty of - darkness and an eerie quietness over the land.

When that darkness and quietness settled down over our house near the tracks, it seemed as if all the world had died that night except for our family and our little dog. But we'd soon learn differently, for some time late in the night a train would come along puffing and blowing - what a comforting sound that was.

Sure, it shook our house. It rattled our windows. It awakened us from sleep. But that really didn't matter, for the clanging of the train as it faded off into the distance was a tranquilizer that just put us back to sleep again.

I. BEGAN TOTING kerosene from the time I was big enough to tote. I guess I toted a thousand gallons of kerosene (coal oil we called it) from the store up that railroad during all hours of the day and night in order to build our fires and keep our home lights burning.

We had two kerosene lamps in our home, a glass one and a brass one.

My dear mother used the best one, the glass one, because it seemed she never got all her work done.

The rest of us used the brass one, which we kept on a table in the front bedroom, set out so we could all gather around its light. But that thing gave us a fit. It scared us to death.

Every so often, the blaze would get out of the lamp to the underside of the burner. When that happened, it was a signal for the one sitting nearest the front door to yank it open. My dad would then come running and heave the lamp out into the front yard.

Then we would all gather in the door to watch for it to explode. But, you know what, that thing never did blow up. It would just lay there and fume and sputter and spit, and then go out.

When it was all clear, we would go out, gather up the lamp, put on a new globe, put in a new wick, fill her up with oil, and here we would go again.

Electricity was a long time coming and our old brass lamp was thrown out many times. It got a lot of bumps and a lot of new dents and caused a lot of anxiety, but we made it. We always have.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, what did the Lord mean when he told Peter that the devil would sift him as wheat?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: In Luke 22:31, the Lord said, "Simon, Simon, behold satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: This expression 'sift as wheat,' is compared to the practice of that day in which grain was agitated or shaken in a kind of fan or sieve. The grain remained in the fan but the chaff was separated and thrown off. The Biblical figure 'wheat' represents the pure, the true, while 'chaff' represents the worthless (Cf. Luke 3:17). Satan doubted Simon's true commitment to the Lord, and was determined to prove his diabolical analysis of this, one of the apostles. It should be observed that Satan is only allowed to tempt up to a certain point. God limited Satan in the book of Job. He also tells us we will not be tempted more than we are able to bear (1 Cor. 10:13). All men will have trials but with the help of God they are able to stand. Peter was over confident and this led to his denial of the Lord. Peter had boasted that he would never deny the Lord, but did that very thing.

Judges To Consider Victim Statements In Sentencing

Greater involvement by victims of drunk driving was predicted recently by Roy Thigpen, director of the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Planning, as he spoke at the Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program's annual meeting in Jackson.

"Within the next 10 years," Thigpen said, "I believe that judges will be aided in understanding the impact of the crime via victim impact statements. These statements, I believe, will be written by the victims or survivors in the victims' families. When a judge looks only on the surface, it's not easy to understand the seriousness of drunk driving, but the VIS will give the judge facts such as a family being forced to accept for welfare because of a breadwinner being killed by a drunk driver or a person never being able to walk again because of an accident involving a drunk driver.

"It should be the responsibility of the prosecutor to obtain and submit VIS to the courts," he said, "and citizen activist groups will demand that this happen."

Noting that "judges have been blamed for being lenient," he said, "I believe we'll see more judges who are professionally educated to understand the alcohol-related crash problem and who understand the role they play in protecting the public from repeat offenders. There likely will be more efficient case processing with punishment being swift, sure and certain. More judges will be requiring alcoholism assessments. The message will be that courts will not tolerate drunk driving.

"I also believe that community clubs will give greater priority to reducing drunk driving and that the news media will be an even more potent tool in getting drunk drivers off our highways," Thigpen said.

"In Mississippi, as well as in every other state of the nation," he said, "I think we'll be saying in a united voice that drunk driving no longer will be tolerated. Prevention will be the key, but those who persist in killing and injuring others via drunk driving will face more severe punishment than ever before."

employees' names.

Between 1979 and 1981 vouchers were also submitted in the name of Spearman's secretary Sadie Hardin, the report said. Ms. Hardin was named to succeed Spearman after his resignation, but objections to her appointment were raised by both the ARC and Gov. Winter's office.

The report said Spearman also received reimbursement for 10 fake trip and two inflated vouchers totaling $380, made out in his own name, plus another 10 such vouchers totaling over $238 between 1978 and 1981.

Spearman is free on $5,000 bond pending sentencing.

Sports And Drugs

By SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

One of the past week's top sports stories was the news of Atlanta Braves pitcher Pascual Perez's arrest for possession of cocaine. Lately, it seems this is not uncommon for any professional athlete.

The use of illegal drugs in professional sports appears to be overwhelming. It seems that every week another player is arrested for using drugs, or another player is serving a prison sentence after being convicted.

We don't realize how close drugs are to our county and our children. The situation is not as bad, however, as it is in the larger cities. And, the real problem lies not in the use by teenagers in our county, but in the fact that our sports heroes are using it.

Over the past several years, many professional athletes have been arrested and convicted of possessing illegal drugs. They have been suspended from action by the commissioners of their sport. And the news of their problem has spread worldwide.

Just recently three Kansas City Royal baseball players were sentenced to prison terms for being addicted to illegal drugs.

What kind of effect does this have on our Prentiss County athletes? What will these actions lead our athletes to? What will they think when they see their favorite sports personality using an illegal drug?

At present there is no real problem of drug abuse among our county athletes. And that's good news for parents, coaches and fans. However, there is always the possibility of such a situation developing, even in our own county.

It seems heroes are not what they used to be. But not all sports personalities are addicts. We can always rely on certain athletes to give that good impression.

If there were some way of allowing all the professional athletes to see the impressions they make on our young people, maybe they would stop using drugs and concentrate on their job of entertaining us.

We don't want to be entertained by someone we don't trust. Parents should be proud that their children don't have the problem that so many athletes do have.

Prentiss Countians should concentrate on playing the sport they play as they have done for the past century. Drugs are for sick people, and only sick people need drugs.

Ponderings

Tonight's the night. While you're at home all comfortable and cozy reading this, I'll be at my first class reunion.

For the first time in eight years the Thrasher class of 1976 will be together again.

Although I've never been to a class reunion, I have reason to believe it's a traumatic experience.

From what I've been told from those who have survived class reunions, the former classmates will actually discuss who's gotten the most gray hair; who doesn't have any hair; and who's gotten the fattest - terrible things like that.

Just between us, I do have a few gray hairs - most of which were caused from asking Street Opinion questions.

I could snip out all my gray hairs before I go to the reunion. But then I might be the baldest class member.

If I am singled out as having gotten the fattest I will be very upset - especially after the column I wrote last week about my diet, which I had rather not discuss THIS week.

THE CLASS OF '76. We were the bicentennial class.

Remember the bicentennial? That was the 200th birthday celebration of our country.

If my fading memory serves me correctly there were 43 graduates in my senior class. Most of us went to school together at Thrasher for 12 years, so we have a lot of memories.

I like to think that most of them are happy memories. I suppose tonight we will "reminisce" (a word I still can't spell unless I look in the dictionary) about our school days.

Someone, I don't remember who, once told me that those school days would be the happiest ones of my life. Thinking back, they are certainly among the happiest.

To think that there was actually a time when some of my biggest worries were tests and homework. Sometimes I wondered if I would survive. Sometimes I still wonder that. I survived then, so maybe I will now.

My home economics teacher, Mrs. James Triplett, used to say that I could look innocent but I was usually one of the ones who thought of mean things to do.

I think one of my finer moments occurred in Wyatt Weatherford's history class.

Have you ever noticed that if you yawn in front of someone it will cause them to yawn?

After I made this startling discovery, I told my friend Debra Brasfield and we decided we would carry out an experiment in Mr. Weatherford's history class.

