Roundup

Robbery And Arson

A Prentiss County man, out of town overnight, came home Sunday to find his house trailer had apparently been burglarized and then burned.

Sheriff W.V. Horn said Tuesday that Larry V. Winstead discovered the burned remains of his house trailer Sunday morning. The trailer was located west of the Mt. Nebo Church, he said.

"The trailer was apparently broken into and several items stolen, including a TV and a gun and the receiving unit of a TV disc system," the sheriff said.

The remains of these items were not discovered in the rubble of the house trailer, Horn added.

The sheriff reported the incident to the state Fire Marshall's office and an investigator inspected the site Monday. "The trailer was apparently burned on purpose," Horn said.

The incident was reported to the sheriff's office around 7:30-8 a.m. Sunday. "It burned probably around 4 a.m.," Horn said.

The trailer was reportedly a total loss. Horn said the incident is still under investigation by both the sheriff's department and the fire marshall's office.

Begins Sentence

Former Northeast Mississippi Planning and Development District Executive Director Charles Spearman has begun serving his sentence at the federal prison at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala.

Spearman, who pleaded guilty to one count of mail fraud in U.S. District Court in February, was sentenced to serve six months in the minimum security facility that once housed Watergate conspirators John Mitchell and Charles Colson and has been described as a "country club" prison.

In addition to the six-month sentence handed down by U.S. District Judge L.T. Senter, Spearman was ordered to repay the more than $8,900 he defrauded the NMPDD of and serve three years probation.

He was convicted of entering into a bogus duplicating services scheme with NEMJC administrative assistant James Rhodes and submitting false travel vouchers for non-existent and inflated expenses to the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Despite his implication in a statement signed by Spearman, no charges have yet been filed against Rhodes.

Only Two FD Layoffs

According to Booneville Fire Chief Frank Fleming, only two city firefighters will be laid off.

It had originally been reported that there would be three men laid off from the fire department. But Fleming said he was able to retain one man.

The two firefighters to be laid off are Tommy Stephens and Barry Lane.

Despite reports that the fire department work schedule would be changed, with firefighters required to work 24 hour shifts, Fleming said firemen will continue to work on the present schedule.

National Guard May Build New Armory

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Booneville may have a new National Guard armory if land for its construction can be found, according to Sergeant First Class Gary Chittom, senior training NCO for the local guard unit.

"First we have to find some land, something we can lease from the city or the county...or, as far as that goes, if a private individual has land he will lease to us, we can use it," Sgt. Chittom said.

He said five acres that can be leased for 99 years is needed. "After that time, it would revert back to the original owner. In fact, when we vacate our present building, it reverts back to Northeast Junior College," he said.

"For a long time, people thought this land belonged to the city. But we got to checking the records and found it belongs to Northeast," Sgt. Chittom said.

Sgt. Chittom said the local unit was recently authorized to search for land for a new 100 man armory.

"We're about second or third on the list in the state," he said.

"The Corinth armory was built the same year as this one, 1947, and they are getting a new one now," Sgt. Chittom said. "They haven't moved in yet. But they're building it right now, about a $750,000 building...a real nice addition to the community."

Sgt. Chittom said no plans can actually be officially made for a new Booneville armory until the land has been acquired. "They'll do absolutely nothing until we secure that piece of property," he said.

"Once we secure that, and the legal department in the military department down in Jackson checks it out and gets the deed and everything, then they'll go forward from there."

Sgt. Chittom admitted the preliminary process could take up to five years, once the land has been acquired. "But, to get that far ahead, you've got to start now," he said.

Sgt. Chittom said the new armory would cost "in the neighborhood of $500,000," and would be at least twice the size of the present building. "That's what it cost to build the last one that was the size of the one we would get...a 100 man armory," he said.

Hardy "Red" Prentiss, retired unit administrator for the Booneville National Guard unit, said he is approaching various organizations on behalf of the guard in an attempt to locate the needed land.

Ten men were sentenced for criminal charges Monday by Circuit Court Judge Neal Biggers.

The men were originally scheduled to have been sentenced Feb. 24, while Prentiss County Circuit Court was in session. However, the sentencing was postponed because a murder trial was in session.

Barron Lee McKinney was sentenced to four years in prison for two counts of burglary and larceny of a dwelling.

Danny Joe Spencer was sentenced to four years in prison for burglary and larceny. Spencer was to be given credit for the time he had already served in jail.

Michael White was sentenced to serve a prison term of five years for burglary and larceny.

Danny Hamm was sentenced to a six year prison term for two counts of burglary and larceny.

James Frank Taylor was given a three year suspended prison sentence and placed on three years

New County Garbage Pickup System Will Begin April 1

By ANGELA SMITH
Staff Reporter

A house-to-house garbage pick-up will begin in Prentiss County April 1, according to the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors.

A garbage pick-up schedule will be announced next week, Davis said.

The green garbage dumpsters located throughout the county will no longer be used after the house-to-house garbage pick-up begins, said J.P. Davis, president of the board of supervisors.

The garbage dumpsters are being replaced because people misused them by burning them and they are expensive to replace, the supervisors said.

Also, the board of supervisors checked with other counties and were advised that a house-to-house garbage pick-up system worked better, Davis said. Lee County uses such a system and it seems to be working well there, he said.

"A lot of thought went into this," Davis said. "We think this will be a more economical way of picking up garbage."

The county has purchased two new garbage trucks and one used truck at a cost of about $54,100.

Second District Supervisor Jimmy Moore noted that two dumpster trucks which were used to unload the dumpsters were worn out and would have been expensive to replace. "We could buy two new trucks for one of the Dempsey dumpster trucks."

Also, the supervisors noted, out of between 150-200 garbage dumpsters located in the county, about 50 percent of them are rotted or ruined. "It will be cheaper to change the system than to renovate it," Moore said.

Prentiss County has been using the dumpsters for about seven years. No dumpsters will remain in the county. They will be sold to industries and private individuals, Davis said. Those interested in purchasing the dumpsters should contact the board of supervisors, they said.

County residents will be expected to put their garbage in bags at the end of their driveway. The bags will be picked up weekly -- possibly twice a week after the new garbage pick-up system gets underway, Davis said.

Only household garbage will be picked up. However, if household owners have other garbage, such as old furniture, they can bring it to the county landfill where it will be buried at no cost, Davis said.

Some people have expressed concern to the supervisors that once the new system is implemented

Economic Profile

Manufacturing Employs Most In County

By KEN CHRISTIAN
Publisher

(NOTE: This is the second in a series of stories based on an economic assessment of Prentiss County, conducted by Richard Walker, president of Walker & Associates of Nashville, Tenn. Walker was commissioned by Baptist Memorial Hospital to perform the assessment.)

With some minor exceptions, economic analyst Richard Walker has found Prentiss County's population and labor statistics to more or less reflect those of the state as a whole.

It does appear, however, that both Prentiss County and Mississippi may have some well paid government officials.

Walker's research shows that only 3.3 percent of the people in Prentiss County are employed in "government" jobs. However, this 3.3 percent earn 20.3 percent of the total personal income in the county. This is something which "cannot be explained by this analyst," Walker says, adding that "a similarly strange distribution appears in the 1980 state figures for the 'government' sector."

On the other hand, 19.7 percent of the jobs in the county are in the "services" sector. But these jobs account for only 12.1 percent of the total county personal income. (Walker does not specify what jobs are included in the 'services' sector.)

At 41.8 percent, manufacturing accounts for the largest number of jobs in Prentiss County, more than twice the next most significant sector, which is "services."

However, manufacturing employment, which has declined from 44.6 percent in 1970, accounts for 38.5 percent of the total county income.

Agricultural employment also declined during the 70's, from 7 percent in 1970 to 2.8 percent in 1980.

Walker says manufacturing "is overwhelmingly more important to Prentiss County than it is to the state -- 41.8 percent vs. 24.6 percent."

The "services" sector in the county is below that of the state as a whole, 19.7 percent compared to 27 percent.

On the plus side, the percentage of those on the poverty level is less in Prentiss County (14.4 percent) than in the state as a whole (18.7 percent).

IT MAY COME as a surprise, but according to Walker's research, the

Armory

He said he plans to meet with the Prentiss County Board of Supervisors soon to see if the county might have five acres available. Though the matter was discussed at the February meeting of the Booneville Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Prentiss said neither he nor Sgt. Chittom has heard from them. Sgt. Chittom said a new armory is badly needed. "Anytime you've got a new place to work, or a new building of any kind, it makes it easier," he said. "It's a lot easier to maintain... "Like this building, here. Our pipes froze and burst twice this winter, which cost the taxpayers for repairs. And that wouldn't have happened in a new building. "But we can't heat and cool this building," Sgt. Chittom said. "A new building would be so much easier to maintain. We'd have a better working atmosphere... Just like our classroom here. We don't have adequate lighting; we can't heat it in the winter or cool it in the summer. "And that's not good learning conditions, just like our city schools over here," he said. "But a new building would be an asset to the community. In addition to our using it, it could be used for community meetings, and such. "This building is available for that, too. But nobody wants to meet here because they freeze to death in the winter and roast in the summer," Sgt. Chittom said. "A new building would just be an asset all the way around," he said.

dogs will get into the garbage bags and scatter the garbage along the roadside and in yards before it can be picked up. Davis noted that if people will put household amonia in the garbage bags it should keep the dogs away. "People will have to help with this new system," 5th District Supervisor William L. McKinney said. "They need to be patient and let it get started and let it work. We think it will work fine."

