Roundup

Robbery

Committed

A Rienzi man who allegedly robbed a grocery store in Biggersville Friday afternoon of last week turned himself in to Alcorn law authorities about four hours later.

Carl Eddie Odom, 25, of Route 3, Rienzi, reportedly held up Benjamin's Grocery March 2, around 1:30 p.m. using a single barrel sawed-off shotgun, according to Alcorn County Sheriff Bill Gant.

Sheriff Gant said Odom reportedly stole between $2,000-$3,000. Odom hid about $1,200 in an old barn on the Odom property, south of Rienzi, Gant said. The remaining money was still missing Monday.

Odom also threw the gun he allegedly used in the robbery in a creek about half a mile from his residence. The gun had not been recovered as of Monday morning, Gant said.

After the grocery store robbery, Odom reportedly stole a 1978 Fairmont Ford from a woman while she was using a telephone at the grocery, Gant said. The car was later found near Hightown.

Gant said Odom had been in prison in California on an armed robbery charge but had been living in the Rienzi area since Sept. 12, 1983, since he had "broken parole."

Odom is charged with armed robbery and armed theft of a motor vehicle. No bond had been set as of Monday.

Loveless was alone in the car. The accident occurred around 11 p.m.

He suffered a ruptured spleen, a lacerated liver, lacerations of the right thigh, a lacerated thumb, a broken right ankle, and a broken left arm.

Tuesday Night Meeting

City Board Votes To Lay Off 9 Workers

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

During an executive session following their regular open monthly meeting, Tuesday, March 7, the Booneville Board of Mayor and Aldermen discussed the layoffs of nine city employees as an austerity measure.

According to Vice-Mayor and Police Commissioner Charles Steen, three police officers, three firemen and three street department employees will be laid off.

Steen said Randy Tolar, Perry Jackson and Joe Shackelford have been laid off from the police department. He said they had already been notified.

But, Steen said, "no names" were chosen from the other departments. "But there will be layoffs," he said, adding that the decisions as to who would be laid off in the fire and street departments would be made by Norman Young and Wade Lambert.

In regard to the fire department, Steen said, "There is some dickering with the county for them to help on one of them (the county fire trucks). But, if they don't, there will be three from the fire department."

Street and Sanitation Superintendent Wade Lambert said he had not yet made any decision as to who would be laid off from his department.

"I've got to do some revamping. And there won't be any layoffs until we make a decision on garbage collection," he said. In its proposal to the city, Refuse Systems Inc. has promised to absorb city sanitation employees if the city contracts with them for garbage collection.

"It will be another week or so before I get everything squared away and decide because I'm going to have to go by seniority," Lambert said.

Alderman Young could not be reached for comment. Fire Chief Frank Fleming said he "has an idea" who will be laid off from his department, but he will not give out names "until a later date."

During the board's open session, prior to voting to go into executive session to discuss the layoffs, the board gave Lambert permission to sell the city street department's hot mix spreader and road grader and investigate the possibility of purchasing a used 60 horsepower tractor and a finishing spreader

Ready To Play

Mike Chandler (13) leads the Wheeler Eagles onto the court Thursday night as they prepare to play Benton in the semi-finals of the state basketball tournament in Jackson. Fans, cheerleaders and former opponents, the Alcorn Central Bears, lined up to welcome the Eagles onto the court. Wheeler, a Class B school, and Alcorn Central, a Class A school, did not play each other in the state tournament, but Wheeler had defeated Alcorn Central earlier in the season. Displaying true sportsmanship, the Alcorn Central team joined the lineup to cheer the Eagles on in their bid for state tournament honors. # Local Precinct Caucuses: They Are Important

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Primary elections and caucuses are dominating the news now, as the candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination battle for the honor of leading their party in November's elections.

Mississippi uses the caucus method in choosing the delegates who will attend the national party convention, a method that truly begins at the local level with the precinct caucuses.

This year's Mississippi Democratic Party precinct caucuses are scheduled for Saturday, March 17. But many politically aware people including former legislator Elmer McCoy and present Prentiss County Democratic Executive Committee Secretary Marjorie Franks are concerned that, as in the past, the caucuses will draw little interest in the area.

McCoy admits that he, himself, never attended a precinct caucus until four years ago. And he was shocked to find only a handful of people participating. "There weren't more than eight or 10," he said.

Mrs. Franks echoes McCoy's concern. "I just feel people are not interested enough, or not informed. I'm not sure which it is," she said. "I don't think they really understand the role they would play in the precinct caucus."

What is a precinct caucus? And why is it so important? According to Mrs. Franks, it is an opportunity for everyone to become involved in politics at the neighborhood level.

"People meet at each precinct in the county. When you go in, each qualified elector (registered voter) from that precinct signs the roster. And when they sign, they sign what presidential candidate they prefer, or if they are noncommitted," Mrs. Franks explained.

"Then, they go off into their little caucus, so to speak. And each group... For example, say a person is for Hart. He will go with that

Local School Problems Receive Statewide Attention

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

The schools of the Booneville Municipal Separate School District have become embroiled in a statewide debate over school funding.

Last week the Booneville High School auditorium was the subject of two front page stories in the Jackson Clarion-Ledger. On Feb. 26, the newspaper featured a color photo of the outside of the BHS auditorium with a "Keep Out" sign prominent in the foreground. The city school board recently condemned the high school auditorium and declared it off limits.

The picture was an illustration for the opening installment of a series written by Clarion-Ledger staff writer Coleman Warner on school funding problems.

In the Feb. 27 issue, other pictures of the BHS auditorium were used to illustrate part two of the series. That story focused on Booneville's own particular school funding problems. It was accompanied by a color photo of BHS principal Mac Curlee standing near a cracked inner wall of the auditorium, and photos of school superintendent R.D. Griffin and Booneville attorney Donald Franks, an opponent of the separation of the city and county school districts and last year's bond issue attempts.

The Feb. 27 installment quoted Curlee, Griffin, Franks and local businesspeople Sadie Gault and James Goddard.

The apparent purpose of the Clarion-Ledger series was to point up the increasing difficulties encountered by school districts statewide in obtaining even enough funds to keep their buildings in good repair.

According to Warner's research, "a billion and a half dollars could be the cost of meeting Mississippi's school construction needs during the next 25 years, if the state's mechanism for funding school projects isn't altered."

And, Warner says, half of that

Seven hundred and fifty million dollars is the price tag estimated by the state's Educational Finance Commission just for replacing roofs, reinforcing foundations, rebuilding worn-out structures (like the BHS auditorium) and other maintenance during the next 25 years.

Because interest could double this figure, the EFC - for the third straight year - is proposing a statewide four-mill property tax which would replace local bond issues as a method of funding school construction.

The plan is supported by the Mississippi PTA, the Mississippi Association of Educators and the Mississippi School Boards Association, as well as state superintendent Charles Holladay and former governor William Winter.

But the proposal is expected to face stiff opposition in the

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, when Jesus said the truth would make us free, what did he mean by free?

ANSWER: In (John 8:31, 32) the Lord said, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." In this short sentence Jesus mentions three concepts of major importance in all human thinking. The word know is from the Greek (ginosko) which occurs fifty-six times in the gospel of John. It usually implies knowledge one gains from experience. Truth is formulated revealed reality and refers to the completely revealed word of God. In chapter 17:17 Christ prayed, "Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word is truth." The word free is a Pauline word, most widely occurring in the Pauline epistles, and used by John only here in the text. It means absence of constraint and restriction, opportunity to exercise the right of acting apart from external interference. These concepts imply a progress from ignorance to knowledge and from error to truth and from bondage to liberty. In the light of the above text, one is made free from sin when he obeys the gospel of Christ (Rom. 1:6). One is taught in the truth of God's word to believe, repent, confess the name of Christ and be baptized for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38). By doing this one is made free.

Legislature, even though, according to EFC officials it would simply "shift local taxes to the state level," rather than actually increasing them.

The idea of any state property tax is opposed by Senate Appropriations Committee chairman Glen Deweese. "I have serious doubts about it. I wouldn't think it would pass," Deweese was quoted as saying.

The bill has been sponsored by Senate Finance Committee chairman Bob Montgomery, who is reported to be concerned about "high interest costs and school districts' growing lists of unmet building needs."

Another possible solution reported by Warner is a proposal introduced by Rep. Dick Hall which would reduce the 60 percent approval rate required for school bond elections to only a simple majority (51 percent). This idea has also been repeatedly rejected by the Legislature.

"The proposal stems from the belief that many unsuccessful bond measures would pass if only majority approval were required," according to Warner, who points out in his article that during the 1982-83 year, seven out of 10 bond measures proposed by school districts failed, but five of those that failed received a majority OK.

