Possible OD Death

An 18-year-old Booneville youth found dead last week at a Ridgeland children's home may have died of a drug overdose, according to authorities.

The body of Terry Burns, Booneville, was discovered Tuesday, May 10, in a restroom at the Sunnybrook Children's Home by a student in the home's educational complex.

According to Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Bowering, an autopsy ordered by Coroner Harry Baldwin was performed on May 10, but results are not yet available.

"Sometimes, it can take up to two weeks before we get them back," Bowering said.

Baldwyn Projects

Baldwyn Mayor Merle Rowan says things are picking up in his community.

Earlier this month it was announced that construction would begin soon to widen Highway 45 to three lanes. Rowan said the city is arranging to remove utilities from the right-of-way.

He said the new Southern Diversified Industries plant began limited operations three weeks ago with approximately 40 employees, and construction on the new railroad spur to serve that plant was scheduled to get underway Wednesday.

Site preparation for the new Mesker-Clark factory should begin next week, according to Rowan, who said plans call for an official groundbreaking ceremony "sometime in June."

The city is now in the process of looking for additional industrial park land, Rowan said.

He said construction work on the new water well and storage facility for the industrial park has not been delayed by the recent bad weather and is progressing nicely.

Directory Deadline

South Central Bell has announced that the closing date for making changes, corrections or additions to the Booneville telephone directory is June 1.

Tom Bailey, district manager, suggests that customers review their listings in the current directory as soon as possible to determine if any changes will need to be made in the new directory.

If any additions or changes are necessary, residence customers should call the Residence Service Center at 1-961-2288, toll free.

Business customers should call the Business Service Center at 1-960-3014.

Four area high schools will have graduation ceremonies within the next several weeks.

Graduation ceremonies at Jumpertown High School will be held Sunday, May 20, at 2 p.m. in the Jumpertown High School gymnasium.

Attorney General's Opinion

PCEPA Not Under Open Meetings Law

The state Attorney General's office has apparently decided that under present state statutes, Prentiss County Electric Power Association's board meetings are not subject to Mississippi's Open Meetings Law.

At the request of The Banner-Independent, several weeks ago Sen. John White asked for an attorney general's opinion as to whether cooperative power associations such as the PCEPA are included under the Open Meetings Law and must allow the public and the Press to attend monthly meetings of their boards of directors.

Sen. White told The Banner-Independent yesterday that he has received a preliminary, verbal, response to his request.

"They told me it has been determined that the framers of the Open Meetings Law neglected to include cooperative electric power associations in the organizations covered by the statute," Sen. White said.

"Therefore, evidently, the PCEPA board of directors does have the right to exclude persons without a specific reason for attending from their meetings," he said.

Sen. White said the attorney general's office will send him a written opinion within the next few days.

The Banner-Independent had asked the senator to request the attorney general's opinion after the newspaper was barred from the PCEPA board's March meeting.

The newspaper was represented at the meeting because property owners at Bay Springs Lake were expected to be there to discuss what appeared to be unreasonable fees for the extension of electrical service to their land. These land owners were expected to ask the PCEPA board to reconsider these fees.

Though a number of non-members apparently without specific business with the board were present at the March meeting, only the Press was asked to leave.

The Banner-Independent was also asked to leave the April meeting of the PCEPA Board.

In response to the attorney general's ruling that the PCEPA board is not subject to the Open Meetings Law, Sen. White indicated that there is a possibility he might introduce legislation that would place such organizations under the law.

"I intend to study the situation thoroughly and see what can be done to insure that the public is protected," he said.

"And, if it appears that legislation is the answer, I will do the best I can to promote such legislation during the next legislative session in January 1985," Sen. White said.

Solar Home Open Sunday

When is a new home not a typically-built dwelling? When it's designed with passive solar features, according to Michael W. Jacobs of the Tennessee Valley Authority, who said the TVA and the Prentiss County Homebuilders Association will sponsor a solar home open house Sunday, May 20, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Frank Street in Booneville.

"This 1,075 square foot house is the second such solar energy-efficient home built by local builder Charles Walden," Jacobs said.

TVA New Homes Coordinator Cal Smith and Herb Stonebrook, a TVA solar information specialist, will be present to answer questions, present slides and provide literature on the many phases of new energy-saving construction methods, he said.

Contractors and prospective new-homebuilders are invited to discuss house plans, siding arrangements, solar options and energy conservation during the open house. Information about area homes built and occupied in the past year will also be available, Jacobs said.

"One misconception about solar homes is that they are all different looking than ordinary homes. But, some aren't," Jacobs said.

"Some solar devices which are sensitive to seasonal Sun variations are south-facing windows with overhangs, sunspaces or solar greenhouses, solar wall heaters and solar walls of various designs," he said.

According to Smith, over 50 percent of winter heat is supplied by having a passive solar home. "It is designed to save on both cooling and heating," he explained.

"This home (the one to be on display) has passive solar features designed so they are not noticeable," Smith said. "Its roof overhangs the south-facing win-

Baptist Hospital May Get 'CAT' Scan

Baptist Memorial Hospital in Booneville is in the process of working out the details to obtain the services of a mobile computerized tomography (cat scan), according to Hospital Administrator John Tompkins.

"It looks very positive that we will be able to work out an agreement with Sunbelt Medical Services," Tompkins said Wednesday.

"We should have the details worked out in the next two to three weeks."

Computerized tomography (CT) is an x-ray technique that has revolutionized the diagnosis and treatment of diseases in the head and body, he said.

In the past, patients requiring these tests have been transferred to other hospitals.

"By having this service available, patients will no longer have to go to Corinth or Tupelo for these particular tests," Tompkins said.

The mobile CT service is located between the hospital and the First United Methodist Church. Tompkins said that if the service agreement is reached, the CT unit will be based in Booneville where it will be available in the mornings. It will be available to other area hospitals in the afternoons.

Computerized tomography is so effective and accurate that its use has reduced the need for risky and complicated tests, Tompkins said.

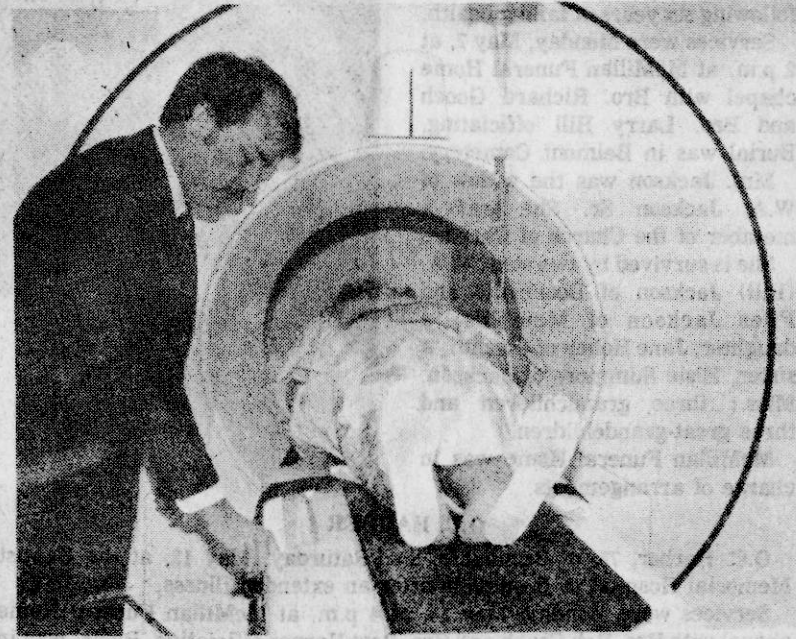

"The CT scanning technique is especially useful for visualizing abnormalities of soft tissues in the brain. Using this device, doctors can now distinguish between different types of strokes, detect whether organic brain damage is the cause of certain types of insanity, and visualize lesions of the optic nerves.

"In the body, CT scans can reveal large tumors in the liver, pancreas, kidney, ruptured disc, and other structures. These tumors would be invisible with conventional x-rays."

Projected applications include differentiating between such abnormalities as cysts, abscesses and tumors - determining whether tumors are benign or malignant - monitoring complications that may follow surgery and checking on the results of cancer therapy, he said.

"Another important advantage is that the CT scanner can be used for patients in the hospital and outside. They can reduce the number of hospital admissions and shorten the length of a hospital stay. For these reasons, CT scanners have been hailed as one of the outstanding medical innovations of the 1980s," he said.

BIBLE QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Mr. Hogland, do you know whether or not they had church buildings back in Bible times?

WARD HOGLAND

ANSWER: Actually, I do not know whether they had church buildings back in Bible times. However, I do know they are authorized in the word of God. One must understand that authority is established in the Bible by either general or specific commands. For example when the Lord told his disciples to "go" (Matt. 28:18, 19) he used a general command. The apostles had a choice of riding or walking. Either would be acceptable. On the other hand when God told Noah to build the ark, he used a specific called gopher wood. Noah did not have a choice in the kind of wood. With reference to worship God has told us to "assemble" (Heb. 10:25) but has not specified the PLACE to assemble. Therefore it is a matter of our choice. The meeting house or church building, as it is called is authorized under the general command to assemble. Had the Lord specified that we assemble in a private home the meeting house would be wrong. Since he gave us a general rather than a specific command with reference to the PLACE to assemble we are at liberty to assemble in a church building, rented hall or a private home.