BIBLE QUESTION BOX
QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, is it scriptural for the church of the Lord to use its money for summer camps, kitchens, and youth centers?
ANSWER: Several years ago a preacher by the name of George DeHoff wrote on this subject. He said, "It is not the business of the church to operate colleges, soup kitchens, relief kitchens, summer camps, youth centers, entertainment bureaus, ball teams and such like . . . if the church goes into the entertainment business in an attempt to reach the people (reach them with what?) Men of the world will say, "That's real Christianity." But if the church preaches the gospel, men of the world will become displeased -- that is the purpose of gospel preaching; to cause them to become displeased with their condition and to become Christians." I believe brother DeHoff is correct. The Bible does not authorize using church funds for fun and frolic. Many churches have drifted into this practice. The church is to preach the gospel and no work is more important than preaching the old time Jerusalem gospel. It is God's power unto salvation (Rom. 1:16).

Grant Delay Holds Up Baldwyn Plant Opening

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Delay in the approval of an Appalachian Regional Commission matching grant is already causing delays in the opening of the new Southern Diversified Industries plant, according to Baldwyn Mayor Merle Rowan.

The factory, which had originally planned to start production on March 1, has since delayed its opening date to April 15.

"It's going to affect the plant because we won't have the rail spur they wanted built by the time they open," Rowan said, explaining that the factory would not be able to operate at full capacity until the rail spur has been built.

The factory, which will manufacture vacu-formed plastic products, will receive all its raw materials by rail, Rowan said. "The spur will come in at the north end of the building so that chemicals can be unloaded into those tanks there," he said.

"We've made arrangements to get the raw materials to them by pumping them directly off the main line. But that's just temporary," Rowan said.

"The railroad will drop the car there. And, while the train is gone, they'll pump the chemicals off into the tank. Then the railroad will pick up the tanker when they come back.

"We've got that worked out so they can begin production. But it's a disadvantage," he said.

Rowan said bids for construction of the rail spur, and a pumping station and water tank for the Charles M. Gordon Industrial Park were opened Friday, March 16, but the city cannot award contracts until the ARC grant has been approved. "All we could do was take the bids under advisement," he said.

The City of Baldwyn received notification of approval of a $230,000 Community Development Block Grant on Feb. 27, 1984. Those funds and the funds from the ARC matching grant are to be used to pay for the improvements to the industrial park.

Rowan said he was told by Ken Hurt, director of the Mississippi division of the ARC that the grant had been discussed at an ARC meeting the first week in March. At the time, Hurt told Rowan he expected approval "within a matter of days."

But, on Monday, March 19, Rowan told The Banner-Independent he had not yet received any word from the ARC.

"We are still trying to get hold of Sen. (Thad) Cochran to see if he can speed things up. But he's been on the road, in Mississippi, since last Friday," Rowan said.

The mayor said once the grant has been received, a contract has been awarded and construction on the rail spur actually starts, it will take approximately 10 weeks to build it.

"It will take about 72 days to build it. But, there again, it depends on the weather. And it's going to be in the worst of weather," he said.

The city agreed to construct the rail spur for Southern Diversified Industries in its original negotiations with the company prior to the decision by Liberty Diversified Inc., SDI's parent company, to locate in Booneville. LDI was originally considering sites in Baldwyn, Booneville and Pontotoc.

Precinct Caucus Turnout

By ED WOODWARD
Managing Editor

Only 188 of Prentiss County's 16,846 registered voters participated in last Saturday's Democratic Party Precinct Caucuses, according to Glen Goodwin, chairman of the county executive committee of the Democratic Party.

"We had 34 for Hart, 49 for Mondale and 105 uncommitted. That translates to about 56 percent uncommitted, 26 percent for Mondale and 18 percent for Hart," Goodwin said.

"Of course, in delegate votes at the county convention, Mondale and Hart are within two or three percent of each other because you round off. So, Hart had six (delegates), Mondale 12 and uncommitted 20," he said.

Goodwin said the turnout for the caucuses was "about normal."

"Jumpertown had the most. They had 40 people there," Goodwin said.

"I appreciate the people coming out and taking an interest because, if you don't participate at the grass roots, then you don't have any gripe coming, really," he said. "If people don't take part at this level, they don't have any gripe coming when it comes to the national nomination. And, with only 188 of over 16,000 registered voters participating in the caucuses, there are a lot of people with no gripe coming," he said.

"But it's a small percentage all over," Goodwin said. "It's not just here in Prentiss County."

Goodwin said the next step in the political ladder is the county convention, which will take place at 10 a.m., March 31, at the Prentiss County Courthouse.

During the precinct caucuses a credentials committee for the county convention was appointed. Chosen for the committee were Donald Franks, Chairman, William Hugh Holley and Bill Jumper, Goodwin said.

"The delegates from each of the precinct caucuses will be participating in the county convention," he said. "They will select delegates to the district convention, which will be held in Oxford on Saturday, April 14."

"Then, we will elect the executive committee for the next four years. And the delegates to the district convention then go on to the state convention, May 4 and 5, where the delegates to the national convention in San Francisco will be chosen," Goodwin said.

"We've had quite a few from this county who have indicated that they would like to go to the national convention," he said.

Over $1,000 Still Missing In Robbery

Some of the money stolen from a Biggersville grocery store March 2, has still not been recovered, according to a spokesman at the Alcorn County Sheriff's Department.

Between $1,000-$1,500 is still missing. Carl Eddie Odom, 25, of Route 3, Rienzi, turned himself in to Alcorn law officials after he allegedly robbed Benjamin's Grocery using a single barrel sawed-off shotgun. He reportedly stole between $2,000-$3,000. About $1,200 was recovered.

The gun Odom reportedly used in the robbery, which he told officers he threw in a creek, had not been recovered as of Tuesday.

Odom remains in jail in Alcorn County.

Two Arrested In Strongarm Robbery

Two more people have been arrested in connection with the robbery of approximately $1,400 from Ben F. Smith of Towhee Circle Monday night of last week.

Cissy Gilley King was arrested Thursday of last week and charged with strong armed robbery and Jimmy Hamm was arrested Monday and charged with accessory to strong armed robbery, according to Booneville Police Chief Bobby Lambert.

Authorities had apprehended Margie Burrows and Danny Hamm Tuesday night of last week and charged them with strong armed robbery in connection with the theft.

The robbery occurred after Smith let two girls into his apartment to talk to them. Then a man came in and knocked Smith down, robbing him of the money, Chief Lambert said.

The Hamms and Burrows remain in jail on $12,000 bond. King is out of jail on $12,000 bond.

The money has not been recovered, Lambert said Tuesday.

"I find the big catches. Block finds me the big refunds."

Talk 'O The Town

Street Opinion

QUESTION: Do you think all the recent publicity about the Booneville schools will make it easier to pass a bond issue?

MARLA CARTWRIGHT, sophomore, Booneville High School: "I think it should make people realize that the proper facilities are needed for a good education."

JON OAKLEY, junior, Booneville High School: "No. The school will probably stay here until it falls."

TRACI McCOY, junior, Booneville High School: "No, because it's already been voted on twice and I think people will continue to vote against it."

KENNY ROBINSON, junior, Booneville High School: "No, because people are too stubborn and cheap to help us get a decent school."

BARBARA EATON, art instructor, Booneville High School: "It may make people think about the bond issue who never thought about it before. Some people have to have it in black and white before they think anything is really important."

LISA GARRETT, senior, Booneville High School: "No, because hearing about the situation isn't enough. They should come and see for themselves how bad it really is."

(Editor's note: "Talk O' The Town" is not intended as a scientific poll of public opinion. Rather, it is simply intended to give Prentiss Countians an opportunity to voice their opinions on particular issues and topics. Maybe we'll ask you next!)

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

Staff Reporter

At least I do get some mail. I think I'm on every mailing list for all the seed companies in the United States. And some have my name on their list three times. If someone were to see the stack of seed catalogs I receive they would probably think, "She must be a great gardener and have one of the biggest gardens in Prentiss County." I am a great gardener (I can see my neighbors shaking their heads in disbelief). Well actually my finest gardening moments occur while I am sitting in a chair and thumbing through my seed catalogs. When I see all the colorful pictures of corn, peas, butterbeans, squash, okra, tomatoes, onions, beans, and watermelons, I am convinced that I, too, can grow enough vegetables to feed me and perhaps a small army. (One never knows when he will be called upon to feed a small army.)

This is not to say that I plow the garden myself. Of course not. A smart gardener leaves the hard work to someone else.

The part of gardening I am best at is ordering the seeds. One year I ordered so many seeds that when they arrived my mailcarrier wanted to know if I was going to plant the seeds or eat them.

I might as well have eaten them because I don't think they came up.

Sometimes gardening is like a lot of other things in life. It can be very disheartening -- especially after seeds are planted and then it comes a flood and washes the rows away.

Then again gardening is like still other things in life. It can be very rewarding -- especially when the seeds come up and there is an abundance of vegetables to eat.

However, the fact remains that it is easier to garden in the winter when a person can sit inside where it's warm and cozy and simply dream about the spring and summer when it will be time to be outside planting seeds and hoeing in the garden.

It would be nice since I receive so many seed catalogs if there was some way I could make fertilizer out of them so I could use it in my garden.

But I'll do the next best thing. I'll take my column out to the garden and read it aloud.

Legislative Report

Last Week One Of Busiest For House

By REP. BILLY McCOY

Last week was one of the busiest weeks of the 1984 session to date, as House and Senate members faced a deadline for full floor action on general bills and constitutional amendments. A huge volume of legislation was considered and approved prior to the Thursday night deadline.