The 10 bond measures referred to by Warner included one for the West Point Municipal School District, which passed with 69.7 percent voter approval (60 percent is presently required); Forrest County, which failed with 56.5 percent approval; two Jackson Municipal District issues, both of which failed with simple majorities - 52 percent and 51.8 percent; a Meridian bond issue that passed with 72 percent approval; a Lawrence County issue that failed with 56.1 percent approval, a Newton measure that passed with 80.1 percent approval, a McComb issue that failed with 58.2 percent of the voters against it; and Booneville's two failed bond issues.

Under the simple majority requirement, Booneville's first attempt would have passed at 51 percent for and 49 percent against. But the second attempt would still have failed, garnering only a 48 percent favorable vote.

Warner found that educators blame voter resistance to bond issues on several factors. Cited are "resistance to higher taxes, dissatisfaction with academic programs or student discipline, opposition to public education and skepticism toward building needs outlined by educators."

He cites EFC records that show the results of 96 school bond elections between 1975 and 1983. Forty six of the 96 passed. But 30 of the remaining 50 issues would have passed if only a simple majority had been required for approval.

Warner quoted Booneville Mayor Charles Crabb as being against any change in the bond issue procedure. "Our government is governed by the people. I certainly would not feel the people should have this (the bond referendum) taken away from them," Crabb told Warner.

Curlee told Warner the high school is "hard to heat, it's hard to cool, the acoustics are bad, the lighting is bad. It's not very compatible with any kind of research you see today as far as a good learning environment for the students."

And, since Warner's visit to Booneville, the district has acquired a new problem: friable asbestos has been found in the ceilings throughout the elementary school on George E. Allen Drive and in the BHS cafeteria.

The BHS auditorium has been condemned since December. There is no money to repair it. And there is no money to remove the asbestos, according to Supt. Griffin.

Though both have been described as "unsafe" situations, school authorities are doing their best to work around them until money to correct the problems can be obtained.

Will there be another attempt to convince Booneville voters to approve a bond issue?

Curlee was recently quoted as feeling there could be. "My guess is that school board officials will have to try to get a bond issued passed again."

When contacted by The Banner-Independent and asked if all the recent publicity made such an attempt more likely, Griffin admitted a bond issue has been the subject of discussion by the district school board. "They have discussed a bond issue and improvement of the facilities. But they haven't reached any decision. And they have not met since the recent publicity," he said.

Griffin declined to reveal his own personal feelings on a bond issue. He was quoted in the Warner article as feeling passage is a matter of educating the public to what is needed. "You go back to ground zero and try to inform people and talk to people and make them aware of needs, and try to come up with a different plan," he told Warner.

"We will continue to discuss, and plan and try to work with the community for the improvement of the facilities," Griffin told The Banner-Independent Monday.

"On the asbestos, I don't really have a feeling of where we're going; whether we're going to try to maintain it, or minimize it or just what," he said.

Griffin said so far parents have been understanding and cooperative. "We've had a few calling as to what we are going to do, and what they could do, what the danger is, etc. But I would have to say that our people have accepted this in a mature manner and have not panicked over it," he said.

Griffin said the city school board's first meeting since the Clarion-Ledger articles will be tonight.

Caucuses

group, and try to lure as many people to follow him as he can. In other words, you try to persuade them to follow you.

"So, you go off into a caucus. And you have to have 10 percent of the total number there in order to be counted," she said. "And the number of delegates selected at the precinct caucus are in proportion to the number of registered voters in the precinct."

Mrs. Franks explained that each precinct has one vote for every 500 voters, or fraction above 500 voters, to send to the county convention. For example: if a precinct had 750 registered voters, it would get two votes, one for the first 500, and one for the additional 250.

Four delegates will then be elected for each vote, with an equal representation of men and women and a racial proportion reflecting the racial composition of the precinct, Mrs. Franks said.

Delegates to the county convention whose vote will reflect the choice of those attending the caucus, and officers of the Democratic Executive Committee for the coming year are selected at the precinct caucuses. And the first step in the process that leads to the national convention and the choosing of the Democratic presidential candidate has been made.

What disturbs Mrs. Franks, and many others, is that this initial choice is being made by such a small percentage of the voters registered in the county. "I think there are approximately 500 voters in my precinct. And there are seldom more than a dozen at the caucus (a fraction over two percent of that precinct's voters)," she said.

"It bothers me that people really don't go out and support, or at least make an effort to support somebody, or say they are non-committed or whatever. And yet, if something is done wrong, they'll say, 'Hey! Look what they're doing up there.'"

"Well, whose fault is that?" Mrs. Franks said. "It comes right back down to the voter. And if the voter wants to have a voice in government, he needs to turn out and vote, and support his party at the precinct caucuses. They need to help choose the candidate they want."

"But I think a lot of the problem is that people are just not informed as to what the precinct caucuses are all about," she said. "I don't think they understand, really, the role they would play in the precinct caucus."

"It's the main step to choosing the president. It's just like a baby walking. That first step is right into their precinct. They'll have their voice right there. And it's going to lead clear on up to the national convention," said Marjorie Franks.

Crop Insurance Deadline Nears

March 31 is the last day to apply for crop insurance for corn, cotton, grain sorghum, and soybeans in Prentiss County, Miss., according to Joann C. Shelley, District Director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Crop insurance covers unavoidable loss of production resulting from adverse weather conditions, wildlife, earthquake, or fire.

"Three coverage levels (50, 65, or 75 percent) are available for insurance protection. Additionally, FCIC offers three optional price elections for valuing production lost or damaged," said Shelley.

"To assist producers, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will cost-share up to 30 percent of the cost of carrying insurance. For more information about the program, producers should contact an authorized crop insurance agent," said Shelley.

To select an agent, producers should check the list of agents available at their county ASCS office. Applications should be submitted to the sales agent no later than March 31.

Talk 'O The Town

Street Opinion

QUESTION: Do you think the minimum age for buying beer should be raised?

RITA COLLINS of Route 1, Bruce: "I don't think it should be raised. At 18 they consider a person old enough to vote and fight for his country. So they should be able to handle beer. I don't think raising the age would cut down on accidents because a lot that happen - the kids aren't even 18. They're buying it now so what's the use of raising the age limit?"

E.L. BARNES of North Fourth Street, Booneville: "Yes, I do think it should be raised - to at least 21. They would be more settled, more mature and able to handle it better."

KENNETH WILBURN of Marietta: "I'm against drinking beer but I doubt if raising the age would have much effect on the amount of beer consumed."

LINDA T. HALL of Rienzi: "They're going to get beer if they're 15, 18, or 21. But if the minimum age was raised I believe it would cut down on the drinking a lot."

JUDY STRICKLAND of Route 2, Baldwin: "I think the age should be raised. Maybe it will help cut down on some of the drinking and accidents that happen to teenagers. They would probably end up getting it regardless, even if the age is raised, but maybe they wouldn't be able to get it as easy."

T.A. COOK of Meadow Creek Road, Booneville: "I certainly do. I'm strictly against the minimum age being 18. I think it should be raised to 21. I know they can vote at 18, but they're still not really grown."

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

Staff Reporter

Sometimes being a photographer is dangerous.

Several weeks ago there was a story on "Real People" about a photographer in New York who made pictures on top of the highest buildings in New York City.

Hats off to this guy. I wonder what his secret is. The first time I climbed a tall building I would probably fall off - but this man went back time after time to make pictures from a different, high angle.

His body wasn't covered in bandages so he must be doing something right.

On the other hand, I don't climb buildings to get pictures and I still have problems. Case in point last Friday morning.

Occasionally I will overcome my fear of heights and climb on a chair to take a picture. This is usually as easy as pie. Until last Friday.

I was at the county extension office making a picture when I decided the picture would look better if I stood in a chair.

So I hop on the chair and before I could blink the chair folded - with me in it.

Most people would recognize a folding chair when they see one - but not me. (Actually this chair was disguised to look like a plain, ordinary chair).

Chairs can be mean. This particular chair folded on my leg. I have a bruised leg to prove this. I feel lucky to have escaped with a colorful bruise. Just think, I could have gotten a broken leg. Or even a broken arm. Then I couldn't type. Perhaps I should try taking a picture standing in a folding chair again.

And what about the people I was attempting to take a picture of? Patty Robinson and Susan Lambert assured me that they do things like that all the time. They're nice people, but I somehow find it hard to imagine either of them ever being caught in a folding chair.

And Betty Gifford was nice, too. She brought me a chair that wouldn't fold my leg up in it.