Miss. Highway Patrol Honors State Troopers Killed In The Line Of Duty

In conjunction with Law Enforcement Week, Mississippi Highway Patrol officers across the state remembered MHP troopers Sunday who have been killed in the line of duty.

Four area troopers participated in a brief ceremony Sunday at Forked Oak cemetery where they placed a spray of flowers at the grave of Herbert Nixon. Officer Nixon was killed in an auto accident in 1951 while on his way to Booneville to investigate another accident.

MHP troopers participating in the ceremony were Hubert McDaniels, Jerry Howie, Russell Kyle and Perry Lansdell. Nixon's widow and other family members were also present.

May 13 through 19 was proclaimed Law Enforcement Week in Mississippi by Gov. Bill Allain. He also urged Mississippians to honor law enforcement officers who have been killed in the line of duty.

An annual salute to police officers was begun in 1963 when President John F. Kennedy proclaimed May 15 as Peace Officers Memorial Day.

"I hope the citizens of our state take the time during this special week to reflect on the demanding and thankless job our peace officers are asked to perform," Allain said.

"Their role in modern society is vital but often misunderstood. They deserve our encouragement and support, but they are many times verbally abused and physically attacked.

The ceremony at Nixon's gravesite was one of 18 similar ceremonies held throughout the state Sunday.

Three law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty during 1983.

MHP Trooper Steve Gardner was killed March 23 by a man he had ticketed earlier that day. Trooper Danny Nash was killed Feb. 4 by two prison escapees from Georgia who had earlier burglarized two rural southwest Mississippi stores. Ernest Clyde Hull, a constable from Alcorn County, was stabbed to death with a butcher knife May 23 while making an arrest.

MHP TROOPER REMEMBERED - In observance of Law Enforcement Week, Mississippi Highway Patrol Troopers (l-r) Jerry Howie, Russell Kyle, Perry Lansdell, and Hubert McDaniel placed a spray of flowers at the grave of Officer Herbert Nixon who is buried in Forked Oak Cemetery. Officer Nixon was killed in an auto accident in 1951 while on his way to Booneville to investigate another accident. (Photo by Kenneth Christian)

IS ONE SAVED BY GRACE?

Some who claim that they are saved by grace, believe that salvation is by grace alone. Grace refers to the unmerited, unearned, and undeserved favor of God. The grace of God makes salvation possible. (Titus 2:11) Grace came by Jesus Christ. (John 1:17) All who are saved will be saved by grace. (Eph. 2:8)

Salvation by grace does not mean grace alone, because Paul stated it was through faith. Grace is God's part and faith is man's part of salvation. One is saved by grace, but he must also have a saving faith, which works by love. (Gal. 5:6)

Man cannot save himself, but that does not mean that man is passive. The kind of works condemned are works of the law. (Rom. 3:20, 27, 28) Works of righteousness are essential in one's salvation. (Matt. 3:15)

Salvation is a gift. (Rom. 6:23) For the exchange of a gift, there must be a giver and a receiver. God is the giver and man is the recipient. Conditions can be and often are connected with a gift. (Joshua 6:2) We can receive the gift when we meet the necessary conditions.

Both Paul and the Ephesians were saved by grace. Both did something in order to be saved by grace. (Acts 22:16, Acts 19:1-5) Salvation was a gift for both, but conditions had to be met in order to receive the gift.

Salvation is by grace through faith and is a gift, but conditions must be met to receive the gift. Have you met the conditions in order to be saved by grace through faith?

QUESTION: What are your plans after graduation and how does it feel to be a high school senior?

JOE CISSOM, Jumpertown High School senior: "I guess I'm going to work and go to Northeast Junior College this fall. I'm proud to be graduating."

TRACEY AGNEW, Jumpertown High School senior: "I'm going to find a good job - maybe in a factory. I'm really happy to be graduating."

JACKIE BLASSIN-GAME, Jumpertown High School senior: "I'm going to Northeast Junior College and study nursing and then I hope I can work at the Booneville hospital. If I go back to school after that, I'll specialize in being a pediatrician. I've been glad about graduating - but now I'm kind of sad. I hate leaving my friends."

JENNIFER YATES, Jumpertown High School senior: "I'm going to get a job and save some money to go to college at either Northeast or Blue Mountain. I'd like to major in psychology because that appeals to me. I'm kind of sad about leaving everyone at school. I've grown up here."

CHARLES DURHAM, Jumpertown High School senior: "I'm going to find a good paying job - but what I don't know. It feels like a privilege to be a senior and to finally get out of school."

ALISSA FUGITT, Jumpertown High School senior: "I'll go to Northeast and major in data processing. In a way I hate to graduate because I've got to get out in the 'big world.' I'll miss everyone here."

Ponderings

By Angela Smith

Staff Reporter

It's too bad there isn't a strawberry picking event featured in the Olympics. It could be a very competitive sport.

Just last Wednesday my colleague Norma and I journeyed to the Denson's farm in New Site and picked four gallons of luscious strawberries.

There are two versions of any story - especially the one I am about to tell. I will present my version since it is the most sincere.

WHEN WE arrived at the farm Norma said, "Angela, I'll give you $5 if you'll pick my strawberries, too."

Knowing that the exercise would be good for Norma, I declined.

Here's part of how the conversation went as we picked strawberries.

Norma: "How long have we been picking?" Angela: "Two minutes."

Norma: "I'm thirsty."

Occasionally Norma would take a break from picking strawberries to stand and gaze at the scenery.

Norma: "I'm tired."

Angela: "Keep picking. Just think how good they will taste."

Norma then tasted a strawberry. After that it was all I could do to keep her from eating the entire strawberry patch.

From then on if I wasn't careful, when I had my back turned she would empty my bucket of strawberries over into her bucket.

AS YOU CAN well imagine, by this time I, quick strawberry picker that I am, had picked two gallons of juicy red strawberries.

And being the generous soul that I am, I helped Norma pick her second bucket of strawberries.

As we drove away Norma commented, "We really should come back next week and pick some more strawberries."

If you ask Norma her version of the story she will probably claim that she actually helped me pick my strawberries.

But you know the real story.

'84 Legislative Session Deemed 'Productive'

By SENATOR JOHN WHITE

The 1984 Regular Session of the Legislature was, in my opinion, productive with some major legislation passed, such as reorganization of state government, sovereign immunity, homestead exemption increase, elimination of dual registration and a proposed Constitutional amendment dealing with ethics of public officials.

However, I am disappointed that a compromise on a tax revenue package was not reached. The Senate held firm to its position that the state's financial situation needs to be stabilized. Therefore, the Senate proposed a variety of tax increases to spread the burden as fairly as possible and provide for a long-range solution to the financial problem.

The House of Representatives only wanted to extend the six percent sales tax for a short-term solution to the problem.

Because of no substantial increase in state revenue expected for next year, other than, hopefully, more sales tax brought in by tourists on the way to the World's Fair, we had to fund state agencies and programs at about the level they are receiving this year which could cause some cutbacks due to inflation.

The following is a summation of the major pieces of legislation which we acted on this year:

Reorganization of State Government: This bill mandated by a court ruling which said legislators can no longer serve on state boards and commissions, reorganizes a number of state boards and grants more authority to the Governor by giving him more appointments to these boards and more authority for their operations.

Responsibility for the state budget is split among three bodies. The Governor's office will submit a proposed budget to the Legislative Budget Office. The Legislature has final approval for adoption of a budget and appropriation of funds. A new Fiscal Management Board will oversee the daily operations of the budget when the Legislature is not in session. The board is composed of the Governor and two persons appointed by him.

The bill also reduces the number of persons on some boards to provide for more efficiency in state government. The bill has been signed into law by the Governor.

Dual Registration: The intent of this bill is to make it as convenient as possible for all citizens to register to vote. The bill eliminates the requirement that you must register to vote at city hall to be eligible to vote in municipal elections and at the county courthouse to vote in all other

'High Price' Exacted For Power Separation

By BILL MINOR
Syndicated Columnist

JACKSON, Miss - The Legislature, kicking and screaming all the way, has been made to comply with the separation of powers provision in the State Constitution, but not before exacting a high price for its compliance.

Things went right to the brink on Capitol Hill here before the lawmakers would give up on the basic power in the reorganization of state government boards mandated by the state Supreme Court, namely, the management of state finances.

Rather than go to the limit and force a veto of the massive reorganization bill by Gov. Bill Allain, the legislative leadership decided not to risk an attempted override vote, and yielded on the basic points raised by Allain.

There's no doubt that Allain's stature as a tough adversary for the Legislature grew considerably out of the reorganization showdown.

Two key votes - one in the Senate and one in the House which are viewed as the litmus test for sustaining his veto - can now form a base of support for administration programs, many feel, if Allain is willing to cultivate those 50 House members and 23 Senators who stood on his side.

But in getting much of what he demanding in the realignment of fiscal authority, Allain was forced to accept in the massive bill an expensive duplicate budget machinery that will be run by the Legislature.

The irony of it is that House Speaker Buddie Newman and 34 other House members who joined him in a statement put into the House journal blame the Supreme Court for forcing the creation of a duplicate budget planning body when it stripped lawmakers from the State Budget Commission.