Legislation that would end the much-criticized practice of dual registration won easy House approval. The Senate approved a similar version of the bill, and the differences between the two measures will be worked out by a joint House-Senate conference committee. Once this legislation becomes law, as expected, voters will no longer have to register in two different places in order to vote in city and county elections.

The House also approved a resolution that would amend the state constitution to create a trust fund for education and economic development. If this measure is approved by the Senate, it would be on the November ballot.

The trust fund is presently created in state law, but this measure would make it more difficult to alter or end the trust fund by making it part of the constitution.

Funds for the program would come from proceeds from oil and gas drilling on state-owned land.

House members set some standards for themselves this week by approving a constitutional amendment defining public officials' conflicts of interest. The bill would prohibit public officials and public employees from engaging in contracts with the governmental entity with which they are associated. The measure also prohibits public officials and employees from personally profiting from the use of their official positions.

State and local governments will be protected from lawsuits for one more year under legislation approved by the House. A recent court ruling would have ended this practice on July 1 without legislative action. The additional year of coverage is designed to give state and local governments time to acquire liability insurance.

The House approved some 15 bills reorganizing state government in an attempt to comply with a recent State Supreme Court ruling that requires the removal of legislators from executive boards and commissions. The reorganization bills remove the legislators in a voting capacity, but allow them to remain in an advisory position on the boards.

Economic development measures were approved that would create business incubation centers to help initiate new businesses and would establish venture capital companies to provide financing for new businesses. Economic development legislation giving tax incentives to high technology businesses was also approved.

Counties across the state should reap benefits from legislation approved by the House to redistribute the huge property tax windfall caused by the construction of the Grand Gulf nuclear power plant in Port Gibson. The bill would distribute these property taxes, some $12 million to date, among 40 counties, instead of just Claiborne County.

The House considered all but 8 of 158 bills that faced last week's deadline. I handled one bill which provides for more specific definitions concerning the improper obtaining and use of a drivers license and for more specific penalties when one uses fraud to obtain or use a drivers license.

The Highway Patrol discovers several cases each week in which persons seek to obtain or use drivers license unlawfully. This bill would provide a maximum fine of $500.00 and a maximum jail sentence of 2 months.

The Ayes Have It Important Bills Cause Lengthy Senate Discussions

By SENATOR JOHN WHITE

When the Senate convened at 2 p.m. Monday, March 12, we had 168 bills on the calendar requiring action before midnight Thursday to keep them alive during the 1984 regular session. Although a number of bills required several hours of debate each, by working late into the night we were able to act on a majority of the bills.

Some of the important bills which caused lengthy discussion included: GRAVEL ROAD MAINTENANCE: The Senate finally agreed that county boards of supervisors should have the authority to maintain, at their discretion, gravel or shell private driveways which are used as school bus turnarounds.

Furthermore, the supervisors are authorized to call for a referendum in a general election to let county voters decide if the county should be allowed to maintain gravel or shell driveways damaged by weather. No construction of new private access roads is allowed and use of concrete or asphalt is not allowed.

VOTER REGISTRATION: The Senate agreed to allow voters to register at one place to be eligible to vote in all elections. Currently, city residents must register at city hall to vote in municipal elections and at the courthouse to be eligible to vote in all other elections.

ETHICS: This bill proposes an amendment to the Constitution. If passed by the House of Representatives, it will be put to the citizens of Mississippi for adoption in the November general election.

The bill, in effect, prohibits a public official from being interested in any contract with the governmental entity of which he is a member and prohibits officials from misusing their official position to obtain any financial benefit for themselves or for any persons or businesses with which they are associated.

It also authorizes the Legislature to further regulate conduct by public officials and create a commission composed of members appointed by each branch of government to accomplish this intent.

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: Sovereign immunity means that governmental entities cannot be sued. However, the Supreme Court ruled in one case that a city could be sued.

This bill continues the doctrine of sovereign immunity for one year; after which it provides for governmental entities to be insured against claims that may be filed in certain instances.

On behalf of Booneville Girl Scouts and their leaders, we want to thank the businesses who sponsored the Girl Scout pages in last week's paper.

That Yankee From Yonder

By Ed Woodward

Managing Editor

One of my all time favorite movie scenes is the restaurant scene in Five Easy Pieces, where Jack Nicholson and Karen Black stop at a roadside restaurant and Nicholson orders toast.

He is informed by the gum-chewing waitress that toast is not on the menu and he can't order things that aren't on the menu. So he changes his order to a chicken salad sandwich on toast and tells the waitress to hold the chicken salad.

When the waitress sarcastically asks him where she should hold it, Nicholson utters his most classic line. "Between your knees," he says.

Though the restaurant is not identified, its color scheme is familiar to everyone who has ever driven the Pennsylvania Turnpike and found they had no choice of where to eat. The colors are blue-green and orange.

Fortunately, those colors are not common in Northeast Mississippi, because I have found they automatically announce both lousy service and bad food. In fact, this chain of restaurants is an exception to a rule I have formulated as a corollary to Murphy's Law.

For those few of you who do not know Murphy's Law, it basically says, "If anything can go wrong, it will." And there are probably hundreds of corollaries.

Some examples of corollaries to Murphy's Law are:

-When things go wrong somewhere, they are apt to go wrong everywhere;

-Whatever you want to do, you have something else to do first; and

-The legibility of a copy is inversely proportional to its importance.

My corollary is, "In any restaurant, the quality of the service is inversely proportional to the quality of the food."

To elaborate, it has been my experience over many years of eating in restaurants as an on the road salesman, as a truck driver, as a taxi driver, as a freelance writer and, presently, as a weekend bachelor, that, almost invariably, a restaurant that has good, fast service will have awful food, and a restaurant that has fantastic food will have terrible, slow service.

Before I get letters, fast food restaurants are exempt from this rule. I am talking about restaurants where you sit down, and a waitress takes your order and brings your food.

Just Saturday night, I saw an example of the veracity of my law. Sara and I went to Corinth to eat out. We went into a sit-down-and-wait-for-the-waitress establishment, sat down, and waited 15 minutes for the waitress to take our order, and another 25 minutes for that order to arrive.

The people in the booth behind Sara arrived 15 minutes before we did (we checked), and the waitress took their order just after we arrived. The people across the aisle from us arrived five minutes after we did and the waitress took their order right after she took ours.

All of us ordered roughly the same sort of meal. But, the people across from us were served five minutes before we were, and the people behind Sara were served at least ten minutes after we were.

The food, of course, was excellent.

We did not tip our waitress, and I doubt if the people behind Sara did; which may or may not be fair to the waitress.

And, if anyone can come up with another method of expressing disapproval of bad service that may be the fault of the kitchen staff or the management, and not the waitress, I'm willing to listen. I used to work for tips myself.

But, in this case, our waitress did nothing to attempt to make up for the bad service. She didn't even ask Sara if she wanted a refill on her tea.

Profile

population of Prentiss County was actually less in 1970 than it was in 1940 -- 20,133 compared to 20,921.

However, on the positive side, the 20-year period of 1960-80 did show positive growth, especially 1970-80. "It is noteworthy that Prentiss County and its surrounding area grew at a substantially faster rate than did the state of Mississippi as a whole," Walker said.

In age distribution, both Prentiss County as a whole and Booneville individually show a smaller percentage of people in the less-than-40 age group than the state average (33 percent), with Booneville (29 percent) having even less in this age group than the County (31 percent). Prentiss County reflects basically the same age distribution profile as its surrounding counties, Walker said.

The percentage of black population in Prentiss County is substantially less than the statewide percentage, 10.8 percent compared to 35.2 percent. "More surprisingly is that it is also less than the surrounding area," Walker reports.

Sex distribution is practically identical to that of the state totals, he added.

OVER THE YEARS, Prentiss County's unemployment rate has equalled or been only slightly greater than either the U.S. or Mississippi rate, Walker says.

However, the county's labor force participation rate, at 62.2 percent, is higher than the state's 58.6 percent. "The county rate can be expected to go up slightly until reaching the 65 percent range, thus being a cause of new entrants into the labor force," Walker says.

There are a significant number of "out-commuters" in the county -- people who live in Prentiss County but work outside.

"The primary destination is Lee County," Walker says. "The large number of out-commuting to Tishomingo County when the census was taken has now probably been reduced with the completion of work on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and the construction abandonment of the Yellow Creek Nuclear Plant."

Summarizing labor availability, Walker says there is a significant supply of available labor, estimated to be approximately 7,000 when those available in Prentiss County are combined with those available in the surrounding counties.

Childers

collected during the 13 month period.

He said a standard part of county audits is a compliance test to see that this law is being followed, and that Prentiss County is the first county in which such a shortage has been found since Mabus took office in January.

According to Nash, the matter is civil, rather than criminal. He said if Childers does not pay the money within 30 days, the matter will be referred to the Attorney General to bring suit in civil court.

Nash said the uncollected penalties total $6,083.56. Accumulated interest is $475.31, and an additional $30.42 will be added for each month until payment is made.

that citizens should have some recourse in cases where damage or injury is caused by cases such as negligence of governmental employees.

The bill calls for the Commissioner of Insurance over the next year to develop a plan for purchase of liability insurance by the governmental bodies.

Among the other bills passed during the week were:

-- a bill establishing the following ratios for assessment of ad valorem taxes for the four classes of property: real property, 15 percent; personal property, 15 percent; motor vehicles, 30 percent; and public utilities, 30 percent.

-- a bill allowing a charge of up to $15 for each bank credit card account in exchange for a lower interest rate on the account.

-- a bill prohibiting entering upon lands without the permission of the owner.