At an appointed time both of us began yawning and within a few minutes we had the entire class yawning, including Mr. Weatherford. As a matter of fact, I think he got so sleepy he even stopped lecturing a little early that day.

SO TONIGHT is the night. I wonder what everyone looks like now. I haven't seen some of my classmates since graduation day.

We all said we would keep in touch after graduation. But everyone goes in different directions so sometimes it's hard to keep in touch.

When we graduated I think some of us wondered if Thrasher High School could actually exist without our class.

It was then that one of our sponsors, Mrs. Linda Huddleston, said something that I've thought about frequently since then because it applies in a lot of situations.

She said, "They got along without you before you came and they'll get along without you after you leave." And she was right.

'Newman's Revenge' Worse Than Expected

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss. - The only Phi Beta Kappa to sit in the Mississippi Legislature since the 1930's has been relegated to serve on the Game and Fish Committee of the House, yanked off the committee dealing with higher education.

The only member of the Legislature who holds a doctor of philosophy degree has been tossed into the ranks of do-nothing committees, notwithstanding the fact he has more seniority than three-fourths the members of the House.

These are just a couple of examples of the carnage in the committee assignments handed out by House Speaker C.B. Buddie Newman in the wake of the first attempted revolt against the power elite in the Mississippi lower chamber in 28 years.

Newman's revenge against the leaders of the "terrible 26" who made a vain assault on his power base by seeking rules changes to diffuse the concentration of authority in the Speaker and key committee chairmen went beyond what even critics expected.

It far exceeded the 1976 mayhem when Newman first became Speaker in his own right and he punished several of his Old Guard cronies who had opposed his coup two years earlier when he was installed as Speaker Pro Tem for the ailing John Junkin.

This time, the effect of Newman's retribution is upon some of the brightest new members to come into the Legislature in recent years, in large measure confirming the contention of the reform group that the House is operated on an arbitrary use of power.

The consequence of his assignment of two dozen well-educated, intelligent younger members to mostly menial committee tasks is that the state as a whole will not benefit from maximum use of their abilities.

Item: Rep. Percy Watson of Hattiesburg, was one of the seven black members of the House who voted for the rules changes, and spoke against the existing system.

Watson wound up being taken off the Universities and Colleges committee and was put on the Game and Fish Committee, despite the fact he has never gone hunting one day in his life.

Watson, a lawyer who came in with the 1980 freshman group in the House, has among his credentials the fact he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Iowa. No other Mississippi lawmaker since Sen. John C. Stennis sat in the Legislature 50 years ago, has had the distinction of membership in the nation's most prestigious academic honor society.

Item: Rep. Cecil Simmons of Starkville, one of only two four-termers to join in support of the rules changes, wound up losing his seat on the Appropriations Committee and the Health and Welfare Committee, after making a stirring speech for reform.

Simmons, a teacher in a private junior college and a former hospital administrator, has a Ph.D. degree from Mississippi State University in the field of entomology, the most advanced educational level held by a legislator.

Now in his fourth legislative term, the 37-year-old Simmons doesn't even have a vice-chairmanship, much less a chairmanship, while members junior to him have just moved up to head House committees he has served on for years.

His removal from the Appropriations Committee takes away what is traditionally the "Mississippi State University" seat on the committee. Since Ed Perry, the chairman of Appropriations is from Oxford, hometown of MSU's chief rival institution, this could generate some resentment to Newman's action among MSU alumni.

Item: Rep. Eric Clark of Taylorsville, considered by his contemporaries as one of the most intellectual and dedicated newcomers in the 1980 freshman group, was bumped from the Education Committee, his top priority assignment, and given several "dumping grounds" committees.

In the Newman camp, Clark was regarded as the ring-leader of the rules changes because he handled them during the three-hour floor debate.

Significantly, Clark, who holds a Master's degree from Ole Miss, had been one of the key advocates for the Public Utility Regulatory Act two years before it became a popular issue in the 1983 legislative session.

Item: Eighteen of the 26 members who voted to make the rules of the House more democratic wound up on the Agriculture Committee, which historically considers no major legislation, and rarely meets. None made the two most powerful committees - Ways & Means, and Appropriations.

Newman very shrewdly avoided targeting Rep. Mike Mills, the newcomer from Amory who was one of the founders of Mississippi First Inc., the group formed in 1982 to elect more enlightened persons to the Legislature. Mississippi First had helped field the strongest legislative candidate to oppose Newman in many years.

Rather than punish Mills, who also had voted for the rules changes, Newman gave him some pretty fair committee assignments for a freshman.

Some of the reformers viewed this as a strategic effort to neutralize Mills as a budding leader of the incoming freshman group and to appear magnanimous in dealing with Mississippi First, Newman's pet peeve.

Out of the rules change struggle has come another apparent Newman strategy: to pit members of the black caucus against each other. Seven of the 18 black members voted for the rules revisions on the grounds that the "plantation" system in the House concentrated too much power in the hands of the Speaker.

They were castigated by

Rep. Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, the onetime civil rights leader, for supporting "racist" rules changes because a democratic election of committee chairmen would not guarantee as many blacks as Henry's new-found friend, Buddie Newman.

Newman and his lieutenants believe they have smashed the palace revolt by proving the system doesn't brook reform by young idealists.

Only time will tell.

Letters

Dear Sir:

I take strong exception, to Charles Leonard's assertion, concerning the Bible, i.e. "...yet there is not a single contradiction in it." (Banner-Independent, Jan. 12, 1984 page 3, column 3&4, lower 1-3 page, paragraph 3, 1st sentence).

Here is but a small sampling of passages that contradict each other:

- 1. 2 Sam. 8, 4 contradicts 1 Chron. 18, 4
- 2. 1 King 4, 26 contradicts 2 Chron. 9, 25
- 3. 2 Chron. 36, 9 contradicts 2 King 24, 8
- 4. Ex. 33, 20 contradicts Ex. 33, 11
- 5. Matt. 27, 37; Mark 15, 26; Luke 23, 38 and John 19, 19 all contradict each other as do:
- 6. Matt. 27, 46 & 50; Luke 23, 46 and John 19, 30

One of the best examples of Biblical contradictions is:

- 7. Ezra. 2, 1-70 compared to Nehemiah 7, 6-73. There are 27 discrepancies in numbers, and 30 discrepancies in names alone! Also, while the United Drys quoted Proverbs 20, 1 with great relish, I noted with interest, they ignored Proverbs 31, 6&7; 1 Tim. 5, 23; Psalms 104, 15 and Judges 9, 13 among others.

Advocates of public school prayer, are advised to read Matt. 6, 5-6, and those afraid of dying, might find comfort in Ecc. 9, 5.

Thank you for this public forum, to counter opinion with chapter and verse facts. Sincerely,

Robert L. Bigsby

The AYES Have It

By SENATOR JOHN WHITE

Hi there everybody. The highlights of the second week of the 1984 term of the Mississippi Legislature were the inauguration of Governor Bill Allain and the appointment of Senate committee chairmen and members by Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye.

On Tuesday, the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives were among those who braved the cold to witness Bill Allain taking the oath of office as Mississippi's 59th Governor.

During his inaugural speech, given inside the warmer House chamber, Governor Allain urged a spirit of harmony, not confrontation, and asked the Legislature for its cooperation, assistance and advice in order to move forward together to meet the essential needs of the people. He also said he will seek an enhanced partnership between state government and the private sector to help the state grow.

He listed as priorities of his administration education, the economy and human services. He postponed specific proposals until a later date.

On Thursday, Lt.

Governor Dye announced his committee assignments. I am absolutely delighted with mine. I have been appointed to serve on the Senate Agriculture, Corrections, Judiciary, Local and Private, Ports and Industries, Universities and Colleges, and the Committee to Investigate State Offices to which I was named vice chairman. Each of these committees are vitally important to our three counties.

Now the work of the Legislature has begun in earnest as bills have been referred to committees for consideration. My first committee meeting was the Judiciary which met at 4:00 p.m. this past Monday. We worked for some two hours.