Newman and his recalcitrant 34 described the Budget Commission which the court has "destroyed," as "one of the best, if not the best, state budgetary systems in the nation."

Somehow that loud accolade for the outgoing Budget Commission has a hollow ring. Newman, et al, apparently have conveniently forgotten that the enviable Budget Commission for the past three years masterminded state budgets which were underfunded by a quarter of a billion dollars.

What we will now have in Mississippi will be two separate budgets being proposed to the Legislature - one by the governor, prepared by his new budget office, and another by the Legislature itself, through its new Legislative Budget Committee.

County School Report

Transportation Holds Board's Attention

By J.W. GREENE
Prentiss County
Superintendent of Schools

At the present time the county school board is focusing a lot of attention on our transportation system.

We have a fleet of 62 buses with drivers, male and female, of various ages. Transportation of children to and from school and the Vo-Tech Center is very costly business.

Recently the VICA GM Diesel Company of Memphis sent a 1980 diesel bus with an automatic transmission to us for demonstration and comparison purposes. This bus was sent to each school, driven by several different drivers on their routes for the purpose of evaluating its performance.

Buying new buses or used buses to replace some of the older ones means borrowing money. In 1978 three new buses were purchased by this district. We still owe $9,680 on these buses.

During the separation of school districts, one of these new buses, Bus 58, was given to the Booneville school district; however, we continued making the payments. So for several years we have paid around $3,226 each year for a bus that another school district uses.

Keeping our old buses running means high repair bills. In looking at repairs we are seeing that drivers can make a big difference.

One bus in our fleet needed around $8,000 in repairs over a six-year period, while another bus of the same age needed only $1,800. Figures like these are causing us to look closely at the maintenance and care the buses receive, which is primarily the responsibility of the driver.

The board and I welcome any input from parents on matters concerning transportation.

Recently a county staff banquet was held at Northeast Junior College with about 96 percent of our staff in attendance.

One purpose of the banquet was to honor four employees who are retiring at the end of this school term. They are: Mr. William Fraser, principal at Wheeler; Mr. Earl Padgett, agriculture teacher at Thrasher; Mrs. Willie Frances Rutherford, business teacher at the Vo-Tech Center; and Mrs. Joyce Smith, 4th grade teacher at Wheeler.

Each of these retirees was presented with a plaque in appreciation of their years of service to the Prentiss County School District.

Before concluding this column, I want to briefly mention consolidation. I know the subject is one of concern to many people in this county.

A few days ago I received a letter from the State Educational Finance Commission which recently gathered data on districts and schools in Mississippi.

The information they gathered is now in the computer and will be analyzed shortly. After this is done, the criteria for districts and schools will be established, and the plan of reorganization and consolidation will be formulated. So we should be hearing from the State in the near future regarding consolidation.

This issue is no longer one to be argued among ourselves. Decisions regarding consolidation are no longer local decisions. With the advent of House Bill No. 4 and the newly formed State Lay Board of Education in Mississippi, our fate will be decided for us.

Whatever is mandated by the State, it is my hope that the people of Prentiss County will cooperate for the good of our educational system. I'll keep you up-to-date as I learn more about the consolidation plan.

UDC Members Hear About Camp Douglas, Ill. & Corporal Blanchard

The members of the D.T. Beall Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy heard an account of Camp Douglas, Ill., when they met for their May meeting at the Different Drummer Restaurant.

Mrs. John Curlee presented the program.

Camp Douglas was a military training and recruitment center for Illinois volunteers, she said.

It covered 60 acres and was once a part of Senator Douglas' "Oakwald" estate.

Today this spot is covered in high-rise apartments and ribbons of asphalt with cars rushing in all directions.

Mrs. Curlee told the narrative of a soldier Corporal J.G. Blanchard. He lost an arm during the struggle in the War Between the States and although he escaped prison for a time, he was captured.

Miss. Curlee said he endured much and devised well thought out plans for escaping more than one time during his imprisonment.

In 1864 he was Inspector General on the staff of Major General Cheatham, being severely wounded during the Georgia Campaign at Kennesaw Mountain.

After Hood's defeat at Nashville he was ordered on detached services at Jackson, Miss., in May 1865.

He lived in New Orleans as retired and quiet in civil life as he was dashing and enthusiastic in war, Mrs. Curlee said.

Sons Of American Revolution Meet

Thomas Wallis, Vice-President and Program Chairman for the evening, extended the welcome and introduced Mrs. Martha Jane Lamphere of Tupelo who presented a program on the history of flags of the United States.

She showed several examples of flags of early design and also distributed copies of "Our Flag" and presented flags to those present.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Stephen Bryant, Tupelo, and Mrs. Irene S. Wallis of Baldwin.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 4. Lineal descendants of a Revolutionary War soldier or patriot are invited to inquire about membership requirements.

Rotary Club Gives Paul Harris Fellowship Award To Late Travis McCharen

The Booneville Rotary Club has posthumously awarded the club's highest honor, the Paul Harris Fellowship Award, to Travis McCharen who died March 14.

Born in Toccoola, Miss., on Oct. 5, 1904, McCharen became a member of the Booneville Rotary Club when he moved to the city in 1969 and remained active in the club as long as his health would permit.

McCharen was married for more than 50 years to Elizabeth Price Mitchell McCharen. They have two daughters, Mary Elizabeth Streete and Martha Ellen Swan, and four grandchildren.

Prior to moving to Booneville, McCharen taught school and coached basketball at Houlika. In 1943 he joined the New Albany division of the State Vocational Rehabilitation Department for a year and then the Oxford division for one year.

In 1945, he was promoted to the state office in Jackson, becoming the state director of vocational rehabilitation in 1948. He remained in that position until his retirement in 1969.

McCharen was credited with pioneering the Mental Health Association and always remained active in the cause.

After moving to Booneville, he served, among other things, as president of the Prentiss County Chapter of the Mental Health Association, president of the Prentiss County Retired Teachers Association, and served on the board of the Prentiss County Cancer Association.

In a resolution adopted by the Booneville Rotary Club, McCharen was praised for his service to the club and to the community. The resolution states in part:

"It was through his avenue (the Rotary Club) that he was able to contribute to the betterment of this community. It was his vast experience in public service, his unlimited influence in and knowledge of state government and the innumerable friends throughout the state which allowed him to bring in numerous informative programs.

"Travis McCharen was always ready and willing to impart his extensive knowledge of bee keeping, organic farming, horticulture, wildlife conservation and nature to any interested individual, especially young people. It was his persistent, personal pursuit of these pleasures which personified the man.

"His exemplary personal life encompassed his family and his warmth made him a memorable neighbor. . . his life reflected a devout and deep religious heritage.

"All the many facets of his life - educator, administrator, pioneer and leader in his profession, civic leader, family man, churchman - were committed to others and manifest the highest ideals of Rotary as conveyed in the motto. . . 'Service above self - He profits most who serves best.'"

ASCS Report

The Banner-Independent

By C.E. CALVERT
County Executive Director

Farmers Put 183
Acres in Long-Term
Conservation Program

Farm program participants in Prentiss County placed 183 acres of highly-erodible cropland in a long-term acreage conservation reserve program. The land will be retired from crop production for five or 10 years.

The special conservation program was initiated to encourage more farmers to reduce soil erosion and improve natural resources by establishing long-term conservation practices on cropland taken out of production by the 1984 acreage reduction programs.

Under the program, farmers will receive 90 percent of the cost of planting grass or trees rather than crops on highly-erodible land. Acres enrolled in the program are classified as highly erodible because the land is eroding by at least twice the tolerance level.

On the average, a loss of up to five tons per acre is considered tolerable.

By seeding 183 acres to grass and planting 5 acres to trees, Prentiss County farmers could conserve 9,955 tons of top soil over the next five years.

The experimental project is expected to help determine the effectiveness of combining a useful short-term commodity program objective with a long-term conservation objective. It will provide an opportunity to evaluate the willingness of farmers to make a long-term commitment to retire highly erodible land instead of planting crops on it.

ASCS Announces Deadline
For Commodity Loans

Price support loans on 1983 corn, sorghum, cotton and soybeans may be obtained until May 31st.

County loan rates are: corn, $2.82 per bushel; sorghum, $4.52 per cwt.; cotton, 57.90 base loan rate and soybeans, $5.08 per bushel.

Each loan rate is based on a national average rate which varies from county to county to reflect prices received by farmers, production and consumption trends and transportation costs.

As of May 14, local producers had obtained federal price support loans on more than 55,158 bushels of their 1983 grain crops.

The commodity loan program provides immediate cash for farmers and allows them time to access the market or to hold grain for feeding later. Farmers may repay the money before the nine-month maturity date.

To be eligible for price support loans, on cotton, corn and sorghum, producers are required to participate in farm programs. Other farm program benefits include target price payments (deficiency payments) and use of the grain reserve.

Corn and sorghum will be eligible to be placed in the grain reserve when the regular price support loan matures. The reserve program offers farmers three-year loans and storage payments to hold their crops off the market until prices reach stated levels.

Both programs are designed to strengthen market prices.

All corn in farmer-owned grain reserves IV and V will remain in release status through May 31, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Oats also will remain in release status through May 31.

Rank said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review today by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation of average market prices, as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.