-- a bill increasing teacher sick leave days from seven to eight next year and nine days the next year, and increasing allowed accumulation of sick leave days from 30 to 45.

-- a bill allowing family members of persons hospitalized 50 miles from home and all persons 70 years and older to vote by absentee ballot.

-- a bill providing for a Living Will which allows persons to authorize withdrawal of life-sustaining mechanisms under certain conditions.

I would like to hear your views on any legislation. You may call me at 948-7321 or write to the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Miss. 39205.

Daughters Of Confederacy Enjoy Program On Brice's Crossroads Pastor

Thomas Wallis, a member of the Northeast Junior College faculty, was the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the D.T. Beall Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mrs. A.L. Tidwell greeted the guests as they arrived. Mrs. Mabel Hill was co-hostess. Refreshments were served during the social hour to the 12 members attending.

Wallis had chosen for his program a prominent man, Dr. Samuel Agnew, who lived near the historic Brice's Cross Roads.

He lived in a large plantation in a huge home and until this day stands the magnolia trees whose seeds were brought from the Carolinas in a metal box.

Dr. Agnew was a most interesting character, Wallis said. His death came in 1902. He was born in Abbeville, S.C., in 1833. He was educated at Erskine College in Dal West, S.C., and in 1852 came to Mississippi. He earned his Doctor of Divinity Degree from this college and was known as "Dr. Agnew." Retired Teachers Hear About Giza Pyramids

The Prentiss County Retired Teachers Association met Thursday, March 15, at the George E. Allen Library for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Mary Dobbins, president, called the meeting to order with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. She then presented the Rev. Jim Archer for the devotional and his philosophy of how to live a full and satisfying life.

Brown McCutchen led the group singing.

Herbert Sumners, vice president, introduced the speaker of the hour who is a world traveler, Alexander Hayne of Lexington, Tenn.

His subject was 'The Great Pyramids of Giza.' Besides the personal derivation of the wonders of the pyramids, he used charts to show structural connections to the Bible.

One of the visitors, Troy Inman, gave the benediction.

A covered dish lunch was served.

The next meeting will be May 17, at 10 a.m. at the George E. Allen Library.

Bikers Needed For CF Bike-A-Thon

Tired of the old you? Want to have fun, do something new, try something unusual?

Then you are just the kind of person that Rachel Whitley wants to get in touch with.

Ms. Whitley is Chairman of the bike-a-thon which will be held on March 31 in Booneville. The goal is to have fun, do something unusual - and raise money to help kids who have cystic fibrosis.

Only 25 years ago, children with cystic fibrosis rarely lived long enough to enter grade school. Now, due to improved treatment, nearly half of all babies born today with cystic fibrosis will live past their twenty-first birthday.

But there is still no test to identify carriers, and there is still no cure for this disease.

"That's why the need for funds is so crucial," said Ms. Whitley. We urge every child and adult who would like to take part to pick up a sponsor form now. And we ask everybody else in our community to give generously when they sponsor those who do.

"Just pick up a sponsor sheet at any school location, or call 728-4045 for information," Ms. Whitley said.

"Then go to your relatives, friends, neighbors, schoolmates or co-workers and get them to pledge to donate a certain amount for each lap you complete. The idea is to get as many sponsors as possible so that a lot of people are supporting your efforts," she said.

Prizes will be awarded to those who raise the most money. Registration will begin at 2:00 p.m. at the West Side Park.

All proceeds from the bike-a-thon will go to the Mississippi Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation to help support important programs of research, education, and care.

Donations can also be made at The Peoples Bank in Booneville Ms. Whitley said.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is a voluntary nonprofit health organization supported solely by contributions from the public. For more information about cystic fibrosis, contact the Mississippi Chapter at 5846 Ridgewood Road, Group 211-9, Box 10, Jackson, Miss.

Mr. & Mrs. Paul Rowan

Prentiss Natives Attend Breakfast With Pres. Reagan

By GREG SHOOK
Staff Writer

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rowan recently joined President Ronald Reagan at the International Prayer Breakfast in the Hilton International Ball Room in Washington D.C.

The purpose of the breakfast was to promote peace and Christianity in the world. Leaders from all over the world attended to show their concern for the well being of the world today.

Mrs. Rowan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shook of Wheeler. Rowan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rowan of Baldwyn.

The Rowans are presently living in Dundee, Ill., where Rowan is vice-president in charge of production and new product control for the J.B. Downing Co. of Lake Forest, Ill.

Mrs. Rowan is employed by the Halo Lighting Co. Division of McGraw Edison Co. as administrative assistant to the director of human resources.

The International Prayer Breakfast was a simple one, consisting of eggs, hash brown potatoes, sausage, toast, juice and coffee. Approximately 4,000 people from the United States and abroad attended.

After the breakfast the Rowans toured the Supreme Court, where they met Assistant Chief Justice Mark Cannon and Supreme Court Judge Howard Markey.

They also had the privilege of meeting Konesitipa Chan, a representative of Hansu Limited of Thailand; Federico Fahsen, Ambassador to the United States from Guatemala; Norma Fu of the China Times newspaper; Manuel Giron-Tanchez, secretary general to the chief of staff of Guatemala, plus many U.S. congressman and senators.

The Rowans were invited to attend the breakfast by Mrs. Carol Hoekstra, president of the J. B. Downing Company.

"It was the most moving experience in my life. It was really just very touching to me," Mrs. Rowan said. "I really did not think much about being there with so many influential people because I have traveled a lot and met a lot of important people.

"But, if all the world's leaders could be more Christlike, I believe the world would be much better off and a much better place to be in today," she said.

The Rowans have already made preparations to attend the Presidential Inaugural Ball in 1985.

Local Methodist Youth Choir Will Perform At Fair

The Mississippi World's Fair Council officially announced recently that the First United Methodist Youth Choir of Booneville has been selected to perform at the Mississippi Pavilion during the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans.

From May 12 through November 11 Mississippi's finest entertainers and craftsmen will be scheduled to perform in multiple staging areas to an international audience.

The 20,000 square foot pavilion will showcase Mississippi's outstanding contributions to all areas of the arts, industry, business and agriculture.

According to Carol Palmer, manager of performing arts, the group was selected by the screening committee of the Council from hundreds of applications representing entertainers from across the state.

"Performers specializing in music, dance and drama were screened and selected on the quality of their performance through various forms of audition materials and this group represents Mississippi's finest entertainers," said Palmer.

Applications for the performing arts program, Encore '84, are still being accepted and the screening procedures will continue until all applications have been evaluated.

For more information on Mississippi's participation in the 1984 World's Fair, call toll-free, in-state, 1-800-962-1984.

TBS airs Motocross

Complete coverage of the eighth annual Atlanta Superbowl of the Motocross, the fourth race of the 1984 Supercross Series, will air as a TBS Sports special events presentation on Saturday, March 3, at 6:35 p.m. on SuperStation WTBS. Veteran sportscaster Bob Neal will call the action, and Mike Bell, last year's eighth-ranked Supercross rider, will provide the color commentary on the February 25th event held at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

To keep up with the capabilities of the riders and the enthusiasm of the fans, track designers and builders have changed and improved their techniques in building this mountainous, man-made motocross race course. When the field of 60 riders crank open their throttles and hit the numerous jumps, turns, twists and pits, SuperStation viewers will get a feel for the free-wheeling spills and thrills of the Atlanta Superbowl of Motocross.

Several of the nation's best Supercross stars, including last year's Atlanta winner Mark Barnett, 1983 triple-crown champion David Bailey, crowd favorite Bob "Hurricane" Hannah, current leading rider Jeff Ward, Broc Glover and Ron Lechien will compete for top honors.

In addition, this TBS Sports production will profile Team Tamm, the only private-sponsored, non-factory team currently on the Professional Motocross Circuit and will feature rookie rider Ron Lechien, a youngster on the circuit who just recently celebrated his 17th birthday.

The Eastview Extension Homemakers Club met March 13, in the home of Mrs. Peggy Cleveland. After calling the meeting to order, Mrs. Cleveland read as the devotional a poem by Helen Steiner Rice.

Roll call was answered by members naming what they planned to wear for Easter.

The focus topic, "What's the Good of a Family Anyway?" was presented by Mrs. Cecil Holley.

She stressed five areas that helped bind a family together: (1) eating at least one meal together daily; (2) worshiping together; (3) taking time daily to tell your family you love them; (4) taking time to do activities as a family unit; and (5) expressing empathy.

Mrs. Brenda Green and Mrs. Holley gave the program on computer gardening. They offered suggestions on how to plant, what to plant and also explained how the extension service, by use of computers, can help gardens yield more produce.

During the business meeting, the club discussed their projects for the upcoming year.

Mrs. Green then exhibited a quilted turkey track pillow and crocheted Christmas tree ornaments.

'All That Jazz'

Northeast Presenting Night Of Nostalgic Big Band Sounds

Those who have made arrangements to attend Northeast Mississippi Junior College's "All That Jazz" program not only have an evening of fine dining and entertainment ahead of them, they've also made reservations for a sentimental journey, said program director Naz Rhodes.

"All That Jazz" will be presented by the NEMJC Jazz Band March 27 and 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room of the Frank Haney Union. In it's third annual program, the jazz band will feature the big band sounds of the thirties and forties made famous by such legendary artists as the Dorsey Brothers, Count Basie, Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman.

"The show is really a sentimental journey, as you'll find out in the opening few minutes," Rhodes said. "People who grew up with this kind of music will really enjoy the show, and everyone, no matter what age, should enjoy the meal."

Musically, the jazz band will create a dinner club atmosphere with a floor show, complete with vocalists and dancers, featuring show tunes such as "Sweet Georgia Brown," "Stormy Weather" and "Moonlight Serenade."