I need to hear your views on legislative matters to come before my committees or any other committee. You may call me at 948-7321 or write to me in care of the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Miss. 39205. I will also be home on weekends, of course.

Once again, let me say that I sincerely appreciate this wonderful opportunity of service you have given me. I intend to work my heart out to make you proud of me.

Legislative Report

By Billy McCoy

Representative District III

Prentiss And Alcorn Counties

The Legislative week of Jan. 9th was highlighted by the inauguration of Governor Bill Allain and the assignment of committee positions to members of both the House and the Senate.

Governor Allain choose a very simple and inexpensive inaugural ceremony on the front steps of the Capital and followed with an inaugural celebration that night in the coliseum.

Governor Allain's speech was very positive and addressed several main points. He stressed his desire for harmony between the Governor and the Legislature. Concerning this point he has already placed on his staff several persons who are very knowledgeable of the Mississippi Legislative process.

He stressed the need to continue the reforms and improvements in our Education and Vo-Tech-training programs. Government's role in providing a favorable environment for business and industry in Mississippi was placed high on the Governor's list.

A very important part of the Governor's speech was his call for an evaluation of taxes and services - in other words-an in-depth study of where our taxes come from - who is paying them and where the money is being spent. What changes might be needed in our tax structure and in the programs our citizens pay for are questions to be answered.

Your Northeast Mississippi Representatives received excellent committee assignments. The greater Northeast area has six committee chairmen and three vice-chairmen. We have one member on the powerful Rules Committee and several positions on the very important Appropriation and Ways and Means Committees. We are all very proud of our colleague from Lee and Prentiss - Representative Tim Ford, who is the only second term member to be appointed as a committee chairman. He is now chairman of the Elections Committee.

I was honored to be selected as vice-chairman of the Transportation Committee, which is the Old Highways Committee of the House. Northeast Mississippi also boasts the Chairman of Transportation - Representative John Pennebaker of New Albany.

I was very pleased at being re-appointed to the Appropriations, Education, and Elections Committees. Certainly I feel these appointments will provide a great opportunity to deal even more directly with so many facets of State and government that affect our daily lives.

Northeast Mississippi Representatives are united in their desire to work in harmony with other Legislators from all sections of the state - to do those things necessary to move Mississippi forward in its Economic, Educational, and Cultural endeavors.

Certainly we will strive to see our area share equally in funds and opportunities available for Education, transportation, health care, law enforcement, and other essentials.

MHSP Reports Fewer Auto Deaths In 1983

Twelve fewer people died as a result of automobile crashes in Mississippi during 1983 than in 1982, the Mississippi Highway Patrol reported.

Year end traffic death statistics show county roads were the most dangerous for Mississippi motorists during 1983 than were city streets or state and federal highways.

Figures supplied by the Statistical Branch of the Mississippi Highway Patrol show fatal traffic accidents occurring on county roads increased by 45 percent. In 1983, 224 people were killed on county roads compared to 154 in 1982.

The Mississippi Highway

Patrol effected a nine percent fatality reduction on highways under its jurisdiction during 1983.

Overall 716 people were killed in traffic deaths during 1983 compared to 728 for 1982.

The Highway Patrol recorded 350 deaths that occurred on state and federal highways in 1983 which is 34 fewer deaths on those roads and highways than took place in 1982.

FmHA Offers Financial Planning Help

Beginning with the 1984 crop year, farm borrowers of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration will receive better financial planning assistance through a new system of statements.

Charles W. Shuman, administrator of the agency, announced the new system recently. He called it the

"Coordinated Financial Statements."

Previously, farm borrowers have used the agency's "Farm and Home Plan" to analyze their operations and plan financial strategies.

The Coordinated Financial Statements include a balance sheet and statement of owner's equity; an income statement, showing all income and expenses; a statement of change in financial position, indicating new borrowings, withdrawals and debt payment of the past year; and a cash flow statement, showing cash income and outgo for the previous year and projections for the coming year.

The new system will be phased in over a four-year period, Shuman said. In 1984, each county office is scheduled to use the new system with at least 10 borrowers. In 1985, 25 percent of the borrowers in each county office should be using the new system with the number increasing to 65 percent in 1986.

WHAT KIND OF BIFOCALS?

Bifocals are generally the choice of people who require two separate vision corrections — one for near and one for distance. It is the sensible alternative to carrying two pairs of glasses and changing them constantly. But even after choosing bifocals, there are additional considerations.

What degree of magnification is desirable? The power of the bifocal segment can be selected for any distance desired. Most often it is set for reading distance, but it need not be. It can be made for seeing as close as eight to ten inches for very precise work. Or it could be set for twenty to thirty inches to see the dashboard of an auto or an airplane. But it probably cannot provide optimum focus at both distances.

There are also choices as to the position and size of the bifocal segment. It is usually located in the lower third of the lens, but it doesn't have to be. It could be at the top of the lens or in the corner. It can be as small as a dime or encompass most of the lens.

For answers to your specific questions regarding vision, call The Booneville Vision Clinic.

Lee, Jackson, Maury
UDC Meeting Topic

Mrs. Troy Moore was the speaker at the January meeting of the D.T. Beall Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The meeting was held in the Hospitality Room of the Frank Haney Union at Northeast Junior College. Mrs. Eudora Kemp and Mrs. Patsy Johnson were hostesses.

Mrs. A.L. Tidwell, president, led the chapter in the ritual.

A dessert course was served during the social hour.

Mrs. Moore's topic of discussion was Lee, Jackson and Maury.

She said those three Virginians won great recognition in the history of our country and the role they played during the conflict within our country made them heroes of the Confederacy.

Robert Edward Lee was born Jan. 19, 1807. He graduated from West Point in 1829, and served with distinction in the Engineer Corps of the U.S. Army.

He resigned and was made one of the five full generals of the Confederacy. His military genius displayed throughout the entire War Between the States is recognized by the highest authorities, Mrs. Moore said.

Thomas Jonathan (Stonewall) Jackson (1824-1863) graduated from West Point in 1846. He organized the army of the Shenandoah and became a brigadier general.

In Chancellorsville, Va., Jackson's men were mistaken as being hostile troops and he was shot by his own out-post. He died shortly thereafter.

Matthew Fontaine Maury received more honors abroad than at home, Mrs. Moore noted.

He was from a large family and was able to obtain a good education in the scientific field. He wrote about navigation and worked at reporting weather conditions at sea.

During the War Between the States he was an agent for the Confederacy in England. In 1863 he joined the Military Virginia Institute. He died Feb. 1, 1873.

Chicken Flu Could Strike In Mississippi

Poultry producers in the state are being urged to take no chances and protect their flocks against potential outbreak of the deadly avian influenza virus.

The precautions are necessary even though the present disease outbreak is restricted to Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia, said Dr. Bo Haynes, a poultry specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Avian influenza has infected 222 poultry farms in the three states, causing about 6,000 square miles of area to be quarantined. Following quarantine, the farms have to be depopulated of birds, thoroughly cleaned, sanitized and remain bird-free for at least 30 days.

The value of the bird losses alone in the three states is about $17 million, Haynes said.

"Our poultry producers need to understand the disease and be aware of the potential disaster if the disease should spread to Mississippi," Haynes said.

Haynes said as long as infected flocks exist anywhere in the United States there is a real potential for the disease to be transported to Mississippi. Until the quarantine is lifted in the northern states, Mississippi poultry farmers should follow strict disease control practices.

Some poultry farms in Pennsylvania have been devastated by the influenza virus. While the disease affects poultry much the same way as the human flu virus affects humans, the poultry flu virus is host specific and is not contagious to humans or other animals.

Haynes said there is no known cure for the disease which has affected almost nine million birds in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia.

Although several incidences of the mild form of avian flu have occurred in U.S. poultry flocks in recent years, the virus stayed in the mild form and soon disappeared rather than mutating into the more deadly form that is presently occurring in the northeast.