On May 1, the adjusted price for corn was $3.26 per bushel, 11 cents above the release level of $3.15 for reserve IV corn and 1 cent above the release level of $3.25 for reserve V corn.

The adjusted price for oats was $1.75, 10 cents above the release level.

Daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis. The daily market reviewed for oats in Minneapolis.

For reserve IV and V corn loans, storage payments stopped and interest resumed on May 1. Storage payments stopped and interest resumed Feb. 1 for oats.

Each year the Soil Conservation Service receives several questions concerning fish ponds.

The two major questions are: Can I catch bigger fish by fertilizing my pond? and do weeds hurt a farm pond and should I eliminate them? The answer to the first question is yes.

Proper liming and fertilizing will increase the number and size of fish in a pond. Introducing the proper fertilization in a pond will increase the fertility of the water and consequently produce more food for all fish species.

Fertilizing a farm pond is much like fertilizing a backyard garden. The gardener introduces nutrients into the soil so they will be absorbed by the fruits and vegetables growing there.

The same is true of the pond environment. Once fertilization has been initiated, it must be kept up. Better never to start than not to continue a fertilization schedule.

To answer the second question, this may come as a surprise to some, but weeds don't always hurt a pond.

Weeds act to provide food and cover for various aquatic organisms and fish. However, excessive vegetation can ruin any pond; especially shallow, clear ponds. In this type of situation, weeds can become so dense that fishing is difficult, if not impossible.

Too many dense weeds could cause an oxygen shortage that can kill fish. Also, they can absorb an abnormal amount of nutrients that would otherwise go into the food chain and ultimately to the fish. Weed problems should be checked and if they are a problem should be eliminated.

If you need help with identification and solutions to weed problems, call your local Soil Conservation Service.

In order for pine trees in a young pine plantation to grow properly, they need two things: room to expand and full sunlight on the crown.

These two factors can be produced by thinning, but many people are concerned about damage caused by loggers working in a thick stand.

Here's a way to get the benefits of thinning and hold damage to a minimum-row thinning. It works this way - simply remove every third row of trees.

This gives the remaining two rows of trees full sunlight from one side, and gives the loggers room to work, since they make a logging road as they go.

If you wish to remove diseased or deformed trees on the "leave" rows, the loggers can easily reach them from this ready-made log road without maneuvering equipment among uncut trees.

Here are a couple of final comments on thinning that will help you make the right decision.

The minimum merchantable size for pine pulpwood is five inches in diameter at breast height. "Breast Height" is a standard unit used in forestry, and it means 4½ feet above the ground. In other words, the tree must measure 5" through the trunk at 4½ feet above the ground.

Here's an easy way to measure your trees to see if they are large enough to thin: Get a cloth tape measure, such as the type used by dressmakers. Measure around the tree at 4½ feet above the ground.

If the tree measures 16 inches around, it's 5" through and is large enough to sell.

FCIC Announces Final Planting Dates

May 25 is the final planting date for insured cotton in Prentiss County, according to Ralph Gillespie, Supervisor for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

"Acres of cotton planted by May 25, insured by FCIC (or by a private company reinsured by FCIC), must be reported by June 10 to receive full crop insurance coverage," Gillespie said.

Acreage planted after May 25 should also be reported on the June 10 acreage report (in the "remarks" section) as being planted too late for insurance coverage.

"The final planting date of May 25 is the latest date established by FCIC to plant and expect a normal crop to be produced. Crops initially planted after this date are not insurable unless a late planting agreement is signed by the final planting date," Gillespie said.

May 20 is the final planting date for insured corn according to Gillespie. "Acres of corn planted by May 20, insured by FCIC (or by a private company reinsured by FCIC), must also be reported by June 10," Gillespie said.

Acreage planted after May 20 should also be reported on the June 10 acreage report (in the "remarks" section) as being planted too late for insurance coverage.

Farmers wishing to discuss local conditions, such as excessive moisture, that may affect planting should contact their local, authorized crop insurance agent as soon as possible.

'Farmweek' Looks At Beef Fat Content

Much has been written recently on the fat content of beef, which may be harmful to some people's health. Farmweek reporters take a look at the other side of the story by interviewing Jay Wardell from the National Livestock and Meat Board, who contends that beef's nutritional values far outweigh any drawbacks from its fat content.

Also discussed are tactics being used to improve the "image" of beef.

Whether you like it or not the lawn mowing season is here. A lawn mower that works well is a must for anyone with a lawn. But if not used with care, it can cause burns, amputate fingers or toes, or send sticks and stones flying. So keep these 12 safety tips in mind:

Make any cutting-height adjustment before you fuel or start up. Check blade tightness occasionally (disconnect spark-plug wire first).

To avoid fire or explosion, fill gas tank outdoors, while mower is off. If it runs out of gas while in use, allow it to cool off before refilling. Wipe up all spills before restarting.

Before you start cutting, pick up any loose objects on your lawn to keep them from being broken up into pieces and thrown by the mower blade.

Remember that grass catchers do more than just catch grass - they can also help to stop anything thrown by the blade.

Don't mow wet grass - it's too slippery. An accidental fall may bring you into contact with the blade. Wet grass also tends to clog the discharge chute, often tempting people to clear it with a toe or fingers while the motor is running. The result is, too often, one less toe or finger. It also increases the shock hazard of electric mowers.

For pull-rope or crank starting, brace yourself securely by placing your nearest foot onto the mower housing. Start mower outside, so exhaust fumes don't accumulate in an enclosed space.

Use only a heavy-duty, brightly colored extension cord designed for outdoor use on electric mowers. If the mower has a three-pronged plug, use a three-pronged cord; double-insulated mowers require only two-wire cords. It's a good idea to keep the cord out of the way to prevent it from being cut or damaged.

Pushing is safer than pulling because you can see the mower. When you must pull it backwards (you're against a wall or fence, for example), be sure your toes are out of the way.

When mowing, watch out for changes in terrain that might upset you or the mower. If yours is a walk-behind mower, cut across hills; this way if you or the machine slips, you won't collide. But, if you have a riding mower, go directly up and down hills, to prevent sideways turnover.

Children tend to be fascinated by a lawn mower. Keep them far away while you're using it; never leave a mower running if you aren't there.

Clean and safety-check your mower periodically during the mowing season. Be sure all the safety devices are attached securely and correctly. Disconnect the spark-plug wire before you do any work on the mower. To work on the blade, use a block of wood to wedge it against turning.

If you have any doubt about how to adjust, tighten or sharpen your mower, see an expert. It's a good idea, too, to have it inspected annually.

By WAYNE LAND
Extension 4-H Agent

All flowering plants are essentially the same. They have roots, stems, leaves, flowers and seeds, even though they may go unrecognized since they are so varied in form. Each part is vital, and youth in 4-H gardening projects learn what these parts do so they can give their plants better care.

The roots hold the plant in place and take up necessary substances from the soil: water, nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, and trace elements such as zinc, manganese, and boron. Roots do not manufacture food. By the process of osmosis, they simply take up liquid that is suspended between the particles of soil and start it on its upward journey.

Liquids from the soil are passed through the stems to the leaves. The nutrient manufactured by the leaves is then circulated to all parts of the plant. The stems provide the framework that supports the plant, and in some plants like trees and shrubs, also have the capacity of storing food for later use.

The main purpose of leaves is to convert the chemical elements of air and water into nutrients that the plant can use. This complex transformation of energy called photosynthesis is the basis of all plant growth. It can only take place in sunlight (or the proper artificial light) and only when the leaf contains the green pigment chlorophyll.

For the 4-H gardener, the flowers on a plant may be the ultimate goal. From the point of view of the plant, they are just an intermediate step on the way to the all important production of seed.

When the seed of a flowering plant has ripened, the cycle of growth is complete and the plant begins to die or become dormant. You can prevent the production of seed and prolong the season of bloom by snipping off the old flowers. With some plants, this will add extra color to your garden.

For more information on the 4-H garden project, contact the Prentiss County Extension Office at 728-5631 or 728-7092.

FOOD PRESERVATION - It's the time of year to think about food preservation because, hopefully, gardens will soon be producing an abundance of food. Patty Robinson, Prentiss County Extension Home Economist, will conduct a food preservation workshop Tuesday, May 22, at the Prentiss County Extension Office, at 1:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Extension Service To Present
Food Preservation Workshop

A food preservation workshop will be presented at the Prentiss County Extension office Tuesday, May 22, at 1:30 p.m.

The program will be conducted by Mrs. Patty Robinson, extension home economist.

Mrs. Melissa Mixon, food preservation specialist, will present the information with emphasis on canning and drying foods.

Mrs. Mixon will demonstrate the proper use of the pressure canner to assure a safe product.

If proper canning procedures are not followed, there is a concern that toxic botulism will occur which can cause very serious illness or even death.

Mrs. Mixon will also discuss the water bath canner and the high acid foods appropriate to can by this method.

Drying foods is another art that is gaining in popularity. Mrs. Mixon will discuss proper procedures and demonstrate how to make fruit leather and beef jerky.

Other topics will include information on jelly making and pickling.

Those attending the workshop will receive a free packet of information related to food safety, canning, drying and freezing foods.