And while diners' ears and eyes are feasting on the entertainment, their tastebuds will be treated to country steak with rice, roast beef, fried shrimp, ham, potatoes and homemade bread and rolls.

Despite the limited seating capacity, there are still openings. The cost of the dinner and concert is $13 per person. To make reservations, please mail check or money order, along with your request for either the Tuesday or Thursday evening performance to the Office of the President, The Northeast Mississippi Junior College, Booneville, Miss. 38829.

Easter Seal Team Fights For Disabled Mississippians

Over the years, Easter Seals has used many campaign slogans: Back a Fighter, Be a Miracle Worker, Money Walks. All of these slogans have the same basic theme - "Assist persons with disabilities win their fight for independence." And that is what Easter Seals is all about.

Easter Seals works year round to provide direct services to people of all ages with any disability. The Mississippi Society depends on voluntary contributions from the public to carry on its service program. That is why each year there is an Easter Seal campaign.

Many volunteers statewide belong to the Easter Seal team. The chairman of the 1984 team is Walt Shinault of Tunica and Oxford. Walt Shinault is a name that is becoming synonymous with Easter Seals.

For the past three years Walt has been an avid Easter Seal volunteer. A student at the University of Mississippi, Walt was paralyzed in a trampoline accident in 1980 while practicing his cheerleader stunts. He has continued his education and plans to graduate in May.

Walt has been preparing his assignments by using a mouthpiece to operate a typewriter. One assignment often took hours to complete. Now through the concerns and donations of Oxford churches and individuals, the Lafayette County Easter Seal Society, and the Tunica County Easter Seal Society, Walt has a computer which enables him to complete assignments much faster and will assist him in attaining his goals.

Supporting Walt are the 1984 Easter Seal representatives, Marc Mims of Okolona and Melissa Jones of Terry.

Eleven year old Marc was born with spina bifida. He began walking with a walker and braces at 3½ years of age. Marc attended McDougal Center in Tupelo for two years and now is in a regular third grade classroom at Okolona Elementary School.

Marc has participated in Special Olympics and has attended two sessions of Easter Seals' Camp Fun-A-Lot. Easter Seals has also provided Marc with special medical supplies.

He enjoys reading, video games, and television.

Melissa who is 10, also was born with spina bifida. She walks with the aid of crutches and braces.

At Byram Elementary School, Melissa is a fourth grader and has been an honor roll student since the first grade.

Melissa loves to swim and to read. She enjoys her dolls, her numerous pets, and travelling with her grandparents. Melissa has also attended Easter Seals' Camp Fun-A-Lot.

Easter Seals has provided Melissa with several pieces of orthopedic equipment.

Walt, Melissa and Marc are definitely fighters for Easter Seals. After all, they know first hand what Easter Seals can do.

County Agent's Notes

By CLIFFORD J. HAMPTON
County Agent

Corn is generally the standard by which we compare other silage crops. Pound for pound, corn silage has more total digestible nutrients and is higher in new energy than any other silage. Sorghum silage of comparable quality has about 85 to 90 percent the feed value of corn silage.

Silage type sorghums will produce more tons of forage per acre than corn. Under Mississippi conditions without irrigation, corn will produce 10 to 16 tons of silage per acre. You may make higher yields on highly fertile, good corn soils. For intermediate or tall growing grain-type sorghums you can expect 12 to 18 tons per acre and from grain or combine-type sorghums, 6 to 9 tons per acre.

Sweet or syrup-type sorghum may also be used for silage, but quality is poor. Sorghum-sudan crosses may also be ensiled but should be considered more like a grass silage than grain corn silages.

Soil Capacity and Planting Time

Sorghum is adapted to a wider range of soil types than corn. Soils that are deep, well-drained, not subject to drought stress, and can be planted in March or early April, will produce more high quality feed planted in corn. Shallow soils and heavier clay loam or clay soils are subject to some drought stress. Other soils that are not well-drained cannot be planted until late April, early May or later. These soils will produce more feed of a slightly lower quality planted to sorghum.

Silage Uses

Corn silage will be superior to sorghum silage in a feeding program for high producing dairy herds or for finishing steers. For wintering dry cattle or heifers, feeding growing steers, or for medium producing dairy herds, the additional tonnage from sorghum may offset the slight loss in feed quality.

Variety Selection

Corn. Any hybrid recommended for grain is suitable for silage. Taller growing varieties will produce more tonnage, while shorter growing varieties will give a higher grain ration.

Sorghum. Intermediate sorghum, tall growing, high grain yielding types, will produce the greatest tonnage. Combine-type sorghum will produce considerably less tonnage but give a higher grain ratio. If you use a combine-type for silage, select a taller growing non-bird resistant grain sorghum for silage. Come by our office and ask for results of corn and sorghum variety trials.

Planting Dates

Plant corn as early as possible, late February to March 15 in extreme south Mississippi; late March to April 15 in central Mississippi, or April 1 to 25 in extreme north Mississippi. You may plant sorghum anytime after the soil temperature reaches 65 degrees F. This will allow planting of sorghum in south Mississippi in mid-April and in north Mississippi in early May.

Seeding Rates

Seed corn at the rate of 23 to 25,000 seed per acre in 38 to 42-inch rows. This rate will give a plant population of 20 to 22,000 plants per acre assuming 85 percent emergence. Sorghum should be seeded at the rate of 8 to 10 pounds of seed per acre in 38 to 42-inch rows. This rate will give a plant population of 110 to 135,000 plants per acre assuming 75 percent emergence.

Fertilization

Fertilize and lime corn and sorghum according to soil tests. For more information on corn and sorghum for silage come by our office at 404 East Church St., or call 728-5631, or 728-7092.

ASCS Report

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

Farmers participating in the 1984 peanut program will be eligible to receive a federal support price of $550 per ton for quota peanuts and $185 per ton for additional peanuts, the same as last year.

Quota peanuts are those grown on a farm within the farm's poundage quota. Additional peanuts are those grown in excess of the farm's poundage quota, or those grown on a farm without a poundage quota.

Additional peanuts must be either delivered under an approved contract with a handler or be placed under the additional price support loan program. Additional loan collateral peanuts from the 1984 crop will be sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation for export edible use at no less than $425 per ton.

Farmers Offered Crop Insurance Bonus For High Yields

Prentiss County cotton, corn, grain sorghum, and soybean producers who have a history of above-average yields can now qualify for additional crop insurance protection in the form of higher yield guarantees at no increase in premium cost, according to Merritt W. Sprague, Manager of Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. The plan, known as Individual Yield Coverage, provides for cash indemnity payments to policyholders who harvest less than three-fourths of their average yield.

For the producer who requires less insurance coverage, perhaps only enough to provide for the repayment of bank loans, lower levels of protection are offered at lower premium rates, Sprague points out. For example, a policy which guarantees only 50 percent of a normal yield can provide what amounts to "major catastrophe" insurance at only about half the cost of one that guarantees a 75 percent yield. Sprague compares this to buying automobile insurance with a larger "deductible."

Another attractive provision, say insurance officials, is the opportunity for each policyholder to select, from three choices, the amount of indemnity paid for each bushel the insured crop falls short of the yield guarantee. The lower the indemnity payment selected, the less expensive the insurance.

Whatever level of protection is chosen, Sprague notes that those farmers who can prove that their yields have been higher than the area average can get more insurance at less cost per dollar of protection by applying to participate in the Individual Yield Coverage Plan. They only requirement is to obtain a statement of yield verification from ASCS, based on documented yield records for the three or most recent crop years.

The federally-backed insurance policies, which provide protection against virtually all causes of crop loss, are available through private insurance agents and companies. A list of those selling the insurance in Prentiss County is available for the ASCS office in Booneville. The federal government pays all of the sales and administrative expenses of the program as well as up to 30 percent of the premium cost.

The deadline to apply for the insurance in Prentiss County may vary by crop. Insurable crops and deadline dates are cotton, corn, grain sorghum and soybeans March 31. Farmers eligible for the Individual Yield Coverage should obtain a statement of yield verification from ASCS as far as possible in advance of this date.

Forestry Program Improves Woodland Acres

Three hundred and thirty (330) acres of Prentiss County woodlands are being reforested or improved under the Forestry Incentives Program.

Tree planting and tree stand improvement are two of the major practices offered under the program. Tree planting is intended to increase the production of timber and improve the environment. Tree stand improvement is aimed at increasing tree growth and quality on sites suitable for production of sawtimber and veneer logs.

The 10-year-old program encourages private non-industrial land owners to raise marketable timber on their land and shares the cost of forestry practices with them. In 1981, the federal share of the cost was reduced from 75 to 50 percent of the total cost.

Because the Forestry Incentives Program emphasizes cost-effective timber production, participation is limited to land capable of producing more than 50 cubic feet of commercial timber per acre annually. The program offers agreements in designated counties where landowners can plan tree planting and timber stand improvement measures for up to 10 years. To be eligible, farmers must own at least 10 but not more than 1,000 acres of forest land.

About 74,200 U.S. landowners have signed agreements to increase timber production on 2,383 acres of forest lands since the program began. Cost sharing payments at the end of September last year amounted to $101,915,600.

Farmers participating in the 1984 acreage reduction programs may also want to take advantage of a new ACP provision which authorizes a 90 percent cost-share rate for planting trees on land taken out of production. The experimental program will allow farmers to retire highly erodible land for 5 years if seeded to grass, and at least 10 years if planted to trees.