One of my friends told me that if I had stepped up on the front of the chair instead of the back I would have fallen forward and broken my neck. "At least you would have saved your leg," my friend said.

I wonder if Jettie Nunley ever had problems like this.

Legislative Report

House Passes Lottery Amendment... Maybe

By REP. BILLY MCCOY

The Mississippi Legislature approached the halfway mark of the 1984 session with continued deliberations on two issues that have concerned us throughout the session - state revenues and the responsibilities of county supervisors.

Late last week House members passed a proposal that backers say will pump $63 million into the ailing state treasury. That proposal will place on the November ballot a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to create a state-operated lottery.

Although the measure received a majority of the vote in the House, it did not get the two-thirds required for passage on the first vote. Backers held the bill on a motion to reconsider, and it did receive the necessary majority on the reconsideration vote. It was amended on the reconsideration vote to place all the net profits from the lottery in an Educational trust fund.

Since the amendment passed and changed the bill, it can now be voted on the third time and opponents used this House rule to hold it for another reconsideration vote. I voted against the bill and will continue to do so, as I do not believe this to be a proper way to finance state government.

A good report on state finances came last Tuesday. The state Tax Commission reported they had favorable tax collections during the month of February. These collections put the state back into the black with only $30,000 to spare. Despite the slim surplus, the tax experts cautioned legislators that they must either cut the state budget more or seek alternative revenue sources if the state is to continue operating with a surplus.

Financial problems also affected the county supervisors. The House Fees and Salaries Committee turned down a 35 percent pay raise request for the supervisors. The bill's opponents said the time was poor for pay raises, due to the state budget crisis and overall tight budget situations in most of our counties.

But supervisors got their wish on another matter. The House County Affairs Committee voted down a bill that would have created the county unit system, a proposal to consolidate county services countywide, including road maintenance. The practice presently occurs in four counties. Backers of the bill said it would increase the efficiency of county operations; but opponents continue to stress the right of the citizens and supervisors of each county to make the final decision as to the county unit system.

At the present time, a county is automatically under the county unit system and cannot receive any state funds for county roads unless the supervisors of that county vote themselves out of the unit system once every four years. Thus we now have in effect a modified local option for the unit system with the option being left to the local board.

A bill authorizing supervisors to maintain private driveways met defeat in both the House and Senate last week. A House County Affairs subcommittee chose not to even vote on the bill after reviewing it, while the state Senate sent a similar proposal back to its County Affairs Committee, a move that could kill the

The Ayes Have It Major Deadline For Senate This Week

By SENATOR JOHN WHITE

This week will see a major deadline for proposed legislation in the 1984 session. On Thursday, March 8, all general bills which are not acted upon favorably by committees and sent to the full Senate will effectively die. Thus, the majority of our time in the past few weeks has been spent in committee meetings with limited action by the full Senate in order to give us enough time to properly consider all bills introduced.

However, two bills - one regarding the medically needy program and one which would allow county supervisors to maintain access roads - did take up about an hour's debate each on the Senate floor.

The Senate voted 45-1 to delay implementation of the medically needy coverage under the Medicaid Program until July 1, 1986. It was due to go into effect this July. This program provides limited health care to pregnant women and to children when both parents are living at home and the family meets the financial requirements. Most Senators agreed that this program meets a need for many Mississippians, but the state is not financially able at this time to provide the estimated $4 million for implementation.

The Program is deemed cost-effective because it would bring in about $10 million in federal funds and good prenatal and childhood health care will reduce future health costs for these citizens, many of whom might end up as charity cases supported by taxpayers. The Senate was concerned about implementing a new Medicaid service at this time when the current Medicaid Program is in financial need. The Senate has voted twice to appropriate $4 million to maintain the current Medicaid services, but the House of Representatives has yet to pass the bill.

Sentiment on the bill to allow county supervisors to construct and maintain access roads was much more divided than the Medicaid bill. The proposal calls for supervisors, at the beginning of each new four-year term, to spread upon their minutes their policy regarding work on private access roads.

One bill of interest was Senate Bill 2086 which was debated in the Senate Judiciary Committee last Thursday. The bill, as amended by the committee, would raise the age to legally drink and possess beer and wine to age 19. Many felt that age 19 is a more realistic age than 18 which is allowed by the present law.

This bill was passed out of the Judiciary Committee and will come before the full Senate in short order.

I would like to hear your views on any proposed legislation. You may call me at 948-7321 or write to the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Miss. 39205. My home phone number is 365-2181.

Letters

Dear Editor,

I personally believe that the people of Booneville should know how their justice system works.

I was in court about two weeks ago for a crime I did not commit. The other two accused signed a sworn statement that I was not with them, and the lawyer gave it to the judge and the other two told the chief of police and the arresting officer that they had already taken me home before anything happened.

So the judge passed sentence on all three of us the same, a $150 fine. And the best part is I was not even there and I have witnesses to that effect.

But, just like the day of the trial, you could have robbed any place in Booneville, or run any red light or gone speeding through town, because I think all of the police officers were in the courtroom.

Now, I could appeal this decision. But it would cost me another $100 on top of the $100 I've already paid for a lawyer and, probably, another three months in court. So, is it worth it?

I can't say anything against the arresting officer because he stated in the courtroom that I was already home before he knew about the incident. He found out after he arrested me. The other two told him.

So, you tell me, would two other people sign a sworn statement saying that one of the three wasn't involved, and still know that they were in trouble? If the other person was there, would they have told the chief of police and the arresting officer that he wasn't to keep just one of them out of trouble?

So I shall end this by saying I think the judicial system in Booneville leaves a lot to be desired.

David W. Carpenter

Dear Editor:

When I read the Clarion-Ledger this morning, February 27, it was interesting to see the picture of the five-inch crack in the wall of the Booneville High School Auditorium.

My family and I lived in Booneville fourteen years. My three daughters graduated from Booneville High School. I pastored the First Baptist Church and my wife, Mary, was a registered nurse at the Booneville Hospital. So you see, we have some deep roots in Booneville.

While we lived there, I had always dreamed of a new facility for the high school; and, for that matter, new buildings for all the schools. Booneville could be a model for good education. It is located in the strategic part of our state. New buildings would enhance the education process, as well as give Booneville, Prentiss County, and Northeast Mississippi a good image.

I surely hope that the next bond issue will pass.

Sincerely yours,
A former resident,
Tom F. Rayburn
Florence, Miss.

That Yankee From Yonder

By Ed Woodward

Managing Editor

There was a time when soap operas resembled Harlequin Romances and were followed by pretty much the same audience. I remember my mother eagerly listening to the adventures of the Bauer family on The Guiding Light long before it was ever on TV, and sniffing over the trials and tribulations of Stella Dallas. I also remember that the old radio soaper Life Can Be Beautiful was constantly trying to prove that it couldn't. And Mary Noble, Backstage Wife just couldn't stay out of trouble while her husband, Larry, was doing matinees.

Pepper Young's Family was big enough to populate Tupelo. And, of course, there were also the more offbeat soaps like Ma Perkins, Just Plain Bill and Lorenzo Jones. I can even remember that Ma Perkins was sponsored by Oxydol and Just Plain Bill purveyed Anacin. Pepper & Family were brought to us by Camay Soap. I don't remember what Lorenzo Jones was selling, but his theme song was I'm Forever

Blowing Bubbles. (Angela, that's the trivia for the week.)

Television's first soap was Hawkins Falls. To my knowledge, the only radio soap that survived the transition to TV, and endured, was The Guiding Light. Another, named The Road of Life, lasted about one season. Then the lead character turned up as Chris Hughes on As the World Turns shortly after Road folded. As far as I know, he's still on the show, and may be the soap star with the longest employment record (He was a doctor on Road and a lawyer on World). - More trivia for Angela, since I don't think any of the original radio cast remains on The Guiding Light. In fact, I think the only member of that show's original TV cast is the lady who plays Burt Bauer.

But, why am I talking about soap operas, you ask; and to where is all this leading?

It's leading to Days of Our Lives, a currently popular soap, the fans of which seem to include both sexes and all ages. I got hooked on Days, myself, while I had my office at home. And, even though I no longer work at home, and seldom get to see the show, I have no trouble keeping up with the adventures of Roman and Marlena, Bo and Hope, Gene, Alex (the J.R. Ewing of daytime drama) and all the rest and their battles with the Salem Strangler, the Salem Slasher, the Salem Sprainer and whatever other future nut sets out to trim the show's cast after a presumably dead character resurrects (See. I told you I was up to date.).

Strangely enough, if either Norma, Angela or Shirley doesn't come back from lunch with a synopsis of the day's events on Days, I'll still find out what happened eventually from someone wandering in, from Sara if I happen to hear from her or from one of the high school or college boys who work here part-time.