ANDERSON FAN DEDICATION
— A substantial crowd of Anderson Junior High PTO members turned out for the final meeting of the year May 3 in the Anderson gym. One portion of the meeting featured a short concert by the Anderson Sixth Grade Band under the direction of Greg Fant (above). The focal point of the meeting was the presentation of 31 ceiling fans like those in the lower photo to the school. The fans were purchased and installed by PTO members. (Photos by Ed Woodward)

Anderson PTO Dedicated Fans Purchased For School

Thirty-one ceiling fans purchased and installed by the Parent-Teacher Organization at Anderson Junior High School were officially presented to the school at the PTO's final meeting of the school year, Thursday night, May 3.

Organization President Bill Murphy said the fans were paid for entirely with donations from area, businesses, industries and individuals.

"Those donations included five of $100, five of $50 and 14 miscellaneous donations," Murphy said.

PTO vice-president Conley Keenum said that wiring for the fans was paid for by the Booneville Board of Education.

Murphy offered special recognition to the workers who installed the fans. They were Pete Scott, Benny Burcham, Julian Johnson, Hal Wilcox and Dennie Ray Richardson.

The fans were then symbolically presented to the school as Murphy presented small, folding, Japanese paper fans to Anderson Principal Howard Long and City School Superintendent R.D. Griffin.

In addition to the fan dedication, PTO members heard three numbers by the Anderson Sixth Grade Band, under the direction of Greg Fant.

Recognition and awards were also given to the school's teachers, honor students and football team by the PTO.

After adjournment of the meeting, members were given an opportunity to inspect the fans, and to view a student arts and crafts exhibition.

Ayes

elections.

You will now be able to register at either city hall or at the courthouse and be eligible to vote in all elections. Also, at designated times and places approved by the county board of supervisors, voter registration will take place at other locations throughout the precincts.

Before this law can go into effect, it must be approved by the federal Justice Department.

Homestead Exemption: Many of us were afraid that the reappraisal of property for tax purposes might result in a shift of the tax burden from the utilities to homeowners, businessowners and farmers. In order to lessen the increase for homeowners, we increased the homestead exemption from $5,000 to $7,500 with this to decrease over the next several years.

However, many Senators are not pleased with this and have said that further tax relief will be sought in the 1985 Legislative Session. We also passed a bill setting the assessment ratios for property for ad valorem taxation at 15 percent for real and personal property and at 30 percent for automobiles and utilities.

Ethics: In the November general election when we vote for a President of the U.S., we will also have the opportunity to approve an amendment to the Mississippi Constitution which deals with ethics of public officials. This amendment prohibits public officials from doing business with or having an interest in a business which contracts with the level of government in which he serves. I urge all of you to vote for adoption of this amendment.

Sovereign Immunity: This bill extends sovereign immunity (which prohibits governmental bodies from being sued) until July 1, 1985 for the state and October 1, 1985 for political subdivisions such as cities and counties. After that, individuals may sue the governmental bodies in certain cases with a $500,000 claim limit.

Education: A bill to provide for one type of school district to replace the five current types passed the Senate but died in the House.

One bill which passed both the Senate and the House creates a school for gifted high school juniors and seniors to be located on the Mississippi University for Women campus. The school will have about 200 students with each district having at least one student if there is a student who academically qualifies.

Drinking Age: The Senate passed a bill raising the minimum drinking age from 18 to 19, but the bill was killed in the House.

Flood Control: A bill was passed and signed into law to allow the Pearl River Basin Development District to sponsor flood control projects.

However, any three counties in the district may veto any project.

Medicaid: The Medicaid spending ceiling was raised by $4 million. Also, fraudulent use of the Medicaid Program was made a felony.

Criminal Law: Any person sentenced to die for a crime after July 1 will be executed by lethal injection rather than the present method of the gas chamber. Also, the appeals process for criminals was shortened. Another extended the Corrections Department for two years and provided for the hiring of a Superintendent at Parchman. State prisoners can now be used for work details outside of the penitentiary grounds.

Lottery: A proposal to allow for a state lottery was not reported out of the Senate Constitution Committee.

Boards of Supervisors: Measures to allow boards of supervisors, at their discretion, to dig graves and maintain access roads for private individuals were both killed in the House.

Racketeering: The Racketeering and Corrupt Organization Act has been signed into law. It allows for seizure of property used in drug trafficking and other forms of organized crime and also for businesses financed by illegally acquired money to be confiscated.

Interest Rates: This bill, which sets the maximum interest rates on loans, extends the current law for two years. The provisions to allow banks to charge a fee for credit cards was not in the final version of the bill.

Child-Napping: This bill makes it a felony to take a child from the state without permission of the legal guardian.

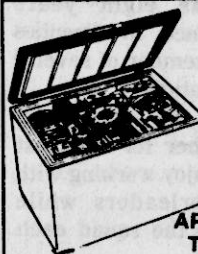

Women's Vote: The Constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote was finally ratified this year.

Trespassing: This prohibits a person from entering on another's land without permission of the owner.

I have enjoyed serving you this year and hope that you are pleased with my actions. I certainly appreciate all the calls and letters giving me your opinion and I encourage you to continue to keep me advised on your wishes on legislation. Thank you for the opportunity to serve and I look forward to representing you for the next three and one-half years.

Booneville Schools

In Project Child Find

The Booneville Municipal Separate School District is currently involved in its Child Find Project.

This project is concerned with locating children within the community who are in need of, but not receiving, services from some type of special education program.

These programs include children who are mentally retarded, visually handicapped, hearing impaired, speech handicapped, learning disabled, physically handicapped, emotionally disturbed, or developmentally delayed.

The purpose of locating these children is for future planning for their individual needs. The school district needs help in locating these children.

They are asking the public to refer to them any child from the age of birth through 21 with any handicapping conditions.

Referrals should be made by contacting the District Child Finder, Martha Weatherford, at 728-2171, or P.O. Box 387, Booneville, MS 38829.

It is the responsibility of the "Child Finder" to make the public aware of the kinds of handicapped children and their right to a free, appropriate education and to receive handicapped child referrals.

The "Child Finder" sees that a follow-up is made to determine the child's educational needs. Following evaluation the child will be placed in an appropriate special program if necessary.

All records are confidential and will be maintained at the administrative office of the school involved. If the child is not in school, his records will be kept confidential in the district's central office.

Eyes

Each will apparently go through the entire process of receiving requests for funds from state agencies and departments, conduct separate hearings on those requests, and then come up with recommended funding for each agency of state government.

The state Supreme Court had said in its decision last year which removed lawmakers from the State Budget Commission, along with eight other state boards, that the constitutional obligation to propose a budget to the Legislature rests upon the governor, while the sole authority for acting upon that budget is the Legislature's.

Hence arises the governmental doctrine which is almost universally followed around the country, that the governor proposes and the Legislature disposes.

That doctrine obviously is not recognized by the Mississippi Legislature. What appears in the making is that the Legislature doesn't intend to recognize the executive budget recommended by the governor as a working document from which it will construct the budget.

The intimation of having an entire separate structure to propose a legislative budget is that the governor's budget will be thrown into the ashcan. One gets the feeling the only reason the Legislature gave the governor a budget office was to pacify the state Supreme Court.

How the lawmakers consider the relative importance of the two budgetary planning bodies is indicated by the amount of money they appropriated for each. The governor's budget office was given $243,400, while the joint legislative budget committee, which the taxpayers will have to pay 10 legislators to attend year round, plus staff, was given $816,635.

The fallacy of having an entire separate budget planning body created in the Legislature is that both the House and Senate already have Appropriations Committees which review and hold hearings on agency funding requests. The respective Appropriations committees now can meet jointly, if they choose, prior to, and during legislative sessions.

Even though the reorganization of state government functions appears to have restored the primary responsibility for the state's fiscal policy to the executive branch, there is no absolute guarantee this will be the case.

The court-ordered reform does take the Legislature out of the role of having control over the administration of appropriations after they are made, and gives that to the executive.

But the success of a governor in actually shaping the state budget will depend upon his determination and persuasion in behalf of the budget he sends to the Legislature.

This very likely will mean he will have to go to the people who elected him in order to put pressure upon legislators to support the governor's budget. At least this will be a new dimension in the decision-making process, and one the Legislature cannot ignore.

SINUS TROUBLE

Headaches, nasal discharge or nasal stuffiness, post-nasal drainage, facial pain, dizziness, bad breath, cough, that frequent cold may all be signs of sinus trouble. Irritation, inflammation and congestion of the sinus cavities may develop following a cold, changing weather, breathing dust, smoke or other irritants. Yet, whatever the contributing factors may be in a case of sinus trouble, a normal nerve supply to the delicate membranes of the nose and sinus cavities is necessary for complete healing. A diminished nerve supply through pressure on certain nerve trunks weakens these membranes and causes them to be more susceptible to irritation and inflammation.