Farmer-Owned Grain Reserve V Corn Released

Corn placed in the farmer-owned reserve after June 30, 1982, was released for redemption, effective immediately, by Everett Rank, executive vice president of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation.

Rank said this means farmers now may sell - but are not required to sell - their reserve V corn after repaying their CCC price support loan.

The reason for today's action, he said, was that the national average price received by farmers for corn had reached $3.25 per bushel, the same as the $3.25 per bushel release level for reserve V corn.

USDA makes storage payments to farmers with grain in the reserve. Upon repayment of the loan, farmers can keep the storage payments earned through the date of repayment.

Release of reserve V corn will continue through April 30, Rank said. If the five-day national average market price remains at or above $3.25 on April 30, storage earnings will stop and interest on the price support loan will begin to accrue for corn that has been in reserve V for more than one year. Interest already is accruing on loans for corn that has been in reserve less than one year.

If the April 30 price falls below $3.25, reserve V corn no longer will be in release status and farmers will continue earning storage payments.

Data used by CCC in determining the release level include five-day moving average prices - as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service - which show prices bid by buyers at selected markets, and a month-end report of prices received by farmers issued by USDA's Statistical Reporting Service. This report shows the previous month's average price and the current mid-month price.

Daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis.

Timberline

In this column on loblolly pine, let's look at how foresters can manage this species to produce timber and replace itself.

We will talk about three basic management methods -- clearcutting with planting or direct seeding, the seed tree system, and the shelterwood system.

Clearcutting and planting or direct seeding minimizes logging costs and permits reforestation using genetically improved stock that can increase timber yields by 10 percent. That is why clearcutting with planting is standard practice on many forest industry holdings.

The cost of site preparation and planting, however, is often very high. Logging debris and competing hardwoods must be removed by shearing or chopping, followed by prescribed burning. The prescribed fire must be hot enough to kill above ground parts of hardwoods, but it must also be controllable. Seeding is one method of reducing cost, since it is cheaper to sow seed over an area than to plant trees on it. However, spacing of trees cannot be controlled with direct seeding as it can when planting seedlings.

By using the seed tree system, leaving 4 to 12 high quality trees per acre 14 inches or larger in diameter when the rest of the stand is cut, a forester can be reasonably certain of getting a good new stand. The seed trees allow a second chance if the initial effort fails.

Furthermore, some genetic improvement is achieved by leaving the best trees for seed. To provide a seedbed, and to control potential competition, the forester may recommend prescribed burning or herbicide application, or some combination of these treatments immediately prior to seed fall.

Seed trees should be harvested very soon after the new stand is established unless they are considered necessary for insurance against a catastrophic loss such as wildfire.

The advantages of the seed-tree method are low cost and high probability of success. Disadvantages are lack of control over spacing in the new stand and the risk that lightning or winds will kill some seed trees before they are harvested. Also, since separate logging operations are required -- the main harvest and the seed tree harvest -- the price obtained for the timber may be lower than from clearcutting.

Two characteristics of loblolly pine make the shelterwood system ideal for it.

First, seedlings are able to survive in the shade of overstory pines (even though they die off in the denser shade of hardwoods).

Second, in stands that are reasonably dense, seed production per acre is pretty low until the trees are 35 or more years old. There are often economic advantages to harvesting a stand for pulpwood when it is about 30 years old -- before seed production peaks. In stands of this age, the shelterwood system can assure enough seed for a new stand.

A two-cut shelterwood system is normally used in loblolly pine. In the first cut, all but the 20 to 30 best seed trees per acre are removed. This heavy cutting stimulates seed production, but the logging must be done in ways that avoid damage to the trees that are left.

When a good cone crop appears, a prescribed burn is often needed to control hardwoods and prepare a seedbed. About 5-years after a good stand of seedlings is established, the shelterwood trees can be removed with great care.

A disadvantage of the shelterwood system is that logging costs are higher than with clearcutting. Where seed production is naturally low, however, this cost may constitute a fine investment. Another disadvantage is that spacing and density of the new stand cannot be controlled.

Next week I'll tell you some extra benefits of managing loblolly pine under one of these systems.

4-H News

By WAYNE LAND
Extension 4-H Youth Agent

With spring planting time just around the corner, youth should begin planning their gardens to receive the best possible yield. Whether they are helping with the family garden or planting their own, all youth benefit from eating fresh vegetables from the garden.

To grow quality vegetables, 4-H'ers should follow these garden practices:

- Prepare the plot or rows during fall and winter for early spring planting.
- Use fresh seed of recommended varieties.
- Make double-row plantings of beets, carrots, radish, mustard, lettuce, turnips, onions, English peas and spinach in the spring garden.
- Use adequate fertilizer.
- Sidedress plants with a nitrate fertilizer when three or four inches tall.

- Prune and/or stake plants that require it, such as tomatoes, pole beans, sweet pepper and eggplant.
- Water, mulch and harvest regularly to keep plants producing.
- Cultivate when grass and weeds are small.
- Grow two or more crops of certain vegetables on the same row at the same time.
- Control pests.

- Make at least two plantings of most vegetables for continuous production.

The vegetables 4-H'ers grow from their gardens can be enjoyed fresh, canned or frozen. The 4-H garden project teaches youth to grow and enjoy their own vegetables.

For more information on how you can join 4-H and begin a 4-H garden, contact the county Extension office at 728-5631, or 728-7092.

New Orleans Land Bank Increases Interest Rate

The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, the area's leading agricultural lending institution, has raised its interest rate on all variable rate loans by one-half of one percent. This represents the first rate increase enacted by the bank in almost two years.

He said the variable interest rate, which has been in effect since 1970, allows the bank to raise or lower loan interest rates to correspond with the cost of funds which the bank obtains through the sale of Federal Farm Credit Banks Securities.

Since September 1, 1983, the bank sold $581 million in bonds at an average cost of 11.24 percent. The average rate on all Farm Credit Securities outstanding is more than 12 percent.

"Our goal is to provide credit at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business practices," explained Bruner. "The anticipated reduction in bond costs late in 1983 and early 1984 did not materialize, thus an upward adjustment in rates became necessary."

The Federal Land Bank currently has more than 38,000 loans outstanding in the states of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana totaling $3.02 billion.

1984 Soybean Market Discussed On 'Farmweek'

Reporters for Farmweek, the Monday evening television series about Mississippi agriculture, will examine prospects for the 1984 soybean market for the March 26 edition of the series at 7:30 on Mississippi ETV.

Discussing changes in soybean production techniques that will affect soybean yields this season will be Jimmy L. Hamer, entomologist; William F. Moore, plant pathologist; and Carl W. Jordan, agronomist.

Each Farmweek program features weather forecasts, news, market reports, advice for farmers and a calendar of upcoming agricultural events. The series is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Spring has arrived and summer is just around the corner. It is time to put up winter clothes until next season. Before storing your cold-weather clothes, take a few steps to ensure their long use.

Wool and wool blend garments should be cleaned (dry-cleaned or handwashed) before storing. Cleaning helps prevent clothing moth and beetle damage which is common in Mississippi.

Seal cleaned wool and wool blend garments in plastic and store in a dry, cool place.

Moth cakes, balls, and crystals can also serve as a deterrent, but unless they are used in the proper concentration and in airtight, sealed areas, your clothes are not 100 percent protected.

Acrylic sweaters can be machine washed in warm water and dried on low heat. Fold sweaters and store on a shelf or in a drawer.

All other winter clothes made from synthetic fabrics should be cleaned (according to care labels) and either hung on hangers (cover with plastic cleaning bags or old clean pillowcases) or placed in drawers.

Clothes will be clean, safe and ready to wear when the cold weather comes again next season.

Five BHS STEP Teams Among Top 10 In Problem Solving Bowl

Five teams from the Booneville
High School Project STEP class have placed within the top ten teams in the state and have qualified to compete in the Mississippi Future Problem Solving Bowl.

The three eighth grade teams and two ninth grade teams were in competition with 54 teams from the gifted education classes throughout the state.

Preliminary problems that the teams have submitted for judging concerned video game addiction, prison reform, and the use of lasers in medicine, industry, and the

The problem for state com-

Eight additional freshmen will attend the bowl and participate in individual problem solving competition and aid in the live presentations.

The state bowl will be held on the campus of the Mississippi

team in each of the three divisions -- junior, intermediate, and senior -- will represent the state of

Mississippi on the national level in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, later this year with the topic of genetic engineering for competition.

"Since there are five teams among the top ten competing on the state level, the B.H.S. students are in competition among themselves as well as with students from Forest, Biloxi, Hernando, Water
Valley, and Brookhaven," said Mrs.
Marie Spain, gifted education instructor. "They really want to bring the first place trophy home and are working diligently toward that goal."

Conservation Gains
Through PIK Programs

Farmers who took part in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's 1983 payment-in-kind programs reduced soil erosion by more than 20 percent on cropland taken out of production, Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said today.

Releasing a preliminary report on conservation benefits of PIK and acreage reduction programs, Block said soil erosion on an estimated 79 million diverted acres was lowered from an average of 7.4 tons to 5.8 tons per acre per year.

"That adds up to 121 million tons of soil that stayed on the land," he said. "While the chief goal of the PIK programs was to bring down production, other goals included reducing erosion on idle acres, improving wildlife habitat and conserving water."

The report, based on data from a sample of 4,300 farms in 227 counties, shows that about 35 percent of the diverted land provided suitable cover for wildlife. About 13 million acre-feet of water that would have been used to irrigate 8 million acres of cropland also were saved by the conservation use acreage programs.

A more detailed report expected later this year will show other major achievements in conservation, Block said.

Copies of the preliminary report are available from USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, room 4714-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013, or by calling (202) 447-6221.