But the person who usually brings in the report is the one you would least expect to be a soap fan. He's one of our sports writers; he's a football player; he stands well over six foot tall, weighs over 200 pounds; and he's 18. And he always knows what's going on on Days, even if one of the ladies missed it.

That's a claim the producers of Ma Perkins or Stella Dallas would never have been able to make. And I don't think it's true of The Young and the Restless or even General Hospital these days - especially since that rock singer quit playing Dr. Noah and Hassellhoff got his talking car.

Professional Educators To Have Convention

Mississippi Professional Educators will hold its annual state convention on March 12-13, at the Sheraton Regency Convention Center in Jackson.

A large group of educators from every area of the state is expected to be in attendance. The theme of the convention reflects the philosophy of the association: "A Positive Approach For All."

In addition to talks planned for the opening day by a number of out-of-state educators, Dr. Beverly Shaklee of Mississippi State University, a well-known authority on teaching the gifted-talented student, will speak on "Bridging the Gap: Gifted Student and the Regular Classroom."

Dr. Lamar Nesbit, Director of Elementary Personnel, Jackson Public Schools, will start off the second day with an address on "Merit Pay: Pros and Cons."

The keynote address of the second general session will be brought by Dr. Tom Meredith, Associate Director of Programs and Planning of the State College Board. His address will center on "Competent Teachers - The First Step to a New Partnership."

Mrs. Gloria Smith, librarian at Thrasher School, Prentiss County School System, will be installed as state president of MPE.

Those interested in education are invited to attend any or all sessions. There is no registration charge.

TVA To Institute 'Citizen Advocate' Position

On behalf of the TVA Board, TVA General Manager W.F. Willis has announced an extension of TVA's standing commitment to public participation with the creation of a new "Citizen Advocate" position.

"In recent years, TVA has had success in establishing lines of communication through the Citizen Action Office with organized citizens groups, including environmental groups, ratepayer groups, solar energy advocates, Chambers of Commerce and others," Willis said.

Willis said that whoever is selected to fill the Citizen Advocate position will be responsible for making contact with unorganized citizens in the Valley, and then working with the Citizen Action Office to make it possible for these people to be heard by the Board.

"We believe that TVA has come a long way in opening up its operations to input from Valley citizens," Willis said. "This action represents the crucial next step in our effort to be responsive to as many different citizens and consumers as we can reach."

Willis said that the Citizen Advocate will have direct access to the TVA Board and General Manager.

Besides locating and communicating with those people, the Citizen Advocate will attempt to assess how TVA programs can work better, within the boundaries of TVA's mandate, to address the problems of the men and women who feel they have no organized way of affecting TVA programs, Willis said.

South Central Bell has announced that it is now offering a volume control handset and portable communications terminal for the hearing and/or speech-impaired customer.

"We're pleased that we're once again able to offer these products to customers," explained Tom Bailey, South Central Bell District Manager.

With the divestiture of South Central Bell from AT&T on Jan. 1, 1984, the ownership of equipment being leased by customers was transferred to AT&T. In order to meet the needs of disabled customers, the Mississippi Public Service Commission approved South Central Bell's request for permission to once again offer the equipment to new customers on a leased basis.

Northeast Jazz Band To Present 'All That Jazz' Musical Program

All That Jazz, an evening of dining pleasure and musical entertainment, will be presented by the Northeast Junior College Jazz Band March 27 and 29 at 7:30 p.m., in the Mississippi Room of Frank Haney Union.

The third annual program presented by the Jazz Band will feature the legendary "Big Band" sounds of the thirties and forties, made famous by Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, Count Basie, Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman.

"If you are old enough to remember Helen O'Connell, Frank Sinatra, Lena Horne and the Andrews Sisters, you are in for a nostalgic treat," according to Naz Rhodes, the program director. Perhaps you will remember a first date, or a last one, an especially happy time, or a heartbreak or two.

"Music jogs the memory like nothing else can. Even if you were born a decade or two later, you cannot help but taste the mood and the tempo of the time this music represents," Rhodes added.

Following the dinner music, the floor show complete with vocalists and dancers will feature show tunes such as Sweet Georgia Brown, Moonglow, Stormy Weather, Polka Dots and Moonbeams and the ever popular Moonlight Serenade.

Because of the size of the room and the desire for a dinner club atmosphere, the seating capacity has been limited to 225 at each of the two performances. Therefore, no tickets will be sold at the door, but must be purchased in advance. The cost of the dinner and concert is $13 per person.

To make reservations, please mail check or money order, along with your request for the Tuesday or Thursday evening performance to Office of the President, The Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, Miss 38829. Telephone reservations cannot be accepted. The deadline for ticket reservation is March 22.

SAVED LIKE THE THIEF?????

Many honest and sincere people have expressed a desire to be saved like the thief on the cross. Some try to use the thief as an example of salvation without baptism. This indicates that a fundamental principle regarding the proper division of God's Word is being overlooked. (II Tim. 2:15). Whether the thief was baptized or not has nothing to do with our need for baptism under the New Testament plan of salvation.

While on earth, Christ had the power to use his authority in any way which pleased the Father. On many occasions, Christ said to individuals "thy sins be forgiven." (Matt. 9:2) Christ lived under the Old Law and took it out of the way at his death. (Col. 2:14, Rom. 6:14, Heb. 10:9-10) The thief lived and died before the New Testament became effective and was never subject to its conditions. We must keep in mind that we are living on this side of the cross of Christ and that the thief lived on the other side of the cross. God's requirements for salvation today are not the same as those outlined in the Old Testament.

It is impossible to be saved today like the thief on the cross because: (1) the thief lived under the Old Law while we are living under the New, (2) the Old Law has been replaced by a new law, (3) Christ is no longer here in the flesh, (4) man is not being crucified today as the thief, (5) the thief is not an example of New Testament conversion.

To be saved now we must: (1) believe, (Heb. 11:16) (2) repent (Acts 17:30, Luke 13:3), (3) confess Christ (Matt. 10:32-33, Rom. 10:10), (4) be baptized (Acts 2:38, Acts 22:16). This is the only plan that God has given for this age whereby one can be saved from his past sins. Follow Christ not a thief.

March 18-24 Is National Wildlife Week

It's hard to think of something that doesn't contain - or wasn't produced with - water.

"Water: We Can't Live Without It."

That theme is the conservation message of this year's National Wildlife Week, to be observed March 18 to 24, and sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation. The theme will be promoted throughout the year to make Americans more aware of the critical significance of life-sustaining water.

Honorary Chairman of the 47th Annual Wildlife Week is the popular Muppet, Kermit the Frog, the host of television's award-winning "The Muppet Show." One of Jim Henson's internationally acclaimed Muppet troupe, Kermit will speak on behalf of the National Wildlife Federation in its 1984 broadcast public service announcements that promote the conservation of the nation's dwindling supplies of fresh water.

More than 20 million students, teachers and conservationists are expected to participate in the Wildlife Week observance helping promote the importance of clean, life-giving water and the necessity of conserving critical water resources. Each year, schoolchildren learn about Wildlife Week with information provided by the National Wildlife Federation in specially prepared education kits.

"More than any other resource, water is basic to survival," said Jay D. Hair, NWF Executive Vice President. "Water is part of every living thing, and is just as vital to our industrial processes. Unfortunately, our useable freshwater supplies are threatened by contamination, mismanagement, and wastes. We hope to impress upon Americans this year the need to protect and conserve our precious water supplies."

The Earth is covered with 326 million cubic miles of water - of which only 3 percent is freshwater. Varieties of fish and wildlife depend on that fresh water for life: Freshwater wetlands support species from the bullfrog to the banded water snake, while rivers, streams, and lakes are precious habitat for moose, trout, turtles, raccoons, and salamanders, among others.

Just as dependent on fresh water are humans, whose bodies are 65 percent water. It has been estimated that as a nation we use as much as 700 billion gallons of water a day.

The scarce supply of fresh water isn't the only problem facing this resource. Each year, several billion tons of soil are washed into our waterways, making them unfit for use. Fresh water is also polluted by untreated sewage, industrial wastes, pesticides, fertilizers, and toxic chemicals.

While controlling water contaminants is crucial, conservation is the key to solving our nation's freshwater demands, says the National Wildlife Federation. For instance, the country can save millions of gallons a day by using more efficient irrigation systems and water-saving plumbing fixtures, and by repairing leaking water systems.

proposal for this session.