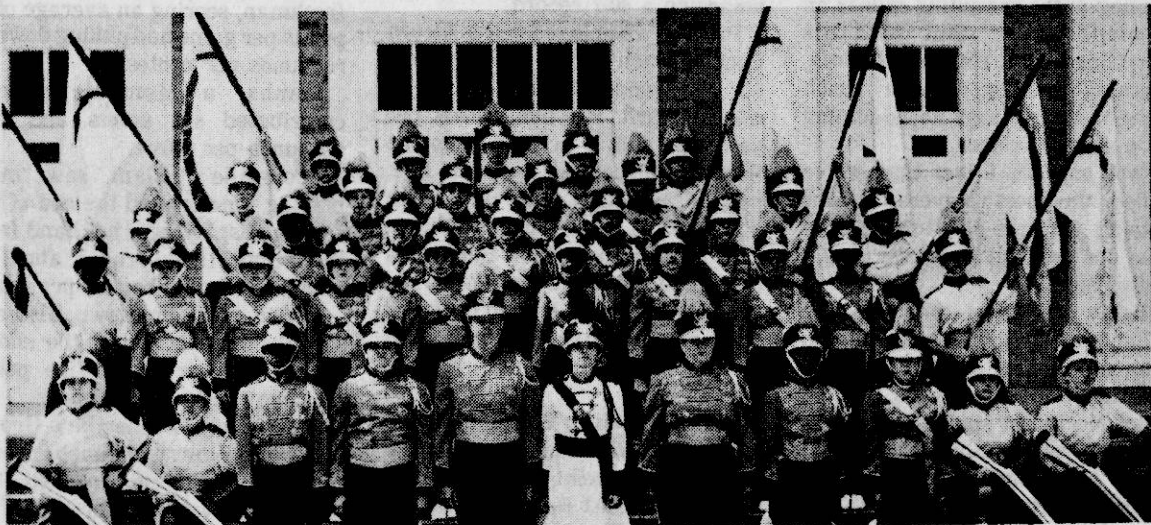

Many drugs have been made available for the supposed "cure" or "relief" of sinus conditions, but at best these products have afforded little more than temporary relief while frequently causing minor to serious side effects. You do have a better choice! Modern chiropractic science has proven to be highly effective in the care of acute and chronic sinus conditions. Consult your doctor of chiropractic to see how you too may be helped.

New Thrasher Cheerleaders Preparing For '84-'85 Season

By GREG SHOOK
Sports Writer

Thrasher High School has selected its cheerleaders for the 1984-85 school year.

The new cheerleaders are Tammy Steadman - Captain, Anita White - Co-Captain, Barbara Shumpert, Angie Christian, Angie Gardner, Monica Jumper, Michelle Lambert, Tammy Borden and Sandi Hester.

Each of the new cheerleaders will be working hard during the summer holidays preparing to cheer the Rebels on in the upcoming school year.

Ms. Lynda A. Davis, the squad's sponsor, is a 1968 graduate of Booneville High School and a 1972 graduate of Athens College, Ala., where she received a bachelors degree in education. She earned her masters degree in education from the University of Mississippi in 1978.

Ms. Davis has eight years teaching experience in Prentiss County and is a member of several teacher's organizations.

"I have been the cheerleader sponsor at Thrasher for the past five years and I enjoy working with the varsity cheerleaders while trying to improve the squad each year," she said.

"I feel we have a very strong squad for the 1984-85 school year. The girls are talented, original and demonstrate an exciting athletic ability...something very necessary for cheerleaders today," Ms. Davis said.

"This year our goal will be to boost the spirit at Thrasher and continue our tradition of team support and good sportsmanship. "The varsity cheerleaders work many long hours. They practice two days each week after school and two days each week during their summer vacation.

"We plan to attend the National Cheerleaders Association camp this June at Northeast to be ready for the Rebels in September," Ms. Davis said.

The captain has much work to do with the cheerleader squad, according to Ms. Davis. She must be able to keep the squad together at all times.

Tammy Steadman is the captain for the new cheering Rebels. She is the daughter of Mrs. Willa Dale Steadman. She will be a senior next year.

Tammy said her hobbies included participating in church activities, reading and cheering. She plans to major in nursing after graduating from THS.

The Co-captain must take up where the captain leaves off. And Anita White said that is just what she plans to do.

Anita will be a junior next year and really hopes to do well as co-leader for the THS cheerleaders. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wather Leroy White.

Anita said she enjoys softball, rollerskating, swimming and being with her best friend, Kunshinge Sorrell.

Barbara Shumpert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie G. Shumpert. She will be a senior next year.

Barbara enjoys dancing, skating, swimming and going on trips.

"My highest goal is to be a nurse so that I might help other people in life," she said.

Angie Christian is the daughter of Bobby and Sheila Christian. She will be a junior next year.

Angie's hobbies include cheering and swimming.

She said she plans to attend Northeast Mississippi Junior College after finishing high school, but is undecided on her major.

Angie Gardner, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny

B. Gardner.

Her hobbies are painting and "riding around up town."

Angie also plans to attend Northeast Junior College.

Monica Jumper will be a junior next year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jumper.

Monica said she enjoys softball, skating and, of course, cheering.

Monica's plans after high school include going to college, "then settling down to enjoy life."

Sandi Hester will be a sophomore. She is the daughter of Carolyn Lambert and Terry Hester.

Sandi's hobbies are cheering and skating. She also enjoys being with her friends.

The remaining two cheerleaders, Michelle Lambert and Tammy Borden are both freshman.

Michelle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lambert. She enjoys swimming and being with her best friends. She said she plans to attend college after finishing school.

Tammy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Borden. She also enjoys being with her friends and swimming and plans to attend college after graduation.

Like last year's squad, the new cheerleaders will have two teams to cheer for - football and basketball.

NE Coach Happy With Recruiting For Next Year

With the northeast part of the state so rich in basketball talent, winning in the recruiting race is an accomplishment. But with his recruiting season coming to a close, Northeast Junior College coach Richard Mathis says he is coming out a strong finisher.

"Not only do I feel that we've signed the best players in our district; we were able to recruit to meet our needs at the same time," Mathis said.

Highly recruited players like Belmont's Greg Sparks, Alcorn Central's Derrick Pollard and Blue Mountain's Robert Evans top the list of Northeast signees.

But players Mathis takes equal pride in signing include Jumbertown's Ricky Burress and Belmont's Phil McCreary and Robbie Solomon. Just as important to Mathis as individual star quality is the mix he comes up with when combining his freshmen.

"Unlike last year, I think our outside shooting will be one of our strengths," Mathis said. "All of these signees have demonstrated their ability to score, as indicated by their statistics."

Some of those statistics include Sparks' 26-point per game performance, more than 21 points per game from Pollard and 22 points per game from Burris. Burris also snatched more than 12 rebounds per game, while Evans had 17 points and 12 rebounds per game.

Sparks, a 6-3, 172-pound forward, shot 52 percent from the floor and 74 percent from the line in his senior year for coach Malcom Kuykendall.

Fellow Cardinal Solomon, at 6-4, had 15 points and 10 rebounds per contest, while McCreary at guard scored 15 points per game, grabbed six rebounds and had seven assists per contest.

In their last two years at Belmont, the three helped in amassing a 40-7 record.

Pollard, who played under Alcorn Central coach Gerald Caviness, is a 6-1, 170-pounder Mathis intends to use at guard. His five assists per game, a solid 51 percent from the floor and 81 percent from the line, as well as a cool head under fire attest to his point guard qualities.

At 6-1, Jumbertown's Burris not only gave coach Guyton Wilkerson consistent scoring through the year, he also delivered scoring sprees like a 34-point performance in one contest.

Blue Mountain's Evans also had several outstanding games, including a 39-point game against Jumbertown. At 6-4, he's also extremely quick and jumps well.

Mathis, going down the line of signees, had no trouble naming the qualities each had and the contributions he expected each to make.

"Sparks can score, inside or outside, Pollard is a good shooter and a clutch-performer with lots of basketball sense," Mathis said. "Solomon and Evans both have good size and both are good jumpers."

"We'll really be able to use McCreary's passing quickness and savvy. And Burris will find a way to score, whether he goes inside or out."

"One of the greatest things about the freshman we signed this year is that they should really blend in well with the sophomores we've got coming back from last season," Mathis said.

The sophomores to whom Mathis refers are 6-3 Calvin Fields, 6-5 Roosevelt Combs, 6-3 Ronnie Elam, 6-3 Michael Groves, 6-3 Perry Perrin, 6-2 David Robbins and 5-7 Kevin Robbins.

Fields, of Friendship, Tenn., saw more playing time than any other freshman, scoring an average of 18 points per game and pulling down 10 rebounds per contest.

Combs, a Memphis signee, contributed six points and five rebounds per game.

Booneville's Elam saw more playing time toward the end of the season, displaying a hot hand from the wings. He averaged about 11 points and four rebounds per game.

Perrin, of Jumbertown, also saw slightly more action at the end of the year contributing five points and two rebounds per game.

Defensively, Booneville's Groves and Jumbertown's Simmons proved valuable in forcing needed turnovers. Groves also threw in four points and four rebounds per game. Simmons had three points per game.

Blue Mountain's Robbins, himself an excellent outside shooter, was injured early in the season, but will be back to aid the Tigers next year.

"I'm well pleased with the shooting ability and the quickness we already have," Mathis said. "But we're still hurting a little in size, which may hurt us in rebounding."

Mathis said he was looking out of state for help in the size department. A lack of strength on the boards could hurt Northeast's fast break, which has been a favorite tactic in Mathis' strategy.

"I'd like to go on using the fast break and if the team can be comfortable with it, I think we'll continue to use it."