If a person has been convicted of murder and sentenced to die, why does it take so long for the state to carry out the sentence?

Justice James L. Robertson of the Mississippi Supreme Court addressed that question during a talk to the Booneville Rotary Club Tuesday. The judge was at the meeting as the guest of Booneville Attorney Joey Langston.

A native of Greenville, Robertson received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Mississippi in 1962. He received his law degree from the Harvard Law School in 1965.

After several years in private practice and several more as a teacher at the University of Mississippi, Robertson was appointed by Gov. William Winter on Jan. 17, 1983, to the Supreme Court of Mississippi.

The appointment came as the result of the resignation of Justice

R.P. Sugg on Jan. 15, 1983. The appointment by Gov. Winter was only temporary, but on Nov. 8 Robertson was elected to fill the remainder of Sugg's unexpired term as the Third (Northern) District Justice, Post One. Sugg's term was to expire June 5, and Robertson will be up for re-election at that time.

Tuesday, Justice Robertson told the Rotarians that, under Mississippi law, not all murders carry potential death penalties.

He said there are two basic types of murder -- capital murder and "simple" murder.

Simple murder is one which involved no other crime, while capital murder is "murder plus something else," he said.

"Simple murder coupled with nothing else carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment," the judge said. However, capital murder carries the possibility of the death penalty.

"Of the 40 odd inmates on death row, most were convicted of felony murder -- murder which also in-involved a felony," Judge Robertson said.

However, not all capital murder convictions result in the death sentence. In a capital murder trial, the jury first determines whether or not the defendant is guilty. If he is found guilty, then the same jury then determines what the sentence will be.

Robertson says this is unfair because "you find 'like' (similar) cases being treated differently." He said he has seen two people convicted for the same murder with one getting the death sentence and the other sentenced to life in prison.

"This bothers me," he said.

Once a death sentence is given, why does it take so long for it to be carried out? Robertson said it is due -- at least partially -- to the backlog of cases in the federal courts.

When the case gets to the Mississippi Supreme Court, it is first appealed on the merits of the original case to determine if any legal errors occurred.

If the court finds no problems with the original trial, the defendant's lawyers may then ask for a re-hearing of the appeal.

"Twenty-five years ago it would have ended with the denial of the rehearing," Judge Robertson said. But that was before the federal government adopted the "exhaustion of state remedies" doctrine.

This doctrine means that before the federal courts will hear a case, the defendant's lawyers must try every conceivable method on the state level.

"That means they come back to us (the state Supreme Court) over and over," the judge said.

When the case comes before the Supreme Court the second time, the defendant "usually has a new lawyer by now who says the original lawyer erred," Robertson said. So the case has to be heard again, with new arguments.

"We usually have to hear each (capital murder) case four times, which usually takes a year or longer," Robertson said.

If the original trial stands through all these hearings, it then goes to federal court "where it can drag on for years due to a swamped docket."

Since the Supreme Court gives top priority to hearing capital murder cases, that means other cases must be postponed.

"The delay on other cases is largely due to what we see as the public demand that we put these capital murder cases first," Robertson said.

He said the justices feel they cannot take any short cuts when it comes to hearing a capital murder case because a life is at stake.

State Unemployment Drops Three Points

Mississippi's unemployment rate dropped to 10.8 percent in February, a decrease of three-tenths of a percentage point compared to January's revised jobless rate of 11.1 percent, according to Mississippi Employment Security Commission Executive Director Cohen Robertson. Last year's February unemployment rate was 14.7 percent.

The 10.8 percent unemployment rate for the state was higher than the 8.4 percent national rate for February. Mississippi Employment Security Commission figures showed 110,500 unemployed out of a civilian labor force of 1,020,900. The initial unemployment insurance claims tallied 17,095 in February.

Fifty-four of the state's 82 counties had unemployment rates of 10.0 percent or higher in February. Of that number, six counties had unemployment rates above 20.0 percent.

The counties having the highest unemployment rates in February were Sharkey, with 26.3 percent; Tunica, with 24.7 percent; Jefferson, with 21.8 percent, and Clarke, with an unemployment rate of 21.6 percent.

BHS Head Girl's Basketball Coach Submits Resignation

BY SCOTT MCKINNEY
Sports Writer

Booneville High School Principal Mac Curlee announced Tuesday that BHS' head girl's basketball coach, Mickey Wood, has resigned effective at the end of the current school year.

Wood, who has led the Devilettes to a 53-13 record in his two-year tenure, says he now plans to get involved in a private enterprise and pursue a business career.

"He has done a fine job here," Curlee said. "We hate to see him leave. He has done so much for the program."

Wood's Lady Blue Devils bowed out of the State Tournament race this year when they lost to eventual state champion, New Hope, in the opening round of the North State tournament. The squad will also lose eight players from this year's team to graduation. Many thought this would cause problems for Wood in the coming year. However, Wood said the pressure to win at Booneville was not the deciding factor in his final decision.

"I had always heard that the pressure here was great," Wood said. "But when I got here I found that that is not true. Most of the pressure that is put on you is by you."

Wood accepted the position at Booneville two years ago after Coach Rickey Ford resigned to accept a job at Northeast Junior College. Wood took the Devilettes to the State Tournament in his first year at the school, but the team lost in the opening round to Madison-Ridgeland.

A 1964 graduate from Booneville, Wood had led the Devils to a State Tournament appearance as a player. After serving with the Marine Corps in Vietnam, Wood attended the University of Mississippi where he earned a degree in social studies and physical education in 1972.

His first coaching job was with Kossuth High School where he directed junior high football and basketball, high school baseball and where he was an assistant with the high school football staff. After a two-year stay at Kossuth, he traveled to Corinth High School where he coached his first high school girl's basketball team. He also directed junior high basketball.

Louisville proved to be Wood's next coaching position where he directed the boy's basketball team for four years. He guided the squad to two North State Tournament appearances.

He then accepted the position at Booneville.

"When I took the job I knew we could have a good team," Wood said. "We had lost one of the best players around in Diane Harris, as well as two other excellent players from the year before."

"We had a hard time replacing those players, but the girls decided to make that season the best that they could. And we advanced to the State Tournament."

Wood admits he has coached some fine athletes, but feels as though Kunshinge Sorrell has been the best. Wood said Sorrell had so much natural ability that she did not need much coaching.

Getting out of coaching does not really make Wood feel bad or good.

He said the thrill of coaching the kids will be something he will miss in the future.

"I will miss coaching. There's no doubt about it," Wood said. "I like being around the kids and coaching them."

Curlee agrees that Wood has been a valuable asset to the program at Booneville.

"He really works well with the kids and does a fine job," Curlee said. "We hate to lose him."

23 State Titles Since 1922

Prentiss Teams Have Impressive Record

The 1984 state basketball tournament is history. And Prentiss County teams did not fare as well as they have in the past.

Since 1922, Prentiss county teams have really made a great showing in the tournament. We have been well represented every year in the tournament by some very outstanding teams.

Prentiss county teams have taken 23 state titles in their class, including 13 grand slam (overall) championships.

The Wheeler Eagles and the New Site Royals hold the top spots among county teams having won seven state titles each. Wheeler holds the lead in grand slam titles with four, but New Site is closing the gap by winning three titles.

Baldwyn follows with five state class titles and three grand slams. Booneville holds three state titles since the tournament started, including three grand slams.

Jumpertown and Thrasher have each taken one state title. But neither holds a grand slam title.

Wheeler started the winning for Prentiss county in 1925 by taking the state title, with an instant replay in 1926. The Eagles returned to state to clinch the over-all title for Prentiss county in 1929.

Wheeler then stayed low until 1955 when they won the state class B-BB title. Returning in 1959, they took home the state title and the grand slam.

It was not until 1970 that the Eagles earned another state title for Prentiss county. Wheeler won its last title in 1980.

New Site took home the state and grand slam titles in 1945 and 1946. Twenty years later, in 1965, New Site returned to the winning bracket, taking top honors in their class from 1965 to 1969. They only captured one grand slam during the period, in 1969.

In 1932 Baldwyn won their first state title along with the grand slam. In 1948, they also clinched the grand slam with the state title, with the same happening in 1964.

In 1969 and 1975 Baldwyn managed winning the state title in their class, but not the grand slam.

Each time Booneville has won top honors in its class it has also won the grand slam. The Devils won their class in 1949, 1950 and 1963.

Jumpertown and Thrasher have only taken one state championship each. Jumpertown's came in 1971 and Thrasher's in 1969.

In 1969 Prentiss county took home three out of four state titles and New Site won the grand slam. Top state teams that year were Baldwyn in Class A, Thrasher in Class BB and New Site in the Class B division.

Championship Wrestling At NEMJC March 30

Northeast Mississippi Junior College Athletic Director Bill Ward announced this week that championship wrestling will return to the campus Friday, March 30, with five big matches on the card.

The main event of the night will feature Jackie Fargo's Fabulous Ones, Tommy Rich and Eddie Gilbert, battling Jimmy Hart's Fabulous Ones, Pork Chop Cash and the Dream Machine. Also, an International Heavyweight title match will take place when Austin Idol will take on Ric Rude with manager Jimmy Hart.

In other matches, Chief Jesse Ortega will battle Keith Robinson, the Black Ninja will take on the Executioner and Big Lumberjack Joe LeDuc will fight Scott Shannon.

Ward feels this is one of the better cards at Northeast and feels there should be a good turnout for the matches.

Tickets for the event can be purchased at the Chicken Hut in Booneville. Match-time is set for 8:00.