"Death losses from the mild strain of the disease normally range from five to ten percent," Haynes said. "This most recent outbreak of the much more deadly strain can claim up to 100 percent mortality in young flocks."

Haynes said the disease first appeared last spring in the mild form and the virus mutated during the summer into the more serious strain.

Scientists know that wild ducks are carriers of avian flu. Many think the present outbreak in Pennsylvania started as a result of children on a poultry farm playing around a pond frequented by wild ducks and the children transporting the disease in duck droppings to the poultry houses on their shoes.

Symptoms of avian flu are coughing, sneezing and excessive swelling of the head and face of poultry, Haynes said.

Because of the potential threat of the disease, poultry officials and farmers are intensifying efforts or reduce chances of the disease spreading to Mississippi as well as minimizing the spread of other poultry diseases.

Sanitation, insulation procedures, proper dead bird disposal and hygiene practices are recommended on poultry farms to prevent any possibility of the disease spreading to the state, Haynes said.

"If any cases of the disease are suspected, they should be reported to the proper authorities to reduce chances of an outbreak," Haynes said.

A leader among poultry-producing states, Mississippi ranks fifth in broiler production and 14th in egg production nationally. The agricultural income from poultry in 1983 was about $450 million.

As a commodity group, poultry agricultural income in Mississippi is exceeded only by agricultural income from cotton and soybeans

60,000 'Pot' Plants Destroyed In 1983

Record numbers of homegrown marijuana plants were destroyed in Mississippi in 1983, but law officers maintain private citizens must play a greater role in future efforts to eradicate the illegal crop.

More than 60,000 marijuana plants, valued at $58.9 million, were located and destroyed in 1983 under the Marijuana Eradication Program, established by Gov. William Winter in June.

The previous record, set in 1982, was 43,000 plants with an estimated street value of $31.3 million.

A report on the program said 966 separate plots were destroyed compared to 68 plots the previous year. There were 128 arrests in 1983 compared to 64 in 1982, the report said.

"Although we are pleased that the first year of the Domestic Marijuana Eradication Program was successful, we know Mississippi still has a long way to go before the program is developed as fully as it should be," said Sidney B. Berry, who was named by Winter to coordinate the program.

"Marijuana eradication is a key element in the total war against crime associated with illicit drugs in this state," Berry added.

George E. Allen Library
Children who don't read grow up to be adults who can't. And right now there are 23 million American adults who can't read a want ad. Or a book. Or a job application.

That's why there's RIF . . . Reading is Fundamentals. It's a national, non-profit program that makes kids want to read. With thousands of local community projects that help kids help themselves to books.

Books they can pick for themselves and keep for their own. Books that help children think, and learn, and grow. Because when you get a youngster to open a book, you get him to open his mind. And his future.

But RIF works only if people work, too. So join Ed Asner and the thousands of other concerned adults who work with RIF . . . and for the kids. Get in touch with the RIF project in your community.

Perhaps you have seen some recent TV programs on the important place reading skills have in our culture. Johnny Cash hosted one and Mrs. George Bush, who is also on the governing board of RIF and active in its program, was featured on another.

These brought to our attention, very pointedly, the restriction on a person's options of being unable to read addresses or forms, and even the danger to life and the damage sometimes occasioned.

Richard de Bury has written of the enriching qualities reading brings to some: "Books are masters who instruct us without words or anger, without bread or money. If you approach them they are not asleep. If you seek them, they do not hide, if you blunder they do not scold, if you are ignorant, they do not laugh at you."

The Woman's Club of Booneville had announced a

RIF program to begin the week following Christmas but delayed it for very good reasons. The program is now scheduled for six consecutive Saturdays beginning Jan. 21. The time is 1:30 p.m.; the place is the Marion W. Smith Room of the Allen Library; and boys and girls from the first through the sixth grade are invited to participate.

Programs will be entertaining and interesting and at three programs each child will choose a book to keep.

TO: ALL ADVERTISERS

Effective February 1, 1984, The Banner-Independent will change from its present format of 8 columns per page to a new 6-column format. The new "wide 6" has been recommended by advertisers, agencies and trade associations as a means of standardizing newspaper column widths throughout the nation. Many newspapers have already changed to the 6-column format and many others are expected to do so by July 1, 1984.

THIS IS NOT A RATE INCREASE!!!

Although the per-inch rates will be about one-third more, you will be getting a third more space per column inch. For example, a full page ad is now 8 columns by 21 inches (a total of 168 column inches). On the new format, a full page will be 6 columns by 21 inches, or 126 total inches. The total price for the page ad will not increase, but there will be fewer column inches per page.

Should you have questions about our new "wide 6" format, please contact your Banner-Independent advertising representative.

Respectfully,

Kenneth Christian,

County Agent's Notes

By
CLIFFORD J. HAMPTON
County Agent

Cockroaches are pests throughout the United States. They are annoying and when abundant they are also destructive. These insects known as water-bugs, croton bugs or palmetto bugs, destroy and damage fabrics, book bindings and other materials. When cockroaches run over food they leave filth and may spread disease germs. They secrete an oily liquid from their scent glands that is offensive, and sickening. This odor may ruin food and be imparted to clothing and dishes. Excrement in the form of pellets or liquid also contributes to this nauseating cockroach odor. Five or more species of cockroaches can be found in or around Mississippi homes and buildings. The more common cockroaches are the brown-banded, German (water bug), American (brown), Oriental and smoky brown roach. The smallest cockroaches, the German and brown-banded are close to the same size and the adults are seldom more than 1/4 inches long. The larger cockroaches, the American and Oriental are 1 1/2 to 2 inches long. Though they are generally found outdoors, they can become an indoor problem when they migrate or are carried indoors. Roaches will also enter dwellings from the outside or from beneath the house. The cockroach has three life stages, the egg, nymph, and adult. Cockroach eggs are deposited in groups in a leathery case or capsule called an ootheca. This capsule is usually dropped or glued to some surface by the female as soon as it is formed, however, the female German cockroach carries the capsule protruding from her body until the eggs are ready to hatch. There may be from 30 to 40 eggs in the capsule of the German cockroach, but the capsules of other cockroaches may have only 10 to 28 eggs. The newly hatched nymphs have no wings and they molt several times before becoming winged adults. German and brown-banded cockroaches may have several generations per year, but other may require a year or more to develop from egg to adult. Cockroaches hide in dark, sheltered places during the day and come out and feed at night. They may be found around the kitchen sink or drainboard; in cracks around or underneath cupboards and cabinets or inside them, especially in the upper corners; behind drawers; around pipes or conduits, where they pass along the wall or go through it; behind windows or door frames; behind loose baseboards or molding strips; on the underside of tables and chairs; in the bathroom; and most electrical appliances. The German cockroach is usually found in the kitchen and bathroom, while the brown-banded cockroach may be found all over the house. Look for brown-banded cockroaches in the upper part of cabinets or closets and bookcases, behind mirrors, in drawers or behind pictures and clocks, in radio and TV cabinets and other similar places. Other kinds of cockroaches prefer damp, warm places and usually develop in basements, storerooms and similar locations. Sanitation is a major key in cockroach control. Take away their food supply. Sweep up crumbs on floors and put table scraps or other waste materials in tightly covered garbage cans. Screen over the doors and windows will help keep roaches from invading houses from the outside. Many chemicals used as sprays or dusts will control cockroaches when properly applied. German cockroaches are often resistant to chlordane; lindane and malathion. Baygon, diazinon and Dursban will control resistant cockroaches. Baiting is currently available but are not as fast acting as sprays or dusts. When dealing with heavy infestations, baits should not be expected to control cockroaches, however they can be used in addition to residual sprays or dusts. Be sure to remove dishes and food from closets and cabinets before you spray. You can replace them as soon as the spray has dried. A spray of 2 percent malathion, or 0.5 percent diazinon chlordane (Dursban), or 1.1 percent propoxur (Baygon) will control roaches, especially the small water bugs. Baygon roach bait is also effective. Use it as recommended for silverfish. The information given here is for educational purposes only. Reference to commercial products or trade names is made with the understanding that no discrimination is intended for other products which may also be suitable. For more information on roaches and/or their control, come by our office on East Church St., or call 728-5631, or 728-7082.