"Overall, I'm well pleased with the recruiting effort this year," Mathis said. "And quite honestly, our recruiting has come together better this year than in any year since my first here at Northeast."

22 From Prentiss In Memphis Run

By GREG SHOOK
Sports Writer

Twenty-two Prentiss countians participated in the Memphis River Run '84, sponsored by Methodist Hospitals of Memphis, an event held in conjunction with the Memphis In May Festival.

The participants included Candice Eaton, Bill Rinehart, Bobby Johnson, Rhonda Lauderdale, Tina Moore, Claire Lamb, Pam Johnson, Delia Moore, Barbara Eaton, Jim Lamb, Kay Lamb, Tony Thompson, Donna Rinehart, Yolaula Flemming, Reginal Brown, Steve Eaton, Craig Lauderdale, Frankie Lauderdale, Frances Yates, Billy Wayne Prentiss, Leahe Prentiss, Marti Prentiss, Freddie Corbin, Lynn Corbin and Anita Smart.

Rhonda Lauderdale, Tina Moore, Delia Moore, Frankie Lauderdale and Frances Yates also decided to take part in what was billed as the "World's Largest Aerobics Class," learning the new ways of fitness from some of the top instructors in the South. But they said the real excitement was running in the events.

In the corporate relay a team must represent a corporation. Teams consist of mixed male and female and all male.

In the all male event Reginal Brown, Bobby Johnson, Bill Rinehart and Tony Thompson captured the 12th spot overall in a field of 42 teams after finishing third in the seventh heat.

In the mixed relay Barbara Eaton, Steve Eaton, Marti Prentiss and Donna Rinehart took the 12th place title with a time of 5:16.

The relay teams were sponsored by Custom Freight Inc. of Jum-pertown.

In the Southern Regional 10-Kilometer Run Jim Lamb finished in 48 minutes and 11 seconds and Freddie Corbin finished in 42 minutes.

In the Two-Mile Fun Run Craig Lauderdale finished 15th with a time of 12:39.

Also running in the fun run were Pam Johnson, Lynn Corbin and Anita Smart.

Runner Frankie Lauderdale said, "We had a great time up there even though it did rain on us. We are hoping to go back next year."

City Park Team Selection

Booneville City Park Director Roger Inman requests that all of last year's coaches in Tee-Ball, Little League and Girls' Softball report to the West Side City Park Saturday, May 26, for the selection of teams.

Coaches who will not be participating this year should return all equipment to Inman soon as possible.

Parents should remember to have a photostatic copy of their child's birth certificate with them when they register them for summer activities at the park, Inman said.

For further information, contact Inman at 728-3440 or 728-9976.

Wrestling At Northeast

Northeast Mississippi Junior College Athletic Director Bill Ward announced this week that championship wrestling will return to the college on May 25.

Top television stars will be appearing at Bonner Arnold Coliseum next Friday, according to Ward.

Six big matches decorate the card. The highlight of the evening will be a return grudge match between Jerry "The King" Lawler and Humungus, "The Original Road Warrior".

Also, in the first main event, Austin Idol, "The International Hear-throb", will battle Jim Neidhart, a former professional football player.

Brickhouse Brown will take on the Japanese Assassin in the opening match. Ox Baker will battle Mad Dog in the second match.

In a tag team event, the Zambui Express will square off against Scott Shannon and Ric McCord. Manager Jimmy Hart will be featured in the next match in a ten round boxing match against former wrestler and referee, Eddie Marlin.

Tickets are on sale for all events at Northeast and the Chicken Hut.

McGaughy, a six-foot guard, scored an average of 22 points per game with two 36-point performances last season. He also tallied 14 assists per contest. Fishing Roundup

Sardis Still The Hot Lake

By SCOTT McKINNEY
Sports Writer

THIS PAST WEEK, area anglers enjoyed one of the best weeks of weather so far this year. The fishing turned out to be really good and more are being caught every day.

According to semi-pro angler Danny Comer of Baldwin, Sardis Reservoir in Lafayette County continues to be the best spot for fishing.

"There are a lot of fish being caught at Sardis right now," Comer said. "It has been the hottest lake in the area during the past few weeks."

Temperatures have been lingering in the 80 degree range and the water has been perfect for fishing, according to Comer, who said spinner baits that weigh either one-fourth or three-eighths ounces are the best.

WE RECEIVED TWO reader questions this week. The first reader wanted some tips for bank fishermen.

According to Comer, bank fishermen should never fish directly from a straight bank. "Find a point or a creek coming into the lake to fish from," he said.

"Or if you know where an underground channel or current is, then there is where you should fish."

Question number two comes from the owner of an area catfish pond who says last week, after all of the hard rains, many of his fish died. He wants to know what killed them.

Comer said the recent heavy spring rains have a lot of acid content and that is what probably killed the fish.

"These spring rains have a lot of acid in them and unless you have a big lake the fish may die," he said.

"This person probably had a lot of fish in a small lake. And that can prove costly during the spring rainy season," Comer said.

THE FISHING TIP this week is for all the area's bank fishermen. Bank fishermen should find a structure in the water and cast in that general direction. Most fish are schooling in these areas.

AGAIN, IF YOU HAVE QUESTIONS OR TIPS, send them to "Fishing Roundup", The Banner-Independent, P.O. Box 269, Booneville, MS 38829.

Until next week... good fishing.

The Water Valley Pickup Truck Flight

By ED BLAKE
Mississippi Farm Bureau
Federation

Jim McMinn of Water Valley, Mississippi, is not the kind of adventuresome person who seeks a place in history for personal exploits. Instead, he is director of his home town's Community Development and Block Grant program commonly referred to as HUD.

He's a solid citizen, if you please. He also is a farmer who grows soybeans in the hills a few miles northeast of Water Valley where he and his family live in an attractive country home and setting.

But Saturday, April 21, was no ordinary day in this north central Mississippi county seat. And adventure, perforce, made its way indelibly into Jim's life. He'll never forget the experience—recordbooks notwithstanding.

You see, Jim McMinn accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, took into the wild, black yonder in his farm pickup truck over Water Valley, blacked out and left God Almighty alone at the controls for a wildly gyrating flight observed by at least two witnesses on the ground.

They landed behind a service station after a flight that competitively compares in time and distance to the Wright Brothers' first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C. on December 17, 1903.

But for Jim, wife Joanne and mother-in-law Mrs. Annie Mae Porter, it was a tough landing in an even tougher situation that left them hospitalized and agonizing for long hours before they learned of the survival of other members of their immediate family in the face of the low flying tornado that churned through town and country taking a toll of 15 Mississippians—7 in Water Valley alone.

The family and community drama began late in the afternoon as Water Valley along with much of central and north Mississippi was put under tornado alert by the weather bureau. Jim drove into Water Valley to where his son Kevin and wife were working on a house. He began getting the family together in the event the darkening sky brought trouble.

Jim alerted the family members to go to their separate vehicles to his house in the country and go to the basement to wait out the weather situation.

Niece Jane Massie, a senior at Water Valley high, took off first as the town's fire siren began to wail. Wife Joanne declined to go by herself and piled into the pickup with her husband. They headed across town to get her mother, Mrs. Porter.

The tornado came into view, low and black, as they came to an intersection of the by-pass in the southwest part of town. It appeared to be five or ten minutes away. Jim sped on past the National Guard Armory as winds picked up.

"We are in it now," Jim advised the two women who sat beside him. "I must find a place to go—a low place." He gunned his truck up Central street as it began to be struck by bricks and debris.

"It was like we were in a hailstorm," Jim reported, "only about a hundred times worse." Jim held his course northward through town. As he approached Tommy White's Service Station he decided to park behind the station. He did, but not as he intended.

As things got shaky Joanne pulled her mother down to the floorboard. Thirty feet short of White's Service Station, Jim later learned, he became airborne. All three occupants of the pickup blacked out. Jim last remembers a swirling sensation that began as he turned around to face the oncoming tornado.

He remembers going faster and faster and floating like in a dream and the sound of an explosion. In direction, he had the impression that he was swirling away from the station.

Station owner Tommy White sat in his pickup truck behind his business and through his windshield looked up and saw Jim's pickup tumbling through the air over the station.

Next door at the Mr. Quick convenience store, owner Ford looked through the glass in amazement as McMinn's pickup passed over. He observed the truck making about four spins.

The landing was behind the service station next to a bulk tank. Subconsciously Jim heard his wife calling his name but at first he couldn't answer.

As he came to he lay half in the truck and half outside on the littered pavement. The buildings were gone and truck lay on its side with his mother-in-law laying atop his wife.

Tommy White called to him and told him to get out because a gas line was loose and might explode. They got Mrs. Porter to come around a little, and led her across the street.

Jim was bleeding badly from a cut on his forehead. All three of them were cut and bruised and were dispatched to the hospital at Oxford.

The hours that followed were even more painful inasmuch as it wasn't until around 10:30 p.m. that Jim learned that all of his family members had survived the storm.

Jim remained in the hospital until Monday. Joanne came home Tuesday, and her mother was still there as this reporter visited their home on Wednesday.

Near Jim's house several homes and a house trailer were destroyed.

At the trailer a cousin, Tim McMinn, had just gotten home from work when his wife called from her mother's house in Water Valley to tell him that a tornado alert looked bad. Tim showered, looked out again and decided to get out.