Student Named To All-State Team

Karl Sexton, a student at Martin Hill Christian Academy, has been named to the All-State Academy basketball team, according to school officials.

Martin Hill recently placed fourth in the Christian Academy State Tournament held in Laurel, Miss.

Sexton had previously been selected as an all tournament performer in the Free Will Baptist Tournament held in Nashville, Tenn., earlier in the year.

During the Memphis Invitational Tournament, Sexton was chosen the Most Valuable Player. David Sexton, another Martin Hill player, received honorable mention in the same tournament.

A senior, Karl Sexton finished this season with a 35 point per game average spanning 28 games for Martin Hill.

Thrasher Announces April Tournament

By GREG SHOOK
Sports Writer

Thrasher High School announced plans Monday for the 2nd Annual Independent Basketball Tournament at Thrasher High School Gym. All proceeds will go to the Thrasher High School Athletic fund for the construction of the high school football field plus many other well needed causes.

The tournament will start April 2, however any team that wishes to participate should contact the high school or head basketball coach

Jackey Rowsey.

Teams will have to pay a $30 entry fee in the double elimination tournament. Bracket drawing for the tournament will be held March 29, at 7 p.m. in the Thrasher Gym. All teams should contact the school as soon as possible for the tournament.

Coach Rowsey said, "Last year we had about thirteen teams in the tournament. We raised around $1,600 and we are hoping for even a better turn-out this year in the tournament."

Cooking Wild Game Can Be A Fun And Money Saving Hobby

By NELDA STARKS
Nutrition Education Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Since hunting is very popular in Mississippi, every homemaker should master wild game cookery. This can also be a means of saving on the food budget. Combine a hobby and a savings and the result will be a very appetizing meal.

Game meat differs in flavor from domestic meat. Each species of game has its own distinctive flavor and aroma. Flavor is more strongly marked in older and more active animals in the exercised muscles and in the fat.

Venison comes from one of the more active game animals and may have a strong flavor. The quality of cooked venison depends to a great extent on the treatment the animal received when killed.

Cook venison the same as lean beef. Since venison has little fat, it corresponds in quality to beef carcasses with little or no external fat. It should be cooked the same way. The tender cuts such as the lion and rib can be pan fried or roasted. Round steak, meat from the legs and other less tender cuts are best when cooked by moist heat, braising, stewing, or pot roasting. Do not overcook venison. It has short fibers that toughen quickly if over-cooked or cooked at too high a temperature. Plan to serve it medium to well-done, never rare or overcooked.

Venison can be tenderized by adding acid such as vinegar, lemon juice, tomato juice, sour cream or cooking wine. Cover slices or chunks of meat with an acid marinade and allow to stand in the refrigerator overnight before cooking. Marinating will also reduce the gamey flavor. One kind of marinade is made by combining one fourth part vinegar, three fourths part water, sugar and seasonings of your choice.

Remove all visible fat from venison before cooking. The gamey flavor is exaggerated in the fat. If fat is desired, ground pork or beef fat may be substituted.

Since venison is a dry meat, moisten it to prevent dryness. Butter or margarine, beef fat or bacon will accomplish this.

Venison adds variety to meals and is high in nutritive value. It is an excellent source of high quality proteins, fats, minerals, iron, copper and phosphorus and the B vitamins; thiamin, niacin and riboflavin.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

The Lord Deserves Our True
And Complete Devotion

By C. D. Edge

A mother was about to leave on a long journey. Her sons wanted to show how much they cared for her. So each brought her a TOKEN OF HIS LOVE.

One gave a locket with her name inscribed on it.

Another presented her with a large bouquet of flowers.

The third son kissed her and said, "Mother, I'VE NO MONEY TO PURCHASE ANYTHING OF VALUE, BUT I HAVE A WARM HEART OF LOVE FOR YOU -- YOUR NAME WILL ALWAYS BE ENGRAVED THERE."

This act of deep affection pleased her the most.

Believer -- don't put anything or anybody ahead of the Lord Jesus. He deserves our TOTAL DEDICATION and HE DESERVES FIRST PLACE IN YOUR LOVE. I Corinthian 13:8 -- LOVE NEVER FAILS.

C.D. Edge, Pastor

Mississippi Part Of Governors' Association Study Team

Mississippi, Colorado, Iowa and Ohio have been selected by the National Governors' Association to participate on a 12-member national team in visiting and studying employment and training programs in the Federal Republic of Germany and Denmark March 31 to April 13.

The Federal Republic of Germany and Denmark were selected because of their well-developed employment and training systems and their activities in providing training and retraining opportunities in conjunction with the private sector.

"Mississippi and the other three states were selected from 17 states considered," said Beverly W. Hogan, executive director of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs and a member of the Mississippi team that will be participating.

Other members of the Mississippi team are Judy Rhodes, director of the Governor's Office of Job Development and Training, and Warren Cunningham, administrative manager of Hughes Aircraft Mississippi Inc. and a member of the State Job Training Coordinating Council.

"Among the key factor's in our state's selection," Ms. Hogan said,

"were Mississippi's progress in education and employment programs and Governor Allain's commitment to build upon insights gained on the visit through follow-up activities."

Mississippi's objectives for participating in the trip are to develop specific recommendations to strengthen the public-private partnership, including all persons in the employment and training field; for the public sector to ensure maximum efficiency in serving the needs of Mississippi citizens; for new and innovative ways of operating traditional vocational training programs in the state, including alternatives to classroom training; and develop specific recommendations in the job development and training field.

"Mississippi's selection was based upon the state's strong commitment to change and its plan for taking what it learned on the trip to help solve Mississippi's employment problems," said Evelyn Ganzglass, senior policy fellow, Office of Research and Development, National Governors' Association.

The trip is being funded by a grant to the National Governors' Association from the German Marshall Fund of the United States.

New Standards Announced By Small Business Administration

The U.S. Small Business Administration has issued new and simplified size standards that determine small business eligibility for the Agency's assistance programs.

Major size standard rulings include:

-- Wholesale trade will have a size standard of 500 employees.

-- The new limit for General construction is $17 million in annual sales. For special trade construction (such as painting or plumbing contractors), $7 million is the maximum.

-- The new standards are $4.5 million in annual receipts for gasoline service stations and $6 million for fuel oil retailers.

-- Agricultural services and forestry (but not logging or sawmills) are considered to be services and fall under the basic services' standard of $3.5 million in annual receipts.

-- Two agricultural industries -- nursery products and chicken eggs -- will have special standards of $500,000 and $1,000,000 respectively in annual receipts.

-- Dredging will have an interim standard of $9.5 million in annual receipts.

Specialist Urges Conservation Action In Mississippi

Mississippians can do much to improve soil, forest, water and wildlife. Living space is still abundant in the state, but we need to clean it up and make it healthier.

A 1984 Environmental Quality (EQ) index, published in a national wildlife magazine, indicates the nation is still losing ground in quality of wildlife, soil, minerals, forest and living space.

Of eight categories listed in the index, only air and water have shown improvements.

Mississippi ranks third in the nation in soil erosion. An average acre in the United States loses 6.8 tons of soil per acre each year. Five tons per year is a normal loss except on thin soils where two tons per acre would be better.

In Mississippi the average loss is 11 tons per acre per year. Very little soil erosion occurs in forests or pastureland except for gullies, and these can be restored and grassed over. Cropland and construction are where most soil erosion occurs. Leaving residues on the land, winter cover crops, mulches and conservation tillage can help reduce considerably erosion.

As erosion is controlled, water quality will improve. Irrigation on one-half million acres is increasing rapidly in Mississippi. In time this will cause more groundwater problems. The amount of groundwater in Mississippi is awesome with nearly three quadrillion gallons in storage. Even so, some areas are having municipal water shortages from groundwater problems. Better management in use of water is needed.

Forests help improve groundwater quantities, air quality, habitat for wildlife and produce wood for use in construction and paper production.

Land managers can help improve forests in the state by proper thinning and making sure each forest acre is fully stocked. Living among the forests of Mississippi is a great way of life.

Mineral production can be improved by making sure gravel and sand pits are shaped and seeded to ground cover as mining operations are concluded. Oil field and lignite sites should be cleaned up, stockpiled topsoil spread and returned to forest or crop production as operations are completed.

Wildlife can be benefitted by planting more food plots, improving upland habitat and wetlands with such things as duck and bluebird boxes or brushpiles for rabbit and game animals. There is really no idle acreage in Mississippi because that which appears idle may be producing wildlife or controlling erosion.

Air quality in Mississippi is good with little acid rain. Acid rain occurs when large quantities of sulphur dioxide is released by the air by coal-burning industries and power plants. What New Orleans does affects Mississippi living.

Turkey Season Is Now In Progress

Mississippi's first wild turkey hunting season of this year got underway Saturday, Mar. 17 and extends through April 9. The second season opens April 11 and closes May 1.

This year gobbler hunting will be permitted in all or parts of 77 counties. Five counties will have no turkey hunting.

The bag limit during the spring season is one gobbler per day, two per season, but no more than three during the license year. Hunting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

According to Department of Wildlife Conservation enforcement authorities in Jackson, hunters must have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going hunting.

Enforcement officers are reminding hunters that hunting turkeys over bait and/or with dogs, live decoys, or electrically operated calling or sound reproducing devices is prohibited.

This spring turkey hunting will be permitted on 25 state wildlife management areas, five more than in 1981. In addition hunting will be legal on some National Forest Service lands, and on Yazoo, Panther Swamp, and Noxubee National Wildlife Refuge.

Mississippi residents wanting to turkey hunt may purchase an all game hunting and fishing license for $13, or a sportsman's license for $25.