ASCS Report

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

In compliance with 1983 farm legislation, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service announced the new Milk Diversion Program, effective Jan. 1, 1984. The new program establishes an incentive payment for eligible dairy farmers of $10 per hundredweight to reduce their commercial milk sales. To be eligible for the program, the farmer must establish a milk base and submit a milk reduction plan to our office no later than Jan. 27, 1984, and sign a USDA milk diversion contract by Jan. 31, 1984. Other eligibility standards require the farmer to be a milk producer in one of the 48 contiguous States; be actively engaged in milk production as of Nov. 29, 1983; and not have transferred to any person, dairy cows which would or could have been used for milk production in the U.S., after Nov. 8, except as allowed in the transfer provisions of the program. The milk base is determined from the producer's 1982 commercial milk marketings, or the average of such marketings for 1981 and 1982, whichever the milk producer selects. Under the contract, the milk producer must reduce milk marketings from 5 to 30 percent between January 1, 1984 and March 31, 1985. The milk reduction plans shows how the producer plans to achieve the required milk marketing reductions and includes an estimate of the portion of the reduction to be achieved through increased slaughter of dairy cows, including the number of dairy cows to be sold for slaughter during each month of the contract. There is no dollar limit on the amount of incentive payment a producer may earn for complying with the milk diversion contract. However, no producer may receive payment for reductions in the amount of milk marketed commercially which is in excess of 30 percent of the milk base. Dairy farmers are required to accurately report their marketings to ASCS for the contract period. Producer compliance will be audited by the U.S. Department of Agriculture from the beginning to detect problems and minimize improprieties. Further details on the Milk Diversion Program may be obtained from the local ASCS office. A meeting will be held Friday, Jan. 20, 1984 at 10 a.m. in the county ASCS office to explain the program to interested milk producers. ACP SIGN-UP CONTINUES Agricultural land owners are reminded that applications for forestry practices under the Forestry Incentives Program and Long Term Agreements under the Agricultural Conservation Program must be filed during the sign-up Jan. 16 thru Jan. 27, 1984. Applications for cost-share assistance under the annual program may be filed during the initial sign-up or at a later date provided funds are available. 1984 WHEAT, FEED GRAIN AND COTTON PROGRAMS Sign-up to participate in the Cotton, Feed Grain and Wheat Programs begin Jan. 16 and will continue through Feb. 24, 1984. Program regulations call for a 30 percent reduction of the base for wheat plus an additional 10-20 percent if participating in PIK. A 10 percent reduction for feed grains and a 25 percent reduction for cotton. The 1984 bases for each crop will be the average of the planted and considered planted acreage for 1982 and 1983. To be eligible for loans and target price protection, farmers must sign-up and comply with program requirements. Sign-up dates are Jan. 16-Feb. 24, 1984. The series offers production advice for farmers, weather forecasts, news, market reports and a calendar of upcoming events of interest to farmers on each program.

Like most of us, you're probably concerned right now about Social Security and how its funding problems will be solved.

You may feel that, beyond expressing your concern to your elected officials, there isn't much you can do about the problem.

But that doesn't mean you have to leave your retirement to chance. You can take control of your own personal retirement plans right now with a Bank of Mississippi Individual Retirement Account.

With a Bank of Mississippi IRA you can start a safe, permanent plan that you control—not someone thousands of miles away.

It's a plan that also offers valuable tax savings. You see, you can deduct your IRA annual contribution—whether it be $1 or $2,000—from your current income taxes. And you don't pay tax on either your contribution or the interest it earns until you retire.

Begin today. It takes only $10 to open an IRA at Bank of Mississippi, and you may make weekly, monthly, quarterly or annual payments. Each one as large or as small as you like.

But remember, the sooner you begin, the longer you'll earn interest. So start now. Our personal Bankers will be glad to explain everything you need and want to know about a Bank of Mississippi IRA.

It's the personal solution to the problem of Social Security.

Soil Conservation Report

The wood duck is a valuable asset to Mississippi. It is a source of pleasure to sportsmen and bird lovers alike. Landowners and sportsmen often ask, "What can I do to increase the duck population of our area?" One of the most important and easiest to do is provide locations. Now is the time to start thinking about erecting wood duck boxes. Wood ducks breed all over the United States and are found in Mississippi the year round. They start searching for a suitable nesting site about mid January in north Mississippi and nesting begins in February and continues throughout June. Nesting normally occurs in natural tree cavities over water, but those in uplands up to one half mile from water may be used successfully. Dead trees often contain suitable cavities, but they remain in a usable condition for a short time. This is why we should erect artificial nesting structures. Wood ducks will readily accept the boxes. These boxes should be constructed from one inch cypress or treated lumber. The minimum inside dimension should be 10 inches in diameter and 24 inches height. A three to four inch oval hole sixteen inches above the bottom is satisfactory for entrance. These wood structures should have a sloping roof with a two to three inch overhang for runoff water. Four 1/4 inch holes should be drilled through the bottom of box for drainage and four to six inches of wood shavings added for nesting materials. These boxes should be placed on a pole or tree in or near the water. There should also be a predator guard placed around the pole. This is a strip of sheet metal attached to the pole. This slick metal will not allow animals to climb into the nest and destroy the eggs. This is one easy way we can increase the wood ducks in our area. For more information on wood ducks and the construction of wood duck boxes contact the Soil Conservation Service at 107 College St., or phone 728-3544.

Home Economist's Notes

By PATTY K. ROBINSON
Extension
Home Economist

With the holiday season over, have you found that you used your credit card too often or said "charge it" more than you should? Credit is simply getting things now and paying for them later. It enables people to have what they want when they want it, even if they do not have the cash on hand. But credit can be a mixed blessing. Impulse buying or the ease of saying "charge it" can get the best of you, creating a buying habit that gets out of hand and generated many bills. Consider your credit situation when you devise an over-all savings and spending plan. How much credit (debt) you can safely assume will depend on the following:

- The size of your family - its medical, clothing, food, housing, and school expenses.
  - The stability of your job - whether it is secure or not.
  - The amount of your income.
  - Whether additional payments will fit into your over-all budget and still leave some cushion for an emergency.
- The general rule of thumb is that a consumer should have no more than 20 percent of his take-home-pay obligated to consumer credit (not counting a home mortgage). An even safer measure would be no more than 10 to 15 percent obligated, with this amount repayable within 24 months. Remember that when you buy on credit, you have to pay finance charges (interest) for the privilege of buying now and paying later. Credit is not for you if you are already finding it hard to pay your bills at the beginning of each month. If you find yourself making payments on your mortgage later and later every month, taking on more debt is not for you. Try to have three months' salary in the bank should you need it for an emergency. Once you have made the decision about how much credit your budget can safely handle, it's important that you establish a good credit rating. The better your financial record, the better your chance of qualifying for credit, charge accounts, and loans. Look for some tips on establishing your credit rating in next weeks article.

Feb. 1 County History Deadline

Ms. Nancy Brock and Thomas Wallis have issued a reminder that the deadline for family stories to be used in the Prentiss County History is Feb. 1, 1984. "The publisher was gracious to give us this much time," Ms. Brock said. "Because we want the book completed and delivered by July 4, we need to send all materials in February to give the publisher time to complete the publication." "There are still some schools, churches and communities which will not be recorded in the book unless someone is willing to gather the information and have it submitted," Wallis said. Wallis and Ms. Brock said anyone wishing to know if their community, church or school is represented can find out by contacting the George E. Allen Library or any committee member. "Don't be left out of this book which preserves your heritage for generations. Contact the library or one of us as soon as possible," Ms. Brock said.