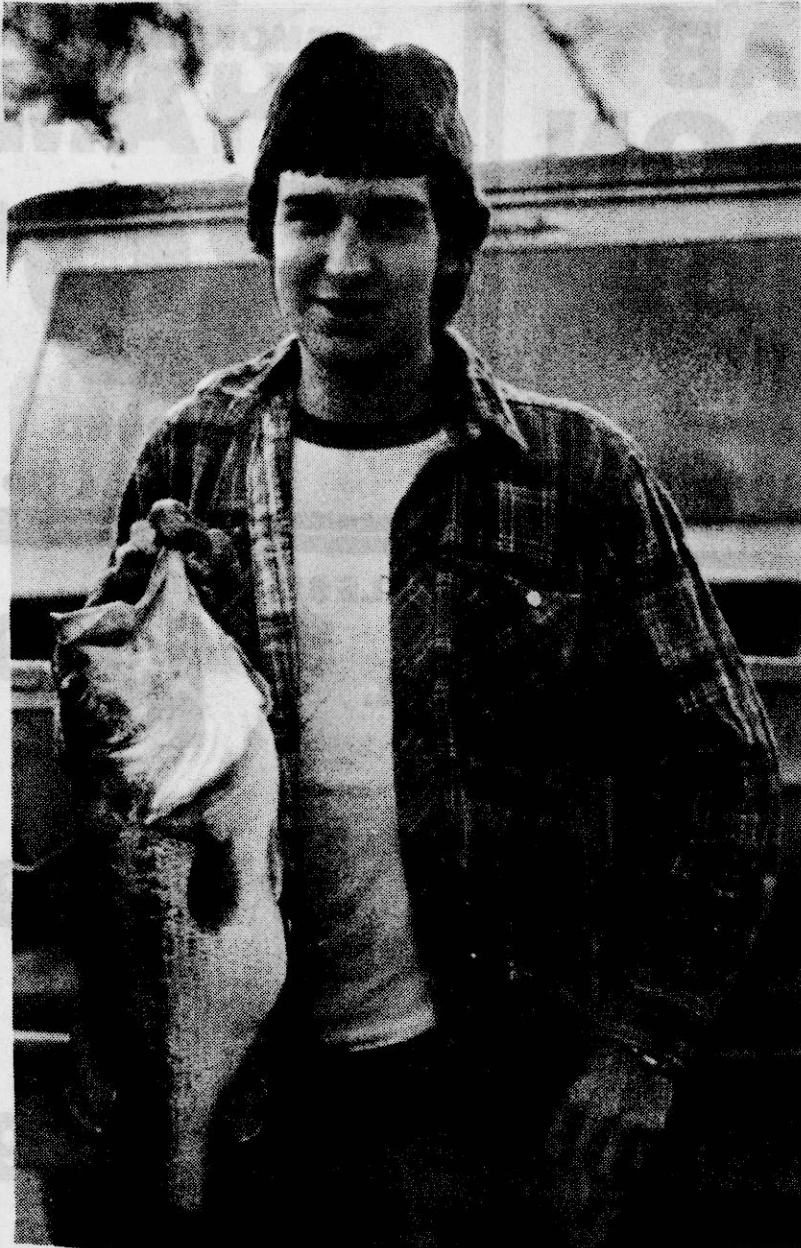

On another well-publicized issue, the House Apportionments and Elections Committee approved a bill that would end the practice of dual registration, which requires voters to register at both the county courthouse and city hall to vote in city and county elections. The legislation has the endorsement of state elected officials and elections personnel.

Legislators will be working next week to meet a March 8 deadline for committee action on general bills and constitutional amendments. Any legislation on those two categories that has not been approved by committees by that deadline will die in committee and not be considered this session. This deadline does not affect appropriations bills.

Also next week, the House is scheduled to approve a bill to extend the life of the Department of Corrections. The department, which came after a reorganization of the corrections operations of the state, will continue for six more years under legislation approved last week by the House Penitentiary Committee.

As action occurs on legislation that will have an impact on Northeast Mississippi, I will keep you informed. In the meantime, if you have any questions or recommendations for me, please do not hesitate to contact me at 948-7321.

WAL-MART NAMED STORE OF YEAR - Wal-Mart in Booneville was the winner of Store of the Year in Region I which consists of 77 stores in parts of Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama. The winner is selected by comparing sales, inventory control, store appearance along with several other items. This is the second time the Wal-Mart Store in Booneville has received this honor. "I think there is really two reasons why we have received this honor," Store Manager Garv Strickland said. "First, because of the support of all our customers. Without their support we would never been able to receive this. The second reason is because of the excellent associates that we have in this store. Booneville is the 8th store I have been to, and I have never worked with a greater group of associates. box.

Lambert explained to the board that, since there are no longer any gravel streets within the city, his department no longer needs the present equipment and would have more use for the tractor and finishing spreader box.

He said the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors has offered to pay $2,000 for the hot mix spreader, and he will also approach them on the possibility of purchasing the road grader.

Lambert said, if the supervisors did not wish to purchase the grader, he would have to advertise for bids on it.

Mayor Crabb told the board he had been contacted by the National Guard and asked if the city had five acres of land they could lease for the purpose of building a new $500,000 armory building.

Crabb also told the board that April will be Salute To Industry Month and the governor's office has asked for nominations for consideration for the Governor's Industry Awards for 1983.

The board voted to nominate both Colleague Inc. and H&W Industries for the award.

Prentiss County Development Association Executive Director Doug Mansell and the PCDA's new president, John Haynes, paid what Mansell called "a courtesy call" on the board.

Mansell said he and Haynes were visiting with all the city boards in the county to bring them up to date on PCDA plans, and to ask for their input.

He said the PCDA has invited representatives of the state research and development agency to meet with them to give recommendations on industrial park expansion.

Mansell said, in addition to expanding the existing parks in Booneville and Baldwin, the PCDA is also looking into the future possibility of additional industrial parks in Marietta and Jumpertown.

Mansell said the development association is also meeting with Tennessee Valley Authority representatives to discuss the possibility of building an agricultural center in Prentiss County. He said the center would have an arena for concerts and exhibitions and would also house county agricultural offices.

Mansell urged board members to attend both meetings.

Haynes told the board the PCDA is looking for "new ideas and positive activities."

He said the association is setting up a committee to meet with representatives of the new Gulf and Mississippi Railroad (the Illinois Central Gulf) to determine the five-year potential of the railroad.

Haynes said the PCDA also plans to work with the Bay Springs Recreation Area to see what can be done to free funds that are presently frozen and develop the recreation potential of the new lake.

He then asked the board for recommendations for possible projects for the PCDA, including parks, railroads and downtown development.

After hearing from Mansell and Haynes, the board voted to go into executive session to discuss the city layoffs.

ASCS News

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

In addition to price support loans, target price protection and other benefits, the 1984 acreage reduction programs protect farmers against weather risks.

If a natural disaster reduces crops, farmers who participate in the programs are still eligible for deficiency payments. If favorable weather causes a surplus, program participants can protect their incomes by using price support loans as marketing tools, in addition to the deficiency payments. Deficiency payments are made when market prices fall below target levels.

To take advantage of this protection, farmers must sign up between now and March 16 and comply with acreage reduction requirements of 30 percent for wheat, 10 percent for feed grains and extra long staple cotton, and 25 percent for upland cotton and rice. The wheat program contains an optional 10 to 20 percent land diversion with a payment-in-kind equal to 75 percent of the farm's program yield.

Unless participation in the wheat program is relatively high, supplies could reach record levels and wheat prices could decline. USDA officials expect this year's ending stocks of wheat to be about 1.4 billion bushels, down 8 percent from a year earlier but still considerably above a desirable level of 1 billion bushels.

Cropland removed from production by the programs to balance supply with demand will be placed in an acreage conservation reserve.

We encourage program participants to place their more erosive land in the conservation reserve and take advantage of the 90 percent cost-sharing in the ACP for establishing long-term cover crops or planting trees on these acres.

Farmers should apply for the acreage reduction programs early to avoid a last minute rush.

ASCS ANNOUNCES DEADLINE FOR LOANS ON SMALL GRAINS

Price support loans on 1983 wheat, oats and barley may be obtained until March 31. Loans on corn, sorghum, cotton and soybeans may be made until May 31.

The commodity loan program is used by many farmers as a tool for marketing their grain. It provides interim capital for operating costs while producers look for better markets. Market prices during harvest time are generally less than what they are during other times of the year, and price support loans give farmers an opportunity to take advantage of any possible increase in market prices at a later time.

County loan rates per bushel are: wheat $3.60, oats $1.49, corn $2.82, sorghum $4.52 cwt and soybeans $5.08. Regular loans have a nine-month maturity date with variable monthly interest rates.