He jumped in his pickup and started southwestward toward Water Valley. At the crest of a hill he saw the tornado working the town and headed toward him.

He jumped out of the pickup and ran into the woods, injuring a foot in a wild dash into a hollow. The tornado skimmed past and hit his trailer dead center.

As Tim later picked through the rubble and described the situation to this writer, two dresses of his wife waved from the limbs of a tree just over his head.

"If I hadn't gotten out," he said, "I would have had it!"

Nearby Timmy Hill's friends were helping clean up the slab where his house had stood until late Saturday. He wore a pink ribboned straw hat that his wife had handed him to wear as he supervised the clean-up and received a steady stream of well wishers.

"I'll build back," he said with a friendly grin.

I walked over the swath the tornado had cut through Water Valley. The beautiful red brick, steeped First Baptist Church had lost most of its roof. The steeple housing was agap.

On the second floor a lecture stood facing a seatless toilet. Two vans on the parking lot were smashed beyond repair.

In the shopping center a crane lifted smashed coolers from Jones Supermarket into an 18 wheeler along with other debris. Chain saws whined as streets were still being cleared of fallen and broken trees. Houses spilled their contents.

Army jeeps and law enforcement cars patrolled everywhere.

Minutes and yards away from the disaster it was a balmy and beautiful spring day.

As I left town I felt relief that the death toll had not been greater.

I couldn't dismiss from mind Jim and Joanne McMinn's amazing flight through the air in their pickup truck on the wings of the storm.

Only a few months earlier I had stood at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington and seen the Wright Brothers' contraption that they built for an historic first airplane flight of 120 feet in 12 seconds.

There's no way to measure Jim's flight comparatively on April 21st—but that farm pickup with its mud-grip tires and tank-in-back seemingly bested the Wright flight with all sorts of acrobatics added in.

Jim told me he'll never forget that flight in the pickup. He added, "I saw in it God showing his strength and that He is in control of things here. I should have been dead, but He was with us and apparently it just wasn't our time to go!"

Booneville Girl Named To NEMJC Hall Of Fame

Susan Michelle Johnson, daughter of Ralph and Patsy Johnson of Booneville, has been named as one of three 1984 selections for Northeast Mississippi Junior College's coveted Hall of Fame.

Johnson, better known as "Mitzi," along with fellow students Ladye Love Long of Iuka and Nicky Raines of Ingomar, was nominated by a faculty member on the basis of her scholastic achievements, extra curricular involvement and pride in Northeast.

She is a sophomore majoring in computer science. A president's and dean's list scholar and Phi Theta Kappa member, Johnson plans to attend the University of Mississippi this fall.

While at Northeast, she also was secretary of the math and engineering club and maintained a 3.8 grade point average.

Johnson played clarinet in the Tiger Marching Band, performed in the "All That Jazz" production and is a former member of the clarinet choir. She was named to Who's Who Among American Junior Colleges.

In high school, Johnson was also named to Who's Who Among High School Students in America. She served as Booneville's drum major, sang in the state FHA chorus, was a member of the anchor club and the salutatorian of her graduating class of 1982.

"Being chosen for the Hall of Fame is an honor I will never forget," Johnson said. "This tops off my whole experience at Northeast."

After completing her education, Johnson said she hopes to enter the business world with her computer skills.

"I think the future is in computers and I wanted to get involved," Johnson said.

Jobs & Training Available For Youth Again This Summer

Approximately 6,500 economically disadvantaged Mississippians will benefit from summer youth employment and job training programs this year, according to the Governor's Office of Job Development and Training.

There will be two components of the Summer Youth Employment Training Program work experience and occupational orientation.

The work experience program will provide approximately 5,300 youths, ages 16-21, with employment in non-profit public or private agencies. Participants will be paid minimum wage of $3.35 per hour for eight weeks for 32-hour jobs, beginning in mid-June. That will be $857.60 for the eight weeks of work.

The occupational orientation program will enable approximately 1,200 youths, ages 14-21, to attend summer classes that will provide them with job and employment skills and academic credit.

To be eligible for either program, a youth must be classified as economically disadvantaged based on family income or because the family receives food stamps or some form of welfare. Applications for participation are available at public schools and local offices of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

Work experience program participants will work in such non-profit institutions as schools, libraries and Head Start Centers.

Last year, there were five qualified applicants for every employment position available under the program. The odds should be even longer this year with fewer positions available, according to Steve Halliburton, director of operations.

First priority will go to applicants "most in need," Halliburton said. Youths selected for the occupational orientation program will attend classes 30 hours a week for six to eight weeks. They will receive a $1 per hour needs-based payment, plus transportation expenses.

The students will learn employment skills, such as how to take part in a job interview and how to complete a resume, will take vocational courses to learn specific job skills, and will take academic courses for which they can receive credit.

One aim of the program is to include school dropouts, Halliburton said.

WARNING!

To Non-Subscribers . . .

A man who was too cheap to subscribe to his hometown newspaper sent his little boy to borrow his neighbor's copy. In his haste, the boy ran over an $80 hive of bees and in 10 minutes he looked like a warty squash. His father ran to his assistance, and failing to notice the barbed wire fence, ran into that, cutting a hole in his anatomy as well as ruining a pair of $30 pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing a racket, the wife ran out, upset a four-gallon chum of cream into a basket of chicks, drowning the entire batch. In her haste she dropped a $300 set of false teeth, which the family dog buried thinking it was a new type of bone. The baby, having been left alone, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor, ruining a $400 carpet. During the excitement, the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, a stray dog broke up 11 setting hens, the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts on the clothes line, and the cat had a batch of kittens. All this just to save 25 cents. And, in this case, the poor guy never did get to read that week's paper.

BETTER SPEECH AND HEARING MONTH - Mayor Charles Crabb signs a proclamation designating May as Better Speech and Hearing Month in the city of Booneville and Prentiss County. Also pictured are (l-r) Camille Galloway, Eleshia Jumper, Martha Sheffield, Mary Ann Holley and Harvey Vest.

May Is Better Speech And Hearing Month

May has been designated as Better Speech and Hearing Month in the city of Booneville.

Communicative disorders constitute our nation's number one handicapping disability, according to the Northeast Mississippi Speech and Hearing Association.

The association hopes that the following facts will help people in Prentiss County better understand the affect that communicative disorders has on the public.

Studies indicate that more people suffer from hearing, speech, and language impairments than from heart disease, epilepsy, paralysis, cerebral palsy, tuberculosis, and multiple sclerosis combined, according to the association.

In Booneville alone, an estimated 700 persons are affected by speech and hearing problems.

One out of every 15 persons suffer from an uncorrected hearing handicap. In almost one-third of hard of hearing children, the causes can be traced to something which happened before or during birth.

Some of the causes include German measles contracted during first weeks of pregnancy, influenza, shingles, other virus diseases and certain drugs.

Mumps is the most common cause of unilateral deafness in the United States, according to the speech and hearing association. Permanent hearing loss can also result from loud noises such as rock music, lawn mowers, power tools, cap guns, factory machinery, jet planes and some kitchen appliances.

There are approximately 1,200 people in Prentiss County who have speech and language problems.

About one-fourth of those with speech and language problems are between the ages of 5-21.

Difficulties with the way sounds are formed constitute the most numerous of speech disorders. Examples are sound substitution - wabbit for rabbit; sound omission - han for hand; sound distortion - shlip for sip.

Most people with communicative disorders could be helped either medically, surgically, through hearing aids, or hearing rehabilitation - but they must first know such help is available.

Those who have questions concerning communicative disorders should contact Imogene Eaker or Martha Weatherford at the Booneville City Schools or James Gooze in the Prentiss County School System.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

God Wants Your Attention

'Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father. . .'

-- Proverbs 4:1

By C.D. Edge

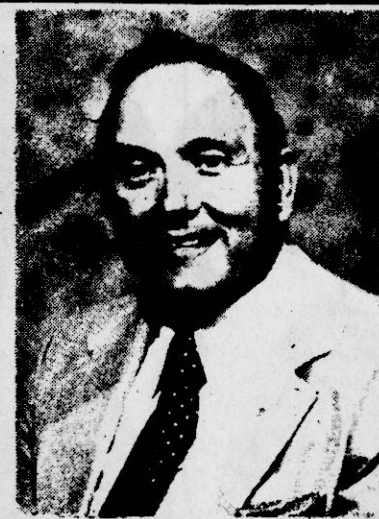

I have often thought of all the hard knocks we take in life before we really surrender all to the Lord.

It reminds me of the fellow who's car broke down out in the country and he came to this farm house and explained his problem. The farmer said, "don't worry you can ride into town with me in my wagon." The farmer had what we used to call a one horse wagon and he hitched a little mule to it. The farmer told the man to climb up, then he went around to the mule and with a piece of two-by-four hit that little mule a lick right across the head. The man was flabbergasted and said to the farmer, "Why in the world did you hit that mule?" The farmer said, "I HAVE TO GET HIS ATTENTION AND SOME TIMES IT TAKES A HARD LICK."

I wonder if sometimes, some of the licks we have to take IN LIFE ARE TO GET OUR ATTENTION.

The Bible says to get our minds off the world and on Heavenly things. GOD WANTS OUR ATTENTION!