Timberline

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

There is much concern among the forestry community in Mississippi about the amount of privately owned land that has been clear-cut or heavily cut-over during the last few years and not regenerated. Most forestland in Mississippi is owned by individuals (72 percent), not government or industry. The timber industry is vital to Mississippi's economy. It provided about 40 percent of the State's industrial payroll. Each $1 from standing timber generates $9 in Mississippi's economy through manufacturing, construction, transportation and marketing. The U.S. Forest Service estimates that we need to increase pine regeneration threefold just to keep up with cutting! Economists tell us that timberland management is probably the best investment the average landowner can make. (Historically, tree farming returns have outpaced inflation by 2 or 3 percent!) Much of our cut-over land in Prentiss County can be regenerated by aerial seeding at a cost of only about $12 per acre. If you have cut-over tracts on your property call us and let us give you some technical advice on how to reforest it and make arrangements for getting the work done. We want to help you make money from more productive forestland.

Tiger Teams Head South For Weekend

In a division where there are no "patsy" teams, the Northeast Mississippi Junior College Tigers and Lady Tigers will head to Mississippi Delta Junior College Thursday, Jan. 19, and host Meridian Junior College Monday, Jan. 23 in two more important North Division contests.

The Lady Tigers, after beating Coahoma on the road, defeated the Holmes Lady Bulldogs 86-63 at the Bonner Arnold Coliseum, while the Tigers, also on the heels of a win over Coahoma, handed the Bulldogs a 62-59 defeat.

Women's head coach Ricky Ford said defense was the key ingredient in his Lady Tigers' win, as his team displayed one of the finest defensive games so far in the season.

"I guess you could really say it was our defense that won the game for us," Ford said. "We just couldn't get our offense going as well as we would have liked. Dianne Harris did a good job holding down number 14, who is the number four scoring leader in the nation."

As well as turning in a superb defensive performance, Harris led Lady Tiger scorers with 23 points. Valerie Beasley and Diava Dean followed with 14 each, while Amy Wheat added 13 and Ruby Ties dropped in 12.

"Diava Dean did a good job coming off the bench," Ford said. "If Diava could get a little more aggressive, she could be a lot better player. Also, Trina Bullock did a good job. But she needs the same thing Diava does; to be more aggressive and quicker."

Ford said he has his team working on their offense in preparation for the Delta and Meridian games. He said he feels that getting his team to run a full speed offense should help pick up the slack.

"If you will run through your screens full speed and just generally run your offense full speed, I believe you can win 99 percent of your ballgames," Ford said.

Men's coach Richard Mathis has similar problems with his Tigers, as well as others that appear to be creeping into his program. Coming back into post-holiday play, the Tigers had several players with minor injuries. Guard Marlon McGaughey got over a nagging ankle injury in time to play the Coahoma and Holmes games, but an accident in the final minutes of the Holmes game re-injured his foot, making his role in the upcoming games unsure.

McGaughey's absence could stifle the Tigers, since the Youngstown, OH native is generally good for the 15 points and eight rebounds he contributed in the Holmes game.

Other scorers in that game were Calvin Fields, who led with 18 points and six rebounds, and Terry Ball and Roosevelt Combs with seven each.

"Marlon did a good job on number 31 on defense, and hopefully he'll be ready to play for us shortly," Mathis said. "We missed a few free throws, which is something we need to work on. But Calvin came up with a good steal in the last few minutes of the game that I think probably was the turning point for us."

The Tigers have overcome a slow division start of 0-2 to tie for second place with a 3-2 division record, 11-3 overall.

"I think we're improving with every game," Mathis said. "Individual players like Roosevelt Combs and Calvin Fields are improving and seeing exactly what it is they need to do. In the Holmes game, Terry Ballard came off the bench cold and hit two crucial free shots. I think that showed a lot of character."

Coaches Mathis and Ford both believe that it will take that kind of character to bring home wins against Delta and give the home crowd a victory over Meridian.

"Meridian is always tough," Mathis said. "Their record may not be very good, but they played the number one team in the state (Copiah Lincoln) to two points and they beat Itawamba at Itawamba. That made a believer out of me."

The Meridian match-up will begin with the women's game at 6 p.m. and the men's tip-off will follow immediately in the Bonner Arnold Coliseum.

THRASHER vs. BIGGERSVILLE

Thrasher shared two games with Biggersville last Friday night at Biggersville. The Lady Lions won the first game over the Lady Rebels 38-60. Phyliss Stafford led the Lady Lions with 23 while sister Glenda added 15 more to the tally. Ann Chambers had 14 points to lead the Lady Rebels while Marie Miller added 12 and Seleta Hamlin 10.

Thrasher took the night-cap 83-60 from the Lions. James (Bond) Leslie had 18 points to lead the Rebels in the victory while Roy White added 14, Calvin Davis 12, Paul McCutchen 11 and Danny Ramsey with 10 to round out the scoring.

THRASHER vs. MOOREVILLE

The Thrasher Rebels took two games from the Mooreville Troopers Tuesday night at Thrasher. In the girls' game, the Rebelettes beat the Trooperettes, 68-42. Marie Miller led the Rebelettes with 22 points while Seleta Hamlin added 14 to the final score. Pattie Presley hit eight points to lead the Trooperettes.

In the boys' action, Thrasher came out victorious, 73-52. James (Bond) Leslie led the scoring for Thrasher with 19 points. Paul McCutchen hit 17 and Calvin Davis 16 to round out the Thrasher scoring. For the Troopers, Micheal Ruth and Ran Salters hit 13 points each.

WHEELER vs. TISHIMINGO

In a charity game last Tuesday night, Wheeler split two with the Tishimingo Bulldogs. All proceeds from the games went to the St. Jude's Childrens Research Hospital in Memphis in memory of Randy Armstrong.

In the girls' game, 'Tish' took a 49-46 win over the Lady Eagles. Teenia Harris led Tish with 22 points. Pam Johnson led the Lady Eagles with 19 points.

Wheeler took the victory in the boys' game, 83-46. Six players made the double-figure column for Wheeler: Mike Chandler and Willie Miller had 16 points each; Tony Tate, 14; Todd Swinney, 13; and Clay Richey and William Lowery, 11 each. For the Bulldogs, Eric Powell led with 22 points.

BOONEVILLE vs. KOSSUTH

The Kossuth Lady Aggies defeated the Booneville Devilettes 52-25 to give Kossuth the first game of the night Tuesday.

With a strong defense, Kossuth kept Booneville from getting into double figures. Kim Bullard led the Lady Aggies with 25 points.

Booneville's leading scorer, Kunshinge Sorrell, was out of the lineup due to an injured knee. 'I we don't know at the present if Kunshinge will be back this season,' Coach Mickey Wood said.

In the boys' game, Booneville took a 65-63 victory over the Aggies. Tim Jumper led the Devils' hot attack with 23 points while Clay Johnson followed close with 22 points. Jeff Rencher led the scoring for Kossuth with 20 while Bill Overton added 16 to the final tally.

BOONEVILLE vs. PONTOTOC

Pontotoc's Stacy Chew hit a pair of free throws with seven seconds left to lift the Warriors past the Booneville Blue Devils 57-56 in local high school basketball action.

Kunshinge Sorrell pumped in 23 points and Sovenia Harris added 14 for the Devilettes as they took the opener from the Lady Warriors 55-39.

Clay Johnson scored 22 and Tim Jumper chipped in for Booneville in the finale. Pontotoc led 27-22 at intermission.

BOONEVILLE vs. NEW SITE

Booneville's Devilettes and New Site's Lady Royals went down to the last few minutes of their game before the Devilettes pulled ahead to beat the Lady Royals 49-42 last Saturday in local high school action.

In the nightcap, Booneville preserved the sweep as they improved their record to 4-13 with a 55-50 victory over the Royals.

Kunshinge Sorrell, who was hurt during the game with a twisted knee, finished the night with 21 points for Booneville as Sovenia Harris added 13. Tammy Thornton led the Lady Royals with 16 in a losing effort.