Farmers must participate in the acreage reduction program to be eligible for price support loans. In addition to loans, farmers are eligible for target price payment (deficiency payments) and use of the grain reserve. Strong participation is necessary to help increase grain prices and continue balancing supply with demand.

A new grain reserve was established for 1983 wheat with a trigger release level of not less than $4.45 per bushel and annual storage payments to farmers of 26.5 cents per bushel. The crop may be placed in the reserve on maturity of regular price support loans.

Farmers interested in obtaining a loan on their 1983 small grains should contact the local ASCS office before the March 31 deadline.

Fescue Fungus Can Cut Weight Gain

By ED CALVERT
Soil Conservationist
USDA Soil Conservation Service
Booneville Field Office

An important topic for livestock producers is the subject of fescue fungus.

What is fescue fungus and what does it do? A four-year investigation at Auburn University has revealed that the apparent difference between high and low livestock production on fescue grass is a fungus found growing inside fescue plant tissue.

It appears that, when this fungus is present, animal gains are drastically reduced. Average results of steers fed over a four-year period showed a great loss of gain on infected grass.

In 240 animal days per acre on non-infected tall fescue pasture average beef gain was 426 pounds per acre, average daily gain was 1.83 pounds and average steer gain was 318 pounds.

But on fungus infected fescue with 311 animal days per acre the average beef gain was only 301 pounds per acre, average daily gain was 1.10 pounds and average steer gain was 185 pounds.

Beef fed fungus infested fescue gained an average 125 pounds per acre less than beef fed on non-infected fescue. Average daily gain was .73 pounds less and average steer gain was 133 pounds less.

For a cow-calf operation test results were equally discouraging. Average daily gain for cows was .40 pounds less on infected fescue and average gain per acre was 51 pounds less.

Average daily gain for calves was 2.65 pounds on non-infected grass and 1.92 pounds on infected grass, .73 pounds less. Average gain per acre for calves was 334 pounds on non-infected fescue and 241 pounds on infected, a 93 pound variance.

Research has shown conclusively that the fungus is transmitted through the seed. They have also shown that fungus present in stored seed is likely to die after one or two years, depending on storage conditions. However, the germination is reduced when the seed is stored for this period of time.

It was also determined that, if you have a fungus-free pasture next to a fungus infected field, the fungus will not move into the fungus-free pasture. This indicates that, once the fungus is eliminated from an area, it will remain that way for a long period of time.

Individuals can now have their grass tested for this fungus by sending a sample to: State Seed Testing Lab, Mississippi State University, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762.

Samples are taken as follows: (1) Take 10-12 samples per pasture. (2) The sample should consist of a single tiller (stem) from ground level to about two inches high. No roots or leaves are needed. (3) Wrap in moist paper towels, put in a plastic bag and mail.

As time allows, each landowner should have his grass tested. However, since fungus-free seed are not readily available, we do not recommend re-establishment at this time. We will make recommendations on re-establishment at a later date.

If you have any further question, please call the Soil Conservation Service at 728-3544.

Correct Soil Conservation Practices Needed

By DON JONES
Soil Conservation Technician
Booneville Field Office

This is the time of year to start thinking about installing conservation practices on your farm. If started now the practices could be installed before planting time.

Some of the areas with which assistance is available are location of proper pond sites, layout and design of levees and also soil types. Another area would be location of terraces, pipe outlets, diversions, disposal lagoons for dairy farm and hog operations, minimum tillage or no-till farming, and fish pond management. Most of these practices can be installed with cost-share from the ASCS office. The rate of cost-share could be as high as 75 percent of cost.

The Soil Conservation Service can also develop with you a conservation farm plan. This plan would consist of a map showing farm boundary lines. It would also show individual fields that are in pasture, cropland and/or woodland, also the number of acres that are in each field.

The plan would furnish information on proper fertilization rates for pasture to obtain the most grass for cattle, proper cropland treatments to help control erosion of valuable topsoil. If you have woodland, the plan would give you information on proper time to harvest your timber.

All of these services are available free of charge from the Soil Conservation Service. Anyone who has a question about a conservation problem or service offered by the Soil Conservation Service please feel free to call 728-3544 or come by our office at 107 College St.

By ROBERT THORNTON
County Forester

Forest fire activity across a large portion of Mississippi increased sharply during the weekend prompting issuance of a public alert by State Forester Sid Moss.

Moss said 223 wildfires that burned 5,540 acres were suppressed on Sunday - up from the 83 fires that burned 1,120 acres on Saturday.

Moss noted that 81 of the Sunday fires occurred in the Commission's Southeast District, historically plagued with the State's biggest wildfire problem.

Seven of a total of ten Sunday wildfires reaching more than 100 acres in size were reported in that same Southeastern area of the State. Two large fires were also reported from Newton County and another occurred in Jones County.

"We are definitely into the period when we have most of our wildfires each year in Mississippi," Moss warned. "We need to increase public awareness of the fire danger and enlist everyone's help in holding down on the number of destructive burns by being more careful about outdoor burning on these dry, windy days. People start these dangerous fires -- people can stop them."

Mississippi's wildfire season, with periodic spells of extreme high fire danger due to low rainfall and dry, windy cold front passages, is expected to last until about late April, according to the Forestry Commission.

your local county forester, Robert Thornton at 728-6835 or in case of fire 728-4214 Jumpertown Fire Tower.

FmHA To Continue Normal Loan Servicing

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration has notified its field offices to continue normal farm loan servicing under procedures that were distributed to local offices in December.

FmHA Administrator Charles W. Shuman issued the instructions as a result of a court order in Coleman versus Block, a federal court suit in Bismark, N.D. U.S. District Court Judge Bruce Van Sickle issued the permanent injunction Feb. 17 prohibiting the Farmers Home Administration from foreclosing or taking other adverse action without prior written notice to the borrowers of their rights and options under the circumstances.

However, the judicial order will have little effect on Farmers Home operations as new procedures already had been adopted under a temporary injunction of the court.

"We will continue to work with farmers on a fair and businesslike basis, and we will continue to use all available options open to us to help farmers whose operations are feasible," he said.

Farmers Home Administration farm borrowers must continue to live up to their agreements with the agency, a credit arm of USDA,

Shuman said. "Nothing in the North Dakota court order relieves borrowers of their loan repayment responsibilities."

Evening Of Folk & Country Music On ETV

It's an evening of country music topped off with an hour-long documentary on the legendary folk stylizations of Woody Guthrie on Saturday, March 10, on Mississippi Educational Television.

Dottie West and Floyd Cramer belt out some home-grown Nashville melodies as the headliners on "Austin City Limits" at 8, followed with a special "Festival '84" presentation, "The Best of Live from the Grand Ole Opry," at 9.

The Opry special will feature, among others, Bill Monroe, Barbara Mandrell, Minnie Pearl, Ernest Tubb, Roy Acuff, Grandpa Jones, Porter Wagoner and Ronnie Milsap.

Beginning at approximately 10:10, another "Festival '84" presentation, "Woody Guthrie: Hard Travelin'," celebrates the unforgettable folksinger and his career of writing songs and books and riding the boxcars. Hosted by his son Arlo Guthrie, the program also features Joan Baez, Judy Collins, Pete Seeger, Hoyt Axton, Ramblin' Jack Elliott, Ronnie Gilbert, Holly Near, Sonny Terry and Rose Maddox.

"Festival '84" is a period of special programming designed to increase viewer awareness of public television.

Wheeler Takes Third Place In State Class B

By SCOTT McKINNEY
Sports Writer

Bentonla's Roderick Barnes penetrated the lane and hit a short jump shot with :04 seconds left in overtime last Thursday to lift the Wolves past the Wheeler Eagles 80-78.

Barnes, who was already committed to Ole Miss, scored 30 points in leading Bentonla to the victory. Bentonla dropped Hickory Flat in the championship game later in the week to claim the Class B crown.

Wheeler had led by as many as eight points during the game, but couldn't hang on for the victory. The Eagles finished the year at a very impressive 33-7.

Up 72-70 with 1:05 to play in regulation, Wheeler had a chance to clinch the win at the free throw line. But the Eagles hit a cold streak and couldn't snare the victory. Wheeler apparently had won the contest when Tony Tate hit a 35-foot jump shot at the buzzer. But the officials ruled otherwise.

Mike Chandler led the Eagles with 26 as Willie Miller hit for 17 against Bentonla.

The Eagles did, however, manage to pick up one victory in state tourney play. Wheeler trounced Mt. Olive 84-61 in the opening round of the tournament.

Wheeler took a 21-4 lead on a shot by Willie Miller with 2:17 to play in the opening period, only to see the Pirates close the gap to eight before the period. Wheeler managed a 25-13 lead after one period of play.