Booneville never trailed in the game, jumped out to a 17-5 lead after one period and never looked back.

However, the Royals pulled within eight at the half, closing the score to 26-18. They later tied the score at 46, but the Devils hit clutch free throws to pull ahead again.

Clay Johnson led the Devils with 18 and Tim Jumper was close behind with 16. Richard Shook and Ronald Clark paced New Site with 12 points each.

BOONEVILLE PLAYER INJURED - Rodney McVey (second from right), 5'11" sophomore forward for the Booneville Blue Devils, suffered three broken facial bones as a result of being hit by an elbow during the Ingomar game, Jan. 3, 1984. Rodney was taken to the Booneville Baptist Memorial Hospital before being transferred to North Mississippi Medical Center in Tupelo where he underwent surgery. Coach Lee Allen Stewart (right) said, "Rodney will be out for about three to four weeks. He is feeling fine and says he wants to return Friday night. But this will not be possible." Stewart also said, "Rodney is a great asset to the team, and we sure hate to see him out of the game."

Recent Action Between Wheeler And Jumpertown

BHS Tourney Tonight Thru Saturday

By SCOTT McKINNEY
Sports Writer

The annual Booneville High School Invitational Tournament will get underway tonight and continue until Saturday night with three games on top each night.

The girls will play a regular single elimination tournament, while the boys will play a round-robin event. Wheeler, Biggersville, Baldwyn, and host Booneville make up this year's tourney field.

BHS principal Mac Curlee said he feels this will be one of the better tournaments ever held at BHS.

"There are some excellent teams in both the girl's and boy's bracket," Curlee said. "And we expect a big turnout each night."

Booneville's Lady Blue Devils and Wheeler's Lady Eagles start things off tonight at 6:00, followed by Wheeler and Baldwyn boys. Booneville and Biggersville boys match up in the nightcap.

Friday night, Biggersville's Lady Lions and Baldwyn's Lady Bearcats square off at 6:00 and Wheeler and Biggersville boys do battle at 7:15. At 8:30, Booneville and Baldwyn's boys match up in the finale.

In the finals Saturday night, Biggersville and Baldwyn boys play at 6:00, followed by the championship of the girl's bracket. Wheeler and Booneville boys finish things off at 8:30.

Admission will be $2.00 for everyone for all three nights of action.

Auburn Upsets Ky. - Now No. 1 One

By SCOTT McKINNEY
Sports Writer

Auburn's War Eagles used a 25 point performance by Richard Person to upset the top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats 82-63 and take over sole possession of the SEC basketball race.

In other SEC match-ups last week, LSU dropped Ole Miss 93-70, Mississippi State went into overtime to upset Tennessee 63-56, Georgia downed Ole Miss 70-51, and Tennessee slipped past LSU 70-69.

Auburn's victory gave the War Eagles a 10-3 overall record and 4-0 in the SEC. Kentucky dropped to 12-1 overall and 4-1 in the conference.

Melvin Turpin hit 22 for the 'Cats and Sam Bowie added 15 in the loss.

After two defeats this past week, the Rebels of Ole Miss are still looking for their first SEC win. And MSU's overtime victory Saturday afternoon was only their first conference win.

Lee Hunt's Rebels have struggled so far this year, losing nine of their first fourteen games. The Bulldogs from Starkville, under the direction of coach Bob Boyd, have several impressive victories so far this season, including a win over nationally ranked Memphis State.

Martin Hill Roundballers Improving In 2nd Year

By GREG SHOOK
Sports Writer

Martin Hill Christian Academy is in the second year of a basketball program. Their first season's record was 9-5.

Dr. Johnny Sexton, principal, head coach and pastor, said, "There is a different atmosphere here than in other high school athletics. We keep a Christian atmosphere at all times. We are competitive, but Christlike. You'll find more respect on our ball club than on most other school ball clubs."

"I don't mean to degrade the other schools," he said. "It is just that in our school that is what we teach. We set higher standards here than most schools do."

"Our student must maintain a high grade average to play sports. If a student does not have class work up to standards he will not get to play until he improves in the class room first."

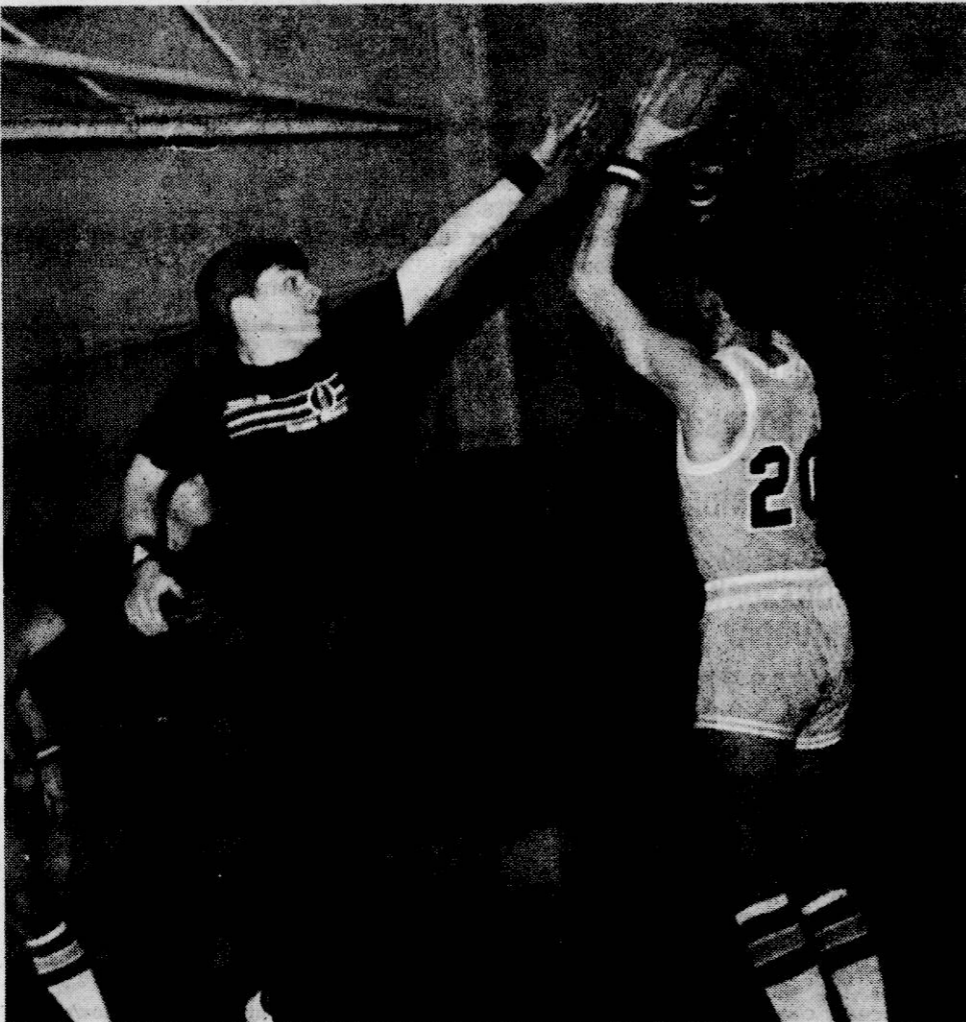

Martin Hill players say playing in a Christian school is much different than playing in a public school system.

Karl Sexton said, "We are basically in a building process right now. We expect to have a really good team in about three years. In a public school system you have more to choose from. But, here you have to take what you get."

"It's fun to play here," Sexton grinned. "But it is sure different. In a public school system there is a more well-balanced type of ball. But here you may whip someone tonight, and get wiped out tomorrow night."

"There is a lot more travel involved with our team than in a public system. We may play in Guin, Ala., tonight and next week we may play in Nashville," Sexton said. Bill Blakney, another player for Martin Hill, said, "I played for Burnsville last year. But I love the Christian school a lot more than Burnsville. There is a lot better atmosphere here at Martin Hill."

Martin Hill was in action Monday night against the Lauderdale Christian Academy Angels. Martin Hill won 85-52. Karl Sexton led all scoring with 34 points, followed by David Sexton with 30.

TAXFAX

Q: What are some medical deductions that might be overlooked?

A: Some deductions that are commonly missed by the taxpayer are:

- Chiropractor's fees.
- Vitamins and supplements, if prescribed by a physician.
- Travel expenses to and from the treatment place.
- The cost of installing special devices for the handicapped (such as wheel chair ramps).
- Treatment for mental disorders.
- Contact lens replacement insurance.
- Vasectomy or tubal ligation.
- Medical expenses for someone you helped support but do not claim as a dependent (in some cases). Note: you would save taxes by paying the medical expenses rather than by giving the person cash.

Computer Literacy Class

At Northeast

Cost effectiveness and practical uses of computers will be among the topics explored by participants of the Computer Literacy and Usage class set to begin at Northeast Junior College Tuesday, Jan. 31.

"The five-session class is designed to build a basic understanding of computers and to instill confidence in the participants' ability to use computers to solve problems," Opal Melvin, course coordinator explained.

In addition, participants will learn basic terminology and simple programming so they can communicate with computer and systems personnel effectively. They will also gain insights into the total requirements for automating or computerizing operations.

The class, which is limited to 30 participants, will meet Tuesdays from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m., in Room 103 of Gordon Hall. Credit for 15 contact hours will be awarded successful participants. The $40.00 registration fee includes the cost of books and materials.

Would-be participants must pre-register prior to Friday, Jan. 27 to ensure a place in the class. For additional information, interested persons may contact Mrs. Melvin at 728-7751, ext. 303.

Basic Programming Class

At Northeast

Northeast Junior College will accept applicants to an eighteen-hour class in Introductory Programming in BASIC through Friday, Jan. 27, Opal Melvin, course facilitator announced today.

Limited to 25 participants, the class will meet one night per week for six weeks, beginning Thursday, Feb. 2. The cost of $60.00 per person includes registration and materials.

The programming language, BASIC, was developed in 1965 by Dr. John Kemeny and Dr. Thomas Kurtz of Dartmouth College. It uses English words and symbols for instructions to the computer.

"Today, it is recognized as the most widely used language in the world, with many min-computers and almost all micro-computers using it as the main programming language," Melvin said.

Participants will learn to write simple short and moderate length programs for their own use with computers. In addition, they will learn to teach computers to make and edit assignments, to choose actions by branching, to use a loop for output, to use a branch for loop control and to read data from the computer's memory.

For additional information, or to pre-register, contact Mrs. Melvin at 728-7751, ext. 303.

'Spiritual Awakening' At First Baptist

A "Spiritual Awakening" Conference will be held at the First Baptist Church at 401 W. Church St., Booneville, on Sunday, Jan. 29, through Wednesday, Feb. 1.

Dr. Lewis A. Drummond, the Billy Graham Professor of Evangelism at the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky., will be the guest preacher for all the services.

"The purpose of the conference is to lead the Christians in this area to an awareness of the need for revival and to experience renewal in their lives," according to Dr. Bill Duncan, pastor of First Baptist Church in Booneville.

"The churches of the Prentiss County Baptist Association are invited as well as churches in the neighboring cities."

The schedule for the conference, which will begin on Sunday morning, will be as follows: Dr. Drummond will speak in each service. The evening service will begin Sunday evening at 7 and the nursery will be provided.

On Monday and Tuesday morning there will be a special "Awakening Service" at 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. A noon meal will be served in the fellowship hall and Dr. Drummond will bring a short message. The noon service will dismiss at 12:50 p.m.

On Sunday night the First Baptist Church choir will present special music under the direction of Wade Irwin. On Monday night the Tate Street Baptist Church choir, under the direction of Buddy Earwood, will bring the special music.

On Tuesday night the First

LEWIS DRUMMOND

Baptist Church Choir of Baldwin under the direction of George Martin will bring the special music.

Last spring twelve members of the First Baptist Church went to the Prayer for Spiritual Awakening Conference in Ridgecrest. The lay people of the group asked Dr. Duncan to plan such a conference for their church. When the pastors of the association heard of the plans they were excited about the possibilities, Dr. Duncan said. "All the churches of the area have now been invited to attend."

Dr. Drummond has been speaking on the West Coast during the early part of January. He will be speaking for a week at the Air Force Academy prior to coming to Booneville.

He has written many books including The Awakening that Must Come, The Revived Life and Charles G. Finney: The Birth of Modern Evangelism.

His last pastorate was the Ninth and O Baptist Church of Louisville, Ky., which had 3,500 members.

Everyone is invited to attend these services.

USDA Announces Food Stamp Changes

Food stamp benefits may change for households whose members receive Social Security and/or Supplemental Security Income because of a 3.5 percent cost-of-living increase which was reflected in the checks issued by the Social Security Administration in January. County food stamp office staff are reviewing the food stamp cases of all Social Security and Supplemental Security Income recipients.

All food stamp households were informed of the possibility of a change in their food stamp benefits at the time they received their January coupon allotment. Food stamp recipients may contact their worker if they have any questions concerning the review of their case.

Food stamp regulations for the monthly reporting procedure are now final. Food stamp households who have been added to the list of households already participating in monthly reporting, will receive their forms February 1.

Food stamp households who have members with earned income or members that have worked within the past three months are required to participate in monthly reporting. These households will report, on their monthly reporting form, information about their income, number of persons in the household and any changes they expect to have during the month.

Monthly reporting does not relieve the food stamp recipient of the responsibility of reporting other changes within ten days of the time the change is known. Households have to report if they move and their shelter expenses change; if they have an elderly or disabled member whose medical expenses change by more than $25 per month; if a household member obtains a licensed vehicle and if the household's monetary resources exceed $1,500. Changes can be reported in person, by telephone or by mail.

Space Still Open For NEMJC Ski Trip

Limited spaces are available to area residents who want to get away from it all with the annual Gadabout Trip sponsored by Northeast Junior College during spring holidays.

This year's excursion is a ski-flee to Winterpark, Col., with an optional two-day side trip to Las Vegas. The special package trip will give travelers an opportunity to experience fresh air and white slopes plus neon light and casino-style excitement in the same trip.

Tour coordinator Anne Gaddis Cross said the group will fly from Memphis to Denver on March 10. From Denver, they will travel to Winterpark, where they will stay until March 15. Those who choose to may take the Las Vegas excursion with no extra cost for the air fare.

The basic ski trip includes round-trip jet air between Memphis and Denver, round-trip transfer between Denver and Winterpark, six days and five nights in a three-bedroom condominium with fireplace and kitchen, one day school for slope skiing, ski equipment and lift tickets for four days. The price for the part of the trip is $499 per person.

For those who wish to go on to Las Vegas, $40 is all it takes to ensure round-trip air between Denver and Las Vegas, two nights accommodations at the Flamingo Hilton, the "City Lights" midnight show at the Hilton, two dinners and one breakfast.

The total cost of both trips is $539 per person. For additional information, or to sign up, contact Cross at 728-7751, ext. 348.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

Thoughts I Think

By V.J. Edner

Pastor, Ruben C.M.E. Chapel

Airport Road

Frankstown, Mississippi

There are religious grasshoppers and church gypsies who never can find a Pastor or church good enough for them; who chase favorite preachers and live on samples brought back from Canaan instead of crossing Jordan and living in the Promised Land themselves. Packing their note-books with epigrams, but not hiding the Word in their hearts. Some of them have the impression that one is not living the christian life unless he is in a state of ecstasy at a high pressure meeting. They want to fly all the time and have found no grace for running without weariness or walking without fainting. They go up like rockets, and come down like rocks.

"Abuses of the freedom of speech ought to be repressed, but to whom dare we commit the power of doing it?"

"Error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."