Mt. Olive closed the gap to seven in the second period, but the Eagles, behind Chandler, Miller and Clay Richey, opened up to a 45-32 half-time lead.

Mt. Olive scored the first six points of the second half to again come within seven, but Wheeler took control and pulled away, once leading by as much as 26-83-56--on a slam dunk by Miller with 1:39 remaining before settling for the final 23-point margin.

Sophomores Chandler, Miller and Richey paced the Wheeler attack with 34, 21, and 14 respectively.

Coach Sam Richey said he was proud of his kids for playing so well. Also, he gave credit to Barnes of Bentonla in getting the Eagles out of their game plan.

"He's an outstanding player," Richey said of Barnes.

"My boy's got to playing up-tight," he added. "They had us all spread out."

Wheeler finished in third place in the state tournament.

Lady Tigers Lose To EMJC

By SCOTT McKINNEY
Sports Writer

Bridget Winston scored 26 points, and Gloria Wright added 11 to give the East Mississippi Junior College women's team a 72-70 basketball victory over the Lady Tigers of Northeast and the championship of the Women's Junior College Tournament Thursday night.

East Mississippi led at the half 38-31, but the Lady Tigers, who got into the tourney by upsetting Northwest's women, were able to work their way back into the game.

The lead changed hands numerous times in the second half.

However, East Mississippi took the lead late in the game and held onto it.

Northeast was led by Ruby Tyes of Baldwin with 20. Vanessa Groves of Booneville added 15, Amy Wheat, 14, and Diane Harris, also of Booneville chipped in with 11.

NEMJC Men In Region 23 Tourney

80-78 OT Loss To Bentonla

Eagles Fall Two Points Short Of Championship Playoff Berth

By GREG SHOOK
Sports Writer

For the Wheeler Eagles it was all over but the shouting when the buzzer went off Friday night in the Jackson Coliseum. They were two points short of a championship playoff berth, falling to Bentonla, the number one team out of the south half. Bentonla took a 80-78 victory in overtime to send Wheeler home to try again next year.

Earlier, Wheeler had won their first round in the state playoffs, defeating the Mount Olive Pirates (No.3 South) in an 84-61 blow out. The Eagles jumped out to a quick 21-4 lead in the first half to set the pace of the game.

Clay Richey was credited with 10 of the 21 points in the first five minutes of the game for the Eagles. Mount Olive then came back to close the gap at the half 45-32.

In the third quarter, Mount Olive pulled within seven but just could not find the connection to take the lead. Wheeler then hit 12 points in a row to take a 57-38 lead at the end of the third quarter. No rally was made for the Pirates as the Eagles pulled further away.

Wheeler high scorers were Mike Chandler with 34 points, Willie Miller, 21, and Clay Richey, rounding the scoring out with 14. For Mount Olive, Tommy Durr lead the Pirates with 31 points to the final tally.

In their final game, Wheeler led against Bentonla 72-70 with 1:50 left in the game and had six chances to put the game away. William Lowery could only hit two out of six free throws in the closing 13 seconds to give Wheeler a 74-72 lead. Bentonla then came down the floor with time running out, passed the ball to Roderick Barnes and put up a 13-foot jump shot for a 74-74 tie.

Time had run off the clock but officials ruled Bentonla had called time out with 0:03 seconds on the clock. Wheeler threw the ball in bounds at the far end of the floor to Tony Tate. Tate threw a 32-foot jump shot but the officials ruled the ball was not released before the buzzer.

In overtime, Bentonla took a 76-74 lead with 2:32 left in the game. But Todd Swinney came right back for the Eagles, tying the score at 76 all. In the remaining time, both teams traded buckets putting the score at a 78-78 deadlock.

Wheeler controlled the ball with 18 seconds left in overtime, but Mike Chandler lost the ball to Bentonla's Roderick Barnes at 0:10. Barnes started to the other end of the floor, but was fouled and went down the floor to shoot a one on one for Bentonla. Barnes missed his first shot, giving Todd Swinney the rebound. Bentonla was given the ball back on a walking violation by Swinney and finally made the two points needed to win.

High scorers for Wheeler were Mike Chandler with 26 points and Willie Miller with 17. For Bentonla, it was Roderick Barnes with 30 points, Willie Harris 20 and Tony Harris with 16.

Tigers & Lady Tigers After Region 23 Wins To Top Off Seasons

The Northeast Junior College Tigers and Lady Tigers will attempt to wrap up two successful seasons with more wins in Region 23 play this week.

The Tigers, 23-5, recently highlighted their season with the North Division Championship win over Northwest. The Lady Tigers, having amassed a 20-7 mark, lost a heart-breaker to East Mississippi last week, falling just three points short of a state championship.

The Lady Tigers got into the championship game with a win over Copiah Lincoln in the first round, but the Lady Lions of EMJC, who had beaten Northeast in three previous outings, took the game 72-70.

Ruby Tyes led Northeast scorers with 20, Vanessa Groves added 15, Amy Wheat had 14, and Dianne Harris, who was heavily guarded through the night, managed to force in 11.

Despite the loss, the Lady Tigers have still earned the chance to up their record in the Region 23

Tourney at Mississippi College in Clinton March 7-8.

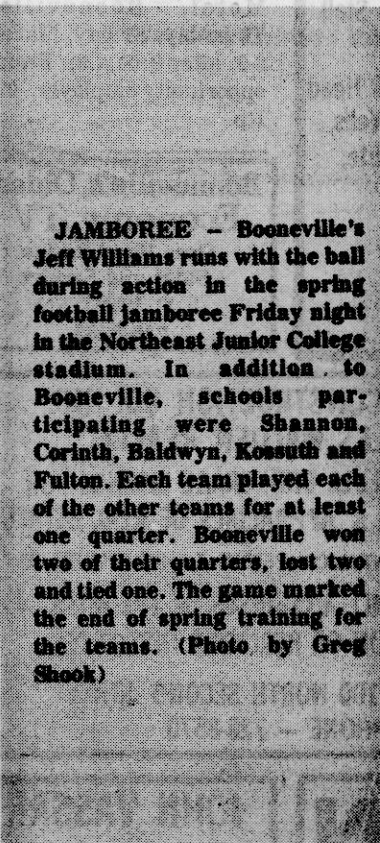

"As far as I'm concerned, we were lucky to be in the State finals," Coach Richey Ford said. "Our women played with real pride and they wanted to win. I really believe they did the best job they could, just as they have all year."

The Tigers, under coach Richard Mathis, will go to Tulane University to face Delgado Junior College, a Louisiana team. The State championship eluded Northeast when they were beaten by Gulf Coast Junior College 89-75 at Gulf Coast last week.

In that game, Ronnie Elam led the Tigers with 19, while Marlon McGaughy and Terry Ball had 15 each. A potent GCJC defense shut down scoring by Calvin Fields, who was only able to add four for the night.

The Tigers will play the first round of the Regional Tournament Thursday, March 8 at 8 p.m. in Tulane's Gymnasium.

JAMBOREE - Booneville's Jeff Williams runs with the ball during action in the spring football jamboree Friday night in the Northeast Junior College stadium. In addition to Booneville, schools participating were Shannon, Corinth, Baldwin, Kosuth and Fulton. Each team played each of the other teams for at least one quarter. Booneville won two of their quarters, lost two and tied one. The game marked the end of spring training for the teams. (Photo by Greg Shook)

Bear Creek Float Trip Resumes March 24 At Tishomingo Park

The Bear Creek float trip at Tishomingo State Park will resume on Saturday, March 24. Tishomingo is the only state park with a float trip.

Two trips daily are offered, at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Reservations are suggested, and canoeists are asked to be at the park office 30 minutes before departure. The park reserves the right to cancel a scheduled trip due to inclement weather or extreme fluctuations in the water level on Bear Creek.

Everything needed for the trip if furnished by the park: canoe, paddles, life jackets, and transportation. Total cost of the trip is $10 a canoe, limit two to a canoe.

The eight mile float passes through some of the most beautiful scenery in Mississippi. Bear Creek at times flows under a canopy of foliage; at other times the creek runs through rock outcroppings and occasional rapids that provide an extra thrill to the trip.

Tishomingo State Park is located three miles north of Dennis, off Miss. 25. For reservations call the park at 438-6914.

Mr. JIMMY WING, owner and operator of J-J-W FARMS, Inc., is reducing his field crop operation from 2,800 acres down to 800 acres due to his other investment interests including the chain of "Mrs. DELBE'S BOARDING HOUSE RESTAURANTS", some of which are located in Tupelo, Memphis and Nashville with others planned; try them when you're in one of these cities. Since there are several other farmers in the Tupelo area who have said they had some mighty good equipment to sell, too, this will be an "OPEN SALE" with outside consignments accepted. THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

Dear Lord. . . Where's The Beef? . . . Matt. 28:19,20

By Charles L. Potts

T.V. ads often impress us more than the program we watch. The competition between the namburger giants has two humorous settings . . . "Where's the beef?" Many folks are asking such questions about the church today. What is the main business of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ? There is so much activity going on in our churches today . . . plans, programs, and methods. A minister friend recently told of going to find those "moving boxes" . . . found himself in a Chinese businessman's store . . . a friend of the minister. He told the minister to go back and help himself to the empty boxes. Some boxes had come from China and the writing on side of the box with an arrow stated: "If arrow up wrong side shows." Could it be that we have emphasized that which Christ had not . . . thus . . . the wrong side of the Church is showing. What is that wrong side? First, our main business is not political reform. On one occasion a man came to him and said, "Master, speak to my brother that he divide the inheritance with me." He replied, "Who made me a judge over you?" It was not his primary task to change the unfair inheritance laws. Also when they sought to trap Jesus by asking him if they should pay tribute to Caesar, that is, to the Roman government. His famous reply was "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's." He refused to be drawn into any political controversy with the Roman government. His main business was not political reform . . .

and yet . . . the reformers of the centuries have gone forth in His name and under His banner and have wrought wonders. Second, neither is the main business of the church social uplift. Jesus built no hospitals, orphanages, homes for the aged...and yet social uplift has followed Him around the world. He has been the dynamic of the great social uplift movements of the world...from His day to ours. Third, the main business of the Church is not education . . . but more schools, colleges, universities have been founded on his influence than time has to enumerate. Jesus never wrote a book . . . but his disciples have written too many. He never painted a picture, yet many of the masterpieces of the world's famous artists have used Him, His work, and His disciples as their subjects. But His main business was not education. "Where's the beef?" Our text gives us the answer to the "beef" of the church in the world...the great commission in Matthew 28:19,20: "Go yetherefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world, amen." Let's turn the right side up...find the "beef" by winning men to Christ and magnifying the Grace of God in the individual heart and life.

Gandhi's Grandson To Speak At Ole Miss

He is the grandson of the man who shattered British rule in India without an army, a man whose principle of non-violence guided the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. in his leadership of the civil rights movement in the American South.

Arun Gandhi is coming to Mississippi, where he will talk about the legacy of his famous grandfather, Mahatma Gandhi. He will speak Wednesday, March 14 at The University of Mississippi's Center for the Study of Southern Culture. The public is invited to the noon presentation, which is part of the brown bag lunch series sponsored by the center.

Gandhi, 49, lives in Bombay, India, with his wife Sunanda. He was a journalist for 23 years with The Indian Times newspaper in Bombay. His 1983 book, "The Moraji Papers," a study of Indian politics, is on the best seller list in his home country.

Gandhi will be lecturing on the life and contributions of his grandfather, apartheid in South Africa, the caste system in India, parallels between the struggles for civil rights in India and the American South, and on non-violence and social change.

While Gandhi is not an ascetic like his grandfather, he tries to emulate him in many ways, said Mrs. Robert Morrison of Vicksburg, who is coordinating Ghandi's 10-day two-state lecture swing. She said Gandhi and his wife are both actively involved in work to ease the plight of the harijans, or untouchables, a cause close to the heart of Mahatma Gandhi.

Booneville High School
Journalism Student

BHS STUDENTS demonstrate pride and respect for their school. Many win honors and deserve to be praised. They strive to do the best at anything placed before them.

Nan Lawrence, a junior at BHS, plays the flute with pride and joy. She entered the Mississippi Lion's Band Contest on Feb. 22. Tryouts meant a lot of practice and patience.

Out of 100 flute players, Nan received honorable mention and represented BHS well. She works hard to be the best and she proved herself to be talented. The future promises many opportunities for Nan.

ON FEB. 23, members of BHS' Space Club, Anchor Club, and FHA Club attended the Oak Ridge Boys concert in Starkville. These students gave a warm welcome to the singers and let the people at the Mississippi State University coliseum know they stood for quality. After being welcomed by the Oak Ridge Boys, the students were really fired-up and remained that way until the next day.

Friday, Feb. 24, FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America)

members journeyed to Senatobia. Mrs. Williams, typing teacher, accompanied them.

There, the students participated in the annual Northern District Leadership Conference. Jimmy Torrence entered the public speaking contest, receiving the recognition of placing in the top five. April 5-6 he will attempt to win the same contest in the State Leadership Conference in Jackson.

Other FBLA members entered different categories and showed their talents for BHS, also.

CLASS RINGS!!! A class ring, purchased by BHS sophomores, shows the year of graduation and the school. Expecting to cherish this ring forever, a student must make a careful decision on what he wishes his ring to be.

Ordering from Balfour seems to be a tradition for some. Others wish to purchase their rings at local businesses and organizations.

THE 35TH ANNUAL American High School Mathematics Examination, held Feb. 28 in the BHS library, contained a booklet of problems. Juniors and seniors took 90 minutes to answer the questions.

The results of this multiple choice test are intended to identify those students who possess unusual mathematical ability.

A second annual test, called the American Invitational Mathematics Examination, is taken by students who score 95 or above on the AHSME. Invitations to participate in the USA Mathematical Olympiad in May comes from the AIME results.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 29, two Booneville eighth grade students -- Beth Caver and Amanda Murphy -- entered the Northeast Junior College's math tournament. Beth returned with a beautiful trophy and a smile on her face. The girls' performance exemplified their mathematical talents.

On March 2, a football jamboree shot into action. Many teams involved showed great ability and progress.

At 5:30 p.m., the first kickoff started the games. Booneville, Kossuth, Baldwin, Corinth and Houka made the games exciting. Players encouraged everyone to attend and support their teams at the jamboree in the NEMJC stadium.

THE BHS ANNUAL Science Fair took place Monday, March 5. Many of the projects displayed required a lot of time and hard work from the students who built them.

However, this year's projects seemed to hold only part of the interest of parents and students. The BHS journalism class also sponsored a silent auction. Items donated by businesses in Booneville, Baldwin, and Tupelo drew a crowd.

In the auction, an individual took time to decide on an item on which he wished to bid. Secretly, he wrote his bid on a piece of paper. After all the bids were placed in a box, the journalism staff chose the highest bid on each item and declared a winner.

This first attempt by the journalism staff at a silent auction appeared to be successful.

AS SPRING HOLIDAYS draw near, students get more excited each day. The only problem appears to be the third nine-weeks' tests.

Exams occur March 7, 8 and 9. Students taking these exams look forward to spring holidays, March 12-16.

Spring break gives a student the chance to rest and just enjoy some plain old 'fun.'

Dental Seminar This Weekend At Northeast

Northeast Mississippi Junior College will be the setting this weekend, Friday and Saturday, for a seminar on Oral Pathology conducted by Dr. James E. Turner, chairman of the oral pathology department at the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry.

In a time when Science is making tremendous strides and some areas of medicine are progressing faster than the presses can print updated texts, conscientious practitioners are utilizing specialized seminars in order to keep abreast of the times and offer their patients the newest information they can, especially in cancer diagnosis.

According to the American Cancer Society, over 400,000 Americans die of cancer annually, making cancer the second leading cause of death in the United States. Oral Cancer accounts for approximately 10,000 deaths annually. Most systemic diseases also have oral manifestations.

This course will provide the doctor and office personnel with current information concerning the nature, recognition, and management of lesions likely to be encountered in the oral cavity, a systematic procedure for examination of the oral cavity and surrounding structures, and a review of newly recognized conditions such as AIDS and Hepatitis B.

Some professions require continuing education of their members, some do not. Physicians and dentists are not required to attend continuing education courses in order to maintain a license to practice. However, most doctors, in order to give the most accurate diagnoses and the newest proven methods of treatment, are voluntarily seeking as much additional current information as they can find.

It is hoped that interest from the professional community will be great enough so that a variety of seminars can be arranged and offered on a regular basis in order to serve Northeast Mississippi.

According to Dr. Charles D. Johnson, D.D.S., oral pathology instructor at Northeast, "Of the courses I have taken Dr. Turner's seminar is one of the best I have seen, and I feel sure that all practitioners would profit from taking it."

"Also we require all the dental hygiene students at Northeast to attend this seminar. We feel that this course will be of great help in preparing the graduates of the hygiene program to take the state boards to be licensed to practice dental hygiene," Dr. Johnson said.
